

Cab Drivers Sue Council For Licenses 3 Claim Ordinance Unconstitutional, Ask Court Ruling

Three Prestonsburg taxicab operators have filed suit in circuit court here against Mayor George P. Archer, the City Council and the city of Prestonsburg in response to the council's denial of their applications for cab licenses.

They say they were denied license to operate because they have been within the last five years convicted of a misdemeanor. (Circuit court records show that two of the three plaintiffs, Harold Junior Joseph and Harold Yates, were convicted on the charge of selling intoxicating beverages. The third plaintiff is Leonard Joseph, Jr.)

Refusal of licenses was made under provisions of a taxicab ordinance enacted by the city council in 1946 and amended in April, this year. As amended, the ordinance provides that cab licensees "shall not within the last five years have been convicted of a felony or of any offense involving force of violence, or the taking or converting of the property of another, or an offense against the administration of justice, or the offense of operating an automobile while intoxicated, or of fast and reckless driving of any automobile, or of violation of the local option laws relating to alcoholic beverages."

In view of the ordinance, as amended, plaintiffs say in their complaint it would be futile to file new applications. They ask for a declaration of rights by the court, contending that the amendment to the ordinance, as a condition precedent penalizes the plaintiffs for an excessive length of time for the convictions related, "is plainly unreasonable, arbitrary and excessive," and is in conflict with state and federal statutes and constitutions.

The plaintiffs ask the court to adjudge the ordinance amendment null and void and to adjudge them entitled to licenses.

Results Stand After Machines Given Re-Check

Recheck of the voting machines in Educational Division No. 2 failed Monday to show any discrepancies, and the vote there stands unchanged.

The check of the machines was requested by Donnie Lafferty, who lost the race for member of the Board of Education in that division to Dr. J. H. Allen, incumbent.

Congressman Carl D. Perkins piled up a 6-to-1 vote in this county over his Republican opponent, Herbert E. Myers, of Louisa, polling 6403 votes to 1017 for Myers. Outside the two educational divisions, where voter-interest was whetted by the school board race, the voting was light. Over the district Congressman Perkins scored an easy victory.

The county joined the statewide vote in rejecting the general obligation bond issue. In this county 2061 "Yes" votes were cast to 2317 votes against the issue.

In the nine precincts of Educational Division 1, Dr. James D. Adams defeated incumbent O. R. "Pete" Howard, 1636 votes to 1170, for board member. Dr. J. H. Allen won the Division 2 board race, polling 1192 votes to 1070 for Donnie Laferty.

Stratton Appeals $176,000 Order

Wendell Stratton, of Ivel, filed an appeal in circuit court Nov. 4 from a county court judgment allowing him, as a coal lessee, and others $176,500 for right-of-way for new US 23 in the Ivel section.

Stratton points out in his appeal that the amount allowed was not apportioned by the court between him and others involved in the case, who are Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr. and Mrs. Sallye Gatewood Clark, all of Prestonsburg, and the United Fuel Gas Company. He also contends that the amount allowed by the lower court does not represent a fair market value of the land condemned and that his interest alone is worth $176,500.

Floyd Foxhunters, Club Plan Hunt, And Bench Show

The Floyd County Foxhunters' Association met Sunday with representatives of the Drift Woman's Club to conclude planning for their annual fox hunt and bench show to be held November 25, 26 and 27.

It was announced that Pete Reed, of Moorefield, Ky., will judge the bench show and that his daughter, Shirley, will be the ringmaster.

Riding to the hounds, which is a featured event of this meet, will begin at 7 a.m. Nov. 26, rain or shine. The hunt area includes five or more miles of scenic riding trails and it is hoped that a large number will bring their horses and take part in this new event.

FBI Asked To Probe 'Voter Intimidation'

Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark announced Friday that he has asked the Federal Bureau of Investigation to probe what he termed intimidation of voters in four voting precincts of Education Division No. 2.

Mr. Clark told L. V. McGinty, FBI agent at Pikeville, that two autos circulated between Arkansas, Allen, Prater Creek and Cow Creek precincts during election day and that their occupants reportedly snapped pictures of persons and auto license plates at the voting grounds.

One of the two cars so operated, he said, was an automobile which had been checked out of the inter-agency motors pool at Lexington by a VISTA worker, who told Clark the car was later taken by a VISTA supervisor "to have it washed." She later claimed the car at Martin after having been told it was parked there.

Several days before the election, PTA officials at Martin requested the FBI to send agents into Educational Division 2 to watch the voting. But, said Clark, no FBI representatives are known to have been in the county during the election.

The Administration candidate, Dr. J. H. Allen, was re-elected in Division 2. In Division 1, where there was no requested watch on the election or alleged interference, the Administration candidate, O. R. (Pete) Howard was defeated.

FBI Agent McGinty told Supt. Clark he would promptly relay his request for an investigation of activities in the four precincts to J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, in Washington.

Refusal of Test May Cost Deputy License To Drive

A Floyd county deputy sheriff, who was arrested here Sunday by Policemen Thomas Blackburn and Sam Hale and booked on charges of speeding and driving while under the influence of an alcoholic beverage, stands to lose his driver's license, Police Judge D. E. Blackburn said Monday.

The officer, Irvin Salisbury, refused to take a "breathalyzer" test and this refusal, Judge Blackburn pointed out, means automatic loss of driver's license for a period of six months, even though he should be acquitted of both charges.

Salisbury said he chased Paul Isaac, whom he arrested and booked on a reckless driving charge. It was this chase, he said, that resulted in his arrest. He also booked Stella Isaac on a charge of aiding and assisting her son.

Salisbury's trial in police court was set for Nov. 18.

Deputy sheriffs figured in two liquor raids Saturday. Deputies Estill Newsome and Dester Hamilton jailed Bill Smith after they had found four pints of whiskey and 103 cans of beer at a trailer on Caney Fork of Middle Creek. The same officers and State Trooper Gary Rose arrested Walker Newsome on Mud Creek, near Craynor, after confiscating 192 cans of beer and 18 half-pints of whiskey.

Three persons were arrested in the county last week as active tuberculosis cases and were returned to a t. b. (See Story No. 3, Page 8)

Lengthy Court Session Begins Work on Docket

The November circuit court session convened Monday to continue far into December with one of its heaviest dockets.

One of the four murder cases docketed, has been continued. This was the case of Charles Jackson, who was named in a murder indictment by the September grand jury in the Arkansas Creek slaying of James Chaffins. The continuance was requested by the Commonwealth.

The other three murder cases on the docket are set almost back-to-back for hearing. In these Bob Hall, Whirley Hall and Recie J. Combs are defendants. Their trial are docketed for Nov. 30, Dec. 2 and Dec. 7. Five defendants in liquor cases are scheduled for trial on third-offense indictments, and there are more than 20 other whiskey cases set for hearing.

There will be no grand jury at this session. The next grand jury will be convened for the January term. The current session will be devoted to trial of both civil and criminal cases.

'Copter-Ambulance Demonstration Set

Floyd and other Eastern Kentucky counties will see a demonstration Wednesday and Thursday of a helicopter as a means of meeting the needs of seriously ill or injured patients whose quick transport to a hospital otherwise might be delayed by isolation, bad roads or plain distance.

Dr. Arnold A. Schecter, director of the Floyd County Comprehensive Health Services, said last week that a helicopter owned by the Bell Helicopter Company will be flown to the area from Ohio and that it will be demonstrated in flights from Wheelwright, the site of the Highlands Regional Hospital now under construction near here and also at Whitesburg.

The 'copter, which will accommodate two patients, one doctor or nurse and the pilot, has a speed of 120 miles an hour. One of its flights may be between the new hospital site, near Auxier, and the University Medical Center, Lexington, where landing arrangements have been made.

Dr. Schecter emphasized the point that helicopter ambulance service, if adopted, would not be in competition with existing ambulance services. Although it would be used by the Comprehensive Health Services it would be available for the evacuation of emergency cases to distant or local hospitals.

"Certainly it's not cheap," he said. "But neither is human life. The value of helicopters in saving lives has been demonstrated in Vietnam where wounded GI's are quickly evacuated from the area of action to hospitals. The result is lives that otherwise would have been lost are saved."

He hopes to interest coal operators in the air ambulance plan and points out that such a service would materially reduce mine insurance rates.

Cost of a helicopter such as will be demonstrated this week is $135,000, new; or, if used, $90,000. Maintenance and operation would cost an additional $35,000 a year, it is estimated.

But it is held possible that half the cost of the 'copter would be paid with federal funds.

Dr. Schecter said he has been interested in air ambulance service since the days when he was an Air Force flight surgeon. He also said the helicopter service now operating in the Ft. Knox area is convincing proof of its efficiency and true value, especially in the many cases when life hangs in the balance.

Crowd Estimated Above 10,000 Attends Vets' Day Parade Here

Armed Forces Day is a national holiday, observed Nov. 11, but Floyd county in an unusual demonstration here last Saturday made no further observances necessary for the present.

An estimated 10,000 persons took part in or lined Prestonsburg streets as a parade of upwards of 40 units—bands, floats, organized groups and the like—displayed the familiar red, white and blue in costumes, decorations and hundreds of flags, large and small.

The gathering exceeded the crowds here for the Floyd County Sesquicentennial, persons familiar with both events said. The Sesquicentennial was a giant and costly effort. Saturday's observance was the idea of one woman, Mrs. Marcella Bailey, of Langley, and its success was not dependent upon money spent but upon the aroused interest of the county.

"Huck" Francis, of Prestonsburg, served with Mrs. Bailey as co-chairman of the celebration, and assistance came from widely scattered sources. Mrs. Irene Hayes, of Hueysville, was among the individuals credited by Mrs. Bailey with contributing heavily to the success of the demonstration.

The parade was vanned by a 13-year-old boy bearing an open Bible. This and the Statue of Liberty and an impersonation of Uncle Sam set the theme of the demonstration.

Schools taking part were those of Allen, Betsy Layne, Prestonsburg, Clark, Lackey, Maytown, Melvin, McDowell, Weeksbury, Stumbo, Garrett and Wayland. Private industry, the Prestonsburg Chamber of Commerce, the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post here, others added to the event by participation or assistance.

Banners were supplied by the art department of Garrett high school headed by Mrs. Virginia Draughn.

After the parade had ended, a large crowd gathered at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse to hear Col. Arthur Kelly, head of the military science department, Morehead State University, in a patriotic address.

Leaders of the observance, which was tentatively called Veterans' Day, indicated this week they will work toward an even greater program next year.

Seven Counties Have Residents At Hearing Here

Members of the National Education Association's special investigating team delving into Kentucky's educational system heard statements from between 50 and 60 persons at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, Monday evening.

Most of those with whom they talked were from Floyd county, and some were heard in private sessions. Much of the testimony heard was related to areas of dissent, but the NEA investigators let them talk, it was pointed out, because they felt that, even though some of their statements might be on local and emotional issues, the investigators could gather pertinent information by listening.

Besides those from this county, Johnson, Pike, Knott, Magoffin, Wolfe and Harlan counties were represented at the hearing.

The investigating team did not visit any schools in this county but did go into Johnson and Martin county schools. Miss Betty J. Rowland, head of the KEA regional office here, said Floyd schools were visited last March by a preliminary investigating team.

The hearings held here and at three other points in the state came in the wake of the school crisis created earlier this year by a statewide teacher strike. Their result could be recommendations that sanctions be imposed on Kentucky. That will be decided later. The Kentucky hearings will conclude with a four-day session to be held by investigators at Holiday Inn East, Louisville, beginning Wednesday.

Education Board Adopts Budget

The first post-election meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education, held Saturday, was confined mainly to routine business.

The working budget for the school year was adopted, and the board agreed to join as an interested party the suit, when and if it is filed, of the Temco Company vs. Astor Meade, Betsy Layne gym contractor.

Granting of a leave of absence for the remainder of the school year to Carol Bradley, elementary teacher here, was followed by the transfer of Rita Robinson from Clark elementary to Prestonsburg. Mrs. Bobbie Jean Hale was employed as teacher at Clark.

Substitute teachers named included Alice Harris, Elizabeth Wells, Carolyn Owens, Lily McNutt, Walter Lance Mann, Carol Sue Stone and Mary Allen Leslie.

Non-certified personnel employed were Winfred Howell as substitute bus driver and Willard Smith as janitor at Prestonsburg high school.

The public is invited to attend this program.

This Town . . . That World

If, as some think, trees have feeling, I will mourn no longer their loss of their topcovering, these fall days. Unlike some of us poor humans who have shed (period), they know it'll be back, next spring.

THE BEATIN'EST COUNTRY

I am inclined to agree with the oldtimer who declared this was the beatin'est country in the world. On the one hand, we enact the noble role of taking in their hungry, their homeless, and so on. Then we turn around and make utter asses of ourselves. For instance:

Many years ago, the French nobility tired of eating trout and took a yen for carp. They stocked their garden pools with the critters and by doctoring them up with wines, spices, etcetera, may have indeed made an edible dish of them. Anyway, some sap of an American got word that Looie or somebody at the palace, liked trout, and decided that what's good enough for Looie was good enough for him. So it was that carp were imported to America and became another worthless addition to our lakes and streams.

We didn't stop at that. Graydon B. Cummins, of Mt. Vernon, Ky., writes us to extol the virtues of the purple martin, the wren, the bluebird and other native birds. Then he expresses his utter scorn for another pest we've imported.

This is the starling, which he describes as "the filthiest, most worthless bird on this planet."

(Pelphrey's Has All the Hits!)

TO THE PEOPLE OF EDUCATIONAL DIVISION 1

I wish to congratulate my opponent, Dr. J. D. Adams, on his victory in the recent election and to thank each person who supported me. At the same time, I want all to know that I am not carrying over from this election any bitterness toward anybody.

Many things could have been said and written to stir up the voters in this election, but I am glad that they were left unsaid. We all must go on living together, and, hopefully, working together, and the dirt of elections contribute nothing toward that end.

Although my term as member of the Board of Education will end soon after the close of this year, my interest in the schools and the people of this county will continue. I hope that we all can work constructively so that progress in education will be the end-result of it all.

Sincerely,
O. R. "PETE" HOWARD

The Story That the Daily Press And Television Missed

It's a pity the mass news media, the daily press and television, fail to be on the spot in such places as Prestonsburg was last Saturday when thousands of persons—roughly, a fourth of the population of the entire county—joined in a patriotic demonstration. For this event here was the antithesis of the violence and rioting that have for a long while now claimed space and time in news columns and on television screens as the raw edge of America's temper—not the solid, un-moved blade of national sentiment—has been on coast-to-coast exhibit.

This was not a show staged by "super-patriots" and firebrands. It was not a violent backlash of ultra-conservatives against far-out liberals. It was not an expression of reactionary elements or of those who have reacted so violently against Communism that they have embraced that other evil, fascism. Rather, it was plain Joes and Marys expressing their faith in America and their conviction that the verities of life and citizenship are not outmoded.

The Times congratulates the prime movers in this event and all who joined them—the schools, teachers, pupils, business people, organized groups, ordinary citizens. And this newspaper is particularly pleased that youth, which is often unjustly maligned for the excesses of a wild-eyed few, had a leading role in it all.

Capt. Hall Earns DFC for Heroism As Helicopter Pilot in Vietnam

Capt. Emil Bernard Hall, Jr., of Martin, has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for heroism while serving as pilot-gunner on an armed helicopter during an emergency evacuation mission near fire support base Ripcord, in Vietnam.

The citation points out that upon reaching the landing scene Hall's craft came under intense small arms and automatic weapons fire. Suppressing the enemy fire, he flew at low level to engage enemy positions around the landing zone, and when a medical evacuation helicopter was downed in the landing zone Hall provided suppressive fire, enabling another 'copter to rescue the crew.

Since receiving the DFC Sept. 14, Hall has been promoted to the rank of captain. He is a son of the late Emil Bernard Hall and a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Hall, of Martin. Capt. Hall is a graduate of the University of Kentucky, and when his tour of duty ends he expects to enter the Law School there.

Mental Retardation Work Is Stressed

A proclamation designating November as Mental Retardation Month was signed Monday night by County Judge Henry Stumbo, who expressed the hope that Floyd county's citizens will respond to the call for support of programs for the mentally retarded.

"I fully support your work," Judge Stumbo told representatives of the Council for Retarded Children, "and will do everything I can to help you."

He himself inaugurated Mental Retardation Month by giving a generous personal donation to the Floyd County Council.

November each year gives the people of Floyd county an opportunity for involvement in programs for the retarded, either as volunteer workers or as financial contributors, or both.

DR. JAMES D. ADAMS THANKS VOTERS

To The Voters Of The School Division No. 1.

I now confess, as a candidate, that sometimes I suffered doubt whether I could ever gain the opportunity to serve you as School Board Member. However, the large majority I received from you on November 3rd, both overwhelmed and humbled me. I deeply appreciate your support and confidence, and will do my best to justify the responsibility you have placed in my hands.

I have had, and continue to have, great respect for my friend and opponent, O. R. "Pete" Howard, who, in my opinion, conducted a very high-level campaign. I look forward to receiving his advice in matters concerning the education of our children.

I recognize the large majority given me demonstrates an endorsement of my program for Division No. 1. I am hopeful that the four other Board Members will be as eager as I am to perform the demands of the voters by granting these needed improvements.

Again, my sincere thanks.

Kentuckians Are Urged To Use Iodized Salt

By DAVE THOMPSON
STATE NEWS BUREAU

FRANKFORT, KY.—The State Department of Health, acting on results of a National Nutrition Survey, has urged Kentuckians to make sure the salt that goes on the dinner table is iodized.

Miss Peggy Kidd, director of the Nutrition Program for the department, said Kentucky ranked low in the 10 states canvassed for buying iodized salt.

"The goiter problem is rising in all those states but it seems worst in Kentucky," she said.

Miss Kidd added that most of the persons polled were not sure the salt they bought was iodized but about 75 per cent of the people are not using the requested type salt.

"We're making an appeal to our people to look for the yellow letters 'IODIZED' on the box and encouraging them to buy it," she said.

One reason given for the lack of iodine causing the goiter problem was that Kentucky's soil is not rich in iodine.

It has been shown that there is a remarkable correlation between the geographic distribution of iodine and the occurrence of or relative freedom from goiter problems.

In large areas where the soil, water and foodstuffs are low in iodine, the incidence of goiter is high, while it is rarely encountered in people living close to the coast lines with water containing more iodine.

The best food sources of iodine are salt water fish and shellfish. Eggs and dairy products also are good sources, depending upon iodine supplementation of the feeds used. Meat and fresh water fish are fair sources. Most cereal products, fruits and vegetables, with the exception of spinach, are low in iodine.

Iodine, usually in the form of table iodate, is added to table salt at a level equivalent to 100 micrograms potassium iodide per kilogram. An average salt intake of 10 grams per day would produce 760 micrograms of iodine per day. The minimum requirement for iodine for an adult is 50-70 micrograms a day.

The National Research Council recommends an allowance of 100 micrograms per day which is considered adequate to meet the higher requirements of growing children and lactating women. Foods as selected will often not supply the minimum requirement and the desirability of using iodized salt is well established.

Nunn To Speak At Dedication Of New Plant

Governor Louie B. Nunn, who has termed American Standard's plant near Paintsville "an economic breakthrough for Eastern Kentucky," will participate in the plant's public dedication, Wednesday, November 18.

The plant is now in full production and employs approximately 260 persons from five counties.

B. S. Durant, senior vice-president of American Standard's Western Hemisphere plumbing and heating group, will also participate in the dedicatory ceremonies, which will begin at 10 a.m.

The dedication follows by about three weeks the open house which was attended by 3,000 who toured the plant.

"We were gratified by this public response and feel honored that Gov. Nunn will join us in dedicating our plant next week," Plant Manager Roger McKenzie said. He added that the dedication is open to the public.

The 166,240 sq. foot plant, on U. S. 23, between Paintsville and Prestonsburg, produces a variety of plumbing products, including a revolutionary water control valve which virtually eliminates leaks due to wear. The valve has been in limited production since 1969.

planet." And where did it come from? Russia—that's where! No, the enemy didn't turn 'em loose on us; we imported them, 'way back in 1890 and turned them on an unsuspecting public on the East coast. Thirty years ago, says Mr. Cummins, Kentucky had nary a starling. Today they're not numbered in the millions in this state—they're in the trillions... destroying other birds, carrying disease, messing up things in general. I shall not mention the fact that we've imported from Southeast Asia a walking catfish that may chase fishermen home, some day. Carp and starlings should be enough to spoil a fairly decent day without any further information from this corner.

SING WHILE YOU DRIVE

Remember this one? It's entitled, "Sing While You Drive," and it reads: At 45 miles per hour, sing "Highways Are Happy Ways". At 55 miles, sing "I'm a Stranger Here, Heaven Is My Home". At 65 miles, sing "Nearer, My God, to Thee". At 75, "When the Roll Is Called Up Yonder". At 85, sing "Lord, I'm Coming Home".

INFORMATION, PLEASE

About once a week, I engage in a telephone conversation that would make a real printer or mechanic roll down the nearest aisle. Zach Justice up at Pikeville is converting his Pike County News to "cold type" and the offset method of printing. He naturally runs into problems, and calls me. That's the funny part of the whole situation. I hum and haw and sputter a bit in the process of dispensing wisdom and know-how, and wind up by assuring Mr. Justice that he knows as much about the whole shebang as I do. Then we both agree that we share a common lack of knowledge about things mechanical, chemical, and so on, and hang up, satisfied, since each of us now knows there is another person in this world who knows practically nothing.

25 years of hard labor for $1780

This year, everybody's introducing a new economy car.

"Volkswagen-sized." "Volkswagen-priced."

So not to be outdone, we've done the same.

Except, of course, we didn't have to start from scratch.

For years, while everybody else has been jumping from model to model and worrying about looks, we've stuck with our original and improved the way it works.

And so today, while ours may not look like the newest economy car, it's the most developed.

It's the only one with a sealed steel bottom. To protect its insides against just about everything outside, including time.

The only one with an air-cooled magnesium-alloy engine. To eliminate boiling over and freezing up.

And the only one with a free electronic diagnostic system. To spot problems early and help extend its life.

Best of all, compared to all the new domestic "Volkswagen-priced" cars introduced this year, ours costs about $200 less.

So even if it doesn't look the newest, maybe now it looks the best.

* P.O.E. Suggested retail price East Coast, Local taxes and other dealer delivery charges, if any, additional.

Jefferson, Fayette Counties Lead State in Crime, Violence—Murder Every 29 Hours—Rape More Often

By LEONARD KIMBALL

FRANKFORT, KY.—A recently completed report on statewide crime has revealed that one Kentuckian was either murdered, raped, robbed or assaulted at least once every 88 minutes during the first half of 1970.

Non-violent crimes, however, took the lead with one burglary, auto theft or larceny over $50 committed somewhere in the state once every nine minutes during that same period.

Using figures compiled from reports furnished by nearly every city, county and state law enforcement agency in Kentucky, the State Police Uniform Crime Reporting Section here this week released an analysis of Kentucky's crime rate for the first two quarters of this year. The total number of crimes occurring over both quarters was put at 30,209 separate offenses.

Of those violent crimes measured in the statewide index, only robberies showed any decline between the two quarters covered by the analysis. During the first quarter (Jan.-March), 558 robberies were reported. By the end of the second quarter (April-June), the total had dropped to 529.

Murders, reported as occurring about once every 29 hours during the first half of the year, were on the rise. According to the analysis, 79 murders were reported during the first quarter and 87 during the second quarter.

Assaults, which State Police say took place about once every two-and-one-half hours, increased from a first quarter total of 882 to a second quarter high of 1082.

Rapes, reported about once every 25 hours, reached a second quarter high of 104 as compared with 88 at the end of the first quarter.

In the category of non-violent crimes, auto thefts—about one every 55 minutes—were down by 112 at the end of June from the first quarter total of 2732. Breaking and enterings—one every 26 minutes—also declined. In the first quarter, there were 5851 reported. The second quarter total dropped to 5236.

Larcenies over $50, occurring at least once every 26 minutes, were on the rise, climbing from 5082 during the first quarter to 5332 at the end of the second quarter.

A county-by-county breakdown of crime in Kentucky showed Jefferson county as having the highest number of crimes reported during the first half of this year. Total offenses reported were 13,384. Broken down, that figure represented 49 murders, 67 rapes, 676 robberies, 536 assaults, 4053 breaking and enterings, 4566 larcenies over $50 and 3437 auto thefts.

Also high on the list was Fayette county with 8 murders, 26 rapes, 84 robberies, 118 assaults, 1196 breaking and enterings, 1216 larcenies over $50 and 332 auto thefts for a total of 2980 index crimes during the first half of this year.

Commenting on Kentucky's continued high crime rate, Public Safety Commissioner William O. Newman said one of the problems confronted by police today is the fear of involvement on the part of many citizens.

"If every person who witnessed a crime, or observed what appeared to be a suspect act, immediately contacted the police, that help would be an invaluable aid to beating down our currently large number of crimes," he said.

30,000 MAY GO AFTER DEER

FRANKFORT, KY.—Kentucky's five-day gun deer hunting season opens in all 120 counties on November 14 and continues through November 18—daylight hours only.

Some 30,000 hunters are expected to try their luck with the whitetail, fallow and European red deer. To be sure, the most sought after and the most plentiful by far will be the whitetail, some of which are reported to be in every county of the commonwealth. The 30,000 plus hunters are expected to amass somewhere around 10,000 deer, if the pattern of last season is followed. Deer hunters point out the success of the hunt will depend as much on weather conditions as on the skill of the hunters and the abundance of deer.

To be eligible a hunter must have in his possession a legal statewide hunting license as well as a deer tag, cost of which is $10.50, for either a resident or non-resident.

Deer with antler or spike visible above the hairline may be taken in all counties, except Hart, Barren and Edmonson. Deer of either sex may be harvested. And a hunter may harvest only one deer in the gun or bow and arrow seasons, except for a provision whereby a hunter may take a second deer on Ft. Campbell. Regulations for the Ft. Campbell relaxation are, word by word, as follows:

Two deer of either sex may be taken on Fort Campbell by either gun or bow and arrow. If a deer is taken on Fort Campbell with a valid statewide tag, the permit card shall be so stamped and dated by Fort Campbell authorities and a statewide metal tag attached to the deer before its removal from the post. Fort Campbell authorities will record the name, address and permit or tag numbers of all persons taking deer. A permit card so stamped and dated shall be valid evidence that its bearer is eligible to receive a free Fort Campbell tag. If a person takes one deer on Fort Campbell he is not eligible to hunt anywhere else in Kentucky, but any person who has taken one deer elsewhere in Kentucky may take a second deer on Fort Campbell provided he has obtained the Fort Campbell second deer tag.

A person may harvest two deer under the above conditions only. Two deer may not be taken anywhere else in the commonwealth.

The statewide deer hunter needs to know and observe the following rules and regulations:

Weapons to be used are shotguns 10 gauge maximum and 20 gauge minimum with shells carrying a single slug; centerfire rifles .240 caliber or larger; muzzleloading rifles of .38 caliber or larger fired from the shoulder; semi-automatic rifles (when the trigger has to be pulled each time to fire the rifle); any type muzzleloading weapons on the Pioneer Weapons area in Bath and Menifee counties.

Shot for a muzzleloading shotgun must be No. 2 buckshot or larger; hunters must wear some visible article of orange or yellow clothing; persons under 18 years of age must be accompanied by an adult; each hunter who kills a deer must immediately leave the hunting area and must tag his deer. Of course, there are other regulations with which the hunter should acquaint himself before going into the field.

Management hunting dates: West Kentucky Wildlife Management area—certain tracts on Nov. 6, 7 and 8; either sex; shotgun only; check in and out Land Between the Lakes—designated area; Nov. 21 and Nov. 28; antler or spike visible above hairline; statewide weapons; by permits only. Fort Campbell—Either sex; permits only; Nov. 4-8; Nov. 11-15; Nov. 18-22 (see explanation in early part of story); Fort Knox—shotguns only; either sex; Nov. 7 and 8; 15 and 16, 21 and 28 and 29; permit hunting. Bluegrass Army Depot—either sex; Nov. 7, 14, 21 and 28; permit only. Pioneer Weapons area—For pioneer weapons only; spike or antler visible above hairline; Nov. 14 through Nov. 21. Robinson Forest—antler or spike visible above hairline; Nov. 14-18.

The above information is only partial. Hunters are advised to become acquainted with all regulations before hunting deer.

Antiques Tell Story Of State's Growth

By LOIS CAMPBELL

FRANKFORT, KY.—Ever since her pioneers turned into settlers, Kentucky has been a storehouse for fine antique furnishings. In museums, homes and a multitude of shops are handwrought objects hewn by homesteaders who waited inside forts for the Indian terror to abate.

Of equal tradition are the choicest of fine American and English pieces brought to Kentucky by sons and daughters of Virginia's first families to grace elegant homes they built in the commonwealth's earliest days.

Kentucky antiques tell the story of the state's growth from Revolutionary simplicity to the cultural heights of the antebellum era.

Settlers coming to Kentucky through the Cumberland Gap land passage, or down the Ohio, could not carry much "household plunder" with them; hence, the "pioneer" furnishings and agricultural tools in several collections are crude items of the "curiosity" class.

Early craftsmen, however, soon began to make many charming pieces from the wood close at hand, mostly pine and oak. Today, the simple functional lines of those early dough-boxes, poster beds, blanket chests and benches lure many collectors who like to blend furniture of almost any age and origin. Kentucky pieces of this vintage are particularly suitable for "mixing" because of their simple, clean, uncluttered lines.

Cabin-craft furniture and trappings also include hooked rugs, hand-woven coverlets, pottery, woodcarving, churns and crude kitchen utensils.

History reveals that Kentuckians achieved almost instant culture in education, music, the arts and a general background that spelled gracious living. In the earliest Kentucky newspapers, advertisements sought interior woodworkers, cabinet makers and silversmiths.

Such experts were available who could copy in native woods fine English, Queen Anne, Chippendale and Hepplewhite furnishings.

Kentucky pieces turned out by itinerant workers in the 19th century can hold their own anywhere—not only as good copies of the best England and the Eastern Seaboard had to offer, but also because their additional refinements reflect much imagination by the men who came west.

Of special note is the beauty of finish, the interesting lines and fine inlay on the furnishings the early Kentuckians chose for their comfort and background. Included are such pieces as corner cabinets of walnut, wild cherry and maple, Chippendale secretaries, Pembroke tables and decorated settles.

Historians tell us further that much of the imported French and English furniture of the 18th and 19th Centuries was shipped to the South.

Of special interest in an over-all survey of Kentucky's furniture efforts are the refreshing, original designs executed by the Shaker colonies at Pleasant Hill and South Union. The celibate, unworship members of this religious sect had true instinct for form.

Their workshops turned out chairs, beds, chests, cases of drawers, tables as long as nine feet and "tin" safes with Shaker blue woodwork and red-painted perforated panels.

The chairs were slat-backed with hickory bottoms; the tables and beds frequently had slender, square tapering legs that closely resemble much of the prized German Biedermeier furniture.

Many antique shops are located throughout Kentucky. Louisville has dozens of good shops, among them The Sign of the Pine Tree, specializing in English and American furnishings; the Old Curiosity Shop, a haunt of the canny collector; Geneva Archibald's, a treasure trove of old pictures and books; and at Jeffersonton, in the same area, a visit to Claxton's Antiques is like dropping into the 18th Century. Even the garden has been planted with herbs of the period.

In Shelbyville, the Wakefield-Scarce Gallery, which draws an estimated 20,000 antique fanciers each year, is famous for its silver, including pieces by Matthew Boulton. Their best seller is reported to be the antique Kentucky mint julep cup, rarer every day.

Among the dozens of places to explore in Lexington, the visitor should not miss Rebel's Rest. A unique shop, it boasts a treasury of pre-1840 Americana.

For "pure" Kentucky, the Salt Box in Grayson contains a wellrounded cross-section of such furnishings.

Antiquers on their way west to Kentucky Dam Village and Kentucky Lake can make worthwhile stopovers at Hopkinsville and Paducah. Both towns have a variety of shops.

Also, the world-famous Beaumont Inn in Harrodsburg has a house full of antiques for the visitor to drool over.

Census To Conduct Employment Survey

The Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey of employment and unemployment in this area during the week of November 15, Joseph R. Norwood, director of the Bureau's regional office in Charlotte announced today.

In addition to the regular questions on employment asked each month, the survey will again collect information about supplemental or part-time jobs and the number of hours devoted to them.

The Bureau will also ask whether each person included in the sample voted in the November election or had been registered to vote. Similar questions were asked in November 1968, and 1964.

The households to be interviewed here are part of a scientifically designed sample that is representative of the entire U. S. population.

Facts supplied by individuals participating in the survey are kept confidential and are used only to compile statistical results. The law safeguarding the privacy of the individual applies to all information collected by the Census Bureau.

The interviewer who will visit households in this area included in the sample survey is Mrs. Ella R. Daniel, of Thelma, Johnson county.
