

Betsy Layne Hi Scores, Takes Top Fest Honors

Miss Debbie Branham receives Floyd County Music Festival queen's crown from the 1967 queen, Katie Hamilton Stapleton. Members of the queen's court, with their escorts, are in background.

For the second year in a row Betsy Layne high school last Saturday scored a double triumph in the annual Floyd County Music Festival.

The senior Miss Debbie Branham was crowned 1968 Music Festival Queen, and she succeeds another Betsy Layne girl, Mrs. Katie Hamilton Stapleton, who won the coveted crown last year.

Its band, directed by Mrs. Billie Jean Osborne, won two trophies—one as the best-playing band, another for the best all-around performance. The band was voted best all-around in life competition last year.

The new festival queen, the 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack I. Branham, of Betsy Layne, is a senior at Betsy Layne and is the school's head majorette.

Trophies were awarded other bands in these categories: Prestonsburg high school, best marching band; Wheelwright, best majorettes; McDowell, best drum major.

Judges were the band directors of Meade Memorial, Paintsville and Mullins high schools.

A blocks-long parade of school bands, Boy and Girl Scout groups, city department vehicles and horsemen attracted hundreds to the sidewalks bordering on the line of march.

The National Labor Relations Board has certified District 50, United Mine Workers of America, as the bargaining agent at the Reynolds Body Company, Allen, it was said here this week by Jack Strunk, the union's international representative.

Contract negotiations between the company and union representatives are now under way, Strunk added.

An election to name a bargaining agent was held a few months ago, with another union contending for the right to represent workers, Ten balance.

Board Votes Close For Six Schools

A dozen, perhaps fewer, one-room schools will be operated in Floyd county, next school year, as a result of action taken at last Saturday's meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education.

The board authorized the closing of six one-room schools at the end of the current term—Upper Cow Creek, Ivy Creek, Myrtle, Upper Little Mud, Mink Branch and Tinker Fork.

County Supt. Charles Clark said loss of enrollment may close others next year.

The superintendent was authorized to advertise for wiring of the Prestonsburg, Allen and Osborne elementary schools for educational television reception which will begin next September. Two receiving sets for each school will be needed at outset of the program, and additional equipment will be required as the program develops. ETV is expected to be introduced to other schools later.

The board also authorized Supt. Clark to petition the State Board of Education for permission to hold Saturday classes at the one-room Left Toler Creek.

The Prestonsburg Junior Women's Club announced this week that work has been completed on the Floyd County Scholarship Pageant, which will be held Saturday, May 18, at the Jenny Wiley Amphitheatre.

"Camelot" is the theme of this year's pageant. Six civic organizations have said they will sponsor an entry. The contestants are:

Miss Sharon Meade, Kiwanian; Miss Jane Bickford, Prestonsburg Jaycees; Miss Patricia Marshall, Prestonsburg Woman's Club; Miss Sandra Peters, Floyd County Rescue Squad; Miss Patricia Kay Hall, Allen Lion's Club; Miss Jane Webb, Wayland-Garrett-Lackey Woman's Club.

The winner will be given a $100 scholarship by the Pepsi-Cola Company, a wardrobe by local merchants, and an all-expense-paid trip to the Miss Kentucky Pageant in Louisville.

The contestants entered in the Floyd County Scholarship Pageant will be guests of honor at a dinner given by the Junior Women's Club at 1:30 p.m., Saturday, April 20, at the Plantation Motel dining room. Each girl will receive a gold charm bracelet at the luncheon.

Dr. Johns To Be Speaker At PCC Commencement

Dr. Thomas H. Johns, president of Pikeville College, will be the speaker at Prestonsburg Community College's commencement exercises to be held May 10 at 7 p.m. at the college.

Dr. Johns received his bachelor's degree from Hanover College in Indiana in 1953, a bachelor of divinity degree from the Louisville Presbyterian Seminary in 1956 and a master's and doctor's degree in higher education from Indiana University in 1959 and 1961.

After completing his doctor's degree he became vice-president for planning and developing at the University of Debuque. He then moved to Missouri Valley College, Marshall, Mo., in 1965 to become executive vice-president and resident administrator. He was appointed president at Pikeville College in May, 1967.

Also participating in the graduation exercises will be Dr. Henry A. Campbell, director, and the entire faculty of Prestonsburg Community College, along with 48 graduating students, many of whom plan to continue their education at other institutions.

Floyd Soldier Dies Of Wounds In Vietnam; Rites Slated Friday

Funeral of Sp/5 Jordan A. Belcher, 22, of Teaberry, who was killed April 23 in Vietnam, will be conducted Friday at 10:30 a.m. from the Dorton Regular Baptist Church.

The Floyd county soldier reportedly died of fragmentary shell wounds received while driving a military vehicle during combat. He was a son of I. B. and Rosa Hamilton Belcher, of Teaberry.

Other survivors include two sisters, Mrs. Irene Tackett, Lenoir, N. C., and Miss Oma Belcher, of Teaberry.

The body is at the home of Levi Potter, of Dorton. Burial will be made in the Sam Hall cemetery on Bear Fork of Robinson Creek, Pike county.

CRITTENDON IS PROBATED

Wife's Parents Sign Clemency Agreement, Get Child's Custody

Granville Crittendon, the Chicago man who recently was given a two-year pen term upon his manslaughter conviction in the death of his wife, a former Floyd woman, was probated and released from jail here Saturday.

Probation was granted after he and his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe P. Tackett, of Weeksbury, had signed an agreement, the Tacketts consenting to his release.

Earlier, Mr. Tackett had said he was misquoted when The Times reported he had told officials here he wanted Crittendon probated if the convicted man would agree to let him and Mrs. Tackett have custody of his two-year-old daughter.

The agreement under which Crittendon was probated grants the Tacketts custody of their grandchild and provides that Crittendon is to pay them $40 a month for her care. He is to be permitted to visit the child "at any reasonable time," under the condition that he be sober during such visits. At the death of the grandparents, custody of the child is to be transferred to their daughter, Mrs. Warren Meadows.

Crittendon was accused of causing the death of his wife while they were en route from Chicago to Weeksbury. He maintained that he did not know his wife was dead until they arrived at her parents' home. A laboratory analysis of the dead woman's blood showed it contained wood alcohol in lethal amount, Commonwealth testimony said.

MOSLEY OUT AS MANAGER

Gable Avows Intention To Lick Park 'Tradition' At Jenny Wiley Park

A vacancy in the post of manager at Jenny Wiley State Park exists after the discharge of Hugh Mosley by Commissioner of Parks Robert Gable. Mosley had been park manager since January when he replaced Ralph Brewer.

Lewis Hempel, acting director of field services, Department of Parks, is acting park manager while a successor to Mosley is being sought.

Commissioner Gable emphasized the point that politics is not involved in Mosley's discharge and that Mosley was not "run off" by disgruntled employees or "outsiders."

"I am appalled by the situation," Gable said. "There is a sort of tradition at Jenny Wiley that park managers can be run off by employees or others. Jenny Wiley is a beautiful park, in a naturally beautiful setting. We want to make it the best in Kentucky, and I am determined to give it a good manager who will do a first-class job. We will find that kind of man, give him the authority to do the job, and back him up in his work."

Gable spent most of the day Monday at the park. He said he told employees during the day

GRANT MADE ON HOSPITAL

The Kentucky Advisory Council for Health Facilities allocated Wednesday to the Highlands Hospital Corporation, of Prestonsburg, a grant of $1,300,000 in federal Hill-Burton funds for the construction of a hospital here.

The proposed hospital here will have an 80-bed capacity, with a 50-bed extended care unit. Total cost of the undertaking will be $3,600,000.

In all, $3.7 million in Hill-Burton funds were allocated to eight separate projects. The Prestonsburg allocation was largest of the lot.

Blaze Hits Plant At Allen, Friday

Although it suffered fire damage Tuesday which will range from $50,000 to $60,000, the Reynolds Body Company at Allen was back at work next morning with only one work-shift lost.

Roger Colvin, manager of the plant, said normal operation of the plant will continue while repairs are being made.

Tuesday's blaze broke out around 2 p.m., when sparks from an exhaust fan motor ignited fumes in the paint room. The parts room of the main plant structure was described by Colvin "as pretty well destroyed," and the roof and steel supports of the main building were shoved upward by the heat. The roof and parts of the wall will have to be replaced, it was said.

The Allen and Prestonsburg fire departments joined in bringing the fire under control. Quick action of plant employees in moving paints and other combustible materials was credited with possibly saving the plant from total destruction.

Reynolds Body, a supplier of coal truck bodies, mining cars and other steel and aluminum products, works about 75 men in two shifts. The business was founded by Marcum Reynolds, who owns the building and is part-owner of the business. The firm is operated by Roger Colvin and Jerry Archer, who bought into the business more than a year ago.

Rescue Squad To Get Radio Auction Benefit; Canvass Is Scheduled

The radio auction to be conducted May 23-25 by Radio Station WPRT will seek to raise funds for the continued operation of the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad.

Members of the squad will begin a canvass Saturday for articles to be offered in the auction, and will conclude this work the following Saturday.

WPRT's radio auction began as a benefit for the Floyd County Council for Retarded Children, but state support of this program made the auction unnecessary for that purpose, and so it has been turned to the benefit of the rescue squad.

Trial Jury To Testify At Hearing

Mrs. Flanery Convicted In Slaying of Husband; Jury Separated, Claim

Members of the jury which last Thursday convicted Mrs. Mary Lou Flanery of the slaying of her husband and fixed her sentence at life in prison, have been subpoenaed to appear here Friday to testify in a hearing of a defense motion for a new trial.

The defense plea for a new trial is based on eight separate grounds, two of which claim the trial jury was twice separated—first, in travelling in two cars to the Blue Sky Motel here and, again, in occupying two rooms of the motel overnight. The Commonwealth will seek to show by jurors' testimony that nothing prejudicial to the defendant's cause occurred in either instance.

The jury of nine men and three women deliberated about an hour last Thursday, third day of the trial of the 22-year-old mother of two, before reaching a verdict.

The third annual Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival under the sponsorship of the Jenny Wiley Drama Association will be held June 21, 22 and 23 at Jenny Wiley State Park.

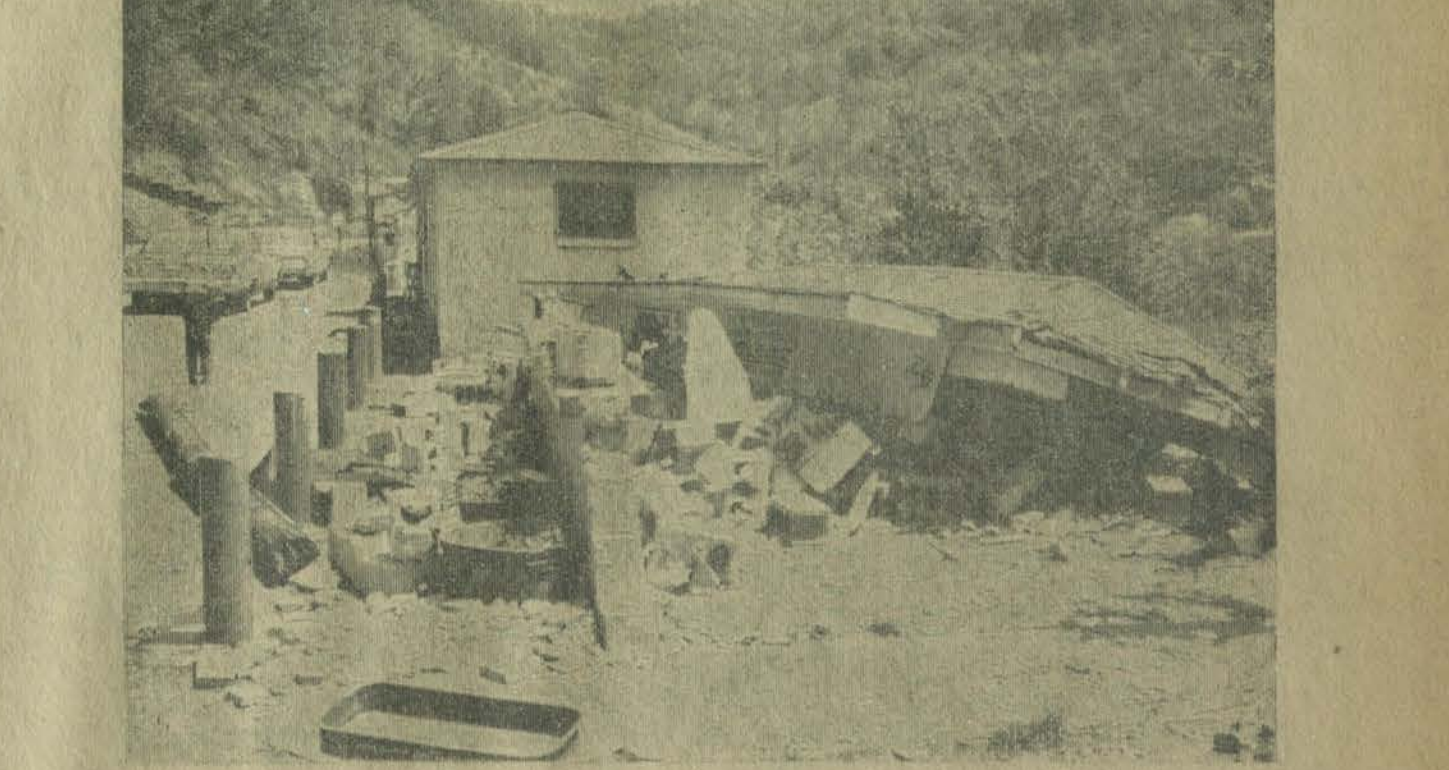

Objectives of the festival are to encourage the use of folk-songs, music, dances, legends and other lore of Eastern Kentucky.

The festival will be held at the Jenny Wiley Amphitheatre.

Any individual interested in performing, alone or with a group, can obtain an application form by writing to Mrs. Edith F. James, Director of Programs, Jenny Wiley Drama Association, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653.

Walls Come Tumbling Down on 6

This was what remained of the Knotley Hollow building in which six slept last Friday morning when it was hit by a milk truck.

Tragedy-shrouded Knotley Hollow last Friday morning barely missed adding to the long list of those who have been killed there in a distance of a few hundred yards when a building in which a family of six were sleeping was knocked down upon them by a careening truck.

Levelled by the truck was a building adjacent to the structure which was grazed by the school bus carrying 26 schoolchildren and the bus driver to their deaths in the Big Sandy river, 10 years ago. The truck, operated by Johnny Walker for the Spurlock Food Service, Prestonsburg, jumped a wide ditch and sheared off a telephone pole before crashing into the dwelling. The driver escaped with minor hurts.

Alfred Music, 7, one of the occupants, suffered a broken leg, lacerations and bruises and was taken to the University of Kentucky Medical Center, Lexington. Other members of his family—his father, James Music, 73, his mother, Eloise, 36, and two sisters and a brother, Gertrude, 12, Dallas, 5, and Linda, 2, were treated at the Prestonsburg General hospital for cuts and bruises.

Walker was quoted as saying the accident resulted from a mechanical defect. Alex Howard, Spurlock Food Service manager, said he could not comment on the wreck. State police barracks at Pikeville said State Trooper James R. Herron has not completed his investigation into the near-tragedy.

"I thought it was a bomb," the elderly Mr. Music said of the crash which sent concrete blocks flying and brought the roof of the structure down.

Tragedies occurring at or near Knotley Hollow, in addition to the school bus disaster, include two stayings, the deaths of three in a bridge collapse, two in highway mishaps and one by asphyxiation.

The building levelled by Friday's crash is owned by Bennie Blackburn, a former resident of Knotley Hollow.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Rice, of Garrett, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Miss Alva Carol Rice to James Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clark, Jr., also of Garrett.

The double-ring, open church ceremony will be solemnized at 2 p.m. May 18 at the Garrett Baptist Church by the Rev. Rush Sloan.

Those attending the wedding are invited to the reception to be held in the basement of the church immediately following the ceremony.

The bride-elect is a junior at the University of Kentucky, majoring in elementary education. Mr. Clark is studying electronics at Mayo Vocational School, Paintsville, Ky. The couple plan to reside in Lexington, where they will complete their studies.

THANKS FOR EASTER SEAL HELP

EDITOR, The Times:

As chairman of the 1968 Easter Seal Campaign in Floyd county, I want to thank all the wonderful people who contributed to the campaign in so many ways. In addition to all those who gave money, there were a great many who also gave of their time and talents. Special thanks are due to your newspaper and Radio Stations, whose fine coverage of the campaign was invaluable.

Although our Easter Seal contributions are made at one time each year, the work of the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children—the Easter Seal Society—goes on 24 hours each day every day of the year, as it is never too late to give to help crippled children.

Again, sincere thanks to all who participated in our drive for those less fortunate than ourselves.

Away back, say sixty years ago, when I first "went away to school," it was regarded as very boorish to mention that you had been raised. That word was to be used when referring to corn and tobacco and chickens and pigs and such. Nice folks were reared. And the textbooks of that time helped keep alive this unnatural way of talking. There are some people who naturally say reared, but, if noses were counted, a very large majority would say raised for themselves and their children. This is not merely my personal opinion but that of eminent scholars in language and not mere writers of textbooks. If you were raised, just say so and ask no apologies. You will not be "country" or "plebian" if you use this good old word. And let the fellow who feels that he was reared keep on saying so. There is no reason why either of you should change.

As a teacher, for a long lifetime, of English, I have met some strange folkishness when people try to improve their way of saying things. Long ago I taught my students that there were at least three kinds of language: good, bad, and half-good or half-bad. It was my purpose, not often achieved, to help the student overcome the crude, so-called bad usages that he had unconsciously acquired. His teachers in high school, after high schools came to be, had often broken up most of these crudities, though an occasional student, and often one who was to make a name for himself, known or heered, right in class. A few such breaks usually taught the green young freshman that there was a better way. Often my hardest task was to overcome the half-bad usages, the sort of grammar that no ignorant person was likely to use. The student had discovered that "I" was better in some places where he had used "me," then he began to improve his language, as he might have thought, by using I in plenty of places where me was always right. And sometimes, even on through college and into graduate school some of these self-improvers kept their new-found incorrect use of I. I have heard a least one Ph.D. in English use such a sentence as this one: "He said he would write to you and I as soon as he goes home." My, doesn't that sound big? That ought to raise many an eyebrow at the country store. That sentence would show Uncle Tom, as he took a fresh chew of tobacco, just how valuable college training, is. Actually, some Uncle Toms and Aunt Marys have asked me whether this sort of thing is correct and whether he user really has de-grees.

Besides feeling that some forms are better than others, right or wrong, there is nearly always, hanging around the fringes of learning, a pronounced feeling that certain words give more quality to one's speech than do others. Of course they do. Probably one of the most persistent problems of any user of language is to use the right word at the right time, to recognize the various levels even of good speech and keep within the bounds of common sense and reason while using words. It is the straining after so-called correctness that often leads the speaker astray. Not skilled enough to speak with ease, he falls back on memorized rules, rules that were often made on insufficient observation and rarely with any actual linguistic knowledge. Most of us who have hung around schools all our lives have had teachers, who wanted correctness of speech, whatever that is, in preference to challenging ideas. One of the most learned teachers I ever had, and in graduate school at that, was far more concerned with our using his pet pronunciations, even when ours had first place in the recognized dictionaries, than he was with the point of view we were trying to present. I forget whether he had been raised or reared, but I would almost bet that he was raised and then, when he went to an Eastern graduate school, began saying reared. Some of the funniest educators I have ever known, from the Border States and the Middle West, put away their natural regional speech and accepted or tried hard to accept what they found in New England, firmly believing that only in New England was English spoken as it should be. Whew!

Young visitors to 10 Kentucky state parks are in for an exciting experience this summer. It's a Junior Naturalist Program that entertains youngsters and educates them in the realm of nature.

The two-day course will be conducted in each park by a naturalist who builds a program around the particular animals, trees, wildflowers, soil and rocks in his park. That makes each course unique, so a child, by participating in the courses at several parks, may learn about the tremendous variety nature presents in Kentucky. The formation of caves may be the highlight of one park's study; another might focus on the forest community.

The program will be offered once a week—usually on Wednesday and Thursday—and will consist of a two-hour session of nature walks and talks each day. At the end, the youngsters will be given a short quiz. A satisfactory score will qualify them to receive a certificate of merit and a sew-on patch titled, "Junior Naturalist, Kentucky State Parks."

The Junior Naturalist programs were begun in 1964 and involved 77 participants. Since then, they have grown in popularity to include more than 1,800 children last year.

The program is free to all interested youngsters, ages 8 to 14, and will begin June 19 this year. State parks offering the program will be Jenny Wiley at Prestonsburg; Carter Caves, Olive Hill; Cumberland Falls, Corbin; John James Audubon, Henderson; Lake Cumberland, Jamestown; Levi Jackson Wilderness Road, London; Natural Bridge, Slade; Pennyrile Forest, Dawson Springs; Pine Mountain, Pineville; and Rough River Dam, Falls of Rough.

CONCLUDE VISIT

Sgt. Clenton Tackett, his wife, Vee Vee, and their two small sons, returned to Barksdale Air Force Base, La., Saturday, after a two-week visit with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mack Tackett, of Ivel, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Hayes, Prestonsburg.

A three-year program to develop a 1,348-acre state park arboretum near Jackson was recommended in a federally financed report released last week.

The arboretum park feasibility study was conducted by Program Research, a New York City consulting firm, for the Economic Development Administration, U. S. Department of Commerce. It was requested by the Kentucky Department of Parks. The site recommended for the park is located two miles northwest of Jackson on Kentucky 15, a scenic highway being built through the Kentucky River valley. It is in Breathitt county, but construction of the park also would create jobs and income from the tourist industry in Lee, Owsley and Wolfe counties, the study states.

The proposed development, including an inn and restaurant, would create 84 jobs, 48 of them full-time, the study states. The facilities would generate tourist expenditures of about one-half million dollars annually during its early years of operation, the study indicates.

Total cost of acquiring the land and developing the arboretum-oriented park would be $3,922,000, according to the study. It recommends private construction of a 50-unit resort inn and restaurant at a cost of $844,000. The report includes development plans for roads and utilities, a gateway building, an arboretum section, public recreation, an 18-hole golf course and clubhouse and staff quarters.

Mrs. Shelby Draughn, Garrett art teacher, displayed and commented upon a number of art works produced in various media by her students. She also presented several of her own paintings. Mrs. Draughn announced that later in May she will have open house for her Art Department, at which time the best of her students' work will be on display for public viewing at the school.

During the business meeting, presided over by the president, Mrs. Mervil Dixon, the Heart chairman, Mrs. S. M. Martin, announced that $580 had been collected for the Heart Fund in this area of Floyd county, with $470 of this amount donated by payroll contributions by Island Creek employees through the Wheelwright office, and $110 collected by the club itself.

It was also announced that the club is sponsoring seventeen-year old Jamie Webb in the Miss Floyd County Pageant May 18 at the Jenny Wiley Amphitheater.

The club unanimously moved to purchase a television for the U. S. 12th Evacuation Hospital at Cu Chi in South Viet Nam at the written request of Gray L. Martin, of Estill, who is serving with the U. S. Army's 3rd Brigade (Postal) in South Viet Nam and is a patient in the Hospital.

It was decided to have the club's installation breakfast May 18 at 9:00 a.m. at Adkins' Steak House, with the Seventh district governor, Mrs. Zach Justice, of Pikeville, making the installations.

There were 19 present, including one guest, Mrs. Allie Howard. Hostesses were Mrs. Charles Collins, Mrs. Paul Rutledge, and Mrs. James Burge.

Ted Osborn

Mr. Osborn was born at West Prestonsburg, the son of Clarence Lee Osborn and Virginia Versa Osborn. His paternal grandparents were Charley Osborn, operator of a general store at West Prestonsburg for many years, and Mollie Snavely Osborn. His maternal grandparents were J. P. (Uncle P.) Adams and Rhoda Brown Adams. His wife is the former Della Wheeler, daughter of Sherman and Ella Wynn Wheeler, of Paintsville.

Ted Osborn has had the training and experience that qualify him for high public service: State legislator, Army Air Corps service in World War II, graduate of Transylvania University, former teacher, now president of American Businessmen's Life Insurance Company.

A Democrat who believes in democracy—a Floyd county native who will serve the people with distinction—remember and vote for Ted Osborn for U. S. Senator at the May primary election.

school in order to make up time lost during the year. The school has lost an unusual number of teaching days, largely because the board has been unable to keep a teacher at the school. The teacher there now is the third hired for the school during the current term.

The county's schools are scheduled to close June 4, but, even with Saturday classes, Left Toler will not be able to finish before June 26. The deadline for closing schools is June 30, last day of the fiscal year.

Compliance with House Bill 232, enacted at the 1968 General Assembly session, was directed by the board. This law provides that a faculty member or an administrator must accompany all groups of pupils on any school-sponsored trip.

New personnel employed included Margaret Hatfield, clerk at Prestonsburg elementary school, to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Sharon Ellis; Don Stumbo, regular bus driver, and Samuel Hollifield, substitute driver.

Other resignations were those of Mary Sharkey, special education teacher at Spradlin Branch, and Mary Jo Shivel, art instructor at Clark elementary. Leaves of absence were granted Michael Auxier, Loretta Hackworth and Alton Crisp.

lots were challenged, and the case went to the NLRB. The decision, rendered about 10 days ago, held eight of the questioned ballots invalid but upheld the other two, giving District 50 jurisdiction.

Renolds Body Company, one of the most successful of its kind in the region, employs more than 30 and manufactures truck bodies and other products.

Mrs. Flanery did not testify at the trial, and a defense attempt to introduce testimony by one witness of what was said in a telephone conversation between two others was held inadmissible.

Commonwealth testimony claimed Mrs. Flanery and her husband had had trouble as far back as 1966 and that in their divorce case the court at first gave her custody of the two children. Later, she and her ex-husband, executed an agreement to the effect that he was to have custody in consideration of $500, which was paid to Mrs. Flanery. The defendant then went to Akron, Ohio, remained there about eight days and returned to this county in the late afternoon or early evening of Jan. 25, the date of the slaying.

This testimony also claimed defendant contacted several persons in regard to the purchase of a revolver or other deadly weapon and that she had threatened to kill her ex-husband and Violet Wintland, at whose home in Martin the slaying took place late that night. In search of a weapon, this testimony continued, Mrs. Flanery and two other women hired a taxicab operated by Jack Vanover to take them to Drift, where defendant purchased at Raymond Turner's store a .32-20 calibre revolver and 12 cartridges. After returning to Martin, it was testified, the three went to a trailer in Magoffin county where wine, whiskey and beer were purchased and paid for by Mrs. Flanery.

The shooting took place around 10:30 p.m. There was no testimony saying that Mrs. Flanery was seen in the act of firing the shots, but a woman who was dressed in the same attire as that worn by Mrs. Flanery when she visited the children, earlier in the day, was described as entering the door of the Wintland home, immediately before the shots were fired. A nine-year-old daughter of Mrs. Wintland also testified that, immediately after the shooting, Mrs. Flanery came to where she had hidden behind a refrigerator and asked the whereabouts of her mother. Martin Chief of Police A. J. Reed also told of finding a .32-20 revolver on the bed, beside which the defendant was crouched. Flanery's body lay on the floor, nearby.

To counter any self-defense claim, the Commonwealth introduced testimony to the effect that Flanery was first shot in the cheek, then in the top of his head and four times in his back.

The self-defense phase of the trial was based on a contention that Flanery was advancing upon his ex-wife when the shots were fired. One of the instructions of the trial judge, Hollie Conley, covered self-defense.

The trial ended the criminal work of circuit court till next September.

The bids of the Y. & S. Construction Co., Williamsburg, Ky., totalling $519,786.60 for laying water mains toward Auxier in one direction and Allen in the other, improving the existing systems in Prestonsburg, West Prestonsburg and Lancer, and construction of the foundation for a 300,000-gallon reservoir, cover major portion of the work. The other bid, submitted by R. D. Cole Mfr. Co., Newman, Ga., was $29,865 for construction of the steel reservoir on a prepared foundation.

The total cost of the undertaking, $549,651.60, is almost $15,000 below engineers' estimates. Sixty percent of this amount is covered by Economic Development Administration (EDA) grant, the remaining 40 percent by EDA loan.

William O. Goebel, chairman of the Prestonsburg Water, Sewer and Gas Commission, said the community profits not only from the below-estimate bids but also from the fact that the base bids accepted provide for the use of cast iron pipe, which is more satisfactory than the synthetic type specified in alternate bids.

The bids offered by several contractors were opened here April 25, then reviewed by EDA, Howard K. Bell, Engineers, the City Council and the Water and Gas Commission.

HOW TO LOSE ON A WINNER I haven't wagered on the nags since the afternoon, some 20 years ago, when I laid my money on a favorite at River Downs and, two jumps out of the starting gate, the jockey on this hawss sailed off and backward, apparently faster than the horse was going in the other direction. Yet I somehow commiserate with those who indulged in the legalized sport of gambling at the Derby and ventured their hard-earned on the eventual winner, Forward Pass.

DID IT HAPPEN IN FLOYD?

Joe Creason tells the story of the wily bootlegger whom the minions of the law had long sought, and in vain. A well-dressed stranger, who really was a "revenoer," appeared in town, one day, met the object of his search, took him aside and whispered, "Where could a fellow buy a pint of whiskey?" The mountaineer replied, "Give me $2 and hold this box for me and I'll find you some."

The stranger, sure of his catch, waited and waited, the shoe box under his arm. Finally, he tired, opened the box, and—you guessed it—there was his pint.

I heard this story more years ago than I'd like to admit. It was told as true and as having happened at Garrett, in this county. Because the hunted man has long since shuffled from this mortal coil, I will mention no names.

ANSWER: "WHAT DO YOU THINK?"

I am reminded that perhaps the silliest question ever asked is the one asked of a young boy practicing at the piano: "Sonny, is your mother at home?"

UNAFRAID BUT ASHAMED

Read an article, the other night, on over-indulgence. It contained the story of the bishop who over-ate, spent a night in pain, and finally summoned his doctor, early next morning. "Doctor," he said, "I'm not afraid to die, but the truth is, I'm ashamed to."

ODD EPITAPHS

An old United Mine Workers Journal which Mrs. Avanelle Wells sent me recently has this item:

The will of Septimus Daniel, of Yorkshire, England, contained the following instructions:

"Bury me in the same grave as my wife's, and on the grave-stone put this inscription—Daniel in the lion's den."

If you want to feel unhappier than usual, try to recall, every time you buy something, what that particular item used to cost.

Mrs. Della Martin Dies at Age of 82 At Martin Hospital

Mrs. Della Martin, 82, of Hueysville, passed away last Wednesday at Our Lady of the Way hospital, Martin, following a year's illness.

Surviving are four sons, Kendall, Joe and Hargis Martin, all of Hueysville, and Zeb Webb Martin, of Pikeville; two daughters, Mrs. Polly Jones, of Logan, W. Va., and Mrs. Annie Gibson, of Willard, Ohio, and three sisters, Mrs. Creasy Hughes and Miss Josie Sexton, both of Plymouth, Ohio, and Mrs. Lillian Blankenship, of Louisiana. She also leaves 28 grandchildren and 55 great-grandchildren.

Funeral rites were conducted Saturday at 10 a.m. from the Stone Coal Regular Baptist Church, of which she was a member for 35 years, ministers of that church officiating. Burial was made in the Tom Martin cemetery at Garrett under the direction of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Melvin Cox Dies At Hospital Here After Long Illness

Melvin Cox, 75, of Garrett, died Sunday in the Prestonsburg General hospital after a year's illness. His brother, Winfield Cox, died in Ohio, three weeks ago.

A retired miner and a member of the Floyd county A.S.C.S., he was born in Knott county, a son of William and Eliza Castle Cox. His wife, Mrs. Rosha Martin Cox, died in 1964.

Survivors include a son, Wayne Cox, of Garrett; two daughters, Mrs. Madge Boggs, of Garrett, and Mrs. Garnet Moore, of Martin; a brother, Pat Cox, of Avilla, Ind., and two sisters, Mrs. Ellen Martin, of Wayland, and Mrs. Amanda Hunter, of Estill.

He also leaves three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral rites were conducted Sunday at 10 a.m. from the Stone Coal Regular Baptist Church, ministers of that church officiating. Burial was made in the W. H. Martin cemetery at East-ern under the direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

School Construction Rise Seen Within Next Year

Frankfort — Kentucky Department of Education officials foresee a sharp rise in public school construction in about a year with new state money in the offing through the Minimum Foundation program.

The officials say some construction of elementary and high school buildings may get underway within the next few months on the strength of an additional $100 per classroom unit which is to become available in the 1968-69 fiscal year. (A classroom unit is 27 students in average daily attendance).

However, public school systems will get their biggest financial boost for capital construction in the 1969-70 fiscal year when they get the full additional $600 per classroom unit provided by the budget for the next biennium.

The new budget which the 1968 General Assembly adopted unanimously on the recommendation of Gov. Louie B. Nunn, provides a 100 per cent increase in capital construction funds over that provided yearly since 1960 when the State allotment per classroom unit was increased from $400 to $600.

On the basis of some $22.3 million additional money provided by the new budget for capital construction, education officials say the state's 199 school districts will have $202,500,000 bonding potential.

But education officials point out the amount of new construction the money will buy may be adversely affected by increased interest rates and higher construction costs, which have sharply increased in the past year.

Even the wealthiest school districts, education officials say, are now paying almost the six per cent interest rate ceiling imposed by the state. They say this is about one per cent over the national national bond index of 4.43 per cent. An example is Hardin County, one of the wealthiest school districts, which just recently sold revenue bonds at 5.45 per cent.

Education officials are equally concerned over the differential in interest rates among the school districts. They note even though all revenue bonds are supervised by the State, poorer schools districts are continuing to have to pay higher rates and even some districts have difficulty in borrowing money at the higher rates. These higher costs, education officials say, eat into capital funds.

School districts will have to pay at least some of the new money toward current indebtedness, because of the loss of classroom units and thus the loss of revenue.

Officials, however, are hopeful the new money, which they estimate to be about 25 per cent short of estimated needs, will in time "allow us to catch up."

The officials note as current indebtedness is discharged, money now obligated can in time be applied toward new construction.

Traditional ways of teaching have turned school into a "prison" for too many Kentucky children, says the new Kentucky Education Association (KEA) president, Mrs. Martha Dell Sanders, of Paducah.

"These students see only the oppressing inflexibility of a system which tries to impose middle class values on all. They conclude—and rightly so—that school is a prison," Mrs. Sanders asserted in her presidential address at the annual KEA convention in Louisville recently.

"Education's rejects," she said, "are removed from the scenes of achieving the educational norms, getting good grades, making the football team, and having people who really care for them. . . Education teaches a different lesson to those who sit in the back of the room."

Mrs. Sanders warned that time is quickly running out for educators to design the type of programs that adequately meet the needs of modern students.

"Many outside agencies," she said, "are being much more imaginative than the educators."

"The educational atmosphere will be stiff with embarrassment if we continue to be highly unobservant of our students' needs. In this world of organized educational opinion the profession must quickly make meaningful intrusions."

"I think we must concede," said Mrs. Sanders, "that the most telling statements on education's effectiveness in our times have not been made from the pulpit or the educational convention platforms but in the streets of Detroit, Memphis, Kansas City, Louisville, and a dozen other cities."

The opportunity to do something about changing inadequate traditional programs is "finally here in the form of increased revenue both from the federal government and the state government," Mrs. Sanders told the convention audience.

"I suggest that we look to the volumes of research which have been done by the behavioral scientists, that we as teachers learn new skills of interacting with our students, that we all free our imagination and expertise to change drastically some of the expensive, traditional programs that just don't work with students."

Noting that the Kentucky Department of Mental Health recently stated that approximately 15,000 children in Kentucky are classified as emotionally disturbed, Mrs. Sanders asked:

"Do our schools cause some of these disturbances? If so, do we as teachers perpetuate some of the emotional problems through verbal and non-verbal rejection?"

Mrs. Sanders, currently on leave as a Paducah-Tilghman high school teacher of English and debate to serve as coordinator of the federally-financed Paducah professional improvement program, announced that "Challenge of Opportunity" would be her theme as KEA president.

The recent legislative session showed that Kentuckians are finally saying that adequate "Beyond the Minimum" education is important to them, Mrs. Sanders said.

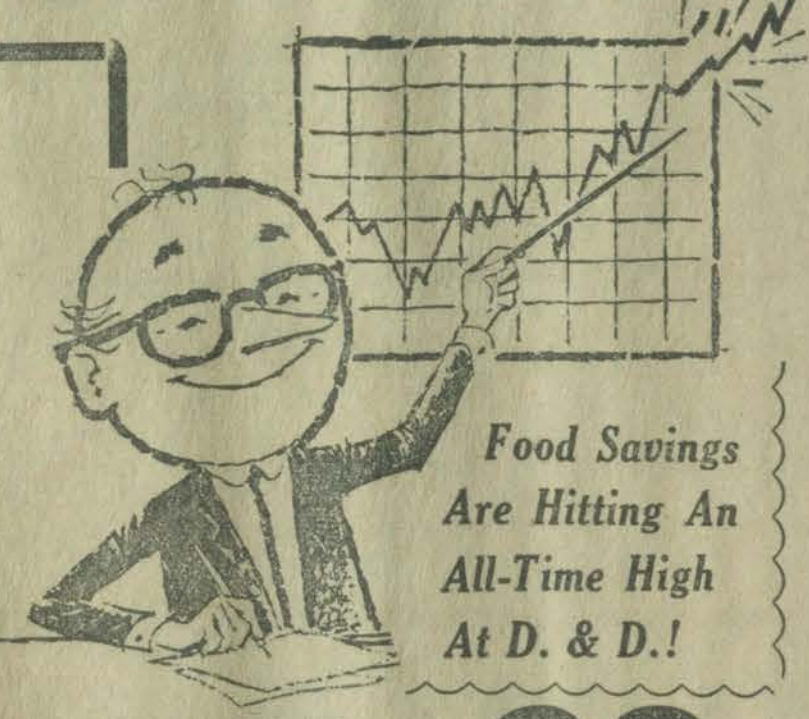

"Then it would seem that our challenge is to quit talking about change and start changing. We have the opportunity."

'WHATSOEVER THINGS'

By DONALD E. WILDMON

There have been some interesting stories in the news lately about people. One of them was datelined Dallas, Texas. It seems a policeman, his patrol car stopped by a flat tire, called the dispatcher for help one night. Minutes later, a truck roared up with sirens blowing and lights blazing. The policeman quickly got back on his radio and was heard to tell the dispatcher: "No sir, I said tire truck!" The fire truck returned to the fire station.

And then there was the article concerning Robert Mecum, 40, of Ia Mirada, Calif. It seems that Mecum had an experience that every pilot dreads and fears. He was flying from Orange County Airport in California to Fullerton Airport in California when he was forced to land when he ran out of gas. The distance between the two airports is six miles.

And then came James F. Smith, of Nickerson, Kansas. Smith had just pulled onto Kansas Highway 96 after filling his gas tank when another car drove out of a side street in front of him. Swerving to avoid smashing broadside into the other vehicle, Smith's car flipped over. Smith walked back to the service station and sold his extensively damaged car for $4.50. That's the exact amount it cost him to fill the gas tank moments earlier.

Aren't you glad that our lives aren't like that? Becoming worthless when involved in a smash-up, I mean. When you have had a crack-up on the roadway of life it doesn't mean that your life is worthless. You can always start over and try again.

We are so made, you see, that just because we have made a mess out of our lives up to a certain point doesn't mean we have to consider them worthless. One wonderful thing about life is that you can always start over. You may not be able to do everything right all the time, but you can always start over.

There's a word for this new beginning but we don't use it much anymore. Forgiveness. That's what it is. Forgiveness. It's a wonderful word that has more meaning after you experience it. And it means that if we have made a mess out of our lives we can start again. That's

INTER-AGENCY MEETING STUDIES FLOYD PROBLEMS

Floyd county agencies met recently to discuss means of combating the problems now confronting the county's unemployed and underemployed.

Many Floyd agencies were represented at the meeting which was held at the Floyd County Board of Education library.

Mrs. Helen Wells, program coordinator, introduced the topic of cooperation between agencies and stressed the necessity of working together to avoid duplication of services. A very serious topic of discussion was the problem of what to do with men who had been phased out of the Work Experience and Training Program and are now unemployed. Various projects were suggested which could be funded with federal money if the projects could be approved. One project, the sheltered workshop, was unanimously approved because so many persons of both sexes, ages and degrees of education could be trained for gainful employment.

Another proposal was the cleaning up of river banks if easements could be secured from property owners. The purchase of heavy and light road machinery for the training and ultimate employment of men on state and county roads was discussed. County Judge Henry Stumbo thought this a good proposal and thought the machinery may be purchased with federal funds if approved.

Problems of adult education and discontinuance of this phase of the program were discussed. Representatives of WE&T pointed out the progress that had been made in families who had participated in the program and expressed the hope that it can be continued.

After discussion of these proposals, the Rev. W. D. Jagers suggested that immediate action should be taken. All agencies decided that letters should be directed to Gov. Nunn, Senators and Congressman Perkins, outlining plans for the alleviation of poverty in the area. Some of these are:

1. A sheltered workshop.
2. Increased funding of the Nelson Project.
3. Use the talent of retired persons by hiring them for training purposes.
4. Encourage the federal government to provide more industry in the area.
5. Employ women in WE&T families while husbands are unemployed.

CANCER RESEARCH AT UK INVOLVES MORGAN-CO. MAN

(From The Licking Valley Courier, West Liberty, Ky.)

A cancer research project at the University of Kentucky Medical Center in which a 48-year-old Morgan county man is acting as guinea pig has brought some encouraging results.

Several patients with widespread cancer have shown definite improvement through the use of immune therapy, including Willard Bradley, of West Liberty, Route 3 (Elkfork), a cancer patient who has lived much past what would normally be expected. And several others have done almost as well.

The research is being directed by Dr. Loren J. Humphrey, associate professor of clinical cell biology at UK. Immune therapy is the use of immune mechanisms in the body as treatment and has been used by Dr. Humphrey on patients with malignant melanomas and cancer of the large bowel.

Mr. Bradley suffers with malignant melanomas, or moles. In November of 1966, a freckle on his right arm became irritated and started bleeding, then took the appearance of a mole. Since then he has been in surgery 22 times.

Malignant melanomas, one of the most aggressive types of cancer, recurs in about 50 percent of patients and when it strikes the second time they die in a few months. "It just goes like a brush-fire," Dr. Humphrey said.

After the initial diagnosis, the disease recurred, causing about 50 moles on Mr. Bradley's arm and four on his face. But since he became involved in the research project in July the moles on his arm have decreased in size and two on his face have disappeared, and as a result of the treatments doctors have been able to remove the remainder from his arm by surgery.

Dr. Humphrey explained that treatment is begun with the selection of two patients with the same blood type who become partners in the research. The cancer in each is widespread and not curable by drug or X-ray therapy.

Blood samples are taken for future laboratory use. Then a piece of tumor is taken from each patient and made into a suspension so it will produce antibodies but not let the cancer cells grow.

Then the suspension of the tumor from one patient is injected into the other patient and vice versa. Then after a month of this the patients enter the hospital for 10 days. "What we do at this time is every morning we take a pint of blood from each of them," Dr. Humphrey said. "We spin it down so the red blood cells are thrown down, then we take off the plasma and white blood cells. We give the patient's partner the plasmas and white blood cells, exchange these, and the patients get their own red blood cells back so they won't get anemic. They get this for eight or 10 times."

The reasoning is that "because you have some of my tumor your white blood cells are active against my tumor."

About 40 patients have taken part in the program but many have been so ill they have been unable to complete both parts of the treatment. Several have died. Only 12 have finished enough to be evaluated by Dr. Humphrey and his associates. The most striking example of these has been the case of Mr. Bradley.

Mr. Bradley showed improvement immediately after his first exchange of serum and blood, as did his partner for a few months. Then his partner died.

When another patient with the same blood type came along she was matched with Mr. Bradley and he was "exchanged" for the second time.

That partner of his has done quite well as she has lived seven months, and her moles have grown no more, although they have not reduced in size.

Dr. Humphrey says the results of the research are extremely encouraging. In laboratory tests cancer cells from nine patients have been grown in test tubes. Serum from the patients taken before the treatment had no effect on the cells. But serum from four after the treatment killed them.

Mr. Bradley, who is a minister, is perfectly healthy now and the cancer has been arrested for about 10 months. A robust looking man, he has made plans to travel and has recently returned to the pulpit to preach.

He is an Enterprise Baptist minister and has held pastorates at Newcombe Valley in Elliott county and in East Chicago, Ind.

He is married to the former Eliza Hutchinson and they have four daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Spicer, of Gary, Ind., Mrs. Martha Whitaker, of Portland, Ore., and twins, Willa and Wilma, who are seniors at Morgan county high school this year.

Despite his still-frequent stays in the hospital, Mr. Bradley remains in good spirits. He puts a lot of faith in Dr. Humphrey and in modern medical technology. "But I agree with Dr. Humphrey," he says. He told me: "You know if it wasn't for the Man upstairs you wouldn't be here."

The research project is being conducted under a grant from the Kentucky Division of the American Cancer Society.

Wheelwright Club Contribution Made To Aid Rescue Squad

The Wheelwright Woman's Club last Sunday presented to Capt. Glenn Frazier, of the Left Beaver Civil Defense and Rescue Squad, a $25 contribution to help the squad finance remodeling of its building.

The contribution was made at the new home of the squad at Price. The group recently purchased an old building there which it is remodeling, relying on contributions from the public to help finance the undertaking.

Through University Extension, the University of Kentucky makes its instructional and research facilities available to the citizens of the state.

If things like head, shoulder and leg room are important to you, take a close look at the new Chevrolet.

Automotive News did—and its 1968 Roominess Index shows Chevrolet is the second most spacious of all American sedans.

The roomiest? That distinction, we're not at all embarrassed to admit, goes to America's most popular luxury car.

Based on the Roominess Index, which totals seven key interior dimensions to the fraction of an inch, Chevrolet's 4-door sedan scored 290.7. A tenth of a point behind the 4-door luxury model. A pretty good showing when you consider how much more the expensive model sells for.

Drop down to your dealer's and bring the family. This one's a real crowd-pleaser.

...the mother purchased a tube of the firm's toothpaste from a Prestonsburg store and that a sample of Colgate 100 was attached to the tube. On or about Dec. 6, it is claimed, the boy took the bottle of Colgate soap outside their home, took a swallow of the product in the hope of relieving a sore throat condition. Replacing the cap, he put the bottle on a rock ledge, explosion following and causing injuries to his face, eyes and other parts of his body, it is claimed.

SUMMER SESSION

The summer session at the university of Kentucky will get under way on June 12 and continue through August 7. The fall semester will begin on August 23.

That's the question. The answer nobody knows. If anyone finds out, the heirs apparent forfeit their rights, and new nominees will be named. No one knows who the young queen is or what she will wear, but queen she will be until the 1973 Homecoming, already looming big in the hearts and minds of Maytownites.

...the most unique homecoming, and the biggest ever staged by a small town in the U.S.A.

On the same night's program, a short memorial service will be held in memory of deceased students, former principals and teachers of Maytown high school.

Maytownites, present and past, are requested to send interesting but brief data or news of any former student, or resident, to Mrs. Manda Sutton, Langley, Ky., for possible use in the Homecoming news sheet to be available during the event. This is being compiled from letters arriving, from families and friends. Mary Lou Hicks Harris, of Louisville, Melanie Conley,
