UK Report Shows Reservoir Paid Off

Dewey Lake, State Park Effect Told

Out-of-State Visitors Spend 67 Pct. of Total Of Over $800,000 Year

More than 67 percent of the money spent by visitors to Dewey Lake and Jenny Wiley State Park last year was spent by out-of-staters, a new report by a University of Kentucky researcher shows.

The reservoir area, completed in 1950, attracts more than $800,000 annually, and visitors there last year numbered nearly twice the number of visitors in 1952.

In that year there were 552,000; by 1955 there were 664,000; 764,000 came in 1963 and 960,000 came in 1966 to visit the state park in Eastern Kentucky.

Dr. L. Douglas James, UK assistant professor of civil engineering and director of the research project, said that "statistics also show flood damage prevention benefits extending far beyond the Big Sandy River area to include lands along the Ohio and Mississippi rivers."

The UK study is being conducted for the U. S. Department of the Interior Office of Water Resources Research, although it will not be completed until 1970.

The 118-page report deals with the economic effects on the community surrounding Dewey Reservoir. It was prepared in UK's Water Resources Institute by David H. Rosenbaum, UK graduate engineering student from Fairplay, Kentucky.

Rosenbaum said expenditures averaged over 14 years show about $540,000 spent annually by visitors from 47 states and the District of Columbia.

This Town . . . That World

THANKFUL?

Everybody, from the President of the United States on down to this desk, joins at this season of the year in a mighty paean: "We are thankful!"

Thankful—for what?

For the air we breathe—and poison?

For the life-giving water that blesses the earth and offers restful hours on lake or stream—which we pollute?

For the beauties of Nature, ours for the beholding—which we desecrate?

For liberty—which we treat as liberties?

For freedom to worship—which we neglect?

For the right to the "pursuit of happiness"—aboard a dollar which has wings?

For the goodness of God—though some say He is dead?

For a full table and a full belly—while Lazarus lies at the gates?

TAX OFFICIAL BEGINS WORK

New Tax Commissioner Assumes Office Nov. 8, Fills Unexpired Term

First of the candidates elected at the Nov. 7 election to take office is Harry Gordon Allen, new Floyd county tax commissioner.

Allen took office, morning after the election. He won the Democratic nomination at the August primary and had no opposition in the finals. His election is to fill the unexpired term of the late Clive Akers. Mr. Akers' widow, Mrs. Orpha C. Akers, served as tax commissioner by appointment till a successor was elected and qualified.

The new tax commissioner is a son of Mrs. Mallie C. Allen, of Hueysville, and the late Wayne Allen. He at one time was a state trooper, later was a teacher in the Floyd county school system, a Kroger employee and more recently was with the land department, United Fuel Gas Company.

Mr. Allen has not effected staffing of his office on a permanent basis. The office will begin taking new property assessments, Jan. 1.

Adams Gets His Man But Is Himself Jailed After Creating Furor

Shelley Adams, who has for months sported a badge and proclaimed locally that he is a deputy U. S. marshal, finally got his man last Friday.

Shortly before noon, a call came to the office of Sheriff Joe W. Lewis that a man was drunk at a Middle Creek service station, near here. Sheriff Lewis was in circuit court, and the deputies in the office left immediately to make the arrest.

But they had cleared the courthouse by only a few minutes when Adams arrived, bouncing along with him Henry Pitts from whom he had taken a small bottle of whiskey. When the "prisoner" rebelled against being taken by elevator to the third-floor jail, a tussle ensued and efforts of officers were required to prevent a fight.

Sheriff Lewis, meanwhile, was notified that Adams was on the first floor of the building with a prisoner and was perhaps armed. The hallway was crowded and, fearing shooting might start, Lewis and Trial Commissioner Glenn Burchett talked Adams into a back room of the County Judge's office.

Lewis said that when he tried to persuade Adams to give him his gun the other refused, saying he had been sent by the FBI to help the sheriff. Further talk failed to persuade Adams to give up the weapon and when he rose to his feet Lewis jammed him against the wall and searched him.

From beneath Adams' belt the sheriff took a loaded .38-caliber revolver; in each side pocket he found a wallie-talkie; in one hip pocket was an almost-full box of cartridges, and in the other was an improvised blackjack.

Adams, who is known locally as "General," was jailed soon thereafter and booked on charges of carrying a concealed deadly weapon and impersonating an officer.

He was examined Tuesday by doctors who adjudged him mentally unbalanced. Adams is expected to be taken to a state hospital for treatment as soon as a committal order is signed by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley.

LABOR POLL CHALLENGED

Election Results At Reynolds Body To Await Decision

Winner of last Thursday's NLRB-sponsored poll of employees of the Reynolds Body Co., Allen, will not be known until a ruling is handed down by the National Labor Relations Board on 10 challenged ballots, it was said here this week.

Of the unchallenged ballots cast in the election, according to this report, 15 were cast for District 50, U M W A, to have jurisdiction in organizing the plant, and 14 were cast for the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (AFL-CIO). Presumably, the others were cast against unionization. Forty-one workers were originally listed as eligible to vote.

Eight of the ballots were reportedly challenged because they were cast by workers who had been laid off since September. One was a foreman and the other a part-time employee.

CLARK COURT AGAIN NAMED

Owsley County Case Joins Floyd in Venue Change to Winchester

A second murder trial will be held in the Clark circuit court at Winchester on change of venue from an Eastern Kentucky court.

Floyd county, unless forbidden by the Court of Appeals, will send Roy Salisbury there for his second trial for the slaying of Mallie T. Denney. The second case is that of 19-year-old Jesse Combs, who is accused of the Owsley county slaying of a 73-year-old woman.

The Owsley county change of venue was made on the plea of young Combs' attorney, Henry Hughes, Prestonsburg native who is a member of a Lexington law firm. Hughes' four points argued for change of venue for the youth were:

1. "Adverse and inflammable" publicity given the case by newspapers and other news media; 2. Hughes is an attorney in a civil case against Sheriff Danny Bowling, of Owsley county and thus the sheriff, who summoned the jury panel "could have undue influence" on the jurors; 3. "Public opinion is so strong in Owsley county that the court here cannot give Combs a fair and impartial trial," and 4. Owsley county lacks "adequate facilities to hold a murder trial."

The case was being heard in a local theater. The courthouse was destroyed by fire last January.

The commonwealth attorney argued that Combs should be tried by "his own peers in the county where the crime occurred."

Fred McCoy was fined $100 upon his conviction last Friday of assault and battery, but Billy Gene McCoy won an acquittal from the same charge. Mander Moore pleaded guilty to selling alcoholic beverages in dry territory and drew a 30-day jail term and a fine of $20. The grand larceny charge against Randal (See Story No. 4, Page 6)

Conley Is Leading In Vote Recanvass

Youth Hurt Here When Hit by Truck

Randy Murdock, 11, was injured here Tuesday afternoon when hit by a truck driven by Thomas Hazelett, of Paintsville. The boy is at the Prestonsburg General hospital, where his condition is described as satisfactory. He suffered cuts and bruises.

Hazelett said the youth stepped into the path of his truck at the Court and Lake Drive traffic light. The injured boy is a grandson of Crit Crisp, who himself later was hospitalized.

CRITTENDON SURRENDERS

Chicago Man Accused In Death of Spouse Maintains Innocence

Granville Crittendon, who was charged in a September grand jury indictment with murder in the death of his wife, surrendered here Monday to Sheriff Joe W. Lewis.

He came here from Chicago, where he has been employed. In his possession was the bench warrant for his arrest which, Sheriff Lewis said, had been mailed to the sheriff of Cook county, Illinois.

Crittendon reiterated his claim of innocence, saying he did not know his wife was dead until they arrived at the home at Weeksbury of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe P. Tackett. The accused man said he had driven from Chicago while Mrs. Crittendon occupied the back seat of the car; he was in custody of State Detective Chester D. Potter Tuesday while the investigation of the case continued.

Crittendon's surrender here followed by a few days the announcement made by Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo to the effect that if Crittendon was not in custody within a short time a federal warrant charging unlawful flight would be asked.

Trial of the Crittendon case is docketed for Nov. 29.

In circuit court this week five convictions were had, with three of the five defendants hoping for probation.

Fred McCoy was fined $100 upon his conviction last Friday of assault and battery, but Billy Gene McCoy won an acquittal from the same charge. Mander Moore pleaded guilty to selling alcoholic beverages in dry territory and drew a 30-day jail term and a fine of $20. The grand larceny charge against Randal (See Story No. 4, Page 6)

5 Precincts Show Error In Retally

Vote Changes Here Favor Republicans; Tally Nearing End

The election of a state auditor remained in doubt Tuesday night, with Clyde Conley, Johnson county Republican, apparently holding the upper hand over John W. Greene, Sandy Hook Democrat.

By Tuesday night 119 counties had been recanvassed, giving Greene a lead reported at 3,609, but this figure did not include the Jefferson county vote. With one ward in the city of Louisville and four in Jefferson county yet to be retalled, Conley led there by more than 8,000 votes.

Greene was still looking for what he feels is a glaring "mistake" in the Jefferson county tabulation. It will have to be around 3,000 votes for him to have a chance.

The Floyd county voting machines were rechecked Saturday. The look into the machines was on behalf of four Democrats, including Greene, and all Republican candidates except Governor-elect Nunn, down to the race for railroad commissioner.

Errors were found in five precincts. The changes effected (See Story No. 6, Page 3)

PIKE BUSES TO END RUNS

Service into Floyd, Other Points To End; Franchise for Sale

The Pikeville City Bus Company will end its operations Nov. 30, and its five buses, equipment and franchise are being offered for sale.

This announcement was made in Pikeville last week by W. E. Venters, a member of the bus firm, who gave as the reason for suspension of operations other business demands which do not leave him time to take care of the bus operation.

The bus line has been extending service as far as Allen, and its franchise permits operation to Gulnare in the Johns Creek section of Pike county and to Hi Hat on Left Beaver Creek in this county.

Bus service from Allen to upriver communities will be continued as far as Betsy Layne by the Prestonsburg City Bus Line.

Prestonsburg's Boy Scout Troop 27 held an open house recently on the occasion of the burning of the note of obligation for the Scouting Room at Archer Park. The $1,000 dollar note was retired quickly through Scout projects and support from parents. Dr. George P. Archer, mayor, spoke to the Scouts, parents and guests and praised the contributions of scouting to the health and character upbringing of boys in Floyd county. Dr. Archer noted what scouting had done for his own son, an Eagle Scout, and what it has done for hundreds of boys in Prestonsburg in the 18 years E. B. May, Jr. has led the troop as scoutmaster. In the absence of Carlos Roberts, chairman of the troop committee, Cal Herrick acted as master of ceremonies. Also on the troop committee are Otis Cooley, Z. S. Dickerson, and the Rev. William Poole. Also praised for their contribution to Troop 27's growth were the assistant scoutmasters, Arthur Leach and Andrew Goble.

Pikeville Wins Out For "Model City"

Pikeville last week was chosen to share in the giant Model City program, will immediately get federal funds for planning and eventually may get $25 million for municipal improvements.

The Pike county-seat was the smallest of 62 cities named over the nation for the Model City program and was the only Kentucky city selected.

Dr. William C. Hambley, Pikeville mayor and the prime moving spirit behind the community's advancement, listed these as improvement objectives under the program:

1. Reclamation of 25 percent of the city's level land and the relocation of coal docks there.
2. Retouring of the C. & O. Railway Company tracks by tunneling through the mountain and getting them out of town.
3. Construction of a four-lane boulevard through the area vacated by the tracks.
4. Adequate housing for the poor at rentals they can pay.
5. A $6 million undertaking to make the Methodist hospital a major medical facility with possibly 350 beds.
6. A commercial airport.
7. Street improvement, access roads, recreational and cultural facilities.

Mrs. Browning Ends Term As World Eastern Star Head

Mrs. Josephine Harkins Browning, of Prestonsburg and Henderson, ended a three-year term as most worthy grand matron of the General Grand Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, when she presided over a four-day business session of the General Grand Chapter in Washington, D. C., Nov. 4-9, the 32nd triennial session of the General Grand Chapter.

The Washington-Hilton hotel was her headquarters and all business meetings were held in the National Guard Armory building. More than 6,500 members were in attendance at this meeting with a voting body of 1,003 delegates. In her opening address, she stated after her installation as most worthy grand matron in Dallas, Texas, in November, 1964, she had travelled almost 150,000 miles throughout the Eastern Star world.

Due to health restrictions, Mrs. Browning was unable to make personal visits to all the chapters over the world, and made appointment of special deputies to represent her in the Philippines, Hawaii, Europe, France, Germany and Italy. However, she visited and made some inspections in Europe, the Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, Ontario, Bermuda, Alaska, Hawaii and most of the other 48 states and in the District of Columbia. Mr. Browning made some of these trips with her, but because of business commitments, he was unable to accompany her on all trips and her cousin, Mrs. Sallie Clark, Prestonsburg, accompanied her and represented her in some of the countries where Mrs. Browning was unable to go.

Members of her family with her in Washington included her husband, two sons and their wives and seven of her nine grandchildren; Mrs. Clark and her husband, Mrs. Anna Laura Boulos, of Hazard and Lexington, and her sister, Mrs. Mary E. Harkins Vanlandingham, of Miami, Fla.

Mrs. Browning signed charters for three new chapters instituted by her most worthy grand patron, Walter L. Fowler, Washington, D. C., and reinstated Odenwald Chapter No. 12, Darmstadt, Germany. She visited her own chapter, Adah No. 24, Prestonsburg, as often as she could, and was also able to visit many other chapters in Kentucky.

Mrs. Browning was generous with her appointments to Kentucky over the three-year period. These members included Irvin Arrowood, Miss Burieta Gearheart, Mrs. Lenore Gullett, Mrs. Hazel May, Mrs. Leatha Joy and many others in her own district and many more over the state. Mrs. Rebecca Rasnick, Prestonsburg, and Mrs. Katherine Kimberlin, Hazard, served as co-chairmen for Kentucky's Welcome Committee, assisted by some 35 or 40 members from over the state.

Many social functions were held during the week, including a reception on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 4, at the Eastern Star International Temple when Mrs. Browning honored the past most worthy grand matrons and past most worthy grand patrons. She presented a book to be kept at the Temple covering the activities of these officers.

During her three years as most worthy grand matron of the world Eastern Star, more than $2 million was received and expended for welfare projects, which included the Knights Templar Eye Foundation, Arthritis Foundation, Cancer Research, Religious Training for Youth, Heart Fund, March of Dimes, Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children and many others. Mrs. Browning specially stressed the Knights Templar Eye Foundation, and more than $150,000 was raised for this fund. As a living testimony of its practice, a mother with her three-year-old daughter was present at the triennial session and told of the child having been born blind and now has an 85 percent perfect vision.

Mrs. Browning and her officers retired Thursday afternoon after election of officers for 1967-1970 and at 3 p.m. Mrs. Sadya S. Peterson, Wisconsin, and John V. Long were officially installed as most worthy grand matron and most worthy grand patron. G. P. Congleton, of Beattyville, received an appointment as chairman of the Appeals and Grievances committee for the next three years.

UK Trustees O.K. Plans for College

A preliminary development plan for the University of Kentucky Hazard Community College was approved Friday by the UK Board of Trustees. With the exception of a plan for Northern Community College at Covington, the Hazard plan completes development plans for existing and proposed colleges in the UK system.

"The preliminary plan is a broad physical framework within which physical development of the college may take place in an efficient and orderly manner," President John W. Oswald said.

More detailed reports of the development of the colleges will be made as additional studies are completed, and when program requirements become more clearly defined.

The new college at Hazard is scheduled to open next September in temporary quarters. The first building on the college's 70-acre site south of Hazard and across the Kentucky River is under design, but construction will not be completed until September of 1969.

The preliminary development plans for the colleges, all presented in book form, were drawn up by McLoney & Tune, Lexington architects, and the UK Planning and Design Division.

The plan books contain such items as purpose of the colleges, historical and regional development, educational program, proposed development, and the physical development plans.

Faculty, enrollment, buildings, land utilization, curriculum, and future physical requirements all are discussed.

Tentative plans for Southeast Community College at Cumberland, for example, call for a modern campus consisting of six buildings, focused on a projected enrollment of 1500 students by 1965.

The architects' schematic plan includes an administration building (the existing building), a student-community building located to the left of the existing building, and an academic service building which would tentatively stand in front of the student center.

Included in the plans is a natural science and technology building at the right of the academic building and opposite the administration building.

The combination natural science and technological center would provide separate facilities for students and food service facilities.

$350,000 from the recent state bond issue has been allotted to the University for building of the center at Southeast.

An arts building would stand at the right of the technology building and directly behind the arts building would be a social science building. They would form a circular pattern with a parking area at one side, along with an additional power plant.

The development of the Southeast and Hazard campuses is part of development plans affecting all UK community colleges.

UK vice-president Robert Kerley said the projected growth of the UK community college system and the central campus in Lexington "is part of the pattern of mushrooming national growth in higher education."

McSurelys, Malloy Say Radio Stations Refused Reply Time

Three civil-rights and poverty workers have complained to the Federal Communications Commission that they were discriminated against by broadcasting stations in Kentucky and West Virginia.

Alan and Margaret McSurely and Joseph Mulloy said that radio stations WPKL and WLSI, both in Pikeville, refused to sell them time to reply to charges made against them on the air by candidates for public office.

The McSurelys and Mulloy were arrested August 11 on charges of sedition, since thrown out by a special U. S. district court at Lexington. They are now seeking to get back a large quantity of books and personal papers seized in raids on their homes.

They told the FCC that WSZA-TV, Huntington, W. Va., refused to provide them with time to reply to a half-hour telecast by Thomas Ratliff, the prosecutor in the sedition case.

They said that Ratliff read the report of the grand jury which indicted them on the sedition charge, but the station has refused to grant them equal time to give their side of the story. This, they declared, is required under the Fairness Doctrine of the FCC.

Ratliff was the Republican candidate for lieutenant governor in the Nov. 7 election. The telecast was made as part of his campaign and was carried by stations throughout the area.

The McSurelys and Mulloy said they also complained to the FCC that none of the other stations which carried Ratliff's broadcast have offered them equal time as required by the Fairness Doctrine.

lish the Surface Mining Division of the National Independent Coal Operators Association, according to Robert Holcomb, president of NICOA.

Named new president of the Surface Mine Division was Ben Greer, a partner in Greer-Ellison Coal Co., Knoxville, Tenn. The executive secretary of the division is Perry Antill, president of Forestry and Land Reclamation Service, Inc., Pikeville, Ky.

Membership of the new organization is drawn from the six major coal producing counties in Eastern Kentucky and surrounding counties in Virginia and Tennessee. Objectives of the new division are to serve as a clearing house for information about surface mining and reclamation practices, to provide members with a source of business and technological reference and to draft programs for community service, Holcomb said.

According to Greer, the members of the Surface Mining Division have long observed the legal, ethical and aesthetic aspects of surface mining operations in that they observed the spirit and letter of their states' reclamation laws even before they were written or enforced. Presently, the group is drafting a code of ethics which will formalize requirements for joining and maintaining membership in the organization.

(Greer is a partner in the firm which is now engaged in making a major mining installation at Ivel, this county.)

The initial funds of the association will be devoted to a public information program which will supply factual information about the industry to all news media. According to NICOA's president, Robert Holcomb, "We want to see our industry assume its rightful place as a recognized segment of the extractive mineral industry."

SORE LOSER

We thought that chairman of the Bowling Green group who was so disappointed about his town failing to get that Model City windfall did neither himself nor his community any credit by criticizing the selection of Pikeville for the program. Said he (according to the newspapers): "You want a model city where the people can see it. We get more people through here (Bowling Green) in a day than they get in a year."

Maybe such thinking is one reason Bowling Green lost. If the result of the Model City program is merely to be seen, why not put it on television?

THE BIG AND THE LITTLE

The late Bruce Barton once wrote a little piece which profoundly discussed the matters of humility and conceit. He wrote: "God is just. He distributes talents with impartial hand among the sons of men. To big men He gives the satisfaction of achievement; but He penalizes them with hours of depression, introspection and self-doubt."

"Little men would be discouraged if they could see themselves in their true light. So conceit was sent into the world—God's great gift to little men."

Kentuckians from all 120 counties account for the remaining $278,000 spent in the Dewey Lake area. The report cites Floyd, Johnson and Pike counties as the top spenders with $59,000, $39,000 and $33,000 respectively.

The report offers as the chief reason why so many visitor-dollars are attracted to the area:

"Dewey Reservoir draws pleasure seekers because of its excellent facilities for recreation, including ample space for water-related recreation."

Dr. Robert A. Lauderdale, director of the Water Resources Institute, said Dr. James' research study showed Dewey Reservoir to have been "economically justified from a direct benefit, direct cost standpoint."

Akers was reduced to petit larceny, and his plea of guilty to that count brought a six-month term in jail, but he has filed motion for probation. The unusually stiff penalty of six months in jail for drunkenness was imposed on Willie Mitchell when he pleaded guilty. He also filed for probation. Sherbert Stone pleaded guilty to a breaking and entering count and was given a one-year term. Probation was recommended for him by the Commonwealth's Attorney.

The bond of Chester Jarrell was forfeited when he failed to answer for trial on charges of grand larceny and knowingly receiving stolen property.

A number of cases were dismissed. Commonwealth's Attorney Stumbo explained that in most of these cases the defendants were out of the state, and had not been arrested, that their cases were more than a year old, and were serving only to clutter the docket. He said that if any of the defendants return to the jurisdiction of the court, and if prosecuting witnesses will contact him, he will re-docket their cases for trial.

Adams has been an almost daily visitor here and around the courthouse for several years, and has been regarded as harmless, though on the eccentric side. His stories of huge business ventures and of his affiliation with the federal government have been greeted with mild amusement. But his work as a lawman last Friday wasn't appreciated. And now he has made one of man's fatal mistakes—he has caused others to fear him.

Crime-Data Network Links State Police, Cities with Capital

Frankfort, Ky.—The Kentucky State Police and three city police departments are set up to send and receive computerized information on crime over a network line from Frankfort to the National Crime Information Center at Washington, D. C.

The network gives State Police "quick access to the files of all police agencies in the country," according to State Police Director James Bassett.

The Louisville, Lexington and Owensboro police departments and eight State Police posts across the state are linked by teletype lines to the network line at the State Police communications center at Frankfort.

From the Frankfort center requests for information regarding stolen merchandise, automobiles, license plates, firearms and criminal suspects can be relayed to a computer at NCIC and an answer returned in less than 60 seconds.

Colonel Bassett says such information has always been available to police but was relayed only by teletype or radio, requiring hours and sometimes days. State Police records are being put on computer tape and will be deposited in the "memory banks" of the computer.

Communications officers of the State Police and the three municipal police departments are being trained in the intricate code system of the computer.

Bassett says 17 other states and municipal police departments have terminals in the national communications network.

Insurance Deductible, Effective December 1, Frowned On By Woodall

Frankfort, Ky.—The use of a mandatory $50 deductible feature on fire and extended insurance coverage for farm property, proposed by the Kentucky Inspection Bureau, will go into effect Dec. 1 in Kentucky—but it does not have the endorsement of the State Insurance Department.

As one of his final acts prior to resigning, Commissioner S. Roy Woodall, Jr. issued an order which stated the deductible feature and requested rate revision would become effective without approval by the department. While not agreeing with the proposal, Woodall said he had no statutory authority for rejecting it.

Under existing law, any filing made with the department automatically becomes effective 30 days following filing date, unless action is taken by the Commissioner such as disapproval or a request for substantiation.

Woodall termed the law a type of "file-and-use" plan—but one over which the Commissioner can exercise only a veto power when the rates are too high, too low or discriminatory.

Affected by the change are insurance firms which wrote $3.25 million in Kentucky farm property policies during 1965, the last year for which statistics are available. Another KIB request for a similar deductible feature on dwellings is still pending, Woodall said. The KIB represents 282 companies doing business in Kentucky.

Woodall said that after an "extensive review" of the KIB filing, modifications suggested by the department saved Kentucky farmers approximately one-half million dollars.

In his formal order, Woodall stated that the responsibility for rate increases rests with the insurance industry and not with the commissioner "who holds only the power of veto" over any requested rate revision.

Woodall resigned as commissioner, and Robert D. Preston, a assistant commissioner, was named acting commissioner by Gov. Edward T. Breathitt.

Heart Association Warns Hunters Guns Second in Importance

Every male who has been in the armed services, and almost everyone who has seen a war movie, remembers the drill sergeant's advice: "Take care of your gun and it will take care of you."

Now that autumn has arrived, the Kentucky Heart Association reminds hunters to: "Take care of yourself BEFORE you take care of your gun." The gun can sit on the shelf for a year and come off it in bang-up condition. A few minutes of lubrication may be all it needs. Not so the hunter who is out of shape. Sudden or unusual exercise may prove dangerous.

Even if he isn't completely rusty, the man planning a hunting trip may need more than a quick application of body oil in his joints. The best judge of his condition and what he needs is his doctor, the Association says.

He'll gladly explain why the hunter who hasn't had a physical checkup in years or followed a regular exercise routine often is in more peril than the game he stalks.

The hunter should see his doctor weeks before he plans the trip. If he is out of shape, conditioning must be done gradually and follow a routine. The recovered heart victim should tell his doctor exactly where he plans to go and under what conditions he will hunt.

The doctor probably will specify just how far he can go, taking into consideration the terrain, altitude, duration of the hunt and the patient's attitude. There will be one condition: that the man with a heart condition does not hunt alone.

The winded hunter should never hesitate to call time out, even if his companions rib him as a softy. If they insist on going ahead, he should let them go. Taking a load off his feet may take an overload off his heart. The advice for a hunter is quite simple:

Take warm clothes, but not wobbly ones that add to the burden of rifle, ammunition and pack. Eat moderately and, if he must drink, do it sparingly. Discretion, however, indicates passing up alcohol entirely when a rifle is being carried. If the hunting area is at a higher altitude than usual, the hunter should get there a few days early so that his body can adjust before it is called on to take the stress and strain of the hunt. Avoid getting overheated or too cold. Know what to do if someone gets a heart attack and if you have a heart condition, make certain your companions know that place where the medication is kept.

Be the victor, not the victim, of the hunt.

UK Geographer Says Abominable Snowman May Be 'Real McCoy'

(By Pradyumna P. Karan, chairman, Department of Geography, University of Kentucky, one of few Western scholars ever permitted to enter Bhutan, in Southeast Asia.)

Is there an Abominable Snowman? Armchair scientists sneer all they like, but Sherpas, who have lived and prowled the Himalaya for centuries, insist something is up there. The Abominable Snowman may really exist. Many reputable mountaineers have seen footprints in the high Himalayan snow, which indicates there's something up there.

If, by some astonishing chance, some mountaineer discovers the Yeti of the Sherpas—half-man and half-beast—what do we do with him? We can hardly put him in a cage. One New Yorker put it: "Do you put him in the zoo or the Statler Hilton?"

Western mountaineers doubt the nature of the maker of the snow tracks. Is it really the tracks of the shaggy enigma? Or is it the footprint of a bear, monkey, or snow leopard? Or perhaps the tracks of a Holy Man doing penance in the Himalayan snows? All the arguments have been dismissed by those who support the existence of Yeti.

I did not see any Yeti footprints myself during my travels in the Himalaya. But I have discussed the tracks with Sherpas who claim to have actually seen the Yeti. The famous British mountaineer, Eric Shipton, photographed a fresh set of curious footprints in the snow at a height of about 19,000 feet in glaciers of the Menlung basin in northeastern Nepal in 1951. As the tracks seemed fresh, probably from the previous evening, clear in hard frozen snow, Eric Shipton followed them, noting how the toes of the creature had dug in as it leapt over crevasses, and the single pair of tracks it made as it landed on the far side.

The excellent photographs brought by Shipton and his accurate description made it quite clear that some large creature, apparently walking on its two hind legs, had been purposely crossing this isolated glacier at 19,000 feet. Tilman, who led an unsuccessful attempt on Everest, made references to Homo Niveus Disgustans — with his tentative conclusion that it would be rather jolly if there were indeed strange semi-human beings in the High Himalaya.

In 1954 two British mountaineers in the rugged area to the east of Mount Everest noticed prints — eight inches long and four inches broad — in the snow. At the side of the print of the sole was a rounded mark like the ball of a thumb, and at the end of the sole were the marks of toes, and of unmistakable claws.

In 1960 the distinguished mountaineer-scientist Sir Edmund Hillary, conqueror of Everest, led an expedition to search for the maker of these tracks, and to try to solve the mystery of the Abominable Snowman.

Sir Edmund's search failed to prove or completely disprove the existence of the Abominable Snowman. The lines of battle have been drawn — on one side the Outdoor types, who have nearly all insisted there is something up there; and the Indoor types (or scientists) who insist there is not.

One of the strongest points in favor of the Yeti is that the Sherpas who have seen the Yeti, though simple people, are neither fools nor subject to hallucinations. Their reliability and intelligence are equal to those of a Montana shepherd or a Highland game keeper. A very high Tibetan Lama, who had seen plenty of Yetis, believes the Yeti is a throwback of the human race, who has taken a different path in evolution and who can live only in the most secluded places. There are tales of lone women being carried off by male

RABBIT AND TULAREMIA SEASONS COME TOGETHER

Beware, Jack and Peter Rabbit! The hunting season opened November 16 and will continue through January 31. Meanwhile hunters also should beware—for the rabbit may get even by infecting with tularemia, or "rabbit fever."

"Tularemia can cause illness and even death to its victims, and, since there is no satisfactory method of immunization, it is particularly important to take care to avoid infection," warns Dr. Russell L. Hall, Floyd county health officer.

This disease can be transmitted to man from the rabbit and other wild animals through the skin cuts on the person dressing the meat, or by means of fly or ticks bites. Though seldom fatal, tularemia causes body sores, swollen lymph glands, weakness and fever. If the disease is suspected, a doctor should be seen immediately. Persons who contract the disease may face a long period of invalidism.

Certain preventive measures should be observed at all times, Dr. Hall said. Rubber gloves, for instance, should always be worn when dressing rabbits. A rabbit should always be shot while on the run, never while sitting, for the sitting rabbit may be one that is sick. Never handle a rabbit found dead or brought in by a dog or cat. If the internal organs of a rabbit show small, white spots, throw it away. All rabbit meat should be cooked so that no red meat or blood remains, because thorough cooking destroys the tularemia germs.

The largest numbers of tularemia cases in Kentucky occur during the rabbit hunting season, indicating that wild rabbits are mainly responsible for most of the tularemia in the state. Dr. Hall said if the proper precautions are observed there is no reason to fear tularemia or let this fear interfere with anyone's enjoyment of rabbit on the table.

Look at this '68
 "youngmobile" from Oldsmobile.

Wouldn't it look great in your driveway?

This new Cutlass S has a way of making things look younger. Even driveways. That's because of all the young ideas we built into it. A bigger 350-cubic-inch V-8, for instance. (Or, if you prefer, an Action-Line 6.) And a taut coil spring suspension that makes it easy to cut and turn in tight places. And you can order a whole carfull of young-it-up accessories like bucket seats, stick-shift or stereo. But if you think Cutlass S is young all over, don't forget that it is Olds all over, too. Olds quality, Olds engineering and the new GM safety features are all standard.

Two Winners Named In Floyd To Compete In Nine-County Area

By JACK M. FRIAR
Area Extension Agent

Carla Robinson, Maytown 4-H Club, and Paul DeClue, Betsy Layne 4-H Club, have been judged the Floyd county winners of the 4-H Award of Excellence contest.

This contest, sponsored by The Courier-Journal, is open to all 4-H Club members in Kentucky. They are judged on individual development through 4-H, scholastic achievement, moral development and cultural and social development.

Carla is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ballard Robinson, Langley, and Paul is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Frank DeClue, Betsy Layne.

Their records will be judged against those selected by the other nine counties of the North-east Extension Area.

Three Floyd Schools Win State Awards

State awards of the Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers have been mailed by Mrs. Harvey Britton, president of the Ninth district to P.T.A. units. Receiving the Charter Renewal Seal were Prestonsburg, Clark and Allen elementary schools.

DETECTABLE DEFECTS

McDowell Winner With Strong Team In First 4 Games

Special to The Times

McDowell, Ky. — The 1967-68 version of the McDowell Dare Devils got off to a flying start this year by downing the first four teams they played, Victory No. 1 came at McDowell as the Dare Devils trounced Cordia, 90-61. Knott County, one of the better teams in the 14th region, came to McDowell with four of last year's five back on the squad and fell to the Dare Devils, 82-61. The Martin Purple Flash invaded McDowell, and the Dare Devils broke the century mark for the first time this season as they won over the Purple Flash, 113-91. McDowell next traveled to Salyersville for its first real test of the season and came out smiling with a 105-86 victory.

Throughout these first four games of the season the Dare Devils have placed four men in double figures and in two of these first four games the Devils have had five men in the double-figure bracket.

Individual honors go to Stan Ward with 91 points this season and a 22-game average. Tom Martin is the leading rebounder with 53 (an average of 13 a game) and has scored 90 points for a 22-point average. Sammy Adams has 77 points this season for a 19-point average. Adams produced the leading scoring effort for the Dare Devils this year when he racked up 32 points against Salyersville. Barry Hall is a great defensive man and an unselfish ballplayer. He is the team's assist leader with 30 and is averaging 10 points per game. The big surprise this year is sophomore forward Sammy Meade, who is averaging 11 points and seven rebounds a game.

Against fast ball clubs, the Devils have been hurt to no small extent by small, fast guards. Ira Newman, a junior guard, promises to put an end to woes the Dare Devils have suffered from this type of team. Ira is fast and a very good ball handler, as well as an excellent shot. McDowell has excellent bench strength. Ted Hall proved this against Martin where he burned the nets for 18 points in two quarters. Jerry Moore is an excellent shot, waiting for the chance to start. Micky Newsome started at pivot on several occasions last year and once this year. He is a rugged rebounder and a good defensive player.

The Dare Devils have hit on 158 of 286 shots from the field for a percentage of 55 percent for the season. They have pulled off 203 rebounds in four games for an average of 51. The Dare Devils offense has averaged 97 points a game while the defense has given up an average of 74 points.

The sports car your mother's not afraid to let you drive.

Every mother knows that a sporty convertible like the Karmann Ghia must cost too much, go too fast, and be too drafty.

So you better straighten the old lady out before you buy one or you'll never hear the end of it.

The first thing you do is ask her how fast she thinks a car with a 53 hp motor can go. She doesn't know (it goes 82 mph) and you better not tell her.

But you can say that the Ghia gets up to 28 miles a gallon, and can be fixed by any Volkswagen dealer. So you don't need your allowance raised (and while you're talking money, tell her the Ghia costs only $2,445*.)

Next, pull the top up and take off the sweater she brought for you. Show her how tightly the top's hand-fitted.

You don't need a hat; there are no drafts.

Finally, tell Mom the Karmann Ghia has two separate braking systems so you can always stop.

And that's what you ought to do. While you're ahead.

Chamber Of Commerce
Developing A Program
Of Education Awards

The Kentucky Chamber of Commerce has announced its development of the Student-Teacher Achievement Recognition program (STAR) to indicate a sincere and active interest in quality learning and teaching throughout the Commonwealth.

John M. Lewis, executive vice-president of the Chamber, said that the mechanics for the program are already in motion and that the first awards will be presented in 1968. Recipients will be recognized at the local, county, regional and state levels, with grand awards being presented at the Chamber's annual meeting in April.

Lewis said that a school's STAR student must, in qualifying, take the College Board Scholastic Aptitude Test on or before Dec. 2, 1967. The student's grades for each part of the test must achieve at least the latest available national average. STAR students will be selected on the basis of the highest scores attained.

The student selected as STAR student in each school then will be asked to name a STAR teacher—the one who, in his or her opinion, has made the greatest contribution to the student's scholastic achievement. The teacher, elementary or high school, must be actively teaching in a Kentucky school at this time.

Each regional STAR student and STAR teacher will receive a plaque and a $100 Savings Bond to be presented in connection with the Chamber's annual meeting. At that time the state STAR student will be presented a "Lamp of Learning" trophy and a $500 cash scholarship. The state STAR teacher will also receive a "Lamp of Learning" trophy and a $500 cash scholarship.

Evangelism-In-Depth
Calls Nov. 27 Meeting

The committee for Evangelism in Depth for Floyd county invites and urges all interested ministers to meet Nov. 27 at the First Baptist Church, Allen, at 9 a.m.

Plans for coming meetings for Evangelism in Depth in the county will be made. Evangelism in Depth is a church-centered simultaneous program to reach the entire county for Jesus Christ.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE TIMES

I would like to take this opportunity to express my appreciation to the citizens of Floyd county who supported me in the recent November election for the State Senate. A candidate for public office can not, by himself, be successful in any election without the support and advice of many persons. To those of you who assisted me in my campaign, I am deeply indebted.

I would like to commend my opponent, his family and supporters, for the very high type of campaign which they conducted. And particularly, I would like to extend my sincere thanks to the voters of the 29th Senatorial District.

Portrait Of 'Unusual Man': Story Of Artist Ray Harm

"How many persons do you think are doing what they really want to do?" is an oft-heard question, reflecting the widespread dissatisfaction with the means of earning a living.

There's an unusual individual in Kentucky who actually is doing what he wants to do. Ray Harm paints wildlife "for pleasure," and he would rather dig ditches or train horses for a living than to use his artistic talent to turn out something that doesn't appeal to him.

Nor is this an idle threat, because Ray Harm for years did those things, as well as drive a truck, herd cattle on a ranch, work in circuses and on dude ranches to eke out a living.

And now, although he has had only six years of formal schooling, he is artist-in-residence at the University of Kentucky and also lecturer-naturalist for the Kentucky State Parks.

Mr. Harm not only does watercolors of wildlife, but he insists on doing them authentically—exact details, true colors, the right background for each subject—and he works only from life.

He knows whereof he lectures, reports TOGETHER magazine in the December issue. His father and mother both were violinists, and taught him to play. His father also was a self-taught naturalist, and early indoctrinated him in nature lore in the hills of West Virginia where he was born.

A school drop-out after sixth grade, Ray Harm made his way painfully out West, where he worked as a cowboy and horse trainer. All the while, he relished the open sky and in every spare moment he filled sketchbooks with drawings of horses, birds, flowers, wild animals and other interesting objects in nature.

After a stint in the Navy, Ray Harm attended the Cooper School of Commercial Art in Cleveland.
