SPEAKING OF AND FOR FLOYD COUNTY

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 1965

This Town . . . That World

WE ARE THANKFUL

A writer once commented on Thanksgiving as a national holiday with a question to this effect:

"Must a man be full of turkey before he can be thankful?" The point is well-taken. Thanksgiving Day, in itself, serves a good purpose, in that it brings a nation to some small degree of consciousness of its debt. But for you and me, as individuals, to have only one day, or to permit anybody else to designate for us only one day, for an expression of our gratitude to God for His manifold blessings borders on hypocrisy and sheer puppetry.

This is not to say that we should not be thankful, this day. Rather, it is to say, we should be thankful, every day.

THE PILGRIM LESSON

The Pilgrims, who originated a time of thanksgiving in this country of ours, taught their children an eloquent lesson when they came to the feast board. On each plate were five grains of parched corn.

Then, before they ate, they told the youngsters the story. There was a time, they pointed out, when only five grains of parched corn stood between each person in the colony and starvation.

Somebody has suggested we might return to the five grains of corn and then suggest to each person at the table that he or she let each grain represent something for which he or she is thankful.

WHY ME? When I asked one of my friends about his hunting trip, he replied, "Didn't do any good. They ran over us, but we couldn't hit 'em. You should have been with us."

Now I wonder why I should have been alone—to assume my usual role of Jonah and be blamed for their poor luck?

DOMESTIC RELATIONS

If there's anything out there than the human animal, it's two of same. Only this week I learned of this woman who sued her husband, alleging mental cruelty. She enumerated his acts of "cruelty." The poor dope washed the dishes, swept the floors, made the beds, put out the wash and so on till the Little Woman couldn't take it any longer. Said he drove her almost to the point (See Story No. 1, Page 6)

IT'S MAGISTRATE ROBERTS IN EITHER FLOYD OR PIKE AS BROTHERS WIN OFFICE

When Dewey Roberts takes office with the beginning of the new year as Magistrate in District No. 4, his jurisdiction will end at the Floyd-Pike line, but his family will have no such limitation. His brother, Lee, has been elected Magistrate in District No. 1 of Pike county, and that district begins where No. 4 of this county ends. Le Roberts was elected for the first time at the same election his elder brother was winning for a record fifth term in District 4. "I'll have to get with my little brother and give him some tips on how

STATE ASKS CHANGE OF VENUE FOR MAY

MOTION SAYS PRIOR TRIALS PREJUDICIAL

Decision by Conley Is Expected Friday; $10,000 Verdict Made

The trial of Headmon May for the slaying of his father-in-law, A. B. (Abb) Hopson, at Harold last December may not be held in this county, after all. Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo filed Tuesday a motion for change of venue, asking that the case be transferred from Floyd to "the most convenient county" for trial. May's trial was scheduled to begin here Monday.

Circuit Judge Hollie Conley is expected to rule on the change of venue motion, Friday.

In his motion Stumbo said that he is of the opinion that, because of widespread newspaper and radio coverage of the Harold slayings and two previous trials here in which May was convicted, plus gossip, it would be impossible to empanel another jury from this county to sit in the trial of a case in which May is the defendant.

Stumbo had earlier announced that he will seek to qualify a jury which would be willing to inflict the death penalty if the evidence justifies such a verdict.

The prosecutor's motion sets out these points:

1. May already has been convicted of murder in the slaying of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Lula Hopson, and of shooting and wounding his former wife, Ruth Ann Hopson.
2. Several hundred persons from this county were questioned as prospective jurors in the two earlier trials of the defendant, and because of these trials widespread publicity bearing on the guilt or innocence of May resulted.
3. During this year Roy Salisbury was convicted of the murder of Mallie T. Denney and was given the death penalty.

Because of all this, Stumbo continued, the state of public opinion is such that it would be impossible to conduct a fair trial in this county.

It was indicated Tuesday that the defense may not resist Stumbo's motion. If a change of venue is granted, Judge Conley will designate the county in which trial will be held. Prior to all this, in preparation for his trial here, attorneys for May succeeded in winning their plea for emptying of the jury drum on the (See Story No. 4, Page 3)

Dr. Archer Recognized For 10-Year Service

Dr. George P. Archer, of Prestonsburg, a medical advisor of Local Board 25 here, last week received a 10-year certificate for voluntary service with the Selective Service System. It was presented on behalf of Lt. Colonel Everette S. Stephenson, state director of Selective Service, Frankfort, who expressed the System's appreciation for the highly commendable service given by Dr. Archer throughout the years.

Low Construction Bid On Pike-County School Entered by Floyd Firm

The G. H. Hunter Company, Betsy Layne, is low bidder on construction of the 16-classroom Kimper elementary school relocated in Pike county because of the construction of Fishtrap Dam. Hunter's bid was $497,995, approximately $50,000 below the only other bidder, R. F. Creson & Co., Memphis, Tennessee.

The single-story brick structure will include, in addition to classrooms, 10 administrative and service rooms and will cover an area of approximately 14,000 square feet.

The bids were opened last Friday by the U. S. Corps of Engineers.

Another project resulting from the Fishtrap construction is the removal of bodies from 27 cemeteries in the area (approximately 930 graves), and low bidder on this work was Morris M. Hatfield, Madison, W. Va., whose bid was $101,022.25.

NEW FEDERAL GRANT EXTENDS NYC WORK

The Floyd county school system entered upon the second phase of the Neighborhood Youth Corps training program, November 1, with a $204,570 grant from the federal government. This budget period will run until July 1, 1966.

The program, which began June 21, last year, is financed under the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964.

During the initial period of 19 weeks, $170,633 was spent in federal funds on 450 enrollees. In addition to this, the Floyd County Board of Education is contributing 10% of the federal contribution in services.

Purpose of the NYC program is to provide students between the ages of 16 and 21 from needy families an opportunity to acquire useful and needed work-experience opportunities. These students earn $1.25 per hour for 10 weeks during the school year and 24 hours a week during the vacation period. This money is to be used to buy books, clothes, provide medical and dental work, and anything needed to help keep them in school.

The work experiences provided in this program are designed to help the students get and hold jobs after graduation. On this program the enrollees learn to be prompt, clean, accept responsibility, take directions and do an honest day's work.

There are five types of training offered:

1. Teacher Aides. These students help the teachers to grade papers, care for equipment, tutor slow students, run movie and film strip projectors and help keep records. Some of these students help the adult education teachers at night.
2. Lunchroom Aides. These help clean and care for lunchroom tables and equipment, stock shelves, wash and sanitize dishes, and serve as ticket collectors and cashiers.
3. Clerical Aides. Students aid the principals and teachers by doing typing, filing, record keeping, mimeographing and the processing of forms and reports.
4. Custodial Aides, who clean (See Story No. 5, Page 2)

One of the meetings, scheduled for a full-day session, will be held at Jenny Wiley State Park here, December 3, beginning at 9:30 a.m.

"I have asked the federal officials representing the departments responsible for the administration of these programs to provide all necessary information to enable communities to know exactly how to proceed in securing the benefits of the new federal funds being made available for these purposes," Perkins said. He expressed the hope that out of the meetings new ideas would be developed for obtaining the maximum benefits from the new programs for hard-pressed Eastern Kentucky communities.

According to Perkins, major benefits have already accrued to the Eastern Kentucky area as the result of certain portions of the Appalachian Regional Development Act, the Public Works Program, the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, but recent enactments in the closing days of the 89th Congress, as well as the undeveloped programs in certain phases of these new laws, require planning and action by local officials to request federal funds.

Kiwanis Club Here Working To Raise $2,500 Scout Fund

K. J. Bowles, Prestonsburg, chairman of Lonesome Pine Boy Scout Council's drive for funds, announced this week that the campaign locally is being sponsored by the Kiwanis Club which has committees working toward reaching a goal of $2,500.

Expressing confidence that the local goal will be reached, Mr. Bowles, a former county agricultural agent and salesman, commented, "We as Kiwanians do not feel that anybody is simply giving to the Boy Scouts; rather, that they are investing in building character, honesty, spiritual growth and the many other fine things that are developed in the minds of these deserving Scouts."

Team captains named from the Kiwanis Club for the Scout campaign are Woodrow Allen, Woodrow Burchett, Bert Colvin, "Huck" Francis, Chalmers H. Frazier, Clyde George, Blaine Hall, Frank Heinze, C. L. Hutsinger, Marvin Music and W. W. Wallen.

"Any of these men will be glad to accept your investment," the chairman said.

ONE KILLED, 5 ARE HURT

Hamilton Dies Sunday In Mud Creek Mishap; 4 Injured in Rowan

A former Floyd countian was killed Saturday and a companion critically injured when their auto left KY 979, near Teaberry, and plunged approximately 25 feet over an embankment into Big Mud Creek.

Pervis Hamilton, 19, of Ecorse, Michigan, was dead on arrival at the McDowell Appalachian Regional hospital, and Earnel Isaacs, 41, of Teaberry, a passenger in Hamilton's car, was seriously injured. Hamilton suffered multiple injuries, including a skull fracture.

Four other Floyd county residents were injured last Thursday in a wreck near Morehead which claimed the life of Walter Lee Adkins, 55, veteran Elliott county conservation officer. Those from this county who were involved in the tragedy were:

Marcy Ann Jarrell, 24, of Dana, driver of the auto which was struck by Adkins' car, who suffered lacerations and bruises; Tilda Boyd, 19, of Dana, who was listed as in serious condition at St. Clair hospital, Morehead, of deep facial lacerations; Ernest Boyd, 46, lacerations and bruises, and Geneva Boyd, 45, broken arm. All but Tilda Boyd have been dismissed from the hospital.

State Police at Morehead said Adkins' car left the highway on a curve of KY 32, travelled approximately 150 feet along the shoulder, then cut back, crossing the highway and ramming the Floyd county car.

The victim of the Mud Creek wreck was a son of Bert T. Hamilton, of the Lancer vicinity, and the late Mrs. Lacey Martin Hamilton. Surviving, besides his father, are six brothers, Herschell, Billy, Wendell, Darrell, David and Leroy Hamilton, all at home; and four sisters, Mrs. Mae Hlyer and Miss Ann Hamilton, both of Taylor, Michigan, Mrs. Frances Holbrook, Wyanadotte, Michigan, and Mrs. Opal Cecil, South Gate, Michigan. A son of Preston and Sarah Blanton Hughes, he was a native of Johnson county but had resided in this county since 1919 and in Prestonsburg since 1937. At one time a sawmill operator and farmer, he operated the Hughes Garage here more than 25 years. He had been a member of the United Baptist Church since young manhood, was a deacon of the Riceville Church and a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. (See Story No. 2, Page 6)

Bond Issue Vote In Floyd County Big Sandy's Best

Floyd county with its 81% approval led all Big Sandy counties at the November election in support of the state bond issue. Yet this county fell behind Breathitt (95%), Morgan (92%) and Perry (89%) in Eastern Kentucky support of the bonds.

In the Big Sandy valley Pike county was next to Floyd in its approval of the bond issue with 80% of its total vote. Martin county was next with 79%, followed by Johnson with 74%, Lawrence with 71% and Boyd, 66%.

Statewide, the bond issue won at about the ratio of 3 to 1. The total "yes" vote was 418,000 as compared with a "no" vote of 136,984, according to the Better Roads Council.

Seven of the state's 120 counties—Hickman, Union, McCreary, Casey, Nicholas, Clinton and Grant—rejected the issue.

TIDBITS of KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.

Western Kentucky Teachers' College, Bowling Green, Ky.

"SAME OLD ACHES AND PAINS"

Recently I had the good fortune to interview, for my folklore study, two of my former students who are now druggists, both graduates of pharmacy. After we had gone over a whole series of questions about words, I discovered that there was still a lot of unrelaxed tape that should be filled.

Both of my visitors were in no hurry, and thus we had a good time contrasting medicines of other days and now. Every generation has its pet diseases. In older times any undue worry or nervousness was called "the vapors."

Now it is "allergy." And, say my druggist friends, there is more of it all the time. People just love to take medicine and receive treatments, especially if it is something new or is known by a new name.

I asked about bread pills, the old standby for people who have nothing wrong with them. I was told that placebos, the learned name for harmless pills, are always in demand. That word means "I will please," and a bit of bread-ponate of soda and some mint will not harm anyone.

Asthma — phthisis, if you like what older people called and call it—is on the increase, in spite of all the two dozen remedies that I have collected. And asthmatic dogs, too, are getting more numerous. Witness the "For sale" items in our local paper, if you doubt my word and that of my former students.

Even in a drugstore the customers often declare how effective folk remedies are and of course, were, Good old smelly garlic still has defenders; less smelly onions have more friends than ever, if that is possible.

My good old friend gumbowhacum is still very much alive. Not all drugstores have the "gum guaiacum" that was corrupted in name to the folk name given above; but a good many remedies utilize the same gum and even keep part of the "guaiacum" name. The druggist in a neighboring county seat town who gave me a lump of guaiacum gum says he has many requests for it locally and even orders from ritzy drugstores in Louisville who have rural or ex-rural customers who want good old gumbowhacum. As in the old religious folksong:

"It was good for our fathers; it's good enough for me."

Emetics, the best of the lot, is still on the shelves. If you have swallowed something accidentally or tried to commit suicide by talking some remnants of medicine stored in the family clock, call for some ipecac to relieve you and, if necessary, allow your final departure from this world to be a little more orderly.

Malaria, once so common that everybody had had third-day chills, seems, in my area of the state, a lost disease. And I hope that it will remain that. I have too many memories of chills and fever, and lots of other old folks have told me that they, too, cannot forget the agonies of long-ago summers, when just

Good old quinine is still here, of course; but most people, especially old people, buy it to relieve cramps in the legs.

My druggist friends have never known anybody who had smallpox, even though they are old enough to have a grown daughter who is now a senior pharmacy student. And neither of them can recall when anyone of their acquaintances had typhoid. Maybe the liking to complain on the part of so many people will be satisfied with colored aspirin tablets, with placebos, and other relatively harmless medicines; let us hope that many other diseases will some day be as unremembered as are chills and fevers and smallpox and typhoid.

Air Pollution To Get Researching As Pupils Prep for Essay Contest

"Air pollution in Kentucky has for many years been an acute problem in some areas. Emphasis should be placed on preventive aspects so that progress may be planned and pursued in an orderly manner. Correction is almost always more costly than adequate forethought," Norman Scheil, director of Air Pollution Program, Kentucky State Department of Health, said last week in commenting on the importance of control in this area of environmental hazards.

President Lyndon B. Johnson has stated, "Pollution of the air threatens the health and welfare of our citizens; diminishes the economic vitality of our nation, and mars and obscures the beauty of our cities, parks, and open spaces."

High school students throughout Kentucky are pursuing this problem in their own communities in preparation for an essay contest. The contest is being sponsored by the Kentucky Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, in cooperation with the Air Pollution Program, Kentucky State Department of Health, and county health departments.

The winner from each county will receive a certificate of merit and will be eligible for state competition. The state winner will be selected from the 120 county winners and will be awarded a cash prize of $100 by Governor Edward T. Breathitt in his office on December 17.

Contest rules are available at all high schools in the state or from the Air Pollution Program, Kentucky State Department of Health, Frankfort. All entries must be submitted by December 1.

Three Demonstrating Against Strip-Mining Jailed in Knott County

Two men and a woman, arrested after an anti-strip mine demonstration, were convicted of contempt of court Monday at Hindman. They were accused of violating an order restraining demonstrations at Caperton Coal Co., which again halted operation Monday when a new group of demonstrators appeared.

Circuit Court Judge Don Ward fined Sam Hollifield $30 and sentenced him to 30 hours in jail. Paul Ashley was fined $20 and given 20 hours in jail while Mrs. Morris Shepherd was ordered to spend five hours in jail. All are from the Clear Creek area. Charges against six others were dismissed.

The order, issued November 11, prohibited anyone from interfering with operations at Caperton Coal. The objectors contend that strip mining is destroying

DECISION IS REACHED ON FOLK FESTIVAL

The Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival, which will draw upon the folk talent of a large segment of the Appalachian region, will be staged next June at the Jenny Wiley State Park amphitheatre here.

That decision was reached last Thursday evening at a meeting at the Prestonsburg Community College of community leaders with Miss Sarah Gertrude Knott, founder and director of the National Folk Festival.

The festival will be held, the third week-end of next June—on Friday night, Saturday afternoon and night and Sunday afternoon under the auspices of a committee of the Jenny Wiley Drama Association.

Curtis Clark, Prestonsburg's city manager, was named chairman of the folk festival, and Mrs. Edith Fitzpatrick James as program director. Two committees were formed last Thursday evening, and others are to be organized later.

The definite decision to sponsor the festival followed a talk by Miss Knott, who expressed the feeling that this section of Kentucky should become the home of a Southern Appalachian Festival, not only because of its wealth of folk music but also because of the picturesque setting of its mountain scenery.

It was at Miss Knott's suggestion.

Arnett Wins Recount Of Magoffin Ballots In Election of Clerk

W. W. Arnett, Democratic incumbent, was adjudged the duly elected county court clerk of Magoffin county Friday by Circuit Judge John Chris Cornett after a recount of the vote between him and his Republican opponent, Howard Hensley, failed to disclose any error in the original tabulation of the vote.

The Magoffin board of election commissioners was directed to issue Arnett a certificate of election. A contest of the election is possible, however.

The recount was made on motion of Scott Collins, Prestonsburg, attorney for Hensley. Joe P. Tackett, also of Prestonsburg, is representing Arnett.

Integrity of the voting machines and the ballots was not attacked by Hensley, who led in the voting machine tabulation. Count of the absentee ballots, however, added 217 votes to Arnett's total while Hensley received only 67, giving Arnett a majority of 93 votes.

Publication Describes New Plant Believed Useful to Region

A new publication by the USDA Soil Conservation Service describing a new plant that will attract wildlife, conserve soil and beautify odd areas was announced this week by Gerald Hart, work unit conservationist assisting the Floyd County Soil Conservation District. The publication, "Autumn Olive," concerns cardinal autumn olive, a new strain of autumn olive developed by Soil Conservation Service plant materials specialists and noted for its hardiness, yield and growth under a wide range of soil and climatic conditions.

"It is adapted from Maine to Georgia and westward to Missouri," Hart said, "and is particularly useful on infertile sites such as strip-mine spoil banks, sand-blow areas, streambanks, and gullied areas."

Songbirds find the branches of autumn olive excellent places for their nests, and birds and several animals feed on the red berries. Copies may be procured from the office here of the Soil Conservation Service.

James T. Fleming, director of the Legislative Research Commission, said practically all 138 members of the 1966 Legislature have indicated they will attend. The 1966 General Assembly will convene, January 4.

ANTI-POLLUTION LAW APPLIES TO STATE, TOO

Frankfort, Ky.—The Kentucky Water Pollution Control Commission has adopted a resolution reminding state agencies they, too, are restricted from polluting water in the state. The Commission said it would take the same action it takes against private firms and municipalities if state agencies are found in violation of the Water Pollution Control Law. "The general public, private industry, or municipalities should not be required to meet a higher standard than the Commonwealth itself," the resolution stated.

The commission also studied the results of an air and ground survey that indicated the Kentucky portion of the Ohio River was in pretty good shape. "Our aim is to spot anything that comes from a city, an industry or a creek into the Ohio River," commission director Ralph Pickard said of the survey. "It alerts us to problems and we can react quickly."

He said the survey turned up little the commission was not aware of already.

A THOUGHT FOR THANKSGIVING

This country of ours, which devotes a special day of every year to thanksgiving, is the one above all others which has every reason to be thankful.

All is not perfect in this land of ours, every day is not filled with unalloyed happiness — but we have blessings which we cannot count, and for all these we should give thanks to Almighty God.

We here at Hall Concrete Products are thankful, and our gratitude extends to every day for the precious privileges that are ours to live and work in a free land.

of nervous breakdown with his "mental cruelty."

(I need not add that this did not happen in Prestonsburg.) Then, eschewing a tame, little item such as "mental cruelty," there was the suit filed alleging "alienation of affections."

INVITATION

Ran across an interesting sub-heading in a religious publication, the other day. It read:

"God Has No Grandchildren" Take time to explain that statement in clear, concise language (100 words or less), and send it to me. I'll print the best (in my opinion) contribution received.

OF WORDS

An advertising man, fresh out of college, was doing a piece of copy, which read, "At this juncture the viscose or liquid was extruded."

"Ex—what? What does that mean?" his superior wanted to know.

"It means, forced out."

"Then say, 'Forced out,' son, and forget your learning."

After which the veteran suggested to the youngster that he read the King James version of the Bible to find the noblest sentiments expressed in simple, beautiful language.

Except for proper names, there are few many-syllabled words in the Bible. And those which are long are deep and wonderful in meaning. For example:

Crucifixion, resurrection, redemption, justification.

Surviving are five sons and two daughters: Thurman Hughes, of Prestonsburg, Harry Hughes, Desher, Ohio, Arthur, Preston and Millard Hughes, Jr., all of Prestonsburg, Mrs. Payne Le-master, Ripley, West Virginia, and Mrs. Bennie Banks, of Prestonsburg. He also leaves three brothers, Will Hughes, of Indiana, Cyrus Hughes, of Michigan, and Martin Hughes, of West Virginia, 23 grandchildren and 23 great-grandchildren.

The funeral will be conducted at 2 p.m. today (Thursday) from the residence, the Revs. James H. Blair and Buell Ferguson officiating. Burial will be made in Davidson Memorial Gardens under direction of the Carter & Callihan Funeral Home.

A second meeting is scheduled for 2 p.m., December 8.

$85,000 FUND GOAL

Danville, Ky.—The goal of Centre College's 1966 annual alumni fund drive has been set at $85,000, an increase of $10,000 over the 1965 goal, according to Don E. Cooper, Somerset, national president of the Centre Alumni Association.

CITES FOOD-POISONING DANGERS ON HOLIDAYS

As the holiday seasons of Thanksgiving and Christmas draw near, the homemaker's thoughts turn to plans for that extra special dinner. Chances are that the main item on the menu will be turkey.

Dr. R. L. Hall, Floyd county health officer warns homemakers, "In your hurry and excitement, don't forget to take the proper precautions in cooking and storing holiday foods and left-overs."

Food poisoning, caused by improper cooking and handling of frozen turkey, occurs in large numbers every year during this season. The danger is especially high in school lunchrooms or other establishments where large quantities of food are prepared.

Extra care must be taken in the preparation, cooking, and storing of turkey because of its large size. If you buy your turkey early, be sure to freeze it immediately. If it is to be prepared within 48 hours after it was purchased, you may refrigerate it at 33 to 38 degrees. Ordinarily it takes much longer to defrost a turkey than any other kind of meat. The preferred method is to thaw it in the refrigerator for two or three days until you are sure that it is completely defrosted. Another method that can be used is to cook the frozen turkey taken directly from the freezer, doubling the cooking time for a thawed turkey.

A meat thermometer should be inserted into the center of the stuffing or the thigh. Cook the turkey in a 300 to 325 degrees oven the required length of time until the temperature of the stuffing reaches 165 degrees or the temperature in the center of the thigh reaches 190 degrees. Proper cooking times for turkey are: three to three and one-half hours for an eight to 10-pound turkey; three and one-half to four hours for a 10 to 14-pound turkey; four to four and one-half hours for a 14 to 18-pound turkey; and four and one-half to five hours for an 18 to 20-pound turkey. If you are cooking the dressing and turkey together one day to be served on the following day, the dressing should be removed and refrigerated separately.

Since large amounts of food are usually prepared for holiday meals, left-overs must be taken care of. When refrigerating left-over turkey or other fowl, remove all dressing and wrap separately. Place the meat in shallow pans rather than in large bowls, in order that it can be chilled quickly and thoroughly. Refrigerate all left-overs immediately. Allowing food to stand several hours or overnight at room temperature is a common cause of food poisoning.

FLU OUTBREAK LIKELY IN COUNTY, SAYS HALL; VACCINATION ADVISED

An influenza outbreak appears likely this winter, Dr. R. L. Hall, Floyd county health officer, warned this week, urging residents to get flu shots as early as possible.

The flu warning, Dr. Hall said, is based on the two-to-three-year cycle of the disease. The last major outbreaks in most states of this country were in 1962-'63, and on the west coast in 1963-'64.

"Flu vaccination is the most effective known protection," Dr. Hall said. "The vaccination is easily done and takes little time. It is administered in two doses, about two months apart, but those vaccinated within the past two years will need only one shot."

Immunization is particularly recommended for senior citizens, expectant mothers, diabetics, patients in nursing homes, and people suffering from chronic heart, circulatory or respiratory ailments.

Indications are that this will be the Type A and Type B influenza. Illness from these is characterized by: Acute onset, fever ranging from 100 to 104 degrees, headache, muscle soreness, severe sore throat, and general weakness.

Dr. Hall offered these basic precautions to help guard against the threat of flu:

Avoids crowds, wash hands frequently, and be particularly careful if your job requires that you come in contact with large numbers of people. Try to keep a safe distance from those who are coughing or sneezing.

"But the most important thing," he emphasized, "is to see your doctor about immunization before influenza strikes."

WATER RESOURCES BILL GETS STRONG BACKING

The state's proposed water resources authority has received endorsement from representatives of cities drawing on the Kentucky River and from farm and soil conservation agencies.

The two groups met with officials of the Department of Natural Resources, which is drafting a water resources bill for the 1966 General Assembly.

Natural Resources Commissioner J. O. Matlick said such a bill is needed to assure an adequate water supply for the people of Kentucky.

Matlick used the 1930 drought to illustrate to the city officials the potential Kentucky River problem. Lexington alone now uses 20 million gallons of water on an average summer day, but during the 1930 drought the river's total flow was less than seven million gallons a day, Matlick said.

One immediate goal of preparing for a future drought in the area would be to enlarge the proposed Red River reservoir to store water for dry-weather use, he said.

A bill now being drafted would provide a way for a state water-resources authority to insure payment of added costs for projects to the federal government. The state would then get its money back through payment by cities using the water.

Steve Wakefield, director of flood control and water resources, said the added costs could be absorbed by cities without increasing rates.

Wakefield said the authority should have control over diversions between watersheds and the power to divide up water usage in dry years. Otherwise, the last user downstream, in this case Frankfort, would have no water.

Matlick asked the city officials to determine and report back to his department the anticipated water needs of their respective cities up to the year 2,000. The Army Corps of Engineers estimated that enlargement of the proposed Red River reservoir would guarantee sufficient water for needs past that time.

Matlick said enlargement of the Red River reservoir would be only the first step in the long-range development of Kentucky's water resources.

Cities represented at the meeting were Lexington, Frankfort, Wilmore, Irvine, Richmond and Lawrenceburg.

At a later meeting, the agricultural and conservation representatives favored:

1. Making the Department of Natural Resources responsible for working with local groups to form rural water districts. No state agency is now assigned the task. Also favored were more liberal mechanics for formation, consolidation and dissolution of such districts.

2. Hiring of a departmental engineer to work with the State Highway Department and Soil Conservation Service to locate dam sites for new lakes.

3. No change in the present law on riparian rights, pending further study. These are the rights of a landowner whose land contains or borders on water. Adjoining landowners' rights to irrigation water are now second only to domestic usage.

WAYLAND

MRS. SPILLMAN, SPEAKER

"We have learned to split the atom before we learned to unite men," said Mrs. J. T. Spillman last Monday evening as she led the November program meeting of the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club. Her subject was "Morals for Survival."

"You can be a moral person without being a Christian, but you cannot be a Christian without being a moral person," she continued, calling attention to the fact that children need to have morals taught to them in the home by example as well as precept in order to bear the strain of tensions, crises, and temptations of our modern world. Mrs. Spillman concluded her program by quoting from the Bible, "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

Prior to the program, Mrs. Ellen Hornsby read the Club Collect.

At a business meeting following the program various thank-you notes from state, district, and local club officers and chairmen were read by the secretary, Mrs. Otto Martin, with relation to the recent district convention at Prestonsburg to which the club was host. Also an invitation was read from the Prestonsburg Woman's Club to its Christmas open-house tour.

The president, Mrs. J. C. Wells, reported on various expenses and fund-raising ventures. Nuts were distributed for sale by club members. Dollars for veterans were collected.

Mrs. Cecil Johnson, of Wayland, was unanimously accepted for membership in the club.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Ellen Hornsby and Mrs. Charles Hornsby.

STATE HAS GREATEST NUMBER OF COUNTIES IN STAMP PROGRAM

Kentucky now leads all other states in the number of counties taking part in the U. S. Department of Agriculture's food stamp program for low-income families.

With the expansion of the food assistance program to Harlan and Pike counties, November 3, USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service says 15 Kentucky counties now have the program. All counties are in the Appalachian region of the state.

Tennessee, is second in the nation with 12 food stamp counties. Eleven West Virginia counties and 10 Louisiana parishes have food stamp programs. All other states have less than 10 counties in the program.

The Kentucky Department of Economic Security reports that 44,516 persons from 8,938 needy families in the 13 counties with food stamp programs during October received a total of $643,898 worth of USDA food stamp coupons. This was a 7% increase over September.

Of the total amount of coupons received, the recipients paid cash for $356,006 worth and received the other $287,892 worth free of charge to help them buy more and better foods at any of the 1,342 authorized retail grocery stores.

The Consumer and Marketing Service says that the food stamp program added nearly $288,000 to the economy of eastern Kentucky during October — ranging from less than $4,700 in Wolfe County to nearly $44,500 in Perry County.

Floyd county has 1,233 families, or 6,529 persons, who receive food stamps during October. The value of stamps issued in the county installed $94,626, of which total $54,098 was paid in cash by recipients.

During the first day of food coupon insurance in Pike county, the Department of Economic Security reports that 712 persons from 145 low-income households received $10,856 worth of coupons. The families paid cash for $6,674 worth and received $4,182 free of charge.

In Harlan county during the first day of the food stamp program, 651 persons from 133 low-income households received $9,524 worth of coupons. The families paid cash for $5,568 worth and received $3,956 worth free.

The Consumer and Marketing Service says it has authorized 219 retail grocers in Pike county and 182 retail grocers in Harlan county to accept the food stamp coupons.

GOV. BREATHITT URGES DECISIVE STATE ACTION

Governor Edward T. Breathitt urged quick, decisive state action for the protection and development of the nation's natural resources — as opposed to federal controls — at a conference in St. Louis recently.

"The states," Breathitt said, "have a growing responsibility in the matter of natural resources. If we are to be effective, we must assume that responsibility and act successfully. If we do not, the federal government will step in and solve our problems for us."

The governor was in St. Louis for a meeting of the natural resources committee of the National Governors Conference. Breathitt is chairman of the committee. The meeting was held in conjunction with a two-day meeting to draft an interstate mining compact.

Breathitt told the natural resources committee:

"The answer — as always in conservation crises — is acting with foresight that puts the future first. Long-range planning must be substituted for short-range local solutions; recycling must replace discharge; reclamation must supplement recovery, and research and technology must make new and dramatic contributions toward these ends."

Breathitt urged final drafting of the mining compact in time for 1966 legislatures in both Kentucky and Pennsylvania.

The compact will be introduced to the January session of the Kentucky General Assembly as part of a "package" of natural resources legislation. The package will also include bills on strip mining, air and water pollution, and water resources development.

The compact would require controls over stone quarries, sand and gravel pits, deep-mine coal washers and other types of mining. Kentucky's present laws govern only the strip mining of coal.

The second annual Jenny Wiley Invitational basketball tournament opened play last night (Wednesday) in Prestonsburg's fieldhouse with six of the eight teams in the field undefeated.

McDowell's Daredevils, labeled the team to beat for this season's regional crown, head the field with a record of six wins without a loss. They met Warfield (4-0) in the 7 p.m. opener.

Johnny Williams' veteran Warfield team was voted the No. 2 team in the area in the coaches' pre-season choices.

In Wednesday's second game at 8:45 p.m., Meade Memorial, sporting a 3-0 record, battled Johns Creek, a team which nipped Prestonsburg, 76-74, last Friday night in its season opener.

Thursday night, defending champion Martin (4-1) is paired against Mullins, of the new 59th district. The Tigers have won all four starts.

In the evening's second game, Morgan County, now in the 16th region, pits its 2-0 mark against the host Prestonsburg Black Cats who have lost one and won one.

The semi-finals will be played at 7 and 8:45 p.m., Friday, and the consolation and finals at the same times on Saturday night.

McDowell nipped Garrett, 65-62, in registering its sixth win last Friday night. The brother combination of Rickey and Don Hall paced the winners with 22 and 25 points. Garrett outpointed the visitors, 20-12, in the second period to take a 30-29 halftime lead, but the Hall brothers sparked a 22-point fourth quarter splurge to ice the victory. The defeat was Garrett's first in four games.

Warfield and Phelps staged the highest scoring game of the young season as the Red Devils won out, 110-98. In the hectic

ABC Reports on Stills Destroyed During Year; 86 Counties Are "Dry"

Frankfort, Ky.—Kentucky, native habitat of Bourbon whiskey, staggers along with 86 of its 120 counties dry, the State Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control sets forth in its annual report to Governor Edward T. Breathitt.

Twenty-six counties are wet and eight are classified as divided counties because they have cities that are wet, with the rest of the county dry.

The A.B.C. department, headed by Commissioner Harold Moberly, reported the seizure and destruction of 74 stills and the arrest of 95 persons charged with the illicit operation during the last fiscal year.

This compared with 61 stills destroyed and 55 persons arrested during the 1963-'64 fiscal year, and the destruction of 130 stills, with 126 arrests in 1962-'63.

Local option elections during the last fiscal year kept Middleboro dry by a vote of 2,525 to 2,156; Central City dry by 1,219 to 830, and Russellville dry 1,485 to 877. Two Owensboro precincts voted dry and one wet.
