

PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY

SPEAKING OF AND FOR FLOYD COUNTY

THURSDAY, MARCH 25, 1965

This Town... That World

Monday, with the weather mild down in the valley and the snow lying heavy on north hillsides, we got the feeling of being "way out west— you know, sunshine downstairs and snow-capped peaks up. Today, it's a clammy cold down here on the level and misty-foggy up the hollows. And we think of pictures of the Scottish Highlands. You can't beat Kentucky weather — not for variety, anyhow.

DO A CHILD'S TEARS COUNT?

I hope the person or persons who have been poisoning dogs hereabouts saw a little boy crying inconsolably, the other morning, when he learned that the kindest, least demanding playmate he had ever had was dead. A dog may bark at you, a few will even bite you—but none will ever tempt you or your child with food when you are hungry and hide a killing dose of poison in it.

That Russian cosmonaut who swung outside his capsule, "way out in space, later remarked that he saw nobody he knew up there. We have news for him. It's doubtful if anybody up there ever knew him.

QUOTING THE JUDGE

This quote is lifted bodily from a column written by Robert Ruark on juvenile delinquency. He quotes District Judge Lester H. Lobel, of Helena, Montana, who succeeded in getting enacted a bill permitting the publication of the names of juvenile offenders and the names of their parents as well, and who, as a result, saw the juvenile crime rate in Helena out in half.

"If a youth is old enough and tough enough to topple a tombstone, wreck a church, hold up a service station, snatch a woman's purse or beat up an old man, he's old enough and tough enough to have a public trial with his parents in the front row and full newspaper coverage.

"The parents don't like the publicity. So when I put the kid on probation, and some Saturday night the kid tells the old man, 'I'm going over to Joe's place,' the old man says: 'Oh, no, you're not. You're not going to.' (See Story No. 1, Page 6)

COAL FIRM LOSS HEAVY

Thieves' Bosco Loot Is Estimated at $1200; 2 Other Breaks Told

Thieves made heavy hauls in the county this week, with one coal company being hardest hit. State Detective Chester D. Potter said the Jet Elkhorn Coal Company at Hueysville reported the loss Tuesday night of mining equipment and supplies valued at $1,200. Included in the haul were motors, torches and welders. Most of the stolen items were in a warehouse, the lock of which was broken by the burglars.

The same night, the Phillips 66 service station operated at Betsy Layne by Junior Hamilton was looted of $125 in cash and items valued at $50. Entrance was effected by prying open a window. Potter said he was notified that a mine operated by Eddie Conn lost mining equipment to thieves Wednesday night, but no estimate of the value of the stolen items was available. No arrests had been made Wednesday.

Judge Scores Dog Poisoning, Says Tots Could Be Victims

An investigation made this week by members of the police department into the poisoning of a number of dogs here has uncovered the names of purchasers of poisons, it was learned Tuesday.

Police declined to disclose the identity of those who had made

HEARING ON BUS LINE REQUIRES TWO DAYS

60-70 TELL THEIR VIEWS ON BUS NEED

Granting of Franchise Fought by Greyhound, 2 Other Bus Systems

A two-day hearing on the application of Prestonsburg businessmen for a bus franchise to serve a large portion of the county and connect several areas with Prestonsburg ended here Wednesday afternoon after testimony of between 60 and 70 persons had been heard.

From here the case goes to Frankfort, where the Greyhound Bus Company, one of three bus firms opposing the granting of the franchise, is expected to introduce other testimony.

Statements of about 60 persons attested to the need of the proposed bus line and improved transportation to and from Prestonsburg for the Mud Creek-river area, the section from Prestonsburg to David and from here to Auxier.

Opposing the granting of the franchise were the Greyhound Bus Company, Allen Brothers Bus Lines and the City Bus Company of Pikeville. Half a dozen taxicab owners also protested the franchise.

After next week's Frankfort hearing, the case will go before the full board of the Division of Motor Transportation. A misunderstanding of the date set for the hearing resulted in the arrival for the hearing of A. Y. Yelton, Division of Motor Transportation examiner, a day earlier than proponents of the franchise had expected. On short notice business men had 27 persons here to testify on Tuesday, first day of the hearing.

County Attorney Barkley J. Sturdivant and Robert Pierce, of Frankfort, represented the city. (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

H. T. Allen, 63, Dies At Home Here; Was Heart Attack Victim

Hiram Taggett Allen, 63, well-known Prestonsburg businessman, died at his home here at 4 a.m. Wednesday, a short time after suffering a heart attack.

The fatal seizure was unexpected. Although Mr. Allen had been in failing health, he had worked earlier in the night, in the office of the States Motel which he managed.

A son of the late S. E. and Sarah Esther Harris Allen, he was a native of Prestonsburg. He was a graduate of the University of Kentucky, where he was president of his fraternity. He received his early business training in association with his grandfather, Hiram Harris. As manager of the Hiram Harris estate, he operated the Abigail and Patty theatres here and, later, the States Motel and the States Inn.

He is survived by one brother, T. H. Allen, of Prestonsburg. Funeral rites will be conducted at 2 p.m. Saturday from the residence on Court street, and burial will be made in the Harris family cemetery under direction of the Carter & Callihan Funeral Home.

Contracts On Surfacing Of Three Floyd Roads Awarded At Frankfort

Contracts for bituminous concrete surfacing on three roads in this county have been awarded by the Highway Department, Commissioner of Highways Henry Ward announced this week. Two of the projects are:

The East Point-Auxier-Cliff road from the west end of the bridge over the Big Sandy at Auxier to the C. & O. Railroad crossing, north of Auxier, a distance of 1.3 miles; the Buffalo Creek road from the end of the blacktop, near Endicott post office, extending southeasterly a distance of 1.4 miles.

Adams Construction Corporation, Pikeville, submitted the low bid of $27,170.85 on these two jobs.

The third project is for bituminous surfacing of the Bonanza-Lick Fork road beginning at Ky. 1427 at Bonanza and extending to near the postoffice at Whitaker, a distance of 2.7 miles.

Adams Construction Corporation, Pikeville, submitted the low bid of $23,320.60.

PIKE CASES SLATED HERE

Five April Term Days Set for Runyon Trial; May Case To End Term

Five days of the April criminal term of circuit court here have been set apart for the trial of Woodrow Runyon, former supervisor for the Pike County Board of Education, on approximately 40 indictments charging him with making false claims.

The Runyon case will be called April 13, second day of criminal trials. The first week of the session, which will begin April 5, will be devoted to the hearing of civil cases and to work of the grand jury.

Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo said the cases against Superintendent C. H. Farley, Board Member Alvary Potter and Herbert Cool, a supervisor for the board, all of which also have been transferred here from Pike county on change of venue for trial, will probably be continued. Continuance will be necessary, he said, because he has not been assigned legal assistance and he has not had time to interview witnesses and prepare for the trial, unassisted.

In the Runyon case Stumbo will have the assistance of F. M. Burke, Pikeville attorney. Eighty cases in all have been docketed for trial during the term, with the Headman May murder trial set for April 27 as the last case to be docketed. By placing the May case at the end of the docket, court officials hope to have ample time in which to empanel a jury under the death penalty provision and to carry out the trial, even if an extension of the term is necessary.

Between the Runyon and May cases are three charges of voluntary manslaughter against Raymond Hall to be heard April 19 and the manslaughter charge against Joe Wheeler Hyden on April 26.

May faces two murder counts in the slaying of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Hobson, and a shooting and wounding indictment in the shooting of his wife. He is expected to go to trial next month for the slaying of Mrs. Hopson.

Eight liquor cases are among the other 72 cases listed for trial.

To Correct An Error

An error appears in The Kroger ad in the Times this week. Coupon 2G in the advertisement should read, "4 loaves" instead of "2 loaves."

REGIONAL HOSPITALS PATIENTS INCREASE

More than 90 per cent of the 1,010 beds in the Appalachian Regional Hospitals system were filled during the first 15 days of March.

COURT RULE SAVES GRANT

For City of Martin; Sewage Disposal Plant Construction Started

The town of Martin's sewage disposal system won a court victory last week barely in time to save the project from complete loss as withdrawal of a vital federal grant was only hours away.

The court case, decided by Special Judge W. D. Sparks, began with a complaint filed by some property-owners at Martin who claimed that location of the sewage disposal plant would damage their nearby properties and impair their value. A temporary restraining order was granted, and had the court ruled in favor of the plaintiffs a new location for the plant would have been necessary.

The case was brought to trial here two weeks ago. A number of witnesses were heard, and the testimony was not restricted to the bare essentials. What was said was recorded on tape, and Judge Sparks announced he would give his decision later.

When that decision would be handed down held city officials in suspense almost as much as what the ruling would be. For they had received official notice that unless work was under way not later than March 18 the $237,000 federal grant for the entire job would be withdrawn.

Word of the decision came the night of March 17, and contractors, standing by, began work the next day. Heavy machinery is expected to arrive soon to rush the big job of laying sewer lines as a centralized system ending with connection to the sewage disposal plant to be constructed in the lower section of Martin.

Sewage from the public housing complex at the "forks of Beaver" and at the other extreme of Martin is being handled by a temporary disposal method. Three families occupied the new quarters recently after county and state health authorities had agreed on the temporary sewage disposal method. Occupancy by these families was considered necessary to prevent destruction of property by vandals.

NEW PROJECT STEP TAKEN

Mobility Plan Office To Open Here; Jobless Offered Migration Aid

An office to handle the pilot project which may provide approximately 250 families from Floyd, Martin, Johnson and Magoffin counties travel at government expense to other areas where jobs are available will be opened in the Harlowe building here, next Thursday.

Most of the families to be transferred to job sites are expected to come from outside Floyd county, since this is the only county of the four involved in the project which has an "unemployed fathers" program.

The office here will be manned by seven or eight persons, all but two of whom have already had training, it was said this week.

The project, sometimes known as the Mobility Program, is termed an experiment to see if relocation of jobless, poverty-area families to work elsewhere is feasible. As of this time, it is planned only for the months of April, May and June, and may end with the new fiscal year, June 30, unless its value is proved and it earns public acceptance.

A grant of $162,000 has been made to carry out the pilot program. The government will pay transportation expenses and the equivalent of several weeks' pay for those selected to move to jobs. Only those who want to move and for whom jobs can be found will be approved it was said.

POLL HOURS ANNOUNCED

Robinson Is Advised Legislative Oversight Not To Affect Closing

Despite a legislative oversight, polls during the May 25 primary should remain open an extra hour—until 6 p.m.—the attorney general's office Monday advised Floyd County Clerk C. (Ollie) Robinson.

The opinion is an attempt to resolve the problem until someone goes to court or the 1966 legislature patches up the statute.

The 1964 General Assembly amended a statute so that voting hours would be from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. local times instead of 6 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The aim, as outlined by Gen. Walter Herdman: "To relieve a condition where countless voters are being deprived of their vote through no fault of their own, because of the increase of voting, registration and participation, and the consolidation of precincts brought about by the use of voting machines."

But the legislature didn't carry through all the way. It amended only a statute dealing with general elections, not a similar statute on primaries.

"The legislature obviously intended to change the voting hours in the primary as well as the voting hours pertaining to the general elections which also govern special elections," Herdman said. "As a matter of fact it is apparent the legislature thought that it was extending the voting hours for the primary by its amendment."

He said it should be noted that the act in question is entitled simply "an act relating to voting hours" and refers merely to opening and closing times without specific mention of type of elections.

"For the legislature to change the hours in the general election and not the primary makes little sense behind the 1964 amendment," he said.

"As a matter of fact there is possible greater need for extension of voting hours in the primary because of the number of candidates running and the necessity of locking out the machines as persons of different political affiliation vote."

Herdman said that if the court gets the issue it probably would try to learn the legislature's intent. Until then, he said, the amended law should cover all elections.

MANN NOTES PARTY TIFFS

Magoffin Asks Cornett To Vacate Rice Trial; Factionalism Reviewed

Politics, bubbling and boiling in Magoffin county for years as in many area counties, was reviewed last week in a document entered in Magoffin Circuit Court.

It came in the form of a motion by Marcus Mann, attorney for the Magoffin County Board of Education.

Mann asked Judge John Chris Cornett to vacate the bench in the trial of a case wherein Jim Rice's election as an anti-administration board member, was being contested. Mann said that he doubted Cornett could maintain the proper judicial objectivity in trying the case and to bolster his contention, reviewed Magoffin county politics for the last decade or so.

Mann said that intra-party rifts were reflected in the school board member contest suit, a couple of suits against Sheriff Roy Holbrook and a contest now being fought to control the Democratic party. He pointed out that members of the Kash Holbrook family had controlled Magoffin county politics for 20 years and had the state patronage under their thumbs. Mann said the power of the Holbrooks was waning.

The attorney went on to point out that Rice was a brother-in-law of Sheriff Roy Holbrook and alleged that the board member was elected as an anti-administration member with Holbrook support by illegal methods.

Mann alleged that Judge Cornett was elected Circuit Judge in 1957 by Holbrook support, defeating Mann who was the opposing candidate. The motion said that Ray Holbrook, brother of the sheriff, and Mann were now engaged in a contest for the chairmanship of the Democratic party.

(At a hearing last week Mann was ceded five precincts and Holbrook four with three precincts to be left for evidence to be submitted to Norman Christ. (See Story No. 4, Page 6)

SCREEN LAW COMPLIANCE

Is 80 Percent, Said; February Applications Hit Record Under Law

More than 80 percent of Kentucky's junkyard dealers have taken the first step toward compliance with the state's junkyard screening law, Highway Commissioner Henry Ward said recently.

Ward said the Highway Department's Office of Compliance received a record 107 applications during February, bringing the total number of applications to 675.

"Thus," Ward said, "better than 80 percent of the state's 840 known junkyard dealers have developed and submitted to the Department plans for shielding their yards."

The previous high for applications received during a single month was 82 in July, 1964, the first month of enforcement.

Ward also said that 26 permits were issued during February to bring to 364 the total number issued. This means that 43 percent of the dealers have actually complied with the law, since permits are issued only after suitable screens have been erected.

The total number of complaints filed against operators by the Department stood at 129 at the end of February as 27 new complaints were filed during the month. Thirty-three dealers have complied with the law and these complaints have been dismissed. The majority of the remaining 96 are in various stages of compliance.

Ward said that 65 junkyard dealers left the business in February and 49 new junkyards were discovered, thus lowering the total number from 856 at (See Story No. 5, Page 6)

FITZPATRICK AND HOWARD ARE VICTIMS

David Mine Employee Suffers 100% Burns; Poles Crush Howard

Tragedy struck twice on Middle Creek at almost the same hour Tuesday, claiming the lives of two men.

David Mine employee Curtis Fitzpatrick, 53, of Garrett, of burns suffered at David, Mack Howard, 31, of Flat Gap, who was fatally crushed as a truck was being unloaded near the intersection of the Mountain Parkway and the David road.

Both accidents occurred between 10 and 10:30 a.m. Fitzpatrick, who was employed as a pumper by Princess Coals, was burned when his clothing ignited as he stood warming before an open blaze after coming to the outside from work in the mine. He was alone at the time, it was said, and it is surmised that his clothing caught fire either when he kicked a block of burning coal or when a gust of wind whipped the blaze onto his oil-soaked trousers.

He died at the Prestonsburg General Hospital, about four and a half hours after he was burned. Third degree burns covered the entire surface of his body.

"Apparently, his clothing exploded in flames," was one description of the tragedy. Fitzpatrick was found by workmen, lying near the fire. He apparently had run around a small building nearby before falling within a few feet of the point where he was burned. It also was said he had attempted to pump water with a hand pump in a vain effort to extinguish the flames.

Howard was fatally injured when several heavy poles being unloaded from a truck by a crew of REA workmen rolled onto him, crushing his head. He died within five minutes of arrival at the Prestonsburg General Hospital.

Fitzpatrick, a native of Garrett, was a son of the late Grover Cleveland (Cleve) Fitzpatrick and Fanny Watkins Fitzpatrick. His wife, the former Virginia Mullins, died 23 months ago. Surviving are his six children: Staff Sgt. Roy Fitzpatrick of the U. S. Air Force in Manila, P. I.; Eula Fitzpatrick, Dayton, Ohio; Mrs. James Chaffins, Peggy Jo, Paul-etta and Michael Fitzpatrick, all of Garrett.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete, it was said at the Hall Brothers Funeral Home, pending arrival of his son from Manila.

Howard was a son of Mrs. Merzie Lemaster Howard and the late Steve Howard. He was a native of Johnson county, was a member of the United Baptist Church and, besides his employment with the REA cooperative, was an insurance firm representative. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Geraldine Howard; one son and two daughters, Phillip, Malinda Karen and Myra Lynn Howard, all of Flat Gap, and eight brothers and sisters.

The body is at the Paintsville Funeral Home where it was said Wednesday that funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Residents of Prestonsburg will join with others throughout the county in observance of Chamber of Commerce Week, April 4-10, it was said this week by Marvin Music, president of the Prestonsburg Chamber, who is serving as chairman for the local phase of the nation-wide program.

Governor Breathitt recently issued an official proclamation designating the observance in recognition of the important part Chambers play in the economic, social and cultural development of the state.

Chamber of Commerce Week is being sponsored locally by the Prestonsburg Chamber of Commerce. In announcing the special observance Music urged local interest and participation.

BERRY PLANT ORDER TOTAL IS 566,000

Floyd county's portion of a huge order of strawberry plants for a ten-county area arrived here today (Thursday) from the Mullins Plant Farm, Chattanooga, Tennessee. Floyd farmers have ordered 131,000 plants.

Of the plants ordered for the counties of Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Martin, Lawrence, Magoffin, Morgan, Elliott, Menifee and Rowan, 545,000 plants are of the Pocahontas variety and 2,000 are Tennessee Beauty. In addition to this total of 566,000 plants, the Area Redevelopment Administration strawberry production class being taught at the Prestonsburg Community College by L. R. Johnson is expected to order at least 20,000 more plants.

These plants will set approximately 140 acres, according to County Agent Robert M. Jones.

This is the greatest number of plants ordered since the program was initiated in 1961. The new acreage, coming into production next year, will go a long way to insure the success of the strawberry processing plant established here three years ago.

Floyd County Farm Bureau members ordered 38,500 plants of the quota for this county, Jones said.

Plants ordered by farmers in other counties, follow: Pike, 53,000; Johnson, 151,000; Martin, 98,000; Lawrence, 32,000; Magoffin, 57,000; Morgan, 23,000; Elliott, 10,000; Menifee, 11,000; and Rowan, 20,000.

May-Atinay Wedding Solemnized

The home here of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. May, was the scene of the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Archer May and Mr. Thomas Charles Atinay at 12 noon Saturday, March 20.

Miss May was given in marriage by her father. Her sister, Miss Julia Mayo May, acted as maid of honor. Mr. Burl Wells Spurlock served Mr. Atinay as best man. Brothers of the bride, Robert V. May, Jr. and Walter Wells May, were ushers.

The living room of the May home, through the use of flowers, ferns, candelabra and a prie-dieu, had the appearance of a small chapel. Arrangements of white roses, calla and Easter lilies graced either side of the altar and both ends of the room.

The bride, who wore her mother's wedding dress, carried a bouquet of white roses, gardenias and stephanotis. Her short veil of illusion tulle was attached to a bow of ivory peau de soie.

Her sister wore a short dress of blue silk with three tiers of wide tucking at the hemline and a flower of the same fabric at the center of the scooped neckline. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and daisies.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Adrian J. Roberts, pastor of the First Methodist Church, and the Rev. William D. Jagers, pastor of Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, both of Prestonsburg.

Pre-nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. E. R. Burke, pianist.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served to the guests. The bridal party and cousins of the bride were seated at the dining table, the centerpiece of which was formed by a three-tiered wedding cake bordered with gardenias and fern.

The bride, a 1964 graduate of the University of Kentucky's School of Architecture, has been sharing a Georgetown apartment in Washington, D. C. with her sister. She met her husband at the architectural firm of Cohen, Haft and Associates, Silver Spring, Maryland, where both are employed.

Mr. Atinay, the son of Mr. Karoly Atinay and Mrs. Gyula Mihok, both of Buda-Pest, Hungary, is a graduate of the Technicum of Architecture of that city. The couple will be at home at 11266 Evans Trail, Beltsville, Maryland.

Guests were Mrs. W. B. Garratt, Mr. and Mrs. Burl Spurlock, Mrs. Olga M. Latta, Mrs. A. J. May, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Burl Wells Spurlock, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Latta, Daniel W. Spurlock, John Archer Spurlock, the Rev. Roberts, Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Jagers, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Burke, all of Prestonsburg; Mrs. Edgar Lambert, Huntington, West Virginia, and Mr. and Mrs. James Williams, of Frankfort.

University Madrigal Singers Slate Concert Here, Sunday

The University of Kentucky Madrigal Singers will present a concert at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, April 4, in the auditorium of the Prestonsburg Community College.

The group is composed of 14 undergraduate students who represent a variety of academic fields in addition to music. It was organized in 1961 under the direction of Miss Sara Holroyd, UK assistant professor of music, who will direct the Prestonsburg concert.

The Madrigal Singers specialize in singing music of the Renaissance and pre-Renaissance periods, which includes Italian and German madrigals and motets of the 15th, 16th and 17th centuries, along with works of the Burgundian school.

The singers have enjoyed equal success with 16th and 17th century English madrigals. The Renaissance repertoire is performed in richly colored costumes of the period.

Madrigals belong in the category of vocal chamber music. In Elizabethan times one had to be able to sing his part at most parties. It was a social activity comparable to playing bridge or scrabble today. Madrigals were mostly amorous and were sung with a great deal of freedom.

The concert is free and open to the public.

TIDBITS of KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.
Western Kentucky Teachers' College, Bowling Green, Ky.

In spite of our rich store of folk words at Fidelity, we did not have, in common use, the word chores. We knew the word, but it, like lots of other things we knew, was just in a book. We could "feed the stock," milk the cows, "slop the pigs," "do up the dishes," "sweep the floors," "bring in wood," but we had no word to include all of them. One humorous fellow used to talk about having to get home to "milk up the things."

In general, nobody regarded all these duties as work. Getting up on cold mornings and, after feeding all the stock, milking a cow that slaps a cuckoo-burled tail against near-frozen ears ought to have a poet and interpreter. Somehow the poets love to picture milking a cow as highly poetic, and we readers of poetry wonder how much these poets knew about cows.

Watering the stock could be somewhat romantic when we would round them up — horses, mules and colts — and drive the herd to the spring or the creek. There we might meet some other young chaps on a similar mission. We could have impromptu bareback horse races on the dusty road as well as get caught up on neighborhood news or gossip. Most of my own childhood had passed before the telephone came in and superseded most of the news-spreading agencies that had had a long and useful life; hence driving the stock to be watered often became a very thrilling encounter with what was going on, openly or secretly, in the Fidelity area. But drawing endless bucketfuls of water from a well or cistern to water the cows and calves soon became real toil, no more poetic than hoeing tobacco or working in the newground. When we boys on the farm read about how much water a camel could drink, we strongly suspected that our thirsty old cows must be part camel.

Feeding the chickens was not especially difficult, but sometimes we tried, usually with scant success, to break some of our hens from roosting in apple and peach trees and run the risk of freezing themselves. Climbing into a tree after dark, blinding a hen with light from the lantern, and then seizing her by the legs and removing her, squawking, to the henhouse got pretty boring after several nights with the same experience.

Bringing in wood can be work, too, if it is done mechanically by gathering up an armload and wagging it in. But, with a little homemade wagon to load and unload and act the part of mule and driver all at the same time, this chore was play. It often took twice as long and used up five times as much energy as the regular way of carrying it in the arms; but think of losing all the excitement of the wagon and acting as mule! Somehow picking up chips did not seem quite so poetic, for that involved carrying a basket that steadily got heavier and heavier. But most boys' mothers at Fidelity insisted on having a basket of chips handy to kindle fires or to encourage fires that were not doing their duty by wet or green wood. So we picked up chips, whether the act was poetic or not.

The girls often made a rite of lighting the lamps at nightfall. From infancy they had been trained to trim the wicks and to clean the lamp chimneys. As the littlest boy I had to learn a lot of girlish duties and secretly rejoiced when my boy hands got too big to insert into a lamp chimney; henceforth I could help with more manly duties.

Those of us who are not ashamed to recall a good many years can look back to the chores attendant upon opening or closing the day and thus tie ourselves back to a simpler, more primitive time, when gadgets had not been invented to do some of our necessary work. Imagine drawing water now for a whole herd of dairy cattle, and imagine what a bevy of country lassies would be necessary to milk these same well-fed and well-nourished cows!

ENDORSES TIM REYNOLDS

To the Voters of Dist. 4:

Now is the time to help ourselves, since we have the privilege at the May 25 primary; so, all get out and give an honorable man of Beaver, Ky., a chance. A man who is familiar with our long-neglected county roads. Elect T. P. (well-known as Tim) Reynolds. Give a young man a chance to prove his ability as our Magistrate. I am sure he will do all that is in a Magistrate's power to help and plan a better improvement of our rural roads.

To the Voters of Dist. 4:

It has been rumored that we are not for T. P. (Tim) Reynolds for Magistrate of Dist. 4. Some of his opponents started this rumor about us. So we are 100% behind him for this office.

Mayor John Roberts said Monday that the city has applied for 70 additional housing units. Forty of these are planned for the elderly, and these may be contained in a five-story building to be located at the parking area provided at Martin as an Urban Renewal project. The other 30 units, to be located elsewhere, will be for low-income families.

The present low-rent housing project is complete, with the exception of landscaping and the installation of about 800 worth of playground equipment for children, it was said.

The sewer project freed for work by the court ruling will cost a total of $392,000, with the city's share of $155,000 financed by issuance of sewer bonds.

man, district chairman, Pikeville).

Mann went on, in his motion, to allege:

That Cordell Martin, of Hindman, brother-in-law of the judge, will likely represent the Holbrookes and Rice in the board action.

That Sheriff Holbrook has failed to comply with court orders to show his tax records in one case and the court has failed to answer requests for a decision in a second civil action challenging the officer's right to charge a four percent tax collection fee.

That Mann has had to file suits in the past to get action papers served relating to election laws, challengers and election officers.

That a feeling exists, among some citizens that trial would not be as speedy as desired.

That the judge, Martin, and the Holbrook family are working together toward organization of a small loan company in Salyersville.

Mann's original suit, based on affidavits filed with the Kentucky attorney-general, is attempting to remove Rice on the ground the newly-elected board member does not have an eighth grade education as required by law.

Martin Disappointment Alayed by Champions' Defeat of Covington

Martin high school, in the state tournament last week for the first time, lost in its first game—but the loss was to Breckinridge County, the team which ultimately won the state championship.

Disappointment of Martin's supporters was alayed to some extent by the fact that Breckinridge defeated the Purple Flash by only 18 points whereas the state champs downed Covington Holy Cross in the finals, 95 to 73.

Hazard, the only other team on which Eastern Kentuckians pinned their hopes, lost to Breckinridge County in the semifinals, 72-68, after holding a seven-point lead with only five minutes to go.

Text: And GOD said. Let us make man in our own likeness and let them have DOMINION over the fish of the sea and over the fowl of the air and over the cattle and over all the earth and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth (Gen. 1-26).

My friends, notice the 31st verse of the same chapter. And GOD saw everything that He made. And, behold, it was very good. We read the 31st verse of the same chapter as a reminder that everything God made was good and not a thing bad. And that there was a time on earth when the human race was free from SEN and not a man or woman with a cancer, or tumor, tuberculosis, Bright's disease, or diabetes, or any kind of disease that afflicts mankind in our day. But GOD said to this man and this woman that he presented to the world: "Let them have DOMINION or control over everything."

I can't imagine that when Adam wanted a cow or sheep he went out with a dog or club to get them, living as he did, acting as very God, with full control. I believe when he spoke to the cows to come home, they came or when he wanted the birds they came. I believe he had control of all the animals as a man has control of his own household, or, in some cases, better.

It is good for a man to know and exercise authority of God. Usually we hear a good deal more about exercising authority over everything but ourselves. The scriptures enjoin us to exercise control of ourselves, getting every thought under control to the obedience of Christ—not a rambling mind but a mind controlled; a mind directed, a mind fixed on God, a mind with the knowledge of God's holiness of body, soul and spirit. Our first parents were such until they yielded to the voice of Satan there in the Garden. And with it sin, sickness, diseases and death entered into the world. Today a man is born in the flesh with an inheritance of all these plagues and diseases. God, seeing that man was in difficulty and that sin and sickness prevailed, in order to save all of mankind sent the Blessed Redeemer, Jesus Christ as his Divine Remedy, that through Him the world might be saved. He set before us an open door, and whosoever will come in may enter into everlasting life. God has no other remedy. The devil can manifest some other system, or man can evolve some other system to a degree, but God has a particular METHOD.

Christ used it because it was divinely superior to every other method and would accomplish a result none other could. No man ever lived in the world who ever caused the eyes of a child or a man that was born blind to see or the lame to walk or cause a leg to grow where there was no leg. God demonstrates his power and his divine remedy, and it will accomplish in man what nothing else will. Man may fail but God never fails.

My friends, it is a sad thing to see, wherever healing is taught and practiced, so many sick and afflicted and very few healed. It was written and handed down to us, in James 5:14: Is any sick among you. Let him call for the elders of the church and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil, in the name of the LORD, and the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and if he have committed sin they shall be forgiven him.

My friends, this proves not only will he heal the sick, he will forgive sins as well. Sin and sickness came into the world together. And if we will receive it when we are saved from all sins. He will cleanse us from our sickness. God wants a clean temple and a well, healthy body to live in. But if we find ourselves out of favor with God, disobedient as Adam was in the Garden, we lay ourselves open for attack by the devil and his affliction.

When Moses led the children of Israel out of Egypt, God made a covenant with them (Exodus 15-26). And said, if thou wilt diligently hearken to the voice of the LORD, thy GOD, and wilt do that which is right in his sight and wilt hear to his commandments and keep all his statutes, I will put none of these diseases upon thee which I have brought upon the Egyptians. For I am the LORD that healtheth thee.

For years Israel knew no other healer but God. And there was not a sick one among them. My friends, this covenant does not mean that when we are sick and dying the Lord will come and heal us. It simply means while we are living that we ought to live in Divine HEALTH and after death we shall have Divine LIFE. Divine life is that union of the soul with God. We read in the 20th chapter of II Kings where King Hezekiah was sick unto death and the Prophet Isaiah came unto him and said, Set thine house in order, for thou shalt die and not live.

Hezekiah had lost favor with God. Then he turned his face to the wall and prayed unto the LORD and reminded Him of all his good works: Remember now, have I not walked before thee in truth and with a perfect heart? And in time past have I not done which is good in thy sight, and he wept with an humble spirit and it caused the prophet to turn again unto him saying, Thus saith the LORD. I have heard thy prayer and seen thy tears. Behold, I will heal thee. And I will add fifteen years to thy life.

My friends, if we would only take our sickness, our diseases and all our troubles to God we would not only get our healing but added life as well, for the scriptures tells us in Prov. 9:11, For by me thy days shall be multiplied and the years of thy life shall be increased. Prov. 10:27: The fear of the Lord prolongeth days, but the years of the wicked shall be shortened.

Are you sick? Are you afflicted? Do you live in fear? Are you in sin? Then make thyself an altar, confess your faults and your sins to Jesus. Not only will He forgive you of your sins but He will heal you of all your diseases.

Matt. 4:23: And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of diseases among the people.

Don't wait too long. Today is the accepted time. AMEN.

100 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK
The Civil War in Kentucky
By JOE JORDAN

One hundred years ago this week, Maj. Gen. John M. Palmer, the Union Army's commander of the Military District of Kentucky, issued General Order No. 13: "It being well known that much hostility exists in the minds of some evil-disposed persons in the State of Kentucky against the enlistment of colored soldiers and that in order to discourage enlistment many cases have occurred of their barbarous treatment; imprisonment in jails and slave pens, it is ordered: That hereafter no colored person in this district shall be confined in any jail or prison except by proper legal authority and that all slave pens and other private places of confinement be at once broken up."

One of the principal complaints against Maj. Gen. Stephen G. Burbridge, whom Gen. Palmer had relieved, had been that he was enlisting slaves in the Union Army, thereby freeing them. The Louisville Journal, a Unionist newspaper but a foe of abolition and a critic of Burbridge, when it printed a story in February about Palmer's being appointed to command in Kentucky, had exclaimed, "Thank God and President Lincoln!" During the week under review, it published the following:

"General Palmer addressed a large Negro audience at the Colored Baptist Church last night, explaining to the blacks the laws recently passed by Congress for their benefit, and urging them to enlist in the United States Army. The church was densely packed and hundreds were unable to gain admission. Negro soldiers, fully armed, guarded the sidewalk in front of the building."

The National Unionist, a "radical" Republican newspaper at Lexington, had predicted from the beginning that Palmer would continue the policies established by Burbridge. It now twisted those who had rejoiced at Burbridge's removal: "We fear that General Palmer will lose caste with the Conservatives and Copperheads who were so much elated at the removal of General Burbridge and the appointment of General Palmer. The General actually appears to be a radical. Well, his radical views do not offend us, but he will certainly get into bad odor with the Conservatives and they will not visit and feast him, as they did at first."

Robert Mallory, a former congressman, when making a speech at LaGrange, was interrupted by a Union Army lieutenant from Ohio, who called him a rebel. Mallory said the officer lied, whereupon the lieutenant brought up a file of soldiers with fixed bayonets and declared Mallory should not finish his speech. The latter was disposed to go on and risk the issue, but his friends persuaded him to quit and avoid trouble.

Col. S. W. Price, post commandant at Lexington, announced that a board of survey would be convened to determine damages incident to occupation of the fair grounds, trotting track and other property by Union Army troops. The Lexington Observer and Reporter said there had been "wanton and unnecessary destruction of property."

Lexington, Ky.—Five Kentucky young people are in Chicago, Illinois, this week attending the National Youthpower Congress, which opens today (March 24) at the Pick-Congress Hotel.

NEGRO WOMAN JUDGE FINDS WELFARE SUBSIDIZING LAZY

Public welfare should be a vehicle for raising the standards of the recipient, not a reward for indolence and depravity, says Judge Juanita Kidd Stout, of Philadelphia in an April Reader's Digest article. "Why Must the Taxpayer Subsidize Immorality?"

"The tragedy of relief is that it takes away from people the drive to work," writes Judge Stout. "I have the deepest sympathy for the good mother struggling to bring up her children on a welfare grant. . . . But I deplore a system that regards the handing out of checks as its prime function, that subsidizes the lazy and immoral home with the taxpayer's dollar."

"A good institutional home would be far better for the growth and development of children than an unfit private home. . . . It is my suggestion that we provide dormitory facilities for these pitiful children, especially in the urban areas. . . . No child, no adult, can remain on probation in my court unless he learns to read and write. In Philadelphia we have third- and fourth-generation illiterates on relief. . . . It seems to me that attendance at free adult schools, to learn to read and write, should be a prerequisite to getting relief money. . . . Much can be done by welfare workers to lift people from the welfare environment."

Mrs. Stout was the first Negro woman to be elected judge in Pennsylvania. She was born in Wewoka, Oklahoma, and is a graduate of the University of Iowa and Indiana University. The article is condensed from the Philadelphia Sunday Bulletin Magazine.

Our Historic Heritage

A Pictorial Review of East Kentucky

(No. 323 in a Series)

Ayres T. (Grandsire) Vaughan (1742-1842)

Grandsire Ayres Vaughan, half-blood Cherokee, was born in an Indian encampment of Eastern Tennessee. His parents were William Patrick Vaughan, Indian trader, and Fair-a-Bee-Lunah, member of a Western North Carolina Cherokee tribe.

They were the progenitors of the Eastern Kentucky and Arkansas Vaughans. One brother, William, pioneered Northwest Arkansas. Ayres came to Eastern Kentucky, settled on the Big Sandy River near Patrick's Swirl, a rugged area of the river named for a grandson who resided in the vicinity for many years.

Grandsire Vaughan lies buried in the Old Vaughan cemetery on the Auxier Road overlooking U. S. Highway 23. Many of his descendants are buried nearby.

The First National Bank presents these pictures in recognition of our historic heritage.

Join Now—Serve Later, Plan Told by Recruiter

Pikeville, Ky., March 25—Sgt. William B. Cleland, the Marine recruiter for this area, announced this week that the Marine Corps is accepting applications from interested young men who wish to enlist now and serve later. This "delay" program is especially designed for high school seniors. According to Sgt. Cleland, an applicant may be tested, given the physical examination, and administered the oath of enlistment all in one day, then return home with an official set of orders directing him to report for active duty on the day that he himself has picked. The reporting date may be delayed for as many as one hundred and twenty days. This, of course, allows him time to graduate, and complete any other unfinished business before departing for active duty with the Marines.

ABANDONED MINE SEALING ENVISIONED IN KENTUCKY

Frankfort, Ky.—The State Natural Resources Department will soon submit proposals to put jobless Eastern Kentuckians to work sealing up the entrances to abandoned "pre-law" coal mines, abandoned in a Harlan county accident March 8, three youths were killed when they were caught in a rockfall in an auger mine, which had been abandoned before the mandatory closure provisions of more recent strip-auger mining laws.

"To correct this situation," Robert Montgomery, deputy commissioner of the department said, "we hope to get funds under the Appalachian Regional Act to expand our very limited AFDC-U program, so that the worst of these death traps can be closed."

The AFDC-U program referred to is a federal-state-financed project that has put jobless fathers to work in Eastern Kentucky on reclamation and clean-up problems. The effort necessary to close the abandoned mines, Montgomery said, will require far more funds and men at work than the current project can bear.

However, Natural Resources Commissioner J. O. Matlock has ordered a number of stopgap measures "to take care of the problem here and now."

By the commissioner's direction, the strip mining division will assist the State Department of Mines and Minerals in seeing that no-trespassing warning signs

LET US CONTINUE ON THE PATH OF PROGRESS

The people of Floyd county should know the issues in this campaign and should review the records of all candidates in regard to honesty, devotion, duty, character and the need for the office of County Judge. Let us begin from this date to review the record.

My opponent has stated that he would work with the officials in Washington and the officials in Frankfort in an effort to obtain progress for Floyd county.

Last year when Lyndon B. Johnson and Carl D. Perkins were candidates on the Democratic Ticket for their respective offices, my opponent refused to attend and did not attend any of the meetings held throughout this county on behalf of Carl D. Perkins and Lyndon B. Johnson. Carl D. Perkins was elected to the Congress of the United States and Lyndon B. Johnson was elected to the highest office of this Nation. After a review of the record, which candidates do you think would be most able to work with the officials in Frankfort and Washington for progress in Floyd county?

It should be noted that I attended the political meetings held throughout Floyd county on behalf of Mr. Perkins, Judge Edward P. Hill and Mr. Johnson and the entire Democratic Ticket last November.

In the past few years the people of Floyd county have seen the construction of many projects which were designed to promote the welfare of the people in Floyd county. I do not propose to claim all the credit for this construction, such as the new courthouse, housing projects, anti-poverty work, and other benefits obtained from Washington and Frankfort, but I do claim credit for taking an active part in the effort to secure the above public projects for Floyd county.

My stand on law enforcement is a matter of public record and I will continue to fight against Crime, and in particular ORGANIZED CRIME.

The people of Floyd county should consider the office of County Judge to be a full time job and should elect the candidate who they think will devote all of his time to the duties of this office.

In future editions of this paper, the people of this county will have an opportunity to review the record of the candidates for this Office.

Your support and your vote will be appreciated.

To be sure, re-elect
HENRY STUMBO,
COUNTY JUDGE

(Pol. adv.)

Mrs. Anna Katherine Burroughs was appointed new secretary as Mrs. Pauline Stumbo will not be able to attend because of her work.

The April lesson will be on antique flowers. Each member is to bring any artificial flowers she desires. Mrs. Frances Pitts will teach the group. The club also discussed getting a block of wood painted for the May meeting, preparatory to learning to repair antique furniture.

The lesson for this meeting was a continuation of refinishing furniture. Some members were absent due to illness. Next month's meeting will be held April 20 at the Vogel-Day Methodist Church at 10 o'clock. Those attending were: Mrs. Pearl Meade, Mrs. Kate Robnett, Mrs. Della Stumbo, Mrs. Anna Katherine Burroughs, Mrs. Dorothy Sturgill, Mrs. Alvania Turner, Mrs. Bonnie Newsome, and visitors, Mrs. Audrey Little, Clayton Little, Mrs. Frances Pitts, Mrs. Mary Wayner, Danny Ray Newsome.

The "Let's Speak Up for Kentucky" program and exporting the rural electrification pattern will be discussed with Kentucky's Congressional delegation by about 230 representatives of the state's rural electric systems on Tuesday, March 30.

WINTER BUD

The winter buds will soon begin to swell and burst through their protective covering of scales, and now it is time to ask, What is a winter bud? Most people would say it is a tight-fitting cloak of bud scales overlapping like shingles to enfold the leaf within. But that is only part of the mystery.

A winter bud is one of the most wonderful creations of Nature. It is a womb—I call it a womb bud. Inside that womb bud sleeps, not one leaf but the embryo shoot with all its leaves. This shoot, with its infant leaves, will burst through the womb of the bud and be born in the spring. How true it is that springtime is the re-birth of life!

Some winter buds contain the tree's flowers in embryo form, and some contain both flower and infant leaves. If you were to open the large bud of a horse chestnut, or one of the tulip tree, you would find the tiny, unborn flower folded tight inside the bud. With the aid of a magnifying glass, you could see the flower parts—the petals, stamens and pistils. You could see them there in the womb of the bud, awaiting the miracle of birth in the first warm days of spring. Isn't it wonderful to know that the tree has the wisdom and foresight to look ahead to the coming year and prepare the leaves-to-be a year ahead of time?

When the new leaves are born from the womb of the bud, they show the signs of their infancy; they are covered with fine, silky hairs for protection against cold and bright sun. In a very few days, they change these bright new colors of rose and pink and crimson and take on the solid color of green chlorophyll. They are then ready to go to work as chemical laboratories to make the carbohydrates for use in building the tree.

THE PERSONALITIES OF TREES

Trees have personalities, as people do, and no two show the same traits. The great oaks show strength, ruggedness and stability. They are symbols of patient endurance. They seem to know it takes centuries to grow strong and mighty, and they rebuke the hurry and bustle of men. Big oaks are "the captains of industry" of the forest; they control their fate and shape their own destiny.

The hickories, with their shaggy, unkempt look, and their utter contempt of polished ways, and their tough wood as hard as iron, portray the hardy, pioneer spirit of the forest. Careless of personal appearance, they are bold and hardy; the shagbark hickory, with its untidy way of casting off its outer bark in long, thin strips, is "the Abe Lincoln of the Woods;" it has strength, endurance, toughness and grandeur and often rises tall and mighty to reach for the stars.

The maples are like clean and orderly housewives; they have a place for everything and keep everything in its place. They are the acme of orderliness and efficiency. In their winged seeds (samaras), they display their skill in distributing their progeny to all parts of the earth.

The great American elms are the graceful, winsome dowagers of field and lawn. They show charm and dignity, with just the right touch of aristocratic aloofness that sets them above lesser trees.

The tall and stately tulip trees reaching for the sky are the slim-bodied nymphs of winter woods. They are like Greek goddesses sculptured in the nude.

The white-bodied sycamores are full of grace and beauty. They add splendor to the stream-sides of rural America. A grove of pines adds a somber note to the winter woods. They embody the quiet meditation and deep solitudes of nature. They speak in hushed whispers when the soft winds seal through their green boughs. Their branches are Aeolian harps on which the wind plays the melancholy melodies of the forest. When I walk through a grove of pines, they seem to bid me to sit down and listen, not with the ears but from the quiet depths of my soul.

The ashes, with their stiff, unbending trunks, and their dry, brittle wood used in making ball bats and handles, seem to embody the unyielding spirit of one who will not compromise. They seem to display a stubborn pride that puts them in a class to themselves. Hickories and tulip trees bend before the storm but the ashes do not.

Don't Panic If Internal Revenue Asks You To Explain Deductions

What should you do if the Internal Revenue Service asks you to explain your income tax deductions? First of all, don't panic, advise Charles Stevenson and James E. Roper in an April Reader's Digest article, "When the Income-Tax Man Looks Over Your Shoulder."

The record shows that if you, the taxpayer, feel that you have made an honest return, and if you are able to prove it, you have an excellent chance of winning your case. The best defense is a set of records, even informal ones.

Present your case calmly and factually. By official record, the IRS agent allows the original return to stand, without assessing additional taxes, in about a third of the cases he questions. If you have misinterpreted the law or made errors, you must pay additional taxes.

If you don't like the examining agent's decision, you can ask him for a "district conference." This will be with a higher-ranking IRS representative. Citizens win wholly or partly almost half the cases they take to this conference. If you fail then, you can go higher to the IRS Appellate Division and then outside the agency's jurisdiction to the U.S. Tax Court. This specialized court functions independently—with 22 judges holding sessions all over the country for the sole purpose of bringing justice to taxpayers. It requires only a ten-dollar fee and the filing of a typewritten brief to take a case before the court. Four out of five cases appealed to the Tax Court are settled without trial. If you lose your case in Tax Court, you still have recourse to a regular U. S. Court of Appeals.

HOOKED RUG PRODUCTION SUPPORTING 18 FAMILIES

Blackey, Ky.—One woman will file an income tax return for the first time this year and eight families are receiving economic benefits for the production of hooked rugs in this mountain community of 300 persons in Eastern Kentucky.

Mrs. Irene Kinneer said she will file a tax return for the first time this year because of income she received in 1964 from the sale of hooked rugs.

Eight families in the Blackey area of Letcher county are already receiving cash income from the production and sale of the rugs, according to Mrs. Kinneer who heads the Hound Dog Hookers.

The name of the group of rug hookers originated with the design of a hound dog on a rug that has become almost their trademark. While most of the women work on rugs at home their headquarters is the craft center operating under a program of the Kentucky Division of Craft Development at Blackey, a one-time coal camp where now only a few small truck mines are operating.

How the small industry has helped the rug hookers and their families is summed up by Mrs. Irene Dixon. One of the original members of the Hound Dog Hookers, she has five children. Her husband, a disabled former coal miner, now works only part-time repairing television sets.

"My checks from making rugs make a big difference in our getting by," Mrs. Dixon said.

The Hound Dog Hookers are finding there is a good market for their product. Although hand-hooked rugs sell for higher prices than machine-made carpeting, the hookers produced and sold 325 rugs during 1964—the first year of production after a year of training.

Retail prices for the colorful rugs average from $27 to $55 and vary according to size of the rugs.

The rugs have been approved by the Kentucky Guild of Artists and Craftsmen, and by the Southern Highlands Handicraft Guild for sale in their retail outlets. The hookers supply rugs for wholesale and retail outlets in Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Maryland, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Washington, D. C.

Two new retail outlets in Kentucky for the Hound Dog Hookers are featuring displays of the rugs—The Sign of the Pine Tree Shop in Louisville and the Kentucky Gift Shop in Lexington.

The rug hooking project is part of a program of the Kentucky Department of Commerce to encourage through the Division of Craft Development the creation of small industries that utilize the traditional skills of Kentuckians.

"The aim of this program," Commissioner of Commerce Katherine Peden said, "is to provide a new source of income for Kentuckians who with training and professional guidance can produce saleable products."

Success hasn't come easy for the Hound Dog Hookers. Miss Susan Black, director of the Division of Craft Development, said the two major problems encountered have been in the design of rugs that have good sales appeal and in the cost of dye and yarn purchased by women working in the group.

To solve the problem of design the Department of Commerce obtained the services of George Wells, a New York expert whose firm designs and makes special order rugs. Wells, working under a personal service contract, held a class at Blackey in August, 1962. Because of his interest in the success of the project Wells returned to Blackey in 1963 to give a refresher course at his own expense.

To expand rug making as an Eastern Kentucky industry, the Department of Commerce currently has a contract with Opal Brinson, of Louisville, an expert on rug weaving. She recently held a 16-week course at the Mayo State Vocational School at Paintsville and is supervising the weaving of rugs there to fill a special order.

The Hound Dog Hookers are doing their part toward easing some of the economic problems of Blackey.

Mrs. Lundy Adams, a Blackey schoolteacher who helped start the project, said "It was a real opportunity to show that an industry could be established in our mountain village. We have all worked together to develop a pioneer craft good enough to reach a national market."

Mrs. Adams' husband, a Letcher county physician, formerly operated a hospital at Blackey. After he closed the hospital Dr. Adams provided the building rent-free for one year for the group that later formed the rug hookers and organized the craft center.

Mrs. Kinneer explained why the small rug-producing industry is important to her and other residents of Blackey.

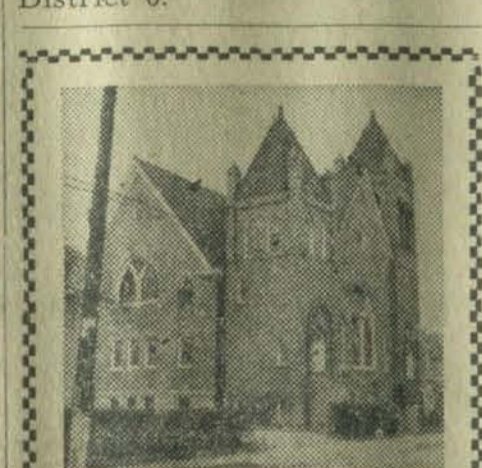

"I have heard some people say this is a good hobby. For us it's more than that. It's a living for me and the other women hooking rugs in our group."

ENDORSES TIM REYNOLDS

TO THE VOTERS OF DISTRICT NO. 4

CONCERNING T. P. (Tim) REYNOLDS FOR MAGISTRATE

Let us come out and give him a chance in his young days. I have known him since he was a little boy going to school. He's young, sober, honest and an upstanding young man. I think he would make us a good Magistrate.

He was raised by good honest parents. He is capable of performing the duties of the office and I think we should give him a chance.

I never saw him disorderly in any way. I have lived by his family all of my life. You can depend upon what he tells you. He is the son of Joe and Frances Reynolds, of Beaver. They are good, honest people . . . all the way. And they are ready to accommodate you day or night, any of them.

One thing for sure . . . I can give him a good recommendation as being a nice, upstanding man. So . . . let's all come out, give this young, honest man a chance. I am asking everyone to help him. He is our neighbor. He is the same man every day you see him. So let's come out and elect him for Magistrate of District 4. Your help will be appreciated.

MRS. VERDIE HAMILTON

Six medical students from Ecuador, South America visited Martin county last week as guests of the Tuberculosis Eradication Project. Purpose of the visit was to become familiarized with rural medical problems and what is being done to improve the overall health programs in this area. The visit included a tour of the Martin County Health Department and the Appalachian Multi-Phase Screening Project. John Cedoya, one of the interpreters, and Juan Engel, medical student, said that the group was impressed by the three county health programs that are presently under way in Martin county. The students are visiting the United States at the invitation of the State Department in association with the International Student Exchange Program. This particular exchange program will last one month.

TACKETT FAMILY

A letter from Jim William Tackett, Box 472, Live Oak, California, has an unique letterhead. At the top is The American Pioneers, and underneath is the line: "Tackett, Tackett, Tackett Families of America" and under that is another line, "A United Family Association." Jim William Tackett is president of the association and four other officers are Max A. Tackett, first vice-president, Box 1154, Texarkana, Arkansas; Juble Tackett, second vice-president, R. 2, Box 660, Pikeville, Kentucky; Gladys H. Inman, third vice-president, Box 1146, Orofino, Idaho; and Howard R. Tackett, treasurer, 1274 Wishon Avenue, Fresno, California.

Mr. Tackett says his association issues a 15-page mimeo quarterly. He continues: "With Eastern Kentucky having the largest concentration of Tackett members in the United States I am sure you are familiar with the name both in politics and the teaching profession as well as several attorneys. I believe it would be a rare native of your area who could not trace his lineage back to one of the early Tackett pioneers of Eastern Kentucky or one of the related lines such as the Johnson, Caudill, Mullins, Estep, Elswick, Hampton, Hall, Osborne or Little."

WILSON FAMILY

Another letter from California is from William Thaddeus Wilson, 1750 W. Ocean Sp. 113, La Habra, California.

He writes: "I have concluded that you may have some information on my family which came from Kentucky to Northwest Arkansas in 1823. The family is as follows: John Wilson, born 1771, married April 11, 1797 to Elizabeth Friend, born about 1780. Sons were Joseph Wilson, born September 1, 1799; Thomas Wilson, born November 27, 1805; James K. Wilson, born September 15, 1810; and William Friend Wilson, born September 6, 1815. It is unknown if there were daughters. "This family homesteaded in Prairie Township, Washington county, Arkansas, in 1823. The federal census of Kentucky for 1820 would show where the above family lived in Kentucky and from where the head of the family came."

There were several Wilsons in early Floyd county as evidenced by the marriage licenses. These are: Andrew Wilson, married Ester Husk (sic), February 12, 1819; Andrew Wilson, married Creedy Shepherd, October 2, 1831; John Wilson, married Nancy Mead, April 23, 1824; Joseph Wilson, married Polly Kash, December 27, 1821; William Wilson, married Rachel Hale, April 2, 1822.

KEENEY AND JOHNSON

Still another letter from California, this one from Wayne C. Keeney, R. 6, 2917 Floyd avenue, Modesto, California. It is an inquiry on the Keeney and Johnson families.

He writes: "My family, Keeney, was closely associated with the Vaughans for many years around Northwest Arkansas. Johnson is my mother's line. Keeney is the paternal line. My Martin Johnson, born in Virginia in 1777, was in Warren county, Tennessee, 1801-1829. Martin, two sons and families and three sons-in-law, came to what is now Madison county, Arkansas, 1829. Many Johnsons and allied families are still in the county.

"I seem to put in all my spare time on a history of Madison county and my own Keeney and Johnson family histories. I hope to come out with enough data to put it in a book based both on Madison county, Arkansas and on my own lines and allied lines.

"My Keeneys are from Anderson county, Tennessee. Grandfather was born 1836. Many Northwest Arkansas families came from Tennessee and Kentucky, some from Virginia. Quite a lot were from Alabama."

STACY FAMILY

A fourth letter from California is from Joseph E. Stacy, 3330 Cosmos Avenue, Sacramento 25, California. He writes on the Stacy family of Kentucky.

"I have become interested in my early family history. I know they came from Eastern Kentucky and prior to that originally from Virginia. My earliest ancestor that I have been able to place was Simon Stacy who bought land in Pulaski county in 1807. He later moved to Wayne and I find where his estate was administered in 1846 in Russell county. He had a son, Henley, who was my great-great grandfather. Henley's son, James, my great-grandfather, migrated to Missouri when 12 or 14 years of age, (1842-1844) after his parents, Henley Stacy and Nancy Bowman Stacy had died.

"Simon had other sons who migrated to Missouri: Perry, who later became Judge Perry Stacy, of Mason county, Missouri, and James Stacy who married Margaret Cooper, Pulaski county, also a sister whose name I do not know. Both myself and professional researchers have searched quite thoroughly and have been unable to find out where Simon was prior to 1806 when he bought land in Pulaski. According to the age bracket in the Census of 1910, he was born 1765. Now I know that the family came from Virginia and I have Revolutionary War records of five different Stacys who fought in the Revolutionary War: Simon, Steven, Lewis, John and Jeremiah. John was killed at the Battle of Brandywine 1777, and Simon died at Valley Forge, 1778.

"There were three land warrants issued which were used in Kentucky but there is nothing on these warrants to indicate where or by whom they were used. These were issued in the names of Simon, Steven and John. Since John and Simon were already dead, obviously some one else used them. (See Story No. 1, Page 5)

PERSPECTIVE
BY ROBERT J. HASTINGS

If someone should steal your car, would you appreciate having it returned piece by piece? This is hard to imagine, but just suppose the thief returned the hubcaps the first day. The next day he sent back the fuel pump. The following day he brought the windshield. Still another day the gas tank, and then the radiator, and then the tires came back.

No, if your car is stolen you want it back in one, usable piece. Many Negroes throughout the United States claim their rights have been denied them, and that they are having to struggle to get them back, one by one by one. This year they may struggle for the right to sit where they please on a bus. The next year they must insist for the right to vote. And still another year for the right to attend school where they please.

When the Declaration of Independence was adopted at Philadelphia on July 4, 1776, the framers pointed out that "all men are created equal" and that "they are endowed with certain inalienable Rights." Check the meaning of "inalienable" in a dictionary, and you will find that it refers to rights or privileges which are incapable of being surrendered or denied.

Throughout our nation, there is growing sentiment that all minority groups should be able to enjoy their God-given rights, without begging for them one at a time.

IN MEMORY OF MAXIE LAYNE RASMUSSEN who passed away Jan. 17, 1965

"Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord; they rest from their labors and their works do follow them."

We cannot say, we must not say that she is gone — she is just away. With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand, she has moved into a better land. And left us thinking how very fair it must be since she lingers there.

O, think of her and say, she is not here, she is just away. With deeds of kindness day by day she worked to bless the lives of others.

Those kind hands that others she helped and now she is sleeping upon the hill.

Some day soon I'll hear her voice and her blessed face I'll see. And I believe, as gates swing wide, my sisters' hands will welcome me.

Goodbye, sweet sister, and some day soon the angels too will help us meet.

—Poem by Thelma Conn

WATERSHED BENEFITS SEEN FOR STATE COMMUNITIES

Towns and cities in Kentucky are getting an extra dividend from flood-prevention structures built under the Small Watershed Program, according to information released by Homer A. Taff, Lexington, state conservationist, U. S. Soil Conservation Service. Last year 40 percent of the 96 small watershed projects approved for construction in the United States included dams that provided benefits to urban people, in addition to checking floods. Local people helped underwrite impoundments by sharing the added costs for larger structures to provide water for homes, industries, recreation, fish and wildlife. (No Floyd county community has yet benefitted from the watershed program, but hope of benefits under the Appalachian Program is higher than heretofore.) Mr. Taff's report indicated that in the early days of the program barely 15 percent aided non-agricultural water uses. Land treatment and SCS-designed floodwater retarding structures were begun 10 years ago under Congressional authority given by Public Law 566. Projects are usually sponsored by soil conservation districts and other state and local agencies. Kentucky now has 15 upstream projects in operation that afford water reserves for the non-farmer. Taff revealed that seven additional multiple-purpose projects are at the planning or investigation stage within the state. North Fork of Little River Watershed, in Christian county, serves as an example. One multiple-purpose reservoir for flood prevention and fish and wildlife has been completed. It provides a 90-acre lake for various forms of recreation. Another multiple-purpose reservoir for flood prevention and municipal water has been completed. This reservoir provides 666 million gallons of water for the city of Hopkinsville. The largest reservoir built in Kentucky, under this authority, is the Mud River Watershed Structure No. 51, presently known as Lake Malone State Park. This development has a permanent water surface of 825 acres. A total of 240 dams have been planned. Of this number, 114 have been completed.

The greatest tragedy in the history of sports occurred at an Argentina-Peru soccer game last year in Lima, Peru, recalls the April Reader's Digest. Incensed by the ruling of the referee, the spectators rioted on to the field, throwing bottles and bricks; the police retaliated with clubs and tear gas, and before the horrible melee was over, more than 300 people had been killed.

Japan's answer to its gigantic transportation problem is a new, completely automated, 12-car, 2-mile-a-minute train that makes the 320-mile trip between Tokyo and Osaka in four hours flat, according to Reader's Digest. Fourteen of these super-express trains leave on the hour from each city, shuttling some 28,000 passengers between Japan's two largest business centers.

SPACE WATCHERS

Evidence accumulated by a 17-station network of amateur space watchers around the world, organized by two young Italians, Reader's Digest says, indicates that at least ten astronauts may have died in Russia's outer space experiments.

TIDBITS of KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.

Western Kentucky Teachers' College, Bowling Green, Ky.

"QUOTING THE BIBLE"

Fidelity folks and plenty of others used to read or hear read many passages from the Bible. Some of the people I knew were looking for quotations to fortify their particular brand of religion and could spout off verses by the dozen, some of them not even remotely bearing on the argument in question. These quotes were often to be found at the store. Sometimes the ablest quoters were the least educated and, also quite often, the least tidy as to hair or beard or clothes. Somehow, even in my childhood, there was something slightly comic about this series of quotes, however accurate the quoters usually were.

But the amazing thing to me in my collecting of proverbs is that a very large percentage of the well-known proverbs are accurate quotations or adapted ones from the Bible. Just about everything that humanity thinks about can be topped with a quotation from the group at the country store or the less warlike crowd at the big Sunday dinner or in the front yard after dinner. In going over a list of some 1,500 sayings in my files lately, I began to set down the ones that echo the Bible in some way. Sometimes they are very pat, too.

A soft answer turns away wrath.

If the blind lead the blind, both will fall into the ditch.

Put a bridle on your tongue. He sticks closer than a brother. Everybody has a cross to bear. A fool and his money are soon parted.

Strain at a gnat and swallow a camel.

To blow hot and cold. No man can serve two masters. Money is the root of all evil. Don't cast your pearls before swine.

A comic aspect of many attempted quotations from the Bible is that the quoter, who is often trying to silence his opponent, would not know how to find a quotation in his Bible even if given plenty of time. He, therefore, often utters some age-old saying and says, "As the Bible says." It is amazing how many of these quotations are directly from Poor Richard, where they became a part of whole generations of people. Franklin's sayings were copied endlessly, even in the patent-medicine almanacs that graced all the homes at Fidelity half a century ago. A good deal of fudging occurred when men sat down to make these almanacs.

"Now I know there are many persons by the surname of Stacy living in Eastern Kentucky today, principally in Clay, Breathitt, Magoffin and Morgan counties. The Stacys of early Perry county I know to have been related to Amy Simon. The given names of Simon, Benjamin and Perry, also John, Charles and Peter keep repeating in the family. There are also Stacys in Clay, Floyd and Johnson counties. I understand. There are supposed to be two different post-offices: Stacy, Kentucky, and Wilstacy, Kentucky.

"I know the old Simon Stacy to have died in Sussex county, Virginia, 1784, but he would have been a grandfather of 'my Simon.' I have a copy of his will. By that time the children had married, for the most part, and scattered, so I do not know which county in Virginia 'my Simon' came from. The thought occurred to me that he may have lived in one of the Eastern Kentucky counties after leaving Virginia and prior to his purchase of land in Pulaski in 1807. Legates of this 1784 will, Sussex county, Virginia, are: sons, John, Joseph, Edmund, Nicholas, Lawrence and Steven. Daughters: Mary, Martha, Catherine and Hannah. Daughter: Sarah (widow of Simon who died at Valley Forge), daughters of Sarah: granddaughters: Katy and Martha; grandson, Thomas, son of John.

"Would you have any history on the early Stacys of Eastern Kentucky? If not, could you pass this inquiry on to some one with the surname of Stacy who might know something of early family history?"

5 COUNTIES ARE OKEHED

For Youth Corps Work; Martin and Pike Among Counties Now Approved

Frankfort, Ky.—Approval has been given for the establishment of five Neighborhood Youth Corps projects in Eastern Kentucky by Governor Edward T. Breathitt.

About 1,550 students will take part in the work-training program, designed to permit poor children to stay in school.

Work involved will range from tutoring to landscaping, under supervision of regular employees. The students will receive $1.25 an hour.

The projects are Martin county, $21,680 for 200 students; Pike county, $128,000 for 500; Harlan county, $121,400 for 500; Breathitt county, $71,000 for 200; and Wolfe county, $31,310 for 150.

The governor's office said the projects will begin immediately. Under a provision of the Federal Economic Opportunity Act, governors must approve or veto any project set up under the program.

Sgt. Hale Reassigned To Overseas Duty

Staff Sergeant Joe Hale, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hale, of Allen, has been reassigned from duty at the Defense Electronics Supply Center, Dayton, Ohio, to overseas duty at Ramstein Air Force Base, Germany.

A programming technician in the Center's Office of Data Systems, since December, 1960, Sergeant Hale previously served at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio. His other assignments have included Gunther AFB, Ala., and Andrews AFB, Maryland. The 25-year-old native of Allen enlisted in the U. S. Air Force January 19, 1957, after graduating from Prestonsburg high school.

He and his wife, Patricia Sue, have two sons, Michael Scott and Jeffrey Todd.

During his military tenure, Sergeant Hale has been decorated with the Air Force Commendation Medal.

TALKS SET APRIL 19 ON WAR ON POVERTY

Governor Edward T. Breathitt has issued invitations to some 6,000 Kentucky community leaders to attend a conference in Louisville, April 19-20, designed to guide local action in the war on poverty.

The conference will feature practical instruction in community planning to take advantage of provisions of the Economic Opportunity Act. Representatives from every county are expected to attend.

The conference is sponsored by the Kentucky Commission on Children and Youth. It will lay heavy emphasis on programs for younger Kentuckians, from pre-school to college age, the governor said.

State officials and spokesmen from the Office of Economic Opportunity (O. E. O.) in Washington will explain the general terms of the Act while smaller workshops and consultations will show how to organize for community action, how to prepare requests and forms for grants, how local programs elsewhere have taken shape, and what their effect has been so far.

O. E. O. speakers from Washington will include Mrs. Elizabeth Ross, consultant on community action programs, and Miss Velma Linford, director of rural programs. Dr. Stephen Cornette, regional coordinator for the O. E. O., Charlottesville, Va., and representatives from the U. S. Children's Bureau will also take part.

Kentuckians on the program include Congressman Carl Perkins; James L. Peel, Frankfort, State coordinator of anti-poverty programs, and Al Ritchie, president of the Kentucky Development Association.

The conference will be held at the Sheraton Hotel in Louisville with registration set for 9 a.m. on Monday, April 19. There are no fees and the public is invited, the governor said.

The Kentucky Commission on Children and Youth, sponsor of the conference, is a statutory agency created in 1962 and composed of members appointed by the governor plus commissioners of the Kentucky departments of child welfare, education, health, economic security, mental health and the executive director of the Commission for Handicapped Children.

Chevelle Malibu Sport Coupe

No matter how you look at it, this car makes a lot of sense.

If you're interested in value (and who isn't), the eleven features above give you a good idea why more intermediate-size car buyers are thinking Chevelle.

If you're looking for a wide power choice, Chevelle starts out with a standard 120-hp Six, an ideal city performer. After that you may order from a variety of engines that turn it into an even greater highway performer.

Room? Large door openings. Wide curved side windows for extra shoulder room. Great front and rear leg room. Those four, five or six passengers have it made. And so do you. Chevelle may seat like a big car but it handles like a smaller car.

Comfort? Thick wall-to-wall carpeting in Malibu models. Foam-cushioned seats. Easy-to-read instrument panel. The whole interior looks like those in cars costing far more.

Come on down to our showroom and take a drive soon. Chevelle begins to make even more sense after you've gone a couple of miles.
