SPEAKING OF AND FOR FLOYD COUNTY

This Town . . . That World

Earl Castle is demanding what amounts to a recount. Claims I cheated him out of an inch and a quarter of fish in my recent report in this column.

A friend of mine has given up chewing. Now goes in for snuff. Don't ask for name, please.

What do you write, the day after an election which has left you and just about everybody else too sleepy or exhausted or disgusted or excited to be sensible? You don't have to be in a rush to answer that one—it will wait.

Once upon a time I started out on one of these courses which had to do with the art of winning friends, etcetera. Funny that a man will go back to school, and pay for it, to learn about winning friends when his dog can do the job by simply wagging his tail.

RECOMMENDED READING
Don't recall where this came from, but we highly recommend it for more than one reading: If there is righteousness in the heart, There will be beauty in the character. If there is beauty in the character, There will be harmony in the home. If there is harmony in the home, There will be order in the nation. If there is order in the nation, There will be peace in the world.

GEORGE DIES OF GUNSHOT

Coroner's Jury Holds Self-Inflicted Shot Caused Man's Death

A jury empaneled by Coroner James J. Carter held that the gunshot which claimed the life of Eddie George at his home on Little Paint Creek Wednesday morning was self-inflicted.

George, a man of about 50, was shot in his chest with a 20-gauge shotgun. A stick which had been notched and which apparently had been used to push the trigger of the weapon was an exhibit at the inquest. There was no immediate explanation of the cause of the tragedy.

LIST U.S. 23 AMONG CORRIDORS PLANNED

WARD PLANS ROUTE STUDY FOR HIGHWAY

Six 'Quick-Start' Jobs To Be Let to Contract Soon in East Kentucky

As plans were made for work to begin shortly on five "quick-start" highway projects in Kentucky, announcement was made in Washington that one of the four main highway corridors planned by the Appalachian Regional Commission in the state is U. S. 23 from Greenup, Ky., to Johnson City, Tennessee via the Big Sandy Valley.

Remaining to be decided is the route to be followed by U. S. 23 locally. Two surveys have been made—one following the present route from Prestonsburg to Allen, the other leaving Prestonsburg via the Mountain Parkway extension and going up Katy Friend Branch of Middle Creek to Bull Creek and on to rejoin the existing route at Allen via a bridge spanning the Big Sandy river.

Commissioner of Highways Henry Ward was quoted recently as saying that he proposes to hold a public hearing here before reaching a final decision on the route the highway will take.

The main corridors planned will cross 11 Appalachian states from north to south and east to west. The four main highways recommended total 992 miles in length and are a part of a 2,350-mile network scheduled for construction under the Appalachian program.

The "quick-start" projects on which work may start within four to six weeks involve 38.8 miles which will cost an estimated $31 million. Of this amount, the federal government will pay 70% and Kentucky the remainder.

These quickstart projects are:

Combs to Quicksand, 25.7 miles and Whitesburg to Isom, 6.8 miles—both in the corridor that runs from Whitesburg to the Mountain Parkway; and the Louisa bypass, 2.9 miles, from I-64 to Catlettsburg, 1.8 miles and from Ky. 5 to the Armo entrance at Ashland, 7 mile, and from the Armo entrance to the Russell bypass, .9 mile—all in the U. S. 23 corridor.

The 35.8 miles represented by these routes total more than twice as much as was allocated to any other state. Governor Breathitt said Kentucky has "the plans and the matching money ready and hopes to let contracts within a month."

North Carolina was second with 18.7 miles.

The main corridors recommended in addition to U. S. 23 are:

CLARK HITS AT CLAIMS

Made to the Effect That Area's Stream Conditions Improved

Commissioner Minor Clark, of the Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources, and Ralph Pickard, executive director of the Kentucky Water Pollution Control Commission, engaged in a verbal clash last week at the commission meeting in Frankfort and the difference of opinion resulted in the commission's decision to ask for help under the Appalachian bill.

Pickard claimed the pollution problem in Eastern Kentucky has eased steadily over the last few years. Clark declared it is as bad as ever.

Health Commissioner Russell Teague suggested application be made for aid under the Appalachian bill. He said such help might get the commission 10 additional inspectors and lawyers to fight pollution.

Complaining of continued pollution of mountain rivers and streams, Clark told Pickard: "Quit defending the (commission's) system and let's get the job done."

"We're doing the best job we can do," Pickard said. "So long as coal mining exists in Eastern Kentucky you're going to have black water occasionally and someone's going to tell you about it. We can't get enough personnel to stop it."

"Then let's tell the people that and don't fool them into thinking we're going to clean it up," Clark said.

Shoved into the background by the debate was the state which sparked it all—Virginia.

Commission attorney Dave Sebre described his attempt to persuade Virginia to crack down on coal washers that were contaminating Kentucky streams.

He said Virginia authorities were polite and cooperative, but that he learned somewhat to his surprise.

Rucker, stated clerk of the synod of Kentucky.

Greetings were brought by Curtis Clark, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; Frank Heinze, president of the Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club; Dr. George P. Archer, mayor; Rev. David Rule, of Stanton, stated clerk of Ebenezer Presbytery; Lon Rogers, of Pikeville, a member of the denominational Board of National Missions, spoke briefly of the church's plans to build without seeking a grant or loan from the Board of National Missions.

In the closing prayer the pastor spoke of the showers of divine blessings sent from the Father above, who was about to baptize the ground with His showers.

YOUTH CORPS GIVEN OKEH

Floyd Project Plans Employment of 450 For 19-Week Period

The Labor Department has approved a Neighborhood Youth Corps project for Floyd county which will provide work experience for 450 enrollees and involve the expenditure of $229,877, Congressman Carl D. Perkins wired County Superintendent Charles Clark, Tuesday.

Youth Corps projects are designed to meet the employment needs of needy pupils, ages 16 through 21. Administration of Floyd county's project will be handled by the Floyd County Board of Education.

Superintendent Clark said the Board of Education is ready for Youth Corps action, with a director, Estil Hall, and his assistant, Adrian Bentley, already named. The program initially will cover a period of 19 weeks, but the Board of Education has signed an application for its continuance through the next school year.

Enrollees will work under supervision of the principals of the several schools as librarian and teacher aides, maintenance helpers and a variety of other jobs. Of the total $229,877 cost of the project, $206,077 will be borne by the federal government.

CLERK PAYS EXCESS FEES

Fourth Refund Made In History of County Reported at $5,122

The recent refund to the county of excess fees by County Clerk C. "Ollie" Robinson is said to have been the fourth time in the history of the county for such payment to be made.

Excess fees returned to County Treasurer W. J. May, a few weeks ago, by Robinson amounted to $5,122.98. The clerk made his first refund of fees in May, 1963, and the total of excess fees returned, including this year's, is $20,003.04.

The $5,131.91 paid the county this year for occupational licenses brought the total of these licenses paid to the county during Robinson's term of office to $15,904.31, it was said. To the Floyd County Board of Education Robinson paid $1,477.93 in delinquent property taxes.

So intense was the interest in the election that more than 13,000 voters went to the polls. A few alterations marred the otherwise orderly conduct of the precinct voting, and the vote-buying was heavy, as usual.

Three Democratic incumbents for district office lost. State Representative Fred Gearheart lost his 95th legislative district seat to former Representative Ben Martin whom Gearheart defeated two years ago. Magistrate Bryant DeRossell, of District 1, lost to Bill Wells, and Magistrate Fred Conn was defeated in the Fourth district by Ex-Magistrate Dewey Roberts.

The tabulation of voting machine returns was delayed by the count of absentee ballots, with the result that the final tabulation was not completed till about 1 a.m. Wednesday. And the tabulation then was not declared official as the tally reported by election officers was (See Story No. 1, Page 6)

Avery E. Mullins was booked Saturday on a drunk driving charge by State Trooper Ray. Since last Thursday 21 had been jailed on drunkenness charges—13 of these by state police.

Among the prisoners at the county jail on election day was Silas Muncy, Democratic candidate for Constable in District 3 of this county. Although he had been in jail since May 5 on a drunk charge and did not have the opportunity to vote for himself, Muncy received 33 votes from the 10 voting precincts in which he was a candidate. He received no absentee votes.

Its furnishings—pews, altar, carpeting, draperies, lamps, and such items—were provided by the Junior Woman's Club. The Bible was a gift of the Council of Local Churchwomen.

COMPASSION FOR OTHERS BEGAN WITH KNOTT VISITS

An Eastern Kentuckian who was inspired by trips with his grandfather to the sick in Knott county to become a doctor with compassion for human beings of whatever color or station in life now has a hospital on the Viet Cong invasion route in Viet Nam. He is Dr. James W. Turpin, and the doctor who taught him the need for mercy for the "underdog" was his grandfather, the late Dr. J. W. (John Wes) Duke, who practiced medicine from a hindman office over the hills and narrow valleys of his native Knott county.

In his boyhood Dr. Turpin, a native of Ashtand, visited his grandfather, and went calling on patients with Dr. Duke. He was graduated from Emory University, Atlanta, Georgia, then studied at the Chandler School of Theology there, later switching to Emory's school of medicine. He spent five years as a general practitioner in the affluent surroundings of Coronado, California, meanwhile serving as a lay preacher and Sunday School teacher.

But he had a feeling "he needed to be needed," that his own emotional and spiritual needs were not being fulfilled. He went to Tijuana, Mexico, then to the Hong Kong, finally to Viet Nam. In 1961 he founded Project Concern, an international medical relief organization.

Today he has a 25-bed hospital in Dampao, 150 miles north of the Viet Nam capital. Dr. Turpin admits it doesn't look like the conventional hospital, but it meets the needs of people, is medically efficient, and that's what he has sought.

He is now in the United States on a fund-raising tour for his hospital, which has a $224,000-a-year budget. His staff of about 100 persons includes 14 doctors, some of whom are refugees, and top pay is $500 a month.

His homeland tour over, Dr. Turpin will return to his jungle-route hospital to resume the work of caring for the people in a score or more remote villages. As he begins work again, he will pick up again the sub-machine gun he finds it necessary to carry on some of his trips to meet human needs.

Meanwhile, his wife is a pre-med student in California—preparing herself to join him in his life's work.

ALLEN FIRM EARNS AWARD AT CLEANUP CONFERENCE; TROOPER COMBS HONORED

Thirty-eight recognition awards for individuals, communities, businesses and organizations were presented at Kentucky's first statewide conference on Clean-Up and Beautification, held in Lexington recently.
The awards were presented by former Governor Bert T. Combs, who initiated Kentucky's award-winning beautification program in 1961.
Combs also addressed the nearly 200 people at the conference at a luncheon session, telling them that while Kentucky has made progress, the clean-up work must continue and will never be finished.
"We must continue to work to keep our roads clean, to plant flowers, shrubs and trees at our homes and in our towns, paint and fix up our stores and city buildings, keep our public buildings in the best of repair and the grounds attractively planted."
The conference was sponsored by the clean-up and beautification division of the Kentucky Department of Natural Resources. Commissioner of the department J. O. Matlick, said at the conference that the state intends to bear down this year on campers and boaters who are littering and polluting lakes and streams.
One of the industry awards was presented to the Perry Metal Company (Dan Deaton and John Branham, of Allen) Industry awards went to junkyard operators for their work in screening from view unattractive used cars and parts.
Among those receiving an individual award was State Trooper Jerry Combs, of Hindman.
JOHN KENNEDY HONORED
New York — The annual Four Freedoms Award, given for service to the ideals of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, was presented posthumously Tuesday night to President John F. Kennedy. It was accepted by his brother, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y.

Drive To Survive

Memorial Day is just around the corner. We look forward to summer and being outdoors on the clear, bright days ahead. During the summer months, the number one outdoor entertainment is riding in automobiles.
With longer days and the surge of summer vacationers, there will be an increase in the travel rate, number of autos and the number of drivers on our highways. Unfortunately, there will also be an increase in the number of traffic accidents and fatalities.
Seven persons died on the highways of the Commonwealth over the Memorial Day holiday in 1964. Seven people—men, women and children—who did not live to enjoy summer because they, or someone else, were careless.
With the closing of school, there will be more children on the sidewalks and streets. In the excitement of play, children often forget to look before they run. It is the responsibility of the adult behind the wheel to see that they live to play the next day.
Speeding, reckless and drunken driving, and carelessness—these are the four big killers on our roads today. According to national statistics, fewer than three percent of traffic accidents are the result of mechanical failure. Ninety-seven out of every one hundred accidents are the sole fault of the person behind the wheel.
Drive as if a member of your family was in every car you meet. You are your brother's keeper. You hold the choice of life or death in your hands when you are behind the wheel.
Drive to survive in '65!—KENTUCKY DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY.

423 SCHOOLS ACCREDITED

'P'burg In 'Standard' Group, 2nd Highest; Most Are Unchanged

(Editor's Note: The attached list indicates accreditation rating changes in high schools and elementary schools for the 1964-'65 school year approved by the State Board of Education recently, ratings for new schools and schools which have been discontinued. ALL SCHOOLS NOT LISTED RETAIN THE SAME RATING AS DURING THE 1963-'64 SCHOOL YEAR.)

Frankfort, Ky.—Of Kentucky's 468 high schools this year, 423 were fully accredited at a recent meeting here of the State Board of Education.

Among the 423 fully accredited high schools, 58—six more than last year—earned the "comprehensive" rating (curricula including more than 43 course offerings).
A total of 210 high schools—three fewer than last year—received the second-highest rating of "standard" (33 to 42 course offerings). Included in this group is Prestonsburg.

To 152 others—two fewer than last year—went the rating of "provisional" (24 to 32 course offerings).

The other three fully-accredited schools (all Louisville parochials) were designated as "selective" (meets all requirements necessary for a certain type of school, such as an all-male facility with no need for home economics courses).

Among the conditionally-accredited high schools, 20—six less than last year—received "provisional" rating (18 to 24 course offerings) and 20 others—seven less than last year—the "temporary" rating (less than 18 course offerings).

Five others in conditional accreditation were rated "incomplete"—three fewer than last year (because of no senior class in the schools' beginning stages and similar reasons).

All other schools, including those of Floyd county, which are not listed by name retain the ratings held as during the preceding school year.

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of my mother, Mrs. Cynthia Martin, who died June 21, 1957:

I LOVE YOU, MOM
I love you, Mom,
Not only for what you were
But for what I am
From being with you.

I love you, Mom,
Not only for what
You made of yourself
But for what you made of me.

I love you
For the part of me
That you brought out.
I love you
For putting your head
Into my heaped-up heart
And passing over
All the foolish, weak things
That you can't help,
Dimly seeing there
And for drawing out
Into the light
All the beautiful belongings
That no one else had looked Quite far enough to find.

I love you,
My Mother, because
Your memory still helps me to make
Of the lumber of my life,
Not a tavern
But a Temple;
Of the works
Of my every day
Not a reproach
But a song . . .

Sadly missed by her daughter,
Mrs. Ernestine M. Robinson,
Wayland, Kentucky. 11

We Think the Death Penalty Should Be Abolished

THE FLOYD COUNTY TIMES agrees with Governor Breathitt that the death penalty should be abolished in Kentucky.

But we go one step farther than the Governor in insisting that the law should be revised so that the death penalty could be supplanted by a life term—that is to say, a term which means what it says, the entire life of the convict, without any possibility of parole or pardon.

We think such a change in the law would more fully serve the cause of justice than the present criminal statutory provisions in at least two ways:

First of all, it would protect society from wanton, bestial killers, and punish them over the years; next, and equally important to justice, it would eliminate a law which too often takes the life of the man without money, friends and influence, while failing in the cases of those who have the means and influence with which to protect themselves.

We question the purpose of the death penalty, as now imposed and executed. Is it for revenge—"an eye for an eye"—or is it to serve as an example and thus as a deterrent to crime?

If the criminal's life is claimed to exact revenge, then the society that kills him is a killer, as bestial as he.

If the execution at the hands of the state is to show to other criminals, present or potential, the awful consequences that may come upon them if they, too, commit murder, does the present method suffice?

Why, for instance, take the criminal to a place far distant from the scene of his crime, there take him into a small chamber and in the presence of only a few witnesses take his life—then leave the facts of the execution to a few, matter-of-fact paragraphs in the newspapers?

If the death penalty is to be exacted, not out of cold revenge but to serve as a warning by example, why not have the execution done at home, in the open where all may see death by law in action? And why restrict the mode of execution to the Chair? The guillotine would, we imagine, be no less merciful.

Some opponents of the Governor's stand for an end to capital punishment object that the criminal element already is being "coddled too much." We agree. But we also contend that the law and those enjoined with its enforcement do not have to break a man's neck to keep from coddling him.

Long years of prison confinement and work, a lifetime in which to ponder his sins, if any conscience is left, will punish the criminal as effectively and protect society as adequately as the awful few seconds that now satisfy the law's demands by taking the life of the one who took life.

GAMBOLING . . .

(An editorial in The Kentucky Labor News)

NEWS ITEM: April 24th. Governor Edward T. Breathitt complains that "these pin ball machine devices not only violate our laws that relate to gambling—they constitute a corrupting influence on many thousands of our citizens and divert funds that are often urgently needed for legitimate uses."

NEWS ITEM: May 1st. "Governor Breathitt may be asking U. S. Postmaster General John Gronouski for a lead on a winner as they talk at Churchill Downs." "LUCKY DEBONAIR WINS 91st KENTUCKY DERBY."

What a state of confusion is Kentucky. Pin ball machines are illegal. They are GAMBLING! "They encourage the weak-willed to dissipate their lunch money or their pensions." "They fill no sociological, psychological, aesthetic or moral need."

Horse race gambling is legal. It evidently fills such needs. And, apparently, race horse fans NEVER use rent, food and clothing money for a turn at the track!

DOG RACES ARE ILLEGAL. Kentucky law allows dog races to be ENJOINED as a public nuisance! Dogs may ruin your shrubs, or foul your yard, but they cannot race. Not in Kentucky. They would be a nuisance if they raced . . .

It is illegal to bet on boxing matches in Kentucky. It is illegal to sell lottery tickets. One cannot pitch coins at a crack in the sidewalk if it is "for keeps." One must not gamble "in any room, building, float, vessel or premises" in Kentucky except on HORSES in races licensed by the State Racing Commission. (There is some question about gambling in a lighter-than-air balloon or in a helicopter, but our courts would probably consider such high handedness as illegal, being OVER "premises" outlawed below!)

Except for horse racing, there is only one type of other legalized gambling allowed here. That is insurance. You "bet" that your horse will win and the insurance company "bets" that it will not. You "bet" that you will have an auto accident, and the insurance company "bets" that you will not. The "odds" are changed from time to time, according to risk experience.

THE KENTUCKY LABOR NEWS is the voice of the AFL-CIO in Kentucky. We have no policy for or against horse racing, pin ball machines, or cock fighting. Except to flip a coin occasionally in the selection of an arbiter in a labor-management dispute, or to "gamble" as a pedestrian in crossing Broadway during rush hours, problems relating to wagers have been secondary to the problems of wages . . .

But it is amusing to see the attitudes we have on GAMBLING in our state . . .

No wonder that the poor unfortunate souls residing elsewhere consider Kentucky such a delight. WHERE ELSE WOULD A CHRISTIAN COUNTY VOTE "WET" IN A LOCAL OPTION, AND A BOURBON COUNTY VOTE "DRY?"

JUBALAIRES OF U. S. ARMY AT AMPHITHEATER, FRIDAY FOR GRATIS PERFORMANCE

The Second U. S. Army Showmobile is sending an outstanding group of musicians, The Jubalaires, on their farthest trip inland from the East coast when they come to the amphitheatre of Jenny Wiley State Park Friday, this week, at 8 p.m., for a one-night performance.

Their appearance here will be under the auspices of the Jenny Wiley Drama Association and M/Sgt. Paul G. Kabage, local U. S. Army recruiter. There will be no admission charge, and the public is welcome. In the event of rain, the Jubalaires will play at the auditorium of the Prestonsburg grade school.

The Jubalaires have just finished playing the Governor's Hotel at Ocean City, Maryland, and more recently played a "command performance" on order of the commanding general at Ft. Knox for his Person-to-Person program.

The program planned at the amphitheatre here is described as ranging through folk, country-style, popular and swing music—tender ballads such as "Tears and Roses," "Ringo," "Old Tige," "Lonesome 7-7203," "Lonely Street" and "He'll Have to Go," pulsing "twistin' time" tunes such as "It's All Over

Now," "What I Say" and the Beatles' "Hard Day's Night"; comedy in the theme of the poignant recitation of "Sweet Violets," folksongs, "Eternity," "900 Miles," and "The Work Song," accompanied by a 12-string guitar; jazz represented by "Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolf?" and "The Girl from Ipanema;" A racing electric guitar in the "Nashville Sound" with the "Randy Lynn Rag," "Wildwood Flower," "Double Eagle" and other representative tunes.

California Artist Alice Lloyd Speaker

Pippa Passes, Ky.—One of America's foremost artists spoke at Alice Lloyd College here, Sunday. Streeter Blair, of Beverly Hills, California, presented an illustrated lecture on his work at 6:30 p.m. in Cushing Hall.

A retired teacher, Blair took up painting as a hobby. His work became popular, and today he is considered the greatest living "primitive" painter. He is a primitive in that he is self-taught. According to critics, Blair has developed a style all his own.

A recent one-man show was bought in its entirety by Vincent Price for the Sears, Roebuck collection.

Local Optometrist One of Team Aiding Martin Countians

Inez, Ky., May 22—Dr. Hal E. Midkiff, Prestonsburg optometrist, was a member of a three-man team of optometrists, plus two ophthalmologists, who performed visual services on about 300 Martin county residents as part of the Appalachian Screening project here this week-end.

The program was a combined federal-state endeavor, which was under the direction of Kentucky's Department of Health through its Community Health Services section.

The program at Inez marked the first time that a team such as this has brought its services to bear on such a large number of people at one time.

All three optometrists who participated in the project which began here Friday, May 21, are members of the Eastern Kentucky Optometric Society.

The 300 patients were selected by means of a screening process that has taken since January when four Public Health Service physicians and one Public Health Service dentist worked on a cross section of the entire population of Martin county in a project designed to pinpoint the total health needs of the 10,000 residents of the county.

NOTICE OF SALE OF ELECTRIC FRANCHISE

On the 20th day of May, 1965, the City Council of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, adopted a resolution directing the sale at public outcry of a city electric power franchise. This resolution is in words and figures as follows:

WHEREAS, the existing franchise held by the Kentucky Power Company for the distribution of electric power in the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, will expire on October 22, 1965 and

WHEREAS, there is a continuing public necessity for adequate service of electric power and energy to the citizens of the City of Prestonsburg, and

WHEREAS, it appears that it is to the interest of the public that a franchise be advertised and sold granting and entitling the grantee to use the public streets, thoroughfares and other public places for the erection and maintenance of lines for the transmission and distribution of electric power.

NOW, THEREFORE, be it resolved by the City Council of the City of Prestonsburg, Kentucky:

SECTION 1. That there be sold at public auction to the highest and best bidder, the right, privilege and authority to acquire, maintain, construct and operate in, above, under, across and along the streets, thoroughfares, alleys, bridges and public places (as the same now exist or may hereafter be laid out) of the City of Prestonsburg, Floyd county, Kentucky, lines, poles and equipment for the distribution of electric energy either by means of overhead or underground conductors, with all the necessary or desirable appurtenances for the purpose of supplying electric energy to said City and the inhabitants thereof and persons and corporations beyond the limits thereof for light, heat, power and any other purpose or purposes for which electric energy is now or may hereafter be used, and for the transmission of the same within, through or across said City.

SECTION 2. Said lines and appurtenances shall be constructed so as to interfere as little as possible with the traveling public in its use of the streets, thoroughfares, alleys, bridges and public places. The location of all poles or conduits shall be made under the supervision of the proper board or committee of the city government.

SECTION 3. The right, privilege and franchise shall be in full force and effect for a period of twenty (20) years from the date of the passage of the ordinance granting it.

SECTION 4. The grantee of this franchise shall have the city harmless from any and all liability arising in any way from negligence in the erection, maintenance or operation of said lines and appurtenances.

SECTION 5. Whenever the grantee of this franchise shall begin the erection of any lines or other equipment, it shall promptly and diligently prosecute the work to completion and leave the streets, thoroughfares, alleys, bridges and public places where such work is done in as good condition of repair as before such work was commenced.

SECTION 6. Wherever in this franchise, either the City of Prestonsburg or the grantee thereof is referred to, it shall be deemed to include the respective successors and assigns of either, and all rights, privileges, and obligations contained in this franchise shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the respective successors and assigns of said City and said grantee, whether so expressed or not.

SECTION 7. The grantee of this franchise may make such rules and regulations covering the furnishing of said electric energy as may be fair and reasonable and consistent with the standard practice of the grantee. Said grantee may charge such rates for electric service as shall be fair and reasonable. The said grantee shall render service under said franchise of like quality, that is, adequate, efficient and reasonable, to that now being rendered to said city.

SECTION 8. The consideration paid by the successful bidder for the franchise privilege and right provided for herein shall be complete compensation and consideration for said franchise, privilege and right and for the use and occupancy of the streets, avenues, alleys, bridges and public ways of the City in lieu of the charge for the use or occupancy of said streets, avenues, alleys, bridges, thoroughfares or public places of said City and in lieu of any pole tax or meter tax.

SECTION 9. Each bidder for said franchise, privilege and right shall file as a part of his bid a certified copy of a certificate of convenience and necessity from the Public Service Commission of Kentucky, issued under the authority of KRS 278.020(3).

SECTION 10. The ordinance granting this franchise shall be accepted by the grantee thereof within sixty (60) days from the date of its passage.

The City reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

THE CLERK OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG is hereby directed after having advertised the time, place and terms of sale and the rights to be sold by posting written or printed notices in six (6) public places in the City of Prestonsburg, including the door of the City Hall and in five (5) other conspicuous places in the City for at least 15 days before the time of sale and by causing the publication of such notice in the Floyd County Times for not less than three (3) consecutive issues next before the date of sale, to

No person, however, other than the owner of a plant and equipment sufficient to render the service required by this resolution shall be entitled to bid on such franchise unless the prospective bidder shall deposit with the Clerk before the commencement of the bidding a certified check for the sum of $5,000.00, pursuant to KRS 96.020. Said franchise shall be sold for cash in hand and the deposit above referred to may be forfeited upon failure of the successful bidder to meet the other requirements of said statute.

IV. The Clerk will report her acts, together with all bids received by her for such franchise to the City Council at its next regular or adjourned or called meeting held next after such sale.

Pursuant to the direction of the City Council of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, as set forth in the foregoing Resolution, the undersigned will, on Thursday, the 17th day of June, 1965, at the front door of the City Hall in the City of Prestonsburg, Floyd county, Kentucky, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon or shortly thereafter and in any event, between the hours of 10:00 a.m. and 2:00 p.m. offer for public sale at public outcry to the highest and best bidder, an electric franchise on the public streets and thoroughfares of Prestonsburg, Kentucky, which electric franchise shall be in the terms set forth in the foregoing Resolution and said sale shall be made in all respects in accordance with the Resolution set forth above and all bidders will be required to comply with the terms of such Resolution.

DROP-OUT PROBLEM FADING, KY. SCHOOLS HEAD CLAIMS

Frankfort, Ky. (Spl.)—The drop-out problem in Kentucky schools is moving nearer to the normal time when it may "drop out" all together from the school story.

"Holding power," according to Dr. Harry M. Sparks, State superintendent of public instruction, has increased almost 10 percent in the last decade.

This spring's record total of 41,150 Kentucky high school graduates includes two out of three—67 percent—of the 61,200 youngsters who entered the ninth grade four years ago, Dr. Sparks said.

Most of the 20,000 who did not stay in school along the four-year route have dropped out of school completely. However, some have moved to other states and will receive diplomas there, Dr. Sparks noted.

DRIFT

The Drift Woman's Club held an installation dinner meeting, May 17, in the Sanora Restaurant at Hite. Mrs. Glen Ward, president, presided and welcomed the guests, Miss Lena Porter and Mrs. Noah Howard, also three new members, Mrs. Glenn Burton, Miss Jane Hoffman and Mrs. Charles Case. After dinner, Mrs. Ward introduced the speaker, Miss Lena Porter, governor of the Seventh district.

Miss Porter spoke of the work being done by the various clubs and stressed the state project, a rehabilitation center for delinquent girls. She said the training that would be available to the girls would help them return to normal and useful lives. Miss Porter pointed out that Kentucky was the first state to undertake a statewide project and urged the club to help in this worthy endeavor. The club pledged $100 to this fund. Miss Porter thanked the outgoing officers for their cooperation during the year and challenged the club to back the new officers and make the club year even better than the last.

The following officers were installed: president, Mrs. Ben Martin; vice-president, Mrs. Don Little; recording secretary, Miss Ruby Akers; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Nick Cooley; treasurer, Mrs. Clarence Cahill. Members who attended were Mrs. James Reed, Mrs. Clarence Cahill, Mrs. Ben Martin, Mrs. Glen Ward, Mrs. Glenn Burton, Mrs. Roger Tackett, Mrs. Bill Stumbo, Mrs. Bill Hoffman, Mrs. Sam Martin, Sr., Miss Jane Hoffman, Mrs. Ward Reed, Mrs. Don Little, Mrs. McKinley Little, Mrs. Lloyd Stumbo, Mrs. Ivan Reed, Mrs. Sam Martin, Jr., Mrs. Belford Reed, Mrs. Ronald Turner, Mrs. Byron Beard, Mrs. B. Ten years ago, only 57.9 percent of Kentucky students entering the ninth grade were still around at graduation time. At all four stops along the high school route, the holding power in Kentucky schools is greater now than a decade ago.

In 1955, only 84.3 percent of the ninth grade entrants were back for the sophomore year, as compared to 89.4 percent now. In the junior year, the percentage shrank to 72.1 percent as compared to 78.5 percent now.

The record total of high school graduates in Kentucky this year—some 5,000 more than the previous high last year and nearly double the total 10 years ago—have enjoyed the benefits of record appropriations in state education expenditures. Since these 1965 graduates began in the first grade 12 years ago, there has been a revolution in Kentucky education, Sparks said, and the students have benefited from it.

Ironically, there is a paradox in the increase in holding power, he said. This year's high school graduates have completed a tougher curriculum than their counterparts of a few years ago. But a larger percentage of them have stuck it out to graduation than ever before.

Twelve years ago, there was no Minimum Foundation Program for education. Now, this program is pouring millions of dollars annually into Kentucky's schools and growing every year.

For the current school year, the 1964 General Assembly budgeted nearly $120.5 million to the Minimum Foundation Program—an increase of $7.6 million over the 1963-64 year. And for the upcoming school year, an additional $8 million was budgeted. These funds have provided newer and better instruments for education, contributing to the holding power of the schools.

Twelve years ago, many of Kentucky's teachers in both elementary and high schools did not have college degrees. Today, almost all of them do—92 percent, to be exact—and only four percent have emergency certificates, Sparks said.

THE WHEELWRIGHT WOMAN'S CLUB met May 10 in the woman's clubroom. Eleven members were present. Wilbur Jamerson, of Wheelwright high school, gave an informative talk on education.

Miss Lena Porter, of Pikeville, Kentucky, who is governor of the Seventh district of the Federation of Woman's Clubs, installed the officers for the coming year.

Each member was urged by Mrs. Steve Clark to bring a new member to the club for the coming year. The club also pledged its financial help toward the construction of a new rehabilitation center to help delinquent girls. Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. J. H. Cantrill and Mrs. John Rupe.

Three Students Here Have Perfect 4-Point Standings for Semester

The Prestonsburg Community College this week announced the names of three students who maintained a perfect 4-point standing for the second semester of the 1964-1965 school year. They are Nina Francis Branham, Wayland; Dennis William Henry and Herbie Banks Wells, both of Prestonsburg.

Of these three students Mrs. Wells and Mr. Henry also maintained a 4-point standing for the first semester of 1964-1965.

Ronald Lawson, registrar at the college, pointed out that a student who has earned 67 hours or more at any other institution cannot receive credit for hours taken at the Prestonsburg Community College.

Giants Sign Jim Osborne To Pro Football Contract

Jim Osborne, 250-pound all-OVC tackle at Morehead State College, has signed a contract with the New York Giants of the National Football League.

The 22-year-old Osborne, who played in high school at the Kentucky Military Institute, is a native of Hindman. He was named to the All-Ohio Valley Conference defensive team as a senior and to the second team as a junior.

Osborne, who returned the $8,500 contract to Giant co-owner Wellington T. Mara, Tuesday, will report to the Giant training camp on July 12.

At 6-2, 250 pounds, Osborne feels he is big enough to play in the NFL. "I have always dreamed of playing professional football," he said, "and it is a great thrill to go with a team of the Giants' caliber."

Guy Penny, who coached Osborne at Morehead, said, "Jim is a fine young man who has been an outstanding football player in our conference and we wish him the best of success with the Giants."

THE AMAZING DRAGONFLIES

As I was walking up a clear running mountain brook in the woods, I saw a sight one is seldom privileged to see. It was the egg-laying dance of the female dragonfly, which always lays her eggs to the ritual of a dance.

She was shooting up and down in a vertical position, and with the speed and rhythm of a pile driver. Each time she shot straight down, she inserted her ovipositor in the running water to lay her eggs. I don't know how many she laid at each connection she made with the water, but she was moving with great speed, and I counted over 100 times she shot up and down and laid some eggs each time. A foot up she'd shoot, then down. I moved closer to identify her, but she was wary and kept on dancing up the brook, laying eggs as she went. I'm sure she was a big female green darner, ANAX JUNIUS. It is certain there was no sign of parental care here. Nor was any needed. She just laid her eggs in the water and went on about her business.

The eggs will simply hatch out in the brook and produce ferocious-looking nymphs. These nymphs need no parental care as they can fend for themselves. They look like small masked monsters, with their long lower lip covering the face like the mask of a bandit. When not used as a mask, the long lip is used as a formidable weapon for darting out to snare the hapless victim.

Another remarkable feature of these dragonfly nymphs is their power to shoot through the water by jet propulsion. They often spend two years or more in fresh water, during which period they moult a dozen times or more. They dine on any small water creatures they can capture, such as mosquito wrigglers. In turn they are often devoured by fish, ducks, herons and other water wading birds.

After its life in the water is over, this uncleanly nymph suddenly seems to decide to change the habitat and the restricted mode of living. It leaves the water, crawls out on some plant or weed stem, splits its skin and comes out a gorgeous, streamlined insect with two pairs of gauzy wings, a slender body like a darning needle—"devils darning needles" they are called—and a large head with such remarkable, compound eyes. It is amazing to know that each of the big eyes has more than 30,000 lens, or small eyes, enabling the dragonfly to spot its prey from all sides—up, down, forward and back. These adult dragonflies have something else besides beauty, symmetry and speed; they have a voracious appetite that is never satisfied. When insect eating is good, with plenty of insects to catch, the big dragonfly often eats so many that his jaws get all clogged up and he has to stop for a breathing spell. These big green darners are sometimes called "mosquito eaters."

HOMECOMING DATE IS SET

72 Communities Listed As Prestonsburg Slates Two-Day Homecoming

The 1965 Kentucky Homecoming Commission has notified Governor Edward T. Breathitt that 72 Kentucky communities now plan homecoming events, one of which is the Prestonsburg Homecoming slated for June 11 and 12.

Latest additions to the group are Magoffin county, which announced a homecoming celebration at Salyersville July 4, and Barren county, which plans a two-day celebration at Glasgow, July 11-12.

The 72 celebrations scheduled range from family reunions in which comparatively few persons will take part to colorful, spectacular events expected to draw thousands of visitors.

Probably the largest of the latter type will be the official state homecoming to be held in Frankfort June 4-6. Judges of the state's 120 counties are to be honored at this event and a Kentucky Homecoming Queen will be chosen from county queens named previously.

Both the Governor and Zimmerman have expressed approval of efforts put forward to make Kentucky's 1965 homecoming year an outstanding success. Governor Breathitt said he expected this success to be reflected by a significant increase in travel and vacation figures.

A Pictorial Review of East Kentucky

(No. 329 in a Series)

Henry C. Hale, son of George and Kate Hale, of Goodloe, Ky., is perhaps typical of those patriotic sons of the country who served so well in World War I. Educated in the local schools and at Eastern Kentucky Normal College, headed by Prof. Walter M. Byington, he taught school a few years before his country called.

Hale, born in 1897, married Thelma McShirley. Brothers and sisters were the late Jim Hale, of Blue River, Ellis Hale, Waverly, O., Mrs. Lula Montgomery, West Prestonsburg, Mrs. Maude Bailey, Warsaw, Ind., Mrs. Myrtle Helton, Mrs. Darcus Stephens and B. B. (Bud) Hale.

Following service in World War I, Hale was employed by a railway company and died in 1960 at Veterans Administration hospital, Kecoughton, Va. He lies buried at Montgomery, W. Va.

The First National Bank salutes the memory of all those who served their country in all wars and trusts that America will cherish their sacrifices.

TIDBITS of KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.

Western Kentucky Teachers' College, Bowling Green, Ky.

"SCARY CRITTERS"

Not only are there wise animals, such as the ones I discussed in a previous article, but there are scary ones, critters that often make our hair rise or our flesh creep.

Take owls, for instance, which are regarded by hosts of people as birds of ill omen. Hoot owls, the larger species like the barred and the great horned, scare some people, but the little screech owl, with its quivering note, scares nearly everybody. Many times I have been asked, as a student of birds, whether I even count these weird owls as birds. I suppose that they may be, like Shelley's skylark, only wandering voices.

Poor, helpless little salamanders—waterdogs or mud puppies—scare some people half out of their skins. Somehow their bright eyes seem just too knowing to be the eyes of a small cold-blooded little fellow. They look to many people as if they might be transformed human beings, bewitched and waiting to be released. Maybe those bright eyes are trying to communicate the strange miseries of being changed from a lovely maiden or a gallant gentleman to a lizard-like little cold creature.

It seems to me that the many-legged critters come in for the most misunderstanding. I have seen brave men and women scream when they even saw a thousand-legs. I do hope they did not show their teeth when they screamed, for, if the thousand-legs sees your teeth, they will drop out. The cow centipede, a fine creature to have around to eat up destructive insects, sets up some strange feelings on the part of many people. I have seen grown-ups run and stomp (I really mean stomp) a helpless centipede as if they were doing a very virtuous act and should have a star or two in their crowns for thus killing a helpful animal.

As everybody knows, snakes create panic among many sorts of people. Fortunately, there is a growing group of people, men and women and especially younger people, who know about harmless and harmful snakes. When I attended a lecture on snakes not long ago, the lecturer, one of the great scholars in that field, assured the listeners that most snakes were harmless and that they would not harm anyone. After his lecture nearly everybody, men and women alike, went up and handled some of his prize snakes. Most of the people so doing did not show any exultant look, for they had done just that thing before. Imagine, however, a group of old women and men who would do such things. Snakes were bad to them, and no amount of talking by a learned herpetologist could have convinced them otherwise. It is still hard, in places, to convince people that only a few types of snakes are poisonous; I have been told within this twelve month how poisonous were black and chicken snakes. Old fears are slow to die.

Our striped lizards are among the most beautiful of the harmless creatures. But thousands of people in my part of the world still regard them as deadly poisonous, even though they admit that the scaly, less beautiful lizard is harmless. These striped lizards are scorpions to nearly everybody; and all the stories of the actual scorpion, which few people ever saw, have been transferred to the harmless striped little creatures.

An unknown night sound becomes for many people still, even campers, a warning that something pretty bad is around. When I was a child, some wild bird note, maybe given by some bird that we did not fear by day, made us tingle with fear. We talked, sometimes in whispers, about a Night Hawk, not the bullbat so well known by day but some bird that did not show itself by day but was waiting in the anterooms of our world to charge in and take the stage.

It has taken a long time for some of nature to be known and appreciated for what it really is. Folk animals still stalk the world at night.

See Elderberries as Hope For Strip-Mine Acreage

How to produce a new cash crop for Eastern Kentucky, reclaim strip-mined land and prevent soil erosion and flooding are problems that "Operation Elderberry" may help solve.

The pilot project was launched recently when 10,000 cuttings of elderberry plants were put into strip mine spoil banks of earth that once contained the "Black Gold" of coal—the top product of Eastern Kentucky.

The cuttings were planted on 10-acre hillside tracts owned by the Kentucky River Coal Sales Company, near Hazard, and the Greer and Ellison Coal Company, near Whitesburg.

The small blue elderberries produced by the project are expected to be of commercial value within three years. A midwestern firm that processes and markets jams and jellies has agreed to purchase the berries.

The increasing use of herbicide sprays along roadways in recent years has led to a shortage of wild elderberries. Soil and climatic conditions favor the growth of the fruit in Eastern Kentucky with a minimum of cultivation. "Operation Elderberry" is a team effort. Working together to obtain, plant and nurture the pilot crop are officials and employees of the two strip mining companies, staff members of the Kentucky Department of Commerce Division of Agricultural Development and the Kentucky Department of Natural Resources Division of Strip Mining and Reclamation, and the University of Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Substation at Quicksand.

Plans for the expansion of the project call for owners of land leased to strip mine operators to benefit by growing, harvesting and selling the berries.

William Frank Lebus, Jr., director of the Division of Agricultural Development, feels that if the project proves successful it could open up new sources of income and employment for Eastern Kentucky.

"We hope this will create a new industry for the region—the commercial growing of elderberries, blackberries, raspberries, red currants, apples and grapes, which could bring processing plants into the area," Lebus said.

Some idea of how profitable the growing of elderberries could be for the marginal-type farmer is indicated in the current market price paid by processors. A return of $400 per acre is possible, based on a yield of between 3 to 5 tons per acre. And research has shown that such a yield can be expected from planting in spoil banks and land not suited for most agricultural products.

Elmore C. Grim, director of the Division of Strip Mining and Reclamation, believes the pilot project could be a big step in reclaiming and conserving strip-mined land. "The elderberry has a very fibrous root system which could help prevent soil erosion and aid flood control," Grim said.

Grim said that if the pilot project shows promise it will be expanded next fall by the planting of 50,000 elderberry seedlings in spoil banks at other strip mines in Eastern Kentucky.

Supporters of "Operation Elderberry" feel that there is every reason to believe it will be successful. Elderberries planted in spoil banks in Ohio a year ago are doing well.

Interest in the potential of carrying out a similar project in Eastern Kentucky resulted in Lebus contacting a midwestern jam and jelly manufacturer early this year.

The company sent representatives into the area to confer with Lebus, Grim, University of Kentucky agricultural experts and officials of Kentucky River Coal Sales and Greer and Ellison Coal Company.

Samples taken from spoil banks of the two companies were tested and results showed the soil had a high nutrient content highly desirable for growing elderberries.

The midwestern jam and jelly manufacturer arranged for the two coal firms to purchase the 10,000 elderberry cuttings, and also had them delivered to Eastern Kentucky.

Robert Lee Shepherd, a horticulturist on the staff of the agricultural substation at Quicksand, is helping supervise the growth of three varieties of elderberry planted near Hazard and Whitesburg. He believes that within a year cuttings could be made from the plants to expand the project.

William B. Sturgill, of Hazard, president of Kentucky River Coal Sales, said he feels that "the commercial growing of berries and fruit trees offers a real opportunity for improving the economy of Eastern Kentucky."

Some 7,600 apple trees planted by Sturgill's firm in strip-mined areas are growing well. In addition to the elderberry project, his firm plans to experiment with growing blueberries, raspberries, blackberries and currants on spoil banks.

B. L. Greer, of Whitesburg, president of Greer and Ellison Coal Company, is also an enthusiastic supporter of "Operation Elderberry."

"It will show the way," Greer said. "This type of project has been needed for a long time in Eastern Kentucky."

The elderberry had in the past many uses including wine, cosmetics and medicine. Oils extracted from elderberry flowers were in ancient times used as a healing ointment. And for Eastern Kentucky the elderberry could prove to be a remedy for some of the region's economic ills and problems.

POLLUTION STIRS ROW

Clark and Pickard At Odds on Pollution In East Kentucky

An effort was being made this week by water experts of the Geologic Survey, Washington, D. C., to pinpoint the damage done to streams of the Appalachia area by acid water from mines.

Four hundred stream observations were being made. The Interior Department said streams not affected by acid waters in the 10-state area offer immediate prospects for industrial development.

By pinpointing the areas of high acid mine contamination and by also locating streams that have a high neutralizing capacity, the study also aims at helping federal and state authorities develop adequate control procedures.

"Acid waters exist in many streams of Appalachia as a result of coal mining operations," said S. K. Love, chief of the survey's quality of water branch.

"Waters with high acid and mineral content are unsuitable for aquatic and plant life, as well as for domestic and industrial uses.

"The high cost of treating acid water to make it useable has been a significant factor in the slow development of industry in parts of the region."

NATURE TRAILS

quito hawks," as they soon clean up the flies and mosquitoes around the water. Their speed has been clocked at 60 miles per hour. Their legs are too small and weak for walking but they form a dinner basket trap for holding the insect while it is being devoured.

After these dragonflies have cleaned out all the insects around the water, they will go out everywhere in search of food; they will even capture and devour bees, wasps or hornets.

When the dragonflies alight, they hold their wings spread out. Their relatives, the damselflies, of the same order, Odonata, fold their wings together when they alight. Down south, the dragonflies are called "snake feeders," a name given them because they are often seen hovering near the head of a huge water snake. But their purpose in doing so is to catch the flies that swarm around the head of the snake.

The adult dragonfly is one of our most beautiful and useful, as well as interesting, insects. Dragonflies enliven a pond on a summer's day as they flash and dart in pursuit of insects, often with a speed the human eye cannot follow.

The big green darners do not seem to be too fearful of humans. I have often had them to light on my shirt sleeve, as if in a show of friendliness.

An old superstition down south goes to say these devil's darners will sew up the ears of a truant schoolboy if they catch him hiding out from school.

100 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

The Civil War in Kentucky

By JOE JORDAN

One hundred years ago this week the Civil War ended with the surrender of the Confederate Army of the Trans-Mississippi by Gen. Edmund Kirby Smith at Shreveport, Louisiana. Although Smith during the previous week at Marshall, Texas, had acceded to a demand by his generals that he turn his command over to Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, when he returned to his headquarters at Shreveport he found two important communications which led him to ignore that act and resume command as if nothing had happened at Marshall.

One of the letters, signed by the governors of all states in the Department of the Trans-Mississippi except Reynolds of Missouri, directed him to give up the struggle. Under the Confederacy, governors of states were commanders-in-chief of state forces in the field and had final authority. The other letter demanded that he surrender to Maj. Gen. John Pope, U. S. Army. Smith protested that Pope's terms were too harsh. When Pope modified the terms, he agreed to surrender. It was not until three days after the Trans-Mississippi surrender that President Andrew Johnson considered the war over and issued a Proclamation of Amnesty.

Kirby Smith ordered the Kentuckian, Buckner, who had succeeded him, to come to Shreveport and sign the surrender document, and Buckner obeyed. At Fort Donelson in February of 1862 when the two generals senior to him escaped, Buckner had been forced to make the first Confederate surrender of the war; now he had to sign the last one. He was destined to become governor of Kentucky in 1887. He was the father of Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner of World War II, who was killed on Okinawa in 1945.

Maj. Gen. Joseph O. Shelby, the native Kentuckian who with the backing of his fellow officers of general rank had faced Kirby Smith and demanded that he turn the command over to Buckner, was furious when he learned of the surrender and, at Stone Point, Texas, was found by a courier who delivered an order from Smith, directing him to march his division to Shreveport, lay down his arms, and give his parole to Gen. Pope not to bear arms against the United States. He blamed Smith not so much as Buckner, whom he had nominated to succeed Smith.

MT. PARKWAY TOLLS, OTHERS SHOW GAINS

Frankfort, Ky.—During April, the Kentucky Highway Department collected $597,532.80 from its toll facilities. This is $143,500.67 more than was collected in the same period last year, Highway Commissioner Henry Ward said.

Ward also announced that sealed offers will be received by the Highway Department on May 24, to retire $75,000 worth of bonds on the Shawneetown Bridge in western Kentucky which extends from Union county, Kentucky, across the Ohio River to Gallatin county, Illinois.

"Paying off bonded indebtedness on toll roads and bridges sooner than the maturity date is proof that they are paying their way—it is a sound policy that frees facilities sooner and thereby saves taxpayers money," Ward said. "A prime example of this is the 39-mile Kentucky Turnpike between Louisville and Elizabethtown. Revenue bonds on this modern highway will be retired some twenty years before maturity."

The following figures just released by the Highway Department show increases in income from each of Kentucky's toll facilities during April of this year as compared to the same period a year ago.

Kentucky Turnpike, $349,604.40, $268,823.05 in April, 1964; Mountain Parkway, $57,197.23, $44,300.09; Mountain Parkway Extension, $22,021.01, $16,720.00; Western Kentucky Parkway, $145,819.16, $104,937.49; Shawneetown Bridge, $22,891.00, $19,251.50.

Health Doctor Urges Lifesaving Techniques As Needed Equipment

Kentuckians, and especially Floyd countians, have the next three months to look forward to, for summer is almost here. Schools will close soon and vacations are being planned.

Camping, fishing and boating equipment is being brought out of storage or bought for the summer season. Dr. R. L. Hall, health officer, suggests that every Floyd countian further equip himself with some lifesaving techniques.

"Rescue breathing, or mouth-to-mouth breathing, is one of the most effective lifesaving methods used today," Dr. Hall said, "and has saved the lives of many victims of drowning, shock, chest injuries, choking, drugs or gas."

Mouth-to-mouth rescue breathing should be started immediately, wherever the patient is—in the water as he is brought in or on the bank where he lies after an accident, overdose of drugs, or choking, or after he is quickly brought out of gas-filled areas. "Anyone can learn—you, your friends, and every member of your family, the children, too," added Dr. Hall.

After placing the victim on his back, clear his mouth and throat of anything which might block breathing, tilt his head back, move his jaw forward, and pinch the nostrils closed. Then take a deep breath, blow hard enough and long enough into the victim's mouth to see his chest rise before stopping.

This procedure should be repeated 12 to 20 times a minute and continued until the victim is breathing for himself. If the victim is a small child, blow into the mouth less forcefully. "Learn this lifesaving method and you will always be prepared in case of an emergency," said the health officer.

For groups interested in rescue breathing, there are two films available from the Floyd County Health Department—"Rescue Breathing" and "Breath of Life"—and a pamphlet describing step-by-step procedures for rescue breathing. Classes to learn this lifesaving technique can be arranged by contacting the county health department. To demonstrate mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to be used in the classes along with the films, there are two demonstration dolls, called Resuscit-Ann, with the films.
