

WETS FILE CONTEST TO VOID DRY VOTES

SUIT CLAIMS 373 ILLEGAL DRY BALLOTS

Voters Who Changed Precincts Are Named; Intimidation Claimed

Floyd county Wet forces filed a contest suit in the Floyd circuit court last Thursday afternoon...

They seek a victory margin by asking that a total of 373 Dry votes be voided.

The suit, which names as defendants the Board of Election Commissioners, was filed in the names of Fred Goble, Hobert Spurlock, Jake Bates, Curtis Carter, Morris Hayes, Sam Stephens, Charlie Prater, Woodrow Whitaker, Lewis Wilcox, Roy Collins, Ed Hampton, John Branham, Donald L. Akers and Sam Roberts, plaintiffs.

Their petition alleges that the Drys' "apparent majority... was secured by fraud, intimidation, voting by persons not legally qualified to vote in the precincts where they voted..."

CITY MOVES FOR PLANT

Council Accepts Terms Asked by U.S. Shoe Co.; Sites Are Yet Studied

The City Council at a special meeting last Thursday evening accepted terms contained in the letter received from the U. S. Shoe Company stating its intent to locate a plant in the vicinity of Prestonsburg.

Final action on the plant location by the company's board of directors is expected within the next two weeks.

The council's acceptance of company terms will, upon final commitment by the company, involve the city in taking several steps:

- 1. The issuance of $900,000 worth of revenue bonds to finance construction and equipping of a 60,000-square-foot building. 2. Provide a site for the plant structure. 3. Provide utilities to the plant and also highway approaches. 4. Assure a training program for workers.

"We're ready to move when they are," commented Mayor George P. Archer.

Four potential sites have been studied by U. S. Shoe Company representatives, and the last study was made only this week. Highway Department assistance on road approaches and access has been assured, and State Vocational Department help with the worker training program is expected.

JAILER'S AIDE HURT AS BREAK ESSAYED

A prisoner under conviction for writing threatening letters to a judge led an attempt last Saturday morning to overcome a turnkey and flee the Floyd county jail.

The prisoner, who was identified as James W. Adams, about 30, was joined by Frank Joseph DiMele, of New York, in an attack on John Burchett, assistant to Jailer Lawrence Hale.

The attack came when Burchett was sent inside the jail to bring Adams to the jail office where Deputy Marshal Joe R. Mullins awaited to take Adams on to Catlettsburg after an overnight stay here.

Adams was convicted in U. S. District Court at Catlettsburg last June on a charge of writing two threatening letters to an Indiana judge.

The U. S. district clerk's office at Catlettsburg said Tuesday that a hearing of Adams' motion had been set for October.

DiMele, a man about 30, and Harold H. Davidson, also of New York, were jailed here July 25 by State Detective Chester D. Potter and Chief of Police Bill Potter, of Prestonsburg.

Three other federal prisoners were booked here last week. Ray Powers and Richard Owens were listed for possession of a moonshine still, and Marvin E. Robinson for violation of the Dyer Act (auto theft).

Jailed by county officers within the week were Charles Clark, of Auxier, named on two forgery counts, arrested (See Story No. 5, Page 3)

MOTION ASKS SPL. JUDGE

For Trial of Contest In Local Option Poll; Decision Is Delayed

Circuit Judge Hollie Conley has been asked to vacate the bench for the hearing of the suit filed by Wet forces contesting the July 27 local option election and to certify the case to the Court of Appeals for designation of a special judge to preside in its trial.

The motion to vacate was filed last Thursday, the same day the contest action began. It alleged that Judge Conley would not give plaintiffs a "fair and impartial trial."

PUPIL LOSS IS RECORDED

Only Three Schools In Floyd Show Gain In New Enrollment

The number of Floyd county youngsters back in school at the opening of the term last week was 704 less than the total at the same time last year.

The total enrollment dropped from 11,237 last year to 10,533 at the beginning of this year's term.

Only three of the larger schools in the county show enrollment increases this year.

Allen elementary jumped from 329 last year to 355. McDowell high school and grades combined, benefiting from elimination of a nearby rural school, rose from 1043 last year to 1060 this, and Prestonsburg elementary gained from 786 to 795.

HOLD WRIGHT FOR ROBBERY

Native of Wheelwright Is Accused in Holdup Of Bank at Greenup

Earl Ellery Wright, 36, a native of Wheelwright, was arraigned last Friday in Cleveland, Ohio, on a charge of robbing a Greenup branch bank in 1964.

Wright is accused of robbing the Greenup branch of the First & Peoples Bank of Russell of $63,497. In the Greenup robbery a lone gunman held James R. Leslie, bank manager, and two women tellers at gunpoint for more than an hour.

Earlier, he had pleaded guilty to the 1965 robbery of a Carol Hills, Maryland bank of $61,203 and an Asheville, North Carolina bank, a few months later, of $49,232.

FISCAL COURT SETS 13 1/2-CENT TAX RATE

600 ENROLL AT COLLEGE

As Third Year Begins Wednesday; 50 Others Expected This Week

The Prestonsburg Community College opened Wednesday for its third year of work with an enrollment approximating 600, a figure which is expected to increase by 50 additional students by week's end.

Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., director of the college, said there has been an increase of 100 or more fulltime students over last year's total.

When classes convened Wednesday morning the college had 25 fulltime instructors, 15 part-time faculty members and two fulltime administrators.

Dr. Campbell said students may register for night classes through tonight (Thursday). Registration for extension classes also will be held tonight.

RATE IS CUT TO NEARLY 1/4 1965 FIGURE

County Wins Fight Against 10% Raise Of '66 Assessment

The tax rate on Floyd county real estate and tangible properties was set Tuesday by the Floyd fiscal court at 13 1/2 cents per $100 valuation.

The reduction to 13 1/2 cents from the 50 cents charged last year means that the owner of such properties whose assessment was not increased this year more than four times that of 1965 will suffer little through county taxation.

The court's action followed sessions Monday and Tuesday. The rate was based on a real estate assessment of $62,474.07 and on tangibles totalling $20,737,988.

The intangible rate was set at 20.4 cents per $100 as compared with 50 cents last year, and bank shares were reduced to 19c, one cent below the 1965 rate.

The tax rate, as established by the court on a total certified assessment of $93,799,880, is calculated to realize $184,170, which is 10% more than last year's total revenues from the same sources.

Floyd countians' total tax bills cannot be calculated, however, until the Floyd County Board of Education, the Floyd County Health Department and the Floyd County Library Board set their new rates based on the so-called 100% assessment.

All three were expected to submit to the fiscal court this week their rates.

The state tax rate on real estate was earlier changed from last year's five cents per $100 assessment to 1 1/2 cents. The state tax on tangibles is 15 cents and on intangibles 47 1/2 cents.

Although state law provides that tax bills for any year be prepared by the county clerk and placed with the sheriff for collection not later than September 15, work on the bills cannot begin until all rates are set.

To meet the September 15 deadline is regarded an impossibility. (See Story No. 3, Page 3)

FLOYD FAIR FINDS A HOME AT PARK

When the Floyd County Fair opens on Labor Day for an all-week stand it will occupy for the first time a permanent fairground.

The new and permanent quarters for the fair are at Archer Park here, and two buildings were being completed this week for the housing of exhibits.

The fair will continue Sept. 5 through 10. All exhibits, except livestock, poultry and flowers, are to be brought to the fairgrounds by 5 p.m., Sept. 10.

The Floyd County Fair Board this week emphasized (See Story No. 4, Page 3)

$80,000 JOB HERE NEAR COMPLETION

Kentucky Power Company's extensive modernization program in downtown Prestonsburg is virtually complete.

The $80,000 program included the installation of 36 concrete poles and more than 2 1/2 miles of primary and secondary conductors.

H. H. Kincaid, Kentucky Power's Pikeville division manager, said the new downtown distribution system improved the dependability of electric service to downtown customers as well as the appearance of the distribution facilities, especially relieving the congestion of utility service in town by consolidating power and telephone lines on the same side of the street.

He pointed out that the new electric system is the most modern in the area. It is the first system to combine the use of concrete poles with the attractive appearance of the bundle conductors (three conductors held in a porcelain triangular spacing).

"Prestonsburg's potential for growth is recognized in this new system," Mr. Kincaid said, "because we have provided much more capacity in circuit and transformer capability."

"Prestonsburg's location relative to the Mountain Parkway and to Jenny Wiley State Park gave additional promise for growth," he said. In addition to the use of reinforced concrete poles and spacer cable, the downtown distribution system here has one of the most modern types of secondary installations. It is called by Mr. Kincaid "parallel-lay secondaries" — a new technique of secondary line installation. Prestonsburg's street lighting system, which was completed prior to the modernization program, boasting mercury vapor lamps with high lumen output, has become a model for many other towns, according to Kincaid. The division manager also recalled that one of the two transmission line sources serving Prestonsburg was recently rebuilt prior to the modernization program, with new and larger conductors, new structures and new automatic switching facilities installed at the Middle Creek switching station, just west of here. "This transmission project also improved the dependability of service while providing additional capacity for further expansion," he said.

Cold Figures Can Be Exciting

A factory which will employ about 400 persons has indicated its desire to locate in the vicinity of Prestonsburg. Is that worth getting excited about? Cold figures, as a rule, fail to stir one, but these from the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce are worth more than a passing glance:

Four hundred new factory workers would mean the employment in other industries—wholesale and retail trade, professional and related services, and so on—260 individuals. That number of new factory workers would mean, according to the Chamber of Commerce, a $288,000-a-year increase in business for grocery stores, $188,000 to automobile dealers, $100,000 to restaurants, $96,000 to service stations, $88,000 to department stores, $84,000 to clothing and shoe stores, $72,000 to building supply and hardware dealers, $56,000 to furniture, home furnishings and appliance stores, $352,000 a year to other stores and businesses.

That adds up to a $1,324,000 increase in business per year.

If this Chamber of Commerce knows what it is talking about—and if it doesn't, who does?—such a factory would mean a population increase of more than 1,200; 364 more school children, almost a million dollars in bank deposits, and a dozen more retail businesses.

Exciting? These figures are downright fascinating. This is what every community in the land is wanting. And Prestonsburg, if it carries through with what has been so well begun, will get it.

PERSONALS

Plaintiffs claim that "No" votes were illegally cast by non-residents of precincts where they voted in 25 of the county's 41 precincts. The precincts listed and the number of votes claimed to have been thus illegally voted in each follow:

Prestonsburg No. 1, 35; Prestonsburg No. 2, 23; Depot, 15; Richmond, 40; Cliff, 8; Porter, 6; Middle Creek, 5; Maytown, 2; Bosco, 1; Garrett, 4; Lackey, 5; Wayland, 12; Martin, 8; Drift, 2; John Ant, 16; Clear Creek, 2; Antioch, 3; Mouth Mud, 3; Ivel, 5; Betsy Layne, 6; Rock Fork, 36.

Votes of 38 are challenged on the grounds that they had married, or re-married, and had not registered under their married names.

Sixty-two voters were listed as having illegally received assistance without signing the oath required by law stating the reason for their being entitled to assistance.

The Wet petition alleges that a conspiracy existed at John Pessum precinct which permitted all persons voting there to be exposed to view. Plaintiffs alleged that the exposure was through a damaged or torn curtain on the voting machine and that Dry election officers refused to permit repair of the curtain or to delay the voting while such repair was being made.

At Cliff precinct, they claim, persons with cameras took photographs of every person appearing there to vote, unless it was well-known to Dry forces that the voter would vote dry. This, they say, constituted intimidation and all votes cast there should be voided.

The votes of A. B. Meade and W. W. Burchett were attacked on the grounds that Meade is a member of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board and that Burchett is a member of the Public Service Commission, that both posts demand residence in Frankfort and that neither had filed in the clerk's office here or in Frankfort his intention to be regarded as a resident of any precinct in Floyd county. Both were described as "No" voters, Meade voting in Precinct 1 and Burchett in Cow Creek precinct.

Hearing of oral testimony is asked, and Dry forces were preparing to meet the challenge.

At the point that because of an unfavorable growing season in May and June, many types of agricultural exhibits are not expected to be of the high quality of other years. The board is urging farmers to bring in farm produce exhibits, though they may not be of top quality.

Departments of the fair include:

A — Livestock; B — field crops, vegetables and fruits; C-4-H exhibits; D—Future Farmers of America; E—Future Homemakers of America; F—home economics; G—textiles; H—antiques and hobbies; I—fine arts; J—handicraft; K—flowers; L—school exhibits.

The two 36 x 100-foot buildings to be ready for use by the fair next week will afford 7,200 square feet of floor space. Use of plastic along the sides and ends will afford protection of exhibits and fairgoers from wind and rain.

The two buildings are being completed at a cost of around $4,500. The fairgrounds were made available to the Fair Board without cost.

Although not a part of the fairgrounds, the nearby amphitheatre constructed by the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club for spectators at horse shows provides seating for 700 persons.

"At a minimum of expense," Gene Ball, of the Floyd County Extension Department, commented, "the Floyd County Fair Board already has one of the three finest permanent county fairgrounds in the state."

Future development is expected to make it possibly the finest.

The fairgrounds, show ring and amphitheatre are more recent developments in a huge development undertaking at Archer Park, a municipal enterprise which continues to attract delegations from other cities and towns of Kentucky and neighboring states.

A total of around $1,300 in cash awards, plus ribbons, will be awarded exhibitors at the fair.

The work of attempting 100% assessment could not, first of all, be completed in the usual time. Then the Department of Revenue delayed in certifying to the county its approval of the assessment. Finally, on August 1, came a notice that a 10% "blanket" increase on real estate (excepting oil rights) would be made to raise the Floyd assessment total to the approximately 93% of full assessment the Revenue Department had considered acceptable from any county.

A torrid hearing followed on August 8 at Frankfort, and at one juncture during the meeting County Judge Henry Stumbo and the three magistrates present—Bill Wells, Zeb Ousley and Dewey Roberts—convened as the fiscal court and voted to authorize County Attorney Barkley J. Sturgill to file suit to restrain the state from making the blanket assessment raise.

After the Frankfort meeting, the Department of Revenue sent representatives here to make, with the tax commissioner and other county officials, a more extended study of property values. Finally, last Friday, came word that the Department had rescinded its order of a 10% assessment raise on real estate.

The state expects to collect on the Floyd assessment $70,083.36.

CATS SCORE 26 to 7 WIN
Victory at Wheelwright Annexes Floyd Title; Morgan County Next
 The Prestonsburg Black Cats won one championship in their first game of the grid season when they defeated the Wheelwright Trojans last Friday night at Wheelwright, 26-7. The win gave their intra-county rival over them the Floyd county football title.

Wheelwright played with the advantage of one game under their belt, a 7-6 victory over Whitesburg high. Early in the first quarter, John "Wimpy" Clark, who had been a doubtful starter, started the Cats off with a touchdown from four yards out. The kick for extra point was blocked. Fullback Mike Castle added another marker for the winners in the second period with a one-yard plunge. The conversion attempt was good. Again in the third quarter, Castle scored on a short drive into the line.

Claude Conway, stellar performer for the Trojans, retaliated by taking the kickoff after Castle's second t.d. and racing 90 yards for a touchdown. The point after was made. Bennett Leslie took charge in the fourth stanza to score the Cats' fourth touchdown of the game. The extra point was made, and the 26-7 score stood for remainder of the game. The Black Cats' opposition this week will be Morgan County high at West Liberty.

AUTUMN SONG FEST SLATED SUNDAY AT BREAKS PARK

Each year on the Sunday before Labor Day, individuals, groups, whole families flock to an 180-acre area on the Kentucky-Virginia border to sing songs, compare notes and listen to others perform in the annual Autumn Song Festival at Breaks Interstate Park. Sept. 4 is this year's date, and around 3,000 people are expected to take part. The festival will begin at 9 a.m. Most families bring box lunches and plan on staying all day for the festivities, or even for the week-end to take in the magnificent scenery of the park. One of these outstanding scenic features is the 1600-foot-deep canyon, the Breaks of the Sandy, carved through the ages by the torrential flow of Russell Fork River which drops 350 feet in five roaring miles of cloud, mist and spray. In contrast with the raucous grandeur of the river are many charming little surprises nature has tucked into the mountains and forests of the park—hidden springs, caves, balanced rocks and a superabundance of wildflowers. Facilities for Breaks Park visitors include a modern, 24-unit motor lodge, a dining room, picnic and camping areas, foot trails, playground facilities, coin laundry, and an interpretive center. The park is seven miles from Elkhorn City, Kentucky, and eight miles from Haysi, Virginia, on Ky.-Va. 80.

Unless you plan staying overnight, there's an admission charge of 30c per car. This doesn't apply after Labor Day, however. No Kentucky state park charges admission.

Blackburn Must Now Destroy 10-Foot-Tall, Bearing Plants To Prepare For Winter Crop

Otis Blackburn, whose greenhouse complex at Stanville has attracted wide attention, is having "growing pains."

His tomato plants are about 10 feet tall and still heavy with green tomatoes. But they must be destroyed, if tomatoes for the winter season are to be grown.

"It seems a shame to destroy them to make way for young plants, but they must go this month if I am to have fresh, ripe tomatoes this winter," Blackburn says.

Going into the plastic greenhouse business, says Blackburn, is somewhat like getting married and setting up housekeeping. "You never get through needing things."

From the visual evidence at Stanville, at the mouth of Mare Creek, Blackburn is doing a good job. He's been at his greenhouse project, about a year. To get an idea of how well he has done, last spring he produced around 60,000 pounds of tomatoes which brought from 25 to 40 cents per pound.

This is a hefty sum of money. But Floyd County Extension Agent Gene Ball says this is proof that specialized agriculture can be extremely profitable in Eastern Kentucky.

It could be said that Blackburn is a displaced person. Originally from Pike county, he was displaced by the Fish Trap Reservoir now under construction by the Corps of Engineers. He had had some experience in farming and truck gardening. He sold his farm, which will be under water when the reservoir is complete, and purchased a creek bottom on U.S. 23, about half-way between Pikeville and Prestonsburg, and went back into business.

Plans for Blackburn's greenhouse complex were drafted by

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this opportunity to thank each one who in any way assisted during the illness, upon the death and at the funeral of our beloved wife and mother, Bessie Crisp Hamilton. To all of you, those who brought flowers, expressed sympathy and to ministers, Revs. Willie Conn, Willie B. Rice and Johnny King, we are most grateful. Last, but not least, we are appreciative of the kindness of Our Lady of the Way hospital and Drs. John J. and Frances Sherman and entire staff for the treatment they gave us for the past eight years; also, for the fine and efficient service of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

TIME TO SIGN FOR MEDICARE IS 2-3 MONTHS BEFORE 65

Every month, 120,000 Americans reach the age of 65. The soon-to-be-65's are asking these days, "When is the best time for me to sign up for medicare?"

The answer, according to Thomas L. Reed, social security district manager, Pikeville office, is that they should sign up two or three months before they reach 65.

If they wait until the month they reach 65 or the following three months, their hospital insurance protection under medicare may begin right away, but their coverage under the voluntary doctor bill insurance cannot start until one to three months after they sign for it.

Mr. Reed explained that the medicare law provides a seven-month initial enrollment period for the voluntary doctor bill insurance part of the program. This period begins with the third month before the person is 65, includes the month in which he reaches 65, and ends with the third month thereafter.

"The best time to enroll," Read said, "is in one of the three months before you reach 65. If you do so, your protection can start with the month of your 65th birthday. Waiting until that month to sign up will mean the coverage can't start until the following month. And enrollment in one of the three months after the month you are 65 can mean a delay of up to three months in the start of your protection."

He also explained that failure to sign up during the seven-month initial enrollment period may mean that the individual will have to wait until the next general enrollment period. This is always the last three months of odd-numbered years. But even then, the older person will have to wait until the following July for the protection to start, and the premium payments will be 10 percent higher.

"This matter of a delayed start in protection could have serious consequences if the individual had high medical expenses meanwhile," he pointed out. The voluntary medical insurance part of medicare covers doctor bills for home, office, and hospital visits, surgeon's fees, and a wide variety of other medical expenses in and out of the hospital.

Hospital insurance coverage begins with the month a person reaches 65, provided he applies to establish his eligibility no

OFFICIAL SEES NO HALT TO INTEREST RATE CLIMB

By ROBERT ROWEN (In The Courier-Journal)

Washington, D. C. — A hint that the upward course of record high interest rates is not likely to be halted any time soon was given in a moment of unusual candor yesterday by a governor of the Federal Reserve Board, the agency that has most to do with monetary policy.

The official, J. Dewey Daane, said after a press conference called to explain the group of ten's report on monetary reform that "if the administration is going to rely on monetary policy" to carry the burden of the fight against inflation, "then inevitably we are going to have high interest rates."

The implication of Daane's comment was that interest rates are due for yet another upward-ratcheting, inasmuch as the administration has made it clear that a tax increase is out of the question until early next year.

Daane said that "the cause for high interest rates is too much demand in the economy, not because the Fed's been poking them up."

"The mix of policies hasn't curtailed demand sufficiently — that's why interest rates are high. And I don't like the (high) level better than anybody else."

Coincidentally, Rep. Wright Patman, (D-Texas) lashed out at Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler for taking "a very weak, namby-pamby attitude about high interest rates."

In a letter to the President, Patman suggested that Fowler had abdicated leadership to the Fed, which had created "a monetary mess."

Fed officials are conscious of the fact that high interest rates have had an adverse impact, primarily on the housing and construction industry — without significantly slowing down other elements of the economy.

Most important, high interest rates have failed to put a crimp in bank loans to business, a key element in the current economic boom.

The occasion for Daane's comments originated in a colloquy during the press conference between him and Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) which overshadowed the discussion of the group of 10 report.

Daane is one of two major

Strip-Mine Cleanup Needs Federal-State Cooperation

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall said Monday that federal-state cooperation is needed to clean up the damaging effects left by strip-mining in Appalachia.

Udall discussed the harmful aftermath of strip-mining with a group of about 15 people from Kentucky and West Virginia who are attending the Southern Appalachia Community meeting in Washington. David Biesemeyer, of Pine Knob, West Virginia, is leader of the group.

Members told the secretary of streams choked with silt, rocks and other debris left in the wake of strip-mining for coal; of mine acid-polluting streams; of a 90-ton boulder "left by strip-mining" to roll down a mountain side into two houses, and of nearly waist-deep mud washed into roads and yards by rains.

They asked what aid the federal government could provide so that they won't be forced to leave their homes.

Udall looked at a number of photographs illustrating the conditions and said:

"It's pretty pathetic, isn't it." "Nature always strikes back," the secretary continued. "Here where man has been misusing his resources nature is striking back."

The secretary explained that under present laws the federal government cannot expend money on any privately owned properties in its land reclamation and mine-acid control programs. He also explained that until very recently the attitude had been that dealing with effects of strip mining was a state program.

"The states did nothing or very little," Udall said. "The coal interests were responsible in the past."

"And we are still in the progress of deciding how to go about the cleanup and restore the health of these valleys. Five or 10 years ago there was no national desire to clean up such conditions but now we have had the President declare our streams should be cleaned up."

"There is important legislation before the Congress to help this cleanup. Maybe the federal government is going to have to take over though there is no systematic national program yet."

"Congress recognized the Appalachian problem but provided only limited funds and said we could spend these only on public lands.

"If the state, county or some other level of government would move in and get title to these lands then we could try to help. Maybe there ought to be a new incentive for state governments to do something about these things."

In 1845 Brigham Young asked Kentucky Governor William Owsley to call a special session of the Legislature to grant the Mormons religious asylum in Kentucky. There is no evidence that Owsley replied to Young's letter, and the Mormons moved from their Nauvoo, Illinois, settlement to Utah.

Combs Family Votes Nursing Scholarship At Recent Reunion

The Combs Family Association voted at its annual reunion Sunday to establish a scholarship fund to help relieve Kentucky's serious shortage of nurses.

Former Gov. Bert T. Combs proposed the scholarship, worth about $2,000, for a deserving young woman in the Combs clan. The scholarship will finance three years of schooling at the Appalachian Regional Hospitals School of Professional Nursing at Harlan. The winner must serve at least three years as a nurse in Eastern Kentucky.

Some 1,000 Combses and their relatives attended the fourth annual reunion at Buckhorn Lake State Park.

Ben Combs, state commissioner of motor transportation, was elected president of the association, succeeding Gene Combs, of Hazard. Doug Combs, a state railroad commissioner from Hazard, was chosen president-elect. Paul C. Combs, of Prestonsburg, was named a vice-president of the association.

Community College BSU To Sponsor Picnic

The Baptist Student Union of Prestonsburg Community College will sponsor a "back-to-college" picnic at the top of Sugar Camp Mountain, which is reached by Skyline, at 5:30 p.m., Friday. All students of the college, whether of Baptist preference or otherwise, are being invited.

Allocations of Crusade funds are generally made shortly after Thanksgiving Day on a special WHAS Radio and TV program.

NURSING HOMES INVITED TO SEEK CERTIFICATION

Skilled nursing homes throughout the country will this week be invited to apply for certification as extended care facilities in the medicare program, Robert M. Ball, commissioner of Social Security, said today.

The extended care part of medicare, which goes into effect January 1, helps pay the cost of certain skilled nursing care for patients who have been discharged from a hospital but who are not yet well enough to go home. It pays the full reasonable cost of the first 20 days' stay, and all but $5 a day for the next 80 days. It pays only for treatment of the same condition as that treated in a hospital and does not pay for custodial care.

Beneficiaries already in a qualified extended care facility on January 1 will be eligible for benefits beginning on that date if:

1. They had a hospital stay of three days or longer, ending after June 30, 1966;
2. Were admitted to the extended care facility within 14 days after discharge from the hospital, and
3. Skilled nursing care for the condition that required hospitalization is still medically necessary.

The invitations to participate in the medicare program will go this week to skilled nursing homes in each state from state agencies. The state agencies will assist the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in determining whether nursing homes which apply meet the quality standards for participation which were sent to the homes last March. The state agencies will also assist nursing homes which wish to participate but do not now meet the standards to meet them.

At least 3,500 and perhaps as many as 6,000 nursing homes are expected to qualify for participation in the medicare program by the time the extended care program starts. The final figure will depend both on the amount of new construction and on the number of existing nursing homes that make necessary improvements in order to meet the conditions for participation.

An extended care facility may be a nursing home, a special wing of a hospital, or the infirmary of a home for the aged. It can participate as an extended care facility only if it meets conditions for participation considered essential for quality care.

In addition to meeting the quality care standards outlined above, an extended care facility can participate in the medicare program only if it is in compliance with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. The law prohibits discrimination on grounds of race, color, or national origin in any program or activity receiving Federal financial assistance. The Public Health Service has developed nondiscrimination guidelines for extended care facilities which will be mailed to them at the same time the quality-of-care conditions and applications to participate are being sent out.

Compliance with the Civil Rights Act must be demonstrated before the facility can be

Washington's Coat Lining at Frankfort

Frankfort, Ky.—The lining of the coat George Washington wore at Valley Forge has proved as durable as the reputation of the man himself.

Almost 200 years after the fur coat sheltered the general from the harsh winter of 1777-78, the lining is still intact, and is on display at the Kentucky Historical Society Museum in Frankfort.

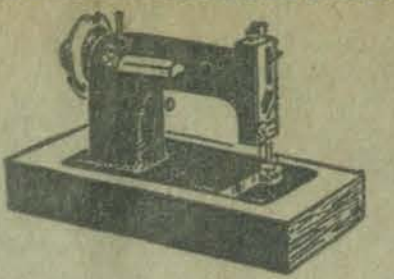

The coat was kept between two featherbeds by Washington's family for many years, but eventually the moths took their toll. The lining was ripped out and the fur part burned.

A great-great-niece of General Washington presented the lining to the Historical Society in 1924.

VOLUNTEER WORKERS

The volunteer workers during the 1965 WHAS Crusade for Children consumed 550 pounds of ham and beef, 7,500 cups of coffee, 25 quarts of cream, 180 cases of soft drinks and 620 loaves of bread—all donated by local merchants to the Crusade.
