

Verbal Okeh Given Grant For Program

Alcoholism Program For 5-County Area Nears Realization

A grant request for funds to establish a region-wide program for alcoholics has been verbally approved for Mountain Mental Health Services by the U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

According to Richard Stai, executive director of Mountain Mental Health Services, if fully funded the portion of the grant from the U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare would be $64,886 for the next year. The program will become effective December 1, and will involve the recruitment, hiring and training of 10 staff members.

According to T. M. Atkinson, clinical coordinator, the basic philosophy of treatment in this program is that alcoholism is an illness that can be treated and those suffering from this condition and its consequences should be located and provided services.

Active recruitment has already begun for staff members. Special emphasis is being placed on locating and hiring alcoholism counselors whose offices will be located in the counties they serve—Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Martin, and Magoffin. Minimum qualifications are an interest in and desire to help alcoholics to overcome their problems, plus two years of college training. Applications may be procured from Mountain Mental Health offices located in each county seat or from the central office at 413 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg. Deadline for applying is November 15.

Stai said that as much as possible efforts will be made to recruit and hire individuals from the counties involved.

Officers Arrest Three in Family As Raids Staged

One of three liquor raids conducted by county and state officers Saturday resulted in the arrest of three members of a Dwayne family.

The raid staged by Sheriff Frank Leslie and Deputies Claude Flanery, Grady Skeens, Silas DeRossett and Virgil Conn started out with the officers centering their attention on Gordon Lee Porter. He was arrested after 86 cans of beer and 20 half-pints of whiskey had been found on his premises. But other members of the family were taken when they became belligerent, officers said. Porter's son, Ronnie, was arrested on a possession charge and also booked on a count of interfering with officers. More than a case of beer and several half-pints of whiskey were taken from his car. This was followed by the arrest of his sister, Palma Sue, who also was charged with possession when approximately a half-case of whiskey and four cases of beer were found in a car which, officers said, she claimed. The elder Porter was charged with third-offense possession and also with selling.

State Troopers Gary Rose and Don Thornsberry arrested Irvin Hamilton on Mud Creek Saturday and confiscated 417 cans of beer at his premises. In another raid the same troopers confiscated 109 cans of beer from the premises of Fred Johnson at Melvin. Both Hamilton and Johnson were booked on possession charges.

Other arrests: Myrole A. Cable, hit-run driving and no operator's license, arrested by State Trooper Leeman Bevins; Jonah Tackett, drunk driving and no operator's license, by State Trooper Rose; James Crisp, drunk driving, by Prestonsburg Policemen Thornsberry and Lonnie Herald; Roger Calvin Tussey, no operator's license, by State Trooper Bevins.

Black Cats Win Over Leslie Co.; Belfry Is Next

The Prestonsburg high school Black Cats edged strong Leslie County here last Friday night, 20 to 18, to bring the Cats' season record to four wins against a single loss.

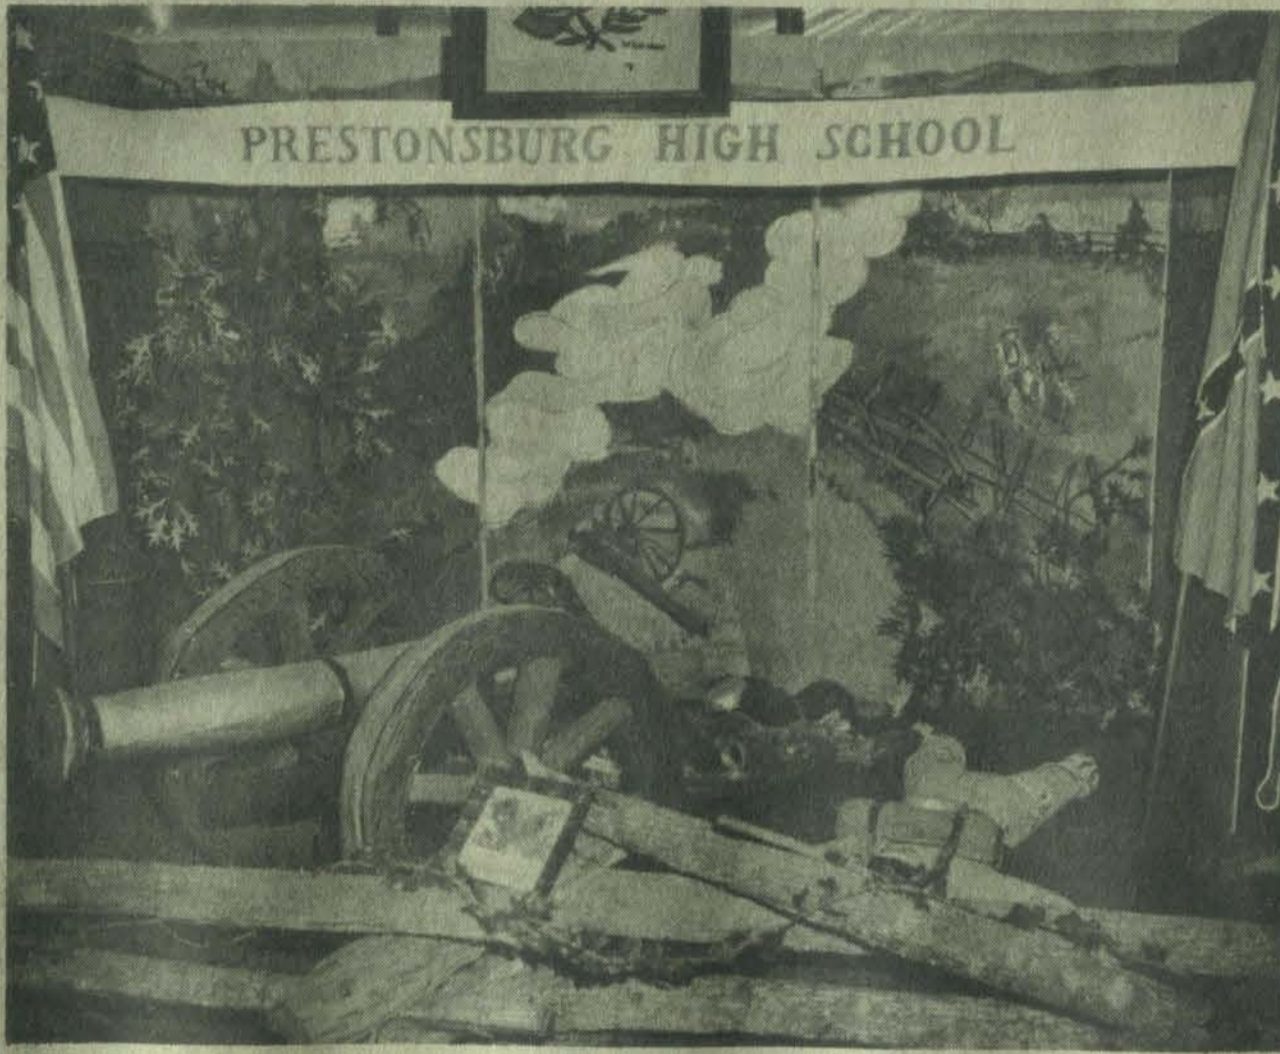

A two-point conversion on an end sweep by Greg Campbell spelled the difference between a tie game and a win for Prestonsburg. The extra points were scored after the Cats' first t.d. by Rickey Reynolds, who plunged two yards off-tackle for the score.

Other Cat markers were scored by Danny Wells on a three-yard run and on Greg Campbell's 35-yard dash.

Leslie County scoring was by Beasley and Felner, the latter scoring twice.

The Cat offense was marked by the strong blocking of John P. Leslie, David George and Bill Roberts.

The Cats travel this week for a Saturday night game with the Belfry Pirates.

Battle Scene Is Fair Winner

This Civil War battle scene, a work which has engaged the attention at intervals of the art department of Prestonsburg high school for several months, was a first-place winner among school exhibits at the Floyd County Fair last week. All items — cannon, split-rail fence, flags, soldiers' hats, fallen soldier, trees and vines — were created by students under the supervision of Carlos Neeley, art instructor, two of last year's student-teachers from Morehead State University, Ralph Waldo Dingus and Frederick Bruce Cool, and the home economics department headed by Mrs. Wonnell Godsey. It was the third year in a row for the school's art department to be a blue-ribbon winner at the fair.

Prosperity, it says here, is something you feel, fold and forward to the nearest IRS office.

And an efficiency expert is a fellow who is smart enough to tell you how to run your business and who's too smart to start one of his own.

CAYCE IS NOT THE NAME

I suppose it's a pure waste of space and time for me to state that I have never been known as the seventh son of a seventh son, my predictions having wound up with disgusting consistency on the losing side. My most recent peeks into the future led me to announce in this column last week that, since I was going fishing, October weather would be more like November's for the week-end. And, earlier in the week, I gave forth with the dismal pronouncement that the Cincinnati Reds' pitching had gone to pot, their hitting had done a fadeaway and that they hadn't a chance to get past Pittsburgh in the playoffs.

Did we catch fish? Well, who's interested in any successes along that line that I might have had? Now, if I had got lost or fallen into the lake, that would be worth recording.

NO FIGHTING, PLEASE

I seem to recall reading a recent newspaper article which stated that there's nothing like a good, old-fashioned spat for a happy marriage. Like a husband boxing his wife's jaw till it's so sore she can't nag and friend wife retaliating by lifting him one with a skillet till his ears ring so much he can't hear her if she did. . . The whole thing is that silly, according to this expert on the subject.

'1-Man Crime Wave' Believed Operator In Thefts, Breaks

Sheriff Frank Leslie said Monday that one man is believed to have stolen three autos and committed three breaks into Floyd business houses in one night last week.

The unnamed one-man crime wave roamed from the Abbott-Middle Creek section through Prestonsburg, to Allen and Martin last Monday night. Autos stolen were those of Ruby Baldrige, of Abbott Creek, Hawley Hall, of Allen, and Mrs. Dickie Leslie, of Prestonsburg. All have been recovered. Business places broken into were Laven's at Allen, Phillips 66 at Allen and the Dollar General Store at Martin.

A box of clothing taken from the Martin store has been recovered.

Pilot Health Program Gets $300,346 Grant

The Big Sandy Community Action Program, Inc., will continue a comprehensive health services program for approximately 20,000 of 42,000 residents of rural Floyd county under terms of a grant announced last Wednesday by Donald Rumsfeld, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The grant totals $300,346 which includes $211,449 in new funds and $88,897 in re-programmed funds.

Mine Group Sets Safety Day Here On October 17th

The annual Safety Day of the Big Sandy-Elkhorn Coal Mining Institute will be held Saturday, Oct. 17, at Archer Park here, it was announced this week by Frank Heinze, institute president.

The program of events, which will begin at 1 p.m., will include mine rescue and first-aid demonstrations by teams from the Beth-Elkhorn Corp., Jenkins, and the Island Creek Coal Co., Wheelwright. The Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad will also demonstrate rescue operations in various types of accidents.

Other features of the day will be a display of safety equipment used by the industry in this area. A 1970 automobile will be awarded as a "door prize."

Sturgill, Kelly Sell Perry County Holdings

William B. Sturgill, former Prestonsburg man, now of Hazard, and Richard Kelly, also of Hazard, have sold their coal mining properties—their various operating firms and 115,000 acres of coal leases—for a reported $10 million.

The purchaser is Falcon Seaboard, Inc., a Houston, Texas company. Leases conveyed in the transaction cover an estimated 140 million tons of coal.

Sturgill, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy B. Sturgill, of Prestonsburg, will now become president and general manager of the Falcon Coal Company. Both he and Kelly will be on the company's board of directors.

Hall Held Under Bonds of $10,000 At Hearing Here

Bond of $5000 on each of two counts was asked by County Judge Henry Stumbo for the release from jail here of Randy Hall, 25, of the Mud Creek section, at the conclusion Monday morning of Hall's examining trial on charges of shooting into the dwellings near Grethel of Magistrate Denzil Ray Hall and Deputy Sheriff Dester Hamilton.

The two homes were fired into with shotgun pellets and revolver bullets, the morning of Sept. 4. The case has been remanded to the next grand jury.

Two witnesses testified at the preliminary hearing that they saw Hall in a cream-colored Datsun truck on the highway, upstream from the magistrate's house, around 1:30 a.m. on the night of the shooting. A truck of this description has been found in Virginia, officials said, and the investigation of the case has led to that state.

Magistrate Hall and the deputy sheriff told of the shots being fired into their homes. Deputy Sheriff Hamilton said he gave chase to a truck such as described by other witnesses and that he recognized Randy Hall as the driver.

The Commonwealth has a shotgun and a revolver which will be sent to a state police laboratory for ballistics tests.

The defendant did not testify during the hearing.

Olin Shepherd, who waived examining trial in the Middle Creek slaying of his wife, has filed motion in circuit court, asking inspection by the state police laboratory of a revolver held as evidence in the case.

Squad Recovers Body from Pond In Martin County

Sheriff Ray Fields and other Martin county officials this week highly praised the efficiency of the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad in its recovery Sunday of the body of a Martin county who had been missing since last Wednesday.

William Lee Spence, about 35, had been tracked by searchers to a pond formed by a strip-mining operation in the head of Rockhouse Creek, about five miles from Tomahawk. His knife was found on the shore of the 300-yard-long pond, and there was evidence that somebody had slipped and fallen there.

Within an hour after the Floyd squad arrived on the scene the pond had been dragged and the man's body recovered from water 12 to 15 feet in depth.

"We appreciate the willingness of these men to drive to Martin county to help us, and we hope to contribute something to the financial assistance of this fine organization," Sheriff Fields said.

Johnson Man Victim Monday As Auto Crashes into Bridge

The tangled wreckage of auto in which Harold Thomas Preston, Johnson county man, died when it smashed into a bridge near Auxier, Monday evening.

A 27-year-old Johnson county man was instantly killed shortly before 7 p.m. Monday when his auto smashed into the end of the bridge spanning Johns Creek on US 23, near Auxier.

Body of the victim, Harold Thomas Preston, of River, was pinned in the twisted wreckage of the car and could not be extricated until a door of the vehicle was pulled from its hinges. Frank Adams, whose wrecker was used at the scene, said the car was so torn apart that trouble was experienced in finding a part of the vehicle that would hold the crane-hook.

Cause of the wreck had not been established, Tuesday morning.

Preston, who was unmarried, was employed in this county by a metal products company. He was a son of Mrs. Hazel Mollette Preston, of River, and the late Herman Preston. His funeral will be conducted today (Thursday) from the residence of his mother.

All Suits Ended As Court Order Entered Tuesday

Two years of warring in the courts between residents of Martin and the Floyd County Board of Education over efforts of the latter to sell bonds and build a consolidated high school at Eastern officially ended Tuesday morning with the filing of an agreed order dismissing all litigation.

The dismissal came on the last day remaining for court entanglements to be cleared away for the approval of the $650,000 bond sale made recently. Franklin Hayes, bond counsel, announced that the action cleared all barriers to the bond sale.

Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark followed this with an announcement that a work order on the new school structure at Eastern will be issued immediately to the contracting firm of Akers and Akers.

The big break in the long-standing dispute came last week when the Court of Appeals denied the Martin group their motion for a writ of prohibition to void contempt of court action against them unless they dismissed their suit in Franklin circuit court against the State Board of Education, State Supt. Wendell P. Butler and the State Department of Education—a suit which was dismissed last Wednesday by Judge Henry Meigs, of the Franklin circuit court.

The agreed order entered here Tuesday was signed by six of the seven Martin residents involved in the litigation and their attorneys. Eddie Taylor, one of the litigants, could not be reached in time to beat the no-litigation deadline. Signing the order were Everett Akers, F. D. Salisbury, Jake Layne, Bill Wells, Clynard Jones and J. R. Key and attorneys for them and the Board of Education.

The order provided that the Martin group and their attorneys of record "will cease and desist in any and all further efforts, in court and out of court, collectively, individually or in cooperation or concert with any other persons in any way whatsoever, to litigate or otherwise interfere with the sale of bonds, construction, completion, staffing or operation of the Eastern high school."

The order also provided that they will not assist, counsel, advise, encourage or support any other person or group in any litigation or any other effort to hamper or hinder the progress of the school.

It was specified that the agreed order is without prejudice to the 1939 judgment providing for continuation of a 12-grade school at Martin, if this judgment "can be effectuated."

In return, the order provides, all motions for contempt filed against Martin litigants were withdrawn and none will be issued against any of them for any action by them prior to October 5, and the damage suit filed by Charles Clark and the Board of Education against the seven litigants previously named and Charles Lafferty and Joe Hobson, attorney, was dismissed.

Supt. Clark had this comment on the new turn of events:

"The needless litigation over a two-year period has cost the taxpayers over $225,000 and this hurts, especially since our housing needs are so great at Martin and elsewhere. However, we are extremely happy to get the go-ahead on the construction of the high school. We are mad at no one and have no axes to grind. We would urge all Floyd countians to unite in our march forward toward improved education. Our school system is far from perfect, but improvements will come only in relation to our willingness to work together despite personal differences."

The legal fight had ranged from circuit court here to the Franklin circuit court, the Court of Appeals and the Kentucky Water Pollution Commission.

Criminal Session Of Court at End; No Major Trials

A criminal court term that had been billed as one which would see an unusual number of major trials ended last week after a month which saw the trial of only a limited number of cases as murder trials docketed earlier were postponed because the defense had not had time to prepare for trial.

The one conviction last week was that of Wade Holley, Jr., who was held guilty of auto theft and fined $50.

Two of those convicted during the term won a reprieve from pen sentences via probation. Howard Chaffins was granted probation from his conviction on a charge of obtaining money under false pretense. Among the provisions of probation were those providing that he pay $65 a week to Circuit Clerk Frank DeRossett in restitution of $1866 to Dr. H. E. Midkiff, $300 to Hydrac Harmon and $200 to Marshall Davidson as attorney fee. He also is to install heating in the Midkiff home, as contracted.

Strong Oil, Gas Hit In Deep Elliott Well

(From The Elliott County News, Sept. 19) Monitor Petroleum Corporation of New York hit a giant gas flow and a moderate oil flow in its deep-test well in eastern Elliott county and this week announced it will drill two more wells immediately—one in eastern Morgan county and the other in western Lawrence county.

The Elliott well—drilled to a depth of 9,600 feet on a farm-out agreement with Ashland Oil, Pennzoil and Sun Oil—is producing oil estimated at nearly 100 barrels a day from a pay zone at 7,900 feet, and about 50 million cubic feet of gas a day from the St. Peter at a depth of 4,600 feet.

Halliburton Co. fracked five "pay zones" in the 9600-foot well the deepest at 7,900 feet and highest at 4,600 feet, completing their fractures Sept. 6. Since then, Baker Oil Tools, Inc. of West Virginia has been running comprehensive tests of production from the five "pays".

Baker has about another week's testing before completing its comprehensive logging of the well. But Bink Strickland, Monitor's division engineer, told this newspaper Wednesday the well now is flowing about 100 barrels of oil a day and open flowing about 50 million feet of gas. Oil production is from the lower "pay" at 7,900 feet, and the big gas flow is from the St. Peter Strickland said.

Monitor workers ran tubing in the well last week, and oil is now flowing into tanks erected near the well.

In announcing that Monitor would drill two more deep wells almost immediately, Strickland said, "Eastern Kentucky's oil and gas has hardly been touched in the deeper zones."

He said Monitor would commence drilling its next well in Morgan next month, somewhere in the eastern area near Dingus.

Then by November 1 Monitor will move in another rotary rig to drill a deep test in western Lawrence county where Monitor picked up some 11,400 acres after starting the Elliott well. The acreage in majorly on Caines Creek and Abb Creek.

The Morgan county well is one of two deep tests which Monitor contracted to drill in Eastern Kentucky on its farm-out plan with Ashland, Penn and Sun. The Lawrence well will be Monitor's own test well on leases it has acquired since moving into Kentucky.

Meanwhile, reports were heard unofficially this week that Ashland Oil planned to drill a deep well a few miles southwest of the Elliott well and that Pennzoil planned a deep well to the northeast. Location of the wells have not been announced yet.

Monitor's deep-test well in Elliott is on the Cecil Ison farm at Stevens at the mouth of Ison Creek on Little Fork. Drilling was started last April, and plenty of time has been taken to test all pay zones down to the granite.

The Stevens well apparently is on a sharp downthrust of the Cambrian Trough which comes south into Eastern Kentucky from along the Ohio-West Virginia line. Wells to the north and west of this Elliott well struck granite at from 3,000 to 4,000 feet higher than on Little Fork, indicating the Monitor well is on the Cambrian Trough.

Several other deep wells are anticipated for the Elliott-Lawrence-Morgan area if either of the next three wells gets good production.

And Strickland, himself a geologist, thinks they are drilling in the right areas.

Parathion Use Okayed Despite Deaths in South

LEXINGTON, KY.—The University of Kentucky College of Agriculture will continue to recommend Parathion despite a recent report in the New York Times which said the chemical insecticide had caused several deaths in the South.

R. A. Scheibner, a UK entomologist, said Parathion must be used with extreme care, and now that the spraying season is past, the greatest need for concern is in storage of the chemical.

"All pesticides should be kept in their original containers, sealed and kept under lock and key," he advised. "It is also important to keep the material from freezing, when it may break open containers and contaminate livestock feed."

The New York Times story said several dozen cases of Parathion poisoning had been reported in North Carolina this summer, and doctors at the Duke University Poison Control Center have reported in North Carolina this summer, and doctors at the Duke University Poison Control Center have reported five fatalities since late July.

The highly-toxic chemical has been used with increasing frequency since the use of DDT and TDE was banned by federal regulations.

Scheibner noted that Parathion can be absorbed through the skin and can accumulate in the human body if farmers are exposed repeatedly to the chemical. He said the safest way to handle the chemical is by wearing waterproof suits, natural rubber gloves, goggles, and an approved face respirator.

The antidote for Parathion poisonings is atropine sulphate.

Kentucky poison control centers are located in Ashland, Berea, Bowling Green, Fort Thomas, Harlan, Lexington, Louisville, Owensboro and Paducah.

"A free press is not a privilege but an organic necessity in a great society. Without criticism and reliable and intelligent reporting, the government cannot govern. For there is no adequate way in which it can keep itself informed about what the people of the country are thinking and doing and wanting."—Walter Lippmann.

Nunn Promises Johnson County His Support for State Park

Map showing location of proposed state park in the Paintsville Reservoir area.

While visiting in Paintsville Saturday for the Johnson county Apple Festival, Gov. Louie B. Nunn announced major progress toward the establishment of a state park in Johnson county. The Governor said: "The long-awaited Paintsville Reservoir project has moved a big step closer to reality. The Department of Parks and the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, Huntington district, have arrived at a fundamental agreement as to the type of recreational facilities to be developed around the perimeter of this reservoir." "Under public Law 8972, the Commonwealth would be required to bear half the estimated $1.5 million dollar cost of these facilities," he said. "The Secretary of the Army now has these developmental plans under study, and upon his approval I am prepared to sign an agreement with the Corps of Engineers affirming this administration's commitment that Kentucky will bear its share of the cost, contingent upon the Legislature making the funds available." Public Law 8972 applies to all new reservoir construction by the Corps of Engineers. It requires the Corps to obtain a written commitment from the state involved to share fifty-fifty in the cost of recreation facilities before construction of a new reservoir can begin.

Parks Commissioner W. James Host accompanied Nunn on his Paintsville visit. He commented, "With this assurance from the Governor, I believe the Corps of Engineers will be able to move forward with their plans for Paintsville Reservoir and we can look forward to the establishment of the new State Park there by late 1974 or early 1975." The estimated total cost of the reservoir project, including recreational development, is $24.8 million dollars. The dam alone will cost $11.5 million, and approximately 14,000 acres of land will be acquired by the Corps of Engineers.

Homemakers Meet Scheduled at Park

The Northeast Homemakers' annual meeting will be held October 15 at May Lodge. Registration will begin at 10 a.m. Mrs. Sam Whitt, area president, will preside at the meeting. The program will include guest-speaker, Dr. Struck, of Pikeville College; special reports by State Assistant Director Dr. Doris Techener and Mrs. Earl Friedly, state Homemakers president. Other features of the program will be a style show following the luncheon and a drawing for the burlap flower arrangements. All Floyd County Homemakers and their guests are invited to attend. Phone 886-2668 for reservations.

Corps of Engineers To Drop the Levels Of 3 East Ky. Lakes

The Army Corps of Engineers, Huntington, W. Va., announced this week that water levels at Fishtrap, North Fork of Pound, and Grayson Lakes will be lowered by the Army Corps of Engineers in preparation for the annual flood season. Col. Maurice D. Roush, Huntington District Engineer, explained that the gradual lowering of the lakes would provide additional storage for flood runoff. Increased outflow has been initiated at Fishtrap and Grayson Dams in order to gradually lower the pools. The outflow from North Fork of Pound Dam is scheduled to increase slightly, beginning October 1. Fishtrap Lake will be lowered a total of 32 feet, North Fork of Pound 10 feet, and Grayson 8 feet. The pool levels will be lowered to their winter elevation by December 1st. This elevation will be maintained, subject to operation for flood control, throughout the flood season. No mention was made of plans to lower the level of Dewey Lake.

BROWN RUNS FOR 445 YARDS IN PATTERSON SCHOOL VICTORY

Wayne Brown, former Prestonsburg high school backfield ace, may have set a record for yardage gained last Friday night when he had a rushing net of 445 yards for the Patterson School for Boys, Lenoir, N. C. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Brown, of Prestonsburg, sat in the stands when the youngster staged his great offensive show against North Wilkes (N. C.) high school, almost singlehandedly winning for Patterson the 29-28 victory. He scored touchdowns on runs of 28, 85 and 5 yards—the last coming with only nine seconds left in the game. Three other Brown t.d.'s were called back on penalties. On these he raced for 65, 45 and 15 yards. Young Brown is a post-graduate student at Patterson. And college scouts are on his trail.

No 'Closed Shop,' Please

Was it indeed worth $300,000, as charged recently, to Kentucky road contractors to persuade an Illinois firm not to fight rejection of its low bid on three sectors of new US 23 in this county? There are a lot of unanswered questions surrounding recent developments at Frankfort where depositions given by James C. Watson, executive assistant to Governor Nunn, indicate that there have been attempts at wheeling and dealing on the part of Kentucky contractors. The story boils down to this: An Illinois contractor, the Barter Construction Co., submitted the "low" bid on the Floyd road work. The bid was later rejected as far above engineers' estimate of the cost. Then Barter and its associate, the Mattingly Bridge Company, of Louisville, filed a $4 million damage action against Kentucky contractors and Eugene Goss, who at the time was commissioner of highways. This was followed by the most recent development—the taking of depositions and talk of Harold Kelley, chairman of the Public Service Commission, acting as the go-between, allegedly relaying the $300,000 offer to Barter and Mattingly Bridge. And now, after the state Department of Highways has given preliminary approval to the bid of Greer Brothers and Young, of London, Ky., on the same three projects upon their being re-advertised, the U. S. Bureau of Roads is rejecting these second bids and is recommending that the projects be advertised for the third time. It is explained that the Bureau of Roads does not feel that there is enough competition in the bidding. If the competition for the roadbuilding job on its second advertising wasn't keen enough to meet U. S. standards, why is the state of Kentucky satisfied? Is the U. S. Bureau of Roads getting the notion, perhaps, that highway construction is something of a "closed shop" in Kentucky and that "outside" contractors are being discouraged? The Illinois company has accused state contractors of collusion in bidding, indicating that the successful bidder on a given project is pre-determined by them. We favor Kentucky contractors, naturally. We hope they win out in all bidding on Kentucky contracts. But we do not subscribe to any policy, official or otherwise, that would exclude contractors from other states. Governor Nunn apparently is being open about this messy matter. Former Highway Commissioner Goss has insisted on a lie-detector test to corroborate his assertion that he received no money in the alleged transaction and was not a party to any hanky-panky with the people's money. But what seems to us to be the most forthright and effective answer to the entire matter would be a top-level decision, now, to encourage bidding on all these highways from whatever source, from whatever location, and award the contract—as, for instance, one would let a contract on the building of one's own home—to the contractor who asks the least for doing the job.

Letters to the Editor

Editor, The Times:

I saw The Courier-Journal story, "Challenge for a Mountain Man," in the Sunday, September 27, 1970 paper. I think it was the most interesting story I ever read. I certainly want to meet this Warren Wright, shake his hand, look him square-dab in the eyes, and tell him the truth all the time, what I think about this strip-mining thing here in Floyd county and Eastern Kentucky.

I am 64 years old. I run a diesel locomotive for C. and O. Railway Company. I started out as a fireman in October, 1923. I am also a not very active amateur radio operator (K4AVY).

I would like to hear about your Council of the Southern Mountains and how I can help. A strip-mining outfit is hauling coal over my land. They put up a gate with a lock on it. The man offered me a key to it, though, also told me what they would give me, take it or not. "We are going to haul coal over your land from adjoining properties according to lease of back in 1890's." They are going to tear up our road. Goodness, I could give lots more reasons why that strip-mining should be stopped.

I know a fellow that cursed about coal interest people letting his cattle out of pasture, and they were about to put him in jail.

I am glad I am not a cussing man! Yes, siree, I want to see this Warren Wright fellow and talk to his head.

Thank You!

CRITICAL OF ROAD SERVICE

EDITOR, The Times:

I wish to state my opinion of our county road department. This incident was experienced myself. My father asked Magistrate Edward Caudill two years ago for a road grader on Saturday. He promised faithfully it would be there on Monday. He has asked several times after that and it's always been coming on Monday. I never knew Floyd county was that huge that a grader couldn't get there in a half hour.

The only time you get your road fixed is get sick and be admitted to the hospital. Then they just lower the blade, go over your road to the highway and leave. Would someone please send a grader to the roads that need fixing in Orkney, Ky.?

CLAIMS SAFETY ACT HURTS
Editor, The Times:

The recently proposed hike in TVA and privately owned electrical rate increases, which means approximately 30-50 per cent in monthly electrical bills for everyone in the country, will cause some of us to have second thoughts about hastily contrived restrictive legislation on mining and pollution.

The recently enacted federal Mine Safety Act was obviously designed to harass small, independent mines and any safety feature seems purely coincidental. Take for instance, Kentucky, which abounds in these small, independent mines, has not had a mine explosion in 30 years. The major cause of fatalities is roof falls 37 per cent, and, secondly, machinery accidents, most of these caused by an attempt to comply with safety acts—i.e., machinery running through ventilation curtains and crushing personnel, etc.

It is quite obvious that a review of this act and other restrictive legislation by intelligent mining-oriented personnel could result in easing nit-picking restrictions, thus lowering our monthly electrical bills and allowing our inspectors to concentrate on essential safety measures and measurably reducing mine fatalities.

Eastern Names Building for Martin

Dr. and Mrs. Martin and daughter Cathy inspect plaque at Henry Martin Hall on the Eastern Kentucky State University campus, Richmond.

He is a native of Eastern, this county, is chairman of the Department of Educational Administration at Eastern State University—now a new 54-apartment building for married students at Eastern State has been named Henry Martin Hall in his honor.

Dr. Martin believes the new facility named for him "will be a very functional building that will take care of Eastern's growing population."

A former Floyd county teacher, he is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Martin, of Eastern. His original association with Eastern State began in 1955 when he served as director of the elementary laboratory school. During most of his stay there, however, he has been vice-president for student affairs.

He finds his new post as head of the Educational Administration Department as rewarding as his work in student affairs, since in both positions his work, he says, "is with fine students."

25 years in the making.

We'd like to thank the makers of the other new economy cars for giving us such a nice head start. It gave us time to develop an inspection system so ridiculously scrupulous that it expects every VW to pass 16,000 examinations.

It allowed us to find out (at a reasonably scientific pace) how we could double our horsepower without doubling the cost of your horsepower. (The VW still gets about 26 miles to the gallon and requests only a smidgen of oil.)

It permitted us to work on things that didn't even have to do with the actual making of the car. Medi-car, the Volkswagen Diagnosis System, for example. Electronic equipment that can spot trouble in a car before it gets to be trouble. When you buy a new VW, you get 4 free Medi-car checkups.

Of course, it took great fortitude to resist squandering our time on phony styling improvements.

The beetle looks just as good (or bad) as it did 25 years ago.

HOW TO KEEP FIT

County Judge Pro-tem Glenn Burchett reached his 80th year last week, and he's in such fine physical condition that he doesn't mind folks knowing his age.

There was a time, some years back, when I pranced along the ridges to the tune of hound-music, as he still does, and I regret I ever dropped this past-time which some women have been known to classify as another vice. Mr. Burchett is a fine example of what hill-climbing and good, fresh hilltop air and the thrill of the chase will do for a-body.

of aiding in the escape of four prisoners from the county jail here, also was probated. He is to report weekly to the Mental Health clinical office here.

David Scutchfield and Otis Wallen won a "not guilty" verdict at the conclusion of their trial on a charge of grand larceny.

Charges of possession of narcotics for the purpose of sale against Sammy Music, Sammy Nelson and David Scutchfield were dismissed after the Commonwealth's case had been weakened by discrepancies in the testimony given by its principal witness.

The court ordered Sheriff Frank Leslie to take possession of any firearms that may be housed in the trailer of Miles Hughes at Hueysville. Hughes was committed recently to Eastern State Hospital, Lexington.

The civil term of court followed immediately, upon adjournment of the criminal session.

Four more indictments inadvertently omitted were entered "on information" by Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo. They charge Donald Tackett, Lon Neeley, James McKinney and Mrs. Mack Hunt with selling intoxicating beverages.

Better Crowds, Improved Exhibits Features of Floyd County Fair

By FRANCES H. PITTS County Extension Agent

The 16th annual Floyd County Fair, held last week at Archer Park, was marked by more and better exhibits, and good attendance, with even the weather cooperating.

Special appreciation for helping to enter fair exhibits in the Home Economics Department and to insure their safety goes to Mrs. DeGarmo Holbrook, Mrs. Sam Hatcher, Miss Peg Hewlett, Mrs. Eleanor Horn, Mrs. Opal Dingsus, Mrs. Eva Collins, and Mrs. Elizabeth Howard.

Appreciation also was expressed by the Fair Board to the following 4-H leaders: Mrs. Delphia Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Flannery, Raymond Ratliff, Mrs. Clara Friar, Mr. and Mrs. Graydon Martin, Mrs. Dennis Ousley.

Lloyd Wells, vo.-ag. teacher at Prestonsburg high school, registered and assumed the responsibility for the F. F. A. exhibits. J. L. Lafferty, Sr. did an outstanding job in exhibiting and displaying the field crops and garden displays.

In Explanation

In the suit of Charlotte Thompson against Wanda Neika Bedsaul and Leon Wesley Hall, The Times' report of last week did not clearly state the plaintiff's allegation. Correctly, it alleges that she was a passenger in the auto of Leon Wesley Hall and that while Hall was driving south on US 23 the auto owned and operated by Wanda Neika Bedsaul was proceeding north. At a point near the mouth of Sugar Loaf Creek, through the joint and concurrent negligence of both drivers, the autos collided and the plaintiff was injured, the suit alleges.

Mobile X-Ray Unit Slates Harold Visit

The mobile X-ray unit donated by Kentucky Elk lodges will be at the Harold grade school Wednesday, October 14, from 10-12 noon and from 1-3 p.m.

Dr. Russell L. Hall, health officer, urges all teachers, foodhandlers, known contacts of tuberculous cases and citizens living in the Harold area to take advantage of this free service and have chest X-rays made.

Any person who has received a letter requesting that a larger picture be made should bring this letter and present it to the technician on duty at the trailer.

Conference Slated For Scouts, Leaders

The displays for the schools were in the hands of Anna Jean Tackett and Marcus Owens.

The Floyd County Rescue Squad was on hand to park cars, sell tickets and to assume any other job to be done. Also serving on night watch duty were Billy Callihan, Arvil Nelson, J. P. Tackett, Jr. and Marvin Rice.

Many people gave a helping hand, and the Fair Board and the Extension Service appreciate all those who did.

The number of exhibits and display information will be in next week's paper.

All Boy Scouts and Scout leaders who are members or candidates for membership in the Order of the Arrow are urged to attend the Fall Fellowship Conference set for this week-end at Camp Shawnee.

The conference will officially begin at 12 noon Saturday and will end noon Sunday.

A special feature of the conference will be the final induction ceremony for Scouts who were chosen for membership in the organization while attending camp last summer.

SHANKLIN-MARTIN VOWS SAID

The marriage of Miss Kendra Louise Shanklin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Shanklin, of Wooster, O., and John Buford Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Martin, of Hueysville, was solemnized at 7 p.m., September 19, at the Maple Grove United Methodist church in Wooster, O. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Gerald Durham before an altar arranged with carnations and roses and with seven-branched candelabra placed on either side.

A program of wedding music including "Dreams", "Serenade", "Evening Star", and "Liebestraum" was presented by Miss Barbara Stocksdale, organist, and Gary Murray who sang "At Dawning", "O, Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace fashioned with a pearled scoop neckline and long tapered sleeves. A panel of organza edged with French sequins and scalloped lace enhanced the front and the lace cage back swept to a chapel train in back. A forward dip of pearled lace petals with pearl-edged lace ruffles centered with organza rosettes held her bouffant veil of imported illusion. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and baby roses.

The bride's maid of honor was her sister, Miss Karen Shanklin, who wore a floor-length gown with empire waist, white lace bodice with scoop neckline and full skirt of royal blue peau de soie. The junior bridesmaid, Miss Kathie Shanklin, and the flower girl, Miss Kristie Shanklin, sisters of the bride, wore forest green gowns similar to that of the maid of honor. Their headpieces were forest green pill box caps with shoulder length veils, and they carried bouquets of carnations. The flower girl carried a basket of baby mums and roses. Ring bearer was Randy Kinney.

Acting as best man was Norman Higgins, and groomsman was Keith Shanklin, brother of the bride. Ushers were Freddie Dutton and Kevin Shanklin, also a brother of the bride.

Mrs. Shanklin, mother of the bride, wore a pale blue brocade dress with royal blue accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The groom's mother, Mrs. Martin, wore a coral suit with black accessories and corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors where a three-tiered wedding cake centered a table covered with royal blue net. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Roberta Kinney, Miss Lee Ann Acker and Miss Darlene Shanklin.

The bride chose a two-piece beige coat and dress ensemble with black accessories to wear when they left for a wedding trip through Virginia and Kentucky. Mr. and Mrs. Martin are residing in Prospect, O. A graduate of Triway high school and Mansfield General Hospital School of Nursing, Mrs. Martin is employed as a registered nurse at Marion Community hospital. Mr. Martin, a graduate of Garrett high school, attended Alice Lloyd College and served in the armed forces in Germany. He is associated with Whirlpool Manufacturing Company in Marion, O.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a traditional floor-length gown of bonded crepe, fashioned with a low scooped neckline, an empire bodice and A-line skirt. The Victorian styled chiffon long sleeves were touched with Chantilly lace. She wore a shoulder-length veil of silk illusion attached to a crown of alencon lace and highlighted by bridal pearls and gleaming crystals. She carried a colonial bouquet of miniature carnations and red roses.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Carolyn Sue Adkins, sister of the bride. She wore a floor-length gown of yellow bonded crepe with a jewel neckline and empire bodice.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Sharon Slone, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Ella Mae Prater. Junior bridesmaids were Miss Nira Denise Combs, sister of the bride and Miss Terri Slone, niece of the groom. Miss Sheila Slone, another niece of the groom, was flower girl. The bridesmaids wore floor-length gowns of mint green bonded crepe with empire bodice banded by emerald velvet at the waistline, and with puffed sleeves. They wore matching headpieces and carried bouquets of mums with green and yellow streamers. The flower girl wore a mint green street-length dress and carried a white satin and lace basket filled with mum petals.

Ronnie Slone, of Dayton, O., served as best man, and ushers were Madison Martin and Paul Mullins.

The mother of the bride wore a three-piece knit suit in light blue with a corsage of carnations.

A reception was held at the home of the bride immediately after the wedding ceremony.

When the couple left on their wedding trip, the bride wore a pale blue empire style dress banded in black velvet.

Cooper Sees Relief From Car Shortage

Senator John Sherman Cooper stated on the floor of the Senate last Friday that some relief had been obtained with respect to the coal car shortage in Eastern Kentucky.

In his report, Senator Cooper discussed correspondence he had had with the L and N railroad in adopting a program similar to that of the C and O and N and W railways for embargoing coal to Eastern ports.

In reviewing the results of this program since its inauguration on August 28, Senator Cooper announced that some 400 additional coal cars have been released for loading in Eastern Kentucky.

In addition, Senator Cooper commented on the need for the Interstate Commerce Commission to continue in effect Service Order 1043 requiring the return of empty coal cars to the owning railroad without intervening loading. The Kentucky Senator had written the chairman of the ICC on September 24, urging that the order be continued in effect. Senator Cooper was informed by the Interstate Commerce Commission on Friday that the Commission had directed that the order be continued in effect an additional 90 days.

Cooper is author of a resolution, co-sponsored by 14 other Senators, calling on the Senate Interior Committee to conduct an investigation into the coal shortage and into related causes such as the lack of an adequate and available number of coal cars.

The Rev. Kendall is widely known as an outstanding pastor-evangelist. Gus Kalos will direct the music program during the series of meetings.

Social Security Serves Younger People, Too, Dist. Manager Says

Social security is for younger families and workers too, according to Daryl E. Ratliff, manager of the Pikeville Social Security district office.

Ratliff said that a recent survey disclosed that approximately 69 per cent of younger workers surveyed looked on social security primarily as a program for older people, and were not aware that they had a current protection under the program too in case of their disability or death.

"It often happens that in the case of the death of a younger worker his social security is the most valuable single asset that he leaves his family," Ratliff stated. He went on to point out that in case of death, survivors benefits for a widow and two children range from a minimum of $96 a month to about $434 a month, with an average of about $292 per month. "This can add up to a lot of money, particularly if the children are quite young," Ratliff stated. He went on to state that some 3 million surviving children and widowed mothers get social security each month.

Ratliff stressed further that if the worker becomes disabled social security can help provide support for both the worker and his family, with benefits ranging from a minimum of $96 a month to a maximum of $434 a month, with an average of about $273 a month.

"Some 2½ million disabled workers and their dependents receive benefits each month," Ratliff stated.

Surface mining can be done responsibly

There are many misconceptions about surface mining . . . especially as it is practiced in the mountains of eastern Kentucky. Our purpose here is simply to help you separate fact from fiction.

Despite claims to the contrary, seams of coal in mountainous terrain can be mined responsibly by surface methods. Such seams are, in fact, being surface mined right now in eastern Kentucky. Properly. Responsibly. And with prompt and successful reclamation of all areas disturbed in the process.

As surface-mine operators, we take seriously our environmental obligations to the people of Kentucky and the nation. We support strict adherence to proper surface-mining methods. And we endorse rigid enforcement of Kentucky's surface-mining and reclamation law.

The questions and answers that follow will give you a better understanding of the facts surrounding this issue. We hope you will take the time to read them.

Q. Isn't it true that surface mining will eventually ruin the mountains of eastern Kentucky, leaving gaping scars and turning the slopes into bare and sterile spoilbanks?

A. Far from it. Today land disturbed by surface-mining operations in eastern Kentucky must be effectively reclaimed under the law. We can, however, understand your concern. The public image of surface mining is anything but good . . . and not entirely undeserved.

In the past, abuse of land by some operators was fairly common. This was particularly true in the early years of surface mining and during World War II. In the mountains of Kentucky, such areas are called "orphan banks." Unfortunately, these eyesores constitute a legacy of abuse that we have inherited. But such irresponsible practices are no longer permitted.

Q. Why not? If it happened before, can't it happen again?

A. Not really. Today the law and regulations of the commonwealth carefully spell out reclamation and planting schedules for surface-mined land. Kentucky, in fact, has one of the strongest reclamation laws in the nation. Among other things, regulations under the law limit the amount of earth which can be displaced and require that exposed coal be covered with earth in a limited time or distance. In addition, the disturbed area must be seeded in the next planting season to obtain coverage of at least 70 per cent.

Even prior to the enactment of the law, many responsible operators made it a practice always to reclaim surface-mined land . . . not because they were required to do so . . . but simply because it was the right thing to do.

Q. What recourse is available should an operator choose to ignore the law?

A. The penalties are severe enough to insure that he will not. The law gives the director of the Kentucky Division of Reclamation the power to halt all operations whenever the requirements are not being met. In addition, the operator faces a minimum fine of $1,000 a day while the violation exists. Compliance is further insured by requiring each operator to post a bond before work begins in amounts ranging from $100 to $500 an acre for every acre affected. If the area is not reclaimed properly, the bonds are forfeited and the proceeds placed in a special fund for reclamation of the area involved. In short, surface mining is no longer a "do-as-you-please" industry.

Q. How is surface mining done in mountainous country?

A. In eastern Kentucky, seams of coal appear as outcrops on mountain slopes . . . like icing in the middle of a layer cake. Most of the coal is removed from the interior of the mountain by deep-mining methods. However, weak rock formations make it too dangerous to deep mine coal near the outcrop. To get at this coal around the edge of the seam, a surface cut is made in the hillside. The operation is much like building a highway on a hillside, except that after the coal is removed, the area is graded and planted with vegetation instead of being paved with asphalt or concrete.

Q. Even so, isn't surface mining a destructive and unsightly business?

A. As practiced today, surface mining is far more constructive than destructive. But there's just no getting around the fact that land temporarily disturbed by surface mining isn't pretty. Whenever large quantities of earth are disturbed, the area is bound to be unsightly for a while. This is true whether you are moving earth to build a highway or a dam, digging a foundation for a building, or surface mining a seam of coal. Too often, however, critics of surface mining dwell solely on this part of the operation and ignore the work that has been done in reclaiming land for worthwhile and productive purposes. Bear in mind, too, that reclamation is prompt and all operations are carefully controlled.

Q. Controlled? Isn't the earth just pushed helter-skelter over the side of the mountain?

A. Every phase of surface mining, from initial cut to final grading and seeding is planned and controlled. First, a cut is made along the side of the mountain to expose the seam of coal. However, the width of this cut or bench is limited by regulation, depending upon the degree of the slope. This in turn limits the amount of earth which is displaced. In many instances, a "box" cut is made to reduce the amount of spoil going over the side. In other words, only the first cut is allowed to fall down the slope. The overburden from each additional cut is then carefully built up on top of this initial layer of displaced earth. The result looks like this:

Q. But what about reclamation? Isn't this just a "hit-or-miss" proposition?

A. Definitely not. Reclamation is just as important to responsible operators as the mining phases of their operations. And they're doing a good job of it. It must be remembered, however, that there's no such thing as "instant" reclamation. Successful restoration of mined land takes time . . . time for seeds to germinate . . . for root systems to develop . . . for vegetation to take hold and thrive.

Reclamation of mined land in mountainous terrain is a relatively new science. But much progress has been made. Hydroseeding techniques are now commonly used to seed and fertilize graded slopes and benches. Experiments have been undertaken with state and federal conservation agencies to determine the advantages of various seeds and legumes for specific reclamation needs: for restoring aesthetic beauty to the land . . . for stabilizing the soil against erosion . . . for quick cover while residual grasses and shrubs develop . . . for attracting wild game and bird life.

Q. What consideration is given to preventing the haphazard destruction of timberland?

A. Responsible surface-mine operators see to it that timber in a section to be mined is selectively cut and harvested prior to mining the coal. And although it is not required by law, many operators also plant new trees on the outcrops after the land is reclaimed to provide reforestation and more effective stabilization of the soil.

Q. Aren't landslides a common occurrence in areas that have been surface mined?

A. Landslides are always a possibility in mountainous terrain, whether or not land has been surface mined. But today's effective reclamation methods have vastly reduced the danger of serious landslides in surface-mined areas.

Q. How do you control silt and debris? Aren't they carried into the streams to cause flooding and damage in the hollows?

A. Prior to beginning an operation, the operator is required to build silt basins and check dams to stop sediment and debris from clogging the streams. In addition, earthmoving operations are planned to prevent as much as possible any disturbance to the natural watershed of the area. Then, after the coal has been mined, the disturbed area is graded and the high wall backfilled to a height of four feet above the coal seam being worked. Following grading, the area is fertilized and seeded with legumes and grasses.

Q. What are the dangers of acid mine water polluting the streams and killing fish and plant life?

A. Acid mine water is a problem of mining raw coal in some areas of the country, but not in eastern Kentucky where most deposits of coal have a low sulfur content. In those rare instances where acid mine water is found to be a problem, regulations require that impoundment basins be built to prevent this water from being released into streams or rivers.

Q. Is there any truth to the rumor that the mining industry plans to phase out deep-mining operations in eastern Kentucky in favor of surface mining?

A. None whatever. Underground mining always has been and will continue to be the principal source of the nation's coal needs. In eastern Kentucky, surface mining is employed only as an adjunct to deep mining and to recover valuable deposits of coal that could not be mined any other way. For a sizeable part, this coal is found in the perimeter or outcrop area of previously deep-mined seams.

Q. If the principal source of coal comes from deep mines, why surface mine at all? Isn't this being a bit greedy?

A. It might seem so. But most people, once they know the facts, agree that it is necessary. Today as never before coal is in critically short supply. America's industries depend upon it. So do you. More than half of the country's electricity is produced by coal. It is needed in vast quantities for making steel. And thousands of byproducts come from coal: medicines, chemicals, plastics, nylon, cosmetics. Things you use every day.

At present, there are millions of tons of much-needed coal in eastern Kentucky that can be mined only by surface methods. Neither the mining industry nor the nation can afford to lose or neglect this valuable mineral resource. To obtain this coal we must disturb the land temporarily. This is one price we pay for our American standard of living. But we don't have to pay the price forever. Today, under the law, surface-mined land is always reclaimed . . . promptly . . . properly . . . responsibly.

Q. What other benefits result from surface-mining and reclamation activities in eastern Kentucky?

A. The creation of readily accessible and usable flat land in mountainous areas is one of the prime benefits that surface mining has to offer. Mined land that has been properly reclaimed can be used for many worthwhile purposes: home sites, industrial sites, cattle grazing, solid waste disposal, game preserves, and recreation and tourist areas.

Still another benefit is increased employment in an area where jobs are scarce. In the counties of eastern Kentucky, the surface-mining industry has provided thousands of men with good paying jobs . . . jobs that otherwise would not be available . . . that contribute to the support of many additional thousands . . . that help stem the flow of our young people to the mills and plants of the big cities.

As surface-mine operators, we have two responsible jobs to perform: to supply the nation with its demand for more coal . . . and to return surface-mined land to beneficial use. We intend to do both jobs well.
