SELECTION OF JURY STALLS TRIAL HERE

763 CALLED FOR SERVICE DURING WEEK

Salisbury On Trial In Slaying of Woman; 11 Tentatively Qualified

Trial of Roy Salisbury, charged with the murder of Mrs. Mallie Denney, may be stalled for lack of a jury.

As of Wednesday morning, 763 residents of the county had been summoned for possible jury service, and of these only 11 had satisfactorily answered questions asked by the Commonwealth and the court.

None of these 11 tentatively qualifying for jury service had been challenged by the Commonwealth and defense. The Commonwealth is entitled to five challenges and the defense to 15.

Salisbury was named in three murder indictments by the grand jury, early this month. He also is under indictment for the slayings of Mrs. Denney's husband, Roy R. Denney, and Thomas S. Combs. The Commonwealth elected to bring the Drift man to trial first in the slaying of the woman.

The total of veniremen summoned for the trial is the greatest ever called in this county's criminal court history. Included in this total are 25 from the regular jury panel. After the panel was exhausted calls went out for veniremen in these numbers: 95, 315, 205 and 105.

Veniremen called for service from outside the corporate limits of Prestonsburg are being paid $5 each. Judge Conley said Tuesday that residents summoned from Prestonsburg are not eligible for pay.

Court officials were not certain Wednesday morning how long the search for qualified

This Town . . . That World

TO THE STRANGER:
Want to be in on the grandest leave-taking you ever saw? Come, next month, to Eastern Kentucky, and watch the leaves start off on winter vacation, dressed in a prism-ful of color.

ANOTHER "TWIST"
Ever try "twisting" a cane-stalk for the juice? This is about the time of year when youngsters used to, and perhaps still do, practice the art to their delight. But it required a delicate sense of timing as you bit into the stalk, twisted with each hand while holding the stalk firm between the teeth, and kept the old tongue free till the exact moment when you sucked out the juice between twists.

Only recently was told me the story of the two oldtimers who were working to repair an evaporator.

CITY BUYS 22 ACRES FOR RECREATION SITE

The city of Prestonsburg has purchased the 22-acre tract which it had held under option from the Hiram Harris estate, and has tentatively leased an additional six acres from the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company at the western (upper) limits of West Prestonsburg to provide the most ambitious recreation program yet undertaken in an Eastern Kentucky community.

Federal funds paid 30% of the $11,000 purchase price for the 22-acre tract. This is the maximum participation of the federal government in such a program, it was said.

The additional six acres which would be leased will be used as a site for overnight camping facilities. City Manager Curtis Clark said.

Preliminary work toward development of the area is expected to begin this week, Clark said. Plans for the development are now being made, with the University of Kentucky's recreation department lending assistance. Head of the department and an assistant came here recently and on inspection of the tract were greatly impressed by its possibilities.

Early in November, representatives of the U. S. Public Health Service will come here and if they find the area to have the potential represented to them, the health service will develop five acres of the tract for the recreation and enjoyment of senior citizens, Clark said.

Already planned by the city of Prestonsburg are these features:

- 1. Eight tennis courts, two basketball and two volley ball courts, one regulation-size baseball field, two softball fields and one Little League field.
- 2. A two-story municipal garage.

Long Overdue Books Will Be Fine-Free

Long overdue books borrowed at the Floyd County Library may be returned, without fine, during the week of October 8-15, it was announced this week.

The library will be closed from Thursday, October 15, till Monday, October 26, while the move is being made from the present quarters to the new library building nearby.

age, with the second floor for the caretaker's living quarters.

3. A two-story picnic shelter, the second floor to be used as a youth center.

4. General beautification of the tract which lies on both sides of Middle Creek, directly above the new access bridge connecting West Prestonsburg with the Mountain Parkway. This program will involve clearance of the stream banks, building of flagstone pathways, one or more rustic bridges spanning the stream, seats and benches.

Facilities for senior citizens would include croquet, horse-shoes, shelter areas, benches and picnic tables.

Clark said an effort will be made to develop a portion of the area into a regional fairground, with horse show facilities.

"All this sounds like a costly undertaking," Clark admitted. But, he explained, federal funds pay almost a third the cost of the land, the city has on hand a huge supply of brick and lumber from the demolition of the courthouse and other buildings located on the two urban renewal projects here, and adequate labor will be available through the unemployed fathers project.

Mayor George P. Archer, who led the move for a municipal recreation area, said recently that this has been one of his big dreams for the community as it moves toward general improvement and development.

Remains Unconscious Following Road Mishap

Paul Daniels, the Paintsville youth who was injured recently in the wreck of a sports car at Thealka, remained unconscious this week in a Paintsville hospital, it was reported here.

The car in which Daniels was injured was operated by Frank DeRossett, Jr., of Prestonsburg. Daniels and Jimmy Ison, of Martin, were driving the car when it wrecked and while DeRossett was talking with friends outside a drive-in restaurant, near Thealka. It was emphasized that the auto was not stolen, that the two, both friends of DeRossett, simply were taking a ride in the car.

Ison suffered a severe head laceration but was not seriously hurt.

Combs the key to the Prestonsburg Community College at its dedication Tuesday. At left is Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., director of the college. The former governor accepted the key on behalf of Governor Breathitt, who could not be present.

HUMPHREY PLEDGES AID TO APPALACHIA

An estimated 3,500 Eastern Kentuckians heard U. S. Senator Hubert H. Humphrey, Democratic candidate for Vice President, last Saturday afternoon at the Prestonsburg high school fieldhouse make the declaration, "Government does care about people. . . we're not merely spending, we're investing in people. . . this is a government of the people, and it should be a government for the people."

Senator Humphrey and an entourage of aides, newspapermen and cameramen flew from Louisville to the Prestonsburg-Paintsville airport in a fleet of a dozen or more planes. At the field he was greeted by a crowd estimated at 500 who formed a big motorcade to escort the candidate to the place of the arena rally here.

Referring to his flight in a two-engine plane, he quipped, "I was sort of bumpy, like the Republican platform, but a lot more fun."

Supporters from this end and neighboring counties heard President Johnson's running-mate promise on his own behalf and that of the President: "We'll never rest till Appalachia is restored to the mainstream of the American economy."

He accused Barry Goldwater, the Republican candidate, of viewing poverty as a relative matter. "An American family earning $2,000 a year, we hear, is better off than many people in the world. But poverty must be measured by the standards of a

CAR THEFT VICTIM WATCHES AS AUTO IS DRIVEN AWAY

Tom Ed Music, of the Abbott road, is looking for his automobile, a 1961 Chevrolet sedan, which he left parked on Lake Drive Thursday last week with the ignition key in it. He doesn't know where the car is but there is one thing he knows for sure and that is that neither his father nor his brother is driving it, as he first thought.

Music and his father, Worth Music, were helping his brother, Billy Worth Music, renovate a barber shop building on Lake Drive last week. The car was parked nearby. Music looked up from work to see his car go by. He didn't get a good glimpse of the driver.

His first thought was that his brother had borrowed it for an errand but when he looked around his brother was busy inside the building. His next thought was that it must be his father driving it off, but another look revealed that his father was also inside the building. He knew then that the car was in the hands of an unauthorized driver. By the time he got out in the street his car had pulled north through the traffic light and was headed down U. S. 33.

One report that it was in Johnson county yielded no results when Music and Trooper Don Goble investigated.

Paul Goble Injured In Auto Accident On Kansas Highway

Mrs. Goldie Goble, Prestonsburg, returned this week from Junction City, Kansas, where she flew Monday to be at the bedside of her son, Paul H. Goble, who was seriously injured September 14 in an auto mishap.

Goble was injured when his car went out of control on U.S. 77 near Junction City. He suffered a fractured hip and other injuries.

Trooper Richard White of the Kansas highway patrol, who investigated the accident, said the Goble auto left the highway, returned to the road, again left the highway, overturning end over end three times.

Goble was thrown from the vehicle as it overturned. The car traveled 170 feet from the point where it left the highway the second time, ended up in a field adjoining the highway.

He is recovering satisfactorily but will be hospitalized several weeks at the Geary county hospital at Junction City.

TWO PLACES PADLOCKED

Judge Conley Issues Temporary Injunctions; Total of Six Are Closed

Two of three places from which whiskey was taken in recent raids by state police and ABC agents were padlocked Monday on authority of a temporary injunction issued by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley.

Jake Smallwood was enjoined from further operation of what is known as the Miners' Bath House at McDowell, and the same action was taken against Riley Wells, Jr., operator of Wells' Grocery Store on the Auxier road, near here.

The temporary injunctions were issued after Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo and County Attorney Barkley J. Sturgill had filed a petition to have the two places declared nuisances under provisions of KRS 242.340 and 310. They pointed out that officers have conducted raids on both places and that both have yielded large quantities of intoxicating beverages. The separate actions also contended that criminal processes against the two places have heretofore proved ineffective.

Similar action was planned against the Floyd County Development Association headquarters at Melvin, which was raided recently, but this will probably depend upon the conviction of George Hamilton, who was arrested as operator of the place.

The padlocking of the Smallwood and Wells places brings to six the number of those closed by injunction proceedings instituted by Stumbo and Sturgill.

Today (Thursday) was the date set when the Commonwealth will move for permanent injunctions against Smallwood and Wells.

JUNIOR ACHIEVEMENT

Floyd county was represented at the Junior 4-H Achievement Day, held August 13, at the Salyers elementary school near Royalton, by 18 club members, two leaders and two extension agents.

DR. OSWALD COMBS SPEAK AT COLLEGE

Ex-Governor Lauds May for Early Interest In New Area Institution

The Prestonsburg Community College was dedicated in noon-day ceremonies Tuesday as an institution devoted to service in and to its area.

In his dedicatory address, which was heard by a rain-defying 300 or more officials, educators and citizens, Dr. John W. Oswald, president of the University of Kentucky, portrayed the new institution as a "good neighbor." "The Prestonsburg Community College," he said, "wants to be a good neighbor to the citizens and institutions of this valley; it will loan out its tools, 'swap work' with those who want to get a job done, and help out with every available source of assistance at its command."

Earlier in the program the U. K. president had presented the key to the college to Former Governor Bert T. Combs as the official representative of Governor Breathitt who could not be present for the occasion. The Prestonsburg institution, like others in the community college system, became reality, he told Combs, "in great part through your own dreams and actions."

Ex-Governor Combs told the gathering that a great many people "deserve a great deal of credit for this college. I deserve no more than many others. After all, the people elected me Governor, and it was my duty."

The former Governor said R. V. May, of Prestonsburg, was the first person he recalls having talked to him about a community college. "Only Bob wanted a four-year college here and would have, I suppose, if there had been such a thing, wanted a six-year college."

Combs appointed May to the Governor's Commission on Public Higher Education, and from the recommendations of that group came the action spurred by Combs in the General Assembly which created the community college system.

Speaking as chairman of the Prestonsburg Community College Advisory Committee, May hailed the dedication of the college as marking "the fruition of many, many months of work and planning. . . To see this dream become reality is to share in one of the high moments of a lifetime."

HALL NAMES 3 MEMBERS

Of McDowell Hospital; Failure To Register With Clerk Is Charged

Warrants charging three members of the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital with failure to comply with the Kentucky statute which requires every physician and surgeon to register in the county where he practices were procured Saturday by Dr. Russell L. Hall, secretary of the Floyd County Board of Health.

Named in the warrants, and later placed under bond, were Drs. Spence Johnson, Romeo Berardi and Luiz E. G. Mineiro. Trial was originally set for Oct. 1 in quarterly court, but it was Combs, Pikeville, counsel for defendants, has asked for a continuance, since he will be in U. S. district court at Pikeville on the date set for the hearing.

The warrants allege violation of KRS 311.585 requiring practitioners of medicine or osteopathy under state license to be registered at the office of the County Court Clerk. Such register is to show the license or permit number assigned the practitioner, the medical school from which he was graduated and other information.

Dr. Johnson registered Sept. 26, according to Dr. Byron C. Beard, chief of staff at the McDowell hospital. The other two men are residents at the hospital.

Said Dr. Beard: "We have letters from Dr. Teague stating that these two residents could work at the hospital. Dr. Johnson had been here only two weeks when the action was taken against him."

Each violation of the registration law may constitute a misdemeanor and be punishable by a fine of not less than $100 or more than $500 or by imprisonment of not more than 30 days, or both, and each day shall constitute a separate offense.

Senator Humphrey here Saturday when Helen Ann Francis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. "Huck" Francis, and Rickey Davis, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Davis, contrived to meet and shake hand with him for the sixth time. Helen Ann and Rickey are at right as Senator Humphrey was leaving the Prestonsburg fieldhouse after his speech at Saturday's rally. At left is Sheriff Henry C. Hale. CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this opportunity to thank all those who helped us in so many ways during the funeral of our beloved wife, mother and sister, Mrs. Sadie Bell Loar Stratton, of Betsy Layne, Ky. We appreciate the consoling words and prayers of the Revs. Isaac Stratton, Ray Smiley, Luther Walters and James C. Stratton and the singing rendered by the Free Will Baptist choir. For the beautiful floral offerings, the abundance of food brought to the home and the many other kindnesses shown by friends and neighbors including the duties attended to at the cemetery; in addition for any act performed to help in sharing our bereavement, we extend heartfelt gratitude.

To the Hall Brothers Funeral Home we would like to express thanks for the kind, courteous and efficient service and we appreciate the willingness of those who served as pallbearers.

PERSPECTIVE

By Robert J. Hastings
For an interesting experiment, takes a large box and fill it with old-fashioned cannon balls (if you can find any!). Next use marbles to fill in the empty spaces left between the cannon balls. Then add a few hands' full of buckshot.

Still your box will have some empty space! So see how many pounds of sand you can pour in the crevices. You think your box is full? Wait—you can still empty several quarts of water over the dry sand before your box is truly filled.

Two helpful suggestions spring from this simple experiment. First, it is doubtful if anyone ever reaches his full capacity. We may feel we are doing our best, or giving all we can, or bearing all the responsibilities we can, or that we have learned all we can on a given subject. But there is always room for a little more, for God has endowed man with wonderful capacities and few of us ever measure up to our full potential.

A second suggestion: there is more room in our lives for the little things than the great, momentous occasions. A box may hold thousands of grains of sand—or millions of molecules of water—but only a dozen cannon balls. Most of us never become famous, and few of our days could be marked on the calendar as stupendous or colossal. But if we are not too proud to do the simple tasks, there is no limit to the many small and good deeds with which we may saturate our lives.

Senator Humphrey caught the fancy of the big crowd when he said: "I know all about poke salad, and it tastes mighty good with hog jowl. And some butter milk and corn bread goes mighty well with it, too."

Combs was introduced by Governor Breathitt, who pointed to party harmony in Kentucky, saying that Wilson Wyatt was campaigning for the ticket in Iowa, Happy Chandler was in Kansas and in Kentucky and Earl Clements at that time was working in western Kentucky in the organization of precincts.

Describing Humphrey as "one of the outstanding leaders in America and the free world," Ex-Governor Combs said the Minnesotan "thinks our thoughts and speaks our language. When he gets through speaking here today, it won't be necessary for a press-aide to say next week what he thought he meant this week."

"He believes, as you and I believe, that when Appalachia dies, a part of America dies," Combs added.

County Judge Henry Stumbo welcomed the gathering and Fred G. Francis, president of the Floyd County Bar Association introduced Judge Edward P. Hill, who is a candidate for the Appellate Court. Hill thanked voters of both parties for their primary election support and stated his conviction that the courts should follow the Constitution as it is written and not to fit cases by interpretation.

Judge Hill drew high praise from Circuit Judge John Chris Cornett, of the Knott-Magoffin district, and Congressman Carl D. Perkins. Both Cornett and Perkins served this district in the office of Commonwealth's Attorney during Hill's tenure of office.

Congressman Perkins, who was introduced by Judge Cornett, described Judge Hill, his onetime opponent, for the Congress Seat from this district, as "a true and great jurist and a fair-minded man." He pleaded the crowd with this statement: "I can pick out, and you can pick out, here in Floyd county hundreds of men we'd rather see elected President of the United States than Barry Goldwater. . . I've served on committees with him, and he doesn't believe in anything Eastern Kentuckians believe in."

The Congressman told of deep interest in the Appalachian Regional Development Act but said its passage could be expected only through hard work and after a tough fight.

Senator Humphrey said "Carl Perkins is looked upon as a giant" in Washington, and every speaker commented upon his dedication and hard work in Congress.

He said the Prestonsburg public housing development is one of the finest he has seen in America, spoke of the great natural beauty of Eastern Kentucky and said this could become the greatest recreation area in America. Commenting on the community college and the many improvements visible here, he referred to Mayor George P. Archer as a "remarkable man."

State Representative W. J. Reynolds, of Allen, presided at the rally, and chairman of arrangements for the event was Circuit Clerk Frank DeRossett. Reynolds and DeRossett are co-chairmen of the Democratic campaign in this county.

Whereupon Uncle Ki interrupted his swearing long enough to observe: "Don't swear so, Uncle Ki. Remember Job and how patient he was in suffering."

"Yes, I remember Job and his troubles. But, my friend, if memory serves me right, Job wasn't dealin' with no --- 'vaporator.'"

"We growl about dogs barking. But if some dogs were like their masters they would bite friends, strangers and children — and, maybe, themselves."

"Why I Failed," a subject which somebody has said would never be set down in writing. My learned treatise, of course, would not be honest enough to admit my big failures, but I sure could fill up a lot of space with thoughts on minor flubs. Fishing, for instance — why did I fail? Why, I could almost range creation on that one: for instance, to the moon which wasn't in the right phase; to the sun, for it had been too hot, and the water wasn't right; back to earth, to my partner whom I could accuse of making too much noise — but never get around to myself.

But who said I'm a fishin' failure?

Matt Combs, Auto Mishap Victim, Drives 2 Miles With Mangled Arm; Limb Is Amputated At Pikeville

Matt Combs, 44, Pikeville, secretary-treasurer of District 30, United Mine Workers, drove more than two miles Friday afternoon with a mangled arm and a partially disabled automobile from Betsy Layne to the Stumbo Service Station at Har-old following an automobile collision. He was rushed by ambulance to the Pikeville Appalachian Regional hospital where surgeons amputated his left arm.

Combs was driving south on U.S. 23 and in approaching a curve at Betsy Layne collided with an automobile driven by Lawrence Oliver Goble, 21, of Ivel. The Goble car, in which there were other passengers, was knocked into the ditchline. The driver and passengers were uninjured, it is said.

Combs' car was considerably battered, one tire blowing out.

What Others Are Doing

Neighboring Johnson county last Saturday held its annual Apple Festival at Paintsville, and so doing it not only recognized "a vital and valuable phase of its economy but also indirectly pointed to what may be done in Floyd and other counties of the region.

The Paintsville Herald estimates that the fourteen owners of commercial orchards in Johnson county will harvest this year approximately 30,000 bushels of marketable apples from about 4,000 trees, 1,000 or more of which are young and not in full production.

This is not an industry worth, on its face, millions or one that is adding payrolls to the economy. But it has meaning and worth which transcend dollars-and-cents income.

First of all, here are men who are staying with the soil and who are willing to work to make it produce; mentally alert enough to learn modern methods and not too physically lazy to practice them, to graft, bud, prune, spray and fertilize.

And these acres they are using are not deserted areas of land, left to wash and gully. Nor will they ever be subject to the auger or loader which are attacking other hillsides.

Johnson county owes much to the late Fred C. VanHoose who planted the first commercial orchard there in 1900 and many of whose trees, pruned and sprayed and cared for as orchards should be, are still strong and producing their share of apples.

It could be that Floyd county would profit from the success of this pioneer in apple-growing and to those who have followed him. This county is only a few miles farther south than Johnson. The dreaded frost is no worse here than in Johnson; Floyd's soil is as good as its neighbor's, if not, generally speaking, better.

The same opportunity that a few in Johnson county have grasped exists for Floyd landowners — if they are willing to work at it and can resist the temptation of demanding payday no later than next Saturday night.

Jean Ritchie Returning To Sing for Homefolks

Folk singer Jean Ritchie's concert at the University of Kentucky's Southeast Community College, Cumberland, Kentucky, October 17 will mark her first appearance before "homefolks" in several years. A native of Viper, Perry county, Miss Ritchie has won international acclaim as an interpreter of Appalachian folk music since leaving her home for residence in New York. Ironically, Miss Ritchie's position of eminence in the folk music world is perhaps least known in the mountain region of which she sings. Her rare appearance before "homefolks" at the Southeast Community College's "Kingdom Come Swappin' Meetin'" a week-end folk-art festival, October 16-18, should give her fellow mountaineers an idea of why the rest of the nation so appreciates her unique talent.

UK Alumni To Honor Reese With Daniel Boone Award

Former Brooklyn and Los Angeles Dodger baseball great Harold (Peewee) Reese will be honored October 17 by the University of Kentucky Alumni Association.

Reese, a Columbia Broadcasting System sports announcer since his retirement as a player, has been named winner of the Kentucky alumni group's Daniel Boone Award.

Inaugurated this year, the award will be presented annually to a Kentuckian whose achievements have reflected credit upon the state.

Reese, who lives in Louisville, will receive the first Boone trophy at halftime of the Kentucky-Louisiana State football game in Lexington on October 17. A Stoll Field crowd of more than 35,000 is expected to witness the ceremony.

William M. Gant, Owensboro attorney, who is president of the Kentucky Alumni Association, pointed out that the award was created in the University's 100th year and that its presentation to Reese will be a part of the school's pre-centennial observance.

It is particularly fitting, Gant said, that Reese, who received many national honors during his active baseball career, now be honored by his state university.

"For almost 20 years," the alumni president continued, "Reese was one of the most popular figures on the American sports scene. Wherever he appeared, he was a good-will ambassador for the state of Kentucky. Indeed, he was known to fans, his fellow players and sports writers as 'the Kentucky Colonel.' The University of Kentucky Alumni Association is privileged to honor this popular Kentuckian who, in his present capacity as a sportscaster, continues to reflect great credit upon his native state."

The trophy to be presented Reese on October 17 is an inscribed plaque donated by C. Robert Yeager, a U. K. alumnus who is president of the L. G.

13th FLOWER SHOW HELD

A large audience was entertained Sunday afternoon by the Maytown high school band and some members of the Alice Lloyd College faculty.

The band, under the direction of Doug Smith, played marches and currently popular tunes. Several members of the senior band this year are very young, being in only the seventh grade, but this did nothing to detract from the quality of the performance.

Following the band, a variety of performances was given by the following: Mrs. Alda Trosser sang "April Showers" and "Oklahoma"; Marie Grender, a junior in the Knott county high school, played a flute solo; Patrick Trosser contributed a fine sleight of hand performance which was spiced with his own witticisms; Dr. Merton W. Jones sang "How Great Thou Art" and two western ditties. A fitting finale to the show was given by A. H. Grender, head of the music department at the college with his unusual performance rendered with an ordinary crosscut saw and a violin bow. The performers were accompanied by Arthur Haloner at the piano.

Spraying May Have Halted Boyle Sleeping Sickness

Frankfort, Ky. — The spraying of mosquito-infested areas in Boyle county by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture stopped the epidemic there of encephalitis, or "sleeping sickness," Dr. Logan Ray Campbell believes.

Dr. Campbell, county health officer for Casey and Lincoln counties, in addition to Boyle, also thinks the spray stopped what could have been trouble areas in those counties, plus Garrard.

"Our peak incidence was the week prior to the spray," Dr. Campbell said. "The Agriculture Department cooperated wonderfully, came in a hurry, and did a thorough job."

Teamwork by Dr. Campbell with the Kentucky departments of Health and Agriculture and with representatives of the U. S. Public Health Service's Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Georgia, combined to halt the outbreak of the disease.

Boyle had the highest number of suspected cases, 35, of which about half were confirmed as the "St. Louis type" of encephalitis. An 89-year-old woman died, but the cause was pneumonia and not encephalitis as reported earlier. Two suspected cases each were reported in Lincoln, Mercer and Garrard counties, plus one in Casey.

At least three doctors from the U.S.P.H.S. Center at Atlanta were in Boyle at all times during the recent crisis. They included three entomologists (insect specialists), an ornithologist (bird specialist), and an epidemiologist.

They worked closely with J. Clifford Todd, State Health Department epidemiologist. In tests he made that confirmed the cases as encephalitis and the common house mosquito, or "culex pipiens," as the cause. Three of these specialists still are in Boyle county.

Use of suction apparatus by the Public Health Service doctors pinpointed the areas of infestation. This special gadget has a glass tubing into which the mosquitoes were sucked by rubber hose.

Blood tests by Todd from human cases confirmed the type as St. Louis virus. Research on the captured mosquitoes is continuing to isolate the virus.

Encephalitis virus, Gayle pointed out, is brought into an area by birds (pigeons, starlings and other migratory fowl) and even is found in chickens. The culex mosquito that carries the disease takes a "blood meal" from birds and transmits it. Encephalitis also can be transmitted to a horse. Humans and horses are "dead ends" for the St. Louis type, Gayle said, as neither humans nor horses transmit it to any others.

The salt marsh type of mosquito, which has caused so much damage and distress in Western Kentucky, breeds in strip mine pits and brackish water.

"Salt marsh mosquitoes are more vicious and attack during the day or night," Gayle added. "They are more of a nuisance and also economic threats to agriculture and tourism."

"Another big difference between the culex and salt marsh types is that the salt marsh kind migrate as much as 60 miles, while the culex travels only a very short distance."

Still another characteristic of the culex type, Gayle said, is that it breeds in a very small spot of water—"as little as a tea cup full. It is found only in congested areas, such as towns and cities. And the long, dry summer this year added to Boyle county's and neighboring areas' problems by leaving small, stagnated spots in creeks and ponds. These little water pockets were perfect breeding places."

The recent encephalitis epidemic in the limited Central Kentucky area was the first in Kentucky since the 1956 seige in Marshall county, where 10 deaths resulted from the same disease caused by the same mosquito, Gayle recalled.

Elsewhere in the nation, there were 30 confirmed deaths by encephalitis in a recent epidemic in Houston, Texas.

Dr. Campbell said there is no known treatment for the disease except rest and care for any complications. Average recovery time is about three weeks, he added.

Mortality rate of the St. Louis type of encephalitis ranges up to 24 percent as compared to the Eastern type's 60 to 74 percent. Another rarer type, the Western, has a mortality rate of up to 10 percent of its victims, according to the Public Health Service.

Morgan Riflemen Lead Kentuckians Over Pennsylvanians

Morgan county's sharpshooters, Rex Maxey and Waldo Lacy, ranked one-two to lead Kentucky's Long Rifles in defeating a Pennsylvania team in the first round of the second annual Daniel Boone Long Rifle Shootouts held near Boone's birthplace in Pennsylvania recently.

Final score: Kentucky 975, Pennsylvania 839.

About 1,000 spectators watched the 20 primitive arms marksmen shoot at a variety of targets, including swinging jugs and swinging turkey heads.

High scorer for the 10-man Kentucky team was Rex Maxey, of West Liberty, who gained 135 points out of a possible 150. Second high was Waldo Lacy, of Grassy Creek, who scored 124.

Robert Rambo, of Parkersburg, Pa., led the Pennsylvania team with 124 points.

Both Maxey and Lacy were shooting flintlock long-rifles hand-crafted by Maxey in his gun shop at Elamton. Maxey's flintlock was of .45 caliber with a 42-inch barrel, brass mounted on a curly maple stock and inlaid with silver and having an ornate brass patchbox.

Lacy's rifle was of .38 caliber, 43-inch barrel, brass mounted on a curly maple stock, also made by Maxey.

The two teams again will compete Oct. 10 at Barbourville. Winner of each match earns the right to display a custom-made longrifle in the governor's office for six months.

Kentucky won both matches last year. Maxey and Lacy were members of that team also.

Our Historic Heritage

A Pictorial Review of East Kentucky

(No. 301 in a Series)

Two Outstanding Members of May Family

Two outstanding members of the May family of Eastern Kentucky were William (Bill) May, left, and John May, right. They were grandsons of John May, Revolutionary War soldier. John May, of Maytown, was the father of George, Samuel and Harry May. Some of William May's descendants reside in Magoffin county.

The First National Bank presents these pictures of the regional past in recognition of our historic heritage.

TO ALL CITIZENS of FLOYD COUNTY

ALL THE IMPROVEMENTS BELOW HAVE COME TO THE FLOYD COUNTY SCHOOLS DURING THE LAST FOUR YEARS:

- Three modern, safe elementary buildings have been constructed and are being used (43 classrooms).
- Twenty-one new classrooms added to older school buildings.
- 15 old classrooms completely renovated in old buildings.
- A new vocational school at Garth where two hundred boys are trained each day.
- Construction already started on 22-room Wheelwright Elementary school.
- Sanitary sewage disposal plants provided at Betsy Layne, Wheelwright, McDowell, Clark Elementary and Harold.
- Rural school lunchroom program providing 223,000 lunches last year.
- Provided two teachers to visit homes for classes for physically handicapped children.
- Ten new contract runs and seven additional buses to improve transportation.
- Adult Education program providing training for over 200 adults.
- Seventy percent increase in salaries to best qualified teaching staff in Eastern Kentucky.
- Percentage of attendance increased to point where we gained 32,375 school child days in attendance.
- Driver training added to seven high schools.

After over a year of disunity and bickering all concerned agreed that the school children deserved these good things which come from working together. If all these improvements came through cooperation during a short period of three years just imagine how far we could travel educationally during the next three or four years.

John M. Stumbo, Billy Blair and Ross Cooley have been a very important part of the team during this period of very great improvement. We therefore wish to urge all citizens of Floyd County to rally around, vote for, and support Stumbo, Blair and Cooley in their efforts to be re-elected to the Board. Superintendent Clark was given a new four-year contract starting July 1, 1964. Let's keep the action team together so that the Great Move Forward will not grind to a sudden stop. One anti could stop the whole program. OUR CHILDREN ARE REALLY WORTH THE EFFORT.

Telephone Talk

By
ROY L. ATHERTON
Your Telephone Manager

BY NOW MOST OF US HAVE DISCOVERED HOW CONVENIENT IT IS TO SHOP BY PHONE. Just the other day we read about a man who not only believes in telephone shopping . . . he even does it by Long Distance! Seems he was from London and had seen a 17th century painting called "The Merry Lute Player" while he was visiting in New York. After returning home, he decided he wanted to buy it, but couldn't go back for the auction. So, he placed his bid by telephone, and the painting was shipped to him in a few weeks . . . for $600,000! Probably the moral of this story is . . . whether you're spending 60¢ or $600,000, shopping is a lot quicker and easier when you do it by telephone!

THESE DAYS WHEN INTERNATIONAL COMMUNICATIONS ARE SO IMPORTANT, Bell System people work with representatives of other nations and other communications systems. For instance, even though Paris, Geneva, Brussels, Rome, and Moscow are not in the Bell System, Bell engineers and technicians work in all of them to study and help solve the problems of international communications. One of the latest examples of this international cooperation is the deep-sea cable to be placed next year between St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands, and Venezuela. Another cable between St. Thomas and Florida will be in service by the end of this year. Together, the two cables will provide "all cable" circuits between the U. S. mainland and Venezuela. The St. Thomas-Venezuela cable will transmit voices in both directions, and will form part of a growing network of cable and radio relay systems in the South American and Caribbean area.

HAVE YOU EVER STOPPED TO THINK ABOUT THE WAY OUR COUNTRY'S GREAT EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM STARTED BACK IN THE DAYS OF THE ONE-ROOM SCHOOLHOUSE? There were benches for older children along three walls, and in the center sat the younger students. In cold weather there was a constant fire in the black, pot-bellied stove and a boy sat nearby with a bucket of water ready to put out stray sparks. One teacher taught all grades, and no two students had the same textbooks. Students made their own notebooks and wrote in them with quill pens and homemade ink that froze solid in the winter. Today, 3,000,000 students in 7,500 elementary and secondary schools, and thousands more in colleges, get some part of their education by television — the "living blackboard." Southern Bell is proud to be part of the organization that makes this great new educational medium possible in schools throughout the South.

CLINIC MONDAY

The Eastern Kentucky basketball clinic for all area coaches, officials and interested fans will be held in the Pikeville high school gymnasium Monday afternoon at 1:30 p.m.

Attending is compulsory for all who plan to officiate at basketball games this season.

Floyd county's eight basketball coaches have formulated plans and have drawn for the annual pre-season basketball tournament in Prestonsburg, December 2-6.

Brothers Jack and Billy Wise, of Lexington, were named officials. Frank Heinz and Johnny Ellis, both of Prestonsburg, were named timer and scorer, respectively.

The luck of the draw put tournament favorites Martin and Wheelwright in the first game Tuesday night in the lower bracket. Also in the lower bracket are McDowell and Garrett.

In the opening game on Wednesday, December 2, host Prestonsburg will tangle with Wayland, and Betsy Layne is paired against Maytown.

Oscar "Chig" Bush, Betsy Layne mentor, was named this year's president of the Floyd County Coaches Association. Denzil Halbert, Martin's long-time tutor, was elected secretary-treasurer.

Steve Clark, junior quarterback and son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie F. Clark, Jr., was named "Blackcat Player of the Week" in the Blackcats' 13-0 loss to Pikeville last week. Clark threw 10 complete passes to ends Randall Burchett and Claude McKenzie. In the past four games, the Blackcats have been inside the opponents' ten-yard line on nine different occasions, but penalties and fumbles have killed every scoring effort.

The list of area unbeaten football teams has now dwindled to three. Hazard has won five, although the last two have been one-point decisions—21-20 over Whitesburg and 14-13 over Belfry. Pikeville has a 5-0 mark. Paintsville is 2-0 and has a scoreless deadlock with Louisa.

Friday night, Prestonsburg plays its third successive home game as the Louisa Bulldogs come to town. Louisa bounced Bath County, 33-0, last Friday. Ray Brackett's Wheelwright Trojans will be host to London.

Tuesday's statewide football ratings have Paintsville tabbed as the best team in East Kentucky with the 19th spot in the state. Elkhorn City, after losing 14-13 to Fleming-Neon, fell from 12th to 28th place; Hazard dropped to 34th; Pikeville to 36th, and Whitesburg moved up to 37th. Prestonsburg is 118th and Wheelwright 145th.

HAZARD STAYS UNBEATEN BY ONE-POINT VICTORIES

Fleming-Neon's upset of favored Elkhorn City and Hazard's second consecutive one-point victory were the big items on the Eastern Kentucky high school football front over the past week-end.

Jack Carey's Bulldog's nipped Belfry, 14-13, after taking Whitesburg, 21-20, eight days earlier. Raymond Isaacs, who replaced Elkhorn City's Jack Hall, at Fleming-Neon two seasons ago, saw his charges virtually eliminate Elkhorn City from the Class A, third region race, in registering the 14-13 upset.

Pikeville's Panthers stayed in the unbeaten circle, along with Paintsville and Hazard, by downing Prestonsburg, 13-0. This was the fifth consecutive win for the Pike countians.

Wheelwright won its second victory of the season in edging Morgan County, 20-19; Jenkins fell before the Lynch Bulldogs, 19-13; Whitesburg overpowered Napier, 39-19, and Walter Brugh's Paintsville Tigers belted Catlettsburg, 20-0.

Belfry's Pirates grabbed a 7-0 first period lead over the visiting Hazard eleven as Sonny Bogar grabbed a 28-yard pass from quarterback Bob Burgett. R. McGee's kick was good for the extra point.

Midway the second period Hazard led the count on quarterback Keith Reynolds' 20-yard scoring trek and Charles Walker's successful extra point.

Both clubs tallied in the third.

NATURE TRAILS

By RUFUS M. REED

GROUNDHOGS AND MARMOTS

Old mister groundhog, weather prophet de luxe and champion winter snoozer, has various names attached to his mibs: In the west, he's the "hoary marmot"; in the Kentucky mountains he is often called "Whistle Pig," but the naturalists call him "woodchuck." I never could figure out why, because he never "chucks any wood," being too indolent and sleepy-headed. The name "woodchuck" seems more appropriate for the big pileated woodpecker, which country people call "chuck wood," for he really does chuck a lot of wood and tears old logs and stumps all to flinders in his greedy search for slugs and larvae.

The groundhog is now making ready to crawl into his winter sleeping quarters under some big mountain rock or old stump. He hibernates about the first of October and snoozes all during the cold and blustery days of January and into February. He comes out on February 2, say the prognosticators, if the weather isn't too foul, but if he happens to notice his innocent little shadow, right back into his winter burrow he dives, to snooze six more weeks!

The western groundhog, or "hoary marmot," lives in the northwest Rockies and Canada. He is a very handsome animal, being hoary white on nose, forehead and top of his neck. The rest of him is grizzly brown like the eastern groundhog, his cousin.

All the marmots and groundhogs can give vent to a most shrill and piercing whistle, thin and quivery, a sharp warning to any intruder. The groundhogs all have a large bump of curiosity. When a prowler draws too near their den, the groundhogs will give a sudden, shrill whistle and then dive underground out of danger. But if the prowler will hide and sit quietly, one of the groundhogs will crawl out slowly and cautiously to the mouth of the den to survey the situation. That's how many of them lose their lives. Hunters "wayway" their ois and can shoot one before it can turn and dive back into its den. Groundhogs are also fond of taking sun baths, and will lie sunning for hours on top of the big rock under which they make their home. They are also fond of corn in the roasting ear stage and will often cut down row after row, tear off the shuck and gnaw the juicy ears.

Groundhogs and the marmots of the west are eagerly devoured by foxes, coyotes, wolves, wildcats, great horned owls and also by two-legged predators—men! Many men like to catch them to eat. Their flesh is usually parboiled in water to which has been added a sufficient number of spicewood twigs, "to kill the groundhog scent." Glands, or "kernals" under their forelegs are also removed before boiling, to keep down the groundhog scent. Sometimes groundhog flesh is cooked with dumplings in the manner of squirrel. It surely makes a tasty dish, for I have tried it!

Groundhog meat must have been a delectable dish to "Sall," in the hillbilly ballad about "Groundhog," a couplet of which runs:

"Here comes Sall with a snicker and a grin, Groundhog grease all over her chin."

Groundhogs belong to the great rodent clan, which includes squirrels, beavers, weasels and so on.

It used to be a sure mark of a Kentucky mountaineer to see several groundhog pelts tacked up on the cabin walls outside, so they could "season out," or dry. After being thoroughly seasoned, these pelts were soaked in lye made from woodashes, to make the hair slip off. The groundhog pelt was then "worked" or "dressed down," until it was soft and pliable. The mountaineer would knead it with his fingers, pound it with his fists and rub it over his thighs until it became soft and easily worked. Then the pelt was cut into strips, which found scores of uses in the daily life of the mountain family. It was cut into thin strips to make Johnnie a pair of shoe strings for his brogans; once I wore a pair of new brogans laced up with groundhog shoestrings and felt quite proud of these until one of my buddies discovered some tufts of brownish-gray groundhog hair still clinging to the shoestrings. And when you warmed your feet before a roaring fire in winter, the scent from the groundhog shoestrings would spiral up and fill the room.

The mother groundhog gives birth to four young in April. These are blind for one month, then their eyes open and they become cute and playful little animals, and make good pets. When kept about the house, the pet groundhog will dig a burrow up near the chimney, in which to spend the long winter months just snoozing and dreaming—or do groundhogs dream?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

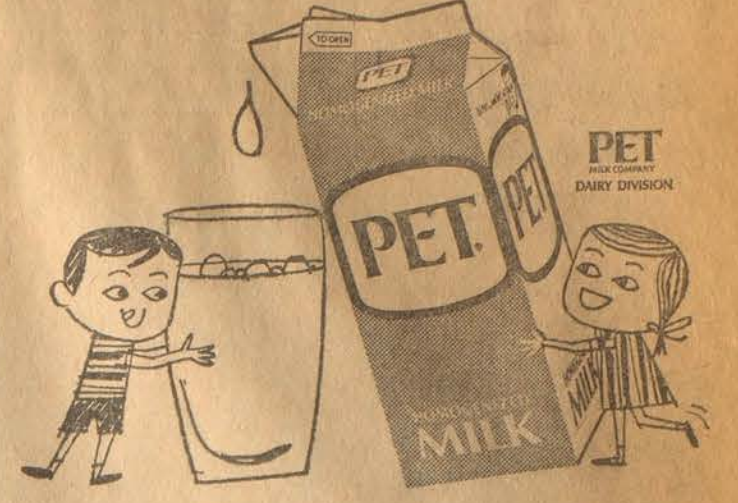

HAILS ADULT EDUCATION EDITOR, The Times:

I read with interest a brochure written by Charles Clark, the County Superintendent of Education, concerning the Adult Education Program that was recently started throughout this county. I have a feeling that the importance of this program is being overlooked by a great many people. I would like to call your reader's attention to the fact that this is probably the most significantly constructive program that has ever been presented in this county toward educating our citizens. I think that those responsible should be commended and especially our present administrator should share in this commendation. If there is any single answer to the multiplicity of problems that confront us as a people, it is education. Therefore, I applaud this most significant contribution to education in our county.

Sincerely,
CHARLES G. GRIGSBY, M.D.

RAINS REDUCE DANGER OF FOREST FIRE LOSS

Frankfort, Ky.—Recent rains have brought forest fire conditions from a high danger point back to normal, but Kentucky's official fall fire season still begins October 1.

State Natural Resources Commissioner J. O. Matlock said more than an inch of rain in Western and Southeastern Kentucky and a little under an inch in Eastern Kentucky had reduced the fire "build-up index" from nearly 100 to almost zero.

"It would take either a heavy frost or continual sunshine from now until about October 4 to wipe out the help brought by the rain," he said.

Matlock said some of the observers in key fire towers, sent to their posts around the middle of September—a month ahead of schedule—are still maintaining their watch, but several have been brought back down.

"We will probably be able now to wait until October 15, the normal starting date, to fill the rest of the towers," he added.

State Forestry Director Gene Butcher pointed out that several regulations in the Kentucky statutes are in force during the official fire season from October 1 through December.

The regulations prohibit setting fires near woodland or brushland during the fire season except between the hours of 4:30 p.m. and midnight or when the land is covered by snow. Setting any fires without taking proper precautions to prevent their spread is also prohibited.

Butcher asked all Kentuckians to observe these regulations and to be very cautious during the next three months with fires, cigarettes and matches in and around woodlands.

Council Executes Pact To Develop Region Manpower

The Council of the Southern Mountains has executed a contract with the office of Manpower, Automation and Training of the United States Department of Labor to provide a demonstration which will evolve a base of knowledge and experience upon which to ground action for maximum development of manpower in the Appalachian South. The contract involves the expenditure of $150,379, of which $30,000 will be sub-contracted for on-the-job training programs.

Aside from any results or conclusions the project will demonstrate:

a. The necessity for, and efficiency of, a regional and sub-regional approach by a non-governmental agency.

b. That manpower programs can be undertaken successfully in remote rural areas when initiated by specially oriented and trained individuals.

c. That on-the-job training programs can be developed effectively in remote regional areas.

d. The significance of effective local community and broad citizen participation, in reaching the hard-core unemployed.

In addition to a project director the Council of the Southern Mountains will employ four regional manpower workers and one on-the-job Training Specialist. The regional manpower workers will be placed at strategic points within the sub-regions of the Appalachian South.
