Deep Well Work Begun In Pike Co. If Venture Success, New East Kentucky Drilling Boom Seen

A drilling venture now under way in Pike county could conceivably mean an oil-and-gas boom in Eastern Kentucky greater than the first development splurge which saw wells—mostly, gas wells—drilled in practically every hollow of the section.

The Pike county operation is a well being drilled by Signal Oil and Gas Co., a California-based firm, and four associate companies to a depth of 12,500 feet. Drilling is now at about 7000 feet.

The well, located on the Burning Fork of Raccoon Creek, is the first to be drilled in this section as a result of an extensive geophysical program conducted last year by Weaver Oil and Gas Company on holdings of the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company in 22 counties of the region. Tests made at that time were to determine the possibility of pay sands at depths greater than those normally explored.

Although the findings made are "classified information" and the plans developing from what last year's tests are not known, it is believed by many that richer oil and gas deposits lie untouched in these deep formations.

Associated with Signal Oil in the Pike county drilling are Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company, Weaver Oil and Gas Co., Amaraero-Hess and Louisiana Land and Exploration Co.

The only other deep drilling now being done in Eastern Kentucky is the Morgan county exploration by Monitor Oil Company, which is developing acreage assigned it by Ashland Oil and Refining Co. and other leaseholders.

Deepest drilling in this area was done a few years ago when United Fuel Gas Company sank a well 13,500 feet down in a vain search for pay sand.

Principal Moves For Dissolution Of Martin PTA

The Parent-Teacher Association at Martin was dissolved last Thursday by Phillip Dingus, principal of the school there.

In a letter addressed to Jake Layne, PTA president, Mr. Dingus alleged that the PTA has not fulfilled, or attempted to fulfil, any of the objects of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers; has denied admittance to membership in the PTA at any time, as provided by the PTA's bylaws, and has "attempted to control school policies and interfere with administrative policies," in violation of the Basic Policies article of the bylaws.

Commenting in his letter on his action, Mr. Dingus wrote, "I do this with a great deal of regret because I have always felt that a PTA is really one of the organizations for good and together parents and teachers can discuss children's developmental needs and seek agreement on aims and requirements for children."

Mrs. Rita Lafferty, secretary of the PTA, said she has contacted Mrs. James Adkins, Cattlettsburg, district PTA president, seeking advice in making an effort to procure a hearing on the principal's action.

The PTA has figured prominently in the controversy with the Floyd County Board of Education over physical school conditions at Martin and the construction of the consolidated high school at Eastern.

This Town . . . That World

NOT AN ABETTOR TO BETTING

I have pretty consistently refused to make any predictions about this election, because I didn't want to be a party to any wagering. You see, some of these fellows come, asking my opinion—then, having it, confidently lay their money on the other guy. They, of course, never split with me, and some may say that makes my conscience real quicky about betting.

REGRETFULLY

The Daily Texan, student newspaper at the University of Texas, at time for final exams had this classic headline across the top of Page 1:

"Ah, God! Had I but studied in the days of my foolish youth."—Francois Villon.

UNSOLICITED PRAISE

Nobody from Prestonsburg was in Murray when this took place, and Mayor Archer knew nothing about it till a newspaper clipping was mailed him—all of which makes the compliment the more sincere. The story:

Bill Powell, editor of the Paducah News and former regent of Murray State University, was the speaker at the 45th annual meeting of the Murray Chamber of Commerce, and in the course of that address he said, "Murray and Prestonsburg have the two best city governments in the state of Kentucky."

A daily newspaper headline says the wet weather has discouraged the corn blight. They didn't say what it had done to the corn. (Say they put it in this column at your own risk.)

Ford in Lead for Governor

Early Vote Hints Upset Over Combs Balloting Tuesday Ends Hot Campaign For November Spot

With roughly one-fifth of Kentucky's voting precincts unofficially tabulated, shortly before 8 p.m. Tuesday, Lieut. Gov. Wendell H. Ford held a lead of approximately 10,000 votes over Ex-Governor Bert Combs for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Most of the vote reported, however, was from Louisville, where Ford held a lead of around 12,000, and urban precincts of Campbell and Kenton counties.

Robert Matthews, Combs' campaign manager, conceded the former governor was not running in Louisville as well as he did when he won the governorship but added, "It's far from over yet."

On the face of unofficial returns Combs held a lead of better than 5000 in Floyd county over Ford, and his running mate, Julian Carroll, was well ahead of Attorney General John B. Breckinridge for the second spot on the Democratic ticket.

The official count of the Floyd vote was barely begun when The Times prepared to go to press. The absentee vote was being tabulated first and that had not been completed.

Clifford B. Latta, incumbent, led a field of five candidates for the Democratic nomination for state senator in this county, but returns were not in from Perry, Knott and Magoffin.

W. J. Reynolds was a clear winner over Jimmy Turner for the Democratic

Martin PTA Holds Open-Air Meeting To Name Officers

Although its dissolution has been ordered by Phillip Dingus, principal of Martin schools, the Martin PTA met Monday night and elected officers. Leaders said an open-air meeting was held, since the school building was locked against them.

Jake Layne was re-elected president, as was Mrs. Rita Lafferty as secretary. New officers named are Everett Akers, vice-president, and Mrs. Willie Petry, treasurer.

The PTA approved a letter written Mrs. James E. Adkins, district PTA president, asking her to forward to the PTA, Mr. Dingus and Superintendent Charles Clark copies of her statement as to the status of the PTA after Mrs. Dingus' May 17 dissolution letter. This was requested, it was explained, to remove any misunderstanding on the part of any concerned as to Mrs. Adkins' opinion.

Car-Bull Crash Results in Suit Asking $51,000

A Middle Creek couple last week filed suit seeking to recover from H. D. Fitzpatrick, Prestonsburg banker, $51,000 damages incurred, they claim, when their auto and a bull owned by the defendant collided on the Mountain Parkway.

Plaintiffs, Lucy and Tobie Marsillett, claim Mrs. Marsillett was operating their 1966 model Ford in a careful manner when it and the animal collided. They allege that Mr. Fitzpatrick permitted the bull to be at large. Damage of $50,000 for injuries were asked by Mrs. Marsillett, and $1000 also is sought for damage to the car.

A total of $35,000 damages is asked of United Utilities of Kentucky and John Allen, of Prestonsburg, by Hobart Slone for damages allegedly resulting from the accumulation of gas from a leaky line under and around Slone's building at Lackey in March, 1969. Damage to the building was placed at $25,000, and $10,000 is asked for loss of merchandise and equipment.

In a third civil action filed last week, Stoney Newsome, suing by his father, Grant Newsome, seeks to recover $10,000 from East Kentucky Beverage Company, alleging that young Newsome became ill after drinking a soft drink marketed by the company.

2 Men Accused Of Murder, Rape Free Under Bond

One of two men arrested Friday and charged with the rape of a 65-year-old woman and her 15-year-old daughter in the Lackey vicinity remained in jail here Monday, while the other was at liberty under $10,000 bond.

Paul Banks, 23, executed bond. Charles Martin, 30, remained in jail. Both are of the Lackey vicinity. A hearing has been set June 3 on the charges against them.

D. C. Jones, 38, of Stone Coal, near Garrett, waived examining trial on a murder charge in connection with the May 16 slaying of Gurnis Hall, 50, of Estill, and was admitted to $10,000 bail to answer to the action of the next grand jury.

State Trooper Gary Rose arrested two men, who were booked at the jail on charges of liquor possession. Those arrested were Bill See and Orville Tom Hall. The trooper and Capt. Lykins confiscated 16 cans of beer found in Hall's possession on Branham's Creek.

Others booked at the jail within the week included:

Lemuel Foley, drunk driving, arrested by State Trooper Rose; Garry Howell, reckless driving and no operator's license, reckless driving and no operator's license, Boy Scouts work mightily to load containers of trash collected along Dewey Lake shores into a U. S. Corps of Engineers truck.

Scouts Pick Up Tons of Litter

Boy Scout troops from David, Garrett, Tomahawk and Wheelwright attended a S. O. A. R. (Save Our American Resources) camporee at Dewey Lake, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

While at the camporee the Scouts spent their free time cleaning the bottles, cans, paper, plastic jugs and other litter from the two new public camping grounds being developed by the Army Corps of Engineers.

They also picked up the waste from 10 miles of the lake shoreline.

One Scout said "I'll never throw another pop can from the window of my dad's car."

Another said, "People are not this dirty. These must have been put here by a bunch of pigs." Another: "I though this was supposed to be a dry county. How did all of the whiskey bottles and beer cans get here?"

The litter was handed to West Van Lear's landfill by the Corps of Engineers.

Sixty-eight scouts and 10 leaders participated in the cleanup of the lake. The Boy Scout troop from Prestonsburg did not take part in the camporee, because their scoutmaster was out of town and there wasn't an interested father or community man available to camp with Troop 29.

The Department of Parks, Corps of Engineers and Highway Department began a cleanup job at Dewey Lake, earlier in the year, but did not complete it. The work is yet incomplete, and the Scouts plan to return for more work next fall.

Gas and Water Services Near For New Area

The area from Emma downstream a distance of almost three miles will soon have water, and gas to heat it with, from the Prestonsburg Municipal Gas and Water System.

The system has completed the laying of approximately 14,000 feet of line for each service, water and gas, to Cow Creek, has the river crossing in to serve the village of Emma, and will extend its water line up Cow Creek as far as the mouth of Slick Rock. The extension of lines began with the end of the system at the United Fuel pipeyard, near Sugar Loaf.

The work began with 49 householders depositing $100 each on the water service.

Two Held in Slaying Of Hall at W'wright

Two men are in jail here in connection with the Saturday evening slaying at Wheelwright of Ernest Hall, 26, and the wounding of his brother, Bunker Bill Hall, 24, and an investigation was under way Monday which may involve others in the case.

Russell Slone, 23, was booked at the county jail by Capt. Billy Lykens, of the Kentucky State Police, and State Trooper Gary Rose on a murder charge as Hall's alleged slayer and on a shooting and wounding count in the shooting of Bunker Bill Hall.

The slaying was the second in this county in a week and the third within a month.

Whiskey, or beer, or both, apparently figured in the shooting. Officers said Russell Slone bore on his face the marks of battle, reportedly from an encounter earlier in the day with the Halls.

The shooting took place in Branham Hollow, Wheelwright, near the home of Ellis Little, around 7 p.m. Saturday. The charge of a .410-gauge shotgun, fired at a distance of about 50 feet, struck Ernest Hall in his face, chest and stomach. A wound in his side later was tentatively identified by X-ray as having been caused by a revolver bullet. Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo said County Judge Henry Stumbo would be asked to issue an order authorizing removal of the bullet from Hall's body.

Bunker Bill Hall was first shot from behind as he fled the scene after, according to Russell Slone, throwing a rock at Slone and missing. He was not seriously hurt.

Slone told Commonwealth's Attorney Stumbo that he had trouble, earlier in the day, with the Hall brothers. He got a shotgun and when they next met, he said, Bunker Bill Hall threw a rock at him, missing and then taking flight. He said he shot Hall as he ran, then turned to see Ernest Hall with a pop bottle poised to strike him. Then he fired at the second brother.

Frank Lee Adkins, who was held here for investigation, told a story closely coinciding with Slone's.

Bunker Bill Hall told authorities Slone began shooting "for nothing." He said as Slone and his father, Joe Slone, drew up in a car one shot was fired before they alighted. He said he saw the father with a revolver in his hand but could not say who fired it. He admitted slapping the father, Joe Slone, earlier in the day.

Joe Slone was quoted by Trooper Rose as saying he was not at the scene of the shooting. Two witnesses identified as Perkins and Burks corroborated the story told by Hall.

Authorities now are centering attention upon the revolver bullet wound. They say a revolver which had been fired three times was found in Slone's car but its ownership had not been established Monday morning.

Trooper Rose said that a Breathalyzer Test administered three hours after the shooting showed that Russell Slone was drunk.

The victim of the shooting was a son of Marion and Virgie Slone Hall, of Wheelwright. In addition to his parents, survivors include his widow, Mrs. Audra Johnson Hall; a son, Jimmy, and two daughters, Tammy Fay and Ernestine, all of Wheelwright; two brothers, Bill and Herbert Hall, of Wheelwright, and two sisters, Betty Hall, of Ohio, and Nannie Hall, of Wheelwright.

Graveside services in the Hall cemetery at Bevensville were conducted Tuesday at 10 a.m. by ministers of the Regular Baptist Church, and burial was made under direction of the Merion Funeral Chapel.

Ground Broken For New School

A gathering of an estimated 400 persons saw ground broken officially Saturday at the site of the new consolidated high school at Eastern.

Charles Clark, superintendent of Floyd schools, estimated that one-fourth of the crowd was from Martin and he commented on the fact that all four towns—Wayland,

Garrett, Maytown and Martin—the school is intended to serve were represented. "I am especially proud of that," he said, and appealed to the people of the Right Beaver Creek valley to unite for better education for their children. "This," he said, referring to the school structure now under construction, "is the most important educational development in Floyd county since the founding of Prestonsburg Community College."

Ground was broken with eight chrome-plated shovels contributed for the occasion by the First National Bank and Akers and Akers, contractors on the project. Assistant Supt. Wayne Ratliff acted as master of ceremonies.

Health Planners Confer at Barkley

The Governor's Commission on Comprehensive Health Planning and the Kentucky Comprehensive Health Planning Council met in a state health planning conference at Lake Barkley Lodge, May 6 and 7.

It was the second state-wide health planning meeting held in Kentucky.

Representatives from the Big Sandy Area Development District included Dr. George P. Archer, Area Development District chairman; Joe McCauley, executive director, Big Sandy Area Development District; O. T. Dorton and Chalmers Frazier, Regional Comprehensive Health Planning Council representatives.

Joseph M. Gray, administrator of the Kentucky Program Development Office, explained that the purpose of the meeting was mainly to discuss and exchange information concerning problems in implementing comprehensive health planning in Kentucky.

"The idea", he said, "is to identify and solve problems before they become obstacles. Coordination of local, state, and national health delivery plans is important if the new and better health delivery system is to be developed."

Will the Corps Do the Job

The federal Flood Control Act of 1970 has a provision inserted by U. S. Senator John Sherman Cooper which makes it a punishable offense to introduce refuse of any kind into the waters or onto the land of any water resource development project administered by the U. S. Corps of Engineers.

That applies to Dewey Lake, Fishtrap, Grayson—any of scores of impoundments in the United States which are under the control of the Corps of Engineers. It provides penalties and gives the Engineers the power to enforce.

But, more the pity, the Corps of Engineers isn't ready to exercise the power given it. This year, it will center on Lake Cumberland in a "trial run" of enforcement. After that, with experience gained at Cumberland, it, hopefully, will apply the law across the board to all of its impoundments.

The mere fact that such a law is necessary—and it is necessary—is a sad commentary on the American public. An energetic, progressive, prosperous, professedly beauty-loving people is so unaware of its responsibility to be good stewards of the great resources entrusted to it that it has no respect for the environment and for the rights of others to enjoy it. We must have a "Don't Spit on the Floor" sign up, and an arm of the law there to force us to obey. Education—the kind that teaches, "Do your thing and let the rest of the world go hang"—hasn't worked, and it won't. A bitter experience with courts and fines and jails will provide the dear teacher we must have.

Now, if the Corps of Engineers will only face up to their duty! Will they? Or will lakes such as Dewey continue to be abused and neglected? There is a law, you know, which might protect Dewey from sedimentation, coal dust and the like—but it seems to have been forgotten.

Crusade Director To Lead Rallies

In preparation for the Ford Philpot Big Sandy Crusade here, the week of July 18-25, the first in a series of seven Spiritual Preparation Rallies will be held at the First United Methodist Church, Prestonsburg, May 31, at the United Methodist Church Martin, June 1 at 7:30 p.m.

Jimmy Sowder, Crusade director, is well known in this area from previous visits. He joined the Ford Philpot Evangelistic Assn. in 1961 and is in great demand as a lay-speaker at men's retreats and revivals.

Purpose of the rallies is to provide the motivation and training needed to carry on a successful Crusade. All area residents are encouraged to attend all seven rallies and hear Mr. Sowder.

BETSY LAYNE NEWS

W. S. C. S. MEETS

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Betsy Layne United Methodist Church held its May meeting at the home of Mrs. Jesse Elliott. The president, Mrs. Beckham Caldwell, presided and opened the meeting with prayer. Mrs. D. E. Stanley conducted a study course session on "An Introduction to the Psalms." A business session followed with a discussion on ways to earn money for the year's projects, and plans were made to furnish refreshments for the meeting of the Floyd County Sub-District United Methodist Youth Fellowship, May 17, and a covered dish dinner on May 28. Both meetings were held in the church. Refreshments were served by the hostess to Mrs. Beckham Caldwell, Mrs. Curtis Wallen, Mrs. E. P. Davis, Mrs. Eliza Blackburn, Mrs. Dean Osborne.

The June meeting will be at the home of Mrs. E. P. Davis, and Mrs. O. E. Stanley will conduct the final session of the study course on Psalms.

Tidbits of Kentucky Folklore

Host of things that are passing leave fragrant memories, but few leave a trail of satisfaction quite like preaching all day and dinner on the ground. This old custom, especially the latter half of it, connects the years of my youth much as the Romans computed time by naming the two reigning consuls. From Quarterly Meeting to Quarterly Meeting was a period of time, quite as definite as any astronomical computation. Quarterly Meetings came in the spring at my church; my birthday came in the fall; between them the year was a glorious memory or a still more glorious anticipation.

Now please do not attach too much importance to the preaching all day. It was necessary as a starter. It furnished the occasion. To come together without some religious purpose would have seemed wicked. After having some excuse for the gathering, it was not necessary for people to take the religious side of the matter seriously. In the morning the people assembled and, in real fervor, went inside the church; except, of course, a few bad boys, who represented the world, the flesh, and that other fellow. After a deal of lining and singing came the sermon—long, fiery, and loud. Everybody sat as if enthralled, for was not dinner to follow this sermon, however long it might be: Mules brayed in the woods around the church, horses nickered, and, in the church, children who were not sufficiently supplied with teacakes cried and longed for dinner. The preacher had to raise his voice to auctioneer proportions to be heard above the noise. Sometimes the sermons were two or three in number; then we could not expect dinner until half past one or even two o'clock. Be it said frankly, the dinner on the ground was the great thing; the sermon was only sauce to appetite. For days in advance every farmhouse was alive with labor, for people who went to Quarterly Meetings and such like were always hungry, and it was considered cheap if any one, no matter how far he had come, went away unfilled. Some of the neighbors killed a beef or mutton, and everybody slaughtered chickens wholesale. Cakes, pies, pickles, light bread—But why call up such a tantalizing array of good things to eat? Whatever doubts the preachers had raised as to the fitness of things terrestrial were soon resolved when eating time came.

When the last bite had been swallowed and enough was still left to feed another multitude, the crowd dispersed, some actually going home at once, as if the real event of the day were over. Others bunched together and discussed everything from original sin to politics (assuming that these two are not one and the same thing). About an hour after dinner there was another "set-to".

Army Central Finance and Accounting Office in Heidelberg, Germany. He is the son of Mrs. Maggie H. Newman, of McDowell.

YD's President Explains Action

Mike Halbert, president of the Floyd County Young Democrats, said Monday that last week's published announcement that the Young Democrats had given Dr. Arnold Schechter, former head of the Comprehensive Health Services Program, its support was not an expression of members' voting on the issue.

A formal vote was not taken. Only he and three others remained to take action after Dr. Schechter had spoken at length on the health program, although he emphasized that he invited "anyone concerned" to stay.

"As president," young Halbert said, "I am well aware that both sides of the controversy were not presented and no attempt to do so was made. . . A formal vote was not taken. . . I invited anyone concerned to stay and formulate further action—the result of which was the decision to write letters to various people. This decision was made almost entirely by me—three other people stayed and agreed that some further action was necessary. . ."

A decision of this sort, he said, requires a full, formal vote but he added that the formal procedure had not been the rule at previous YD meetings; rather, that what he termed "the consensus approach" had been employed.

"I will admit," he said, that the handling of the recent action may have been improper and incorrect. . . I apologize to those members present at the May 13 meeting, since I didn't fully respect their opinions and feelings on the subject. This was an oversight and a mistake on my part."

But, Halbert added, "I will submit that I acted in the name of the high ideals and principles of the Democratic party and under the consensus of the people in attendance at the meeting."

The Young Democrats will meet here tonight (Thursday) for their annual election of officers.

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, the sacrifices of those who have lost their lives, their health, or their livelihood as a result of their military service are rightly the concern of all citizens; and

WHEREAS, the annual sale of Buddy Poppies by the Veterans of Foreign Wars offers an opportunity for the people of this community to express their solicitude for those unfortunate persons who have paid more than their share of the cost of freedom; and

WHEREAS, V. F. W. Buddy Poppies are assembled by disabled veterans, and the proceeds of this worthy fund-raising campaign are used exclusively for the benefit of disabled and needy veterans, and the widows and orphans of deceased veterans, in the desire to "Honor the Dead by Helping the Living"; therefore

I, Paul P. Hughes, Mayor Pro Tem of the City of Prestonsburg do hereby urge the citizens of this community to recognize the merits of this cause by contributing generously to its support through the purchase of Buddy Poppies on the day set aside for the distribution of these symbols of appreciation for the sacrifices of our honored dead.

I urge all patriotic citizens to wear a 'Buddy Poppy' as mute evidence of our gratitude to the men of this country who have risked or lost their lives in fulfilling their obligations as American citizens.

'Show-Cause' Hearing Slated Next Tuesday

Two events scheduled within the next few days are expected to have telling effect on the future of the embattled Floyd County Comprehensive Health Services Program. First, the Kentucky Medical Association is expected to make its own investigation of the program this week, possibly beginning Friday.

And the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) has set next Tuesday as the date of a Washington hearing at which health program representatives will be asked to show cause why the program should not be suspended.

The show-cause meeting was called by Dr. Carl Smith, acting director of the Office of Health Affairs for OEO, in a letter to County Judge Henry Stumbo, chairman of the board of directors of Big Sandy CAP, and Mrs. Eleanor Robinson, chairman of the health services board.

(Suspension of the program, if made, would be for a period of 21 days, after which proceedings to terminate the program would begin, it is explained. Another hearing would possibly be held before final termination.)

Allegations made by Dr. Smith in support of the suspension move included these: 1. The program does not have a project director who has been approved by Health Affairs, nor does it have a medical director, administrator or finance director.

2. The health program board has maintained intolerable working conditions for staff members and has harassed and intimidated professional staff members. The director and other key staff members were dismissed with no specific reasons for their dismissal given.

3. At present little medical care is being provided the poor, no nursing care or follow-up services are rendered and the transportation system no longer functions.

4. The program board has attempted to suppress the poor from expressing their views, and meetings have been held without adequate notice and at inconvenient locations.

5. The audit report for Program Year C, made by Lawton Ray Allen, Prestonsburg accountant, indicates that the project expended $641,935 in payments to physicians and other providers while the OEO grant authorized only $325,250. These violations continue into Program Year D, which is the current year, it is claimed.

6. The program has failed to make any progress toward a comprehensive, family-oriented health program, as requested.

7. The board has failed to implement a training program for consumers.

Two from County Awarded Grants

PIKEVILLE, KY.—Pikeville College has awarded 15, presidential scholarships for the 1971-72 school year, according to an announcement from Dr. Robert S. Cope, college president.

The scholarships amount to $1840 for men recipients and $1740 for women receiving the award. The difference is due to additional expense in dormitory facilities for men students. These scholarships provide for tuition, room, board and laboratory fees at Pikeville College for one year, and are renewable if requirements are met.

Seven of the awards were repeat scholarships going to students who had received similar scholarships for the 1970-71 school year. The eight new scholarships were awarded to 1971 high school graduates, all but one from Eastern Kentucky.

Among those receiving renewal scholarships were two students from Floyd County—Miss Rebecca Brown, East McDowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Evan Brown; Alan Dale Lawson, Drift, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie D. Lawson.

COMMUNIST RULES FOR REVOLUTION AND TAKE-OVER

To the best of our knowledge, this article was first printed in the Bartlesville Examiner-Enterprise in 1919. It was reprinted again in 1946 in The New World News, after the Florida attorney general secured it from a known member of the communist party, who acknowledged that it was then still a part of the communist program.

In May of 1919, at Dusseldorf, Germany, the Allied Forces obtained a copy of some of the "Communist Rules for Revolution." Nearly 50 years later, the Reds were still following them.

A.—Corrupt the Young. Get them away from religion. Get them interested in sex. Make them superficial; destroy their ruggedness.

B.—Get control of all means of publicity, thereby:

1. Get people's minds off their government by focusing their attention on athletics, sexy books and plays and other trivialities.

2. Divide the people into hostile groups by constantly harping on controversial matters of no importance.

3. Destroy the people's faith in their national leaders by holding the latter up to contempt, ridicule and disgrace.

4. Always preach true democracy but seize power as fast and ruthlessly as possible.

5. By encouraging government extravagance, destroy its credit, produce fear of inflation with rising prices and general discontent.

6. Incite unnecessary strikes in vital industries, encourage civil disorders and foster a lenient and soft attitude on the part of government toward such disorders.

7. By specious argument, cause the breakdown of the old moral values—honesty, sobriety, self-restraint, faith in the pledged word, ruggedness.

C. Cause the registration of all firearms on some pretext, with a view of confiscating them and leaving the population helpless.

That is quite a list, isn't it? Now, stop to think—how many of these rules are being carried out in this nation today?

If you love America, protect it. Don't try to tear down or destroy one of the finest gifts of all time—Freedom. Stand up for your country. Let's beware of the forces that would destroy us. As for me, I prefer to be a free American than a Communist slave. Think about it.

Sincerely, Your Friend
For Freedom

MISS YOAK-MR. GRIM WED

The marriage of Miss Barbara Ann Yoak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Yoak, of Paintsville, and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Yoak, of Flint, Mich., to Mr. Gary Leroy Grim, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Grim, of Paintsville, took place at the First Baptist church in Paintsville at 2:30 p.m., May 15. The ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Milam before an altar decorated with arrangements of red roses, white carnations interspersed with sprays of blue baby's breath and flanked by candelabra.

Given in marriage by her father, O. L. Yoak, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white satin fashioned with wide-cuffed long sleeves, high neckline and empire waistline with a cathedral-length train and mantilla veil. Her bouquet was of white roses, red carnations and blue baby's breath.

Miss Dalmea Lynn Walden, of London, Ky., was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Margaret Bruce Cotten, of Springfield, O., Miss Krista Kay Williams, of Paintsville, and Miss Sharron Kay

Martin, of Columbus, O. They wore pant-dresses with navy top fashioned with full, long chiffon sleeves and peter pan collars. The pants were of red, white and blue point taffeta. Large brimmed navy hats completed their attire.

Acting as best man was Roger Owen Grim, of Paintsville.

Candlelighters were Paul Winston Justice and Roger Lee Owens. Miss Paula Jo Castle, of Columbus, O., was flower girl and David Allen Yoak, of Flint, Mich., was ring bearer.

Ushers were Roger Owen Grim, Paul Winston Justice, Charles Leland Castle, Roger Lee Owens, all of Paintsville.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the church with Mrs. Oscar Williams, Jr., Mrs. Escorn Chandler, Mrs. Byrd Cox, Mrs. James H. Conley, Mrs. Ronnie Gene Wells, Mrs. Charles L. Castle and Miss Carol Johnson assisting.

Following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Grim left for a wedding trip to Miami Beach and New Orleans. They will reside in Paintsville until fall when they will go to Richmond to attend Eastern Kentucky State University.

Historian Finds Washington Letters

History professor Stuart S. Sprague, of Morehead State University, has located three uncollected letters of George Washington in the past six months, all with Kentucky ties.

Sprague, a 33-year-old assistant professor at Morehead State, has been engaged in research for his doctoral dissertation on the life of John Brown, Kentucky's first U. S. Senator.

His search took him last fall to Fort Harrod State Park, where he noticed two Washington letters at the park museum. Although both were publicly displayed, neither had been reported to the University of Virginia where a new compilation of Washington correspondence is underway.

Two months later, Sprague was rummaging through old newspaper files at the Library of Congress and found the text of another Washington letter in an 1806 edition of the now defunct Frankfort Western World. This find also was new to the Washington archives.

With the collected Washington letters already past the 25,000 mark, Sprague is not excited by his discoveries. But the Washington historians say his contributions are "notable."

"It was just a simple courtesy to another historian," the professor said.

RECEIVE STATE FFA DEGREE

Three members of the Prestonsburg Chapter of Future Farmers of America have been accepted as State Farmers. The boys will travel to the F.F.A. state convention at Louisville to be presented the award. Shown above are candidates Rudolph Ousley, Don Tussey, and Gary Slone. This is the third step in advancement in the F.F.A. The boys received their Greenhand degree in 1968, and their Chapter degree in 1969. To be awarded this degree, a boy must have made and productively invested at least $500. He must have held a chapter office or a committee chairmanship. Other factors considered are scholarship, leadership, ability, and character.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

The Floyd County Fiscal Court will accept sealed bids for repair and materials for the roofing of the Floyd County Courthouse. Bids for roof consist of 11,405 square feet, 600 gallons heavy duty coating; 500 lbs. of patching compound and 6 rolls 12 X 150 ft. fiber glass fabric.

A guarantee of eight (8) years or more must be made on work and materials. Bids must be submitted to the office of C. Ollie Robinson, County Court Clerk, by 10 o'clock a.m. Friday, May 28, 1971. The Court reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

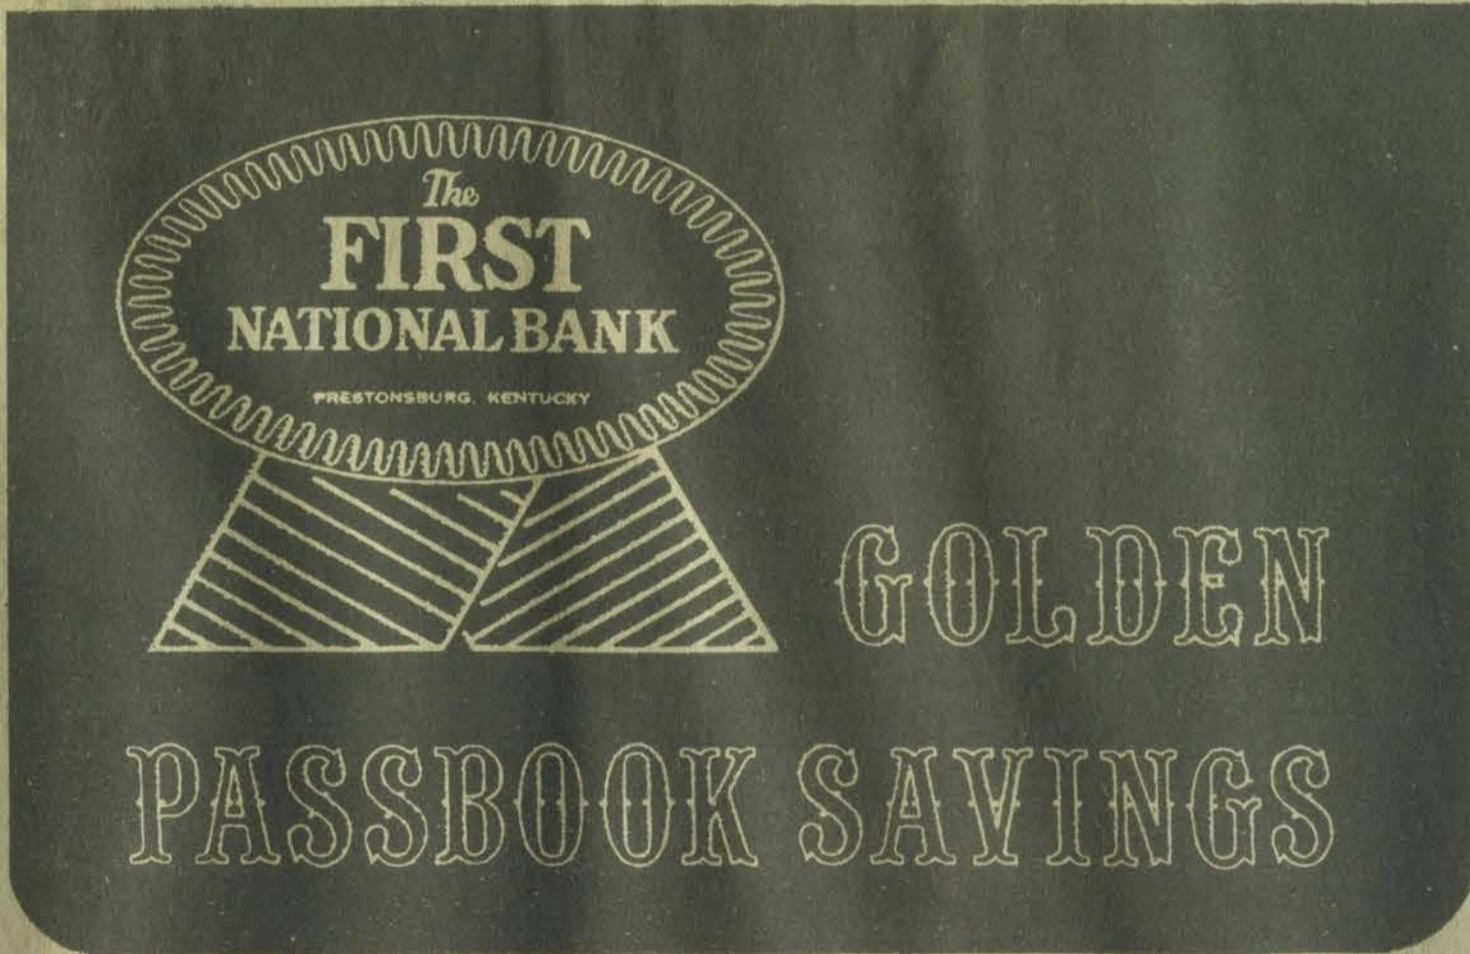

This 7th day of May, 1971.

ANNUAL YIELD 5.92 PERCENT

5<sup>1/2</sup>%
ANNUAL YIELD 5.65 PERCENT

5%
ANNUAL YIELD 5.13 PERCENT

Wouldn't you know that the House of Savings would be first to offer two more plans to make savings create more interest than ever? Now, in addition to our 5 percent, 90-day Golden Passbook Plan, we invite you to try our 5 1/2 percent, 1-year Golden Passbook Plan and our 5 3/4 percent, 2-year Golden Passbook Plan. We think you'll find them all very "interesting."

And our famous 5 percent Golden Passbook Plan makes your funds available four times a year—during the first ten days of January, April, July, and October—or anytime 90 days after a written notice is received by the bank. 5 percent Golden Passbook has an effective yield on 5.13 percent per annum.

How Interest Figured And Payment Dates

Interest compounded quarterly. Interest payment dates: April 1, July 1, Oct. 1 and Jan. 1. Deposits made during first 10 days of month bear interest from first day of that month.

Here's the interesting difference

With our new 5 3/4 percent, 2-year Golden Passbook Plan, your funds remain on deposit for a minimum of two years, with an effective yield of 5.92 percent per annum.

Our new 5 1/2 percent, 1-year Golden Passbook Plan has an effective yield of 5.65 percent per annum, and your funds must remain on deposit only one year.

Historical Museum Attracts Many

By LOIS CAMPBELL

FRANKFORT, KY.—Do you know where in Kentucky you can find a Civil War machine gun, a calico window seat belonging to Martha Washington, campaign buttons from the governor's election of 1899 and the dueling pistol with which Aaron Burr killed Alexander Hamilton in 1804?

If your answer is the Kentucky Historical Society Museum, then you must be among the hundreds of thousands of visitors who have stopped at the Old State House in Frankfort to browse among the historic memorabilia.

More than 50,000 persons have visited the museum already this year. With school children's visits being at a peak during the spring season, Mrs. Eugenia Blackburn, the museum's curator, reports that at one time last week, 1500 youngsters toured the building simultaneously.

One of the more beautiful and unusual exhibits which visitors see is a set of sterling silver, given to the battleship Kentucky in 1898 by the citizens of Kentucky and returned to the state upon the ship's retirement from service.

Each piece of the set bears the Navy seal and the seal of the commonwealth of Kentucky, while some pieces have such Kentucky symbols as goldenrod, corn, wheat and tobacco. The bust of Daniel Boone and an Indian, thought to be his friend Chief Blackfish, are found on the punch bowl and epergne.

The silver, made in Philadelphia, cost the people of Kentucky $30,000. Today it has been appraised at as much as $300,000.

Another exhibit which appeals to schoolboy and adult alike is the lining of the coat George Washington wore at Valley Forge.

Almost 200 years after the fur coat sheltered the general from the harsh winter of 1777-78, the lining is still intact, and is on display on the second floor of the Old State House.

The coat was kept between two featherbeds by Washington's family for many years, but eventually the moths took their toll. The lining was ripped out and the fur part burned.

A great-great-niece of General Washington presented the lining to the Historical Society in 1924.

Some other fascinating exhibits include an Indian war collection, the Giraffe Piano made especially for John Hunt Morgan; the famous hat collection, containing FDR's notorious presidential campaign hat; a Confederate Room; the Alben W. Barkley collection and a 1790 spelling book.

The museum is open Monday through Saturday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Sundays and holidays from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Death of Foreman First at Cane y Cr.

The first fatality in the development of Cane Creek coal acreage, a few miles from Wayland, was recorded Monday night when George Brown, a foreman for L & M Construction Co., Harlan, Ky., was killed at the site of a tippie under construction for the Beaver Creek Consolidated Coal Company.

The body was taken to McDowell, and from there to Harlan by the Colonial Funeral Home. Details of the tragedy were unavailable here, early Tuesday.

Cloyd D. McDowell, of Harlan, was elected president of the National Independent Coal Operators Association at their annual meeting in Abingdon, Virginia. Other officers elected were: Willard Richardson, Pine Top, Vice-president; Paul Patton, Virgie, secretary; T. G. Osborne, Grundy, Treasurer.

Mr. McDowell is a native Kentuckian and for 21 years has been affiliated with and presently is president of the Harlan County Coal Operators Association. He was educated in the schools of Kentucky and received his AB degree from Morehead State University. He is a director of Kentucky Mine Institute, co-author of the second edition of Coal Mine Reference Book, 1948, member of the Board of Regents, Morehead State University, and also a member of the Secretary's Advisory Committee on Coal Mine Safety Research. He is an elder of the First Presbyterian Church, Harlan.

Four of the officers of the Floyd County Mental Health-Mental Retardation Association installed May 10 are shown, from left: Mrs. H. E. Midkiff, Prestonsburg, recording secretary; Mrs. Stanley A. Combs, Prestonsburg, president; Mrs. Ben Martin, Drift, vice-president; Mrs. W. E. Valentine, Prestonsburg, member of the board of directors. Other officers are Blaine Smith, Prestonsburg, treasurer, and Mrs. Clara Mays, Allen, secretary. In addition to Mrs. Valentine the board of directors is composed of Mrs. Nick Cooley, Drift; Mrs. George P. Archer, Prestonsburg; Mrs. Glenn Ward, McDowell; Miss Lexie Allen, Eastern; and Dr. Frances Sherman, Martin.

MRS. GOBLE HONORED

Mrs. Donnie Goble, nee Yvonne Ealey, was complimented with a miscellaneous shower last Friday evening at the Nazarene Church. The color scheme of pink and white was carried out in decorations and refreshments. The refreshment table had an overlay of lace over pink, centered with a centerpiece of pink and white carnations with greenery in a low crystal bowl, crystal candle sticks holding pink candles flanked it. Cranberry punch in a large crystal bowl was served with decorated cakes, mints and nuts. Gifts of china, silver, linens and miscellaneous items were received. Hostesses were Mrs. Mabry Holbrook, Mrs. Kenneth Conley, Mrs. Pete Branham, Mrs. Lee Sammons, Miss Joyce Sammons, Mrs. Bill Woods, Jr., Mrs. Melvin Click, Jr., Miss Bonnie Coleman, Mrs. Edd Campbell, Mrs. Hal Rice, Mrs. Rex Burns, Mrs. Eddie Sammons, Mrs. Leonard Goble, Mrs. Henry Burkett.

"Butch" Bradley returned home Saturday from Chicago, Ill., where he visited his mother, Mrs. Tom Hawk, and Mr. Hawk.

Mrs. Anna Laura Bolous, of Lexington, visited her cousin, Mrs. Willie Mellon, here Sunday and Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Rice, of Paintsville, called on relatives here Sunday.

Kermit Baldrige, Jr. was in Lexington last week on business.

Tom Leake is improved this week at the Prestonsburg General hospital. He has been ill of pneumonia.

Mrs. E. B. May is at home now, doing nicely after recent major surgery at the Prestonsburg General hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Spencer, of Garrett, were business visitors in Huntington, W. Va., Monday.

Miss Lena T. Porter, Pikeville librarian, was here on business last Saturday.

Will Tour Oft-Threatened Gorge

By JIM WARREN

Conservationists, coal industry leaders and governmental officials attending Gov. Louie B. Nunn's Environmental Conference will get a first-hand look at one spectacular and threatened portion of the environment they are trying to conserve.

The conference will be held at Natural Bridge State Park, near Slade, May 27 and 28. There leaders of groups and agencies concerned with the environment will discuss current environmental programs and determine directions which future efforts should take.

After the first day's session conferees will be led on a hike through nearby Red River Gorge, perhaps Kentucky's most controversial natural wonder.

In recent years the gorge has been threatened by flood control projects, timber cutting and, most recently, by mining interests.

Once almost unknown, the gorge burst into the limelight 10 years ago when the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers proposed a dam there for flood control.

A vigorous campaign by conservationists, naturalists and public officials prompted the dam to be moved downstream, preserving at least a portion of the gorge in its natural state.

The gorge area is a natural wonderland of rock formations, towering cliffs and plant and animal life unmatched in the eastern United States. It has been called a miniature Grand Canyon.

Hundreds of species of birds make the gorge their permanent home or stop there on migratory flights and large numbers of game animals flourish in the area. Flowers, shrubs and other plant life also abound.

The effects of wind, water and time have produced several stone arches, balanced rocks and rugged cliffs that, in their variety, are unmatched except in the Grand Canyon area.

Now two mining companies have an-

Robert Wallace, librarian at Prestonsburg Community College, is improved at the Prestonsburg General Hospital after recent surgery.

Mrs. J. R. Herron returned to Pikeville Wednesday after a visit here with her sister, Mrs. Margaret Alley. Mrs. Alley accompanied her home, spending Thursday and Friday at her home in Pikeville.

MR. RUCKER DIES

Mrs. Boone Hall and Mrs. George Gallup, of Ft. Myers, Fla., were called home recently by the serious illness of their brother, Harold D. Rucker, of Detroit, Michigan. Mr. Rucker died May 3, and Mrs. Hall and another sister, Mrs. John H. Klaiber, of Rush, attended his funeral in Detroit, May 5. He was buried in Parkview Memorial cemetery, Detroit. Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Gallup are now at the home of the former at Allen.

Dr. Schecter's Views On Health Program

In eight months of reading about the Floyd County Comprehensive Health Services program in your paper, I believe certain matters regarding the nature of the program, and my role in its operation in particular, are still in need of clarification.

1. The Floyd County Comprehensive Health Services Program was funded by the Federal government for five years. If successful, it could become a permanent part of Floyd County under the department of Health, Education, and Welfare. Otherwise, it was scheduled to go out of existence. The program was funded as a research and development program. The conditions of its funding required it (a) to develop new and innovative methods for health care delivery; (b) to provide complete or comprehensive medical and dental care at comprehensive health facilities; and (c) to give patients using the services of the program a meaningful voice in determining the program's needs.

My proposals for changing the program were, I believe, relatively moderate, given the short time the program had to fulfill the conditions of its funding. (a) I suggested keeping a referral system for those who preferred such a system and doubling the requested money to do this; (b) I proposed two small comprehensive health facilities at the Bosco and Mud Creek outposts which would be staffed and equipped in order to provide patient treatment by program physicians in the outpost itself; (c) I proposed screening clinics at Martin and Drift to give each patient in the program at least one complete history and physical examination per year; (d) I proposed hiring at least nine physicians which I felt was the minimum number required to staff the treatment and screening clinics proposed (some of these physicians I hoped would be specialists who could work part time in private practice and thereby help everyone in Floyd County); (e) I suggested several innovative ideas such as a helicopter ambulance service, physician assistants, and nurse practitioners in order to help the program fulfill its role in the development of new methods of health care delivery as well as provide traditional forms of medical care. The only part of my proposal which was accepted was the increased money for private medical care.

2. In last week's Times (May 13) Judge Stumbo was quoted as accusing me of starting the problems in the program. These problems existed long before I came to Floyd County. A 1968 OEO medical audit of the program describes the quality of medical care as "extremely poor" in general, and states that the program was billed for some visits to physicians which may never have taken place. In 1969 Governor Louie Nunn accused the program of spending one million dollars a year to administer $365,000.00 in medical and dental care for patients. Dr. Russell L. Hall, then project director of the program, was called before the Education and Labor Committee of the House of Representatives. He was unable to defend some of the program's practices at that time, and Congressman Perkins had to answer many of the questions asked in order to justify the program. In 1970 another OEO report pointed out that the poor had no meaningful input into policy decisions. It was also pointed out that local political connections seemed necessary to obtain employment with the program.

When I came into the program in October, 1970, the finances were in utter chaos. There was a $250,000 cost overrun in the last year's budget, according to the current audit report. Some bills from Methodist Hospital in Pikeville were over a year old. Others were stored in boxes. The job descriptions of many employees were unclear. The finance officer was leaving, there was no qualified administrator, and there was not even one physician, other than myself, to oversee the health care of 18,000 patients and coordinate the activities of the nursing staff. During my brief tenure as director, a qualified administrator, physician, and finance officer were hired; the finances of the program began to achieve some semblance of order, and the program at least provided referral medical services.

While I was project director of the Floyd County Comprehensive Health Services Program, the organization did experience a great deal of difficulty in gaining the cooperation of the grantee funding agency, the Big Sandy Community Action Program, Inc. The executive director of that program, Mr. Harry Eastburn, consistently rejected an interim Comprehensive Health Services Program funding request and refused to give the reasons therefor. Because of the difficulties encountered with the Big Sandy CAP, the Board of Directors of the Floyd County Comprehensive Health Services Program voted in November to disaffiliate from that agency. After I was fired, however, the Board turned the program over to Mr. Eastburn's assistant, Mr. John Burton, and gave the Big Sandy CAP almost complete control over the policy and personnel of the Floyd County Program.

I was relieved of my duties with the Floyd County Comprehensive Health Services on January 28, 1971. Since that time medical care has been at a virtual standstill, although salaries continue to be paid. The entire professional staff has threatened to resign. The very able administrator of the program, Mr. Paul Stark, and the one program physician, Dr. Robert Titzler, have been relieved of their duties. Two finance officers have resigned. Bills incurred before I became involved with the program remain unpaid. Most significantly, OEO is in the process of suspending program funds based on the unwillingness of the Board of Directors of the program to make any effort themselves to move the program in the direction of a Comprehensive Health Services program or to turn the program over to a Blue Ribbon panel of disinterested outsiders who would presumably be able to accomplish this task. Because of this our program is the only one in the nation to be suspended, although not yet defunded.

3. In last week's Times a quote was also published which questioned my qualifications for serving as project director of the Floyd County Comprehensive Health Services Program. My background includes an instructorship in Medicine at the Harvard Medical School, where I worked on kidney research, service in the United States Army, where I was promoted to the rank of major and was second in command of the Aviation Medical Dispensary at Fort Knox, and experience for 13 months as a solo general practitioner in rural Kentucky, at West Point. In addition, I am certified as a Health officer III, one rank from the top rating in the State of Kentucky. I am sure that there are others in the country who would have been better equipped to direct the Floyd County Comprehensive Health Program than I; however, I do not believe my credentials merit the disparaging remarks quoted in your paper.

ARNOLD SCHECTER, M. D.

Mrs. Lafferty said that Mr. Dingus appeared at the April PTA meeting with a check for membership dues of several persons and that he sought an election of officers at that time. When informed that the election could not then be held, she said, he tore up the check and left the meeting.

The election of officers was scheduled for Monday, night, this week. Mrs. Lafferty said that if the school is not available for the meeting, election of officers would be held outside on the school grounds.

This amount bought the necessary pipe. The same hook-on fee will be charged for gas. After the interest of residents was thus shown, the water and gas system here did the extension work at its own expense.

The water and gas service in Emma reaches an area which has much space for homes and an industrial site, but Economic Development Administration funds were not available for the work because no industry was located there. Only two or three homes there have heretofore had natural gas. Water has come from private wells or coal banks.

Although the town will be a part of the municipal gas and water system, it will remain isolated because of the weak suspension bridge which connects it with US 23. Loaded trucks do not venture onto the span, and stock for the village grocery store is carted across the bridge by wheelbarrow or other light vehicle.

HEADACHE NO. 199

The Floyd County Times with its May 20 edition hit the 7000 mark on its press run, and within 24 hours we hadn't a copy to sell. This isn't bragging, it's a preface to a bit of wailing. A sizeable portion of this 7000 circulation—ahem, one of the largest of any weekly newspaper in Kentucky—goes to readers by mail, and only last week when we peaked, so to speak, the Postal Service (or whatever they call it, these days, that's printable) hiked the mailing rates on us better than 30 per cent.

I don't know that anybody is interested, but what this is going to do to this and other newspapers is anybody's guess. One small daily already has decided not to accept any subscriptions outside its trade area. We don't want to do that—don't intend to—but what these and other costs are going to do to prices hasn't shown up yet in our crystal ball.

McCauley in 3-Day Institute at U.K.

Joe McCauley, of Prestonsburg, last week completed the three-day course at the Kentucky Industrial Development Institute, in Lexington. The Institute, held at the University of Kentucky, has provided the 153 graduates with valuable data for making their communities attractive to industrial development.

The presentation of the certificates to the graduates by Dr. Charles Haywood, Dean, College of Business and Economics, University of Kentucky, concluded 16 hours of intensive instruction, provided by the University of Kentucky, Department of Commerce, and professional industrial developers, uniquely qualified in various fields of industrial development.

GARRETT—Mr. and Mrs. James Sexton and daughter spent the week-end in Ashland.

MAYTOWN NEWS

Parker's Election To Insurance Post Announced by Abell

William H. Abell, chairman of the board, of Commonwealth Life Insurance Co., announced this week the election of John T. Parker, former agency manager of the Big Sandy Agency, as executive vice-president of Commonwealth Life. Mr. Parker will be in charge of all marketing operations of the company, including the combination agencies, general agencies, college department, group department and field services.

Mr. Parker joined Commonwealth in 1936. In his 34 years with the company he has served as an agent and in management positions in Commonwealth agencies in Tennessee and Kentucky. Since 1952 he has been agency manager of Commonwealth's Big Sandy Agency, headquartered in Pikeville. The agency has staff offices in Hazard, Jackson, Paintsville and Prestonsburg.

Under his leadership, the Big Sandy agency won the coveted Chairman's Trophy as the company's leading agency more times than any other Commonwealth agency. Its string of consecutive wins is also longer than any other agency, with 13 trophies in a row.

A native of Pikeville, he is a graduate of the Life Underwriter Training Council course and the Life Insurance Agency Management Association's school in agency management. He has served in Pikeville as president of the Chamber of Commerce, the Big Sandy Association of Life Underwriters and the Rotary Club.

Boulevard of broken dreams.

It's sad.
When you think of all the shiny, late model cars that find their way to lots like these.

What's worse are some of the price tags you find in the windows.

But when somebody's in the business of buying and selling used cars, he goes by the book.

The NADA Official Used Car Guide.

And the Guide will tell you that most cars lose just about half of their original value during the first three years.

But then, most cars aren't Volkswagens.

According to the Guide, the same Volkswagen Beetle that sold for about $500 less than the average economy car three years ago, now sells for about $200 more.

That's because we spent 23 years making a Volkswagen work better, instead of just making it look different.

So before you invest your hard-earned cash in a new car, think about the resale value of a VW.

And while you're at it, think about the money you don't have to spend to own and operate one.

Pleasant dreams.

Relief for Mine Operators Seen in Revised Regulation

Coal mine operators in Eastern Kentucky were told at Pikeville recently that relief from one of the toughest restrictions imposed by the Mine Safety Act of 1969 is on the way.

If a new regulation now under study by the office of the solicitor of the Bureau of Mines is passed, millions of dollars worth of idle equipments now classified as non-permissible will be restored to active use in underground mines.

The announcement was made at a general meeting of Coal Operators and Associates, Inc., by its president, Robert Holcomb, with the permission of Donald Slick, director of the division of safety and inspection of the bureau in Washington.

The change will apply to the section of the federal law (303, h and i) which deals with electrical equipment and the use of methane monitors. If revised as coal operators hope, it will provide that these monitors be required on only one piece of equipment at the working face in non-gassy mines above the water level. The law now requires such monitors on all equipment, regardless of whether the mines are classified as gassy. It also demands that all underground equipment be spark-proof.

Mines in Eastern Kentucky, neighboring southern West Virginia and Virginia are mostly of the non-gassy type and the proposed modification will benefit hundreds of small mine operators. The life of a typical small mine is two to three years. The proposed regulation will enable the operator to move his equipment from worked-out mines to new mines, which the law says he can't do now.

Jerry West To Head Basketball Camp

Jerry West, outstanding backcourt star for the Los Angeles Lakers, will head the guest coaching staff at Ed Macauley's basketball camp, at Campbellsville, College. The camp will be held from August 1 through August 7.

Now in its nineteenth year of operation, the week-long camp features instruction in the fundamentals of basketball, including shooting, how to play one-on-one, individual defense, rebounding, ball-handling techniques and other facets of the game. The methods of instruction will include group and individual instruction, movies, lectures, group discussion, games, contests, and a variety of motivational activities.

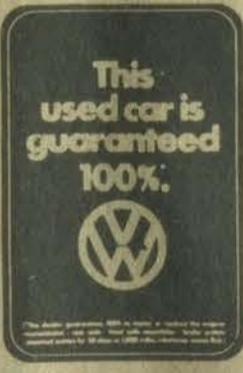

West, former All-American from West Virginia, has been an All-Pro with the Lakers since he came into the NBA in 1960. He is considered to be the finest offensive player in the league and will instruct the campers in the areas of shooting and how to play one-on-one.

Boys who have completed the seventh grade through seniors in high school are eligible to enroll in the camp at Campbellsville College. In addition to the basketball courts, the campers can use the other facilities which include the air-conditioned dormitories, swimming pool, tennis courts and snack bar.

For further information and an application, interested boys can write to Ed Macauley's Basketball Camp, 9929 Manchester, St. Louis, Missouri, 63122.

Floyd Rescue Squad 1971 Radio Auction To Start Thursday

The Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad's annual radio auction over WPRT, Prestonsburg, to raise funds needed to continue the squad's work began today (Thursday) and will continue through Saturday.

Funds raised through this year's auction will go mainly to the purchase of outboard motors, a necessity for dragging and other water rescue operations.

Officials of the squad said that any individual or firm that would like to contribute, a card should be addressed to the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad, P. O. Box 681, Prestonsburg.

Gov. Louie B. Nunn said the solution to the rail industry's current problems does not lie in a federal takeover of the nation's railroads, and called for innovations and concern "before it is too late" for the companies to help themselves. The remarks came in an address before the 55th annual Spring Conference of the Southeastern Assn. of Railroad and Utilities Commissions in Louisville.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Moore, of Salyersville, called on Mrs. Sallye L. Clark, Saturday.

Former Czech Woman at Home On Rowan County Hill Farm

By Helen Price Stacy

WEST LIBERTY, Ky.—Charlotte Marie held onto a stuffed monkey and smiled at me from liquid brown eyes beneath a tousled mass of dark hair. Above her a tall tree was heavy with bloom, the color of country lilacs, making a lavender cloud against brilliant green hills.

When I came closer with my camera, the child hung her toy by its tail from a limb, thought better of it and, clutching the stuffed animal under one arm, climbed into a tire swing beneath the tree, leaned back in the swing and said "cheese."

It was my introduction to a four-year-old olive-skinned beauty whose life revolves around her parents, two sisters and the Rowan county hills. Her mother's life has had a much different background.

With my mother, Mrs. Earl Price of West Liberty, I had stopped at the house on Route 3, Morehead, so Mother could inquire about the tree. It had intrigued her every time we traveled this particular highway.

In spring the tree is something to behold. One would have to imagine a lilac bush magnified 100 times to get a picture of giant clusters of flowers, each flower shaped like a trumpet creeper. In summer the flowers change to clusters of green balls, with each cluster resembling a gigantic pod of grapes.

Charlotte Marie's mother was an attractive brown-eyed, brown-haired woman with a European accent. A 17-year-old, Karen Sue, was a beauty with the same Latin characteristics; however, Margaret Denise, 10, had the Anglo-saxon look of her father, Arthur Woodrow.

While I talked with Rosina Maria Susanna Boehm Woodrow, 42, who is the daughter of John Boehm and Rosalia Papry Boehm, of Esslingen, Germany, the children listened attentively. "Mother's telling about Czechoslovakia," said Margaret.

Mrs. Woodrow came to America in March, 1952 and married Arthur in April. She and the Kentuckian met while he was with the ordinance department in Esslingen and she was in military police training. They had a three-year courtship, since they could not marry there, and later his mother, Mrs. Sarah Skaggs Woodrow, of Rowan county, "signed" for her to come to the United States as an immigrant. His father is Tom E. Woodrow, native of Greenup county.

For Mrs. Woodrow the miles and times between Iglau, Czechoslovakia and Esslingen had many heartaches and disappointments. Her parents left Iglau in the fall of 1945, evacuated to Austria, then to Germany during the Russian occupation after World War II.

"It is typical of Czechs not to accept ruling by anyone or always being overseen," said Mrs. Woodrow.

When the war came the school she attended was turned into a front line hospital. When Russians came the Germans packed everything and went to Austria, taking "Sue" along. In Austria she was taken prisoner by American troops who, after learning she was not a German Citizen, placed her in a work camp. There she helped take care of Jews who were political prisoners.

Sue remembers well the survivors of concentration camps at Dachau and Buchenwald. Her father, too, had been taken prisoner by Russians who confined him in Siberia.

"They didn't beat him but they almost starved him to death," she recalls. "When I found him he had lost about 100 pounds and had rags on his feet for shoes. When he became too ill to work they released him to East Germany. He had been kept underground—everything is underground in prison camps."

Her mother had evaded capture by running from neighbor to neighbor. She later was put in displaced persons camp in Austria and still later moved to a camp in Esslingen.

Sue, an only child, used moments away from work as a telephone operator to search prisoner camp lists for her father's name. After she found him, the two then went from meeting to meeting, checking names on lists that were posted, and found her mother.

After coming to America, Sue worked for a time in a Michigan hospital. "Michigan is too crowded," she decided, so with her husband Arthur, a house contractor and builder, she came to Eastern Kentucky.

"I want to build and make my home on our 80-acre farm on Williams Creek," she pointed down a long hollow back of the house on Route 3. "This year we're having three or four acres of cane, one acre of cucumbers and I've set out 13 fruit trees. We have 165 chickens, one pig, four horses, one mule and Cindy, a redbone hound."

"Don't forget Cricket, Mom," said one of the daughters, referring to a chihuahua with five pups.

Mrs. Woodrow is puzzled by America's system of loyalty. "I cannot understand how a football player can play equally well for one team as the other when he is traded."

Politics? "I've lived in a democratic system and also a dictatorship. Then we came to America where politicians run smear campaigns against one another, telling how bad the other is. Then later they support the bad one."

She laughed and added that she is happy to be right where she is, on a long, high ridge in the Kentucky hills.

"Eastern Kentucky is beautiful. It's so like Czechoslovakia. Iglau is on a mountain range that divides Bohemia from Moravia. This reminds me of that and I've loved it since the first time I saw it."

Maytown School Has Top Pupil In County, Second Straight Year

TALLEN—STAR PUPIL

Patrick Lee Tallent has been designated Floyd County's Star Pupil for 1971 by the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce Scholastic Recognition Program and the Courier-Journal and Louisville Times.

He was chosen for this honor because he achieved the highest score on the College Board Scholastic Aptitude Test made by any Floyd county student taking the test this year. He will be presented an engraved certificate at his class graduation May 28.

Tallent is the valedictorian of his graduating class, and is one of the area's outstanding athletes. He is the 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jones Tallent, of Langley, and has attended Maytown school all of his 12 school years. He will enter George Washington University, Washington, D. C. in September to major in business administration.

A Star Pupil is allowed to choose his favorite teacher who is designated a Kentucky Star Teacher. Pat chose Miss Eloise Allen, commerce teacher at Maytown high school. Miss Allen is a graduate of Morehead State University, and a member of Delta Kappa Gamma Society, an educational honorary and professional society. She has been a member of the teaching profession 18 years. Miss Allen will be honored at graduation exercises.

This is the second consecutive year that a

YOU AND THE DRAFT

Colonel Taylor L. Davidson

FRANKFORT, KY.—Many young men who come to our office seeking a solution to their "draft" problem are either apprehensive, angry or afraid. Through counseling we try to alleviate the apprehension, anger and fearfulness.

Irvin (Irv) was one of our most recent callers with a problem. His situation literally ran the gamut of the main Selective Service classifications.

We would like to relate his problem as it is one of the most unusual that we have been exposed to since being associated with the administration of the "draft" in Kentucky.

With parental consent Irv enlisted in a reserve component at the age of 17½. He dropped out of high school before graduation and had been unable to get a job that paid a decent wage. Immediately upon enlistment, he requested his six months of active duty training.

While on active training duty, Irv attained the age of 18 and should have gone to a local board to be registered. It is reasonable to assume that he thought enlisting in the reserve relieved him of the liability of registering for the "draft."

Prior to completion of the active training duty Irv was married and upon completion of the prescribed duty he returned to his hometown and for a few months attended the prescribed drills. Irv subsequently moved to another town to accept employment as a machinist. Because of change in residence his participation in prescribed drills became unsatisfactory and he was discharged. During this period of time he became a father.

Irv still failed to comply with the Selective Service law with respect to registration, which was not brought out in conversation with us. Finally he did report to a local board and was registered in March 1971.

He was born on Feb. 25, 1950, and his random sequence number (RSN) from the lottery of Dec. 1, 1969, was 179.

Since Irv had not fulfilled his military contract he was not eligible for either a IV-A classification (veteran) or a I-D classification (Reserve). Likewise, the President's Executive Order of April 23, 1970, precludes him from being considered for either an occupational or dependency deferment. The local board had no other alternative than to consider him for Class I-A.

Had Irv registered on time and with a RSN of 179 from the 1969 drawing his year of prime vulnerability would have ended on Dec. 31, 1970, because RSN 179 had not been reached by his local board. As the registration was accomplished in 1971, Irv is in the prime selection group and he will have to wait until the end of the year to know whether his RSN will be reached.

This is the information we gave Irv and we sincerely hope that through eyeball to eyeball dialogue we have alleviated his apprehension and assured him he is being treated with fairness and equity.

Q. I need your advice. At the end of my junior year this spring, I will have 90 hours, which is senior standing at Murray State University. However, 90 hours is not ¾ of the 128 which is required to graduate. Will I be considered out of normal progression and lose my II-S classification? I could go to summer school and get the necessary hours to make ¾, but I need to work this summer. Any advice will be appreciated.

A. The current Selective Service law and implementing regulations require a student to progress from one school year of study to another within 12 calendar months. This permits the student to continue his training through summer term if it is needed to advance to the next year of study.

In a course of study, which is four years in duration, the student should complete approximately 25 percent of the required credit hours each school year. State supported colleges and universities require the completion of 30, 60 and 90 credit hours as a minimum to achieve sophomore, junior and senior status. A student may advance to the fourth year of study with 90 credit hours and not be able to complete 128 credit hours which is normally required for graduation.

Should a registrant not graduate within the four-year period and be reclassified as available for military service, the regulations provide for the granting of a statutory deferment one time only provided he is a full time, satisfactory student at the time he is ordered for induction. In many instances this permits the registrant to complete his prescribed course of academic instruction.

REPAIR MENTAL HEALTH CLINIC

The Nelson Mainstream Project and the Floyd County Mental Health-Mental Retardation Association have pooled their efforts toward providing needed repairs to the Mental Health clinic here. Mrs. Stanley A. Combs, president of the mental health association, is shown presenting a $200 check to Richard Stai (right in photo), executive director of Mountain Mental Health Services to pay for materials used in the work. Claude Swiney, Nelson Mainstream director (at left), is shown with letter from the association expressing thanks for the workers who provided their skills in the renovation. Richard Gallaher (third from left) is Floyd area team director, Mountain Mental Health Services. The clinic is open to provide services to all persons in Floyd county with fees based on ability to pay. The Association hopes that by sponsoring an improvement in the facility more persons will take advantage of this community service.

Spears, 11 Others Studying in Paris

PIKEVILLE, KY.—Garry Thomas Spears, Harold, is among 11 Pikeville College students who are spending this month studying in Paris, France.

Spears, a 1968 graduate of Betsy Layne high school, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Spears, Jr., of Harold.

The students, all taking advanced courses in French at Pikeville, are to study French art history under the auspices of the Louvre Museum and the Sorbonne.

Their schedule includes, besides daily classes, frequent visits to the leading museums and art galleries of Paris, and week-end excursions to other points in France and Switzerland.

After leaving Paris June 2, they are to fly to London for a week of sightseeing.

The trip was financed in part by a grant of $2000 from the U. S. Office of Education, secured with the assistance of Kentucky Congressman Carl D. Perkins. Danny M. Tackett was student coordinator for the program, which was arranged in cooperation with Continental Study Projects, Inc., of New York.

The students are accompanied by Dr. Ruth Ann Mays, assistant professor of language at the college and holder of a doctor's degree from the Sorbonne.

Surfaced-mined coal helps keep this "tree" growing and healthy

The "coal tree" illustrates the vital role coal and its derivatives play in the manufacture of thousands of products.

America's industries depend upon coal. So do you. Over half the country's electricity is produced from coal. It is needed in vast quantities to make steel. And countless other products are made from coal derivatives: aspirin, dyes, paints, plastics, nylon, perfume. Things you use every day.

In eastern Kentucky, millions of tons of critically needed coal lie too near the earth's surface to be deep-mined safely. To obtain this coal we must use surface methods. And this means disturbing the land. But the disturbance is only temporary. Today, under the law, every acre of surface-mined land in eastern Kentucky must be reclaimed . . . promptly . . . properly . . . responsibly.

The nation needs coal. And Kentuckians have a right to a productive, well-tended countryside. As responsible surface-mine operators, we have committed ourselves to doing the best possible job in providing both.

*For a free copy of the "coal tree," printed in color on 14-in. by 18-in. poster board, write to Surface Mining and Reclamation Association, 220½ Second Street, Pikeville, Kentucky 41501.

Miss Floyd County Prepares For Miss Kentucky Pageant

Linda Mullins, Miss Floyd County, 1971, received her first introduction to the Miss Kentucky Pageant and fellow contestants recently at the pageant's Orientation Weekend held in Louisville.

The Miss Kentucky Pageant, a preliminary to the Miss America competition, will be held June 17, 18 and 19 at the Brown Theater in Louisville. Thirty-seven girls from across Kentucky will vie for the title and the opportunity to represent the commonwealth in the Miss America Pageant at Atlantic City.

The orientation program is designed to prepare the Miss Kentucky contestants for the workings of pageant week. The contestants discussed clothing, make-up and swimsuit requirements with pageant directors and received helpful hints on stage walk and turns. They were also given private talent rehearsals.

Linda, a native of Melvin, and a 19-year-old sophomore at Morehead State University, is looking forward to representing Floyd County in the pageant. "My being in the Miss Kentucky pageant seems like a dream come true," Linda said. "But if it is, I hope I don't wake up."

Miss Floyd County will play an organ salute to Kentucky for her talent competition in the pageant. She also enjoys twirling and working with small children.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Mullins, Box 117, Melvin, Ky.

Nature Trails By Rufus M. Reed

Man's eternal war with the bugs goes on and on at an ever increasing tempo, with more and more of the deadliest poisons known now being used to eradicate them. But man is losing the fight! Man needs to know more about the infinite capacity of bugs and beetles, roaches, ants and grasshoppers to survive in a hostile world. Insects have been on this earth for multiplied millions of years; they have survived against all the odds that were piled up against them; they already had millions of year's experience in how to live and meet any new problem of survival long before man came on the scene.

Insects quickly build up an immunity to the most deadly poisons in man's arsenal; it now takes a thousand times stronger dosage of pesticides to kill flies and other insects than it did their ancestors of only a few years ago. This is because they can develop an immunity against most any deadly poison in a season. Insects breed faster than most other living things; for instance, the pesky plant aphids can produce a new generation about every ten days; in one season's time they can build up an immunity to poisons that killed their first ancestors of the season. It is impossible to freeze insects to death; they can go into a sort of coma and come alive when spring rolls around.

Let us say that a farmer sprays a field with dieldrin or parathion and kills a billion insects. There are billions of others left in hiding places, in underground retreats, in the pith of plants, in a thousand different places which the spray does not reach. Scientists now despair of ever learning and classifying the number of different species of insects. So far, there have been about 625,000 species classified. But it is estimated that there are from three million to four million different species of insects in the world. There are so many in a single acre of open land it would take many years to count them all. The way scientists arrive at the number in one acre of a field or open lands, is to count the number of insects in one square yard of earth. The number will run from one to two thousand to each square yard. That would make the number of insects to one acre equal to about 4 million; in ten acres there would be 40 million different kinds of insects! How can man ever hope to eliminate them?

The insect populations increase every year, especially those of the pest class, this despite the fact that more deadly poisons are being used on them than ever before. This is because man has destroyed the enemies of insects. Nature worked out a delicate and very efficient means of checks and balances; for millions of years before man's advent, nature kept all kinds of life in proper balance; she created predators to devour the pests and keep them in check, but man's deadly sprays break up the balance of nature, destroy the predators and give the pests a better chance to increase.

Consider how many different kinds of predators nature has made to help control the pests; there is the praying mantis, which is one of the greediest eaters on earth and can devour its weight in insects most any day; but man sprays his fields with deadly parathion or dieldrin and destroys the mantises along with the pests. He would do much better to hunt up the egg masses of the mantises and place them around his garden in the spring, as these would hatch out and destroy the aphids and other pests. Then there are the crows; turn a flock of crows into a tobacco field and they will quickly devour every hornworm in it. But man no longer has the crows for helpers; he has poisoned them, shot them, chased them from pillar to post; then there are the small braconid wasps, which are expressly made to destroy the big hornworms and other caterpillars; these small wasps lay their eggs on the tobacco worms; the eggs soon hatch and the larvae quickly devour the hornworms. But man has poisoned these little wasps along with the pests. Then there are the spiders, which were created to be the greatest insect catchers on this earth; they can catch the most wary insect, and few can escape their snares. But man puts out deadly sprays and kills the very warriors that are trying to help him control the pests. There are also the lady beetles, which devour plant lice and otherpests, but these are killed by sprays along with the pests. There are the brown paper wasps, which capture insects, chew them up and feed them to the young wasps. But man also puts out sprays to help keep these down, as well as the hornets, which are great eaters of flies and all kinds of pests. But we do not see many hornets nowadays, and wasps do not seem as numerous. Man also destroys ants by the millions, which are also among the greatest killers of insect pests; they even will capture a large caterpillar, cut it up into smaller pieces and drag these to their colony to be eaten. There are the lizards, the little green snakes, and many other great warriors made to help man. But few appreciate their help. Some still kill the lizards and non-poisonous snakes.

Often the U. S. Agricultural Department, which seems too easily swayed by propagandists and the powerful makers of the deadly chemicals and sprays will undertake a gigantic saturation of a large area, as they did, with DDT in 1957, and soaked three million acres in the New England states palpably for the purpose of wiping out the gypsy moth. They killed most all life in this area—birds, animals, fish, bees, wasps, ants; they contaminated the milk supply and the foods but they failed to wipe out the gypsy moth! Many persons today are suffering cancer and hepatitis from the effects of such massive doses of DDT.
