

Park Drops Plan For 10 Cottages

Lodge Annex Of 12 Rooms Substituted

Commissioner Says High Utilities Cost Caused Plan Change

The Kentucky Department of Parks has dropped its plan to build 10 cottages as an addition to the vacation complex centered around May Lodge at Jenny Wiley State Park.

Instead, a 12-room addition to the lodge itself will be built, Parks Commissioner Robert Gable said Tuesday. The U. S. Commerce Department has given the Department of Parks financing approval to build the lodge addition.

The additional 10 cottages have been in the planning stage since early 1967, and the road to existing cottages had been extended to the proposed sites overlooking Dewey Lake.

Gable said cost of utility services to the proposed cottages made their construction financially impossible. He explained that the state would have had to extend the water and sewage systems to the cottages and also build a new sewage treatment plant.

The lodge, with an addition opened last year, now has 48 rooms. There are 16 vacation cottages. The number of cottages has never been adequate to meet the demand during the vacation season.

Federal funds will pay 60 percent of the cost of the proposed lodge addition.

'JOINTS' RING THIS COUNTY

Says Sheriff Lewis, Asking State Action To Curb Operations

Commenting on the liquor situation this week, Sheriff Joe W. Lewis said Floyd county is almost ringed with bootlegging joints which are within the jurisdiction of sheriffs of other counties or the state police.

Specifically, he pointed out such an illegal liquor operation on Howard Branch, Magoffin county, across the mountain from David; another in Magoffin, across the line at the top of the mountain separating Licking River from Salt Lick Creek; one, in Knott county, above Wayland; one across the hill from Toler Creek but in Pike county, and another on US 23, in Pike.

Lewis said he took a look at the operation in Magoffin county on Grassy Fork of Licking River, near the county line. "They appeared to be lined up, waiting their turns to buy," he said. He described others as "wide-open."

"I," Lewis said, "the state police will crack down on these places and close them down. I'll clean up Floyd county if it takes me 24 hours a day to do it."

This Town... That World

The shortest joke heard around the state is covered by two words: Merit System. It's rather old but I wouldn't say long-standing. It's so weak it can't stand long.

'AND POLITICS THE—'

This upcoming primary campaign in both political parties for the Senatorial nomination begins to look like something. The Republicans may be in for a real Donnybrook, with Eugene Siler and Marlowe Cook having at it and Leo Nunn, the Governor's brother, blasting away at Cook. And the Democrats have more candidates for the office than the party had, last time out, running for Jailer in this county. (See Story No. 1, Page 6)

Indict Perjurer, Judge Tells Jury

Circuit Judge Hollie Conley had only one specific recommendation to make to the newly empaneled grand jury for the April term of court last Monday morning, and he did not, as he customarily does, dismiss the petit jurors before giving his instructions.

He referred in particular to the case in which a case was reversed by the Court of Appeals on the ground that a witness in the trial had later stated he testified falsely.

"I want the grand jury," Judge Conley said, "to make every effort to deal with those who have admitted perjury. I feel very strongly about this."

The grand jury has only one murder case to investigate. One woman-member of the jury told Judge Conley that she is a relative of the victim in this case, and he advised her that she would merely sit out the probe into that particular case.

Most of the judge's remarks related to the matter of jury service. "As many are wanting on the jury as there are those wanting off, and some have given me a pretty rough time,"

Oswald To Leave University of Ky.

Dr. John W. Oswald resigned Tuesday as president of the University of Kentucky to become executive vice-president of the University of California.

The resignation, announced to the UK Board of Trustees, is effective September 1.

The 50-year-old educator gave no specific reason for the resignation, which has been rumored since late last week. He told Gov. Louie B. Nunn and the trustees he had given his decision deep consideration. Nunn serves as trustee chairman.

Nearly 800 UK students, reacting to radio reports at mid-morning that University of California President Charles Hitch had announced Oswald's acceptance of the position there, gathered outside the UK administration building an hour before the 2 p. m. trustees meeting to demonstrate their support for Oswald.

Throughout the morning students distributed leaflets publicizing the gathering.

Oswald told the board: "For many reasons I believe the position to which I now go provides the broadest opportunity for service to higher education. I look forward with enthusiasm to my new assignment as the No. 2 man in the nation's largest university with a current enrollment of 90,000 students."

Nunn replied that he and the trustees "regretfully" accepted Oswald's resignation. "It has not been my pleasure to work with you very long, but throughout the years I know of your concern and dedication to the university and Kentucky. I know the people of the state are grateful for what you've done and we're glad you can be with us until September."

"I'm sorry for any and all reasons that made this decision

GRAND JURY ENDS WORK

One Murder Indictment, Perjury Probe Feature Session of Three Days

The grand jury of the Floyd circuit court completed its work for the current session in a three-day session ending Wednesday.

Mrs. Mary Lou Flannery was named in a murder indictment, charged with the slaying at Martin of her former husband, Merlin Flannery. Her trial may be held during the current term, since she is unable to execute the $15,000 bond asked.

James Keen was named in a falsifying indictment which was made on the basis of his own affidavit to the effect that he had given false evidence in the trial of a damage suit growing out of a highway fatality near Wayland, in a collision of motor vehicles. Mrs. Naomi Green, widow of the victim in the accident, and her brother-in-law, Constable Kenneth Roberts, (See Story No. 5, Page 6)

Hamilton Child, Struck By Car March 21, Dies At Harlan Hospital

Gary Dwayne Hamilton, six-year-old Galveston child, died last Thursday in the Harlan Appalachian Regional hospital of injuries sustained March 21 when he was struck by a car near the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vernas Hamilton.

Driver of the car, John Estill Hall, 26, of Galveston, told State Police the accident occurred as he was travelling south on the Brannham's Creek road. As he neared a group of children standing by the roadside, one of them, the Hamilton child, suddenly darted in front of his car. No charges were brought against Hall. (See Story No. 7, Page 6)

NUNN NAMES W. H. MEADE

Paintsville Attorney, Former Congressman, New Personnel Head

W. Howes Meade, of Paintsville, onetime Seventh district Congressman, was named state personnel commissioner Tuesday by Gov. Louie B. Nunn to fill the vacancy created by the resignation last December of Walter Gattis, Democrat.

Later, the governor confirmed that he had issued an executive order declaring the post of Dr. Frank M. Gaines, Jr., chairman of the personnel commission, vacant. It was contended that Gaines had missed three or more consecutive meetings. Gaines claims he missed no regular meetings and said he informed Nunn that his attorney "would be in touch with him."

Meade, the new personnel commissioner, was elected to one term of Congress at the end of which he was defeated for reelection by the present Congressman, Carl D. Perkins.

Meade tackled the governorship in 1951, but was unsuccessful in beating Eugene Siler, of Williamsburg, for the Republican nomination.

In 1954, Meade again tackled Siler and four other Republicans in the GOP primary race for the old 8th District seat in Congress being vacated by U. S. Rep. James S. Golden, R. Pineville. (See Story No. 8, Page 6)

Higher Tuition Rate For Non-Residents May Get Opposition

Harry LaViers, member of the Council on Public Higher Education, expressed the feeling Monday in a meeting of the council at Morehead that increased tuition rates for out-of-state students are not above criticism.

"Personally," he said, "I see great advantages in having out-of-state students in our institutions. This is one way we sell Kentucky, and their presence among our Kentucky students provides an exchange of culture as well as ideas. I think we are wrong in making these students feel like undesirable."

The council conference on increased rates for non-Kentucky students had been proposed by Dr. Adron Doran, president of Morehead State University.

The council voted at Monday's meeting to name a committee to study the tuition situation and make its recommendations prior to the 1970 General Assembly session.

PCC's Bittman To Direct Summer Drama Program

Sam Bittman, English instructor and drama coach at Prestonsburg Community College, has been appointed director of the 1968 summer Amphitheatre program at Jenny Wiley State Park, it was announced Monday night by the executive committee of the Jenny Wiley Drama Association.

Mr. Bittman's experience in the theater is varied and extensive. Primarily a playwright, he has seen productions of his work at Hunter College in New York, the University of Iowa, New York University, Durant High School, Durant, Iowa, and at the Riverdale Showcase, an off-Broadway theatre in upper Manhattan.

He appeared in the production of his own play at Hunter College in 1964. Since that time he was involved as an actor in numerous productions at the University of Iowa, including "The Miracle Worker," "Two For the See-Saw," "Look Homeward, Angel" and several original scripts.

As director, Mr. Bittman received much acclaim for his studio production of "French Pastry and a Russian Tart," an original play by Nick Meyers; and, more recently, for his production of "The Fantastics" at PCC last fall.

AKERS SHOT BY DEPUTY

Martin Claims Men Attacked Him; Four Are Jailed Monday

Ralph Akers, age about 23, of Teaberry, is in the McDowell Memorial hospital with a shattered leg, the result of a bullet wound suffered Monday on Tinker Fork of Mud Creek in an altercation with Deputy Sheriff J. D. Martin.

Martin was quoted by Sheriff Joe W. Lewis as saying he was under attack by Donnie Hamilton and Hamilton's brother-in-law when Akers lunged at him, swinging a bottle. The one shot was then fired.

The bullet entered Akers' leg, a few inches above the knee. The wounded man was described as in good condition, although it was said the shot splintered the bone.

Sheriff Lewis said Martin had been summoned by Mrs. Billy Hall after six young men had come to her home and used foul language in the absence of her husband. He said the deputy had a warrant for the arrest of Hamilton on a charge of knowingly receiving stolen property. Akers, he added, is under indictment, and both he and Hamilton had returned to this county only a few days before the shooting.

Deputy Sheriff Martin later jailed Alex and Melvin Ham, Willard Rogers and Donnie G. Hamilton, charging them with drunkenness and resisting arrest. Hamilton also was booked on a charge of stealing copper wire.

Two men in the Mud Creek section were arrested Saturday and booked here on the charge of possessing intoxicants for the purpose of sale after raids on their premises by Deputy Sheriffs J. D. Martin, John Reed and Caner Hunter and ABC Agent Claude Flanery. Seventeen half-pints of whiskey were confiscated in the raid on Orville (See Story No. 4, Page 6)

57 STUDENTS GET $42,995

In Less Than a Year As Prestonsburg Bank Cooperates with USAF

With two months yet to go in the first year of its cooperation with United Student Aid Funds, The Bank Josephine reported that as of last week it had loaned a total of $42,995 to 57 students needing financial help in college.

H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr., vice-president of the Prestonsburg bank, said last June that the bank had committed itself to make a total of $50,000 in loans to students within the year.

At the time the bank joined the program it was said that in 10 years students might borrow as much as half a million dollars over a 10-year period, but it also was pointed out that a continuance of the bank's participation for a period of so many years would naturally depend upon the support it is given by those who are interested in education and in qualified and deserving students receiving an opportunity to get a college education.

Loans to students under the United Student Aid Funds program cannot bear more than 6 percent interest, although the interest rate has jumped far beyond that. Undergraduates may borrow up to $1,000 a year; graduate students, up to $1,500. Repayment of the loan begins on the first day of the tenth month after the student leaves school. OPINION MAY HIT COUNTIES

One-Man, One Vote Rule by High Court Handed Down Monday

The Supreme Court handed down by a 5-3 vote Monday a decision applying the one-man, one-vote ruling to local governmental districts, and the effect was under discussion this week.

The decision will require the number of residents in all local government to be approximately equal.

School boards and fiscal courts are expected to be affected in many counties—how much and how soon, is not known. Each of the state's 120 counties is divided into five subdistricts for the electing of members of county boards of education. Most counties of the state elect magistrates.

Other pastors and churches participating in these services, in addition to those mentioned, include the First Methodist Church, Community Methodist Church, Arnold Avenue Church of Christ, and the First Church of God.

Auxier Group Has 'Model' Plant Developed Thru Own Initiative

Interior view of Princess Manufacturing Company's new plant at Auxier.

Auxier's flourishing Princess Manufacturing Company, now in its third year, is an unusual industry.

First of all, it is truly a "bootstrap" operation — founded, equipped and operated without federal grant or assistance except through a Small Business Administration loan for which the owners themselves are responsible.

And it is a union plant because it applied for union membership for its employees, not because the workers suggested it.

Until recently its workers were trained at its own expense. At this time it is getting some help in its training program.

Princess Manufacturing began work Monday under a contract with the Amalgamated Garment Workers, a step which makes it eligible to manufacture garments for McGregor as well as other clothing firms which produce or sell only union-made merchandise.

The plant, now working 85, is daily adding to its work-force and expects within the next six months to have a payroll of 220 to 250 persons.

Princess Manufacturing moved recently into its new building at Auxier which has a working area of 23,000 square feet. And all from the national garment industry who have seen its production lines and arrangement of equipment have one comment: "Best laid-out clothing plant we've ever seen."

Two-County Economy Hit By Closure

Order Last Thursday Ended 27 Years' Work By Princess Elkhorn

Rumor became stark reality last Thursday afternoon when the David mines of the Princess Elkhorn division of Princess Coals closed permanently after 27 years of work.

The end to the company's operations had been predicted as long as a year ago, and more recently rumor said termination of work was imminent. But not till last Thursday morning when notices were posted on company buildings there did it become official.

Another rumor says operation of the mines may be resumed by another group, but David L. Francis, chairman of the board of Princess Coals, Inc., was quoted in Huntington, W. Va., as saying, "This is a permanent closure. The equipment will be taken out and sold, and no other group will take over the mine."

Official announcement left many residents of the once-thriving town of David dazed. Some already had found work elsewhere as the feeling grew that the mines would close, but some are too old to be acceptable for other mine employment. Most know no other occupation. A few have moved from David already, it was said this week.

The 60 or more homes which, with a clubhouse, company office and store building and other facilities, made of David a model mining town will be offered for sale later, it was reported. The modern swimming pool and the community theatre had not been in use for some time. The church there burned, a few months ago. "Princess Elkhorn," said an official statement released this week, "exceedingly regrets that this mine reached a point where it is not economical to operate. Fortunately, mining is growing to such an extent in this area and over in the Williamson area that there will be no difficulty in the men securing employment elsewhere."

But the big company payroll from which both Floyd and Johnson counties benefited is gone. At peak production the operations at David employed around 500. The company said about 300 were employed more recently, and the annual payroll was $2 1/2 million. Since the first coal was shipped from David in 1941, 23 million tons have been loaded over its tipples, and the payroll has totalled $53 million.

The increase of production from its coal holdings in the David area led to opening of a second mine and tipple in 1944. A creaking laboratory was (See Story No. 3, Page 6)

NEACE DIES IN ACCIDENT

Construction Employee On Inez-P'burg Road Killed Last Friday

Jerry Neace, 39, employee of the Winston Ford Construction Co., of Prestonsburg, was instantly killed shortly after noon Friday in a highway construction accident on Daniels Creek.

Neace was fatally crushed when a pin of a boom used in operating an air-trac drill broke. The pin broke at the hinge of the boom, permitting the heavy piece of equipment to fall onto him.

The victim, a resident of Ned, Breathitt county, had been employed by the contracting firm about seven years. At the time of his death he was drilling rock in the construction of the Prestonsburg-Inez road.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Margaret Neace, and four children, Carol Ann, Sharon, Elbert and Kenneth; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Berry Neace, of Ned; a sister, Mrs. Cleary Holiday, and two brothers, Harlow and Shiloh Neace, all of Chicago.

Burial was made Monday in the Combs cemetery on Crockett's Fork, Breathitt county.

STATE AND U. S. ATTACK SOLICITING BY INVOICE

Kentucky's business and professional people, civic, social and religious organizations have been asked by Attorney General Breckinridge to assist the state and federal governments in stamping out fraudulent invoice-type solicitations by various so-called national directory services.

"Millions of solicitations resembling IBM-type billing cards or invoices for legitimate directories have been mailed throughout the country to firms, professional persons and associations according to their classification in the Yellow Pages of the telephone directories," according to Breckinridge. "Hundreds have been received by Kentuckians."

Pursuant to a provision in the Postal Revenue and Federal Salary Act of 1967, the Postoffice Department was authorized not to accept the deceptive solicitations for mailing.

New postal regulations, which become effective April 6, require the following notice appear on each solicitation:

"This is a solicitation for the order of goods and/or services and not a bill, invoice or statement of account due. You are under no obligation to make any payments on account of this offer unless you accept this offer."

The notice must be printed conspicuously in bold face, capital letters, set apart from other printed matter.

"Anyone receiving solicitations designed to resemble bills which do not contain the above warning is asked," Mr. Breckinridge said, "to forward them to the Attorney General's Office in Frankfort or directly to the Mailability Division, Office of the General Counsel, Post Office Department, Washington, D. C."

California passed legislation prohibiting the California-based companies from soliciting in that state but was powerless to prevent their mail business outside the state.

A final burst of solicitations may be expected prior to the April 6 effective date of the regulation, Mr. Breckinridge said, cautioning all recipients of classified advertising "bills" to examine them closely before re-mitting.

UK Community Colleges To Be Seminar Topics

The University of Kentucky Alumni Association, which in the past has held an annual seminar on the Lexington campus, is moving outward this year to gain closer contact with UK's community colleges.

Since increasing numbers of students are enrolling at Lexington after two years' study in a community college, the association is planning two seminars— at Henderson on April 3 and at Ashland on April 17.

The subject at Ashland will be "Community Involvement — a Must for a Strong Community College."

The Ashland meeting will feature two talks by Dr. Richard Whitmore, director of Kellogg Community College, Battle Creek, Mich. The first talk, at the morning session, will deal with "The Community College Student — a Valuable Community Resource," and the second, to be given before a combined meeting of Ashland service clubs, is entitled, "The Businessman-Student Team: a Resource for Community Development." Members of the Kiwanis, Lions, Optimist and Rotary Clubs have been invited to the luncheon.

"Your Questions About UK," will be the topic of panel discussions at both Henderson and Ashland, with UK Lexington campus representatives available for interrogation. Included are Dr. Glenwood L. Creech, vice-president for University Relations; Dr. Paul C. Nagel, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, and Dr. N. J. Pisacano, assistant dean; Dr. W. C. Royster, chairman of the Department of Mathematics; Dr. Joseph Hamburg, dean of the School of Allied Health Professions, and Dr. Stanley Wall, associate dean of the Community College System.

The directors of the two colleges — Dr. Marshall Arnold at Henderson and Dr. Robert Goodpaster at Ashland — will participate in the programs. From the Alumni Association, Miss Helen G. King, director of alumni affairs, Jay Brumfield, associate director, and Bard Sullenger also will take part.

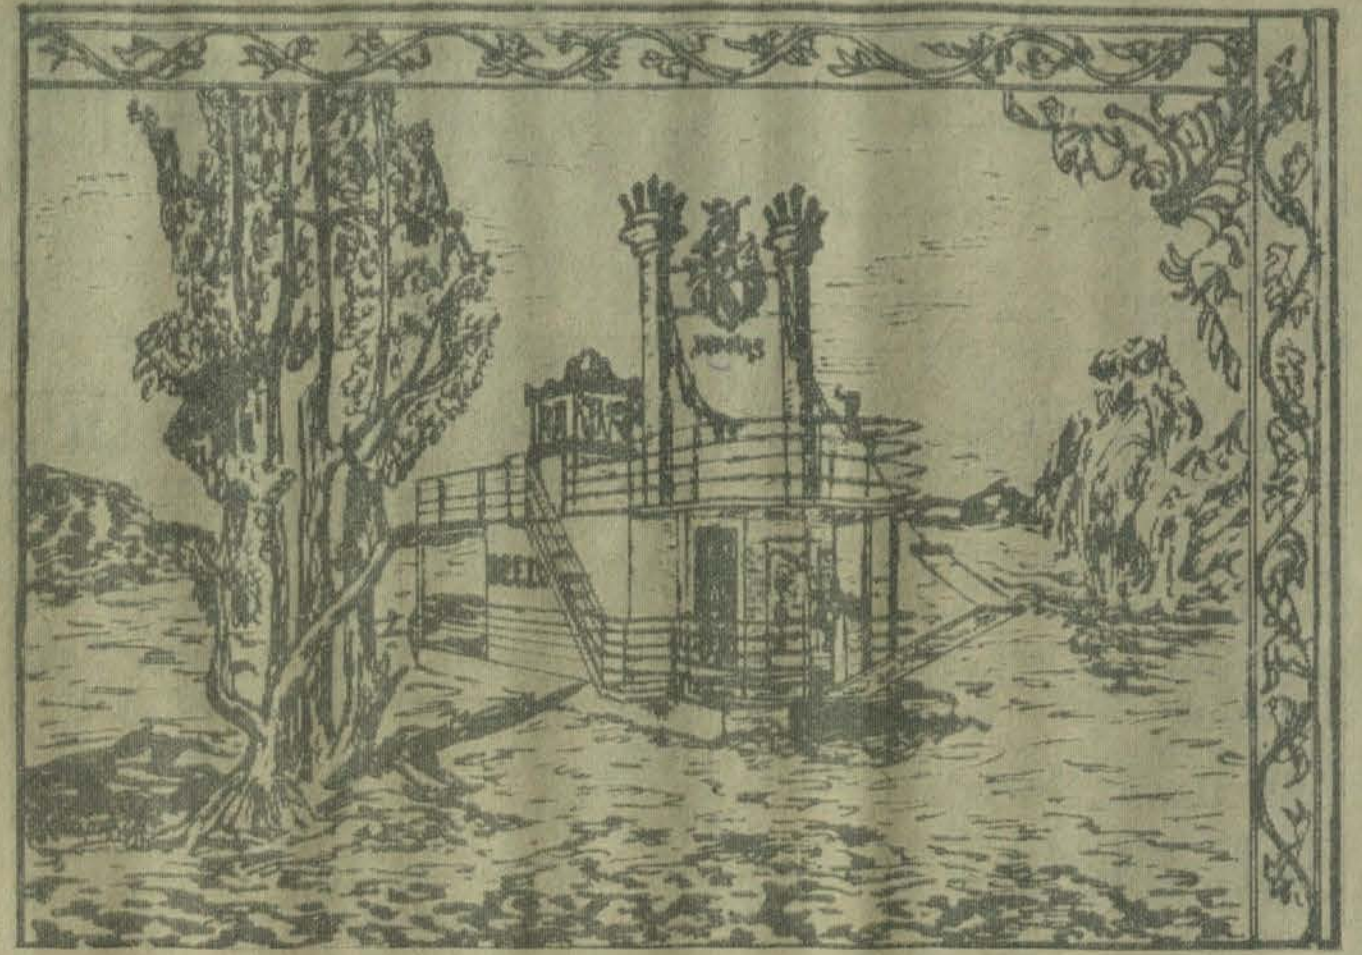

The two seminars were arranged under the guidance of an Alumni Association Seminar Committee chaired by Joe Rupert, Ashland, and including these other UK alumni: Dr. George P. Archer, Prestonsburg; William E. Black, Paducah; Richard E. Cooper, Somerset; Douglas Holiday, Cincinnati; Bill K. Howard, Wallins Creek; W. Dee Huddleston, Elizabethtown; N. W. Neel, Henderson; Samuel H. Ridgway, Jr., Louisville; Eugene Royce, Maysville; William B. Sturgill, Hazard, and Douglas W. Williams, Hopkinsville.

Baker-Dingus Vows Said on March 10th

Cpl. Mitchell Dingus, of the U. S. Marine Corps, and Miss Linda Marie Baker recited their wedding vows in the parsonage of the Grace Lutheran Church, Columbia City, Ind., Sunday, March 10. The Rev. Graham Keesple, pastor of the church, performed the service, with members of both families in attendance.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold O. Baker, of Columbus City, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Pauline Dingus, of Floyd county, and the late Lacy O. Dingus.

The bridal attendants were Miss Brenda Kay Baker, sister of the bride, and Staff Sgt. Dan Dingus, brother of the bridegroom, of Ft. Knox, Kentucky.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She chose a street-length dress of soft white chiffon, worn over a A-line sheath of satin faille. She carried a bridal bouquet of pink and white carnations with ribbon showers. Her bouquet, four-tier veil was caught to a white chiffon rose headpiece, held to a white velvet bow.

Her maid of honor, Miss Baker, wore a Nile green, sleeveless gown of net over silk and a white hair bow. Her bouquet was of tinted green carnations.

Mrs. Baker selected a dress of beige linen, with which she wore black accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a two-piece blue linen dress and black accessories. Both had corsages of pink and white carnations.

A reception was held after the wedding in the Red Crown room at the Ten Pin restaurant in Columbus City for friends and relatives of the bridal couple.

Cpl. and Mrs. Dingus went on a short wedding trip to southern Indiana. The groom is scheduled to leave for overseas duty soon.

He has already served 19 months in Vietnam and Okinawa. He attended Martin high school and is a graduate of the 1965 class of Larwell high school. Mrs. Dingus is an employee of the Shelter Globe in Grabbill, Ind.

Upgrading of Workers Seen in New Program

Basic planning designed to procure funding of the new Concentrated Employment Program in this county was done at a meeting held here Tuesday morning at the courthouse.

The program, which is tied into the Model Cities Program, is expected to be in effect in Floyd and 16 other Eastern Kentucky counties.

Douglas Morrison, Community Action Program coordinator for this county, explained that CEP will stress vocational training, basic education, the channelling of people from unskilled jobs to better jobs and the upgrading of the employability level.

At Tuesday's meeting Mr. Morrison told county, school and federal representatives, "We don't want to train people to go to Louisville, Detroit and other cities to work. That's what has been happening too long."

The program must be submitted for consideration, not later than May 1.

The Work Experience and Training Program ("Happy Pappies") is being phased out, and the new program may benefit some of these who are unable to find employment. County Judge Henry Stumbo said 25 of these workers have been cut from the payroll and that they are unable to find work, although they completed high school while attending night classes sponsored under the program.

The crisis created by closing of the Princess Elkhorn mines at David was cited at the meeting as emphasizing the need for a program to fit men for other employment. The case of one miner there who is 57 years old was used as an example.

"Unless I have a skill outside coal mining, what am I going to do till I reach retirement age?" he was quoted as inquiring.

St. James Protestant Episcopal Church Regan Chapel, Rescue Squad Building, Rev. R. K. Hemphill, Minister, Palm Sunday, April 7, 1968: Sunday School and Divine Service at 11 a.m. Please note change in time. We begin Holy Week by remembering Our Lord's triumphant entry into Jerusalem. We will accordingly feature the distribution of palms and palm crosses. Mr. Hemphill's sermon theme, "We Began His Glory," recalls our Lord's procession from Olivet to Calvary.

Refreshments follow the service. A cordial welcome awaits you and yours.

"Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord . . . Hosanna in the highest."

I Say What I Think

By S. C. VAN CURON

Gov. Louie B. Nunn has set a record in vetoing bills, but he probably had more fertile fields to plow on this score than any other governor in history.

Newsmen on press row during the legislative session had frequently remarked to one another about the effectiveness of the new committee system under which the lawmakers were establishing an independent branch of government.

Every newsmen agreed that the committees had worked long, hard, and with considered judgment, it appeared, but this high praise was doomed for a complete change in the final week of the session. The floodgates opened when the budget was passed Wednesday and the outpouring of bad bills for passage Thursday and Friday, the last two days, overwhelmed legislators; and the tide was unstoppable.

The conscientious and grueling work of the previous weeks was negated in the last two days. Leadership of the predominant Democratic Party seemed to fall apart, and the governor had established no control to stop the flood of bad bills that were passed the last two days.

Nunn had maintained a position, other than on his budget and revenue measures, of hands-off and let the legislature operate as an independent body.

The mood changed as rapidly as a "blue norther" can sweep over our Western Plains. Some legislators were mad because their pet bill or bills had not been cleared for final passage and the once cohesive independence of the legislature turned into a broiling body of independents seemingly without direction or purpose. They flailed and they wailed, striking here and there in frustration.

Legislators gutted the Corrupt Practices Act passed in 1968 that established the Registry of Election Finance and required candidates to report the sources of their campaign funds and how it was spent. The governor vetoed this as he rightly should.

He vetoed another setting up a separate crime commission under the Attorney General's office because the state already has one established under Gov. Edward T. Breathitt and is responsible to the governor. The governor also used his power to negate some bills that were promoted to firm up the independence of the General Assembly. One would establish the legislative standing committees as subcommittees between sessions of the Legislative Research Commission, giving them the same authority for access to information as the LRC. He also vetoed a measure requiring every budget agency of state government to submit a copy of its budget request to LRC at the same time it was submitted to the Finance Commissioner. This would have barred the information to the public, but the governor said in his veto message that state law requires an "executive budget" be submitted by the governor. "The policy is for the executive not to interfere with the legislature. The legislature should grant the same courtesy."

But a large group of the bills he killed were those of private interests and others that he thought were against the public good in minor areas . . . like one that would have reduced the penalty for carrying concealed a deadly weapon.

The governor demonstrated he can be tough when the situation requires. The Senate overrode his veto on SB 126, but the governor all but dared the House to follow in the Senate's footsteps. He let House leaders know they would be kept busy overriding vetoes on other bills and, in an aside, reminded them he would have a chance at many bills after the session ended.

EDUCATORS MAY HOLD THE KEY TO THE SITUATION

The growth of Prestonsburg Community College is not going to be determined by the "good wishes" and "godspeeds" of those who recognize it as an answer to deep-seated problems of students and parents. Support must take a more active, definitive form than that.

The improved economy of the area it serves has slowed down enrollment growth at the college. Savings offered to parents of college-age youths has become less important than in other years when the economic picture was less bright. Many who at one time would have hailed the opportunity for their children to attend college near home, avoiding the heavy cost of room, board and other necessities, now are not flinching from the burden.

Even the fact that students who have attended Prestonsburg Community College and other colleges of the community system are achieving higher scholastic averages after transfer to other state universities for their final two years of work than students who have been on those university campuses since they were freshmen has failed to interest as it should many students and parents.

College within driving distance from home is of prime importance to many, even now. It could be a necessity to many more under less fortuitous circumstances. But the growth and progress of these community colleges should not be dependent upon straitened financial circumstances of parents. Their development cannot wait on the day when a lack of money will force people to send their children to college near home.

One group which can mean much to the college here by contributing more than a casual "bless you" is composed of the educators of Floyd and surrounding counties. Their support is of the utmost importance. Their loyalties to other colleges and universities which they themselves attended should not cause them to overlook the opportunity they have to direct their high school graduates to two years of the highest type college work here at home.

Their influence with young people is greater than they may think. They should use it for the greatest benefit to the students and to the college that has been established for them.

superintendent of Floyd county schools, said Tuesday that Floyd county was redistricted about seven years ago and that the population of each of its five districts "is about as near equal as can be." County Superintendent Charles Clark was not available for comment, but Ratliff expressed the belief the new ruling will not affect Floyd county's educational districting.

County Judge Henry Stumbo said he cannot say if it will be necessary to change magisterial district boundaries. The four districts, as now constituted, were established 25 to 30 years ago.

Ray Corns, legal adviser to the state Department of Education, said that although the state always has required that county school board members be elected from districts "as nearly equal in population . . . as is practicable," complaints about wide differences in population between subdistricts electing board members are common in some districts, especially in Eastern Kentucky.

Three of the largest counties in Eastern Kentucky—Pike, Perry and Harlan—also reported that they beat the Supreme Court to the draw.

Pike county's magisterial districts were set up according to population several years ago and have been kept in line until construction of Fishtrap Dam caused a heavy population shift. Officials believe compensations can be made with a minimum of difficulty to shift district lines.

Perry county magisterial districts range in population from a few hundred in the Willard district to 10,000 or more in the district that embraces Hazard, but fiscal court took steps five years ago to correct the imbalance. It voted to reduce its membership from eight to three. Thus, starting in 1969, only three districts will exist and they will fit the population formula.

Harlan fiscal court, on its own initiative, also took similar steps. It reduced from seven to five districts, and tried to draw lines to comply with the population criteria.

established, and the company was one of the first to build a modern processing and coal grading installation. A small airfield was located nearby to add to highway rail communication.

During most of the years of its operation Princess Elkhorn contributed five annual college scholarships and sponsored the Patsy Teenagers, an outstanding choral group composed of youths of the community and nearby towns.

The mines did not close for lack of coal. The trouble lay in the fact, it is said by men working there, that the operations had driven so far beneath the hills that miners had to travel from five to seven miles, in places, to reach the face of the coal.

THE BIG MISTAKE
I started, back there a few fine ago, to say that the Democrats have eight candidates for U. S. Senator, but since I took a wild run last week at the date for Daylight Saving Time to begin and missed it by some 28 days, I am just a bit loath to make a flat statement.

That dub-flubber of mine last week was a lulu. I can't give you the figures on how many telephone calls I received or how many otherwise reminded me of my error, here and there, but I remember them, every one.

I had school bus drivers and teachers and truck-drivers and just about everybody else wondering who was crazy—and the sad part is, they wound up deciding it was I. Some of the approaches by callers made me want like this:

"Say, oldtimer, why don't you get with it?" . . . "Where in the blankety-blank did you get that idea?" . . . "My Dad always told me not to believe anything I saw in the papers" . . . and so on.

But the call last Monday morning (Der Tag!) took it all. I had risen early and happened to be brewing a cup of coffee at 6:30. The phone rang.

"Did I get you out of bed?" a man's voice inquired.

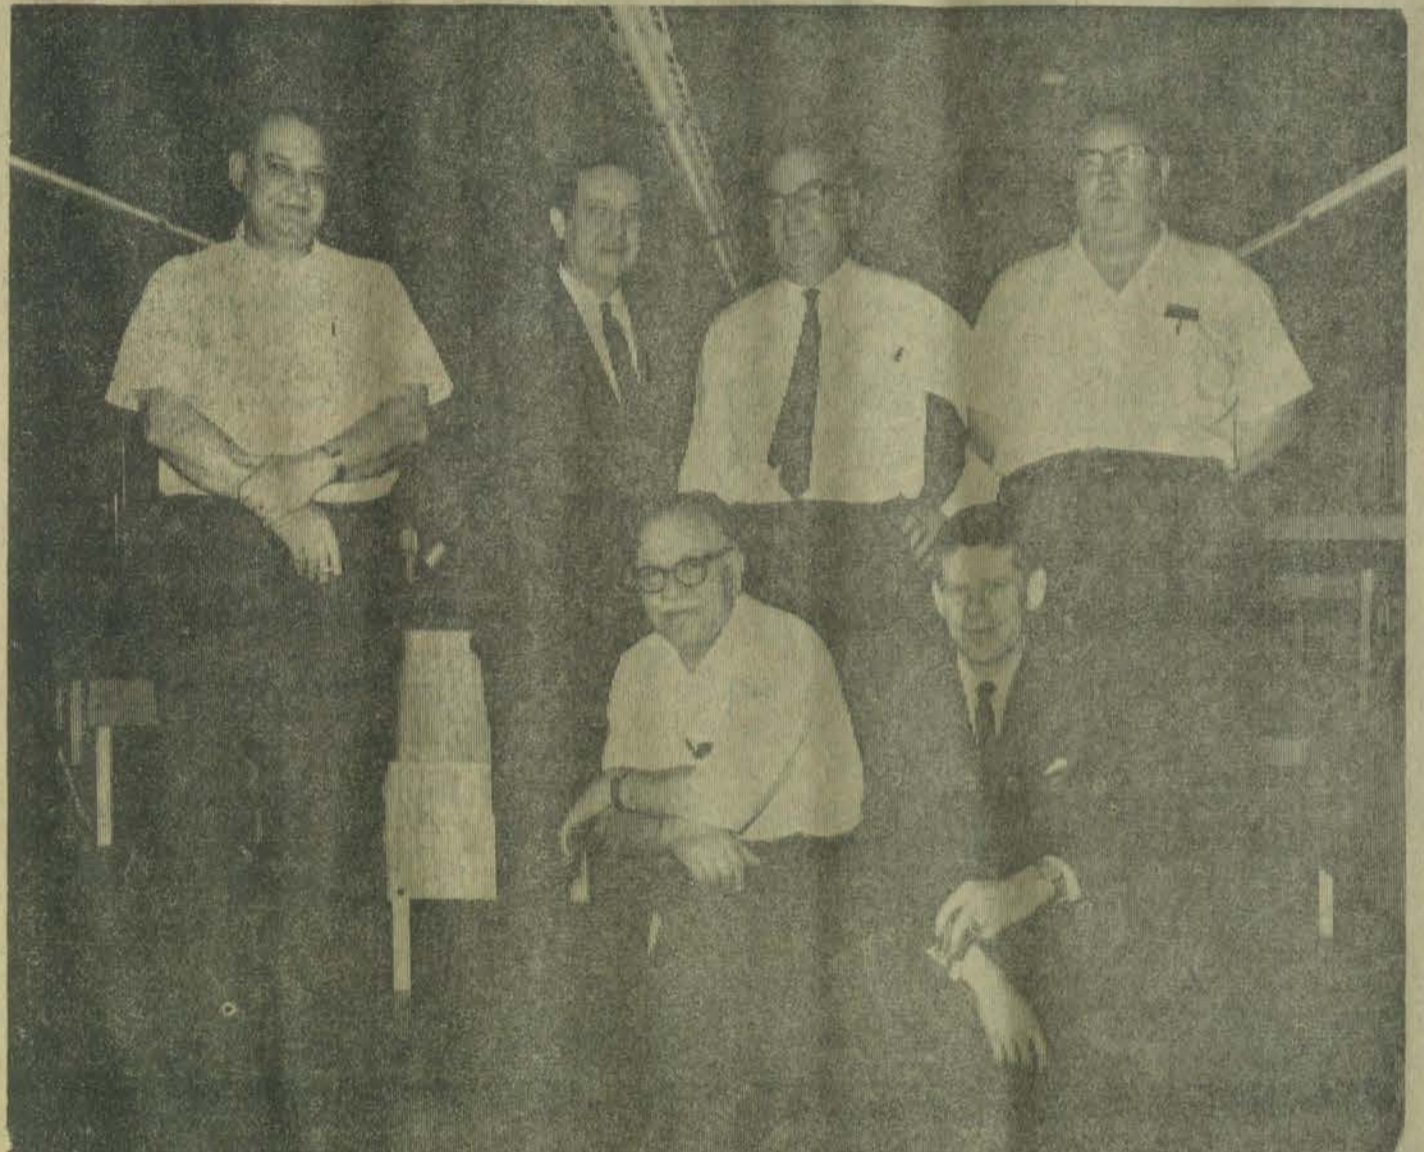

"Oh, no, I was standing right here by the telephone."

"Well, I'm sorry about that," rasped the other. "You've had me up, stumblin' around in the dark the last hour, and I was hoping I'd get even with you."

I'd say I'm sorry, but if I did some irate reader would crack. "So sorry the dogs won't bark at you."

The wimmen-folks and other experts have been saying LBJ does a poor job of it on television. Then came Monday night, and the old boy found me and foe alike with an announcement which for drama and surprise surpassed anything TV had never before been able to conjure.

meeting and refused to amplify on his reasons for stepping down as UK's chief executive.

"My statement speaks for itself," he said.

As Nunn and former Gov. A. B. Chandler, a member of the UK trustees, left the building, and walked to a waiting automobile, Nunn was hissed and booed by the students.

The students, obviously blaming Nunn for Oswald's resignation, also berated the governor over the recent sales tax increase.

A few students, shouting "Nickel Nunn," tossed coins in the direction of the governor and his car, which earlier had been plastered with anti-tax stickers.

Replying to the students as he entered his car, Nunn said that "the sales tax goes to make education possible. You're enjoying it. Others are paying it."

After repayment starts, the student pays only 3 percent interest, the federal government paying the remaining 3 percent. A fee of one-half of 1 percent a year of the amount of the loan, for the term of the loan, is payable in advance.

No collateral is required for a loan. The endorsement of the United Student Aid Funds is all the bank requires.

One of the 57 student borrowers from the Bank here has already paid off her loan.

Allen D. Marshall, president of USAF, recently expressed appreciation to banks and other lenders for "participating wholeheartedly in this vital program, with no chance of profit, and sometimes with no assurance of even breaking even."

Although Meade lived in Lexington at that time, in the 8th district, he campaigned in the 8th's 18 counties by helicopter. Siler won the nomination and the fall election, and served in Congress until he retired in 1965.

The preceding year, Meade had been named federal housing administrator for Kentucky—a post he resigned to enter the 8th district race.

In 1957, Meade was commissioner of the Federal Housing Administration for 19 states and Puerto Rico, serving until 1961, when he returned to the practice of law at Paintsville.

A native of Johnson county, Meade was educated at Kentucky Military Institute, Western State College and the University of Louisville Law School. He was admitted to the bar in 1939.

For three years during World War II he served as a lieutenant in Navy communications.

John M. Stumbo School 8th Grade Net Champs

The John M. Stumbo elementary school team won the Floyd county eighth grade basketball title here Saturday night by defeating Osborne elementary, 49-44.

The finals held here followed a round-robin of sectional tournaments. Although all receipts had not been tabulated Monday, Cecil Sturgill, tournament manager for the Floyd County P.T.A. Council, said he expects the total to exceed $700—more than double the total of last year's receipts.

Net proceeds of the sectional and final events will be used by the Council to provide college scholarships for students requiring financial help for college study.

The new titleholders won their way into the finals by winning the sectional meet held at Maytown high school. Other finalists were Osborne, winner of the Garrett sectional; Garrett, winner at McDowell, and Melvin, winner of the Wheelwright meet.

Seven trophies were awarded as many teams participating in the series of meets. The winners and donors of trophies: Winner's trophy, John M. Stumbo, donated by Island Creek Coal Co.; runner-up, Osborne, Hall Brothers Funeral Home; third place, Garrett, Kentucky Oil & Refining Co.; sportsmanship, Weeksbury, Community Food Market; free throw, Prestonsburg, Culligan Soft Water Service; all-tournament team, Hall Marine Sales and Stratton Coal Co.; cheerleaders, Harold Telephone Company.

The all-tournament team: Ralph Bryant, Jr., of John M. Stumbo school; Shelley Burger, Melvin; Buster Zimbro, Osborne; Larry Crum, Martin; Stevie Smith, McDowell; Don Gibson and John Conley, both of Garrett; Tippy Moscrip, Weeksbury; Paul Douglas Gearheart, Harold; Bobby Lawson, John M. Stumbo; Johnnie Parker, Osborne; Robert Tackett, Prestonsburg.

The championship game scoring:

JOHN M. STUMBO (49)—Bob Lawson 6, Ralph Bryant 16, Dean Hamilton 4, Brennan Hamilton 5, Emmitt Hamilton 17, Zach Akers 1; OSBORNE (44)—Kenny Zimbro 15, Johnny Parker 24, Lowell Parker 1, Darrell Stanley, Clifford Jones 2, Kenny Armour 2.

Floyd county is strange country to many who return after long absences. Things have happened while they have been away. And continue to happen.

These friends who come back home and note the progress made do not have to be told that we're no longer asleep... Or that each no longer goes his separate way.

There is a spirit of cooperation that is growing. We need it, and we pledge ourselves to be a part of this community of effort.

Food Stamp Bonus In 52 Ky. Counties Nearly $8 Million

Fifty-two Kentucky counties received $7,927,051 worth of bonus food stamp coupons during 1967, USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service reports.

Needy families in the counties that took part in the food stamp program in 1967 exchanged $10,075,241 of their own money for $18,003,292 worth of food stamp coupons.

Kentucky has had a food stamp program since 1961 when Floyd county entered the "pilot program" at its inauguration. Since then, 51 additional counties have entered the program.

The success of the food stamp program in Kentucky is attributed to the cooperation among federal, state and local officials. Each agency has the responsibility for a special segment of the program's operation.

The Kentucky Department of Economic Security is responsible, through its state and county offices, for interviewing and certifying eligible needy families in each community and for issuing food coupons to them.

I Say What I Think

By S. C. VAN CURON

Frankfort, Ky. — Courthouse foundations shook across Kentucky when Gov. Louie B. Nunn vetoed a series of bills that would have increased salaries by $2,400 a year for county officials excepting the commonwealth attorneys.

These officials, under present statutes are allowed to draw $9,600 a year in salaries provided the fees of their offices produce sufficient income that can be used for this purpose.

Threats rang out from some quarters that the governor will not have any support in "any courthouse in Kentucky" in future elections because of his veto action, but there is another side to the story.

The governor is letting become law bills that would increase fees in every one of these offices, and these bills were designed to provide sufficient income to increase the pay of those now drawing $9,600 the added $2,400.

But, there is a flaw in the argument of the lobbyists representing the various county officials organizations.

First, here are the bills the governor vetoed:

—Requiring counties to pay circuit court clerks $2,400 a year expense allowance. (What expense, the bill didn't say.)

—Increasing county judges' and county attorneys' salaries from $9,600 to $11,900.

—Giving county court clerks $2,400 a year as custodians of voting machines.

Commonwealth attorneys did not ask for a pay increase because they got one in 1968.

The lobbyists argued that only about 20 counties are able to pay their officials the statutory salary limits now, and that is why they asked for the fee increase bills.

In a private interview Gov. Nunn indicated he bought part of the reasoning of the county officials, but pointed out sharply that his interest lay in helping officials in the approximately 100 counties who are not now making the maximum salary.

He was also quick to point out that the counties were in need of more income, and this was his reason for letting the increased fee bills become law. Fees produced by a county office above the elected official's salary and the cost of operation of his office are turned over to the county's general fund under law. Nunn indicated many counties needed these extra funds for general operation.

"The little counties are the ones that need help," he said. "Bill's providing for these increases will become law—"

—HB 409 provides several fee increases for offices of county judge.

—County court clerks get $1.00 instead of 50 cents for issuing auto license plates, and they are permitted a percentage for collection of sales tax on used cars. They now have this on new cars.

—Circuit court clerks get increased fees for issuing the higher priced driver's license, plus other fee increases on cases.

—Jailers get an increase of 50 cents a day for boarding prisoners.

—County attorneys get a percentage of fines.

"They had something in so many bills, I couldn't give it all to them," Nunn said. "They should do well on increased fees, and I mean this for the officials who are not now making the maximum salary."

Some counties will get assistant commonwealth attorneys under a separate measure that Nunn is letting become law.

He pointed out that counties and other taxing branches of government are benefitted by the new law that requires affidavits declaring full purchase price of property in land transfers. This supplants the federal tax stamp that has expired.

The governor's explanation points out that there is more than one side to the argument when a few county officials scream that they have been stabbed and that Nunn has hurt himself politically. His actions on these bills are helping more county officials that they are hurting.

COOK ELECTRIC

CLEAN AS A...

Pick almost any word that describes cleanliness and it explains a major advantage of an electric range.

When you cook with flameless electricity, there can be no fumes or smoke to dirty your home. That makes it extra safe, too.

But the real advantage of cooking electric is ease and speed. You select the "Just right" temperature for every dish. That's why so many "old-fashioned" cooks prefer a modern electric range.

It takes 1000 tons of coal to build just 1 mile of 4-lane concrete highway!

Kentucky needs new coal markets—and new highways in the Appalachian area. Concrete brings the two together. The result? Better business. Better highways.

Modern concrete pavement is skid-resistant, smooth and solid all the way . . . is laid flat to stay flat. It actually has a life expectancy of 50 years and longer, with upkeep expense 75% less than for asphalt (based on Kentucky records). This is vital because the Federal Government pays 70% of initial construction cost—but not a single cent for maintenance.

Add it up. Concrete means greater coal usage, greater safety, greater driving comfort, and greater maintenance savings.

Fred Bullard of Lexington, president of the Kentucky Coal Association, says "Cement companies are major consumers of the coal industry. Wherever cement or concrete is used, in roads, bridges or buildings, the coal industry benefits. Certainly paving new roads with concrete will contribute to employment and general well-being in the coal-producing areas of Kentucky."

ful and historical aspects of Kentucky."

Founded in 1836, the Society is the oldest in the United States.

More than 100,000 visitors annually see the collection of historical records, furniture, firearms, flags and scores of other pieces of Kentucky lore, Chinn reported.

Besides maintaining the museum in the Old Capitol, the Society houses a historical and genealogical reference library. Approximately 40,000 volumes of original records, manuscripts, early newspapers, and books are available.

The Historical Society also has published copies of Collins' "History of Kentucky," "The Private War of Lizzie Hardin," and "Kentucky in Retrospect," in addition to the quarterly editions of "The Register" and "Kentucky Ancestors."

Fishtrap Dedication Scheduled, April 27, Ahead of Completion

Fishtrap Dam, highest dam in Eastern Kentucky, will be dedicated in a special ceremony April 27 at the dam site.

The public is invited to the ceremony which is being sponsored by the Pike County Chamber of Commerce. Chamber President Robert Holcomb is chairman of the planning committee.

The flood control-recreation reservoir project, developed by the Army Corps of Engineers, is 15 miles southeast of Pikeville. A unit in the comprehensive water control system being developed in the Big Sandy River Basin, the $53 million project is to be completed in August except for recreation facilities. The rock-fill dam, is 195 feet high and 1,100 feet long. It will contain a summer lake of 1,131 acres, 16 1/2 miles long.

Holcomb said dedication dignitaries are expected to include Kentucky Senators John Sherman Cooper and Thurston B. Morton, and Congressman Carl D. Perkins, along with state and local officials and representatives of the U. S. Corps of Army Engineers.

$1,430,000 Grant Made To Help Pikeville Get Eight-Story Hospital

A Hill-Burton grant of $1,430,000 was made Wednesday to the Methodist Hospital of Kentucky toward construction of an eight-story hospital.

W. E. Elliott, Sr., chairman of the hospital board of directors, said total cost of the new hospital will be about $5.5 million. He said architects are now drawing plans for the new facility and should be finished by July 1. Bids for construction will be sought in early fall, with a goal of starting work before end of the year.

The building project will take about three years to complete. In the meantime, patients will continue to use the original hospital unit, built in 1924, and the second unit, which was built in 1957 as part of the United Mine Workers network of Appalachian hospitals.

The Methodist hospital board took over the Appalachian hospital about 18 months ago, Elliott said, so that it could qualify for the federal construction grant.

The new building will be erected adjacent to the Appalachian facility, which has a 50-patient capacity and which will continue to be used after the eight-story unit is completed.

Invitation To Bid

The Floyd County Board of Education will offer for sale to the highest and best bidder, until 1 p.m., April 6, 1968, one 20-ft. x 40-ft. metal pre-fab building. Easily dismantled and reassembled.

The above may be seen on the McDowell school grounds. The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

U.S. Jury Convicts 3 Martin-Co. Men

Three of the five Martin county men on trial in U. S. district court at Pikeville on charges of conspiring to defraud the federal government of flood relief funds, were convicted last Thursday.

County Judge Willie Kirk was found guilty on all five counts, and he and Ted T. Perry, chief contractor for the flood work, were sentenced to 10 years in prison by Federal Judge Timothy S. Hogan. Allen Kelly, Jr., former Martin County Health Department sanitarian, was fined $500 and given a suspended five-year prison term.

Acquitted were Monroe Kelly, brother of Allen Kelly, and Paul Runyan, brother-in-law of Judge Kirk. They were accused of making false claims.

Monroe Kelly, brother of Allen Kelly, and Paul Runyan, brother-in-law of Judge Kirk, were acquitted on charges that they had made false claims.

Judge Hogan told Kirk and Perry that the maximum sentence could run as high as 25 years in prison and $50,000 fine.

"There is a lot to be said in your behalf," he told Kirk. "You have a good, clean record. You have been in no trouble. However, you hold an office of trust... involving most personal and responsible duties. If you were a more educated man, I would have no hesitancy in giving you the maximum sentence."

Kirk and Perry were freed on $5,000 bond each pending appeal.

The verdict ended a trial that covered almost two weeks. The issue at stake was the manner in which disaster funds were spent and cleanup work performed.

The government sought to prove that Kirk conspired with the other four to divert $36,000 from the purposes for which the money was earmarked.

Perry was accused of accepting contracts for work—pumping water wells, cleaning up garbage and debris and repairing roads and bridges—which he did not perform.

Testimony was completed Wednesday.

In final arguments the defense insisted that the government failed to make a case on any of five counts in the indictment. The government responded that documents and testimony proved obvious incidents of misuse of federal money.

Zane Gray Staker, defense counsel, defended Judge Kirk as a 30-year coal miner with a limited education who could not be expected to perform flawlessly under complex "bureaucratic" demands thrust at him by a sudden disaster.

Referring to $1,700 in cash that admittedly was returned to the judge by Perry, Staker pointed out that the money was deposited to a Martin county account and then spent for county business.

"If there was any concealment called for, or if Mr. Kirk was trying to hide unlawful dealings, I believe the last place in the world he would have put the money was in the Inez Deposit Bank," Staker said. "He would have used some other name, or he would have taken the money to Jackson or Lexington or some such place to avoid detection."

He said the fact that nearly $2,000 remained in the fund authorized for well-pumping should eliminate suspicion that the pumping money was misused.

"I am sure they could have found another $2,000 worth of wells to pump if they had politics or other motives in mind," he said.

Moss Noble, assistant U. S. attorney, referred to the continued pumping of some wells many weeks after the flood.

"This was not a continuing fund to use for pumping wells anybody wanted pumped," he said. "It was intended only for the wells which were ruined by the flood."

Noble theorized that when Kirk and the others saw that government estimates on the costs for relief work were high, "they had to find a way to use all of the money and some obvious mischief resulted."

Defense claims that the $1,700 was paid to Kirk for use by Perry for county road equipment should be discounted, Noble said, because the contracts given to Perry were silent on any rental arrangements.

Noble also referred to a fire that destroyed Perry's flood-work records in a small used-car building and Perry's failure to keep an appointment with FBI Agent James E. Hathaway.

"If he (Perry) had nothing to conceal, why didn't he keep the appointment and show his records?" Noble asked the jury.

Nunn Hits Housing Act But Lets It Become Law

Frankfort, Ky.—Gov. Louie B. Nunn let open-housing become a law without his signature and vetoed the measure weakening Kentucky's annual auto inspection law in meeting his midnight deadline March 27 for action on bills passed by Kentucky's 1968 General Assembly.

The Governor said in a statement accompanying the open-housing bill (Senate Bill 264) he firmly believed "every homeowner in Kentucky has the right under the Constitution of the U. S. and under the Constitution of Kentucky to sell or refuse to sell his home to any person for any reason or for no reason whatsoever."

He added that the legislature, representing the people, had voted overwhelmingly for the bill and any citizen who questioned its constitutionality has "redress in our courts." The law will become effective June 13, along with other bills that do not have emergency clauses.

He signed into law a bill requiring meat inspection as well as a $3 million legislative budget bill, except for appropriations to maintain minority and majority caucuses, which he line-vetted.

Senate Bill 252, which the Governor vetoed, would have taken mandatory motor vehicle safety inspections out of the program enacted by the 1966 Legislature and substituted provision for inspection only when a vehicle was sold. Random checks by state police would have been authorized but not required.

Nunn said in explanation of his veto he feared a loss of as much as $12 million a year in federal highway funds if he allowed the 1968 bill to become law. He said the federal government has informed the state to this effect, and also that federal funds advanced to help the present program would be withdrawn.

House Bill 499, which the Governor signed, will require mandatory inspection and regulation of all the state's slaughterhouses and meat processing plants. The bill is nearly identical to a model meat inspection law drafted by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Among measures which Nunn allowed to become law without his signature was HB 588 which will extend from sunset to midnight the time Thoroughbred racing may be held; and a bill increasing drivers' license fees from $2 to $3.

Another bill in the "allowed" category was one increasing the salaries of judges of the Court of Appeals and Circuit Courts. This bill includes a raise of $150 a month in expense allowances for legislators.

Also becoming a law without the governor's signature was a resolution to create a 10-member joint legislative committee on un-American activities to protect Kentucky "from enemies both without and within our borders."

HB 250, the so-called "truth-lending" bill, also was allowed to become a law. This measure exempts pawn brokers but requires loan companies to provide customers with statements of credit charges and interest in all loan contracts.

Among other unsigned bills which became law is HB 184 under which a driver's license is issued with the presumption that the recipient has given his "implied consent" to undergo a blood-alcohol test for drunkenness if drunkenness is suspect in arrests for traffic violations.

Sent to the Secretary of State unsigned also was a bill calling for a statewide referendum on a proposed amendment to the state constitution calling for annual instead of biennial sessions of the legislature, with a March instead of January convening date in years following the election of a governor.

The Governor signed into a law a bill which he said he vetoed by mistake March 25. Under this measure, Kentucky will join other states in a compact to adopt rules and regulations to curb air pollution.

Some 168 bills on which Nunn had taken action were delivered to Secretary of State Elmer Begley shortly before midnight March 25. The Governor signed 98 of these bills into law and vetoed 70. Among the bills vetoed was one which would have gutted Kentucky's corrupt election practices act and another which would have required higher tuition fees for out of state college and university students.

Vetted also was House Bill 462, which would have set up a crime commission under the attorney general in addition to the one appointed by the Governor which already exists.

Another measure vetoed, Senate Bill 163, would have made it illegal for spouses to sue each other for damages, even if one is responsible for an accident injuring the other.

The Governor vetoed a batch of bills providing for pay raises for local officials. He also killed bills placing the burden of proof on the employer when a State Merit System employee is fired; and increasing pay for retired teachers.

The Governor vetoed HB 49, eliminating several holidays for state employees while increasing their vacation time, and a bill allowing close relatives to donate the organs of unconscious dying persons for the purpose of transplants.

He signed SB 99 providing that the excess in Louisville's sinking fund can be spent for general fund purposes, but vetoed SB 29 requiring overtime pay for Louisville police working more than 40 hours a week.

Also signed was a bill allowing a hotel-room tax of three cents on the dollar in Louisville and Jefferson county to finance the work of a county tourist and convention commission whose creation was authorized.

The Governor signed bills which provide new penalties for rioting or inciting to riot; for obstructing firefighters in the performance of their duties; and for interference with police officers trying to make arrests.

Other signed bills include moving the "cooling-off" period in divorce cases from after the court order to before the court hearing, and specifying certain requirements for motorcycle drivers.

The Governor also approved bills to require photographing and fingerprinting of persons charged with shoplifting, and to increase the penalties for the distribution of wood alcohol for human consumption.

Places in America you can legally go 84 m.p.h.

Nevada is the only state in the Union where there are no speed limits on the open highway. So if you like to go fast, the more powerful the car, the better.

But outside of Nevada it's a different story. There are speed limits, a lot of traffic jams and an awful lot of red lights. Just a couple of things that make owning a car with a lot of horses pretty frustrating.

So the more powerful the car, not necessarily the better the car.

Case in point: the VW Fastback. It cruises at 84. (With that much power in a Volkswagen you can break the law in 49 states.) It has an air-cooled engine. So it doesn't use water or antifreeze.

It costs only $2297.*

And since the Volkswagen doesn't have a lot of extra horses, it can still go up to 27 miles per gallon. So what do you do with the extra horses in your big fat fastback? You feed them.

Our fastback is fast enough.

TIDITS of KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D.

DEAD, BUT STILL LIVING

With the passing of the one-room schools over most of the state, there seemed to pass also some former methods of education. For generations the whole community blended in the rural school, and the methods of teaching were almost identical, no matter where you grew up. There were no grades, as such, and each child could, in most such schools, proceed at his own speed. In some ways this was unfortunate, for a good reader was sometimes miles ahead in that course but pitifully slow in some of the others. But many pupils kept their other courses geared to the McGuffey Reader then being studied. It was possible to know just about what any person was studying if you knew what reader he was in.

Within very recent years a supposedly new method of teaching has arisen, and people who are much younger than I have taken some pretty vigorous sides in defending or belittling it. This strange, new method is nothing more than the old one-room-school system, allowed to die or nearly die for some decades, while graded schools grew up and every child was in a room with boys and girls of his own grade and those only. All sorts of experiments have been made to help the slower ones, but still keep them progressing a year at a time. Then somebody suddenly discovered, as younger people think, this method that was old when we oldsters were children. Some of us cannot help bragging a bit that the ultra-modern way was our own way, away back when. For a good many years we pitied our poor younger selves for being denied modern advantages in education; we felt that our little schools had been left out of the scheme of things. And now we would be right in style if only we were still young enough to teach as we were taught.

Somehow this reminds me, as so many things do, of antiques and the rage for them. It is an old, old story of how the price-less old furniture grew unpopular and was either discarded or kept, sheepishly, for sentimental reasons. Whole decades of hostility to the old went by; and often the fine old furniture merely gathered more dust in the storeroom. Gradually, a half century or more ago, a few and in my own home area near Fidelity, a very few began to seek out the old pieces of another day. I vividly remember that I was out on one of my walks, along about 1904, when I came out of the woods into one of our so-called roads. Just at that moment a young woman, somewhat older than I, came by in her buggy and asked me to go with her "up the creek" to look at a spinning wheel that she had heard was for sale. I did not know that such a thing was valuable; I had grown up with one in use all the fall and winter and then had helped store it in the shedroom to the smokehouse, one of the places where we kept things until they were needed. I said nothing derogatory about buying a spinning wheel, but I could not help smiling inwardly a little that a young woman would want such a thing. Whether she bought the spinning wheel or not I cannot now remember, but if that bit of antique furniture is still in existence, at Fidelity or elsewhere, I am sure that its price would make many a pair of old eyes suddenly brighten up.

It may be that this new style, so suddenly discovered, will now run as an educational fad for a while and then be stored in some shedroom of education. It just might happen that it will be refurbished, like some ancient bedstead, and have another long life ahead of it. Aren't we funny folks, after all?

Allen D. Marshall, President of the United Student Aid Fund, this month expressed appreciation to the banks and other lenders for "participating wholeheartedly in this vital program, with no chance of profit, and sometimes with no assurance of even breaking even."

When you think of education... think of The Bank Josephine.

The Bank Josephine now has:

Active Student Loans	$40,545.00
Loans Paid	350.00
Loans made (this year)	40,895.00
Loans committed to make	2,100.00
TOTAL	$42,995.00

57 Students have been assisted by The Bank Josephine under this program this school year. One of the most satisfying, though unprofitable, of all loan services provided by our bank was the approval of those applications received under the United Student Aid Funds. We at the Bank Josephine are proud of banking on your family's future.

A collection of things that cost less than they did 10 years ago.

Your electric bill just about stands alone. Electricity actually costs less per kilowatt-hour today than ever before.

But if electricity's cheaper than ever, why is your electric bill higher?

Look around. Count the appliances you didn't use ten years ago. Electric power is giving you a better, happier life. So even though rates are lower, your bill is up because you use more.

Considering today's prices, electricity has to be the biggest bargain around. And our whole seven-state system keeps working hard to make it even more of a bargain. Think about that next time you hear us say... Electricity is your best dollar value.
