

Higher Gas Rates Seen For County

Increase Follows Higher Pay for Gas By Major Companies

As the temperature here dropped to around 15 degrees Tuesday morning, news of impending increases in natural gas rates became of more concern to residents of Prestonsburg and other Floyd county communities.

The Prestonsburg City Council last week entered into a one-year contract which provides that it will pay 40 cents per thousand cubic feet of gas purchased from Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company. The current rate charged the city by the gas company is 31 cents.

What the rate to consumers here will be has not been determined. Another raise by Kentucky West Virginia is almost certain at the end of the new one-year contract, and the Municipal Water and Gas Commission will debate whether its increase for the next year should be based on the new 4-cents price made by the supplier, or if a new rate should be set to cover next year's anticipated increase and thus remove the necessity of making more than one price raise. Each increase must be advertised and approved by the Public Service Commission.

The same 40-cent per MCF rate is in effect under a new one-year contract signed between Kentucky West Virginia Gas and the Ohio-Kentucky Utilities serving the Allen-New Allen-Dwale area. Ohio-Kentucky, in turn, proposes these rates subject to PSC approval.

First 2000 cubic feet, $3.25; next 49 MCF, 98 cents per MCF; all over 49 MCF, 95 cents per MCF; minimum billing, $3.25.

A hearing on this rate proposal will be held at Frankfort at 9:30 a.m., Dec. 15.

In the Right Beaver Creek section the contract is based on "commodity and demand," which means, in effect, supply and demand. The base charge for gas there may range from 42 to 45 cents per MCF, it was said.

The higher cost of gas began with higher rates paid at the well-head by major distribution companies. Kentucky West Virginia, for instance, is now paying independent producers 20 cents per MCF at the well. United Fuel Gas Company in some instances is paying even more.

Ohio-Kentucky Utilities has filed an application with the Federal Power Commission for permission to construct a four-inch gas line a distance of approximately 12,500 feet from Turkey Creek, near Langley to the head of Stone Coal Creek where it would connect with an existing main. The project, estimated to cost $47,000, is planned to remedy gas supply deficiencies in Garrett, Hueysville, Lackey and Estill.

Union Election Slated Dec. 11 At Plant Here

Upwards of 300 workers will vote Dec. 11 in a union representation election ordered by the National Labor Relations Board at the U. S. Shoe Corporation's plant here.

The vote will determine if the Boot and Shoe Workers Union, AFL-CIO shall represent the workers.

U. S. Shoe has announced that it has dropped plans for location of a plant at Jackson which would be similar to the operation here.

Little immediate hope for reviving plans for the $1.4 million plant at Jackson is seen unless Congress enacts legislation restricting the import of foreign-made shoes. The nation's shoe industry has been hard hit by competition from foreign manufacturers who can undersell U. S. manufacturers because of lower labor and other production costs.

J. Phil Smith, chairman of the Breathitt County Industrial Foundation, did not see this competition, however, as the sole cause for U. S. Shoe's decision not to locate at Jackson. "I think," he was quoted as saying, "most of it was troubles in the economy. They said it (the decision not to build) was prudent, conservative business."

FBI Joins in Hunt For Check 'Artist'

The Federal Bureau of Investigation and Kentucky State Police have joined the Floyd county sheriff's office in an attempt to run to earth those involved in a check-passing racket which is already known to have cost business people in four Eastern Kentucky counties and in border counties of West Virginia and Virginia almost $4000.

The checks which have been widely circulated are those of the R. K. Allen Music Co., of Allen, which, officers say, is a non-existent firm. They also say that there is no R. K. Allen.

Yet an account was opened in a local bank last year for a firm of that name.

Police Force Has An Unusual Study Record

Prestonsburg's police department is said to be Kentucky's most unusual, in that it is the only one of its size to have every member the holder of a certificate in basic police training. Four have completed a month-long course at the University of Kentucky, and the other four completed the course given here under auspices of the Kentucky Crime Commission. Five have completed the "Breathalyzer" course and two only this week attended the Ft. Knox "bomb school." Shown, seated, from left, Lonnie Herald, Police Chief Bill Potter, Dicky Campbell, Capt. Ralph Thornsby; standing—Police Judge D. E. Blackburn (who also completed the basic course here), Ray Click, Girven Waddle, Thomas A. Blackburn, Capt. Sam Hale, Mayor George P. Archer.

This Town... That World

If Thanksgiving Day overtakes you and finds you ungrateful, you're poor. And that doesn't take into consideration your bank account. (Wonder why I waited till Thanksgiving to come to such a conclusion?)

WARNING

I would not for any price inflict further worries upon a worried people, but word has just reached me that those who have a taste for "moonshine" whiskey would do well to take it easy. Federal agents who have seized quantities of the stuff found more than carbide or buckeye in it. They found that it contained dangerous levels of mercury, and that's the stuff that kills some people, shakes others off their rockers. The revenuers don't know how the mercury got into the spirits but speculate that it could have come from automobile radiators that are sometimes used for distilling the whiskey, or possibly from mercury-polluted streams.

"One drink probably wouldn't kill you," says Health Director Bistowish, of Nashville, Tenn., "but over a period of time it will."

AND THAT'S HOW

It was only after the concern about mercury-poisoning became widespread that I learned the origin of the expression, "mad as a hatter." I am told that in the old days hatters, or makers of hats, used mercury in shaping the headpieces, gradually absorbed the poison and wound up fit subjects for the looney bin. Hence...

New Bids on US 23 In County Reviewed

Greer Brothers and Young, London, Ky. contractors, have offered the low bids on construction of the controversial three sectors of US 23 between Mare Creek and the Floyd-Pike line at Boldman, but the awarding of a contract still remains in doubt.

The Department of Highways' Awards Committee began a review of the bids this week, but even if it recommends acceptance the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads must agree before a contract is formally awarded.

The original bids were rejected last June when the J. D. Barter Construction Co., Harrisburg, Ill., was low with a bid of $9,812,753. The three sectors of road involved were readvertised, and in August Greer Brothers and Young were low with a bid of $9,496,273. But the U. S. Bureau of Roads held that there was not sufficient competition in the bidding, and the projects were advertised for the third time.

The London firm's low bid on this third advertising is $9,800,394, only $12,359 less than the original bid of the Illinois firm and about $304,000 more than Greer Brothers and Young asked for the work at the second bidding in August.

It was the rejection of the Barter bid that resulted in the filing by Barter and its associate, Mattingly Bridge Co., Louisville, of a $4 million suit alleging conspiracy.

The new bids now under consideration follow:

Cold Water Branch to the Pike-Floyd line, 1.36 miles—Greer Brothers and Young (joint venture with Adams) $3,162,671; Bizzack Construction Corp., Frankfort, $3,184,632; and Codell Construction Co., Winchester, $3,572,631.

Three Nabbed In Rum Raids Over Week-End

Sheriff's deputies arrested three men in as many liquor raids over the week-end, confiscating 433 cans of beer and a smaller quantity of whiskey.

Freddie Newsome was arrested on Middle Creek Saturday by Deputy Sheriffs Claude Flanery, Otto Fannin and Arville Nelson and Capt. Lykins and Trooper Tucker, of the State Police. They reported confiscation of 230 cans of beer and the impoundment of a Mercury auto in which some of the beer was reportedly cached. Sheriff Frank Leslie said officers have been ordered by the court to impound all autos, refrigerators and other appliances used as containers of illegal intoxicants.

At McDowell Sunday, Edd (Panhandle) Moore was arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Flanery, Skeens and Conn after they had found a half-gallon of beer and a half-pint of gin on his premises.

Flanery, Conn and Nelson raided premises occupied by Bill Smith on Town Branch, near here, Sunday morning and reported finding 233 cans of beer and 23 half-pints of whiskey.

Three others were arrested on liquor possession charges—Clarence P. Hughes, by Deputy Sheriff Nelson; James Hall and (See Story No. 3, Page 10)

Gas Companies And Road Dept. In US 23 Suits

Two gas companies operating in this county have instituted circuit court action against the Kentucky Department of Highways.

One of the firms the United Fuel Gas Company, last week filed an appeal in circuit court from the Floyd county court action which allowed it and others $176,500 for right-of-way over property in the level area. It contends that its holdings alone are worth that amount. The same claim was made by Wendell Stratton, holder of coal rights on the property. The overall $176,500 amount was the total allowed the gas company, Stratton and the owners of the land, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Fitzpatrick, Jr. and Mrs. Sallye Gatewood Clark.

In the other action the Ohio-Kentucky Utilities Company seeks a declaratory judgment and asks that it be declared the sole owner of all easements over its mains, lines and facilities and new easements for lines in the Allen-New Allen-Dwale area, except where these lines cross US 23 and KY 1428.

The gas company also demands that in the event it is required to remove any of these facilities the work be done at the expense of the highway department. The petition says the highway department claims removal of these lines is the duty of the company.

Ohio-Kentucky Utilities points out that it serves some 1250 customers, 375 of whom are in the Allen-New Allen-Dwale area where new US 23 will be built. It is the proposed road construction that will require removal of the company's facilities.

Glad To See You — Bop!... Reunion for Football Players To Be—Naturally—a Football Game

The annual Kentucky-Tennessee Thanksgiving football game that stood grid followers of two states on their ears is no more, and the Prestonsburg-Pointsville Turkey Day game that once created all kinds of mayhem also has passed to where the woodbine twineth.

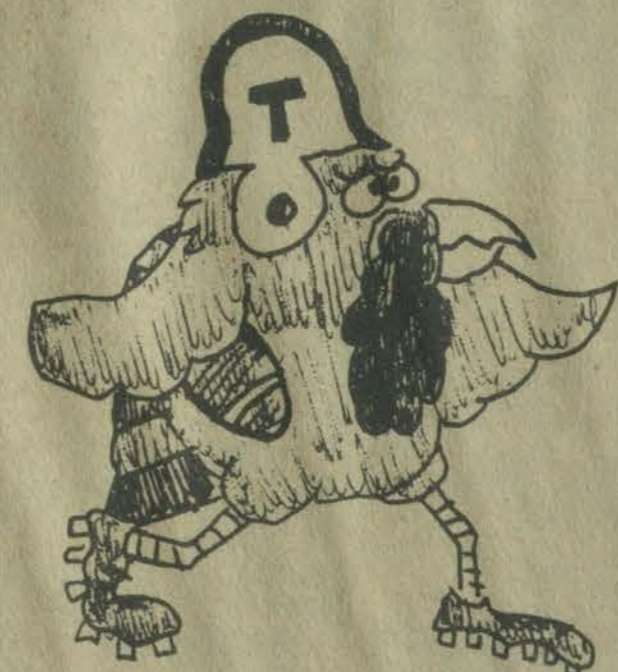

But all is not lost. The boys who play, or who have played, the game for Prestonsburg high school and various colleges, are home for Thanksgiving. And they will enjoy happy reunion by the rubbing of noses in the good, home soil, come Thanksgiving day.

It is the new Thanksgiving football classic, the Turkey Bowl, now in its third year, and the fellows have already chosen sides.

Kick-off time at 2:15 will see the East All-Stars squared off at Archer Park against the West All-Stars for the tie-breaking fray. With a record of one win for each team, the struggle promises to be spirited, with no tie games allowed and a sudden-death ending for one team an inevitable conclusion.

Line-up for the fray, played without pads on a muddy field, courtesy of the Prestonsburg Fire Department (if not the elements), includes such stellar figures of local football fame as the following:

East All-Stars—William H. Montgomery VI, Paul "Black Bart" Tackett, Steve "Mahoney" Clark, Bennett "Broke It" Leslie, Darrell "Legs" Leslie, Mike "The Molar" George, Ben "Dancing Bear" Alvarez, Herbert "Z" Salisbury, III, Wayne "Tweezer" Brown, Kenneth "Ace" Wells,

Power Co. To Get Two Million Tons Of Coal Per Year

The Martin County Coal Corp., of Inez, which is now preparing for development of huge coal resources in Martin county, has signed a contract to deliver 2,000,000 tons of coal a year over a period of 30 years to a North Carolina electric power firm, it was announced Monday.

W. E. Massey, president of A. T. Massey Coal Company, Inc., of Richmond, Va., announced the signing of the contract between its wholly-owned subsidiary, Martin County Coal Corporation, and Mill-Power Supply Company, Charlotte, N. C., agent for the Duke Power Company. Duke Power, one of the nation's larger investor-owned utilities, presently has seven major coal-fired electric generating stations in North and South Carolina. It is providing some of the financing for the Martin county corporation.

The coal primarily is for Duke's Belwevs Creek Station, presently under construction and slated to go on steam in 1974. The coal will be mined by the Martin county firm from a 100-million-ton reserve acreage in Martin county, which was recently leased from the Pocahontas Land Corporation, a land-holding company of the Norfolk and Western Railway Company. The N and W has under construction a 24-mile spur line that will penetrate the reserve.

The coal to be supplied to Duke Power Company under this contract will be a completely cleaned coal product of low ash content. Although the seams to be mined are of low sulphur content, the ash as mined is extremely high and the heat content low. In order to make it of acceptable steam coal quality, a contract for the construction of the preparation plant to process this coal has been awarded to the Daniels Company, (See Story No. 1, Page 10)

Big Sandy RECC Files To Restrain Striking Workers

A restraining order against Local Union 317, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, and 20 of its members was asked Friday by the strikebound Big Sandy Rural Electric Cooperative.

Since the beginning of the strike Nov. 17, says the petition for injunction, signed by Bill Wells, of West Prestonsburg, manager of the cooperative, there has been an abnormal number of "outables" in the co-op's service to approximately 400 customers in the Cow Creek, Buffalo, Bull Creek and Emma sections of this county and in the Johns Creek and Boonscamp areas of Johnson county.

The plaintiff expressed the belief that these interruptions of service were caused by "unlawful acts of defendants" and that unless they are enjoined these acts will continue to occur and become more numerous.

The work-stoppage resulted from a dispute over wages. The cooperative in its petition for injunction claimed that it has a working agreement with the union and that this agreement contains a no-strike clause providing that disputes shall be settled by arbitration. A federal mediator was called into the dispute and when he failed to effect a settlement, the workers went on strike, the RECC claims.

The cooperative also contends it has suffered damages in having to pay for overtime work during the strike, that the system has been damaged and that it has been required to bear expenses without production. It sets these damages at $9000.

Floyd Man Dies In Ohio Wreck

One of two men killed, Tuesday of last week, in a three-car smashup in Ohio was Forrest Dean Tackett, 29, of Ashtabula, O., a native of McDowell.

The second victim was Patrick Urbano. The former Floyd countian, a resident of Ashtabula, was a passenger in an auto driven by William Kracker, also of Ashtabula, and they were en route from their homes to work in a Paynesville, O. factory when, according to officials, a car driven by Arlita Rittnor, Minter, O., crossed the median of the highway and rammed the Kracker car.

Tackett was a son of Curtis and Veda Hamilton Tackett, of Ashtabula. Other survivors include his widow, Mrs. Joan Tomolomis Tackett and one daughter, Eugenia, of Ashtabula; two brothers and four sisters, Jeffrey and Curtis Tackett, Mrs. Girlie Marie Hall, Mrs. Phillis Hall, Mrs. Dottie Hall and Miss Alberta Tackett, all of Ashtabula.

The body was taken to the home of the victim's grandmother, Mrs. Anna Moore, of McDowell, and funeral rites were conducted Saturday at 10 a.m. from the Little Rosa Regular Baptist Church there. Burial was made in the Jack Hall cemetery at McDowell under direction of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

This Continuing Danger Should Be Removed

The loss of a single life near here in a highway mishap may lose significance when placed alongside those greater contemporary tragedies in which 75 persons lost their lives in a plane crash at nearby Huntington, W. Va., and a hundred thousand or more were claimed in Pakistan by wind and tide. But if there is something that can be done to prevent a repetition of that lesser tragedy at possibly a hundred spots along Kentucky highways, it becomes of great consequence.

We refer to the scores of precipitous, unterraced highway cuts in mountainous areas of the state which present a continuing threat to human life. In the death of a Pike county man near here, a few days ago, only the State Highway Department can be blamed, even though it is a victim of circumstances which include its own neglect, years ago, to take sensible precautions to protect the public. In the this case a huge boulder fell from the top of a cliff onto U. S. 23, where it waited for the first unsuspecting driver.

One such danger spot is within the corporate limits of Prestonsburg, on a sector of U. S. 23 that is subject to heavy travel because it is near Prestonsburg Community College, two housing developments and various places of business. There are unnumbered others. At each there is always the danger of a rockslide or a heavy fall of rock. The motorist may not realize that he is running a gauntlet, but in effect he is.

The Highway Department has manifold responsibilities and problems, it is true, but it should begin at once to remove from these overhanging, precipice-like borders of highways all loose stone and to do terracing of such declivities in order to impede the fall of rock onto passing vehicles or into their path.

Autumn—A Time for Forest Fires

Fall means different things to different people. To some, it means the beautiful coloration of autumn leaves; to others, the time to harvest crops; still others look forward to the smell of burning leaves. But to an employee of the Division of Forestry, it is a time of increased work activity.

All too often the burning leaves he smells come from a forest fire that is destroying part of Kentucky's natural beauty, killing or damaging trees that would have contributed to Kentucky's future economy.

Every time a fire burns through Kentucky's forests, everybody loses. The sportsmen see valuable game, food and cover destroyed. The nature enthusiast sees only blackened hillsides where wildflowers once bloomed in the spring, and Jack Frost painted his pictures in the fall. The lumberman sees a valuable resource either destroyed or greatly reduced in value.

Last year, 3079 fires destroyed 54,000 acres of Kentucky's forests. One fire was caused by lightning; all the rest, 3078, were caused by man and his activities. Debris burning, the seemingly innocent burning of a pile of brush or leaves, was responsible for nearly half of those fires. Every one could have been prevented if the person doing the burning had taken a little time to be careful. The careless smoker was the cause of over 600 forest fires and countless roadside grass fires. A little thought would have prevented all of them.

Maynard Marcum, fire chief for the Division of Forestry, asks that every resident help prevent this shameful waste of Kentucky's natural resources by exercising caution in burning. He stresses that under Kentucky law, it is illegal to start a fire within 150 feet of the woods during the period of October 1 to December 15.

accident or arson; any wildfire is illegal.

Any fire out of control is a wildfire. Don't cause one by careless burning. Do report arsonists. Everyone gets burned by forest fires.

Whatever Things

There is a story told about a certain little boy who wanted a watch. Day in and day out, he pestered his parents about getting him a watch. His parents put him off every way they could. Finally, he drove his parents to the breaking point. His father told the youngster that he didn't want to hear another word about a watch from him.

Well, for the rest of that week the lad said nothing about a watch. He knew that to do so would certainly bring some discomfort to his sitting-down place. However, Sunday soon rolled around, and the family was gathered together for a period of devotion. It was the custom in the family for each member to learn a new verse of scripture and to recite it during devotions. Every other member of the family had said their scripture verse when it came time for the small lad to quote his. Looking up with a very solemn face, he quoted his verse perfectly. "What I say unto you I say unto all, watch."

Well, I'm not certain if he got his watch or the other thing. But one thing I can say for him—he was persistent.

And that's a quality all of us could use—persistence. For one of our faults today is that we give up too soon, call it quits after a single setback, let failure break us instead of make us.

There is very little a person cannot do in this life if he sets out to do it—and stays with it. One reason we don't accomplish more is that we are quick quitters. We get a set-back or two and then we say it can't be done. We give up. We quit trying. But history is full of things that couldn't be done. And that means it is also full of men who did them.

The world looks up in admiration to a man who has staying-power. He doesn't have to have great brains, or great riches, or vast opportunities. But if he believes in something, and has the persistence to stay with that belief regardless of the praise or scorn he receives, the world ultimately will look up to him.

One reason there aren't any more people with persistence than there are is the simple reason that it takes a big man to try again, or to stick out the ship when the waves get high. Anyone can quit. Anyone can get into a lifeboat and float to safety. But the man with persistence is hunting neither safety nor another mission. He has something he wants to do, and he believes he can do it. So he stays with it, come what may. Then one day he finally accomplishes the impossible.

Great and good goals aren't easy to accomplish. They require great and good men to accomplish them. And great and good men are men who keep on keeping on. I believe God wants a man who says, "I can." I believe God wants a man who will try again.

"All things are possible..." He is waiting to see if you believe Him. If you do, try again.

Remarkable Discoveries in the Plant World

Dedicated men of science both here and in Europe have worked unceasingly in their laboratories in the study of the world of living things, and their discoveries are astounding to layman. Some of these are destined to change our thinking about the world of living things, including man. These hardworking, dedicated men have recently announced some of their discoveries made while working with delicate electrical instruments.

These men on both sides of the Atlantic have proved many of the statements of the Bible writers to be absolutely true. For instance, St. Paul wrote more than two thousand years ago, "There is a natural body and there is a spiritual body." Also they verify God's command in Genesis when he said, "Let there be light, and there was light."

The trouble with ordinary man is, his physical vision is too narrow and limited for him to see into the deeper mysteries of the life all around him. He looks at a tree and merely sees the outline and physical form of the tree, but these scientists who have been studying trees, plants, people and all kinds of objects by the use of high-speed photography have announced that trees, plants of all kinds, animals and man have two bodies; they have photographed the "second body," and when one of these learned men sees a tree, he sees not only its physical form but the "energy body" of the tree, which is pulsating with life and energy.

These scientists have photographed brilliant lights flashing from all kinds of plants. Some go out like orange and violet flares, some are of exceedingly brilliant hue, dazzling to behold.

Here in America, Backster, head of the famous Lie-Detector School of Criminology, has used his spare time in studying trees and other plants by means of the polygraph, with which instrument he is a recognized expert. He has made some startling discoveries that may well revolutionize our thinking about the world of living things all around us. His experiments cannot be doubted because they have been proved as reliable and true by scientists now working in Europe on the same projects. Backster has shown by use of the polygraph that trees and plants have thought, emotion, memory and extra-sensory perception. He has also shown that each tree knows its owner and can recognize him when he approaches; that trees and other plants of the forests are aware of what is happening around them and show a response to it. For example, an aged deer crawls under a tree to die; the tree knows of its death and registers something that might be said to resemble human sorrow.

Even more remarkable are the experiments of Dr. Kirlian, a Russian scientist who developed a high-speed electric generator that can generate as high as 200,000 oscillations per second. He attaches this to an electron microscope and takes photographs of living things. His work has revolutionized the thinking of many scientists and it is destined to wipe out much of the atheism of Soviet Russia. Without making any dogmatic assertions, this scientist merely states what he has found. He says the entire universe is filled with a spiritual light, which he calls "bioluminescence," and his high-speed photograph has photographed lights of many brilliant colors emanating from plants and many live objects.

Many times this brilliant scientist was known to cry out, "This whole universe is filled with brilliant light!"

God said "Let there be light!"

Dr. Kirlian has photographed lights shooting and darting from all kinds of objects; it is a fine, spiritual light that cannot be seen by the human eye. Dr. Kirlian has also shown that all living things in the universe have two bodies—the natural body mentioned by Paul, and the "spiritual body," which this scientist calls "the bio-plasmic body," or "energy body in plants." In humans, some call it the "astral body." This body in plants seems to be able to record emotions, to respond to stimuli in the environment; this "energy body" builds the plant or tree, sustains it, and yet is able to function on its own as a body of energy. This body in plants, which scientists now call "the bio-luminescent body," because it glows and sends out brilliant lights, outlives for a time the death of a tree or plant. For instance, Dr. Kirlian photographed a whole leaf, showing brilliant lights flashing from its surface and shooting off into space. He then split off one-third of the leaf and photographed it again with his high-speed electron microscope-camera, and the leaf still appeared whole or as one leaf. The energy body of the leaf was still there, filling up the supposedly vacant place made when part of the leaf was cut off.

Take a large oak tree, for example. It has the physical form of a tree; it also has a spiritual form, which Dr. Kirlian calls the "bio-luminescent body." If we chop down the oak, the physical body soon dies, but the "energy body," or "bio-plasmic body," of the oak may survive for some little time and may stand there where the physical body stood and can be photographed before it finally disintegrates. This energy body tries to restore the tree by causing sprouts to come from the roots. So any part of a plant or a flower that is lopped off is rebuilt by this energy body, or "bio-psychic body," but if the plant is so badly wounded it will surely die, the "bio-psychic body" cannot rebuild or restore it.

All of which leads us to say, "There are greater mysteries in our universe than have ever been dreamt of."

It seems that we have not yet scratched the surface of the great body of knowledge and mysteries that clothe this universe. Immortality is all around us, yet we know it not. Brilliant lights of every rainbow color are shooting and darting from living things all about us, but we see it not. "Our whole earth and cosmic universe are blazing with spiritual light!" the great scientists now exclaim with awe.

Right or Wrong By HENRY A. BUCHANAN

Woman suffrage has come of age. Anything—or anybody—that's been around for 50 years has come of age.

Men were indignant over the women wanting to vote 50 years ago. Maybe it had not occurred to the men that women would vote for men. Now, 50 years later, women are still voting for men, and the country has never been in a worse fix.

But the women are not satisfied with the vote. They want more. That's what the indignant men said they would want. More. More. More.

And what is this "More" that the feminists are clamoring for today? Women's rights. Equality. "We demand equality," the banner reads.

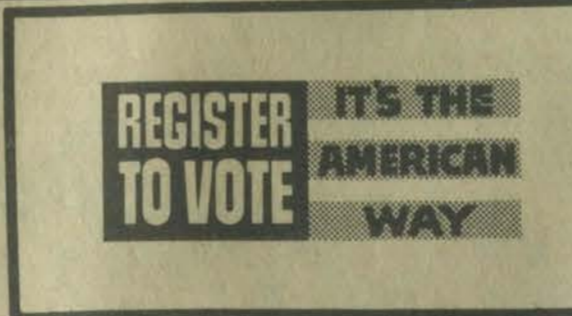

What is equality? Are bras and girdles the symbols of woman's inferiority? Or is competition for jobs and pay the crux of the whole matter? The men would just as soon have their women without the bras and girdles. It's in the job market that men are threatened by the aggressive females. Pressed by the needs of their own families, men always feel insecure and threatened by newcomers to the field. But what men need to remember is that the real threat is from those who will do the same job for less money, not from those who demand equal pay.

But there is something for women to consider, too: Equality is not happiness. The removal of all distinctions between the sexes does not make them more interesting to one another. Nor more compatible.

An airline stewardess and an airline steward should receive the same pay if they do the same job, but a steward cannot do the job for me that the stewardess does. A female auto mechanic should receive the same pay as a male mechanic—and she should be given equal consideration for the job if that's what she wants to do—but I feel a lot better about a man crawling into the grease pit and having a look at my leaky valves.

Suffrage: Equality? Fine! But let's not forget that it's the difference that counts.

Tidbits of Kentucky Folklore . . .

Some Vivid Folklore Memories

By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D.

In reviewing some folk beliefs lately, I have recalled some very vivid folklore memories. Though the things I recall are and were largely for fun, I did not so regard them, for I was a child. Here is a good example: I had, as did all children, a cat that I loved dearly. Once a group of young women who were helping my sisters finish quilting a quilt which was stretched in the usual frames suggested that the cat should be shaken to determine who would be the first girl to marry. Forthwith the cat was rounded up, placed in the center of the quilt, which had meanwhile been taken out of the frames, and shaken violently. The girls laughed and kept on shaking; finally the cat, scared half to death, leaped out past one of the girls, but I have forgotten which one. My sympathy was with the frightened cat. I didn't care whether any of the girls ever got married. And some of them didn't, because of the cat or some equally good reason.

When, as a small boy, I went with my older brothers to the county seat, we sometimes left our horses in the livery stable, especially on very cold, raw winter days. That particular stable always had a goat, just one, a very nosey, smelly one, too. I wondered why the goat was in a livery stable and was told that it was to keep the horses healthy. That seemed the only earthly use for the animal; I hope it did its part well.

Salamanders were not at all plentiful in my childhood. I remember the strange excitement that my sister and I had when we found one in a pile of leaves or under a piece of rotting wood. Superstitious people said that such wicked-looking things should be destroyed when found. I can still see that small animal's glaring eyes as we stomped it into the ground until it merely left a small greasy, bloody place. But that cured me from destroying water puppies or such; no further depredation on the tribe has occurred in the many decades since then.

All the boys of my age wanted to trap or kill such birds as quail and doves. I thought it would be great fun to do just that. My older brother helped me make a trap and set it. I almost at once caught a dove and came running to show Mother. She said for me to wring its neck and she would cook it for me. I did my part, but I lost any interest in killing doves thereafter, even barely tasting the cooked bird and leaving the rest of it to less finicky people. It was ages afterward that I learned that many people think it is bad luck to kill a dove.

Bees were kept by very few of our neighbors at Fidelity. Our nearest neighbor had a hive or two. One spring day, when I was small, a new swarm emerged from one of the hives and came flying en masse over our yard, a couple of hundred yards away. I ran and grabbed a handbell and began ringing it violently. An older brother beat on a tin pan. The bees went on their way, apparently not knowing that they were supposed to settle when loud noises were made. So far as I know, they may still be flying, waiting for the right moment to descend.

Some boy playmate of mine loved to pull off the legs of insects and watch the awkward efforts of the maimed creatures to get along on fewer legs. I recall, too, that he would yank off a leg of the grand-daddy, which is not an insect, for it has eight legs. Once when he did this, some other child spoke up and warned him that his act would cause the family cow to give bloody milk. So far as I now recall, that stopped our maiming of small creatures. Across the ages I can still recall the strange odor of the maimed arachnid; maybe that helped me be kind to animals; if so, superstition did a good deed.

Over and over as a child I heard that a homely child would grow to be good-looking as an adult. By all odds I must have been pretty homely, though I have no picture to show this condition until I was all of six. Anyway, I have now waited more than three quarters of a century for the prophecy to come true: I am beginning to think that this superstition is false.

By 1980, the number of women at work, 37 million, will double the 1950 figure, 18 million.

Letters to the Editor

Thanks People for Interest

Everyone who attended the patriotic parade in Prestonsburg, November 7, say it was the greatest. I knew when I was working, contacting all the schools, that it would be a real big parade. The idea was to involve as many kids as possible, giving attention especially to little kids who have been neglected too long. They are people, too.

Floyd county really went to work and did a superb job. This is a "true American way of life." Floyd Countians really showed their true colors—red, white and blue.

I want to say, "Thank you," from the bottom of my heart. You'll never know how I felt standing there at the grade school grounds, seeing all those school buses pulling in and unloading all those children. All I could see was red, white and blue. It made me so thankful and I felt like my hard work was not in vain. The teachers who spent long hours working at night, you wonderful parents all over Floyd county, you all deserve a big hand. Without you the parade couldn't have materialized. You are a great group of people. Floyd county will go forward; you've proved it by the cooperation and togetherness this parade has created.

I especially want to remember the veterans, Gold Star mothers, and mothers of servicemen, the city of Prestonsburg, Huck Fancis and Irene Hayes and every person in Floyd County.

Teachers and parents, please remember and have the children save all those colorful uniforms and be thinking of what you can do in the next big parade in 1971. May God bless you.

IN APPRECIATION

The family of Tobe Nichols would like to express sincere appreciation to all neighbors, friends and relatives who expressed their sympathy in so many ways upon the passing of our dear husband and father. Donors of the beautiful flowers, and food will long be remembered. We especially thank Dr. James D. Adams and the nurses at the Prestonsburg General hospital and the Rev. Charlie Rowe and singers for their comforting words and beautiful songs; also the Carter Funeral Home for its efficient service and kindness during the time of our bereavement.

COMPLAINS ABOUT CAFE

I have tried since March to get something done about a place at Hi Hat—Newman Cafe, by name. They have a pool table in this place. Children of all ages are allowed to play pool. They also have a pinball machine and a jukebox.

Judge Henry Stumbo and myself searched the records in the County Court Clerk's office and there is no record of a roadhouse license issued to this place. Ollie Robinson also searched the records and told me personally that license had not been issued to this place. Judge Hollie Conley searched the records and also told me that they did not have license to operate a roadhouse. Judge Stumbo told Mr. Frank Leslie to close the place. Judge Conley told me also that he had told the sheriff to close the place. Both of these Judges have told me that the sheriff is paid between $1800 and $2500 for this kind of work.

It seems to me that the sheriff is getting taxpayers' money under false pretense. I want to ask Judge Stumbo and also Judge Conley how long would you let the sheriff ignore an order from you if your children were visiting this place or if this place was in your community. They keep this place open till the wee hours of the morning.

Do You Know Your Symbols?

This symbol, innocently worn by some, by others worn with the alleged purpose of carrying out the orders of Communism, is an ages-old design that has never been associated with peace. Yet it appears at demonstrations, worn by so-called peace groups, youths in protest. It is said actually to be one of the ancient Satanic symbols, known as the "broken cross," also as the "crucified cross." The symbolism is the Christian cross inverted, signifying Satan's contempt for the Christian concepts—in short, one of the marks of the anti-Christ.

"Freedom of conscience, of education, of speech, of assembly are among the very fundamentals of democracy and all of them would be nullified should freedom of the press ever be successfully challenged."—Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Faith in Eastern Ky. Upheld, Nunn Says at Plant Dedication

Faith in the economic future of Eastern Kentucky has been upheld "in a measure we would not have dared to forecast at the beginning of this administration," Governor Louie B. Nunn said at the dedication of American Standard's new plumbing fittings plant near Paintsville last Wednesday. The governor noted that "during the past 33 months 43 new industries have come to Eastern Kentucky."
"These companies have invested almost $50 million in their future and in your future," he told an estimated 400 regional dignitaries and American Standard employees. Addressing himself to civic leaders who worked to attract industry to this area the Governor said:
"In my memory, and I trust in the memory of future generations of Eastern Kentucky who will have a better opportunity to realize their full potential because of what you have done, this plant will always stand as a monument and reminder of your endurance, your concern and your dedication to the betterment of this section of our state and its people."
B. S. Durant, senior vice president of American Standard's Western Hemisphere Plumbing and Heating group, told the gathering that the company at first did not consider locating the plant in Eastern Kentucky.
"Somebody had to get our attention, and I wish to thank those who sold us on the wisdom of locating here; sold us on the reliable, competent and skilled people who make their homes in Eastern Kentucky and on the excellent training of such institutions as Mayo Vocational School and Prestonsburg Community College."
"The many fine qualities of the people of this area made us choose to locate in Eastern Kentucky and there is every indication that this choice was the right one. We are manufacturing a brand new product in a brand new plant, and already this plant has produced some 300,000 fittings and is meeting its production schedule," he said.

The plant's manager, Roger McKenzie, termed the dedication ceremony a tribute to everyone involved—"To the community leaders who displayed an attitude of outstanding cooperation, to the contractors who built while we were working, and particularly to the employees who worked while they were building."

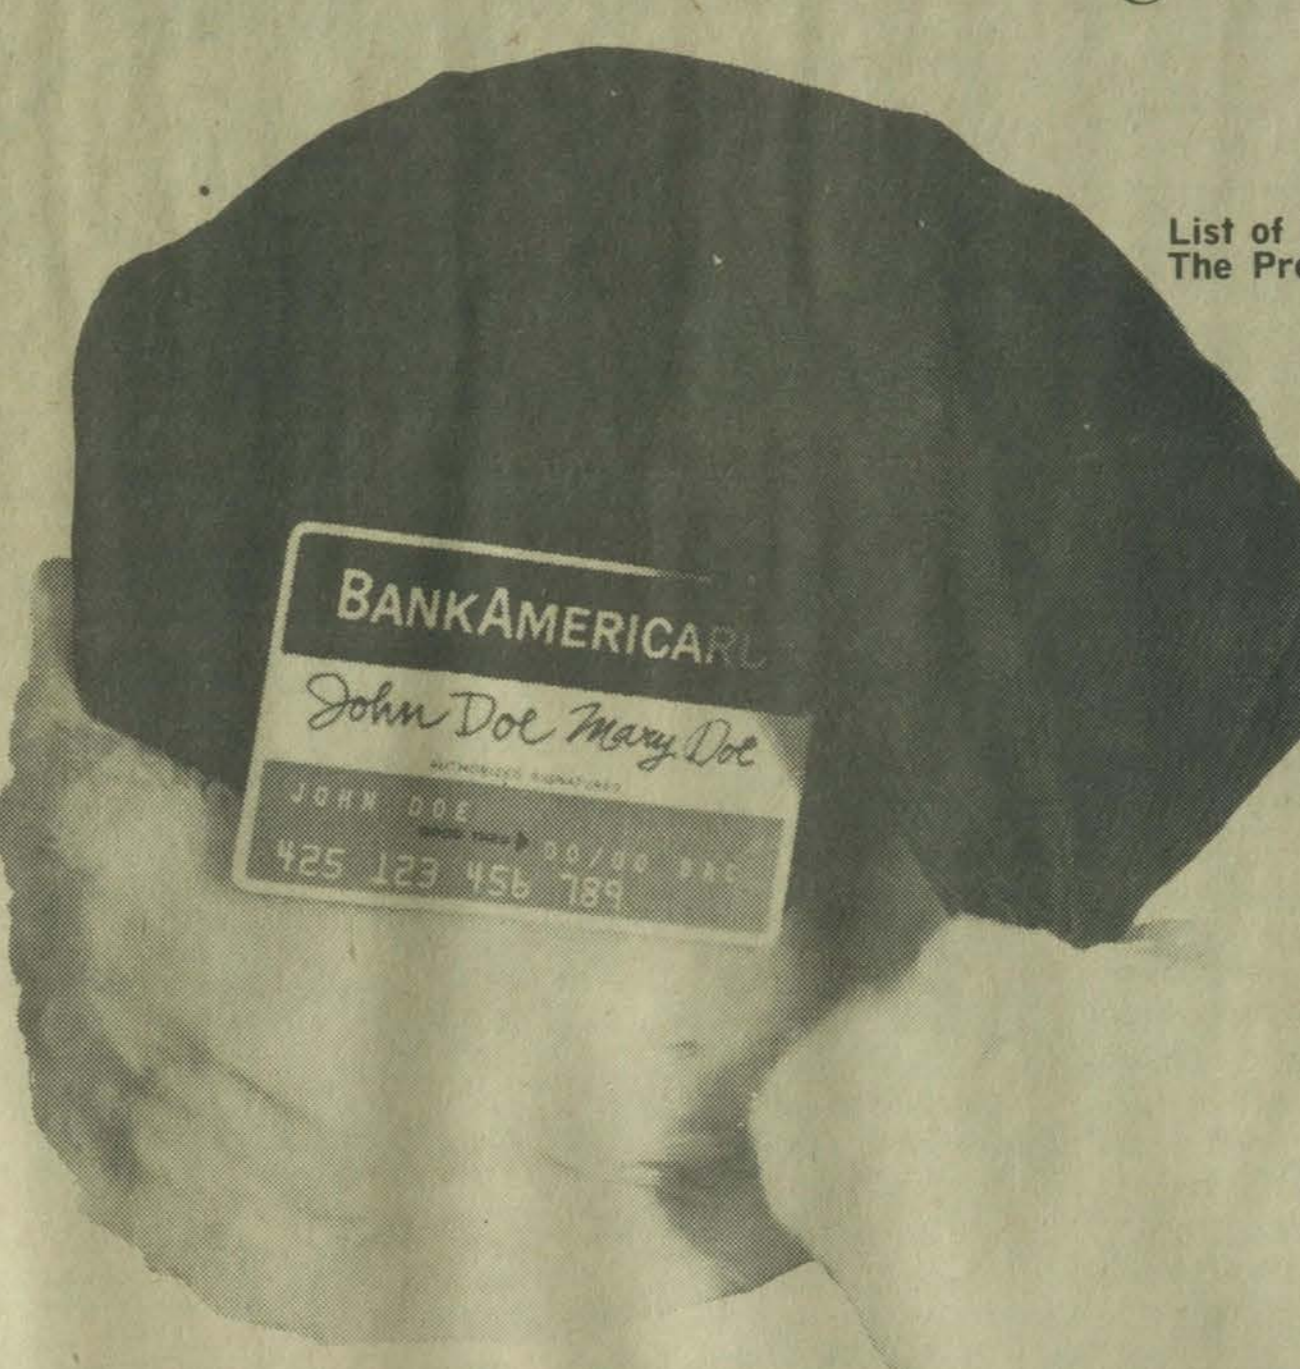

CARD OF THANKS
We would like to take this means of thanking all who helped us upon the passing of our dear father, Waclaw Platkus. We especially wish to thank those of you who sent flowers, food or did anything to help. And a special thanks to the minister, the Rev. William Poole, and the Hall Brothers Funeral Home for its fine service.

Five Adult Ed Seminars Planned at PCC Soon

Five Seminars on the Techniques of Adult Education for Teachers will be presented on Tuesday evenings from 6:00 - 9:00 at Prestonsburg Community College. The Seminar Program is being planned for the near future and the starting date will be announced at a later date.

To be presented in the opening seminar will be a guest lecturer from the Adult Education section of the Kentucky State Department of Education. Topics discussed in the first session will be: (a) How to treat adults, (b) Importance of enthusiasm of teacher, (c) Psychology of teaching disadvantaged people, (d) Getting trainees to meet time schedules. This will be followed by a discussion period.

To be discussed at the second seminar will deal with reading skill techniques. The teacher will be introduced to the latest reading skills and equipment and shown the role this equipment can play in the development of good reading habits. The needs for improved reading skills for comprehension, retention, and enjoyment will also be shown. Finally, this session will end with a discussion by all attendees with suggestions as to how Prestonsburg Community College reading equipment can be put to use during the year.

The third session will deal with Mathematics Teaching Techniques with an introduction to improved approaches of mathematics teaching and the new concepts of modern math. The purpose of this seminar is to demonstrate the methods that can be employed so as to have students enjoy mathematics and to illustrate that modern math has a place in the educational process. An open discussion following the lecture will provide ideas for future work in the Spring Term.

Featured at the fourth seminar will be a session on Family Development Personal Hygiene. This seminar will provide teachers with knowledge of the proper approach to the instruction of students in the social and health aspects of proper personal hygiene, sensitivities of the students, and means of avoiding embarrassment will be discussed. Family development ideas will be presented and their goals discussed with the discussion period serving as a feedback from which a future program can be molded.

The fifth and final session will be used to further develop any ideas from previous seminars. Also, at this time, future needs can be defined and a spring seminar series planned.

The cost of these five seminars will be $12.50 per enrollee. Applications may be obtained from the Prestonsburg Community College Admissions Office. Information may be obtained by contacting Mr. Frank Collopy at Prestonsburg Community College or the College Admissions Office.

Kentuckian Heads U.S. Tax Association

FRANKFORT, KY.—The third Kentuckian in the last 24 years has been elected president of the National Tax Association (NTA).

Kenneth Back, a native of Jeremiah (Letcher county), who served as an executive assistant in the Kentucky Revenue Department in 1952-55 and is now chief finance officer for the District of Columbia, was elected NTA president at the recent convention in Honolulu.

Back graduated from Transylvania College and received his master's degree at the University of Kentucky under Prof. James W. Martin, who was Kentucky's first commissioner of revenue (1936). Dr. Martin served as NTA president in 1946-47 and another Kentuckian, H. Clyde Reeves, in 1952-53.

Coincident with Back's election, two other Kentuckians were elected to the association's board of directors. They are State Revenue Commissioner James E. Luckett and one of his former executive assistants, William H. Forst, who now is serving in the Iowa Revenue Department. Forst is a native of Louisville and a graduate of Bellarmine College.

MENTAL HEALTH—The four state mental hospitals are still overcrowded, by national standards, although the total of patients declined about 50 per cent in six years to the present level of 2750, Mental Health Commissioner Dale Farabee said.

Task Forces For Program To Be Formed

FRANKFORT, KY.—Regional task forces soon will be formed to help carry out Kentucky's program for the education of exceptional children.

Under a 1970 state law every Kentucky school district must by July 1, 1974 offer such special education.

The law defines as "exceptional" those children "who differ or deviate from the average or normal children in physical, mental, emotional or social characteristics and abilities to the extent that they require specialized education in order to attain the maximum of their abilities and capacities."

Gov. Louie B. Nunn recently appointed a nine-member State Task Force on Exceptional Children. Letters are now being sent to school superintendents, county health departments, college and university presidents and regional mental health and mental retardation boards inviting nominations to the regional task forces on exceptional children.

"Everyone interested in this program is invited to volunteer to serve on a regional task force or to suggest the name of someone who should serve," said Paul Osborne, executive director of the Human Resources Coordinating Council.

Names should be sent to: Human Resources Coordinating Commission, Room 35, New Capitol Annex, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

SCHOOLS—Dr. R. L. Johns, of the University of Florida, conducting a national survey, said Kentucky's Minimum Foundation Program is one of the soundest in the U. S. The State Court of Appeals said Kentucky laws forbid strikes by teachers or any other public employees.

Invitation To Bid

The Floyd County Board of Education will offer to the lowest and-or best bidder until 12:00 noon, December 5, 1970, for its purchase of books and related library materials, for the various schools.

Bidders must furnish their latest catalog or book lists, and may bid a certain percentage discount below catalog, or list prices, delivered to the various schools of the county.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Speakers at Lodge Parley Say Mental Health, Common Concern

"Mental Health—Our Common Concern," was the title of the program sponsored by the Region 11 Mental Health-Retardation Board held at Jenny Wiley State Park last Wednesday.

Planned to resolve problems and questions previously posed by local officials, the meeting was opened by invitation to judges, county attorneys, sheriffs, jailers, mayors, police, and officers of associations primarily concerned with mental health.

Presentations were made by Daniel B. Howard and Dr. James G. Bland, both deputy commissioners of the Kentucky Department of Mental Health, Judy Boggs, that Department's attorney and the psychiatrist and Dr. Jerry Wysocki, director of the unit at Eastern State hospital serving Region 11.

Discussing the development of the Mental Health Centers, Howard spoke of periodic differences of opinion between the Department of Mental Health and the Regional Board but reaffirmed that both shared the same goal—the development of "comprehensive mental health-mental retardation services for the five counties, Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin, and Pike. He acknowledged that patient transportation to and from Eastern State Hospital to be a problem but reported that "not later than July 1 the Department will provide transportation service to that hospital."

Miss Boggs affirmed that there is a problem with drugs in Kentucky, that steps have been taken to provide persons abusing drugs with treatment and mentioned some of the places this is available. She reported on the extended capacity of certain county officials to act when a person is in need of mental health services with or without warrant or petition.

Bland in dealing with the topic of psychiatric emergencies spoke of the depth drug abuse, violent behavior and suicide. He said that the suicidal person almost without exception tells someone of their intentions. He rebutted the idea of an idle threat—"If they say they will, they will," if there is not intervention. He affirmed that with proper attention suicide is almost always preventable.

He noted that in resolving a "psychiatric emergency" that one needs to keep cool. "The most disturbed person is sensitive to much of what is going on around him," Bland reported. He recommended that honesty and a simple, straight non-threatening approach be utilized.

Dr. Wysocki reported on the recently established unit system at Eastern State Hospital. He reported that the unit had a total of 149 patients from Region 11. The unit is ready and intends to establish firm, lasting communication with this region, he added.

4705 in County Getting Stamps; Number Growing

The food-stamp load, as of September, this year, was heavier in Floyd county than for the same month a year ago, but it was the same story in every other Kentucky county where the stamps are issued.

In September, 1969 4705 Floyd countians received the stamps. The number of recipients had grown by September of this year to 6942.

Less-populated Knott county had almost as many in September, this year—6408. Pike, largest county in the state but not most populous, had 8220, but its recipients had almost doubled within the year. Harlan county had the heaviest food-stamp population this September with 10,671. Last year at the same time it had 7971.

Jefferson county's 19,937 was the heaviest stamp load in the state, as of September. A year earlier, it had only 6084.

U. S. Department of Agriculture food programs aided 286,270 needy persons in Kentucky in September—an increase of 99,970, or 54 per cent, over the same period last year.

The boost in participation occurred in the food stamp program, in which 230,371 received aid. This represented an increase of 103,329 over September, 1969, or 81 per cent. Close to $4 million in bonus food coupons were issued to Kentucky's needy in September, 1970 as compared to $930,087 over the same period last year, USDA's Food and Nutrition Service reports.

In addition to the food stamp program, 55,899 low-income Kentuckians received USDA donated foods through the food donation program during September.

2-Day Heart Clinic Set Here, Dec. 1-2

A two-day consultative and diagnostic heart clinic for medically indigent patients will be held in the Floyd County Health Department here, Tuesday and Wednesday, December 1 and 2.

The clinic is being organized so that adults only will be admitted to the clinic on December 1, and children only will be seen on December 2.

Floyd Is Among 26 Counties In Welfare Volunteer Program

Floyd is one of 26 counties in the state in which a volunteer program designed "to give the citizen more challenge and responsibility" was recently announced by the Kentucky Department of Child Welfare.

Volunteers will be "carrying whole cases," performing all duties related to even severe problems involving child abuse and neglect, delinquency, adoption, foster home supervision, unwed mothers, homemaker services—in fact, all services of the Department.

George Perkins, commissioner of Child Welfare, in announcing the program said, "We have reexamined all beliefs about how all children and families in Kentucky can ever be helped. We concluded that neither professional social workers nor government alone can possibly reach all who need help. The only real hope is the citizen, neighbor helping neighbor, with even the severe problems."

The program stems from three conclusions of the Department:

1. All helping agencies of the State and nation have been able to treat only the bare surface of total human needs.
2. There are not and never will be enough professionals to adequately help the total number of people in need.
3. When we admit that most agencies can now deal only in crises, and that it is unlikely that the professional resources available can ever be increased enough to fulfill total need and statutory responsibilities, one logical alternative remains: the community, citizens themselves, must share the responsibility, and the community share must be the major one. Only citizens themselves, giving direct one-to-one help, assisted by professionals, can meet the overall human responsibility to help the entire range of neglected, dependent, and delinquent children and their families.

Brennan Mullaney, Director of Community Resources Development for the Department, said the program is being started by 45 professional social workers and juvenile counselors in 26 Kentucky counties: McCracken, Crittenden, Lyon, Livingston, Daviess, Warren, Nelson, Marion, Larue, Hardin, Grayson, Meade, Beckinridge, Jefferson, Shelby, Campbell, Kenton, Boone, Montgomery, Pike, Floyd, Letcher, Pulaski, Boyle, Fayette, and Franklin.

Mullaney said it will be up to the local social worker to determine in which areas of service volunteers are to be utilized first.

They may begin with only ten volunteers in a county.

"There shall be no arbitrary line of demarcation between what professional and volunteers may do. Competence alone is the criterion of what is delegated to the volunteer," he said. "We are seeking a new balance between citizen and professional.

Perhaps even more important, the conclusions we began will show that the thousands not receiving help now will be helped only when citizens assume more personal responsibility. The old attitude of 'charity' has not brought the help needed," he added.

The 45 workers will recruit, train, and supervise the volunteers through "volunteer teams."

"The team is also a rather new concept," Mullaney said. The volunteer will have first responsibility for a child or family, but his team of volunteers has secondary responsibility for all cases assigned to the team. The team members will provide emotional support to one another. Each team will be led by a professional worker who will provide the expertise when needed, and insure that quality of service is maintained.

Implementation of the program has been made possible by the Kentucky Crime Commission who funded and supported the effort to get "back-to-community."

It is expected that 300 volunteers will be recruited state-wide within three months. Additional groups of workers using volunteers will be started after this initial trial and demonstration period.

Public Hearing Set On Black Lung Benefits

The Clay County Poor Peoples' Association will conduct a public hearing November 21 at the Horse Creek Community Center, near Manchester, on the issue of Black Lung, it was announced recently by its chairman, Theo Napier.

The CCPA is sponsoring the hearing so they can publicly discuss the Black Lung program, especially the administration of the federal Black Lung law by the Social Security Administration. The public hearing will be an attempt to learn why hundreds of miners and miners' widows are receiving denials on their applications for Black Lung benefits and why many others have failed to receive any response at all from the Social Security Administration, Napier said.

BIGGEST CATCH OF THE SEASON

The fishing season is over, and once again I have failed to distinguish myself. But I have in my possession a rare specimen, a blue-eyed fish. It is the home-made fish carried by a small boy in the patriotic parade here recently, and Mrs. Marcella Bailey, of Eastern, has given it to me. It's patriotic, all right—red and white polka-dotted. When I began looking for the missing color, she suggested I look the fish in the eye.

THIS HELPED

About the only high moment that was mine during that alarming experience with doors at Mountain Manor, the other Saturday, was when I approached a very old man who stood in the door of his room, laughing fit to kill. "Kindly got mixed up, didn't you, young fellow?" he gasped. "Young fellow"—oh, boy!

Club Plans Party For Aged Patients At Golden Years

Maytown Homemakers Club members are making plans for the annual Christmas party to be given for the old folks at Golden Years Rest Home at Lackey. The party will be held on Sunday, Dec. 13 at 2 p.m., and the old people are already looking forward to it.

The club plans to bring all the patients who are able down to the recreation room for the party. Santa Claus will be present again with all sorts of surprises.

The homemakers have ordered enough red-striped material to make each a robe to wear on the day of the party. This will require 90 gowns.

The club is very low on funds, and any Floyd countian who wishes to do so can help. The club needs contributions to help pay for the robes and perhaps houseshoes. It also will need all the volunteer help it can get to help sew the gowns.

If you wish to sew a robe, call 285-3548. Those who want to make a cash donation to help pay for robes, send it to Mrs. Joyce Rowe, Secretary, Box 224, Langley, Ky.

The minister had accompanied his son, Robert (Eddie) Burnette, who was home on furlough from Ft. Devens, Mass., the Rev. Larry O'Bryan, of Lancer, and the Rev. Carl Mullins, of Salyersville, on a hunting trip. His son and the other two ministers left the Rev. Burnett in their auto and walked a short distance away, hunting. When they returned a short time later, they found the minister dying where he had fallen as he apparently had attempted to follow them.

A son of Naomi Meltabarger Burnett and the late Benjamin Lyle Burnett, he was a native of Granite City, Ill. He was a Navy veteran of World War II, in which he was severely wounded, and was a graduate of the Clear Creek Baptist School. He had resided here the last 20 months with his family while serving as associational missionary. Before coming here he held a pastorate near Bowling Green.

WHITTAKER-CALDWELL VOWS SOLEMNIZED HERE, NOV. 6TH

The marriage of Miss Carletta Whittaker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Whittaker, of East Point, Ky., and Jim Caldwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Caldwell of Prestonsburg, was solemnized at 7:30 p.m., November 6, at Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church here. The double ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. D. Jagers before an altar arranged with white lilies-of-the-valley and with 15-branched candelabra placed in the center.

A program of wedding music, including "The Song of Ruth," was presented by Gus Kalos, vocalist, and organist, Mrs. Joe Buchanan.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white embroidered satin. The neckline was a wedding band style, interlaced with blue satin ribbon. The matching, floor-length train was trimmed with blue satin ribbon attached to a bouffant veil of imported illusion. She carried a bouquet of cymbidium orchids intertwined with blue and white satin ribbon.

The bride's maid-of-honor was Mrs. Fred Little, of Prestonsburg, who wore a floor-length gown with empire waist, white lace bodice with a high neckline and a full skirt of blue peau de soie.

Acting as best man was Bill Frank Caldwell, brother of the groom. Ushers were Bill R. Whittaker, brother of the bride, and Kenny Caldwell, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Whittaker, mother of the bride, wore a pale blue suit with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations with blue ribbons. The groom's mother, Mrs. Caldwell, wore a two-piece knit-dress in shades of orchid and purple, and a corsage of white carnations with blue ribbons.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Margaret Ann Collins, of Prestonsburg. A three-tiered wedding cake centered the table covered with a white lace over blue cloth. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Bill Caldwell, Mrs. Jim Curnutte, Mrs. Don Moore, Mrs. Dallas Prater, Mrs. Willis Sparks and Miss Lois Baldrige.

Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell left for a wedding trip to the Great Smokey Mountains, Gatlinburg, Tenn. They are now residing at Route 356, Prestonsburg.

HUNTING AND FISHING IN KENTUCKY

BY HARRY TOWLES

FRANKFORT, KY.—A "quiet" period has been declared again this year for hunters. It immediately precedes the opening of the small game seasons. It is effective as of November 1 and extends through November 18 at midnight. During this "quiet" period a person may not hunt either protected or unprotected birds or animals except deer in the legal gun deer season which opens on November 14 and continues through November 18; or geese in the goose season which opens on November 16 and the shakeout season on raccoons. Other than for those pursuits, a person has no business in the field with a gun, unless there is an animal or bird that is doing damage to his property, in which case the owner of the property may shoot the animal or bird, providing he informs the conservation officer of the circumstances and providing he turns the killed animal or bird over to the officer who will dispose of it, most likely by giving it for food to a publicly supported institution, such as an orphan's home.

Except for the provisions listed above, hunting in Kentucky is shut down, tight, during this pre-hunting season.

The reason for the "closed season" is simple. It's an attempt to prevent the harvest of small game, and other game as far as that goes, by those individuals who would literally "jump the gun" on the hunting seasons.

In the past violators did not wait until the season opened to take rabbits and squirrels and quail as well as many other species. They would, under the guise of hunting groundhogs or crows, kill illegal game and it was necessary for the officer to find illegal game on them or to see them shoot game for which the season had not opened before he could make an arrest. Hunters dodged this game on person feature by, for instance, killing a rabbit or quail and hiding the kill out until night, when they would go back and bring the illegal harvest home. It was most difficult to make a case when the illegal hunter was accosted in the field. But now, things have changed.

If a hunter is in the field with a gun, an officer knows pretty well that he is a violator unless he is engaged in the hunting of geese or deer during their seasons which overlap the "no hunting" ban. And so the act of crow hunting or groundhog hunting no longer may be used as an alibi by the illegal hunter and it is relatively easy for an arresting officer to make his case stick.

That's the reason for the tight regulations and that's the reason that the law abiding crow and groundhog hunter must be punished. Again it is the law violator for which the laws are made, but everyone, of course, must abide by them.

Game law violations do not end when the small game season officially opens. There'll be those who hog more than their legal possession limit; there'll be the night rabbit hunter who will spotlight rabbits on the roads from an automobile or from a tractor.

He may not think so, but that fellow who does this is just as much a law violator as the one who hunts before the season opens.

Mrs. Combs Calls For Art Emphasis

Wayland, Ky.—"With enthusiasm and knowledge go forward from your home to do great achievements, but listen to the quiet voice within you; let it spur you on to supreme achievements." This advice was given by Mrs. Duna Combs, Kentucky Federation division chairman in visual arts and head of the Art Department at Johnson Central high school, speaking to the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club recently at the home of Mrs. Felix Coburn, Garrett.

Mrs. Combs listed a number of ways the club might help bring the awareness of art to the community. She suggested an art week-end with well-known painters or sculptors to visit the local community. She mentioned building a sculpture garden or fountain center in the heart of the community. She urged that art people be invited to the club's planning sessions to reap the benefits of their divergent thinking. She called for encouragement to be given the local art teachers in their programs in school as well as out, and also encouragement for new building codes in order to stamp out ugly housing. Suggesting an art week sponsored by the club, she urged that the club sponsor Saturday morning art classes for underprivileged as well as privileged children.

The speaker also urged that local artists and sculptors need encouragement from the community in the purchase of their work. She reminded her hearers that these gifted people needed to eat as well as others from different walks of life.

Mrs. Marie Mullins as program leader, introduced the speaker.

At a business meeting following the program a contribution was voted for the Patriotic Day parade. A new member, Mrs. Joyce Allen, was admitted.

Those attending were Mrs. Rudolph Spencer, Mrs. Charles Hughes, Mrs. Marie Mullins, Mrs. Elizabeth Duff, Mrs. Patricia Duff, Mrs. Jackie Lawson, Mrs. Alice Hornsby, Mrs. Beatrice Collins, Mrs. Margaret Thiesen, Mrs. Floyd Tackett, Mrs. Rex Martin, Mrs. Earl Castle, Mrs. Crit Wells, Mrs. Blanche Barner, Mrs. LaFaye Hughes, Mrs. Lula Coburn, Mrs. Marcella Bradley, Mrs. Loretta Martin, Mrs. J. T. Spillman, Mrs. Dora Reed, and the speaker, Mrs. T. J. Combs of Langley. Hostesses were Mrs. Felix Coburn and Mrs. Hansel Bradley.

Questions and Answers

about surface-mining activities in eastern Kentucky . . .

SURFACE MINING, EXPLAINED

Q What recourse is available should an operator choose to ignore the law?
A The penalties are severe enough to insure that he will not. The law gives the director of the Kentucky Division of Reclamation the power to halt all operations whenever the requirements are not being met. In addition, the operator faces a minimum fine of $1,000 a day while the violation exists. Compliance is further insured by requiring each operator to post a bond before work begins in amounts ranging from $100 to $500 an acre for every acre affected. If the area is not reclaimed properly, the bonds are forfeited and the proceeds placed in a special fund for reclamation of the area involved. Surface mining is no longer a "do-as-you-please" industry.

Q How is surface mining done in mountainous country?
A In eastern Kentucky, seams of coal appear as outcrops on mountain slopes . . . like icing in the middle of a layer cake. Most of the coal is removed from the interior of the mountain by deep mining methods. However, weak rock formations make it too dangerous to deep mine coal near the outcrop. To get at this coal along the edge of the seam, a surface cut is made in the hillside on a hillside, except that after the coal is removed, the area is graded and planted with vegetation instead of being paved with asphalt or concrete.

Q Even so, isn't surface mining a destructive and unsightly business?
A As practiced today, surface mining is far more constructive than destructive. But there's just no getting around the fact that land temporarily disturbed by surface mining isn't pretty. Whenever large quantities of earth are disturbed, the area is bound to be unsightly for a while. This is true whether you are moving earth to build a highway or a dam, digging a foundation for a building, or surface mining a seam of coal. Too often, however, critics of surface mining dwell solely on the "eyesore" of the operation and ignore the worthwhile and productive purposes. Bear in mind, too, that reclamation is prompt and all operations are carefully controlled.

Q Controlled? Isn't the earth just pushed helter-skelter over the side of the mountain?
A Every phase of surface mining, from initial cut to final grading and seeding, is planned and controlled. First, a cut is made along the side of the mountain to expose the seam of coal. However, the width of this cut or bench is limited by regulation, depending upon the degree of the slope. This in turn limits the amount of earth which is displaced. In many instances, a "loose" cut is made to reduce the amount of spoil going over the side. In other words, only the first cut is allowed to fall down the slope. The overburden from such additional cut is then carefully built up on top of this initial layer of displaced earth. The result looks like this.

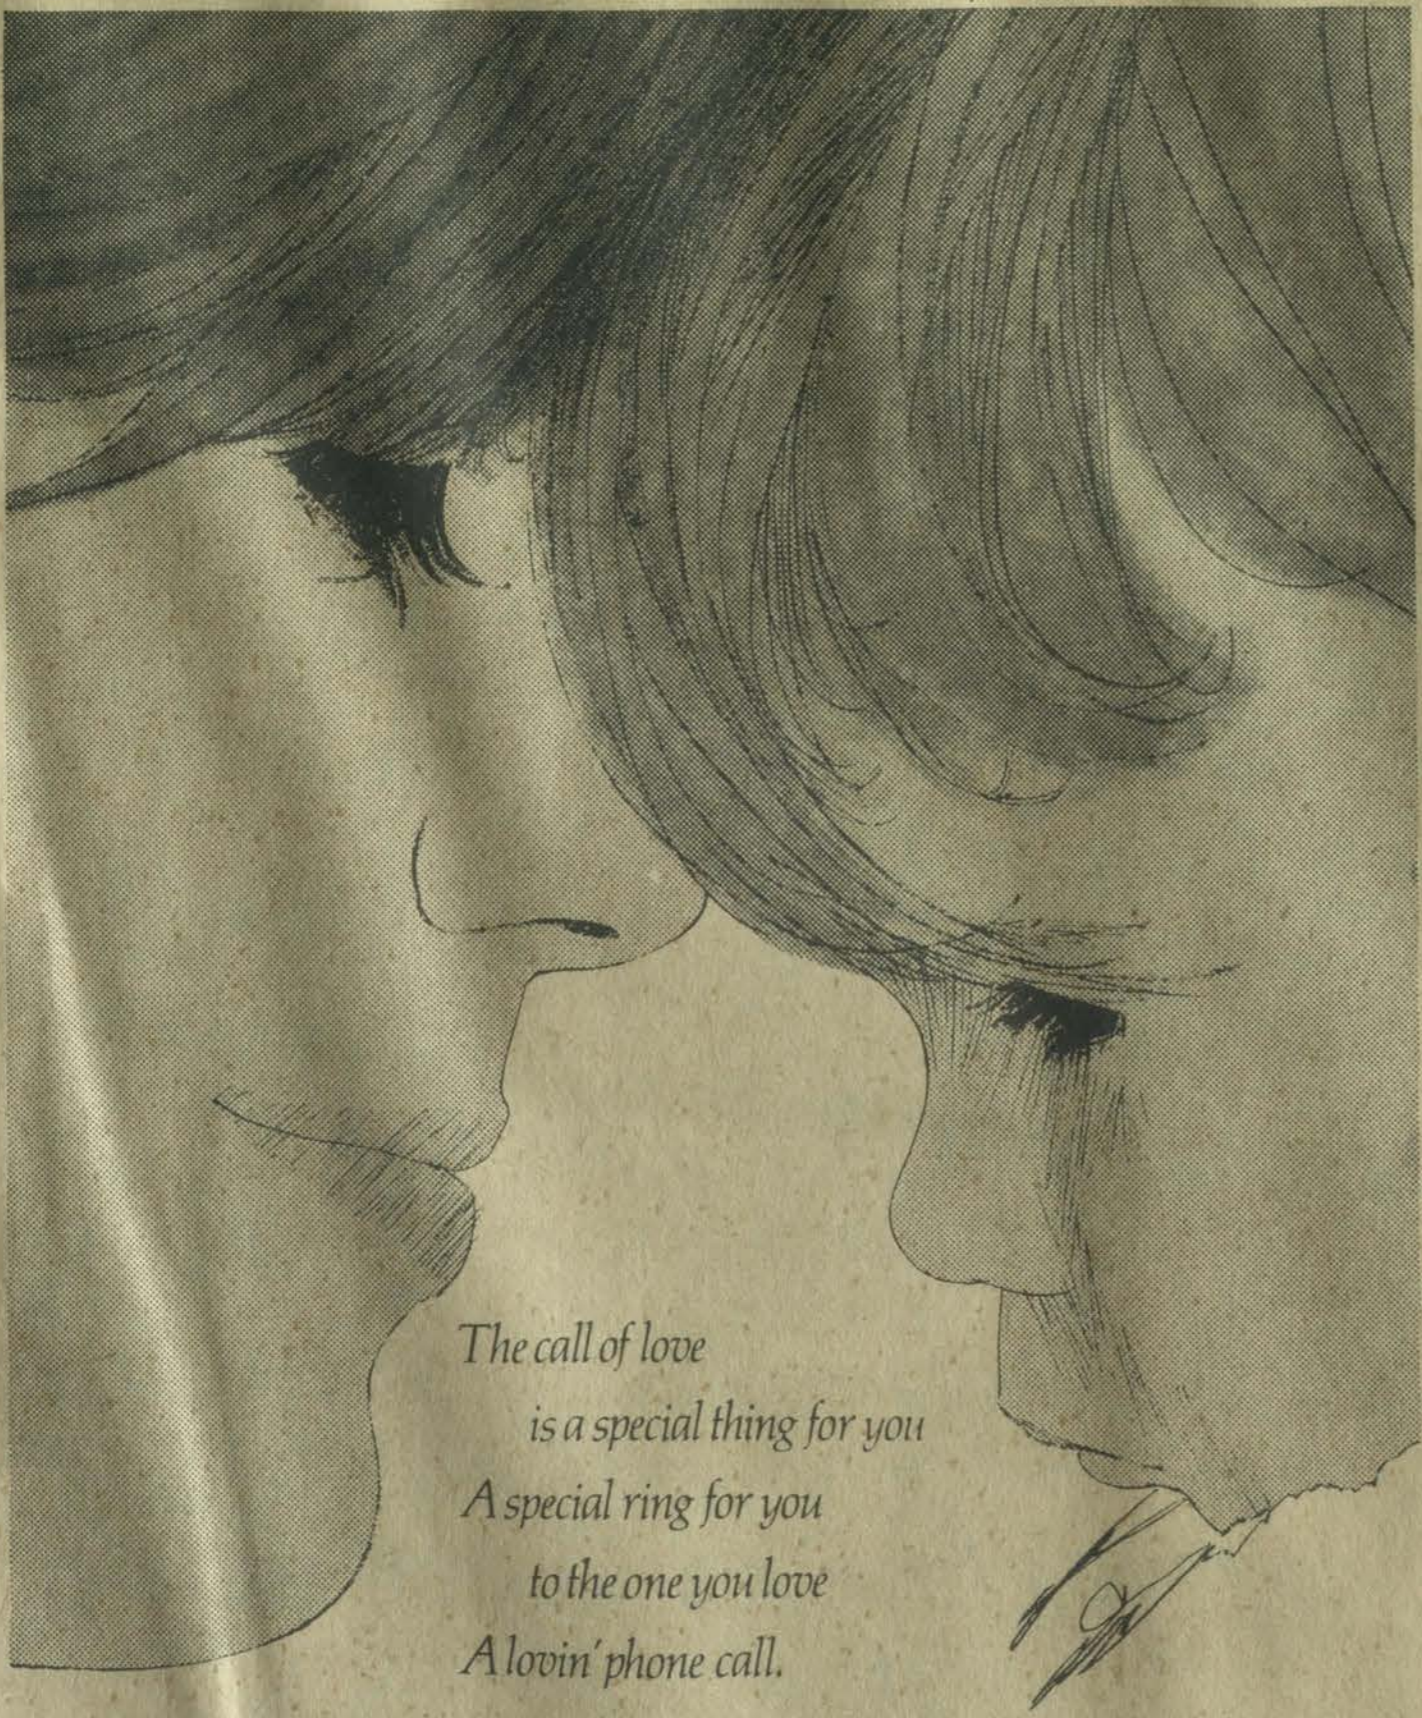

This easy-to-read "Questions and Answers" booklet clears up many misconceptions about the surface mining of coal . . . especially as it is practiced in the mountains of eastern Kentucky. The booklet explains what surface mining is all about . . . how the coal is removed . . . what steps are taken to restore the land to beneficial use . . . and why surface mining in eastern Kentucky is so vital to the nation's economy. Wild Turkey Unlikely Menu Item For Thanksgiving Day, 1970

By GARY G. HUDDLESTON

FRANKFORT, KY.—The eastern wild turkey, generally considered to have been the main course at the Pilgrims' first Thanksgiving at Plymouth in 1620, will decorate few Kentucky tables for this year's feast.

The bird, plentiful over all the eastern U. S. when settlers first arrived in the New World, can be found in only the most remote woodland areas of the commonwealth today, and game officials are worried that the turkey's plight may worsen.

Kentucky's wild turkeys were driven to near extinction when demand for cooperage lumber kindled extensive timber cuttings soon after 1900, according to Fred Hardy, restoration and management coordinator for the Department of Fish and Wildlife.

By 1925, most of the big oaks were gone, and so were all but a fraction of the turkeys, Hardy said.

When initial plans were formulated for a turkey restoration program in 1946, only a remnant population of 1500 birds remained, in a national wildlife refuge located on what is now Land Between the Lakes (LBL).

From that sole remaining source, wild birds were trapped and released in some 20 to 30 east and central counties, many of which lie in the Daniel Boone National Forest. (Some were released in the Dewey Lake area without success.—Ed.)

Even though the restoration program has reestablished the turkey in many areas, a recent decline in the number of birds in the original LBL source area has game managers worried.

"We don't know why they went down," Hardy said, "whether it was range deterioration or poaching."

He also noted most transplanted herds had not grown as fast as had been hoped.

"The most critical habitat requirement for wild turkeys is a large area of contiguous woodland," he explained.

"We require a minimum of 10,000 acres before we'll consider an area for restocking."

Since the original source herd in Western Kentucky has been reduced, restocking has been at a minimum.

Hardy said efforts had been made to obtain birds from neighboring states with no success.

"And, in the late 1940's some pen-raised birds, bred from wild stock, were released, but they did not survive."

Despite the rather gloomy prognosis for an extensive Kentucky wild turkey herd in the near future, there are areas in the state where the wary bird may be hunted.

In 1970, a nine-day spring season in late April and early May was opened in 19 Eastern Kentucky counties, and a six-day season in two counties in the LBL.

During this period only gobbler were legal game, and some 1131 hunters harvested a grand total of 11 turkeys, something under a one per cent success ratio.

With slim pickings like that, the historically-minded hunter could indeed be proud to be one of the very few who could provide a wild turkey for his Thanksgiving table.

GOVERNOR MAKES 9-CITY TOUR IN DRIVE AGAINST DRUG ABUSE

FRANKFORT, KY.—In a whirlwind tour in his campaign against drug abuse and addiction, Gov. Louie B. Nunn spoke in nine Kentucky cities.

The governor said he is relying upon drug-abuse committees set up in 116 of the state's 120 counties to carry on local programs combatting dope.

Nunn spoke in Louisville, Lexington, Owensboro, Paducah, Bowling Green, Covington, Ashland, Hazard and London, carrying this message: "I ask you to help save thousands of lives. The use of drugs has skyrocketed beyond belief. Drug abuse could destroy the physical and chemical makeup of the next generation."

Because of the terrible damage done to human beings by narcotics and other drugs, Nunn said, "Addiction is worse than death."

The governor appealed to Kentucky newspaper editors and broadcasters to help combat the menace that is affecting thousands of youngsters and others.

Two Floyd MSU Students Named to Hall Councils

MOREHEAD, KY.—Regina Hamilton, Stanville freshman, and Eddie Stewart, Langley senior, at Morehead State University, have been elected to a residence hall council.

Miss Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Hamilton, is publicity chairman for Waterfield Hall. Mr. Stewart, who is floor representative of Witson Hall, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin V. Stewart.

The councils act as advisors to hall directors. Members are chosen by residents of each building.

Over 2.5 million young people from low income families, during the past six years, have been placed in varied work activities as a result of enrollment in the Labor Department's Neighborhood Youth Corps.

WAYLAND NEWS

GOOD CLUB MANNERS STRESSED

The Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club recently met at the home of Mrs. Charles Ray Martin, Wayland, for a program on "Club Ethics and Protocol," with Mrs. S. M. Martin as program leader. Mrs. Martin stressed that "Good manners in clubs are the same as good manners elsewhere. A club is for the enrichment of many and the promotion of civic and intellectual improvements." She listed the rules of ethics and courtesy as practiced by the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Martin also listed some of the important qualities of a good leader as follows: First, a leader must be a good follower, then she must understand the aims and goals of her organization and be willing to put them into action. She must be responsible and enthusiastic and able to bring many others into the "swing of things". She must be able to recognize talent and use it and not be jealous; be ready to praise others when praise is deserved and able to share the spotlight with others. She must be fair and open-minded and able to groom future leaders, recognizing the need for continuity. She must be creative, imaginative and receptive to new ideas and change. She must understand and practice the democratic process.

Hostesses were Mrs. Bobby Joe Castle, Mrs. J. C. Wells, and Mrs. Charles Hughes. There were 22 present.

Possible State-Court Suit On Redistricting Studied

The possibilities involved in filing a state court suit to settle legislative redistricting problems are being explored by officials.

At a recent meeting of the Legislative Research Commission (LRC), members discussed the suit filed recently by State Sen. Charles Upton, R-Williamsburg. Upton's suit asked the U. S. District Court at Lexington to rule whether the Kentucky Legislature can ignore the state constitution's ban against splitting counties in drawing district boundaries.

"What if the federal court refused to hear the case?" LRC members speculated.

On motion by Senate Republican Leader

Wendell Van Hoose, of Tutor Key, Johnson county, the LRC voted to meet and take alternative action, if necessary. Such a meeting would be called within 24 hours if the federal court refused to act, the commission decided at the suggestion of House GOP Leader Harold DeMarcus, of Stanford.

Floyd Students Named To MSU Hall Councils

Four Floyd county students at Morehead State University have been elected to residence hall councils. They are:

Stephanie Marie Turner, daughter of Versa Turner, Langley; Brenda O'Quinn, daughter of Margaret O'Quinn, Garrett; Pamela Truesdell, daughter of Adrian Truesdell, Langley, and Karen Thornsberry, daughter of Mildred Caudill, East McDowell.

Your Volkswagen dealer proudly presents used cars that aren't "just like new."

There are enough guys pushing "just like new" used cars these days. So it should be refreshing to learn that we're pushing something a little different. Used cars without the fast talk. Used cars with nothing but a written guarantee to speak for them. And it says a lot. Because all the major working parts are covered 100%. We guarantee to repair or replace the engine, transmission, rear axle, front axle assemblies, brake system, electrical system, for 30 days or 1000 miles, whichever comes first, for absolutely nothing. We've already fixed what needed fixing during the inspection our trade-ins have to pass to get the guarantee in the first place. So we can afford to be so sure of our used cars. They're more like new than one of those "just like new" jobs.

Only First National offers a choice of 3 GOLDEN PASSBOOKS

Just to create interest

Wouldn't you know that the House of Savings would be first to offer two more plans to make savings create more interest than ever? Now, in addition to our 5 percent, 90-day Golden Passbook Plan, we invite you to try our 5½ percent, 1-year Golden Passbook Plan and our 5¾ percent 2-year Golden Passbook Plan. We think you'll find them all very "interest"-ing.

All three plans offer guaranteed interest rates, and interest is compounded daily and paid or credited quarterly with each. Any of the three may be opened with a $100 minimum deposit, and additional deposits of $100 or more may be made at any time.

Here's the interesting difference

With our new 5¾ percent, 2-year Golden Passbook Plan, your funds remain on deposit for a minimum of two years, with an effective yield of 5.92 percent per annum.

Our new 5½ percent, 1-year Golden Passbook Plan has an effective yield of 5.65 percent per annum, and your funds must remain on deposit only one year.

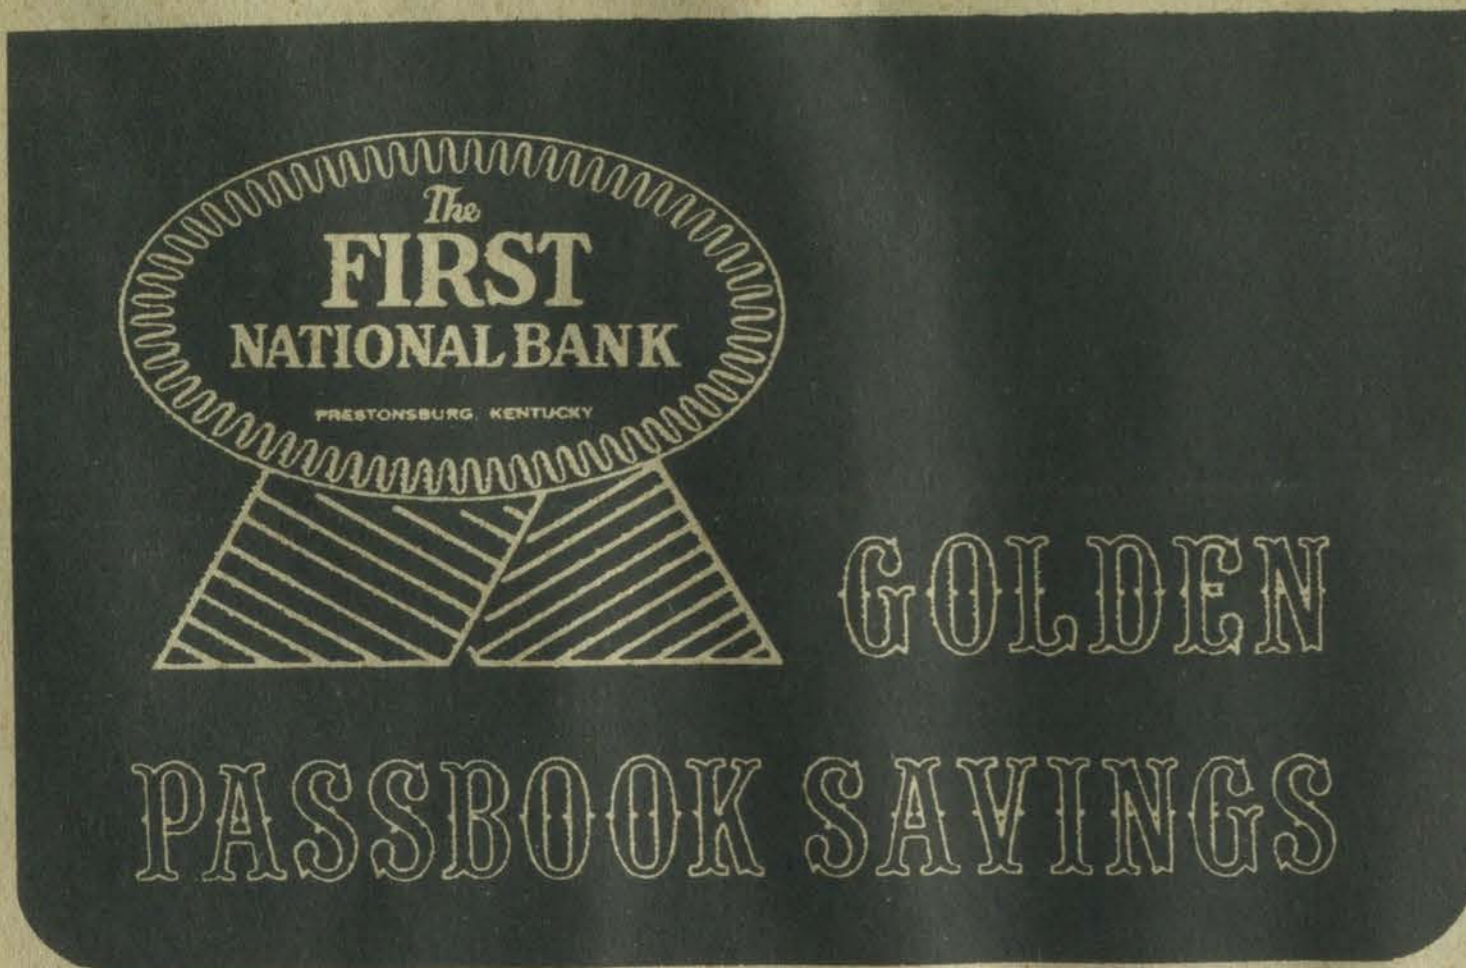

And our famous 5 percent Golden Passbook Plan makes your funds available four times a year — during the first ten days of January, April, July, and October — or anytime 90 days after a written notice is received by the bank. 5 percent Golden Passbook has an effective yield of 5.13 percent per annum.

First National offers
5¾% Golden Passbook
& two others, too!

When you open your Golden Passbook Account, just tell us which of the three plans you prefer. Of course, your choice should be based on the length of time you can allow your funds to remain on deposit.

Just remember, now you can choose a First National Golden Passbook Saving Plan at 5 percent, 5½ percent or 5¾ percent interest rates. Or choose all three.

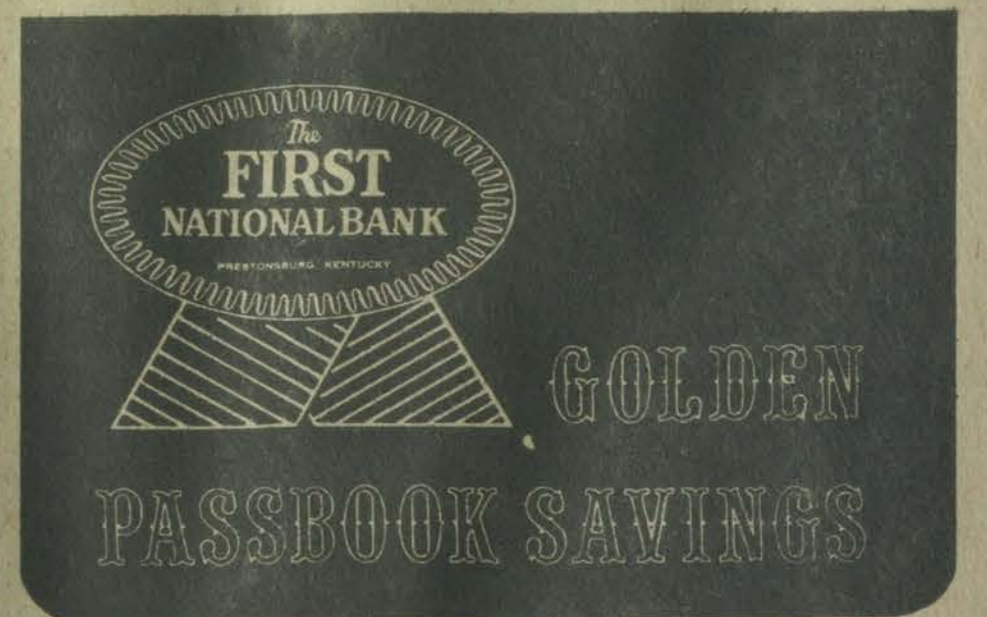

Isn't that an interesting choice?
