This Town . . . That World

Those redoubtable anglers, "Red" Moore and Stuart Stephens, are home from a fishing safari into Ontario. I made that trip, once upon a time, and I think these two will agree with me that Canadian fishing for a fellow travelling as far as we do loses two of the main points in the sport: 1. You don't have the thrill of the hunt, catching fish is so easy; 2. It's a poor place to do any bragging, since nobody knows you, you know nobody, and nobody cares, now. And take those two ingredients out of the sport, and you've got yourself a pretty flat piece of cake.

THE POOR PEOPLE IN NEW YORK!

What is there about fishing that will cause a man, maybe a few women, to defy the elements, rise at ungodly hours, bed down at hours and in places decent folks would turn up their noses at, even drive hundreds of miles with hope strong and good sense weak? Don't ask me!

I've often said that I'm nuts about fishing because I'm a nature-lover, thus making excuse for my persistence in the face of repeated failure, even misfortune. But I say, in all seriousness, that if there wasn't that sense of getting away from it all, that feeling of other-worldiness that I get, out on the water, I might be a bit more sensible about this fishing business.

The other evening, late, my fishing partner and I were having those last casts along a darkening shoreline. There wasn't another boat to disturb the water, not even the sound of a motor to break the spell.

The evening star peeped from behind a cloud, and just then a screech owl broke into his tremolo bit, a few yards up there in the trees. A moment later came an echoing, plaintive twitter from across the lake. Then it seemed that three of the owls were trilling. And next the inevitable whippoorwill chimed in, in his own breathless style.

I glanced to the other end of the boat, wondering if my buddy was enjoying all this as much as I. And he said:

"Boy, I sure do pity those poor people in New York!"

See what I mean?

I am trying to write this while listening to the Cincinnati Reds (See Story No. 5, Page 6)

IT'S BACK TO CLASS TUESDAY, AUG. 24th

The Floyd County Board of Education at its meeting Saturday approved the calendar of school activities for the new school year, and one of the most important of the events listed was the school opening date—Tuesday, August 24.

Actually, the school term will begin on Monday, the 23rd, but this day will be devoted to in-service meeting of teachers at the grade school here. Pupils will report to school, August 24.

Dr. Ellis Hartford, dean of the University of Kentucky's Community College system, will be the speaker at the in-service day here.

County Superintendent Charles Clark said this week that the teacher situation is better this year than at any previous time, yet short of being ideal. He pointed out that only 12 emergency teachers have been employed this year and that five years ago the number of such teachers stood at 125.

Certified teachers employed at Saturday's meeting on recommendation of Superintendent Clark:

Ruth Jones at Ligon, Mary Ann Walker at Upper Frasure's Creek, Allen Epling at Martin high school, Hazel Clifton at Prestonsburg elementary, Paul Hunter and Thelma Spears at Betsy Layne high, Ronald Gene Prater at Garrett high, Alberta H. Turner at Martin high school, Sarah McQueen and Edna Baskin at Wheelwright high school, Billy Linkous at Prestonsburg high, Roberta Luxmore at Ned's Fork and Hope Blackburn at Daniel's Creek.

The 12 uncertified teachers employed are:

STUDY OF REPORT BY FANTUS SLATED

LODGE HERE IS SELECTED FOR REVIEW

Report Says East Ky. Has Great Potential; Review Set August 16

The report made by Fantus Area Research, Inc. on the industrial prospects of Kentucky and on Eastern Kentucky's potential will be reviewed in an area meeting to be sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Commerce Monday afternoon at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park.

Miss Katherine Peden, commissioner, Kentucky Department of Commerce, said a discussion will be held on (a) the region's advantages and shortcomings for development as revealed by the Fantus study; and (b) procedures for dissemination of information contained in the report to industrial firms and others. The May Lodge meeting will begin at 2:30 p.m.

The report made after a $100,000 study of the state's industrial prospects said that Eastern Kentucky, in spite of its "wasteland" image and reputation of being a "high risk" for business, offers a remarkable range of opportunities for new industry and for the expansion of existing industry.

The report on Area 15, which includes Floyd and neighboring counties, said Fantus was surprised and pleased by some of its Eastern Kentucky findings. The report assembles facts diametrically opposite to the "economic wasteland" concept, yet it points out that industrial growth in the area will not come about without an "extraordinary effort" to overcome deep-rooted misconceptions.

For outside businessmen many erroneous impressions about East Kentucky, engendered by national magazine articles, television documentaries on Appalachia, and books such as "Night Comes to the Cumberlands," by Whitesburg attorney and author Harry Caudill.

"Mr. Caudill does his cause a disservice by recklessly extending his original and often valid Cumberland Plateau arguments to all of Appalachia" in his most recent article, "Misdeal in Appalachia" (See Story No. 3, Page 3)

Mrs. Fraley, Age 91, Is Victim at Home On Stratton Branch

Mrs. Lucie Reed Fraley, 91, died August 7 at her home on Stratton Branch, following a long illness. She was the daughter of Willis and Sarah Hopson Reed and was the widow of James Fraley.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Mary McGuire, of Fallsburg, Kentucky, and five sons, Willis, Tabie, Ed, Jack and Ben Fraley, all of Lancer. Funeral services were held Monday at 1 p.m. in the chapel of the Carter & Callihan Funeral Home, the Rev. Henry Crider officiating. Burial was made in the Walker Mayo cemetery at Lancer under the direction of the Carter & Callihan Funeral Home.

PIANO RECITAL

COLLEGE HERE SEES ENROLLMENT OF 500

The enrollment at the Prestonsburg Community College, which will begin its second year of work on September 1, is expected to make a jump of almost 70% over last year's enrollment, it was said here this week.

College officials predict that about 550 students will enroll and begin classwork on September 1. The student body last year numbered 325. It is predicted that between 650 and 700 will have made application by the time registration begins on August 27, but those who actually enroll and start work may not exceed 550.

And with the prospects of a dramatic enrollment increase the faculty is being increased commensurately. The number of instructors this year will rise from last year's 11 to 17 fulltime teachers.

Nine of the 17 will be new to the campus here, while eight are returning from last year. Two of the three teachers missing from last year are working on their doctorates. They are Tom Collins, who is at the University of Kentucky, and Randall Sipes, who is studying at the University of North Carolina. The third, Clyde Lewis, is at the Hopkinsville Community College.

The new faculty members are: Frederick Woolf, coming from Texas Women's University to teach in the foreign language area; Larry White, from Highland Junior College, Highland, Kansas, to teach political science and sociology; Walter Stepp, from the University of Missouri, to teach English; Robert Sokoll, from New Mexico State to teach botany and biology; Joseph Jef-

BLAZE RUINS LAKE MOTEL

Units Near Completion By Branham Destroyed; Cause of Fire Unknown

The motel under construction by Bennie Branham, on the Dewey Lake road, was ruined by fire Monday morning, only the walls of the gutted units left standing.

Mr. Branham had completed apartments in which he planned to live with his family and had plumbing and wiring partially installed in about eight motel units, it was said. No estimate of the damage was available. The owner was in Cincinnati at the time of the blaze, it was said.

Cause of the fire has not been determined. When the Prestonsburg fire department arrived at the scene the two units next to the highway were burning. The others had collapsed.

The building housing what was known as the Shamrock Club, located on the Branham property, near the motel site, was destroyed by fire, about three months ago.

Mrs. Mollie Johnson, 73, Prestonsburg Resident, Is Claimed August 6

ONE-MAN BUSINESS NOW A BUSY PLANT

You might say that the 50x80-foot building which stands at Allen, housing the business of Edgar H. Hall, is the House That Block Built.

For blocks is his business, one which began on the smallest scale imaginable and which has developed in a period of 20 years into a major Eastern Kentucky "home-owned" enterprise.

The Hall Concrete Products Company had its beginning in 1945 with one man's ambition. "Ed" Hall was just out of the Army, looking for something to do. During the WPA days of the Great Depression in the '30's he had become acquainted with concrete work; his interest had lain dormant through the war years, and now he turned to concrete for a living.

Mr. Hall recalls that he started out in the business with $800 "and all I could borrow and beg." He began making concrete blocks at his home at Banner, doing most of the work by hand, and producing 300 blocks a day. That first year, he produced and sold about $4,000 worth of blocks. His only help in those days was after-school-hours work done by his two sons.

Health Department To Close, Aug. 16-20

The Floyd County Health Department will be closed from Monday, August 16, through Friday, August 20, for a state-wide meeting at Lexington sponsored by the Maternal Child Health Division of the State Health Department. ## COURTHOUSE AUDIT MADE

County Had Net Outlay Of $206,404 on Work; Final Grant Approved

Final audit of the financial transactions involved in the construction of the new Floyd county courthouse have been completed by the Community Facilities Administration, with these results:

1. The final grant payment of $29,257.50 was authorized; and, 2. An unexpended $425.68 was returned to the county as owner of the property.

The audited cost of the entire project is $621,304.32.

Of this amount, $298,700 was provided by federal grant, and an additional $116,200 was realized through sale of the old courthouse property to the Urban Renewal Administration. This $116,200 was paid on the $330,003.97 realized through sale of county bonds, leaving the county a net outlay for the new structure of $206,404.32.

The completed audit was received several days ago by County Attorney Barkley J. Sturgill from Community Facilities.

SUIT ASSAILS STEPS TAKEN BY OFFICIALS

Judge Delays Delivery Of Bonds, Pending Word From Court of Appeals

Sale of the city of Martin's sewerage and sewage disposal $164,000 bond issue to finance plant construction ran into legal entanglements Monday, and the bonds may be freed for delivery to purchasers only by Court of Appeals directive, if they are made available at all.

Suit attacking validity of the ordinances authorizing sewerage construction there and the sale of the bonds was filed August 5 by Steve Stout, a member of the Martin City Council, and Olin A. Elliott, Martin grocer. They asked that the ordinance of July 28 authorizing the bond sale be adjudged null and void, that the city of Martin be enjoined from offering the bonds for sale on August 9, as advertised, that the Mayor and City Clerk be enjoined from signing the bonds and that a temporary restraining order issue.

The restraining order was issued, and it was not dissolved until a hearing was held Monday at Louisa by Judge W. D. Sparks, who had presided as special judge in the trial of an earlier case in which location of the sewage disposal plant at Martin was under attack.

Although he lifted the temporary injunction, Judge Sparks directed that the Mayor and City Clerk retain possession of the bonds and not deliver them to any person, firm or corporation until the expiration of 20 days from the date of his order and until the Court of Appeals has passed upon the plaintiffs' motion for reinstatement of the temporary restraining order. Plaintiffs were given 10 days in which to file such a motion with Appellate Court, and if they fail to do so the bonds may be delivered to their purchasers.

A quorum of the City Council was not present when the bond bids were opened Monday after (See Story No. 1, Page 6)

ARMY GROUP STUDIES PARK MATERIEL GIFT

A party of Army officers from Ft. Knox visited the new City Park here Wednesday to consider permitting the use of an obsolete plane and tank as attractions at the recreation spot. City Manager Curtis Clark said that a part of the park may be designated Victory Park. If plans now studied for this feature are developed, the tank and plane would be placed there, and a giant panel bearing the names of every Floyd countian who took part in World Wars I and II and the Korean Conflict would be erected there as a war memorial.

The new park, though still far from complete, was opened to the public last week-end when approximately 300 persons of all ages enjoyed its facilities. Six tennis courts are available, lacking only surfacing which will not be done till next year. Two basketball courts are being black-topped this week and will be available by the week-end. For children, slides, swings and various rides already are in use. Groups are enjoying picnic tables and benches located on the grounds. Those who are not so active are pitching horseshoes at the spots specially reserved for this pastime.

Plans for park development, which will extend through next year, call for extensive beautification work—sowing of the acres of land to grass, clearing the area of undesirable bushes and trees and the planting of flowers and shrubs, among other things.

One bridge connecting parts of the park separated by Middle Creek has been opened for light motor traffic, and one foot-bridge also has been constructed. Other bridges of the rustic type may be built later.

Cost of the park improvement is being held to a minimum, the city using the labor of unemployed fathers and materials from the old courthouse.

palachia," in the June issue of Atlantic Monthly, the report asserted.

Area 15 is composed of Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Knott, Breathitt, Magoffin, Harlan, Estill, Lee, Leslie, Letcher, Perry, Powell, Menifee and Wolfe counties. Opportunities are here, the report said, for making church furniture, slat fencing, furniture parts and frames, dimension stock, gift wrappings, molded and tubed rubber goods, wiring devices, electronic components and writing instruments.

Major assets are a large pool of concealed unemployment among younger males and females who are migrating or not actively looking for work because of the scarcity of job opportunity, well developed vocational training facilities coordinated with community college activities, conditions favoring establishment of favorable wage rates, new water and sewer plants with reserve capacities and unexploited opportunities in wood utilization.

Chief among the difficulties, said the Fantus report, is the "kind of syndrome" in Eastern Kentucky, where its people have no intention of letting "outsiders" again determine their economic destiny.

"Unless you can do something about this syndrome, industrial development in the area will lag very badly," Opper asserted.

If the region has one need that stands above all others, it is further "colonization" by outside industry," the report said. "In every instance such colonization has brought into the region management, young business thinking, people—and stable payrolls."

The report said there is an "important and proper place" for the various federal-aid programs in Eastern Kentucky but, at the same time, "there is a very proper place and a major role to be filled there by private enterprise."

"We keep emphasizing and re-emphasizing this point because it is the core of our report."

Much of the misinformation and misconception about East Kentucky, Opper said, stems from studies and data that is outdated—material that can be successfully combated by state agencies using up-to-date data.

"We are convinced that you can accomplish some of these things in the next year, two or three, and you need this kind of emphasis—on things that can be accomplished in the next few years."

The Fantus report cautioned that some of the language and opinions in the report, if pulled from context would sound like the researchers were doing a "hatchet job," which isn't true. "You must remember, we're on your side," he said.

The report recognized education as one of the crucial problems of the area, but noted that despite a high illiteracy rate and many high school dropouts, conditions are improving.

Bringing about the change are a new generation of parents with high school diplomas, increased federal aid to schools, development of community colleges, and reshaping of vocational training programs to meet area conditions.

Labor troubles, more than anything else, have given Eastern Kentucky an unfavorable image in the minds of outside businessmen, the report said.

While gunfire and dynamites are reported in Harlan, favorable labor relations exist elsewhere in the region.

Carl Burkett, Age 81,
Formerly of Emma,
Passes August 6

Carl Burkett, 81, retired miner and former Emma resident, passed away August 7 at the home of a son at Cheshire, Ohio, victim of an extended illness.

A native of Johnson county, he had lived at Emma until moving to Ohio six months ago. Mr. Burkett was the son of Frank and Angie Woods Burkett, and was the husband of Mary Alice Sherman Burkett, all of whom preceded him in death. He was a member of the Methodist Church at Emma.

Survivors include four sons, Henry Frank, Okie and Allen Burkett, all of Emma, and Arnold Burkett, of Cheshire, Ohio; two daughters, Mrs. Bessie Merritt and Mrs. Gertrude Gibson, both of Cheshire, Ohio, and one sister, Mrs. Hazel Burton, Ravenswood, West Virginia.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 p.m. Monday from the Nazarene Church at Prestonsburg, the Rev. Coy Rigney officiating. Burial was made in the Burkett family cemetery at the Emma under the direction of the Floyd Funeral Home.

In Memory of My Mother and Father

I have been sitting here thinking about the times when I was at home. There were eight of us children—all gone, now, but sister Nora and brother Will Allen. My brothers, Millard, Will, Mart and Henry, and I had about 60 years ago a pretty yard and a nice walk made of planks, and the boys would go over across the creek to William Wicker's store. They would sit around and talk, and Mother and Pap and I would all be gone to bed when they came back, and I remember hearing my mother say she could tell every one's footsteps as they hit that plank walk. In those days people didn't have much to worry about.

I can say, I never heard the boys have a harsh word and when a meal was ready they ate and never complained about a thing. Now it seems people are never satisfied.

Well, most all of our good neighbors are gone. I hope some day I will meet them in heaven, my mother, Martha Allen, and father, Rebs Allen.

In memory of them all—Mary Allen Patton, Mart Allen, Troy Allen, Millard Allen, Henry Allen.

From that $4,000-a-year venture of 20 years ago, the House That Block Built has developed into a plant which does about a quarter of a million dollars' business a year. Production is now running 4,500 blocks a day, the plant works 15, and its products go into homes, schools, business buildings and a wide variety of other structures within a 50-mile radius of Allen.

Judge Sparks' dissolution of the restraining order. Four bids were submitted, and the highest offered to buy at interest ranging from 4 1/2% to 4.75% over the 40-year duration of the issue.

The Stout-Elliott suit, named the city of Martin, Mayor John Roberts, City Clerk Eugene Conley, the Phelps Engineering Co., and Walter, Woody & Heimerding, the city's fiscal agents, as defendants. Plaintiffs contended that the ordinance enacted July 28 is null and void for several reasons, some of which are:

1. The Mayor called a special meeting of the City Council for July 27 which was attended by only three Councilmen for the purpose of enacting the ordinance authorizing the bonds; that the Mayor knew if the ordinance was presented to the Council at that time it would be defeated, 2 to 1, and so he "arbitrarily and without motion" ordered the meeting adjourned till the following day. At the meeting the next day four members were present; one member, John Hayes Turnley, was in Florida, and the other absentee was W. G. Hall, and neither of these was given notice of either of the meetings. It also was claimed that only two members of the Council voted for the ordinance, the other two opposing it, and that Mayor Roberts cast his vote in favor of it. It is contended that a majority of the members did not vote for adoption of the ordinance.

2. The rates established by the ordinance will not be sufficient to retire the bonds. The suit added that the city is now in default for the year 1964 in the payment of $2,000 in water and parking meter bonds and that the water consumers there are now paying an increase in rates to the extent of 30% in an attempt to pay off this default.

3. A large number of the citizens are retired and low-income people and will be unable to pay increased water rates which will amount to a monthly minimum of $11.33 which, the suit claims, is twice the charge of any other city in the area.

4. The present sewer system is not overloaded, as claimed by Phelps Engineering Co., and all that is needed to be done is to spend a small amount of money for maintenance of the present system.

5. No ordinance providing for the construction of a sewer system at Martin has been enacted, and no ordinance has been enacted authorizing any one to enter into a contract with any person for the construction of a sewer system and a sewage disposal plant. On this point the suit claims that Mayor Roberts testified in a case formerly pending in the Court of Appeals that no such ordinance was ever passed. Plaintiffs also claim no such ordinance was ever published or posted.

Total cost of the sewer system and disposal plant, including cost of land acquisition, fiscal agent's fee, engineering and other costs, has been set at $401,000, of which the federal government through its Housing & Home Finance Agency is providing approximately 75%.

Our Yesterdays

(Items taken from files of The Floyd County Times of 30 and 20 years ago.)

Thirty Years Ago

(August 9, 1935)

Thomas S. Rhea is leading A. B. Chandler by about 12,000 votes for the Democratic nomination for Governor, but a runoff primary is likely. Chandler led Rhea in this county by 114 votes. A correction in this week's Times says that Frank M. Fairchild, formerly of Allen, not Dr. J. T. Cottrell, is the first licensed airplane pilot from this county. Miss Edna Prater has been named county relief worker. James W. Hammond, of Paintsville, last week was elected commander of the Kentucky Department, American Legion. Craynor Slone, 25, was shot and killed at Lackey, Saturday. G. P. Wyrick, of Prestonsburg, has been appointed to a machinist's post in the U. S. Navy's shops at Portsmouth, Virginia. Cal Clark left Wednesday for Munsing, Michigan to return to this county a man who is wanted for murder. Mr. Clark, N. O. Allen and M. C. Wright were bondsmen for the defendant. T. E. Neeley was painfully burned Wednesday night at his place of business in the Porter Addition by a flare-up of flames from a gasoline stove. Glenn Prater, 23, of Abbott Creek, escaped serious injury in the truck wreck at Ceredo, West Virginia, which last week claimed the life of Edward A. Jewell, 46, of Ashland. There died: James M. Payne (Mayo), 70, of Lancer, Friday at his home.

Twenty Years Ago

(August 9, 1915)

Winners in last Saturday's primary election: Democrats—Bill Biggers for Representative, Dist. 96, and Jerry Ponce Howell in Dist. 97. E. P. Hill for Circuit Judge, John Chris Cornett for Commonwealth's Attorney, Alex L. Davidson for County Judge, W. W. Burchett for County Attorney, Jarvis Allen for County Clerk, Troy B. Sturgill for Sheriff, Everette Collins for Jailor, Allen Triplett for Coroner; Republicans—J. A. Hicks for County Judge, Dial Salisbury for Sheriff, Sgt. Elmer Bowe for County Clerk, Ad Warrick for Coroner. Names of four Floyd servicemen were added to the list of war dead this week: Fireman First Class Eugene Hinton, of Betsy Layne, S/Sgt. Auburn Calhoun, of Water Gap, Bert Goble, of Emma, and Thurman Johnson, of Ligon. Nominated without opposition for the office of Tax Commissioner, Clive Akers has resigned the post of grade school principal and athletic coach here. The Floyd County Board of Education this week asked for bids on a two-story 18x36-foot addition to the courthouse. There died: Mrs. Effie Anis Sprinkle, 51, Sunday at Drift; Henry (Did) Case, 68, of Amba, Sunday near Harold; Bill Ousley, 77, of Langley, Wednesday at a Martin hospital; Miss Mildred Beckelheimer, 24, of Lackey, Friday at a Paintsville hospital.

I almost quit the team, the other night, after this fellow Siler crossed me up and fouled up his pinch-hitters till this young Shamsky was overlooked, even with a righthander pitching for the other side. If Siler is a big league manager, I'm Henry Watterson. If anybody thinks he is, let them explain why he lets the pitcher, O'Toole, bat for himself to! end the inning—and then, the very next inning, sends in a relief hurler for him.

NATURE TRAILS

BY RUFUS M. REED

I am much surprised when I see many people show great fear of the lizards of our region, as if they were highly dangerous. These little animals are perfectly harmless; they have no teeth and can't bite; neither do they have any venom in their mouths.

We have two leading species, both highly valuable as insect eaters. These two are: The candy-stripe lizards with blue tails, which are called "skinks," and the scaly fence lizard called "fence swift." These lizards devour such insects as ants and their cocoons, grasshoppers, grub worms, caterpillars, larvae, centipedes and millipedes, spiders, earthworms, and others. They are quick and wary and few insects can escape them.

The younger skinks have five stripes down their back and a shiny blue tail; if you grab one by the tail, it will quickly cut off its tail, and while the tail is wriggling like an addled worm, the lizard will escape. This is its device for escaping enemies, and it will grow a new tail in a few weeks.

Skinks lay about 10 blue eggs in a clutch, and the mother skink incubates the eggs for several weeks until they hatch. Skinks are the most widely distributed of all the lizards, and are found all over the U. S., except in the higher Rockies. The young male skinks lose their stripes at about the age of three and grow large, about nine inches long, and change to a light shade of brown. These large male skinks, which many people mistakenly call "scorpions," are often seen scaling tree trunks, and most persons have a mortal terror of them and believe their bite is dangerous—but they are perfectly harmless.

THE FENCE LIZARDS, OR SWIFTS

All the lizards have five toes on each foot, and the toes have sharp claws, which enable them to run fast up a tree or along a fence and escape. While I was teaching an outdoors class in Nature at Camp Felner, the boys of the class captured a large fence lizard and I held him out for the class to study. We knew he was a male swift, as he had large, blue patches on the throat. He was about eight inches long, with a slender tail about equal to the body length. He let me hold him quietly by the neck while we studied him closely. While he is called "fence swift," he is more often seen on rocks and tree trunks and seems to delight in taking a sun bath on the side of a tree. The fence swift is very hard to capture, as he can run like greased lightning. The boys chased the one we studied into the crevice of a rock and captured him. His body was covered all over with rough scales and his nostrils were two small holes in the top of his upper lip. He was fat and well fed from dining on the numerous species of insects about the summer camp.

The female swift lays a clutch of about one dozen white eggs with rubbery shells. They hibernate during winter and come out in April.

Lizards belong in the great group of animals, REPTILIA, and these more nearly resemble the form of the ancient, extinct giant lizards called "dinosaur" (the suffix, "saur," means lizard.)

The color of the fence swift is drab, grayish, with black cross streaks along the back. These lizards have the curious habit of bobbing up and down when they are watching an intruder. They have eyelids, which snakes do not have.

Swift and wary, the fence lizards do not tame easily, but will live in captivity if given live food, such as ant larvae, mealworms, beetle grubs and caterpillars.

Do not be afraid of lizards but rather give them good protection, for the great value they render as insect eaters. There is only one poisonous lizard in the United States, and this is the Gila monster, common on the deserts of the far Southwest.

More Older Citizens Eligible For Increased Benefits Under SS

Many Floyd county residents past the age of 72 who did not previously have enough social security work credit to get benefits may now be eligible to receive payments, Thomas L. Read, social security district manager in Pikeville, said this week.

Before the recent changes in the social security law, at least six quarters of coverage — about a year and a half of work under the law — were required to get benefits, Mr. Read said. Under the new provision, benefits may be paid in some cases to a worker (and his wife) if the worker has three quarters of coverage, or about nine months of work. The exact number of quarters of coverage needed depends on the age of the worker, Read added.

A man 76 or more or a woman 73 or more in 1965 needs just three quarters of coverage. A man 75 or a woman 72 in 1965 needs four quarters of coverage, and a man 74 or a woman 71 in 1965 needs five quarters of coverage (to qualify for benefits at age 72). Anyone younger needs six or more quarters of coverage.

Widows of deceased workers may also get payment under the new provision. However, the number of credits needed depends on both the widow's age and the year in which the worker died or was 65, whichever is earlier. Workers and widows of deceased workers who are eligible under this new section of the law will get $35 a month, while wives of workers who qualify will get $17.50 a month, Read added.

Any person who has a question about the new provision, or any part of the social security law is invited to write, phone, or visit the Pikeville office, located at the corner of 2nd and Division Streets or contact the social security representative in the Employment Office, Prestonsburg, on any Tuesday, Read said.

Miss Shirlene Davis, Mr. Larry Spradlin Wed

The marriage of Miss Shirlene Davis and Mr. Larry Spradlin, took place at 1 p.m. Saturday, July 31, at Clintwood Methodist Church, Clintwood, Virginia, with the Rev. Allen Green officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loran Davis, of Prestonsburg, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Spradlin, of Little Paint. The bride will be a senior at Prestonsburg high school this fall. The bridegroom is a graduate of Prestonsburg high school and will be a junior at Morehead State College this fall. He is now employed at the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Alabama.

LITTLE BLACK BAG..

REGARDLESS of our name, fame, or estate, who of us has not gazed with childlike awe, wonderment and hope into the depths of our doctor's little black bag? As though it held some great magic!

BUT the magic our eyes search for is not in the bag. Here are only simple tools for examination, a few pills, drug and medicines for emergency. And, we remember from long ago, a stick of gum to reward a good little patient.

NO, the magic is not in the little black bag any more than was Rembrandt's art in his brushes and pallet, or a slide-rule make an Einstein. If magic there is, it is in the mind and heart and hand of the doctor. It is a complex of long days and nights and years of study, internship and residency for which great dedication is recompense.

THE magic, if there be, is in his ability and will, his strength and endurance beyond the ordinary to become a doctor, in his ever practicing and continuing study, to increase his knowledge and skill. And one thing he must have beyond all others is equanimity.

THESE are the things we do not see but sense when we gaze into the little black bag. Such is the sort of magic we but know and feel when we look upon our flag. Both are symbols of things worth fighting for. You can't regiment or socialize either. You can only jeopardize or destroy their magic utterly.

Many Floyd county widows will be directly affected by one of the changes made in the social security law this year.

The new provision allows a widow, if she wishes, to start getting monthly benefits beginning when she is age 60. Up to now, a widow had to be 62 before she could start getting monthly payments, unless she had in her care a child of her deceased husband eligible for child's insurance benefits.

If a woman decides to start her benefits at age 60, she will receive a smaller monthly benefit than if she waited until she was 62, because she will be getting monthly payments over a longer period.

As an example of how the new provision works, take the case of a widow whose husband would have received a retirement benefit of $106. She will receive $87.50 a month if she decides to wait until she is 62. If she wants to start getting benefits when she is 60, her monthly payment will be $75.90; if she waits until she is 61, she will receive $81.70 a month.

Once a widow receives a reduced benefit payment, she will always get a reduced payment. This will be true even if she later becomes eligible to receive payment based on her own earnings.

If any person has a question about his rights or responsibilities under social security, he or she is invited to write or phone the Pikeville district offices, phone 432-2177.

Heart Association
Tells Importance Of Body Activity

Are muscles becoming obsolete?

That is a question the Kentucky Heart Association is posing in the light of some recent developments. For example, many of us don't even get up to switch channels on the TV set anymore; a remote-control button does it for us.

For other chores that are equally difficult, we now have electric knives, electric toothbrushes—and even electric powder puffs. Slowly but surely, it seems, mechanical contrivances are taking over the work that human muscles should be doing.

And meanwhile, back at the ranch, the shattering announcement was made a short time ago that those rough, tough cowboys don't bother to "bust" broncos anymore. They tranquilize them! This spreading paralysis of our vital motive power is really more serious than it sounds, the Heart Association warns. That's because we have one key muscle that still has to do all its own work: the heart. And so closely and so much do the various systems of the body depend on each other that all are hurt if even one doesn't work properly.

The opposite, of course, is just as true. The body benefits in many ways from regular physical activity, and the efficiency of the heart's action is especially helped by regular exercise. This is one of a number of things that heart research scientists are certain about.

They know for instance that the athlete's heart pumps more blood with fewer, but stronger, strokes per minute than the loafer's heart. Over the long run, this saves quite a bit of wear and tear on that all-important muscle, the heart.

Regular exercise also develops in the body new pipelines through which blood can flow. These stand the heart muscle in good stead in case of a heart attack. By permitting unaffected areas of the heart muscle tissue to continue working, it can mean the difference between life and death.

Some studies suggest that regular physical activity helps keep down blood levels of cholesterol, often linked to a higher risk of heart attacks; that it offers an effective outlet for the release of tensions, another possible cause of coronary attacks. You won't need tranquilizers if your muscles have been hard at work.

Last, and probably most interesting to weight-conscious Americans, according to the Heart Association, regular exercise makes it easier to keep weight normal. It helps burn up excess calories we may have consumed at or between meals.

Boons, Boones, Boro, Borough—Shades of Gertrude Stein!

Frankfort — About the only ending which has not been tagged onto Boonesborough is "—burro," so you're no donkey if you can't decide whether to spell the historic site "Boonesboro" or "Boonesborough" . . . or even "Boonsborough."

History books, maps, and newspapers divide their favors fairly evenly between "Boonesborough" and "Boonesboro." But Daniel Boone, founder of the frontier fort, cast a vote for "Boonsborough."

Of course, the famed frontiersman did not win his reputation in spelling bees. He spelled his own name "Boon" — but no one has ever taken his word for it. The spelling of Boonesborough is "pretty much dealer's choice," according to Col. George Chinn, director of the State Historical Society. The dealer in this game is the Kentucky Department of Parks, which has established a park near the Kentucky River site of the vanished settlement, in Madison and Clark Counties.

The parks people, who would like to see "Boonesborough" win out, have history with them; the oldest sources — excluding Boone — are "Boonesborough" fans. Robert D. Bell, commissioner of parks, reasons this way: "We've got a park largely based on historical interest. The "—borough" spelling adds a little better flavor, a little more charm."

Bell points out, however, that there is legal justification for using the "—boro" ending. The shorter version appeared in the Kentucky Revised Statutes as a 1956 law authorizing the purchase of land for the park.

Since that law was repealed in 1964 after the land was acquired, Bell would like to see a resolution adopted in the next legislature setting forth the spelling for all time as "Boonesborough."

Meanwhile, although the Department of Parks is doing its best to make the longer spelling prevail, the shortened version crops up persistently. Some may wonder why "—borough," which is English for "town," has become in common usage "—boro." It may be because historians, map-makers and editors believe brevity is beauty. Or it may be because they never won any spelling bees, either.

This house will sell for considerably more... Why?

Because the second home uses an electric heat pump for year-round cooling and heating. The other uses an old-fashioned flame-type heating method.

An electric heat pump is the modern way to "comfort-condition" a home. Keeps it comfortably cool in summer, soothingly warm in winter. You just set the dial. That's all there is to it. The temperature stays the way you want it . . . all the time.

You can be sure of the dependable quality of an electric heat pump. Your actual cooling and heating costs can be calculated in advance, too. No wonder an electric heat pump increases the value of any home. Check with us today for all the facts . . . then put "eternal springtime" in your home.

Construction Costs For Highways Rise 27% Within 10 Years

Lexington, Ky. — Highway construction costs have risen 27.2 percent in the past ten years, the Kentucky Better Roads Council reports.

The figures were procured through the federal Bureau of Public Roads which publishes cost breakdowns on a quarterly basis.

The most recent increase was for the second quarter of 1965 which saw a rise of 3.5 percent over the January-to-March period.

The Kentucky council, urging support of the $176 million bond issue on the November ballot, declared that "the longer Kentucky delays in its highway construction program, the higher will be the ultimate cost and the greater the loss to all Kentuckians."

The bond issue contains $139 million for highway construction with the federal government allocating $597 million in funds.

CLARK SEES 'GOOD YEAR' For Kentucky Hunters; Directors of League In Louisville Meet

Minor Clark, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife, has predicted "an unusually good year for Kentucky hunters."

Clark made this prediction in Louisville recently while talking to the board of directors of the 38,000-member League of Kentucky Sportsmen.

He said pre-season surveys by the Department's biologists and field studies are "most encouraging." Clark pointed out that the year so far has also been a good one for Kentucky fishermen.

August 18, he reminded, is the deadline for submission of applications to the department for permits for the Kentucky teal duck season September 18-26.

Soil Bank land use for wildlife conservation projects was approved by the sportsmen's board.

Commissioner Clark told the board members he planned to confer in Washington with Wisconsin Senator Conrad Nelson, author of a Soil Bank Act amendment now before Congress. The amendment would include wildlife projects in the subsidy program.

STATE: SQUIRREL SEASON TO BEGIN THIS SATURDAY; GOOD HUNTING IS PREDICTED

Frankfort, Ky. (Spl.)—Kentucky's 110-day squirrel season will open on Saturday, August 14, amid speculation that this should be one of the better hunting years, Minor Clark, commissioner of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, announced last week.

This year the hunters for squirrel will have 16 additional days and for the first time in several years the season will be sans the zone system which caused much confusion. Although the season has been split into two parts, the same dates hold for all sections of the state, the Commissioner said.

The first phase will continue from August 14 through October 31, while the later season will begin on December 1 and continue through that month. The bag and possession limit is again six per day with 12 in possession after two or more days of hunting.

According to reports received by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, not all sections will be blessed with an abundant crop of squirrels, but the overall outlook for the state is generally good. The mast (food crop) is better than average this year, with an abundance of berries and nuts reported in many sections.

The second phase of the season was set to accommodate the hunter who uses a dog to tree the squirrels, since during the month of December most of the foliage has disappeared and the dog and the hunter are better able to spot the squirrel.

While many hunters prefer this type hunting, the great majority

Health Department Begins
Putting Immunization Plan
Into Effect In This County

The Vaccination Assistance Program (VAP) in Floyd county is beginning to assume a definite form, with a master immunization list prepared and the private physician's list now in process of being typed for mailing to the 75 practicing physicians in this and adjacent counties.

VAP, the Floyd County Health Department explains, is the result of a 1962 Kentucky law requiring all children to be immunized within their first year of life, and immunization was made a prerequisite for enrollment in school. Federal recognition of this problem of the unimmunized susceptible led to the U. S. Congress passing a Vaccination Assistance Act that same year. This act made grant-in-aid available to states and communities that would attempt, in an organized manner, to immunize 100% of their susceptible population against diphtheria, pertussis, tetanus, poliomyelitis and smallpox.

A survey conducted in Kentucky, as well as other states, indicated approximately 60 to 65 percent of the children, in the pre-school age group, had not been immunized against these diseases. It was obvious that local health departments would be unable to cope with such a large number of unimmunized children, so the State Health Department, in conjunction with the State Board of Health and the Kentucky Medical Association, suggested that local health departments and county medical societies would work with each other.

The Floyd County Health Department is compiling a list of children born in 1960 and subsequent years. Lists of these will be delivered to private physicians, with the request that they make notations if they are furnishing immunizations for children listed. These forms will be returned to the Health Department and checked off the master list. After all lists have been checked, cards will be mailed to the parents of those children whose records are not on file at the Health Department or the several physicians' offices.

Further information concerning this program and the role of the parent and physician in VAP will be published later.
