

County Now Has Teacher Surplus

Layoffs Not Impossible, Clark Says

Enrollment Decline Cuts Teacher Demand; Local Funds Are Hit

Supt. of Schools Charles Clark this week said there are more qualified teachers in Floyd county than there are teaching positions.

"In fact," he said, "it is very possible at the end of the present semester that some teachers will have to be transferred, and it isn't at all impossible that some will have to be laid off."

This statement, made after a study of enrollment figures for the new school year, clashes with the idea popularly held that there aren't enough teachers to go around.

Last year, the superintendent pointed out, the overhiring amounted to 7.3 teachers. This year, the figure will be even greater—from 10 to 12. Overhiring, it was explained, results because the board of education employs teachers before the schools open and bases the number of teachers on the enrollment for the preceding year.

KUAC SLATES PIKE HEARING

AV Director Here Alleges Political Timing Is Involved

Kentucky's Un-American Activities Committee will begin public hearings at Pikeville next Tuesday morning on Appalachian problems which may include sedition charges lodged last year against three anti-poverty workers in Pike county.

State Senator Clifford B. Latta, of Prestonsburg, is a member of the committee. He has insisted since his appointment after the committee was authorized by the General Assembly that KUAC's mission "is not a witch-hunt" but an honest effort to learn the truth about conditions.

David Walls, acting director at the AV headquarters here, said in a prepared statement: "We view the summoning of the Kentucky Un-American Activities Committee as the latest of ongoing attempts by a coalition of self-seeking Pike county political figures and the Independent Coal Operators' Association (representing and intimidating poor people and poor people's organizations in that county and drive out other people and groups giving them support and encouragement, in this particu-

BOARD VOTES ALC GYM AID

Pippa Passes College Converts Gymnasium Following Fire Loss

The Floyd County Board of Education at its Saturday meeting approved a contract permitting the use of certain of its gymnasiums by gymless Alice Lloyd College.

The gym need for the Pippa Passes school arose from a fire which destroyed a school building there. The building used for a gymnasium was of necessity converted into a classroom structure.

Other items of business transacted:

Transferred Judy F. Stone, teacher at Betsy Layne high school, to Clark elementary school, and Rondall Prater, teacher at Clark, to Martin Consolidated.

Employed as substitute bus drivers: Everett Moore, Dock Harris, Charles Meadows and Harry Hale.

Authorized the Superintendent to advertise the old Alum Lick and Clark school grounds for sale.

Approved the lease permitting the Floyd Comprehensive Health Services Program use of part of the Bosco school as an outpost.

Accepted the resignation of Ada Meade as Title I bookkeeper and employed Erna Prater as her successor.

Re-employed George L. Shannon as architect for the 1968-'69 school year.

Approved the activities fund budget for various schools as prepared by the school principals.

Library Here Gets Annual Grant OK

The amortization grant of $7,276 a year for the next 20 years which was tentatively approved last July for the Floyd County Library Board has been given final approval, Homer Lee Hall, regional librarian, told the library board at its Monday afternoon meeting here.

Final approval followed the board's acceptance of conditions under which the grant is made. One condition is that a county of Floyd's population must have 3,328 square feet of library facilities. The existing library has 6,700 square feet of floor space, so the library board directed George Lee Shannon, Prestonsburg architect, to prepare plans for a 30 x 54-foot addition to the library. In accordance with grant conditions, it agreed to have the project let to contract and construction started by next April 1.

The library board already has $25,000 in state-aid funds on hand with which to finance a portion of the building cost.

AKERS GETS COLLEGE JOB

Bid of $1,386,276 On Two Structures Okehed, Nunn Says

The award of a state contract for $1,386,276 to Akers & Akers, Dana contractors, for construction of two buildings and renovation of the existing structure at Prestonsburg Community College was announced Friday by Gov. Louie B. Nunn.

New construction will consist of a two-story academic building and a one-story student activities building.

The academic building will house 24 offices, business education rooms, an art studio, TV studios, classrooms and an auditorium seating 235 persons. The student activities building will contain a book store, student work room, student lounge, snack bar, director's office and student government space.

The existing building will be altered to include music studios, music practice rooms, a band room, and a library twice the size of the present library.

The project is to be completed by November 8, 1969.

49 ATTEND PARK CLINIC

Hospitality Stressed At Thursday Meeting; Two Receive Awards

Forty-nine employees of Jenny Wiley State Park participated in the Hospitality Clinic held last Thursday at May Lodge.

The only items of the program supplied by persons not employed by the state were contributed by City Manager Curtis Clark, of Prestonsburg, and Elmon Davis, chairman of the Paintsville Apple Day Festival. Mr. Clark discussed historic spots in the county which are of interest to tourists.

Roger Farley, business manager, Jenny Wiley State Park, served as master of ceremonies. Kenneth Tate, recreation director at the park, discussed "How Recreation Affects Hospitality," and Frances West, publicity specialist, Kentucky Department of Public Information, spoke on the topic, "Hospitality Is Big Business in Kentucky."

"Personalizing Hospitality" was the topic of a talk by Robert M. Talbot, assistant director of the Bureau of Vocational Education, Kentucky Department of Education.

Kentucky Hospitality Awards were presented by Patty Lou Davis, coordinator of the series of hospitality clinics. Top award was won by Helen Hughes; second-place award, by Mae Butcher. Both winners are members of the Jenny Wiley State Park staff.

Small Group Holds Peace Vigil at PCC

A "peace vigil" was held under the flag on the Prestonsburg Community College campus at 11 a.m. Wednesday by a small group of participants, at best numbering seven. This small minority stood silently under the flag until 12:05.

Other students, some Wallace supporters, others with no apparent political affiliations, heckled those who were standing under the flag by driving their cars around the parking lot, honking their horns, and shouting, "Communists!"

The counter-demonstrators' loud behavior was in sharp con-

Floyd Loses Plea On 'Blanket' Raise

Floyd county this week lost its appeal from the "blanket" assessment raise ordered by the State Revenue Department.

The Board of Tax Appeals directed the department to set the raise at 20 percent on farm and residential rural non-farm properties and 10 percent on all other real estate, excluding oil rights.

This was the increase anticipated by the fiscal court when it recently set the new tax rate which by law may not result in this year's total tax revenue for county, school and other local purposes exceeding that of last year.

"The only ones to benefit by the raise," County Judge Henry Stumbo pointed out, "will be the state."

Here (Shudder!) Is What Could Be in the Offing

With Alabama's George Wallace apparently making heavy inroads into the strength of Kentucky's two major parties, political writers have pondered the possibility that one of the regular political parties might not poll 20 percent of the total vote and thus would lose its place on the ballot next year. Because the state is preponderantly Democratic in politics, the view is taken that the Democratic

INDIAN SUMMER?

One of the top news commentators around spent some time, the other evening, declaring Indian Summer had come to Washington. There's no sign of the hazy, smoky season around here, and I'm inclined to believe that maybe somebody raised a window in one of those smoke-filled rooms in D. C., fooling Mr. Seavard into thinking the seasonal ghost fires were smoking up the spirit-trails.

HE'S RISKING IT

Our friend, Mr. Moore is in Indiana this week. Announcing his intention to sally across the Ohio into another state, he said: "It may cost Nixon Kentucky, but I'm-a-goin'!"

SOUTH FOR THE WINTER

The stranger to the hills found the oldtimer at his cabin which, if the truth must be known, he used only during the summer moonshining season, when the leaves protected him from view of interlopers and outdoors work was pleasant. The mountaineer carefully steered the other away from his still and kept the visitor regaled with tall yarns. Finally, he got around to the mountain winters, and he really laid it on.

"Brother," he solemnly assured the other, "I've seen it 30 below and the snow up to here and the wind rippin' trees around here up the roots."

"How do you endure such winters?" the innocent from the city inquired.

"Oh, I mosey off south." "To Florida?" "Nope, just down to the big house at the mouth of the holter."

NO RETRIAL FOR HOWARD

Defendant To File Appeal from Verdict In Car Deaths Case

Motion filed by attorneys of Larry Howard for a new trial for the Greenup county man who was convicted in circuit court here recently on three involuntary manslaughter counts was denied last week by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley.

His attorneys immediately prepared to appeal the jury verdict which sentenced Howard to a total of 36 months in jail and imposed fines totalling $3,000. He executed $15,000 bond last Friday.

The case was the last of the September criminal court term.

In asking a new trial of the case the defendant's attorneys claimed the court had erred in failing to grant Howard a change of venue, in the instructions to the jury and in permitting the Commonwealth's Attorney to make "a highly inflammatory argument" to the jury in the trial of the case.

Judge Conley held that defendant's rights were not prejudiced. Howard was on trial for the auto deaths of Mrs. Elder Wright and her two daughters, Mrs. Brenda Crum and Miss Teresa Wright.

Lancer Span Bids Are Again Delayed

Baptist Church Revival To Begin Here Sunday, To Continue Thru Week

The Rev. Lloyd Bardowell will lead Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church in revival, beginning Sunday and continuing through Oct. 20. Services will be held each day at 7 p.m.

The Rev. Bardowell recently returned from his native Jamaica where he led a crusade in which 800 decisions for Christ were made. He is a graduate of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, and served as pastor of several Baptist churches in the South before entering fulltime evangelism. In 1966 alone 4,000 decisions were recorded under his ministry.

The music program for each service will be directed by Gus Kalos. Nursery facilities are being provided for younger children, the pastor, the Rev. W. D. Jagers, said.

A welcome is extended to the public by the pastor and congregation to attend each service.

U.S. Change In Designing Is Blamed

Shoe Firm Officials Told Bridge, Highway Job Set in Early '69

The Kentucky Department of Highways has notified officials of the U. S. Shoe Company that the date for letting a contract on construction of the bridge across the Big Sandy, at Lancer has been postponed.

Date of contract-letting had been set for Nov. 22. Now, the date has been set ahead to January or February. Both the bridge and the road up Bull Creek to Water Gap as a link with the bridge and new US 23 will be let to contract at the same time, The Times learned.

The delay, it was said, results from a change in design criteria asked by the U. S. Bureau of Roads. One design change unofficially mentioned grew out of the recent highway tragedy near Slade in which six persons were killed. This resulted, it is held, because a bridge abutment was near the edge of the highway; consequently, new designing calls for piers or abutments to be set farther back from the roadway.

U. S. Shoe Company was notified of the change in letting date because it is directly affected. Present access to its new, million-dollar plant in the vicinity of the mouth of Bull Creek is over a one-way suspension span at Knotley Hollow or by a circuitous route down Bull Creek.

The Department of Highways currently is advertising for housing to meet the needs of persons who have been, or will be, laid off from work. (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

4 OUTPOSTS SET TO OPEN

In Big Health Program, Giving Co. 6 Centers For Community Work

Before next week's end the Floyd County Comprehensive Health Services Program will have its full complement of six community outposts in operation. Dr. Russell L. Hall, program director, said Wednesday.

Four new outposts will be added to the two already in operation. The new stations will be located at Bosco, Mare Creek, Mud Creek and Drift. The original outposts, at Bevinville and Dwayne, have been in operation since last year.

Each of the six outposts, except the Mud Creek center, has a staff of six—a team leader, clerk and four home aides. The Mud Creek outpost will have six home aides as well as a team leader and clerk.

The outposts are the links between the people in the most isolated sections with program headquarters and its specialists and varied services. Work of the home aides includes contact with the people in their homes.

EX-RESIDENT SLAIN IN OHIO

William Marshall, 29, Shot to Death Tuesday By Columbus Woman

William Moore Marshall, 29, former Prestonsburg man, was shot and killed Tuesday night at Columbus, Ohio, by a tavern waitress.

He was shot three times—in the neck and twice in his chest—and was dead on arrival at University Hospital, Columbus.

A brother of the victim gave this version of the shooting: When Marshall entered the tavern a waitress told him to leave or she would kill him. As he was picking up his change she began firing.

The slain man was a son of John Earl and Fionnie Young Marshall, of Water Gap. He had resided the last five years in Columbus, where he was employed. Besides his parents, he leaves his widow, Mrs. Naomi Robinson Marshall, a son, William, Jr., and two daughters, Venetia Lynn and Ruth Ann, all of Columbus; one brother, John Earl Marshall, Jr., of Water Gap, and five sisters, Mrs. Betty Jackson, of Prestonsburg, Mrs. Grace Holton, Cleveland, Ohio, Mrs. Ruby Burns, Misses Wilma and Mary Lou Marshall, all of Water Gap.

The body is at the residence of the parents. Funeral rites will be conducted Saturday at 1 p.m. from Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, the Rev. W. D. Jagers officiating. Burial will be made in the old Mayo cemetery at Lancer under direction of the Floyd Funeral Home.

Three-Judge Panel Named for Hearing

The special panel of federal judges to hear the Floyd county educational redistricting case was named Tuesday by the Sixth district U. S. Court of Appeals, Cincinnati. The panel appointment had been certified to the Court of Appeals by U. S. District Judge Bernard T. Moynihan, exactly a week earlier.

The panel will consist of U. S. Appellate Judge Bert T. Combs, Judge Moynihan and Judge Mac Swinford.

When and where the panel will convene for hearing of the case is not known here.

Appointment of the federal panel was asked in a suit filed by 38 residents of the Bull Creek section of the county asking an injunction to force the Floyd County Board of Education to fix the boundaries of the county's five educational division so as to conform with the Supreme Court's "one-man, one vote" ruling.

The suits filed by incumbent members of the Board of Education against three opponents at the coming election were heard here last Friday by Special Judge W. D. Sparks, of Louisville, whose decision had not been rendered as of Wednesday noon.

Two of the suits sought to declare the declarations of Manis Crawford, board member candidate in Division 4, and of Rondal Lawson in Division 5 void. The third complaint attacked only the filing of Thomas J. Spears in Division 5, and it provided little contention, since Mr. Spears had discovered the error made in filing and had filed a second petition as a candidate from Division 3 where he resides.

Right or Wrong

By HENRY A. BUCHANAN and BOB W. BROWN

The Viet Nam War has now reached the Supreme Court. One hundred and thirteen Army reservists have challenged the President's right to call up reservists without a declaration of war or national emergency.

A 1966 Congressional Act gave the President that authority but the Court will now decide whether the 113 men have a valid case. Until a decision is rendered, the 113 reservists will not be sent to Viet Nam.

We knew it would happen, sooner or later. The inequities of the system by which our fighting men are chosen, plus the unpopularity of the Viet Nam War, made it inevitable.

Nothing can be done to popularize the Viet Nam War. Nothing short of a direct Communist attack on the United States. But something can be done to equalize the military draft. The case of the 113 reservists points up the urgency of immediate remedial action.

As matters now stand a young man can avoid military service as long as he is enrolled in school—and making passing grades. If he elects to go into medicine, the ministry, or scientific research, he may never have to serve in the ranks.

Advocates of the special exemptions say the country needs young men in the professions and scientific research and production. This we don't question. What we do question is whether the gain is as great as the loss. Loss of national unity. Loss of support for national policy. Loss of respect for the system. Loss of patriotism in the time of war.

If we need the draft, then we need a national lottery system. With every man's name going into the pot at a certain established age. No exemptions. No deferments. No preferences. Draw the card and call the man up for examination.

If he doesn't pass physical and mental exams, draw another card and call up another man.

This would go far to remove the bitterness based on alleged class distinctions in our present system.

be displaced by highway construction. And there, again, US Bureau of Roads standards are posing a problem for the Department of Highways.

No family will be relocated in sub-standard housing; such homes must have a specified floor area per occupant, have a bathroom, and be equipped to maintain an inside temperature of 70 degrees.

One engineer was quoted as having said at a meeting at which housing criteria was discussed that "I live in a $30,000 home, but it wouldn't meet the standards the Bureau of Roads asks."

Changes are being made, however, in U. S. requirements for housing—and the Department of Highways is hoping that some of the requirements will be relaxed.

Purchase of rights-of-way for both the Lancer bridge and the Bull Creek road is being made. Right-of-way acquisition on new US 23 from the Mountain Parkway to Allen and on toward Pikeville is tentatively scheduled to begin by the end of the year.

THE GOLDEN SEASON
The Golden Season has come, the loveliest time of the year. Gold is the predominant color of autumn. Spring is the time of gaudy pinks, reds and purples, but autumn dons the more sober colors of brown and gold and russet.

There are various shades and tints of gold—light gold, bright gold, dark gold and gold that glitters like live coals in the dark. Already the wild sunflowers have put on their finest golden display. As we walk along the roads or through the fields and woods, we can see clumps of wild sunflowers flaunting their autumn gold. Then there are the goldenrods growing in thick patches along fields, meadows, brook banks and waste places. The plume goldenrod, state flower of Kentucky, waves her brilliant feathery plume in the bright autumn sun, and we are delighted with this display of splendor. Then we have the flowers of gold on the common "stick weeds," as they are called locally. There is an old weather saying that goes: "When you see the stick weeds in bloom, it is only six weeks until frost."

In the botany books, stick weeds are called golden yellow crownbeard, Verbesina Occidentalis. They have sparse rays of golden yellow with a delightful fragrance like wild honey in the comb. The bees visit them for the sweet nectar.

Then we have the golden-yellow ironweed, a tall, leafy plant that resembles purple ironweed but bears showy, yellow blossoms. The botany books call it "the yellow ironweed," and it forms large patches along brooks and edges of clearings.

The gorgeous evening primrose puts on a fine display of gold, which lasts until frost. Large patches of it may be seen in bottomlands or old clearings; the blossoms glow like golden wax candles. These form seed pods in the shape of cylinders, which make an excellent winter food for goldenfinches and pine siskins.

The result last year was a $43,000 deficit, and that was a drain on the local leeway funds of the board, not on state funds. A teacher's salary is paid with state funds only if the average daily attendance of her pupils is 27 or more, which means an enrollment of 33 per teacher. And in many spots in the county the ADA is below that minimum.

This means, according to Clark, that the teaching staff must be reduced to fit the pupil load, and a shift of teachers from where the children aren't to where they are must be made.

"If Title I federal funds had not picked up 50 positions there would have been that many qualified teachers without positions this year," the superintendent said.

Resignations and leaves of absence necessary because of illness and for other reasons may reduce the number of teachers to the point that no layoffs will have to be made, he added.

Looking at the pupil loss, Clark said, "A teacher resignation does not mean that there will be a vacancy in the future. Attrition because of resignation and retirement of teachers does not come fast enough to stay ahead of the pupil loss. So the chance of our hiring new teachers, if our loss in the number of children attending school continues, is very remote."

The enrollment total for all schools in the county this year is 9,716—157 below last year's figure. And a loss in the number of pupils has been recorded in each of the last five school years.

Only Prestonsburg, Martin and Harold elementary schools have a larger enrollment this year than five years ago. Over the five-year period Prestonsburg gained 124 and Martin 17. Harold gained one. All others lost. The heaviest losers were Drift elementary by 230, Wheelwright high by 156, Osborne elementary by 89.

The rural school enrollment this year is 844, as compared with 1,053 last year and 1,832 five years ago.

The enrollment figures for the five year span:

Walking along brook banks of the edges of old clearings, we now may find the light yellow wild touch-me-nots in bloom. The books call these "the pale touch-me-nots," as their blossoms come out in lemon yellow and look like golden earbobs dangling from the milady's ears. The touch-me-nots are called jewelweed, or snapweed, as the late autumn seed pods, when touched, snap open and toss their seeds. Their juice is an old Indian remedy for poison ivy and insect stings.

The whiteoaks and black oaks put on robes of gold mingled with crimson for decoration, and there are the sweetgums which turn half gold, half purple, making a fine display of beauty. The golden leaves of the persimmon trees turn yellow with a show of reddish veins—a pretty sight to see!

The box elders come out with a display of pale Roman gold. To match all this golden splendor of autumn, the dogwoods and black gums put on a vivid show of crimson, adding a splash to the colorful pageant of autumn.

gold, and the poets begin to say, "Thank God for dappled things!" John Burroughs once remarked that the first sure sign of autumn's approach is the golden leaves beginning to appear on the tulip poplars. By the time the first frosts come, the crowns of the tuliptrees will become masses of bright gold.

The gold of the hickories makes a marvelous display. Their leaves of autumn seem to radiate a golden glow that fills the woods roundabout with sheer enchantment. The golden display of the hickories is one of the finest shows of autumn.

The tall, stately tuliptrees are now becoming dappled with

EAST KY. CONCERT SERIES TO BEGIN WITH BALLET

The first concert of the Eastern Kentucky Concert Series will be presented next week by Mariano Parra, one of the leading exponents of the Spanish dance. He will appear with his company at the Prestonsburg elementary school next Wednesday at 8 p.m.

This company is one of the most unusual in the field of Spanish dance. Aside from its regular concert performances, the company has been working in the educational system, presenting the music and dances of Spain to the youngsters of America. In the higher levels of education, Mr. Parra and company present a lecture demonstration which is based on the study of the techniques of the three theatrical forms of Spanish dance.

The program which will be presented at the Prestonsburg school auditorium will consist of three theatrical styles of Spanish dance which are the 18th Century, contemporary and the popular flamenco. There will also be solo guitar selections from the classic and flamenco repertory.

Appearing in the company with Mariano Parra are his sisters, Ines and Mariana Parra, Dini Roman, guitarist Carlos Bondera, pianist Larry Graham and featured dancer Jerane Michel.

Following this concert will be five others sponsored by the Eastern Kentucky Concert Series. They are:

Kentucky Opera Assoc.—“Don Pasquale,” Nov. 2; Metropolitan Opera Studio Ensemble, Feb. 7; Tucson Arizona Boys' Choir, March 4; Louisville Symphony Orchestra, April 20; Lee Luvisi, concert pianist, May 2.

Tickets for the entire series may be purchased at Wednesday night's performance. No tickets will be sold for individual concerts. For additional ticket information call Gus Kalos at Prestonsburg Community College, phone 886-2721.

The First Tuesday

Ever wonder why Election Day is the first Tuesday after the first Monday? There were a lot of good reasons why that particular day was chosen by the Congress back in 1845, but hardly any of them apply now, the editors of the Encyclopedia Americana tell us. A Tuesday was chosen because in mid-nineteenth century America, voters often had to travel for a day to reach the polls, and many objected to traveling on Sunday. The first Tuesday was out because if it fell on the first of the month, it would interfere with businessmen's first-of-the-month bookkeeping. The second Tuesday was rejected because it might fall less than 22 days before the Electoral College met on the first Wednesday in December—and Congress wanted to keep the two dates approximately 30 days apart. And finally, the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November came when harvesting was over and before bad weather made some roads impassable. Before 1845, according to the Americana editors, Election Day could be held any time in November, and various states did hold it on various dates. This made balloting abuses by “repeaters” not only possible, but probable. So Congress finally made Election Day the same date everywhere. See you at the polls on November 5! ### Demra Taylor, Age 66, Retired Railway Worker, Succumbs Last Thursday

Demra Taylor, 66-year-old retired railway worker, of Martin, died last Thursday at the Methodist hospital, Pikeville, after a brief illness.

Mr. Taylor was a retired yardmaster for the C. & O. Railway Co., and was a former Martin city councilman. A veteran of World War I, he was a member of the Martin Church of Christ, the John W. Hall Masonic Lodge and John B. Reynolds Post of the American Legion there.

Born at Winchester, Ky., June 6, 1902, he was a son of the late W. S. and Jemima Allen Taylor. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Maggie Taylor; three sons, Frank Taylor, of Ashland, Ellis Taylor, of New Orleans, La., and Marion Taylor, of Warsaw, Ind.; a daughter, Mrs. Edna Click, of Hite; a brother, Ward Taylor, of Thomasville, Ga., and four grandchildren.

Development Group At Weeksbury Has Cleanup Work Going

Weeksbury, Ky.—The Weeksbury Development Corporation is moving ahead in its clean-up and “spruce up” campaign. The Nelson Scheuer community volunteers are in the process of tearing down the old “Club House.” With the removal of this and the other buildings already torn down, this area of the community looks so much better. It is hoped that arrangements might be made soon to finish the job with the removal of the “Store” building. Garbage and trash have been cleaned out of the creek bed and from roadsides, and all Weeksbury citizens are proud of this accomplishment.

Henry Scaff, of the Agriculture Extension Service, attended a recent community meeting and offered worthwhile suggestions. Mrs. Frances Pitts, home demonstration agent met with the community membership and advised the women of the requirements and procedures for the establishing of a Homemakers Club.

The highway safety film strip, “The Case of Officer Halligan,” and the civic improvement strip, “Group Portrait,” have been available for most recent community meetings.

The newly organized Weeksbury Sportsman's Club meets Thursday evenings. The next meeting is planned to consider developments that might be undertaken to improve interest in conservation as related to the hunter, and others in this area.

FEAR OF SNAKES SAVES HER

In Letcher county there is a place called Ice, and from Ice comes a warm, human column of news and comment, most weeks to The Mountain Eagle which this week for the first time caught my eye. Among other items, Siller Brown, the Ice correspondent, wrote these: "I am looking forward to butchering time. That's the good old days. A big pot of shuckie beans and a big onion and fat meat for the sinker."

"We have no bridge yet and we cannot get coal for the winter, so I get so disgusted and depressed at times. I just think I will go up on top of the hill and sit down there, and just sit there till I die. But then I would be afraid a snake would bite me, so you see there is always something that keeps us from doing these things..."

"Well, it's tater digging time and time to gather the pumpkins and quishaws and roll them under the bed. That's where we used to store them till they dried out some, then they would be sliced and dried, and hung up on sticks up near the ceiling. Talk about something good, that's it—pumpkin and quishaw mixed and a big piece of fat meat."

"Some folks say pork will kill people. It will, but it will for the want of it. That's killed many a person. Just give me more ham, hot biscuits and gravy, and that will do me..."

"When I was in town everybody seemed to be in such a rush and not going no where. I just can't understand why it's like that. It seems like we are living in the age of the squeeze. Something is putting pressure on the people, and its no wonder the people are so depressed, and don't know what to do next."

"If people could relax and take it easy for a change, there would be fewer people sick. Laugh and be jolly. Look around, there's always someone worse off than yourself."

IT'S PUT UP OR SHUT UP

Is the Eastern Kentucky Concert Series worthwhile? Apparently, the Kentucky Fine Arts Commission thinks so—it is appropriating around $8,000 of the $11,000 necessary for the presentation of five concerts here this season. Many others agree. But too many of our own people aren't willing to support the series. The financial contribution expected from us who live here is about $3,000. Less than half that amount has been subscribed—and the time is short.

One thing is certain: If we can't, or won't, raise $3,000 this year, the Fine Arts Commission next year will not be giving $8,000 to people who aren't willing to put their own money on the line.

Notice To Bidders

Outlook for Quail Season Good

Kentucky's game biologists in charge of quail projects are well pleased with what they have found this year through their studies and surveys conducted by rural mail carriers. Indications point to more quail in the field this season than were there during the excellent hunt of the past year.

Studies, conducted during June and July of this year as in previous years, show that the quail population was the highest ever recorded since this work started many years ago by the Department. The mail carriers' charts showed greater populations over the same routes than at any time in the past.

The season opens on the third Thursday of November, which is the 21st, and will continue through January 31, 1969. The daily limit is unchanged at 10 per day with a possession limit of 20 after two or more days of hunting. Possession limit applies after two or more days of shooting to transportation, but does not permit double the bag limit to be taken or possessed in the field. The shooting hours are from daylight to dark.

Prior to the upcoming season, hunters may profit by doing the following:

If the sportsman is in the forties or above, have a physical checkup.

All-duck hunters are urged to start getting in shape. Exercise for both man and dog prior to the season will pay high dividends and may even save a life.

Be sure the shotgun is in good working order. If in doubt, have a gunsmith check it.

Either use a hand trap or practice on a skeet range, in order to get the shooting eye back on the target before the season opens.

Be sure to have the farmer's permission before hunting, and last but not least, always practice safe gunmanship. Follow the "10 Commandments of Gun Safety" and you'll probably be all right.

UNVEILING OF MEMORIAL TO FAMED 'UNCLE CHARLEY' IS HOMECOMING FEATURE

Danville, Ky., Oct. 5 — A feature of Centre College's Homecoming Day program here Saturday was the unveiling of a Kentucky state historical marker placed on the campus in memory of "Uncle Charley" Moran, coach of the famous Centre "Praying Colonels" football team which upset Harvard 6-0 in 1921.

Ceremonies took place at half-time of the Centre-Washington and Lee game Saturday afternoon at Farris Stadium. The Moran marker is to stand just outside the northeast entrance to the stadium and near both Alumni Memorial gymnasium and Boles Natatorium swimming pool.

During his six seasons (1918-1923) as Centre's head coach Moran, a Horse Cave native, guided the "Praying Colonels" to the remarkable record of 46 wins and only six losses. His teams defeated many of the nation's top teams, including Harvard, which had not been beaten in five years, Texas Christian, Auburn, Tulane and West Virginia. The 1919 Centre eleven walloped Kentucky 56-0 and the 1921 team romped 56-0 over U. K.

Moran left Centre in 1923 to become head coach at Bucknell University and later became a major league umpire. He worked in four World Series.

Among Moran's top Centre players were three official All-America team performers — quarterback Alvin "Bo" McMillin, now deceased; fullback-end James "Red" Roberts, of Somerset, also deceased; and end James "Red" Weaver, who now resides in Mayfield. Weaver, who was formerly manager of Dewey Reservoir, Floyd county, for the U. S. Corps, Army Engineers, kicked 99 consecutive extra points after touchdowns to set an all-time record which has not been equalled.

Weaver was among former Moran players who attended Saturday's marker dedication here. Others to attend included Norris Armstrong, of Danville, captain of the 1921 team; J. P. "Hump" Tanner, Owensboro; Dr. George McClure, Jr., Danville; Col. George Chinn, Harrodsburg, director of the Kentucky State Historical Society; Howard VanAntwerp, Jr., Ashland; Col. Clarence L. Jones, Louisville; Ed Kubale, Sr., Danville; and Tom Bartlett, Owensboro.

Moran was born in Nashville, Tenn. in 1879 but grew up in Horse Cave. His first football coaching job was at the old Bethel College in Russellville. He coached at Texas A. & M. from 1908 to 1913 and coached the famous Carlisle Indians, Carlisle, Pa. in 1914-15.

An alumnus of the University of Tennessee, he played pro baseball and played on one of the first pro football teams, the Massillon, Ohio Tigers. He died in 1949 and was buried in the Horse Cave cemetery.

Moran's departure from Centre in 1923 did not signal the end to the ambitious football schedules which the little college had embarked on in 1917. Centre continued until 1942 to include such "name teams" on its schedules as Georgia, Northwestern, Army, Vanderbilt and Tennessee.

Pike Blind Teachers Win in Butler Ruling

A verdict recently handed down by the Kentucky State Superintendent of Public Instruction ruled in favor of two blind Pike county teachers who were supported in their efforts to gain employment by the National Education Association's DuShane Fund for Teacher Rights.

The blind teachers, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Persinger, of Helier, both certified to teach in the state, had not received employment in the Pike county schools in spite of the fact that they met all the legal requirements for service.

Meanwhile, the county had employed teachers on an emergency basis, a measure which is to be used only when it is impossible to secure qualified teachers, according to Kentucky law.

Pike County Supt. C. H. Farley, in a written response to the Persingers' complaint last fall, claimed that the blind teachers were unable to carry on the normal duties of classroom teaching and that the school district could not use them as teachers.

State Supt. Wendell P. Butler ruled, however, that "once a person is certified for a specific teaching position, it must be presumed that he is qualified until such time as it may be established that the teacher is unable to carry on the duties of the position or until such time as he shows cause for dismissal or certificate revocation."

The Persingers completed the prescribed curriculum for secondary school teachers at Georgetown College which is approved by the Kentucky State Board of Education, and were certified in accordance with the Kentucky statutes and the regulations of the State Board of Education.

Both were certified for teaching an economics-sociology combination or biology in grades 9-12, and their certificates were also valid for teaching at seventh and eighth grade level. Both had previous teaching experience in another district. Mrs. Persinger had taught one year and Mr. Persinger for more than two years.

The State Superintendent ruled that the State Department of Education will not issue any emergency certificates which might be requested by the Pike county schools for positions covered by the certificates held by the Persingers so long as they have applied for these positions and remain unemployed.

Although he noted that information presented in the case was of "insufficient substance" to warrant the employment of emergency teaching personnel in preference to the Persingers, the state superintendent, at the same time, credited the Pike county superintendent in acting in "accordance with his responsibilities as a school administrator as he understood those responsibilities" because many of the important questions in this case had not before been clearly answered or interpreted by previous court decisions.

The state superintendent, in his decision, claimed that in the Persingers' case, "the question of the physical handicap of total blindness seems to be the single most important factor." "But," he said, "the prevailing view in Kentucky is that in the teacher preparation process each person should be judged on his own merits rather than establishing any blanket rule which would exclude any class of handicapped persons."

A COMMENDABLE GROWTH

It took us a long time to recognize that our ancestors were not always the wise, gracious people whom our old-maiden aunts would have had us believe. As a naturalist by hobby choice, I have, for years, been appalled by the wastefulness of wild life and soils and timber that reduced many a valuable tract of land to gullies or, at best, broom-sage fields, with few or no wild animals around. Though the attack on the forests has been greatly reduced, largely, I fear, because there are few forests to attack, occasionally, even in 1968, I have seen excellent tracts of growing timber cut down and the space bulldozed as if for a super-market. Maybe I am a little bit selfish in noticing this belated clearing of forests, especially since there are thousands of unused acres lying around everywhere, some of them capable of producing even more than the recently-cleared newgrounds. You see, every time a forest is cut down, particularly one that bordered farm lands and was a natural home for the farm birds, there is effected a change in bird life. Though many birds can adjust to changed conditions, some of our rare ones find it impossible to maintain their former numbers when forests are cleared or even when old fields are again brought into cultivation. In the more than a half century that I have studied birds I have seen hundreds of changes in bird life, a few of them for the best, but generally with the birds as victims.

For a good many years I have had the satisfaction of knowing that many people are interested in attracting all the common songbirds around their farms. One large land-owner, on whose farms I have walked for a large portion of my mature years, was at first slightly suspicious of my regular trips to inspect his acres—and his birds. Long before he died of old age, however, he would laughingly scold me if I failed to appear several times a year to see HIS birds. Every time I go across those same fields now, I think of his growing interest in just common birds, how he planted several shrubs to be sure that they would be around his house and could find food in season, how he radiated friendliness to us bird students when we wanted to see his farm. He summarized a whole period in our American growth in knowledge of nature and our concern with guaranteeing its safety for future generations.

"Old Fields" could have been a suitable name for much of the area around my childhood home. Though the Jackson Purchase had not been opened for settlement until 1819, by the time I arrived, sixty-nine years later, thousands of acres had been so ruined by the methods of farming then in vogue that they had been retired from cultivation. As a small boy I used to play in some of the gullies within a few dozen yards of our own house, gullies so deep that we boys could stage a sort of Cops and Robbers game of dodging the LAW in the gullies and their numerous branches, gullies so deep that we could stand straight up without being seen by our pursuers, who might be in some branch of our gully system. To crown it all, just south of Fidelity itself was one of the largest gullies I have ever seen, in a long life of watching how man treats his surroundings. This monster gully grew from a road that climbed a fairly large hill and finally became so large that the entire village of Fidelity could have been stored in it, without dismantling any of the houses. When I have told this tragedy many times, I have been doubted. Three years ago I repeated it before a forestry meeting and had the satisfaction of having in the audience a member of the state conservation department, who authenticated my statement about the size of the gully. Fortunately, this same officer of the conservation group assured me that my original county is away out front in the number of pine plantings; I personally have rejoiced to see some excellent pine groves in areas that were so eroded when I was a boy that practically nothing could grow. I rejoice to have lived to see a more sensible attitude toward nature and man's responsibility. The big gully cannot be filled, but it can be rendered less a menace to forests and cultivated fields farther down the valley.

TIME WAS ONCE MARKED BY NUMBER OF OLYMPIADS

The Olympic Games were so important to the ancient Greeks that they were used to measure time.

In the 300's B.C it became customary to mark time in "Olympiads," the periods of four years between celebrations of the Olympic Games. All events were dated from 776 B.C., the date of the first recorded Olympic race. The custom died out about A.D. 440, after the 304th Olympiad.

The ancient Olympic festivals were originated by the people of Elis, a Greek city-state on the plains of Olympia. Originally they were foot races in honor of Zeus, king of the Greek gods.

Gradually, all the Greek city-states joined in the Olympics. World Book Encyclopedia notes that other contests, such as jumping, discus-throwing, and chariot-racing, were added.

As the city-states declined, athletes from other lands began to participate in the games. Gradually, the games' true purpose of glorifying the individual became lost. The games became so corrupt that Emperor Theodosius abolished them in A.D. 394.

Centuries passed. Earthquakes and floods shattered the temples, stadium, and hippodrome. Finally, Olympia lay beneath 20 feet of gravel and soil.

In 1878, German excavators found the ruins of the ancient stadium. Interest in the Olympic games was revived. Eight nations participated in the first modern Olympics in 1896. The 19th modern Olympiad begins in Mexico City on Oct. 12.

Veterans Administration Questions and Answers

Q.—My husband was killed while on active duty during WW II. Is it too late for me to buy a home with a loan guaranteed by the VA?

A.—It is not. You still have nearly two years, until July 25, 1970, to obtain a G.I. loan.

Q.—My husband, who served in the Army just before WW II, is now very ill. If he dies, is he eligible for the VA burial allowance and the flag for his casket?

A.—Since he is not a wartime veteran, he would not qualify for the $250 burial allowance unless he receives compensation for a service-connected injury or was discharged for disabilities received in line of duty. However, if he served at least one enlistment and was honorably discharged during peacetime he is eligible for a burial flag to drape his casket.

Q.—When does the time expire for seriously disabled veterans to apply for an allowance for an automobile?

A.—There is no longer any time limit; the previous limitation has been removed. Your nearest VA office can provide the proper form to apply for the VA payment (not to exceed $1,600) for veterans who have lost—or permanently lost the use of—one or both hands or feet, or suffered severe permanent impairment of vision of both eyes. But one word of caution: Do not agree to the purchase of any automobile BEFORE you have received VA's written approval.

Q.—I understand that the guaranteed portion of G.I. home loans has been raised. Is this true?

A. Yes. It has been increased to $12,500.

Q.—I have read references to Vietnam era service. What does this mean?

A.—Active duty service on or after Aug. 5, 1964 is considered Vietnam era service.

BIDS OF 27 COMPANIES OKEHEED BY COMMISSION

The Kentucky Department of Education's State Textbook Commission has approved 27 publishing companies' textbook bids for subjects in mathematics, science and health for Kentucky 1969 textbook adoption by local school districts. From the multiple list, grades 1-12, all school districts are authorized to adopt one to three books for each subject and grade in that adoption group to be used as a text in the subject by the system for four years. Elementary textbooks are furnished free but high school students must pay for their books. "Kentucky will expend $2,987,961 for textbooks," said Superintendent of Public Instruction Wendell P. Butler. "This will provide free textbooks for 493,032 eligible pupils in grades 1-8. The pupil allotment is $4.70 per child for all books."

'Whatsoever Things'

By DONALD E. WILDSON

In Chicago Police Lt. Emmett J. McMorrow rushed to a currency exchange and arrested a man who later was charged with armed robbery. "Everything seemed sort of familiar," said McMorrow. And it should have. He had arrested the same man 20 years earlier on the same charge and—you guessed it—at the same currency exchange!

And then up in Idaho another strange incident happened. A bottle tossed into the Portneuf River was found 38 years later by workers on a Pocatello flood control project. Inside the bottle was a yellowed note: "This bottle was thrown into the Portneuf River at Pocatello, Idaho, March 31, 1930. Finder please write to Eva Brockway, Robert Brockway, and Mayme Brockway." The workmen contacted a retired railroad engineer, Clarence Brockway, of Pocatello. He said that Mayme was his wife, Eva was his daughter, and Robert was his son.

Back several hundred years ago a fellow by the name of Koheleth, who was a preacher, said these words: "Cast your bread upon the waters, for you will find it after many days." Maybe the two incidents above are evidence of this truth. But the truth of the statement covers more than incidents like those. There are other things that come back to us if and when we cast them.

One of the things that comes back to us is the good that we do. The good that we do is never wasted no matter how much it may seem like it is. And the good we do will come back to us eventually. It doesn't always have the fairy-book ending that we like to place with it but our good will return to us.

And love is another thing that if we will cast it upon the waters of human experience will return to us. The best way to be loved and lovely is to love. Fact about the business is that it is the only way. You see, if we will love them we will be loved. It is just that simple.

The Man of Galilee said that with what judgement we judge, we would be judged with. You see, if we do good people will do good to us. And if we love, then people will love us. He wasn't the first to say it, but He was the first to put it in the proper setting when He said, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." That may seem childish, and too simple, and old-fashioned, and out of step with modern man, but it is true. It is still one of the best rules on which to build one's life. J. C. Penny believed in it so much that he built a financial empire on it. Ever heard of the "Golden Rule Stores"? They were the forerunner to the J. C. Penny stores.

One indisputable law of life we need to learn early is this—whatever we cast upon the waters of life will come back to us. It would be a better world if all of us would learn that. Maybe then we would cast out bread that we would like to get back.

FLOYD ARCHERS GET READY AS DEER SEASON OPENS

At least four bow-and-arrow deerhunters were ready here for the new archery season for deer which opened Tuesday, Dalton R. Conley, conservation officer, said. He added that he had no way of knowing how many tags had been sold in other counties of the area. The first part of the archery season will last through October. The second will begin December 1 and continue through December 31. Archers may hunt deer anywhere in the county, except on Jenny Wiley State Park property and the Boy Scout area at German. Either doe or buck may be taken.

Deer may not be hunted with gun until November 13.

The supply of deer in this county, particularly in the Dewey Lake area where they were first stocked, is believed by many to have been reduced materially through hunting. Few deer are seen in the lake area, but the conservation officer said tracks and other signs indicate a sizeable population.

The squirrel season, the best in Eastern Kentucky in a generation, continues till Oct. 31 for the first half of the split season, then begins again November 21 to continue till December 31.

A scarcity of food in the South, some say, has driven the squirrel population northward, accounting for the heavy kill in this section.

Mayor Archer Named To Board of Directors Of Municipal League

The shower was arranged by Mrs. Thomas Sims, of Lincoln Park, and Mrs. Hugh Hamilton, of Detroit. A color scheme of blue and white was carried out with an umbrella and miniature dolls. The event was attended by 60 guests.

The bride-elect and her fiance are employed at Great Lakes Steel. Nuptial vows will be exchanged by the couple October 26 in Lincoln Park First Methodist Church.

"SOMEBODY WILL WIN IT BUT I DON'T KNOW WHY." CAPP TELLS UK STUDENTS

University of Kentucky students at Lexington were given the opportunity to "Ask Al Capp" last week at the UK Student Center Board Forum. Some 3,000 UK students greeted the cartoonist of "L'il Abner" fame with questions ranging from the November election to the playing of "Dixie" at a sports event. Capp is one of four announced speakers on the Forum program. Others include James Garrison, the controversial New Orleans lawyer who seeks to prove conspiracy in the assassination of John F. Kennedy; Julian Bond, Georgia Negro legislator whose protest delegation split the state's vote at the national Democratic Convention, and actor John Carradine.

Capp said of the presidential election: "Someone will win it, but I don't know why." Of students: "Show me a young idealist who is demanding the right to change a world he hasn't lived in long enough to know anything about it and I'll show you a pest." . . . and "show me a student who wants to make good and he'll contribute to society."

On LSD for a new and different experience: "How about growing up for a new experience?"

Father, Two Sons Serve in Vietnam

A former Floyd county family is well-represented in Vietnam.

The head of the family, Col. Edmund Castle, a former resident of Wayland, is post commander at Long Binh, the largest U. S. installation in South Vietnam.

One son, Sp/4 Richard Castle, is in Vietnam for the second time. He was critically wounded last April, was evacuated to Ft. Bliss (Texas) base hospital and four months later was back on the line in Vietnam.

The other son in the family, Sp/4 Richard Brooke Castle, of the 176th M. P. Bn., is personal attendant to General Abrams who recently replaced General Westmoreland as U. S. commander in Vietnam.

Richard was attending the University of Texas at El Paso, where his mother, one brother and three sisters now reside, when he decided to enlist in the Army paratroopers. He was sworn into the military service by his proud father. When he was wounded his father flew to I Corps to him.

"I spent one night with those paratroopers up there," Col. Castle later told a newspaper

TO THE TEACHER

In addition to the qualification requirements of the minimum foundation, I propose to provide further safeguards for Floyd County Teachers. My contention is that there is not a single employee of the Floyd County School System who has not felt the pressure or influence of its administrators in matters which do not relate to his employment.

The URGING to donate to various funds, political and otherwise; the WHISPERS that one must support the employee's candidate in every election that comes along; the FEELING that the teacher must conform to his (board member) every whim; these are the conditions I seek to relieve.

I propose a PUBLIC SCHOOL MERIT SYSTEM.

The Kentucky Court of Appeals has established, in a manner of rulings, that "The Superintendent will recommend and the Board of Education will hire," relating to employment for various jobs and placement, but I hope to adopt a policy under which the Superintendent will "recommend" by a specific set of rules which I will call the PUBLIC SCHOOL MERIT SYSTEM.

I also propose:

1. That all schools in Floyd county have a broader athletic program so as to meet the needs of ALL children.
2. That parents who have children attending school in a certain district should have a voice in selecting a board member in that district.
3. That teachers should be teaching in major fields of study in order to present the BEST instruction.
4. That qualified teachers who live in a particular district should be considered first for employment in that area.

It is the dream and ambition of every American to be free to choose his friends and speak his mind on issues that concern the individual. There exists today in Floyd county certain barriers to this dream, and there are numerous "examples" of "ex-employees" who failed to yield to every whim. Under the present system YOU MAY BE NEXT. THINK IT OVER.

THOMAS J. SPEARS

Volkswagen leaps into the present.

With a fully automatic transmission.

If you bet a friend we never would, we almost didn't.

10 years ago the decision was made. To design a fully automatic transmission. The kind you put in drive and forget.

Our aim was to make things easy, but for us changes aren't easy to make.

Especially in this case. There were certain things we just didn't want to lose.

Like horsepower, and our reputation for being economical.

What we've ended up with is a 3-speed automatic transmission that's pure Volkswagen—designed from scratch to get the most out of the VW with the least expenditure of effort.

It has the fewest moving parts.

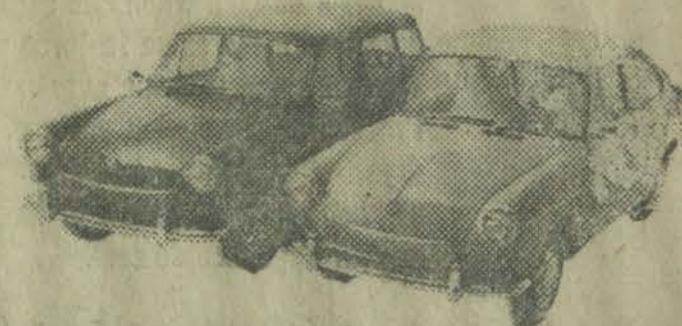

It's the lightest per horsepower output. And it's incredibly sensitive. (A model airplane engine is powerful enough to turn it.)

So come see how far Volkswagen has come. The Squareback and Fastback. Both have disk brakes, an electronically controlled fuel injection system, and now, a fully automatic transmission.

If you're interested, it's available as an option on our '69 models.

If you're not interested, we sure went to a lot of trouble for nothing.

McDOWELL ARH RECORD FOR FISCAL YEAR CITED

The Appalachian Regional hospital at McDowell provided 12,876 days of care to 1,868 in-patients in the fiscal year ended June 30, the ARH board of trustees was informed at its annual meeting last Thursday.

The McDowell hospital also treated 4,239 emergency room patients.

The 30-member board, meeting at Harlan, ratified the election of T. J. Hagans to the Community Advisory Council of ARH's 60-bed community hospital at McDowell.

The ARH board celebrated the fifth anniversary of its non-profit health care system, which embraces nine hospitals in Eastern Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia. Appalachian Regional Hospitals was organized in 1963 to acquire and operate the hospitals built in the mid-1960's by the Miners Memorial Hospital Association, a subsidiary of the United Mine Workers Welfare and Retirement Fund.

Maurice K. Henry, of Middlesboro, Ky., chairman of the board, said that the progress of ARH in its five years had been "amazing." In the last year, the nine hospitals provided 292,437 days of care to 38,178 in-patients. This compares with 272,792 days of care given to 35,650 in-patients by 10 hospitals during ARH's first full year of operation. (ARH sold its Pikeville hospital in 1966).

During the last year, Henry reported, ARH developed or fostered the development of a wide variety of new health care services. These include extended care facilities (nursing homes) in three communities, home care services at two hospitals, three rehabilitation centers, three emergency care centers, a comprehensive community health center, a doctors' office building and a division of continuing education in cooperation with the University of Kentucky Medical School.

ARH last year spent $17,644,700 in its health care operations. It employs 2,034 persons.

The other ARH hospitals are at Harlan, Hazard, Middlesboro, South Williamson and Whitesburg, Ky.; Beckley and Man, W. Va., and Wise, Virginia.
