$776,549 Tax Bill On Way To Public

TAXES SHOW SLIGHT RISE

Over Previous Rate; Bills To Be Mailed On Schedule This Year

Brace yourselves! — the 1969 tax bills are headed your way. The new edition of "Greetings" was being prepared this week for mailing by the Sheriff's department, and before the job is done 13,531 tax bills representing a total of $776,549.18 will be on their way.

Bills to taxpayers are going out on schedule this year, in marked contrast to the late billing in other years since the so-called 100% assessment ruling by the Court of Appeals went into effect. This year, the fiscal court set the tax rate early, and this forestalled another delay.

The tax rate shows a slight increase this year — 74.3 cents per $100 valuation on real estate, up 2.1 cents from last year. The rate on tangibles is at 87.8 cents per $100, as compared to 85.7 cents in 1968.

On real estate the rate for state taxes stands unchanged at 1.5 cents. For county purposes the rate is 17 cents, up four-tenths of a cent, and the school tax rate was increased from 49.6 cents in 1968 to 50.6 cents this year. The health tax was raised 4 of a cent to 2.6 cents; the library levy from 1.4 cents to 1.6 cents, and the Extension tax from .9 to 1 cent.

The real estate tax rate was levied on an assessment total of $70,132,536.

The total tax bill going out to Floyd countians will be divided in this way:

To the state, $79,034.84; county (exclusive of health, library and extension), $188,777.62; schools, $178,467.91; health, $26,501.43; library and extension, $23,761.38.

NOTHIN' BUT A HOUND DOG IS LEGAL CAUSE CELEBRE; CASE RE-SLATED FOR OCT. 28

Whiskey cases went to trial, men went to jail, others were given trial for a variety of offenses, and altogether it was a busy session in quarterly court Tuesday — but the Case of the Much-Wanted Hound-Dog was the day's cause celebre.

Amos Tackett and Sonny Jones, a man whose years do not fit the name, "Sonny," had had their first round in Magistrate Dewey Roberts' court where a jury held that this dog valued at $100 and described as a foxhound, rightfully belonged to Mr. Jones. The case reached quarterly court on Tackett's appeal.

Both had an adequate supply of witnesses and both were firm in their claim of ownership. The dog, spectators said, "took to" the older man, and a small boy with Jones fondled the hound while the hearing was under way.

When Mr. Tackett and others called the hound, he appeared to be rather unconcerned. But some explained that lack of interest in their voices was because the dog had been in Jones' care so long.

The dog took it all in stride (or a dog trot) and gave a hint of a supercilious sniff as he left the courtroom after the jury had failed to agree.

He, and a lot of others (humans,

Former Missionary Here, Miss Anna Woods, 79, Is Victim, Sunday

Miss Anna Woods, 79, who worked in the county for 24 years in missionary work, died Sunday at Connellsville, Pa., where she resided with her brother, E. Wilmer Woods.

During her years of service, she was associated with Miss Myrtle Pugsley, and was widely known in the area. Ill health forced her to retire two years ago.

Rev. and Mrs. Fred McGinnis, of Banner, and Miss Myrtle Pugsley attended funeral services which were held Wednesday in Connellsville.

Accused Rapists Held at Louisa Without Bond

Held without bond in the Lawrence county jail are Douglas Yates, of Pikeville, and Carl Lee Powers, of North Carolina. They are being held in connection with the forcible seizure and assault of a 17-year-old married woman, of Detroit, Mich., who with her husband had been visiting relatives in Pikeville.

The alleged assault occurred near the Lawrence-Johnson county line on Route 201.

The couple's first mistake, apparently, was in accepting a lift from the accused men at Harold. They said they had started hitchhiking to their home in Michigan because they had run out of money and wanted to reach Michigan to try to find work.

Their story, as told to law officers, follows:

COURT TERM ENDS HERE

With Two Cases Tried; Civil Court Session Will Convene Oct. 6

The acquittal Tuesday of Taylor and Alta Price of a charge of assault and battery ended the September circuit court term here, a session which had been reduced to a minimum of action because of the illness of Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo. The jury was dismissed at the conclusion of the hearing.

The only other trial of the week resulted Monday in the levying of a $100 fine on Eli Schoolcraft, who was charged with public drunkenness. The drunk driving charge against him resulted in a "hung" jury.

Jurors for the civic term of circuit court, which will convene Oct. 6, were announced this week. Their names and addresses are:

Norma G. Daniels, Cliff; W. L. Akers, Dana; Josie Hill, Bonanza; Brady Colvin, Wheelwright; Richard Watts, Wheelwright; Polly Blankenship, Wayland; Amos Akers, Grethel; Jody Gunnels, Lancer; Russell Sizemore, Prestonsburg; Mrs. Bill Calhoun, Water Gap; Kennis Hall, Banner; Fred Newsome, Grethel; Bess Arnett, Lancer; Robert Webb, Wayland; Mary R. This Town . . . That World

A SENSE OF HUMOR

Read an item this week which observed that an acquaintance becomes a friend as soon as you learn he has a sense of humor.

I agree with the statement, but it's doubtful if many of us would agree about what a sense of humor really is. One says it is an appreciation of the humorous, or funny, that is honed so keen that the professor readily catches the point of any joke, however abstruse it may be. Another gauges sense of humor by the loudness of another's laugh. And so on.

To me, a sense of humor is the ability to see the ridiculousness of your own foibles, shortcomings and outright failures; to see the ludicrous when you peek into your own mirror as well as when you take a look at the other fellow's silly pan.

God give us the grace to laugh at ourselves. Then we'll love everybody more.

JUST FINE

The news of the passing of Miss Anna Woods brings a most pleasant recollection. During her many years here as a Christian worker I met Miss Woods quite often. Invariably, when I greeted her with the perfunctory query, "How are you?" her answer was, "Just fine, thank you."

In more recent years it became obvious that she was finding the road rockier. Her physical strength was failing her. But, every time my question was asked, back came the stout, cheery reply:

"Just fine, thank you." And how right she was! Indeed she was just fine.

UP GOES THE BLOOD PRESSURE

The Council for Basic Education has in its September bulletin some facts that are calculated to cure low blood pressure for many readers.

It reports, for instance, that the "New English" has banned "Silas Marner" and grammar. And more:

The Albuquerque (N. M.) public schools have announced a four-week program for delinquent and "pre-delinquent" boys.

Bowling Green University in Ohio is about to offer a curriculum leading to master's and doctor's degrees, based on a study of comic books, mail order catalogs, psychedelic posters and "underground" newspapers.

Mud-Cr. VISTAS, Clark Feud Cools

The olive branch began last week to figure in the relationship between County Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark and Mud Creek members or affiliates of the VISTA group which has been active there.

First of all, residents of that section met last week with Clark at his office. This was followed on Monday of this week by a conference between Supt. Clark and W. W. Burchett, attorney for the Board of Education, and Palmer Frasure, Homer Hamilton, Eddie Blankenship and Woodrow Rogers, at least three of whom are directors of the Highway 979 group working in the Mud Creek area.

On the same day the charges of assault and battery and slander lodged against Clark by Dalmer Frasure following an altercation at the Board of Education building here were dropped. Frasure himself is under grand jury indictment, charged with assault and battery, but chances are the case will not be pushed.

A more amicable relationship apparently was established between the parties at the two meetings here. "We discussed the situation in general," Supt. Clark said, "and agreed that Floyd countians gain nothing by perse-

Martin Plans Motorcade For Oct. 4 Board Meet

Members of the Committee for the Preservation of the Martin School announced Wednesday that a motorcade from Martin and vicinity will transport "all interested people" to the scheduled monthly meeting Oct. 4 of the Floyd County Board of Education here and that representative members of the committee will attend the meeting.

"The group is hopeful," the announcement said, "that this motorcade will express their sincere concern for the desperate need of the small children of the Martin area and that such concern would be conducive to a solution to this need for adequate grade-school housing."

The decision to organize a motorcade was reached at a committee meeting Tuesday when the main topic of discussion was the need of a grade-school building. Complaints voiced at the meeting included these:

1. That Martin first-grade children are attending classes in a lodge hall, removed from the school campus and cafeteria by the main Route 80

An Air Force veteran of 12 years, he was a graduate of Pikeville College. Surviving besides his parents, are his widow, Mrs. Joyce Yates, three sons and a brother, Warrant Officer Leroy Yates, also of the Air Force, stationed in Louisiana.

GIRL FREED, OTHERS HELD

In Pike-Co. Robbery; Liquor Traffic Cases Week's Chief Violations

The teenage girl who has been held in jail here in connection with the robbery of the Phelps Branch of the Citizens National Bank, Pikeville, has been freed under $2,500 bond but her alleged accomplices, Arlie Lee Young and Billy Ray Hager, remain prisoners, each unable to execute bond.

Seven other federal prisoners are being held here for safekeeping. These include Harlan D. Adkins, who is accused of counterfeiting; Warren G. Christian, alleged Dyer Act violator; James Rife, whiskey; John Nelson Ray, Jr. and Ramona Pauline Wade, accused of transporting a stolen vehicle from Haleyville, Ala., to Pike county; Woodrow Stewart, Jr., parole violator.

Among those arrested this week was Roy Lee Branham, of Wheelwright, who was charged by state troopers with illegal possession of intoxicants after he had confiscated 290 half-pints of whiskey, gin and vodka and 23 cases of beer found in his car, shortly after Monday midnight. The arrest was made near the mouth of Jack's Creek. Branham was not booked at the jail here but executed bond to answer for later hearing before Magistrate Eddie Caudill.

Among those booked at the jail this week was Robert Craft, who was fined $20 and given a 30-day (See Story No. 5, Page 3)

Strike-Idled Mines Resume Operation

RECC Election Hassles Continue; Ward Sues Butcher For $30,120

The recent Big Sandy RECC election of directors continued this week to send off courtroom echoes.

Last week, D. J. Gambill, who had been fired as manager of the co-op, filed suit for $139,677 damages.

This week, Dave Ward, an election-time friend of the directors who were sued by Gambill, went to court himself to sue Doug Butcher for $30,120 damages for injuries which he claims Butcher inflicted on him with his fists in a pre-election encounter.

Ward says Butcher attacked him while he was gathering voted ballots for the winning faction in the election.

Ward asks $25,000 damages for bodily injuries and bruises, physical and mental anguish; $5,000 for medical attention and hospitalization, and $120 for ruined clothing and jewelry.

Butcher, a Johnson county Board of Education member, was indicted Sept. 12 in Johnson circuit court, accused of assault and battery in connection with the attack on Ward.

NORDENHAUG IS CLAIMED

World Church Leader, Former Pastor Here, Dies At Virginia Home

Dr. Josef Nordenhaug, the former Prestonsburg pastor who became head of the 30-million-member Baptist World Alliance, died of a heart attack last Thursday at his home in Arlington, Virginia. He was 66 years old.

Dr. Nordenhaug had been chief executive officer of the alliance representing Baptists of 120 countries since he was elected in Rio de Janeiro in 1960. He had planned to retire next July.

A native of Oslo, Norway, Dr. Nordenhaug earned a master's degree in chemistry, geophysics and astronomy at the University of Oslo and then came to the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, to study for master's and doctorate degrees in theology.

He was pastor of Irene Cole Memorial Church here in the 1930's and later served as pastor in Virginia. In 1948 he became editor of The Commission, the journal of the Southern Baptist's foreign mission board. Two years later he was elected president of the new Baptist Theological Seminary in Ruschlikon, Switzerland, and remained its head until 1960. During that time he also (See Story No. 6, Page 3)

900 Miners Begin Work This Week

Company, Union Meet To Negotiate Issues; Strike Costs Economy

Work at three Floyd county mining operations and one in Pike was resumed Monday night after a work-stoppage of almost three weeks had idled hundreds in the two counties.

The workers returned to their jobs, union representatives explained, so that negotiations in accordance with provisions of the contract could be carried out.

The work resumption returned 900 men in this county to production at Spurlock, Price and Wheelwright operations of the Island Creek Coal Company. Island Creek's big, new Gund mine in Pike county, which had been idled by a "sympathy" walkout, also returned to work.

Both company officials and union representatives said Tuesday a meeting had been scheduled Wednesday for negotiation of issues involved.

Meanwhile, a hearing was held here Tuesday on company charges of contempt alleged against Charles Webb, local mine union president at Spurlock, Kelly Webb, Malcolm Johnson, Lonnie Collins and Hershell Fields, and Circuit Judge Hollie Conley held that the defendants were not in contempt of the restraining order issued against them by the court.

Island Creek counsel argued that the defendants violated the spirit of the injunction by appearing at the Gund mine in street rather than work garb. He claimed work stopped there at their appearance, was resumed and then halted again at their reappearance. The injunction banned interference with operation of Island Creek properties in this county.

Defendants testified they visited the Gund mine at the request of (See Story No. 7, Page 3)

Magoffin Men Arrested After Police Recover Two Stolen Cars

Recovery of two stolen cars and an undetermined amount of allegedly stolen goods and the arrest of two Magoffin county men followed the questioning here Wednesday afternoon of one of the pair by Chief of Police Bill Potter and Policeman Ray Click.

A check by the officers of the 1965 Chevrolet Carl Fletcher, 21, was driving produced no results, but they had been told a white Pontiac Fletcher had at Salyersville was a stolen vehicle. Potter and Click consulted State Police, who quickly determined that the Chevrolet also was "hot."

Potter and State Trooper Elmo Allen joined Trooper Bailey at Salyersville later, and they arrested Fletcher and a man listed as M. J. Cole.

Cooper Says Road Work To Continue

The public works cutback announced by President Nixon early this month, because of escalating costs of home building and the need to reduce federal expenditures, may not have so severe an effect on projects in Kentucky as some have feared, according to Senator John Sherman Cooper.

Senator Cooper, who is the ranking Republican member of the Senate Committee on Public Works, pointed out that the immediate cutback applies only to 100-per cent federally-financed projects. It does not include state and local projects to which the federal government contributes matching funds or grant-in-aid assistance, such as the highway and Appalachian programs.

Senator Cooper said that he had held conversations with Senator Randolph, chairman, and other members of the Senate Public Works Committee which will continue to follow very closely actions taken which affect federal public works projects.

Record Crowds, Exhibits Mark '69 County Fair

The 1969 Floyd County Fair, which ended a full week's run last Saturday evening, was not only the most successful yet held in the county but the highest in quality of exhibits and general results, a Fair Board member said this week.

Between 12,000 and 15,000 persons attended the fair, and it drew a total of 2,300 exhibits.

"Art in the Floyd County Schools" was the theme of the school section of the fair. Winners of first, second and third prizes in the school competition were:

Elementary schools — Clark, Prestonsburg and Stumbo; high schools — Prestonsburg, McDowell and Garrett; rural schools — Dvale, Ligon and Banner.

Farmers brought 556 exhibits of vegetables and fruits. Exhibits by various groups included 675 4-

Hers, 276 by Future Farmers of America, 199 by Future Homemakers of America, 476 open class home economics exhibits and 68 flower exhibits. Livestock from as far away as Memfee and Morgan counties was on show Saturday.

Three schools, Betsy Layne, Wheelwright and Prestonsburg, contributed to the final day's program with a band concert.

During the last two days of the fair free health services valued at more than $6,000 were rendered when the Floyd County Health Department gave 252 blood sugar tests and Prestonsburg General Hospital nurses gave more than a thousand blood pressure tests.

The two bicycles given away by the Fair Board and the Gladding Amusement Company went to Ronnie Stanley, of Water Gap, and Jeff Cowan, of Prestonsburg.

Yates and Powers stopped the car near Blaine on Route 201, saying that they were going up a hollow to borrow money from the grandmother of one. They asked the husband to walk to the house with them and back up their story that they had had car trouble.

Halfway up the hollow, the men told the husband to wait until a light came on in the house before coming on in. By a back way, they returned to the car, pulled the woman from it and attacked her. After a lapse of time, the husband felt that something was wrong and returned to where the car was parked in time to see it speed away. He then went to the home of Hobart Green to summon authorities, not knowing that his wife had been left behind.

The woman crawled to the highway where she was helped by an Ashland Oil Company truck driver.

The two accused men were arrested by Louisa policemen, Chief Dempsey Bradley, and Bud Scarberry, patrolman, as they entered the Louisa city limits.

DRS. COMBS, MAYO APPEAR IN BLACK LUNG DISCUSSION DURING KMA ANNUAL MEET

Two physicians, formerly of Floyd county, contributed heavily to the discussion on black lung held last week at the Kentucky Medical Association annual meeting at Louisville's Convention Center.

Dr. Gene Combs, of Pikeville, and Dr. Porter Mayo, of Lexington, participated with a group of physicians seeking answers to the dilemma posed by black lung, or pneumoconiosis.

Several doctors noted that a decision to keep a man out of the mines could hurt his family economically and also affect the community and company.

The discussion on group members did not reach clear-cut answers. However, as one Eastern Kentucky doctor said, "Our first obligation is to the miner, not to the economy. We can't sacrifice miners to the dollar."

Under the heading of speciality sessions, the social ramifications of black lung occupied much of the discussion. Doctors agreed that much more laboratory knowledge is needed before advances can be made on the lung disease.

Dr. Porter Mayo, whose Floyd county home was in Prestonsburg, said: "Either we (society) take care of the problem and pay for it or forget about the problem."

Until research turns up the ultimate solutions, there are some practical things that could reduce the problem, Dr. Mayo said. For example, mine ventilation and other mechanical means should be instituted to cut down airborne dust.

Dr. Mayo also said that miners should have pre-employment X-rays and pulmonary function tests. These would be followed up with periodic tests to see if there has been any regression in the health of his lungs.

Periodic X-rays and tests for miners was one of the basic recommendations by the international conference on black lung held last week at Spindletop Research in Lexington. The medical conference here was the first application of conclusions reported by the experts at Spindletop.

Dr. G. N. Combs, formerly of Langley, another discussion leader, said: "There are many things we don't know about coal workers pneumoconiosis. We must further define the relationship with smoking, with how early a man is exposed to coal dust and why some miners get it and some don't."

He also noted that black lung leads to other diseases, such as bronchitis and heart ailment.

As for that tough question, Dr. Mayo said that if a 40-year-old miner, who shows a likelihood of developing the chest disease, has no other means of making a living, "we doctors can't ban him from the mines." Ideally, he should be shifted by the company to a less dusty job, Dr. Mayo said, but other doctors from coal areas said that this is not the usual practice of coal companies.

MANAGEMENT HELP

The atom not only is small but also very dense, says a University of Kentucky physics professor, William McEllistrem. To have comparable density as that found in the neutron of an atom, one would have to compact a three-story building into an area the size of a sugar cube, he said.

SMALL AND DENSE

Kentucky business firms too small to hire a consultant can get help on problems in management, accounting, engineering, and marketing from the University of Kentucky Office of Development Services.

The University of Kentucky participates in the National Defense Student Loan Program, the Nursing Program, the Health Professions Assistance Program (for Dental, Medical and Pharmacy students), and other smaller loan programs.

88-YEAR-OLD HONOREE TAKES RIDE ON SKYLIFT

Mrs. Ruth "Granny" O'Neil was honored on her 88th birthday Sunday at a surprise picnic at Jenny Wiley State Park.

To begin her afternoon, she was presented a corsage of pink carnations. After dinner was enjoyed, Granny opened her many gifts.

For several years, Granny has wanted to ride the Sky-lift. To make her day complete, her wish was fulfilled. At 88, she is perhaps the oldest person to have ridden the Sky-lift. This is unusual but to make it even more so is the fact that Granny was accompanied on the Sky-lift by four generations of her descendants.

Those sharing the day with her were Mr. and Mrs. O. P. May, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Clark, Mrs. David Watson, Anna, Carla and Davy, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bentley, LaDonna and Gayle, Mr. and Mrs. Hershel R. Hale and Jeanette, Mrs. Frank DeRossett, Jr. and Stephanie, Miss Debbie Fraley, Miss Jane Howard, Jimmy Fraley, Ray F. Bock, Mrs. Emma Scalf, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil E. Layne and Virgil Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. Arliss Sammons, Lloyd, Dewey and Timothy, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Boyd and Kimberly, Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Taylor and Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Stanley, Tammy and Christopher, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Childers and Billy, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Scalf, Teresa and Denise, Mrs. Bill Childers, Ronnie Scalf, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hite, Linda and Gregory, Miss Nina Scalf, Carroll Scalf, Mr. and Mrs. Goldie Layne, Mrs. Bill J. Lee and Tara, Clyde Scalf, Mrs. Clara Mattox, Jimmy Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leedy, Mrs. Mabel Runyon, and Mrs. Nannie Bowling.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Clark, Ormond Beach, Fla., and the Rev. and Mrs. Howard Leming, Clarke and Laura, Temple Terrace, Florida, Capt and Mrs. William E. Clark, Barbara Sue and Mark, of Hyattsville, Md., sent gifts and congratulations but were unable to attend.

Teachers have been fired for showing fifth-graders how to diagram a sentence.

And so on. Poor, old St. Marnier! And I always regarded him as a harmless sort of guy. At any rate, his story wasn't cluttered up with a lot of those four-letter words some of these "new English" newsies think mark the classic.

Fifty years of this, and we'll be speaking a pidgin English, nobody will know how to write — and, moreover, there'll be no need to, for nobody will know how to read.

WHOSE "IMPERIALISM"?

THE TIMES has been unwilling, and remains unwilling, to join the "guilt by association" cult and condemn as a Communist every individual or group whose views differ from our own. The extremists of this country — the extreme Left and the extreme Right — are a serious threat: the one had its Lenins and Stalins; the other, its Hitler.

So it is that on the local scene we have—whether to good effect or not, we do not know—refrained from writing off as wholly bad the Appalachian Volunteers, the VISTA's and other groups, simply because their thinking and ours do not coincide.

Yet we confess to a lack of patience with the attitudes of some of these people, their open hostility to what they call the Establishment and their snobbish contempt of "those nice, little regular people" who disagree with them.

The words quoted in the last lines of the preceding paragraph are from an article by John Wilson, entitled, "How To Destroy Imperialism," which The Appalachian Lookout under a Prestonsburg dateline reprinted in part, in its March, 1969 number. Does this article accurately reflect AV thinking? If it doesn't, why reprint it without comment?

We reprint The Appalachian Lookout reprint, so that any who care to do so may reach their own conclusion:

"... The only way we are going to be able to understand and visualize the importance of building a revolution is by beginning to understand and visualize the importance of working together. We can no longer continuously talk to ourselves. We have to know what other people are feeling and what other people want. One of the major problems is that we don't associate with the people we are supposed to be organizing. We spend too much time in parties by ourselves — nice little leftist parties and nice little leftist meetings filled with nice little leftist people, all in their nice little leftist hung-up bags. And we don't have the guts and gumption to and nice little leftist meetings filled with nice little old people with their regular little old hang-ups and talk to them and try to get them to understand. That is a hard job because when you return, the first thing that you say is that they are sick, they are foolish, they are not black or they are not radicals. The problem is that 90 per cent of this society is sick. Those nice little regular people make up 90 per cent of this society with the nice little regular hang-ups and we have to understand that the 90 per cent which makes up the bulk of American society must play some sort of role in the overall development of any kind of movement..."

KY. COMMUNITY COLLEGES RISE 4% IN ENROLLMENT

The University of Kentucky Community College System has experienced a four per cent increase in enrollment this fall, bringing numerous additional problems to the system, a spokesman said.

Larry Stanley, coordinator of academic affairs, said the most notable problems include lack of adequate space, not only for personnel but for vehicles, also. "Students and faculty at several community colleges are parking on the grass because there are not enough parking spaces for everybody," Stanley said.

He noted that Northern Community College at Covington is about 100 parking spaces short. At Somerset the number is 80. Maysville lacks about 30 spaces.

At Madisonville Community College, house trailers have been brought in to provide office space for faculty members.

All science classes at Jefferson Community College are being taught in buildings at the former Kentucky Southern College. The buildings are leased from University of Louisville. Kentucky Southern encountered financial difficulty after some six years of existence and has been taken over by U. of L. Bus service from the community college site in Louisville is being provided to the former Kentucky Southern campus near St. Matthews, Stanley said.

"The increased enrollment comes at a time when we have construction in progress on all the community college campuses except Madisonville and Ft. Knox," he added.

"More than half the freshman and sophomores attending the University of Kentucky are enrolled in its Community College System," Stanley said, noting the enrollment in the system is more than 10,000.

Laundry facilities for personal items are provided for students living in residence halls at the University of Kentucky.

State Board Asks Review Of Property-Tax Freeze

By HELEN McCLOY (In The Courier-Journal)

FRANKFORT, Ky. — The state Board of Education expressed concern here yesterday over an existing ceiling on general property tax rates through which Kentucky schools get much of their revenue. The board voted to ask "appropriate" legislative committees to review the situation.

The board's action followed a report by James Melton, state school finance director, on the tax rates permitted Kentucky's school districts this year by the state Department of Revenue. School district property-tax revenues have been limited by state law since 1965, when the General Assembly in effect "rolled back" tax rates as a result of a Court of Appeals decision that property must be assessed at its full value.

Assessments before the court ruling had varied in the districts from 19 to 40 per cent of actual value, and the legislators feared that tax bills would skyrocket correspondingly if revenues were not limited.

The 1965 law initially restricted the schools from raising more revenue than they had done under the old assessments, but allowed 10 per cent revenue increases in each of the two succeeding years.

Now, however, all school districts are faced with the revenue ceiling.

The lid affects some districts more than others, because property constructed since 1965 may be assessed to produce added revenue, but older property escapes higher taxation even though its value may have been increased by capital improvements.

Thus, as some educators have pointed out, districts which have little new construction to assess are suffering in comparison with those in areas where building has flourished.

The Kentucky Association and the Louisville Education Association said the tax freeze is unconstitutional and would be struck down in a court test. Several times since 1965, local school boards have considered forcing the issue to court by raising tax rates to produce additional revenue. None has done so, however.

The law's constitutionality is suspect, state school board attorney Ray Corns said yesterday, because state law says "in essence" that there must be a uniform system of property taxing. Kentucky's 193 school districts have 193 different tax rates.

Melton noted that 47 other states produce more per capita revenue in property taxes than Kentucky does. He pointed out that Jefferson county's proposed tax rate will be about three-tenths of a cent less than last year's—which in turn was two-tenths of a cent less than the year before.

THREE DEADLY PLANTS

The water Hemlock, also called Poison Parsnip, Cowbane and American Hemlock is not related in any way to the fine eastern hemlock tree. It is the most deadly poisonous plant of our region. Although native to America, it is similar to the hemlock used to kill Socrates.

There is no known antidote for the poison of water hemlock. A small piece of one of its tubers will kill a cow in a short time. Some deaths of persons have been reported from eating the poisonous tubers in the spring, mistaking them for wild parsnips. On the roots, the tubers grow in bunches somewhat like those of dahlia roots; they also slightly resemble a bunch of small sweet potatoes and have an odor like parsnips. When the tubers are cut, a yellowish oil exudes, which is very deadly.

This plant belongs to the parsley family, UMBELLIFERAE, as its flowers are formed in umbels at the top of the branches. They are small and white. The leaves are pinnately compound, and if one looks closely at the leaflets, he will notice that the veins end at the notches of the leaflet, not at the tips of the teeth. The stem is smooth and hollow, and when cut across it shows chambers between the pith. The leaves have long petioles, and at the base of each leaf there is a sheath that almost encloses the stalk. The plants grow about ponds and in marshy places, or along the moist banks of streams and are common in our region. The roots have clusters of tubers which are tempting, as they look like good eating, but if one takes a chance and eats a tuber, it means sure death.

When cows browse on the foliage in the spring, or perhaps pull up the plants to get the good smelling tubers, they soon get down with twitching muscles and convulsions. They froth at the mouth, take violent convulsive spasms, which continue until death takes place. The only thing one can do for an animal poisoned on water hemlock is to give it morphine or other sedatives to ease the pain.

The black nightshade is another plant for which there is no antidote for its poison. It is called "deadly nightshade" and "poison berry." Black nightshade is so called because of its black berries, which are deadly. Adult cattle soon learn to let it strictly alone and often browse around a patch of it without touching it. But young cattle, goats, pigs and sheep often take a chance and browse on the plants or roots.

Black nightshade grows in waste places around old homesteads, in old fields and sometimes around barns and outbuildings. It is a low, sprawling plant with crooked stems; has a bloom almost precisely like that of a tomato plant, to which it is distantly related. The flowers appear in mid-summer, about two or three to a cluster, which hangs over from the stem. The leaves are thin, wavy on the margin and alternate on the stalk. The berries are formed in clusters of three, usually, and turn black when ripe. Once I found a large patch of black nightshade growing where an old house had once stood. When animals eat the leaves or berries, they soon go into convulsions and take cramps. Death takes place from paralysis of the breathing organs. The only thing one can do for a poisoned animal is to give it sedatives to ease the pain.

The jimson weed, also called the devil's trumpet, thorn apple and hog-killer seems fond of growing about hog lots; it is also common around old barnyards, abandoned house sites and waste places. It is a large, branching, sprawling plant with smooth stem and large leaves with sharp teeth. It also belongs to the infamous Nightshade Family. It is known to botanists as DATURA STRAMONIUM, as a powerful drug for making narcotics is derived from the plant. Both the leaves and the black seeds are used in making potent drugs with narcotic properties.

The name, "jimson weed," is derived from the name, "James-town weed," given to the plant by the early colonists of Jamestown, Va. Jimson weed blooms in mid-summer and has pretty flowers that are long and slender and shaped like a trumpet. The flowers are white, sometimes diffused with blue or lavender. They flare at the end and have five toothed divisions. The flowers produce a large, egg-shaped spiny burr, which has four compartments, each of which contains many black, uniform seeds. The plant has a rank, sickening odor which discourages stock from eating it. There are case on record of persons getting poisoned from eating the seeds, perhaps from curiosity to see how they taste.

TIMES WANT ADS PAY— TRY THEM TODAY!

As the old saying goes, "Curiosity killed the cat." Hogs may root up the plant and eat enough of it to get seriously poisoned. The poison causes convulsions in animals. Persons poisoned on jimson weed suffer intense agony and have delirium tremens similar to that caused by excessive use of alcohol.

TIDBITS of KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.

TOES AND SUCH

Many years ago, in my class in Advanced Composition, I urged the students to try out their hands at writing familiar essays. Some of those students were and have remained rather formal; as a result, their familiar essays were not so good; they would have done better if asked to write on some abstract subject like "Patriotism," or "Loyalty," or "Conscience." But one young woman did one of the best student themes I ever graded in all my years of teaching composition. Her subject was "Toes," and everybody voted it the best. Maybe that praise accounted for a whole lifetime of writing that that student was to have. She published several small volumes of homely, delightful verse; she ran a folkish column in her home newspaper; she wrote about the most interesting letters to her relatives that you could imagine. I had the good pleasure of teaching one of her daughters and one of her sons, both of whom shared the fine literary talent of their mother.

Now, what is so unusual about toes? Don't we all have them? And wouldn't the dear old ladies of an older generation have felt offended if such a subject had ever been mentioned in their presence? But those dear old ladies had failed to have a real childhood or else were almost ashamed of having ever been immature human beings, with a desire to climb and run and wade and kick.

Think about the always-new little feet that somehow find their ways into our lives. We may have either one was foreordained as the day to pull off the winter stockings and be an uncaged wild animal again. Sometimes it was necessary to wear a pair of worn-out stockings for while, for, being shut up in heavy shoes and stockings for a long winter, toes and feet can get tender and civilized again and have to be reintroduced to the wild, free world of barefoot life.

Almost too soon those toes and their attached feet get brown, and along with grown feet used to appear a super-modesty that regarded bare feet as something awful. Now, until the end of the chapter, unless the owner of the feet and toes was somewhat unsophisticated or plain brave, the toes will be prisoners and lose the memory of fresh, soft mud and cool, wet sand and scratchy briars. Fortunately, the next generation after me grew up when feet returned to their former freedom; and no longer are they unsightly and even indecent. It is fashionable to wade sand again, even though it is likely to be on some sophisticated beach rather than along some creek or country road.

But winter would come, and those same toes, hardened by summer and rough ground, had to be shut up for a season. At first those toes were veritable prisoners and longed for even a few hours of freedom when the frost had melted and it was still time to ramp a bit before the cold night came on again. I can see whole troops of youngsters coming home from school, carrying their shoes and home-knit yarn stockings, with their bare feet enjoying a few more hours of reprieve before total imprisonment.

And, after many false attempts, the weather would bring spring and May 1 or sheep-shearing day;

either one was foreordained as the day to pull off the winter stockings and be an uncaged wild animal again. Sometimes it was necessary to wear a pair of worn-out stockings for while, for, being shut up in heavy shoes and stockings for a long winter, toes and feet can get tender and civilized again and have to be reintroduced to the wild, free world of barefoot life.

Almost too soon those toes and their attached feet get brown, and along with grown feet used to appear a super-modesty that regarded bare feet as something awful. Good Things Happen...

. . . But only when good people work together for a common cause. Is your belief in honest, efficient law enforcement great enough to overcome political and religious barriers? Can you conscientiously say, "I have voted for the good of my county . . . my country and the people of Floyd county?" On November 4th, you can settle this with your conscience and then live with the decision you have made.

Your vote for Eva Collins is a VOTE FOR A DRY CANDIDATE, a vote for one who will not forget her obligation to the people . . . One who will not take lightly the oath of office—to work for all the people all the time.

PIKE-CO. TEACHERS MEET TO CONSIDER STRIKE MOVE

To strike or not to strike was the question scheduled for consideration Wednesday night by the Pike County Education Association composed of 700 teachers.

The expected action was scheduled on a resolution which the association tabled, a month ago.

The original resolution called for withholding services Aug. 26 until alleged violations of contract obligations were settled which involved transferred job assignments of 11 Pike county teachers.

The resolution was then amended at the August meeting and postponed to pursue mediation in the matter.

A case is now before the Kentucky Court of Appeals. PCEA officials say that if action is not taken for or against strike action at the meeting, the resolution automatically falls out of the table category and becomes a dead issue.

John Benedict, of Virgie, is president, assuming duties at a Saturday board of directors meeting. He replaced William C. Justice, Belfry teacher who has taken a leave of absence to complete work on a master's degree at Eastern State University.

No Blood Sampling Thursdays, Fridays, Dr. Hall Announces

Dr. Russell L. Hall, director of the Floyd County Health Department, announced this week that, because of the possibility of spoilage of samples in transit, blood samples will no longer be taken on Thursdays and Fridays.

Of 53 blood tests taken by the health department on a recent Friday, 26 had homolized when received at the State Department of Health laboratories in Frankfort. The blood samples left Prestonsburg on Friday afternoon, but were either delayed in transit or were not claimed by the laboratory till the following Monday.

Blood tests will continue to be given at the health department on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

College Drug Use Light, LRC Avers

A Legislative Research Commission staff report released last week said it is estimated that 4 or 5 per cent of college students in Kentucky are frequent users of drugs, but the problem of drug abuse in Kentucky colleges and universities is small when compared with that of schools on both the East and West coasts.

The report noted that college officials, local police departments and state and federal narcotics control agencies differ in the estimated use of drugs by students on college campuses. However, it was generally agreed that students from out of state seem more likely to be involved in drug uses or abuses than students from Kentucky.

Colleges and police departments also agreed that marijuana, amphetamines and barbiturates, in that order most widely abused by college students in Kentucky. LSD was a distant fourth.

The consensus was that drug use and abuse is increasing or holding at the current level. Few thought it was decreasing.

The study was ordered by the 1968 General Assembly, which also established a joint subcommittee to investigate the use of and traffic in narcotics, hallucinogenic drugs and barbiturates on college campuses. Questionnaires were sent to college and police departments in college towns. Interviews were conducted with drug control officials.

Of 30 colleges sent questionnaires, 28 responded. The report said 17 respondents said less than one per cent of their student populations are involved in drug abuse. The remaining 11 estimated from 1 per cent to 30 per cent are involved.

Ten schools believe drug abuse is increasing, two think it is decreasing and 14 reported no change from last year.

Police department estimates varied, based on questionnaires returned from 16 of 18 police departments in college cities. Departments in six cities (where 73 per cent of the 64,396 students attend college) gave estimates ranging from less than 1 per cent to 50 per cent of student populations involved in drug use and abuse.

Other findings include: Ten schools have had students caught or arrested for using dangerous drugs during the past year.

Students at six schools were arrested for selling or dealing in illegal traffic or dangerous drugs in the past year.

Fourteen colleges have an educational program on drug abuses. Fourteen college administrations felt out-of-state students are "more likely" to be involved in drug abuse than in-state students.

Police departments and narcotics agents said that college students should be educated to the danger of drug abuse. They also felt that campus police should be trained in policing drug abuse and colleges need to cooperate more with enforcement agencies.

More field agents are needed in the state Division of Narcotics Control and a drug laboratory is needed in the Louisville area, they agreed.

Professional organizations concerned with public health in Kentucky have endorsed LRC staff recommendations that the State Board of Health be reorganized.

Representatives of professional groups agreed at a public hearing that the state board of Health should include broader public representation and that medical licensing should be transferred to a separate licensing board composed of physicians. The groups disagreed, however, on just how the Board of Health should be constituted.

The Kentucky Medical Association called for a sweeping reorganization, proposing that:

Membership of the state board be enlarged to include representatives of other health services and the public.

A separate board of medical licensure be established and be financed by a physicians' examination and license fees.

Health policies of the departments of Health and Mental Health be formulated by the state board. KMA suggested that the board's power be limited to policymaking and should not extend to internal operations of either department.

The state board, subject to requirements of comprehensive health planning, be given "general policy-making power over all governmental health services" and be "vested with a sole and exclusive power to make rules and

Nature Trails By RUFUS M. REED

WILD PECCARIES AND ARMADILLOS

It must be a most fascinating sight to watch a gang of wild peccaries of the southwest subdue and devour a huge diamond back rattler! The peccaries, split-hoofed ungulates, members of the swine family, wear a white collar around their necks, have huge heads and sharp tusks like wild boars. They hunt in gangs of about twelve and go for miles to find armadillos or rattlers to devour. They are sly, cunning and vicious.

When a drove of wild peccaries find a rattler, they form a circle around it and all of them begin to squeal and make a boarlike noise. This stampedes the rattlesnake and it begins to lash out at them in all directions! But the agile peccaries keep out of its reach until it is weakened down. Then one of them dives in and grabs the snake by the neck and bites it in two! Then they have a royal feast!

The collared peccaries, which range over the valleys and deserts of the southwest, are the only animals of their kind in the known world. They are black with a tinge of white on their shaggy bodies. They eat snakes, lizards, nuts when they can find them, and armadillos.

While the armadillo is protected all over its body and legs by thick armor plate, the peccaries know how to tear through this to get its highly prized flesh — one of their favorite foods. The coyote is also another animal that can tear the armadillo out of its armor. This animal is called the "armored knight of the animal kingdom," but its armor is no defense against wild peccaries and coyotes.

Mother Nature gives every animal a knowledge of how to escape or outwit its enemies. When the armadillo discovers a gang of wild peccaries running to devor it, it will tear as fast as it can and dive into a dense tangle of prickly cactus. The sharp spines cannot pierce its armored body, but they do bluff away the peccaries! Since these wild hogs have no defense against the long, sharp cactus spines, they seldom venture into one of the dense clumps of cactus to devour the armadillo. This animal has long, sharp claws and digs deep holes beneath the cactus, in which to rear its young. The female bears four young, all of the same sex. Next birth, there will be four of the opposite sex born to the armadillo.

Armadillos belong to the order of animals known as Edentata, toothless animals, including the anteaters. They have long, sticky tongue for capturing ants and other insects. Their food consists solely of ants, beetles, bugs and worms, and when insects get scared, the armadillos often starve and die.

These animals are highly prized as food by the southwest Indians and many whites and it is said their flesh has the flavor of pork.

Indians and early settlers used to make beautiful ornamental baskets out of their armor.

Our armadillos of the southwest have nine bands of armor around the middle section of their bodies; they also have armored rings around their tails and legs and armor plates on their heads and necks. Their large ears seem to be the only parts of their bodies not protected by armour.

Some naturalists say the armadillo can detect the presence of the peccaries in the nearby territory by their strong musk odor and this may also help it to escape into the dense cactus tangles, where it is safe from them. The peccaries are also called "musk hogs," as they emit a strong odor from glands at the base of their tail.

The armadillo is provided by nature with a good defense against many enemies, like great horned owls, snakes, cactus thorns and eagles. But its defense has not proved very effective against the cunning and vicious coyotes and peccaries.

PUBLIC WELCOME — Wallace P. Scalf, Owner

By Donald E. Webb
I am compiling a history and genealogy of a certain line of the Webb family which includes many of the Webb descendants now living in Floyd and surrounding counties. William Webb, Sr. was born in what is now Scott county, Va., in 1780 or 1785, (records differ), and settled in Floyd county on Daniels Fork of Johns creek between 1808 and 1810.

He was first married in Virginia, wife's name unknown, and was the father of Jonathan Webb, b. 1808 in Virginia; William Webb, Jr., b. 1816; Hezekiah Webb, b. 1824, and John Webb, b. 1825. Evidently his first wife died for on 1 Mar. 1826 he married Nancy Wells, a daughter of Richard Wells, a Revolutionary War veteran, and had three sons who were: Thomas Webb, b. 1830; Sylvester Webb, b. 1831, and Alexander Webb, b. 1834. This data is taken from the U. S. Census Bureau records for the years, 1810, 1820, 1830, 1840 and 1850 for Floyd county. There might have been daughters born to William Webb, but I have not heard of any.

March 3, 1826, Jonathan Webb married Elizabeth Porter, a daughter of John Porter, a Revolutionary War veteran from N. C., and the 1850 Census of Floyd county show that they had the following children: William Webb, b. 1828; James W. Webb, b. 1836; Susan Webb, b. 1837; Margaret Webb, b. 1838; Judah Webb (female), b. 1840; Wallis Webb, b. 1844; and Zechariah T. Webb, b. 1847. (In later years the latter might have been called Taylor.)

Hezekiah Webb, son of William Webb, Sr., by his first wife, married Martha, and by 1850 had Joseph Webb, b. 1845 and Mary Webb, b. 1847.

William Webb, Jr., son of William Webb, Sr., by his first wife, married Mahalah, and they were the parents by 1850 of July Ann Webb, b. 1837; Cynthia Webb, b. 1839; William Webb, b. 1841; Edward R. Webb, b. 1844; Harvey L. Webb, b. 1849; James M. Webb, b. 1847 and Able Webb, b. 1850.

Thomas Webb, son of William Webb, Sr. and his wife Nancy Wells, married Nancy, and they had John W. Webb, b. 1848. (It should be noted that those having young children in 1850 could have had more born after that date. I did not have later census records searched.)

William Webb, Sr. was a son of Capt. John Webb, who died in 1806 on Copper creek in what is now Scott county, Va. Capt. John Webb married Mary, (perhaps Adams), and in addition to William mentioned above, had three other sons: Joseph Webb and John Webb, Jr. Joseph Webb married Margaret, of Virginia, and they lived in Sullivan county, Tenn., where he died before 1850. They had at least one child, a daughter Sarah Webb, who married David McCarroll in Sullivan county. The latter had a son, Joseph McCarroll, b. 1850. Jesse Webb lived in both Scott county, Va. and Sullivan county, Tenn. up until 1816 when he disappeared from the records, and I do not know where he went.

John Webb, Jr., who was born in Scott county, Va., in 1788, and who was perhaps the youngest son of Capt. John and Mary Webb, married Nancy Quillin who was born on Belevs creek in Stokes county, N. C. in 1799., a daughter of Teague Quillin IV and his wife Margaret Nation. They were the parents of five children who survived to adulthood, all of whom were married: George W. Webb, b. 1812, married Elizabeth McKenzie; Martha Webb, b. 1821, married Hugh McKenzie; Jenette Webb, b. 1823, married Enoch Pratt; Sarah Webb, b. 1827, married John Cantrell, and Jonathan Webb, b. 1829, married Mary Rhottan, all marriages were in Virginia. In 1844, these families migrated to Johnson county, Ky., and settled in the Flat Gap area. This is my branch.

Capt. John Webb, who was born in Berks county, Pa., was a son of George Webb of Berks county and Sullivan county, Tenn. In 1777 George Webb migrated with his sons, who were Capt. David Webb, Capt. John Webb, Capt. Jonathan Webb, Pvt. Benjamin Webb and Pvt. George Webb, Jr., from Berks county, Pa., and settled at or near where Bluff City, Sullivan county, is now located, where they up a great amount of land, granted by the state of N. C. George Webb died in Sullivan county in 1812.

George Webb, Sr., who was born in 1723 in Berks county, Pa., was a son of John Webb who married Mary Boone in 1720 in what is now Berks county, Pa. George Webb had a number of brothers, one who was James Webb, born in 1737. This James Webb went into North Carolina, later settling in what is now Letcher county. He was the father of James Webb, Jr. who settled at Webbsville, Lawrence county, Ky., where many of his descendants now live. James Webb, Sr. was also the father of Benjamin Webb, who remained in Letcher county area, many of whose descendants still live in that area, and of William Webb who settled in Franklin county, Ky., where many of his descendants now live.

to the colony. Mary Boone was a daughter of George Boone III and his wife Mary Maugridge, who emigrated from Devonshire, Eng., in 1717.

John Webb, Sr. was born in Tisbury, county Gloucester, a son of Robert Webb. He died in Philadelphia in 1711. The Webb history goes back to 1430 when William Richmond married Alice Webb, a daughter and the only heir of Thomas Webb of Draycott, county Wilts. William Richmond quartered the Webb arms and took the Webb name. The Richmond line goes back in the time of Norman Invasion in 1066, when Richmond ancestor Roaldusmusard de Richmond was an officer in the army of William the Conqueror. All this history is written up in "The Webb Family News," a publication which I edit and publish.

Now I would like to hear from all who believe they are descendants of the above mentioned Webbs. I need your names for inclusion in the Webb book. All those writing me and enclosing a large self-addressed stamped envelope will be mailed a copy of "The Webb Family News" which will give more details of the early Webb history. I know there are thousands of descendants of William Webb who settled in Floyd county about 1810 now living in Floyd and surrounding counties and I want to hear from all of you.

Write to: Donald E. Webb, 534 Troy Street, Dayton, Ohio 45404, and be sure to enclose a large stamped envelope for your copy of The Webb Family News.

Veterans' Questions and Answers

Q — After filing an application for VA educational allowance, how long would it take to receive an assignment of a VA claim number?

Q — I am a student going to school below college level. Does the law require that I submit a monthly certificate of attendance?

A — Yes, you must complete and submit to VA a certificate of attendance each month. You fill out Section A. Section B is certified, and signed by a school official and returned to VA. Only after receipt of this information can the VA pay you.

Q — I have heard the maximum loan guaranty is now $12,500. My certificate of eligibility shows $7,500. Should I bring it in to have it changed?

Mountain Parkway, US 460, US 23 and all side roads will lead to Paintsville — apple capital of Eastern Kentucky — Oct. 3-4 for the sixth annual Johnson county Apple Day Festival.

Last year an estimated 20,000 persons converged on the county seat and enjoyed numerous activities on roped-off streets. This year, says Apple Day Chairman Elmon Davis, more than 30,000 are expected.

Friday events will include choosing an Apple Day baby, prince and princess, kiddie rides for children in the city school parking lot, and a teenage party and dance at night in the parking lot of Citizens National Bank.

On Saturday, activities will begin early, with music in the streets, and hometown folk making and selling apple butter, cider, pies, hot fried apple pies, apple rolls and candied apples.

The day's activities will include an antique car show with more than 100 entries from various antique car enthusiasts and members of the Ashland-Ironton Antique Car Club, and a mule derby. Also, a three-mile long parade led by marching bands from Ceredo-Kenova, Whitesburg, Feds Creek, Paintsville and nearby counties, and Shimmers from El Hasa in Ashland, Oleika Temple in Lexington, Pikeville and Hazard.

In the parade will be local beauties and Miss Teenage America. Presiding over parade festivities will be Herbert Harris of Winfred who has already been chosen Apple Day King by apple growers in Johnson county.

The two-day festival will be climaxed with an old-fashioned square dance on Main Street Saturday night.

An invitation was extended by the president to members to attend the fall district meeting at Wheelwright, Oct. 5.

Members attending were: Mrs. Theodore Gibson, Mrs. Shirley Stewart, Mrs. Paul Borders, Mrs. Clyde McQuire, Mrs. Paul Spencer, Mrs. Roland Burchett, Mrs. George Patton, and the hostess, Mrs. Reed.

A 1969 peak fall enrollment of 635,000 veterans was forecast for the nation. The figure was 520,524 last fall and 380,037 in 1967.

Pikeville, Ky. — Pikeville College has initiated this fall what may be a "first" in college education.

Dr. Robert S. Cope, college president, announced that Pikeville is planning a new program of freshmen studies, starting on a pilot basis during 1969-70.

Funded by a $75,000 grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the program will be a new one for the college, and Dr. Cope believes it may be a first for the nation's colleges and universities.

He pointed out that while considerable effort has been devoted to trying to redeem dropouts with varying success, Pikeville's new instructional plan will aim at helping the average student with well-defined educational goals.

The first purpose of the program, according to Dr. Cope, will be to help every freshman learn "to think well, to speak well, to read well and to listen well."

"We want to equip him to take his place, to perform efficiently and to think analytically, not only in his field of study but also later in his profession or job," he said. "To the best of my knowledge this is the first time a complete program has been planned to approach the problem in this manner. In the past the emphasis has been on the dropout."

A maximum of concentration on a minimum number of subjects — three — will give the plan an unusual twist.

For the start, 40 freshmen in two required subjects, developmental reading and English composition, plus one elective chosen from freshmen-lever courses.

Those three subjects only will be studied intensively in four sessions of nine weeks each. The Pikeville plan is expected in this way to produce concentration on essentials, and avoid the division of attention which, Dr. Cope believes, helps to confuse new college students.

Freshmen will be selected at random for the course, or they may volunteer.

The program is to be continued after the coming year at Pikeville with or without federal aid, Dr. Cope said. By the school year 1970-71 all freshmen and sophomores are scheduled to be included.

"We expect to make the program an integral part of our educational plans," he added.

Mrs. Barbara McGinty, instructor in English at Pikeville during 1968-69, has been named director of the pilot course. Six other faculty members will assist in the program.

ERROR IN DATE

The Times erred last week when it gave the date of the wedding of Miss Peggy Blackburn and Mr. Gary Bailey as October 27. The wedding will be held at 7:30 p.m. on September 27.

Dr. Leonard W. Roberts, chairman of the humanities division at Pikeville College, and author of several books dealing with the history and folklore of Kentucky and neighboring states, will address the Johnson county Historical Society meeting at Mayo School auditorium, Paintsville, Sunday, September 28, at 2:00 p.m.

The meeting is open to the public, and everyone is welcome to attend, according to society president Edward R. Hazelett.

The family of Mr. Herbert Baldrige wishes to thank all the friends and relatives who were so nice and helpful in our time of need. We also want to thank everyone for the many, many flowers and the Carter Funeral Home for its efficient service.

Mrs. NANNIE BALDRIDGE AND FAMILY

In addition to veterans, some 50,000 men in service will be going to school this fall under the G. I. Bill. This compares to 36,283 in 1968 and 22,847 in 1967.

TIDBITS of KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.

WHERE ARE YOU FROM?

It is a safe bet that a great many of the people whom I meet would nominate me for a position as inquisitor, if the original meaning of that term were meant — "asker of questions." And I lived up to that name always, and I fear I am sometimes tedious with my questioning. You see, regional speech is to me as distinctive and flavorful as the best local foods. I must say that most of the people whom I quiz soon fall into my little trap and encourage me to guess or, just for fun, try to fool me.

In the rapid growth of my university and my town I have had an abundance of opportunities to play my little game. When I first came to Bowling Green, more than 60 years ago, I ran into a form of South Midland abundance mixed with Tidewater and Piedmont Virginia that brought new sounds into my understanding of language. Down my way, in the Jackson Purchase, the regional speech was North Carolina, almost pure and simple. Dozens of people I knew, most of them bordering on old age, had come from North Carolina, central North Carolina, after they were grown. And lots of the people in the age group of my parents were children old enough to have rather settled speech habits when the family left for a newer west.

The speech sounds changed little for the first ten or fifteen years that I lived in Bowling Green, the chief change being the passing away of the elderly people who spoke Tidewater English. Now every type of regional English can be heard in the town. It is a sort of tour of duty to go to a supermarket to pick up some needed groceries. I even love to be away back in line at the checking desks, for then I have a chance to hear various localisms bobbing up and without my having to make myself a nuisance by asking "Where are you from?"

The newcomers to the town and the university, though from everywhere, as I have said, are likely to be from the states east of the Mississippi. Consulting the college catalogue does not always result in my being able to place a person when I first meet him. College people have a way of going across speech lines when they seek advanced degrees. Here is a case in point: Professor X was born in Wisconsin, got his first degree in Massachusetts, and did his advanced graduate work in Louisiana. It is interesting to hear him talk and even more to hear his children, for Jimmie, now in college, may use very distinctive Northern Middle Western words and tones of voice, while Joyce may talk like a person away down south.

Here are a few test words that I sometimes use:

1. When you put grease on connections of your car, do you grease (to rhyme with "please") or rhyme with "peace"?
2. When you pull the covering off an ear of corn, do you call them "husks" or "shucks?"

3. In sharpening a knife do you use a "whetrock" or "whetstone?"

4. What do you call that funny-shaped bone in a chicken's breast — a "wishbone" or a "pullybone?"

5. Do your children attend "school" (to rhyme with "fool") or (to rhyme with "bull")?

6. In frying meat, do you use a "skillet" or a "frying pan?" Maybe you use a "spider."

7. Does your fine horse walk around in a "barnyard" or a "stablelot?"

8. In driving that horse, do you say "come up" or "Get up?"

9. When you got married, did you have an attendant a "waiter," a "best man," or a "groomsman?"

10. Do your small children play on a "seesaw" or a "teeter board" or a "tippity-bounce?"

If I cannot locate you with these or even half of them, you are a puzzle and must come from some area that I never heard (or heered) of.

'Whatsoever Things'

By DONALD E. WILDMON

Mrs. Orealla C. Courville of Lafayette Parish, La., saw her parked car begin to roll backwards toward a bayou. Locked inside the car was her young child. Mrs. Courville, 34, rushed to stop the car. She was killed as she tried to keep it from going into the water. Her efforts kept the car from the water. She died, but her small child lived.

Another story of a similar nature was in the papers recently. It said Josephine Sosa, of Miami, became a United States citizen because of the death of her husband. Mrs. Sosa, 32, was the first Cuban exile to receive citizenship under a law enacted authorizing naturalization for the spouse of a citizen killed in military action. Her husband, Army Captain Felix Sosa, was killed during his second tour of duty in Vietnam. "My wallet was stolen," Mrs. Sosa explained, "and I went to Immigration to get a new resident's card. When I told this gentleman who I was, who my husband was, and how he was killed, he said I wouldn't have to get a new resident's card, I could become a citizen."

Stories like these seldom make the headlines. And I guess that is the tragic part. If they make the paper at all, it is usually somewhere over in the back. But we aren't fussing. We are thankful that the paper carries them, regardless of where they appear.

Down through all of recorded history people have been giving their lives for the sake of those they love. No one can count the number who have braved death without thought of themselves because of their great love for someone.

736 Feeder Calves Sell for $95,709.23

The annual fall sale of the Northeast Kentucky Feeder Calf Association marketed a total of 736 calves for farmers in Elliott, Lawrence, Boyd, Greenup and Johnson counties in Kentucky, and Wayne county, West Virginia.

In the sale there were 400 steers graded choice, medium, and good, averaging 470 pounds, which sold at an average of $30.61 cwt. A total of 285 heifer calves in the top three grades averaged 426 pounds and sold at $26.86 cwt. The total weight of steers and heifers was 329,340 pounds, grossing $95,709.23.

The top pen of steers in the sale brought $36 per hundred pounds, and the top pen of heifers brought $30.50. The top pen of steers in 1968 sold for $31.75 cwt. and the top pen of heifers sold for $28 cwt.

There is another story in print about One giving His life for those He loved. He didn't have to do it. He could have refused. But His great love caused Him to forget Himself and think only of those He loved.

Mrs. Sosa told of her experience in finding that she was a citizen because of her husband's death. She didn't earn her citizenship, it was a gift. That's the way it is with those of us for whom He died. We just say who we are, and who died for us, and why He died, and our citizenship in His country is a gift. We didn't earn it. He gave it to us by His death. All we had to do was to explain that we were His children and our citizenship was given to us.

Love causes people to do strange things. It is really the force that moves the universe. But the greatest thing love causes people to do is to lay down their life for their friends. How was it He said it? "The greatest love a man can have for his friends is to give his life for them."

He died for us because He considered us worth dying for.

Electric heat made the big difference.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Wilson of Louisa, Ky. switched to electric heat 2 years ago. "Switching to electric heat is one of the finest things we've ever done. I tell my friends now that they will never know what comfort is until they have electric heat." Cost? "We have an 8-room house and everything we have is electric ... heating, cooking, water heating, everything ... and our bill is $25 a month and that's about what we paid before for electricity and heating." Electric heat can make a big difference in your life ... without making a big difference in your heating bill. Call us or your Reddy Kilowatt Recommended Dealer for a free estimate.

Theatre Remodeling Program Under Way, Nichols Announces

The Strand Theatre here has growing pains which are reflected in a remodeling program now under way and plans for other work in the future.

James Nichols, co-manager with his wife of the Strand, listed present work as including new carpeting, a facelift of the lobby, new anamorphic lens for wide-screen picture projection and new flat lens for better standard projection.

In the planning are a new interior, new seats and rest-rooms, plus a new screen.

"Just bear with us, if you have to climb over a pile of lumber or walk around a newly painted area," Mr. Nichols said.

AMBULANCE SERVICE—ANYTIME, ANYWHERE

Here's 1970.

Plymouth makes it

1970 Hemi-'Cuda.

This year, there are 10 new Barracudas. And we've changed the looks substantially. (We've packed a 426 Hemi engine under a "Shaker" hood on one of them and called it the Hemi-'Cuda.) However you look at it, our Barracuda is all-new. We've moved it two inches closer to the ground. Pushed the wheels farther apart on our standard torsion-bar suspension. Put a tough optional bumper on the front that comes in most paint colors. And given the interior the design and comfort of a jet cockpit. If you want a car that makes it... Plymouth makes it.

1970 Sport Fury Brougham.

Here's our luxury model. (One of 28 Fury models with a new wide stance.) It's big enough inside to carry six adults in comfort. It's plush. But the price is still Plymouth. With a front seat that has individual adjustments for the driver and passenger, center armrests, and a reclining back on the passenger's side. Of course, the carpeting is thick, the headlights are hidden, and the price is still Plymouth. Whether you like your luxury in small packages, or as big as a 1970 Sport Fury... Plymouth makes it.

If you want a car that makes it, visit your Plymouth dealer's today.
