

PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY

SPEAKING OF AND FOR FLOYD COUNTY

THURSDAY, APRIL 1, 1965

This Town . . . That World

APRIL FOOL!

Things aren't as they once were. Time was when print shops trotted a poor innocent off, this day, to get a tube of striped ink, or set the printer's devil to hunting type lice, or had him pass the word back to the make-up man that that large cut on Page 1 should be broken over (continued) to Page 2. Seems that folks are just in too much of a rush to have any fun, any more—even on April Fool's Day.

WARNING—EPIDEMIC AHEAD!

Vision blurred? Energy gone? Has a general feeling of lassitude taken over? No, it isn't iron-poor blood and you don't need some of that potion that is stronger than a couple pounds of calves' (why more than one calf?) liver. You've got Spring Fever, brother.

Let the temperature rise a few degrees higher and the sun begin to assert itself, and the epidemic will strike. And there's no cure known to science.

LOCAL, NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL

We don't propose to dabble in politics or to advertise any candidate, but the platform of one of our candidates should be preserved for posterity. It reads, in part:

1. More federal spending (Less federal control).
 2. A more stable government in South Viet Nam (More bombs for the North).
 3. Register every voter in Alabama (Don't count 'em on Election Day).
 4. Audit every office in the courthouse.
 5. Combine the offices of Constable and Magistrate (Then eliminate both).

ROOMS NEED EMPHASIZED

Dr. Campbell Sees Increased Enrollment At Community College

Rooming accommodations for between 55 and 70 students at the Prestonsburg Community College must be found well in advance of the opening of the college next fall for its second year of work.

This point was emphasized Wednesday by Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., director of the college, in a discussion of the growth of the institution and developing needs.

"These figures on room requirements are conservative and represent the very minimum," he said.

Dr. Campbell said that from 450 to 500 fulltime students are expected to be enrolled next fall—and again he said this estimate is on the conservative side.

As of Tuesday afternoon, 305 new students had indicated that they expect to enroll here next fall. Fourteen of these are from other states. It is estimated that at least 125 members of the present freshman class will continue their sophomore work at the college, and that 50 others will transfer to the Prestonsburg institution.

Any citizen of Prestonsburg who would be in a position to rent rooms to students is encouraged to provide this information to college officials as soon as possible. Phone 836-2721 or write Prestonsburg Community College, P. O. Box 110, Prestonsburg.

BOND ISSUE MEANS NEW PARK FACILITIES

Approval Tuesday by the State Property and Buildings Commission of the sale of $3 million worth of revenue bonds means that Jenny Wiley and 11 other state parks will get additions this year.

Twelve rooms will be added to May Lodge at Jenny Wiley State Park, and 50 camping sites and 40 boat slips will be installed.

Originally, 100 campsites were planned at the park. Parks Commissioner Bell explained that the number was cut in half because cost estimates rose while final planning was being done.

The bond funds will be used to add 88 lodge rooms, 600 camping sites and 160 covered boat slips in the parks system.

Some of the new facilities will be in use by midsummer and all will be completed during 1965, Bell predicted. Bids have already been opened on some of the lodge-room construction.

Bids on the bond issue will be opened April 14 at Frankfort. The Parks Department estimates the new facilities will yield

EDUCATION PROGRAM SLATED FOR JOBLESS

CLASSES SET FOR ADULTS IN FLOYD-CO.

Work-Train Program For In-School Youths Approval Is Viewed

Fathers of dependent children who are given work under the Economic Opportunity Act (Anti-Poverty Program) will be going back to school soon—or off the payroll.

The object is to cultivate in them a desire for a better life and to prepare them, at least to some degree, to get it.

The education program devised for them covers every stage of education and includes even the illiterate. Those who have never learned to read or write will enroll in Grade 1, perhaps; those who have progressed farther—to Grade 5, say—will go into an adult education class. Fathers who have advanced through the grades will be required to enroll in a high school equivalency class, and high school graduates will go into a training class.

This is but one of several activities in the area of education which Floyd county has going, or which is nearing initiation, under the Economic Opportunity Act.

Most extensive of all is the work-training program for in-school youths, and approval of Floyd county's program has been promised to be made not later than today (Thursday).

This program, if approved, is intended to serve 450 youths, ages 16 through 21.

Ninety-five would serve as teacher aides—arranging bulletin boards, grading papers, typing tests and stenils, tutoring slow pupils, constructing stage equipment, caring for laboratory equipment and performing similar functions. One hundred thirty would be put to work in school lunchrooms; 50 as clerical assistants; 100 as custodial assistants; 70 as library aides, and 11 as school patrol boys, assisting with traffic.

LOUISVILLE BUSINESS LAUNCHED BY HALLS

John C. and Birchell Hall, of Martin, have launched upon an enterprise in Louisville which, if successful, will later mean a new business for Floyd county.

Their firm, the Beauty Guard Manufacturing Company, introduces an innovation in the use of aluminum, eliminating the seams in aluminum weatherboarding and in construction of carports, awnings and utility structures.

Within a matter of weeks after the Floyd countians' Louisville plant was opened they won the aluminum products division of the Louisville Home Show. A result was, "seamless" aluminum caught the fancy of hundreds of homeowners and builders.

The Louisville plant was opened, it was explained, as a pilot project. "If we make a success of it, we will later have

3 POSITIONS TO CONTINUE

Service Establishments In Floyd Have Receipts Of $2 Million in 1963

Floyd county's 131 service establishments had total receipts of $2 million in 1963, an increase of four percent from 1958, according to a report of the 1963 census of business just released by the Bureau of the Census, U. S. Department of Commerce. The last previous census of business covered operations during 1958.

The services trades in the census of business included those providing personal services to individuals, miscellaneous business services, auto repair and other auto services and other repair services. Also included were motion picture production and distribution businesses, motion picture theatres, other amusement and recreation services, and hotels and motels.

The selected service trade establishments in the county employed 173 persons (exclusive of proprietors) and had a payroll for the year of $403,000. The state as a whole included 15,138 establishments with receipts of $36 million.

Beautification Committee Meet Emphasizes Clean-Up In April

Recently a salesman, who had been asked to call on a Prestonsburg merchant, said, "I drove through here but did not stop before, for I did not think that anyone in this dirty, little town would be interested in buying."

This remark was quoted at the meeting of the Prestonsburg Beautification Committee meeting held at the home of Mary Jane Harkins last Monday evening to emphasize the need of citywide cleanup.

April is "Clean-up—Paint-Up Month" in Kentucky, with clean-up as the first step in beautification.

Clifford Wright was introduced as the new committee chairman recently appointed by the Chamber of Commerce. He will replace Mary Jane

Jones Accepts Position At Williamstown; Area Specialists Are Viewed

The University of Kentucky Extension Service will continue to maintain three positions here, it was said this week by Robert M. Jones, county agent. Jones resigned, effective March 31. The positions referred to by Jones are county agent, assistant county agent and homemaker agent.

A successor to Jones will be selected as soon as possible, probably within two months. Jones, who has been here nine years, is transferring to Williamstown, Grant county.

The area of service envisioned by the Extension Service in the future, according to Jones, is that of a highly specialized one. Personnel trained in various specialties will serve an area.

This specialization program will be started about July 1. An area of five counties will be covered by the specialists, Floyd being one of the five. The area will be under the supervision of a director.

Under the new set-up, one agent will specialize in strawberries, another in horticulture, and still others in other fields. They would be based at the county seat towns as at present but would serve in the five-county area.

20 COUNTIES ARE ELIGIBLE

White House Releases Names of Area Counties Entitled To Full Help

Twenty Eastern Kentucky counties are among 182 in the nation that are eligible for 100 per cent federal aid in the anti-poverty program because they are too poor to help themselves, the White House announced this week.

All the counties have per capita incomes less than $750 a year and lack the means of financing any part of the cost of their improvements under the program, the announcement said.

Of the 20 poorest counties in the United States, six are in Kentucky—Wolfe, Magoffin, Owsley, Leslie, McCreary and Breathitt.

The White House said special teams would be sent from the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) to help local authorities in the impoverished areas analyze their problems and prepare community action programs.

According to James L. Peel, state coordinator for local anti-poverty programs, the administration can exempt especially needy areas from the requirement of financing 10 per cent of their initial programs.

However, he said, after 1966 the program will require local communities to match federal aid on a 50-50 basis.

The current law would have to be changed to allow exemptions for needy communities when this phase of the project goes into effect, Peel said.

He said he had recommended to several Eastern Kentucky counties.

In the raiding party were ABC Agents Claude Flannery and Henry Goley. Assisting in the raids were State Troopers Don Goble, Paul Fraim, Oliver Combs and James Wheeler.

Among those booked at the county jail recently were: Hazel Hunt, charged with driving while intoxicated, arrested by State Trooper J. Harmon; Marvin Thomsbury, and Minnie A. Ramey, both booked for drunk driving by State Trooper E. B. Allen; Rudolph Burchett, arrested by State Trooper B. F. Dees on a drunk driving charge; Vernon Casebolt, held for Ohio authorities on a child desertion charge, arrested by Deputy Sheriff Harold Johnson; Robert Tussey, drunk driving and no operator's license, jailed by State Trooper Allen; Lemuel O. Foley, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol, jailed by State Trooper Richard Ray.

2 BROTHERS BREAK JAIL, ONE CAPTURED

One of two federal prisoners who choked a turnkey, gained possession of his keys and fled the Floyd county jail late Sunday afternoon is the subject of a wide search by Floyd county officers and state police.

The fugitive is MacArthur Armstrong, and no trace of his whereabouts had been uncovered as of Tuesday noon.

His brother, Harold, was found on the hillside overlooking the lower section of Trimble Branch, about three hours after the 5:15 p. m. break, by Chief of Police Bill Potter and Policeman Ralph Thornsby.

The brothers, accused of breaking into a Breathitt county post-office, were brought here March 5 for safekeeping. Their ages were placed at about 19 and 20.

Sunday's break, the first to be made from the jail atop the new courthouse here, took place when Russell Hackworth, turnkey, took coffee at supertime into a cell occupied by the brothers and seven other prisoners. MacArthur, elder of the brothers, suddenly knocked the coffee urn aside and seized young Hackworth by the throat. The two snatched the keys from the door controlling slams to the cell, raced down the corridor to another door which they unlocked, then continued down the stairway to the ground floor. The keys were dropped in the first floor hallway.

The brothers slammed the cell door shut, and as they removed the keys locked it, preventing immediate pursuit by Hackworth and also any possibility of escape for any other prisoner who might have joined them.

Joe Wheeler Hyden, one of the prisoners, snatched at MacArthur Armstrong as he dashed from the cell, ripping his shirt off.

Jadler Lawrence Hale was not there at the time of the break. Chief of Police Potter and Policeman Thornsby first found Harold Armstrong's shoes on the hillside overlooking Prestonsburg. Soon afterward, they found him lying, exhausted.

The other fugitive, minus his shirt, may also have lost the toe of a shoe, Potter said. The officer told of finding a track which bore the imprint of a shoe heel and exposed toes.

Hackworth said the brothers have been uncommunicative during their stay here and that Harold Armstrong maintained his silence after his recapture.

The fugitive is described as being about six feet tall and weighing approximately 165 pounds. He has blue eyes and blonde hair.

Seized at the home of Joe Martin, of Wayland, were 26 half pints of whiskey and 140 cans of beer. Martin pleaded guilty to possession of intoxicants for sale before Trial Commissioner Glenn Burchett here and was fined $20 and given a 30-day jail sentence.

Forty-seven half-pints of whiskey and 70 cans of beer were seized from Mrs. Mack Hunt, of Ivel, by the officers. Seized from John Stone, of Manton, were 106 half-pints of whiskey and vodka.

Mrs. Hunt and Stone are to be given trial April 26 in quarterly court on charges of selling and possession for purposes of sale. Martin who pleaded guilty to possession, will stand trial on a selling charge.

In the raiding party were ABC Agents Claude Flannery and Henry Goley. Assisting in the raids were State Troopers Don Goble, Paul Fraim, Oliver Combs and James Wheeler.

FLOOD SCARE ABATES AS STREAMS RECEDE

Jaycees Note Plans To Finance Pledge To Municipal Park

The Prestonsburg Junior Chamber of Commerce announced this week that it will take its first step April 17 toward financing its pledge for the city park and recreation area work at West Prestonsburg.

This will be a spring dance to be given at May Lodge as a fund-raising undertaking.

The Jaycees have pledged $1,000 toward construction of eight tennis courts at the park. The dance is the first of a series of events which they will stage in order to meet this obligation, Ted Hicks, president, said.

TWO FOUND UNCONSCIOUS

In Parked Automobile; Hackworth Recovering, Spears Seriously Ill

Seventeen-year-old Elzie Thomas Spears, of Abbott Creek, one of two persons found unconscious in an auto on the Middle Creek road Sunday morning, remains in serious condition at the Prestonsburg General hospital.

The other, Homer Hackworth, about 30, of Middle Creek, is recovering.

The two were found in their car at 8:30 a. m. Sunday by Coroner James J. Carter, Bev Shepherd and Amos Poe, near the Jack Arnett cemetery where the car had bogged down on an approach to the highway. The motor of the car was still running and, although a window on the driver's side was out, they were regarded as victims of carbon-monoxide.

In the trunk of the car were two footballs, both in a deep sleep.

Both men were brought unconscious to the hospital here. Young Spears had not regained consciousness Tuesday.

Mayor Archer Signs C. of C. Proclamation; Fifteen Members Present

Mayor George P. Archer today gave official recognition to the week of April 4-10 when he proclaimed it "Chamber of Commerce Week" and urged all Prestonsburg residents to accept the responsibility of learning more about their local Chamber of Commerce, its purpose, accomplishments and goals for the future.

In an official ceremony attended by more than 15 representatives of the Prestonsburg Chamber of Commerce, Mayor Archer signed the official proclamation designating the week-long public observance.

Governor Edward T. Breathitt signed a similar proclamation earlier in which he urged residents throughout the state to join in paying public tribute to the organizations that have made our city, state and country a better place in which to work and live.

Both types of tests will be given three days a week, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. At present written tests are given only on Fridays, and road tests are given only on Wednesdays and Thursdays.

Mr. DeRossett said he had succeeded in getting the Department of Public Safety to assign Miss Ethel Sammons to his office these three days to administer written tests. She will perform the same service in Johnson county on Mondays and Tuesdays. Trooper Donald Laferty will continue to give the road tests here.

Miss Barbara Spradlin, of Bonanza, has been assigned to handle written tests for drivers in Pike county on a fulltime basis.

FLASH FLOOD HITS BEAVER CREEK TOWN

Slide Opens Cemetery On Middle-Cr. Road; Eighteen Bodies Moved

Since last Friday night, throughout this county and all along the Big Sandy and its tributaries, folks have been talking about the weather—and they weren't merely passing the time of day.

Thousands have been on the jittery side as the rain fell and streams rose.

Actually, there was little if any damage to homes. Roads were blocked by floodwaters, in a few instances schools were closed, but the main damage came from heavily washed fields and hillsides.

In Prestonsburg the flood-gate was closed last Friday night, and pumps were set to work to prevent an accumulation of water from Trimble Branch behind the gate. The river stage here levelled off, however, at 34.18 feet—far below the danger point.

On Middle Creek a slide opened some graves in the Holbrook cemetery. Eighteen bodies were being moved to other cemeteries this week.

By Sunday, streams were back within their channels, but the fear of another flood came with new rainfall Sunday night. A flash flood sent waters surrounding the McDowell school Monday, and, fearing a repetition of the disaster of other years, the downstream Martin school evacuated its lunchroom equipment. The flood did not materialize, but the Martin school was closed Tuesday while furniture and a

Both types of tests will be given three days a week, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. At present written tests are given only on Fridays, and road tests are given only on Wednesdays and Thursdays.

Mr. DeRossett said he had succeeded in getting the Department of Public Safety to assign Miss Ethel Sammons to his office these three days to administer written tests. THE OLD BECOMING SOMETHING NEW. Workmen are shown building with bricks from the old Floyd county courthouse the first structure to be erected in Prestonsburg's recreation area, at the upper limits of West Prestonsburg. The two-story building under construction will house on the ground floor a garage and bulk concessions, plus storage space. On the second floor will be a five-room apartment and two three-room apartments for the park manager and other personnel.

The project will cover various types of recreation for all age groups, beautification of the area and the nearby stream, and a camp area. Local civic groups have joined Mayor George P. Archer and other city officials, offering financial assistance toward realization of the recreation complex.

Social Security Notes

What will happen to me if I don't report for social security purposes the wages I pay my household help? I have just hired someone to care for my children and she tells me she doesn't want to "join" social security. I'm afraid she will leave me if I insist.

A close personal friend of mine asked me this question the other day and I could understand her predicament. She is a widow who must work to support her children and she must have household help. When I was considering the best way to answer her question, there flashed into my mind an actual case history. I am using fictitious names, of course, as our records are confidential, but the facts are exactly as stated.

Daisy Cooper called to see me at the office to report the death of her daughter, Edna Anderson. Daisy has had Edna's three children ever since the death of Edna's husband when Edna went to New Jersey to work as a domestic. Daisy gave me the name and address of Edna's employer in New Jersey. It seemed Edna had worked for this employer for five years for wages of $30 per week. On checking we found that Edna had not wanted to "join" social security and, as a consequence, her employer had not reported her wages for social security purposes. In the five-year period Edna had been paid $7,800 in wages. The combined employer-employee social security tax on these wages ranged from 5% to 7 1/4%. Edna's employer was required to pay both her share of the tax and Edna's share. The delinquent taxes alone amounted to $475.80 over the five-year period, to say nothing of the interest and the penalty which had to be paid by Edna's employer.

After telling my friend about Edna, I checked some statistics and found that last year more than 21,000 household employers had failed to report wages they had paid household help. How were they found out? The help who "didn't" want to join social security applied for retirement or disability benefits or their survivors had applied for survivors' payments.

Since an employer's reports for the first quarter of 1965 will be due on or before April 30, 1965, this may be a good time to review the provisions of the law pertaining to household help. If you employ someone to work for you in your home—a maid, babysitter, laundress, cook, etc.—and pay her or him a total of $50 or more in cash wages in a three month period (this must be a calendar quarter), you must report these wages and pay the social security tax. At the present time, the tax is 3% paid by the employee and the same amount contributed by the employer—a total of 7 1/4%. The employer withholds 3% of the employee's wages, pays an equal amount himself, and sends the report with the tax payment to Internal Revenue Service after the end of each calendar quarter.

What happens to this tax money and these reports of wages? The taxes collected are deposited in the trust fund which is used to pay disability, old-age and survivors benefits. Information as to the worker's name, social security number and amount of wages paid are posted to the worker's individual account. This information will be used to determine the worker's eligibility to and the amount of his social security payment. Obviously, if the worker is to receive credit for his earnings for social security purposes, his earnings must be reported correctly. It is entirely possible for a worker and his entire family to be deprived of a monthly income if his earnings are not properly reported.

What My Religion Means To Me

(No. 3 in a series of Pre-Easter articles sponsored by the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club)

BY REV. ELDER GOBLE

Religion can mean nothing, little or much, depending upon the individual.

To me religion is Christianity. Then let me attempt to tell what Christianity means to me.

A Christian has Christ as leader and master. To obtain the leadership of Christ, a person must have ALL sins forgiven. When sins are forgiven there is a proper relationship between Christ and man.

So Christianity means living a life that meets the approval of Christ, and a life that meets His approval is a good, happy life. There is no fear of the Divine, since we have nothing to conceal.

Perfect love (perfect love can come only from God) casts out all fear. Fear brings torment to the soul of an individual.

If our religion then is Christianity, we are a happy people, with love in our hearts for our fellowman, and this love is the motive force within us that gives us the desire to help others to see the error of their way, and a desire to help them see the light of God's word.

The greatest happiness in my life is to be able to stand before a congregation of people, speak from "What thus sayeth the word of God" and see sinners respond, come to an altar of prayer, and find Jesus in the pardon of their sins.

If you have not experienced happiness in your religion, perhaps something is wrong. Jesus came to seek and save those that are lost. He finds every one but saves only those that seek Him. When you accept Jesus, you will be happy. There is no other experience like having your sins forgiven.

Have you had this experience? If so, you know and can tell about it. If you have not had this experience, you know you have not. Don't guess. Be sure. Your soul is too precious to gamble with. Jesus can and does save to the uttermost.

HALL ON ALL-STATE, HALBERT IS HONORED

Double recognition has come to Martin high school since its team had a disastrous encounter in the state basketball tournament with Breckinridge County, the team which won the title.

The Floyd team's coach, Denzil Halbert, has been named coach of the East squad in the East-West all-star game, and its star on the floor, Larry Hall, was selected by The Courier-Journal for a place on the All-State team.

Halbert, now concluding his 18th year at Martin, led his team this year to a 36-3 record.

Hall, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Birchell Hall, is termed by Halbert "the greatest all-round player we've had at Martin."

Hall led Martin to a 36-3 record by averaging 22 points and 15 rebounds a game. "For his size, he is the best rebounder I've seen," says Halbert. Hall hit 52 percent of his field goals.

When school is out, Hall will move to Louisville, where his father has a business close to Freedom Hall. Still, Hall is ticketed for UK although more than 20 schools are seeking him. They included UL, Western, Eastern, Murray, Morehead, Washington and Florida.

Two other Eastern Kentucky players—Alvin Ratliff, of Meade Memorial, and Jim Rose, of Hazard—found places on the All-State. Breckinridge's Butch Beard and Rich Hendrick, of Bristol, led the star-studded first team.

Jerry Conley, of Jenkins, and Chester Hogg, of Hazard, were named to the second team.

Prestonsburg's high-scoring Freddie Seiser was named to the third team.

The period covered by the initial contract with the federal government will extend through remaining weeks of the school year and through 10 weeks of summer work, but this contract may be renewed for the full year, 1965-1966.

Pupils enrolled in this program will work from five to ten hours a week at $1.25 an hour. Total amount involved in the initial program is $229,876.90, including wages, salaries, travel expense, equipment and supplies. All but $23,800 of this total would be paid by the federal government.

Thirteen school principals would administer the program, with a project director and an assistant director to head the overall undertakings.

Purpose of the program is stated by the County Board of Education as a means "to provide useful and needed work experience opportunities for our young men and women" in the hope of increasing their employability "and thus to break the drastic cycles of poverty by providing them with opportunities to learn good work habits, to motivate them to take greater interest in community, state and federal programs and to become involved in the mainstream of American life."

Enrollees will be selected by the several school principals and his staff. All will be from low-income families.

Another project scheduled for this summer is Operation Head-Start, a pre-school program for indigent pre-school children. County Superintendent Charles Clark said he expects a minimum of 12 school centers to be receiving these pre-school children.

The Floyd County Board of Education will supply rooms for this work at each consolidated school where such a location would be practical, he said. The training to be given the children is much the same as is afforded in kindergarten classes. Ninety percent of the cost of this program will be paid by the federal government, and the board's share of the cost will be represented in utilities and similar services. Hot lunches will be provided the children.

The adult education program which was initiated in this county last fall under the supervision of James Salsbury, of Martin, was resumed February 1. Federal funds pay the tab, but the high school equivalency work being done is at the expense of the pupils.

A retraining program which got under way only recently is headed by Lloyd Wells, of Prestonsburg high school. It has a class of strawberry growers being taught by L. R. Johnson, former Floyd County soil conservationist.

A rehabilitation class is already in session in the building occupied by the Board of Education. Mrs. Zella S. Archer is instructor.

The old Lancer school building has been made available by the Board of Education to serve as a test center where psychological and other tests may be given to determine the dexterity and capabilities of individuals. Basic tools will be used in these tests to determine the potential of enrollees in various vocations.

New MSC Apartments To Be Named In Honor Of Perkins, Cooper

The Board of Regents of Morehead State College has voted to name the new 16-unit apartment for married students in honor of Congressman Carl D. Perkins and the new men's dormitory in honor of Senator John Sherman Cooper. The Carl D. Perkins Hall will be ready for occupancy by May 1, and the John Sherman Cooper Hall is under construction and will be ready for occupancy during the fall semester.

It is planned to honor Senator Cooper and Congressman Perkins with appropriate ceremonies on Monday, April 19, 1965, on the campus of Morehead State College. Senator Cooper will speak at a convocation in the fieldhouse at 10:20 a.m. and Congressman Perkins will speak at a luncheon at 12:45 p.m. in the cafeteria of the Doran Student House.

Let's Make It Temporary

THE TIMES is glad that this plan to evacuate from this area at U. S. expense those for whom work has been found elsewhere is only temporary.

This we can approve as an emergency or stop-gap measure. But to set up such a program as a permanent part of the attack on the problem of Appalachia would be to nullify the broader, more lasting aims of the Appalachian Plan.

As we understand the Appalachian program, indefinite as its actual form still is, it looks to the development of Appalachia through the construction of modern roads, the education, academic and vocational, of its people, public improvements—a general rehabilitation of the area designed to attract tourists and industry to it.

It would follow, then, that those whose roots are deep in the soil of the area should not continue to be uprooted, depriving the area of productive hands and minds while millions are being spent to rid the area of its stagnant economy and outlook and to place it in the mainstream of American life.

This particular part of Appalachia needs more trained minds and skilled hands, true. But one of the needs which must be met before the region can shake the doldrums is that of supplying something for those minds and hands to do, here at home.

One of the many unhappy circumstances that, added together, compound the tragedy of Appalachia is that the educated, the trained, the energetic—the very cream of the crop—have for too many years been forced to go to other parts of the country to work and live.

Appalachia, including Floyd county, has for generations been exporting its best—its best in coal, timber, oil, gas and people, leaving behind gaping driftmouths, scarred, gutted hillsides, the stumps of trees, polluted streams, and all those who cannot or will not earn their way. What has been lost cannot be reclaimed in a few years, not even in a generation—but now, while the nation's resources are being devoted to an attempt to help, is the time for restoration, not evacuation, to begin.

Right Use of Limestone Increases Farm Profits

It's a simple fact researchers have proved thousands of times in experiments: Put ground limestone on an acid soil, apply fertilizers that contain nutrients the crop needs—and you have a much better chance at profits.

Actually, a return of three to five dollars can be expected under normal farming conditions for each dollar's worth of limestone or fertilizer applied, says Harold Miller, U. K. Ag Extension Service specialist. This return, of course, is based on the premise that the soils and crop need those nutrients.

Soil testing is the best way to determine crop needs, Miller says. It is the first step in getting that three to five dollar return for each dollar put into limestone and fertilizer. Soil tests not only tell the farmer which nutrients are needed, but also which nutrients are not needed. It is costly and useless to pour on fertilizer when a soil test shows the ground has a satisfactory supply of phosphorus, or potassium, or that the acidity level is proper.

County Attorney's Law Enforcement Manual

ARE YOU SATISFIED WITH LAW and ORDER IN FLOYD COUNTY?

A candidate for re-election for a public office will often say he is running on his record. This is easy because much of a county official's record is not well known, but part of the record is obvious. A part of the record, which we all know about, is that of law and order in Floyd county during the last three years. Search your own conscience, rely upon your own personal knowledge, ask those who know and answer these questions:

1. ARE YOU SATISFIED WITH THE INCREASED CRIME RATE IN FLOYD COUNTY?

COMMENT: A recent study of the F.B.I. based upon major crimes committed per 100,000 people shows Alabama to have a crime rate over twice that of the nation. Review in your mind the number of major crimes in Floyd county during the last year. It will show Floyd county's crime rate for 42,000 people to be more than double the national rate and even higher than the state of Alabama.

2. ARE YOU SATISFIED THAT ALL THE LAWS ARE BEING PROSECUTED TO CLEAN UP THE TRAFFIC IN ILLEGAL LIQUOR?

COMMENT: The County Attorney has available not only fines but jail sentences, may forfeit liquor bonds on convictions, may take action to sell property used in this illegal traffic, and may even enjoin the operation of places of business where such bootlegging activities are being carried on. Are all these remedies being used by our County Attorney?

3. ARE YOU SATISFIED WITH THE HANDLING OF JUVENILE DELINQUENCY PROBLEMS IN FLOYD COUNTY?

COMMENT: Other questions which arise are: Does the County Attorney have a policy of firmness and equality in these cases? A liberal policy of probation should be exercised, but should depend upon many factors, including age, seriousness of the crime and ability of parents to supervise. A follow-up program of supervision should be developed and recommended to the Court by the County Attorney.

If you are NOT satisfied that these problems are being handled as effectively as they should be—tucky counties that they apply for exemption of the 10 per cent matching fund provision. "Ten per cent of the cost doesn't sound like much," a spokesman for OEO said. "But, for example, in a $100,000 program that comes to $10,000 and these counties just don't have it."

The 20 Kentucky counties included in the list of 182 have a total population of about 237,000. About 2.5 million people live in the poorest 182 of the 3,115 counties in the United States.

The White House called the full federal financing plan a new "lease on hope" for them. The average annual per capita income for the nation as a whole is $1,850.

Listed as the poorest county in the nation is Wade Hampton, Alaska, with a per capita income of $424. It is followed by Wolfe, Ky., $435; Magoffin, Ky., $455; Fayette, Tenn., $470, and Owsley, Ky., $474.

Other Kentucky counties eligible for 100 per cent federal aid, and their per capita incomes, are: Leslie, $487; McCreary, $516; Breathitt, $529; Knott, $546; Clay, $548; Menifee, $579; Martin, $583; Casey, $594; Clinton, $604; Knox, $612; Jackson, $635; Wayne, $643; Elliott, $652; Morgan, $660; Rockcastle, $663; Russell, $700, and Cumberland, $722.

All but 10 of the 182 counties are in Southern or Border states.

SUGGESTION
I am just now reminded that Friday of this week has been designated Arbor Day in Kentucky. We might observe the day by planting more dogwoods.

MORE THAN ONE DANGER

Unless Congress specifically forbids it, cigarette packages will soon be plainly marked to warn smokers of the danger involved. Which may be a good thing. But who will come forward now and demand that a "danger label" be placed on every whiskey bottle? Cigarette-smoking brings on lung cancer, we are told. That means death for the one individual who indulges in the habit. The use of alcohol often destroys more than the individual who drinks. It leads to a dismaying array of crimes, including murder, and the drunken driver often becomes an instrument of wholesale murder.

Alcoholism, they say, is a disease. Then why advertise the germ? Why not plainly label it with a big, red "Warning?"

IT SORTA RANKLES

Lenna Moore is having a time of it, trying to get himself around to forgiving John Warrix. It happened almost a year ago, but Lenna is still brooding, licking his wounds, so to speak. He had spent the better part of a week at Dewey Lake and had literally hauled 'em in.

This day of the encounter between these two, Moore had caught fish till he didn't want any more (he says.) He was throwing them back in the lake and was preparing to shove off home when Warrix arrived. "I'm tired of catching fish," he told the other. "Don't want any more."

"Don't throw 'em back — I'll take all you don't want."

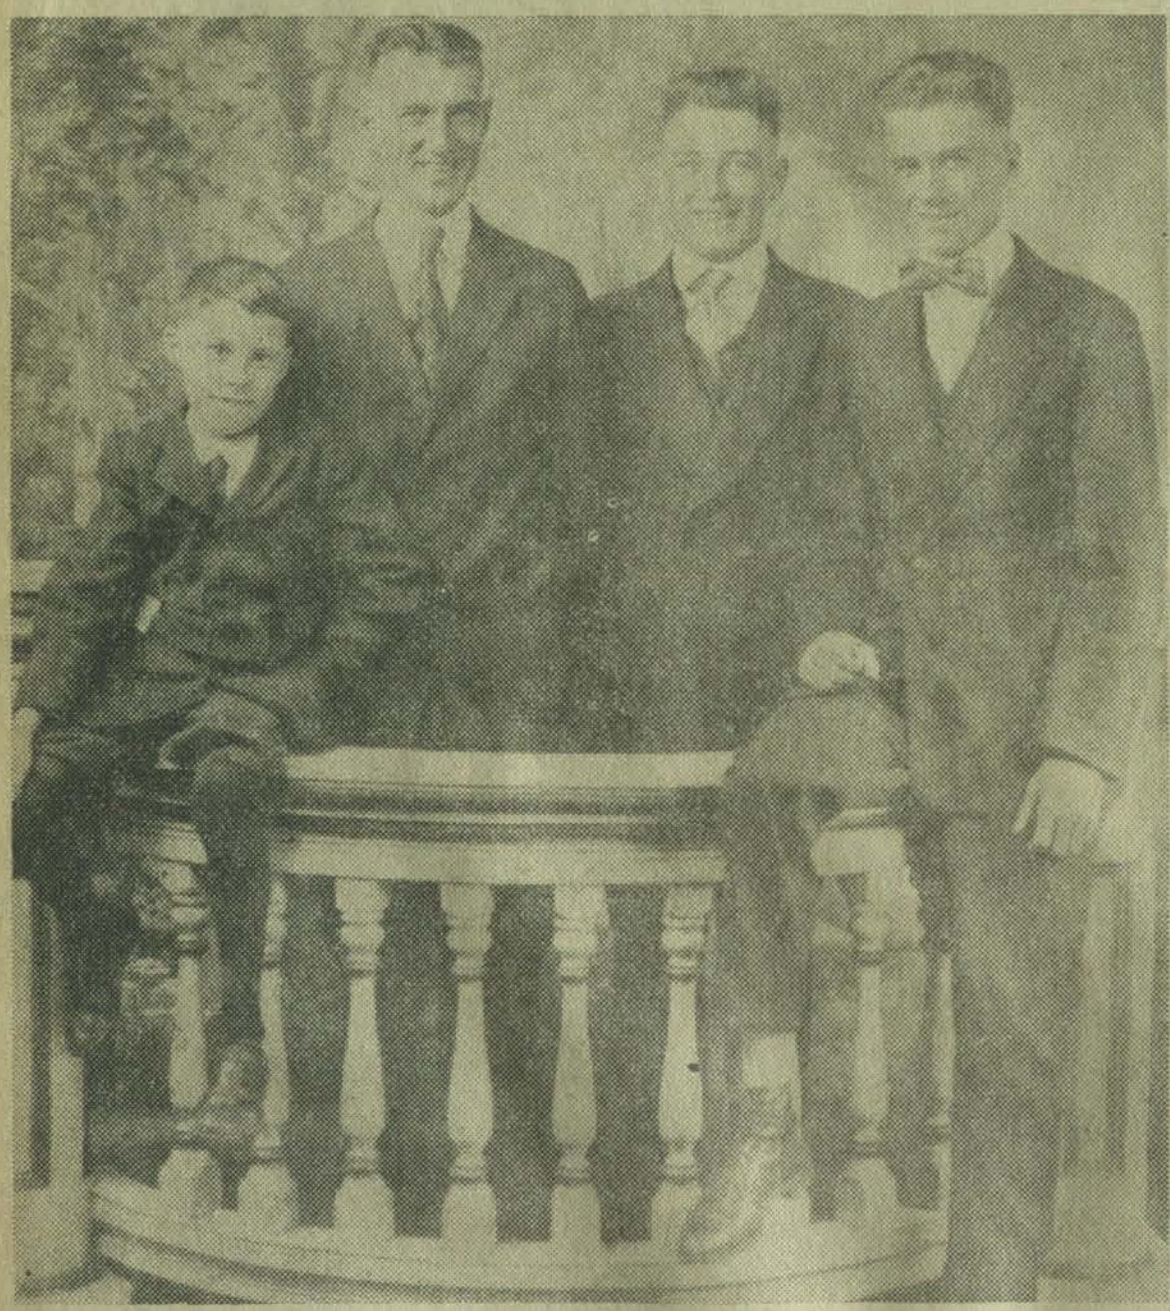

"Well, now, I didn't know you wanted any fish," said Moore, feeling plumb sorry. "I've got my freezer full and can't handle any more. I'd have been glad to give you two or three messes of these nice—"

"Don't want 'em to eat," Warrix interrupted. "Wanted 'em to bait my trot-line with."

Moore left, talking to himself, and these days of bright sunshine have opened up the old wound, all over again.

The Friend Family

Many descendants of the early settler families still reside in Eastern Kentucky and continue to contribute to the development of the region. The Friends settled in the 1820's in Prestonsburg. The family came from Virginia. Many descendants have moved west, the state of Indiana receiving many of them as early settlers. Charles Friend served as Floyd County Attorney before the Civil War.

Shown here in a photograph taken in 1921 at Cincinnati, left to right, are Frank Friend, assistant Prestonsburg postmaster, the late Robert S. Friend, who died a few weeks ago at Printer, and unidentified friend, and Beverly Friend.

The First National Bank presents these pictures of the region's past in recognition of our historic heritage.

NATURE TRAILS

By RUFUS M. REED

VICTIMS OF THE STORMS

Violent storms destroy many young creatures of the wild kingdom, especially the young of birds and mammals. These are often heart-rending tragedies, which the mothers of the wild have to face and sometimes they show anguished grief over the loss of little ones.

The robins built their nest in the pear tree in my backyard and hatched out four young. I had many pleasant hours watching the parent birds feeding their babies. They were beginning to feather out good and would soon be ready to fly when the severe storm struck one night and tore the nest out of the tree. All four baby robins perished in the storm. Next morning I found them lying dead in the yard. The parent robins were flying around everywhere, looking for the nest, and seemed puzzled how it could have disappeared. That they were sorely distressed by the loss of their little ones was quite apparent; they never again built their nest in the pear tree.

Perhaps you can watch out for young birds blown out of their nest by severe storms and help to save them, by putting them back in the nest, or placing them somewhere so the parent birds can find them.

The flickers, which are the only brown-backed woodpeckers, suffer heavy losses of their young from violent wind-storms. This is mainly because they build their nests in holes high in dead trees and old half-decayed snags, which are often toppled by heavy winds. Their choice of a nesting site in holes high in old trees gives them one of their common names, "high-hole birds." The flicker has over 125 common names, one evidence of its wide popularity.

One of the most touching scenes I have ever witnessed was that of a mother flicker trying to find her nest of little ones after the old dead tree had been blown down and her family destroyed. It happened when I was a lad and I could never quite put the tragic loss and the manifest grief of the mother out of my mind.

My father owned a large mountain farm in Kentucky, which had deep coves of land with black soil rich in humus. We cleared out big new grounds and grew corn in these to make our bread and to feed our stock.

Father always loved flickers and would leave the old snags for them to nest in each year; he knew they were valuable birds to have around the fields and he called them his "yaller hammers." We children called them the "yarrup birds," because they would greet us with loud calls of yarrup! yarrup! When we rested from our work, we watched the flickers feeding their young in the nest high in a hole of the old oak snag. They would make hundreds of trips back and forth over the fields, searching the plowed ground for grubs, ants, larvae, and cut-worms. I'll never forget how happy all of us kids were when the little flickers got big enough to stick their heads out of the hole to watch for their parents to come with juicy morsels. Here, I thought, was an example of true parental love and devotion as seen in the wild kingdom. Those flickers had but one duty to perform all day long: To feed and watch over their young.

One night, shortly before the young flickers were large enough to fly away, a severe wind storm toppled the dead oak and destroyed all the young flickers. It was a sad sight for us kids to look at the pieces of the shattered tree scattered over the ground and the little dead birds lying among the ruins of their home. It was sadder still to see the mother flicker circling overhead where the old tree had once stood, trying vainly to find her little ones and calling frantically to them. She couldn't seem to understand what had happened; it seemed she thought the old tree should be standing there, like it had always stood. She kept up her search for the nest and the little ones for several days before she finally accepted the tragedy and flew away to the woods above the field. But her loud cries that came from a mother's heart torn with grief echoed in my ears for a long time after that.

Zing into spring!
Corvair by Chevrolet

The steering's crisper, the ride's flatter, the style's racier — even the grass looks a shade greener from behind the wheel of this new Corvair

You'll find a Corvair Corsa's instrument panel vastly more informative than an ordinary car's. But that's really only a fringe benefit of driving one.

Because for all its finely calibrated instrumentation — tachometer, manifold pressure gauge, even an electric clock with a sweep second hand for rally buffs — the most important thing that happens when you get a Corsa out on the road doesn't register on the dash. It registers on you.

You feel it in the steering — crisp and precise — as you double back on a curve. In the flat riveted-to-the-road stability of the new fully independent suspension. In the response of the rear engine (up to 180 hp available now in Corsa's Turbo-Charged version).

You don't have to wear a sports car cap and sun goggles to appreciate things like this. Or the clean international cut of Corvair's styling.

Drop down to your dealer's now — while the trading's extra good — and see for yourself. Look over the dashboard gadgetry all you like, but by all means get out on the road where you can really handle the merchandise. We'll guarantee spring will look greener, sun goggles or no.

HIGH TIME TO TRADE AT YOUR CHEVROLET DEALER'S

HATCHER SEEKS Ph.D. WHILE IN AIR FORCE

BY JOE GREEN
(In The Cincinnati Enquirer)

Chief Master Sgt. John Henry Hatcher received his Bachelor of General Education Degree from the University of Omaha in 1962, climaxing a 20-year effort to complete his undergraduate work through night and week-end classes while pursuing his military duties on a worldwide basis.

And early in 1964 the crew-cut veteran was awarded his Master of Arts Degree by Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene, Texas.

Now John is what high Washington military men call an "Air Force First." He is the only enlisted man in that branch of the Armed Forces, and probably any other branch, who is studying for his Ph.D.

He's studying for the degree in American History at the University of Cincinnati under a full tuition scholarship including a $2,000 annual stipend.

"My status in the Air Force continues to pay," John says. "I have no military duties now, my only duty is work toward this degree. I was required to sign a contract to teach two years at the Air Force University at Montgomery, Alabama, after finishing two years here."

Born December 10, 1924, in Floyd county, the heart of Kentucky's southeastern hill country, John spent the first 19 years of his life shuffling back and forth between Floyd county and Ashland, Kentucky, as the political and economic fortunes of the Hatcher family rose and fell during the depression.

"I got tired of starving and moved to Ashland in 1934," John recalls. "My father was federal administrator for the Progress Works Administration there."

While attending Ashland high school and later the University of Kentucky extension college there, John worked on a newspaper route and in the poultry and egg division of his grandfather's produce business.

"I got a fit of patriotism in 1942—I was in the first semester of college then," John says. "I stayed until January, 1943, then went into the Air Corps at Ft. Thomas, Kentucky."

"At that time I had no intentions except to fight a war. Now with 22 years in the Air Corps I'm pretty well set."

He entered the service as an Air Force meteorologist cadet and was graduated from the course at the University of Virginia in 1943. A surplus of weather officers denied him a commission and in short order turned him into a B-17 radio-gunner instead.

He joined the war in the Pacific as a flying radio operator-gunner and flew as an air combat crewman on many types of aircraft, amassing some 3,500 hours in the air. High points in his flying career included one "ditching" off the coast of Kwajalein and one "ball-out" in the United States.

"I spent the entire war in the Pacific and was in the second wave of United States aircraft to land at Atsusi airstrip outside Tokyo following the Japanese surrender," John says. "I went from occupation duty in Japan to the Berlin Airlift in 1954. From then until 1961, I spent eight years on three different tours in Europe."

On one of these he became an honorary "burgomaster" of a small German town due to his work with underprivileged German children and war orphans. Another included a side tour into the Belgian Congo just as the new nations began to emerge.

"It was in Germany I acquired both a second language and a family," John says. "My wife, Hildegard, who prefers the Anglicized 'Hilde' is from Munich."

"My daughter, Eva, was born in Frankfurt at the end of the occupation period, and son, John Henry, III, arrived at Dyess Air Force Base at Abilene in 1962."

John had completed three and one-half years in college when in Germany. And he had done a "piece of" the Korean War. At intervals between his Germany assignments he served in South Dakota, Texas and Omaha.

John first arrived at the Tactical Air Command's 516 Troop Carrier Wing at Dyess Air Force Base at Abilene in 1955 during its original manning period and returned in 1963 after his last Germany assignment. Among his numerous offices was that of president of the Dyess Elementary School Parent-Teacher Association.

John and Hilde live at 3011 Clifton Avenue, with Eva, now 12, and Henry, now three.

Both children are bilingual.

"We speak German at home all the time," John says. "I keep them currently speaking the language. We taught them German and English at the same time."

John thinks he is a "pretty much" even-tempered man.

"Pef peeve?"

"I have one," he says. "Pretentious people—I can't stand the guy who doesn't have what he pretends to have."

(Sat. Hatcher is a son of the late J. H. Hatcher, former Floyd county Court Clerk.)

WAYLAND

CLUB HAS ART, MUSIC PROGRAM

"Art is not a thing, it is a way. It is expression, imagination," explained Mrs. T. A. Combs, Garrett art teacher, speaking last Monday evening to the Lackey, Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club on "Art in a Rapidly Changing World."

Explaining pop art, Mrs. Combs commented that possibly it is a result of the way we live, as we madly rush through life, grabbing a sandwich and a bottle of pop on the way. She predicted that in the future this age will be known "by bleach bottles and cans instead of buildings." She showed pictures illustrating op art, explaining that such pictures are optical illusions created with the use of color wheels. Op art is the result of science creeping into the art world. A film, "Art in Our World," was shown, illustrating that art is everywhere, in hollows and holes of rocks, bark of trees, and even in wire formations.

Mrs. Eugene Mullins, of Garrett, was in charge of the two-part program on art and music. She introduced Miss Ruth Karen Francis, of Garrett, who played two piano solos, "Deep Purple" and "Sweetie Baby."

Mrs. J. T. Spillman gave the devotions prior to the program. Two new clubmembers were welcomed by the acting president, Mrs. Earl Castle, vice-president. The new members were Mrs. William Ross Francis and Mrs. Billy Joe Castle.

During the business meeting following the program it was reported that the club has been successful in securing a public garbage dump, to be located in West Garrett, as a part of the current cleanup campaign and community improvement program. Mrs. Charles Hughes was appointed chairman of the current Red Cross Drive.

Invitations were read from the Wheelwright Woman's Club to a dinner April 12, and from the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club to a style show to be held at the May Lodge, March 30. Also a letter was read from the Kentucky Department of Public Safety commending the club for its backing of motor vehicle inspection for Kentucky.

It was reported that Mike Cooley had represented the club in the Seventh district music contest held recently at the May Lodge, and Terry Prater had represented the club in the art division at that time. Jimmy Stewart, a Wayland high school senior, will represent the club this year in the nationwide Hallmark Card Contest, sponsored annually by the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. George E. Evans, Jr., and Mrs. Charles Hughes, to 14 members and five visitors.

OFFERS

PROGRAM of FULL LAW ENFORCEMENT

Floyd county's major crime rate is more than double the rate for the entire United States. Felonies are prosecuted in the circuit court, but the county court handles the hundreds and hundreds of smaller offenses and it is THERE where most violators first appear. It is THERE where the example is set, and where the atmosphere of law enforcement is made. It is THERE where the DRUNKEN DRIVER, the BOOTLEGGERS and the JUVENILE DELINQUENT learn that they must repent or that "since I got off so easy, why not try it again, or something worse."

The county courts handle almost all these small crimes. The conduct and disposition of these cases can set the pace for greater law and order in Floyd county.

Realizing the judge must set impartially between the defendant and the state, yet there are many things which can be done to impress upon law violators that Floyd county MEANS BUSINESS IN LAW ENFORCEMENT. As your County Judge I would purpose to take action in areas where little or nothing has been done.

JURIES

To eliminate "pick up" juries selected from "around the courthouse" and to select juries from a panel, as in your circuit court, thus preventing "packed" and "stacked" juries. Since 1964 this has been the law, yet never enforced. Acting under this law, county court jury commissioners and jurors will be paid for performing a necessary public duty.

SPEEDY TRIALS

Most of you have witnessed the long, clogged dockets in the county courts caused by careless failure of witnesses to attend and unnecessary continuances. DELAYED JUSTICE IS POOR JUSTICE. Strict action on the part of the judge can speed the trial of cases and avoid inconvenience to those who must travel, over and over, again and again, long distances to the courthouse.

ILLEGAL LIQUOR TRAFFIC

These Steps Would Be Recommended and Supported:

1. Obtain, publish and use as evidence the possession of a Federal Liquor Tax Stamp. This is evidence of guilt.
2. Apply not only the fine, but the JAIL SENTENCE in all convictions. This is required by law, but has not always been applied in certain instances in county courts.
3. Urge second and third offense charges which carry greater penalties.
4. Never to approve a roadhouse license where there is the possibility that illegal liquor might be handled; and promptly to revoke those that are established as a public nuisance in the community.
5. Urge action to forfeit to the state property used in illegal liquor traffic and to close down places where such traffic is being carried on.
6. Cooperate with other county officials interested in law enforcement, but if necessary call upon state agencies, the State Police, A.B.C. and the Attorney-General's office for assistance.

DRUNK DRIVING AND OTHER TRAFFIC VIOLATIONS

1. Drunk drivers would be held over in jail a reasonable time—not immediately released to pursue this dangerous activity.
2. Reducing the charge to some lesser offense would be allowed only in the most exceptional cases.
3. Continual and widespread "ticket fixing" should be stopped.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY

As the father of five children and as your County Judge I would strive to keep a warm and understanding judgment of the problems of our youth. Yet this is where crime starts, and a firm stand must also be taken. If probation is allowed to the parents, it must be followed up by strict supervision and regular reports.

TIDBITS of KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.
Western Kentucky Teachers' College, Bowling Green, Ky.

"POETIC JUSTICE"

There used to be a notion, at least among some of my early teachers, that "Whatever is, is wrong," so far as language is concerned. That is, if you said something naturally, then it was wrong. And, I must confess, learned books and THE dictionary—Webster's—kept this attitude alive. If our pronunciation or meaning just did not happen to be in Webster, then it was wrong, even though generations of good people had used it with no evil consequences. And, even in graduate school, I had one teacher who still held this idea of what constitutes good and bad English. He utterly ignored regionalisms, unless, of course, they were immortalized in Webster. He had grown up, like me, on a farm—he in Ohio, I in Fidelity; but he had gone East to school and had forgotten that any other speech except New England existed. Hence, in his class your pronunciation of a word often caused more comment than the ideas you were expounding. If his—and Webster's—favorite accent of a word was on the second syllable, even though ninety-nine people of real education out of a hundred accented the first syllable, he called your attention to your error almost as if it had been a misdemeanor worthy of a jury trial. Some of his students tried to accord their pronunciations with his, but most of us did not, for side by side in his revered Webster would occur his pet sounds and ours, often with ours given first place.

Before me lies WEBSTER'S SEVENTH NEW COLLEGIATE DICTIONARY, bearing the date of 1963. But for reverence for my former teachers, all of whom have long ago joined the choir invisible, I might let out a great big "I told you so." Why, the teacher who actually scolded me, away back in 1909 for saying "strip-ed" might turn over in his grave if he could see that word with any pronunciation given as the second accepted one, on p. 870. And, on p. 793, "service" as in "service tree," is "sarvis," just what all of us at Fidelity used to call it, and that pronunciation is the first one given. I regret that "cow-cumber" does not appear for the wild magnolia, for that is widely used, too, and it represents what the big-bugs in learning used to call the garden vegetables. And (see p. 921) "thrasher" is given "thrasher" for the first pronunciation, again agreeing with Fidelity and its benighted citizens, as we were probably thought to be.

And on and on I could go, citing page and word, for this new dictionary goes as far toward liberalizing pronunciation and meaning as its predecessors stood pat for generations, as if the language were dead and laid out, never to change again. Of course, the whole learned world needs a dictionary that takes more into consideration regional words, words that are perfectly good in their own sphere, no better and certainly no worse than those of some other region. Imagine trying to teach Fidelity boys and girls about "hay-doodles," when we always said "hayshecks," and why not? Imagine, too, trying to make a boy with his fishing equipment ready to go to the creek talk about "angle-worms." How much better is that word than "fishing worm?" And imagine wading in a "brook" when a "spring branch" would do as well? Many people confuse regional words with bad grammar or even with obscenity. I am perfectly willing to let the Westener have his distinctive vocabulary for his distinctive sights and sounds and actions; I like to hear a New Englander "cal'late" that it is about to rain when I know he means "reckon." But he must let me "reckon" while I tolerate his "cal'late." Fortunately the latest Webster often removes a tell-tale "e" after a word that was formerly so marked; it used to mean that the word was "colloquial," that is, good in informal speech but not dignified enough for literary or formal style. And, for many words, even "you-all," there is no attempt to ignore what are some of our most useful words. Dictionary-makers are beginning to show some signs of being recorders of speech rather than dictators of speech. And I hear a mighty rumbling as some of my former English teachers change positions in their graves.

An Ordinance of the City of Prestonsburg, Floyd County, Kentucky, Requesting City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, Municipal Improvements Corporation To Act As An Agency and Instrumentality of the City in Acquiring Certain Lands in Said City and Improving the Same for Public and Municipal Off-Street Parking Purposes.

WHEREAS, at the present time, the City of Prestonsburg, Floyd County, Kentucky, is confronted with serious problems of congestion of vehicular traffic on its streets and other public ways, and the City Council has heretofore determined that for proper public and municipal purposes it is necessary that lands be acquired and improved as municipal off-street parking facilities; and

WHEREAS, it has been agreed as between the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, and City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, Municipal Improvements Corporation, a non-profit, non-stock public corporation organized and existing under the laws of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, solely for the purpose of acquiring interests in real estate for the ultimate use and benefit of the City, and improving the same for public and municipal purposes, and in this regard serving as an agency and instrumentality of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, in financing the acquisition and improvement of real estate and other property for public use and in furtherance of public purposes and functions of the City, hereinafter called the "Corporation"; that the Corporation will act as an agency and instrumentality of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, hereinafter called the "City"; in acquiring title to certain lands, hereinafter described, and improving the same for municipal off-street parking purposes, with necessary appurtenances (such appurtenances to include necessary and proper equipment to accomplish the purposes intended), to serve the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, by the issuance of bonds of the Corporation secured by a mortgage of said lands, improvements and installations; and

WHEREAS, it is further necessary and appropriate, in order that the Corporation may properly finance said contemplated undertaking, that the City request, authorize and approve the contemplated actions of said Corporation, and further affirm its intention to enter into a "Contract, Lease and Option" with said Corporation, such Contract, Lease and Option to provide for annual rentals which, so long as said lease may be renewed by the City, shall provide funds to the Corporation sufficient to pay its First Mortgage Bonds to be issued for said undertaking, and interest thereon, as the several Bonds and interest coupons respectively become due from time to time, and to provide and accumulate an adequate and proper "Debt Service Reserve" in connection therewith, and with further provision that the City, so long as said lease may be renewed and remain in force, will pay the costs of operating, maintaining in good repair, and insuring the improvements thereon;

NOW, THEREFORE, THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY, DOES HEREBY ORDAIN, AS FOLLOWS: SECTION 1. City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, Municipal Improvements Corporation is hereby requested to act as the agency and instrumentality of the City of Prestonsburg, Floyd County, Kentucky, in obtaining fee simple title to the lands hereinafter described with particularity (subject to certain covenants herein set forth), and located within the corporate limits of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, and in constructing and installing thereon improvements and equipment in order that the same may be usable by said City for municipal off-street parking purposes; and to finance the same by the authorization and public sale of $200,000.00 principal amount of its "City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, Municipal Improvements Corporation First Mortgage Bonds," to be dated June 1, 1965, and to mature serially as to principal in various amounts on June 1 in each of the years 1967 to 1991, inclusive, the same to be secured in part by a Mortgage Deed of Trust from said Corporation to The First National Bank of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, as Trustee, creating a first and prior lien on the said property for the security, benefit and protection of the owners and holders of said Bonds, subject to the covenants herein referred to.

TIDBITS of KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D. Western Kentucky Teachers' College, Bowling Green, Ky. "KINFOLKS" The very proper dictionaries, and equally proper English teachers, say it is kinfolk, but I like the folksy way of calling it kinfolks. Just imagine asking some fellow of your tribe: "How's all the kinfolk?" He probably might answer properly, but he would imitate you for weeks on end when he was among his kinfolks.

SECTION 5. This Ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its adoption, approval and publication as provided by law. ADOPTED by the City Council of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, at an adjourned regular meeting held on the 24th day of March, 1965, on the same occasion signed by the Mayor as evidence of his approval, attested under seal by the City Clerk, ordered to be published, and declared to be in full force and effect from and after such publication as provided by law.

LESS WORK, MORE FOOD One hour's work in a factory buys more food today than it did 30 years ago, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture. For example, an hour's wages bought 1 1/2 dozen oranges in 1932; today, it buys 3.8 dozen. Girls are more poorly fed than boys, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture. A study made in the western United States shows that six out of every 10 girls have poor diets, but only four out of every 10 boys get less than two-thirds of the nutrients recommended by the National Research Council.

SWIFT'S SILVER MINE

The story of Swift's silver mine will never die, it seems. As long as men dream there will be new stories and new leads as to its whereabouts.

A copy of correspondence from Samuel J. Santora, 7 Richland Road, Byram, Connecticut, to Mrs. Carre Allan, Department of Commerce, Frankfort, is at hand. The first letter to Mrs. Allan, dated January 24, 1965, is quoted herewith:

"Thank you very much for the map. On it I see that you have circled Great Saltpetre Cave. I don't know if that is the cave referred to as the Lost Silver Mine of Kentucky or not. I will pass on to you what I know about the Lost Silver Mine. From 1761 to 1769 a John Swift and three associates mined a high grade silver ore. They melted about $273,000 in silver and poured it into ingots weighing about 25 pounds a-piece. During this period there was trouble with the Indians so they buried about $200,000 near the mine. They also covered over the mine very carefully because the Indians were very hostile at this time. They marked the mine and small smelter they had, sketched maps and made markings in the area. During a fight with the Indians the three partners were killed and John Swift escaped but he had to bury $70,000 in silver ingots that he carried in a bag over his shoulder. On the way he became ill and was forced to bury the bag he carried and made his way to Philadelphia.

"The silver was buried somewhere in the southwestern part of Virginia. Unable to get anyone interested enough to help him go back for the silver he went to England and tried to get some relatives to help him. While there the Revolutionary War broke out and Swift was put in prison. He remained there till the war was over but the dampness of the cell caused him to lose his sight. He returned to Kentucky, a sick and blind old man. He finally got a man named Anderson to help him and they went exploring and hunting for the silver.

"Several years later the old man died, broken in body and spirit. He never found his silver that he buried or the mine. The last thing that he said was, 'It is near a peculiar rock. And don't quit hunting for it. It is the richest thing I ever saw and it will make you all very rich men.' But he never identified that 'peculiar rock.'

"Somewhere in Jackson county is a lost silver mine worth, who knows, maybe millions. But one thing is for sure—there is $200,000 in almost pure silver buried within fairly easy digging. And somewhere in Southwest Virginia is $70,000 in silver waiting for some lucky fisherman digging for worms."

A second letter from Mr. Santora to Mrs. Allan, follows:

"I have some more information on John Swift and party. It seems that John Swift and company was also engaged in some piratical enterprises along the eastern coast.

"On the first of September, 1769, we left between $22,000 and $30,000 in crowns on a large creek. Close to the spot we marked our names; Swift, Jefferson, Munday and others, on a beech tree with a compass, square and trowel. Not far from this place we buried $15,000, marking three or four trees. Between it and a small branch we buried $6,000. Also we hid $3,000, buried in the rocks of the old rock house."

Mr. Santora says the last paragraph is from an old magazine article, the magazine and page torn away. All a person would have to do to begin the search for the fabled Swift Silver Mine is to find this old magazine and having found it, just start digging, anywhere between Southwest Virginia and Jackson county, Kentucky.

WILLIAM JOHN HUTTON
 A letter from Neal Finch, 309 E. 5th street, Ottawa, Kansas, is relative to his ancestor, William John Hutton, Prestonsburg native. Mr. Finch is an official of the Overland Oil Company, Kansas City, Missouri.

His letter is excerpted:
 "My great-grandfather, William John Hutton, was born near Prestonsburg, March 20, 1837, the son of James G. and Elizabeth Harris Hutton. I have in my possession a certified copy of the marriage certificate of James G. and Elizabeth Harris Hutton secured from the clerk of the court in Prestonsburg but I am unable to come up with any records of birth for any of the above mentioned. James G. Hutton's father was Moses and I am pretty certain he came from near Glade Springs, Virginia.

"In addition, another great-grandfather, John William Reams, was born July 30, 1823, somewhere in Kentucky. His wife was Margaret Edwards Reams, born April 27, 1832, also somewhere in Kentucky. I have no reason to think they ever lived in Floyd county but would like your suggestions where to look."

Anyone having information relative to the above are asked to write Mr. Finch.

BETTER FOOD SHOPPING

When food shopping, remember that the true measure of cost is the cost per serving, says Mrs. Letta Jasper, UK Extension marketing specialist. For example, boneless meat may cost more per pound but less per serving than meat which has a large amount of bone.

FOUR YEARS COULD BE ENOUGH FOR A LIFETIME

It is not a question of how long a man has been in office but one of how much good he has done and how well he can serve in the future. Four years could be too much time for some and four terms is never too much when the county is served with efficiency and competency.

I stand upon my record as a judge who has always tried to serve you well. Our county has never had the money it needed to build every road or perform every public service it should. Always, I have done the best that could be done with what we had to do with. No man could do more.

My opponent is saying that I have been in office too long. He says we need a change. What kind of a change does he mean? Does he mean a change from a tried and true official to an untried one who can only offer you promises? I offer you the record of an able and conscientious administration of the office. I have no axe to grind but that of the taxpayers. I have no teeth to pull. I have now only the job of devoting my full time to your office and I humbly solicit your support again.

Four years could be too long for some men in office. No length of time is too long when the taxpayers are given dedicated and conscientious service.

My opponent can offer you only promises. I offer you my record. There is a difference, you know.

Your vote and influence will be appreciated as in the past and if I am reelected I will continue to offer you honest, accommodating and dedicated service.

Visiting UK Professor Makes Two Appearances As Speaker

Dr. Kenneth D. Benne, director of the Human Relations Center at Boston University, visiting professor at the University of Kentucky during its Centennial Year, made two appearances here as a speaker last week.

He spoke Thursday evening at the meeting of the Kiwanis Club at May Lodge, and at 9 a.m. Friday was the speaker at the Prestonsburg Community College convocation.

A widely known consultant in human relations training, Dr. Benne holds degrees from Kansas State University, the University of Michigan and Columbia University. He won the Kilpatrick Award for outstanding contributions in American philosophy, in 1960 was the Boyd Bode Memorial Lecturer at Ohio State University, and is a fellow in the International Institute of Arts and Letters. PERSPECTIVE

BY ROBERT J. HASTINGS

BREATHING IS LIVING

Any discovery that makes life easier for the handicapped is always welcome. From the Stoke Mandeville Hospital in Aylesbury, England, comes the announcement of a mouth-actuated electrical switch. A patient can operate the switch merely by adjusting his breathing. He may be totally paralyzed, and still answer a telephone, adjust a TV set, or type up to a hundred words a minute by breathing lightly in and out! The switch is called "Possum" (Patient-Operated Selector Mechanism).

We have always known the importance of breathing, since all that separates the living from the dead is a breath of air slowly inhaled, and then exhaled. But now new importance is attached to the power of breathing, in that totally disabled persons can use even their breath to perform simple chores.

Mouth-to-mouth resuscitation of unconscious persons continues to be a life-saving method for those who are near death from drowning, electrocution, heart failure, and respiratory difficulties. Here again, the power of a breath takes on dramatic proportions.

And in the early days of creation as God was fashioning man from the raw elements of nature, it was when he "breathed into his nostrils the breath of life" that man became a living soul. No man can ever be the same after he realizes that he is not a mere animal creation, but that he has been in-breathed with the very breath of God himself.

ISLAND CREEK DIRECTORS APPROVE NEW MINE PLANS

Island Creek Coal Company's board of directors recently approved appropriations approximating 15 million dollars for the development of a second mine in Buchanan county, Virginia, which will produce at full capacity two million tons annually of the finest quality low volatile metallurgical coal.

James L. Hamilton, chairman of the board, said that work on the new mine is scheduled to commence this spring, to start producing late in 1967, and to achieve capacity in 1968. It is being engineered for a forty-year life.

"The new mine," Mr. Hamilton said, "will be opened in the company's 500 million-ton reserve area of Pocahontas No. 3 seam, low ash, low volatile metallurgical coal in Virginia, and will largely duplicate the Beatrice mine now in production. The Beatrice Pocahontas mine, near Grundy, Virginia, jointly owned by Republic Steel Corporation and Island Creek, is currently making shipments not only for Republic's needs, but also to consumers both in the United States and abroad."

Hamilton also said that plans are being engineered to provide storage and rapid-loading facilities for high-volume unit trains necessary to provide low-cost shipments to U. S. consumers; and also to facilitate loading the large ocean-going vessels now engaged in exporting American coals. Currently, some shipments are being made in vessels with capacities of 60,000 gross tons; however, vessels to transport 85,000 gross tons are now under construction both in Europe and Japan.
