Transfer Procedure From College Here To U.K. Is Outlined

Many freshmen and sophomores at Prestonsburg Community College will be transferring to the University of Kentucky, next fall. A procedure has been developed to make the transition to the Lexington campus as simple and easy as possible.

Any student transferring to the Lexington campus for the 1970 fall semester should follow these steps:

1. Obtain an admissions packet from the Prestonsburg Community College admissions office.

2. The forms must be completed and returned to the admissions office. Do not mail the admissions packet to the University of Kentucky.

3. The housing application form should be completed and mailed with the required housing deposit directly to the University Housing Office, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Kentucky 40506.

4. Students intending to transfer will receive an assignment to go to Lexington for the advising conference and early registration, for the 1970 fall semester. The confirmation of this date assignment must be returned to the advising conference office immediately.

5. Students should report to Lexington on the assigned date for the advising conference and early registration. Students should take a copy of their spring semester grade reports to insure more effective counseling. Students intending to transfer to the University of Kentucky must apply by June 15. Early application means earlier acceptance. Students desiring further information should contact Robert R. Allen, Academic Dean, Prestonsburg Community College.

New KEA Head Calls for Plan To Eliminate 'Constant Begging'; Auxier Elected Vice-President

Special to The Times

LOUISVILLE, KY.—The new president of the Kentucky Education Association (KEA) has challenged "the citizenry of our state and the political hopefuls" to "give us a plan that will eliminate this constant begging for educating our young."

"I challenge them to show us how much they value the education of our young," Mrs. Ruth Reeves of Ashland said in stepping into the presidency of KEA during the annual April convention here.

Mrs. Reeves, fourth-grade teacher at Ashland's Crabbe elementary school, told KEA members that out of the "dark days we have experienced and will be experiencing" could come a great breakthrough in education.

"Number one in my book," she said, "is the dream that some political aspirant may be wise enough to come up with a plan for adequate financing of the elementary and secondary schools to be built into the tax structure so that educators can get on with the business of educating the young of our state."

"Such a plan should provide a fair chance at giving every child in Kentucky a chance to acquire a deep burning desire to learn from his very first day's experience with school until he is prepared to take his place in society."

Mrs. Reeves was KEA president-elect last year. She is a former president of the KEA Department (now Association) of Classroom Teachers and the Ashland Education Association.

As KEA president Mrs. Reeves succeeds Dr. Kenneth Estes of Bowling Green, director of the Teacher Corps at Western Kentucky University. He remains on the KEA board of directors for a one-year term.

Other new KEA officers are Claude Purvis, of Louisville, president-elect, and Michael Auxier, of Emma, vice-president. They were elected in balloting by members of the KEA Delegate Assembly.

Auxier, mathematics and science teacher at Betsy Layne high school, recently ended a term as president of the Floyd County Education Association, and is a past president of the Upper Big Sandy Council of Mathematics Teachers.

The KEA Delegate Assembly has asked the board of directors to begin immediately a study "leading to the identification of a 10-year legislative program with the goals, objectives, and implementation of the program broken into two-year segments" and aimed toward the next five legislative sessions.

Recommendations set forth in "Beyond the Minimum," a study published in 1967 by the KEA Committee for the Study of the Foundation Program, will be the starting point for the new study.

Delegates stipulated that classroom teachers from each of KEA's 11 district associations should be involved in the process and that "the program, when determined, should be taken to the public, and an all-out campaign instituted to enlist the support of parents and legislators."

Further, said the delegates, "a full-time public relations program should be instituted, and we call upon all teachers to expend as much energy in developing and promoting this program as was spent during the recent work stoppage."

In other action at KEA's annual convention here, delegates:

1. Defeated a resolution to establish a special task force to "study, plan, and make recommendations for the withholding of services for the 1970-71 school year" because a "constructive lockout" has resulted from "the failure of the General Assembly and the Governor to provide adequately for the schools in keeping with the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Kentucky."

Rodney VanZandt, executive director of the Louisville Education Association, told delegates that while some teachers might want to strike in the fall it would be bad strategy "to tell the whole world about it" now. Also, said VanZandt, conditions could change by then and additional funds for salaries, improvements in instructional programs, and fringe benefits might become available.

2. Voted to set up a statewide committee to investigate activities of the Kentucky High School Athletic Association and the election of KHSAA delegates and board-of-control members, with a report of findings to be made to the KEA board of directors in March, 1971. KEA has been at odds with KHSAA because it ruled during KEA's statewide work stoppage that schools missing district basketball games could be suspended from competition up to one year. In their convention resolution KEA delegates reminded superintendents, principals, and coaches that coaches have a primary responsibility as teachers and that no activity should take precedence over the academic program.

3. Urged local education associations to begin negotiating with local boards of education, despite the absence of a state negotiation law which KEA will continue to seek.

4. Censured Governor Louie B. Nunn, Lieutenant Governor Wendell Ford, the Kentucky School Boards Association and especially its leadership, State Superintendent of Public Instruction Wendell Butler "and other superintendents who were coercive to teachers," and "those members of the Kentucky General Assembly who refused to even consider ways and means of improving educational opportunities, in the face of overwhelming evidence of the needs that exist and the support of parents and the general public." The censure resolution cited actions taken before, during, and after KEA's statewide work stoppage from February 23 through March 2.

5. Asked that KEA "publicize fully and adequately the glaring differences between the share of the education dollar given higher education in Kentucky and that given the public schools."

6. Recommended that the foundation program law be amended to provide for the establishment of a statewide kindergarten program.

7. Commended the KEA board of directors for its prompt action in implementing the Delegate Assembly's request for a national sanctions investigation and called upon all state and local political and educational leaders to cooperate in any investigative activities.

8. Called for greater minority group representation on future KEA convention programs.

9. Directed that votes of KEA board members on each issue before them be recorded and printed in the earliest KEA publication that goes to all members.

10. Pledged to work for the repeal of House Bill 365, which requires the State Board of Education to certify without further educational requirements teachers, supervisors, and administrators of non-tax-supported schools who have attended or received a bachelor's degree from accredited colleges or universities.

In the five years ending with 1969, the Bell System increased its long distance telephone network from 120 million to 250 million circuit miles.

What Is the Correct Date?

Wonder if the Kentucky Department of Highways still has July 1 as the target date for awarding a contract on new US 23 from the Mountain Parkway outside Prestonsburg to Allen?
If the date hasn't been changed, somebody is kidding himself as well as the public. Not an inch of right-of-way for this sector of the highway has been purchased, and if any attempt has been made to buy any the action is one of the best-kept secrets of the year.
This US 23 is a rara avis in the matter of highways, in that its builders have done a weird bit of hopscotching to start building from the "other" end and not from the end of the existing US 23 in this county.
Construction work has been begun in Pike county. Rights-of-way are being bought from Pike county downriver into Floyd toward Allen. Meanwhile, silence shrouds plans for the Prestonsburg-to-Allen sector.
Little wonder that we wonder.

JOHNNY CASH, JUNALUSKA ON ETV

LEXINGTON, KY.—He doesn't have the gravel-textured voice of Johnny Cash or the macabre expressions of Jack Palance, but Arthur S. Junaluska will never suffer an identity crisis.
That's because Junaluska, who appears with Cash and Palance at 8:30 p.m. April 30 on the Kentucky Educational Television network in the NET Playhouse production, "The Trail of Tears," is the world's only professional full-blooded Cherokee Indian actor.
For that matter, he's also the only professional full-blooded Cherokee playwright, producer, director, composer and choreographer. Junaluska is a descendant of two great chiefs of the Cherokee Nation.
"The Trail of Tears," in fact, is about that episode in American history, when the U. S. government turned its back while the State of Georgia stripped the Cherokees of their legal rights, confiscated their farms, and eventually forced their migration to the Oklahoma Territory.
The play dramatizes these events, with Junaluska in the role of an influential Cherokee tribesman who unwittingly helps precipitate a civil war among his people. Cash, who is part Cherokee, makes his dramatic debut in the role of Chief John Ross, and Palance plays President Jackson.

In Memoriam

In memory of my dear husband, Bill Gray:
An angel came on the third day of May
And took you far away;
God knew your illness and what was best,
He took you Home to be at rest.
We all loved you so dear,
We will meet you some day,
Without any fear.
We sit in quiet alone—
In our heart there comes a longing
If only you could come home.
How we miss your welcome footsteps,
Of the one we love so dear.
Often we listen for your coming,
Fully sure that you are near.
Life has never been the same
Since you are gone,
But not forgotten, no matter how long.
We will always think of you
Safe above the swirling water
You have crossed;
The earth has lost a precious Pearl
But Heaven has gained a star.
If all the world was ours to give,
We would give it, yes, and even more
To see the face of the one we love
And have you back once more.

Sadly missed by your wife, Josephine Gray, and Sons, Galloway Gray and Bill Gray, Jr.

Has Volkswagen finally flipped?

No, we haven't flipped. We've just gone ahead and turned out a Beetle that looks like the fun car it really is.

You see, the normal, everyday Beetle is somewhat deceptive. Underneath that mild-mannered appearance lurks a 4-on-the-floor gearshift, synchromesh transmission, 4-wheel independent suspension, and a 14.3-to-1 steering ratio.

That, as any Beetle owner will tell you, is a fun car to drive.

But there's still that mild-mannered appearance.

So enter the Formula Vee Beetle. Complete with racing stripes. Hood scoop.

Mag wheels. Radial tires. Fanfare horns. Taper tip exhaust pipes.

On the inside, a racing type steering wheel. Sports gearshift lever. Wood grained dash.

How about that?

Then there are some extras we can put in. Like a tachometer, an exhaust extractor, rallye shocks and other goodies. To turn the Beetle on in your particular style.

Come see the Formula Vee Beetle. It's as much fun to look at as it is to drive.

The Formula Vee Beetle.

Hmm.

Maybe we have flipped, after all.

DANDELIONS ON THE LAWN

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD
Staff Writer, UK College of Agriculture

LEXINGTON, KY.—Because of the toothlike lobes on its leaves, the ubiquitous and terribly efficient dandelion derives its name from a corruption of French "dent-de-lion" which means lion's tooth.

It goes by other names too—names ranging from terse epithets of irritated lawnmakers to more quaint titles like blowball, cankerwort, fortune-teller weed, yellow gowan, horse gowan, and Irish daisy.

But by whatever name and to most homeowners, this tenacious and hardy European import with yellow flowers and dark green rosettes now preempting many lawns across the United States, is a bane to their existence.

There is a host of weedkillers on the market that will settle the dandelion's hash, but as anyone who has ever attempted to grow a pretty lawn will attest, it will ultimately come back. Through the use of herbicides and diggers, it can be controlled, but not banished entirely from the premises.

Although often a pest, the dandelion is not all bad. In spring dandelion greens, when blanched, chilled, and served up with dressing, make tasty salads. When fried in butter, the blossoms taste like mushrooms. A tea made from the roots, according to herb doctors, makes an excellent spring tonic and a blood purifier. Then, according to legend, juice pressed from the golden yellow flowers, can be turned into an exhilarating liquid which has been called "summer caught and stoppered in a bottle." This product of home fermentation was once a staple of Americana and still conjured up memories of shaded parlors and pretty girls in crinoline.

The dandelion has other virtues too. When roasted and ground, its roots make a fair substitute for coffee. Also the dried roots can be sold to some herb companies for manufacture into an important drug called "Taraxacum."

But even with all this, there are still other useful things for which the dandelion can be used. For instance, if a fresh blossom is held under a person's chin and a reflection is seen on his skin, it is a sure indication that he likes butter. Then time can be told by the number of puffs required to blow away the down of matured flower heads.

This, of course, is folklore which also holds that when the dandelion fails to open its flower at morning, or when down flies off its stalk when there is no wind, it will surely rain within 24 hours. Other beliefs are that a dandelion gathered on St. John's (Midsummer) Eve and carried in the shirt pocket will ward off witches, and that dandelion juice will remove warts.

The dandelion has adapted itself to many climates in North America, Europe, Central Asia, and arctic regions. It reached America along with the early colonists, sailing over perhaps, in earthen ballast then carried by many ships. Since it frequently reproduces itself by what plant specialists call "parthenogenesis," it does not have to rely on the vagaries of wind and insects for pollination.

Reviewing the life cycle of the dandelion, an extension horticulturist once concluded that because of its hardiness, tenacity, and reproduction capabilities, it stands a good chance of eventually inheriting the earth. With this statement, no doubt, many lawnmakers and gardeners will wholeheartedly agree.

In Memoriam

In memory of our dear beloved mother, Cora Fraley, who passed away April 30, 1967, three years ago:

Our hearts still ache with loneliness
Our eyes shed many a tear,
God only knows how we miss you,
As it ends its third year.
Dear Mom, thou has left us,
Thy sufferings are now over at the dear old home;
No longer can we gather as before,
God knows you had to leave us.
But you did not go alone,
Part of us went with you
The day he took you home.
Your busy hands are resting,
Your work on earth is done,
Your worries are all ended,
Your heavenly crown is won.

Miss Reed Is Member Of College Ensemble

GEORGETOWN, Ky.—Miss Ann Reed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Reed, of Drift, is a member of the 1970 Georgetown College Symphonic Wind Ensemble which will conduct a tour from April 20 to April 28 and will visit Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi, and Louisiana.

Detour Route Contract Let In 2 Counties

Contract for widening and bituminous concrete surfacing of KY 122, the detour route to be used while construction of US 23 is being done between Allen and Pikeville, was awarded last week to Bush Contracting Co., Frankfort.

The Frankfort firm was awarded the contract after an error had been discovered in the bid submitted by the Holloway and Son Construction Co., Middletown, which had asked $2,471,591 for the detour work and two miles of concrete paving and other work on US 23 from a point near Blairtown southeastward to near Weddington Branch. Holloway omitted guardrails from its bid. The KY 122 detour extends from Allen to Martin, up Left Beaver Creek and across the mountain onto Indian Creek and on to Robinson Creek junction of KY 122 with US 23—a distance of 36.5 miles.

From Robinson Creek on to Pikeville the drive is another 18 miles. What is normally a 21-mile drive from Allen to Pikeville will be a distance of 54.5 miles via the detour. Bush Contracting Company also was awarded the contract for concrete surfacing and other work on .8 mile of US 23 from near Harmon Branch eastward to near Blairtown on a bid of $2,764,412.

A third Pike county project let to contract, 1.3 miles of concrete surfacing and other work on US 23 from Harmon Branch to the Floyd county line at Boldman, will be done by Bizzack Brothers Construction Corp., Frankfort, for $3,556,048.

Effect of the new contracts is to get under construction all of US 23 from the Floyd county line to Pikeville.

SLATED FOR HONORS

MR. PINSON

Approximately 300 postmasters from Kentucky and neighboring states will attend the Kentucky Chapter, National Association of Postmasters, annual convention this week-end, May 3 through May 5, at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park.

Gene Pinson, recently retired Pike county native, will be honored at the meeting with a banquet and entertainment program. He has led a long and distinguished career in the postal service where he was a postal inspector working in the Cincinnati, Fort Worth, and New York City divisions. In 1961, he became inspector in charge of the Cincinnati region, and in 1963 was honored as Federal Civil Servant of the Year. Mrs. Pinson is the former Dorothy Dunlap, of Lancaster.

Attending the meeting will be Assistant Postmaster General Frank J. Nunlist, Deputy Assistant Postmaster General Watt McBrayer, Washington, D. C., Regional Director T. A. Ripa, Inspector in Charge Claude Maddux, of Cincinnati, and N. A. P. U. S. President Bremer Ehrler, of Louisville.

The entire park facilities have been reserved for the convention, host postmaster, Jack Stumbo, of Prestonsburg, said, with several local motels asked to help alleviate the expected overflow from the Park's lodging facilities.

During the meeting there will be business sessions, seminars, and conferences as well as a golf tournament, banquets, and other entertainment.

Total value of South Central Bell's telephone plant in Kentucky was $2,761,584,000 at the end of 1969.

When the younger Hall later returned to the ground floor he gave his own weapon and another to Thomas Hamilton, Jr., an employee of the company. He said one of the weapons was his father's and that he picked it from the floor.

Mr. and Mrs. George Burchett, testifying for the defense, said Mrs. Hall told them she intended to kill Bob Hall.

Mrs. Mary Bentley, mother of Mrs. Hall, testified that she attended a birthday party at her daughter's home at Allen, some time before the slayings, and that on that occasion Bob Hall entered the house, wrecked furniture and threatened to kill them.

Sheriff Frank Leslie, another Commonwealth witness, told of the statement Hall made after the shooting. He quoted him as saying he knew why he killed Willo Dean but did not know why he killed his father. Deputy Sheriff Claude Flanery's testimony was to the same effect.

County Judge Henry Stumbo and County Attorney Barkley Sturgill, who went to the block company office before the bodies were moved, testified that Mrs. Hall's unopened purse lay on the floor, 6 to 8 feet from her body. They said a revolver was in the pocketbook. A pen lay within a few inches of the dead woman's hand.

Mrs. Hall was shot near the top of her head. Mr. Hall was shot twice in his chest. The only other conviction within the week came when Clyde Barnett entered a plea of guilty last Wednesday to knowingly receiving stolen property, cash taken from the Fountain Korner Drug Store here. He was given a one-year pen term.

jumped to 93,293 fish, and last year it was 135,307.

The total fishing pressure has doubled. Last year, fishermen spent 113,633 man-hours at the lake—and, strangely enough, the catch per man-hour spent fishing by all types of fishermen increased from .9 fish per hour in 1965 and 1966 to 1.1 fish in 1968 and 1.2 fish in 1969. "It would seem logical," the report comments, "that as the fishing pressure increases the catch rate per unit of effort would decrease; however, the opposite proved true... Since the initiation of the fertilization program the fishing pressure has almost doubled. And the catch has more than doubled."

Of the sport fish caught last year crappie comprised 41 per cent (55,186 fish), black bass 3 per cent (4300 fish), channel catfish 2 per cent (2522), sunfish 54 per cent (72,958).

The creel census erroneously reported no success in fishing for white bass last year. In 1968 half of those fishing were white bass were successful, according to this report.

There was no significant change in the number of largemouth and spotted bass since 1964, the report says. Only four harvestable size bass were caught per acre last year, according to the creel census. Three harvestable crappie (8 inches or larger) were netted in 1969 but fingerling and intermediate crappie more than tripled in number.

Mr. Murray said campsites on the east side of the lake will be available but that tenancy of one spot will not be permitted any camper for a period of more than 14 days. This rule has been adopted, it was explained, in order to prevent a few individuals from occupying the choice spots on the lake shores, all season long.

Now Whittling Out His Dreams, John Maynard Handcrafts Banjos

By HENRY P. SCALF

Many men, bound to the necessity of earning a living for a family, dream for years of what they plan to do in their retirement years. John E. Maynard, former Floyd countian, Pike county native and now a resident of Middle Fork of Jennies Creek, Johnson county, has entered his golden years and is occupied with trying to realize the fulfillment of his dreams of yesterday.

He hand tools beautiful banjos and hopes to develop a course in music to teach youngsters to play. The instruments he makes are no ordinary ones. It took two years to make his favorite. It has 195 pieces of wood, ingeniously crafted. The woods are walnut, ebony, white holly, maple, vermilion, rosewood, mahogany, and many kinds of exotic woods imported from foreign lands.

Maynard began planning years ago for his retirement. He accumulated stocks of wood and improvised little tools necessary to his craftsmanship. A veteran machinist and electrical construction lineman, he was well-fitted to devise the little tools and gadgets he needed.

Born at Gularne, son of Rell and Ella Harris Maynard, he early acquired an interest in banjos but after his marriage to Mae Branham, of Boons Camp, he soon had children to support and dreams had to wait. In the meantime, however, he began to stock wood. He was working at Weeksbury in 1938 and became associated with Orville Oney. They went into partnership on a stock of walnut of superior quality they found on the Long Fork of Shelby Creek. Sawed and dried, it stayed stacked for years. Oney finally lost interest in the wood and gave his half to Maynard. That walnut is now becoming part of well-crafted banjos, second in importance to the curly mahogany that is basic.

Maynard, restless and dreaming, went to Los Angeles in 1964 and took a course in vocational training he needed to make better banjos. From there he went to Columbus, Ohio, studied some more. Prior to that he had been a lineman for Harris Bros. Construction Company, Prestonsburg, and a machinist at David from 1947 to 1950. Work, study and dreams, they filled his years.

Maynard spent years on one banjo, completed it in 1938 but gave it to Tandy Branham, of Boons Camp. Branham, who loved to play ancient mountain tunes, admired the instrument above all banjos he had ever seen or played. Growing toward old age, he decided he did not want that instrument to fall into unappreciative hands after his death. He willed it back to Maynard and died four years ago. Maynard will pick it up, play a few notes of "Little Birdie," "Old Smoky" or "Cumberland Gap," but he soon lays it down, silently remembering the friend who so loved a wonderful musical instrument.

The Jennies Creek craftsman is a bit of a poet. He writes of yesterday, of his companion of the years, of mountain folk and their ways. He binds them into a book, peruses them with nostalgic memories.

He lives in the past with his poetry, the present with his banjos, and in the future with his dreams. The past is memory, the present is filled with dedicated tasks of slowly creating superior instruments. The future, as he would want it, would be filled with younger people who learned banjo music from the course of study he is developing.

Royalton Dam Gets Resor OK

The Royalton reservoir in the Licking River valley is one of two major Kentucky water resources projects recently recommended to the Congress by Secretary of Army Resor, and it will vie with other projects for priority in the order of construction.

The Magoffin county project would involve not only a major dam to be built by the Corps of Engineers but also three smaller reservoirs—on Burning Fork, Rockhouse Fork and Mash Fork—land treatment measures and economic and industrial development of the Royalton-Salyersville area.

Cost of the main reservoir undertaking is estimated at $35 million. If the entire development program is done, the cost would be in excess of $2.4 billion.

The other major project recommended consists of watershed development, local protection and development of a new city of a potential 40,000 population at Midland, below the Cave Run Reservoir now under construction on the Licking River in Rowan county.

Secretary Resor said highest priority should be given to initiating state and local activity in support of the proposed program. Funding of the project would follow Resor's approval of state and local action.

Home EC Majors May Earn 4-H Scholarships

CHICAGO—Current or former 4-H members have an opportunity to apply for one of six national scholarships worth $800 each offered to coeds planning to major in home economics in their junior year this fall, according to the National 4-H Service Committee.

Applicants for the grants must have been 4-H members for at least three years. They must be enrolled in the fall of 1970 at an accredited college or university toward a major in home economics.

Two scholarships are donated by each of the following: The S and H Foundation, Inc., New York; The West Bend Company, West Bend, Wisconsin; and Sunbeam Corporation, Chicago. S and H also is sponsor of the national 4-H home improvement program which currently enrolls 200,000 youth between the ages of 9 and 19.

Girls interested in applying for the scholarships should contact their state 4-H office or the county extension 4-H office.

Each state may submit the application of one girl to be considered for the six grants. Her 4-H and scholastic record will be judged in early November by the Cooperative Extension Service, the scholarship program administrators. Winners will be announced during the National 4-H Congress held in Chicago, November 29 through December 3.

The six scholarships are part of the 4-H College Scholarships Fund arranged and announced by the National 4-H Service Committee.

Gold Find Partners May Sell Interests

The story of the Lawrence county gold strike which was first told in The Floyd County Times late last year finally hit the daily newspapers and television last week.

The Associated Press reported that Homer Neeley, of Milford, O., former Prestonsburg man, and Jay Jordan, owners of the mineral rights on Jordan's 406-acre farm in Lawrence county, have finally decided to sell their rights, finding it almost impossible to finance needed mining equipment.

They estimated $500,000 will be needed to do an effective mining job.

(In early reports of the gold discovery it was said pay ore extended on from Lawrence into the edge of Rowan county.)

"Any time there is a price that is exceedingly good, I'd sell," said Jordan, who has not set a figure. "I'm just one of those mountain farmers, and I don't know too much, but any way I can make a buck I do, as long as it is honest."

The Arizona Testing Laboratories in Phoenix has sent Neeley an assay certificate saying that ore on the 406-acre property on Cam Creek produced nearly 60 ounces of gold per ton, making the ore worth about $2,100 a ton.

"This vein is approximately 100 feet thick, and I know there are millions of tons in it," Neeley said.

Jordan bought the property about five years ago, and sold some of the mineral rights to Neeley, a relative by marriage. Jordan discovered the gold early in 1969 after his house had burned down.

"I was hauling logs when I found this peculiar rock," he said.

He then leased the mineral rights to Hopewell Mining Co. which has offices in Pikeville and Cincinnati.

"The best I can understand there was confusion between the partners, all of them, and they surrendered the leases," Jordan said. "The members of the firm seemed to lose faith over one analysis."

Neeley had been working for Hopewell and after Hopewell withdrew, Neeley approached Jordan and offered to buy some mineral rights.

"I like the looks of gold, but I like long green better; so I sold him some," Jordan said.

Neeley said, "It was a dead dog and we sort of revived it. We didn't lose faith in it. We kept looking for samples and richer veins."
