PRESTONSBURG,

If Any Plan OK'd, Floyd Cut Is Seen

Perry May Be With 29th Senate Dist; House 'Slice' Seen

The Kentucky Legislature convened in special session today (Thursday) to redistrict the state's legislative districts in compliance with the Supreme Court's oneman, one-vote ruling, and if anything is finally achieved during the session Floyd will be one of the counties that will not escape, unscathed.

One redistricting plan for the Senateand it may be the one most favored of the five under study-places Perry county in the Floyd-Martin-Knott district. None of the five plans proposed by the Legislative Research Commission leaves Perry county free from change. If it isn't shifted to this district, it will go into the Harlan district.

State Senator Clifford B. Latta, who represents this district and who is a member of the Senate State Government Committee, could not be reached for comment on the proposed changes.

The plan apparently given precedence in the Senate would put Pike and Letcher counties into a district. The Johnson-Boyd-Lawrence district, where Wendell VanHoose is senator, may escape change.

It is in the reapportionment for the House that Floyd county may get the stiffest shock. If one plan under study is adopted, a section of this county with a population of 3100 to 3600 would be cut into the adjoining Pike county legislative district. This, it is pointed out, would get Floyd county down to the population needed for one House member and would add to Pike enough for its second seat.

Floyd Representative W. J. Reynolds, who is a member of the State Government Committee in the House, said he will not vote for this change. He opposes the shift of Floyd precincts into an adjoining county for legislative election purposes on the ground that the voters feel that such action amounts to disfranchisement. They hold that their belonging to another county and being but a small segment of that county's population would leave them in poor position to claim deserved attention. This House redistricting plan would add a part of Morgan county to the Martin-Johnson House district, with the remainder of Morgan going into the Rowan-Menifee district. Wolfe county would be added to the Knott-Magoffin district, and Letcher (See Story No. 7, Page 10)

Injured Man Named In Death of Youth

A voluntary manslaughter warrant was autos figuring early Saturday evening in the entrance to Jenny Wiley State Park at others on KY 7, two miles west of Hueys- county women were killed Sunday morn-

The warrant was sworn out by State Trooper Gary Rose, and it named Van- of Coal Run, and Hubert Salisbury, 45, of derpool in the death of 18-year-old Kenneth Sparkman, a passenger in the Vanderpool car when it collided with another auto driven by James Salyers. Young Sparkman died of internal injuries at Our Lady of the Way hospital, a few hours after the crash. Salyers was reported in critical condition at the University Medical Center, Lexington. Vanderpool is at Our Lady of the Way hospital and is expected to recover.

State Trooper Gary Rose, who investigated the wreck, said Vanderpool was driving at excessive speed and that Salyers apparently was driving with due caution. Sparkman was thrown through the windshield of the Vanderpool auto and was at first believed not to be hurt seriously.

The wreck was one item of a wreckissued Monday afternoon from the office of studded week-end during which seven County Judge Henry Stumbo, naming Earl persons were injured in the collision of a Vanderpool, Jr., 18, driver of one of two chartered Greyhound bus and an auto, near the death of one man and the injury of two Lancer, late Saturday night, and two Pike > Occupants of the auto, Charles Tibbs, 50, Pikeville, were admitted to Prestonsburg General Hospital with severe injuries. Five Cumberland College students, passengers on the bus, were injured, none seriously. Charles French, one of the students, remained in the hospital overnight. Others treated and dismissed were Pat Pelfrey, Jean Freeman, Alan McGraw and R. S. McElmurry. The students were returning to Cumberland College from Pikeville, where their team had played Pikeville College earlier in the evening.

Killed in Pike county, near Toler, when their car left U.S. 119, were Pauline Young McCoy, 34, of Huddy, and Anna Smith Williams, 30, of Belfry. (See Story No. 2, Page 10)

I'M CHALLENGED

Now, I warn one and all that this may have to do considerably with fishing. Ballard Herald may be to blame. He has whiled away the winter months, making a variety of lures, and a few days ago favored me with the gift of several of these. With the gift came the advice that if I couldn't catch a fish with these, I might as well go home and play with my toes. . . Now he has me afraid to give the lures a trial. I can't reach

PEEPING PEEPERS

They watch for the swallows to return to Capistrano, and out in Ohio there is a town where a vigil is maintained, one day every spring, for the return of the buzzards. And they never fail. At our place we can't for ell the date, but we listen for the first peep of the peepers in the little run, out back. They came last Thursday nightfirst, one tiny, exploratory peep, then another, and finally the whole gang was at it. Thus is confirmed, every year, what we already knew, that, come snow, hail, frost, whatever-Spring is just around the bend.

Council Votes City Hall Work; Cost Ceiling Set

Prestonsburg's City Council last Thursday evening approved a contract with George Lee Shannon, Prestonsburg architect, authorizing him to proceed with plans for a city hall to cost not more than $300,000.

The two-story, pre-stressed concrete building will provide a floor space of slightly more than 12,000 square feet. The first floor, which will house all city departments, will embrace an area of perhaps 3000 square feet more than the second. Second-floor space will be offered for rent to private individuals and firms.

Construction is expected to begin during the summer on the North Lake Drive lot purchased last year by the city from heirs of the Annie Stephens estate. Removal of the fire department from its present Highland avenue building will permit the city to sell that property. Other city offices now occupy rented quarters.

Price Man Dies, Buried Beneath Dislodged Coal

The body of Terry Lamar Moore, was recovered early Wednesday morning by members of the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue squad and fellow workers several hours after a mining accident, Tuesday evening, in which he fell into a truck mine loading hopper and was covered by tons of coal. The 30-year-old Price man was attempting to dislodge coal into the hopper when he apparently lost his footing and fell. The accident occurred at the Turner Elkhorn Coal Company's Guaranty mine at Hite.

Born October 15, 1940, he was a son of Ralph and Noa Isaacs Moore, of Price, and had worked for the Turner Elkhorn Coal Co. for eight years as a repairman. He was a graduate of McDowell high school and of

Mayo Vocational School. Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Annette Adkins Moore; two children, Jeffery Lamar and Teresa Rennee Moore, both at home; two brothers, Ernie and Anthony

Moore, both of Price; two sisters, Mrs. Carlotta Jones, of Bevinsville, and Debra

Lynn Moore, of Price. Funeral services were conducted at 10 a.m., Saturday, at the Wheelwright First Baptist church by the Rev. Charles Collins. Burial was made in the family cemetery at Price under direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Health Program Wins Refunding, Mixup Continues

The Office of Economic Administration (OEO) last week approved a $984,740 grant to the embattled Floyd County Comprehensive Health Services Program to fund its operations from last September till July, this year, but the program's tangled skein of affairs this week became more tangled, if possible.

The budget which came back from Washington to the health program's finance committee has specified drastic changes changes which the committee will seek to get changed, through a visit to Washington, and some of the proposed changes are to take effect no later than next

Monday. For instance:

Referral of patients to local physicians, according to a special provision accompanying the budget as submitted by Health Affairs in Washington, is to end Monday, March 1.

The budget was reviewed Monday evening at a closed session of the finance committee of the health program at the Paintsville Country Club. Some of the drastic changes committee members saw

The budget submitted to Washington had asked for $144,000 for in-patient care, and this was cut to $63,000; the $125,000 for outpatient care was reduced to $60,000; drugs, cut from $146,000 to $37,000; dental care, from $125,000 to $67,776.

This was seen as a damaging blow to the referral system under which the program has been operating.

The budget provisions, as submitted by Health Affairs, called for:

Two doctors at salaries of $20-$26,000 a year; a dentist, $18-$20,000; two health educators, $7200-$8750; each; a sanitation specialist in the same salary range as the health educators; a community advocate (attorney), $10-$15,000.

The budget, as submitted by the program committee to Washington, asked for $15000 for advertising for personnel; Washington fees were increased from the $750 asked to $3000; plane travel expenses for staff members, from $2000 to $13,500; other staff travel, from $15,000 to $25,000.

County Judge Henry Stumbo, a member of the finance committee, commented: (See Story No. 6, Page 10)

'Bob' Shepherd Succumbs at 59

Robert Lee Shepherd, 59, specialist in horticulture for the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, and former Floyd teacher, died at 4:30 a.m. last Thursday in Lexington. Death was ascribed to a heart

Mr. Shepherd was stationed at UK's Robinson Substation at Quicksand, near Jackson. He was a native of Goodloe, and held a bachelor's degree from Berea College and a master's degree from the University of Kentucky.

He taught in the Floyd county school system from 1938 until 1950, and also taught at Berea College from 1955 until he joined the University of Kentucky staff in 1961. Shepherd was a member of the American Horticulture Society, the American Legion,

Kiwanis Club and was a member of the Presbyterian church. (See Story No. 5, Page 10)

Officers Arrest Mud Creek Men As Transporters Walker Newsome, one of two men arrested in this county on charges of transporting intoxicating beverages, carried in the trunk of his automobile 39 cases of beer and 48 half-pints of whiskey, Trooper Leeman Bevins reported.

The arrest was made last Thursday night on KY 122, at Printer. Newsome also was charged with drunk driving, and two of his passengers were booked for drunkenness.

The haul taken in the arrest of the second man, Willie Williams, of Mud Creek, was not announced. He was arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Dester Hamilton and H. Hurley.

John Cochran, of West Virginia, wound up with two charges against him when he allegedly attempted to bribe an officer who was bringing him to jail here on a drunk driving count. Admitting, according to state police, that he offered State Trooper Castle $20 to forget about the drunk driving offense. Cochran was quoted as saying he had heard "that in Eastern Kentucky for $20 you could get by with anything."

"He didn't," commented Trooper John Brenner.

Donald (Duck) Newsome was arrested Monday morning by Deputy Sheriff Grady Skeens on a warrant charging Newsome with selling intoxicants. The warrant was issued after juveniles had told during their hearing on a breaking and entering charge of buying a half-pint of whiskey and and four cans of beer from Newsome.

Demonstrators Visit Prestonsburg

"We Want a Doctor at Every Outpost," read some of the placards carried by some of the 40 to 50 persons who demonstrated here Tuesday afternoon on behalf of the health services plan proposed by Dr. Arnold Schecter, deposed director of the Floyd County Comprehensive Health Services Program. The group appeared at City Hall and in the vicinity of the Prestonsburg General Hospital. Photo shows some of pickets in the municipal parking lot, near the hospital.

basketball teams hit the tournament trail, beginning next Wednesday evening at the Prestonsburg fieldhouse, that hopefully will lead one to the state finals, they may not offer the tops in basketball but the tournament will have its unusual features.

It has in opposite brackets McDowell with its 6-10 sophomore, Steve Smith, and Maytown with its talented Pat Tallent who is regarded by many to be the best allround basketeer to be produced by a Floyd school. McDowell, with a 25-5 won-lost record, is ranked No. 10 in the state and on occasion during the season has been higher than that. Combs would be the speaker at its annual Industry Appreciation banquet last Friday night 228 persons showed up and many more were not there because they understood admittance would be only by invitation.

Introducing the former governor and federal judge, Marvin Music, Sr. pointed out that "without the Mountain Parkway which Gov. Combs made possible many industries would not be here, and without Gov. Combs we wouldn't be here, because this lodge would not have been built."

Combs, who is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, said in his address, "If we do not educate our children, we may as well forget parkways, buildings and these other improvements.'

Emphasizing the necessity of education, he cited the salient features of Kentuckypoverty, romance and history. "Keep the history, romance and tradition, combine these with education and industry, and we would have a heritage we could be proud to pass on to our children.'

He spoke of the problem created by the disparity between great wealth and great poverty and said it is vitally important that the Appalachian Program be continued. "The business of democracy is never finished. . . the problems of today should be the accomplishments of tomorrow," he

Recognizing the need for welfare programs, the former governor said he feels that they should be based on an incentive to work. He expressed the feeling that federal funds and local administration of them have left the state not taking the part it should. Changes in the administration of social services were

Floyd county last year ranked No. 4 among the 46 counties of the Eastern Kentucky area in contributing $1,366.60 to the arthritis fund. Its goal for the year was $1000. When it first participated in the Arthritis Foundation drive in 1968 the county contributed only $416.26. In 1969 the total dropped to $192, but a spirited drive sponsored by the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club and featured by an energetic effort by individual community chairmen and other leaders resulted in the marked increase for

BETSY LAYNE NEWS

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Betsy Layne United Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs. Edith Mae Stanley on February 14. The president, Mrs. Willie Caldwell, opened the business session by calling on Mrs. Hettie Johnstone to lead the group in a prayer for guidance. Mrs. Aileen Wallen, secretary, then read the minutes of the January meeting. Several items of business were discussed. One of particular interest was that of starting a project to lower the ceiling in the church sanctuary. Following the business session, Mrs. Billie J. Osborne presented a program intitled, "Risking Resources." She was assisted by Mrs. Glenda Larson and Mrs. Kelsa Elliott. A simple pledge service, in which each member participated, concluded the program.

After the program Mrs. Stanley, the hostess, served refreshments to Mrs. Kathryn Blackburn, Mrs. Hettie Johnstone, Mrs. Billie J. Osborne, Mrs. Aileen Wallen, Mrs. Willie Caldwell, Mrs. Kelsa Elliott, and a guest Mrs. Glenda Larson.

The March meeting will be held at the church with Mrs. Stanley as leader. It is a Call to Prayer and Self-Denial, and an invitation is being extended to all women in the community to join in this service on Thursday evening, March 4, at 7:30.

Winner of American Electric Award

Waldo S. La Fon, executive vice-president of Kentucky Power Company, congratulates Gayle Whitt, of Pikeville Route 1, one of two winners of the $1,000 American Electric Power System Educational Awards. Witnessing the ceremony at a recent luncheon in Ashland are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glen A. Whitt, and J. M. Wood, Pikeville Division manager for the company. Patricia won the award on the basis of a competitive exam for high school seniors (the Standard College Board Scholastic Aptitude Test), school records furnished by the principal and additional information provided by each contestant. The second winner of the award lives in Hazard. Gayle, whose father is employed in the company's local accounting department, is a senior at Pikeville high school where she has been active in the National Beta Club, the Co-Ed-Y and Teens Who Care. She is the regular pianist at her church.

Spotty Sewage Treatment Won't Stop Stream Pollution

"Where the-are we going to get the money?" Ashland City Manager Kell rather explosively inquired at the annual mid-winter conference of the Kentucky Municipal League last week when faced with the requirement of the Ohio River Valley Water Sanitation Commission that all waste emptied into the Ohio River must be handled by secondary treatment facilities within the next four years.

The question is being asked, in more or less colorful language, by Prestonsburg and Pikeville and other towns along the Big Sandy after having been notified that secondary sewage treatment is a "must," and that heavy fines is the alternative.

Another question is asked, and it runs to this effect:

Why secondary treatment plants for major towns along the Big Sandy, a tributary of the Ohio, while hundreds of communities with a large aggregate population have no treatment plants whatsoever?

In other words, will the absolute purification of the effluence from Prestonsburg and towns of its size serve the purpose sought if all these other communities are permitted to run their raw sewage into the Big Sandy or its tributaries?

It should be obvious that spot cleanup jobs such as those proposed will, though admittedly reducing the raw sewage content of the river, leave the Big Sandy loaded with filth.

So what? Communities such as Allen, Betsy Layne, Boldman, Wayland and scores of others cannot finance even primary sewage treatment. That much is certain. State and federal governmentsparticularly the latter-will have to write the check if water pollution of this sort is to be controlled.

The suggestion made by Former Governor Bert T. Combs in a speech last week at Frankfort becomes important, in view of this situation. He proposes a new Urban Affairs Department within state government to help Kentucky cities and counties with sewage and drainage problems and in getting needed federal grants and loans. Thirty-one other states have such state programs. Kentucky has

If the federal government will approve the application for financial assistance already filed by the Beaver Elkhorn Water District in this county, thus making possible a comprehensive sewerage system for the Right Beaver Creek section which is getting a water system, it will establish a much-needed pattern of cooperation.

With water to be made available for the first time to hundreds of homes there, the need for sewage disposal becomes an urgent necessity if more stream pollution is to be prevented. And this is a problem not peculiar only to this one part of one county. It ranges, we would think, nationwide, and is going to require more than local SABARATE S DESERVANT TORS I TRAFF.

DECOY DANCERS IN APPEARANCE HERE

The Decoy folk dancers from Knott county appeared on stage at Prestonsburg Community College recently. This well-known group, directed by Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Duff and accompanied by Raymond McLain, features children of the first eight grades performing native folk dances and songs.

By LOIS CAMPBELL

FRANKFORT, KY.-Nestled in a small valley, where the two forks of Troublesome Creek join in the Cumberland Mountain foothills, lies the town of Hindman, seat of Knott county.

At first glance, Hindman appears to be an ordinary mountain village; at closer inspection, it is unique in many ways. The people who came into the mountains over a century ago to settle in Knott county were of pure English stock. Words, phrases and even the native music date back to the Anglo-Sazons of England. Also, there hasn't been any great influx of foreign blood into that mountain section. Consequently, the culture of the Anglo-Saxons has been to bring out candless and coal-oil lamps. preserved to an amazing degree.

Even more unusual is the growth of the community's educational system, from a one-room school to the famed Hindman Settlement School.

There was one hotel, a postoffice, school buildings and barns. blacksmith's shop, a water mill, the courthouse, jail and two general stores. Also standing was a school, situated on the north side of Hindman's only street.

From the time of the inception of Hindman and Knott county, education had been an uphill struggle. In 1899, rumors began to seep into Hindman about the doings of two "fotched-on" women who were said to be carrying on some unique work with the people in and around Hazard.

Uncle Solomon Everidge, a citizen of Hindman who had seen 80 winters, had always nourished a great desire for more and better education for the youth of Hindman and Knott county. He walked 22 miles, barefoot, to Hazard to learn firsthand of the activities of those gentle

There he found Miss May Stone and Miss Katherine Pettit teaching sewing, cooking, doing kindergarten work and helping to plan better systems for the public school teachers. He talked with them and watched them for a day, and then requested that they come to Hindman the following summer to help his people.

The next year, the trip to Hindman was made possible for the two women. Out of a number of likely places in other mountain counties, Hindman was chosen as a location for a school. With a gift of two acres of land from citizens, combined with the purchase of one extra acre and the original school house, on August 4, 1902, the Hindman Settlement School came into being under the auspices of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

It boasted enrollment of 162 pupils and offered to the students academic work in addition to cooking, sewing, housekeeping and music. Community activities were begun; and to encourage the native arts of basketmaking, spinning and weaving, as well as to provide a market for such goods, the Fireside Industries Department was organized.

The next few years brought change and development to the Settlement. By August, 1906, four new buildings were ready for use. Included were a Settlement House, school house, weaving cabin, work shop and a

The power house was used to provide the first artificial lighting to the people of Hindman. It was a steam system, controlled from the Settlement House. Every night at the designated time, the lights would blink all over town, and several minutes later, Hindman was plunged into darkness. Any citizen, desiring light after the power house curfew, found it necessary

Tragedy struck often in the form of fire during the early years of the Settlement; but as early as 1918 the progress of the school was notable. The school plant then consisted of 225 acres of land, including a In 1900, Hindman was 16 years old. The coal mine and 20 buildings, including small town consisted of several residences. cottages, a hospital, the power house, current academic year, it was announced

> The entire school enrollment numbered 341 in the various departments which consisted of kindergarten, intermediate, high school, music and agriculture. The industrial departments offered hand work, woodwork, home nursing, sewing, weaving and basketry. Service work included library, social meetings, glee club, camp fire, play grounds, military drill, midwinter extension courses and the Fireside

The Hindman Settlement School was admitted to the Southern Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges in 1928. That admission gave the school a Grade A standing-a "standard" classification which the school has retained to this day.

Following that milestone, a high school and modern library were erected. A Recreation House followed. In the 1950's the May Stone Memorial Building for girls and the Elizabeth Watts Building for Home Economics and Industrial Arts were finished. The Katherine Pettit Building for Boys is presently under construction.

Outsiders have always wondered about the relations of the Settlement to the county. Raymond K. McLain, executive director, says, "The Settlement and the Board of Education have always cooperated in a unique way. From the beginning the two worked together, and the Settlement people always say that they "supplement the county."

The county supports the Hindman high school and elementary school. The high school, with two additions, has approximately 700 students, as does the elementary. About 40 high school boys and girls stay at the Settlement, since they live too far from roads where buses can pick

With the county supporting the local school, the Settlement has increased its assistance to the small rural schools and established extension work of various kinds. The policy has always been to begin new ventures and to release them to the community when it is ready to take over while the Settlement then turns to other projects.

The extension workers travel rough roads and creek beds in jeeps and pickup trucks to reach the more isolated centers.

Work with adults also has increased. The Settlement works with several hundred young adults who have dropped out of school and are now being given another opportunity. This is a four-county project, with classes held once a week in each county for those who range all the way from being almost illiterate to those who are nearly ready to take the high school equivalency tests to obtain high school diplomas.

In looking back over the 68 years that the Hindman Settlement School has been in existence, one can see that the development of modern means of transportation has brought great changes.

With good roads and easier means of travel, school buses can bring many of the students to the Hindman Schools who could not have come there in 1902. However, there are still as many students as the settlement can accommodate-students who, for one reason or another, want or need to live in the Settlement dormitories.

The Hindman Settlement School may well be proud of its record for the past 68 years. It has sent many students on to higher education and into the professions, confident that their academic background was more than ample to see them through further studies.

Few mountain schools have set their sights so high and raised their standards to compare to those of the unique Hindman Settlement School.

Study To Provide '71 Teacher Profile

More than 1800 classroom teachers—one out of every 16 in Kentucky's public schools-will be asked to provide information for a new Kentucky Education Association (KEA) research division study intended to produce a personal and professional profile of the Kentucky teacher in 1971.

Questionnaires were expected to be mailed to the scientifically selected sample of teachers in mid February, according to Charles Whaley. KEA director of research and information.

The study will parallel one done every five years by the National Education Association (NEA) on the status of the American public-school teacher. For the NEA study done in 1965, the research divisions of KEA and six other state education associations were chosen to conduct simultaneous state studies as part of a cooperative research experiment.

Data obtained through KEA's earlier study resulted in the publication of two research reports, "The Kentucky Public-School Teacher, 1966" and "The View from the Classroom: What Kentucky Teachers Think About Their Schools, Communities, and Profession."

This year the research divisions of KEA and 13 other state education associations will participate in the cooperative project with NEA. The other states are Washington, California, Kansas, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, South Carolina Pennsylvania, and New Jersey.

NEA will process the data from each of the cooperating states and supply a computer print-out of the results of each state's survey along with a copy of the results of the national survey. This will enable each state to compare the status of its classroom teachers with the status of teachers across the nation and in the cooperating states.

Among topics covered by the 52-item questionnaire are professional preparation, teaching experience, teaching assignment, family and economic status, community involvement, professional growth activities, and attitudes toward teaching.

Maybe the people who sign the offering statement will have read it carefully, and cannot get a building permit for their lot. Maybe they understand that the streets to be installed are not going to be paved and that there will be a cutoff date for maintenance by the developer.

Maybe. Under Florida law everything will be as legal as can be. And if the land sales are successful this county is going to face some long-term headaches.

The development has not been accepted for recording by the county because it does not meet county requirements for zoning, lot size, pacing or drainage—components which are essential elements of today's residential area.

The pictures in a sales brochure, prepared by the firm for its land sales campaign, show several attractive homes—on paved streets. So presumably the developers feel that paved streets are nice even if they are not including any. The fact that the homes pictured are not in the future development is carefully

The county commissioners did not set up subdivision requirements arbitrarily. They were worked out because past experience showed they were needed both for protection of the county and the purchaser. But an unrecorded subdivision does not need to meet the requirements. What will happen after buyers finish paying for their property is that they will

NOTICE

The Kentucky Department of Highways, in order to assist those people displaced by highway construction, desires to obtain listings of available housing and building lots which are for sale, rent or lease in Pike and Floyd counties.

Information concerning property listed with the Department will be made available, free of charge, to those people displaced by highway construction and at no cost to the property owner offering the property.

Any property owner having property for sale, rent, or lease, is requested to send a brief description of the property, giving the lot size, type (brick, frame, block), number of rooms, type of heat, if gas and water are available, location and whether or not the house has a bathroom. If the house is for rent, state monthly rent; if house is for sale, the sale price. Be sure to indicate the name and address of the owner and telephone number, if any.

All properties listed must be safe, decent, and sanitary, and available for sale or rent without regard to race, creed, color, or national origin.

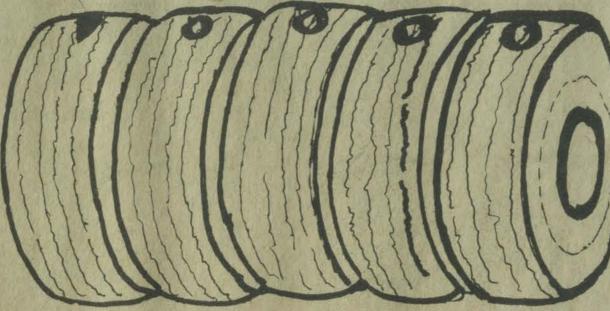

All replies should be sent to David Watson, District Relocation Assistance Agent, Department of Highways, P. O. Box 2468, Pikeville, Kentucky.

Presently, and for several years, the city of Prestonsburg, Floyd county, industrial establishments and private businesses and individuals have been hauling their trash and garbage up Cow Creek and dumping it near the highway at the gap of the Cow-Buffalo Mountain in flagrant and open violation of the law. No attempt is, or has been, made to cover this garbage dump as required by law. Rain and snow causes this trash and garbage to run down the hillside and pollute the streams. After every rise in the creek it is necessary for the citizens to clean the refuse from their property adjoining the creek. One family living near to and downstream from this dump contracted hepatitis last summer. Rats, flies and a variety of vermin infest this huge garbage dump and use it as a breeding place and a base from which to descend upon the people who live in the area-people who live there because they had hopes of enjoying the fresh pure air of a clean, quiet and unlittered countryside. Rats, flies, etc., have been known to spread disease in addition to Barry, of Xenia, Ohio, spent the week-end creating a general nuisance. On a good day the odor from this place can be detected a good mile, and on the other days you can smell it only for 1/2 mile. This is not an inspiration to campers or picnickers on their

In addition, the smoke from a constant fire pollutes and stenches the air for miles around. This burns the nostrils and spoils the disposition of the citizens in the area that like the aroma of pure, fresh country

Also, the trucks that make many regular trips daily to dump the trash and garbage which includes everything from rotten food and dead animals to old furniture and building materials scatter it along the roadside for a distance of more than two miles. Others as well as I have had to stop our vehicles and remove this litter from the highway so that we could travel in safety. In addition to being dangerous to the traveling public, it is an unsightly mess. Surely, your plans include a legal, orderly and proper method of disposing of the waste from the Park with a land fill. Certainly, the Commonwealth of Kentucky would not augment the condition created by by the governor.

Concerned citizens have tried in vain to alleviate this problem. It was presented to the grand jury without result. The county says it is the city, the city blames the county. The Floyd County Health Department said it had no authority or jurisdiction over the problem and it should be taken up with the Pollution Commission. The

SHAKE, PODNER! When The Times' Jimmy Goble extended his hand, the other morning, I wondered if I was being forgiven or if he was taking off for a sunnier clime. But it was simply to introduce me to the Fisherman's Hand-shake: two slight tugs, then a yank.

THE NEVER-OLD

You've all awakened to hear the first birdsong of a morning, I know. But did any White, Tina Casebolt, Ora M. Schroeder, fith, Wapakoneta, O., and Mrs. Pauletta of you ever think of the whistler as being old? Or cold? Or hungry?

> Perhaps I shouldn't admit this, but I got a clerks and aides from the program. munity Church, by the Revs. L. P. Tussey, bang out of that recent news item telling of James Reed and Clay Noble. Burial was the termites getting into that building made in the family cemetery under owned by the company which boasts it is the world's greatest pest controller.

> > EXPERT STATUS NOT SO INVITING

After reading in one of these sporting magazines how a fishing pro finds and catches big bass, I have lost any ambition I might ever have had to be an expert angler. He takes, first of all, a topographic or hydrographic map and studies the contour of the bottom along every shoreline of a lake before going out; then takes out his fathometer (or depthfinder) and determines how deep certain spots are; then takes an electric thermometer to get the temperature of the water. And after that he consults the solunar table-maybe an astrologer, too-and finally goes fishing.

Believe I can have more fun catching a measly fish, now and then, than I could landing lunkers, right and left, but only after going to all this trouble.

THE PEELERS

The late Tom Wallace, onetime editor of The Louisville Times, once wrote a piece about "Uncle" Hi Harris, of this town, whom he described as a whittler. Said whittling men are thinking men.

Not everybody recognizes the worth of both the whittler and his pasttime. Mrs. Marcella Bailey, of Langley, tells of the report her young niece gave when asked about what her grandfather was doing. Said she: "He's just sitting down there, peeling a stick."

county would be divided, a portion going with Perry county to form a district, the remainder going to Harlan county. Another plan which has been discussed, but which may not get far, would leave Floyd county untouched—and that, naturally, is the proposal Reynolds favors. Yet another Senate reapportionment plan heard in Frankfort would throw Floyd, Knott, Magoffin, Morgan and Breathitt into one district.

The big redistricting job lies in Eastern Kentucky, where there has been a heavy loss of population. A session of no more than three weeks is hoped for, but in that time agreement must be reached by a majority of the legislators, and after that Governor Nunn must approve or veto what they have done.

"There is nobody getting hurt by this budget except the poor people of Floyd county.'

Commented Harry Eastburn, director of the Big Sandy OEO: "Everything for the people has been cut out of it. . . by Health Affairs in Washington."

A special provision required, along with the budget as changed by Health Affairs, that no personnel changes may be made without approval of Health Affairs.

To compensate for increases in salaries and other budgeted expenses, Health Affairs proposes to eliminate a whole series of next week for a look at the situation. Dr. Leon Cooper, director of the 50 comprehensive health programs operated by OEO, did not attend the Paintsville meeting this week, as scheduled.

Dr. Arnold Schecter, who was recently dismissed as director of the Floyd program, said this week that the directive that personnel changes may be made only with Health Affairs approval may make unnecessary court action on his part to retain the post.

Floyd Comprehensive Health board members contend that the part-time services of local medical personnel have been much cheaper than the cost of fulltime doctors and facilities in competition with those already in existence.

Dr. Schecter said that the program spends $365,000 in direct health care for the consumers and spends $1 million for administration.

TWIGS Judged Best Literary Magazine Published in State

TWIGS, a nationally known literary magazine, published by the Appalachian Studies Center, Pikeville College, has been named the best general magazine published in Kentucky.

At the recent Louisville meeting of the Kentucky Arts Commission the editors were awarded $500 for excellence in their selection of prose and poetry. An additional $250 was given as prize money for the best work in both prose and poetry for the next two issues in 1971.

Judges for the awards were Carolyn Kizer, University of North Carolina; Lucien Stryk, Southern Illinois University; David Young, Oberlin College, and Donald Finkel, Washington University, St. Louis.

In announcing the awards, Miss Kizer praised the editors of the magazine for their excellence and national outlook in publishing some of the best writers in American today. She noted further that TWIGS had published and is still publishing some of the best unknown writers in every issue.

The two stories that drew praise from the judges were "The House of Pearl," by David Madden, professor at Louisiana State University, and "The Gift," by Kimo Halialia, a student at the University of Washington, Seattle.

Poets singled out as outstanding were Harold Witt, Orinda, California; Patricia Goedickie, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Robert Peters, Laguna Beach, Calif.; Rachael Mc-Cracken, Parma, Ohio; Lucille Adler, New Mexico; Prentiss Baker, Louisville, and Robert Chute, who resides in Maine.

Editors of the magazine are Bruce Bennett Brown, David Winkler, Quentin R. Howard, Lillie D. Chaffin and Christina Goodman. The new number of TWIGS will

Doctors' Day Proclaimed

FRANKFORT, KY.-Gov. Louie B. Nunn has proclaimed March 30 as 'Doctors' Day in Kentucky.

Since the doctors of Kentucky care for the sick and are constantly engaged in research to prevent human misery and suffering, the governor said, all citizens of the Commonwealth can express their appreciation to Kentucky's doctors on this

The theme for this year's observance will be "The History and Romance of Medicine in Kentucky."

Medical auxiliaries throughout the state will be honoring doctors, and luncheons, dinners and special events are planned in their behalf.

Some auxiliaries will donate doctors' drug samples to international health organizations for the benefit of the medically underprivileged.

Others will donate doctors' drug samples to international health organizations for the benefit of the medically underprivileged.

Others will donate funds to the McDowell House in Danville, a shrine to Kentucky's pioneer physician, Dr. Ephraim McDowell. In addition, donations to scholarship funds for students of medicine will be given in the names of various medical groups. The Doctors' Day observance is a tradition dating back to 1933.

Wednesday following morning sergery for FRANKFORT, Ky.-Kentuckians often are not as aware of the fine fishing available in the commonwealth's major lakes as are residents of neighboring states. This premise is strengthened when one compares the sale of fishing licenses, resident and non-resident, for 1969. According to records in the Fiscal Control section of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, a total of 283,026 Kentucky residents purchased fishing licenses during that year while out-ofstaters bought 110,711.

By applying extremely rough figures, one can determine that about four out of ten persons who fished in Kentucky were from out-of-state.

This statement is true for license buyers, but a little quirk reveals that the percentage of resident fishermen is much greater than that 6-4 ratio mentioned above.

You see, in Kentucky all residents 65 and older are allowed to fish free, without a license. Also, youngsters under 16 who are residents of the state are given the right to fish without paying a fee.

Persons in both these categories from out-of-state must pay and therefore their numbers are included in the 110,711 column, while in the resident license column we must count also those thousands of Kentuckians who are exempted because of age and pay no license fee.

The out-of-state revenue, some may say, is a windfall for the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. While the money does come in handy for the department's various projects, businessmen of the state also reap great dividends.

Figures show that every outsider who comes into Kentucky to fish for three days will leave a bundle of "long green" in the

Let's see how much. His room for three nights will be at least $30. He'll eat 10 times in Kentucky and will spend about $2 per meal-another $20. His gasoline could cost him $20-25 and he may purchase some fishing tackle and bait, probably for $10. If he rents a boat and motor the cost will be $25 for three days and if he travels the fine toll roads he'll pitch in another $4-5.

If he decides to appease the little lady with a surprise gift when he returns home he'll buy some worthy Kentucky product and if he brings the whole family along he'll add considerably more to his out lay. This out-of-state fishing, as with the entire tourism industry, is a windfall for all Kentucky and not just the Department of Fish and Wildlife.

Phone Firm Denied Immediate Increase

The Court of Appeals has denied South Central Bell Telephone Company its request for an injunction which would have allowed it to raise its basic telephone rates in Kentucky immediately.

The telephone company has filed an appeal in Franklin circuit court of the Public Service Commission's decision denying a requested $14.8 million rate in-

The company has asked the high court for a temporary injunction suspending enforcement of the PSC order and allowing the rate increase immediately, subject to refund if any part of the increase is not eventually upheld in the courts.

The decision has probably ensured no change in the phone rates for at least six months, since whichever side loses in circuit court is expected to appeal to the Court of Appeals, and would likely stretch the case until next fall.

HARRY GORDON ALLEN PROPERTY VALUATION ADMINISTRATOR

(Tax Commissioner)

I request that the taxpayers who have either BOUGHT, SOLD or BUILT to come in immediately and have your listings corrected for the year of 1971. The assessment period is from January 1, 1971 through February 28, 1971.

Also, those people who have not reported their MOBILE HOMES MUST DO SO. Failure to report these will result in possibly being penalized the 20 percent penalty; it is also possible to go back five (5) years on all property.

Also, business firms that have not reported their inventories, business furniture and fixtures, accounts receivables and other taxable information, please do so before March 1, 1971.

Keeping the tax rolls up to date is very difficult without your cooperation.

TV Transmission System Studied For This County

Feasibility of establishing a central transmission facility to serve all community television systems in this county with 12 channels was discussed at a recent meeting held at Martin.

Everett Akers, owner of the community system serving Martin, told owners of other systems that he would be able to pick up, "off-air," by means of antenna, TV programs which, in turn, could be channelled to member-systems or subscribers. Cost of such a system has been estimated as high as $250,000. Included would be the construction of a 500-foot-high tower and a 30-foot parabolic antenna in the Martin

Also discussed at other times has been the feasibility of a central receiver using laser transmission facilities to interconnect with the several systems. Another plan proposed is a micro-wave system extending from Winchester into the Big Sandy section, perhaps as far as Pikeville.

Whatever method is adopted, if any, systems now in operation would continue to operate independently of each other, depending upon the central system only for transmission, it was said.

LETTERS To The Editor

Congratulates Auxier

I would like to congratulate a town for a job well done. The people in Auxier have united together and worked very hard for their own fire department, which is badly needed. That is certainly what it takes to get any improtant job done. "Faith without works is dead." Every town must have a good and dedicated fire department for the protection of their homes and business.

But most improtant of all is the big fire department of God. I say this in sincerity and much prayer, that not only the Christians in Auxier, but all Christians everywhere, will band together, and work even harder for lost souls and against Eternal Fire," than the people of Auxier have worked for their fire department.

The Bible has much to say, about "fire". "The Lake of Fire," "Eternal Fire," and Jesus is returning the second time in "Flaming Fire," (2nd. Thess. 1:4-12).

So, I think that congragulations are in order for the people of Auxier who have worked so hard and faithfully for a good and needed cause. I pray, that all bornagain believers and followers of Jesus Christ will tell our families our neighbors, our friends about the "Eternal Fire," and there's only one Fire Department that will protect you, and that is God's. He has already made the way, and that is Christ and His Cross.

More Tourists Visit State, Spend More

A record 33.5 million, out-of-state travelers visited Kentucky last year and spent $394 million, or seven per cent more than in 1969.

The figures were included in a recently released travel survey made for the state Department of Public Information.

The survey reported that visitors to the state provided over $42 million in state government revenue and more than $136 million in personal income for Kentuckians.

Also noted was $148 million spent by Kentuckians traveling around their own state.

Time To Stop Apologizing To Youth Of The Nation

written by Dr. K. Ross Toole, a history inevitable consequence of violation of the professor at the University of Montana in Missoula. In its original form, the article was a letter written by Toole to a brother as gratuitous, should be these: an expression of the professor's personal feelings. It since has appeared in several newspapers and a national news magazine.

By DR. K. ROSS TOOLE

I am 49 years old. It took me many years and considerable anguish to get where I am-which isn't much of any place except exurbia. I was nurtured in depression; I lost four years to war; I am invested with sweat; I have had one coronary; I am a "liberal," square, and I am a professor. I am sick of the "younger generation," hippies, Yippies, militants and nonsense.

I am a professor of history at the University of Montana, and I am supposed to have "liaison" with the young. Worse still, I am father of seven children. They range in age from 7 to 23-and I am fed up with nonsense. I am tired of being blamed, maimed and contrite; I am tired of tolerance and the reaching out (which is always my function) for understanding. I am sick of the total irrationality of the campus "rebel," whose bearded visage, dirty hair, body odor and "tactics" are childish but brutal, naive but dangerous, and the essence of arrogant tyranny—the tyranny of spoiled brats.

I am terribly disturbed that I may be incubating more of the same. Our household is permissive, our approach to discipline is an apology and a retreat from standards—usually accompanied by a gift in cash or kind.

It's time to call a halt; time to live in an adult world where we belong and time to put these people in their places. We owe the "younger generation" what all "older generations" have owed younger generations-love, protection to a point and respect when they deserve it. We do not owe them our souls, our privacy, our whole lives, and above all, we do not owe them immunity from our mistakes, or their own.

Every generation makes mistakes, always has and always will. We have made our share. But my generation has made America the most affluent country on earth; it has tackled, head-on, a racial problem which no nation on earth in the history of mankind had dared to do. It has publicly declared war on poverty and it has gone to the moon; it has desegregated schools and abolished polio; it has presided over the beginning of what is probably the greatest social and economic revolution in man's history.

Its mistakes are fewer than my father's generation-or his father's, or his. Its greatest mistake is not Vietnam; it is the abdication of its first responsibility, its pusillanimous capitulation to its youth and its sick preoccupation with the problems, the mind, the psyche, the raison d'etre of the young. Society, "the Establishment," is not a foreign thing we seek to impose on the young. We know it is far from perfect. We did not make it; we have only sought to change it. The fact that we have only been minimally successful is the story of all generations coming up. Yet we have worked a number of wonders. We have changed it.

Knowing this, why do we listen subserviently to the violent tacticians of the new generation? Either they have total victory by Wednesday next or burn down our carefully built barricades in adolescent pique; either they win now or flee off to a commune and quilt; either they solve all problems this week or join a wrecking crew of paranoids.

I assert that we are in trouble with this younger generation not because we have failed our country, not because of affluence of stupidity, not because we are middleclass materialists—but simply because we have failed to keep that generation in its place and we have failed to put them back there when they got out of it. We have the power; we do not have the will. We have the right; we have not exercised it.

To the extent that we now rely on the police, mace, the National Guard, tear gas, steel fences and a wringing of hands, we

What we need is a reappraisal of our own middleclass selves, our worth and our hard-won progress. We need to use disdain, not mace; we need to reassess a weapon we came by the hard way, by travail and labor, firm authority as parents, teachers, businessmen, workers and politicians.

The best place to start is at home. But the most practical and effective place, right now, is our campuses. This does not mean a flood of angry edicts, a sudden clamp-down a "new" policy. It simply means that faculties stop playing chicken, that demonstrators should be met not with police but with explusions. The power to expel (strangely unused) has been the legitimate recourse of universities since

More importantly it means that at freshman orientation, whatever form it takes, the administration should set forth the ground rules-not belligerently but forth-

There is room within the university complex for basic student participation but there is no room for slobs, disruption and violence. The first obligation of the administration is to lay down the rules early. clearly and positively, and to attach to this statement the penalty for violation. It is profoundly simple—and the failure to state it-in advance-is the salient failure of unversity administrators in this age.

Expulsion is dreaded verdict. The administration merely needs to make it clear,

A contract for $799,862 with Raymond Construction Co. has been signed by the state to build a dam and 243-acre reservoir on Cannon Creek in Bell county, halfway between Pineville and Middlesboro.

Editor's Note: The following article was quite dispassionately, that expulsion is the

Among the rules, even though it seems

Violence armed or otherwise, the forceful occupation of buildings, the intimidation by covert or overt act of any student or faculty member of administrative personnel, the occupation of any university property, field, park building, lot or other place, shall be cause for expulsion.

The disruption of any class, directly or indirectly, by voice or presence or the destruction of any university property, shall be cause for expulsion.

This is neither new nor revolutionary. It is merely the reassertion of an old, accepted and necessary right of the administration of any such institution. And the faculty should be informed, firmly, of this reassertion before trouble starts.

Suppose the students refuse to recognize explusions, suppose they march, riot, strike. The police? No. The matter, by prearrangement, publicly stated, should then pass to the courts.

If buildings are occupied, the court enjoins the participating students. It has the lawful power to declare them in contempt. If violence ensues, it is in violation of the court's order. Courts are not subject to fears, not part of the action. And what militant will shout obscenities in court with contempt hanging over his head?

This is a country full of decent, worried people like myself. It is also a country full of people fed up with nonsense. We need (those of us over 30)—tax-ridden, harried, confused, weary and beat-up-to reassert our hardwon prerogatives. It is our country, too. We have fought for it, bled for it, dreamed for it, and we love it. It is time to reclaim it.
