ASKS PROBE OF MACHINES IN ELECTION

Investigation by State Of Machine 'Fix' Claim Asked in Stumbo Letter

Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo last Friday called on the Commissioner of the Department of Public Safety to make a thorough investigation of the voting machines used at the primary election in this county, May 27.

In his letter to the commissioner, Stumbo explained that since the election "there have been persons contending that the voting machines were tampered with prior to the day of the election."

"Although," he wrote, "I seriously doubt if their contention is valid, I am of the opinion that the public has a right to know the truth. I have talked with Circuit Judge Hollie Conley, and he is of the same opinion. Judge Conley further states that if some person or persons are guilty of such misconduct, he will call a special grand jury to investigate the matter."

Stumbo pledged cooperation of his office with Department of Public Safety Personnel. He pointed out that he is unable himself to make a proper investigation because he is not acquainted with the internal functioning of a voting machine.

"It is indeed rather unusual," he said in his letter, "that the persons mentioned above have not already contacted your Department if they seriously believe the allegations which they have been spreading throughout this county."

Copies of the request for the investigation were mailed to Capt. Billy Lykins, Kentucky State Police, Pikeville, and Attorney General John B. Breckinridge.

This Town . . . That World

It is as correct to say, "From whence he came" as it is to say, "Whither to did he go."

DISCOURAGING NEWS

Things just might be tapering off. The prime interest rate has a lot of people worried. The boys who keep the wheels rolling may find money too dear; unemployment may jump, and so on. But the signs I see on the horizon are nearer home. "Smoky" Joe Meadows tells me that the Bull Creek horsehoe arena is deserted these days, that machinery has filled the lot till he and Ralph Marshall don't have elbow room and, consequently, the county has lost a real sporting event, even if the sports are still around.

That's progress for you. Give it an inch, and it'll take over a whole horseshoe game.

REMARKS TO THE UMP

Speaking of sports, I am reminded that several of our churches have teams in a softball league at Archer Park, and that I haven't been asked to lend the services of my rifle arm to my own bunch of losers. This recalls the story of a certain afternoon when two church teams (not local) were having at each other and were making life miserable for the umpire. In a late inning the ump called "Strike!" on a ball that the batter declared was a foot outside.

Floyd Squad Joins In Search for Boy

The Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad joined last week-end in the search of a Great Smoky Mountains wilderness area for seven-year-old Dennis Martin, of Knoxville, Tenn., who has been missing since June 14.

Twenty-one members of the Floyd and Pike rescue squads, equipped with five vehicles, joined more than 600 other rescue squad members from Kentucky and Tennessee and National Guardsmen in the fruitless search, beginning Friday night and ending with their return here Sunday night.

The boy, son of William C. Martin, Knoxville architect, vanished while hiking in Codie Cove, a Smokies area 27 miles from Gatlinburg. He and his elder brother Douglas decided to take paths branching off the main trail, thus go ahead and emerge to surprise their father and grandfather. The father, who ceases to search only at night, said his son could not have been out of sight more than five minutes when it was discovered he was missing.

Capt. Graham Harris, of the Floyd rescue group, said he and 660 other searchers were flown from the base of the mountain by helicopter to the search area. An almost impenetrable growth of rhododendron, numerous streams and a rather heavy snake population combine to render the hunt an arduous and unnerving task.

The boy's disappearance has attracted national attention, and Jeanne Dixon, the famed Washington seeress, has joined the search "by vision," but her directions to where she "saw" the boy failed.

Back home, the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad is ready to resume the discouraging task of searching the Big Sandy River for the body of Beverly Akers, 7, who was drowned at Emma last Jan. 25.

"It seems like a hopeless search, but we just can't quit," Capt. Burchett said this week.

Education Study Begun in County

A random sample of adults and 17-year-olds in Floyd county will be interviewed this summer in a National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP) designed to learn what American youngsters and adults know.

Floyd is among 208 geographical areas in the United States chosen through random sampling procedures to participate in the assessment which is being conducted by the Committee on Assessing the Progress of Education. The actual work of the assessment is being done by the Research Triangle Institute of North Carolina, under contract to CAPE.

Floyd county has been divided into 10 segments, and the sampling work is headed by Ronald Hager, Prestonsburg high school instructor. Others engaged in the work are Mrs. Duna Combs, Langley, and Ronnie Meade, Wheelwright. Two of the 10 Floyd segments under assessment are in Prestonsburg. The others are at Hueysville, Buffalo Creek, Toler Creek, Wheelwright, Wayland, left Fork of Bull Creek, Betsy Layne and Price.

Adults between the ages of 26-35, and 17-year-olds not enrolled in school this past spring, will be selected at random from the 208 geographical areas, including this county. A random sample of 17-year-olds in school this past year was assessed throughout the U. S. last spring.

JULY 10 SET FOR HEARING

Judge Delays Order On Local Option Vote Date As Protest Filed

A hearing on the petition filed by Wet forces for a local option election to be held in this county on Aug. 23 was postponed Monday by County Judge Henry Stumbo till July 10.

The postponement followed an objection lodged by the Rev. Dan Heintzelman, of Martin, on behalf of the Christian Dry League and upon failure of a representative of the Wets to appear.

The Rev. Heintzelman contended that although the last wet-dry vote in this county was held in July, 1966, the Dry victory was contested and the issue was not determined till 1967. For this reason, he argued, the three-year period between such elections that the law requires has not elapsed and that, as a consequence, the petition on file now was lodged too early.

The petition filed in the County Clerk's office here asks for a vote on Saturday, Aug. 23. The Saturday date also drew objection from the Dry representative.

LAX COURTS CURB TRUCK LOAD ACTION

Is Claim by McIntyre After Perry Jury Asks Probe of Road Damage

To the charge that coal trucks are breaking up Eastern Kentucky roads, Motor Transportation Commissioner Alex McIntyre, Jr. replied this week that he is satisfied with the performance of his department but that courts of this section convict relatively few of the truckers cited by his department.

McIntyre volunteered to appear before the Perry circuit court's grand jury to discuss claims that trucks are ruining rural roads. The grand jury in a report issued last week urged an investigation of the situation.

Department of Transportation files show that the department is having difficulty in getting convictions in the 13 Eastern Kentucky counties, according to a story by Fred Luigant in The Courier-Journal.

Letcher, Leslie, Floyd, Morgan and Harlan had the highest ratio of convictions but none adequately implemented whatever effort was made to enforce truck load limits.

The total number of convictions and citations in these counties for 1967 and 1968, according to these records, was:

Citations	Convictions
Breathitt	53 0
Clay	120 4
Floyd	274 20
Johnson	114 0
Knott	139 4
Leslie	30 5
Letcher	100 29
Magoffin	171 5
Morgan	73 6
Perry	246 2
Pike	240 4
Harlan	110 9
Bell	63 3

"The record speaks for itself," McIntyre said.

Two Drowned Today At German, Report; Search Under Way

The Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad was called this afternoon (Thursday) to German where two men were reported drowned in Dewey Lake.

The squad headquarters here have been unable to contact members at the scene via short-wave radio and information as to the identity of the victims was lacking. It was said one of the bodies was removed from the lake, soon after the tragedy, but that the search for the other continues.

The two men, according to the report received here, were in a home-made boat. Cause of the double-drowning was not established.

City Gets $251,900 Check

Exchange of funds for partial financing of Prestonsburg water system program brought together city and EDA officials. From left — James R. Spurlock, city treasurer; Dr. George P. Archer, mayor; Joe Rubin, Louisville bond attorney; H. H. Smith, Jr., EDA economic development specialist; Burl W. Spurlock, representing The First National Bank, and Clifford B. Latta, attorney representing the water and gas system.

The city of Prestonsburg this week received a check for $251,900 from the Economic Development Administration, U. S. Department of Commerce, for repayment bonds issued by the city in partial financing of water system extensions and improvements here.

The check represents an EDA loan. Grants made by EDA enabled the city to complete the $549,571 enlargement and improvement program. Contractors are now repairing street damage caused by laying of new lines.

YOUTH FREED IN STABBING

Tram Juvenile Says He Was Hit by Green; Man Held Here for FBI

Charges against a 17-year-old Tram youth who was arrested last Wednesday on a charge of stabbing a Martin man were dismissed Tuesday by County Judge Henry Stumbo on the ground that the juvenile acted in self-defense.

The self-defense plea of the defendant was supported by the claim that the youth was struck on the head by a guitar before he stabbed its wielder.

The juvenile was charged with stabbing Danny Greene, of Brooklyn, N. Y., at a mission operated at Martin by the Brothers of Charity. The boy displayed a head injury which, he said, was caused by the blow with the guitar.

Greene, who was stabbed in his chest, was able to be in court Wednesday after having treatment at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin.

James Lee Hall, who was jailed here last Wednesday by State Troopers Brenner, Bevin and Flora, is being held for the FBI on a Dyer Act charge. The number of prisoners booked at the jail within the week dropped from the heavy list of the preceding week, and most of the defendants were charged with traffic violations. Those jailed, charges against each and names of arresting officers follow:

Alvin A. Underwood, fishing without license, arrested by Conservation Officer Dalton R. Conley; Robert Blanton, destroying private property and escaping the custody of an officer, by Constable Ted H. Sallisbury; Lanny Douglas Music, driving while under the influence of intoxicants, by Sgt. Flora and State Trooper Bevin; Jack Shepherd, driving without license, Paul Little and Billy P. Martin, each charged with reckless driving, all arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Bill Hall and Paul Stilton; Donald Ray Sparks, reckless driving, and Martin Bailey Hite, no operator's license, both arrested by Deputies Stilton and Hall; Ralph Whither, driving while under the influence of alcohol, and Ottman Wireman, no operator's license, both arrested by State Troopers Phipps and Bevin; Robert Himroth, fishing without license, booked by Conservation Officer Conley.

AV 'Death' Report Said Exaggerated

The report that the controversial Appalachian Volunteers are on their deathbeds is, as Mark Twain once remarked under similar circumstances, "greatly exaggerated," David Walls, AV director, indicated here this week.

A financial pinch does exist, and a part of the reduced staff is on subsistence pay — around $25 a week — but Walls, whose headquarters are here, declared the AV's will continue. The staff has been cut to 10, including one attorney and five law students.

With limited funds, the AV director proposes to concentrate on providing legal services to grass-roots groups in Eastern Kentucky and Southern Virginia. Funds are at hand to keep this work going this summer. By end of the summer he hopes to raise additional funds through either federal agencies or private foundations, or both.

It was indicated that the AV's are at loggerheads with both Lynn Frazer, state director of OEO programs, and Frank J. Groschelle, administrator of the Kentucky Program Development Office in Frankfort. Walls has been quoted as saying Frazer and Groschelle have marshalled the current opposition to his group in both Frankfort and Washington.

Frazer last week said the AV's have failed to remedy a series of deficiencies outlined in a study made last fall, that they have not set up a board of directors run by poor people, have demonstrated "contempt for local officials" and not let these officials know what they're doing.

ONE KILLED NEAR HAROLD

Rail Crossing Crash Claims Pike Countian, Second Man Injured

A rail crossing crash at Layne Bottom, near Harold, cost the life of one man and serious injury to another, early Monday morning.

John Nichols, 61, of Coal Run, Pike county, was killed when the truck he was driving was struck by a westbound freight, George C. Bentley, 41, Pikeville, Route 1, Eastern, who was driving a truck which carried broken ribs and possible internal injuries. Nichols died at the scene of the crash.

The tragedy was investigated by State Trooper Elmo Allen and Coroner James J. Carter. Allen said the road crosses the main C. & O. track and a sidetrack and that cars on the siding ended within about 40 feet of the crossing. He added it is possible that cars and the rain which was falling at the time obscured the driver's vision.

The truck, which is said to have been owned by Mr. Bentley, was used in a garbage pickup service operated in northern Pike county and an adjacent section of Floyd. Impact of the crash tossed the truck an estimated 75 feet.

WOMAN DIES OF GUNSHOT

Death At Hueysville 3rd of Kind in Month; Kinwoman Finds Body

The gunshot death Saturday night at her home on Salt Lick Creek, near Hueysville, of 76-year-old Martha Prater was the third death under similar circumstances to occur in this county within the month.

Mrs. Prater's body was found by a daughter-in-law. She reportedly had been in ill health for some time. The death was investigated by Coroner James J. Carter but no formal inquest was held.

A daughter of the late Harmon and Judy Prater, she was born March 3, 1893 in the community where she died. She was first married to Gilbert Bentley, and after his death to Lee Henry Prater, who also preceded her in death. Survivors include one son, George Bentley, of Hueysville, and five daughters, Mrs. Madge Prater, of Eastern, Mrs. Julia Sparkman, of Hueysville, Mrs. Maggie Lamb, Dayton, O., Mrs. Edna Hurst and Mrs. Ada Hurst, both in Eastern.

Air Pollution Is Claimed In $95,000 Damage Action

Mrs. Edith F. Howard and her mining engineer husband, Noah Howard this week claimed a total of $95,000 damages in a suit filed against the Evans Elkhorn Coal Company and the Island Creek Coal Company, doing business as Evans Elkhorn Coal Company.

The action involves the Howards' property in the vicinity of the Island Creek mine and tippie at the mouth of Spurlock on Left Beaver Creek.

Air pollution enters the case, with the Howards claiming $25,000 damages resulting from inhalation of coal dust and another $25,000 for damage done to their home. The tippie, plaintiffs say, is approximately one-half mile from their home, and dust and other debris have polluted the air and virtually destroyed the residence.

The suit also claims defendants agreed to exchange approximately 102 acres of land along the east side of the highway in return for surrender of three or four acres of Howard's land to the company for use in making water storage basins. Defendants, it is alleged, dug three or more water storage pits 40 to 50 feet in length and 12 to 15 feet deep, drilled a well, constructed a power line and a water line across the property thus acquired from the plaintiffs.

This done, the Howards claim, defendants repudiated their agreement to their damage in the amount of $15,000. They also claim $25,000 for "unreasonable use and exercise of privileges."

An additional $5,000 is claimed as damages caused by coal dust to plaintiff's fish pond which, they say, has been totally destroyed.

In addition to damages asked, the plaintiffs ask a permanent injunction to restrain defendants from permitting dust to escape into the air and to be carried onto their property.

Firms Offer Jobs, Here at Home

Jobs—good jobs—are being offered, these days, and they're at home.

The Beaver Creek Consolidated Coal Company continues to advertise for both production and supervisory personnel for its proposed Stinson mine to be located on Huff Branch of Caney Creek in Knott county, a few miles from Wayland.

And this week American Standard began its search for personnel for its plant due to begin production with the first of next year at what is known as the Kenwood site, near Paintsville. (The company has application forms in this and other newspapers in its area this week.)

Beaver Creek Consolidated, headed by George E. Evans, Jr., will develop a huge coal acreage in the Caney Creek section.

American Standard is now working on preparation of the site for its plant, which is due for completion by end of the year. Contracts have been awarded on steel prefabrication and concrete, and work on the plant structure is scheduled to start within four weeks.

Initially, American Standard will employ 250, mostly men, and the company expects to be working 450 by 1971. Its plant is being built to accommodate an even larger number of workers.

Let the Light Shine

You know that sin seeks darkness, and it seems that there is great fear that the light may shine upon it in the contest case I have pending in the circuit court. Contest suits involve a lot of expense, and I am now trying to sell the only car I have to help pay the expense in this case.

I am informed and believe that other candidates for Circuit Judge at the May Primary in other districts, in which contests are pending for minor offices, have voluntarily vacated the bench and certified same for the appointments of special judges to hear, try and determine the facts involved in such cases.

There is now pending in the Court of Appeals to require Judge Conley to vacate, which he has declined to do so and just why or what reason is unknown to me. Last week the Court of Appeals temporarily issued a temporary restraining order against him. On June 14th, the court overruled a motion of mine to vacate, which motion was supported by my affidavit; however, the order was prepared on Monday morning, June 16th, and dated as of June 14th. Just why this order was dated before it was written, I do not know.

It has been reported in the press that Harold Stumbo, one of the attorneys for Derossert, is seeking assistance from the Commissioner of the State Police, along with the assistance of John C. Breckinridge, the Attorney General, to have the voting machines checked or the manner in which the voting took place in the May Primary, notwithstanding that in my contest I requested that the voting machines be impounded and all material connected therewith until a final determination of this case. There seems to me some peculiar practice in this case.

It is my hope that there are enough good people in Floyd county to seek out and inform me confidentially just what took place in their precincts. This matter is still pending at this time before the Court of Appeals to determine just what is to take place in this case. Now is the time to come to my aid in order that future generations may have a honest test in elections.

The truckers defend their position with the argument that the state itself has been lax in not building roads in the mountains sturdy enough to accommodate their loads.

They claim, for instance, that the standards for the federal interstate system and other federal highways in Kentucky were established primarily to accommodate the giant interstate motor carriers, and that similar foresight should have been used by the state Highway Department in designing roads for the mountain coal counties. Coal hauling is one of the region's most important industries.

Motor Transportation Department officials indicated that in "some instances" the coal trucks are now carrying loads that are anywhere from 3,000 to 20,000 pounds over the weight limits set by state law and department regulations.

MARRIAGE LICENSES
Robert Eric England, 20, Wheelwright, and Donna Meade, 18, Hi Hat, Kenneth Gordon Blair, 23, Jenkins, and Pamela Gaye Webb, 20, David, Dennis Ousley, 20, West Prestonsburg, and Charlene Calhoun, 17, Water Gap; married here June 21, the Rev. Paris Music officiating, Howard Lakin Wireman, 25, Lexington, and Judith Ann Birchfield, 19, Prestonsburg.

"Which church do you belong to?" sang out a raspy voice, interjecting there might be a bit of parody, not to mention larceny in the official's system.
Then it was the batter's turn: "To none, son — he's an agnostic. Doesn't know anything. He thinks if that pitcher throws a ball I'm supposed to dance."

A MODEL
Comes now a statement from a defeated candidate for office which might be a model. It reads: "The people have spoken, and I accept the verdict. Fact is, I don't have any other choice. I congratulate my opponent and wish him — well I wish. I hold no ill feelings for anybody except the 43 people in a certain precinct who said they voted for me — I got only 21 there somehow. I get the feeling somebody's lying.
"I spent mighty little money in this election, because the bank would loan me just a little. They must have known more about my race than I did. How the mischief I ever got the idea I was a politician I'll never know. I thought I was smart, real smart. Maybe I was a little smart, but I smart something awful now, and I believe I'm a little wiser, too.
"I have a lot of people to thank, but I wish to thank over and over again that fellow who held his dog off me when I opened his front-yard gate. I would have given a pound of flesh for the fellow's vote but his dog was an unappreciative cuss. I overheard some children making what I consider uncomplimentary remarks about my picture, but I forgive them, too. I'm a forgiving soul. Now, if I can only forget."

The residents of Floyd are being asked to participate in the second round of the assessment project. The first round, the assessment of in-school 17-year-olds, was completed in May. Two other age levels will be added to the nation-wide sample later in the year, and Floyd may or may not be asked to provide individuals for these groups. The other age groups are 9 and 13. The 13-year-olds will be assessed in the fall of 1969, and the 9-year-olds in the winter of 1970.

Once all 10 areas have been assessed during this first three-year cycle, a second cycle will begin, thus providing an indication of progress, or lack of it, in what is learned. In subsequent assessments, CAPE plans to develop additional subject areas. The objectives and exercises developed for the first cycle of 10 areas will continuously be analyzed for possible further revision.

On the national level, CAPE expects to accomplish two goals:
1. To provide, for the first time, census-like data on the educational attainments of portions of our national population, data which will be made available to school people and to the public in general.
2. To measure, with the passage of time and a continuing program of assessment, what growth (or decline) takes place in selected aspects of the educational attainments of the U. S. population.

'Carnival' To Open Jenny Wiley Season

"Carnival," the musical that combines circus acts, puppet shows and magic acts with musical comedy, opens the 1969 season of the Summer Music Theatre at the Jenny Wiley State Park amphitheatre June 26 at 8:30 p.m.
"Carnival," based on the movie, "Lili," opened on Broadway in 1961 and quickly won the New York Critic's Award as the best musical of the season. Robert Coleman of the New York Mirror wrote: "The show should delight youngsters of all ages with its tunes, spectacular tricks and heart."
The musical tells the story of Lili, a lonely French waif who stumbles into a tattered French circus. She falls in love with the singer and finds herself loved by a lame puppeteer and his wonderful puppets.
The spirit of the circus is brought to the audience by rousing parades, circus acts, and production numbers. Eileen Barnett Bitman stars as Lili with Bill Hayes as Paul, Jim Varney as Marco and Julieanne Beasley as Rosalie. The Magura Sisters play the Bluebird Girls with Mitch Douglas as Jacquot, and Don Fernandez as Dr. Glass. Raymond Smith directs.
Performances are every Thursday, Friday, and Saturday night, June 26 through July 12.

ATTEND WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wallace, Mrs. Paul Gambill and daughter, Sarah, of Blaine, returned home Friday from Ocala, Fla., where they attended the 50th wedding anniversary of Mrs. Wallace's sister, Mrs. Everett Willowby, and Mr. Willowby. After their visit there they toured the east coast.

Lemaster-Brown Vows Said

The marriage of Miss Tommie Jeanne LeMaster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. LeMaster, and Mr. Kenneth Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas L. Brown, took place Friday, June 6, at 7 p.m. in the First United Methodist Church, Prestonsburg, with the Rev. Wm. M. Pope officiating at the double-ring ceremony.

An organ program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Chalmer H. Frazier, who accompanied the soloist, Miss Rebecca Margaret Haywood.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore the gown of white silk organza fashioned with an empire bodice which had been worn by her sister. Bands of re-embroidered adenon lace outlined the scoop neck-line and tulip sleeves. The A-line skirt, bordered with double lace bands, was enhanced with a watteau court train, edged with lace. Her veil of tiered silk illusion was held by an organza petal halo, interspersed with pearl tipped leaves. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift of the groom. Her bouquet was of white miniature carnations centered with a white orchid which was removed and worn with her going away costume.

Mrs. Eddie Wingham, Cincinnati, Ohio, was her sister's matron-of-honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Bob Gregg, Lexington, Ky., Miss Cheryl Rolston, Prestonsburg; Miss Linda Davis, Allen. Junior bridesmaid was Miss Mary Ann LeMaster, the bride's sister. Kathy Leslie, the cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

The bridal attendants wore gowns of blue chiffon over blue taffeta with empire bodice and full, wrist-length sleeves. They wore matching open-crown hats with wide brim and blue netting band and bow. Each carried a basket of white daisies intermingled with blue netting and greenery and white streamers. The Junior bridesmaid and flower girl were dressed like the other attendants but wore headbands with blue net and flowers attached. Mother of the bride wore a costume outfit of pink with jeweled neckline and matching accessories and a white orchid corsage. The mother of the groom was in a turquoise costume outfit with accessories to match and wore a white orchid corsage.

Mr. Bennett Lee Leslie served as best man. Ushers were Mr. Wayne Brown, brother of the groom, Mr. Paul Preston Burchett and Mr. Bobby Goble, David Hereford II, cousin of the bride, was ring-bearer.

The church parlor was the scene of the reception which followed the ceremony. The bride's table covered with white linen cloth, was accented with a floral centerpiece of white and blue daisies, white gladioli and greenery. Silver candelabra held blue candles. A three-tiered wedding cake was served to the guests by Miss Mary Nunnery while Miss Cathy Goble presided at the punch bowl. Others assisting at the reception were Mrs. Woodrow Greenwade, Mrs. David Hereford and Mrs. Thomas Hereford, III.

Nature Trails

By RUFUS M. REED

The Osage Indians made their hunting bows from the beautiful, orange-colored wood of the Osage orange tree and proudly called it "the best bow wood east of the Rockies." This tree undoubtedly has the most beautiful wood of all; it was used as a source of yellow dye by the Indians and early settlers, and in World War I dye was extracted from the wood to color the famous olive-drab uniforms worn by the doughboys. At least one plant for extracting this dye was set up at Cass, W. Va.

The bark of the osage orange is a handsome brown tinged with yellow; it lends the tree colorful distinction. This tree is also distinguished for its many unusual features and for having more common names than most other trees. It is called "bowdock," which was given it by the early French settlers, who first called it "Bois d'arc," which was later changed to "bowdock."

The tree is also called "the hedgeapple," as it was widely used in the mid-western states to make the hedgerows for the early plantations. Remains of some of these old hedges are still to be seen in some of these states. The tree is armed with sharp thorns and when planted in a row and kept trimmed down, it makes a formidable hedge which few beasts can penetrate.

The tree is also called the "mock orange," from its large fruit, which look like a swollen orange with a rough scaly skin. These odd fruits, which are twice the size of a baseball, set this tree apart and give it a colorful display in autumn. The fruits are called "syncarpis," as they are made up of milky pulp and a mass of seeds. The outside covering is really a layer of seeds fastened together on the outside of the huge, green ball.

The mock orange, or bowdock tree, is in the same family as the mulberries and figs, which is shown by the fruits. A ripe mulberry is a true syncarp composed of many seeds. This tree is also related to the tropical rubber trees, as shown by the milky sap; if you break off a twig or a leaf, a droplet of white sap flows out. This tree also bears the distinction of having a botanical name after an early American geologist; the botanical name, MACLURA POMIFERA, is in honor of William Maclure, a geologist who died in 1840.

The large, orange-like fruits plunk down on the ground in autumn with a heavy thud, to lie there all winter long (as no animals except cattle will dare to eat them). They are handsome and tempting to boys who sometimes cut open one of the big "oranges" to try a bite or two. Few boys will ever go back for a second helping! However, cows sometimes chew on one of the big "oranges" for a long time and then try to swallow the mass. It often ends up by the cow being choked to death. That is why stockmen won't let the osage orange trees grow in the pastures.

Only female or pistillate-bearing trees produce the large, inedible fruits. It is a pity that such a large, handsome fruit is not edible for man or beast.

The virgin stands of osage oranges thrived in the rich bottomlands of Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas and Missouri; however, as farms increased in size and more people moved in, the native trees were all cut and marketed; the wood was used to make dyes, posts and fine woodworks. The fence posts of osage orange last as long as locust; this tree has been highly favored by the farmers for farm posts; in some regions now, there are "osage orange farms," where the trees are planted in rows to produce posts; about 25 posts can be produced to each rod of trees planted.

The osage orange deserves a wider planting as an ornamental; it is handsome at all seasons; the leaves of summer have a silvery luster and a bright sheen in the sun; in the fall they turn to a mass of gold.

This tree is also resistant to fungus diseases and the ravages of insects; it always presents a smooth and handsome appearance. The only larvae that will eat the leaves are the silkworms. The rugged, handsome bark has many furrows and shallow troughs with ridges; these give the tree a distinguished appearance.

Some of the early settlers of the Tri-State region ordered seedling osage oranges to plant for hedgerows; it was a cheap way to make a fence in those days; some of these old hedges are still to be seen along the Tug River valley. In some sections, the trees have escaped from the hedges and are established in the forest. But they are nowhere abundant in our region.

Tents are better than they've ever been. And more are being sold than ever before. For big-time, exulted camping situations, like a Yukon pack trip or an African safari, the only practical method of living afield comfortably, healthfully, and pleasantly is with tents. If you are a serious backpacker who leaves the lonely trails and proceeds into the high, wild, free mountain basins, you will live in a tent. If you take lake and stream canoe camping trips, come night you're sleeping in a tent.

Some experts, highly experienced camper purists' claim that if you are not camping with a tent, you really are not camping. They have a point. You do not need roads to camp with tents. And say what you will, you can search the wide world and you'll come upon few more rewarding experiences than that of having a good tent for your wilderness shelter.

Regardless of the amount of money involved, a great many people who are able to camp any way they choose still choose to camp with tents. After all is said and done, the foremost attraction of a big, expensive northern pack trip, or a top African safari, is this supreme camp life under canvas.

Camping by tent, stateside, is one of the world's great vacation bargains (expeditions not withstanding). For one thing, no item for fun afield will amortize faster, with subsequent longer free use, than a good tent (and sleeping bags, camp cooler, etc.).

No commercial shelter is more practical for toting around, than a tent. If an automobile is your transportation you just fold it and stow it in the trunk. At campsite, new tents are easily erected with spring-loaded frames (alloy), or fiber-glass rods which spring into place. These new tents are really getting to be something.

According to John Jobson, Camping Editor of SPORTS AFIELD Magazine, a common error of many buying their first tent is to lay out the sleeping bags as a guideline for determining size. A husband and wife with two kiddies, might think that if there is room for four sleeping bags, with a bit over, the tent would be large enough. Not so—it should be much larger. On rainy days you'll spend a lot of time inside, so you'll need more room.

Tents have one prime disadvantage, as opposed to recreational vehicles. If you are traveling fast, covering a lot of country, making one-night stops, the tent is a bloody nuisance to erect each night and to strike and pack every morning, over and over.

Old-time campers will know the joys of the tenting game, and if you are a newcomer, I hope that soon you will tramp back to your beautiful campsite, pleasantly weary, have a tasty nutritious supper, sit around the glowing coals and finally retire, to be lulled to sleep by steady rain on the roof. There is nothing else quite like it.

BETSY LAYNE

The regular monthly meeting of the Betsy Layne Women's Society of Christian Service was held June 12 at the home of Mrs. E. P. Davis. The president, Mrs. Edward Lykins, presided and the meeting opened with prayer by Mrs. James George. The program leader, Mrs. Glen Blackburn, presented a program on Responsible Citizenship and the role of Women in Politics. Mrs. Blackburn acted as narrator, with the following members taking part: Mrs. Edward Lykins, who read the Women's Society Purpose; Mrs. James George, Mrs. O. E. Stanley and Mrs. E. P. Davis, who explained the purpose of the League of Women Voters. All Christian women were urged to take a more active part in politics in an effort to seek more qualified candidates for all elective offices and to be able to have more accurate information about all persons seeking offices. A general discussion followed. The business session followed and, among other items of business, the date for the Women's Society family picnic was set for July 11 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Wallen. Mrs. Dean Osborn and Mrs. O. E. Stanley were appointed to prepare a short program for the picnic. There will be no regular meeting scheduled for July. The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. O. E. Stanley. Refreshments were served by the hostess to Mrs. Hettie Johnstone, Mrs. James George, Mrs. Ellis Bailey, Mrs. O. E. Stanley, Mrs. Curtis Wallen, Mrs. Glen Blackburn and Mrs. Edward Lykins.

Cope, 49, succeeds Dr. Thomas H. Johns, whose resignation, effective June 30, was announced in May. The new president's appointment was announced at the same time.

He enlisted in the Navy in June, 1942, and was commissioned ensign in 1943. After engaging in the campaigns of North Africa, Sicily, Italy, and France, he was assigned to Joint Intelligence Center, Pacific Ocean Area, Hawaii, from January, 1945, to November, 1945.

In addition to serving as vice-president of Thiel College and in his present posts at Pikeville College, Dr. Cope has been an assistant professor of history at Thiel College and at Pennsylvania State University, and director of institutional research at the College of Wooster.

Fourth of World's Bats Winter at Carter Caves

The survival of the species MYOTIS SODALIS, or Indiana Bat, has been threatened by vandals, who in recent years have slaughtered thousands of the little creatures during the winter months while they are helpless in the torpor of hibernation.

Some 25% of the entire world population of this species hibernates each winter in Bat Cave at Carter Caves State Park Resort Park, according to Dr. Wayne H. Davis of the University of Kentucky Department of Zoology.

Dr. Davis says this has made Bat Cave the most famous bat hibernation site in the eastern United States, and he points out that the Indiana Bat is the only bat on the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Department's list of vanishing species.

Steps will be taken to try to prevent the extinction of this family of bats, according to the Commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Parks, Robert E. Gable.

Voicing his concern over the situation, Gable said:

"The Department of Parks is vitally interested in the preservation of all wildlife indigenous to Kentucky. Consequently, effective this fall when hibernation begins Bat Cave will be open only to biologists, naturalists and others with legitimate reasons for visiting the specific cavern.

"A chain link fence will be erected by the Department of Parks to enclose the entrances to Bat Cave, and anyone desiring access to the cave during bat hibernating season, usually October through April, will have to apply at the park office. Bat Cave will be open to the public, as usual, in the summertime, and public tours of Z Cave and Salt Peter Cave will continue to be available the year around."

Notice To Bidders

The Floyd County Board of Education will accept the lowest and best sealed bid until 12 noon, July 5, 1969 for the following materials:

3,140 reams Duplicator Paper, 8 1/2 x 11, 20 lb. w.; 100 reams Duplicator Paper, 8 1/2 x 14, 20 lb. w.; 200 reams Mimeograph Paper, 8 1/2 x 14, 20 lb. w.; 190 boxes Master Units, 8 1/2 x 11; 272 gallons Duplicator Fluid.

Shipments are to be made and billed to consolidated schools throughout the county, and to the Board of Education in Prestonsburg, Kentucky. The bid price includes free delivery, and subsequent orders at bid prices are to be in effect for the remainder of the 1969-1970 school year.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids, or accept any part of bid offered.

I spent one minute. I saved $662.

Proctor Haller of Ashland, Kentucky made one phone call and discovered, "Electric whole-house air conditioning cost me $662 less than the gas estimate for the same size unit, and my operating cost will be less than it would have been with gas. The electric air conditioning unit was easily installed on my present gas heating system." In home after home, we have proved that flameless electric whole-house air conditioning costs less to install and less to operate than gas. Electric whole-house air conditioning can be added to most warm air furnaces, regardless of the fuel used for heating. If you're thinking of installing gas whole-house air conditioning, make a phone call for an electric cost comparison. It could be the most profitable minute you ever spent.

Educational TV Draws Praise from Viewers

Frankfort — "In my 75 years of hearing and seeing, I'm sure this is the greatest hour," writes a retired Pulaski county minister in a letter of appreciation to Kentucky Educational Television headquarters in Lexington.

He enjoys all of the programs in his "second childhood," he says, and thinks "many of the retired can if they will, enjoy all of them."

Among a sampling of letters received by KET, several were from senior citizens. Two courses they enjoyed, as did many other viewers, were Folk Guitar and French Chef.

A woman from Louisville wrote, "I'm of the older generation (several grandchildren) but I used to really swing a uke and still play the piano, but not very much" and asked to be "put down" for the second instruction book in Folk Guitar, although she is still struggling with the first course, determined to learn the "whole first book" before her son gets back from Vietnam to surprise him.

The "lively and interesting Julia Child cooking sessions" drew praise from both young and old women viewers. A retired Berea woman who "has time to look and enjoy" wishes the French Chef program could be on twice each week with different lessons on each program. Many viewers write requesting the recipe sheets which are available upon request.

Another group grateful for ETV is mothers. They mentioned their children's interest in the programs provided for youngsters, and several indicated many of the courses offered were of benefit to them in understanding such things as modern math, enabling the mothers to be of more help in homework.

A Crittenden county mother, wanting to help her children but also fascinated by the new world opening to her, writes, "ETV school can be the most wonderful thing for this one dumb parent that cannot afford to go to school."

Friday, May 16, was Career Day at Our Lady of the Way Hospital for the students of Martin high school. Career Day was held in recognition of Hospital Week, May 11-17, to give students an idea of the opportunities in the hospital field. The students were given a complete tour of the hospital, including demonstrations by the laboratory and X-ray departments and a visit to the operating room. Mrs. Waneta P. Newsome, R.N., gave a talk, using illustrations, on the progress of surgical techniques over the past few centuries. After the tour, students were shown a film which outlined the many different careers to be found in a hospital.

Tidbits of Kentucky Folklore—Unseen Folklore

By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D.
Every time I drive out one of the main roads that wander a-way across western Kentucky, I pass by dozens of large trees, on both sides of the road, that must have been set out upwards of a hundred years ago. I have known them for sixty years already, and they certainly were not saplings when I first saw them. It was a foresighted person who supervised the setting out of these great maples, long before I was born. Just how much he knew or cared for trees in general I cannot find out, but he unconsciously contributed this strange blessing to thousands of people whom he would never see. In my many rambles over Mammoth Cave National Park, I come upon great trees that make us the beneficiaries of some forward-thinking pioneer. And there are equally huge trees that were left from the primitive forest, which have lasted for several generations and are still live and healthy, oaks of wide-spreading extent. Less ancient but equally impressive to me are large lilac bushes, the growth of a half century and more. I have often said that when people plant lilacs, they are planting for the future, for it takes many years to make a big clump of lilac bushes. When spring comes around, in what is now almost unbroken forest, the clumps of lilacs form for days strangely beautiful spots in the forests. These bushes may have seen the opening of a clearing in the unbroken woods, then years of farm life before they again become a part of the wilderness. Over and over I have spoken or written about the human customs, good and less good, that had been worked slowly over long ages, before you and I were to be the beneficiaries. Food, clothing, making of necessary household articles, houses themselves — all these had had a long work-out before I began to enjoy them. And home itself, and religion and government, and art, and literature, and language — my, it seems almost impossible to list, even what had had a start before our time. This was the starting point in my long study of folklore. It gradually began to dawn on my mind that it was not a new world that I had entered; there were everywhere traces of known and unknown people who had gone before. With a little effort it was possible to find the names of some of the benefactors; most of them are confused and lost in the wastes of time. I suppose the first time I ever really thought of this whole range of thinking came when, as a small lad, I read or heard read Charles Lamb's "Dissertation on Roast Pig." That started me to wondering how people, a long time ago, had learned the basic things about cooking. As most boys of my time did, I loved to imagine myself a Robinson Crusoe, who had to begin all over again at being civilized, but Crusoe had had already the benefit of ages of civilized beings; he was merely reliving what it had taken millions of years for humanity to learn.

To a dreamy poet it may seem that many ideas have been slow in development; many poets would like to tear down the sorry mess of things and start all over again. Just how would they start except by remembering and using what they had learned from forgotten ages of humanity. I got a good laugh, some years ago, when the inhabitants of Moo, in the cartoon Alley Oop, decided to found a colony. When it came to giving it a name, they chose Moo, Too. How much like the rest of us they are in that cartoon.

Just now I glanced up from the typewriter to rest my eyes. What I saw was a big ash tree in my front yard. I do not know who set it out or when, but it was a good-sized tree fifty years ago when we moved into this house with our tiny baby daughter. I know it was set out because it is in line with some other ash trees on my lot and the one next to it. Whoever the workman or owner was who planted that tree, he has, a long time later, my heartiest thanks. It may have been merely a part of a day's work for some hireling or even a slave, but there is the tree, long my tree, a gift directly from the hands of some unknown, unnamed person of another century.

Fair-Aid Program

The 1962 state Legislature began the state fair-aid program for local and district with passage of the Local Fair Law. The law provided for a $65,000 total allocation which was upped to $72,500 last year and to $75,000 for 1969. The original $1,500 maximum allocation per fair has been increased to $2,000 this year. The grant of state-aid funds made to any fair shall not exceed one-half the amount of premiums paid out for livestock shows and agricultural exhibits.
