Board Hears Plea For New Building

Spokesmen Tell Needs For Grades

Committee To Study Feasibility of Plan Submitted Saturday

The Floyd County Board of Education last Saturday heard a delegation from Martin urge upon it the construction of a grade school building there, using the $100,000 insurance collected on buildings lost to fire.

The Rev. Lorie Vannucci, one of the spokesmen for the group, urged the use of the $100,000, which, he said he understood, is being held in escrow, for a new building to meet the "urgent grade school situation." He urged that there should be no relation between the grade school need and the situation existing because of the board plans for a new high school at Eastern, adding that this is "a situation that could go on for years."

Mayor E. P. Grigsby, of Martin, joined the argument against renovation of the present high school building for use as an elementary structure. He said the school has 530 elementary pupils and that renovation of the old high school building would not afford sufficient space for them. "We cannot continue," he said, "to put our children into trailers. You can take this $100,000 and $100,000 more that you can get and build this building."

Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark told of the 1960-'61 survey made by the state Division of Buildings and Grounds and of plans outlined then for renovating not only the Martin but also the Maytown, Ganess and Wayland high schools for grade school purposes. He added that he is certain other rooms would be added to the Martin building if additional space is needed to accommodate the pupils. (See Story No. 5, Page 6)

This Town ... That World

This column, from time to time over the last dozen years, has told of a certain dog. Some readers, I suspect, may have tired of the subject. They may have had reason to hope for something else. I don't know.

Anyway, we have come to the end of the story of the dog I called Dal. He went on, last Thursday morning, to wherever good dogs go. Perhaps that will explain why my never-shining countenance has, these last few days, been more glum than usual.

One very practical person has reminded me of how foolish it is for one to become so attached to a dog. And I have no answer to that — except to wonder how foolish the dog was to become so attached to me.

With all this talk of marijuana, would you say the country really has gone to pot?

NO CHEWIN' OR SPITTIN'

This was told as the plain, unadorned truth. The boy had fallen afoul of the truant officer, and his old man stood ready to defend his errant young'un. "I don't blame him for layin' out of school," he declared. "The pore, little feller, they wouldn't let him chaw durin' books, at all!" (See Story No. 1, Page 3)

Dedication Set Sunday For Camp Chatterawha

Formal dedication of a major Girl Scout facility in Eastern Kentucky — Camp Chatterawha, near here — will be held at 2 p.m., October 12, at the camp.

Construction of a modern lodge, designed to house 35 girls, and other facilities has been under way for more than a year.

The camp, on near-primitive mountain land, is near Dewey Dam, overlooks Dewey Lake and comprises, in all, 143 acres of land.

The camp is one of five operated by the Wilderness Road Girl Scout Council, which has headquarters in Lexington and serves 55 Central and Eastern Kentucky counties, plus one each in Ohio and

Gary Branham Wounded In Vietnam, Sept. 3

Pfc. Gary A. Branham, 20-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Branham, of the Auxier Road, was wounded in Vietnam, September 3. He had been in Vietnam nine weeks.

After surgery performed in Tokyo, Japan, he was returned to Ft. Knox hospital where he is doing well. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Branham, three brothers, Bill Dudley, Paul and Estill, and his wife, spent last Friday and Saturday with him at Ft. Knox.

JUDGE RACES 'SEGREGATED'

Appellate Court Holds Law Constitutional On Judicial Ballot

Constitutionality of the judicial ballot under which all candidates for judge are listed separately from candidates for other offices was upheld last Friday by the Court of Appeals.

This means that Hollie Conley, incumbent circuit judge in this county, will appear on separate ballots under both party emblems. He is without opposition, however.

The decision is of more importance in the Knott-Magoffin district where the incumbent, Circuit Judge John Chris Cornett, could lose some strength by appearing separately from the remainder of the Democratic ticket. He has no Republican opposition but is opposed by independent candidate, Ben Mann, who will be under the Equal Justice emblem.

The court ruling came in a case in which Judge Cornett sought to be listed with other Democratic candidates. Special Judge Stephen Combs had held in the Knott circuit court that the law, enacted in 1963 to establish a non-partisan atmosphere for election of the judiciary, was unconstitutional, "clearly ambiguous, inoperative and void." The high court reversed that judgment.

Until the appellate court ruled on the case, preparation of the ballot for the voting machines in this and other counties was delayed.

Francis Burke, Pikeville, attorney for Judge Cornett, contended the law is confusing in voting, and that "any ballot that confuses the voters is invalid, and courts have so held." (See Story No. 3, Page 3)

School Bus Wreck Injures 3 Pupils Friday on Mare Cr.

Fourteen pupil-passengers and the driver of a Floyd county school bus almost miraculously escaped serious injury or death Friday afternoon when the bus left the Mare Creek road and turned over a 30-foot embankment.

The bus wrecked when a tire hit a "chug-hole" in the road, near the end of the blacktop, and turned over the hill. Its rate of descent was slowed by bushes.

Three pupils received treatment by a doctor, James Salisbury, director of transportation for the Floyd County Board of Education, said. The driver, the Rev. Robert Mayton, was not injured. The bus is repairable, it was said.

Morgan M. Layne Succumbs At Age 88; Funeral Held Today

Morgan M. Layne, 88, of Ivel, died Sunday at the Methodist hospital at Pikeville.

Born May 18, 1881, at Ivel, he was a son of the late Moses Sanford and Sirena Clark Layne. He was a retired farmer and a member of the Free Will Baptist church. His wife, Mary Stratton Layne, died in 1958.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Goldie Hall and Mrs. Fannie Lou Holder, both of Ivel; three sons, Chester and Kelly Layne, both of Ivel, and Darvin Layne, of Ypsilanti; two sisters, Mrs. Ora Baisden, of Oak Hill, O., and Mrs. Jennie Caldwell, of Ivel. (See Story No. 7, Page 3)

Voting List Purge Delay Is Expected

A move instituted Tuesday by two members of the Floyd County Registration and Purgation Board to direct County Clerk C. "Ollie" Robinson to remove, en masse, approximately 3,000 names from the county's voting lists apparently was on its way to being aborted Wednesday.

W. B. Boyd, one of the members signing the order, said time is lacking in which to do the work, and he indicated the task will have to hold over till January when the board will start afresh on a new 36-day work schedule. Thirty-three of the days assigned by law to the board already have been used, and two other days this year will be required on election day and the day following, leaving only one day free for other work.

At the same time Boyd commended County Clerk Robinson for his "fairness" in working with the board.

Mr. Robinson pointed out that voters whose names were published as recommended for purgation were purged, except those who were reinstated by the purgation board itself or who were transferred to the precincts to which they had moved. He added that his office checks The Floyd County Times weekly for deaths and also receives information

INFO CENTER TO RE-OPEN

Chamber of Commerce, State To Share Cost Of Center Operation

The state-built tourist information center here which was closed July 31 will be reopened, possibly within a month, with the Prestonsburg Chamber of Commerce and the state sharing operating expenses on a matching basis.

Commissioner of Public Information James Host said Tuesday at Frankfort that the Department of Highways, which has occupied the building since it ceased to be used as an information center, will move to new quarters to facilitate the reopening of the center for the purpose for which it was originally designed. Engineers of the Highway Department have occupied a portion of the building most of the year.

Host said his request for the highway offices' removal was acceded to, despite the fact that the Department of Highways lease on the building does not expire until next June.

The Chamber of Commerce will pay half the operating cost of the center which is estimated at $600 a month in winter and around $900 a month during the summer tourist season. Additional chamber memberships and local rental income are figured on to supply the local group's share of the cost.

Operation of the center will be directed by the Chamber of Commerce. It expects to employ a fulltime worker and a part-time assistant during the summer months.

'M-Day' Planned at PCC As Sober Review of War

Vietnam Moratorium Day will be observed next Wednesday at Prestonsburg Community College but not by demonstration such as is expected at colleges over the country.

Instead, the observance will take on a scholarly, reflective tone with a program of speeches and discussion which may last four hours.

The program for the day had not been completed Wednesday, but it was said faculty members and other speakers from this area — perhaps as many as 20 in all — will discuss not only Vietnam but war in general, its causes and effects.

Dr. Henry Campbell, Jr., director of the college, said the program will be entered into with the clear understanding that the voicing of seditious sentiments will close the meeting.

TWO FACING RUM COUNTS

A lifelong resident of Melvin, she was born September 5, 1896, a daughter of Will and Rebecca Caudill Tackett. Her husband, Jacob Fouts, died in 1962. Mrs. Fouts had been a member of the Regular Baptist church for 61 years.

Archer Park '69 Season Most Successful Yet

Archer Park's fourth year, which ended with Labor Day, was its greatest, and the success of the municipal venture in community and area recreation was such that the Park Commission is looking to 1970 for new programs and an even wider interest.

The park swimming pool this year drew more than 10,000 paid admissions, plus the season tickets sold family groups.

Eighteen softball teams attracted crowds almost daily to the park as 12 men's teams and six women's teams engaged in league play. Twelve teams were from Prestonsburg, and six — including one from Knott county — came here for the competition. Both men's and women's leagues were affiliated with the National Softball Association.

The park tennis courts were seldom empty, and park planners

Fire Departments Plan Fire Prevention Week Observance, Saturday

Four fire departments of the area will stage a parade here Saturday to mark Fire Prevention week, Oct. 5-11, and emphasize the importance of firefighters to the ordinary citizen.

Participating in the noontime parade, as now planned, will be units of the fire departments of Prestonsburg, Martin, Allen and Van Lear.

Tommy Blackburn and Frank Vaughan, Jr., assistant fire chiefs here are organizing Saturday's event. They said they also hope to interest Prestonsburg schools in a poster contest depicting the importance of Fire Prevention week.

To New 3-Year Term On Board of Directors At Lexington Meeting

George E. Evans, Jr., of Wayland and Lexington, was re-elected to a three-year term on the board of trustees of Appalachian Regional Hospitals at its annual meeting in Lexington last Thursday.

Evans, who is president of Evans Industries, Inc., which embraces coal mining operations, has been a member of the ARH board since Oct. 6, 1966.

ARH is a non-profit health care system which operates the 60-bed hospital at McDowell and eight other community hospitals in Eastern Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia.

Roy A. Cunningham, a Beckley, W. Va., attorney and businessman, was elected chairman of the ARH board, succeeding Maurice K. Henry, a Middlesboro, Ky., newspaper publisher. Cunningham also is president of the Elk Horn (See Story No. 4, Page 6)

Major Firms Represented At Luncheon

Labor Pool Cited By Archer in Talk Welcoming Visitors

Representatives of 16 of the nation's leading industrial firms saw and heard here and elsewhere in the region Wednesday the merits of Eastern Kentucky as potential industrial sites.

They came here on the next to the last day of a four-day site-seeing tour sponsored in the Ohio River-Northeastern and Central Kentucky areas by the Kentucky Industrial Development Council and the Kentucky Department of Commerce. The Prestonsburg Chamber of Commerce was host to the visiting party at a May Lodge luncheon, Wednesday.

Welcoming visiting industrialists and state department personnel accompanying them, Mayor George P. Archer reminded them: "You don't see where our people are. You have to know the difference between a creek and a hollow. Up every hollow are people, a lot of people, and a lot of them are looking for jobs."

Pointing out that the area has a population of more than 200,000, he told of the experience of Kentucky Appalachian Industries and its request for 47 women who would be willing to train for sewing jobs. "Next morning 647 women were lined up," he added.

Continuing to emphasize the "intelligent, industrious" labor supply available, he cited the experience of the U. S. Shoe Corporation when it advertised for 250 workers. "They processed (See Story No. 6, Page 6)

COUPLE SUES FOR $75,000

Mrs. Shepherd Claims Permanent Injuries In Fight at Sale

A $75,000 damage suit has been filed in the Floyd circuit court as an aftermath of an altercation which took place here, Sept. 27, at a commissioner's sale of the J. H. Nunnery estate holdings to settle the estate.

The action was taken by Aveline Shepherd and her husband, William Shepherd, who named as defendants Sylvia Nunnery Purdy, widow of J. H. Nunnery, and her son, J. H. Nunnery, Jr.

Plaintiffs allege that the mother and son conspired to assault Aveline Shepherd and also claim that, immediately before, and during, the alleged assault one of the defendants advised and directed the other to commit the assault. They claim the attack was unprovoked.

The claim for damages was broken down, as follows: For permanent injuries to Mrs. Shepherd, $40,000; punitive damages, $25,000; for Mr. Shepherd's loss of services, society and consortium of his wife, $10,000.

Potential Wasteland May Become Country Estates

A giant reclamation project now in the planning stage for a Floyd county area destined for strip-mining could convert a potential wasteland into the proverbial "garden-spot" or what Governor Nunn has described as an "Urban city of country estates."

The proposed projects would involve, according to Elmore Grim, director of reclamation for the state, redevelopment over a period of 20 years of Ivy Creek lands yet to be mined. The dream is of a complete community of perhaps 800 homes in the $20,000-$40,000 class, each on a plot of two to three acres of land, with recreational facilities that may include a golf course and country club, three lakes for fishing and limited boating, and an area for horse-back riding and hiking.

The Greer-Ellison Coal Company will strip-mine the Ivy Creek area of about 3,000 acres which is owned by the James Hatcher estate. Phase I of the plan is the mining of coal and site preparation as this mining is being done. The initial development will be on approximately 400 acres. On its success will depend complete development which could extend to a Johns Creek area to be mined by Greer-Ellison — in all, 9,000 acres.

Gene Ball, area resource development specialist, Extension Department, UK, said the Hatcher heirs and the coal company will apparently finance the undertaking, with state and federal government's supplying technical assistance. Jack Trimble, of Pikeville, represents the estate.

Gov. Nunn described the project as forward thinking with an enlightened approach which would overcome two major problems of the eastern Kentucky Appalachian area by making property more usable and easily accessible for development.

The governor said, "If land can be converted from mountain terrain into use for golf courses, residential areas, airports and other endeavors, there is no reason why it cannot be carried on further to develop industrial sites in an area where level land is at a premium."

assistance of state and federal agencies.

Trimble, his consulting engineering firm, Batten and Batten, of Pikeville, and a planning and engineering group from the University of Kentucky College of Business and Economics Division of Developmental Services met recently at the site for a planning session to further develop details of the proposal.

Reclamation Director Grim said officials had visited other states and found nothing in strip mined land reclamation to compare with the Ivy Creek proposed development. He said some coal firms had accomplished limited projects on their own efforts and some private individuals had done single-purpose reclamations but none were so comprehensive as the Floyd project.

Mr. Trimble said his family sought a contract with the Greer-Ellison firm because of its reputation for the preservation of land use after the coal is removed. The firm is currently mining in the Prater Creek section near the rail site and hasn't touched as yet the estimated 10 million tons of coal in the Hatcher estate.

LANDMARK ON WAY OUT. The old Hiram Harris home at the corner of Court and Second here is being razed, its site possibly to become the location of a business structure.

Burks argued the law is unconstitutional because the legislature went beyond the subject matter it could consider in the call for a special session by then-Gov. Bert T. Combs.

Special Judge Combs also had ruled last week that Mann must be on the ballot. Cornett defeated Mann for the Democratic nomination and challenged Mann's right to get on the ballot as an independent by petition.

Cats Defeat Leslie County, Despite Penalty Handicap

The Prestonsburg Blackcats rolled over Leslie county, 38 to 28, last Friday night for their fourth win of the season against one loss. The game was marred by several penalties against the Blackcats, who had three touchdowns called back. Wayne Brown led the offense with five touchdowns. Going into the game, Brown had a total of 40 points and now he ranks as one of the state's top scorers with a total of 70. Mark Miller connected for four touchdowns passes, three to Brown for 45 and 19 yards, and 79 yards on a screen pass. Miller also connected with a 22-yard pass to Doug Prater. Wayne Brown also had a 75-yard touchdown run and another for 28 yards after a fumble recovery.

The Blackcats will entertain the Belfrey Pirates Friday evening. Another game on the local scene will be played Saturday night when Coach Shorty Jamerson and his Wheelwright Trojans will entertain M. C. Napier.

Good Things Happen...

But only when good people work together for a common cause. Is your belief in honest, efficient law enforcement great enough to overcome political and religious barriers? Can you conscientiously say, "I have voted for the good of my county . . . my country and the people of Floyd county?" On November 4th, you can settle this with your conscience and then live with the decision you have made.

Your vote for Eva Collins is a VOTE FOR A DRY CANDIDATE, a vote for one who will not forget her obligation to the people . . . One who will not take lightly the oath of office—to work for all the people all the time.

One male member of the group said his child was adversely affected by basement conditions at the school last year, adding, "All my children will be out of grade school before anything is done."
Superintendent Clark explained that building "is an extremely slow" process, pointing out that the gymnasium at Betsy Layne burned two years ago, and the school is not yet in a new one.
"We still have to go," he said, "to the Division of Buildings and Grounds and to the Department of Finance — I think it is important for you to know building is governed largely by them."
George Lee Shannon, Prestonsburg, architect for the board of education, said a new grade building would be required by state education agencies to cover a minimum of 20,000 square feet and that construction costs would be $400,000.
Questioning that figure, Mayor Grigsby asked if the board would give him a contract on the building for that amount. He insisted the building could be built smaller and cheaper, but Shannon pointed out that the State Department of Education insists on certain specifications, and that these include not only classrooms but also a multi-purpose room.
When the Rev. Vannucci asked if the board would consider a new building, Board Chairman John M. Stumbo appointed Shannon, Clark and Asst. Supt. Wayne Ratliff to a committee to explore the possibilities.
The committee had not reported on its findings as of Wednesday morning.
Later in the meeting, the board authorized the payment to the Usry Company of $21,390 for three relocatable classrooms now in use on the Martin school campus.
It also approved a contract with the Prestonsburg Community College for its use of the Prestonsburg high school gymnasium and with Alice Lloyd College for use of the Wheelwright high gym. In other actions the board:

1. Employed temporary teachers — Edith I. Hopkins to replace Shirley Vanderpool, Carlotta Jones for Alberta Moore and Ruth Worland for Everett Patton. All the replacements were made necessary by illness of teachers.
2. Employed for night basic education work Robert Jones and Mildred Kendrick.
3. Employed Tyrone Martin as substitute teacher; Nawonie Conley as clerk at Prestonsburg high; Edgar Craft, Adrian Hall and Elmer Martin as NYC guidance counselors on Saturdays; John Kidd, as bus driver; Beatrice Bickford, halftime Title I clerk at Auxier; Vicki Watkins, halftime Title I clerk at Harold, and Wilma Jones as fulltime clerk at Wheelwright high.
The board approved the low bid of the Adams Construction Company on blacktopping the driveway at the Clark elementary school. Cost of this project is to be divided three ways between the board, the PTA and citizens.

CARD OF THANKS
I would like to express my sincere gratitude to my many friends and relatives who in any way helped and expressed their sympathy upon the passing of my beloved son, Allan Clyde. I especially want to thank the Rev. W. H. Amburgey and singers for his comforting words and their lovely songs; also, a special thanks to the Floyd Funeral Home for its efficient service.

2,400 applicants in one day," Dr. Archer said.
He quoted Mr. McKenzie, manager of the area's newest industry, American Standard, which is preparing for opening at the Kenwood site near Paintsville. American Standard, he said, asked for applicants to fill 400 positions. Already 10 times the number requested have filed applications, and half of the applicants are natives of this section who have been forced to go to other states for employment.
Mayor J. B. Wells, of Paintsville, presided at the May Lodge luncheon and introduced the speakers.
Commerce Commissioner Paul Grubbs spoke briefly, telling the purpose of the tour and pointing out that already the industrialists have seen 5,000 acres of on-stream industrial sites during their Kentucky tour, with 5,000 additional acres off-stream to be shown to them. He, too, pointed to the great labor pool in the area.
Nick Keyser, director of the Kentucky Industrial Development Council, was introduced and spoke briefly. Mayor Wells urged the visitors to return to Eastern Kentucky for "a deeper look" at its potential.
Industries represented at the luncheon included Armco, Middletown, O.; Bechtel Corp., New York City; Bell Intercontinental Corp., New York City; Columbia Hydrocarbon, New York; Container Wire Products, Jacksonville, Fla.; Converse Rubber Co., Maiden, Mass.; Forum Properties, Rye, N. Y.; General Electric Corp., Schenectady, N. Y.; Hydrocarbon Research, Trenton, N. ### DALE, CHAPLAIN'S ASSISTANT, AWARDED THE BRONZE STAR

Sp/5 James A. Dale, son of Mrs. Othel Dale, of Tram, has been awarded the Bronze Star for heroism in Vietnam.

A chaplain's assistant, Dale distinguished himself during an enemy attack on U. S. forces last July 13. The citation accompanying the Bronze Star with "V" Device says:

"Specialist Dale was accompanying Chaplain Campbell on a visit to Company A, 2d Battalion, 34th Ammor, when that unit came under an intense enemy attack. During the initial encounter, several casualties were sustained. With complete disregard for his own safety, Specialist Dale maneuvered through the bullet-swept area, evacuating the wounded to a safe position where they could receive medical attention. Specialist Dale continued to expose himself to the intense enemy fire until all the wounded had been evacuated. His valorous actions were responsible for saving several lives. Specialist Dale's bravery, aggressiveness, and devotion to duty are in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, the 25th Infantry Division, and the United States Army."

The former Betsy Layne high school student had earlier won the Bronze Star for Achievement and the Bronze Star for Service. His wife, Rhonda C. Dale, resides in Jackson, Mich. with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Damon.

U. S. Officials Overrule Gov. Nunn's Fund Cutoff

Federal anti-poverty officials last week overrode Gov. Louie B. Nunn's veto of funds to a controversial Eastern Kentucky Poverty program that serves four of the nation's poorest counties.

The action was taken by the U. S. Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), a spokesman said, after a two-month investigation "found nothing to substantiate charges" made by the governor against the project serving Breathitt, Wolfe, Owsley and Lee counties.

Nunn responded in a three-sentence statement. He said in the future he will refuse to approve or disapprove any anti-poverty projects in the state.

"I will not be a party to the waste of the taxpayers money," he said, "and at the proper time I plan to present the case of the taxpayers versus OEO."

In overriding Nunn's veto, OEO Director Donald Rumsfeld freed a $177,000 grant to the Middle Kentucky River Area Development Council which administers a $2 million anti-poverty program in an area where two-thirds of the families are classed as poor. The council's headquarters is in Jackson.

The decision represented a major defeat for Nunn's Republican state administration and a clear victory for the legendary Democratic Turner family, which has dominated Breathitt county politics for 40 years.

In vetoing funds for the project in mid-July, Nunn's office charged that Mrs. Treva Turner Howell, an heir-apparent to the Turner political dynasty, had used the poverty program to further her political ends since she was hired to head it last January.

OEO spokesmen said that their investigations — along with another by the U. S. Civil Service Commission — could not substantiate any serious charges of nepotism, conflict of interest, political activities or questionable personnel practices against Mrs. Howell.

However, the spokesman said OEO will require the council to complete a thorough self-evaluation next March, to be followed by an outside investigation by federal and state poverty officials.

Mrs. Howell, who had consistently maintained, "I'm as clean as a hound's tooth," said she was "thrilled and pleased that we have been vindicated."

It's wonderful to journey to "the big waters" for fishing. It's a grand trip and the scenery is outstanding at this time of the year. Also, fishing is good in these major lakes in October and November. But, for the fellow who is unable to go on a prolonged trip, we would suggest that he may have much pleasure in fishing the farm ponds. They are in prime condition in the fall for the black bass and also the bluegill still will be active until the water temperatures plunge way down.

There are more than 50,000 farm ponds of half acre or larger that have been stocked down through the years with the correct balance of bass and bluegill. This formula, that has been acclaimed the best for the production of these two species, has been adopted by the Kentucky fisheries and the wisdom of the choice is evidenced by the fine catches of fish that are made from these backdoor fishing parlors.

Ponds other than those stocked by the Department also are fishable and from them may be taken croppie, bluegill and, of course, bass as well as catfish. From the balanced ponds, however, the only two species available are the bluegill and the black bass but their abundance and vigor make up for the absence of other species.

As of now the black bass are working in the shallow water near the banks, especially in early morning and late afternoon. They apparently are seeking food and perhaps one reason for their nearness to shore is the presence of grasshoppers that make the mistake of trying to hop across the pond. They don't begin to make it and fall into the water near the banks. As they attempt to swim to the shore to extricate themselves from their dilemma they create ripples on the water and that is when Mr. Bass strikes for his breakfast or supper. Having been lured into this area, the black bass is a relatively easy mark for the fisherman armed with surface lures, popping bugs etc. who needs only to walk quietly around the bank, casting alongside the shore. In all probability he'll come away with a nice string of bass. This, of course, is best in the early morning and late afternoon or it may be successfully practiced in mid-day when the sky is overcast.

For the fellow who likes to absorb the warm October sunshine in midday he may take good catches of black bass from these ponds. He'll use a different lure, however, and one of the deadliest would be the artificial nightcrawler which many fishermen now say catch 50 per cent of all bass harvested, statewide.

By working the plastic worm along the bottom ever so slowly, allowing several seconds to pass between each turn of the reel, he'll more than apt hang into aunker.

The bigger bass are usually found in the deep sections of the lake and the nightcrawler will move much like a live worm or snake along the bottom. Fishermen should not be too anxious to hit back when he feels the first touch of the bass to the nightcrawler. More bass are lost by quick action than by a slow response. After the bass first begins to nibble the worm, the line should be allowed to go limp. The bass will, in all probability, mouth the bait for a few seconds or maybe as much as a minute, then will take off in a great hurry. He should be allowed to run 30 or 40 feet or even further before setting the hook with a vicious jerk. Then the battle is on.

Other type lures are productive in farm ponds and those many acres of handy water will offer good fishing for a great number of fishermen.

Apply Lime in Fall For Best Results

Lexington, Ky.—Fall is the ideal time to apply ground limestone on acid soils. Equipment used in spreading limestones is heavy and the fall months give some period when the soil is firm enough to support the machinery's weight.

If the spreading of lime is delayed until spring it may be planting time before the soil is dry dry enough to support the heavy trucks. Heavy equipment moving over the field will compact the soil. Freezing and thawing during the winter months will reduce the damage from compacting.

The application of ground limestone is essential for high crop yields on much of the soil in Kentucky. However there are areas where limestone should not be applied since the soil is not acid. This may be due to past liming practices or parent material's from which the soil was derived. Test results of a representative soil sample should serve as a guide in determining the liming need.

Harold Miller, Extension Specialist in Soils at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, recommends the early application of lime before winter weather hardens the ground.

Limestone reacts slowly to soil, and if applied in the fall it will have the advantage of correcting soil acidity through the winter months.

With heavier fertilization and higher crop yields soil acidity is becoming more of a problem in crop production.

Assembly To Be Asked For 200 More Troopers

The Department of Public Safety plans to ask the 1970 General Assembly for 200 additional state troopers to be recruited over the next biennium. Public Safety Commissioner William O. Newman asked last week for the support of the Legislature's Interim Committee on Highways and Traffic Safety.

The legislative committee generally endorsed the idea but delayed taking official action. Committee vice-chairman John O. Hardin, III, (D-Hopkinsville) wanted to put the committee on record as recommending to the governor that he include the item in his 1970-72 budget "provided it can be done without a tax increase."

There is now only one trooper for every 1,300 miles of state road, according to Commissioner Newman. The commissioner cited a "dire need" for the additional enforcement officers, most of whom would go "on the road." He estimated the cost at $1.1 million for each 100 troopers.

Sen. Walter (Doc) Huddleston (D-Elizabethtown) suggested that the plan would do more good than the "so called vehicle inspection law" would do in 100 years. However, Huddleston agreed with several other members of the committee that the proposal should await any action until other revenue and budget demands are known.

In other action, the committee approved two of the Public Safety Department's legislative proposals and took six others under consideration for action at its next meeting.

The approved proposals would require all enforcement officers in Kentucky to submit copies of accident reports to the department, and would require all vehicles to have stop lights or brake lights.

A proposal to require all holders of drivers' licenses to be re-examined every four years has not been completed, according to department spokesmen.

A subcommittee on the Merit System met prior to the full committee meeting to hear details of a Highway Department move to include a total of 45 engineers and division directors under the state's merit system.

Some members of the committee have questioned the proposal because division directors usually are considered to be policy-making officials. The state's merit system excludes from coverage persons in policy-making positions.

The Legislature's Interim Committee on Agriculture and Natural Resources has been told that new Department of Agriculture meat inspection regulations will halt several fraudulent meat labeling practices.

STATE DAMS GET FUNDS

$3,380,000 Approved For Knott Reservoir By House Committee

In addition to the first construction funds appropriated last week for the Martin flood control project, the House Appropriations Committee approved $10,744,000 for construction of Kentucky reservoirs and $1,301,000 for planning.

Kentucky construction projects include: Carr Fork Reservoir, $3,380,000; Cave Run Reservoir, $3,800,000; Frankfort and North Frankfort area, $824,000; and Laurel River Reservoir, $2,740,000.

Other planning projects include: Taylorsville Reservoir, $236,000; Yatesville Reservoir, $181,000; Booneville Reservoir, $230,000; Dayton, $89,000; Eagle Creek Reservoir, $178,000; Kehoe Reservoir, $150,000; and Paintsville Reservoir, $157,000.

Kentucky area lock and dam projects include lock and dam 52, near Paducah, $1,684,000.

The funds, part of a $4.5 million public-works package, will be used both by the Army Engineers and the Reclamation Bureau.

TIDITS of KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

By GORDON WILSON, Ph. D.

"LORE"

Often I am asked to define "lore." It is not an easy word to define, for it has many sides, many emotional hookups, many social positions. Scientists usually regard lore as interesting but hardly worthy of serious study or regard. That illustrates one idea of lore: something that is not scientific, not provable, not "so."

But usually the scientist, even, likes to know what so-called knowledge there is about anything, even the most absurd and primitive.

Some scholars like to think of lore as all the knowledge about a certain "literature" as the whole of things written and not merely the portion that most people call "mere literature." In my sideline of ornithology there are tons of things known and adequately proved. Scholars through ages of study have established a body of facts that are worthy of belief. If the scientists have worked with their hearts in their tasks, they have found very fascinating facts; it is not necessary to invent anything to make birds interesting and delightful to study. But a cold-blooded person, who probably does not care for the bird out of doors, can present the facts about birds in such a way as to make the creatures little more than lifeless rocks or clods. The real naturalist, who knows something about many kinds of living things and their backgrounds, can take the same facts and, without adding a single new one, show the bird as a very live thing, not a mere biological specimen.

In my early days of reading about folklore I ran into a great many writers and even some of them in the flesh who had studied folklore as if human beings were mere facts and had no flesh-and-blood reality. Even the scholars who felt that people can be real failed to see more than a small section of the race. He too often tabulated the queer people, not the average folkishness of most of us. In some of these early years I was repulsed by what was called folklore and seriously doubted whether it was a subject to challenge serious study if these results were all that could be gained by watching somewhat mechanically, human beings.

But, I am glad to say, lore about the folk came to have new meaning as I rather seriously started out to learn more and to observe for myself. Instead of finding folklore only in strange places, among abnormal or subnormal people, I began to find it everywhere, often so much of it that I myself could hardly believe it was all there. We have lots of accurate observations about ourselves and our kind, and these observations help us to develop formal sides of our learning and our inventions. But this alone would not make the study very alluring to most of us. What is there that cannot be reduced to rules? How much individuality do people have? How can you account for the oddities of personality, of folkishness?

In my collecting I made no effort to separate the beliefs that have some sensible basis in science from the merest superstition. Most folkish people do not make any difference; why should I? Weather signs, for example, often are valid in even scientific circles; but the same fellow who follows them will plant his crops by some sign that no modern-day scientist would accept. In folk medicine the same is true; a tonic of herbs, with the basic corn liquor, may have many merits, say some of my pharmacist friends; but the peeling of the bark down or up to get proper results must be banished from serious belief. Lore accepts both for what they are worth or what they seemed to be worth to the people who used them. If a father split a small sapling and spread the two sides far enough apart to pass his asthmatic child through, and if the asthma quit troubling the youngster when the bark grew back over the split parts, so what? Would you doubt if you were the father of the child? Lore would answer that question.

W. S. C. S. MEETS

The October meeting of the Maytown W. S. C. S. was held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Patrick last Thursday evening. Mrs. Patrick was also the program leader that the prophetic approach is as Agent for Change." She showed that the prophetic approach is an essential in today's world as it was in Bible days, and some of the methods that today's prophets use were explored. Others on the program were Mosalette Patton, Irma Tallent, Donna Gray, Karen Perkins and Mary Alice Herald. Mrs. Patrick and Mrs. Bradas May honored the group by singing a duet, "Ivory Palaces." Violet Allen presided over the business meeting. Elizabeth S. Allen put her birthday money in the bank and Bradas May, Elsie Patrick and Irma Tallent their anniversary. Mrs. Patrick handed out self-denial envelopes for the Week of Prayer, and the program was discussed. Karen Perkins will be the hostess for the November meeting. At the close of the business meeting, Mrs. Patrick presented the outgoing president, Elizabeth Allen, a gift from the W. S. C. S. in appreciation of her two years' work. Refreshments were served to Mesdames George W. Allen, James Allen, Luna Halbert, Edgar Herald, Henry L. May, George A. Patton, Jones Tallent, George Grey, Karen Perkins and Miss Connie Gray.

Established in 1966 in recognition of the need for a coordinated approach to the education and training of health professionals, the School of Allied Health Professions at the University of Kentucky is situated with the Colleges of Medicine, Dentistry, and Pharmacy, and the University Hospital.

By DONALD E. WILDMON

TOPIC: FAILURE

Failure. Millions are afraid of it. It haunts many down and leaves them in broken pieces. Because of the dread of it many worthwhile ventures are never undertaken. It leaves a social stigma matched by few other things. And certainly a failure is rejected and relegated to a lower place in our society. What's wrong with failure? Why is it that so many fear it? Why is it that it has such a hold upon us?

I guess that the reason many folks fear failure is that they have never learned that failure need not be fatal nor even final. One of the greatest men who ever served this country was a failure. Failing in business, he turned to law and was nominated as a candidate for the legislature of his state. His enemies made fun of him. He was so poor that in making his campaign speeches he wore a mixed jean coat so short that he could not sit down on it, flax and tow-linen trousers, straw hat, and pot-metal boots. He read and slept on the counter of the store where he worked. He had nothing in the world except his character and friends. He had to borrow money to buy a suit of clothes to make a respectable appearance in the legislature after being elected, and he walked one hundred miles to take his seat. His name was Abraham Lincoln.

What's wrong with failing? By whose standards do we judge failures? Could it be that some failures "heard the sound of a different drummer" and thus are in step and we out? It was said that the Nazarene Carpenter was a failure, you know. They passed Him by as He hung on the cross and made fun of Him. He who was to save the world couldn't even save Himself! He was to institute a Kingdom. He said, but the only kingdom that He had was made up of a bunch of rag-tag, hob-bob, run-of-the-mill cowards who ran out on Him. So they left Him that day on the cross against a darkened sky outside Jerusalem. That was the end of Him, they thought. Even His closest friends considered His cause a failure. They went back to their old jobs. But did He fail?

We had better be careful how we judge failures. For it could very well be that history will record our "failures" as men who most succeeded.

Again, what is wrong with failing if a man dreams a great dream, sets out in search of it, gives it his best, but doesn't quite reach it, what's wrong with that? Who is the failure, the man who gives his best to the best there is in him or the man who likes security so well he is afraid to try? I'm going to try a lot of things in my life if I live long enough. The challenge will be great and the odds will be greater in most of them. The chances are that in some of them I will fail. But that will not stop me from trying. I have an idea that He will not judge me by how high I rise but by how hard I try. And if, after giving my best, I do not make it, I will not have failed.

Kentucky Schools Studied for Possible Harmful Radiation

A recent Public Health Service survey has shown that several types of electronic teaching aids in high schools and colleges are being improperly handled, causing unnecessary emissions of harmful X-rays. State radiation physicists are now visiting Kentucky schools to find and correct any such misuse.

According to Radiological Health Program assistant director Charles Hardin, most of these teaching devices are being used in science and chemistry classes to teach basic principles of atoms and radiation. The physicists suspect that many are outdated, defective or lacking the proper shielding. Also a possibility is that some instructors are not aware of the dangers these devices present and are not fully trained to operate them safely.

The Radiological Health Program plans to find all radiation-emitting devices in Kentucky schools, register them, and instruct teachers to use them properly, see that necessary repairs are made and that out-dated devices are replaced with safer, more modern equipment.

Gibson Announces Plans To Organize P'burg Hi Jets Club

William E. Gibson, state director and chairman of the Guidance Committee for the Big Sandy Chapter, Kentucky Society of Professional Engineers, announced this week that a Junior Engineering Technical Society (Jets Club) will be organized at Prestonsburg high school, with the initial meeting scheduled for 9:30 a.m. this morning, (Thursday).

One of the purposes of the Jets is to familiarize high school students of the many opportunities available in an engineering career. This is accomplished by having actual practicing engineers in the community talk to the student members about their chosen field in the profession. The members are shown movies on engineering related topics and taken on inspection tours of engineering projects.

In recent years spot checks at high school Career Days have shown that the average high school senior knows of five or less of the engineering fields and only vaguely of the duties in two of these fields. There are in excess of 50 different types of engineering curriculum, being taught in the United States, and some of these can be broken down into as many as seven different branches or options.

The Big Sandy Chapter of KSPE is currently sponsoring Jets Clubs at Belfry and Pikeville high schools. David Hensley, principal at Prestonsburg high school, has not yet decided on the sponsor here. Ted Nairn will be engineering adviser for the Prestonsburg club.

Additional clubs are planned in the Big Sandy area, which includes Morgan, Magoffin, Johnson, Floyd, Martin and Pike counties. Those desiring a Jets Club at their schools should contact William E. Gibson, professional engineer, Box 22, Stone, Ky. 41567.

Mrs. Higginbotham Has Straight A's at Indiana

Mrs. Brenda C. Higginbotham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Woodrow Crager, of Prestonsburg, was among 553 Indiana University students on the Bloomington campus who made straight A's in academic subjects the second semester of 1968-69.

The all-A students, along with those making the Dean's List and those being tapped for membership in scholastic honor societies, will be honored May 6 at the University's traditional Founders Day ceremony.

HICKORIES AND HOW TO KNOW THEM

THE SHAGBARK HICKORY. For me this one is the king of the hickories, even though it is untidy in appearance. It is the easiest of all hickories to know. Its bark, peeling off in long, thin strips, readily identifies this tree. The bark usually comes loose at the ends and clings to the trunk at the middle, but a quick jerk with the hands will bring it off. Old woodsmen used the bark to kindle fires, as it burns well and makes good heat. Even when the woods are damp, a fire can be started with the outer dry bark of the shagbark. This hickory is also called the scaly-bark hickory and the little shellbark, to distinguish it from its close relative, the big shellbark.

All the hickories have compound leaves, and these are a big help in summer to identify the different hickories. The leaves of the shagbark are large and have five leaflets, with the three end ones much larger than the two at the rear. The leaves have fine teeth and a rank odor when crushed. They turn to bright gold in the fall.

The shagbark has many fine qualities and few faults, its chief one being its untidy habit of shedding its outer bark and leaving it to cling to the trunk, giving the tree a ragged look. The inner bark is usually smooth and grayish in color. The shagbark is the favorite hickory of squirrels, as it has the sweetest nuts of all. These are highly nutritious and soon fatten up the squirrels. The nuts are rich in protein, fats and carbohydrates. They make a fine winter store for cracking and get sweeter as they dry out more.

The nuts are four-angled and soon fall out of the loosely fitting hulls. The shagbark prefers rich coves and hillsides with fertile soil; it will grow higher on the mountains than its relative. The big shellbark grows in rich bottom lands along rivers and creeks. The shagbark grows tall and sturdy, often towering over all the lesser trees in its vicinity. Its wood is tough, hard, strong and has been used since pioneer times for wagon spokes and rims and all kinds of handles for tools. The bark and wood of shagbark are used to produce the famous "hickory smoked hams" of Kentucky, and the bark mixed with corn-cobs used for the smoke gives the hams a rich, golden color and imparts a flavor that hits the right spot, especially when the ham is fried in its own rich, red gravy.

The winter buds of the shagbark are formed on the ends and sides of the twigs and are a rich, cream color with thick scales to protect them against the cold. Just why the shagbark hickory sheds its outer bark in long, thin strips, sometimes ten feet long, is one of the unsolved mysteries of nature. The only other trees with similar habits are the big shellbark and the sycamore, but the big shellbark usually never sheds its bark in long strips like the shagbark; the bark just sloughs off the trunk in larger sections.

THE BITTERNUT HICKORY. This is also a widely distributed hickory and it is noted for its small, thin-shelled nuts, which have bitter kernels. I have seen boys crush the thin shells with their teeth but the bitter meat inside was scarcely sufficient reward for all their labor. Apparently squirrels do not mind the bitter taste, and other animals, such as hogs and bears, also delight in eating them. The bittersnut can be told easily in summer by its long, slender compound leaf with from 9 to 11 sharp-pointed leaflets. In winter it can be identified by its beautiful sulphur yellow buds, which tend a touch of splendor to drab winter woods. This hickory is also called "red hickory," as its wood is reddish-brown. The bark is granite-gray and tinged with yellow; it is smoother than the bark of other hickories.

THE PIGNUT HICKORY. This one is called the "broom hickory" and the "black hickory," and it is common throughout the Tri-State region. It has leaves almost precisely like those of the shagbark, each leaf consisting of 5 leaflets, with the three end ones much larger than the other two. Another feature is the pear-shaped nuts, which are small but have a sweet, edible kernel. This hickory grows in rich, dry soils of ridges and hillsides and is found throughout West Virginia, except in the spruce forests. The pioneers used its smaller trunks for making brooms and mops.

THE MOCKERNUT HICKORY. This hickory is also called the "white hickory" as its wood is very white and was the choice wood of the old settlers for making their ax and mattock handles. It was once called "the ax handle hickory." Its leaves are noted for having seven leaflets (rarely nine) and the three end leaflets are larger than the four rear ones, and are usually of the same size. The reason the tree is called "mockernut," the shell is very thick and too large for the kernel, which is sweet and edible. Next to the shagbark, the nuts of the mockernut hickory were most highly prized by the Indians. The bark is dark gray, deeply furrowed, and the winter buds are egg-shaped and covered with hairy scales. The leaves of this hickory more than all others, are noted for the brilliance and rich color of the foliage in autumn; the leaves turn to a flaming yellow which actually seems to light up the forest.

WHILE ON THE SCALES the carriers are checked for proper cab cards and functional safety equipment. Here inspector James Keene looks over a trucker's card and bills of lading as Motor Transportation Commissioner Alex McIntyre looks on.

Watchdogs of the DMT!

Responsibility for regulation on motor vehicles on Commonwealth highways is part of the job of the Kentucky Department of Motor Transportation. This includes manning the familiar scales at "weigh stations" along interstate highways.

The Department periodically holds "road-blocks" at unannounced intervals to check "for-hire" and private carriers for over-weight, safety and cab-card violations. These are required for all carriers with three or more axles to show that they have registered for use-tax purposes.

SOME DON'T STOP but they are quickly apprehended by DMT patrol inspectors in cars standing by at the weigh station. Added to the fine for any infraction of motor vehicle regulations is a stiff penalty for failure to stop for the scales.

Governor Lists His Tax Cut Proposals

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 3—Gov. Louie B. Nunn this week announced tax cut proposals which over a two-year period, he said, will provide $20 million in tax relief for the needy, the sick, the blind and the elderly.

His program, scheduled for presentation to the legislature in January, includes:

Exemption of prescription medicine from the state tax, including the tax passed in 1960 as well as the increase passed by the 1968 General Assembly.

Elimination of the five per cent tax on transfer of autos within a family.

Raising the maximum standard income tax reductions. This would exempt some 113,000 Kentuckians from all state income liability.

Doubling the present $20 tax credit for persons over 65 and the blind under 65; and doubling the $40 credit for the blind over 65.

Pointing out that only the legislature "can establish, raise or reduce taxes," Governor Nunn urged all candidates to make known their positions on his proposals as soon as possible so that "the voters may be in a better position to choose who shall come to Frankfort in January for what will in my estimation be one of the most important legislative sessions in the history of the Commonwealth."

ABSENTEE DEADLINE
The deadline to apply to your county clerk for an absentee ballot to vote in the Nov. 4 election is Thursday, Oct. 16.

Any qualified voter who will be away from his home county on election day is eligible. All applications for absentee ballots must be notarized.

The ballot you vote also must be notarized and returned by mail to the county clerk so he will receive it by the time the polls close at 6 p.m., local time, on election day.

TIME TO CHANGE
Daylight time will give way to standard time for another six months at 2 a.m. on Sunday, Oct. 26, so turn your timepieces back one hour before you retire on Saturday if you want to be "on time" when you arise Sunday.

Kentucky is divided into two time zones, Eastern and Central. The dividing line zigzags south-eastward from the western boundary of Meade county.

On Eastern Standard Time will be all counties east of and including Meade, Hardin, LaRue, Taylor, Casey, Pulaski and McCreary.

On Central Standard Time will be all counties west of and including Breckinridge, Grayson, Hart, Green, Adair, Russell and Wayne.

TRANSPLANT AUTHORIZED
The Kentucky Court of Appeals, in a 4 to 3 decision, authorized the transplant of a kidney from a mentally retarded patient to his seriously ill brother.

The Franklin county and Franklin circuit courts earlier had ruled the operation would be mutually beneficial to Jerry Struck, the 26-year-old patient at Frankfort State Hospital and School and his married brother, Tom, a 28-year-old railroad employee and part-time University of Cincinnati student, of whom Jerry is very fond.

FORCE, IF NECESSARY

Governor Nunn's first step in the event of campus disturbances in Kentucky would be to reason with the students causing them, he told some 60 student journalists at a news conference held for them in Lexington.

"But if the students occupied a building to the point that it cannot be used for the purpose for which it was constructed," he continued, "we would use force to evict the students."

In answering other questions, including one on sex education, the Governor said this should be the responsibility of parents and not educators.

FLOYD 4-H ACHIEVEMENTS REVIEWED WITH NATIONAL OBSERVANCE SET, OCT. 5-11

will be observed by some 1,700 4-H members, leaders, parents and friends of 4-H throughout Floyd county, reports Jack Friar.

Special recognition and events are planned around the state to salute the Head, Heart, Hands and Health youth. A 4-H enrollment drive also is planned in this county.

Floyd county 4-H'ers are among more than 3 million boys and girls in the U. S. who benefit from work projects in which they learn something new or how to do something better. The most popular projects in Floyd county are foods, clothing, grooming, electric, and woodworking.

National 4-H Week also gives local volunteer 4-H leaders a pat on the back for their dedicated service. Their skills and knowledge cover a wide range. The County Extension 4-H staff trains and assists local leaders.

Approximately 150 men and women leaders in the county meet regularly with the 4-H'ers to help guide their endeavors toward satisfactory completion, Friar said.

The major achievement of 4-H Clubs in Floyd county last year included:

1. Eleven area 4-H record champions;
  2. One state record champion;
  3. 300 club members participating in county Talent Show;
  4. More than 1,000 members participating in community and county 4-H rallies;
  5. 9 area demonstration champions;
  6. 106 members attending 4-H camps this summer;
  7. 36 members participating in state 4-H contest or the State Fair.
  8. First and second place in National 4-H Week, October 5-11, state in Senior Poultry Judging;
  9. Second, third, and fourth place in state in junior poultry judging;
  10. Placed seventh in state in clothing judging, only 14 points below state champion.
- "Opportunity for all" is the theme of 1969 National 4-H Week, and that includes parents, as well. Without encouragement and support from mother and dad, the youngsters' 4-H experience would definitely be limited, he added.

Any boy or girl between 9 and 19 years of age who wants to join 4-H, and adults who would like to volunteer as leaders are invited to contact the County Extension Office at Post Office building in Prestonsburg.

To Jog or Not To Jog Discussed by Doctors

Jogging is not the answer to better health for all Americans, says Dr. Harry J. Johnson. In fact, it can have serious consequences ranging from painful backs and heel bruises to heart attacks and sudden death.

Dr. Johnson is chairman of the medical board of the Life Extension Institute, New York, the oldest and largest health examination in the country.

Those who are already fit and stick with it will probably benefit from jogging, according to Dr. Johnson, but for others older and not so fit there is evidence of the fatal consequences of jogging. Evidence has shown up in such different parts of the country as Orange county, Calif., Orlando, Fla., Washington, D. C. and Cleveland, Ohio.

Dr. Johnson does not believe these are isolated instances. "In my opinion," he said, "there are many more deaths which do not show up in any records. This is because medical statistics on causes of death lump 'jogging deaths' under cardiac failure.

The old adage that you must walk before you run tells the story, he said. A brisk walk speeds up the pulse, strengthens the heart and lungs and legs. This is basic for everyone. People can walk at any time, without special equipment, special clothing, city or country, with practically no medical risk. If the persuasive campaigns devoted to jogging concentrated instead on motivating people to walk, Dr. Johnson believes, then the whole country might get back into better shape.
