

TALENT FROM FOUR STATES TO TAKE PART IN FESTIVAL

This Town... That World

Tuesday was marked on the calendar, "Summer begins." And the dog promptly went on vacation. Hasn't shown up at the office for two days now.

AH! A NATURAL EXCUSE
Now I can go fishing and enjoy matters without any pressure whatsoever. The moon may be new and the signs right, and all that. But it's the good, ol' summertime, the water's hot and I have the perfect excuse for every fishing failure till the next frost.

Now, I have the perfect definition for the word, "haphazard." Got it, the other day, when a fellow mispronounced it, "half-azard."

SEE IT!

A traveler who has included Europe in his peregrinations hither and yon over the earth stood at the top of the mountain to which he had been borne by the new "Skylift" at Jenny Wiley State Park, the other day, and declared that he had viewed the Swiss Alps and revelled in the picturesque Lucerne region of Switzerland but that he had never seen there anything as beautiful as the view from that observation point looking out over Dewey Lake to the surrounding mountains and the farthest dim thread of a mountain on out there in the distance. I haven't been to Lucerne, haven't even seen our own Rockies, but I know the man spoke the truth. Only eyes blind to, or surfeited by, beauty could fail to appreciate this panorama of mountains, water and sky.

2,785 ENROLL IN 'CATCH-UP'

241 Teachers Employed In 18 Centers To Tutor Pupils Behind in Study

The six-week summer term tutoring program known as Operation Catch-Up had, as of Tuesday, its second day of work, enrolled 2,785 pupils, County Superintendent Charles Clark learned at a meeting here with teachers involved in the program.

The program is designed for students, grades 1 through 12, who are deficient in one or more subject areas and is open to any of these, regardless of their economic status.

By Tuesday, 2,521 elementary and 264 high school pupils had registered. Three high schools—Garrett, Maytown and Martin—had no high school students enrolling in the program.

In the 18 school centers opened for the Catch-Up program 241 teachers are employed.

FRIDAY SET FOR OPENING OF FESTIVAL

Regional Music, Dances To Feature Three Days At Park Amphitheatre

Folk singers, dancers, and musicians from four states will be featured in the three-day Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival which will begin tomorrow (Friday) at Jenny Wiley State Park Amphitheatre and continue through Sunday.

The three-day event will officially open at 8:30 p.m. Friday with a program of early Anglo-Saxon music showing the origin of most Kentucky folk tunes being sung today.

Highlighting this segment of the Festival will be the appearance of the Carriage House Players, from Louisville, demonstrating the use of folk dances in Shakespearean drama.

Appearing, both on Friday night and on the two Saturday programs, will be the world-famous folk dancers from Hindman Settlement School and the Decoy Community School. These young people, under the direction of Raymond McLain and Lionel Huff, have toured Europe with their dramatic dances of the past and present.

Two programs depicting the folk music of America as it is sung today will highlight Saturday's schedule. The afternoon performance will begin at 2 o'clock and the evening show at 8:30. Among the performers in these two programs will be a string band from Wytheville, Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Welsh, Kingsport, Tennessee, and W. F. George, a nationally-known "fiddler" from Bluefield, West Virginia.

Also appearing as representatives of their own Appalachian Region, where most of Kentucky's folk music originated, will be "Fiddlin' Dewey Shepherd and his son, and Dolores and William Howard Cohen, from Alice Lloyd College, Pippa Passes.

Among the dancers on the Saturday program, will be Dennis Shepherd and Douglas Duff, performing the intricate "sword dance." These young men are students at Lee's Junior College, Jackson.

Folk music is not all fun and frolic, and there is no more beautiful religious music today than that sung in the Kentucky hills. One of the finest examples of the deeply religious background of the Kentucky Highlands will be the two-hour closing program

HALL OF FAME TABS CONLEY AND EVANS

Circuit Judge Hollie Conley, of Eastern, and George E. Evans, Jr., Still mining executive, were inducted to the Floyd County Hall of Fame at its annual meeting held last Friday evening at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park.

Mr. Evans was cited not only for his outstanding success in the coal business and other enterprises but also for his contributions as a citizen, particularly for his efforts in behalf of Scouting. The citation was made, on behalf of the Hall of Fame, by B. F. Reed.

Judge Conley was cited by Clifford B. Latia, Prestonsburg attorney, for his success in the area of politics and for his civic and cultural service to the county and region. "We do not salute Judge Conley," he said, "for his achievements at the polls, but rather for the services which he has rendered and for the example which he has displayed as an able jurist, one whose fairness, impartiality and dedication to the law have set him apart."

Dr. Adron Doran, president of Morehead State University, was the principal speaker at the dinner.

Civil Service Exam Set For Postoffice Positions

The Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, Cincinnati, Ohio this week announced an examination for custodial-laborer positions at the Prestonsburg postoffice. The starting salary is $2.13 per hour. Some positions may be filled at $1.96 an hour.

Competition in this examination is restricted by law to persons entitled to veterans' preference. Applications will not be accepted from persons who do not have such preference.

JURY NAMES JUDGE KIRK

Martin County Judge, 3 Others Are Indicted By Federal Grand Jury

The indictment by a federal grand jury at Pikeville Tuesday of Martin County Judge Willie Kirk and four others was the fourth such action taken against Eastern Kentucky officials and former officials on charges involving the alleged improper handling of flood relief funds.

Earlier indictments against officials at Harlan and Hyden have been dismissed. Pending are charges against former officials in Pike county.

Indicted with Kirk were his brother-in-law, Paul Runyon; Ted Perry, a former school-bus driver and contract worker; Allen Kelley, Jr., county sanitation, and his brother, Monroe B. Kelley.

The specific charge against the five, U.S. Atty. George I. Cline said, is conspiracy to hinder and impede the progress of a federal program.

Kirk is chairman of one group and a member of another that were awarded a total of almost $1 million in grants and loans June 2 by the federal economic development administration.

The funds involved in the indictment were awarded to Martin county in early 1964.

Cline said the indictment involved work claimed to have been done, but never completed, after the 1963 floods damaged parts of Martin county.

Cline had no figures on the amount of money alleged to have been misappropriated, but said the entire amount in Martin county involved in the flood-relief work was about $35,000.

He said the misappropriation involved making false statements and false reports on such work as pumping of wells, rebuilding of bridges and the like.

VISITS IN PORTSMOUTH

Mrs. Fannie Branham visited her sister, Mrs. Mark Lantz, and Mr. Lantz, in Portsmouth, Ohio, last week-end.

JENNY WILEY SKYLIFT—A newly completed chair lift at Jenny Wiley State Park was opened for public use last week-end. Called the "skylift," the cable facility transports riders from the park beach to the top of Sugar Camp Mountain, more than 2,200 feet up and away.

PARKS HEAD LAUDS SKYLIFT

Tourists visiting Jenny Wiley State Park may now save on shoe-leather. They can travel to the top of Sugar Camp Mountain by way of a newly completed chair lift, which was opened to the public last Friday.

State Parks Commissioner Robert Bell, one of the early skylift riders, said the view from the mountain top is "breathtaking." "You can see for 50 miles in all directions," he reported.

The skylift will carry visitors from a point near the park beach to the mountain top, more than 2,200 feet up and away. At the top of the mountain, visitors will find refreshments, picnicking facilities and hiking trails.

Tension-driven cables, to which the two-seater chairs are attached, are supported by nine steel towers which climb the side of the mountain. Total cost of the construction, including future mountaintop development, will be $250,000, it is estimated. The facility is operated by Mountain Parkway Chairlift, Inc., under a lease from the State Parks Department and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

A study is being made for the Parks Department, Bell said, on the feasibility of a similar type of mechanical lift at Natural Bridge State Park, near Slade.

FRAZIER DIES OF GUNSHOT

Body of Milliam Man, Retired Rail Worker, Found by a Neighbor

The body of Elkaner Frazier, 70, retired C. & O. conductor, was found at his home in Ice Plant Hollow at Martin Sunday morning, several hours after he had died of the effects of a gunshot wound.

There was no suspicion of foul play. Cash on his person totalled $834. Sheriff Joe W. Lewis, who investigated the tragedy, said sons of the victim expressed the theory that their father may have fallen, discharging the 20-gauge shotgun in his possession.

Charge of the shotgun entered beneath Frazier's chin. It is believed he had been dead from 10 to 12 hours when his body was found by a neighbor.

Mr. Frazier was a son of the late John and Sarah Adams Frazier and was a railway employee 40 years. His wife, Emma Lou Keaton Frazier, preceded him in death. Survivors include six sons and daughters, Elkaner Frazier, Jr. and Russell Frazier, both of St. Mary's, Ohio, Dale Frazier, Bloomington, Indiana, Mrs. Bethel Liles, Dayton, Ohio, Mrs. Louise Sparks and Mrs. Mary June Hall, both of St. Mary's, Ohio. He also leaves one sister, Mrs. Louise Pack, Wil-

College Enrollment Here for Summer Shows 31% Rise

Prestonsburg Community College has announced a record summer enrollment of 193 students. Matthew Young, business agent, said that this summer's enrollment, which includes 99 fulltime and 94 part-time students, is a 31% increase over last summer's enrollment. Of the 193 students, 128 are freshmen and 65 are sophomores.

By counties the enrollment figures are: Floyd 134, Johnson 46, Pike 5, Martin 2, Magoffin 2, Lewis 1, Knott 1, Lawrence 1 and Letcher 1.

RAIDERS HIT IN MAGOFFIN

Floyd Man Arrested After Booze Taken On Howard Branch

A raid on Howard Branch, Magoffin county, last Saturday afternoon hit at the county-line situation which Sheriff Joe W. Lewis last week described as causing liquor enforcement trouble.

The raiding parties arrested Bill Sexton, formerly of Garrett, and Billy Ray Stephens after they had confiscated 353 cans of beer, 25 half-pints of whiskey and 25 pints of gin and vodka from a trailer which was located about a quarter-mile inside Magoffin county.

The raid was staged by Lt. Lykins, of the State Police, State Troopers Collier and Combs, ABC Agents C. A. Flanery and Bill Young Mannings and Sheriff Lewis.

Sheriff Lewis said Sexton was fined $113 in Magoffin quarterly court on a possession charge and that Stephens was fined the same amount on each of two charges, possession and selling.

Only eight prisoners were in the county jail here this week. Among those booked within the week were:

Gene Salisbury, charged with breaking and entering, jailed by Deputy Sheriff C. B. Hall and State Trooper Engle; Willie Lewis Baldrige, operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol, by State Trooper Phillip Price; Arnold Click, reckless driving, by State Trooper DeBoard.

Hubert Dean, who was arrested June 12 by Conservation Officer Raymond Copley on a charge of fishing without license, was fined $30.50 later last week by County Judge Henry Stumbo.

FORD'S BID IS LOW AT $2 MILLION-PLUS

The Winston Ford Company, Prestonsburg, submitted the low bid on one of three Appalachian regional highway projects on which contracts were awarded last week by the Kentucky Department of Highways.

The Prestonsburg firm's bid on constructing four miles of the Campton-Hazard road from near Watts to the Perry county line was $2,197,807.

Embry and Durr, Lexington contractors, was low bidder on 3.9 miles on the same road from a point near Lost Creek to near Watts. The bid

NEW UNIVERSITIES WANT AND NEED MORE MONEY

THE TIMES obviously took an unpopular stand when, early this year, it voiced opposition to the creation of four new state universities for the state of Kentucky.

This newspaper had no objection to the elevation of these institutions, all of which have served Kentucky and the cause of education well, except when it considered the budgetary implications contained in the act.

News coming out of Lexington last week indicates that we were at least partly right. The new universities are making demands for more money, and they're making a good case for themselves.

Who will suffer? The University of Kentucky? the new universities? or the teachers of the high schools and elementary schools of Kentucky?

If higher education gobbles up the substance of lower education, we have a lot of youngsters coming on who are going to have a lot of trouble getting started toward any education at all.

There is one encouraging phase of the whole matter. The college presidents no longer will, in effect, serve as jurors in the trial of their case. The 1966 Legislature saw to that when it created a Council on Public Higher Education composed of nine lay members, with the presidents of the colleges serving as non-voting members.

NATURE TRAILS

By RUFUS M. REED

BOBCAT ON THE MOUNTAIN

The southern bobcat, which naturalists call, lynx rufus, is a fierce, sly and beautiful animal. While he usually shies away from us humans, he'll fight savagely when cornered.

When I was a boy of about 13, I was attacked by a big bobcat and might have been torn to strings but for the help of my faithful dog.

In those days, the bobcats were plentiful throughout our mountains. Farmers called them "wildcats" and made war on them. A hungry bobcat wouldn't hesitate to steal into the farmyard at night to snatch a pig or a lamb.

Local farmers and sheep-raisers began to catch the bobcats in heavy steel traps. They would also track them to their dens and smoke them out. Both the old and young were destroyed. So the bobcats have gradually declined until today they have become exceedingly scarce.

The bobcat is strong-muscled and has tufted ears and side-whiskers. His eyes are large and keen and today we often speak of people with sharp eyes as being lynx-eyed.

When I was a boy on our mountain farm, the bobcats had their den high on the mountain above our house. They lived in burrows under large sandstone cliffs, which were hidden by dense clumps of mountain laurel.

One dark, rainy night, a big bobcat raided our sheep pen and carried off a lamb. Father declared war on the bobcats and said we just had to do something about those "thiev' n' varmints."

I didn't say anything but, like a venturesome boy, decided to take my dog and track down the big cat. My dog, Cap, was a large, black-and-white spotted cur with a mixture of red-bone hound.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following letter was written by Miss Beth Furman, a missionary to Africa and a daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Furman, of Betsy Layne.)

Greetings from Sierra Leone, West Africa and to be more specific, Yifin.

It is a pleasure to receive the Floyd County Times, "way up-country Sierra Leone. I wish to take this opportunity to thank you for taking the time to send them all the way to Africa each week.

Sierra Leone is a beautiful country and especially at this time, the beginning of the rains. Yifin is a small village nestled among the mountain range of Sierra Leone. Her people are very friendly and cordial.

If you were to come to Yifin you would follow a black top highway about 90 miles out of Freetown, the port city where you would arrive by either boat or plane.

When we had climbed high on the mountain, my dog suddenly began to sniff. He had "winded" something and dashed on ahead of me through the dense clumps of laurel.

"Got something up a tree," I told myself, as I ran.

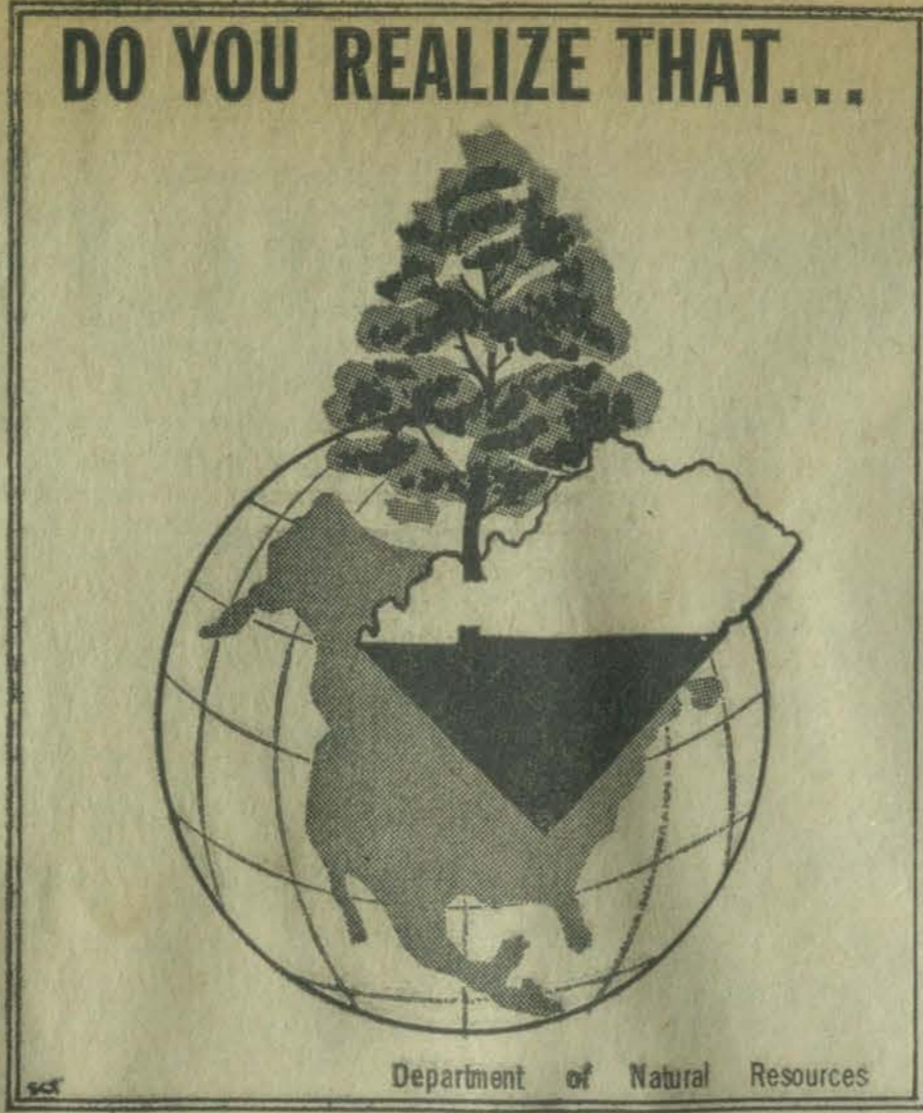

Soon I found old Cap sitting on his haunches, with his head turned up and his eyes set on something up in a white oak. I circled the tree to get a view of what might be up there.

"Get him, Cap!" I cried, in panic. I also yelled for my father to run quick. He was even then searching for me on the mountain, for he had missed me from the house and had become alarmed.

My dog made a flying leap and seized the bobcat. He tore him away before he ripped up my back. They rolled down the hill, fighting like devils, with the cat shrieking and the dog growling.

The fight was all over when father got to us. My dog was bloody and torn but wasn't hurt badly enough to die. My shirt was ripped down the back and there were some gashes in the skin.

My dog died about two years later and I buried him high up on that same mountain. I erected a tombstone over his grave and carved the date of his death and his name, CAP.

...the largest known Sassafras tree in the world (90 feet tall, 18 feet around) is located at 2100 Frederica Street, Owensboro, Kentucky?

HAIR AND SUCH

Some of the old people whom I know have apparently lost their memory in the process of growing older. Some of them spend a lot of good time talking about the hair styles of today and declare that they never saw such outlandish things in all their lives.

About the time I started my career as a teacher, back in 1907, rats were the rage. I do not refer to the pesky rodents around a barnyard, either, but all sorts of dodads and thingamobobs that ladies put on their heads and then swept their hair over.

A visit to the school would be very refreshing, for here you would find a group of vivacious youngsters of the many missionaries throughout Sierra Leone.

Back when I first started to college, a few boys developed what was called a roach. The varieties of roaches would exhaust the descriptive adjectives of the comic poet.

Article III of the proposed constitution makes some major changes in the Legislature.

Perhaps the biggest is having the General Assembly meet every year, turning it into a continuing body, and extending the terms of Senators and Representatives.

Retained is the bicameral system of government, a House and Senate. There was considerable discussion in the Revision Assembly toward making Kentucky a one-house legislature as is the case in Nebraska.

The number of representatives, 100, and senators, 38 are provided.

In the House, representatives winning election from the odd numbered districts in 1967 will serve four-year terms, and those winning from the even numbered districts will serve two years.

Section 5 of the draft deals with the touchy problem of legislative districts. The new paragraph orders the General Assembly to redistrict the state every 10 years, as did the old.

The job of redistricting the state shall, under the proposed document, be turned over to a Redistricting Commission, composed of from seven to 15 members appointed by the Governor with the confirmation of the State Senate.

HISTORICAL NOTES

By Henry P. Scalf

PATRICK PORTER Did Patrick Porter, mentioned prominently in Southwest Virginia history, come to Floyd county and is he buried on Johns Creek?

These are questions posed by Emory L. Hamilton, Wise, Virginia, historian.

We are mulling over a question of history here, wondering if John Porter's father, old Patrick Porter, might have followed his children to Kentucky and died in Floyd county. Around 1815 and 1816 his children disposed of his property in Scott county, Virginia, and all seem to have left the area about that time.

What relation were the Burchetts of Floyd county and Cumberland county, Kentucky? They were early settlers in both counties.

The Cumberland county, Kentucky Burchetts seem to have come out of Henry county, Virginia.

Mrs. Grace Catron, 122 Oakwood avenue, Pennington Gap, Virginia, writes of the Henry county, Virginia Burchetts:

"Martha Burchett married Morgan Maupin, May 7, 1809, in Henry county. They were my great-great-grandparents. I don't know when or where Martha died but in 1822 Morgan married again in Knox county, Tennessee, and when he died in Blount county, Tennessee, in 1838 he left a widow named Mary. His second wife was named Elizabeth. She died early 1839.

Some of the Burchetts who were married in Henry county, Virginia, were children of John Burchett, who was a Revolutionary War soldier and who died in Cumberland county, Kentucky.

John Henry, a son of Patrick Henry, the great orator of Revolutionary War fame, moved to Kentucky in the neighborhood of Danville the latter part of the eighteenth century. While living there a child was born to him and his wife. They called the little girl Elizabeth. The mother died, leaving the care of the little child to her father so he took her back to his folks in Virginia. John Wade, the child's uncle, who had settled on a large farm at what later became Cartwright, Cumberland county, made a trip to Virginia and brought the little girl back to his home at Cartwright and raised her to womanhood. Elizabeth was born 1798, died 1875.

"Icl Burchett and his brother, Solomon, came to Cumberland county to live. Solomon settled on the waters of Indian Creek where his descendants are to be found today. Icl stopped on a farm at Cartwright and in 1818 he and Elizabeth Henry were married. They made this community their home and raised a large family of six boys and four girls. . . . Icl was born 1796, died 1862."

A LOOK AT THE PROPOSED NEW STATE CONSTITUTION

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of articles defining the differences between Kentucky's present constitution, adopted in 1891, and the draft of a new constitution prepared after two years of work by the Constitution Revision Assembly. This week's article deals with the changes in the legislative branch of government.)

By ALBERT E. DIX

The Revision Assembly apparently felt it was too difficult a job for a member of the legislature to legislate himself out of a district. So it turned the job over to the Commission, hopefully a group of men and women who will be affected by changes in Districts.

Turning the legislature into a body which meets yearly for 60 legislative days as opposed to the every-two-year legislature was the next major change.

The proposed constitution also allows the legislature to extend itself another 30 days with two-thirds approval of both houses, provided it does not meet past June 13 of that year. It cannot do this presently.

Other changes involve the meeting date. In the year of the election of a Governor, the draft provides for the Legislature to convene on the first Tuesday in March instead of January. This answers a complaint of many years that a Governor, taking office the fifth Tuesday after his election, has little or no time to prepare a budget and legislative program to present to the Assembly convening, presently, the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January.

Under the existing constitution a Governor must get his legislative program ready while he is still a candidate. The short time between his installation in office and the meeting of the Legislature in January allows little time for debate on the budget.

Many delegates regard the first sentence of Section 8, Article III, of the proposed constitution as the most significant. It turns the General Assembly into a "continuing body."

This gives it the power to extend its life beyond the regular sessions, and committees of each house can conduct hearings year-round. It allows the Appropriations Committee to sit in on the drafting of the budget, or the Mines and Minerals Committee to hold hearings in mid-July. It does not mean the legislature itself sits in continuous session.

The pay of legislators has been changed to meet the new rules regarding annual sessions, and the continuing life section of the new draft.

The new constitution provides for an annual salary for each Representative and Senator, to be determined by themselves, so long as they don't do it in the session in which they are sitting.

The old constitution allowed $5 per day plus 15 cents per mile for travel. This has been changed to $25 per day salary and $25 per day for expenses on legislative days only.

The Revision Assembly felt the annual salary was a guarantee against influencing the legislature to stay in session and to keep holding committee meetings and hearings simply to draw the daily pay.

When it comes to the passage of a bill, changes have been made in the proposed constitution. If the session is extended the allowed 30 days, a bill introduced in the regular 60-day session may be considered in the extended period.

A section of the 1891 document has been deleted.

Gone are the words allowing for the dispensing of second and third readings of a bill by a majority vote of all the members elected to the House in which the bill is pending, and the requirement (not now observed) that bills be read at length.

Section 20 of the draft allows the General Assembly to contract for "casual debts," the old limit being $500,000, the new limit set at two percent of the general fund tax revenue of the state for the preceding fiscal year. In 1890 the half million limit was about 50 percent of the general fund revenue.

The General Assembly is still allowed to contract debts to "repel invasion, suppress insurrection, or if hostilities are threatened, provide for the public defense."

Section 24 of the new constitution creates what the Revision Assembly felt might be a "watchdog" committee checking the state's income and expense.

The General Assembly is given the power to appoint an Inspector and Examiner to conduct audits of any agency or department of the state. Reports are made to the legislature and the Governor. By law the Department of Finance now conducts these inspections but the new provision broadens the power of the General Assembly to examine the operations of any state department.

The Revision Assembly delegates apparently felt the Inspector and Examiner, who could become a political tool had in its creation advantages which far outweighed any political considerations.

The old constitution told the General Assembly, by law, to provide for monthly investigations into the accounts of the Treasurer and Auditor, these reports to be published in two newspapers, semi-annually, of general circulation in the state.

Section 25 again prohibits the legislature from limiting the amount to be recovered for injuries resulting in death, or for injuries to person or property. But a second paragraph of that section says the General Assembly may by law provide for a compulsory system of workmen's compensation and provide for its enforcement.

Courts in Kentucky have held the state cannot have compulsory workmen's compensation. While the Commonwealth has it in effect, the new constitution simply spells out its allowance. It reaffirms the no-limit on the amount to be recovered from injuries, but allows a limit to be established under workmen's compensation.

Article IV of the new draft, relating to impeachments, is the same as the old constitution.

Three sections of the old constitution, dealing with the boundaries of counties, creation and abolition of counties, or the partition of counties, have been deleted.

UK Alumni Honor
 Six from County
 For Achievement

High-ranking students in 264 Kentucky high schools, including six Floyd county students, have received recognition from the University of Kentucky Alumni Association for their scholastic achievement. For the third consecutive year, UK alumni have presented those youthful scholars with awards—a lapel button for the boys and a pin for the girls. In addition, the parents of the students received a certificate signed by Miss Helen G. King, alumni director, and Richard E. Cooper, alumni association president.

Each high school student so honored is selected by his teachers or principal and the recommendation forwarded to the Alumni Association. Those from this county who have received the award for high scholastic achievement include:
 Elizabeth Ann Martin, Garrett high school; Jackie Slone and Deborah Sammons, Maytown high; Zella Faye Wallace, Prestonsburg high; Constance Morrison, Wayland high school; Patricia Frances Martin, Wheelwright high.

LIBRARY NOTES
 By HOMER LEE HALL
 Regional Librarian

The Floyd County Library has acquired two copies of BAR-ROD'S HOW TO PREPARE FOR THE STUDENT DEFERMENT TEST. Under our Universal Military Training and Service Act provision is made to defer students. Our government fully realizes that the young men in college today constitute the leaders of tomorrow. Under normal conditions these men are not inducted into the armed forces until such time as they have completed their training for a career. However, when the Department of Defense increases the call for men, the National Director of Selective Service often finds it necessary to put some students into uniform. It was decided that inspection of students' college records and some form of objective testing would become the basis for reclassification or for continued student deferment. Early in 1966, it was stated that the Selective Service College Qualification Test would be given. This announcement prompted the publication of this book.

College students know how unwise it is to walk into any examination without preparation. This book serves as a review of the verbal and quantitative aspects of the test. With this book the student can test himself and decide whether he is ready for the test or whether further review of English or mathematics is necessary. Besides numerous drill exercises, 10 typical verbal tests and 10 typical mathematics tests are furnished, with correct answers supplied in each case. In presenting the material in this book consideration was given to the fact that some students may not have had recent experience with mathematics because of concentration in fields other than science and mathematics. Conversely, the science and mathematics majors may have neglected vocabulary building. By doing the exercises and consulting the answer section, students may accomplish self-diagnosis and evaluation.

This work is of extreme importance to all male college students in Floyd county and they should inspect the book thoroughly before taking the next deferment examination.

The Floyd County Library is open, six days a week.

Notice To Bidders

The Floyd County Board of Education will until 1 p.m. July 2, 1966, accept the lowest and best bid for tables and chairs for Prestonsburg high school lunch room. Detailed specifications may be had from Woodrow Allen, principal of Prestonsburg high school.

The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

The only Burchett mentioned in the 1810 Floyd county census is Benjamin Burchett. However, there are many Burchett marriages in the decades of the last century prior to the Civil War. John Burchett, while not listed in the 1810 census of Floyd county, married Lois or Louisa Akers, November 20, 1810. Drury Burchett married Elizabeth McCowen in 1816 and Thomas Burchett married Milly Maynor (Maynard) the same year. Thomas was married by Hiram Stratton, early Floyd county Methodist minister. Hiram lived on Johns Creek at the time so we may assume that Thomas Burchett did also.

Other early Floyd county Burchett marriages were Arststead Burchett to Elizabeth Butler, 1820; Arststead Burchett to Rebecca Pigg, 1841; Ben Burchett to Nancy Lewis, 1821; William Burchett to Patsy Calloway, 1839; and William Burchett to Frances E. Auxier, 1840.

There were many early marriages with Burchett brides in the early decades of the last century. Morgan Clark married Elizabeth Burchett, 1840; Thomas Lewis, Jr., son of the pioneer Thomas Lewis, Sr., married Sophia Burchett, 1830; Albert Osborn married Mary Burchett, 1840; John Springs married Sally Burchett, 1825. There were many others. John W. Sellards, son of the pioneer John Sellards, married Elizabeth Burchett. Census records note she was a native of Virginia.

There are many early Burchett marriages listed on the Lawrence county, Kentucky, records. Drury J. Burchett, of Lawrence county, was a major in the Fourteenth Kentucky Regiment Volunteer Infantry, U.S.A. in the Civil War. He was also captain of Company K of that regiment.

PRESTONSBURG DRY CLEANERS

David Cooley, the great-great grandfather of the present I. Richmond Co. Store manager, operated a general store in Prestonsburg more than a hundred years ago. He owned a bear which was kept chained to a tree next to the store. It was his custom in those days to invite home for lunch all customers who happened to be in the store at the noon hour. The invitation was usually accepted and store and bear were left unattended.
On one such occasion he and his friends returned to the store to find the bear had broken his chain and was inside the building. They found him inside the overturned sugar barrel, enjoying the sweet. As a result of this incident he staged the first sale in Prestonsburg . . . A sale of the sugar from the barrel, at bargain prices.
And now Richmond's go back to the bear and this bit of history to turn over barrels and barrels of bargains in their vacation-time sale.

Tile Drainage Begun
By 5 Floyd Farmers

Several cooperators of the Floyd County Soil Conservation District are installing tile drainage systems this year. Surveys and designs have been completed for Lawrence Hale, Prestonsburg; Wallace Calhoun, Water Gap; Benjamin Hall, Banner; Bennie Boyd, Banner, and C. E. Allen, Eastern.

Floyd county has approximately 2,801 acres of land that needs draining to secure the maximum yields from their crops, Gerald Hart, soil conservationist, said. Cooperators of the Soil Conservation District have installed over 244,307 feet in the county since the district has been organized.

An estimated 1,824,000 motor vehicles will be registered in Kentucky by 1970, says the State Department of Public Safety.

SCOUTS HIKE 50 MILES

Haskel Frye, III, senior patrol leader, and Andrew J. Reed, Jr., assistant senior patrol leader, of Boy Scout Troop 145 of Martin, last Friday successfully completed a 50-mile hike which required 23 hours.

The boys, both 15, hold the two highest posts in the Martin troop. They began their hike Thursday night at 10 o'clock. They started from Martin and hiked to the 25-mile post of the C. & O. Railroad at Weeksbury and back to Martin to complete the 50 miles.

The youths took a warm-up hike June 14 by hiking from Martin to the 25-mile post at Weeksbury, completing the trip in 11 hours. Both are working on their hiking merit badges.

On completion of their hike last Friday, the boys were congratulated by their troop leaders, fellow Scouts and parents for their achievement.

STRICTLY FOR TIRED CITY-FOLKS

Delta Rose Mills, of Alpine, Kentucky, writes something I like. It follows:

In the article, "Nature Trails," by Rufus M. Reed, he talks of driving miles to hear the whippoorwills sing, and I would do the same, if necessary. But, fortunately, my home is located on a high mountain top in a small community with the appropriate name of Alpine.

To the front, or westside, is a four-lane national highway, while on the east side my high bedroom windows overlook deep woods and valleys rolling away into the distance. A sort of division of two worlds where I am able to enjoy the comforts of town and the quiet of the country.

All through the months of April, May and June, the woods are full of whippoorwills, and I fall asleep at night to the sound of their singing everywhere. They will sing right on through the roar of traffic, but seem to be capable of taking care of their own skins (or feathers), for if I open or close a door or window, no matter how quietly, the singing ceases instantly, to be taken up again immediately farther away.

In the mornings, when the sun rises over a band of fog drifting up from the lake in long streamers, the woods are cool and still, showing no sign of the source of the concert held there in the shadows of the night. The whippoorwills are not the only inhabitants of the woods, for owls, mockingbirds, and other strange bird sounds join in, sometimes, and it would be a sad day, indeed, if I should be forced to move away and leave my whippoorwills, whose singing I look forward to each spring.

Dear Mr. De:

I understand you're building a young ball team. I know an excellent prospect. He can't throw a ball from first to second, and the last time he had a hit was in a game of One Old Cat. But he's only 17 and should fit in with your youthful team perfectly.

honored, was graduated from Oak Hill (W. Va.) high school in 1935 and worked at coal mines during the summers from 1933 to 1938. He attended Beckley College and Notre Dame University, graduating from the latter in 1940 and soon afterward becoming employed by the Central Elkhorn Coal Company at Estill. He later organized the Evans Elkhorn Coal Company, and in 1952 became a director of the Long Company, Oak Hill, West Virginia, now the fourth largest manufacturer of coal mining equipment in the United States. He is president of the Black Star Coal Corp., Louisville, a director of the First Guaranty Bank, Martin, chairman of the board of directors of the Kentucky Coal Association and for years a director and officer in the Big Sandy Elkhorn Coal Operators' Association.

Mr. Reed pointed out that Evans has within the last two years developed a coal lease on Spurlock fork of Left Beaver Creek into one of the most efficient mines in the South and that he has more recently been responsible for bringing to Floyd county the Island Creek Coal Company, one of the largest in the industry. Mr. Evans is president of the Evans Elkhorn Division of Island Creek, which operates all of the parent company's properties in Eastern Kentucky.

Active in promoting and supporting the Boy Scout movement, Mr. Evans has served as finance campaign chairman, and is credited with introducing to Scout fund-raising campaigns new and improved techniques that are still being used to advantages by Lonesome Pine Council.

His wife is the former Josephine Collins, of Lackey, and they have three daughters and one granddaughter.

Judge Conley was graduated from Garrett high school in 1939, then attended Caney Junior College (now Alice Lloyd College) at Pippa Passes for two years, later entering the University of Kentucky from which he received his A.B. degree in 1942. During World War II he rose from the rating of seaman second class to the rank of lieutenant, senior grade, in the U.S. Navy. Upon his return to civilian life, he entered Duke University, graduating there in 1948 with the bachelor of laws degree. Admitted to the Kentucky state bar in 1949, he was associated in the practice of law here with the late Andrew J. May till he entered the field of politics.

He was elected County Attorney in 1953, and at the conclusion of his first term was elected Commonwealth's Attorney for six years, then was elected Circuit Judge of the 31st judicial district, an office he now holds. Judge Conley has served as president of the Martin Kiwanis Club, chairman of the Democratic party in this county, chairman of the Floyd county Easter Seal drive and presently is a member of the board of directors of the Alice Lloyd College Alumni Association.

He and his wife, the former Minnie Martin, of Eastern, have three daughters and one son.

U-KATS PLAN GETS EARLY START IN SCHOOLS OF P'BURG AREA

A program now developing in Prestonsburg high school pre-presents a statewide work planned by U-KATS, University of Kentucky athletic organization, to develop schoolboy athletes, promote their physical fitness and provide state schools with adequate physical education programs.

Attention is being focused on football in these early days of the U-KATS organization but could later include other sports. Although special attention is being given to high school football teams, the U-KATS program includes Pee-Wee football for boys in grade school, with planning, supervision and training placed in the hands of competent coaches.

Without adequate athletic programs, Kentucky schools are failing to develop their football players into the material needed by the University of Kentucky and other universities and colleges in the state. As a result, says Coach Charlie Bradshaw, of the UK Wildcats, Kentucky boys are losing three-quarters of a million dollars a year in football scholarships and grants which go to out-of-state athletes who have had the benefits of better conditioning and training for the sport.

The long-range plan is to extend the program into other sports, create a better school spirit and an incentive to better academic work as well as to improve athletic ability.

The U-KATS plan, it is pointed out, will benefit not only the University of Kentucky as, better football players are produced by the state's high schools. Some of these will be Southeastern Conference material. Many, however, will fall short of that standard, but will provide excellent players for other state schools.

U-KATS in Prestonsburg discussed, first of all, the program with the Prestonsburg Athletic Association, and the plan was so well received that immediately the organization changed its name to Prestonsburg Athletic Association of U-KATS. Then the two groups conferred with County Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark, Coach Bradshaw later came here to attend a meeting of Association representatives and Clark.

Full accord was reached on the program, which is designed not only to develop the athletes physically but also to improve their attitudes and grades.

The following week, three UK assistant coaches came here, reviewed the entire football program and made recommendations for its improvement, emphasizing the need for weights to be used in strength-building, intensive training in how to run, improved training room facilities and other vital needs.

The weights have been ordered. UK assistant coaches will supply coaches for the Pee-Wee football program, and Bert Dixon, head coach of Prestonsburg high school's football team, will have supervision of the overall program.

A car-pool will provide transportation for high school players, and members will establish contact with parents, to afford them and their sons a full picture of the program and its benefits. The team will be sent to summer football camp at Boonesboro, probably in August.

The U-KATS in Prestonsburg have a membership goal of 500 by September. Membership is $10 a year. The first expenditure to be made by the group was on weights, with the Floyd County Board of Education contributing $500 of Title I federal funds toward that part of the program.

Superintendent Charles Clark explained that a minimum of $500 in Title I funds is available for the purchase of basic equipment for schools where a physical education program has been established or is being established under this year's expanding program.

Mr. Clark said: "I am very much impressed with U-KATS and its program. They are offering their experience and know-how at no cost, which will serve admirably as we expand our physical education program to schools which have not had such programs and as the program is improved in schools where it already is in operation."

"Another thing impresses me," Clark added. "Besides their interest in athletics and physical education and all the help they will be to us in these areas, U-KATS are stressing the prime importance of student attitudes and their scholastic achievements."

The review of the Prestonsburg high school athletic program by UK representatives resulted in these recommendations:

1. Football field needs to be disked, topsoil provided, the field seeded and a pump and hose provided to irrigate the field from the river. (Work has already been begun on this project.)

2. A weight program to increase strength of athletes, a primary need.

3. Wasted space beneath the stadium should be fully used. Four sections need to be enclosed and converted into a weight room, an agility room with mats and a storage room or dressing rooms.

4. A good track program and adequate facility desperately needed. Present track is inadequate.

5. A training room that is adequate both as to its facilities and its location is needed. (Theirs may be moved to the storage room where more space can be utilized for three taping tables, heat lamp, whirlpool and other equipment.)

6. Most important is development of a sound physical education program in the four grade schools which send students to Prestonsburg high school. Recent tests showed extremely poor display of physical ability by younger boys.

Michael is captain of the school patrol, a member of the Squires of Columbus (Junior Order of Knights of Columbus), is ready to go into the Explorers in Boy Scouts, and is also on the school track team. He won the 440-yard dash in 56.8 seconds recently, the day after he had been on a 50-mile hike, and won blue ribbons in two other events. beard of my lifetime. I never could understand why he kept such a wonder hidden from an admiring public, for he plaited it up to a half foot or so of his chin and tucked this plait inside his shirt. Those in the know said his beard, when combed out, reached below his waist. My, wouldn't that be an adornment to some marcher in our marching times! A fellow could almost dare a policeman if he had a mark of being a he-man such as that. I never knew what happened to the long beard, but I suspect that the owner wore it to the end of the chapter, but it must have been lots of trouble to keep properly groomed.

Who knows? Probably some of the hairy, bearded critters we see roving around now may be descended from some of the hairy-bearded varmints at Fidelity and elsewhere?

In Appreciation

We would like to publicly express our appreciation to Mr. Charles Clark, Mr. Wayne Ratliff, Mrs. Winnie B. Johnson, Mrs. Virginia Jamerson and Mr. Boone Hall for making our teaching experience a pleasant one.

Says B. JACK MARTIN, of Langley, Ky.

"Since we got our Everpure equipment we like our water fine."

"Our white things would stain and even our colored clothes were murky looking," says Mrs. Martin. "Even our tea and coffee had a scum on it."

"We called James E. Allen and after he analyzed our water he told us we had iron and iron bacteria in our water like many of the people in our area. He told us that by super-chlorination and fine filtration we could eliminate our water problem."

"The Everpure equipment which we purchased has been in operation for almost two years and we wouldn't be without it."

Even Rusty, Jack Martin's big collie, would agree, "It's the best doggone water in Floyd county."

HAZARD GETS FEDERAL AID

$1,120,000 U.S. Grant Approved for Sewers, With Loan of $480,000

Approval of $1.6 million to finance extension of water and sewer lines in the city of Hazard was announced Friday by Eugene P. Foley, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Economic Development.

The project will serve long-term unemployed and low-income families and provide for future industrial development.

The funds will come from the Economic Development Administration, U.S. Department of Commerce. Involved are a grant of $1,120,000 and a loan of $480,000 to run for 40 years at 3.75% annual interest. Completion is expected in about 20 months.

The Hazard area has a 10.5 percent unemployment rate and a median family income of $2,689. Population in the county declined 25 percent between 1950 and 1960.

In applying for the grant and loan, the city reported the new facilities would serve chiefly unemployed and low-income families. City officials also reported that a number of industrial firms have bypassed Hazard because of inadequate sewer and water facilities.

FOUR KY. COLLEGES BECOME UNIVERSITIES

Kentucky lost three senior colleges June 16 and is due to lose another July 1. But the loss will be in name only.

Western, Morehead and Murray regional state colleges have become universities and Eastern Kentucky State College will join their ranks July 1, under enabling legislation passed by the 1966 Legislature.

The new law is part of Governor Edward T. Breathitt's long-range program for higher education. It was one of several recommendations by the special Commission on Higher Education he appointed to study the state's needs during the next 10 years.

Each of the four college presidents, members of the Commission, noted in supporting the legislation that the institutions essentially were universities.

The new names of the four universities are Western Kentucky State University (at Bowling Green); Morehead State University, Murray State University, and Eastern Kentucky State University (at Richmond).

After July 1, Kentucky State College at Frankfort will be Kentucky's only state-owned senior college.

The state's two-year college program is also growing with the 1966 Legislature giving approval to three new community colleges. To be located at Louisville, Maysville and Hazard, the colleges will bring the total number in the program to 12 when they open about the fall of 1967.

Sportsmen Name Breathitt For "Man of Year" Honor

Frankfort — Governor Edward T. Breathitt has been named Man of the Year in Conservation by the League of Kentucky Sportsmen, an award presented annually by the statewide association of outdoorsmen.

The League also paid tribute to Kentucky Natural Resources Commissioner J. O. Matlick as Man of the Year in Water Conservation.

The League praised Breathitt as a conservation leader not only in Kentucky but on the national level as well.

"The year 1966 shall be remembered as the year the Commonwealth of Kentucky stepped to the fore as a national leader in the effort to preserve our country's natural resources," the citation read. "And it shall be remembered the deft hand of Governor Edward T. Breathitt pointed the way."

"For it was the hand of Breathitt that astutely guided through the 1966 General Assembly the most comprehensive package of natural resources legislation ever to enter Kentucky's statute books — and possibly those of any other state."

"Thus did Breathitt and the Commonwealth 'mold the sword' for other states to 'wield' in the all-out assault against the plunder and waste of water, land, forest, mineral and fish and wildlife."

The Governor's award was accepted by Mrs. Breathitt who also substituted for the Governor as keynote speaker. Breathitt was in Poland at the

REDBOOK MAGAZINE ARTICLE ON STATE ATTRACTS INTEREST OF VACATIONERS

More than 10,000 requests for literature on Kentucky vacation attractions have been received by Redbook magazine's reader service bureau since a story on Kentucky appeared in the May issue.

The story, titled "The Sun Shines Bright," was written by Martin Cohen who spent his vacation in Kentucky last year after being assigned by Redbook's travel editor, Miss Florence Somers, to do the Kentucky story.

Public Information Commissioner Cattie Lou Miller said, "By May 20, we had received 10,794 requests for Kentucky vacation information as a direct result of the Redbook story."

During Derby Week, Miss Somers visited in Kentucky and was presented the first official "Kentucky Oscar" by Governor Edward T. Breathitt for her interest and cooperation in boosting Kentucky tourism. The new award will be presented sparingly, Breathitt said, to persons on the national scene who assist most greatly in promotion of

TO STAY IN LIBRARY

Seattle — The Seattle Library Board Tuesday rejected a request by a Negro group to ban the children's book, "Little Black Sambo." Keve Bray, executive director of the Central Area Action Committee, asked the board to remove the book from the city's libraries on the ground that it is derogatory to Negroes. Wayne Booth, president of the library board, said that the book has no racial overtones and that the request amounted to an attempt to censor the city's library books.

NEW STRIP MINE ACT EFFECTIVE ON JUNE 16

What has been described as "a new era in the protection of Kentucky's natural resources" was ushered in on June 16 when the huge "package" of natural resources legislation passed by the 1966 Kentucky General Assembly became law.

Sponsored by the administration and given priority second only to Governor Edward T. Breathitt's budget bill, the law established new safeguards for soil, water, air and fish and wildlife resources in the state.

Chief among the new laws is a strip mine reclamation law that is generally conceded to be among the most restrictive in the nation. It requires that stripping operations in Western Kentucky be graded back to the approximate original contour and those in Eastern Kentucky be terraced or backfilled to meet standard specifications. The law also regulates vegetative covering and the issuance of strip mine permits.

Kentucky's new law also enables the state to speed-up reclamation of "orphan" spoilbanks (land mined prior to any law and abandoned) by obtaining public title to private lands and reclaiming them with the aid of federal funds.

Other important laws create two new state agencies — the Water Resources Authority and the Air Pollution Control Commission.

The water authority will be permitted, if necessary, to enter into contractual agreement with the federal government in developing an adequate future water supply for all of the state.

Pippa Passes, Ky. — Graduates from such distant places as New Mexico, New York and Florida are expected to join hundreds of alumni from the Appalachian area for Alice Lloyd College's Founder's Year Homecoming, July 3 on the college green.

According to William S. Hayes, president of the college, this year's event has been planned to coincide with the year-long observance of the 50th anniversary of Alice Lloyd's coming to Caney Creek and establishing her unique educational program at Pippa Passes. "For that reason," Hayes said, "we are making a special effort to bring back as many alumni as possible."

Among the featured speakers for the day will be alumnus Curtis Owens, professor of English at the University of New York. The college also plans to present several alumni, representing various periods in the growth of Alice Lloyd College, to recall the high points of their years on Caney Creek.

Registration of alumni will begin at 11 a.m. At noon, a barbecued chicken lunch will be served.

President Hayes said not only alumni are invited to the day's activities, but that all friends of the college are invited.

Man IN or ON the Moon

One has been there a long time now. The other — a man on the moon — is a dream two of the greatest nations on earth are frantically pursuing, these days.

The most important guy, however, is man where he is... now.

It is with this man that we are concerned. How he lives, conducts himself, relates himself to others — all these things are of more than pure scientific importance.
