

New Safety Chief Tells Work Plan

Schlick Tours Area, Assigns Inspectors To East Ky. Mines

Two days before he became acting deputy director of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, Donald P. Schlick came here to inspect area coal mining operations and announce a concentrated program designed to reduce the number of mine fatalities.

"The number of fatalities has got to come down. If they don't, there'll have to be more enforcement," Mr. Schlick said.

He indicated the current program, if effective, would obviate the necessity of stronger enforcement measures. The program, to cover the period July 1 through the end of 1971, is doing two things:

1. In each of the bureau's 35 field offices one man is being assigned to mine-roof control. During the six month program the men assigned from field offices to this phase of the program will go to the mines and train men in roof control. (Mr. Schlick said this effort already has met with some success in cutting down the number of fatalities. Forty-seven per cent of mine deaths result from roof falls.)

2. Beginning Oct. 1, 24 inspectors assigned to Eastern Kentucky will be going into different mines each day and there talking with workers and supervisory personnel, stressing safety and health.

This second phase Mr. Schlick described as not only instructive but also as a builder of esprit' corps.

A few days ago, he said, 350 new inspectors were graduated from training school. These are being put to work immediately. The coal-mine health and safety division of the Bureau of Mines has expanded its staff approximately 400 per cent for the work now under way.

His own staff in Washington, he added, numbers 25, and these are being transferred into the field—"where the action is."

"Kentucky had more mine fatalities this year than last—and that is why we're starting in Eastern Kentucky," the deputy director said.

Eleven inspectors are assigned to the Bureau of Mines office here, and these will work in this and adjacent counties. The Prestonsburg Pikeville offices will be responsible for all Eastern Kentucky mines. Ray Ross is in charge of the bureau's district office, and Bill Burgess heads the office here.

Trial of Powers In Taylor Death Slated Tuesday

The trial of Palmer Powers, accused of wilful murder in the Auxier slaying of Paul Taylor, began in circuit court Tuesday morning with efforts to empanel a jury, and the case may be the last of its kind to be heard at the current court term.

Four other murder cases remain to be heard, but indictments in these were voted only this month by the grand jury, and nearness of the upcoming civil court session may prevent their trial until December.

As of Monday morning, five convictions had been recorded during the current term of court which got into criminal trials only last week. Two of these came on the pleas of guilty entered by David Crider and Elda Dermont to the charge of possessing illegal drugs. Each was fined $200. A similar charge against James Allen, who has never been arrested, was dismissed, subject to redocketing.

Earlier, Roy Lewis was given a one-year pen term upon his plea of guilty to grand larceny. Raymond Little was fined $200 and sentenced to jail six months for assault and battery, and Randy Hall, who entered a plea of guilty to charges of shooting into the dwellings of Magistrate Denzil Ray Hall and Deputy Sheriff Dester Hamilton, was given a two-year pen term. He has filed a motion for probation.

In early days of the court term the motion for new trial filed by Olen Shepherd, who was convicted of the slaying on Middle Creek of his wife, was overruled.

The trial last week of Lon Neeley on a charge of selling intoxicants resulted in a "hung" jury. The involuntary manslaughter charge against Dennis Price was dismissed at the request of prosecuting witnesses.

A number of cases have been dismissed, but Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo said any of these may be reinstated. Most of these cases were of long standing, and served only to clutter the docket. Among the cases dismissed were these:

Deavey Hamilton, carrying a concealed deadly weapon; Fred Newsome, grand larceny; Harold Howell, obtaining money under false pretense; Gene McKinney, reckless use of a deadly weapon; Ernest Hall, destroying public property; Green Slone and Kenneth Stratton, cold checks; Russell Robinson, knowingly receiving stolen property.

Mud Creek Tot Mishap Victim

Four-year-old Richie Tackett was dead on arrival at McDowell Appalachian Regional hospital at 1:30 last Thursday afternoon, victim of accidental shotgun blast.

The child was killed and an uncle, Orville Tackett, 17, slightly injured from the charge of a 12-gauge shotgun when it went off while another uncle, Charles Ed Tackett, 13, was cleaning the weapon in the living room of their home.

The two teenage Tackett boys, both deaf mutes, apparently did not know that the child had his mouth near the open barrel of the gun, was the opinion voiced by Detective Chester D. Potter, of the Kentucky State Police, and Sheriff Frank Leslie, who investigated the tragedy.

Survivors include the parents, Andy Lee and Norma Jean Bryant Tackett, of Tackett Fork, near Teaberry; a sister, Pamela Lee, at home; the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Tackett, of Tackett Fork, and Mr. and Mrs. Sollie Bryant, of Betsy Layne.

Funeral services were conducted at the home of Sollie Bryant, Sunday afternoon, by Regular Baptist ministers. Burial was made in the Tackett cemetery on Tackett Fork under direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Opening Facility To Aid Retarded

Self-help skills, personal adjustment skills and other activities leading to some degree of independence will be taught to mentally retarded children, ages 5 through 18, at a new facility being opened in Prestonsburg, The Mountain Mental Health Services is now taking applications for enrollment at the Mental Health Clinic here.

Those wishing more information may call 886-3893 or write to Dan Greene or Janie Goodman, Mountain Mental Health Services, Prestonsburg. Those writing should give names and addresses so they may be contacted personally.

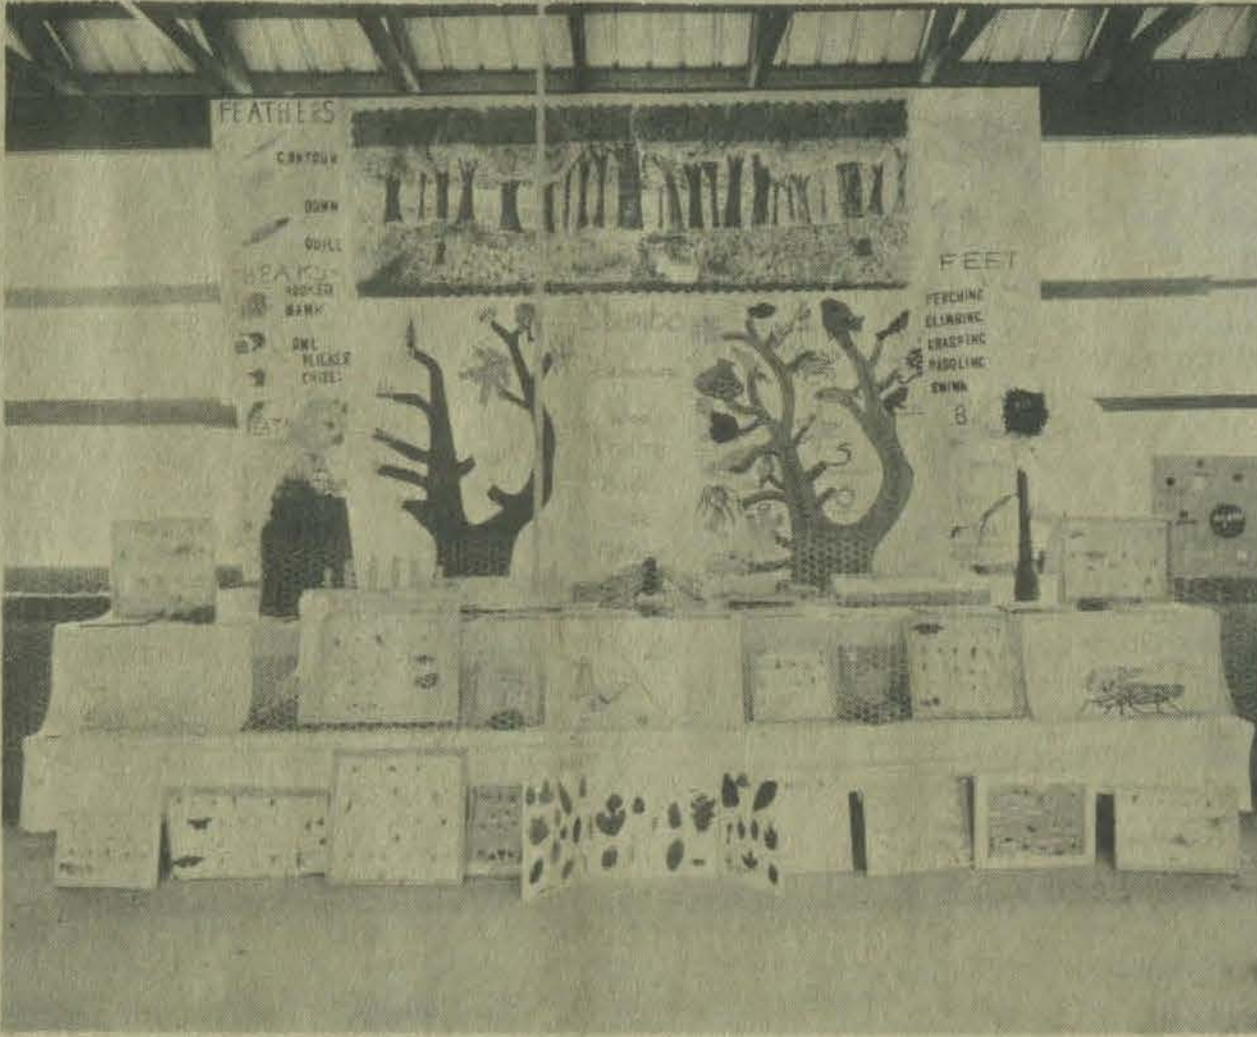

Admission standards for enrollment in the new program are: (1) ages 5-18, (2) ambulatory to the point of no undue risk to themselves or others; (3) not able to attend special education classes; (4) can hear and see enough to engage in activities; (5) can communicate enough to make their wants known; (6) are emotionally and physically mature enough to participate successfully in the activities.

The Day Care Training Center will be open, 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. daily, Monday through Friday. It is presently planned for operation 12 months during the year. Most centers operate for nine months during the year, but a 12-month operation has proven most beneficial for children participating in this type of training program. Parents who wish to withdraw their children during the summer months may do so, however.

Handiwork of Beaver on Display

This example of the work done by a colony of beavers which has returned to this county is on display at the Thomas Hereford Company store here. The well-gnawed log came from an orchard on the farm of Elmon Clark, on Johns Creek, a short distance below Dewey Dam, and is the butt end of a bearing apple tree which was felled by the visitors. The beavers had downed three of Mr. Clark's apple trees before he was aware they were on the premises. He wasn't exactly pleased with their work but didn't go gunning for them. Instead, he wrapped his trees a distance of two or three feet, above-ground. Beaver at one time was so plentiful in this county that one of the better-known streams of the region was named for the animal.

Prize-Winning Exhibit at Fair

The Clark elementary school's exhibit won first prize in its division at the Floyd County Fair, held last week at Archer Park here.

Battle 'All the Way' On Crime Promised

"We're going all the way and do whatever is necessary for us as citizens to do," the Rev. Carl Tuttle, of McDowell, said this week in a discussion of a move spearheaded by him to get better law-enforcement in the county.

Primarily, citizens' action, besides demanding and encouraging law-enforcement, would include collecting evidence and swearing out warrants.

The Rev. Tuttle, who is pastor of the Little Rosa Regular Baptist Church, appeared here last Tuesday afternoon with a citizens' delegation for a conference with county officials. They brought with them a petition signed by more than 100 persons, calling for immediate and effective enforcement. The minister told officials here of bootlegging in their community—mainly, the Bristle-Buck area, near McDowell—and of drinking and speeding to such extent that lives are endangered.

W'wright Soldier Drowns in Vietnam

Sp-5 Ira Charles Brank, 29, was drowned in Vietnam Sept. 20 in an accident which occurred while he was on duty, the Army has notified his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Brank, of Wheelwright.

Walking a gangplank between a bridge and a military watercraft, he slipped, striking his head against the craft and falling into the water. He had served in Vietnam since last March.

Survivors include his parents and six brothers, Staff Sgt. Calvin P. Brank, who was flown a few days ago from Vietnam to Ft. Benning, Ga., Staff Sgt. Harry A. Brank, Jr. and Cpl. James R. Brank, both of California, William Wesley Brank, Amityville, N. Y., Herbert E. Brank, Raleigh, N. C., and Henry E. Brank, Detroit, Michigan.

The body will arrive Thursday at the Merion Funeral Chapel, Martin, and funeral rites will be conducted from Friendship Baptist Church, Wheelwright, at 11 a.m. Friday. The body will be taken to Henderson, Ky. for burial in Fernwood cemetery.

A public meeting was held at Martin by the Rev. Tuttle, Tuesday night. Another is scheduled today (Wednesday) at 6 p.m. at the Little Rosa Church, and Tuttle said representatives of both political parties have indicated they will attend it.

"People from other parts of the county are calling, asking for meetings," Tuttle said.

He said his group has contacted Governor Nunn and that he discussed the situation (See Story No. 4, Page 10)

Owner of Store Traps Intruder; 2nd Man Sought

One man was jailed here Saturday night and a warrant was issued for a second after the store of Robert Griffith at Estill had been entered and the owner of the business had trapped one of the two men inside the building.

Held by Griffith until State Trooper Leeman Bevins and Deputy Sheriff James R. Allen arrived was John W. Mullins. A warrant later was issued for the arrest of Jimmy Hall as an alleged accomplice in the break.

Sheriff Frank Leslie said Monday that one item of a $500 haul taken last February 2 from Shepherd's Pure Oil Station here has turned up in San Rafael, California. He said he received a call Sunday from police there saying a tape playing taken from the station had been recovered and that a man listed as William Willard Woodyard is being held.

Bob Clatworthy was jailed here last Friday on a cutting and wounding charge, but it was said the complaining witness, Clatworthy's father-in-law, Edward Stumbo, later dropped the charge against him. Clatworthy was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Lee Stumbo. Others booked at the county jail within the week:

Carroll Edward Hall and Brennan Hamilton, petty larceny, by State Trooper Gary Rose; James Wheatley, Jr., drunk driving, by Deputy Sheriff James Puckett; John M. Carothers, drunk driving (held for Magoffin county), by State Trooper Stumbo; Rodney Rose, assault and battery with an auto, by Deputy Sheriffs Albert Salyers and Sollie Holbrook; Milton T. Stumbo, drunk driving, by Troopers Roe and Williamson; Larry D. Music, drunk driving and no operator's license, by State Trooper Bevins; John Arthur Porter, drunk driving, by Prestonsburg policemen, Sam Hale, Girven Waddle and Lonnie Herald.

Fair Weather Delayed, But It Helps Fair

It was a good fair Floyd county had last week, but the same sort of rainy weather that cut into the number of agricultural exhibits because less was grown prevailed during the first two days.

With clearing weather, attendance jumped sharply Friday night and Saturday. In all, there were 12600 entries, and these were broken down into 581 4-H exhibits, 6 by schools, 60 flower entries, 177 by Future Homemakers, 69 by Future Farmers, 91 adult farm crop entries, 10 adult livestock entries and 266 adult home economics exhibits.

Jack Friar, of the County Extension office, said two leaders were missed at the fair this year—J. L. Laferty, of Cliff, who is in failing health, and G. L. Martin, of Eastern, who died this year. At the same time he expressed on behalf of the Fair Board appreciation of the assistance afforded by the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad, members of which handled the crowds, traffic and sale of tickets.

Court Order Delays Health Board Voting

VEE Program Set To Start in Floyd Early Next Week

The "VEE" Program for the immunization of horses and mules against the sleeping sickness which has hit in some sections of the county is expected to be initiated in this county next Tuesday, it was said at the County Extension office here this week.

Approximately 400 horses and mules have been listed with office but it is believed the number is twice that figure.

Clinics will be set up at central points in the county and every owner of equine livestock will be expected to get his animals there for the free immunization. Owners will be notified of clinic sites by letter and news media.

Perkins Unhappy As Knott County Funds Omitted

Congressman Carl D. Perkins is unhappy with the handling of the $7 million allotted Kentucky under the federal Emergency Employment Act.

First of all, the Labor Department permitted Governor Nunn to spend almost half the money on state jobs. This provided jobs for more than 1,000 persons.

Above all, however, the Congressman is incensed by the omission of Knott county from the list of counties receiving funds to put unemployed people to work.

By the government's own estimate, Knott county unemployment is approximately 10 per cent. The recent $200 million allocation was to provide jobs in counties of less than 75,000 population where the unemployment figures stood at 6 per cent or more. Yet Knott county was left out, and Perkins has, according to one of his aides, literally "screamed bloody murder at the Labor Department."

"I think it was politics—what do you think?" Perkins commented. He added:

"It's not that I want to nominate any particular county or to pick any of the unemployed for the new jobs. But I do not want my people to be denied participation in a broad federal program without knowing the reasons why."

Yet James R. Collins, Governor Nunn's manpower assistant, insists the jobs will be distributed equitably to all communities that need them, regardless of their political leanings.

Clerk Says 27,404 Eligible to Vote In Final Election

Floyd, a county of 35,000 population, has 27,404 persons who are eligible to vote at the November election, County Clerk C. "Ollie" Robinson said this week.

At that, the registration figures this year are almost 4,000 less than for the final election, a year ago, he added.

Current registration figures show that John Ant Precinct at McDowell is the county's largest, with 1095 voters registered; Cliff precinct, Prestonsburg, second with 1042, and Betsy Layne third with 1021.

County Clerk Robinson said that absentee ballot applications are now available. Applications for absentee ballots for the November election must be notarized and postmarked on or before Oct. 13, he said.

Burying the Hatchet Is Feature of Rally

Floyd county's Democrats last Saturday evening buried any hatchets they may have been carrying for each other. They tried to bury them in their Republican opponents.

An estimated 400 of the party faithful attended the fund-raising rally-dinner at the high school cafeteria here and heard four primary opponents of Wendell H. Ford, Democratic gubernatorial nominee, pledge their support of Ford and call for the election of the entire Democratic ticket.

The speakers included Ex-Governor Bert Combs, whom Ford defeated for the nomination; Congressman Carl D. Perkins and Edward F. Pritchard, staunch Combs supporters, and Julian B. Carroll, who ran for and won the nomination for lieutenant-governor as a Combs running-mate in the primary.

To their endorsements were added brief statements of three county officials, County Judge Henry Stumbo, County Attorney Barkley J. Sturgill and County Clerk C. "Ollie" Robinson, and the presence of all other elected officials of the county—all Combs supporters in the primary campaign.

Hearing Slated Friday By Meigs To Decide Case

Two voting sessions to nominate and elect three consumer-group members of the board of the Floyd County Comprehensive Health Program were halted last Tuesday on order of Franklin Circuit Court Judge Henry Meigs after members of the Eastern Kentucky Welfare Rights Organization had filed suit, asking that a restraining order be issued.

Judge Meigs set the case for hearing at 2 p.m. tomorrow (Friday).

The nomination of consumers was scheduled for last Friday night, the voting to be held at several points in the county. The suit to halt nomination voting was filed after closing hours last Tuesday. The voting to elect three members from the list of nominees was scheduled for Wednesday of this week.

Purpose of the vote was to add three members of the consumer group to the interim board which already has two members of that group, in addition to County Judge Henry Stumbo, the Kentucky commissioner of health, the dean of the U. K. Medical School, the president of Alice Lloyd College, and a representative of the state OEO OFFICE.

The board is being reorganized in an effort to get the health program refinanced and under way again.

Plaintiffs in the suit filed to halt the voting, Eula Hall, Charles Akers and Woodrow Rogers, contended that state officials in charge of the elections did not publish notice in the newspapers of largest local circulation (The Floyd County Times) until Sept. 22, two days before the nominating vote was scheduled.

City Officials To Be Elected At Nov. Voting

Four Floyd county municipalities will elect officials at the November election, but only in Martin is an election campaign looming with two tickets competing for the vote.

The town of Allen is in the unusual predicament of having to hold a city election, since the terms of its present officials expire this year, but nobody has filed for the offices. County Clerk C. "Ollie" Robinson said a write-in vote will be necessary there.

At Martin Mayor E. P. "Pete" Grigsby, Sr. is seeking re-election on the Progressive ticket, and running for City Council with him are Denzil Halbert, Glenn C. Patrick, Clyde Hogsted, Raymond Griffith, James Jack Conley, and Sanford Ousley.

The opposition Independent party has Steve H. Stout as its candidate for mayor, with Langley Turner, G. H. Dingus, Francis Phelps, Billy G. Wells, John L. Maddox and W. D. Crisp candidates for Council on the same ticket.

Unopposed city tickets are: In Prestonsburg, the Community Development party, with Burl Wells Spurlock, Paul Phillip Hughes, E. B. Leslie, E. B. May, Jr., Tom O. McGuire, Byron Nunery, H. G. Salisbury, Jr. and Clifford E. Wright candidates for Council; Wheelwright, the People's party candidates for Council, Delbert Davis, Robert Fields, James Osborne, Roy Curry and Elmer Ferguson; Wayland, the Open Book party candidates for Council, Hobert Webb, Sr., Virgil Combs, William Greathouse, James Castle and Willard Ratliff.

Mr. Pritchard called for Democrats to "join ranks," saying that Kentucky needs a Democratic administration. He blamed unemployment and the current economic situation on the republican party and its leadership.

Carroll, the Democratic nominee for the post which Wendell Ford now holds, paid tribute to Bert Combs and promised that if he is elected lieutenant-governor he will do all he can for Eastern Kentucky.

Allie Howard, Floyd Democratic campaign chairman, presided at the meeting.

Cats in 14-All Tie at Pikeville; Wright in Romp over Johns Cr.

In yards gained the Prestonsburg high school Black Cats had a wide margin over the Pikeville Panthers in their football game at Pikeville last Friday night, but they had to come from behind in the last two minutes of play to gain a tie.

Randy Leslie scored on a 43-yard pass from Jeff Hall to knot the score at 14-all, with a minute and 27 seconds left to play. The kick for extra point failed.

Pikeville scored first on Mike Eily's run for six yards in the second quarter. Huffman hit the line for the extra two points. This lead held up for the Panthers till the third quarter when Greg Campbell dashed eight yards for a Prestonsburg score, then ran for the two-point conversion.

Pikeville again took the lead in the final quarter of play on Earl Combs 63-yard run. The Panthers again attempted a two-point conversion by hitting the line but failed. Then followed those uneasy minutes for Prestonsburg fans till Leslie snatched Hall's long pass.

The Cats go to Hyden this week for their meeting with Leslie County high school.

The Wheelwright Trojans displayed real power in trouncing the outmanned Bearcats of Johns Creek, 52-6, Friday night. The Trojans used a blanced running and passing attack in over whelming the Bearcats.

They broke into the scoring column with an eight-yardmen by all-state candidate Kenneth Armour, who also scored a two-point conversion.

The second quarter brought about a flurry of points by the Trojans. The scoring in this quarter started off with a 50-yard touchdown pass to Kenneth Armour from quarterback Clifford James. Johnny Parker added the two point conversion. Darrell Branham ran 28 yards for the next touchdown, then the Trojans' quarterback, Clifford James, scrambled 21 yards for the Trojans' fourth touchdown, with Armour bulging over for the extra points.

By halftime the Trojans pretty well had the game out of reach, however, Armour continued the scoring with a 3-yard plunge late in the quarter. Wheelwright added two more touchdowns in the fourth quarter on runs by Darrell Branham for 20 yards and Kenneth Armour 70 yards.

Wheelwright will be at Virgie Saturday night to play Elkhorn City.

Republican Women Planning Dinner

The Floyd County Republican Women met Sept. 26 at party headquarters here. Mrs. Chalmer Whitt, chairwoman, presided. Plans were discussed for a fund-raising dinner to be held at the Prestonsburg high school cafeteria, October 9, at 7:30 p.m. The speaker will be Senator Marlowe Cook.

Tickets to this dinner will be available at the Republican Headquarters or by contacting any of the following women:

Mrs. Earl York, Mrs. Georgina Anna Wells, Alma Key, Jackaline Justice, Claudia Ward, all of Martin; Margaret Blackburn, Billy Blackburn, Bonnie Scaif, Gertie Garrett, Vonda Blackburn, Debra Blackburn, all of Endicott; Mrs. John Snodgrass and Mrs. Carol Sparks, of Allen.

Mrs. Amy B. Elkins

Mrs. Amy Branham Elkins, 72, of Dwale, widow of Ulis G. Elkins, died at 5:30 p.m. Monday at the Prestonsburg General Hospital.

Last of the family of the late Andrew J. and Amanda Garrett Branham, she was a lifelong resident of the county and was a member of the Dwale Methodist Church.

Surviving her are one son, Ralph Elkins, of Allen, a daughter, Mrs. Betty Jo Humble, of Dwale, one sister, Mrs. Rhoda B. Rustin, Pikeville, and one brother, Fred Branham, of Reno, Nevada. She also leaves four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held at 2 p.m. today (Thursday) from the Dwale Methodist Church, the Revs. Claude Goble, Richard Ratcliffe and Bennie Blankenship officiating. Burial was made in Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel under direction of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Diamond Caudill

Diamond Caudill, 32-year-old Topmost miner, was dead on arrival Saturday at the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital, victim of an apparent heart attack.

Employed by the Beaver Creek Consolidated Coal Company, Mr. Caudill had worked on the day preceding his death, it was said. He was a son of Colones and Edna Mullins Caudill, of Topmost.

Besides his parents, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Annette Ward Caudill, one son, Jimmy Ray, and a daughter, Donnie Gail, all of Topmost; three brothers and five sisters, Emery and Eddie Caudill, both of Topmost, Frederick Caudill, Wayne, Mich., Mrs. Sylvia Little, of Kite, Mrs. Sarah Sue Abbott, of Lackey, Mrs. Lily Mae Short, Miss Ella Mae Caudill and Mrs. Caroline Ann Huff, all of Topmost.

Funeral services were conducted at 10 a.m. Monday from the Dry Creek Regular Baptist Church, ministers of that church officiating, and burial was made in the family cemetery at Topmost under direction of the Merion Funeral Chapel.

Whatsoever Things

I had just sat down on a bench on the sidewalk to rest a minute. I was talking with a friend about some things of mutual interest. And then he came along. I didn't know him. But my friend did. And he and my friend began a conversation.

He was old, and his face showed the wrinkles of many years of hard work. His clothes were shabby. In his hand he carried a carton of soft drink bottles. I was unsure if he intended to purchase some drinks or if he was collecting the bottles for the deposit refund.

The conversation between him and my friend had not been going very long until he began speaking of the power and love of God. "The Lawd is good to us. He will take care of us. That's what He promised."

As he spoke I thought about what the Galilean had said about the lowly and meek and poor. "The Lawd, He sho' been good to me." I know he couldn't have placed his hand on $50 if he had to. But he could speak, and be truthful in speaking, about the goodness of God.

As he continued, he said: "The Lawd, He don't put mo' on us than we can bear." He was a Negro. He knew years and years of discrimination and rejection. He knew what it was to be mocked and ridiculed and slighted because he was black. I carefully observed him now, curious as to the type of individual willing to tell a total stranger about how good the Lord had been to him. As my eyes went down his slim frame, I saw that he was very badly deformed. One leg was twisted in. It was a handicap which made it difficult to walk. And yet he never mentioned it, hardly knew that the leg wasn't as good as his other.

"The Lawd, He will do what He promised," he said. "I got my ticket. And it's a one-way ticket. Goin' straight to that glory land. Ain't gonna find me in that other place. They lock the do'r behind you down there. Naw, suh, I'se goin' straight to glory." You could tell that he was looking forward to that—to Glory. There was no hate in his heart. He didn't know much theology, but he sure had a lot of doxology. Poor, old, ignorant, physically handicapped, discriminated against. But all he wanted to talk about was how good God had been to him.

"Come unto me all you who labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." Years ago, the old Negro gentleman had discovered the truth of those words. "Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow." He knew that, too. He knew Whom he had trusted, and was sure of where he was headed.

The Shepherd of men once remarked: "The first shall be last, and the last shall be first." In Heaven, I would imagine that the old Negro gentleman will be invited to sit at the head of the table in the honor seat. Knowing his nature, he will be surprised when "the Lawd" requests that he move up to that high position.

"The Lawd" had been good to him. And he was grateful. It's a shame more of us don't feel the same gratitude.

TIGHTER SECURITY ORDERED
Governor Nunn ordered tightened security around state buildings following disclosures of unauthorized entry into the governor's office in mid-June and a break-in at the rural highway commissioner's office last week. Finance Commissioner Albert Christen said his agency, which has responsibility for building security, has taken special new measures to combat the threat.

What if that cute little out-of-town number you dialed turns out to be the wrong one?

First of all, don't panic. All you need do is hang up as diplomatically as possible, then call the operator. Explain to her what happened and she'll make sure you don't get charged for the call.

Above all, don't let it discourage you. Dialing a long distance Lovin' Phone Call is easy when you remember to first dial "1," then the area code (if different from your own), then the number.

And remember, the rates are low every night plus all weekend long. If at first...

The Naked Capitalist

Satan is laying the groundwork for the coming of the Antichrist. This book reveals some amazing facts. It answers such questions as: Why do some of the richest people in the world support Communism and Socialism? Why would they support what appears to be the pathway to their own destruction? Who is really trying to take over the world?

Mr. W. Cleon Skousen, the writer, reviews a book written by one of the men on the inside of all of this. He reviews this 1,300 page book called TRAGEDY AND HOPE. In this book the writer reveals all, and in effect states that, "Now it can be told." And the reason he claims it can be told is because now he doesn't believe it matters who knows what's going on, because they have everything in control, and they believe no one can stop them now. He says, in effect, that it is now too late for the little people to turn back the tide. In a spirit of kindness he is therefore urging them not to fight the nose that is already around their necks. He feels certain that those who do will only choke themselves to death. On the other hand, those who go along with the immense pressure which is beginning to be felt by all humanity will eventually find themselves in a man-made Millennium of peace and prosperity.

So what these men are planning is a world Socialist or Communist society which they will control. And of course Satar is using them to set this up for the Anti-christ to control.

Get this book! You need the information it contains, and you will want to share it with many.

Libraries Serve State Handicapped

FRANKFORT, KY.—During the observance of National Employ the Handicapped Week, October 3-9, the Kentucky Department of Libraries is calling attention to Kentucky's Regional Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped.

This library furnishes some 2000 Kentuckians with free tape and disc talking books, braille books and cassettes.

Miss Frances Coleman, director of the facility, says thirty thousand talking books, 1500 braille book volumes and 200 tapes are now being mailed to homes of the 2000 users at a rate of 72,000 a year.

The talking books are general in nature and include classics, best sellers, mysteries, current fiction, non-fiction and children's literature. Periodicals are also available including Harper's, Atlantic Monthly, Newsweek, Ladies Home Journal and others.

Although tapes, records, cassettes and braille can be ordered through the Frankfort Regional Library, machines to play the talking books are available from the Kentucky Industries for the Blind, 1900 Brownsboro Road, Louisville, 40206.

Any person unable to read a conventional book comfortably is eligible for a talking book machine.

Land Use Planning Topic Set for Meet

By JIM WARREN

Frankfort, Ky.—The Department of Natural Resources will hold its ninth annual Conservation Congress at the Phoenix Hotel in Lexington, Oct. 13-15.

Natural Resources Commissioner James S. Shropshire said the conference theme will be, Land Use Planning, and urged all Kentuckians interested in community development, agricultural land use, reclamation and conservation to attend.

Gov. Louie B. Nunn will address the congress on Thursday evening, Oct. 14, and other speakers will include Highway Commissioner B. E. King, Commerce Commissioner Paul Grubbs and Joe Gray, administrator of the Kentucky Program Development Office.

Others on the program include Carroll Tichenor, Sierra Club; Col. John Rhett, U. S. Army Corps of Engineers; and Glen Murray, state conservationist with the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

More than a million job training opportunities are expected to be offered to disadvantaged and unemployed persons through the Labor Department's Manpower Administration during fiscal 1972.

Louisville Resident Is First Man To Win Maytown Arts, Crafts Show

For the first time in its 20-year history, a man won the Best in Show for flower arranging at the Maytown Arts and Crafts Show held September 19 on the Maytown School campus. Danajack Hicks, of 153 Thierman Lane, Louisville, formerly of Langley, entered the prize-winning arrangement consisting of an abstract design, using branches of dogwood covered with red berries of the season, and a red-bird accenting placed-in, polished black stones in a solid-black container on a black wooden base.

Mrs. Edwin V. Stewart received the Sweepstake Award for the most blue ribbons in the flower arrangement division of the show.

Engraved plaques were presented to the winners by Mrs. Theodore Gibson at the musical program held in the school auditorium. Highlighting the program was the band composed of musicians from Wayland, Garrett, and Maytown high schools, under the direction of Mark Rice, music instructor at Wayland. Mrs. Alicia Mayo, Maytown music teacher, directed the Maytown high school chorus, accompanied by Miss Susan Compton. Mrs. Mayo presented a new piano to the school in memory of Mrs. Elsie Boughton Patrick, who was a veteran Floyd music teacher. Former pupils contributing toward the purchase of the piano will have their names engraved on a plaque to be placed on the piano.

Judges for the show were Mrs. Garnet Fairchild and Mrs. Myrtle Davis, of Prestonsburg, and Bud Reynolds, of Martin. Ribbons awarded on individual worth of each of the 188 entries in the flower arrangement ("Farewell to Summer") division of the show were:

Dayton, Ohio—U. S. Air Force Sergeant Edwin W. Wingham (left), son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther P. Wingham, of Liberty Street, Ghent, Ky., receives a certificate naming him Outstanding Airman of the Quarter at Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio. Sergeant Wingham, a data systems specialist, was selected for his exemplary conduct and duty performance. He is assigned to Headquarters, Air Force Logistics Command. The sergeant, a 1964 graduate of Carrollton (Ky.) high school, received his B. S. degree in mathematics from Eastern Kentucky University in 1968. His wife, Carolyn, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Lemaster of 413 Scott Court, Prestonsburg, Ky. Brigadier General Edmund A. Rafalko, base commander, makes the presentation.

Nunn To Speak At Youth Meet At Lodge Here

Six students from Betsy Layne high school Traffic Safety Conference at Jenny Wiley State Park, October 6, it was announced this week.

Governor Louie B. Nunn will speak at 9:35 a.m.

Gene D. Davis, principal at the school, said he had sent word to the Kentucky Traffic Safety Coordinating Committee (KTSCC) in Frankfort that Shelia Akers, Russell Ferrell, Barbara Spears, Vanessa Spears, Mike Brooks, and Mike Lewis, had been selected to attend the conference. They will be accompanied by Tom Hall, a teacher, at the school.

Arthur E. Beard, executive director for the KTSCC, said the meeting is the second annual conference for the region, the first being held last year after Governor Louis B. Nunn began a statewide program to involve Kentucky's young people more deeply in traffic safety.

Governor Nunn will deliver the keynote address at the conference, which is being sponsored by the Governor, the KTSCC, and the Department of Education. The students at the conference will formulate suggested outlines for action at the school and community level in the area of traffic safety.

2nd Annual Parade Set Here Oct. 30th; To Recognize Vets

Date of the second annual patriotic parade to be held here has been rescheduled for Saturday, Oct. 30, it was announced this week by Mrs. Marcella Bailey, director. The parade will begin at 10 a.m.

Mrs. Bailey said recognition of World War I veterans will be one object of the event, and she said those who served in that war are being asked to ride in the parade. She asked that veterans of World War I contact her by telephone at 285-3548.

All service personnel (past and present, men and women) are being asked to appear in uniform. Mrs. Bailey is seeking the active cooperation of all veterans' organizations, teachers and other school personnel, Gold Star mothers and citizens who are interested in patriotic recognition of their country and those who have served it and in the promotion of the American way of life.

Rev. Skiff Leaves P'burg Pastorate, Goes to New York

The Rev. Milton E. Skiff concluded his pastorate of the First Presbyterian Church with the Sunday morning worship service, leaving that afternoon with his family for Lisbon, New York.

At Lisbon he will pastor the Presbyterian Church and also serve as director of summer ministries of the Northern New York Presbytery. In this latter capacity he will direct summer camps, conferences and youth work of the Presbytery.

The Rev. Skiff came here as pastor July 1, 1967. In addition to his work with the church, he has been active in community work, one such effort being that of heading the drive for local funds to make possible the construction of the Highlands Regional Hospital, near Auxier.

The church here has not named his successor.

Democratic Women Set 45th Annual Convention Oct. 1

Acknowledging that notification had been made through leaflets and radio announcements, they claimed that such announcement was not heard by a sufficient number of people to meet the constitutional demands of "reasonable notice."

Asked what they expect to gain by a delay of the vote, Appalachian Research Defense Fund attorneys here said a later date will give consumers an opportunity to nominate and elect people of their choosing and also will make possible planning of transportation of poor people to the voting places. The brief notice originally given did not afford consumers time, they said, to decide whom they would nominate.

The restraining order prohibits the vote on nomination and election of consumer members until the court approves a plan for the election which provides adequate notice, a method of election, eligibility of voters and a means of their transportation to the polling places.

County Judge Henry Stumbo said of the delay that all time lost is services lost to the poor. Lynn B. Frazer, head of the state OEO office, could not be contacted for a statement.

Mental Health Group Meets September 16

The Floyd County Mental Health—Mental Retardation Association held its regular meeting at noon Sept. 16 at the Tourist Information Center.

Mrs. L. B. Fairchild reported on the picnic held at Jenny Wiley State Park last month for patients at Eastern State Hospital who are natives of Floyd county. Twenty-eight patients and some of their family members attended. It was a very successful event and was the first outing of its kind ever to be held in Kentucky.

The daycare center at the old Archer home at Graham and Central is now in operation. Lay people are invited to visit it.

The Mental Health Association asked the help of all people in the county in locating retarded children between the ages of 5 through 18. Any person who knows of a retarded child should contact Daniel Greene or Janie Goodman at the clinic on South Lake Drive.

The next meeting of the association will be held Oct. 11 at noon at the Information Center.

Saturday with Congressman Carl D. Perkins.

The McDowell group conferred with Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo at his office last Tuesday, then met in the county courtroom with Circuit Judge Hollie Conley, Sheriff Frank Leslie and Trial Commissioner Glenn Burchett.

Sheriff Leslie told the group that his department is financially handicapped and that he has only two paid deputies, other deputies depending on fees for their compensation.

Sheriff Leslie and deputies patrolled the Bristle Buck-McDowell section Saturday night. He said his department had earlier received complaints from the community and that he had unmarked cars on patrol, all of the preceding week-end, but that all was quiet at that time.

The Rev. Tuttle said that the signatures on the petition are only those of residents of his immediate vicinity and that he could add many others if needed.

Wayland Hi Slates Homecoming, Oct. 16

Wayland high school is sponsoring a homecoming Saturday, October 16, to honor its graduates, classes 1922 through 1971. During his tour of the Eastern Kentucky field Mr. Schlick spent last Wednesday in Pike county, and on the following day inspected two Floyd county mines.

Mr. Schlick became active deputy director of the Bureau of Mines upon the dismissal of Henry P. Wheeler from that post. Schlick is a 38 year-old mining engineer with actual mining experience.

Ed Blackwell, research analyst in the state Department of Economic Security, said the unemployment rate in Knott county for May, June and July ranged from 11 to 13 per cent but that a large number of those without jobs were not counted as unemployed because they were not actively looking for work.

FORD-CARROLL

Proven Tax Cutters; Republicans Reneged on Tax Promises.

Wendell Ford as Lt. Governor and president of the Senate, Julian Carroll, as Speaker of the House, led the fight in the 1970 General Assembly to remove the 5 per cent sales tax on medicine.

Our present Republican Governor promised, while campaigning, no new taxes. But, immediately upon taking office, he raised the sales tax to 5 per cent and more than doubled our automobile license tax from $5.00 to $12.50.

Against the tax-cutting proof of Democratic action and the broken promises of the Republicans, we know we can trust Wendell Ford as our next Governor and Julian Carroll as our next Lt. Governor.

UK Trustees Establish Institute For Mining and Minerals Research

A research agency for one of Kentucky's major industries was established last week by the University of Kentucky Board of Trustees at its regular monthly meeting. The Institute for Mining and Minerals Research will be concerned largely with coal research. Funding for the institute has been authorized by U. S. Senate bill providing federal support for college research on mining and minerals. The bill was passed by the Senate last July 19 and sent to the House.

Dr. James E. Funk, acting dean of the UK College of Engineering, said the board's action would initiate the appointment of a search committee to screen applicants for the Institute's directorship. Dr. Funk said the Institute would be headquartered at the College of Engineering, but could support research projects, selected by a standardized procedure, in college and universities throughout the Commonwealth.

The UK College of Engineering proposal for the Institute noted that "modern engineering practice can be brought to bear on a whole range of mining problems, including dust and gas control, ventilation, roof design, safe ingress and egress ways, power distribution, and communications. . . ."

Nearly every phase of coal mining and coal usage would be researched. Such research might include the health aspects of mining (for example, studies of ways to reduce the incidence of black lung); processes for the effective and economical removal of noxious gases and particulates from smokestacks; a coal-conversion process to produce sulphur-free char, gasoline, and heating gas, and a determination of the effects of acid producing mines on water and biological systems.

"All departments in the College of Engineering could participate in the program of activities, as well as several elements in the Medical Center, the College of Business and Economics, and possibly other disciplines in the College of Arts and Sciences, for example, the Department of Geology," the proposal stated.

Senate bill 635 (House bill 6788) provides for matching grants to each state to establish "a minerals research and training center." The bill authorizes $100,000 to each of the 50 states in the first year, $150,000 in the second, $200,000 in the third, and $250,000 annually thereafter.

Actual money for the proposal could be provided in a separate appropriation.

The proposal submitted to the UK board by the College of Engineering stated that the "financial resources necessary for the creation and operation of the proposed Institute come from essentially three major sources: voluntary and continuous support from the coal industry, federal agencies, and state and/or University funds."

Financial support of the Institute from all sources is estimated to be the equivalent of one cent per ton of coal produced in Kentucky each year.

Ean Funk said: "The hoped for support from the coal industry in the approximate amount of $500,000 thus represents one-half of one cent per ton of coal produced annually in Kentucky."

A footnote to the proposal pointed out that current support for mining research in the UK College of Mining is in excess of $200,000 a year.

YOU AND THE DRAFT

By COLONEL TAYLOR L. DAVIDSON

FRANKFORT, KY.—Among other provision, legislation now pending in Congress authorizes the President to grant deferments to students preparing for the ministry under the direction of recognized churches or religious organizations. The law would apply to those who are satisfactorily pursuing full-time courses of instruction in recognized theological or divinity schools.

In addition, a student who is satisfactorily pursuing full-time courses of instruction leading to his entrance into recognized theological schools in which he has been pre-enrolled may also receive a ministerial deferment.

The student preparing for the ministry is still required to register within five days after reaching his 18th birthday. If he receives a deferment he remains liable for training and service until he reaches age 35.

The pending legislation does not change the authority of the President to grant exemptions from military service for those registrants who are pursuing vocations as regular ministers of religion or a duly ordained minister of religion.

These registrants also are required to register at the appropriate time.

Under the present law the President is authorized to grant exemptions to the student preparing for the ministry.

The pending legislation authorizes the President to grant deferments, and not exemption, from military service for the student preparing for the ministry.

For those registrants whose files are properly documented, the local boards will consider for classification of IV-D.

Currently there are 1,111 registrants in Kentucky enjoying such classification.

The new legislation continues the historic concept of authorizing the President to grant either an exemption or deferment for those registrants who are active in the christian ministry depending upon the degree of their training and professionalism.

Governor Nunn Backs Operators Seeking Safety Law Changes

Frankfort, Ky.—Gov. Louie B. Nunn has given his backing to a group of Kentucky small coal mine operators seeking changes in the federal Coal Mine Safety Act of 1969.

Opening a recent hearing on the law at Lexington's Phoenix Hotel, the governor said the regulation has caused more harm than good in Kentucky and has become "an exercise in contradiction, confusion and futility."

The controversial law hits hardest at small miners who often cannot afford the expensive safety equipment it requires.

Governor Nunn said the law's biggest flaw is its lack of distinction between gassy and non-gaseous mines.

About 95 per cent of Kentucky's mines are non-gaseous, but since the distinction between the two types has been dropped, the same safety equipment is required for both.

Thus some mine operators are required to spend huge sums protecting workers from gas that does not exist.

"We do not ask that changes be made at the expense of lives. . . but neither shall we remain silent as unjustifiable and illogical obstacles are placed before productivity," Governor Nunn said.

Three Added to Staff Of Martin Hospital

Martin, Ky.—The administration and employees of Our Lady of the Way Hospital here recently welcomed three Sisters of Divine Providence to their staff. They are: Sister Augusta Marie Seibert, CDP, who received her A. B. from Thomas More College, Fort Mitchell, Ky., and her training in medical technology at Good Samaritan Hospital, Cincinnati; Sister Rose Theresa O'Brien, CDP, who received her R. N. training at Good Samaritan Hospital, Cincinnati, and Sister Jean Reynolds, CDP, who was trained for a practical nurse at Northern Area Vocational School, Covington.

Re-discover KENTUCKY

By HELEN PRICE STACY

WEST LIBERTY, KY.—W. Major Gardner left West Liberty Sept. 20 to begin work in Frankfort as one of four commissioners of the Kentucky Court of Appeals. Formerly circuit judge for Morgan, Elliott and Carter counties, the new commissioner takes with him to the State Capitol a background in law that dates to his great-great-grandfather Joseph Gardner, who was born in Boston, Mass., March 17, 1774.

Son of the late Walter Marion and Anna Atkinson Gardner, natives of Magoffin County, the commissioner is a graduate of Berea Academy and Berea College in 1936. He taught school at Morgan county high in West Liberty until 1938 when he entered the University of Kentucky College of Law.

He passed his bar exam in 1941 and entered law practice with his father in West Liberty, but left Kentucky for a while to work with the U. S. Department of Agriculture in Washington. While there he met Miss Melvyn Stephens of Birmingham, Ala.

Brought together by a common love for music, they were married in 1945 and soon after moved to West Liberty where they have continued their interest in music. In addition to regular visits to Lexington and other cities to enjoy live concerts, he has been a music leader in West Liberty United Methodist Church and as a result gained friendship of youngsters, preschoolers and older youth, all of whom remain on a first-name basis with the former judge.

Strangers might wonder about the "Hi, Major" called by a five-year-old pedaling past the Gardner home, but he does not talk down to anyone, not even children. Thus, they have accepted him more readily... and in Sunday school they sang so well for him they sometimes drowned out the adults.

Judge Gardner describes his law practice with his father in their West Liberty office as invaluable experience, saying he learned early that a courtroom holds much heartache and despair but that it also is a place of beginning. Rebuilding of lives can begin in a room of sober faces awaiting a decision, he says.

Unaware until recently that his great-great-grandfather had studied law at Harvard, he learned that Magoffin County relatives had researched the family tree to even earlier genealogy.

The first of the family to come to America was Thomas Gardner whose ship arrived at Cape Ann, Mass., in 1624. For 200 years the family was well known in the Boston shipping industry, even to Joseph Gardner who finally studied law at Harvard.

It is with Joseph Gardner that French royalty enters the family. With a shipload of supplies bound for the West Indies, Joseph sailed from Boston. He found a place to stay in Santo Domingo in a home where Marie Raison of Bordeaux also was a guest.

Marie was born Aug. 25, 1785, daughter of the Marquis Louis Modesta Raison, de la Geneste—meaning highborn. Her father owned a number of West Indies plantations which were taken over by her brother after her father's death. Joseph and the young mademoiselle were married in 1799 in the Dominican Republic and sailed for Boston in 1803 when fighting broke out in the islands.

They later left Boston bound for New Orleans to join relatives, but due to Marie's illness stopped in Greenup, Ky. Their daughter Emile and husband became parents of Henry Jefferson Samuels, first judge of Cabell County, W. Va.

Part of the family settled in West Virginia; Joseph and Marie are buried in an old cemetery in Barboursville.

A son George married Nancy Bloomer and their son Joseph, named for his grandfather, married Nancy Jane Williams and became Magoffin County's first senator. Among Joseph's children were George Benjamin Gardner, chairman of the Board of Appeals of the Department of the Interior in Washington; John Henry Gardner, an attorney; Dudley Williams Gardner of Magoffin County, a circuit judge, and Walter M. Gardner, a well-known lawyer whose office was in West Liberty.

The new commissioner's brother, Marion, of Hyattsville, Md., is an attorney and his other brother James William is an engineer in Frankfort. There are two sisters, Mrs. Frances Griggs, Richmond, Va., and Mrs. Ruth Wilkey of Bradenton, Fla.

Commissioner and Mrs. Gardner have a son Donald Melton (Donny), a graduate of Berry College who lives at Rome, Ga., and travels in six states for the Hold'em Company. Their daughter Virginia is a graduate of the University of Missouri and is a computer programmer for Monsanto in St. Louis where her husband Robert Gamble earned his master's degree.

The Gardners are strong on church, community, county and state, and in West Liberty the children already have begun to inquire about their absence.

They are now at home in Westmoreland Estates, Lexington, from where Commissioner Gardner will commute to his work in Frankfort.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Sylvia Sykes who passed away one year ago, September 29, 1970:

They say time heals all sorrow
And helps us to forget;
But time so far has only proved
How much we miss you yet.
What is meant to lose you
No one will ever know.
A happy home we once enjoyed
How sweet the memory still
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
Today we stroll down memory's lane
We crossed the bridge of time.
We gazed on scenes of yesterday
So precious, so sublime.
Deep in our hearts is a picture
Of our loved one gone to rest,
And we who think of her today
Are the ones who loved her best.
What would we give to see her face
Her loving hand to touch
To hear her voice and see her smile
That meant so much to us.
You did not go alone
For a part of us went with you
The day God called you home.

SADLY MISSED BY

Tidbits of Kentucky Folklore . . .

"Water and Lights"

By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D.

In all my sentimental references to old-fashioned things you will find few serious references to the good old days of coal-oil lamps and the inadequate water supply of the typical farmhouse that I knew. Just to be in tune with traditional things I have pretended to like the old oaken bucket and the coal-oil lamps, but I must admit a fondness for electricity and a water supply. Consequently, I have watched with unfeigned joy the extension of R. E. A. lines into even the remote places; and now I smile with satisfaction at the long lines of earth heaped over water lines. It will be some years before all places are reached by water lines, but just wait and see how this very excellent servant of civilization gets around. It is easier to build electric lines than to dig endless water lines. And already the presence of electricity has also insured an adequate water supply from wells to many areas that formerly had known only the doubtful blessing of a spring or a well in limestone country, where underground water may be polluted.

Within the last twenty-five years there has grown up a feeling that is commendable about some of the necessities of life, including light and heat and water. Often the R. E. A. line has made the remote house far superior to above-average houses in towns a few years ago. The power that electricity has brought has changed farm life rapidly. Electric appliances have found their way everywhere, necessary ones and even gadgets, just as towns have owned them for a longer time. I can recall how proud a remote household was, some years ago, when the county superintendent and I were invited to dinner and were shown the best and latest household equipment that the younger generation had bought for Pa and Ma, away out in the rough land where it used to be hard to drive a buggy in winter. A refrigerator, a cookstove, electric irons, an electric pump to bring up water from a capped spring what better could a city have owned then?

Of course, some traditional learning will disappear now, for it will not be needed, with electricity and water. Imagine trying to tell younger ones now about filling up the lamps; about cleaning the lamp chimneys, about hauling water from the spring or laboriously "packing" or "toting" it up to the hosse in big buckets; about having to drive the horses to water at the Creek; about wells and cisterns and springs! Why, water comes from taps, of course; and milk comes in cartons; and meat, these days, comes in chunks and hunks, from the supermarket.

A few days ago an effort was made to find an old-fashioned hog-killing, so that it could be photographed for an educational tape. Many old-timers were sought out; none could tell where any such primitive things could be found. However, they agreed to band together and put on an old-fashioned hog-killing just for the show. However, I wonder whether they are willing to draw water from a deep well or tote it up from a spring at the foot of the hill and heat all the necessary water only by the big fires of wood.

Nearly every week, when I take our clothes to a launderette, I see people from the farms who have brought their clothes in to be washed in the same mechanical devices that I, a city feller, am using. And most of them get their clothes dried by a mechanical dryer, too. And that reminds me of the passing of the clothesline, which, somewhat perversely, I still use except in very bad weather. I still like to see clean clothes flapping in the breeze, but I am very fast passing into the group of oddities; at the launderette that I frequent I think I am now the only customer who takes his hampers of wet clothes home and hangs them on lines in the back yard. Maybe I cling to this as a sort of tie with the older times, which must seem to my grandchildren like the days of the patriachs. But I welcome the water and electricity that are adding their power and convenience to nearly every house, near or far, along the Big Road or over beyond somebody's field.

FRANKFORT, KY.—Some things just seem to set off a chain reaction. We're talking about the deer population and the great increase in the number of bow and arrow participants in Kentucky's archery deer hunt.

Time was, back in the 40's, when there were scarcely enough deer to dent the census totals. Then the sportsmen backed the Department of Fish and Wildlife in stocking suitable areas with deer and with strict protection for those deer stocked.

Through this cooperative understanding, Fish and Wildlife has been able to bring back the deer populations to upwards of 60,000 and to permit the hunting of these animals in every county in Kentucky.

To harvest the surplus production of principally the white-tailed deer, seasons have been opened to bow and arrow hunters throughout the months October and December in every county. Gun hunters also have their season, a five-day period beginning this year Nov. 13 and extending through Nov. 17.

The bow and arrow hunters may harvest either sex deer, but gun hunters, who harvest the greatest number of surplus deer, may take only bucks with forked antler or antlers except for a three-county area, Barren, Hart and Edmonson, where either sex deer are legal. Of course, only one deer may be taken per season by a hunter either in the gun or bow and arrow season.

This great increase in the number of deer harvestable has brought on with a rush an ancient hunting sport which devotees say is the purest for all—archery.

Back in the mid-40's when there were no deer, and therefore no big game for the archery boys to practice on, the sport was mostly confined to club meetings in which the contests concerned accuracy with the arrows at a given distance. Then in 1957, a deer hunting season was proclaimed for 26 counties and right away the interest of the archery clubs picked up. They began to expand, attracting new members on a statewide basis.

The growth has been continuous and the participants have been more active as greater areas of the state have been opened to deer hunting. This deer hunting phase has undoubtedly been the greatest incentive to those who fancy the bow and arrow. Archery participants last year were roughly one-fourth the total number who hunted deer in this state.

According to figures tabulated by the Game Management division of the department there were 11,700 bow and arrow deer hunters in 1970. The total hunters, gun and archery, was 45,700, with 7859 successful. Of this number the bow and arrow men and women brought home 677 deer. The best year for the archery hunters was in 1968 when 930 deer were taken by 7900 hunters.

Last year was the biggest from the standpoint of hunter participation, but this apparently will not hold for long. County clerks are now selling deer hunting permits rapidly in preparation for the upcoming season, and this year's number may exceed all records. And still, with this careful planning for the harvest of surplus deer, the population continues to inch forward and eventually will reach the carrying capacity for Kentucky habitat.

Deer tags, which must be held by all deer hunters, cost $10.50 and are valid for the bow and arrow and gun hunter, resident or non-resident.

And so, with the increasing deer herd came a sportsman reaction—hunting with bows and arrows.

Can't Horse Around with VEE

FRANKFORT, KY.—"Everybody is talkin' about this sleepin' sickness things and I don't want any of my animals comin' down with VEE," Crutcher Harrod says, leading his matched grey mules Pete and Lucille into his barnyard.

VEE—Venezuelan Equine Encephalomyelitis—broke out in Venezuela almost 40 years ago and has been moving northward ever since. This summer it reached the southern U. S. killing hundreds of horses in Texas.

Almost always fatal to horses, the disease also can infect humans and an all-out effort is underway to vaccinate Kentucky horses and prevent a VEE outbreak here next year.

Local veterinarians are administering the vaccinations with the U. S. Department of Agriculture paying all costs.

Many of Kentucky's thoroughbreds, walking and pleasure horses already have been vaccinated but there are many less glamorous animals—work horses and mules—which take veterinarians to farms like Crutcher Harrod's in southern Franklin County.

"Ole Pete and Lucille never have been vaccinated before for anything, never been sick," Harrod says, tilting back his floppy hat to reveal a forehead reddened by many summers of sun. "They're the best team I've ever had."

Tall and lanky, unbowed by more than 60 years, Harrod is one of the first Franklin farmers to have his mules and horses vaccinated.

"Only a small amount will do the job, about 1/2 cc per horse," he says, filling a syringe with the medicine.

Lucille, an eight-year-old, only flops her foot-long ears as she gets her vaccination and seven-year-old Pete reacts to the needle with an expression of utter boredom.

Voluntary vaccination began in Kentucky Sept. 7 and State Veterinarian L. G. Northington hopes to get 90 per cent coverage. Anything less and vaccinations will become compulsory, he has indicated, with those animals not treated being quarantined on their farms.

Harrod, who has farmed 246 acres on Ninevah Road for more than 20 years, buys and trades horses and mules and has 22 head on his farm. ALL ARE BEING VACCINATED.

"If this medicine will stop the disease I'm all for it," he says. "I've told all the neighbors to get their stock vaccinated too."

Harrod owns tow tractors but they seldom are used for he prefers Pete and Lucille.

"I love to work my mules and horses and mules are the best of all because they're more intelligent," he says. "You can do things with a good team you'll never do with a tractor."

With a VEE outbreak possible in Kentucky next year if the vaccinations are not complete, Crutcher Harrod is taking no chances.

RAISING DAM LEVEL
In an effort to avoid a repeat of last summer's near flood disaster, the U. S. Engineers, Louisville district, are raising a cofferdam at the Cave Run Dam construction site. Before winter, engineers are planning on raising the level to 721 feet above sea level—some 25 feet above where the Licking River crested last July.

Fair's Lost Child Figures Released
FRANKFORT, KY.—More than a month after audited figures were released showing the 1971 Kentucky State Fair set an all-time attendance record, other fair statistics were made public which may constitute an additional all-time high.

The Kentucky Department of Child Welfare, which operates each year a Found Child Center at the fair, now say some 209 professional and volunteer workers hunted a total of 551 lost children during this year's 10-day run.

Of the total, 270 were given shelter in the center until their parents were located. Others were reunited without delay.

The fenced-in tent area of Child Welfare on the midway was set up as a model day-care center, decorated with flowers and greenery, stocked with sturdy toys, games, paints, toilet facilities, diapers, drinks and a telephone.

A semi-private section provided a place for mothers to feed or change their children. Four hundred and ten mothers used the diaper service.

Statistics showed more boys lost than girls (327 to 224); the youngest was 20 months, the oldest, 76; the longest lost period was four hours; peak hours for lost children were 7 p.m., 9 p.m. 11 p.m.; latest hour to keep child, 1 a.m.

No children were left unclaimed.

Plans are underway by Child Welfare to provide this service again for the 1972 fair.

Elkhorn City Miner Is Shot To Death

Elkhorn City, Ky.—An Elkhorn City miner was shot and killed early Saturday following an apparent scuffle in a hallway of an apartment building over Opal's Restaurant.

Elkhorn City Police Chief Hillis Wright identified the dead man as Ellis Hylton, 45. He was shot over the left eye with a .32 caliber revolver, Chief Wright said. The incident occurred about 1:30 a.m.

Arrested at the scene was Martin Potter, 27-year-old gas drilling company employe, of Elkhorn City. Wright said a pistol was removed from the suspect when he was taken into custody without resistance.

The chief said he was told that a man standing in the doorway of an apartment fired a shot. The victim was found lying in the hallway. There were signs indicating a scuffle had taken place in the hallway.

Carl Horn Is Speaker At Dealers' Meeting

Carl R. Horn, district manager of the Food Stamp Program administered by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, was a speaker on the program of the Kentucky Food Dealers at their 30th annual conference in Louisville, Monday.

Mr. Horn, whose district includes all of Kentucky, said the state's food dealers, solidly support the stamp program but have suggested that due bills be issued in lieu of cash as change to recipients making purchases. At present up to 49 cents cash change is permissible to purchasers.

DEFTS.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the September 15 term, 1971 in the above-styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 15th day of October, 1971 at 1 o'clock p.m., same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, upon a credit of six months, the following described property to-wit:

That certain tract or parcel of land situated in Floyd County, Kentucky, at Betsy Layne therein and more particularly described as follows:

Beginning 33.05 feet from the northwest corner of a house purchased near a line fence between C. I. Layne's heirs and M. B. Elliott and Marh Elliott, thence up the hill with said line fence S 69 30 E 124 feet to a stake; thence leaving the fence line S 17 45 W 80 feet to a stake; thence down the hill with 68 30 West 124 feet to a stake; thence around the hill 17 45 East 80 feet to the beginning. The roadway which this lot is entitled to use is also embraced herein.

Being the same land conveyed to Plaintiff and her late husband by deed from A. D. Snyder and Bonnie T. Snyder, dated the 7th day of September, 1960 and recorded in Deed Book 176, page 47, in the Floyd County Court House and being the same land plaintiff acquired further interest in by intestate succession as noted by affidavit of descent, filed in Floyd County Court Clerk's Office in Prestonsburg, Keucky, in Deed Book 202, Page 648.

This property is being sold to settle the estate of Robert H. Amburgey.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 23rd day of September 1971.

If the 7% excise tax is repealed, and you bought a Volkswagen after Aug. 15, you're entitled to a refund. If you bought one before, you're saving money anyway.

If Congress votes to repeal the 7% federal excise tax on automobiles, and makes it retroactive, and you bought one of our cars after Aug. 15, lucky you.

It means you'll be getting back a nice amount of money from Volkswagen of America. (Something like $103-$171 depending on which car you've bought.)

But if you happened to buy a Volkswagen before August 15, don't feel deprived.

You're still saving over the average car about $1500 on the car itself, $135 a year on gas, and $wha-knows-how much on repairs.

Nature Trails

By Rufus M. Reed

Invariably poison ivy and poison oak, so-called, have three leaflets which sometimes have a few coarse teeth or small side lobes, and are light green and lustrous. The end leaf of the three is larger and long-stemmed; the two side leaves have short stems. The leaves of both kind and the bark, too, contain a poisonous oil, toxicodendrol, and if you are allergic to poison ivy this oil in contact with the skin can cause a severe burning and itchy rash, sometimes blisters. If the eruptions get infected, you may have to go to the hospital.

A few persons, probably two out of ten, can handle poison ivy, even chew and swallow the leaves, and they won't get poisoned. It all depends upon the sensitivity of the skin to this oil. Some persons are so susceptible to the poison, they dare not get close to poison ivy; a dog or other animal that has been through it can transmit the poisonous oils to a sensitive skin. Even the wind can blow it into the face of some persons enough to cause a rash! It is said the Indians were seldom poisoned by this dangerous vine, that they chewed the leaves of it every spring to make them immune. I have actually seen some persons chew and swallow the leaves, just to show others they were not susceptible. Animals are never poisoned by it; I have watched mules eat large quantities of the leaves with apparent enjoyment. Cattle browse on them, and so do deer. The whitish seeds, when ripe, furnish much food to the birds. Unfortunately, birds help to scatter the seeds widely.

Beware of the bark of poison ivy! I once knew an man who went to the winter woods to get some bark from the "smoke vine," as he thought it was, planning to mix it with his pipe tobacco. He scraped the bark from a poison ivy vine that had climbed to the top of a tree by means of aerial roots. He put the bark in his tobacco and smoked it, inhaled the smoke for its "fine fragrance," and the next day his mouth and throat were coated with blisters. His folly almost cost him his life!

What is the difference between poison ivy and "poison oak?" In the Tri-State region, we do not have the true poison oak (RHUS TOXICODENDRON) which is also called "the poison tree." This small tree has leaves like the oaks and is found along the coastal plains, on pine barrens, or sandy wastes, as far north as New Jersey and Maryland and along the Gulf Coast of Texas.

We do, however, have two forms of poison ivy in our region. They are one and the same plant, equally dangerous. When poison ivy has no tree to climb, it forms an upright stem about four or five feet high; the leaves and blooms appear at the top of this. The leaves on this erect form of poison ivy are larger than those that form vines and run over walls and fences or cliffs. The stems fasten to trees or other objects by means of aerial roots and are very hard to break loose from the bark. The vining form of poison ivy is one form; the erect stems are the forms called "poison oak." The erect poison oak seems more common and more dangerous to walk through. It often forms large patches along woodland trails and most of it is about knee-high. Once I waded through a dense patch of poison oak when the dew was heavy on the leaves; next day, blisters appeared on my legs almost as large as a hen's egg. I had to hurry to the doctor and when he opened the blisters, the water ran down into my shoes! He gave me a round of shots which he said would make me immune, and they did. From that time, I have never been seriously infected with poison oak. A severe attack such as I had can make one partially immune, as the body tends to build up a strong resistance to the poison. The shots the doctor gave me also helped to establish immunity and I can now go through poison oak with safety, which is indeed a great relief to me.

Poison ivy is in the same genus as the sumacs. We have one poison sumac, which bears berries almost precisely like those of poison ivy and just as dangerous. And there is the one called "the fragrant sumac," which has leaves like those of poison ivy, but it is not poisonous.

Virginia Creeper also climbs to the top of trees, has five leaflets instead of three and is not poisonous. It is also called "woodbine" and "sour vine," and is in a different family from poison ivy, being in the vine family. It is sometimes used to cover trellises around porches and as an ornamental vine. It has sucker disks somewhat like those of a tree frog and can stick tightly to the side of a wall or a tree. It is a useful plant, as its blooms furnish nectar to the bees; its colors of crimson and purple in the fall are quite attractive.

After exposure to poison ivy, the dangers of infection can be removed by washing with laundry soap or a strong solution of baking soda. A good rule is, Never take chances with poison ivy. I knew a man who claimed he was immune to it so he "grubbed out" a large patch of poison ivy from a corner of his garden. As he hacked and grubbed away, the oils flew into his face; next day, his face and neck were a solid mass of blisters and he had to spend several days in the hospital.

A bit of verse to remember:

"Leaves of three, let it be,
Leaves of five, let it thrive."

Six Floyd-Co. Bands To Be in EKV Parade

Richmond, Ky.—The music of about 60 high school bands, including six from Floyd county, will help inspire Eastern Kentucky University's football team in its efforts to defeat Austin Peay State University here Oct. 2.

The bands, including more than 5,000 musicians, will come to EKV to celebrate the University's 11th annual Band Day.

The high school musicians will parade through downtown Richmond in the morning and perform in a mass concert in the afternoon during the halftime of the football game at Hanger Field.

The bandsmen, their directors, counselors, and chaperones will be guests of EKV at the game.

Floyd county bands which have accepted invitations to attend Band Day will represent these high schools: Betsy Layne, Garrett, Martin, Maytown, Prestonsburg and Wayland.
