SPEAKING OF AND FOR FLOYD COUNTY

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1967

This Town . . . That World

If you want to bare your breast to the gale, damn the torpedoes and tell all others to take a running jump—just find yourself a good-sized crowd and declare LBJ is the greatest.

THE MAN WHO TAKES THE LUMPS

Poor man!—I pity him. The President, deep in the dumps, sat at his desk writing a letter to an old friend. He wrote of the abuse he had taken, said he couldn't escape the feeling that everything his Administration had done had been treated with "such exaggeration and indecent terms as could scarcely be applied to a Nero; a notorious defaulter; or even a common pickpocket."

But that President wasn't LBJ. The discouraged man who wrote those words was George Washington, whom you and I know as "the father of his country," but to whom some of the newspapers of the day referred as "the step-father of his country . . . a front for Tories, speculators and indeed all the British party."

This is written to warn any of you boys who might aspire to be President. I hear that the job has its drawbacks. In fact, Lincoln, who was under constant attack long before Booth got around to him, once said that he often felt like the fellow who had been tarred and feathered and was being given a ride out of town on a sharp rail. In pain and sick from abuse, the man, Lincoln recalled, remarked to one of the men carrying him aboard the rail, "If it wasn't for the honor of the thing, believe I'd just as soon get off and walk."

ORDER READY FOR CHANGE OF VENUE

Trial of Salisbury Seen in Bluegrass; Appeal Is Planned

The next trial of Roy Salisbury, charged with the murder of Malie T. Denney, will be held in a Bluegrass county if the change of venue order ready to go into the record here is upheld by the Court of Appeals.

Circuit Judge Hollie Conley has the venue change order ready for entry, only the court where the trial will be held remaining to be inserted. The trial site lies between Clark and Montgomery counties, with Fayette a slim possibility.

Judge Conley said he had given consideration to the accessibility of the courts mentioned for the trial and also to the lack of publicity given the Salisbury case in those counties by newspapers, television and radio.

When the order goes into the record an appeal will be made to the Appellate Court by Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo. The prosecutor said the appeal will be made to make certain that the action is legal and to prevent an appeal after the trial on the contention that the Floyd judge had no right to shift trial of the case.

Judge Conley's order follows a recent hearing held here at which the burden of testimony was to the effect that a fair trial could not be had here.

Both Stumbo and Burnis Martin, defense attorney, have objected to the change of venue.

Conservation Staff Adds New Member

Robert Lum, a native of Palmyra, Va., last week joined the staff of the Floyd County Soil Conservation Service as a trainee.

Mr. Lum was graduated from Virginia Tech in 1963. He, Mrs. Lum and their two children have moved here and are residing near Cliff.

EXTRADITION MOVE FAILS

Attempt To Return Crittendon to Floyd Again To Be Made

A second try at extraditing Granville Crittendon from Illinois to this county for trial on a murder charge is ready to be made, Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo said this week.

A bench warrant issued on a child desertion charge was first sent to Governor Breathitt as the basis for his requisition on the governor of Illinois for Crittendon's extradition. This was insufficient, however. Now, Sheriff Joe Wheeler Lewis has a bench warrant issued for Crittendon on the murder indictment voted by the September grand jury, accusing him in the death of his wife. This will be used as the basis of the new extradition attempt.

Mrs. Crittendon was dead when she and her husband arrived last Dec. 4 at the home at Weeksbury of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe P. Tackett. The husband contended he had known nothing of her death, had thought she was asleep in the rear seat of the car. A laboratory analysis of the dead woman's blood reportedly showed evidences of wood alcohol in lethal quantity.

Crittendon was arrested by Chicago police on the child desertion charge and was held under bond till Oct. 3.

2 BIDS OK'd FOR PROJECT

One Contractor Buys Pipe for 2-County Job; Third Bid Is Rejected

Although contracts on the Sandy Valley Water District project have not been officially awarded to the two successful bidders, this action is expected in a matter of days and is considered so certain that the contractor who will do the major portion of the work has already ordered pipe for the job.

The successful bidders are River City Construction Co., Portsmouth, O., whose bid of $756,534.10 on the laying of lines has been accepted, and the W. E. Caldwell Co., Louisville, which will construct two 150,000-gallon storage tanks. The Caldwell bid of $40,934 also has been approved.

Formal awarding of these two contracts awaits elimination only of one or two technicalities. Jack Branham, chairman of the Sandy Valley Water District Commission, said the River City Construction Company will begin work immediately after receipt of a work order. The firm is anxious to make two river crossings while the water is yet at low stage.

The third bid, that of Goodman & Preston, Pikeville, asking $157,030 for constructing foundations for the storage tanks and building access roads was rejected. The project has been readvertised, and new bids will be opened here at 2 p.m., October 27.

NEW BUILDINGS ON CAMPUS—Photo shows three prefabricated buildings recently erected on the Prestonsburg Community College campus to meet temporary needs. A permanent second structure is planned for construction next year.

ARCHITECT SHOWN 'WHERE WE'VE BEEN'

County Supt. of Schools Charles Clark took R. Buckminster Fuller, architect-designer of the famed geodesic domes which have featured world's fairs and Canada's Expo '67, on a sightseeing tour of Floyd county Monday—and Clark got a bang out of it.

He took the famed architect to some of the schools of the county. Some of the schools are mere buildings. They're the one-room structures which have been abandoned. Others were filled with pupils.

"I got a thrill out of showing him," said the superintendent, "where we'd been, where we are now and where we hope to go."

The one-room schools weren't in their itinerary, but after they had visited Charles Clark and Weeksbury elementary and Bypro consolidated Clark couldn't resist taking Fuller on to other and less pretentious schools.

It was all a part of the program planned by Alice Lloyd College as a conclusion of the college Founders Year observance. The two days Fuller and others were guests of the college were termed "Two Days for Leadership."

And they saw the little schools and others not so small, and the college at Pippa Passes which had had such a vital role in developing Eastern Kentucky leadership.

Robert Barrat, Hollywood, California, retired actor, was another of those honored. Townsel Marshall, the Alice Lloyd alumnus who now is personnel director for American Rolling Mills Company (Armco), was escort for Mr. Barrat and his wife, and he took them to Charles Clark elementary, Martin high school and the abandoned Shepherd rural school on Salt Lick. Mr. Barrat's first wife, now deceased, left Alice Lloyd College a legacy, and the college library last Sunday was renamed Ethel Mueller Barrat Library in her honor.

Robert Whitney, composer, conductor and dean of the Louisville School of Music, and his wife were escorted to the Weeksbury school and two schools in Knott county by Miss Alice Stone.

These three and four others were cited by the college for outstanding leadership in their fields. Others so honored were John Jacob Niles, nationally known balladeer; Burton Robinson, Cincinnati attorney; Mrs. Rovena Jacobson, president of the Association for Women's Active Return to Education, and James L. Pease, retired president of the Pease Woodworking Co., Cincinnati.

Charles E. Nagel Dies In New Jersey

Charles E. Nagel, of Essex Falls, New Jersey, husband of Mrs. Virginia Sowards Nagel, formerly of Pikeville, died Tuesday at Vincent hospital, Montclair, New Jersey. Mr. Nagel was a frequent visitor to this area and maintained a summer home at Pikeville.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p.m. at the Arthur K. Brown Funeral Home at Montclair.

LEXINGTON PHILHARMONIC IN CONCERT HERE SUNDAY

The Lexington Philharmonic Orchestra will appear in concert in the Commons Room of Prestonsburg Community College next Sunday at 4 p.m. in the second performance scheduled for the season by the Eastern Kentucky Concert Association.

The orchestra, under the direction of Leo Scheer, will include in its performance Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony, Ralph Vaughan Williams' Concerto for Tuba and Capriccio Espagnol (Rimsky-Korsakoff).

During its past season the Lexington Philharmonic gave its first concerts under the sponsorship and auspices of the Kentucky Arts Commission which is directed by William Hull. These events, under local sponsorship in each case, were highly successful and were performed at Ashland, Somerset, Barbourville, Jackson and Pikeville. This will be continued during the current season with concerts taking place here and at Ashland, Frankfort, Owensboro and elsewhere.

ONE JAILED BY RAIDERS

Arrest Later Made Of Second Man Here On Rum-Selling Count

A raid staged in the upper Westminster street (Yellow Town) section of Prestonsburg Monday by Sheriff Joe W. Lewis and Deputies Silas DeRossett and John Reed resulted in the arrest of Larry Shortridge, who was jailed on charges of possession and sale of intoxicants. Four half-pints of whiskey found on his premises were confiscated.

Search of the premises of Ashland Joseph here the same day failed to uncover any liquor, but he was arrested Wednesday on a selling charge.

Others booked at the jail within the week, charges against each and names of arresting officers follow:

Oliver Setser, on cutting and wounding bench warrant, and Luther Cain, on bench warrant charging shooting and wounding, both arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Reed and DeRossett; Armond and Barbara Sarcoma, grand larceny, by Deputies Reed and DeRossett; Ermael Isaac, drunk driving, by Constable Gillis Conn; Orvissie Shepherd, drunk driving and no operator's license, by Deputy Sheriff Homer Mullins; Forrest Clinton Shepherd, drunk driving, by DeRossett and Reed; Darrell Belevins, no operator's license, Deputy Sheriffs Martin and Hunter; Tom Hall, no operator's license and reckless driving, Deputy Sheriffs Martin and Hunter; Frank Chaffins, drunk driving and possession of moonshine whiskey, by Deputy Sheriff Reed.

HALLOWE'EN LIMITS SET

One Night Observance, Curfew Proclaimed By Mayor Archer

Halloween is for children, it will be restricted to observance by children, will be devoted to their enjoyment and will not be permitted to develop into a nuisance.

Such, in effect, is the substance of a proclamation issued this week by Dr. George P. Archer, mayor of Prestonsburg. It was explained that the proclamation was made at the request of various civic groups and governmental agencies here. They asked that the city take steps to control the Halloween celebration.

These limitations were set: 1. "Trick-or-Treat" is limited to one night only, Monday, October 30. 2. No person over the age of 12 will be permitted to wear a mask of any kind. 3. A curfew of 9 p.m. is being imposed on all persons engaged in the celebration.

Rev. Bolen, Age 77, Passes Away Tuesday At Home On Rock Fork

Rev. George Washington Bolen, 77-year-old minister of the Regular Baptist Church, died Tuesday at his home on Rock Fork, near Garrett, after a long illness.

He had been a minister for 55 years and was a member of the Masonic Lodge at Hindman. Born Feb. 22, 1890 in Knott county, he was a son of William W. and Nancy Holiday Bolen.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Della Bolen; three sons, William Rice and Galvin Bolen, both of Garrett, and Alvin Bolen, of Willard, Ohio; three daughters, Mrs. Naomi Shepherd, of Garrett, Mrs. Viola Hayes, of Ligonier, Ind., and Mrs. Creola Rose, of Cucumber, W. Va.; two brothers, Reece Bolen, of Garrett, and Gilford Bolen, of Hazard; one sister, Mrs. Nora Stone, of Raven, Ky. (See Story No. 5, Page 3)

Earl Large, Age 63, Toledo, Ohio Man, Succumbs At Martin

Earl Large, 63, of Toledo, O., died Friday while visiting at Martin.

A son of the late George and Ida Smith Large, he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Helen Peters, of Johnson City, Tenn., and two brothers, Herman Large, of Tennessee, and J. C. Large, of California.

The body was taken to Johnson City, Tenn., by Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

ROADBUILDING PLANS GET SEVERE SHOCK

'A.A.' Public Meeting Scheduled Saturday

A public meeting of Alcoholics Anonymous will be held Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Floyd County Regional Library reading room here.

A speaker from West Virginia will be at this meeting. The public is invited to attend this meeting and to learn something about the disease of alcoholism and how "A.A." works.

HEARING SET ON LIBRARIES

Commission To Hear Testimony of Users At Pikeville Friday

The National Advisory Commission on Libraries will hold a one-day hearing at Pikeville, Friday, Oct. 20, in the basement meeting room of the First Methodist Church from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon, 2 p.m. to 5 p.m., and 7 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Several months ago, President Johnson created the National Advisory Commission on Libraries to appraise the role and adequacy of the nation's libraries, now and in the future, as sources for scholarly research, centers for the distribution of knowledge, and as links in rapidly evolving communications networks. The commission also has responsibility for evaluating policies, programs, and practices of public agencies and private organizations and to recommend actions that will ensure an effective and efficient library system for the nation.

The commission has heard testimony from librarians and other experts in the field. In order to get the point of view of "users" of libraries, the commission is holding a series of hearings in several cities over the nation for the purpose of collecting information on the adequacy of libraries, and to focus on their role in a time of social and economic change.

Baptist Church Revival To Start Next Monday; Church Picnic Planned

The Rev. Truett Miller, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Middleboro, will lead Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church in a revival beginning Monday evening and continuing through Sunday, Oct. 29. Services will be held at 7 p.m. daily.

The evangelist for the revival here is a former chaplain with the armed forces, and a part of his ministerial career has been devoted to fulltime evangelism.

The Rev. W. D. Jagers, pastor of the church, invites the public to attend the series of services. (See Story No. 6, Page 3)

Three Homes Listed For Christmas Tour

The Prestonsburg Woman's Club-president, Mrs. L. B. Fairchild, announced this week that homes of Dr. and Mrs. James D. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Burl Spurlock and Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr. will be open for tours, December 9 and 10. A committee with Mrs. George P. Archer, Mrs. Edward Leslie, Mrs. Mary Riffe, Mrs. Hardin Short and Mrs. Clyde Burchett, chairman, is working to plan this tour.

ELECTRIC SHOCK SUFFERED FRIDAY THE 13th MAY COST ALLEN RESIDENT HIS HAND

Thomas Porter, 33, owner of the Sandy Valley Explosive Co., Allen, narrowly escaped death by electric shock last Friday at the Marsillett coal mine on Abbott Creek.

His right hand was so severely burned that its amputation is expected to be necessary. He may also lose the tips of his toes, it was said.

Porter had delivered powder to another mine, farther up Abbott, and had stopped at the Marsillett operation. He had not been there before, and, finding nobody at the mine, he went to a small frame building which is used as a sub-station. Peering

APPALACHIA FUNDS CUT, US 23 HIT

Breathitt Protests Federal Aid Cutback Announced Last Week

Eastern Kentucky roadbuilding plans suffered a severe shock last week.

The jolt came when Gov. Edward T. Breathitt disclosed that the federal government has cut off practically all aid to the state's Appalachian road construction.

Gov. Breathitt reacted to the news with a strong protest.

"These highways are the very bread of life in developing the economy of Eastern Kentucky and other areas of Appalachia," he said. "Of all highways that could be affected, it seems absurd that the Appalachian system would be picked on."

The Appalachian road system is a big part of the overall plan for improvement of the region through federal help.

The cutback in road funds is viewed as a part of the game President Johnson is playing with a Congress which has demanded a reduction in spending before it will approve his tax-boost proposal.

In his announcement of the cutback, the Governor said, "I have been informed by the U. S. Department of Transportation that the state cannot authorize any further construction projects in the Appalachian highway program."

He added that the federal directive banned authorization of funds for any highway purpose if the federal share exceeds $2,500. But, Breathitt said, preliminary engineering and acquiring of rights-of-way will not be affected.

BUREAU ASKS 4 EMPLOYED

Council Reorganizes Fire Department Here, 2 Sub-Stations Seen

Reorganization of the Prestonsburg Fire Department has been effected by the City Council in compliance with a directive from the Kentucky Inspection Bureau.

Following a recent inspection, the bureau notified the council that the department must employ four trained men in addition to the volunteer crew. Failure to comply, Council was told would incur the penalty of higher fire insurance rates.

Johnny Perry was employed as assistant fire chief, succeeding Doug Burke. Frank Vaughan, Jr. and Thomas B. Blackburn, the other salaried firemen named, are now in Louisville receiving training.

Fire Chief Henry Gray, it was said, has begun preparing for retirement, and when this becomes effective another salaried employee will be added to the force.

The Inspection Bureau has also told City Council that within a year a fire sub-station must be established and that another will perhaps be required a year later. The first will probably be at Lancer, with the second located at Cliff.

GROUP HEARS PLANS FOR HAROLD BRIDGE

A hearing was conducted Tuesday by the Department of Highways on one of two Floyd county bridges whose construction will not be delayed by the cutback of federal highway funds ordered by President Johnson.

The hearing pertained to the bridge proposed for construction across the Big Sandy at Harold, to replace the existing span which is in such bad condition that it is open only to one-way limited-load traffic.

Nobody offered any objection to state plans; instead, all who spoke urged construction as soon as possible.

Joe Dean Anderson, district programming engineer, Department of Highways, who presided at the hearing, pointed out that the bridge will be built on the north (downstream) side of the present bridge. Traffic will be maintained over the existing bridge during construction, at completion of which the old span will be removed.

The bridge will have a minimum roadway of 24 feet, and this may be widened to 30 feet. Magistrate Dewey Roberts suggested that plans should include a walkway.

The bridge will cost in the neighborhood of $2 million. When it was said completion of the work may require two years, highway department officials were reminded that an emergency exists and that completion should be made as early as possible. The view was expressed that the existing bridge may not stand two years.

It was explained that construction of the Harold and Lancer bridges will not be delayed by the cutback in Appalachian highway funds. Nor will the Inez-Prestonsburg road. These projects are not financed by Appalachian monies but by the state and U. S. Bureau of Roads on a 50-50 basis.

The U. S. Corps of Engineers announced this week that it will receive written statements of any persons who have any objections to construction of the US 23 bridge across the Big Sandy at New Allen. Aspects that will be considered by the Corps of Engineers in determining if approval of the span is in the public interest will include the effects of the bridge on navigation, fish and wildlife, pollution and the like. Such statements should be received by the Huntington District, Corps of Engineers, Huntington, W. Va., on or before Nov. 13.

"Appalachian funds will be available for these purposes only," Breathitt said.

This means that the Kentucky Department of Highways can continue locating Appalachian roads, planning construction and acquiring rights-of-way but cannot begin actual work with federal funds.

The regional road program in 12 states is now in its third year. Kentucky's allocation for its part of the program was more than $200 million.

Until federal funds are released US 23 from Prestonsburg to Allen and Pikeville will see no action.

The Inez-Prestonsburg road, which is scheduled for advertising soon, the Lancer and Harold bridges will not be affected, since no Appalachian funds are involved in their construction.

Breathitt said that because the Appalachian program is financed 70 percent with federal funds and 30 percent with state funds, the state is severely restricted without money from Washington.

He said the federal work order apparently does not affect current construction of projects on which bids already have been advertised.

It presumably applies to the other 11 Appalachian states.

Highway Commissioner Mitchell Tindler said his department has no information about how long the order will stay in effect.

He said that in the meantime the agency "has no other choice" than to hold up construction of all projects scheduled for bid advertising.

Breathitt said the Highway Department has protested the action in a letter to the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

Tindler told the bureau that Kentucky is committed to begin final design work on all Appalachian projects by July 1, 1968 and planned to obligate its portion of funds by July 1, 1971.

Breathitt said he has wired North Carolina Gov. Dan Moore, chairman of the Appalachian Regional Development Commission, asking him to convene all Appalachia governors early this week during the National Governor's Conference.

BELIEVE IN SWAMP GAS

I haven't directly asked the question of any scientists, but I wonder how much they really know. If they weren't so learned I'd like to ask them why boards rived in one phase of the moon will be flat and those made in another phase will curl up their toes. Or why meat from hogs killed at one time will "render out" a lot of lard and at others not enough to grease the skillet. Or why, if they're so out-of-this-world smart, they can't beat a man with a witch-hazel branch at finding underground water.

Professors in the physics department at the University of Louisville were asked the other day to comment on the report out of Vietnam that engineers there were using divining rods made of coat hangers to detect Viet Cong tunnels, mines and booby traps. They scoffed—naturally.

But listen to a professor of ancient and military history: "I believe some individuals can locate water and pipes with divining rods. Scientists, of course, won't have anything to do with it because they can't explain it. But if it happens, we historians don't have to explain it. Being a poor, dumb historian, I can believe in flying saucers, divining rods or anything else. Scientists can't. They believe in swamp gas."

The Allen span will be 382 feet long and its lowest steel will be approximately four feet above the 1957 and 1962 high water levels.

Its construction will be delayed, along with the entire US 23 project because Appalachian road expenditures are at least temporarily reduced.

Breathitt said the Highway Department has protested the action in a letter to the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

Tindler told the bureau that Kentucky is committed to begin final design work on all Appalachian projects by July 1, 1968 and planned to obligate its portion of funds by July 1, 1971.

Breathitt said he has wired North Carolina Gov. Dan Moore, chairman of the Appalachian Regional Development Commission, asking him to convene all Appalachia governors early this week during the National Governor's Conference.

The water project will afford water to communities in both Floyd and Pike counties, its mains extending from Stanville to connect with the Pikeville water system in the Pauley Addition of Pikeville.

Cost of the undertaking is being financed by a grant of $770,000 from the Economic Development Administration (EDA) and a loan of $513,000. Construction will involve 14 miles of 12-inch water mains, about 16 miles of smaller lines, the two storage tanks, river crossings and access roads.

Cheaper in the end.

The rear end of a VW Station Wagon won't pinch you when it comes to money. It takes regular gas. And averages 23 mpg. (An ordinary wagon only gets about 14.)

With the engine back there, and no hood up front, the VW parks in 4' less space than an ordinary wagon. (So it gets that spot near the curb more often.)

The VW engine is air-cooled, so there's never anything to anti-freeze. And it takes pints, not quarts, of oil.

The whole car costs only $2480* So it's cheaper in the beginning too.

Columnist Praises Work of Mrs. Stewart

Mrs. Christine Wicker Stewart, former Floyd woman, was the subject of much favorable comment by a Franklin, Ohio, newspaper recently. She had read in a newspaper about the Red Cross work of filling "ditty bags" for servicemen in Vietnam. Next morning, she went into action. A few days later, she was back at Red Cross headquarters with 40 bags filled with books, writing paper, personal items.

Commented the columnist: "I'm sure this is a 'work of love,' for she has a son, Lance Cpl. Dan Stewart, serving with the Marines, right in the thick of this war."

Mrs. Stewart is a daughter of Mrs. M. V. Wicker, of Estill, and the late Dr. Wicker.

WHEELWRIGHT'S VICTORY LAST WEEK OVER NAPIER ASSURES WINNING SEASON

The Trojans of Wheelwright high school already this year have achieved something of which Wheelwright teams have dreamed ever since the school began playing football—a winning season.

Coach Jamerson's boys last Friday night assured themselves of a winning 1967 record by downing M. C. Napier, 34-19, for their fifth victory. Ricky Counts and Cecil Thornsby led the scoring for Wheelwright with two touchdowns each. Counts had a big night with 187 yards gained. Deaton added the final Trojan marker.

Napier scored one touchdown in the first half and added another in each of the two final quarters.

Dr. Oswald Receives Governor's Medallion For Education Service

Frankfort, Ky.—Dr. John Oswald, president of the University of Kentucky, has been awarded the Governor's Medallion for distinguished public service to higher education.

Gov. Edward T. Breathitt presented the award in particular recognition of Oswald's "unequalled competence in guiding the university through its greatest period of expansion."

The Governor presented the gold medallion to Oswald at a luncheon honoring the university's board of trustees, of which Breathitt is chairman.

Breathitt pointed out that the university has grown from 9,000 students in the fall of 1963 when Oswald came to the institution to more than 22,000 students this year.

Disabled Should File Claims Immediately For Social Security

It is not necessary that a totally disabled individual be off from work four months before filing a Social Security disability claim. Such a claim should be filed shortly after the person has become totally disabled.

To meet the work requirement for Social Security disability payments, the worker must have five years (20 quarters) of credit during the 10 years (40 quarters) immediately preceding the time the worker became totally disabled. This announcement was made today by Daryl E. Ratliff, Manager, Pikeville Social Security office.

Special work requirements apply to an individual who becomes totally blind before age 31. Such a person would need to have: (1) A minimum of six quarters of coverage, and (2) Quarters of coverage for at least half of the calendar quarters elapsing between age 21 and the date the person became totally blind. For a blind person to meet these requirements before age 24, he must have quarters of coverage during half the three years just before he became completely blind.

Before Social Security disability payments can be made to an individual, he must: (1) Meet the work requirements, and (2) Meet the medical requirements through established evidence, and (3) File a claim. No payment can be made for the first six full months during which the disabled worker meets the disability requirements.

The person who qualifies for disability cash payments also qualifies for the disability "freeze." An individual must meet the work and the medical requirements before his earnings record can be "frozen." Mostly, this "freeze" relates to establishing the average earnings of an individual at the point at which he became disabled. Social Security payments are based on average earnings of an individual at the point at which he became disabled. Social Security payments are based on average earnings over a certain period of time.

An individual who is not sure whether he is totally disabled or not but thinks that he might be, should probably file a claim and receive a written determination on his claim, Mr. Ratliff said.

In some cases, an individual who becomes totally disabled between the ages of 62 and 65, and after he starts receiving Social Security retirement benefits, should consider the possibility of filing a disability claim.

WHATEVER YOU MAY CALL IT, IT'S A WONDERFUL SEASON

One of the nicer things that happens every year is Indian summer.

A short period of especially fair weather and mild days, it comes in late October or early November when the leaves are turning color and falling from the trees. It has no definite date to begin or end.

"The mild, pleasant weather of Indian summer follows the autumn's first period of cold, wintry days," says World Book Encyclopedia. "The days become noticeably warmer, but the nights remain chilly. Throughout Indian summer, the sun shines dimly and softly. The sky turns a rich blue and always appears gentle and hazy near the horizon. The air remains smoky and still, with almost no wind. An Indian-summer moon often has a soft yellow or orange hue. Indian summer lasts from a week to 10 days, and sometimes for two weeks. Then winter begins."

The American Indians enjoyed Indian summer and looked forward to it. They considered it the special gift of a god.

The origin of the name of Indian summer is uncertain. One story says that American settlers named the period after the American Indians, who told the settlers that this period would come. Another story says the name evolved because this period of good weather gave warlike Indians another chance to make more attacks on the settlers.

Other parts of the world also have a short period of fine weather similar to Indian summer. World Book says, Europeans generally call it Old Wives' Summer or St. Martin's Summer.

PIKE-CO. TEACHERS END 20-DAY STRIKE

Pike county's teachers last Wednesday night ended their 20-day-old strike for higher salaries, and only the problem of pupil transportation stood in the way of reopening of schools there.

School bus drivers also have been on strike, but their differences with the Pike Board of Education were later settled, the drivers receiving an extra $10 a month in pay.

An agreement was reached before the day Wednesday. By a 328-90 vote the agreement was ratified by vote of the teachers in a meeting that night.

The proposed settlement of the teachers strike first came at about 3 a.m. Wednesday, after the school board had been meeting for about eight hours, much with leaders of the county teachers' association.

The key issue apparently was three-member fact-finding commission on the creation of a mittee to search for ways to give the teachers "the highest committee function would salary increment possible."

to look for added funds "within the present tax structure" and recommend possible additional tax levies. The school board would be bound to "give serious consideration" to the committee's recommendations.

The teachers are seeking raises of about $500 a year, which they say is the minimum intended by the 196 General Assembly. Raises averaging $401.56 have been approved by the school board, which has taken a stand against the 10 percent property tax increase permitted by state law.

Other sources of revenue available to the board include a three percent utilities tax, a 1/2 of one percent occupational license tax, and a 20 percent excise tax on state income tax payments.

Among other points in agreement reached:

1. The board will meet with a committee of teachers to work out "a mutually acceptable plan in the meantime, the teachers' fessional negotiation agreement," will appoint a representative to consult with the board on educational problems.

2. The teachers were "reassured" that the board plans no reductions in spending for transportation, maintenance or other essential services. Not less than $ a year for each pupil is to be spent on supplementary books, teaching aids and similar materials.

3. Schools will not be used as polling places in elections, a policy that the board said it already had ordered. The board added that "the laws of the land" cover teachers' demands that schools be kept out of "partisan politics" and that teachers be free to exercise their political rights.

Besides the salary issue the controversy has involved a dispute between the board and school Supt. C. H. Farley over the appointment of teachers to supervisory positions.

The teachers also have complained about the school system's financial condition. They say that the county ranks 174th among the state's 199 school districts school support. They add that in providing local taxes for the system ended the 1966-67 school year with a deficit of more than $110,000.

Two Farm-Owners Complete Ponds; Drainage Planned

Donald Hicks, of West Prestonsburg, has completed a farm pond on his Middle Creek farm. The pond is one of the practices planned under the Middle Creek project of the Appalachian Land Stabilization Conservation Program. Although the primary use of this pond is to water livestock, bass and bluegill will be stocked to furnish family recreation.

Mr. Hicks' plan calls for land clearing, pasture seeding and renovation, fencing and tile drainage. All of these practices are to be applied under the Middle Creek project.

Burnis Martin, Prestonsburg attorney, has completed a tile drainage system on his farm at Water Gap. He installed 335 feet of five-inch tile in a field used for hay production. A farm pond constructed on this farm has been stocked with bass and bluegill.

Technical assistance was provided by U. S. Soil Conservation Service technicians assigned the Floyd County Soil Conservation District.

December Wedding Planned by Couple

Mayor and Mrs. Carl D. Gerber, of 121 S. Fifth Street, Decatur, Ind., announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Nancy Scott, to James R. Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Reed, 624 Jefferson Street, Decatur, Indiana.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Decatur high school and is a senior at Franklin College, where she is studying French and art. She plans to teach both after graduation. She is affiliated with the Delta Delta Delta social sorority. Her fiance is also a graduate of Decatur high school and a recent graduate of Franklin College, where he was affiliated with the Phi Delta Theta social fraternity. He has accepted a position with the Webb elementary school at Franklin where he is now teaching.

The wedding will take place December 23 at 6:30 p.m. in the First Methodist Church. James R. Martin is the grandson of Mary P. Ratliff, Allen, Kentucky.

IN MEMORIAM

In Memory of my beloved Mother, Pricie Hall, who passed away September 21, 1965:

Deep in my heart lies a memory
More precious than anyone will ever know.
It's a memory of my sweet Mother.
We lost two years ago.
Some may forget you as time goes by,
But I'll remember you, no matter how long.
The happy home we once enjoyed;
How sweet the memory still.
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
If all the world were ours to give,
We'd give it, yes, and more,
To see the face of the one we love
And have her back once more.
She would share our joy;
Would cheer, when sad.
She was the greatest friend we ever had.
How we miss her; there is no other.
Can take the place of our dear Mother.
We all loved her very much;
God must have loved her too.
I hope someday to meet you, Mother.
In that City of Glory and Love,
Sadly missed by Husband and children,

Four Floyd Bands To Play Saturday At Eastern State

Richmond, Ky., Oct. 6 (Spl.)—The Big Band — nearly 5,000-strong — performed here Saturday as more than 70 high schools from throughout Kentucky took part in Eastern Kentucky University's seventh annual Band Day.

The band is an aggregation of the high school units in a joint performance during halftime of the Eastern-Northwood (Mich.) football game. Among these were the high school bands of McDowell, Prestonsburg, Betsy Layne and Wayland high schools.

In addition to the halftime presentation, the bands took part in a parade through downtown Richmond prior to the game. Also featured was Eastern's 135-member marching band.

EDUCATIONAL GROWTH

More than $125 million worth of construction has either been completed or started at the state's five universities and one college in 1966-'67. Enrollment at the institutions exceeds 50,000 this year—nearly double that of four years ago.

WIN AT WHITESBURG SEVENTH FOR CATS

The Prestonsburg high school Black Cats defeated Whitesburg on the Letcher countians' home field Friday night, and in doing so may have played their best game of a successful season. It was the Cats' seventh win against a lone loss, and that to Belfry.

Coach Crager lauded both the offensive and defensive play of his squad, although Whitesburg scored two touchdowns. The first marker came on the kickoff after Mark Miller had scampered 50 yards for a Prestonsburg t.d. Whitesburg's Jackie Cox took the Prestonsburg kick and ran 85 yards for his team's marker. The second Whitesburg touchdown came late in the fourth period when Prestonsburg's reserves were being freely used. Mike Hart took a 30-yard pass from Hammonds for the score.

The overall Prestonsburg defense was so strong that Whitesburg did not make a first down till late in the third quarter. Quarterback Miller's touchdown run came at the outset of the game. He ran for the extra point. Early in the second period, Miller hit Terry DeRossett with a 14-yard pass for his team's second touchdown, then passed to DeRossett for the point after.

In the third period, after an exchange of punts, Freddy James scored touchdown No. 3 on a 7-yard run. In the final stanza James took Phillip Haywood's pass for 10 yards and the Cats' fourth marker.

Friday night will be Homecoming for the Black Cats who will be host to the Hazard Bulldogs. The Homecoming Queen will be crowned at halftime. Candidates for the honor are Pat K. Hall, of Allen; Connie Blackburn, East Point; Missy Francis, Sharon Meade and Jamie Wright, all of Prestonsburg. The Homecoming dance will be held Saturday night from 8 till 12 at the Fieldhouse here.

RURAL ROAD PROJECTS

About $35 million a year is spent by the Kentucky Department of Highways to build new and to improve existing rural roads, says Commissioner Mitchell Tindler. He adds that about 20,000 miles of rural roads have been built and improved during the past seven years. Tindler says the department spends more time, work and money each year on rural roads than on interstate highways.

Breathitt Proclaims Ky. Cleaner Air Week October 22 to Oct. 28

Frankfort, Ky. — Gov. Edward T. Breathitt has proclaimed Oct. 22-28 "Kentucky Cleaner Air Week," and called air pollution "a serious problem in many communities in the state."

"Air pollution, in the form of dust, soot, grime, fumes, gases odor and vapor, poses a threat to the valuable air resources of the nation and our Commonwealth," the Governor said.

"The preservation of a clean air supply is essential to the health and well-being of all Kentuckians," he added, "and to the optimum use of property in the Commonwealth."

NATURE TRAILS

By Rufus M. Reed

NATURE'S FEATHERED ROCKETS

On October 3, I saw flocks of chimney swifts darting and skimming in the air high overhead, but the next day, when not one swift was in sight, I knew they were gone. They leave this region around Oct. 4 for their winter home in Peru, making one of the longest migration flights of the local birds.

Where they went to spend the winter was much of a mystery until 1944. Before then, those who observed the swifts in their fall migration saw multiplied thousands of them gathered along the northern part of the Gulf of Mexico. The air was simply darkened with clouds of swifts, and then all of a sudden they were gone. Where they went to so quickly nobody knew. Some persons had the wild idea these great flocks of swifts hibernated in the mud along the Gulf coast. The mystery of the completely disappearing swifts was solved in 1944 when birds banded in the United States were found wintering in far-off eastern Peru.

The chimney swift has been called, "the flying bow and arrow," also a "cigar with wings." The wings are shaped like the sickle moon, and they twinkle when the bird is flying. They have different flight speeds; their cruising speed is around 70 miles per hour, at which speed they capture their food on the wing, engage in aerial maneuvers, dive into water to take a bath on the wing, and gather twigs for use in making nests. But they can really fly faster than the falcon and in flying contests have been clocked at 219 miles per hour.

Chimney swifts never light in a tree or on the ground but keep on flying most of the day, chattering as they go, as if they greatly enjoyed their bursts of speed.

Each swift flies an average of over 150,000 miles per year and their life span is 10 years, unless violent death overtakes them. They are among our most valuable birds and deserve our best care and protection. I once watched a flock of swifts skimming and darting over the bed of a stream and I soon saw they were capturing the mosquitoes and other insects swarming over the water. I have watched them dive through dead trees and snap off twigs with their bills as they flew. They use twigs to build their nests inside chimneys. They glue the twigs to the wall with their sticky saliva. In China these abandoned nests are gathered for use in making "birds nest soup."

Swifts are sooty black and have short, square tails equipped with spiny quills for use as braces when they perch inside a chimney, clinging upright to the walls. Sometimes the young swifts come to a tragic end when heavy rains wash the nests and young down the chimney into the grate. It is almost impossible to save the young when they are washed out of the nest by heavy rains.

Chimney swifts are birds of the sky; they keep on flying, hours on end, and are no doubt the greatest endurance flyers on record.

One fall I watched the swifts gather at twilight to roost in a large abandoned smokestack on Tug River. They flew to it from all points of the compass and evidently came from many surrounding counties and states. They circled high in the sky about an hour before time for going to roost. The whole sky was filled with the whirling, chattering birds and the noise was so tremendous one could scarcely hear a person talking. We estimated there were about 4,000 of the birds coming there to roost each night. They circled, darted, whirled, played games and at last when they were all tired of this, they circled lower and lower until they literally filled the air over the smokestack, going around and around so fast the eye could scarcely follow them. As they got ready to drop inside, they seemed to hover a split second above the mouth of the smokestack, and then they let loose and fell straight down into the opening like swarms of huge, black bats. Then all was suddenly quiet inside the tall smokestack.

On the morning of Oct. 4 all these swifts rose into the air and began their long migration to Peru.

Dear Representative Reynolds:

This letter is written to set forth certain facts concerning the 1964 and 1966 General Assembly. The House of Representatives met in regular session on 45 days in 1964. You attended on 44 of these days. The House of Representatives met in special session on 17 days in 1965. You attended all 17 of these sessions. The House of Representatives met in regular session on 46 days in 1966. You were in attendance on 45 of these days.

The House of Representatives in its regular 1964 session passed 475 bills and resolutions. The House of Representatives in its regular 1966 session passed 456 bills and resolutions.

In 1966 the average roll call vote on passage of bills in the House of Representatives was 75.6. That means that roughly one out of each four members of the House did not vote on the final passage of a bill in that chamber.

Sincerely,

James T. Fleming

TIDBITS of KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.

HERE WE GO ROUND THE MULBERRY BUSH

Before this article sees print, we will have passed through another statewide primary for governor and the other offices. Lots of hot air will have been turned loose, lots of unnecessary harsh things will have been said, and a few noses will have lost their compass-needle straightness. And lots of people, like me, who have chosen to be sideliners in politics, will sigh a bit and be thankful that we have come through another campaign with most of our eyes and noses and fingers intact. Then we can take a few deep breaths and get ready for the general election in November, with contests with no holds barred.

There is an added attraction in Kentucky this year: the Republicans are to have one of their very rare primaries. The strongly-Republican counties and districts will get a taste of what the rest of the state has had every four years, for the Democrats seem to thrive on internal strife. It has been a very rare occasion in my lifetime, in state politics, when it was possible to hear the inside story of the whole party as revealed by partisans that seemed to want to scalp their friends and on the strength of their success be able to roast or boil in oil their opponents in the fall election. We are in for some high old times.

To an elderly fellow like me there is a lot to enjoy about politics, which I have watched purely as an outsider all of my life. It would be hard to say what is the most folkish phase of our American life, but it would be hard to place anything above a political campaign. In my younger days I studied and taught a lot of Latin and found my Fidelity friends on many a page. The candidate, with his white dress-toga—indicating his purity as a man, addressed his fellow-citizens in Latin, of course, but a sympathetic translation of it would sound just like the speeches I heard at the old Union Church (community house, we would call it now) or in the woods at Sulphur Springs, where candidates held forth just as did the Latins in their Forum. The country was always bleeding, suffering, being wasted, ruined by the party in power; "turn the rascals out" was apparently born with representative government. And the Romans, just like Kentuckians, sometimes acted on that saying; at the end of the term of office of those who had turned the rascals out, many times, another group used the same slogan and got into power. Hot dog, now we'll have a millennium, a heaven on earth! Just wait.

Now this is not meant to be cynical, for we are much better off by working out some of our inner feelings than by smothering them until we go on a rampage of ruin and murder. Use up your crop of bad adjectives, call your opponent everything except some fighting word, show your dear constituents how very necessary it is to elect you. You may be elected, you may be defeated, but anyway you had your say and got by with it. If you are a good sport, you can shake hands with the fellow who would ruin us all and wish him well; you can even be present when he takes office and cheer as loudly as his most ardent partisans. Not many times in my 79 years have actual killings resulted from hot campaigns, but many of us have feared our outbreaks of mayhem; somehow we calm down and wait for the next time to work off some of our heat. Meanwhile some younger voters, not seasoned veterans like us, may arise and beat us at our games, for they are much nearer basketball games than we and know how to boo the referees, and such, much, much better. But here we are, with the primary over and our knives being sharpened for the November election.

Miss Crum, Mr. Gibson Wed on September 23

Miss Margaret Jean Crum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Crum, of St. Charles, Mo., formerly of Langley, Ky., became the bride of Dennis Clark Gibson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Champ Gibson, of Langley, on September 23.

The ceremony took place at the Free Will Baptist Church at Clintwood, Va. Rev. Asa Hughes performed the double-ring ceremony.

Those attending the wedding were Mrs. Champ Gibson, Mrs. Tamavra Hensley, Myra Gibson and Mrs. Dewey Hicks. The couple will reside at Morehead, where Mr. Gibson is a senior at Morehead State University.

The bride wore a white, wool, street-length dress trimmed with blue accessories. She wore a corsage of three white carnations variegated with blue.

KY. STREAM STUDY BEGUN LAST WEEK

Frankfort, Ky. — Commissioners of four Kentucky departments will begin work here Friday on a study ordered by Gov. Edward T. Breathitt to determine which parts of the state's streams "should be preserved in their natural state."

Guidelines for the study are to be determined by the four departments—Natural Resources; Parks; Fish and Wildlife and Public Information.

Breathitt announced Thursday night that he had ordered the study, which follows in the wake of criticism by the Sierra Club of plans to flood the Red River gorge. The conservationist club calls the gorge in Eastern Kentucky one of the nation's rare and scenic wilderness gorges.

"If you think you've had trouble," the governor laughingly told an Ohio Valley Improvement Association meeting at Cincinnati Thursday, "you ought to be governor and have the Sierra Club get after you."

However, a spokesman for Breathitt said that the Red River controversy didn't lead to the study. Rather, he said, it is being made at the suggestion of Kentucky Senator John Sherman Cooper.

Cooper recently said that criticism of the year-long plans to dam the Red River should have come sooner in order to be effective. At the same time, he said he would ask the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers to make a report as to whether there are any other rivers in Kentucky which have such unique scenic characteristics that they should be approved in their natural state.

The corps plans to begin buying land for the Red River reservoir early next year.

No details of how or when the study ordered by Breathitt will be done were available yesterday. Top officials in all four departments were contacted but only one seemed aware of Breathitt's order.

In his announcement, the governor said:

"Realizing that sometimes nature cannot be improved upon, and that a wild river should not be tamed unless it threatens lives or property or is needed to provide water, I think we must also make efforts to preserve unique scenic characteristics in our rivers and streams in the basin.

"I have directed the commissioners of four Kentucky state government departments . . . to make a study of all of Kentucky's rivers to determine what free-flowing spots on our streams should be preserved in their natural state."

"I have asked them to cooperate closely with the Corps of Engineers in carrying out this project. The study itself was suggested by Senator Cooper, and I'm glad to implement it."

"By having this report, we will make certain always that conservation views on protecting outstanding scenic features and wilderness gorges on our rivers will be available to the corps and to Congress."

The governor's spokesman yesterday said he couldn't say if any part of the report would be submitted to Breathitt before he leaves the office at the end of the year. He also said he doesn't expect it to have any bearing on the Red River controversy.

Fire Control Chief Believes Kentucky Will Retain Award

Kentucky's forest fire control chief, Maynard Marcum, believes the State Forestry Division will win the Sam Beichler award again this year.

The 13 member states of the U. S. Forest Service's region eight selected Kentucky to receive the award last year for its fire control program.

Based on figures for the two years through September, Marcum says, "it would take an unusually bad fall season for us not to surpass the 1966 performance."

The fall forest fire season is now going on and lasts through December 15.

Through September of last year, 1,831 fires had occurred, burning 32,879 acres, averaging 17.9 acres burned per fire. The figures this year are 1,505; 21,041 and 13.9.

The Forestry Division in the Department of Natural Resources has almost completed replacement of its wooden fire watch towers with steel ones. Another improvement, Marcum says, is a system of relating wind conditions in advance of their coming.

Recently the National Association of State Foresters honored Natural Resources Commissioner J. O. Matlock for "his outstanding public service in forest fire prevention."

The association, composed of the heads of all 50 state forestry organizations, has elected Kentucky Forestry Director Gene L. Butcher its vice-president for the coming year.

SUNNY SIDE UP

Last year, more than $18 million worth of eggs were sold by Kentucky producers, an increase of almost $3 million over 1965 sales, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Our REPRESENTATIVE REFUSES TO RUN ON HIS RECORD

DARBY for Representative

Over the past several weeks I have brought you our Representative's voting record. I have given the name and number of the bills. I have offered $500.00 if I falsify the record. Nobody but n-o-body has come to collect. I have shown where he voted against the laboring man, against the landowner, the taxpayer and even the widows and orphans.

His only positive accomplishment was the bill he sponsored to give himself a $150.00 (tax free) pension each month.

If our Representative wants to explain, defend or deny any statement that I have made I'll pay for his advertisement. If he wants to apologize he ought to do that at his own expense.

He is now asking for a third term. Do you believe he deserves it? If you don't, please vote Darby Representative.

(Pol. adv.)

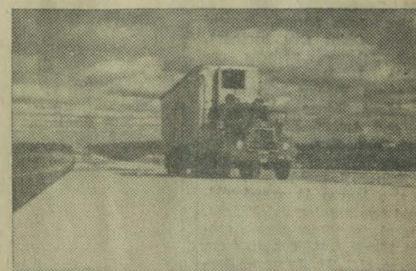

It takes 1000 tons of coal to build just 1 mile of 4-lane concrete highway!

Kentucky needs new coal markets—and new highways in the Appalachian area. Concrete brings the two together. The result? Better business. Better highways.

Modern concrete pavement is skid-resistant, smooth and solid all the way . . . is laid flat to stay flat. It actually has a life expectancy of 50 years and longer, with upkeep expense 75% less than for asphalt (based on Kentucky records). This is vital because the Federal Government pays 70% of initial construction cost—but not a single cent for maintenance.

Add it up. Concrete means greater coal usage, greater safety, greater driving comfort, and greater maintenance savings.

Fred Bullard of Lexington, president of the Kentucky Coal Association, says "Cement companies are major customers of the coal industry. Wherever cement or concrete is used, in roads, bridges or buildings, the coal industry benefits. Certainly paving new roads with concrete will contribute to employment and general well-being in the coal-producing areas of Kentucky."

Health Department Warns of Dangers At Hallowe'en Time

The night of jack-o-lanterns and witches' brooms will soon be here; the children of Kentucky will be out "trick or treating."

But Hallowe'en can be a night of tragedy as well as fun, the Floyd County Health Department warns. Accidents, the leading cause of death in children up to age 19, occur at a high rate on that night.

There are several safety steps every parent and neighbor can take to make Hallowe'en safe for children. One step is to keep porch lights on so that children are more easily seen.

The health department suggests:

Mothers should plan costumes either in light colors or with reflective materials taped or painted on them. Costumes should be closely fitted so they will not catch on fences or bushes and cause dangerous falls. These can be made flame-proof by dipping them into a solution of three quarts of warm water, seven ounces of borax and three ounces of boric acid.

Masks should be loose fitted and should let the child see clearly. Children can also be disguised with make-up or greasepaint.

To prevent serious burns and injury, children should not be allowed to carry lighted candles or sharp instruments. They should be warned to watch for lawn furniture, low fences and steps as they take short cuts through neighborhood yards.

Children should be instructed on how to cross streets safely. Drivers should drive slowly and watch for trick-or-treaters, especially on side streets and between parked cars.

Hallowe'en is a time all children look forward to and enjoy. Be sure it doesn't end with a tragic accident for you.

George Crager, 85, Passes Away Friday At Pikeville Hospital

George Crager, retired Wayland miner, passed away Friday at the Methodist hospital, Pikeville, at the age of 85. He had been in failing health for some time.

A former employee of the Elk Horn Coal Co., at Wayland, he was a member of the I.O.O.F. lodge at Wayland and had been a member of the Methodist Church there for 40 years.

Born April 6, 1882, in Floyd county, he was a son of Jim and Elizabeth Patton Crager and was the husband of Mrs. Alka Pack Crager, all of whom preceded him in death.

Surviving are four sons, Willard Crager, of Roseville, Mich.; Garner Crager, of Wayland, Dennis Crager, of China Lake, Calif., and Jack Crager, Centerline, Mich.; five daughters, Mrs. Maggie Castle, of Wayland, Mrs. Mildred Griffith, of Centerline, Mich., Mrs. Mary Howington, Stanton, Calif., Mrs. Avanelle Gozzard, of Warren, Mich., and Mrs. Delores Thornsberry, of Middletown, Ohio, and a brother, Jim Crager, of Cliff.

He also leaves 31 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Funeral rites were conducted Monday at 11 a.m. from the Wayland Methodist Church. Burial was made in the Martin cemetery at Wayland under the direction of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Henry Johnson, 63, Former Floyd Man Claimed Last Thursday

Henry Johnson, 63, of Louisville, former Buckingham resident, died last Thursday in a Louisville hospital.

A carpenter, he was born Nov. 28, 1903, in Knott county, a son of the late E. L. and Sarah Thornsberry Johnson. His wife, Mrs. Mary Osborne Johnson, also preceded him in death.

Surviving are four sons, Russell Johnson, of Jeffersonville, Ind., Clyde Johnson, of Wayne, Mich., Forrest Johnson, of the U. S. Army in Vietnam, and Glenn Johnson, of Louisville; three daughters, Mrs. Homer Hall, of Britton, Mich., Mrs. Donald Stevens, of Louisville, and Mrs. John Myers, Jr., of Columbus, Ohio; five brothers, Herbert Johnson, address unavailable, I. B. Johnson, of Buckingham, Beary Johnson, of Wheelwright, Edgar Johnson, of Allen, and Arthur Johnson, Columbus, Ohio; two sisters, Mrs. Lawrence Hicks, of Langley, and Mrs. Homer Reynolds, of Allen.

He also leaves 18 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Funeral services were conducted Monday at 10 a.m. from the home of I. B. Johnson. Burial was made in the Buckingham cemetery under the direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

DOLLARS AND SENSE TALK ABOUT ELECTRIC HEATING FROM FOLKS WHO NOW HAVE IT.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Sheets of West Liberty, Kentucky, converted their spacious 3,328 sq. ft. home to an electric furnace. Their average monthly electric bill for heating and all other uses of electricity is just $36.57. Recently Mr. and Mrs. Sheets were asked the following questions about their heat:

- Q: Does total electric living with flameless heating cost any more than you were paying for fuel and electricity before?
- A: We don't believe our present costs are any more than what we previously paid for natural gas and electricity.
- Q: Do you think the switch to electricity was worth it?
- A: Yes, indeed. We had expected to pay more for the cleanliness and safety of electric heat. Instead, we're getting those advantages at just about the same cost. Now we can leave the house without worrying about fumes or leaks.
- Q: Why did you choose an electric furnace over other types of electric heat?
- A: With an electric furnace, we could use our present ductwork and so make the conversion quicker and easier.
- Q: How much of a job was it?
- A: No trouble at all. The whole job took only two days.

Like the Sheets, you can modernize your home with flameless heat. A Reddy Kilowatt Recommended Dealer or Kentucky Power Company will help you select the type heating that best suits your home and your preference.

No Guesswork on costs

Your dealer or Kentucky Power will accurately figure your monthly electric cost in advance. Then, compare for yourself the cost of safe, cleaner, more comfortable electric heating with what you are presently paying for fuel and electricity.

CITY BOY FINDS FARM LIFE NOT UNALLOYED PLEASURE—WORK GETS IN ITS INNINGS

Editor's Note: Danny Depp is the 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Depp, of 138 Thistlewood Drive, Frankfort. His mother is the former Betty Sue Wells, of Prestonsburg. The following theme was written for Danny's eighth-grade English class at Bridgeport school and was first published in The Kentucky State Journal.

"WHAT I DID THIS SUMMER"
By DANNY DEPP

For a boy of 13, Frankfort, Kentucky, has positively no summer interests. So my parents, as do thousands of other parents across the country, sent me to my grandparents' farm. I am wondering if this national summer procedure is for our enjoyment, or a plot to get us out of our parents' hair?

We arrived at "the farm" on a warm Saturday. We were greeted by my Grandmother, Grandfather, and numerous chickens. We had a meal and talked over old times last year, for instance. My father left me later that day.

After the departure of my father, it looked like a pretty good set-up, good food, soft bed, and fresh air, give or take a few cows.

The next day all my dreams crumbled before me. They put me to work in their garden. Garden work isn't my idea of a ideal summer. I'd keep complaining and they would keep telling me, "If you want to be a farmer, you've got to work." I'd say, "I don't want to be a farmer. I want to be a writer!"

Everytime I'd say that Grandpa would call me lazy. Sure, I'm lazy, I'll admit that. But, I'll work, and work hard, at something I enjoy, such as writing. Just because I'm a rotten farmer doesn't mean I can't be a writer. After all, how many writers do you know that were farmers?

I love to read, I'm a natural born bookworm. I read everything and anything. My grandparents are against this. They believe in the great outdoors, where a man is a man, life, and books are unnecessary. There's nothing wrong with the outdoors, but there's nothing wrong with books, either. "Read something educational," they'd tell me. During the summer I stay as far away as I can from anything that has to do with school and education.

They are also early to bed and early to risers. I am not. I'm a night person. I watch late shows, I cannot go to bed and sleep at 9 o'clock. Of course, I also find it hard to get up at 9 o'clock.

Before I go any farther, I would like to describe my grandparents.

Grandpa was about 62. As most adults of that age, he was a firm disciplinarian. "Spare the rod and spoil the child," he always said. I did my best to stay out of his way.

Grandma was around 50. She was a fairly small woman who seemed to always have something to do. It seemed like she never sat down. She acted like a born farmer's wife. The funny thing was, she couldn't stand the farm. She said she couldn't stand a thing about it. But, Grandpa liked it and she loved him—so she was going to stay there as long as he would, and he wasn't about to move (Pleew!)

As if these troubles weren't enough, my sister popped up to stay for a while. We seem to constantly be at each other's throat. I knew she would spoil the whole thing. Eventually she did. Don't get me wrong. I like my sister. She's not a bad kid when you go down deep. Trouble

P'burg Man's Brother Is Fatally Wounded By Cop's Stray Shot

James Huffman, 40, a brother of John Huffman, of Prestonsburg, was fatally wounded by accident at Cleveland, Ohio, recently.

Two shots were fired by a policeman at a man who was fleeing from the officer. One of the bullets hit Huffman in the chest, and he died four hours later.

He was a son of Mrs. W. H. Compton, of Phoenix, Ariz., and the late Harrison Huffman. Mr. Huffman was an employee of the Pennsylvania Railroad and resided in Cleveland.

He is survived by his mother, his wife, Esther; six children, four brothers, John, of Prestonsburg; Bill, of Cleveland, Ohio; Airman Robert J., in Vietnam, and Fred, of Phoenix, Ariz., and two sisters, Mrs. Pauline Sawyers, Phoenix, Ariz., and Mrs. Clara Helvey, of Pikeville.

Huffman was working at the railway yard when he was wounded.

Yale Health Center Leader Is Husband Of Floyd-Co. Woman

Barry J. Solomon, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Edwards, of Wheelwright, has been appointed administrator of the Child Health Center at the Yale Medical School in New Haven, Connecticut. Mr. Solomon will also be assistant to the associate dean of the Medical School and will serve as lecturer in the Department of Epidemiology and Public Health. He assumed his new duties, September 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Solomon and their two sons, E. Stephen, and Jon, have moved to Orange, Conn. from Baltimore, Md. Mrs. Solomon is the former Priscilla Fugate, a graduate of Wheelwright high school and the Nazareth School of Nursing of St. Joseph Hospital in Lexington.

Mr. Solomon is a graduate of Tufts University where he received his B.S. degree in 1955 and Xavier University, Cincinnati, Ohio, where he received his master's degree in hospital administration in 1960. Plans Remodeling Of School Library

The Prestonsburg elementary school Parent-Teacher Association met October 10 with the president, Mrs. Rose Marie Collins, presiding.

Final plans were made for the Halloween Carnival to be held Oct. 28 in the grade school building from 5 to 9 p.m.

The P.T.A. goal was set for the year to raise enough money to remodel the school library. Snookie Meade has volunteered her "Greatest Dance Revue" for the last of November to help in reaching this goal.

Myrtle Hunt won the room count with 14 parents present. Jerry Coates spoke on the Mental Health Program.

Is Commissioned Kentucky Colonel

Kenneth Pointer, Louisville business executive and husband of the former Peggy Crum, of Prestonsburg, has been commissioned a "Kentucky Colonel." The honor was conferred by Gov. Edward T. Breathitt.
