

College To Build Despite Fund Loss

PCC Grant Is Reduced By $235,000

Dr. Campbell Says Work on Structures To Begin Next Spring

Proposed construction of two buildings on the campus of the Prestonsburg Community College will not be delayed as the result of the cutback made this week in federal construction funds.

The $258,106 grant to the college under Title I of the Higher Education Facilities Act of 1963 was cut to a scant $23,904.

Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., director of the college, said the construction will proceed on schedule. That schedule calls for completion of plans by Feb. 15 and advertising for bids soon thereafter. Construction is expected to begin in the early spring, with completion seen in June, 1969.

Their construction is a part of an overall development of the campus which would involve work over a period of years.

The cutback resulted when almost $50 million in construction funds were lost in a reduction of federal spending. The slash was made in expenditures of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

But, it was said in Washington, most of the construction funds will simply be held up until the end of the current fiscal year, June 30, unless Congress orders a continued holdover of spending. Officials said most institutions will probably get, next fiscal year, the money they were expecting this year. At the same time, however, they noted the possibility that state agencies disbursing the funds could give the money to new applicants.

Seven Kentucky colleges and universities will lose a total of nearly $2 million in federal construction funds.

Grants totaling $4,164,126 to eight four-year colleges and universities were trimmed by $1,460,606 and grants totaling approximately $2 million to six of the state's two-year community colleges were cut by $461,062.

However, the cuts affected only five of the four-year colleges, and only two of the two-year colleges.

Four-year colleges affected by the cuts and their reductions are:

Western Kentucky University, $292,121; Kentucky Southern College, $129,623; Pikeville College, $167,703; Eastern Kentucky University, $292,121; Murray State University, $579,038.

In addition to the Prestonsburg college cut, a $226,751 grant to the Hopkinsville Community College (See Story No. 7, Page 5)

INFANT DIES

Curtis Lee Wood, two-day-old son of Wesley and Colleen Elkins Wood, of Willis, Michigan, formerly of Emma, died Tuesday in a Willis hospital. Surviving, besides the parents, are three brothers and two sisters, Keith, Teven, David, Donna and Linda Wood, all at home. The funeral was held today (Thursday) at 11 a.m. at the residence of the child's grandmother, Mrs. Shirleen Woods, at Emma. Burial was made in the Woods cemetery at Emma, the Hall Brothers Funeral Home directing.

Another call told State Police that a man had been shot at a place on U. S. 23, near Cow Creek. The officers found this also to be a hoax.

Graham Burchett, chief of the Allen fire department and captain of the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad, said later that a serious effort is being made to trace the calls.

Commerce Chamber Host to Industry

The Prestonsburg Chamber of Commerce officially began its new year of work Saturday evening when it played host to county and area industrial leaders at its second annual Industry Appreciation Dinner at May Lodge.

Among the 82 persons attending were representatives of a dozen industrial firms. Dale Smith, president of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, was among the guests.

Homer D. Neeley, who has served the Prestonsburg Chamber for two years as president, presided. He pointed out that people are "the greatest asset of our community," and declared that, given a chance, "we will not take a back seat to anybody."

Contract To Build Hi Hat Post Office Awarded for $12,000

Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien announced this week that a contract has been awarded to build a new postoffice at Hi Hat.

The building will be owned by Richard Newman, of Lexington, who will lease it to the Postoffice Department for eight years with renewal options running through 20 years. It will be located on the north side of Kentucky State Highway 122. Preliminary estimates indicate that the initial investment in the project will approximate $12,000.

The one-story building will be air-conditioned and offers more working room than the present building. It will have an interior space of 640 square feet, compared with a total of 300 in the present building.

Two Officers Sued In Pollution Case

Floyd county's two conservation officers, Don Meade and Dalton Ray Conley, were sued for damages this week by a coal company employee who claimed they had falsely arrested him.

The plaintiff, Ivie Moore, was arrested Dec. 27 at the office of the Left Beaver Coal Company and was charged with stream pollution. He asked a total of $30,000 damages—punitive damages of $10,000 from each of the officers and an additional $10,000 from the officers jointly and their surety, the Western Casualty & Surety Co. of Kansas.

HOAX PROBE BEING MADE

False Reports Send Ambulances, Cruisers On Fruitless Missions

Ambulances, fire trucks and State Police cruisers raced to the scenes of reported tragedies Monday night, only to find that the unknown persons who had made telephone calls for help had spread false alarms.

The two funeral homes here and the Prestonsburg and Allen fire departments were notified that the home of Hansford Spears on Cow Creek was burning. One call said children were trapped in the flames; another, that Mr. Spears had suffered a heart attack.

When ambulances and a fire truck roared up, they found the Spears family peacefully sleeping, with not a lick of flame in sight.

Another call told State Police that a man had been shot at a place on U. S. 23, near Cow Creek. The officers found this also to be a hoax.

Graham Burchett, chief of the Allen fire department and captain of the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad, said later that a serious effort is being made to trace the calls.

CRIME CYCLE HITS COUNTY

Thieves Repeat 1967 Breaks As 10 Places Looted Since Holidays

Officers are beginning to wonder what condition prevails that induces an epidemic of breaks into businesses, homes, schools and churches at or around the beginning of a new year.

For two months toward the end of 1967 Floyd county was almost free of such offenses. Then, with the holidays and running on into this month, thieves went to work.

Sheriff Joe W. Lewis said this week that the same situation prevailed a year ago.

Three Left Beaver Creek breaks are the most recent in the string. Tires, batteries and other items valued at $92.85 were taken from the Western Auto Store at Melvin, early last week, and Sheriff Lewis arrested Tavis Akers in connection with the case. A day later the Bobby Hall Service Station at McDowell was looted of $89.25 worth of tools and cash. Crit Butler and Homer Wright were later arrested. Then, last Thursday, four juveniles were arrested on a charge of breaking into the store of Joe and Violet Moore at Drift and of taking $16 in coins, cigarettes and other items. Three of the same four were also arrested after six windows in the Drift grade school were broken.

The outbreaks began on Right Beaver Creek with the looting on Christmas night of the Collins Hardware and Furniture Store at Lackey. This store was robbed at about the same time, the preceding year, and is a favorite target of thieves. No arrest has been made in this break, Sheriff Lewis said.

The only other break outside Prestonsburg which has not been solved, Lewis said, was made into the Hornsby Fountain at Garrett last Tuesday night. Twenty watches valued at $200 were taken, and damage to the building was placed at $200. Sheriff Lewis said boxes in which some of the watches were packed have been found.

Moore, a foreman for the coal company, also claimed the officers "assaulted, battered and manhandled" him, causing him to suffer bodily injury. He also contends that the officers acted without warrant, or other judicial order, or other authority of law at a time when he had not committed any offense. The defendants, he alleges, forcibly pulled him from his chair and pushed and shoved him out of the office after handcuffing him, and forced him into their vehicle. Moore was placed under $500 bond here. The alleged violation laid against him was presented by one or both of the officers to the grand jury.

GRAND JURY INDICTS 37

Lone Murder Bill Amended; Jury Says Less Crime in Floyd

With the grand jury back in session Wednesday and reported ready to adjourn at the end of the day, the January term of circuit court this week was dragging to a close after a desultory session which was made more difficult by a long period of bad weather.

The only murder case set for trial, that of Granville Crittendon, Chicago man accused by the grand jury in the death of his wife, was continued till April 22 when Crittendon appeared Monday for hearing of a child desertion charge against him. He pleaded that he had no attorney, and the court named Marshall Davidson to represent him. Davidson moved for a continuance on the grounds that he had not had time to prepare for

State Police Tell Floyd Road Deaths

Floyd county had 14 traffic deaths in 1967—an increase of three over the preceding year—and among the five counties of the area served by the Pikeville Post, Kentucky State Police, Floyd was next to Pike county in the number of fatalities.

The two-year fatality record for the five counties, as reported by State Police in a review of its activities for 1967 follows:

Pike	15	17
Floyd	14	11
Johnson	7	9
Magoffin	7	3
Martin	5	2
Totals	48	42

The 1967 report, prepared by Sgt. Douglas L. Sword, Post commander, shows that state troopers investigated 1,339 accidents during last year in which 801 persons were injured in addition to those killed. Arrests included 2,971 for speeding, driving while intoxicated, etc.; 3,052 for driving without operator's license or registration plates; 356 criminal arrests. Seven murder cases were investigated.

This Town . . . That World

Now, the other side has hijacked one of our ships and its crew, as boldly as ever the Barbary pirates operated in the early days of the country. Robert Pinckney, our envoy back then, handed down an ultimatum to those ruffians which is still quoted. But if he were to talk to North Korea now, he would probably revise his famous words to read, "Billions for defense but not one mint for tribute."

THE WOLF QUESTION

The feeling has been growing recently that dogs are only a few generations and generous rounds of dog-food removed from their ancestors, the wolves. Having heard of this, I've been reading about wolves. Fellow says they're the worst maligned animals around; deplors the "Big, Bad Wolf" image Little Red Riding Hood and some other characters fastened on the poor things. Another challenges anybody to supply him absolute proof that a wolf ever killed a human.

As one editor put it, "Any man who says a wolf ever ate him is a blasted liar!"

City Hall Fire Loss Placed at $75,000

Further Use Of Building Under Study

Night Blaze Chases Council from Meet; Fire Marshal Called

Fate of Prestonsburg's 60-year-old Municipal Building remained in doubt this week as a study of the damage caused by last Thursday night's fire was being studied.

Can the burned-out structure be rebuilt? Or must it be torn down and a replacement built? These are questions being asked.

The fire, which broke out while the City Council was in session in a first-floor office of the structure, burned away the roof and entire second floor.

The wide variance of opinion as to what can be done with what remains caused the Council Monday night to call on the state fire marshal to make an estimate of the damages and to ascertain if it is possible to use the existing walls.

City Manager Curtis Clark estimated the damage "at a minimum of $75,000," and Councilman Clifford Wright, who is acting mayor in the absence of Mayor George P. Archer, said that figure is "very conservative." Wright said he has been advised that a crack extends down the remaining front wall of the gutted building.

An adjuster for the insurance firm which insured the building contends the loss is only 60 percent and that reconstruction is feasible. The firm has $54,000 insurance on the structure itself. The contents were not insured.

The blaze was reported around 8:20 p.m. while the Council meeting was in progress. The fire chief, John Perry, and his assistant, Tommy Blackburn, were both at the meeting when a call from the front told them and others at the Council session that the building was on fire.

Perry quickly called the fire station, and fire trucks were brought to the scene by Bud Alexander and David Cooley. Members of the Council were in (See Story No. 1, Page 4)

Salisbury Case Goes To Morgan for Trial

Circuit Judge Hollie Conley last Thursday directed that the next trial of Roy Salisbury, accused slayer of three Floyd countians, will be held in the Morgan circuit court at West Liberty.

The change of venue order was made after a hearing was held by Judge Conley last Thursday on the location of the court which will hear Salisbury's next trial. The case had earlier been venued to the Clark circuit court at Winchester but that court refused trial on the grounds that there are other counties between Floyd and Clark county in which a fair trial can be had.

In accepting jurisdiction of the case Circuit Judge W. Major Gardner, of West Liberty, said Salisbury's trial will be set for Feb. 26.

Salisbury was transferred from the county jail here to the Morgan county jail this week. Since the slaying of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Denney and Thomas Combs near Drift in April, 1964, the defendant has been shifted back and forth from Prestonsburg to other prisons and hospitals on several occasions. Prior to his conviction by a Pike county jury he was taken to a Louisville hospital for observation. After his trial, he was taken to Eddyville prison and remained in "Death Row" there several months while the verdict of the trial jury was being appealed. When the Court of Appeals reversed the verdict he was returned to jail here. Last December, he was taken to Clark county jail when the case was venued there for trial. Then he was returned here after the Clark court declined to hear the case. And now to West Liberty.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my loving husband, Clark, who passed away January 29, 1966:

Two years ago God sent an angel And He called my darling home, For He needed another flower To bloom around His shining throne.

His head was crushed, back in a coal mine, Just about the hour of eight, Now he rests on a lonely mountain

In a deep and narrow grave. But I know that he is happy When he left this world below, For he saw his home in heaven Just before he had to go.

But he left my home so lonely, Loneliness no one can know, For it's not the same without him.

lege, considered the lowest priority of the two-year college grants, was canceled, Gilbert said.

High-priority community college grants not affected by the cutback went to colleges at Louisville, Ashland, Henderson and Elizabethtown.

The $450 million that was to have been spent on college and university buildings this year will be cut about one-third, to $300 million, officials said.

And funds for health-teaching facilities - mainly medical and dental schools - are to be cut by $53 million from an authorized $175 million.

Hospital construction funds were left with only slight reductions, officials said, because of the increased need for hospital space generated by the medicare and medicare programs. A planned $274 million outlay will be reduced by $11 million.

In elementary and secondary education, the government's $1 billion a year program of aid to poor youngsters will not be reduced.

But funds for supplementary education centers, to be administered by the states this year for the first time, will be cut by 10 percent, or $20 million.

Federal impact aid - given school districts whose pupil populations are increased because of federally connected activities in the area - will be reduced by about five percent, or $20 million.

trial of the case, and Circuit Judge Conley granted postponement of both cases.

Me a while, Commonwealth's Attorney Harold Stumbo asked the grand jury to amend the murder indictment against Crittendon so as to include the "omission to act" phase which may apply under common law. This provides that death may be caused by an omission to act at all when one is under legal duty to act; and so a murder or manslaughter charge might apply, according to the circumstances, if a man causes the death of his helpless wife or child by inexcusable failure to furnish shelter, food or medical attention.

Mrs. Crittendon was dead in the back seat of the family car when her husband drove to the home at Weeksbury of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe P. Tackett. He denied knowledge of her death, saying he last spoke to her when they were at or near Winchester, Kentucky.

A laboratory analysis of the dead woman's blood showed evidences of wood alcohol in lethal quantity, it was said.

The outing and wounding charge against Oliver Setser also was continued, when he pleaded that he was unable to employ counsel. The court named Burl W. Spurluck to represent him and set the case for trial April 8.

The one-year jail term given John Henry Scalf after his conviction on a charge of involuntary manslaughter was probated Monday for a period of two years, but he will be required to serve one month of the term in jail. It was specified in the order that these 30 days may be served on week-ends to avoid loss of employment for the defendant. His $200 fine stands.

Earlier in the month, the Wayland school was broken into and $40 in cash and a watch were taken. Juveniles were arrested. On Jan. 3 the B. & C. Hardware at Hueysville was looted of approximately $1,050 worth of tools and other items. James Jacobs was arrested in this break.

Brothers, aged 17 and 15, were arrested in the destruction of a light at the Clark Branch church at Endicott. They pleaded guilty and were placed under probation until they are 21 after they had paid $55.86 covering court costs and replacement of the light.

Unsolved breaks made in Prestonsburg, earlier in the month, were made at Lloyd's Hardware and the Harris Brothers Construction Company.

Dog Goes Home in Style— TV Station Sends Plane To Make Travel Easier

"Corky," the canine wayfarer who found the community of Allen a friendly port-of-call last week, was back home Monday in Shreveport, La., to join his owners, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie McFadden.

Corky went home in style - asleep in a basket aboard a plane sent to Combs Airport, near here, by Station KLSA-TV, Shreveport. Two top officials of the television station accompanied the pilot of the plane.

present-day hair-dos, especially the shaggy-dog look with young men. I call that real unobservant of this biok. It behooves me as much to discuss hair fashions as it would a resident of a nudist colony to lament the mini-skirt.

Personally, I dislike any style or fad that makes the male indistinguishable from the female, and vice-versa. But when I get wound up to scorch the locks of some of these lads, I get to harking back, and that cramps my style.

You see, I remember pictures of those powdered wigs dandies once wore, of the stock and peruke of Colonial days, the sweeping pompadour which wasn't so long ago that my Dad eyed the scissors and yours truly in the same glance. And forgive me if I mention those dainty curls and "burnsides" some sported.

A few years ago, we were directing our barbed comments at the Mohawk haircut. Tomorrow - what?

My advice, fellows, is hold on to it - cut it or let it grow, but hold onto it.

Fashions come and go. The mini is about to become the maxi, and so on. But men's pockets are actually the same. There's no change in them.

The dog was first seen at Allen when it joined boys at play. His friendliness won friends. They took him home with him, fed him, bedded him down. A story in the daily newspapers drew national attention. Corky could have taken his pick of homes.

How the dog reached Allen from Detroit, where his owners had left him two years ago, has not been determined.

Seeing the dog off at the airport were three of his Allen friends - Byron Hamilton, Joe Pelphrey and George Scott. Television men who came here to accompany Corky home said a full-dress homecoming was ready for him at Shreveport.

Assembly Cleans Deck For Legislative Action

Frankfort, Ky.—The Kentucky Legislature completed organization with the appointment of standing committees during the second week of the 1968 session and cleared its deck for consideration of proposed legislation. For the first time in recent years, the 14 committees in each house, reduced from a total of 67 at the 1966 regular session, will closely follow in political complexion the proportional partisan division of the General Assembly.

The Democrats hold a 24-14 majority in the Senate and a 57-43 majority in the House.

The Republican minorities in both the Senate and House generally expressed satisfaction through their leadership with the representation their party was given on the committees by the Democratic-controlled Committees on Committees.

The committees are:

Agriculture and Natural Resources, Appropriations and Revenue, Banking and Insurance, Business Organizations and Professions, Cities, Counties and Special Districts, Education, Elections and Constitutional Amendments, Health and Welfare, Highways and Traffic Safety, Judiciary, Labor and Industry, Public Utilities and Transportation, State Government.

One of the first skirmishes of the biennial session took place when the House by voice vote adopted a resolution endorsing the proposed Red River dam in Powell county, a $114 million flood control project of the federal government. Rep. Charles T. Walters, D-Winchester, sponsored the resolution.

Although scores of bills already have been introduced, large portions of major interest are being centered on those dealing with repeal or revision of the compulsory vehicle inspection law and with standard time versus daylight saving time.

Several bills to keep Kentucky on standard time all year long have been introduced. Unless standard time action is taken at this session, federal law will put Kentucky on daylight saving time, the last Sunday in April.

Three bills were introduced to eliminate or drastically change the mandatory vehicle annual inspection law passed in 1966.

Concerning action to repeal this bill, state officials have pointed out that it might cost the state a loss of $9.4 million in federal highway funds this year. States without satisfactory auto inspection systems are penalized 10 percent. Kentucky is due $94 million in federal highway aid in 1968.

Other bills introduced would: Give relief to parents with children in college by authorizing state income tax credits for certain college expenses.

Keep state workers on the job during five state holidays but give them instead one and one-half days vacation time instead of one day each month. (This bill would not effect the observance of the holidays by banking institutions.)

Change the date of primary elections from late May to a date in August. Primaries in Kentucky once were held on the first Saturday of August.

Require members of boards of education to have at least 12th grade educations instead of eighth grade educations, as at present.

1968 TAGS NECESSARY

To Qualify Vehicle For Inspection Work Now Required by Law

Frankfort, Ky.—Failure to do their homework is preventing many Kentucky motorists from qualifying their automobiles for the final exam in the state's new compulsory motor vehicle inspection program, which went into effect January 1.

A car must have its 1968 license tag before it can be inspected, state motor vehicle inspection director Dunlap Elliott says. "Many motorists didn't realize this and we have had to turn them down."

Otherwise, says Elliott, the program has "gotten off the ground fairly smoothly."

January and February are voluntary months for the inspection. Beginning in March, inspections must be made by the end of the month corresponding to the last digit on the license tag.

For example, the numbers ending in three require inspections during March; those ending in four, in April; five, in May, and so on through zero which must be inspected in October. And, since January and February are the voluntary months, the numbers ending in one must be inspected in November and those in two, in December.

This system will be in effect this year only. Beginning in 1969, each vehicle must be inspected the same month it was checked this year.

The maximum fee as set by state law is $2.50 per inspection. The inspection includes tail lights, head lights, turn signals, parking lights, exhaust system, tires, brakes and brake linings, horn, front suspension, windshield wipers, mirror and all window glass.

Necessary repairs must be made within five days and the car returned for re-inspection. There will be no charge for the extra inspection.

It is unlawful for motorists to use their vehicles on the highways after the five days have elapsed unless the necessary repairs have been made.

SUTER'S GRASS DISCOVERED ALMOST A CENTURY AGO BY MENIFEE-CO. FARMER

Almost 100 years ago this spring—in 1875, to be exact—a young, newly married farmer in Menifee county took his oxen and plow high up on a hillside to prepare land for his first corn crop. As he plowed he noticed a few clumps of green grass where his oxen would stop and graze each time they went by.

The young man, William Suter, was impressed with the hardness and early growth of grass; so, instead of plowing it up, he saved it and later gathered the seed. Each year he planted a bigger patch of his "native" grass until, by the turn of the century, a whole hillside was covered with what became known as "Suter's Grass."

Tests at the Kentucky Experiment Station in the 1930's confirmed Suter's evaluation of the grass, and farmers were urged to try small plots of it on their own farms. They tried it and liked it and that was the start of Kentucky 31 fescue which it had been named by the Station research men. By now Kentucky 31 fescue is growing in almost every country in the temperate zones of the world. In this state it is the most important grass for soil improvement and conservation, roadside planting and pasture development. As a cash seed crop it has brought hundreds of millions of dollars to Kentucky seed producers. In appreciation for Mr. Suter's foresight a tablet, imbedded in a high boulder, was erected in 1948 at the farm near Frenchburg where the mountain farmer discovered the grass long years before.

That incident leads up to a national effort to discover other new plants to help protect, beautify and enrich the American landscape.

Legislators Are Affected By Findings During Tour Of State Hospital, School

Kentucky legislators, touring Frankfort State Hospital and School last week, were impressed by what they saw—but in a negative manner.

More than half of the lawmakers made the recent inspection of the state institution for mentally retarded. Established in 1860, it was the first in Kentucky and is fourth-oldest in the nation. It now houses nearly 700 residents, with a waiting list of some 200.

The legislators noted the inadequate heating facilities, lack of fire escape for the second-floor infirmary, and the poor condition of the buildings in general.

Low pay of the psychiatric aides, each of whom must care for 30 or more inmates, also was cited. These aides are paid $219 a month, less than the federal poverty-level standard of $3,000 a year.

Several of the legislators suggested that the demands of mental care might be more pressing than that of education. The Education Department's budget request for teacher-pay raises and school construction totals $127 million in additional state funds over the next biennium.

"What I saw made me physically sick," commented Floyd county's Representative W. J. Reynolds.

"I would like to see every teacher in the state make this tour and see what we are seeing," said Mrs. Neil Guy McNamara, D-Mt. Sterling. She is a former school administrator and member of the House Education Committee.

M. J. Appel, director of the school, said it was necessary to buy $15,000 worth of electric fans last summer. "It was not only difficult to survive in the heat, but it also was difficult for the people who work here."

His colleagues applauded when Sen. Romano L. Mazzoli, D-Louisville, said during the question period that followed the tour. "If we can leave this place and go back to our homes and let these children freeze all winter long, it's a scandal upon us."

LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEES

The 1968 General Assembly has reduced the number of committees in each chamber to 14. There was a total of 67 in the 1966 regular session.

Newsome, Nutter Receive Degrees Jan. 21 at Berea

Lonnie Fred Newsome, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gulf Newsome, of Dema, and David Herron Nutter, son of Mrs. Nora Nutter, Payne, Ohio, formerly of this county, were among the 42 Berea College seniors awarded a degree at the end of the first semester.

Newsome received the degree of bachelor of science in industrial arts; Nutter, the bachelor of arts in economics.

Newsome was a 1957 graduate of Wayland high school. While attending Berea College, he was active in the Industrial Arts Club. He fulfilled his labor assignment at Boone Tavern Hotel and the Physical Education Department. He and his wife plan to live in Lexington where he will do graduate work at the University of Kentucky.

Nutter is a 1963 graduate of Maytown high school, Langley. While attending Berea he was an active member of the Economics Club, and was a senator with the Berea College Student Association. To fulfill his labor contract David worked in the Dean's Office, Seabury gym, and Alumni Building.

Recognition services for the graduates was held in Phelps Stokes Chapel last Sunday. The speaker at the service was Orin B. Graff, professor of education, Department of Educational Administration and Supervision, University of Tennessee.

Slate Public Hearings On Time, Inspection Act

Frankfort, Ky.—Public hearings have been scheduled for the week starting Jan. 28 on two of the most controversial issues before the 1968 Kentucky Legislature.

They are whether to keep standard time or go on daylight saving time from the last Sunday of April to the last Sunday of October each year, and whether to retain or repeal the compulsory motor vehicle safety inspection law now in effect.

A hearing on the time issue has been scheduled by the House State Government Committee in the House Chamber. The Senate and House Committees on Highways and Public Safety plan a joint hearing on auto inspection.

These announcements were made as the Legislature prepared to adjourn the third week of its sessions. News stories gaining headlines during the week ranged from a Senator's refusal of free basketball tickets to a proposal of a new State Constitution Convention.

Freshman Senator Romano Mazzoli, D-Louisville, was the legislator declining an invitation accepted by most of his colleagues from the University of Kentucky to attend a dinner and basketball game at Lexington.

Mazzoli was quoted as saying he was "no enemy of UK, but it infuriates me that they think they can pressure me with basketball tickets and dinner . . . is it just coincidental that UK's budget will soon be up for consideration?"

Mazzoli also took a dim view of gifts to legislators by other groups, mentioning brief cases and jewelry cases. He said he wouldn't necessarily vote against them, but "I sure as hell won't vote for them just because of a game or a jewel box."

The proposal that the Legislature take the first move at this session in the long drawn-out procedure of calling a convention to revise Kentucky's present constitution was made in a final report by the Constitution Revision Assembly.

This constitution assembly, named during the Breathitt administration, suffered a crushing defeat in 1966 when the revised constitution it drew up and offered was defeated at the polls by a vote of 517,034 to 143,133.

Most of the legislative session so far has been taken up with the introduction of bills and resolutions. Many of the bills now are ready for action. Some of them already have been passed by one house and sent to the other for approval.

A bill has been introduced in the Senate to amend the State Constitution to do away with the 100 percent fair cash value in property assessments. It would provide for "a uniform rate within classes not to exceed 100 percent" and would require the Legislature to fix assessment levels.

Collect Soil Samples Early, King Advises

Soil samples should be taken from fields that are to be tested this spring just the first day the ground is dry enough to plow, says Prichard King, area extension specialist in agronomy.

Farmers should have the results of a soil test and their limestone and fertilizer recommendations well in advance of buying and applying these materials.

The soil testing laboratories are usually crowded in the latter part of the season. Farmers may have to wait two weeks or longer for the test results. The waiting period may increase as the planting season approaches and laboratories become more crowded, warns Mr. King.

A soil sample should represent the field or area to be treated. Thus a farmer should collect the sample from 10 or more spots in the field. Instructions on how to take good soil samples are available at the County Extension Office.

Sometimes, we wonder what we would do for something to talk about if the weather did not come to the rescue. It gives rise to the most inane remarks—"Nice day," or "Cold, isn't it?"—when any but the senseless already know the truth about the situation.

And now we add our own inanity to the discussion: Kentucky is blessed because its weather is always changing, never monotonous.

You knew that already—sure. But did you know that changing climatic conditions—heat, cold, wind and rain, snow and ice—demand homes that are well-constructed and able to stand up under the extremes of weather, in all seasons?

For those time-tested materials, strong, attractive, made especially to meet the needs of the people of this section, see us first.

Jury Acquits Four Men In Pike-Co. Fraud Case

Pikeville, Ky. — Four Pike county men won acquittal last Thursday on charges that they conspired to defraud the federal government of about $45,000 in flood-relief funds.

The U. S. District Court jury used about 5½ hours to reach its verdict after listening to two weeks of testimony.

Former Pike County Judge Ervin S. Pruitt, Pikeville City Manager W. E. Butcher, and Julius C. and William J. Williamson, father and son, were cleared of all charges in a three-count indictment.

The prosecution failed in its attempt to prove that only $10,500 out of a $55,220 cleanup allotment was spent legally after the major flood of March, 1963.

It had contended that Pruitt transferred $25,740 of the amount to William J. Williamson and Explorer Post 14 of the Boy Scouts, that Williamson deposited just $10,500 and withdrew the remainder in cash.

Butcher was accused of accepting $10,500 for the city for help in clearing out two large piles of debris from the banks of the Big Sandy River and then not performing on the agreement. Butcher proved that the city's money was deposited to the general fund account.

Defense counsel relied heavily on its contention that disposal of the money was not at issue, that only the question of conspiracy was involved, and that "reasonable doubt" favored the defendants.

The government introduced testimony that William J. Williamson bought his father a car and himself a boat out of the Scout account, and that the father was paid $1,200 for supervisory work out of the same account.

Assistant U. S. Atty. Moss Noble said the Hall Construction Co. completed the entire clean-up project under a $10,500 contract.

The defense responded that cash payments were made to about 40 workers assigned to the project by Scout leaders.

Kentucky Players Sought for Cast

Fort Harrod Drama Productions, Inc., announced this week that it is seeking an all-Kentucky cast for this summer's production of THE LEGEND OF DANIEL BOONE, which will open its third season at Old Fort Harrod State Park, Harrodsburg, on June 28.

According to Manager-Director John Crockett, "Our policy of using professional actors is not changed, but I feel that there is as much professional quality talent in and around Kentucky as can be found elsewhere. Announcements have been sent to colleges, community theatres and professional schools, but there are many qualified young people who cannot be reached except through stories in local newspapers. Many theatre trained people teaching in schools or otherwise free in the summer, would like to act with a professional company. These are the folks we want to find."

All positions in the summer-long drama are salaried and the character ages range from 18 to 50 years. Rehearsals begin on or about June 10, with performances running from June 28 thru September 1. Those interested should send a letter of application or a request for further information to: John Crockett, director, THE LEGEND OF DANIEL BOONE, P. O. Box 365, Harrodsburg, Ky. 40330.

Frankfort, Ky.—Gov. Louie B. Nunn will speak to representatives from 14 states attending the annual meeting of the Association of Southern Agricultural Workers, Feb. 5-8 at Louisville. Other speakers will include Dr. John Oswald, University of Kentucky president, and Dr. William A. Seay, ASAW president.

Frankfort, Ky.—Floyd Barnett, 49, of Bondsville, is the recently appointed manager of Old Fort Harrod State Park at Harrodsburg. Formerly a farmer and general store owner in Washington county, he previously was with the Edwards Sausage Co., Lawrenceburg. Barnett succeeds Miss Martha Adams as manager of the park.

The three sons of Matthew Patton are given credit for starting the blooded cattle business in Kentucky. They brought three "grade" heifers with them when they moved to the state from the Potomac River Valley in 1785. Later, their father brought his herd to Nicholasville. The American strain of shorthorn cattle began with this herd.

Frankfort, Ky.—Virgil D. Rogers, 35, Frankfort, has been appointed food officer for the Kentucky Department of Parks, replacing Chance Benassi, Jr. Rogers will be responsible for the administration of food services in park dining rooms and coffee shops and in three state cafeterias in Frankfort. Rogers comes to the Parks Department from the Capital City Vending Co., Frankfort, of which he has been owner and operator.

Cumberland Gap, near Middleboro, was twice taken and evacuated by the Confederates during the Civil War.

DOG, FAR FROM HOME, FINDS FRIENDS AT ALLEN

While some were feeding poison to dogs, folks at Allen this week were giving a stray which originally hailed from Louisiana but more recently from Michigan a taste of true Kentucky hospitality.

The little dog, which is of uncertain pedigree, wandered into town during the recent siege of winter, joined a group of boys at play, followed one of them, Byron Hamilton, home — and, after that, found friends and food almost every way he turned.

His tag bore the name of his owner and a Springhill, La. address. Byron's mother, Mrs. Henry Hamilton, called Springhill in an attempt to locate the owner, finally located him in Shreveport, Louisiana.

He was amazed, she said. "I haven't seen my dog in two years," he told her. "It's supposed to be in Detroit."

He told Mrs. Hamilton that circumstances forced him to leave the dog in Detroit while he returned home.

He asked Mrs. Hamilton to send the dog C.O.D., or he would send money in a few days to have it shipped.

A group of boys, his new-found friends, went to set up shipping arrangements but found the dog couldn't be sent by mail or handled by bus.

They were also told that Railway Express couldn't send a pet from Allen, since express freight from Eastern Kentucky is handled by closed trucks and not by a rail car with a clerk in attendance.

But the dog's well-wishers want him to arrive at his owner's home safe, sound and fed.

Some are pondering sending the dog by air from Huntington or Louisville. A community collection to finance the air trip has been suggested.

'Whatsoever Things'

BY DONALD E. WILDMON

Life is full of mysterious happenings. Some of the mysteries seem to occur at such a right time that many call them simply a coincidence. Such a coincidence, perhaps one of the most famous of all times, occurred to a man who has been called the greatest American who ever lived, Abraham Lincoln. It all happened one day while Abe was standing around on the front porch of the little country store that he and his partner, a fellow named Berry, ran up in Illinois.

Business was very poor. Berry turned to Abe during the course of their conversation and asked Abe a question. "How much longer do you think we can keep going?"

Abe answered him: "It looks like our business has about winked out," he said. "You know I wouldn't mind so much if we could sell everything we've got and pay all our bills and have just enough left over to buy one book, Blackstone's commentary on English law, but I guess I can't."

About that time a wagon drove up to the store. The man stopped the team and looked up at Abe. "I am trying to move my family West and I'm out of money," he said. "I've got a good barrel on here that I could sell for fifty cents." Abe gave the situation a good look, then he reached into his pocket and pulled out what was, according to him, "the last fifty cents I had" and gave it to the man.

Well, that barrel sat on the porch all day long and Berry made fun of Abe just about all that time. Late that afternoon Abe went over to where the barrel was and noticed some papers in the bottom that he had not noticed before. He put his long arm down and pushed the papers around until he hit something solid. He could tell by the way it felt that it was a book. Abe pulled it out of the barrel and stood astonished—the book was the commentary on English law by Blackstone.

Here are the words of Abe: "I stood there holding the book, looking up toward the heavens. There came a deep impression on me that God had something for me to do and He was showing me now that I had to get ready for it." And Abe did prepare himself, mentally and spiritually, for the great task that lay before him.

I know that there are those who say that was just a coincidence, and it could have been just that. Or it could have been a coincidence with some Divine planning behind it. Let us not rule that possibility out, for we cannot say that it was not any more than we can say that it was.

There are a lot of mysteries like that one. Paul says we should be "stewards of the mysteries of God." And we should be because it is true that "God moves in a mysterious way His wonders to perform." He did then, and He does today.

NEW PARK MANAGER
Frankfort, Ky.—Floyd Barnett, 49, of Bondsville, is the recently appointed manager of Old Fort Harrod State Park at Harrodsburg. Formerly a farmer and general store owner in Washington county, he previously was with the Edwards Sausage Co., Lawrenceburg. Barnett succeeds Miss Martha Adams as manager of the park.

The three sons of Matthew Patton are given credit for starting the blooded cattle business in Kentucky. They brought three "grade" heifers with them when they moved to the state from the Potomac River Valley in 1785. Later, their father brought his herd to Nicholasville. The American strain of shorthorn cattle began with this herd.

Open wide and say ah.

Surprise. You thought you were going to see a roomy, homely Volkswagen station wagon.

But it's a new kind of roomy, homely Volkswagen station wagon.

To begin with, getting in is easier: the front doors are lower and wider. And with the side door we've achieved a milestone in station wagon door-dom. It slides.

Once inside, you might even think you're in a normal car. Everything's padded. Including the dashboard, visors, and the armrests. (Besides looking like a car, we've improved the suspension so it even rides like a car.)

There are bucket seats up front. And where most cars have something called a console, the new box has an aisle. (If the mood should strike you, you can walk the length of the box.)

So when you look inside the new box expect to be pleasantly surprised. But not overwhelmed.

Because as boxes go, our station wagon is now pretty fancy.

But as station wagons go, it's still a box.

"Confidence Is Still Our Most Important Asset"

In July, 1946, William R. Callihan and I, on our return from serving in the Medical Corps of the United States Army during World War II, began our partnership in Carter & Callihan Funeral Home. After the death of E. P. Arnold, we purchased the Arnold Funeral Home, a business begun in 1925 by Mr. Arnold, who was a pioneer in the funeral profession in Floyd county. The combining of Carter & Callihan and Arnold Funeral Home established a firm with 43 years of continuous operation.

August 1, 1964, William R. Callihan sold his share in our firm to me, and I have continued the business, this year changing the name to Carter Funeral Home. In September, 1966, my son, James J. Carter, II, on graduating from Cincinnati College of Mortuary Science, Cincinnati, O., and successfully passing the National Licensing Board examinations, came into the firm as practicing mortician and manager. We have retained the services of Bradie Shepherd, who began in this business in the employment of Mr. Arnold.

Our ambulances are well-equipped and ready to serve you at moments' notice. We can give air-ambulance and air-hearse service through the Porter Aviation Service at the Combs Airport, near Auxier, Ky. We have been serving the United Mine Workers for years, and we are authorized by Medicare to serve its ambulance needs. We have modern equipment and facilities, and our establishment is modernized and open for inspection at all times. We invite you to come in and visit us and look over our establishment and equipment.

Our business was built, and will continue to grow, by your trust and confidence. We offer you the same painstaking service we have always given and will continue to give. In these days of the hydrogen bomb and men in space, everything is hurry, rush, hurry. We have not, nor shall we look for short cuts in serving you. We are entrusted with a very sacred task, that of attending to the last services to be performed for a loved one. Therefore, we hold it as our moral obligation to do our utmost to carry out with dignity and honor all the final necessary arrangements.

We have modernized our funeral home, kept up with the latest in embalming techniques, and maintained modern vehicles and funeral coaches, but one thing shall not change, and that is our service to you, our friends. By present-day standards, in this world of bustle and hurry, it may be thought old-fashioned to take one's time and be thorough in all one does—if so, then let us be called old-fashioned, for this is our method. We hold as our motto the Golden Rule—"Do unto others as you would have others do unto you."

ADDITIONAL DISABILITY PAY POSSIBLE UNDER NEW LAW

Disability benefits at age 50 will soon be payable to the widow, widower, or divorced wife of a worker who was insured under social security at the time of death, according to Daryl E. Ratliff, district manager, Pikeville Social Security office.

The new disability benefit, which was made possible by the 1967 Social Security Amendments signed into law by President Johnson on January 3, 1968, will first become payable for the month of February, 1968. The benefit will range from 50 to 82½ percent of the deceased worker's primary insurance amount, depending on the age of the applicant.

In order to qualify on a deceased husband's account, a widow must have become totally disabled for any gainful activity either before, or within seven years following, the husband's death. However, in the case of a widowed mother who received benefits as a widow with children, disability may have occurred within the seven-year period after such payments ended.

Another disability provision change resulting from the 1967 Amendments greatly liberalizes the work requirements for young workers, according to Ratliff. Under this liberalization, any worker becoming disabled after attainment of age 24 and before age 31 will be insured for disability benefits if he has quarters of coverage in at least half of the calendar quarters elapsing after attainment of age 21 and up to and including the quarter of disablement. Further, any worker becoming disabled before age 24 will be insured if he has quarters of coverage in at least half of the 12 quarters ending with the quarter of disablement.

As in the case of the age 50 widow or widower, disability benefits under this provision will first be payable for the month of February, 1968. Complete details and assistance in making application are available at the Pikeville District Social Security Office.

Student Loans Funded Through the Remainder of This Fiscal Year

Frankfort, Ky.—Gov. Louie B. Nunn has restored a cut of $32,900 to the State's Guaranteed Student Aid Program for higher education.

The money will be used in guaranteeing repaying of loans totaling over $300,000, which should be sufficient for needs through this fiscal year.

For the next biennium, Nunn says, the program will require appropriations by the General Assembly.

Billy F. Hunt, executive secretary of the Kentucky Authority for Guaranteed Student Aid, said the money will be deposited with United Student Aid, Inc., Indianapolis, which administers the program.

Hunt said students with applications pending should soon receive their money.

The student aid program for both higher education and vocational education is funded by state and federal funds, which insure loans obtained through local lending institutions. Each $1 on deposit generates $10 for lending purposes.

Hunt said sufficient funds are on hand for vocational education purposes.

As of Dec. 1, Hunt said, 6,300 students in higher education alone had received loans averaging about $650 a year since the program began in September, 1966. Loans to students in vocational education began last June.

Evangelism-in-Depth Training Work Slated For Launching, Sunday

Next Sunday, many pastors and Christian leaders throughout Eastern Kentucky will simultaneously launch a training program designed to equip every Christian to become an effective witness among his neighbors and to share his faith with them.

Thousands of training manuals have been delivered which will be used for this purpose. Four training sessions have been outlined: (1) The "Who" and "Why" of witnessing, (2) the "How" of witnessing, (3) the "When" of witnessing, and (4) the "Continuation" of witnessing. Immediately following the completion of the training program will be the Visitation Kick-off Day on Feb. 25 when everyone who has received instruction will be mobilized to visit his neighbors and to share with them the things he has learned. The goal of this effort is to reach every person in Eastern Kentucky with the Gospel.

The Evangelism-in-Depth "Call to Prayer" will be heard daily, Monday through Friday, over Radio Station WPRT, Prestonsburg.

'WHATSOEVER THINGS'

By DONALD E. WILDMON

About 1900 years ago a fellow by the name of Paul wrote that he had a "thorn in the flesh." No one has ever known for sure what Paul's "thorn in the flesh" was, but many seem to think it was a physical defect. Despite his "thorn in the flesh," or maybe because of it, Paul became one of the outstanding characters of all history. Now there is not a single one of us who does not have some sort of handicap, or a "thorn in the flesh." Most of us like to blame our shortcomings and failures on that handicap, but we should not. I would like to pass along to you a list of people who have been bothered by the "thorn in the flesh."

Poverty was the handicap of this man. He was so poor that at the age of six he practiced his numbers in a cemetery using tombstones as slates. He became one of the foremost mathematicians of all time. His name was Niccolo Fontana.

Poverty was the handicap of this man, also. He was the orphaned son of an Iowa blacksmith. Later he became wealthy and served as President of the United States. His name was Herbert C. Hoover.

Deafness was his handicap. And though he composed some of the world's greatest masterpieces, he could not hear his own music. His name was Ludwig von Beethoven.

Blindness and deafness were her handicaps. From the time she was two years old she could neither see nor hear. Yet she remains an inspiration to countless others. Her name is Helen Keller.

A crippled body was the handicap of this man. He was the victim of polio who had a body racked with pain. But he became President of the United States. His name was Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Ill health was his handicap. He was an invalid most of his life and seldom knew a moment without pain. His name was Robert Louis Stevenson.

Ignorance was the handicap of this man. He knew nothing about electricity, but inventions in the field of electricity brought him fame and fortune. His name was Alexander Graham Bell.

Ugliness was the handicap of this lady. She was abused and mistreated as a child. Yet she became one of the world's greatest actresses. Her name was Sarah Bernhardt.

The list could go on and on. Stories of men and women who have overcome handicaps to make a mark in life and leave life a little better than they found it. There is one other similar story I would like to share. His handicaps were disgrace and failure. He was brought up in a little country village on the edge of civilization. He tried preaching but got into trouble with the authorities and was sentenced to die. His execution was that of a common troublemaker. His name was Jesus of Nazareth.

And still we complain because of some little handicap.

Religious Emphasis To Mark Observance of Youth Week Here

Observance of Christian Youth Week will begin at the First Church of God, North Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Sunday, Jan. 28. The theme to be carried out in the observance of this special week will be "So This Is the Church of God."

In the 11 a.m. worship service Elder Goble, Jr. will be the speaker. Mr. Goble, a native of Prestonsburg and a graduate of the local schools, has spent the last four and a half years in the armed forces. Mr. Goble recently returned from 18 months' service in Vietnam, and he plans to return to the service for another three years.

At the 7 p.m. worship service a film-strip, "Search for Involvement," will be shown. Youth of the church will be featured in all the services.

Wayland Man Named Savings Ass'n Director

Pikeville, Ky.—Dan Stone, of Wayland, comptroller of Evans-Elkhorn Division of Island Creek Coal Company, was elected to a three-year term as a member of the board of directors of the First Federal Savings & Loan Association of Pikeville, at the Association's annual shareholders meeting held January 17.

Two others were re-elected to three year terms: L. D. May, president of the Association, and Clinton Coleman, both of Pikeville. Other members of the board already serving three-year terms are William G. Hennessee, vice-president of the association, Dr. William C. Ratliff, B. P. Bogardus, Ronald W. May and J. U. Thacker, all of Pikeville.

All the incumbent officers were re-elected. They are: May, president; Hennessee, executive vice-president and treasurer; and Thacker, secretary.

Mrs. Toni Akers was elected assistant secretary and treasurer.

Perkins Would Create Revised WPA Program

Washington, D. C.—Rep. Carl Perkins last week called on Congress to go even further than President Johnson's proposals for helping the unemployed by creating a new version of the New Deal's Works Progress Administration (WPA).

The President, in his state of the Union address Wednesday night, called for $2.1 billion in training programs, including on-the-job training for the 500,000 who are still unemployed despite the national economic boom.

Perkins, in a speech in the House, said he endorses the President's goals, but the Eastern Kentucky congressman warned that more would be needed to help many of the unemployed.

Perkins will have a voice in the matter because the administration's job-training proposals will undoubtedly be referred to the House Education and Labor Committee, which he heads. Congress as a whole, however, has been in a conservative mood and might look skeptically at either proposal.

Perkins said the government, besides creating a partnership with private industry, should also become "the employer of last resort" for many of the poor who can't be prepared for private employment.

"We must not forget," he said, "that there are many who, because of their education deficiencies and other handicaps, are not capable of learning to perform the tasks of modern industry."

"I have in mind the men in their 40's or 50's who have been coal miners in my part of Kentucky and who are now unable to work in the mines."

Perkins pointed out that thousands of them have been enrolled in the government's Work Experience and Training (WET) program, often called the "Happy Pappy" program in Eastern Kentucky. It puts them to work on public-service crews and provides them with monthly subsistence payments.

But, he said, the results have shown two weaknesses:

"One is that some of these men cannot be trained for the tasks of modern industries. The other is that those who do acquire some of those skills will not be hired by private employers because of their age or because they would have to be transported to other parts of the country."

The congressman proposed that a new program "which borrowed the best features of Franklin Delano Roosevelt's Works Progress Administration (WPA)" would put them to work permanently on public projects.

Perkins said the men are capable of doing "any number of worthwhile things which would give them self-respect as well as money for themselves and their families and to see that their

All-Kentucky City Awards To Be Made At Feb. 14 Meeting

John M. Lewis, executive vice-president of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, this week announced that the awards in the 1967 Opportunity For Progress contest of the Kentucky Chamber, including the All-Kentucky Cities, will be presented at a noon luncheon in Lexington, February 14, at the Continental Inn.

Presenting the awards on behalf of the Community Development Committee of the state chamber, under which the contest is conducted each year, will be Kentucky Governor Louie B. Nunn. Chairman of the committee is Dan Stewart, of Lexington. Master of ceremonies will be Mark B. Davis, Kentucky Chamber president.

The Opportunity For Progress program is conducted each year for the purpose of stimulating community improvement throughout Kentucky. In 1967, 77 entries were received. Entries were received from all sections of the state. Final judging was in December.

Awards to be presented, in addition to the top awards of designation as All-Kentucky Cities for 1968, will include Certificates of Excellence. All communities entering receive Certificates of Participation.

Floyd Conservation Essay Winners To Be Announced

The winner of the Soil Conservation Essay contest has been selected and the announcement will be made in a few days, J. B. Clark, chairman of the Floyd County Soil Conservation District, said Monday. The SCD was a joint sponsor of the contest along with The Louisville Courier-Journal and Times and WHAS, Inc.

This year, 4,098 Floyd students participated in the contest and this was said to be most essays ever written in the county. Floyd county for the last several years has annually produced more essays for their contest than any other county in the state.

"We hope this record number again will be the largest participation in the state," Mr. Clark said.

Clark and the other supervisors expressed their appreciation of the interest and efforts of Charles Clark, superintendent of Floyd county schools, and his staff; the principals and teachers of participating schools; above all, the students for their fine job, and to Dr. Henry A. Campbell and staff at the Prestonsburg Community College for selecting a county winner from the school winners.

The following donated trophies for the contest:

The Bank Josephine, the First National Bank, Wright Bros., Jewelers, Floyd County Fish &

Enforcement Of Law Would Solve Problem Of Stray Dogs, Is Claim

"Recently we have had the poisoning of dogs in Floyd county, and I think the people are trying to tell us something about the problem of stray and unlicensed dogs that must stop," Dr. Russell L. Hall, county health doctor, said today.

"If there is a dog license law to help the control of dogs then why is it not enforced in this county?" Dr. Hall asked. "We need a strict enforcement of the dog control law."

Most persons that are bitten by dogs every year are bitten by unlicensed dogs, he added. "We have more stray dogs now than we have ever had in Floyd county. If we, the public, can get the county officials behind this law, then the number of stray and unwanted dogs will diminish to almost none."

He expressed the opinion that, if all the civic clubs in the county will get behind the dog law and show that they really want enforcement of this law, something can be worked out to the satisfaction of the entire county.
