ACTION GROUP PICKS FLOYD PROJECT HEAD

$22,977 AID ON PLANNING GIVEN FLOYD

Mrs. Wells Appointed For Anti-Poverty Work As County Coordinator

Mrs. Helen Burke Wells, of Prestonsburg, was employed last Friday evening by the Community Action Committee for Floyd county as project coordinator of work to be initiated under the new federal Anti-Poverty Legislation. Her salary for the nine-month period was set at $5,700.

Gordon Beven Chaffins, of Allen, was named her assistant at a salary of $4,300 for the same period of time.

They will occupy an office in the courthouse, immediately after completing three weeks of specialized training at Berea College and at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, Virginia. The stenographer who will round out the office staff is to be named by Mrs. Burke and Mr. Chaffins.

Duties of the office will be to fulfill the commitment made by the Community Action Committee in its contract with the Office of Economic Opportunity. It is responsible for coordinating all projects initiated in the county under the Anti-Poverty Program and will work closely with the Floyd County Development Association, the fiscal court, county school board and health department and all existing state and federal agencies.

A federal grant of $22,977 was made available to this county to carry on the work of planning and coordinating the anti-poverty work program.

Floyd county is one of only four Appalachian counties to receive an advance grant to date and so is well on the way toward benefiting from the program, County Attorney Barkley J. Sturges said.

Paul D. Gearheart, of Harold, president of the Floyd County Development Association, is chairman of the Community Action Committee. Mrs. Frances Pitts, Floyd home agent, is its secretary.

Mrs. Wells is a commerce major graduate of Eastern Kentucky State College, Richmond, has taught grade school and high school commerce, has had training with the Council of the Southern Mountains and has done state personnel and welfare work.

Mr. Chaffins, a native of the Garrett vicinity, has been employed by the Department of Industrial Relations, state of Florida, for the last 12 years.

ALL'S QUIET
A visitor to this office arrived Wednesday at a time when things had simmered down a bit. The Dalmatian lay snoring gently in his usual daytime place of repose, an office table, and—believe it or not—a sparrow had winged his way, tra-la into the room and had come to roost on the desk 'phone.

Our caller expressed some curiosity as to just what this place had come to. For some time now I've been saying it seems to have gone to the dogs, but it hadn't occurred to me that it might be for the birds.

Speaking of the high cost of most things, it says here that it now costs more to amuse a child than it once did to educate his father.

And somebody reminds me that I will never become a skilled conversationalist until I learn how to put my foot tactfully through the TV set.

CRAZY, MIXED UP AGE
I am not one who pines overmuch for the good, old days, good as they were and as good as it was to be young and gay. I do not pine for a cold floor, a dead fire and a snowy coal-pile, not at my age. I would like a repeat of the peace and quiet, and a re-run on the old swimmin' hole scene. But that old one-hoss, open sleigh bit is just a bit sticky. If you don't think so, just try, next time the temperature drops below freezing, driving around with the car-heater off and all the windows rolled down.

Those were the good, old days, true, but it was because we who lived in those old days were so young everything was new.

P.S. I started out doing this piece with an idea of setting up (See Story No. 1, Page 8)

HALL NAMED TO POSITION

New Program Director Appointed by Board; Personnel Is Changed

The Floyd County Board of Education, at its regular meeting April 3, named Estill Hall project director of the summer work training program now being set up under the Area Redevelopment Administration. His salary was set at $7,200 a year. Adrian Bentley was employed as assistant at half time.

The board voted to continue the program next year. It was pointed out by County Superintendent Charles Clark, who recommended the appointments, that funds from A.R.A. have not yet been allocated for the project.

Several personnel changes were made by the board, one being the employment of Darrell Hall as teacher at Daniel's Creek to replace Hope Blackburn who was granted a leave of absence. Carol Combs Daniels and Sharlene Davis were recommended by Clark and named substitute teachers.

Freddie Smallwood, Joe Stanley, Earmon Prater and Evan Barnett were employed as substitute bus drivers. Ellis Hall was named by the board to transport pupils on Prater Creek in place of John Burchett who resigned.

THREE PIKE TRIALS SET

Atty-Gen. Assigns Staff Member Here To Assist Stumbo

Trials of three Pike county school officials which have been transferred to this county will probably be held this month, although a continuance was at first considered necessary.

The continuance was considered because Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo had not had time to acquaint himself with the cases and prepare for trial. The Attorney General's office, however, assigned a staff member to the cases and to assist Stumbo, a week ago, and so it is expected the cases will be heard.

The three cases are those of County Superintendent C. H. Farley, Alva Potter, a member of the Pike County Board of Education, and Herbert Cool, a supervisor for the board.

Trial of Woodrow Runyon, former supervisor for the Pike board of education, has been docketed for trial here, beginning April 13. The other three cases may be heard during the five-day period set apart for the Runyon trial.

PARK MANAGER SEES BIG SUMMER SEASON

It's spring at Jenny Wiley State Park, the golf course is open, the lake is rising, and the season is on its way—with lodging accommodations booked almost solid through June, July and August.

Dean Murray, damtender at Dewey Dam, said gates of the dam were closed at 4 p.m. Monday to raise the level of the lake

ANTI-POVERTY PLANS DISCUSSED AT MEET

Federal, state, county and city officials conferred Tuesday at Jenny Wiley State Park on the "anti-poverty" program which is being developed for this section of Kentucky and other areas of Appalachia.

Discussions centered mainly on the work program involving unemployed fathers of dependent children, with the provision that they must take educational training.

Officials were told at the conference that small tools for workers will be supplied from federal funds but that local governmental units must be responsible for supervision.

C. D. Francis, of Garrett, has been employed by the Office of Economic Opportunity as general supervisor of anti-poverty work in the county. He will work with the county, towns and schools to get needed work done.

County Judge Henry Stumbo said that the county is not financially able to employ a foreman for every individual worker project, and that as a consequence it has been obliged to designate a worker with each crew as timekeeper, with Blaine Hopkins, county road foreman, supervising the several jobs.

BLANKENSHIP PLANS TALK

SBA Regulations To Be Discussed At Courthouse Meet

Regional Director Blankenship, of the Small Business Administration, will attend the meeting of the Floyd County Development Association next Tuesday evening at 7:30 at the courthouse to offer information about new advantages available to those needing to procure SBA loans.

Paul D. Gearheart, president of the Development Association, will preside at the meeting. SBA regulations have been liberalized by recent legislation to favor the small business man, or firm, and Mr. Blankenship will detail the new advantages, he said.

Gearheart also announced this week that two VISTA (Volunteers In Service To America) workers will arrive Monday at the McDowell Appalachian Regional hospital, which will be their headquarters for Floyd county service. Two others are expected to arrive later. VISTA recruits and trains individuals on a voluntary basis to assist in the lifting of underprivileged communities of the country and also provides these individuals support in their work. Sargent Shriver, of the Peace Corps, heads VISTA.

HALE NABS ARMSTRONG

Jail Escapee Found In Deserted Farmhouse Near Here Last Week

MacArthur Armstrong rejoined his brother Harold in the Floyd county jail, early last Thursday, after he had been found in hiding in a deserted farmhouse, off new U. S. 23, between Prestonsburg and Auxier, by Sheriff Henry Hale, Jailer Lawrence Hale and Albert Miller.

The two brothers fled the jail, the preceding Sunday, after choking a turnkey and snatching the jail keys from a cell-door. Harold Armstrong was returned to jail, later the same day, after having fallen exhausted.

MacArthur Armstrong was located by Sheriff Hale through the use of his bloodhound. The trailer-home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Miller had been looted, last Wednesday night, of a .22-caliber rifle, a watch, clothing and food. A search made at that time failed to uncover the identity of the intruder. (See Story No. 3, Page 8)

ABSENTEE BALLOTING INCREASE EXPECTED

Although wide use of the absentee ballot in the coming primary election is expected by some political observers, under provisions of the liberalized absentee voting law, the number of applications for such ballots was running no heavier than usual this week, it was said at the County Clerk's office.

The new law provides that "absent voter" means any qualified voter who expects to be absent from the county in which his voting precinct is located on the day of the election.

Before the liberalized act was passed, absentee voting was restricted to members of the armed forces, students in residence outside their county, federal employees and members of their families.

It was pointed out that the new law makes eligible any who file a notarized application stating that they "expect" to be out of the county on election day. This same source pointed out that no provision is made for the aged or the person who is sick at home, within the county, and unable to go to the polls. The deadline for filing for absentee ballot is May 6. On May 7 the County Clerk is to post in a prominent place in the courthouse the names and addresses of all who have filed as absentee voters, and the election commission is required by law to post, not later than May 15, the names and addresses of all to whom absentee ballots have been mailed.

"The door is open to what could be another absentee voting scandal," one man interested in the current campaign said. He predicted that as many as 2,000 absentee ballots might be requested.

Registration of voters ended March 23 and will not be resumed till May 30. Deadline for filing of candidates for county and city offices is April 10, and the candidates will draw for position on the ballot, April 13. Pre-primary expense accounts are due, May 10, and the list of primary election officers is to be open for inspection not later than May 18.

Centennial Concert At College Tonight

The Centennial Choral Concert will be given at 8 o'clock this evening (Thursday) at the Prestonsburg Community College by the college chorus under the direction of Mrs. Carlos H. Haywood.

The concert, which is presented without charge, is a part of the University of Kentucky's Centennial Year observance.

$3,193 FUND GIVEN CITY

U.R.A. Makes Grant To Aid in Purchase For Municipal Park

Prestonsburg will receive a $3,193 federal grant under the Open-Space Land Program to aid in the purchase of 29 acres of land for park and recreational purposes, it was announced Tuesday by the Urban Renewal Administration. The federal grant will cover 30 percent of the land acquisition cost of $10,645.

The land was acquired by the city to be converted into a municipal park and recreation area. It is located on Middle Creek, at the upper limits of West Prestonsburg.

Federal grants under the Open-Space Land Program, administered by U.R.A. are authorized by the Housing Act of 1961. Purpose of the program is to help prevent urban blight through sound and balanced community growth and development by providing for permanent open land uses in urbanizing areas. Land acquired with federal financial assistance may be used for recreational, conservation, historic or scenic purposes.

Grants may be made to public regional or local agencies and to states, in the acquisition of land important in a comprehensive plan for urban growth. Federal grants are made for up to 20 percent of the acquisition cost of the land, but when the applicant has responsibility for providing open-space land for an overall metropolitan area, the grant may be increased up to 30 percent, as was the case here.

UFG Promotes Rolston

Mr. Rolston succeeds Wilbur G. Stiles, who retired.

A graduate of Williamstown high school, Mr. Rolston was the Wood county (W. Va.) spelling champion in 1941, president of the student council and president of the National Honor Society. He served in the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers from 1947 to 1953, joining as an enlisted man and rising to the rank of second lieutenant.

From 1954 to 1958 he attended Marietta College and received a B.S. degree in petroleum engineering. He was a member of the Pi Epsilon Tau (petroleum honorary) and the Gusher Club at Marietta.

Mrs. Rolston is the former Ardith L. Mixer, of Parkersburg, West Virginia. They are the parents of a daughter, Cheryl Ardith, 15.

Mr. Rolston is a member of the Murphytown Baptist Church at Murphytown, West Virginia.

MR. ROLSTON
Roger E. Rolston, of 323 N. Central Avenue, Prestonsburg, was promoted to the post of assistant division superintendent of United Fuel Gas Company's Gas Measurement Department, Southern Division, effective April 1, it was announced this week by W. W. Ferrell, vice-president of operations.

Mr. Rolston, a native of Williamstown, West Virginia, joined United Fuel in 1958 and has served as engineer at Prestonsburg since 1959. In his new position he will report to John Henning, superintendent of the Southern Production and Gas Measurement Division.

Mr. Rolston succeeds Wilbur G. Stiles, who retired.

A graduate of Williamstown high school, Mr. Rolston was the Wood county (W. Va.) spelling champion in 1941, president of the student council and president of the National Honor Society. Petit Jury Excluded During Instructions; Trials Begin Monday

"All our major crimes go back to whiskey," Circuit Judge Hollie Conley told the Floyd circuit court grand jury Monday morning in his instructions soon after it had been empanelled.

Charging the jury to investigate the liquor traffic, he said that murder, the breaking up of homes, even breaking and entering the property of others are among the violations which stem from the use of alcoholic beverages.

Judge Conley also called attention of the jury to the dumping of garbage into or along streams of the county. He spoke of the work done in snagging and clearing Right Beaver Creek and the later cluttering of the banks of the stream with garbage.

He added that if any member of the jury knows of an offense, he or she should have a subpoena issued for witnesses.

Although stressing the need to bring to trial violators of the law, he emphasized this point:

"It is just as important, if you feel that a person is innocent, that he not be indicted as it is for one who is guilty to be indicted."

Judge Conley added, however, that the grand jury is not a trial jury.

Few requests to be relieved from jury service were made after Conley had commented at some length on the importance of good jurors. "I realize," he said, "that jury service is a sacrifice to some, but good is not achieved except by some sacrifice."

The petit jury was excluded from the courtroom while the grand jury was being instructed, since the Court of Appeals has held that such instructions in the presence of trial jurors may, under certain circumstances, result in reversal of a jury verdict.

Trial of cases will not begin until next Monday, this week being devoted to the work of the grand jury. Elimination of trial work this week leaves Commonwealth's Attorney Harold Stumbo free to work with the grand jury.

Dillard Howard, of Allen, was named foreman of the grand jury.

Asphyxiation Victim Taken to Lexington, Is Still Unconscious

Elsie Thomas Spears, 17-year-old Abbott Creek youth, who was found March 28 near death of asphyxiation in an automobile on the Middle Creek road, was taken Tuesday to the University of Kentucky Medical Center, Lexington, still unconscious.

Homar Hackworth, of Middle Creek, who was with young Spears, was dismissed last week from the Prestonsburg General hospital.

Motor of their car was still running when they were found by Coroner James J. Carter, Bev Shepherd and Amos Poe. The two apparently were on their way hunting when their car stuck on an approach to the highway. Their two dogs were found in a deep stupor, in the trunk of the car.

Montgomery-Earl Vows Solemnized at Ada, O.

Before an improvised altar in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bun Montgomery, Ada, Ohio, Miss Barbara Montgomery was married March 6 to Leonard L. Earl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Earl, R. 1, Ada, Ohio.

Bouquets of pink and white carnations and seven-branched candelabra made the setting for their double-ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Charles Spier, of the First Baptist Church.

The bride, escorted by her father, who gave her in marriage, wore a light blue dacton shirtdress with delicate lace applique around the skirt. The bride's veil was held in place with a blue crown, and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses centered with a white orchid.

Miss Jackie Montgomery, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a pink dacton batiste dress, sugared with openwork of Schiffli embroidery. Her headdress was of matching pink and her flowers were pink and white carnations.

Bun Montgomery, Jr., brother of the bride, served as best man. For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Montgomery chose a gray wool dress with black accessories. Mrs. Earl, mother of the groom, wore a royal blue suit with black accessories. Their corsages were pink and white carnations.

Following the ceremony, a wedding reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Assisting the hostess was Sally Huber, Jackie Montgomery and Evelyn Jenkins.

The bride was graduated from Ada high school in 1963 and from the Richard Weston School of Beauty Culture. She attended Morehead State College, Morehead, Kentucky.

The bridegroom was graduated from Ada high school in 1959. Ohio Northern University and is teaching Industrial Arts at Botkins high school.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl are making their home here at 322 E. Highland Avenue, Ada, Ohio.

Among the wedding guests were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bun Montgomery, of the Abbot road, and Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Montgomery, of Ada, Ohio, formerly of Prestonsburg.

VIRGIN FORESTS DWINDLE THROUGH NEGLECT, WASTE

BY PAUL R. JORDAN

Kentucky's dwindling tracts of virgin timber serve today as tragic reminders for conservationists fighting an endless battle against the neglect and waste of natural resources. A statewide check reveals that most of these survivors of a bygone era, some as old as 75 years, grow in mountainous Eastern Kentucky.

The larger tracts, as determined by the State Division of Forestry and other sources, consist of 450 acres owned by Howard Stephens in McCreary county; 400 acres owned by the heirs of Lilley Cornett in Letcher county; and 190 acres in the Cumberland National Forest in Laurel county. Other tracts, by counties, are:

Lewis—50 acres owned by Paris Henderson, of Trinity.

Carter—75 acres owned by the Riffe brothers of Webbville and 60 acres owned by Dallas Fraley of near Grayson.

Ellett—75 acres owned by L. B. Wells, of Sandy Hook.

Whitley—three acres owned by the Nelson Brassfield estate.

Monroe—20 acres owned by Roy Anderson and 100 acres owned by Ronald Bushong, both of Tompkinsville.

Casey—100 acres owned by the Walter Allen farm near Liberty. Stands of what foresters call "old growth" timber have also been reported on the property of U. S. Steel and Woodrow Blanton in Harlan county; Tigh Hollow in Wolfe county; Pine Mountain State Park in Bell county; Audubon State Park in Henderson county; near Jenny Wiley State Park in Floyd county, and on the Guyan estate in Woodford county.

When pioneers began establishing homesteads nearly 200 years ago, some 25 million acres of virgin timber covered almost the entire land area of Kentucky. In the years that followed, timber was cut for fuel, iron processing plants, farm land and logging without regard for regeneration. By 1910, roughly half the virgin timber of the mountains had been cut, but large-scale operations continued through 1920.

Presently, 45 percent of the state's land area is covered by 11.5 million acres of trees, mostly small hardwoods. Of this total, more than 46,000 acres comprise seven state-owned forests. The Division of Forestry manages each forest to demonstrate the soundness of good management practices and efficient methods of utilization and marketing of timber.

Lilley Cornett, who died seven years ago, bought his 400 acres many years ago from "Fightin' George" Isom, a North Carolina homesteader who settled on 1,000 acres of property in the Skyline community of Letcher county. According to Bill Isom, 90-year-old son of "Fightin' George," Cornett paid $5,000 for the tract, which is now valued at sums ranging up to $75,000 because of its white oak, poplar, walnut and other species of virgin timber.

Isom, who lives on the banks of Line Fork Creek in the Skyline area, said Cornett was a frugal man who knew how to make money. He turned down many inviting offers for the timber. In fact, the story goes that Cornett would fly into a rage at the mere mention of cutting the trees.

Doc Cornett, administrator of his father's estate, thinks the heirs will sell the timber eventually. A core sample taken by foresters revealed that one of the trees was more than 275 years old.

The 191-acre tract in the Cumberland National Forest, 10 miles southwest of London, was designated the Rock Creek Natural Area by the U. S. Forest Service in 1939. The object was to preserve the virgin growth for the purpose of science, research and education.

In his recommendation for preserving the timber, the forest supervisor said the Rock Creek area is "one of the very few remaining examples of the virgin hemlock-hardwood forest type formerly widespread in the Cumberland Mountains and, so far as is known, no other public or private agency has reserved a virgin tract of timber of this type anywhere in Kentucky."

Except for 13.6 acres of yellow pine, the entire reservation is composed of hemlock, some of them 150 years old, and hardwoods such as white oak, poplar, white oak, beech, red maple and hickory. The area serves as an excellent laboratory for ecologists—one who studies the pattern between living things and their environment—and serves as a valuable guide for developing forest management practices.

The forest supervisor said in his report: "The natural beauty of the area with its small natural bridge, sandstone caves, small waterfalls, large thrift (fast growing) timber, flowering shrubs, unusual cliff formations and lesser herbaceous vegetation makes it an appealing place to visit."

The report also noted there had been some cutting in the more accessible portions of the watershed embracing the natural area. Some large trees were removed in 1915-17. At the time, logs were driven down Rock Creek into the Rockcastle and Cumberland Rivers, then floated to Burnside, a lumbering center.

In the more inaccessible parts of the area, the dense canopy of hemlock, beech and red maple shows little evidence of cutting. Sandstone cliffs vary from 10 to 100 feet in height, with six gaps permitting access to the area. The nearby natural bridge is 10 feet wide and 30 feet high.

Many persons contend these virgin tracts of timber—remnants of a vast empire—should be made into a national forest and preserved for future generations.

Fire-Insurance Rate Boosts on Low-Value Dwellings Are Approved

Frankfort, Ky.—The State Insurance Department has approved the fire-insurance rate increases on low-value dwellings requested by the Kentucky Inspection Bureau. A public hearing on the rate filing was held here in January.

Affected by the rate increase are low-cost dwellings—those valued below $5,000—which are not insurable as farm dwellings or under the package homeowners' policy.

The over-all increase is 49.2 percent. Latest figures available indicate that this coverage is less than 10 percent of the total fire-insurance premiums paid in Kentucky.

At the public hearing last month, executives of several fire insurance companies doing business in Kentucky testified that they have discouraged or forbidden their agents to accept the business because of high loss ratios on it.

William Horn, assistant manager of the Kentucky Inspection Bureau, testified that homeowners with houses valued at less than $5,000 are having trouble procuring insurance protection. Horn added that some of the 298 companies represented by the Bureau have absolutely refused to insure such dwellings.

Insurance Commissioner William E. Bivin said of the filing, "I am hopeful that these new rates will assure the availability of fire insurance to these homeowners. This problem is a nationwide one which is attracting attention to both the National Association of Insurance Commissioners and the insurance industry itself."

Through the continued study and efforts of the industry, we hope that some new technique or plans can be devised to offset the high losses of the companies and resulting requests for higher rates."

Bivin's order states: "It is the opinion of this Commissioner, based upon the evidence presented, that the proposed rate increase is needed in order to insure the public a market for insurance on dwellings valued under $5,000 and that such proposed rates are not excessive or unfairly discriminatory. It is also the opinion of this Commissioner that an over-all increase of 49.2 percent is the amount of increase needed at this time to keep the market open. I take special note of company testimony that the new rate level should assure the maintenance of an open adequate market for low value dwelling coverage."

J. Edward Faust, Jr., Indianapolis, a consulting actuary, was appointed special deputy commissioner of insurance for reviewing the filing for the department and verified its mathematical accuracy and actuarial soundness.

He testified that the loss ratios of the companies in Kentucky had been very high—95.7 percent in 1953—but added that these losses are duplicated by the companies throughout the nation. In 1962, he said, the firms spent $1.34 for every dollar collected in premiums in Kentucky for this type of business.

The rate changes were effective February 4, on new business and will affect existing policies as they expire, Bivin said.

REGIONAL GOLF

The Kentucky High School Athletic Association has added girls' golf to its program this year, for the first time. The Eastern Kentucky regional event has been set for the Paintsville Country Club on Tuesday, May 18.

The boys' regional golf meet will again be held on the same course, Saturday, May 22.

The Eastern Kentucky regional track meet will be on the Prestonsburg high school oval, Thursday and Friday, May 13 and 14. All qualifying will be done on May 13, and the finals are set for the following day.

Floyd county's district baseball tournament is set for McDowell, the third week in May, and Prestonsburg, McDowell, Wheelwright and Martin will vie for the championship.

The winner will advance to the regional tournament at Morehead, the following week. Hereafter, the regional has been held in Ashland's Central Park, but this year was shifted to Morehead.

Poet Cohen Schedules Program of Reading At Community College

William Howard Cohen, poet-in-residence at Alice Lloyd College, Pippa Passes, and Mrs. Cohen will present a program of poetry reading and music at 11:30 a.m., April 22, at the Prestonsburg Community College as a part of the University of Kentucky's Centennial Series.

Many of the poems read by Mr. Cohen will be taken from his latest book, "The Hillway Home." Mrs. Cohen will accompany her husband on an Appalachian dulcimer, in a musical program of mountain ballads. Her professional training dates back to early childhood and includes studies in New York and Chicago. She toured New England with the Children's Theater Company, playing a lead female role in that company's version of "Snow White."

Mr. Cohen's poetry has won the acclaim of leading critics at the Library of Congress. In 1963, he was elected to membership in the Poetry Society of America, the major organization of American poets. In his endorsement of Mr. Cohen, Jesse Stuart wrote: "To William Howard Cohen, fellow-poet of these hills: A true poet with the ear—the music—and the feel—of heart and mind."

Woman's Club Pledges Funds To 2 Projects; New Officers Elected

Upon recommendation of its executive committee, the Prestonsburg Woman's Club at its April meeting voted to donate a total of $1,500 over a period of two years to two projects, one local and one statewide.

The local project, the municipal park, drew $1,000, with the stipulation that a specific area of plans for the park would be designated later. The pledge of $500 went to the KFWC state project, a home for approximately 40 delinquent girls, 10 to 18 years of age, to be built in Jefferson county, but to provide a home for girls from all parts of the state.

Mrs. Clyde Burchett, club president, presided over the business session which included election of officers for the coming year. Elected and to be installed at the Awards Night dinner, May 6, are:

Mrs. Joe Buchanan, president; Mrs. Marvin Ransdell, first vice-president; Mrs. L. B. Fairchild, second vice-president; Mrs. J. B. Clarke, third vice-president; Mrs. Zella S. Archer, recording secretary; Mrs. Olga M. Latta, treasurer, and Mrs. Helen B. Wells, corresponding secretary.

Dr. George P. Archer presented the plans for the municipal park, exhibiting a large map showing play areas and the detailed survey and suggestions made by the University of Kentucky.

The guest-speaker, Miss Margaret Willis, director of the Kentucky Department of Libraries, praised the people of Floyd county for the progress which had been made in their library program. She announced that a film would be made during the summer which would use Floyd county to show how the program had advanced from one room in a service station to the present, modern library building. She pointed out that much remains to be done, both in Floyd county and throughout the state, and that support of state and federal aid legislation is a "must."

I-XL CABINETS FIT ANY KITCHEN... PERFECTLY!

And, our credit terms fit your budget even better!

Our experienced planners can create a "custom" kitchen just for you with beautiful I-XL cabinets. Your choice of three elegant cabinet models: Sculptured Spicewood, Sculptured Satingold, Shadow-wood.

Here are a few basic kitchen styles designed to fit any home.

Without looking crowded, this compact, single-wall I-XL arrangement uses every inch of limited space in a small kitchen.

Exceptional variety in standard I-XL cabinet sizes makes this convenient L-shaped arrangement extremely efficient in minimum space.

Judicious selection and arrangement of I-XL cabinets in a three-wall kitchen provides welcome storage and keeps related activities close to each other.

Where space is not limited, I-XL suggests an island to conserve human energy—and serve as the center for cooking, cleaning up or any other kitchen activity.

The galley arrangement for an I-XL kitchen keeps working areas close together on either wall and can be a remarkably convenient kitchen arrangement.

Magnificent new cabinets styled and crafted in the tradition of fine furniture to bring exciting individuality to your kitchen! The finish is a richly glowing honey tone, with raised paneling and "picture frame" molding to add to its elegance. We can plan a personalized Imperia kitchen for you today—and install it at surprisingly moderate cost. Visit us soon—you'll love Imperia.

C.C. BOARD BACKS BONDS

Nothing To Lose, View Taken, Since Highways Would Get Financing

The board of directors of the Prestonsburg Chamber of Commerce recently adopted a resolution favoring the proposed state bond issue and also voted to raise $1,500 as the Chamber's contribution in order to share in the $9,000 state fund made available for promotion of tourism in the Big Sandy valley.

In a discussion of the road bond issue it was pointed out that, with the Appalachian program having as one of its primary goals the building of roads in depressed areas, Eastern Kentucky has everything to gain and nothing to lose in backing the bonds which would assure the state's share of highway construction costs.

A finance committee was named to raise funds for the tourism project; Curtis Clark, chairman, Burl Spurlock and Ed Music.

It was announced that the last of a series of meetings scheduled by the Big Sandy Tourist Travel Committee will be held Friday of this week at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, Curtis Clark and Marvin E. Music, Jr., are members of the board, and Burl Spurlock is treasurer of the organization which represents 10 Eastern Kentucky counties.

Ten Years After Salk . . .

ONCE-FEARED POLIO NEAR NON-EXISTENT

Residents of Floyd county were reminded this week that ten years ago—on April 12, 1955—the Salk vaccine was declared "safe, effective and potent."

Ray Howard, chairman of Floyd Chapter, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, said, "We can give thanks not only for the safety nowadays of our families, friends and neighbors, but also that polio has virtually disappeared everywhere else in the United States."

He pointed out that last year in Floyd county there were no cases of polio. Ten years ago, however, polio cases in the county were not uncommon and were often numerous.

He added that with the start of mass vaccinations nationally under March of Dimes auspices in 1955, the incidence of polio began to turn downward, slowly at first and then with increasing momentum as more and more children received the Salk vaccine. From a 1950-'54 average of 38,727 cases per year, the annual level of cases followed a downward trend to only 1,312 in 1961, of which 988 were reported as paralytic. This represented a drop of 97 per cent and marked the end of epidemic polio in the United States.

In the decade since 1955, he said, the number of cases of polio in this country has dropped more than 99 per cent. As a result, during 1964 only 121 cases of polio were reported, a rate of less than one per million population.

The local spokesman for the March of Dimes referred to a recent statement by Basil O'Connor, president of The National Foundation—March of Dimes, who said:

"Never in the history of medicine has the quest for a preventive for a terrifying epidemic disease ended successfully in an interval as short or at a cost as small as the $25.5 million used by the March of Dimes during the 17 years in which it financed research and development of the vaccine. During the same 17-year period, the National Foundation spent $295.2 million for all other aspects of its program including the care of patients who had polio, for the education of physicians and other health workers in this field, and for public information about polio."

Howard said that nothing in the inspiring tales of past battles successfully waged by man against other terror-striking diseases—smallpox, bubonic plague, tuberculosis, yellow fever, typhoid—could match the speed with which polio was conquered.

He added that the announcement that the Salk vaccine was safe, effective and potent made at Ann Arbor, Mich., ten years ago marked the achievement by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis of its first objective—a preventive that would make impossible such catastrophic epidemics as those which struck more than half a million children and young adults during the previous 40 years, killing 57,000 and leaving some 300,000 disabled.

Since 1958, he explained, the same national voluntary health organization, now The National Foundation—March of Dimes, has centered its research and patient aid programs on the field of birth defects.

The battle against polio, he recalled, really began in 1934 with the first of the nationwide Franklin D. Roosevelt birthday balls to support clinical research and patient aid at Georgia Warm Springs Foundation. In 1938 the battle escalated into a fulltime, night-and-day offensive with the creation of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis—March of Dimes organization with Mr. O'Connor, President Roosevelt's former law partner, as president.

The purposes of this new foundation were to conduct basic research to find a preventive to polio—to give patient aid to those afflicted with polio, to educate scientists, doctors and para-medical workers who could through their respective disciplines carry on such basic research and give such patient aid, and to educate the public about polio.

Only 17 years later, as a result of the largest medical field trials in history, the spokesman continued, in which 1,530,000 courageous children rolled up their sleeves to test the vaccine, Dr. Thomas Francis, Jr., chairman of the epidemiology department of the University of Michigan School of Public Health, was able to say unequivocally to the renowned scientists assembled at Ann Arbor that the Salk vaccine was "safe, effective and potent."

Mr. Howard pointed out that "in the decade since 1955, we find as of today that the case rate for all types of polio dropped in the United States by an almost unbelievable 99.8 per cent.

"But none of these achievements would have been possible without that unique American phenomenon called 'voluntarism,' by which ordinary men and women in this country and everywhere joined hands with medical scientists and gave their dollars and dimes to create the weapon that conquered polio."

A live-virus oral vaccine developed by Dr. Albert Sabin, whose research also was supported by the March of Dimes, was introduced during the latter part of 1961 and in 1962. Further declines in polio incidence were registered in 1962 (910 cases), 1963 (449 cases) and 1964 (121 cases).

Last year, the spokesman added, 16 states and the District of Columbia did not report a single case of polio. Indeed, the only epidemic, if it could be called that, was not among humans at all. The largest single outbreak of the disease involved two gorillas and an orangutan at Yerkes Primate Center, Orange Park, Fla. This year only two polio cases in humans were reported throughout the country as of early March.

Public health authorities agree that the decade 1955-'64 has closed with all polio under control in the United States, which is to say that it is no longer a public health problem. There will always be a few cases scattered over the face of the land. But the feared days and nights that parents endured, the frantic rush of teams of doctors and nurses to areas savagely hit by this plague, the shuttered schools and churches and theaters, the barricaded beaches, the mounting polio casualty lists—those horrors and terrors all belong to the past.

Polio has just about vanished.

PATRIOTIC SOCIETY HERE TO OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY

The John Graham Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will observe its fortieth anniversary June 12, it is noted. The society was organized here June 12, 1965, at the home of Mrs. Joe M. Davidson by Mrs. Eugene H. Ray, state regent of the Kentucky society.

Organizing members were Mrs. George P. Archer, Mrs. W. R. Callihan, Mrs. Joe M. Davidson, Mrs. Grace D. Ford, Mrs. A. C. Harlowe, Mrs. Charles Humphreys, Mrs. Will H. Layne, Mrs. C. Y. Ligon, Miss Sallie Gatewood Ligon, Mrs. A. J. May, Miss Maureen Mayo, Mrs. Homer Salisbury, Mrs. O. W. Van Patten, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Wells. Cut-of-state guests were Mrs. John Graham Johns, of Winchester, Mrs. Everett Sowards, Mrs. John Scott Miller and Mrs. Evan Thomas, members of the Pikeville chapter.

Elected to office at this organizational meeting of the John Graham Chapter were Mrs. Joe M. Davidson, regent; Mrs. Emma Johns Archer, vice-regent; Mrs. Ada W. Harlowe, recording secretary; Mrs. Osa Fitzpatrick Ligon, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Gertrude Nelson Callihan, treasurer; Mrs. Grace D. Ford, historian; Mrs. Elizabeth Archer Wells, chaplain.

The Chapter charter was signed by Florence H. Becker, president-general; Helen R. Pouch, organizing secretary general; and Hattie Mae Hansford Arnold, state regent of Kentucky. The charter, completed and delivered one year after the organization of the chapter here, contained these members: Emma Johns Archer, Virginia Davidson Arnold, Gertrude Nelson Callihan, Ethel Salisbury Cross, Anna Layne Davidson, Fanny Mayo Fitzpatrick, Grace D. Ford, Edith Fitzpatrick, Judith Fitzpatrick Friend, Chattie Layne Fitzpatrick, Rosamond Parsons Fitzpatrick, Ada W. Harlowe, Sallie D. Humphreys, Lucille Mayo Herndon, Winnie F. Johns, Osa

Fitzpatrick Ligon, Sallie Gatewood Ligon, Olga May Latta, Julia Mayo May, Elizabeth Goble Moles, Maude Salisbury Mayo, Marion Mayo Salisbury, Bess Salisbury, Bitty Salisbury, Elizabeth Leete Stephens, Anna Harmon Stumbo, Lida Davidson Spradlin, Lula Davidson Trautman, Mary Archer Van Patten and Elizabeth Archer Wells.

The John Graham Chapter, named for a Revolutionary War soldier who laid out Prestonsburg, then Preston's Station, for Col. John Preston on a 100,000-acre land grant, contributed heavily to the local war effort in World War II. It has raised $5,212.87 for blood plasma for the American Red Cross, and filled 900 "Buddy Bags" for members of the armed services. One member contributed 7,704 hours of knitting for the chapter and was given recognition by the state and national society. The chapter now has a membership of 48.

The purpose of the Daughters of the American Revolution is to perpetuate the memory and spirit of the men and women who achieved American independence, to promote as an object of primary importance institutions for the general diffusion of knowledge and to cherish, maintain and extend the institutions of American freedom and to foster patriotism.

The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution has a membership of 185,000 in 3,000 chapters distributed over 50 states. It was organized 73 years ago.

WHO IS the BEST
For LAW and ORDER?

In all political campaigns an effort is made to twist the truth. Candidates for public office, trying to get in at any cost, will twist facts and figures and use them to their advantage. Yet they offer nothing on which people can rely. Such an article appeared last week in the Floyd County Times. We think it should be answered by asking these questions:

A CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY ATTORNEY IS NOW CITY ATTORNEY OF PRESTONSBURG—WHAT HAS BEEN DONE TO CLEAN UP THE TRAFFIC OF ILLEGAL LIQUOR IN PRESTONSBURG?

ANSWER: The very first liquor case to come before the City Court was settled by allowing the defendant to pay a $20.00 fine, the 30-day jail sentence was probated and things remain the same.

The City Attorney has the same power as the County Attorney in fines, jail sentences, power to enjoin the operation of places and property convicted of bootlegging.

NOT A SINGLE ACT HAS BEEN TAKEN BY THE CITY ATTORNEY TO CONTROL OR REMEDY BOOTLEGGING. ASK YOURSELF—IS THIS A STAND FOR LAW AND ORDER?

As County Attorney, Barkley J. Sturgill has used the power of injunction to close bootlegging places in Floyd county for the first time in HISTORY.

The following places have been closed during the last four years: The Shamrock Club, The Sea Cafe, The Sportsmen's Club, The Old Bath House at McDowell, the Sugar Shack at Bosco, and several automobiles and trucks have been impounded and taken out of the liquor traffic. We ask the people to look around and see what candidate for County Attorney the convicted bootleggers are supporting for County Attorney.

We further suggest that you ask the ministers, church groups, P.-T.A. groups and all people interested in the fight against crime and bootlegging where your County Attorney, Barkley J. Sturgill has stood in this fight.

The answer will be, FOR LAW AND ORDER.

We are satisfied with the stand of Barkley J. Sturgill on the prosecution of all crimes. We know that his efforts have kept the liquor syndicate from taking over in Floyd county. We believe the liquor problem is the reason for the political campaign now going on and the power struggle for liquor and organized crime remains a great problem for us all.

It is easy to sit on the side lines and criticize your County Officials about crime and problems of delinquency, but the big question is: Would a change make things better?

We think not and ask you to vote for and support a man who stands for LAW and ORDER IN FLOYD COUNTY.

SOIL CONVERSION

"No, It Wasn't the H-Bomb, Just the Result of Soil Erosion"

Suspend 150 Students In Menifee Walkout

Frenchburg, Ky. — About 150 Menifee county high school students were suspended yesterday morning for defying a Menifee County Board of Education ultimatum to return to school.

They will not be reinstated until they come before the board with their parents to request that the suspension be lifted, Superintendent George Alice Motley said.

Miss Motley announced their suspension to the students in the high school parking lot after they refused to attend classes.

The order applies, she told reporters, to any student who participated in yesterday's demonstrations, held to protest the filing of oyster proceedings against Jack A. Allen, Allen was suspended last week by the board as principal of Menifee county high school and elementary school.

But comparison with national figures is difficult, he said, because FBI statistics no longer are compiled by cities.

Kentucky Crime Increased in '64

Frankfort, Ky. — Almost all categories of crime investigated by state police last year showed increases over 1963, Director James Bassett said yesterday.

But comparison with national figures is difficult, he said, because FBI statistics no longer are compiled by cities.

However, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said the nation's crime rate has increased almost four times faster than the population in the past five years.

Percentage increases in 1963 in Kentucky:

Grand larceny 23, murder 14, rape 17, other sex offenses 46, car theft 11, illegal liquor sales 45, illegal liquor transportation 8, carrying concealed weapons 19.

The only decline was 4% in possession of illegal liquor.

Only state police activity is included. They have detective jurisdiction in all except the largest cities.

What My Religion Means To Me

(No. 5 in a series of Pre-Easter articles sponsored by the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club)
BY JIMMY J. DEROSSETT
(Community Methodist Church)

I think too often we think of our religion as something we put on when Sunday comes and wear for two hours, and then put away for the rest of the week, not to be worn again until the next Sunday. It is what our country was founded on, what our laws are based on, the way our lives should be lived.

In this season of the year, we think of the days leading up to the crucifixion and resurrection of our Lord and Savior. We think of the followers of Christ—how they must have felt after they had gone through the horror of Calvary. They were completely and utterly defeated. At this point they were a hopeless group of men, but on the third day the stone was rolled away. The tomb was empty—their Lord was alive, as He had promised them He would be.

How essential it is that we become captive of this truth; the disciples could have faith now for anything the future might hold, because their Lord had risen. In a very real sense He came alive; they came alive. Hope, longing, desire were replaced by trust, faith and certainty. Whatever He had said before, they knew would surely come to pass. They remembered the words: "If I do not go away, the Counselor will not come to you; but if I go, I will send him to you." And they believed; thus, knowing the joy of His Resurrection, Christ with them, they now believed His promise to send the Spirit, Christ in them. They would no longer be men searching for something, but men shouting about something.

They would not be men pursuing truth, but men proclaiming truth. This is what is so wonderful about our religion. We serve a Savior who is alive today, who is sitting at the right hand of God making intercession in our behalf. He is with us in our happiest hour. He is with us though we walk through the valley of the shadow of death. He is with us when we are sick. He is with us always. He is a friend who is closer than a brother. This is why my religion is so real and meaningful to me.

Former Auxier Woman Dies at West Van Lear While Visiting Parents

Mrs. Jessie Crum Adkins, 45, of Detroit, Michigan, died suddenly March 19 while on a visit to her parents' home at West Van Lear. She had been in ill health for some time, but her death was unexpected.

Mrs. Adkins was the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. John Crum, of West Van Lear. She was married on March 30, 1935 to Leroy Adkins, former resident of Auxier.

Besides her husband, she is survived by one son, Danny Lee, of Belleville, Michigan; two sisters, Mrs. Kelly Blair, of Dayton, Ohio, and Mrs. Martha Belcher, of Van Lear; one brother, Leonard Crum, of Dayton, Ohio, and her parents, Rev. and Mrs. John Crum, of West Van Lear.

Funeral services were held March 22 at the Cherry Grove Baptist Church, with the ministers of that church officiating. Burial followed in the Cumbco cemetery. Mrs. Adkins was a native of Johnson county and a former resident of Auxier.

Relatives from out of town attending the funeral of Mrs. Adkins were Mrs. P. O. Adkins, Mrs. Virgie Berry, Mr. and Mrs. Savage Allen, of Covington, Kentucky; Mr. and Mrs. Everette Adkins, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Adkins, of Florence, Kentucky; Harry Adkins, of Bromley, Kentucky; Mrs. Dorothy Ruff, of Atlanta, Georgia; Mrs. Margaret Rundell, Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Blair, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Crum and daughter, Mrs. Calloway Baker, of Dayton, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Estep, of Huntington, West Virginia, and Mr. and Mrs. Danny Lee Adkins, of Belleville, Michigan.

TIDBITS of KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.
Western Kentucky Teachers' College, Bowling Green, Ky.

"THE FEISTY DOG"

At Fidelity, when I was a boy, a smallish, skinny, nosy little dog was called a "feisty (or feist)." Since pure-bred dogs of any kind or size were unknown, our animals were just plain dogs, with no aristocratic backgrounds. "Feisty dog," then, did not designate a breed so much as a type, a variety. And there were, first and last, lots of dogs I knew that could have been called feists.

Long before my time the word was a sort of dirty one. I have known a few people who still feel that it is not exactly nice to call a dog by this name, but nobody of this group of nice people has ever told me why. I have pretended ignorance in order to find out, if possible, why there is a sort of hush-hush about feists.

But, aside from the dirty suggestion about the name originally, a feist dog in my youth was always a bit too friendly, too show-off. Rarely did it have any merits to justify its wanting to be noticed; it was just a smallish dog, with nothing to recommend it. I like the adjective applied to it, "feisty." That word, if understood, says more than dozens of sentences strung together. Some elderly women used the word to mean that a feisty girl was flirting with her reputation, if she were not pretty far gone in breaking some of the commandments. In general, however, a feisty girl was just a playful one, not necessarily a bad one. She had, often, more social grace than some of the others; she did not seem afraid of strangers and could hold her own in the wit combats of her own group, too. Very rarely did I hear the word applied to boys, but there were a few who were so called, and rightly so. Some boys, at Fidelity, at least, could soon be the life of the party, either intentionally or because the average boy was pretty lumpy in society. It happened that one or two such easy-going fellows were not too good morally and thus caused a slight renewal of the older ugly meaning of the word.

Recently, in looking over my files, I found that the word "feist" as applied to the sort of dog I have been talking about has been recorded in eleven states, from Virginia and North Carolina on the east to Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska on the west, with all the intermediate states. That spread would indicate to me that the word was brought over by the English and Scotch-Irish and kept because of its usefulness. Besides the solid group of states in the South and lower Middle West, some far-away places like Colorado and Oregon know the word and its adjective. It would be a safe bet that some Virginia-North Carolina stock took the word into their Far Western homes, and their descendants still know and use the word. And, it is good to know, "feisty" appears in all these areas, too. Frankly, just what word would you use to mean feisty except the word itself. If you have never known it, you have missed a descriptive word that should, even now, be added to your vocabulary.

Away back in the early days of World War II, I was on my way to a speaking appointment in Tennessee. Gasoline was too scarce to use; I was riding a bus. Fortunately, nearly everybody on the bus when I boarded it seemed to know everybody else; therefore there was a lot of good-humored talking among the crowd aboard. One very attractive young woman seemed to get most of the attention; everybody called her "Feisty," and nothing else. It seemed to me as I listened to the banter that she must have been a Democrat in the Republican stronghold where most of the travelers got on. Several persons, men and women, assured her that she had lost her vote, for it was Election Day and she had said she voted before starting on her journey. I have never heard the word "feisty" used naturally since then, even though it is so useful. That forty-mile bus ride brought back a whole volume of memories, for I saw the Fidelity feists on parade. Most of them are now, like the ones of us who weren't feisty, pretty old; I wondered whether any of the ugly things prophesied about a few of them ever came true.

Corn Planting-Rate Valuable in Drought

Lexington, Ky.—When drought years occur as Kentucky farmers experienced in 1964, producers look anxiously at corn crops.

High plant-populations per acre (number of corn plants) probably will have a harder time than the more thinly planted corn crops, is their feeling.

But this is not so, says Dr. Frank Loeffel, U. K. Ag Experiment Station agronomist. The drought years of 1957 and of 1964 proved differently.

"In the drought year of 1957 corn crops planted at 8,000 plants an acre and given normal fertilization and management averaged 51 bushels an acre," he said. "Crops planted at 12,000 stalks an acre averaged 55.6 bushels and those at 16,000 stalks an acre, the same amount, 56.6 bushels." Similar results were recorded in 1964. The higher plant populations yielded better than the lower ones, despite the drought.

"There is no question that the higher plant populations in normal years—that is, normal rainfall years with average fertilization and good management—out-produce the lower populations. In a three-year test period, the 8,000 plants-an-acre averaged 63.4 bushels; the 12,000 rate, 82.4 bushels and the 16,000 rate, 85 bushels."

Forest Fire Record May Be Best Ever

Frankfort, Ky.—The record of the first three months indicates this year may well be the state's best in forest fire control, Natural Resources Department officials said yesterday. During the first three months this year, 538 fires burned 7,294 acres, they said, compared with 690 fires and 12,865 acres a year ago.

BOWE OF WAYLAND, KY., FOR YOUR NEXT MAGISTRATE, DIST. 2 THE SAME YESTERDAY AND TODAY SAFE -- SOBER -- SOUND

TO THE VOTERS OF MAGISTERIAL DIST. 2

My Friends:

If nominated and elected as your Magistrate of Dist. No. 2, I promise you honest and faithful service.

I was reared in the rough coal fields of Right Beaver, Wayland, Kentucky, the most neglected town in Floyd county. I certainly know the hardships of life. After my father's death in a coal mine, the late L. F. Bowe, of Prestonsburg, I, at the age of 16, worked in and around the mine to help support my mother, my brother, and sisters, who are all now deceased except one sister who now lives at Wayland, Mrs. Willard Ratliff.

I wish to thank the voters and supporters who have been kind enough to encourage me in this campaign. By this time I am quite sure that you all know that I stand for fair and honest elections.

I will not promise to you all kind of false inducements, and unfair promises that the office of Magistrate cannot cover and cannot carry out. The office of Magistrate is a very important one to the people of the district as they vote the money to the fiscal court to carry on the many developments and improvements in magisterial districts and county.

As your Magistrate in District No. 2, I will at all times vote for the best interest of my district, and the much needed improvements and developments of our district and county. I will cooperate with the Fiscal Court and all civic groups and clubs to this end, and get the things done we so badly need. I will at all times go by the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, and the Kentucky Revised Statutes, and all sections pertaining to civic and criminal procedure, and by the laws of the State Bar Association, and the rulings and opinions of the Attorney General's office.

I am a member of the Baptist Church. I am a member of the Democratic Club of Kentucky.

Some candidates will tell you they need the office. It is not a question whether the man needs the office, but whether the office needs the man. We all have our ups and downs, and usually more downs than ups. I have found life is full of misfortune. I am a disabled World War II veteran, honorably discharged Staff Sergeant. There comes a time in everyone's life when a man doubts his wisdom, his ability, and his future. It is impossible to avoid such times, but what we have to do is to reject such doubts, and as Emerson said, "Carry himself in the presence of all opposition."

Don't be hood-winked, don't be misled by false promises. Don't listen to campaign smears and false propaganda. The encouragement I received from my mother has been ever present with me and all that I ever expect to accomplish in life I owe to my mother, kinfolk, relatives, and friends who have been kind enough to assist me and support me in my darkest hours, and with that help and assistance in this campaign, we shall win — we will not fail.

I promise you that any support you shall give me in this campaign, you will not regret. In these crucial times and crucial next four years in District No. 2, I stand for better government, more progress in District No. 2 and Floyd county.

Large enough to serve you, and small enough to know you. With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God gives me to see the right.

A qualified candidate.

Sincerely and respectfully, your friend,

ELMER BOWE

PERSPECTIVE

BY ROBERT J. HASTINGS

HONESTY AND ACCURACY

A battery of computers in a small red-brick building on the outskirts of Martinsburg, West Virginia, is making a lot of taxpayers think twice in filling their income tax returns. For these computers work around the clock, every hour of the day, every day of the year, searching for intentional and unintentional errors and fraud.

Since the computers started operation three years ago, over a thousand persons have gotten in touch with Internal Revenue Service, confessing false returns in previous years. Some of these have confessed intentional fraud going back as far as 1944.

"Automatic data processing," notes one expert, "has done more for the honesty of the individual than 2,000 years of Christianity."

But we seriously question this claim. True, a computer may encourage taxpayers to be more accurate in reporting their incomes and deductions. But this does not mean that those same persons have become honest overnight. The truly honest person does not wait for a computer, a detective, a law, or a policeman to force him to do what is right. He is honest because it is his nature and his character to do so, computer or no computer.

Computers encourage more accurate tax returns? Yes. Computers produce character and integrity in a man? We doubt it!

And now for my feature trick of the evening.

Kentucky Beef Cow Numbers Increase

Lexington, Ky. — Kentucky showed an increase of seven percent in beef cow numbers during 1964, compared to a nationwide average of 3.36 percent. "This increase is most satisfactory," Dr. W. P. Garrigus, chairman of the U. K. Ag Experiment Station animal science department, said this week. "Because beef cows are the 'factory' of the beef industry and that's what we want in this state."

He noted that in the last 10 years, Kentucky increased its beef cow numbers 147 percent, from 341,000 to 393,000. The state has led the nation in this category, he said, for several years.

The Blue Grass state now ranks 14th among the 50 states in total beef cattle numbers. Those ahead of her are the traditional and sometimes larger geographical areas such as Texas (No. 1 in the nation) and California, Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota, South Dakota, Illinois, Montana and others.

As of January 1, 1964, Kentucky had 1,731,000 beef cattle; as of January 1 this year, it was 1,767,000. This would show a net gain in all beef cattle population of only 36,000 animals; but this includes a small decline in beef animals other than beef cows, Garrigus pointed out. "The beef cow population (cows more than two years old) showed the 55,000 or seven percent increase mentioned previously."

"Reaching the desired animal farm income of a billion dollars in Kentucky seems to depend on a doubling of gross income from the beef industry, the second largest agricultural enterprise, to a new total of at least $300 million a year."

In 1964, Kentucky passed Mississippi to gain 14th place in beef cattle numbers. Only seven years ago, Kentucky ranked 26th in this category.

"The University beef cattle staff predicts that Kentucky soon will be among the 'Big 10' of beef producers. To attain this goal, such traditional cattle states as Colorado, Montana, Minnesota and North Dakota must be surpassed. Kentucky has made outstanding progress with its cooperative feeder program, on-the-farm beef-herd performance testing, beef bull performance testing and use of ultrasonic devices to select more red meat and less fat in beef herds. The Kentucky Cattleman's Association, the Kentucky Feeder Calf Association and the Kentucky Livestock Improvement Association are vigorously promoting these testing tools so Kentucky beef producers continually will produce a better product at less cost, and so the rapidly expanding beef-cow factory system is built on a sound and competitive basis."

TO PREACH AT AUXIER

The Rev. Bill Pitts, of Columbus, Ohio, will be preaching at the Auxier Free Will Baptist Church, beginning with a 7 p.m. service tonight (Thursday) and continuing through Saturday night. The pastor, the Rev. James Sturgill, extends a welcome to the public to attend the services.

KY. MOVES UP LADDER EDUCATIONALLY, YET LOW

Louisville, Ky. (ENS)—Kentucky has moved up slightly in three important categories on this year's state-by-state list of educational rankings, but in all three cases it remains near the bottom of the list.

According to the National Education Association's just-published "Rankings of the States, 1965," Kentucky has bettered its position by achieving these ranks among the 50 states:

Forty-third place in estimated amount spent for the current 1964-'65 term. The actual figure is $323. Last year Kentucky spent $300 and was in 45th place.

Forty-fourth place in percentage of 1961-'62 ninth-graders who will be public high school graduates this year. The actual figure is 61.5 per cent.

This means a lower dropout rate because in 1963 (the graduation date used in last year's NEA rankings) only 58.2 per cent of Kentucky's 1959-'60 ninth-graders got their diplomas, putting the state in 48th place.

Forty-fifth place in estimated average 1964-'65 salaries of classroom teachers in public schools. The actual figure is $4,750. Last year Kentucky ranked 46th with a $4,400 average salary.

In another major category—per-capita state and local government expenditures for local schools, including capital outlay, for 1963—Kentucky remained in 45th place with a $71.71 expenditure. For 1962 the per-capita sum spent was $69.05.

The NEA research study contains tables on 106 topics that can be used in various combinations to give a general indication of the educational quality of a state's schools.

Kentucky is ranked first in only one table—the one showing percentage of increase in estimated average salary of instructional staff (classroom teachers, administrators, and other instructional personnel) over the 10-year period from 1954-'55 to 1964-'65.

In that length of time Kentucky's percentage of increase was 90.3 per cent, with salaries going from the 1954-'55 average of $2,496 to the present average of $4,750.

Mainly responsible for this strong showing were the enactment into law of a foundation program for education and the passage of a state sales-tax that made more state money available for public schools. Salary increases at the state level have resulted from legislative efforts of the Kentucky Education Association.

Kentucky's showing in the four other categories outlined above is far below the national average in all instances. The tables give these further details:

Estimated amount spent for each pupil in average daily attendance—National average of $483; New York highest with $700; Mississippi lowest with $273.

Public high school graduates in 1964-'65 as percentage of ninth graders in 1961-'62—National average of 73.7 per cent; California highest with 88.9 per cent; New Mexico lowest with 57.2 per cent.

Estimated average salaries of classroom teachers in public schools—National average of $6,235; Alaska highest with $8,360 (Alaska dollar amounts should be reduced by about one-fourth, however, to make purchasing power there comparable to figures from other states); California second highest with $7,900; Mississippi lowest with $4,013.

Per capita state and local government expenditures for local schools—National average of $99.69; Alaska highest with $153.95; Wyoming second highest with $139.68; Mississippi lowest with $61.87.

100 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

The Civil War in Kentucky

By JOE JORDAN

One hundred years ago this week residents of Kentucky received, first, an incorrect report that Gen. Robert E. Lee had surrendered the Army of Northern Virginia to Gen. Philip H. Sheridan on April 7, and then the true report that he had surrendered to Gen. U. S. Grant at Appomattox Court House on April 9. There were comparatively few Kentuckians among the 27,805 Confederate officers and men surrendered by Lee.

Lee's surrender, then, did not mean an immediate end to the war for the great majority of Kentuckians who were serving in either the Union Army or the Confederate Army. Members of surrendered Confederate forces were permitted to start home as soon as their paroles had been given, but the Union soldiers were retained in the service for an orderly mustering out later. Although Lee's surrender convinced a great many people that the Confederacy was doomed and further resistance was useless, it did not so convince President Jefferson Davis—and the South still had more than 140,000 soldiers in the field and under arms.

According to Collins' "History of Kentucky," an army which Gen. Joseph E. Johnston commanded in North Carolina included "a large portion of the Confederate troops from Kentucky." Johnston would not surrender until April 26. His army numbered at that time 31,243, and thus was a larger force than the one Lee surrendered. There were Kentuckians also among the 42,293 which Lt. Gen. Richard C. Taylor had in the Department of Alabama, not surrendered until May 4, and others with Gen. Edmund Kirby Smith in the Trans-Mississippi, not surrendered until May 26.

Three brigades of Kentucky cavalry, including the survivors of Morgan's old cavalry command, were in southwestern Virginia under the command of Confederate Brig. Gen. John Echols, who had started marching east in an attempt to join up with Lee's army. Brig. Gen. Basil W. Duke, commanding one of the Kentucky brigades, wrote after the war: "The command had halted for the night; Gen. Echols and I were dismounted and standing upon the turnpike surrounded by the soldiers. Just then Lt. James B. Clay, who had been sent ahead three days before to gain information, galloped up and handed Gen. Echols a dispatch. The latter's face flushed, and then grew deadly pale. The dispatch was from Gen. Lomax, and in these words: 'Gen. Lee surrendered this morning at or near Appomattox Court House. I am trying with my own division and the remnants of Fitz Lee's and Rosser's divisions to arrange to make a junction with you.'"

"After a brief conference we agreed that the news should be concealed from the men until the next day, if possible. . . . But to conceal such a fact when even one man was aware of it was impossible. Before we had concluded our brief conversation, we knew from the hum and stir in the anxious, dark-browed crowds nearest us, from the excitement which soon grew almost to tumult, that the terrible tidings had gotten abroad."

Kermit E. Slone, 57, Of Wayland, Claimed; Heart Attack Victim

Kermit E. Slone, 57, of Wayland, died Friday at home. He was a victim of a heart attack. Mr. Slone, a former Knott and Floyd county teacher, retired two years ago as an employee of a gas company. He was a member of the Masonic and I.O.O.F. fraternities.

He was a son of the late Green and Drinta Gibson Slone. His wife, Marie Bradley Slone, survives. Surviving sons and daughters are Kermit Slone, Jr., Dayton, Ohio, Keith Slone, in California, Miss Linda Carol Slone, Paintsville, Miss Sandra Sue Slone, Morehead State College, Miss Mary Catherine Slone, John Marshall Slone and Walter Scott Slone, all at home. Surviving brothers and sisters are Tivis Slone, Trimble Slone and Mrs. Tina Caseloff, all of Mousie, Cullin Slone, of Pippapasses, Mrs. Vesta Martin and Mrs. Versa McDowell, both of Dayton, Ohio.

Funeral rites were conducted Monday at 10 a.m. from the Wilson Creek Regular Baptist Church, ministers of that church officiating. Burial was made in the Bradley cemetery at Wayland under the direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

CARD OF THANKS
We sincerely thank each one who helped in any way upon the death of our father, Leonard Jarrell, of Water Gap, Kentucky, especially those who visited him in the hospital, each one for the final contributions, all who were so attentive at the funeral home; every one who visited the home, and all who made telephone calls. We especially thank Rev. Amburgy for his words of comfort, and his choir, and James Carter for his great sympathy and kindness.

THE FAMILY

INSTITUTE HONORS CHIEF
Frankfort, Ky.—Ralph C. Pickard, executive director of the Kentucky Water Pollution Control Commission, received an award yesterday at Washington on the National Clay Pipe Institute. It was in recognition of outstanding service in the field of water pollution control. A native of Mayfield, Pickard came to the State Health Department in 1953. He also is director of environmental health.

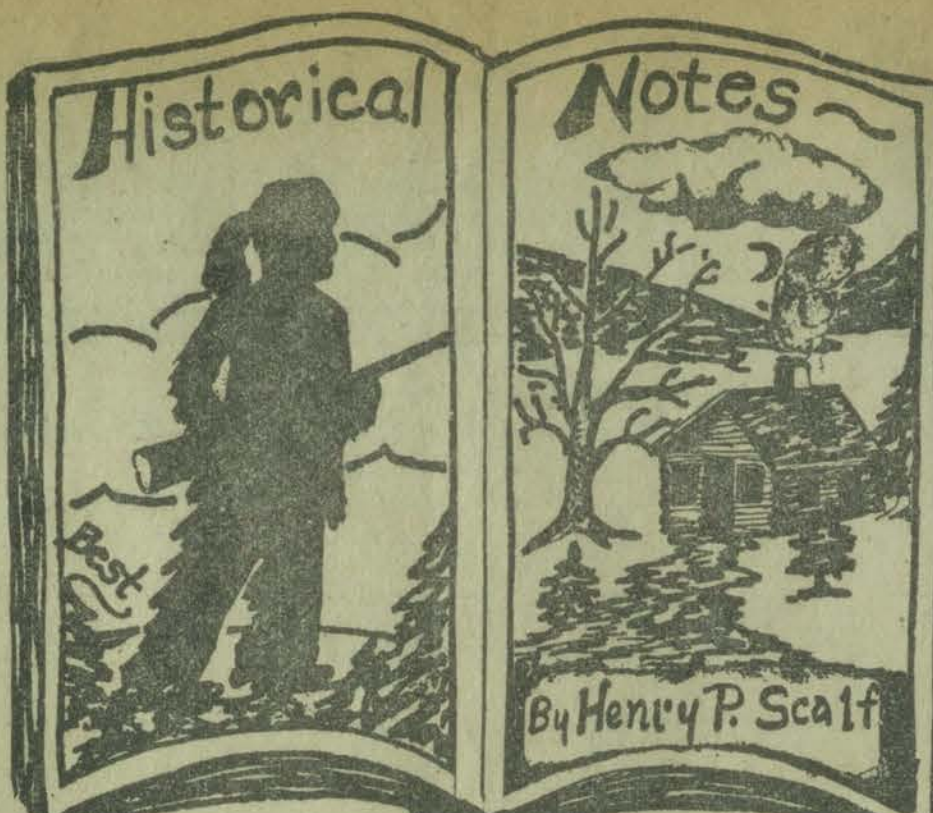

SHERIFF'S SALE
B. & D. Motor Co., Pff.
Vs. Order of Sale
Berlin Hall, Def.
(Execution No. 4817)

By virtue of a judgment entered in the above-styled cause at the September, 1964, term of the Floyd Circuit Court, I, or one of my deputies, will on Monday, April 26, 1965, at the hour of 10 a.m., at the courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, offer for sale the following described tract of land, or so much thereof as may be required to satisfy plaintiff's debt, interest and costs, plus the cost of advertising:

The property of Berlin and Stella Hall, purchased from Ervin Little and Elizabeth Little, and conveyed by deed dated January 27, 1962, lying and being on Shop Fork of Otter Creek, Floyd county, Kentucky; beginning at a Columbia poplar tree near the well, thence across the hollow to a drain, thence up the drain to an iron stake, thence around the hill to a hollow, thence down the hollow to the point of beginning so as to include all land within the said boundary as conveyed in deed recorded in Deed Book 179, at Page 61, Floyd County Clerk's office.

Amount of debt to be satisfied, $727.27, plus $43.90 costs and 6% interest from May 16, 1964, until paid, and the advertising costs and sheriff's fee. Sale will be made on a credit of three months, with bond required of the full force and effect of a replavin bond to insure full payment of debt and all costs in this action.

Given under my hand, this 7th day of April, 1965.
HENRY C. HALE, Sheriff
Floyd County, Ky.

VAUGHAN FAMILY

A letter from Charles V. Kappen, professor of journalism, San Jose State College, San Jose, California, is an interesting dissertation on the Vaughan family.

He writes:
"Last summer while on my annual trek to Northwest Arkansas I discussed the project of writing a history of the Vaughan family with another descendant of the Vaughans, Mrs. Cora Pinkley Call, who, as you probably know, is a writer and a former resident of the Ozark Writers Guild. Mrs. Call and I are related through the Vaughan family. She probably knows just how and I had planned to learn next summer. As it is, we at least could be referred to in the language of the hills as 'kissin' cousins.'"

"My mother was born Charlotte (or Charlotte) Tempest Vaughan, but always has been known to everyone as Lotie (Vaughan) Kappen. She married my father, William Gilbert Kappen, in I believe, 1907. Next to the youngest child (Churbie was youngest), my mother was born in Clifty, Madison county, Arkansas, to Dallas and Melvina (Houston) Vaughan—I believe in 1877 or 1898—but she herself could give you that information. She lives at 74 Wall Street, Eureka Springs, Arkansas.

"I say next to the youngest, and that was of 11 children. One of my two brothers, James Douglas Kappen, who now lives in Torrance, California, was named for my mother's two brothers, James and Douglas. James Vaughan died just a few short years ago but Douglas, still alive, lives at Clifty, Arkansas. Most of the girls were given nicknames which were used instead of their real names. Mary Clementine, for example, who married John Branham, dairy proprietor, was known as "Mollie." Elizabeth Sally Vaughan, whose brother Charlie Perry, whose brother Charley still lives in Eureka Springs, was known by her middle name, "Sally." Others that I can recall off-hand were "Churbie" Vaughan Rhodes, "Cordie" (Mrs. Tom Wright), "Nanny."

"Mary Clementine (Mollie) Branham, died May 2, 1963; her sister, Elizabeth Sally (Vaughan) Perry died January 29, 1964. I am not certain if her sister, Mrs. Cora (Vaughan) Davis is still living or not but believe she is. Her home is in Portland, Oregon. Aunt Sally died in Auburn, California, and Aunt Molly Branham in Fayetteville, Arkansas, where she made her home with her daughter, Miss Mary Ruth Branham. If Mrs. Davis isn't living, then my mother and Douglas Vaughan, of Clifty, Arkansas, are the only two living.

"My mother's cousin, first or second, Floyd (Arky) Vaughan, was for years star shortstop with the Pittsburgh Pirates and later on the Brooklyn Dodgers. He was drowned in a boating accident after his retirement. His family (and I believe his parents are still living) resides in Fullerton, California.

"Nine of us children were born to William Gilbert and Charlotte Tempest (Lotie) Vaughan Kappen. All are living. I list them in order of birth:
"1. Ethel Irene, now Mrs. Joe White, Pine Bluff, Arkansas.
"2. Charles Vaughan Kappen, professor of journalism, San Jose State College, San Jose, California.
"3. Junior William Kappen, Hawthorne, California. A-1 diemaker for Douglas Aircraft Co., El Segundo, California.
"4. Margaret, now Mrs. William Johnson, Berryville, Arkansas.
"5. James Douglas Kappen, Torrance, California. Foreman at Los Angeles International Airport for TWA.
"6. Herbert Hoover Kappen, Orange, California. Herbert retired this spring from the U. S. Marines. I believe he plans to retire to Fayetteville, Arkansas.
"7. Paul Kappen, Norwalk, California. Manager of the Norwalk Hardware Company.
"8. Robert Kappen, Eureka Springs, Arkansas. He is a U. S. postal employee there.
"9. Kenneth Harry, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. Kenny earned his M.A. degree last year in California and presently is head of the history department of the largest high school in Oklahoma City.

"I taught at the University of Tulsa, University of Wisconsin, and Shreveport American University (England) before coming to San Jose. I earned a B.A. degree from the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, and M.A. degree from University of Wisconsin.

"I haven't kept up with many branches of the family. I do know that "Churbie's" daughter (I believe she is a Mrs. Wilson) now lives in Norwalk, California. Jack's sons — Richard, Dave, Jack, Walter and Eugene, all live

Experience Speaking

BY W. FOSTER "PAP" ADAMS
Journalist in Residence
Morehead State College

When I was in Moscow a few years ago I noted the black and dirty outlines on many walls which indicated that at one time two pictures had been hanging side by side.

This was what some people refer to as mute evidence. Not being a student in foreign affairs I was curious to know what was happening. A day or two before I became aware of the dirty fresco, I had seen the picture of Joe Stalin hanging beside that of Lenin.

Over night the scene changed. There must have been considerable brooding among the higher ups before the edict went out to purge the walls of any evidence that at one time or another they were happy to play footsie with Comrade Stalin.

But all of Joe had not been completely removed. We were permitted to see what was said to be his lifeless body lying in sweet repose in that attractive final resting place, just slightly removed from the Kremlin wall. Now they say that there is an empty bed in the tomb. Joe doesn't stay there any more.

We were 19 of about 10,000 who were in Red Square on the morning we made the tearless trek past the form of the two distinguished Reds, one of whom had lost his prestige and was about to lose his bed.

The other 9,981 were school children lined up in every direction, shifting from one foot to another, and trying to sidestep about a million pigeons which had no earthly regard for what or whom they used as objects for sanitary purposes.

The fellow with whom I was walking was nearest to the guard at the tomb and we were speculating out loud about what or whom we could expect to see. This guard didn't appreciate our irreverence and shushed us into a cold silence. So down the steps we went. The descent was made slowly but not over a great distance.

At the bottom of the steps at the floor landing we were admonished to be becomingly respectful and proceed at the funeral-like pace toward the encased bodies of the two men.

If they were in the glass it was the cleanest glass I had ever seen. Had there been no glass-obsacle we would have been able to reach down and grab a foot of either of the silent sentinels of world communism.

There was no urge to do so, but one could not subdue his personal feelings, and they were not too high. So we passed on, and as I have said, there was no walling from my group nor was there a tear shed.

Certainly this is no reproach against the crowd with which I was traveling. They were family people, good-hearted and good-natured Americans, imbued with an overflowing amount of the milk of human kindness. So the procession moved out into the broad daylight and our group gathered for a conference. It took a little time to collect our thoughts and impressions of what the experience afforded.

The man who made the most memorable comment explained his feeling. You see, by crowding a little a third body could have been fitted in with Stalin and Lenin. Granted that it would have been a sort of tight fit.

My friend was not exactly carried away by what he had seen but he rallied his presence of mind sufficiently long to say, "There's room for another rascal in that cage."

We asked him whom he would prefer for the honor. He named the man.

I have speculated in recent years if the dirty frames on the walls have ever been brushed out.

in Portland, Oregon. Another son, Luther E. Davis, died December 14, 1957, in Portland.

"Besides May Ruth Branham, of Fayetteville, Arkansas, Aunt Molly's living children are Mrs. Gladys Webb, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma; Christine (Mrs. Harvey Chandler, Rogers, Arkansas; and Mrs. Mildred Branham Kennedy, Huntsville, Arkansas. A son, Cecil Branham, died in 1963. His home was in Bentonville, Arkansas.

"Aunt Sally Perry's two sons live in California — Earl R. at Paradise, California, and John Perry at Santa Marguerita, California. Earl is retired now, was a machinist, John is a railroad engineer for the Southern Pacific Railway. Aunt Sally's daughters are Mrs. Frances Van Sant and Mrs. Helen Gilbert, Sacramento, California, and Mrs. Clara Rayner, of Arizona.

"The Times-Echo, newspaper of Eureka Springs, Arkansas, on page 5 of its January 2, 1964 issue, contained a story, 'Cherokee Camped at Blue Spring on Historical Trail of Tears,' which you may obtain by writing to the newspaper office. No street address is necessary as it is next door to the U. S. postoffice.

"I mention this because, as you have probably learned by now, one of the Vaughans married a Cherokee Indian princess. I believe it was my great-grandfather. That you would have to ask my mother or Mrs. Call about. They could give you the information.

"Mrs. Call could tell you of how the names, Vaughan, Todd, Harp, etc., came to be present on the plaque on the caves above the hardware store in Eureka Springs. The Vaughans, among others, as I understand it, took shelter there during the Civil War."

MRS. HOPKINS HONORED
Mrs. Willie D. Hopkins, of Butlerville, Indiana, a former Floyd countian, was honored on her 80th birthday with a dinner and family gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Barricklow at Greensburg, Indiana, March 28. Three daughters and one son, Nellie, Maxie, Octavia and Robert, were present. One son, Jeffie, of Butlerville, was absent as was one daughter, T/Sgt. Nettie Hopkins, of Egin Air Force Base, Florida. Dinner was served cafeteria style, with two birthday cakes, baked and decorated by her daughters. Several favorite hymns were sung by Rev. and Mrs. Homer Swindall.

Mrs. Hopkins received many gifts from her children, relatives and friends.

Our Yesterdays

(Items taken from files of The Floyd County Times of 30 and 20 years ago.)

Thirty Years Ago

(April 5, 1935)

Turman Isaacs, 63, and Bert T. Little, 24, were fatally wounded last Friday in a gunfight at Buckingham... Three hundred "relief workers" are to be employed at the task of removing slides and filling gullies caused by the recent flood in this county at a total outlay of $22,113... Within two days here last week Police Judge Alex H. Spradlin officiated at four marriages: Miss Clarabelle Turner and Otis Mills, of Wayland, and Miss Mary Martha McCarty, of Paintsville, and Raymond Fraley, of Drift, on Monday; Miss Patsie Triplett and Marvin Dixon, and Miss Nettie Ray and Kyle Reed, all of Wayland, on Tuesday... There died: John M. Spradlin, 82, Floyd native, March 23 at his Paintsville residence; Bud Wallace, about 69, March 23 at a Martin hospital; Mrs. Susan Pennington, 82, here March 27.

Twenty Years Ago

(April 5, 1945)

Winston Ford has the walls of a 60x110-foot building going up in what heretofore has been swampland lying between the Mayo Trail and the hillside at the upper limits of Prestonsburg. In the same stretch of low-lying land J. D. Collins and C. F. Rinehart are having fills made for possible post-war building... The week's casualty report: Killed in action—Sgt. Vigus M. Steele, formerly of this county, March 7 in Germany; missing—Pfc. Forrest Williams, of Banner, and Pfc. Bonnie Spradlin, of Bull Creek; wounded—Sgt. Robert L. Carver, of David, in Germany; Sgt. Joe T. Blackburn, of Orkney, on Luzon; Pvt. Riley E. Reynolds, of Beaver, on Luzon; Pfc. John Pershing Bentley, of Langley, in Germany; Pfc. Elmo Johnson, of Martin, in Italy; Pfc. Culver R. Robinson, of Garrett, in Italy... J. W. Hatcher, Prestonsburg insurance man, this week became West Virginia manager of the Kansas City Life Insurance Company... Troy Hughes, 44, was killed Saturday when hit by an auto near Lackey... Joe Cronin, manager of the Boston Red Sox, predicted this week that big Ray Patton, of Estill, will be a great baseball pitcher if he amounts to anything in the sport. Patton hurled the Louisville Colonels to a 5-4 victory recently over Baltimore in the Little World Series, and the Colonels' parent team, the Red Sox, are high on the Floyd countian's ability... Burl Spurlock last week sold the Union Wholesale Grocery Co. at Lancer to Charles Moore, of McDowell... Married: Miss Jeannette Gardner and Mr. Jewell D. Fitzpatrick, both of Prestonsburg, here March 31... There died: Rollen Shepherd, 17, formerly of David, March 20 at Rensselaer, Indiana; Allen Patton, 66, Wednesday at Maytown.

WOMAN'S GROUP MEETS

Alice Lloyd 'Voices' To Sing in Concerts At Fair This Month

The Woman's Society of the First Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs. Thomas Hereford Monday evening. The meeting was opened with prayer by Phyllis Ranier. The minutes were read and the treasurer's report was given. Eleanor Horn, the president, announced there will be a spring district meeting of the Woman's Society, April 20, at the First Methodist Church at Paintsville. Peggy Spurlock asked for the world banks to be turned in at the Circles. She also reminded everyone that all pledges are due. Regina Mayo reported on the Social Concerns committee. Following the business, Freda Dorton presented the program. She was assisted by Mable Jean Lemaster, Patsy Brown, Inez Hereford and Roslin Burchett. The hostess, Inez Hereford, served a dessert to Freda Dorton, Peggy Spurlock, Lucille Roberts, Roslin Burchett, Mable Jean Lemaster, Patsy Brown, Regina Mayo, Eleanor Horn, Phyllis Ranier, Stella Spurlock and Myrtle Pugsley.

Forty-five Alice Lloyd College students under the direction of Abner Greider will present the 1965 edition of "Voices from Appalachia" in three concerts at the New York World's Fair, April 22-23. The program will highlight a 6-day tour through Ohio, New York and Massachusetts.

World's Fair performances will be held in the Federal Pavilion on April 22 and the New York State Pavilion, April 23. The "Voices" have been invited to appear on the RCA closed-circuit color television "Fair Network" sometime during their two-day stay.

The choir's repertoire features Appalachian folk and religious music — including special arrangements by Mr. Greider of AMAZING GRACE, DEEP DOWN IN A VALLEY and LULLY TOO DUM. The concert schedule outside the New York City area will be published in early April.

some of the property was sold to a Letcher county coal operator. He was questioned, but denied any involvement, the detectives reported.

Taylor and Hardy gave this breakdown of the thefts:
Some fuse blasting caps were taken from Atlas Powder Co. near Grundy, Virginia.

About $4,000 worth of equipment was stolen from the Flanagan Dam project site at Clintwood, Virginia. Included was about 2 1/2 tons of dynamite, which was hauled away in a stolen dump truck.

The detectives said the truck was taken into Kentucky, the goods were unloaded, then the truck was returned to Virginia, where it was stripped of wheels and tires.

About $1,500 in the battery mine lights came from the Republic Steel Corp. mine in Pike county.

Another $1,000 in loot was identified as that from a service station at Pound, Virginia.

The other break-ins occurred at Holsted Construction Co. in Pike county and Virgie Oil & Power Co., also in Pike county.

Thursday morning, a window of the deserted building up a branch, some distance from the highway, was raised, although the doors were locked. The bloodhound was let inside the building and within a matter of a few seconds the dog froze at a closet and would not be moved. Sheriff Hale poked his head through an opening into the loft, and saw Armstrong hiding beside the chimney, the rifle in his hand. The fugitive surrendered at revolver point. The rifle was fully loaded, Hale said.

Armstrong said he had been hiding in the farmhouse two days. When he fled the jail he left, minus his shirt, but when captured he was warmly dressed in what was described as Army fatigues, including an extra pair of trousers.

He and his brother were jailed here March 5 and are held to face trial on a charge of post-office entry.

APPALACHIA FUNDS VOTED

Regional Development Object of Allocation; Technicality Raised

Washington, D. C.—The House voted $344,328,000 yesterday to finance the start of the Appalachian regional development program approved earlier this year.

The money was part of an omnibus $2,118,333,083 appropriation bill sent to the Senate by roll-call vote of 348 to 62.

Most of the new funds are for use during the remaining months of the fiscal year ending June 30. The Appalachian allotment was made available for an additional year and is $18,308,000 less than President Johnson had requested to boost the economy of the 11 states in the highlands area.

Except for one change, the House approved the allotments recommended by its Appropriations Committee last week.

A technicality raised by Rep. Robert L. F. Sikes, D-Fla., eliminated $7.5 million earmarked for one phase of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

The money would have been used by the Census Bureau to compile statistics on registration and voting, mainly in Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi.

another sort of contrast and winding up by proving that the modern age is all right, but it sorter got away from me. I got to thinking that just about any age is better than one in which men cry for food and wind up wanting to drop a million-dollar H-bomb down your chimney. And it also occurs to me that any age which produces a law that will permit an able-bodied voter to get an absentee ballot on a flimsy excuse and at the same time prevent an aged or sick mother or father from voting, for the simple reason that he or she can't get out of the house, much less out of the county, is (where did this sentence start, anyhow?) farther back than the hoss and buggy.

April 15 Deadline For Filing Reports Of Earnings for '64

April 15 is the deadline for social security beneficiaries to file their annual report of earnings for 1964, according to Thomas L. Read, district manager of the Social Security Administration in Pikeville.

An annual report must be filed by every person who was under age 72 during any part of 1964 and had income from wages or self-employment of over $1,200 in 1964, and was entitled to a check for any month of 1964.

The annual report must not be confused with the income tax return which is also due April 15.

Mr. Read reminds persons who come to the Social Security Office for help in completing their annual reports to bring their 1964 W-2 with them. They should also be prepared to give the months they did not earn over $100, or for the self-employed, the months they did not spend much time in the operation of their business. This information is helpful in preparing the report but if a person does not have it available, in no case should he delay filing the report beyond April 15 as he is subject to a penalty for late filing.

The social security representative is in the Employment Office in Prestonsburg, every Tuesday.

A new modified life insurance plan will be available to all GI term insurance policyholders after May 1, 1965. It will have a fixed premium which does not increase as does term insurance.

Property Tax, Workshop Subject For East Ky. Extension Personnel

Quicksand, Ky.—Property tax is the oldest form of taxation known to man. It is, and always has been, the mainstay of local governments, serving as the major local source of taxation and whether collected at a high or low rate is not to ever be replaced. Despite its long history, it is the least understood of all forms of revenue for local governmental functions, and is not likely an important factor. What is critical is that it be administered in a fair and equitable way among all property owners.

This, in sum and substance, were remarks made by E. D. Ballard of the State Department of Revenue, to a group of 70 Eastern Kentucky Extension workers here last week. The occasion was an institute on property tax assessments jointly sponsored by the Eastern Kentucky Resource Development Project, the State Department of Revenue, and the University of Kentucky's Bureau of Business Research.

As outlined by Dr. Mike Duff, the purpose of this institute or workshop was to provide local Extension workers with a fuller understanding of the present property tax situation and proposed changes so that they, as educators, will be more able to discuss the matter with interested persons and officials in their own counties.

In speaking to the group, Prof. James W. Martin of the U. K. Bureau of Business Research stated that low taxes in a county or community did not necessarily mean that that particular place was a better place in which to live. It could mean, he said, poor schools, poor roads, indifferent law enforcement, lack of fire protection, and other services that tend to upgrade living conditions. He added that property tax and its administration in Kentucky was long overdue for a complete overhaul.

Adding to the remarks, State Commissioner of Revenue, James Luckett, agreed that the property tax situation must be improved and to get this done, the people must be acquainted with the property tax program.

Luckett revealed some of the legislative plans for property tax reforms, one of which is to remove the county tax commissioner from the political arena and have him appointed on the basis of merit and qualification rather than election.

Other planned tax reforms include the restoration of responsibility to local authorities to establish tax rates and determine expenditures, and to assess property at its fair cash value with compensating reductions in rate of tax, rather than the present system of setting the tax rate to the highest limit the Constitution allows and reducing the cash value of property. This, Luckett said, will eliminate many of the inequalities and inequities now plaguing many property owners.

Property tax reforms, he said, have been attempted before but have been vigorously resisted at the grass roots level—not so much because the people were against reforms per se, but because they did not understand.

To put these reforms across, he said, would require the enlightened support of the responsible citizenry and he invited the assembled Extension workers to make themselves knowledgeable of the projected tax program and to join in the effort by being able to supply factual information to those interested.

A follow-up session on property tax assessment is planned for April 30, at Robinson Substation here. This session will be devoted to discussions on property tax assessment problems currently existing in the Extension workers' respective counties.

Other speakers appearing on the program at the institute last week included Dr. G. W. Schneider of U. K. Extension Service; Paul Tanner, Department of Revenue Research Assistant; and Samuel H. Gray, State Department of Revenue.

Net Farm Income Rises In Kentucky, Announced

Net income per farm in Kentucky during 1964 jumped 30 percent above the 1963 figure, the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service agricultural economics department said this week in its bi-weekly business outlook letter.

The 1964 figure for "realized net income (monies the farmer actually received) was some $2,823 compared to 1963's figure of $2,175. Nationally, the net income per farm was $3,642 compared to $3,564 in 1963.

In total money, the 1964 net farm income was up slightly over the 1963 figure. For 1964, this total was $12.6 billion dollars, says Wilmer Browning, economist.

In Kentucky, the increase was from increased cash receipts from tobacco, soybeans and dairy products. Number of farms declined, too, he said, and this helped increase net income per farm. Lower production expenses, larger government payments and sale of a large part of the 1963 tobacco crop in January, 1964, also were factors.

Gross income per farm (average) for Kentucky in 1964 was $6,063, the letter said. Livestock and crop sales brought in $732,663,000, and government payments about $34 million. Of the latter, feed grain program payments, $19,523,000 were by far the largest category.

Cash receipts from farm marketings thus were $776,832,000, up some 13 percent over 1963.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

In view of the letter reproduced below, the Community Volunteer Fire Department of Allen, Kentucky, can no longer be of service to people living outside of our designated fire area. Our fire area has boundaries that extend three road miles from our Fire Station which is located in New Allen. To be more specific, it extends to and includes the Elva Smith property at the Harry Branham addition in the Martin direction; in the upriver direction it extends to the second entrance of Davidson Memorial Gardens; in the downriver direction it extends to and includes the Elizabeth Harris property up Cow Creek, and the Ed Merritt residence on down the river; and to the top of Bull Creek Mountain in that respective direction.

As a result of this, we are forced to refrain from giving assistance until such time as when we can secure an additional pumper.

Let it be known that no member of this department—Chief, Assistant Chief, Captain, or Volunteer Fireman—has the privilege of breaking the above-mentioned restrictions.

This is not the will of our department. Nevertheless, in order to maintain our ninth class insurance rating we are compelled to abide by these conditions.

Mr. Charles Phillips, Chief
Community Volunteer Fire Department
Allen, Kentucky

Dear Chief Phillips:

FIRE PROTECTION
ALLEN COMMUNITY FIRE PROTECTION AREA

Recently one of our representatives visited Allen and inspected the fire protection facilities. The results of this inspection revealed a very serious deficiency that is jeopardizing the present fire insurance classification.

We learned that the department is responding outside of the recognized fire protection area with the fire apparatus. As you know, the ninth-class fire protection grading of your community is based on the fire department response being limited to an area within three miles by road from the fire station, and to maintain this fire insurance classification, it will be necessary for the pumper to be restricted to this area at all times.

If the department desires to provide fire protection outside of the three mile area, or participate in a mutual aid program, it would be necessary to purchase another piece of fire apparatus. In the event that the fire department does purchase additional fire apparatus, for response outside of the restricted area, particular attention should be given to maintaining an adequately trained crew within the fire protection area at all times.

In view of the seriousness of this matter, we asked that you advise us immediately on what action your organization plans to take in this matter.

We urge that arrangements be made to hold another fire school by a State instructor. Our representative left a form letter that can be used for the invitation of this free school.

If we can be of any assistance to you in your fire protection program, please call on us.

Yours very truly,

John L. Thompson

MASTER COMMISSIONER'S SALE FLOYD CIRCUIT COURT

The Bank Josephine, A Corp., . . . Plaintiff
Against /// NOTICE OF SALE CR 5065
Evelyn Hall, Lizzie Walters and Effie Strunk, . . . Defendants.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the March 23, term, 1965, in the above styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 16th day of April, 1965, at 10:00 o'clock, a.m., same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, upon a credit of six (6) months, the following described property to-wit:

All of the remaining right, interest and title of the late Grant Walters, to that certain tract or parcel of land lying and being in Floyd county, Kentucky, on the Waters of the Big Sandy River, and being the same property that was conveyed Grant Walters by Maude Leslie by deed dated May 15, 1945, and recorded in Deed Book No. 126, Page 131, Floyd County Court Clerk's Office, and described more particularly as follows:

"Beginning at a stone marker 37 feet east of a culvert on line of U. S. Route 23; thence a straight line down the bank to low water mark of Big Sandy River; thence up said river with said low water mark to E. P. Merritt's line; thence back down the river with line of said U. S. 23 to the place of beginning, 3 acres, more or less."

The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall be in the principal sum of $1,000.00 with interest thereon at 6% annually from the 25 day of March, 1965, until satisfied and the costs of this action, including costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this sale.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 29 day of March, 1965.

TIDBITS of KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.

Western Kentucky Teachers' College, Bowling Green, Ky.

"GALLUSES"

It is likely that many of the readers of this column, assuming that there are many, will wonder what, possibly, could be interesting about galluses. Well, you are just admitting that you are younger than some of the rest of us. We can remember when galluses were the symbol of being a grown man. Little boys wore bodies, to which their skimpy short pants were buttoned; only grown-ups or boys whose voices were on the way to stabilization wore galluses. Putting on long pants, with their accompanying galluses, was a memorable event in the life of any fellow. Until he wore long pants and galluses, he was a child; after that, he was a man.

Don't imagine that the word is the peculiar property of us Kentuckians. It is very widely scattered in its use, though its homeland seems to be the big cultural area in which Kentucky and its bordering states are located. Maybe it likes our Scotch-Irish nature and persists in spite of such substitutes as "Suspenders," which is fairly decent; to "Braces," which ought to be outlawed, for that is modern British, it seems, and not so suggestive of the hardy pioneers as is "galluses." But galluses are known in Newfoundland, in New Brunswick, in staid old Massachusetts, in Maine—in twenty-three states that he reported he word. And, besides, it appears in lists from 24 counties in Great Britain. And it is supposed to be still alive in just about every place where it was once used.

But "galluses" often is used to denote a certain type of fellow who is growing less common, the gaunt, back-country fellow who has never allowed himself to be starched and ironed in language and in personality. In some places he is the "one-gallus" guy, but the fellow whom I knew best wore regular galluses without losing his individuality.

Galluses as the badge of the grown man, the fellow who could stand on his own feet, chew his own huside tobacco, have suffered from some great moods in my time. When belts first appeared at Fidelity, most older men felt that degeneration of the species was setting in fast. A fellow who wore a belt was likely to own a high-stepping horse and a very narrow buggy ("hug-me-tight" was the official name among us). He had probably been as far away as raducah once or twice, and he did not try to hide this significant fact. He may have had the best-fitting clothes in the whole area, which certainly would have branded him as someone who had "been about." The other fellows, really envious of him because of his fine airs and his horse and buggy, pretended that they disliked his showiness and wished all sorts of dire things to happen to him. You see, when some human custom, no matter how insignificant, is changing, prophets of calamity rise up in their mightiness and tell what disasters await us. I cannot recall that I ever heard a preacher declaim about belts, but I am sure that, if he had done so, many of the tobacco-chewing older men in the amen-corner would have said "amen" fervently.

Now what does a small boy wish for when he gets to be a big boy? Why, he has worn long pants ever since he was a baby. Galluses are old stuff and would subject him to plenty of fist-and-skull fights at school. Who wants a rubber-tired buggy or a horse with its head reined up until the animal seems to be walking on tiptoe. And no one cares whether you wear a belt or not, so long as you can keep your pants up. There are other tests of being a grown-up, tests that seem to the younger generation as final as the laws of the Medes and Persians, which alter not. But some of these days, long after we oldsters are gone, some of these tests will seem as outdated as galluses and rubber-tired buggies and high-stepping horses. I am not prophet enough to say just what they will be, but a long life of watching the passing of customs assures me that such changes will arrive, wanted or not.

John Hill To Head Mental Health Drive Second Year in Row

The board of directors of the Cabell-Huntington Mental Health Association, Huntington, West Virginia, announced the appointment March 23 of John Hill, a former resident of Prestonsburg, as coordinator of the annual mental health fund campaign. The fund drive, to be held in May, will involve street solicitation, a door-to-door, countywide canvass for contributions, contacts with business and industrial concerns, and a concerted drive to educate citizens in mental health problems and treatment of mental illness.

This is the second consecutive year that Hill has headed this campaign. In 1964, with Hill directing the drive and using his fraternity, Zeta Beta Tau, as a steering committee, the drive netted $4,250. The 1963 drive resulted in only $2,400 being subscribed.

Hill, a 23-year-old senior at Marshall University, Huntington, has been active in campus and civic affairs. He is currently the senior class president and a senator. He served on the Student Executive Cabinet this past year as commissioner of student government affairs, and has held various offices in his fraternity and in the Veteran's Club while maintaining a Dean's List standing.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lon Hill, former residents of Prestonsburg.

DR. ED LESLIE APPEALS TO VOTERS

I want to take this means of appealing to the voters to support my brother, David Leslie, for Sheriff of Floyd county. It will be impossible for me to see all of my friends and relatives before the primary and I want you to consider this a personal appeal.

David Leslie has the record of an honorable man and has served in various public capacities. He was an outstanding and efficient Prestonsburg policeman and learned the basic precepts of law enforcement here. He is a veteran of World War II and served his country well. He knows how to treat people fairly. He was never a "black-jack" policeman and if elected Sheriff will not tolerate his deputies using their power and position in an arbitrary manner.

David will install deputy sheriffs in office who will be a credit to the office of Sheriff and whose only object will be to serve the public with fairness and efficiency.

I appeal to my friends, relatives and to all the voters to weigh the qualifications of my brother. He will make you a good Sheriff, I can assure you.

Your vote and influence will be appreciated.

Sincerely,

DR. ED LESLIE

SEAMLESS ALUMINUM

SIDING

Now! the first time in

Eastern Kentucky

Beautyguard... THE NEWEST CONCEPT IN ALUMINUM SIDING...

In fact the one great drawback to aluminum siding has been use of the normal 12 1/2 foot lengths of stock aluminum siding. This created the seamed or overlapped effect where the 12 1/2 foot lengths were joined.

No more ugly seams or overlapping effect—Beautyguard eliminates all this by custom fitting each home with Aluminum Siding that is cut to the exact size dimensions of your home—at no more cost than that of other siding that does not incorporate the seamless method.

How is this possible? Simple—because we manufacture locally... have factory trained and supervised installers apply the siding (at no extra cost) eliminating the expensive middleman.

Look at these extra features—Finished in Pittsburgh Plate Glass Duracore, a baked on acrylic enamel. Insulated on the inside with Owens-Corning Fiberglas. Large color selection.

We invite you to visit our new plants and see the actual manufacturing of this amazing new concept in Aluminum Siding.

SADDLE CLUB OPENING SET

Dedication of Grounds At Hueysville Slated To Be Held April 11

The East Kentucky Saddle Club, located at Hueysville, at the intersection of Highways 80 and 7, will have its grand opening, April 11, with the dedication ceremonies starting at 1 p.m. Prominent guests will be Ray Chapman, president of the Big Sandy Valley Saddle Club, and Glenn Fleming, of the Silver Spur Saddle Club. Neighboring high school bands will provide musical entertainment. There will be a display of western and English attire for the adults along with a parade for the children.

The office and concession stand have been completed, and will be open all day. Parking space will be provided for all. The next regular meeting of the club will be Saturday, April 10, at 7:30 p.m. at Martin high school. All members of the club are urged to be present to help in the opening day arrangements.

Mrs. Dayton Howard Heart Attack Victim After Week's Illness

Mrs. Louise Allen Howard, wife of Dayton W. Howard, of Eastern, who had resided at the Golden Years Rest Home, Lackey, for the last two months, died last Wednesday, victim of a heart attack which she had suffered seven days earlier.

Mrs. Howard was the last of the family of Louis P. (Tucker) Allen and Manda Prater Allen. She was born at Northern and was a sister of the late Ex-Sheriff M. V. Allen and Laura Fitzpatrick. She had been a member of the Regular Baptist Church for 50 years.

Surviving are her husband, two daughters, Mrs. Otha Hopkins, of Eastern, and Mrs. Manda Buckwalter, Washington, D. C., and one son, Leonard Beurnice Howard, Columbus, Ohio. She also leaves seven grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted Friday at 11 a.m. from the Wilson Creek Regular Baptist Church, the Rev. Banner Manns officiating. Burial was made in the Lula Allen cemetery at Northern under direction of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means to express our appreciation to the people who helped in any way upon the death of our father and grandfather, Jesse Dale; to those who sent flowers and food, also to Revs. Cline Salyers and Earl Ratliff and the Carter & Callihan Funeral Home.

Her '65 Ford rides quieter.... than her Rolls-Royce

Tests proved it*. Maybe you find this hard to believe. If so, your Ford Dealer has a suggestion: Look Ford over. Try it. Compare it. You won't find Ford offering Rolls-Royce's rare luxuries. But you will find it has an uncommonly quiet ride. And quiet means quality. Test-drive Ford, you'll discover it offers features, conveniences, models unmatched in the popular-priced field.

New Quality ■ 100% new body—strongest ever on a Ford. Frame tunes out irritating road vibration. ■ New suspension puts a big ultrasoft coil spring at each wheel

New Luxury LTD's ■ Decorator interiors, thick nylon wall-to-wall carpeting ■ Walnutlike vinyl inserts on doors and instrument panel ■ Rear-seat center arm rests, five ash trays (4-door hardtops)

New Power ■ Big, new 289-cu. in. V-8 standard in XL's and LTD's ■ New BIG SIX—biggest Six in any car, std. on other Galaxie and Custom models

Visit your Ford Dealer and take a test drive soon!

*Leading acoustical consultants conducted tests in which 1965 Fords (Galaxie 500 Sedan, XL and LTD Hardtops) with 289-cu. in. V-8 engines and automatic transmissions rode quieter than a new Rolls-Royce. Tests were certified by the U.S. Auto Club.

FOUR YEARS COULD BE ENOUGH FOR A LIFETIME

It is not a question of how long a man has been in office but one of how much good he has done and how well he can serve in the future. Four years could be too much time for some and four terms is never too much when the county is served with efficiency and competency.

I stand upon my record as a judge who has always tried to serve you well. Our county has never had the money it needed to build every road or perform every public service it should. Always, I have done the best that could be done with what we had to do with. No man could do more.

My opponent is saying that I have been in office too long. He says we need a change. What kind of a change does he mean? Does he mean a change from a tried and true official to an untried one who can only offer you promises? I offer you the record of an able and conscientious administration of the office. I have no axe to grind but that of the taxpayers. I have no teeth to pull. I have no only the job of devoting my full time to your office and I humbly solicit your support again.

Four years could be too long for some men in office. No length of time is too long when the taxpayers are given dedicated and conscientious service.

My opponent can offer you only promises. I offer you my record. There is a difference, you know.

Your vote and influence will be appreciated as in the past and if I am reelected I will continue to offer you honest, accommodating and dedicated service.

Five Floyd Students Are Honored for Work At UK for Semester

Five Floyd county students were honored recently for their scholastic achievements at the University of Kentucky.

Porter Preston Layne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Porter A. Layne, of Harold, was named to the Dean's List in the College of Arts and Sciences for the past fall semester.

To be placed on the Dean's List in the college the student must obtain an overall academic average of 3.5 or better, based on a 4.0 grading system.

Four students were named as being in the upper three percent of their class in their college at the third annual Men's Awards Night, sponsored by Omicron Delta Kappa, senior men's honorary at UK.

The students are: Freddie Harold Lawson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Lawson, East McDowell, a senior in the College of Agriculture; Arnold Burgess Lowe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Lowe, Langley, a freshman in the College of Engineering; Daniel Craig Greer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Lee Greer, Wheelwright, a sophomore in the College of Engineering, and Cloyd Jennings Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Johnson, Prestonsburg, a senior in the College of Pharmacy.

ATTEND F.F.A. DAY

Several boys represented the Agriculture class of Maytown high school at the annual F.F.A. Day sponsored by Morehead College at Morehead, Saturday. Their instructor, Floyd Allen, accompanied them. The boys chose Janet Cooley, Dianna Ousley, Ruthie Burchett and Mary Nutter to represent them as Chapter Sweethearts at Button Auditorium the same day.

Bess Radliff was honored last week by Mrs. Elbert Howell who gave a dinner prior to her birthday at the Howell home; and by Mrs. Hugh Rowland, who gave a dinner on her birthday. Also Mrs. Ed Stewart, Beckie and Tom; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Arnett, Mrs. Viola Stewart, Mrs. Gordon Chick, Mrs. Bill Caudill and Mrs. Bertha Chick surprised her with gifts and refreshments at noon-time.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Halbert spent several days in Greenup county last week.

Mrs. Claude Halbert underwent major surgery at the King's Daughters' hospital last week. She is now recuperating at home. Mr. and Mrs. Glennis Ramey, of Alexandria, spent the week-end here with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ramey. They came to visit Mr. Ramey's grandfather, James B. Chick, who is seriously ill at the Beaver Valley hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Snoddy, Judy and Pam, of Nitro, West Virginia, spent the week-end with Mrs. Snoddy's mother, Mrs. Ed Sutton.

Bill Tallent, who is in his senior year at Presbyterian College, Clinton, South Carolina, was visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Jones Tallent, last week. He then went on to visit his brother, Bob, who is a student at the University of Kentucky.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Louise Allen Howard, who passed away last week.

Mrs. Roy May and Beverly and Mrs. Loretta Little and Dean were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ken Miller and children in Lexington last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Rowe and Miss Ronda Rowe are visiting relatives in Columbus, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Chad Nolan, of Ashland, were overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Allen. Mrs. Nolan was called here by the death of her aunt, Mrs. Louise Howard.

HONOR ROLL

Children whose names were placed on the third grade honor roll for the last quarter were: Hollie M. Conley, Joyce Gail Cooley, Hattie Cooley, Thomas Kenton Flannery, Brent Gibson, Jerry Don Hagans, Tony Halbert, Fanny Joyce Hale, Teresa Lynne Howard, Marina Lafferty, Beulah F. HOSPITAL TO EXPAND

Annex Construction, Rearrangement To Add 50 to 55 Beds, Plan

Pikeville, Ky.—The Methodist Hospital of Kentucky last week announced an expansion plan that will add 50 to 55 beds.

The board of directors has authorized an annex to the first floor and expansion of other patients' areas. Parking spaces for 50 automobiles will be added.

The annex will be a two-story addition to the ground-floor store-room adjacent to Pikeville College.

The new section will house a classroom, staff library, medical records, nursing office, personnel office, administrator's office and obstetrical area.

A general rearrangement of facilities throughout the hospital will make room for the additional beds.

When the first patient was admitted to the nonprofit hospital in 1924, the bed capacity was 50. The first addition of space, completed in 1940, increased capacity to 90 beds. A second building program in 1952 increased the beds to 134 plus 24 bassinets.

The announcement by W. E. Elliott, president of the directors, said:

"The current alterations of the Methodist hospital do not preclude future plans for expansion or relocation, but are merely an emergency measure to relieve the present crowded conditions and to make better use of the existing facilities of the physical plant . . .

ARE YOU SATISFIED WITH LAW and ORDER IN FLOYD COUNTY?

A candidate for re-election for a public office will often say he is running on his record. This is easy because much of a county official's record is not well known, but part of the record is obvious. A part of the record, which we all know about, is that of law and order in Floyd county during the last three years. Search your own conscience, rely upon your own personal knowledge, ask those who know and answer these questions:

1. ARE YOU SATISFIED WITH THE INCREASED CRIME RATE IN FLOYD COUNTY?

COMMENT: A recent study of the F.B.I. based upon major crimes committed per 100,000 people shows Alabama to have a crime rate over twice that of the nation. Review in your mind the number of major crimes in Floyd county during the last year. It will show Floyd county's crime rate for 42,000 people to be more than double the national rate and even higher than the state of Alabama.

2. ARE YOU SATISFIED THAT ALL THE LAWS ARE BEING PROSECUTED TO CLEAN UP THE TRAFFIC IN ILLEGAL LIQUOR?

COMMENT: The County Attorney has available not only fines but jail sentences, may forfeit liquor bonds on convictions, may take action to sell property used in this illegal traffic, and may even enjoin the operation of places of business where such bootlegging activities are being carried on. Are all these remedies being used by our County Attorney?

3. ARE YOU SATISFIED WITH THE HANDLING OF JUVENILE DELINQUENCY PROBLEMS IN FLOYD COUNTY?

COMMENT: Other questions which arise are: Does the County Attorney have a policy of firmness and equality in these cases? A liberal policy of probation should be exercised, but should depend upon many factors, including age, seriousness of the crime and ability of parents to supervise. A follow-up program of supervision should be developed and recommended to the Court by the County Attorney.

If you are NOT satisfied that these problems are being handled as effectively as they should be—

THE RED CROSS MEANS HELP IN MANY WAYS

Just as a wailing fire engine inevitably means fire, a red cross too often connotes only disaster. In Kentucky, however, over 200,000 residents would vow that the American Red Cross also stands for first aid, water safety, nursing, and for a varied program of services and projects throughout the state's educational system.

Of that total, he pointed out, 8,424 residents took advantage of the year-round Red Cross first aid education program designed to prevent accidents, protect the injured, and provide immediate action in life-threatening emergencies.

Mr. Seale stressed the point that Red Cross first aid training does in fact save lives. To illustrate, he told how a high school junior in an eastern state saved a life the same day he received his advanced first aid card from the Red Cross.

Hearing screams in a parking lot the young man rushed over to find a woman pinned beneath a car whose brakes had failed on an incline. Quickly sending a passerby for help, he crawled under the car and found the woman bleeding from severe cuts. With a borrowed shirt he applied direct pressure to the wounds and stopped the bleeding, meanwhile refusing to let onlookers move the victim for fear of increasing injuries. The life was saved.

Instruction in first aid is matched by a Red Cross program of water safety equally important to Kentucky families. According to Seale, the aim of Red Cross Water Safety and Small Craft Safety Services is to make "Every American a swimmer—every swimmer a lifesaver."

He told how a young graduate of a senior lifesaving course last summer proved the value of knowing what to do in an emergency. The young man was trimming rose bushes one afternoon when he suddenly realized that his 2½-year-old sister was nowhere in sight. He found her face down in the family pool. He jumped in and brought her to the deck; her eyes were glassy and she was not breathing. He began mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and with the first signs of breathing he called for help. She eventually recovered fully.

The people of Kentucky respond enthusiastically to the ideals of Red Cross water safety. Last year, volunteer Red Cross instructors trained 23,434 men, women and children in swimming, lifesaving, and small craft operation techniques.

Another "silent" or not widely publicized Red Cross program is the organization's Nursing Services. Seale pointed out that there are more than 70,000 registered professional nurses enrolled by Red Cross chapters for community services throughout the country. Benefiting from their dedication to community health are immunization projects and many community institutions and clinics that call on Red Cross for voluntary assistance.

CARD OF THANKS We take this means of thanking our relatives, friends and neighbors for their thoughtfulness and kindness to us in our bereavement. Every thought, word and deed is treasured beyond words. The food and flowers, the services of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home; the prayers and church services; the nursing and medical care at Beaver Valley hospital, and the many other things that people have done for us are deeply appreciated.

NATURE TRAILS by Rufus M. Reed

This spring the Boy Scouts of Michigan have been putting up Martin houses and putting on each one the following slogan: "Martins are Nature's best insecticides."

This is quite true, and if you have a family of Martins around your place, they will clean up the mosquitoes. And this good work might save somebody's life, as mosquitoes spread the dread disease, sleeping sickness. Put your Martin box in an open area, as Martins like a house where they can have a clear view of the premises and can see any hawks that might steal around the place. Martins will gang up on a hawk and drive it away; if the hawk doesn't go fast enough to suit them, they will make a dive-bombing attack on it, and sometimes one of them will light on the fleeing hawk's back and make the feathers fly.

Wild Horse Annie is the name given to Mrs. Velma B. Johnston, of Reno, Nevada, because of her successful fight to save the wild horses of the west from being slaughtered and wiped out. Her work got started several years ago when she saw some men trucking a load of wild horses to a slaughter house, where they were going to make dog food. She said the sight of the frightened, trembling and bloody load of wild horses touched her heart; in capturing them, the men had wounded some of them severely and many were bleeding profusely. Wild Horse Annie decided to do something about this wanton cruelty to these wild animals; she worked for years and finally succeeded in getting a tract of wild land containing nearly half a million acres set aside as a refuge.

This large tract of land is in Nevada and there the wild horses roam and play and live free as Nature intended, without fear of being brutally lassoed and subdued, to be taken to a dog-food factory. These wild horses of the west are said to be descendants of horses that were brought over from Europe by the early Spanish explorers, many of them escaping and reverting to the wild state. While North America was the original home of the wild horses, they crossed the ancient land barrier linking Europe and North America and made their home in Europe for many thousands of years. The horse is a noble animal, highly intelligent and able to survive under adverse conditions. The horse has many features not common to other mammals; he walks on his four legs, since he has only one toe to each foot; his teeth are self-sharpening tools — they get keener and sharper the more he uses them. The horse also has the largest eyes of any other land animal of the world. His large eyes enable him to see in a wide semi-circle on both sides of him at the same time. So the wild horse is watchful and alert and very difficult to stalk or capture.

A NOTE OF LAMENT FOR OUR SPRING

Spring is the most beautiful and the most joyful time of the year, because it is the season of resurrection of life from the cold, winter tomb; everything gets intoxicated with a new, glad ecstasy when spring finally arrives, with the birds singing and nesting and the wild flowers springing up to say, "Hello, it's spring again." But there is now a note of sad lament in our springs, because the old orchards are few and far between; the meadowlands have dwindled; the trees have been cut from our hills, and suburbs and sub-divisions and the modern expansion of industry have wiped out many beauty spots and reduced the green glory of the spring. We have wiped out so much of our wild-life and our game birds and have killed so many beautiful birds such as mourning doves, and springers are not as grand and glorious as they once were. I used to hear dozens of mourning doves cooing every spring; now I count myself lucky to hear one or two.

Maybe we'll wake up some day and try to put the beauty and the glory back into our springs again. People are beginning to wake up to the great importance of preserving our beauty before it is nearly all wiped out.

I was reading a heartening news item from the lumber woods of Canada. Up there, where they carry on logging and lumbering, they have about decided to quit using tractors to do the logging and are going back to the use of horses. This was because the tractors mashed down, bruised and destroyed so much of the small timber while hauling out the large logs, the forests were being depleted at an alarming rate. By using horses for logging, they can save more of the smaller timber.

Garrett Art Students To Have Exhibit Here

Garrett high school students will exhibit their art work at Floyd county's new Prestonsburg Community College, Saturday, April 17, at the invitation of college officials.

Their art work will represent various styles from history, with commentaries on each particular style. Books on certain periods of art may also be displayed to point up each commentary and student example. Some of the original work will be student interpretations of illuminated manuscript lettering, expressionism, in perspective, cubism and realism. Included with the student exhibit will be sculpture, paintings, drawings and mosaics by resident art instructors in Eastern Kentucky. The public is invited to attend the opening of the exhibit Saturday afternoon. Punch and cookies will be served from 2 till 4 p.m. The exhibit will run through May 2.
