

Three Draw Pen Terms, Two Jailed Reed Convicted Here In Trial Last Week; Two in Guilty Pleas

Three defendants who have been convicted or have pleaded guilty to felonies at the current circuit court term may be taken to the state reformatory this week, Sheriff Frank Leslie said Tuesday.

They are: Harrison Reed, who was convicted last week of the attempted rape of an elderly Hueysville woman, and sentenced to four years.

David Johnson, of Left Beaver Creek, who pleaded guilty Monday to charges of breaking and entering the stores of Howard Hall and Glen Edwards and was given a two-year term in each case. A third breaking and entering count against him in connection with the looting of the Homer Tackett store was dismissed.

Charles Homer Stanley, of Melvin, who pleaded guilty to charges of shooting into the dwelling of Belene Stanley and of assault and battery on her person. He was sentenced to two years.

Sanford Slone was given a jail term of eight months upon his conviction on an assault and battery charge. The following day, Fred Newsome was fined $75 and given a 60-day jail term for selling intoxicating beverages, and Damon Newsome was fined $100 and sentenced to jail 30 days for possession of intoxicants.

The one murder case on the docket, that of Olin Shepherd, who is accused of the slaying of his wife, is scheduled for trial May 3.

Two defendants won acquittals last week. They are Kanie Tuttle, charged with shooting and wounding, and Carter Lee Hall, accused of grand larceny.

Cases dismissed include these:

Charles Jackson and Corbet Slone, auto theft; Denver Ousley, cold check; Henry Posten, Richard Gayheart and Randall Owens, grand larceny; Larry Douglas Vanover and Stephen Crag Slone, destroying private property; Clyde Vanderpool, arson.

'Drunk School' Plan Is Hailed By Floyd Man

Frank H. Layne, alcoholism program coordinator, for the Mountain Mental Health-Mental Retardation Association here, this week hailed the program announced last week and already in effect at Richmond to attack the drunk driving problem through a special school for offenders of the drunk driving law.

The program is almost identical to that which Mr. Layne proposed three years ago.

"Hopefully, with the cooperation of county judges and the courts, we will establish alcoholism 'schools' in the five counties of this region—Floyd, Pike, Martin, Johnson and Magoffin, Mr. Layne said.

The school operating at Richmond consists of 10 hours of education on alcohol and how it affects the body. "Students"—persons who have been arrested on drunk driving charges—attend two-and-a-half-hour classes on four consecutive Monday

Bradbury Receives Highest Award Conferred by Boy Scout Council

The coveted Silver Beaver Award was presented to Arthur Bradbury at the annual Appreciation Dinner of Lonesome Pine Council, Boy Scouts of America, at the Elkhorn Country Club, Jenkins, last Friday evening.

Mr. Bradbury became a Boy Scout in England in 1908. After he came to America he served as a coach for a first-aid team and as a Merit Badge counselor in Illinois, as well as in Kentucky. He was instrumental in organizing a troop at Wheelwright, where he served as Scoutmaster for two years. He has also held the following positions in Scouting: Chairman of the Troop Committee in Wheelwright, chairman of the Jenny Wiley District Committee, Council Health and Safety chairman, Finance chairman of the Jenny Wiley District and institutional representative.

He is a Kiwanian with more than 12 years of perfect attendance and has been recognized as a Kentucky Colonel and an Okie of the state of Oklahoma, is also past president of the Coal Miners Inspection Institute of America, director of the Big Sandy-Elkhorn Coal Mining Institute, and chairman of the Citizens Council of McDowell Regional Hospital.

More than 200 Scout leaders and their wives attended the dinner.

Special recognition was given to all Den Mothers, Cubmasters, Scoutmasters, and Explorer Advisors within the Lonesome Pine Council. A special plaque was presented to J. M. Radio System Seen for Area

The recent $50,000 grant to the Big Sandy Crime Council from the Omnibus Crime Commission is expected to result in a radio communications system serving the sheriff's offices of Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Martin and Magoffin counties.

Sheriff Frank Leslie said here Monday that the grant is made to the Big Sandy Council on a 60-40 basis, with each county sharing in the cost of equipment installed. He estimated that equipment for this county will cost between $3000 and $3500, and said the Floyd fiscal court has promised its cooperation.

The equipment proposed for the Floyd sheriff would include four radio units for officers' cars and two base units—one in the sheriff's office and the second in the office of the jailer. Leslie said the two of the B. and B. Construction Company will probably be available for use.

The communications system planned would serve not only individual sheriff's offices and personnel but would also link the five counties in an effective public safety communications system, it was said. The Big Sandy Crime Council has already voted to advertise for bids on installation of the system.

Motel Robbery Suspects Held In Golden, Colo.

Two teen-agers who allegedly robbed the Jenny Wiley Motel, near Auxier, April 11 and eluded roadblocks thrown up by state police have been arrested in Colorado.

The two were identified by the sheriff at Golden, Colo., as Robert Wayne Benfield, 18, of Concord, N. C., and William T. Clinkscales, 19, of Virginia Beach, Virginia. The Colorado sheriff notified state police at Pikeville that the getaway car, which was taken by the two after they entered the home of Mrs. Alice Williams, near the motel, also has been recovered.

Benfield and Clinkscales, who fled the federal Correctional Institute, at Summit, Ky., the day preceding the robbery, allegedly held at shotgun point Mrs. Lloyd Anderson, co-manager of the motel, and took from the cash register $77 in bills. They later went to the nearby Williams home and left with Mrs. Williams' car.

A pickup truck found near the Floyd-Johnson county line, a short distance north of the motel, allegedly was stolen at Fallsburg.

State Police Detective Chester D. Potter said the two will be returned to this county for trial.

The search continues for two other men who held up the IGA Foodliner at Paintsville and fled with approximately $25,000 in cash, checks and foodstamps.

Mine Area Bridge Blast Is Probed

Plans for stripmining acreage on Spewing Camp may have supplied a motive for the dynamiting early last Saturday morning of an approach to the bridge over which traffic must pass into the creek area, investigating officers said this week.

The investigation conducted by State Detective Chester D. Potter and Sheriff Frank Leslie has failed to uncover worthwhile leads in the case.

The end of the span leading off KY 122 into Spewing Camp at Orkney was blasted. Approximately a dozen homes on Spewing Camp were isolated by the bridge damage, it was said. Officers were told the dynamiting occurred at 1:15 a.m.

Among those booked at the county jail within the week were:

Willie Hall, shooting at without wounding; Forest Newsome, charged with rape, arrested by Deputy Sheriffs H. Mullett and J. Napier; Monty Slone, drunk driving and leaving the scene of an accident, by Deputy Sheriffs Tackett and Isaacs; Earl Thomas Patton, petty larceny, by Deputy Sheriff R. Johnson; Larry Patton, petty larceny, by Deputy Sheriff Virgil Conn; Donald Spears, drunk driving, by State Trooper Williamson; Carrie Fowler, reckless use of a deadly weapon, by Deputy Sheriffs Albert Salyers and Sollie Holbrook; Green Hall, Jr., reckless driving, by State Trooper Gary Rose; Edward Sweeney, driving without license, by Prestonsburg Policemen Blackburn and Perry; Chandis McKinney, drunk driving, by State Trooper Rose; Donald Houston, drunk driving, by Policemen Potter and Blackburn; Larry Patton, drunk driving, by Policemen Thornsberry, Nelson and Blackburn; Curtis Bentley, drunk driving and no operator's license, by Policemen Blackburn and Herald.

Health Program Doctor, Nurses Threaten To Quit Their Posts

Latest reported development in the hassle-ridden Floyd County Comprehensive Health Program was the threat made last week by the entire medical staff of the program to resign unless the board of directors reconsiders its reinstatement of a former employee who had resigned.

Dr. Titzler, lone doctor in the program, and the seven nurses employed at various outposts in the county, last Thursday addressed an open letter to the board of directors and sent a copy to OEO in Washington, stating their intention to quit if the employee's reinstatement was not voided within two weeks.

The letter followed last Tuesday's meeting of the board at which Earl Comp-

Mr. Auxier, who is teacher of mathematics at Betsy Layne high school, was elected at the Louisville meeting of KEA without opposition for the top post in the 29,000-member organization of state educators. He will automatically become KEA president next April.

Auxier was KEA vice-president for the year which ended with last week's meeting. The year before, he was president of the Floyd County Teachers' Association.

A graduate of Pikeville College, he has been a teacher 10 years.

Bid Advertising Within 6 Weeks Held Possible

The Prestonsburg City Council took action last Thursday which is expected within the next six weeks to result in advertising for bids on the $300,000 municipal building proposed on Lake Drive to serve all departments of the city.

Council told its fiscal agent, Chas. A. Hirsch and Co., Cincinnati, to proceed with the sale of a $340,000 bond issue and directed George Lee Shannon, architect, to rush final plans on the structure.

Although the bond issue was authorized for $340,000, actual cost of the building, Council has decided, may not exceed $300,000. If the lowest bid on the project exceeds that figure, revision of design and plans will be asked. The additional $40,000 in the bond issue will cover financing costs.

The city has on hand $65,000 from the sale of property and from the budget, and this amount will be paid immediately on the total amount of the bonds.

The proposed two-story structure will be located on the North Lake Drive lot formerly occupied by the Albert Stephens residence. City offices and departments will be housed on the first floor. The second floor will be devoted to office space, which will be for lease to private firms or individuals.

Council members were told that the United Pacific Insurance Company, surety for Britt-Bertram Associates, Vanceburg contracting firm which has failed to complete the low-rent housing project in the Garfield Addition, hopes to get a proposal this week from a contractor to finish the work there.

Oscar Allen was employed as the eighth member of the police force here.

Officer Says Threat of Drugs In County a 'Frightening' Thing

"It's frightening," a peace officer told The Times this week in a discussion of the wide spread of marijuana, stimulants and depressants in use in this county.

And LSD, he said, is finding its way into the area with increasing frequency.

"What is more frightening," he added, "is the attitude of many parents. They are either ignorant of what is happening or don't care."

The officer said some parents remind him that marijuana hasn't been proved to be harmful. Only this week a research group reported definite mental and psychological deterioration from the use of marijuana.

Others, he said, have reminded him that the use of stimulants and depressants is nothing new to them—that they themselves have used them without ill effect. The officer said these parents fail to realize that their youngsters are taking these pills without a doctor's direction and that an overdose could be fatal.

"The stuff is here—we know it, but it's hard to pin down," the officer said.

Area Task Force To Aid Children Sets Park Meet

The first regional training session for county chairmen and volunteers of the Kentucky Task Force for Exceptional Children in the Big Sandy Area Development District are scheduled at 6 p.m. Monday, April 26, at Jenny Wiley State Park at 6 p.m.

All county chairmen, volunteers and interested persons within the six-county development district are expected to attend. Counties included in the Big Sandy area are Floyd, Johnson, Martin, Magoffin, and Pike County.

Dr. Donald E. Davis, project manager, and members of the Frankfort project staff, will conduct the training session. The sessions are designed to provide persons compiling the incidence survey on Kentucky's exceptional children with general procedures to be followed.

The Kentucky Task Force for Exceptional Children, established by the 1970 legislature, is charged with surveying needs and resources available for special training and related services for exceptional children in the state.

Richard Howard, of Pikeville College, will serve as regional chairman and Ray Brackett, of the Floyd County school will coordinate Floyd county's effort.

By law, the definition of exceptional children, for the purposes of this program, means "children who differ in one or more

This Town... That World

Once upon a time the Chinese inflicted upon this country a game called mah jong. That was bad enough, but now they come back with ping-pong—plus a dash of diplomacy. I would think any good relationship established by means of a racket is on the tenuous side.

A BARE THREAT GETS ACTION

The Oil and Gas Division of the Department of Mines and Minerals has brought charges against a Barren county oil-well operator's agent because he left puddles of oil around a well which could have been washed into Barren Reservoir if a rain came.

Barren Lake is in a favored spot. What would have to happen to Dewey to get the state to act?

EXCUSES, EXCUSES

Lenna Moore fell from a ladder, some time back, and severely injured his hand. To begin with, it was an unfortunate venture, since he was out $32 in doctor and medical bills, whereas he says he could have hired somebody to patch the roof for $1.50. But after that he ran into other troubles. He couldn't plow his garden, and the garden wouldn't wait. So he began contacting friends, mere acquaintances, and finally total strangers. All he got was excuses. He lists some of them (and I do not vouch for any of them):

Two took his telephone number, said they would call but didn't; two said they were on Medicaid; some had to drive their wives to work; one said he had to take care of the children while the wife was away at work. And one reported that he felt like, maybe, he was fixin' to take Black Lung.

AGE HAS ITS COMPENSATIONS

Spring is a grand time of year, and those who are known as our senior citizens know that best. The beauties of the season are seen best by those whose eyes are not as keen as they once were and the harmonies of birds and running water and faroff cowbells are heard best by those whose ears no longer catch ordinary sound.

I hear from an old friend on Buffalo, who says she is 83 and that this is the most beautiful spring she can remember. A cousin of mine who looks back over a string of years of about the same length called Another older brother Mike will be a senior on the GW varsity next year. The signing took place at the Washington Touchdown Club at a news conference called by the university.

Public Interest Necessary To Avert Garbage Explosion

For most of us, garbage disposal means—dump it and forget it. It is estimated that each person disposes of 5.3 pounds of solid waste each day. With Floyd county's population of 35,889, this is an average of approximately 95 tons of solid waste per day or 34,675 tons per year. This solid waste is being disposed of along the roadways, in 12 major unapproved dumps, and in our rivers and streams.

Under Kentucky law (KRS 211.707), solid waste is to be disposed of only at a site for which a permit has been issued by the State Department of Health. There are no sanitary landfills in Floyd county. Therefore, any person or persons who permit their property to be used as an open "garbage dump" are in violation of the law, and become subject to a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars or imprisonment for not more than thirty days or both. Each day of violation constitutes a separate offense.

Each homeowner is responsible for disposing of his own garbage. The approved method is to bury it.

Many homeowners pay a garbage pick-up service to dispose of their refuse. But since our county has no approved sanitary landfills, the pick-up services dispose of tons of garbage at unapproved sites.

What seems to be a hopeless problem can be solved if enough public interest is aroused. You must become active in the fight against a garbage explosion of mountains of trash infested with rats and mosquitoes. Ask your local officials about solid waste management.

A Great Appalachian Resource

It is possible that none of us is aware of the prime importance of pure water and the great value of an adequate water supply. Some may even write off the mounting protest against the pollution of the nation's water supply as plain dissent for mere dissent's sake.

A report made to President Johnson by a study group after a survey of the President's native Texas and other western states should answer those who doubt the imminence of a water crisis and are skeptical of the motives of those who voice the loudest concern. This report—never published, we believe, but real, nevertheless—pointed out, we are told on good authority:

1. That within ten years the surface waters of Texas, California and certain other states will not be sufficient to support their present population, and that the underground water supply already is almost nil.

2. That emigration to California from other states should be stopped and additional location of new manufacturing plants there should be prohibited.

3. That within twenty-five years possibly the entire mid-west will be dependent upon the Appalachian states and their abundant supply of water; that a multiplicity of reservoirs in areas such as the mountains of Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and North Carolina will be needed to retain the seasonal oversupply of water in order to accommodate other states which threaten to become desert-land.

4. That "heavy" industry must be required to locate in Appalachia, regardless of its own preferences.

These few, and admittedly incomplete, facts developed by this survey gives credence to the idea that within a generation the water Appalachia has, and may waste, could become more valuable than all its coal and oil and gas.

We wonder at the shortsightedness which caused our grandparents or great-grandparents to sell their mineral holdings for the proverbial song. What will be the verdict handed down, twenty-five, fifty years hence, by those who remember who sacrificed the water that was one of the priceless resources of this region?

Whatsoever Things

By DONALD E. WILDMON

It was the middle of winter; the year, 1916. Glenn and Floyd Cunningham were, as usual, the first to arrive at the little Kansas schoolhouse. They began their routine of building a fire. Neither knew that the night before the Ladies Literary Society had met in the school and that somehow gasoline for the lanterns had become mixed with kerosene for the stove. The result was an explosion that engulfed the boys in flame. Somehow, they made their way home. Floyd soon died. Glenn managed to live. But the doctor gave a gloomy report. "Glenn may never walk again."

Seven-year-old Glenn Cunningham heard the doctor's words. And he made a vow. He would walk again. "Doc, I don't want to sit," said Glenn. "I want to walk and run, and I will." For the next six months Glenn and his mother worked for hours each day, massaging the legs. At the end of six months Glenn was walking. Two years later, he was running. Not fast—but running. When Glenn was 12 he entered his first mile race and won. It was the beginning of a career that was to bring Glenn Cunningham fame and satisfaction.

Glenn continued to run and continued to win. He worked his way through the University of Kansas. In college, the intercollegiate records began to fall beneath his driving legs—legs that weren't supposed to walk. In 1933 he was awarded the James E. Sullivan Award as the amateur athlete who had done the most to advance sportsmanship. In 1936 he earned his master's degree from the State University of Iowa.

At the Olympics in Berlin that summer, Cunningham broke the Olympic record for 1500 meters, despite the fact that he finished second. Then, at Dartmouth College in 1938, Glenn reached the summit. He ran the indoor mile in 4:04.4—a new world record. The boy who may never walk again had become the world's fastest indoor miler!

Glenn Cunningham knew there was more to life than running. Soon it was Dr. Glenn Cunningham. He and his wife Ruth returned to their Kansas ranch, 840 acres he had bought with his savings. Having a love and reverence for life, and believing that each person could make a go of it if given a fair shake, Glenn set forth to aid youth. After a speech in 1947 at a church, the minister asked to speak with Glenn in private.

"There is a boy here in desperate need," the minister said. "Billy is apathetic, completely wrapped in a shell nobody can pierce. Can you help?"

That was the first of more than 8000 youths that Glenn and Ruth took in. It meant they would lose their ranch. It meant hardships and heartaches. But the same determination, the same patience, the same strong belief that had made Glenn a winner at running made him a winner at providing for his youth.

Glenn once said: "God has granted Ruth and me 8000 miracles, and we are humbly grateful."

When you think about it, that's not so unusual. Miracles always come when one has faith, hope, love, and dedication. Glenn Cunningham is real proof of that.

A Minister Reviews The Patriotic Parade

By The REV. W. M. POPE

(In The Lamplighter, bulletin of The First Methodist Church, Prestonsburg.)

The "We Love America" parade in Prestonsburg Saturday, Nov. 7, demonstrated that there is still some "old fashioned patriotism" alive in our land today. As you saw the students from every school in Floyd county, heard the bands from the high schools in the county and read the placards, such as: "Respect America," "Land of the Free and Home of the Brave," "We Love America," and "Freedom of the Press" and "Freedom of Worship," it made one feel proud that he was an American.

Probably little notice will be taken of this occasion outside Floyd county, but it was a significant occasion, involving the school students, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Rescue Squad, some homemakers clubs and many others, possibly 10,000 people.

Now if a bunch of hippies, SDS radicals and Black Power liberals had staged a demonstration in Prestonsburg, desecrated the American flag, burned their draft cards, smoked pot, burned some public buildings, thrown bricks at policemen and shouted obscenities at our elected leaders, every national TV network would have had a television camera and crew here to spread the news all over the nation, lending their support and promoting such anti-American behaviour.

But since this was a patriotic occasion that the news media could not control or distort, they will ignore it. But the patriotic Americans of Floyd county can be proud of the occasion, and continue to work that "This nation under God, shall not perish from the earth."

Tidbits of Kentucky Folklore:

If Set Apart from the Average, Prepare for Life-Long Ribbing

By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D.

Humanity, probably from its earliest days, has felt that being different from the average is unfortunate, to say the least; too often it has been bad luck or worse. Boys, especially, have always liked to remind other boys of their defects, as being different is likely to be regarded.

Bodily characteristics come in for a great deal of ribbing. Think how every red-headed boy, and some girls, has had to fight his way through the grades and high school to prove that red-headed people have high tempers. No study that has come my way establishes or refutes this age-old belief; maybe red-headed people do have a better-than-average temper. Tow-heads come next in punishment; I was a tow-head and grew up with a feeling that I had been somehow a sort of foster child of the human race and not an heir. Freckles, in the wise opinion of certain critics of boyhood, seem the best mark of being a boy. I doubt whether these learned ones ever had freckles; they might have a slightly different point of view now. For ages the left-handed ones have been a squelched minority, not often suffering actual violence but discriminated against. How many left-handed people whom you know who are now middle-aged were allowed to be left-handed? Some of my very best students, of forty years ago, had actually been punished and scolded because of being left-handed. One very pretty girl felt that her stammering might have resulted from this revolt against nature that her parents and teachers compelled her to engage in. As was fairly common, her penmanship was queer; she was ashamed of it, but she had not been allowed to write as she wanted to. Fortunately, parents and teachers now accept left-handedness; and left-handed penmanship is usually as good as right-handed. But does your child have a left-handed desk, or does he still have to adjust to the majority of mankind, whether or no? I certainly can sympathize with the left-handed person, for I was born double-handed. Of course, my teachers insisted on my learning to write with my right hand; hence I cannot use a pen or pencil at all skillfully with the left one. But otherwise I hardly know which hand I am using. After I became grown, I discovered that in painting a house I swapped my paint brush backwards and forwards without even knowing it. In all uses of the hands together, my left hand leads. Because of this being different as two hands, I have always been very conscious of "south paws" and am inwardly happy every time I see one. I am glad that most of them that I see now have been allowed to grow up naturally.

Though talking about one's hair or freckles or left hands may be open and, usually, good-natured, most of us have heard hints that other irregularities may mean something bad. A squint-eyed person may have troubles enough of his own because of defective eyes; but whispers behind hands may indicate that he is marked in some way. Some people even say that it is exceedingly bad luck to look at such a person; some soften this by saying that you can escape squint-eyes if you always speak kindly to a squint-eyed person. Bow legs come in for a good deal of ribbing, especially from other boys and some men. All sorts of theories appear in folklore as why such unfortunate extremities exist, ranging from suggestions of the child's having walked too early, usually at the urging of its parents, to all sorts of unfortunate and hard-to-prove prenatal influences. Pigeon toes get their share of ribbing, too; when you have both bow legs and pigeon toes, you have to be a game guy to accept your faulty body and the unkind remarks of your fellows. Probably the defect, if that is what it is, that ultimately gets the most attention is the bald or balding head. We who have hair sometimes find ourselves getting a bit of revenge for having had our bow legs or pigeon toes or freckled faces noticed by reminding our bald-headed friends of Gellett Burgess's limerick:

"I'd rather have fingers than toes,
I'd rather have eyes than a nose;
And as for my hair,
I'm glad it's all there;
I'll be awfully sad when it goes."

You and the Draft

FRANKFORT, KY.—A reader in the Jackson Purchase area, who identified herself as "an interested mother," writes, "I was very much interested in a recent letter from a young man who asked if he would be allowed to finish college as it was going to take him 4½ to 5 years to graduate."

"My son's situation is similar because he changed schools. You speak of a statutory deferment. Is this for one semester, one year, or how long? If my son should graduate at mid-term in January after a II-S Deferment and a statutory deferment, would he be called immediately or when his lottery number (130) comes up?"

The answer to the first part of the question is a Selective Service statutory deferment Class I-S (C) is for the registrant's academic year. A registrant who is satisfactorily pursuing a fulltime course of instruction at a college, university or similar institution of learning but is "ordered by his local board to report for induction during that academic year may be considered for a Class I-S (C) deferment. He cannot be considered for Class I-S (C) if he had previously been in this classification or had been deferred as a student (Class II-S) or had received his baccalaureate degree.

In answer to the writer's second question the lottery (Random Sequence Selection) applies to young men in Class I-A Available for military service. When the writer's son's random sequence number (RSN) is reached he will be subject to the current priority selection group.

Since we cannot be too specific with respect to this question, our best advice at this time would be for the writer to advise her son to keep in touch with his local board as his RSN must be reached in his local board before he can be ordered for induction.

Q. I cannot get a job because I have a IV-F draft card. I was drafted and served 13 months. I was discharged to enlist in the regulars. I got into difficulty with the military authorities and was given a dishonorable discharge. Is there any way my draft card can be changed?

A. If you have one tour of active duty of a year or more for which an honorable discharge has been received you are eligible for consideration for Class IV-A. We would suggest you consult with your local board and provide them with evidence of 12 months or more of honorable service so they might consider you for the IV-A classification.

Q. On October 8, I received notice to report for induction in November. On October 31, I will be 26 years of age. Do I have to report?

A. As your random sequence number was reached in your local board and the order to report for induction was issued prior to your 26th birthday you should report to the local board for induction processing on the date shown on the induction order.

White Man 'Heap Crazy'

A farm magazine used a picture of a deserted farmhouse in a field swept by dust storms and offered a prize for the best of 100 words on the effects of land erosion. An Indian boy from Oklahoma won the prize with this essay:

"Picture show white man crazy. Cut down trees. Make too big teepee. Plow hill. Water wash. Wind blow soil. Grass gone. Squaw gone. Whole place gone. No pig. No corn. No pony.

"Indian no plow land. Keep grass. Buffalo eat grass. Indian eat buffalo. Hide make plenty big teepee. All time Indian eat. No work. No hitchhike. No ask relief. No build dam. No give dam. White man heap crazy."

This essay is a reminder of the old adage about the man who "grows more corn, to feed more hogs, to make more money to buy more land, to grow more corn, to feed more hogs, to make more money to buy more land."

In former days the ownership of a large tract of land was a status symbol, and unfortunately it still is. Then the farmer's equipment included the hoe, the walking plow, the scythe, and the pitchfork. After a long day's work with a hoe as a boy, I wondered if there would ever be a time when farm machinery would take the drudgery out of farm work and thus give us some free time so we would not have always to "keep our nose to the grindstone." I have seen machinery take the place of the simple tools, but we do not seem to have any more free time than we did in the "old days." We are still the victims of materialism.

This applies not only to agriculture, but to industry as well. Perhaps the Indian lad says it like it is—"White man heap crazy."

Veto Likely On Student Request To Drop Coal Firm

LEXINGTON, KY.—Students here demanding that one of Eastern Kentucky's largest coal mining companies be dropped from the ranks of the Kentucky Coal Association may have their request vetoed.

Some 75 University of Kentucky students, members of the UK Friends of the Pike County Citizens Association, met Thursday with coal association president Fred Luigart at his Lexington office. They asked that the company; Beth-Elkhorn Mining Co., be dropped from membership in his association.

The matter will be referred to the association's board or executive committee with a recommendation for disapproval. Mr. Luigart said action would be taken within two months.

Apparently, the students, affiliated with the citizens of the Marrowbone Creek area of Pike county, are generally opposed to surface mining, and want more taxes placed on coal operators, the president said.

Mr. Luigart said the company was "outstanding" in its strip mine reclamation efforts, and was probably the largest taxpayer in nearby Letcher county.

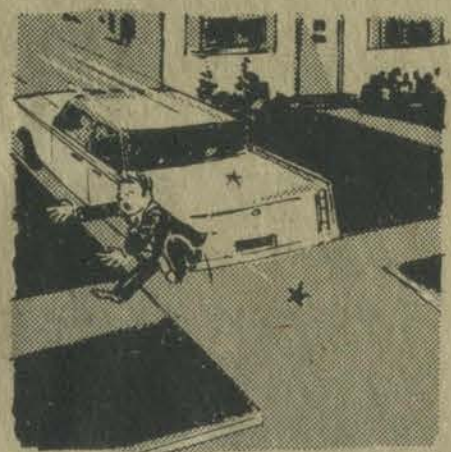

Requests from the general citizenry are all handled by the coal association's board or executive committee. Mr. Luigart said wide-ranging citizens requests are received constantly in Lexington.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Pampered Pedestrians

Trudging absentmindedly along the sidewalk, George failed to notice a car backing down a driveway. Result: he stepped in the path of the car and was injured. In short order he sued the motorist for damages, blaming him for driving across a sidewalk without looking.

But at the trial, the motorist said: "I wasn't looking, but neither was he. If I was negligent, he was too."

However, the court found no negligence on George's part and granted his claim. The judge said:

"It is the common experience of tired humanity to become immersed in thought and oblivious to one's surroundings, when travelling in a place of known safety. Therein lies no want of ordinary care."

Not every court would be so tolerant of a pedestrian's day-dreaming. But it is true that the law does, by and large, look kindly on the pedestrian. It does not expect the same level of alertness from him as it demands from the motorist.

Nor are motorists the only ones who must keep a lookout for the pedestrian's safety. For example:

A baseball team was held liable when a home run cleared a low fence and struck a passing pedestrian on the head. And the owner of a building was held liable when a loose brick fell out of the parapet and landed on a passerby.

Still, even a pedestrian may sometimes be found guilty of negligence. A woman shopper, walking home, fell down hard when her heel caught in a large crack in the sidewalk. Claiming compensation from the city, she charged that the sidewalk had been left in an unsafe condition.

But she also admitted that she had seen the crack in time to step over it. To the court, this meant that she had simply misjudged the length of her step. Dismissing the case, the judge said she had no one to blame but herself.

The Main Source of Air Pollution

By MARVA GAY

FRANKFORT, KY.—In Kentucky major causes of air pollution include rock quarries and asphalt mixing plants, burning dumps, burning "gob" piles, saw mills, steel mills, coke plants, paper mills, chemical plants and coal fired heating equipment. Nevertheless, in Kentucky as in the nation, the internal combustion engine is the leading polluter according to U. B. Yeager, engineering consultant for the Kentucky Air Pollution Control Commission.

According to Yeager, in heavy traffic, the internal combustion engines of cars and trucks are not used at a rate of speed necessary for efficient burning of fuel. A high percentage of carbon monoxide emerges about a foot from the ground. Movement of cars makes it circulate to about head height. Yeager said that in some cities, traffic officers must take breathers using oxygen masks every few hours.

Yeager said the problem is complicated by tall buildings which don't allow good air circulation. Similarly the car problem could become a motor boat problem, especially around crowded docks and marinas.

"Unless corrected soon, around lakes, power boat fumes from petroleum, evaporation, spilled fuel and combustion will cause a serious problem," said Yeager. Some Kentucky parks prohibit power boats.

Airplanes can cause trouble in large metropolitan areas where they add to already present problems said Yeager. "Planes leave behind unburned and burned gases. Particulates are discharged and dust blown about the runways.

About 125 asphalt mixing plants located near rock quarries pollute in almost every county said Yeager. The air pollution continues from about the middle of April to the middle of November. This is because the state highway department generally does not contract for asphalt after the middle of November. Asphalt and stone must be above 375 degrees when it is unloaded for proper application.

Burning dumps necessitated the second regulation passed by the air pollution control commission. A state-wide crackdown on them continues.

Burning "gob" piles sometimes appear at large coal mines in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky and in areas of Western Kentucky. Yeager said about 15 per cent of the total material from a mine is discarded as refuse or "gob" when the coal is cleaned.

When the refuse gets wet, oxidation takes place with the sulfur and iron; heat is liberated; sulfur dioxide and other gases are driven off.

Many complaints about saw mills are received. "Out of 120 counties, probably 110 have some sort of wood working industry."

Scattered throughout the state are 18 or 19 large power stations. Louisville has four of these. There are three large steel mills. Locations include Ashland, Newport and Owensboro.

Two major coke plants near Dawson Springs and Ashland produce large amounts of pollution.

Western Kentucky houses a couple of paper mills. Major chemical plants concentrate near Louisville, Ashland and Calvert City. Smaller plants are near Lexington.

The number of coal fired heating plants continues to decrease gradually because of the increased use of natural gas. In a large percentage of cases where coal usage might be considered adverse, the reason is not because of faulty coal but rather of an improper technique in its burning said Yeager.

LEARNING BY DOING—Deep in thought over a homework problem, this young Clay County youth is using the facilities at his local public library. Gov. Louie B. Nunn has proclaimed the week of April 18-24 as Library Week in Kentucky.

Library Week Set, Apr. 18-24

By LOIS CAMPBELL

FRANKFORT, KY.—Gov. Louie B. Nunn has proclaimed the week of April 18-24 as Library Week in Kentucky and activities at the state Library Department seem to be growing like spring flowers under a warm sun.

State Librarian Margaret Willis, announcing a steady growth in the use of library facilities, said that in fiscal year 1970 more than 11 million books were checked out by readers all over Kentucky—an average of nearly four books per Kentuckian.

An important facet of Library Department activity is aimed toward getting new borrowers into existing libraries. During National Library Week, libraries have been urged to spark a statewide campaign to attract as many new borrowers as possible.

Another program—to get as many books as possible to the people via bookmobile—is being carried out by the bookmobile program. With 117 bookmobiles traveling in 120 counties, Kentucky's library system on wheels has the distinction of being the most extensive state bookmobile service in the United States.

Kentucky's bookmobiles turn churches, schools, rail stations, grocery stores and private homes into deposit stations in efforts to get good reading materials into the state's most remote areas.

In addition, new public library facilities are sprouting up throughout the state at a record-breaking pace. Through funding of the Library Amortization Program in July, 1968, Gov. Louie B. Nunn and Miss Willis announced the construction of 22 new libraries around Kentucky.

(An addition to the Floyd County Library, made possible by this program, was completed last year.)

Ten of the libraries have been completed, seven are pending dedication, three are presently under construction and two are in the preliminary planning stages.

Ten other new buildings have been built through federal and local funds, making a total of 32 new library buildings.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to acknowledge with deep appreciation the kindness of friends and relatives for everything that was done in my hour of sorrow upon the death of my husband, Mike Bakay. I wish to thank all who sent flowers and brought food; the ministers for their consoling words, and the Merion Funeral Chapel for its fine service.

MAYTOWN NEWS

Maytown Homemakers held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Champ Gibson, Thursday evening, April 8.

Devotional was given by Mrs. Alda Gibson, and the group sang songs accompanied on the piano by a guest, Mrs. J. T. Spillman, of Wayland.

Mrs. Alta Jean Gibson reported on the annual Easter party given at the Golden Years Rest Home at Lackey. The Maytown Homemakers want to thank everyone who donated candy, colored eggs, fruit and drinks and time.

Rev. Floyd Tackett and a group from the Methodist church brought beautifully decorated cup cakes and punch, and the Maytown girl scouts and their leaders helped with the party also.

Marcella Bailey read the letter she had received from Rufus M. Reed, stating the most suitable time and date for a trip to visit his nature sanctuary. The date is April 24 at 10 o'clock. Anyone who wishes to go (this is for everyone other than Homemakers) should contact Mrs. Bailey for the details.

Mrs. Frances Pitts gave the lesson on "Home Business Centers."

Refreshments were served to the following members. Alta Jean Gibson, Frances Pitts, Helen Boyd, Thelma Hicks, Marcella Bailey a new member, Mrs. Minnie Gayehart, and guests, Sandy Bradley and Mrs. J. T. Spillman, and hostess, Alda Gibson.

If present trends continue, unemployment insurance benefit payments will reach $4.9 billion in fiscal 1971, compared to $2.8 billion last year, the Labor Department reports.

A survey of the graduating classes had indicated that approximately 40 or more of the new dentists are applying for active duty in the armed services.

Coronary Care Unit
Now In Use at MARH
For Heart Patients

A coronary care unit, for use in treating patients who have suffered heart attacks, is now in operation at the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital.

The four-bed suite, which also is helpful in detecting symptoms of an impending heart attack, was opened at the 60-bed non-profit hospital on April 5. It was put to use immediately.

Administrator Edward Collins said the unit was the first of its kind in a six-county area of Eastern Kentucky.

Patients in the suite are connected electronically with a central monitoring desk containing oscilloscopes (similar to a TV screen). A specially trained nurse, on duty 24 hours a day, observes the patients' heart-beat at all times and can detect symptoms of arrhythmia (irregular heart-beats) in time for immediate remedial action. This action includes the use of a defibrillator, an electronic device to regulate the heart beat.

Synchronized with the monitoring screen is an audio alarm which will alert the nurse if the heart-beat slows or increases rapidly. In addition, any irregularities can be recorded permanently on paper with electro-cardiographic equipment.

A special staff of four registered nurses and five licensed practical nurses was trained for manning the coronary care unit. This training was received at the Beckley (W. Va.) Appalachian Regional Hospital, which opened a coronary care unit seven years ago. Doctors on the McDowell hospital's medical staff also took special training in use of the equipment.

The hospital also has installed a portable coronary care unit, which can be transported to patients' rooms throughout the hospital.

The coronary care unit will be displayed to the public during National Hospital Week, May 9-15. Junior and senior students in Floyd county high schools are among those being invited to inspect the new life-saving equipment.

W. J. "Bill" Reynolds sponsored, with others, and exercised his leadership as Democratic Caucus Chairman in the House of Representatives, to pass House Bill 12, the 1970 "Black Lung" Law for Eastern Kentucky coal miners. This progressive bill: (1) Recognized coal workers pneumoconiosis (Black Lung) in Kentucky's Workmen's Compensation Law. (2) Streamlined procedures to get "Black Lung" by throwing the burden of proof on the operators. (3) Cut the expense of getting benefits. Now only two doctors' affidavits need be filed with the applications. In most cases NOW, the company concedes.

Here are two more of the many labor bills sponsored and passed by W. J. "Bill" Reynolds as Representative:

1. House Bill 68, WIDOWS AND ORPHANS BENEFIT BILL which changed the Workmen's Compensation law to provide payment of the award to widows and dependents, regardless of the cause of death of the workmen who are drawing compensation.

2. House Bill 67, FREEDOM OF CHOICE of injured workmen, rather than employer, to select his own doctor and his own hospital for treatment of his injuries, paid for by employer.

Survey on Unemployment To Be Conducted in Area

The Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey of employment and unemployment in this area during the week of April 19, Joseph R. Norwood, Director of the Bureau's regional office in Charlotte, announced today.

This survey is conducted monthly by the Bureau for the U. S. Department of Labor. A scientifically selected sample of households throughout the entire United States is interviewed. The employment and unemployment statistics that are based on the results of this survey provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the nation.

In February, for example, unemployment edged down for the second straight month: on a seasonally adjusted basis, 5.8 percent of the labor force was out of work as compared with 6.0 percent in January and 6.2 percent in December.

Facts supplied by individuals participating in the survey are kept strictly confidential by law, and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Interviewers who will visit households in this area include Mrs. Ella R. Daniel, of Thelma.

An average of 283,000 health care jobs will open up each year during the 1970's, the Labor Department's Occupational Outlook Quarterly reports. Population growth, increasing coverage under health insurance plans, and the rising scope of medical services will spur demands for health services during the decade.

The federal government's internal employee safety program, Mission Safety-70 recently concluded its 6-year program with a 14.3 percent reduction in the Federal injury-frequency rate, according to preliminary Labor Department figures. The reduction in Federal injury rates occurred while employee injury rates in private industry rose 20 percent.

Meet Jim Freim, age 25. And his automobile, age 23. Now there's nothing unusual about a nice human being being 25. But you have to admit it's a bit unusual when a car, even a Volkswagen, is still running around at the ripe old age of 23. But, you see, in this age of "New, Now, Wow!" automobiles, we spend little time making our little car look better. (Obviously.)

But we do spend a great deal of time making it work better. Each and every one of the 5,115 parts in the VW has been improved and improved again since Jim's car made its first journey back in 1949. We, of course, mentioned this to him and suggested that maybe after 23 years, it was time he traded his old one in for a new one. "Don't call me, I'll call you," he said.

Kentucky Leads Nation In Construction Of Public Libraries

HANCOCK COUNTY PUBLIC LIBRARY, Hancockville

JOHNSON COUNTY PUBLIC LIBRARY, Paintsville

LARUE COUNTY PUBLIC LIBRARY, Hodgenville

With 10 public libraries having been completed and 12 presently under construction, the past 3 1/2 years have witnessed the coming of age of Kentucky libraries. With this construction program underway, Kentucky is building more public libraries than any other state in the nation. Funding of the construction projects has been made possible through Gov. Louie B. Nunn's Library Amortization Program, which pledges more than $200,000 a year in state funds to be used to construct libraries in local communities.

About one-third of the one million people trained or assisted by Labor Department manpower programs last fiscal year were youths under the age of 22. About 48 percent or $615,088,000 of the Manpower Administration's $1.28 billion for training support went for young people.

Housing for Fifty Necessary by June,

The Jenny Wiley Drama Association has announced an urgent need for inexpensive housing in the Prestonsburg area for its 1971 Amphitheatre personnel.

More than fifty actors and actresses are expected for the summer season which includes "Oklahoma," "The Sound of Music," and a new musical, "Jenny Wiley."

According to Acting Association President Harold Cooley, housing remains the theatre's most serious problem. "Parents of the young people of the company are anxious that their children have adequate living facilities," he said. "A number of apartments are also needed for staff members. As most of our young people work for stipends of $150-$300, inexpensive housing is needed wherever possible."

Housing is needed between the dates of June 6 and August 25. Anyone with rooms, houses, trailers, or apartments for rent should contact Mr. Cooley at Minix Drug Store or at 886-8901.

Floyd Pharmacists Attend Seminar On Drugs

Harold Cooley, Cloyd J. Johnson, Ronald Johnson, all registered pharmacists of Prestonsburg, and James Thomas, registered pharmacist, of McDowell, recently participated in a seminar "Anti-hypertensive Drugs" conducted by UK College of Pharmacy. The course was conducted by Dr. Louis Diamond and Dr. Robert Rapp through the auspices of University Extension.

The next seminar will be held May 5 at Prestonsburg Community College and will conclude the series of five seminars. The topic will be "Anti-infective Drugs." Pharmacists, nurses, and physicians are invited. The registration fee is $10.00 for the three-hour course.

Tidbits of Kentucky Folklore

"SUBSCRIPTION BOOKS"

In the summer of 1969, when I decided to work up a speech for the English Club at Western about the hundredth anniversary of the publication of Mark Twain's THE INNOCENTS ABROAD, I had the good fortune to get hold of a first edition of that well-known book, one that was sold only by subscription. It is profusely illustrated, with Mark Twain himself in many of the pictures, always as the clown or court fool of the expedition. That sort of thing sold many a book, not only travel books but every conceivable sort of book.

When I come to think of it, a good portion of the books of my community, except cheap-paper editions of sugary novels, were subscription books. No one family might have many of these, but we generously shared our books, large and small, so that I certainly had my look-in on subscription books. Some of them were actually quite good, some were sensational, some were at least timely. I recall that, just after the close of the Spanish-American War, back in 1898, my father bought a huge book, on coarse, thick paper, that dealt with our new possessions. I fairly memorized it, and so did a lot of others in the Fidelity area. We would spend whole hours talking about its facts, especially after the big Sunday dinner as we sat out in the yard and rested after the arduous toil attached to devouring fried chicken and country ham and roasting ears and other such foods. Nearly always we had read something in it that somebody else had overlooked; that gave us a chance to dominate the conversation for our brief spot in the limelight. Our postmaster-druggist had the agency for a much handsomer book, called CONQUERING THE DARK CONTINENT, a very informative book about Africa. It was also full of illustrations and maps, so that we had many a pleasant day of reading it and then of discussing it with the family or visitors. Some years before my time a subscription book called THE BEAUTIFUL STORY, a retelling of the stories of the Bible, and again profusely illustrated, had entered our home. I almost wore that volume out, for it gave me a preview of my later years of reading in and about the Bible and the Jews and early Christians. I know now that a good many of the pictures were black-and-white copies of famous paintings. At the time I just supposed that they were photographs, though I was a bit puzzled as to where the photographer could have been standing when he took the shots. And there were others of these early books, every one of which, good or bad or just poor, received a careful reading and rereading.

Since I was the littlest of the big family, I inherited the books passed down by the older members of the clan. I thus got to own, in my late childhood, some valuable old books, somewhat like the old-time almanacs, that came to me from my Great-Aunt Mary. Loving facts from my earliest memories, I certainly had a great time going through one such book, even though it and its facts were from the middle of the nineteenth century, with no figures about censuses and such that ran past 1870. Why, a whole flock of states were listed as territories or were not even mentioned, since they were still parts of larger and huge territories! You see along about the time I came into the world at Fidelity, six states were admitted to the Union: Washington, Idaho, Montana, the two Dakotas, and Wyoming. And Utah soon followed. I was a big boy and on my own when the remaining five were admitted, rounding out our present fifty.

Not long before I left Fidelity, my school-teacher brother bought a subscription book called PUSHING TO THE FRONT, a rather well-written book showing the rise to fame and wealth of many of our great men of America, the sort of thing that AMERICAN MAGAZINE was to feature for many years after I left my native place. This was a series of essays with a Horatio Alger flavor; it really gave me a big thrill. Many years later I ran into an agent who was selling the same book, now somewhat watered down and grown to two big volumes. I picked up a volume, full of memories of my original reading, but I felt disappointed at not getting such a thrill as I had felt back before 1906 or even before 1900. The years had somewhat dimmed the glaring light of other times.

Jimmy "Gabe" TURNER

For Floyd County's State Representative

I am one of you. May Democratic Primary

I, Jimmy "Gabe" Turner, was born and reared in Floyd County, Kentucky, son of Mae Burns Turner and Ernest Turner, of Drift.

I am married to the former Donna J. Barnett, daughter of Rana Calhoun and John Quince Barnett. I am a graduate of McDowell High School, and attended Kentucky Wesleyan College.

My wife and I run the Triangle Drive Inn at the Y in Martin, Kentucky. I see and talk to a great many of my fellow Floyd Countians every day, and I know what kind of man they want to represent them in Frankfort, and I know that I am that man. As I said, I am in business for myself and have no connection with any company or firm, and I am not afraid to speak out for the people of Floyd County and our needs.

When I am elected I will prove this to the best of my ability. The people of Floyd County must and will come first.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all the good people who voted for me two years ago, and I will appreciate their support this time also.

Sunday. Her eyes are failing her, but she found the wealth of bloom and flower around her home so beautiful she wished it could be preserved in a color picture. (For all my tender years, I know how she felt; I have so often wished for some sort of "instant replay" device by which I could recall, at will, scenes that I would not have escape me.)

So it is. The slowing step walks in beauty. There's time now to look and really see, to listen and hear. Youth is too busy living to stop, look and listen. Wind in his face, flowers in her hair, but there's no time to stop. The youngsters-bless'em-are too much a part of it all to do more than take everything for granted.

If I remember correctly.

Three Floyd 4-H'ers In Washington Meet Of Kentucky Youth

"Good citizenship, with all its history and oratory, really boils down to just two words—self government—and we must learn to practice self-government in our everyday lives," delegates to the Kentucky 4-H Older Youth Conference were told Sunday night, April 11.

Speaking on the topic, "Citizenship! Who, Me?," Miss Dorothy Emerson, National 4-H Foundation consultant, told the 206 Kentucky 4-H'ers: "Civilization's only hope lies in making democracy work. Equal and mutual responsibilities are the basic principles of democracy. Our chief business is to educate ourselves for responsible citizenship, for equal and mutual responsibilities are basic principles of democracy."

Three 4-H'ers from Floyd county were among the 206 Kentucky young people attending the annual event in Washington. D. C. They are, Jan Draughan, Janie Bailey, Teresa Osborne. Representing every area in the state, the youths received advanced citizenship and leadership training during this conference planned especially for Kentucky youth. Those attending are freshmen or sophomores in high school, and, when they return home, the delegates will share what they learned with other 4-H members and with their high school classes.

The delegation left Kentucky on chartered buses Saturday, April 10, for the National 4-H Center, where they spent the week, and returned home, Saturday, April 17. The 4-H'ers began their week in Washington by attending Easter Sunday services at the Washington Cathedral, Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, or other well-known churches in the area. Tours included Arlington National Cemetery, the Lincoln and Jefferson Memorials, the Iwo Jima Memorial, Washington's Monument, Mt. Vernon, the White House and other historic spots.

The Biology of Spring

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD
UK College of Agriculture

Spring, like all other seasons, is born in the sky. But it is in the still depths of the earth where spring makes itself most manifest.

Stimulated by the lengthening hours of warm sunlight occasioned by the peculiar slant of the axis of the earth, seeds lying dormant in the soil since the abundance of the previous autumn undergo strange processes of fermentation. The highly concentrated legacy of stored food is transformed into energy; bacteria begin work on the tough, protective husks, moisture seeps in, and seedlings emerge to exhibit delicate movements in shoot and root.

Wrapped up in tough scales, buds that have rested through the winter begin to swell and burst as their living cells expand and divide with intricate orderliness. Everywhere in the world of plants there is a duplicating of genes, a dividing, rearranging, and aligning of chromosomes, and a conversion of water and atmospheric gases into basic carbohydrates to set the stage for a whole generation of new leaves, fruits, and flowers. And so it is, in the strange alchemy of spring, that from a seemingly lifeless and sterile earth, seed and bulb and root and rhizome stir and shoot up; buds unpack; flowers unfold, and the land once again arrays itself in indescribable splendor.

As in the plant world, there is also a renaissance among animals. One of the most familiar sights of early spring is the queen bumblebee refreshing herself after a long winter's fast among the catkins of the pussy willow, where she gathers pollen and nectar for provisioning the cradles of her nest.

From sheltered recesses and crevices, like mummies enswathed in protective wrappings, insect larvae—quiescent since last autumn—stir and metamorphose as winged adults.

Similarly, there is an awakening of snails and frogs and turtles; of ground hogs, bats, and other winter-sleepers. To break the silence of winter there are the migratory birds that, in response to some compelling instinct, return from faraway continents across unknown seas.

It is not only on land that spring demonstrates its mysterious chemistry. In the waters of the pond, the lake, estuary, and sea, there is a striking multiplication of minute organisms. Not the least of the interests of the vernal season is the re-peopleing of fresh water basins which seemed so devoid of life during the winter. The female gnat and mosquito emerge from hiding and make floating rafts of cigar-shaped eggs from which hatch wiggletails to hang head downward from the surface film. Mayfly nymphs appear and so do hosts of water fleas, water striders, whirly-beetles, and infusorians of one kind or another.

In these fresh, yet stagnant waters, as a result of plant death and decay inflicted by the cold of winter, strange chemical substances which biologists call "auxetics" are produced. Roughly defined, auxetic means "increase." In spring these auxetics or "increasers" promote a multiplication of cells and an ever-increasing number of other substances called "augmentors" which give more power to the first. Thus out of death come stimulants for awakening pond life in spring.

Spring is definitely a time of resurrection and of the young—young seedlings, nestlings, tadpoles, young lambs, and baby chicks.

Spring is also, less emphatically, perhaps, a time for the old—old trees, old tadpoles, old birds, old sheep, old men. All respond perceptibly to its subtle chemistry and its wonderful, transcendent biology, and for a brief moment feel young, even if only in spirit.

Student Pollution Body Member Says Citizen Involvement Needed

By JIM WARREN

FRANKFORT, KY.—A student member of the state Air Pollution Control Commission has called for more individual responsibility by citizens in the fight against environmental pollution.

Robert Burger, a student at the University of Louisville, is one of two students appointed to the Air and Water Pollution Control Commissions by Gov. Louie B. Nunn last August.

In an interview Burger said, "Primary responsibility must rest with the individual citizen. We must realize that if we really want clean air, water and land we must change our life styles and we are going to have to pay for it."

Water pollution is only a part of the problem and Burger urged citizens to become knowledgeable of entire environmental needs.

"The average citizen can do a lot to change his life style without too much inconvenience," he said. "Automobiles cause pollution, so the next time you want to go downtown, take the bus or, even better, walk and make yourself more healthy at the same time."

Burger is no stranger to governmental work having served as a Legislative intern during last year's General Assembly.

After what he called initial shock at his appointment to the commission Burger has been spending at least one day per week on commission business and attending monthly meetings and public hearings in addition to high regular class room work.

While some environmentalists have painted grim pictures about the future of the environment, Burger is convinced the problem can and will be solved.

"I feel we can clean up our water, air and land and still maintain our current rate of industrial growth. If this country and the world are technologically capable of polluting our environment they also are capable of un-polluting it."

Burger also had some strong language for those who look lightly on the problem.

"Americans always seem to have felt we would always have a huge frontier we could escape to. If things become bad we can always move further on and find a new fresh place where it is clean and healthy."

"We have finally come to a time when we have to realize this is no longer true. There is only so much in the way of natural resources to use and we are rapidly approaching that limit. We cannot go and ravage the land and expect it to spring back naturally."

Burger sees the environmental problem as perhaps the greatest ever to face mankind and one which will be with us forever.

"Problems like Vietnam will I think, be solved in the next few years. But the environmental problem may never be fully solved. This problem is not one where you can work for awhile then sit back and rest. The challenge of keeping a healthy, clean and beautiful environment always will be with us."

Burger feels strict regulations and enforcement are the only real answers to the environmental problem and the Water Pollution Control Commission is moving in that direction by considering uniform rules for both interstate and intrastate streams.

"I think this is the most important thing the commission has ever done," Burger said. "We are considering not only water quality standards for interstate and intrastate streams but also standards for the effluents dumped into the streams."

BUICK BARGAIN DAYS ARE HERE

Buick Bargain Days are saving days.

A bargain price on a stripped-down car is no bargain. But a Buick or Opel at a bargain is something else again. Because we're not selling some special stripped-down model. We're selling Buicks and Opels, the same great cars we've sold all year.

With one difference. The deals have never been better. Which means that you can move out in a new Buick or Opel at a price that's hard to believe. When Buick talks about a bargain, we give you something to believe in.

Opel 1900 Sport Coupe. With a 1.9 liter engine that operates efficiently on low-lead or no-lead gasolines. Hydraulic valve lifters for quiet engine operation, power front disc brakes and more.

Skylark Custom. With Buick's exclusive nickel-plated engine exhaust valves for smoother operation on today's cleaner fuels. Comfort-Flo ventilation system and more.

Your Buick-Opel dealer will give you better reasons to buy a new car now than anybody else.

The business of auto safety.

Auto safety is everyone's concern. But it's our business.

And we think the attention that's being paid to auto safety now is a good thing. Because it will result in better driving for everyone.

And, frankly, better driving for everyone means better business for us.

We say Buick is something to believe in. That's why we're trying to make it easy to be safe by putting in safety features that work by themselves. You don't have to do anything to make them work.

Like side guard beams. And the energy absorbing steering column. And the cargo guard between the trunk and back seat. They start "working" even before you get in the car.

But two safety features, two of the most vital, are worthless unless you do something first.

Seat and shoulder belts.

Unfastened they do nothing. And you've seen enough statistics to know what a difference they can make. So use them.

But that's not all you can do. Because the most effective safety feature of all can't be added to our cars or anybody else's.

That feature is you. And the way you drive.

Which should be defensively. And rested. And sober.

We're all in this together. And together we can solve the auto safety problem once and for all.

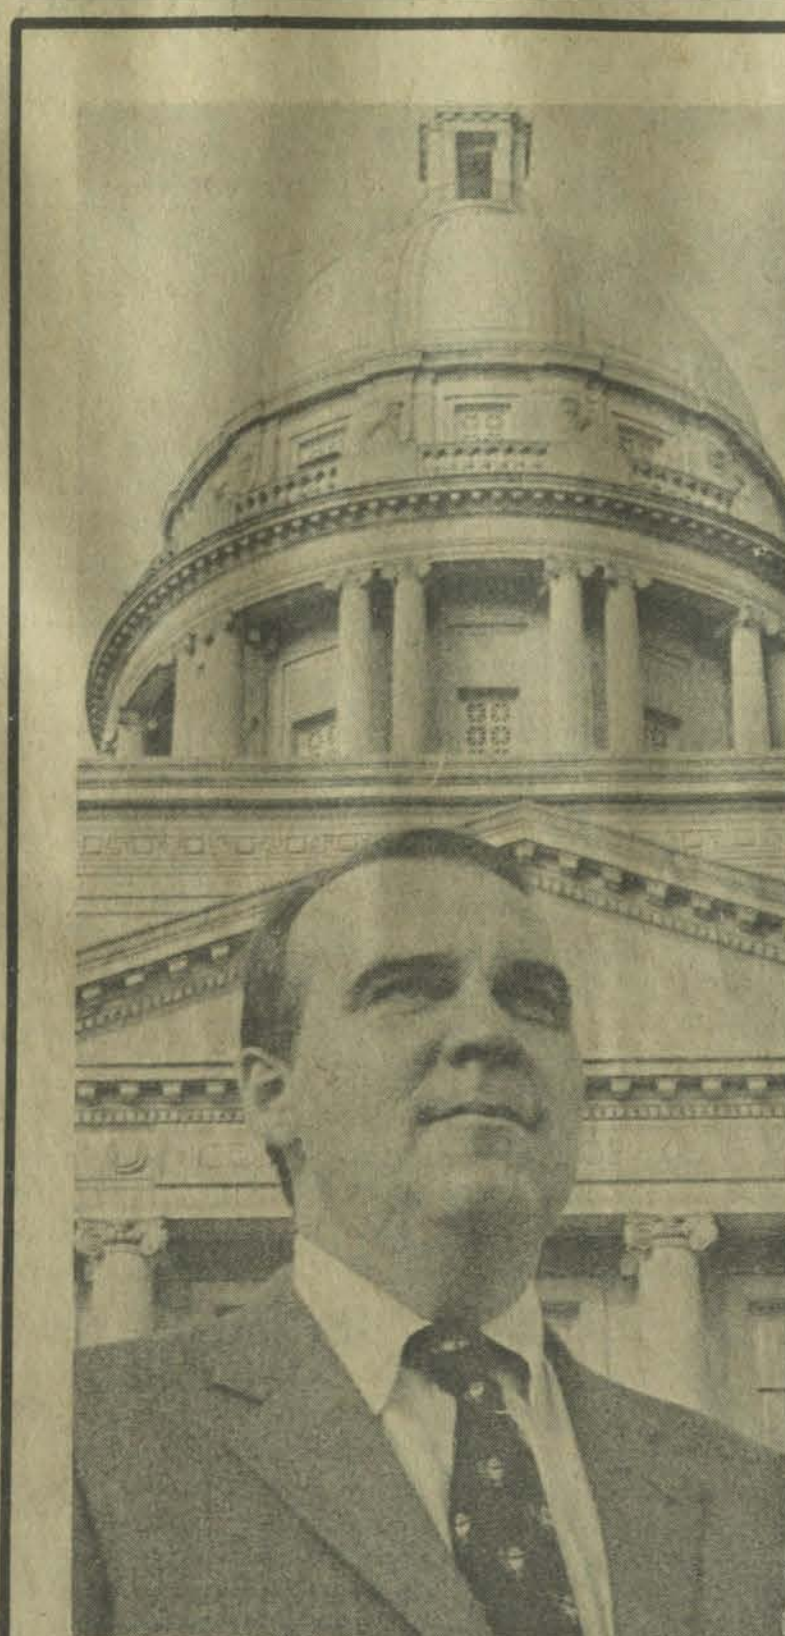

And the time is now.

PCC Debate Team Wins Tourney Trophy

Prestonsburg Community College's debate team, composed of Stefan Magura, Marvin Holbrook, Phillip Meek and Randy Clark, completed a successful school year by winning a trophy at the recent Kentucky Community and Junior College speech tournament.

Marvin Holbrook was also presented an individual Speaker's Award at the tournament, hosted at the University of Kentucky.

During the 1970-'71 year the debate team has travelled to Morehead, Morris Harvey College in Charleston, West Virginia and Marietta College in Marietta, Ohio. At these tournaments, the team defeated teams from the University of Wisconsin, Kent State, Morris Harvey, West Virginia University, Paducah, Alderson-Broadus, Stark, Concord, and Fairmont, the four latter being four-year colleges in Ohio.

Say Court Ruling An EKURO Victory

(The following version of the litigation between the Floyd County Board of Education and VISTA+AV representatives was given by Mud Creek residents last week.—Editor.)

Despite the presence of past A. V.'s and VISTA's still in Floyd County and an even stronger Eastern Kentucky Welfare Rights Organization, the Floyd County circuit court ruled last week that the restraining order against EKURO and its members be dropped. The order had kept them from entering upon school property in Floyd county.

EKURO led a struggle two years ago to see that the Floyd County Board of Education put into effect the Federal School Lunch Program. The A. V.'s (Appalachian Volunteers) and VISTA's (Volunteers in Service to America, who were under direct supervision of the 979 CAC) were working for the EKURO to help them enforce federally funded programs. It was the members of these organizations that tried to meet with Charles Clark (school superintendent) in order to obtain the school lunch regulations. These regulations were to have been made public by the School Board, but never were. Clark had promised members of the Mud Creek area that he would send out these regulations. After two months of failing to produce these guidelines, EKURO and the 979 CAC decided to go in mass to demand their rights from Clark. EKURO finally got the regulations through the Atlanta USDA office.

Following that encounter, Clark obtained the injunction to keep AV's, Vista's, members of EKURO and 979 CAC and any persons relating to them off school property.

Woodrow Rogers, chairman of EKURO, described the decision as "an important victory for EKURO and the citizens of Mud Creek." EKURO's lawyers claimed that the restraining order was not valid, anyway, because none of the EKURO members, AV's, or VISTA's were notified of the hearing which ruled on the case a year and a half ago. Charlie Akers, vice-chairman of EKURO, stated that "We will continue to fight for the rights that are granted to us in the United States Constitution."

Farewell Issue of "Hillbilly" Autographed by Editor in Red

RICHWOOD, W. Va.—The West Virginia Hillbilly, a "weakly publication" born of Jim Comstock's love of Appalachia and desire to "keep people from being so damn scared of the word hillbilly," is for sale. "It just simply ran out of money," Comstock explained Wednesday.

The decision to sell was sudden, but the circumstances which brought it about weren't. The Hillbilly "was born insolvent," he wrote in a farewell column this week.

The insolvency grew, week by week, "until there came, not the day the money ran out, but the day when lenders did."

It was first printed in 1957 and grew into more of a feature magazine than a newspaper.

Comstock's flavor and mountain humor, which gave him a reputation as a Cherry River Mark Twain, brought in subscriptions from around the country. Many came from West Virginia emigrants but others were from readers who had never seen a hillbilly, other than Ma and Pa Kettle or "L'il Abner."

The U. S. Post Office once became the subject of his wit.

The mountains produce a tangy, evil smelling vegetable distantly related to the onion called the "ramp." To celebrate the coming of ramp season with its odiferous, community dinners, Comstock printed a special edition of the Hillbilly with ramp juice mixed in the ink.

Post offices across the country reeked for days.

Although he's getting out as a co-owner—Comstock said he would be willing to at least write a column for whomever the new owners might be.

He plans to devote most of his efforts to writing books and compiling an encyclopedia on West Virginia. And he is a co-owner of the local Nicholas County News Leader.

Even the farewell issue of the Hillbilly had the Comstock touch. Each front page of the final April 17 issue is autographed in red ink.

Comstock said it took him 10 hours to sign the papers, even with two boys helping. One would stick an unsigned paper under his nose. The other would jerk the autographed version.

Each paper carries his name, and the traditional newspaper-man's signoff: "30."

No Increases For Kentucky's Aged...

The new 10% increase in federal Social Security payments means nothing to thousands of Kentucky's aged...

Those who receive a combination of Social Security and Public Assistance payments from the state will have their Public Assistance CUT TO THE AMOUNT OF THE SOCIAL SECURITY INCREASE...

Thus, they find that the intent of the Congress to give relief from the rising cost of living is DENIED by the State of Kentucky, as Kentucky takes the increase away through the paring of Public Assistance!

During the 1970 session of our General Assembly, a bill was introduced in the House of Representatives to allow an increase in Social Security benefits without a reduction in the state's public assistance payments.

Representatives GENE HUFF, JOHN E. WHITE, BILL REYNOLDS, and DARVIN ALLEN sponsored this important bill for the aged, House Bill 436. The bill was assigned to the House Health and Welfare Committee, chaired by Allen, and reported favorably.

HOUSE BILL 436 THEN PASSED THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES BY THE VOTE OF 93-0 AND WAS SENT TO THE SENATE ON MARCH 11, 1970.

A study of what happened to this bill for the aged is most interesting... On March 12, it was assigned to the Health and Welfare Committee in the Senate; on March 17, it was reported out of this committee with a FAVORABLE posting; on March 18, the bill had its second reading and went to the ORDERS OF THE DAY, READY FOR A VOTE AND PASSAGE!

There it remained... With two days left in the session, the "leadership" of the Senate never allowed it to have a vote on the floor!

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR WENDELL FORD KILLED HOUSE BILL 436 BY ORDERING ITS DEATH WITHOUT A VOTE, WITH THE HELP OF HIS COLLEAGUES UNDER HIS DIRECTION.

The Lieutenant-Governor who presided over the Senate that killed the House bill for the aged now has the brass to visit homes for the elderly and simper for their support in his losing race for Governor!

Our Lady of Mts. To Close Boarding Facilities in June

Our Lady of the Mountains School at Paintsville will no longer operate as a boarding school as of June, 1971. The school will continue to function as a day school only, starting this September.

The school has gradually decreased in boarders and has had a yearly increase of local students from Paintsville, Prestonsburg and Martin. The present teaching faculty of six Sisters (five full time teachers and one teacher aide), one lay teacher and four part-time teacher aides, will be maintained. The school will be able to accommodate more students from the local area.

LOWER PROPERTY TAXES FOR THOSE OVER 65

W. J. "BILL" REYNOLDS Representative

Urges You Support Homestead Exemption Admendment

On your ballot at the November Regular Election will be a Constitutional Amendment — the only one, in fact, to provide an exemption of up to $6,500 in the assessed valuation of homesteads of persons 65 and over.

As your representative in the 1970 General Assembly, I co-sponsored House Bill 147, and used all of the influence of which I was capable as Democratic Caucus Chairman, to have this Constitutional Amendment placed on the ballot for the tax relief of our Senior Citizens.

Bert T. Combs for Governor also supports this amendment. YOUR REPRESENTATIVE HAS HELPED TO PLACE THIS TAX RELIEF AMENDMENT ON THE BALLOT.

Support the Senior Citizen Tax Relief Amendment in November.

Please support me again for your Representative at the May 25th Primary.

CORNETT

for State Senator

I wish to announce my candidacy for State Senator, subject to the Democratic primary on May 25th.

I have held office in Floyd, Knott and Martin Counties. A few years ago I was Commonwealth's Attorney of Floyd county for five years.

I am a brother to DuRan Moore, Mason Moore and Earl Moore, who have been in business for many years in Floyd county.

I have associated with many good people in these counties.

It will be my purpose as your Senator in Frankfort, to help the next Governor put into operation a program that will be of most benefit to the people of Eastern Kentucky.

I have always been interested in the education of our youth. I am chairman of the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees of Alice Lloyd College. I taught school a few years while I was getting my legal education.

I will support a progressive Educational Program for Kentucky and will work for the improvement of our schools and the status of our teachers in every way possible.

I was a member of the State Legislature one session, and I helped pass the first Teachers Retirement System in Kentucky.

I worked for the Highway and Rural Road Programs.

I am still very much interested in improvement of the Highways and Rural Roads in Eastern Kentucky.

The re-construction and modernizing of Highway 80 from Hazard to Allen will be one of my ambitions.

We need to connect the Kentucky River Valley and the Big Sandy Valley in order to improve the transportation between these two great sections of Kentucky. The better our communication and transportation the better our chances are for new industry and commerce in the district. As we get more industry and commerce, we will have more opportunities for our young people to secure employment and work and stay at home, instead of having to go to other states in order to make a living.

You can depend on me to do everything possible for the improvement and betterment of our counties of Perry, Floyd, Knott and Martin and for the whole of Eastern Kentucky.

Your Friend,
JOHN CHRIS CORNETT

(Paid for by Mrs. Mattie Martin, Campaign Treasurer, Hindman, Kentucky.)

This is Thompson's Branch at Marlowe in eastern Kentucky. The site was surface mined and fully reclaimed in late 1967. Today vegetation on the bench is so profuse that you can no longer see the high wall.

Some 25,000 walnut trees were planted here by the operator.

Surface mining is being done responsibly

And there's a fine growth of Black Locust trees coming in at the edge of the outslope.

Yes, a high wall does exist at Thompson's Branch. But you have to search hard to find it. (See arrow.)

Thompson's Branch is but one example of responsible surface mining, as it is practiced today in the mountains of eastern Kentucky. There are many, many more.

As surface-mine operators, we care about the environment. And we believe in restoring mined land to beneficial use and beauty . . . promptly . . . properly . . . responsibly. After all, we're Kentuckians, too. And we don't like barren hillsides any better than you.

Write for our free "Questions and Answers" booklet. It will give you new insights into the subject of surface mining.

UK's SAMA Chapter
Gets $5000 Grant
For Med Program

The Student American Medical Association (SAMA) chapter at the University of Kentucky Medical Center has received a $5,000 grant to help finance its annual summer program in the medical sciences. The grant is from the E. O. Robinson Mountain Fund, a non-profit Eastern Kentucky-oriented agency.

Now beginning its third year, the summer program is designed to interest students from minority groups and low-income families in health careers. Most of the participants will be Kentucky high school students. Some college students from around the state, however, also are eligible for the program. They receive on-the-job training with pay in various Medical Center labs, clinics and wards, and some assistance with their research programs.

Scheduled for eight weeks, the program will run from mid-June to mid-August. The SAMA Summer Program coordinator, Jon Joseph, expects 25 to 30 students will participate in this year's program.

According to Joseph, a second year UK medical student, even with the grant and Medical Center financial support of the project, SAMA still is $11,000 short of the amount needed to operate a full program.

SAMA officials, however, are moving forward with program plans for this summer. A conference for high school students from Floyd, Harlan, Pike and Knott counties is scheduled for Saturday, April 24. The conference is part of the recruitment effort for the summer program, and is designed to acquaint the students with the health field and health careers.

U.S. 23 Wreck
Kills 3 Ohioans

LOUISA, KY.—A Perry county, Ohio, woman and two of her six children were killed early Tuesday in a single-car accident on U. S. 23, 3.5 miles north of here.

Kentucky State Police said Mrs. Ann Buckhart King, 39, of New Straitsville, Ohio, and her 11-year-old son, Timothy Lawrence, were killed in the 9:10 a.m. crash. A daughter, Jennifer, four, died about 11:30 a.m. at Cabell-Huntington hospital.

Listed in satisfactory condition late Tuesday in Riverview hospital at Louisa were Tammy King, seven, and Rhonda King, five. Hospital attendants said they suffered bruises and lacerations.

Two other children, Boyd Otis King, 17, identified by police as the driver, and Gwendalyn King, 13, were treated and released from the Louisa hospital.

State Police said the family's 1965-model station wagon slammed into a guardrail on the right side of the highway and was impaled by a 42-foot section of the rail which pierced the vehicle from the front.

The family was returning home from Verda (Harlan county), where they had been visiting relatives, according to police.

A motorist traveling behind the north-bound vehicle told state police the vehicle was traveling between 55-60 miles per hour when it failed to negotiate a slight right curve and went off the highway.

Witnesses said the vehicle then plowed into a ditchline before slamming into the guardrail.

Under the Fair Labor Standards Act, individual retail, service, and farm establishments may be granted certificates by the Secretary of Labor authorizing them to pay full-time students at 85 percent of the applicable Federal minimum wage—$1.60 an hour in non-farm employment and $1.30 an hour in agriculture.

Best Fishing of Year?—Now, Maybe

FRANKFORT, KY.—Fabulous fishing should be the rule rather than the exception in Kentucky waters for the next two months. No matter the type freshwater fishing a person desires, he will more than likely find it within Kentucky. From the streams, to the farm ponds, to the major lakes—there'll be various species of fish to be caught and the average fisherman will play his favorite and should be well rewarded.

Right now, of course, and for the next two weeks, fishermen generally will be concerned with the white bass runs that are occurring in the headwaters and feeder streams of a number of the larger lakes. They also will be found below the dams in many streams. This should furnish furious fishing until early in May. Then they'll be caught in another manner.

Also, as of right now, and continuing through early May, the crappie fishermen will be reaping huge dividends by fishing shallow for Mr. Papermouth. They are now in the beginning of the spawning season and this will continue for several weeks.

And the black bass are hungry in many lakes and will be caught on live bait and various minnow-like lures as well as on nightcrawlers, fished off the banks. This fishing should continue good until early May, when it will drop off as the blacks hover over their nests in spawning operations. The blacks are now furnishing good fishing in farm ponds and in most streams.

Right now the season is barely opening for bluegill. Before long they will be on the spawning beds in just about all waters and while they are on the beds fishing will be furious. All a fisherman would need do is locate the pan-like nest, fish over it with worms or small flies and the bluegill will do the rest.

So, for a couple or three weeks fishing should be good everywhere.

But with the ending of the three-week period will come other types of fishing for the same species which also will be highly productive.

The white bass will have moved from their spawning grounds back into the deep water and will be very hungry. They will be found alongside deep, rocky banks, maybe at 40 to 50 feet, and they'll be caught at night on minnows. When a school is located it's not difficult to harvest a limit of 60 with little difficulty.

Here fishermen use a light and usually remain anchored in the same spot throughout the night. They shine the light into the water which attracts minute water bugs which in turn bring in the minnows or shad. Those the whites feast on and those are what attract the whites in great numbers and hold them in the area. True, on given nights the whites may never come in and the result is a lost night of fishing. But usually at sometime between dusk and dawn, they will be available.

At a still later time, usually in June, the whites will be found in the jumps but that's another story.

Crappie may be caught after their spawning forays by fishing at night. They also will be taken in daylight hours but around fallen treetops at 15 to 40 feet down.

When black bass are on their nests they'll hardly hit at all, but when they come off they are hungry and furnish some furious fishing by casting surface lures. That is the most appealing type fishing.

By casting the surface lure in the early morning and late afternoon, the fisherman may see the fish strike the bait. They usually continue surface feeding for three or four weeks and then will be caught at deeper levels.

Gusher Is Hit In Morgan Co. By Monitor Petroleum Corp.

(From the Licking Valley Courier, West Liberty, Ky.)

Halliburton experts fractured a section of the Knox formation in Monitor Petroleum corporation's deep-test well at Moon Monday, the fracture section was acidized Tuesday night, and by Wednesday morning the hole was flowing oil out the top with a terrific pressure.

Monitor crewman let the hole blow off a few hours, then commenced running 2-inch tubing Wednesday about 2 p.m. Setting 5,000 feet of tubing was finished by 6 p.m. and by nightfall the well was flowing 10 barrels an hour, according to Binck Strickland, Monitor's division manager. "It sure looks like a big one, a mighty big producer," Strickland said Wednesday night.

However the gas flow was not tested finally because workers had to seal off the hole at about 5,000 feet in order to fracture the oil pay in the Knox.

The second frack job was completed Monday and by Tuesday crews were swabbing out oil and water at about the rate of eight barrels an hour—a mixture of five barrels of oil and three of water, Mr. Strickland said.

Crews went back Tuesday night and acidized the Knox fracture, using 20,000 gallons of acid. This is done to clean out the fractures and enlarge the reservoir.

The deep-test is on the farm of Fred Ison on Doc Ison Creek, and was drilled on a farm-out agreement with Ashland Oil, Pennzoil and Sun. It is Monitor's second deep-test in Eastern Kentucky. Monitor last year drilled a 9,670 foot well at Stephens in eastern Knox also is producing a big flow of gas, possibly two million feet, Strickland said.

At 10 barrels an hour, the well possibly is a 200 to 250 barrel a day producer.

Accurate tests cannot be made for another three or four days, but Strickland is expecting at least a 250 barrel well. "And there's a good chance it will be even bigger," he said.

"The flow of oil and gas is rocking the line leading to the tank, and jerking it a lot," Strickland said.

The Knox is between 4,900 and 5,000 feet deep. It was the second fracture job in the well. Halliburton had fracked the basal sands at about 10,000 feet two weeks ago, where considerable gas was struck.

Since coming to Kentucky, Monitor has picked up large acreages of leases in four counties—Morgan, Elliott, Lawrence and Johnson.

The firm plans to drill a number of wells in the first three counties and a few in Johnson if the Moon deep test produces as expected.

City Service has obtained about 500 acres of leases on Ferguson Branch, which parallels Doc Ison Creek, about a mile to the east, and is having the boundaries surveyed preparatory to drilling, it was learned this week. City Service acquired the lease from Petroleum Exploration which had leased it from Willie Ferguson. Reports are heard that City Service plans to make location for a well almost immediately, about a mile east of Monitor Petroleum's deepest on Doc Ison Creek.

Corporate Filings Show Increase

Secretary of State Kenneth F. Harper has announced an increase in the number of new corporations filing articles of Incorporation with his office during the first three months of 1971.

All corporations operating in Kentucky are required by law to file incorporation papers with the office of the secretary of state before beginning business. Harper said the most dramatic gain has been in the area of stock corporations, although all divisions have shown increases.

He said 874 new stock corporations filed during the first three months of 1971 compared with 629 during the same period in 1970.

Some 267 new stock corporations filed during January 1971, up 36 over last January. February saw some 284 new firms, an increase of 107 over February 1970 and 323 filed in March for a 104 increase over last March.

Non-stock non-profit corporations also increased over last year. Some 162 new filings were recorded during the first three months of 1971 compared with 138 in the same period last year.

Paintsville S-Mart Sets Grand Opening Friday, April 23rd

The all-new, 18,000 square-foot S-Mart Discount Store will open its doors in Paintsville at 9 a.m., Friday.

Featuring full lines of name-brand merchandise, Paintsville's S-Mart Store is the first in a chain which is expected to grow to 21 stores within two years in Kentucky, Indiana, Tennessee, and the Carolinas.

S-Mart representatives said this week that company stores will be located in smaller towns, enabling shoppers to trade within a short distance of their homes rather than having to drive many miles to a metropolitan market.

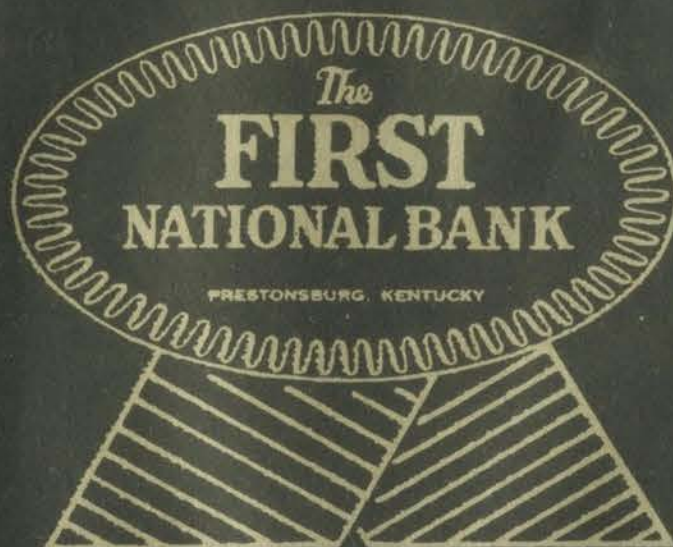

The S-Mart Store, which is located on Jefferson Avenue in Paintsville, is completely air conditioned, and plenty of parking space is available. The store will be open seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Paintsville Store Manager Jim Brandenburg is extending a welcome to all of those in Eastern Kentucky who will be helping the firm observe its grand opening beginning this Friday, April 23.

King has been employed by the Village of New Rome as a police officer for the past year.

GOLDEN PASSBOOK SAVINGS

ANNUAL YIELD 5.92 PERCENT

5^{1/2}%

ANNUAL YIELD 5.13 PERCENT

Wouldn't you know that the House of Savings would be first to offer two more plans to make savings create more interest than ever? Now, in addition to our 5 percent, 90-day Golden Passbook Plan, we invite you to try our 5 1/2 percent, 1-year Golden Passbook Plan and our 5 3/4 percent, 2-year Golden Passbook Plan. We think you'll find them all very "interest"-ing.

All three plans offer guaranteed interest rates, and interest is compounded daily and paid or credited quarterly with each. Any of the three may be opened with a $100 minimum deposit, and additional deposits of $100 or more may be made at any time.

Here's the interesting difference

With our new 5 3/4 percent, 2-year Golden Passbook Plan, your funds remain on deposit for a minimum of two years, with an effective yield of 5.92 percent per annum.

Our new 5 1/2 percent, 1-year Golden Passbook Plan has an effective yield of 5.65 percent per annum, and your funds must remain on deposit only one year.

How Interest Figured And Payment Dates

Interest compounded quarterly. Interest payment dates: April 1, July 1, Oct. 1 and Jan. 1. Deposits made during first 10 days of month bear interest from first day of that month.

Demonstration To Show How To Meet Hospital Fire Crisis

McDowell, Ky.—This area will be given a demonstration of how a hospital, in event of fire, should protect its patients and seek to control the flames while the fire department is enroute to the scene.

The occasion will be an Institute on Patient Evacuation and Fire Control, directed by a nationally known expert on fire prevention and control. The Institute will be held April 26 under sponsorship of the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital.

The scene will be the hospital grounds. There will be two identical programs, one starting at 8, and the other at 12 noon.

The area fire departments, rescue squads, other agencies and interested individuals are invited to attend this performance. The performance is free.

Robert McGrath, retired hospital inspector of the Chicago fire department, will direct the performances. Among the "actors" will be 15 hospital employees, including nurses. "Live" fire will be used at one stage of the program, and nurses will demonstrate how to use fire hose. McGrath and the hospital team also will demonstrate how to use other fire equipment, how to combat fires with available material, and how to handle patients in an emergency. The live demonstrations will be supplemented by a motion picture.
