

Total of 37 Indictments Is Reported Four Bills Accuse Man in Check Case; No Rum Indictments

The grand jury which was in session here three days last week voted only 37 indictments, and this is believed to have been the lowest number of true bills reported by a grand jury here in the modern history of the Floyd circuit court.

One murder indictment was voted, naming Olin Shepherd.

There was not a liquor indictment made, nor was anybody named for carrying a concealed deadly weapon. Eleven of the 37 true bills were for child desertion.

Four indictments were lodged against one man, Kenneth Jones, who is a prisoner in Jefferson county, and all accused him of issuing cold checks—$150 to Maloney's, $289.20 to Clara Robinson, $183 to Thompson's IGA Store and $150 to the Piggly Wiggly Store.

The grand jury report also was the shortest known to have been made here, consisting of a single paragraph of four sentences. The jury cited only one fault after its inspection of the courthouse, and that the absence of markings for the parking area at the rear of the courthouse.

Others indicted and charges listed against them follow:

Harold Howell, cold check; Larry S. Smith, forgery of name of Carl B. Brenner, Sr. on a $174.96 check; Gary Lee Hunter, deserting pregnant wife; Donald or Danny Ratliff, theft of mine machinery from W. E. (Peco) Hall, and knowingly receiving property stolen from the same mine; Russell Robinson, knowingly receiving copper wire stolen from Kentucky Power Company; Bernard P. Martin, embezzlement of $240.73 from his employer, the Kentucky Oil and Refining Co.; Percy D. and Willis Johnson, destroying private property of Gary Stanley; Paul Skeens, Jr., destroying private property of Ballard Mosley and assault and battery on the person of Mosley; Cecil Ousley, assault and battery with a motor vehicle on Claude Allen, destroying property, a culvert, of Allen and striking and wounding him with intent to kill; Alvin Branham, Jr., two indictments charging him with the theft of autos of Ruby Baldrige and Hollie Hall; Alvin Branham, Jr., breaking and entering Dollar General Store at Martin and knowingly receiving property stolen from the same store; Bunker Bill Hall and Leon Slone, breaking and entering store of Island Creek Coal Co.; Randy Hall, shooting into the dwellings of Magistrate Denzil Ray Hall and Deputy Sheriff Dester Hamilton; Gene McKinney, reckless use of a deadly weapon; Adrian Newsome, reckless use of a deadly weapon and shooting into the dwelling of Evlaner Newsome; Martha Scott, shooting and wounding Elizabeth Gray; Charles Homer Stanley, shooting into dwelling of Beleneea Stanley and assault and battery on her person; Homer Stanley, reckless use of a deadly weapon; Gary Waugh, shooting at without wounding Virgus S. Nelson; Roger Williams, shooting and wounding Wince Walters.

Child desertion charges were lodged against the following:

Henry Barnett, Clyde Branham, Richard D. Bradley, Portland, Ore., Kermit Castle, Ronald DeRossett, Ypsilanti, Mich., Jonie Isaac, Teaberry, Luther Keens, Billy H. Montgomery, Rudolph T. Shannon, Elkhart, Ind., Hewen Spencer, Eastern, Ky., Larry Roger Wells.

This Town... That World

OF WORDS

How long has it been since you heard a man say he "mout" do this or that? Haven't had any word from the etymology buffs trying to trace that word, "juberous," which I mentioned recently. It means "doubtful." Could it have got mixed up with "dubious," somewhere way back there?

GOODIE!

Speaking of words, my greatest relief as a result of the ban on TV cigarette advertising is sweet surcease from that guy who declared, over and over again, that he didn't cop out. "Cop out"—for goodness sake!

CHANGE FOR THE BETTER

Some of the sports magazines have finally wised up and are printing more fishing yarns and articles in their winter numbers. I have always contended they should do this, arguing that during the winter all a fisherman can do about it is to read and that when better days come he doesn't need reading matter of that type, since he'll be too busy fishing.

CRIES IN THE NIGHT

Which brings me around to a bit of personal history. I suffered through what seemed an interminable nightmare, the other night, and finally reached the point where I decided help quick, immediate, was in order. They tell me I gave tongue, loud and long. In another room certain of the family watched TV, and when my bellowing cut in on the noise—so I am told—

Hackworth Asks Order of Court To Halt Council

Robert (Bob) Hackworth last Thursday amended his suit filed against the Martin City Council and Mayor E. P. Grigsby in his fight to retain his post as night policeman and at the same time asked a court order temporarily restraining the defendants from taking further action concerning his rights.

The petition for injunction also asked that all actions of defendants subsequent to service of process on them be declared void as affecting Hackworth's rights.

His original suit was filed Dec. 18. The amended petition and request for restraining order followed the Jan. 2 meeting of the Martin City Council at which a resolution was voted to prefer charges against Hackworth and set a hearing for Monday of this week. Hackworth contended that the council had no authority to do this because it had at its Nov. 24 meeting attempted to discharge him without preferring charges, and if this Nov. 24 action was legal the plaintiff would no longer be an employe of the city. He also claimed that at the time this most recent resolution was voted the rights of the plaintiff and defendants were at issue in circuit court.

The charges lodged at the Jan. 2 meeting against Hackworth alleged that he arrested people when they were not guilty of law violations, that he arrested one man on a drunkenness charge and failed to give him the "breathalyzer" test; that Hackworth was employed only on the understanding that merchants of Martin would pay his salary, and these business men have failed to supply enough money for his salary; that he has treated various persons in an arbitrary manner after arresting them; that he has unlawfully searched automobiles without a search warrant; that he now holds two other positions with the city of

"SHARE WITH OTHERS."—The Salvation Army shares the joys of the holiday season with thousands of homeward-bound travelers at the main terminal of LaGuardia Airport to tunes of the Yuletide season.

At the invitation of the Queens division of The Salvation Army, John B. LaCombe traveled from his home in the Bloomfield, Iowa area to spend his Christmas leave from his post as nurse-anesthetist at the Davis County Hospital to play Christmas carols and other tunes for air travelers at the airport.

In the above photo, Joseph Pope, a volunteer Salvation Army worker of 54 South Arnold Avenue, Prestonsburg, joined a group of listeners to a concert given by Mr. LaCombe. Young Mr. Pope is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. W. M. Pope. His father is pastor of the First United Methodist Church here.

Board Outlines New School Lunch Policy

The Floyd County Board of Education's luncheon policy which became effective Jan. 1 provides that a child who is a member of a family of six may receive free school lunches if the gross family income is not more than $100.42 a week.

Letters have been sent to parents, and with them went application forms to be completed and returned to the school. Free lunches or lunches at reduced prices will be afforded as determined by the school principal.

Information given by the parent in the application determines economic need, based on the family's gross income, the number in the family, the number in school and any unusual circumstances or hardships which affect the ability of the family to pay for school lunches. All this information, it is pointed out, will be kept confidential.

The family income-size scale (see Page 4) provides, for example:

Free lunch for a child of a family of two whose gross earnings do not exceed $46.25 a week; income up to $58.75, 10 cents; above $58.75, full price.

Family of three, free lunch up to $65 earnings a week, 10c up to $71.25 earnings, after that full price.

Family of four, free up to $77.50, 10 cents to $83.23, after that full price.

Store and Home Hit by Blazes

Two fires here, the first in a year, last week caused damages estimated to total between $35,000 and $40,000.

First of the blazes broke out early last Friday night in a store room of the Market Place operated by Mrs. Myrtle Davis and her son, Ralph Davis, Jr. Contents of the room were destroyed and the main store suffered smoke damage.

Origin of the fire has not been definitely determined. Firemen said it began at a fuse box in the front of the building or at a kerosene heater. Damage was placed at between $15,000 and $20,000.

In the second fire, which broke out shortly after 2 o'clock Sunday morning, the Rev. Carl Chaffins, Jr., was awakened by the coughing of his small child, and this circumstance was credited with perhaps resulting in the escape of the parents and their three children. Fire Chief John Perry said the family would have been trapped within another three minutes.

The fire originated at an electrical outlet beneath the kitchen sink. Although the flames were confined to the kitchen and a utility room, heat and smoke severely damaged other rooms. The five-room residence, owned by Astor Meade, is located on Graham street, at the rear of the First United Methodist Church. Mr. Chaffins estimated damages to contents at $800 to $10,000. Mr. Meade placed his loss at around $10,000.

Stumbo To Confer With Co. Officers

Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo said Monday that he is inviting all peace officers to meet with him at his office in the courthouse at 7 p.m., next Wednesday in an effort to establish needed coordination of effort and cooperation between the court and enforcement of officers.

Stumbo said he hopes to discuss with officers the technicalities of search warrants as well as other items of mutual concern for those charged with law-enforcement.

$402,500 Action By Mrs. Bentley Names 'Bob' Hall

Mrs. Mary Bentley, of Prestonsburg, as administrator of the estate of her daughter, the late Willo Dean Hall, and as guardian of Mrs. Hall's two children, filed suit in the Floyd circuit court last Friday seeking to recover a total of $402,500 from Robert "Bob" Hall, who has been convicted of Mrs. Hall's slaying. Bertha Stanley also is a plaintiff in the action as next friend of the two children, Debra Louise and Kenna Dean McDaniel.

Mrs. Bentley asks $100,000 compensatory damages, $100,000 vindictive damages and $2500 funeral expenses as guardian. As administrator she asks the same amounts but in this phase of the action punitive damages instead of "vindictive" are asked.

Suing as guardian, she alleges that her daughter died at the hands of the defendant, on or about Jan. 12, 1970, and that she was killed "by the careless, wanton and (or) malicious use of a deadly weapon, not in self-defense." As administratrix she alleges that death resulted from an injury inflicted by the defendant, "whose action causing said death was wilful or negligence gross and (or) deliberately intended to produce death."

Hall was convicted last April of manslaughter in the death of Mrs. Willo Dean

Carbon Monoxide Claims Floyd Man At Columbus, Ohio

Funeral of Daniel Holbrook, 22, who was found dead, Jan. 4, in Columbus, O., was conducted Sunday at the home of his father, Jack H. Holbrook, of Halo.

The Franklin county (O.) coroner held that Holbrook died of carbon-monoxide poisoning. He was found in a car, parked in the garage at the home of a sister, Mrs. Irene Wiley, with whom he resided. Holbrook was employed at Columbus by Owens-Illinois, Inc.

Besides his father, he is survived by his step-mother, Mrs. Lennie Fields Holbrook; two children, Denise and Danny R., of Columbus; two brothers and one sister, Raymon and Randall Holbrook and Mrs. Irene Wiley, all of Columbus.

Burial in the Franklin-Holbrook cemetery at Halo was directed by the Merion Funeral Chapel.

City Ends Year In Black; Raises Voted Employees

The budget adopted by the Prestonsburg City Council for 1971 is $363,448—$1423 more than last year's expenditures—but less than the city's receipts for the last 12 months.

The city wound up the year in the black, with a $31,979.62 balance in its general fund. It estimates its revenues for this year, however, to fall short of the 1970 total by around $30,000.

For this year the heaviest budget increases are in wages and salaries. A 6 per cent cost-of-living pay boost has been granted employees—the second raise since last July 1. Personal services last year, including all areas of city service, cost $111,149. Mayor George P. Archer's new budget calls for this to be increased in '71 to $137,319.

The general government budget of $109,924 covers these items:

City Council, $1778; Mayor's office including rents, insurance and $40,000 toward a municipal building, $55,185; administrator, $9,706; city treasurer and revenue department, $13,845; city clerk's office, $8,013; police court, $5,065; planning and zoning, $3666; employe benefits, $11,146.

The budget for public safety includes $51,287 for the police department, with $5000 earmarked for a police cruiser, and is $8,758 above last year's actual expenditure. The fire department budget of $30,534, however, is $36,000 below last year's which included $20,322 for a second fire station and $35,200 toward a new fire truck. Parking system expenditures are set at $4890, down from $4902 in 1970.

Return to Work For 700 Is Seen After Shutdown

A tentative agreement reached Monday between two mine locals at mines of the Patsy Development Co., David, may have ended a work stoppage there which also had spread to mines of the Island Creek Coal Company on Left Beaver Creek and idled more than 700 workers.

The David mines were working Tuesday morning, but the tippie was not operating. The stoppage at David resulting from a jurisdictional dispute between Locals 7738 and 8161 spread to Island Creek operations at Price and Spurlock where members of a David local allegedly set up picket lines. When workers refused to cross the picket lines more than 600 were idled.

While the David negotiations were under way Monday Island Creek procured a temporary restraining order against David Local 7738 representing Mine No. 7. Commissioners appointed by the United Mine Workers to establish rights of the two David locals met with representatives of the latter Monday in an effort to iron out their differences.

The tentative agreement reached is subject to further negotiations, it was said.

No Known Mercury Pollution In East Kentucky, Says Clark

Although some Kentucky waters are known to be polluted by mercury, none of these are in Eastern Kentucky—"that I know of," said Minor Clark, commissioner of the Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources, last Friday.

Mr. Clark was questioned by The Times about the invasion of state waters by mercury after the daily press had earlier reported that both Kentucky and Tennessee waters, as well as those of a number of other states, have suffered such contamination.

The commissioner agreed that the public is entitled to know the specific waters which contain mercury, since a sufficiently heavy concentration of mercury in fish may cause serious or fatal illness for those who eat the fish.

"We do not have enough data to really talk about the Tennessee River, but we do know that mercury has been found in the river below Kentucky dam," Clark said. "We need a lot more information and are doing all we can to get it."

He agreed that belated warnings issued, such as those given by the federal Food and Drug Administration, reach the public after the horse has figuratively been stolen. Clark added that mussels have been "pretty well wiped out" in the Tennessee River, below Kentucky dam. He said he could not pinpoint the cause at this time but admitted he suspects mercury.

Studies to date have failed, however, to show the presence of mercury in Kentucky Lake itself, he pointed out. He did express concern over the fact that Pickwick, an impoundment upstream on the Tennessee River from Kentucky Lake, is heavily contaminated by mercury.

A national sports magazine recently featured the story of Pickwick, describing it as one of the finest of the nation's bass lakes but an impoundment where fishing as a sport is dying because fishermen are afraid to eat their catch. Tennessee Governor Ellington has a task force at work on his state's waters. "Nothing alarming" is the report from that source.

Commissioner Clark said he is "not happy" with the report that the Nixon administration has drawn up and circulated to several state governments proposed federal standards for toilets on boats, including pleasure craft, that are not nearly so stringent as many states now require.

He described this as a move in the wrong direction. "Stricter, not more lax, regulations, are needed if changes are to be made," he said. "The fact is," he added, "we have enough laws and regulations already. What we need to do is get them enforced," Clark added.

Particularly upset by the proposed federal standards are the seven Great Lakes states and the Canadian province of Ontario, all of which have passed laws requiring that boats in their waters be equipped with holding tanks for human wastes. And the laws require that the tanks be pumped out when the boats return to dockside. Some of these laws are not yet in effect, but will be soon.

By contrast with this "no discharge" policy of the Great Lakes states, the proposed federal standards would allow boats to be equipped with so-called "macerator-chlorinator" devices that usually discharge human wastes after treatment roughly the equivalent of primary treatment of municipal sewage plants.

Ralph W. Purdy, executive secretary of Michigan's water resources commission has written William D. Ruckelshaus, administrator of the new Environmental Protection Agency, giving the state's view of the proposed standards as explained at a meeting in Lansing by Louis De Camp, an EPA official sent there for this purpose.

"These proposed standards," Purdy wrote, "are totally unacceptable to Michigan... The proposed standards are in fact, a complete reversal of the federal water quality administration position of no discharge and total containment for the Great Lakes area."

The federal water quality administration was formerly in the Department of the Interior. Now it is in the Environmental Protection Agency.

Purdy told Ruckelshaus that De Camp's reasons "were exactly the same reasons expressed by any boating groups and flow-through treatment device manufacturers which fostered opposition to Michigan's total retention position."

"It appears, therefore, that the proposed federal standards are nothing more than the results of strong lobbying efforts on the part of these groups," Purdy said.

Turning to this immediate area, Commissioner Clark said he is pleased with the fertilization program carried out by his department at Dewey Lake.

David Hensley, principal of Prestonsburg high school, presents to Stephen Ray Brackett a plaque for having written the best conservation essay in Floyd county. Brackett will also receive a $25 savings bond in addition to several ribbons.

Miss Akers Cites Fund Drive Help

Ruby Akers, 1971 March of Dimes campaign director, is issuing a call for help throughout the county to help in the annual January appeal for funds.

Volunteers are needed, she said, to carry out the varied tasks of a fund-raising drive. These include placing coin collectors on store counters, setting up dime boards in restaurants, addressing mail appeals, handling telephone calls and planning Mother's March activities.

Miss Akers points out that the fight to prevent birth defects has never looked more hopeful. The March of Dimes supports programs throughout the year aimed at continuing this progress. Research, patient-care and education are powerful weapons in our goal of a healthy birthright for every newborn, she notes.

According to Miss Akers, contributions to the March of Dimes are channeled into the work carried out at Kentucky Birth Defects Centers. For further information about volunteer work, call Ruby Akers, Drift—377-6234.

The Kenton Grand Jury Sets an Example

The grand jury of the Kenton county circuit court has set an example for other grand juries. It recently issued directives calling on various city and county agencies to tell the next grand jury what is being done there to combat pollution and has indicated that state and federal agencies having jurisdiction in Kenton may be asked to tell through reports to the grand jury what the pollution situation there is and what plans they have to abate or control it.

Grand juries have broad powers, and they should be exercised as needed. The laws to protect the environment — and thus, indirectly, to protect the lives and rights of human beings — are to be enforced no less than the statutes against violence to the individual.

Then grand juries are entitled to, and should, ask those responsible for the enforcement of these laws to give an accounting. Are streams and air being polluted? Are strip-mining regulations violated? Who are the offenders? And are the officials who have pledged their solemn oath to enforce these laws doing their duty? These are questions grand juries can ask. They also can demand plain, unvarnished answers to their inquiries.

The ordinary citizen is not without redress. In Alabama no less than 50 damage suits have been filed by conservation groups against polluters. After the huge Pickwick impoundment and many miles of the Tennessee River became heavily contaminated by deadly mercury deposits, the people awakened. Late, to be sure, but they awoke.

Officials charged with the duty of enforcing these laws which are so important to the environment and to the millions now living and all those yet to be born should be given every reasonable chance to do the job. Then, if they fail or refuse to face up to the task, grand juries should step in, and civil actions should be instituted, to force the issue.

Kentucky Educational Television has adopted a stylized, small-letter "a" as a symbol to be flashed on the screen to warn viewers that certain programs might be considered inappropriate for the entire family to view.

Phone Rate May Go To Appellate Court

South Central Bell Telephone Co. has gone to court in an effort to have set aside the decision by the Public Service Commission recently denying a requested $14.8 million rate increase.

The company filed an appeal of the decision in Franklin Circuit Court and obtained a temporary restraining order preventing the PSC from enforcing its decision.

As long as the order remains in effect, the company is free to place its higher rates in effect, subject to later refunds if new rates are denied by the courts.

The possibility exists that the issue, affecting the local-service phone charges for 531,000 Kentuckians, will go eventually to the Court of Appeals.

The rate of disabling work-related injuries in American industry has increased more than 20 percent since 1958, causing a loss of productive man-days that is 5 times the number lost from strikes.

Legislators 'View with Alarm' ... Redistricting Chore Poses Many Problems

Floyd legislators, looking toward the coming special General Assembly session for the redistricting of the state, view, as do others from various parts of the state, any thought of stepping across county-lines to achieve equality of representation with what amounts to alarm.

A federal court has overridden the Kentucky constitution which has kept county boundary lines inviolate when redistricting was to be done, and now there is a possibility that the Legislature will be asked to cut off—for example—certain precincts from Floyd county that are not needed for a one-Representative county and add them to Pike county which needs a few thousand extra population to qualify for two Representatives.

And that is the issue which may stall proceedings. Few legislators will be willing to say by their votes that a certain number of citizens from their county must vote for a Representative or a Senator who does not represent their entire county.

They see ahead all kinds of complications. For instance, the voters of certain precincts voting for other officials of their own county but turning then to vote for a Representative or a Senator who belongs to another county or district. They wonder how the cost of such an election would be shared between counties involved and how, until the 1970 Census lists the population by precincts anybody will be able to determine which precincts shall be cut from one county to be added to another needing additional population.

For instance:
A legislative district should have a population of 32,190. Floyd county has a population of 35,800—not enough for two Representatives, too many for one. Neighboring Pike county has 61,000 population and has two Representatives. To keep its two members of the House—and it can't be expected to have fewer—precincts with approximately 3000 population could be cut off from Floyd and added to Pike—solely for voting purposes in legislative races.

Both State Senator Clifford B. Latta and Representative W. J. Reynolds agreed that such an action would be considered by voters in such precincts as "amounting to being disfranchised."

Representative Reynolds said last Friday that he will not be a party to such a "cure" of the situation.

Senator Latta said Monday he would meet Tuesday at Fankfort with the Special Reapportionment Committee of which he is a member and hoped to learn then more of what is being considered.

Strict reapportionment would set the population of a senatorial district at about 82,000. This senatorial district of Floyd, Knott and Martin counties, has a population of about 60,000. A county of 20,000 must be added. Looking again at the Senate picture, Pike could add Letcher county to its district and meet requirements. That would leave Perry to look for more people, and so on.

On the House side of reapportionment, the present district composed of Magoffin and Knott counties has a population of approximately 24,000. Wolfe county would bring the total in that district up to the required 32,000. But Wolfe's district then would be looking for population elsewhere if this were done.

And these are problems in only one corner of the Commonwealth. Nobody knows how many there are, in all. When, and if, reapportionment is effected, the shift of legislative voting district will be away from rural Kentucky to the urban centers. Louisville will gain one Senate seat, and so will northern Kentucky. And both these seats will be Eastern Kentucky's loss.

The special session, whenever called, is not expected to drag. The May primary is not far distant, and the campaign will start well ahead of that. And most of the legislators and Governor Nunn himself expect to be heavily involved in that bit of business.

thank all of the wonderful people for all of the kindnesses shown us upon the passing of

Engineer Killed, 3 Crewmen Hurt In Train Wreck

Investigators believe spreading railroad tracks may have caused a Chesapeake and Ohio Railway coal train to derail 14 miles south of Pikeville last Wednesday, killing the engineer and injuring three crewmen in flaming diesel engines.

Instantly killed and pinned for four hours within his diesel locomotive was Jackson Henry Weese, 43, of Shelbyana. Pike County Coroner Haskel Mullins said death was the result of massive internal injuries and broken arms and legs.

Admitted for observation at Methodist Hospital, Pikeville, were Conductor Clinton Rowe, 27, of Pikeville Rt. 3, Brakeman Gary Friend, 28, of Blairtown and Bobby Roy Damron of Robinson Creek, all in Pike County.

The derailment occurred on a downhill curve of a mountain grade nearly two miles long, upsetting three engines and 31 of 35 loaded cars.

The number of working mothers has increased almost eightfold since the period immediately preceding World War II. About 4 out of 10 mothers were in the labor force in March 1969 as compared with 1 out of 10 in 1940.

Disorder at UK Results in Suit

Last May's disturbances on the University of Kentucky campus resulted last week in the filing of a suit against the university by Mrs. Janie Bickford Herald, of Auxier, who says she lost $1885 in personal belongings to fire in Blazer Hall.

The action, filed in Fayette circuit court, is an appeal from a denial by the university's Board of Claims of Mrs. Herald's loss claim. The board ruled the university is not responsible for the loss and that UK was not negligent as to the incident resulting in the fire.

Mrs. Herald's roommate, Miss Sheila Spickard, is claiming a loss of $680. Two others, Shirley A. Mooney, a UK instructor, and Pamela Collins, claim losses totaling $3009.

Can you find the Volkswagen hidden in this picture?

If you can, you'll make us very sad. Because we've troubled ourselves no end to hide it from you.

Our quest for the invisible Volkswagen took us all the way to Turin, Italy.

Where we asked the famous Ghia Studios to design us a sporty Italian body. They did.

Then we secretly prowled about Europe for the best coach builder we could find.

Success. To the Karmann Coachworks of Osnabruck we handed over Ghia's sketches with the injunction: "Make it beautiful." (Or else.)

They did.

They welded. And burnished. And sculpted. And sanded. And painted.

Until they had shaped in steel what Ghia had shaped in pencil.

Smug in the knowledge that nobody could ever mistake this beautiful car for a Volkswagen, we concealed our air-cooled engine in back. (For better traction.)

And made it go about 26 miles on just one gallon.

Then we gave this Volkswagen its final disguise.

We named it the Karmann Ghia.

Floyd To Wait On Jefferson In Jones Case

Although he is wanted in this county to answer to four indictments charging him with passing worthless checks totalling almost $800, it is doubtful that Kenneth Jones, object of a search of weeks by county, state and federal officers, will soon be returned here.

Sheriff Frank Leslie said Louisville authorities have prior demand on Jones, since he was arrested there and has nine separate charges against him in Jefferson county. Sheriff Leslie said he was told last week that Jones has implicated others in the scheme which strewed worthless checks over a wide portion of Kentucky and into at least two neighboring states. The investigation continues.

The checks were written on the R. K. Allen Music Co., of Allen, a firm which operated only a short time.

Arrests have been few in this county within the week. Among them are these:

Roger John Rose, charged with drunk driving, reckless driving and assault with an automobile, arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Darrell Conley, Albert Salyers and Solie Holbrook; William Henderson Marsillett, a.w.o.l., by State Troopers E. B. Allen and D. Williamson; Marcum Mitchell, breaking and entering, by State Trooper Gary Rose; Joseph Howell, reckless use of a deadly weapon, by Deputy Sheriffs Holbrook and Salyers; and, booked by State Troopers Allen and Williamson to Prestonsburg police court, Georgia Webb Bush on a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Martin and his purported employment as night watchman or policeman is null and void, and that he was never administered the oath of office as required by the Kentucky constitution.

Hackworth in his amended petition contends that he was employed as policeman Aug. 1 for a 30-day probationary period and that on Sept. 5 the council employed him on a regular basis. He contends that the Nov. 24 action to discharge him was taken without charges being preferred against him and that the council at its Jan. 2 meeting attempted to modify the minutes of its Aug. 1, Sept. 5 and Nov. 24 meetings.

The Floyd county school system has again set a record in the number of conservation essays written in a year. There were 5064 essays written in the schools. Twenty-six of the 34 schools in the county participated. Six schools had 100 per cent participation, and three others were above 90 per cent in participation. In the 26 participating schools 66.8 per cent of the students wrote conservation essays this year.

Schools with 100 per cent participation are Clark elementary, McDowell high, Melvin elementary, Weeksbury elementary, Wheelwright high and Dwale. Martin high had 90 per cent; John M. Stumbo elementary, 99 per cent, and Home Branch, 94 per cent.

These nine schools will receive trophies for their outstanding accomplishments. Trophies are being sponsored by the Fountain Korner, Floyd County Farm Bureau, Dewey Lake Fish and Game Club, Southern States, Floyd Federal Savings and Loan Assn., Bank Josephine, First National Bank, Wright Brothers, Jewelers, and the Floyd County Fish and Game Club.

IN THE LOOKING GLASS

Dr. Russell Hall passes on to me the story of the old Irish couple who many years ago lived far out in the country and finally decided to visit the big city. There in Dublin they were amazed at all the new things, one of which was a mirror. Neither had ever seen one. The husband bought one, pocket-size, and said nothing to his wife about the purchase. He would take furtive glances into the magic glass and mutter, "My old father to a T, whiskers and all."

After he had retired that night his missus, a bit suspicious of him, went through his pockets. It was her turn to take a peek, and she did, and she awakened her husband as she exclaimed, "If that's the old hag he's after, he can have her!"

New Controls Set For Stone Quarries

FRANKFORT, KY.—Efforts must be made to control nearly 374,000 tons of dust emitted to the air from Kentucky's rock crushing operations, Roger Blair, senior sanitary engineer for the Kentucky Air Pollution Control Commission (KAPCC), said recently.

Speaking to representatives of the Kentucky Crushed Stone Assn., Thursday, Blair added, "The quantity of these emissions not only constitutes an air pollution problem of considerable magnitude, but also represents a sizeable economic loss to the quarry operator."

After stating that in the past most quarries were "virtually uncontrolled from an air pollution standpoint," Blair outlined five measures which must be taken before the KAPCC will issue a permit to operate under its new permit system. Each of the 125 quarries in Kentucky must obtain this permit before it can legally operate.

Measures required for the new permit include:

A sufficient air pollution control system; paved haul roads; a system for controlling dust in and around stockpiles; controls for dust from drilling and blasting at strip mining operations, and a settling pond, if a wet collector is used.

Blair advised the representatives to obtain competent engineering aid to eliminate all viable emissions from their operations.

During 1969 32 million tons of rock products were produced in Kentucky.

ELDER CLINE G. HALL (Ministers: Frank Stone, Cline G. Hall, Berton Howard, Mitchell Chaffins)

State Handcraft Shops Foster New Industry for the Region

Mrs. Mary O'Hara (left) of Lexington, director of the Department of Parks' Division of Arts and Crafts, and Mrs. Betty Morton, of Hazard, regional supervisor for Eastern Kentucky, show one of the many clever sculptures of carved wood to be found in the five Kentucky Handcraft Shops.

FRANKFORT, KY.—A new industry for Eastern Kentucky is in the making. Romantic folklore and pioneering skills are being utilized in a thriving handcrafts industry employing hundreds of Kentuckians.

Hardy mountaineers left out of the mainstream of progress are rediscovering their ancestors' almost forgotten talents for working with their hands.

New-fangled marketing procedures are offering folks in the hollows a chance to show the world their unique culture, represented by artistic objects that many times were everyday necessities in the lives of the people of Appalachia.

Providing the means for marketing hand-made products is the purpose of the Department of Parks' Division of Arts and Crafts under the direction of Mrs. Mary O'Hara. The Division of Arts and Crafts has opened five Kentucky Handcraft Shops since last April.

The shops furnish an outlet for quality goods while offering out-of-state tourists mementoes lovingly made by the hands of Kentuckians. Local shoppers, too, are discovering treasures which can be found only in the shops and which cannot be duplicated or mass-produced.

Mrs. O'Hara and her regional supervisor, Mrs. W. P. Morton, Jr., wife of the mayor of Hazard, comb the state for quality handcrafts to be sold in the five shops. In their searches they often go on foot deep into the hollows, for the mountains produce more people with time and talents for craft articles. Mrs. Morton has become familiar with many tiny hamlets and isolated communities where talents were heretofore going unnoticed. Her travels provide assistance to interested persons in improving their crafts for successful marketing.

Mrs. Morton has said, "Our travels in pursuit of quality handcrafts are rewarded not only with discoveries of delightful hand-made beauties; the wonderful folks who create them are Kentucky's greatest treasure."

The authentic hand-made objects range from purely decorative items such as inexpensive jewelry, wood carvings and primitive paintings of rural settings reminiscent of Grandma Moses to more functional items such as hand-sewn quilts, crewell embroidered cashmere sweaters, ceramic sculptures and hand-knit baby clothes. A variety of hand-made Christmas decorations have been added to the line-up. Kissing balls and pomander balls are great favorites. Tree ornaments of ceramics and wood carved into shapes of tiny snow men, ginger men and bells delight the unconventional decorator. Also featured are ceramic nativity settings, Christmas pin cushions, nut wreaths and hundreds of goodies to go under the tree.

Doll collectors will delight in dried-apple-face dolls in hand-sewn gingham dresses with dainty embroidered aprons and lace pantaloons. Just as captivating are dolls with painted clay faces clothed in calico and denim, reclining against weathered tree stumps while savoring tiny watermelons; corn shucks fashioned into rosy-cheeked angels and radiant choir boys; and storybook character dolls made from acorns, seed and bits of wood.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: On and after publication of this notice I will not be responsible for any debt incurred by any person other than myself. LANSING D. BUCKLEY Cliff, Ky. 1-14-3t-pd.

What One Man Can Do . . .
Elmon Clark's Forestry Work
Cited as a Lasting Example

(By the Kentucky Division of Forestry)

Have you been up to Dewey Dam this winter? A nice, green view greets visitors on both sides of the highway, thanks to the efforts of Elmon Clark. Clark owns the farm just below the dam, and has been planting pine trees since 1957. He not only plants trees on his own property but also has planted them for other people over a several-county area.

Now Mr. Clark probably wasn't thinking of creating beauty when he first began putting those little, six-inch seedling trees in the ground many years ago, but everyone now can enjoy his efforts. It is amazing that a little six-inch tree could have grown into a forest 40 feet tall in just 13 years, but it's there for everyone to see. At least 30 acres of fine, vigorous pine trees.

The reforestation project and the other timber management work on his property earned Clark recognition as a tree farmer back in 1961, and he has been nominated as "Outstanding Tree Farmer" for 1970. There are only about 250 certified tree farmers in Kentucky according to the records of the Kentucky Wood Industry Association. The Association sponsors the program in Kentucky. Jim Winter, of the Kentucky Division of Forestry, and J. A. Newman, University of Kentucky's Extension Service, were recently reinspecting the certified tree farmers in this area of Kentucky.

Clark started his interest in forestry as a volunteer deputy firewarden for the Division back in the early 1950's. He fought fire over much of Floyd and Johnson counties, because he knew it was the worst enemy of forest resources. He still maintains a complete set of firefighting tools for the protection of his own forest, but he gave up day-to-day fire control work. He is 80 years old.

His age doesn't keep him from taking his crew to plant trees for other people every spring, though. He and his crew planted more than 80,000 trees for other people in 1970. His tree-planting work is spread over several counties other than Floyd and Johnson.

If you would like to make your "green spot" in this world by planting pine trees, but don't know where you could get the labor, get in touch with Mr. Clark at Van Lear, Kentucky. The Division of Forestry will sell you the seedlings, and you can get some help on the planting costs through your local ASCS Office. Jim Winter, or some other forester at the Division of Forestry at Thelma, Ky., will advise you on what kind of trees to plant. This advisory service is free.

The beauty Mr. Clark has created on his own farm and on dozens of other pieces of land will undoubtedly outlive him. The productive forests will grow wood products for further use in homes and for building them. O. W. Hinton, chairman of the Tree Farm Program for the Kentucky Wood Industry Association, says that the wood industry is vitally concerned with the future timber supply, but says that well-managed tree farms also provide homes for wildlife, good, clean water for human consumption and use, and a chance for outdoor recreation.

To become a certified tree farmer, ask about the program; contact the Kentucky Division of Forestry, Thelma, Ky., 41260. Phone 789-3506.

The workshop is the first in a monthly series of field naturalist workshops designed for persons interested in strengthening background interests and developing a new awareness of the natural environment of Kentucky.

Environmental week end activities will start 6 p.m. Friday with registration. Later, panel members will speak on deterioration of land, air and water, followed by an informal discussion with invited experts.

Commend Families Of Mine Victims

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Gov. Louie B. Nunn visited the scene of the coal mine explosion in Leslie county that claimed the lives of 38 miners and told of the strength and courage displayed by the families involved.

The governor arrived at the disaster scene about 10 p.m. He watched the efforts to bring out the bodies of the victims, talked with President Nixon by telephone and tried to console grieving relatives who had gathered in a nearby church.

He said the President had intended to fly to Kentucky himself to be at the scene but had to cancel those plans when area airports were closed due to weather conditions.

Investigators said the explosion, which resulted in the second worst mine disaster in terms of lives lost in the state's history, was triggered by a routine blasting job designed to raise the mine's ceiling.

Child Welfare Starting Drive For Volunteers

The Floyd county office of the Kentucky Department of Child Welfare will begin tomorrow (Jan. 11) an intensive campaign to recruit volunteers to help solve child welfare problems. All interested Floyd county citizens are urged to offer their services in this effort.

As part of the statewide Volunteer Services Program of the State Department, the Floyd county program will focus its volunteer services on a one to one relationship on all problems, whether they be adoptions, foster homes, predelinquents, unmarried mothers, or multi-family problems. Recruitment will be for a specific number for a specific problem.

The purpose of the program is to supplement the work of the child welfare worker in the county department. However, the unique approach of the Kentucky department will be the more intensive responsibility of the volunteer in his one to one relationship with the child and family.

Commenting on the statewide program, State Welfare Commissioner George Perkins said, "We need the help of every housewife, every business and professional man and woman, and every student in this bold and exciting new undertaking to involve the total community in the solution of the problems involving neighbors."

Individuals and groups wishing to participate in this program are asked by Irene Campbell to contact her at the County Welfare office in person or by telephone. The office is located at South Lake Drive, Main Street, Prestonsburg. The telephone number is 886-2949.
