'Pot'-Associated Charges Lodged Against 2 Here

Connection with marijuana was alleged against two persons arrested here Sunday by Policeman Darrel J. Conley.

Carlen Harris was booked on a charge of possessing the drug, and Eddie Grethouse was charged with possession of a marijuana-smoking device.

Bobby Harris was jailed here Sunday by Trooper Gary Rose, who charged him with shooting into an occupied dwelling. The residence into which one or more shots were fired is that of James Hall, Sr., brother of Magistrate Denzil Ray Hall, of District 4, officials said they were told.

A second-offense liquor possession charge was lodged Saturday by Deputy Sheriffs Arvel Nelson and Russell Wallen against Gardner McClanahan.

Two men arrested within the week were fined $125 each in Prestonsburg police court. Defendants were Sam Crider, arrested on a drunk driving charge by Policemen Thornsbury and Click, and Willis Sparks, who was booked by Policeman Conley on a reckless driving count.

Others arrested, charges lodged against them and names of arresting officers follow:

No Murder Case On Court Docket At Next Session

The criminal term of circuit court, which will convene April 3, has in prospect an unusually light docket with, as of this week, not a murder or shooting and wounding case booked for hearing.

The last shooting and wounding case, that of Ralph Hall, was disposed of Monday when he entered a plea of guilty to the wounding of his daughter-in-law and was given a two-year pen term. The complaining witness appeared in court, and the settlement of the case was by agreement. Hall had spent about six months in jail here.

Because of the light criminal docket it is held possible that some of the coming term may be devoted to hearing right-of-way condemnation cases.

Names and addresses of the 93 jurors to serve during the April term follow:

Ellis Castle, Auxier; Mary B. Hall, Harold; Edna Martin, Garrett; Gladys Francis, Garrett; Clynard Jones, Martin; Abigail G. Bowling, Prestonsburg; Audrey

Explosion Wrecks Highland Residence

Before a plumber could arrive and repair a gas leak detected earlier in the day, the home of Mrs. Liddle Miller on Highland avenue here "blew up" last Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Miller, who was in the kitchen of the four-room residence and in the center of damage, suffered ankle and shoulder injuries and was treated at the Prestonsburg General Hospital. The blast separated one room from the house, ripped up bedroom and kitchen flooring, broke dishes and damaged various items of furniture.

The home was being renovated at the time. Three carpenters working in a bedroom were uninjured.

"Surface mining is not a problem at Dewey Lake at this time, and the lake is not in bad shape at all," James Lynch, of the Huntington district office, U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, said last Friday in response to a query made by The Times.

A detailed study of the entire lake and surrounding area is being considered by the Corps, it was indicated, however. Such a survey, if undertaken, will perhaps be to round out the study program already begun at Fishtrap, Carr Fork, Pound and Buckhorn reservoirs.

Although he admitted that Dewey Lake turbidity has been above normal during the last few years, Mr. Lynch said there has been no appreciable buildup of sedimentation.

He said that the Corps of Engineers has a memorandum of understanding with the Commonwealth of Kentucky and that the latter has enforcement authority at the lake, although the Corps of Engineers has under an 1899 federal act the right to take action against persons or firms causing pollution or sedimentation in the impoundment.

Specific findings at Dewey Lake are in the hands of the Kentucky Division of Reclamation, but The Times has been unable to learn if the reservoir has an acidity problem. Apparently, no tests have been made.

Sportsmen's groups and others are seeking specific information on Dewey Lake, since U. S. District Attorney Siler has promised that his office will take legal action if sound information can be supplied showing that sedimentation and acid pollution are present there.

Told that a Kentucky Parks official had more than a year ago reported 60 or more surface mining operations in the Johns Creek (Dewey Lake) watershed, the Corps of Engineers spokesman said some comparatively new mining permits have been issued in the area. Yet, he said, the reservoir appears to be under no immediate threat.

This Town . . . That World

Monday, I was hoping it was nothing worse than spring fever. Now, with this 40 degree drop in temperature, it sounds more like hay fever.

DID HE WRITE THAT?

Some kind soul whose name I have lost has sent me a clipping which reads:

A schoolboy turned in the following history essay: "It was Nathan Haley who said, 'I regret that I have but one life to give for my country.' This has come to be known as Haley's comment."

A little learning, said to be a dangerous thing, can also be downright funny.

TWASN'T FUNNY

This brings me around to another admission that I have not only feet of clay but also a head of more solid composition. This "little learning" bit recalls my days of high school study with the dear, old American School of Correspondence and the time when in the Medieval History course I was asked to draw a map of a castle (which I couldn't do) and to accompany it with a legend.

I hopped to the legend task with considerable interest and whopped up a yarn which dealt with such matters as clanking chains, a lonely princess, a diabolical lord who specialized in yanks at his great beard and giving forth with multiple "zounds," with a parfait knight thrown in for good measure and in some danger of being tossed into yon yawning moat by that monster who ruled the whole works.

You can imagine my consternation when a kindly instructor commended the story but hinted that he didn't want a story, in the first place, adding that a legend in ar-

Senate District Plan Would Cut Floyd Precincts

Reapportionment of Senate and House districts remains to be done this week in the few days left for the General Assembly to complete its work for the current term, and the Senate Bill (Bill 350) is one cause for the delay in brining redistricting to a vote.

One issue for contention is the amendment which provides that two Floyd county precincts be cut off Senator John Chris Cornett's 29th district and added to Senator Roy Ross' district which is now composed of Johnson, Lawrence and Boyd counties.

Both Senator Cornett and Rep. W. J. Reynolds, House caucus leader, have objected to this division of Floyd county.

The bill, before the Ross amendment, would have added two precincts from Republican Martin county to Ross' district,

Body of Smith, Victim of Train, Found Saturday

Fifty-nine-year-old Clayton Smith, whose body was found Saturday beside the railway tracks at Ivel, died after having been struck by a train, it was determined at an inquest conducted by Coroner James J. Carter.

Although State Detective Chester D. Potter continued an investigation of the death, he said the probe is merely routine and that there is no reason to doubt that the Ivel man was the victim of an accident.

The invalid Smith had been missing from the home of his sister, Mrs. Ethel Collins, with whom he resided, since last Friday afternoon. Mrs. Collins found his body during the search for him. Death resulted from head injuries.

A son of the late Charlie and Catherine Smith, he was born at Ivel Oct. 8, 1912. He was never married. Survivors, in addition to Mrs. Collins, are three brothers and six sisters. Oliver Smith, Albion, Mich.; Charlie Smith, Columbus, O.; Woodrow Smith, Lexington, O.; Mrs. Stella McCown, Ewington, O.; Mrs. Edith Ratliff, of Whitesburg, Mrs. Sibyl Faulkner, Charlotte, N. C.; Mrs. Helen Boyd, of Dana, Mrs. Imogene Hall, Coco Beach, Fla., and Mrs. Gracie Engle, of Tennessee.

Funeral rites were conducted Tuesday at 1 p.m. from the Tom's Creek Free Will Baptist Church, ministers of that church officiating. Burial was made in the Stratton cemetery at Ivel under direction of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

4 Dams Save Valley $1.46 Million Damage

Flood control dams in the Big Sandy River watershed saved the valley an estimated $1,466,000 flood damage during late February, the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers said this week.

Four lakes—Pound, John Flannagan, Fishtrap and Dewey—held back a heavy volume of water to save downstream areas from heavy loss.

Pikeville and Paintsville benefitted most, perhaps, from the dams. The Corps of Engineers said the river crested at Pikeville 11 feet below the mark it would have reached without the dams. At Paintsville the crest was reduced 6.4 feet. If this additional rise had occurred at Paintsville, the river would have invaded a large portion of the business section.

In Prestonsburg the rise was held back by 4.7 feet, cresting at 35 feet. Much lowlying property here would have been flooded with the additional 4.7 feet of water.

Dean Murray, Dewey Reservoir manager, said this week that Dewey Lake has been returned to 550 feet elevation, which is the summer conservation stage for the impoundment, and that the lake will not be returned to the lower winter stage.

$500 'Example' Set for Auxier Aid

"In presenting this check I hope to set an example for other firms in the county in helping the small community of Auxier to provide needed fire protection," Mr. DeRossett said.

Limited by clauses in their insurance policies, organized fire departments cannot assist communities outside their own city limits. Auxier was threatened with the possible loss of at least a dozen homes in 1970 when the residence of Bill L. Curnutte burned. Advised that no local help was available, the Van Lear Volunteer Fire Department arrived after the Curnutte home had been destroyed and two others badly damaged.

Since then, citizens of Auxier have organized into a fire district, purchased land, constructed a multi-purpose community building and fire department building. Funds are being raised for the purchase of a fire truck to replace a U. S. government surplus decontamination unit serving that purpose. Funds are being raised through various benefit events and through voluntary contributions such as Mr. DeRossett's.

Another Lake in Deep Trouble

Before Fishtrap Reservoir was ever impounded The Times warned that the lake might become a "settling basin" for coal-blackened waters pouring into it from upstream mining operations. That prophecy did not make of us the seventh son of a seventh son, nor did it indicate any special prescience or wisdom. The only thing unusual about our prediction of trouble at the lake is that we could foresee at least a part of it from a distance of 50 miles while Pike county leaders and the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, with on-the-spot knowledge of the situation, voiced never a doubt that the future of Fishtrap was bright.

Now, after $54 million have been spent on the reservoir, official information comes to light—if "to light" is the proper phrase to associate with the dark picture at Fishtrap. Within the last year sedimentation has accumulated at one important point on the impoundment to a depth of seven feet. In this same vicinity 1,000 feet of water that was once navigable is impassable to boats.

Some of the recreational advantages of the lake may have been irreparably damaged. Its value for flood prevention could be lost if it continues to be filled in by dirt and coal-dust. How poisonously acid its water is will not be known till later. Pike county and Eastern Kentucky may have lost here, through official shortsightedness and public unconcern, more in a continuing, growing tourist attraction and general recreation center than all the coal that has been mined there is worth.

Such situations concern us. What concerns us, too, is the position taken by the same U. S. Corps of Engineers that Dewey Lake has no problems. This statement is made, despite the fact that there has been no denial that at least 60 surface mines are feeding their pollution of sedimentation and acid into Johns Creek and its tributaries, all of which eventually finds its way into Dewey Lake itself.

Let us hope that this bright picture of Dewey isn't merely relative, that it isn't regarded as trouble-free in comparison with Fishtrap which has more miseries than any decent body of water should have.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D.

"Fiddles and Violins"

The fiddle is not a violin, whatever their superficial resemblances. In the first place, the violin is a high-brow instrument, one on which you take lessons under some famous musician at two dollars a lesson and on which you learn to play "Souvenir," and "Melody in F," and Mendelssohn's "Spring Song." A fiddle is a folk instrument on which one plays by ear the traditional numbers that cannot and should not be written down in musical notation. The violin knows how to wail, to dream, to lose itself in reverie; the fiddle knows how to set feet a-patting, hands a-clapping, hearts a-dancing for joy. The violin is often pedigreed like a Kentucky horse; the fiddle needs no pedigree; it is abundantly able to take care of itself.

But, sentiment aside, the fiddle is not played as is the violin. The fiddle is tuned E, A, D, A. The primitive scale of music is the one most used, by far the most frequently recurring notes being do, mi, so, do, as in a Negro spiritual. Triplets are common: they seem to quicken the feet. The fiddle must be around if there is to be a breakdown; a guitar, or box, will help it if necessary.

Not only is a violin pedigreed, but it adds caste to its owner. Just to say he is a violinist adds a kind of halo to the most commonplace boy. To call him a fiddler blasts his lineage up and down, according to some of the people I have met. A violin is a symbol of culture; the fiddle is a symbol of worldliness and almost of sinfulness. Many a man of my older acquaintance laid away his fiddle when he joined the church and often testified in meeting to the sinful desires he sometimes had to get the old instrument out and strike up a "chune." One old fellow, testifying in a meeting, remarked that the preacher used to be a great fiddler and fiddled for him to dance. "Now," said he, poetically and prophetically, "he is fiddling again and I am dancing."

The violinist, if he becomes great enough, gets his portrait painted, and ultimately it appears on sheet music; the fiddler in the older times got his tintype "took," but it appears only in the old family albums that used to grace the marble-top center tables. And thus a slightly different turning plus a different kind of sawing the bow makes all the difference in this chameleon-like world, where, as Longfellow would say, "Things are not what they seem." At the risk of being regarded as plebeian, however, let me utter one note of praise for the ruddy old fiddler, even at the expense of the aesthetic, wistful-eyed, lion-maned violinist.

Setser Is Named VFW Aide-de-Camp

Joseph L. Vicites, Uniontown, Pa., commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, has announced the appointment of Henry Setser, of Prestonsburg, as national aide-de-camp, V. F. W.

Said Vicites: "As I accepted the responsibilities of commander-in-chief of this organization of combat veterans, I invited each member to share those responsibilities with me. Our continued success in protecting the veterans' interests and extending the institutions of American freedom requires dedication and leadership. Mr. Setser possesses both these qualities and I am most grateful that he is giving his whole-hearted support to the internal problems of this nation and to the purposes for which the Veterans of Foreign Wars was chartered by Congress."

Whatsoever Things

By DONALD E. WILDMAN

Pretty Good Odds

Take your watch off your wrist. Tear it open. Disassemble the parts. Get a plastic jar and drop the parts into the jar one by one. After the watch is completely disassembled and all the different parts have been dropped into the jar, put a top on the jar and secure it. Now shake the jar for two minutes. What are the odds that those parts will accidentally go together, each to its proper place and correctly connected, and that the watch will be ticking away keeping correct time when you open the lid?

It seems a rather silly proposition, doesn't it? Anyone, in his right mind, would get a good laugh should you suggest to him that he try it. And, indeed, anyone trying it should be laughed at.

But do you know that there are those who believe that the world in which we live and those of us who live in it are the result of an accident, millions of times more unlikely than the suggestion here made.

A scientist named Cressy Morrison has suggested another feat which we should try, sometime. He has suggested that we take ten coins, mark them from one to ten, and draw them from our pocket one at a time, each time returning the coin and giving them a good shake. Mr. Morrison points out that the odds of drawing number one is 1 in 10; of drawing one and two in succession is 1 in 100; of drawing one, two, and three in succession is 1 in 1,000; and of drawing one, two, three, and four in succession is 1 in 10,000. A person could certainly wear out a lot of good pants pockets trying to pull the feat of getting one to ten in succession. In fact, Morrison states that the possibility of anyone pulling off the trick is the astronomical figure of 1 in 10,000,000,000. That's billions, my friends!

There are those who teach that the earth on which we live is an accident, that it got here by pure chance. To that Cressy Morrison says:

"So many essential conditions are necessary for life to exist on our earth that it is mathematically impossible that all of them could exist in proper relationship by chance on any one earth at one time. Therefore," says Morrison, "there must be in nature some form of intelligent direction." Which is, of course, a scientific way of saying there is a God.

A preacher named Canon Liddon has stated that there are in all more than 300 prophecies in the Old Testament concerning the coming Messiah. All of these, more or less fully and clearly, have been fulfilled in the coming of the one called Jesus. Someone figured the odds of the possibility of these being fulfilled in one person by sheer chance at one in 252 decillions of 1 per cent.

I'm not a betting man on most things. But those odds are too good to pass up.

Area Educators Study Methods Used in Colo.

Woodrow Allen, director of instruction for the Floyd county schools, was one of 11 Eastern Kentucky educators who participated in a four-day trip to Denver, Colorado, recently, to observe the operations of Boards of Cooperative Services (BOCS) in Denver and Boulder.

Colorado Boards of Cooperative Services are similar in organization and function to the Regional Educational Service Agency (RESA) presently being developed for Eastern Kentucky. The trip was planned by the Eastern Kentucky Educational Development Corporation, which is under contract with the Kentucky Program Development Office (KPDO) to establish a model RESA project in this region.

According to EKEDC Director Edwin R. Jones, on-site observation of the BOCS allowed the Kentucky educators to gain first-hand information concerning specific programs and services which might be offered to schools through the RESA concept.

In the RESA plan, federal funds and the joint resources of participating school districts will be used to secure services for the individual school district which the district could not otherwise afford or find feasible.

Funded through the Appalachian Regional Commission, RESA planning began July 1 and has included the compilation of extensive data concerning the educational needs of Eastern Kentucky. A proposal requesting funds to actually implement the RESA model will be submitted to ARC in April.

The Regional Educational Service Agency will serve the 32 school districts in Eastern Kentucky, with each district deciding what services it wishes to utilize. Services which may be provided are research assistance, educational television programming, computer-assisted instruction, data processing, cooperative purchasing, public relations programs, and instruction for specialized groups.

Other Eastern Kentucky participants in the Colorado trip were Foster "Sid" Meade, formerly of McDowell, now Lewis county superintendent and chairman of the EKEDC board of directors; Virgil Porter, Johnson county superintendent and chairman of the Big Sandy ADD education committee; Jack Miller, Mt. Sterling superintendent and chairman of Gateway ADD education committee; Charles Straub, Mason county superintendent and chairman of the Buffalo Trace ADD education committee; Donald Colvin, Bracken county superintendent; Eugene Frazier, Paintsville assistant superintendent; Frank Ratliff and Phenis Potter, Pike county instructional supervisors; Edwin R. Jones, EKEDC director, and Dan Sexton, EKEDC treasurer.

but he didn't want them. Ross is a Democrat.

A new amendment to the bill, filed by Sen. Sullivan, Henderson Democrat, would include no precincts from either Floyd or Martin in Ross' district but leave it as it has been. The district is now 4.8 per cent below the ideal population figure.

Representative Reynolds has indicated he is resigned to the fact that Floyd county will be split in the House redistricting, although he doesn't like it. The population figures require that the county have only one House district, but in order to attain the one-man, one-vote requirements of federal law some precincts will have to be cut into one of Pike county's two districts.

The House has no reapportionment bill before it, and because of the limited time the Legislature has left in the session its reapportionment measure will have to appear as an amendment to the Senate bill if the redistricting job is to be done before Friday, final day of the Assembly session.

deadline date. The director, according to the job description evolved, must have at least a bachelor's degree with a major or minor in public health, public administration, social science or health-allied subjects, and have a minimum of three years of supervisory experience with an organization or agency involved in medicine or public health work.

The job description, it was pointed out, does not mean that the director must be a doctor.

All members of the board were present for the meeting except one consumer-group representative, Joseph Ratliff.

Floyd Poet Speaks At Club Meeting

The Drift Woman's Club met February 21, in the clubhouse with Anna Hoffman as hostess.

Miss Ruby Akers, president, presided. For the devotional, Mrs. Lloyd Stumbo presented 10 appropriate New Year's resolutions for club women. Correspondence was read and announcements made. The Fine Arts committee was in charge of the meeting with Mrs. Lloyd Stumbo as chairman. Mrs. Stumbo introduced guest-speaker, Blaine Hall, from Prestonsburg, who explained how and why he became a writer of poetry. Mr. Hall read some of his poems which will appear in his next book of poetry. Mr. Hall was inspired to write these poems about the Catacombs, Colosseum, the Pantheon and the Roman Forum while touring Rome. Mr. Hall's poems have appeared in these publications: Brooklyn Times, Huntington Herald, Contemporary Poetry, Approaches, American Bard, Ashland Daily Independent, Cyclo flame and London Publications, London, England.

Dessert was enjoyed by the guest-speaker, Blaine Hall, guests, June Reimer and Mrs. Sam King, and these members, Miss Ruby Akers, Sophia Cahill, Nancy Cooley, Anna Hoffman, Celia Little, Sue Martin, Reba Martin, Isabelle Reed, Irene Reitz and Anna Sue Stumb.

chitecture consists of merely identifying the various parts of the structure portrayed.

Which causes me to add: A little learning can also be an anything-but-funny thing.

STRANGE LANGUAGE

This fellow didn't like the city, at all, and on his visit back home said so. Asked why the dissatisfaction, he explained: "Well, for one thing you gotta watch what you say so much. Up there, I have to say you-all instead of you'uns."

MILD AS A MUSTANG

An acquaintance has an idea that they may have misnamed that Wild Rivers legislation, down there at Frankfort. They should have called it "Free Rivers," or something of that sort, he claims, explaining: "When you talk about wild rivers, man, you're talking about the Big Sandy. For 40 years I've watched her run wild through my front yard, every February or March."

FOILED AGAIN

During a visit in Washington and its environs last week The Times' Jim Goble was given a spinning rod and reel by his brother—and he almost acquired a headache thereby. When he boarded a plane homeward bound, he took along with him the gift, all properly wrapped, and—would you know?—that metal detecting device they've installed as security against hijackers did its stuff. Comment from the official who gingerly opened the parcel and found the innocent "weapon" was not recorded, but the crowd got a laugh at his disappointment.

June to compete against other state winners.

Miss Meador is a student of Mayo State Vocational School at Paintsville. She will graduate in June, this year.

Freshwater shrimp usually are plentiful anywhere there are floating hyacinths. They are most often concentrated in the spongy roots of these plants. Shallow bottom under water lilies and shallows where weeds or grasses are thick are often shrimp magnets.—SPORTS AFIELD.

years now, Mr. Lynch said the statement was made in response to a question inquiring into the safety of the water for bathers. He said his statement referred only to the Stratton Branch arm of the lake which was closed to bathing and where a community-size swimming pool was constructed for the public use.

THE FAMILY OF AMANDA HUNTER

Kentucky's Red River Gorge

By JOHN R. CLOWES

Deep in the Daniel Boone National Forest in Kentucky's Cumberland Mountains, the temperamental Red River has carved what is called the Red River Gorge. It's a forest-clothed wonderland of stupendous palisades, soaring mountains, high plateaus, narrow valleys and tiny, sparkling streams. Although only 26 miles long, the gorge constitutes some of the weirdest, most spectacular scenery to be found anywhere.

The most remarkable feature of the area is its abundance of rock arches, about 40 of them, of all sizes. These are places where the softer underlying rock has been weathered away, leaving the more durable upper strata bridging the resultant gap. The best known one is Natural Bridge in Natural Bridge State Resort Park, 65 feet high and 78 feet long. Another whopper is Sky Bridge, 30 feet high and 90 feet long.

For some 250 million years, the river and its tributaries have teamed up with wind and weather to produce the wondrous geology of the Red River Gorge. New formations are still gradually being wrought and, somewhere along in the infinite stretches of time, the same combination of forces will inexorably destroy all the monstrous freaks and byblows that its everlasting labors have produced.

Much of the marvelous geology of the gorge may be seen from the forest roads. Forest rangers have built many scenic lookouts and places for motorists to stop and picnic. But the gorge has even richer rewards for more vigorous visitors. There are 18 ranger-built hiking trails. Seven of them are one mile long or shorter and most of them are less than two miles. The Swift Camp Creek one runs 8.4 miles and Rough Trail is 6.7 miles long.

The trails lead into nature's most hallowed sanctity where the only sounds are nature's own—the babble of running water, the soft fall of a beechnut or acorn, a bird call, a rustle of leaves. The forest's wild creatures are understandably shy of man and are seldom seen. But they are all around, watching the intruder and waiting for him to go.

Huge, vaulting trees, sycamore, oak, hickory, hemlock and others, are as serenely indifferent to man as the ferns, the wildflowers, the brilliant mosses, the bright berries, the fungus growths and the multitudinous insect life. On the creek levels the forest is a moist place of deep shade, teeming with countless forms of life like a tropical jungle.

Streams in the gorge are alive with fish of many kinds. Here the visitor comes suddenly upon unexpected little jeweled waterfalls spilling over moss-grown rocks. The air is sweet and clean and where a spring bubbles out of the ground its crystal purity is cold enough to make the throat ache.

Natural Bridge State Resort Park is a luxurious family vacation resort in the Red River Gorge area, open all year and only 60 miles from Lexington via a superhighway, the Mountain Parkway.

'Walking Catfish' Not Wanted

The Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Commission has issued a strong warning to all "walking catfish".

They said, in effect, "Don't walk our way, don't ride or be carried, we don't want you up here, even as a tourist."

The walking catfish to which they referred (genus Clarias) is a tropical-type fish, native to parts of both Africa and Asia. It was brought into the United States some years ago by a Florida tropical fish dealer and has since become a real problem in that state due to its ferocious nature (it literally kills such fish as bass and bluegill) and the fact that it reproduces quickly and in great numbers.

So far, the fish has not become a nuisance in other states, although it has been sighted in several. The Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Commission hopes that its action, which adds the fish to the list of those which may not be imported, sold or possessed in aquaria or otherwise in the Bluegrass state, will avoid such difficulty here.

Carter To Head Cancer Drive

James J. Carter, Jr., of Prestonsburg, has been named chairman of the Floyd county unit of the American Cancer Society's 1972 educational and fund-raising Crusade which will begin April 1.

The appointment was announced by Arthur Bradbury, of the Floyd county unit, who said Mr. Carter had accepted the position because of his "deep concern about the urgent need for cancer control and the necessity to help win the battle through widespread public education."

Mr. Bradbury is shown presenting The Society's national emblem, "The Sword of Hope," to Mr. Carter with the challenge of raising the goal of $1000.

The 1972 Crusade is under the national chairmanship of Joan Crawford, celebrated movie actress who is also a successful business woman.

"Our theme is, 'We want to wipe out cancer in your lifetime,' and we will be calling on our friends and neighbors to make a generous gift to the Society as well as to bring them a life-saving message about cancer," Carter said.

Mr. Carter is associated with his father, James J. Carter, Sr., in the operation of the Carter Funeral Home.

Moore Says Tests Show DDT Residue Down in Kentucky

E. Edsel Moore, acting director of the state Health Department's pesticide program, says recent restrictions on the use of DDT and other chemicals have reduced the amount of pesticide residues in the tissues of Kentuckians.

Moore said recent human tissue samplings show the amount of such substances in the bodies of Kentucky citizens now is below the national average.

Moore made the comments at a Pesticide Safety Training Conference in Lexington which was sponsored by the state and the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

He said other southern states show larger amounts of pesticide contamination and the South seems to have a greater problem than the North.

Moore said large amounts of DDT, TDE and other pesticides now banned, are still in existence and getting rid of the substances may be a problem.

"We're talking about thousands of pounds and gallons of the material, and we don't know what to do with it," he said.

Kentucky now has no approved landfills or incinerators where the poisons could safely be destroyed.

Camp Chatterawha Training Session Set

A intensive outdoor training session for adult leaders of the Wilderness Road Girl Scout Council is scheduled for March 24-26 at Camp Chatterawha, near Dewey Dam.

The training, aimed primarily at troop leaders, is designed to qualify volunteer adults to take Girl Scout troop camping, usually overnight or week-end trips planned by the girls themselves.

The session will be led by Miss Catherine Hayden, Lexington, a Council trainer.

Although the outdoor training is opened to all volunteer adults in the 57-county council, it is expected to attract mostly women from the eastern section of the council area because of the location of Camp Chatterawha.

Committee Approves Ky. Savings Bonds

A plan to make Kentucky the first state in the nation to issue savings bonds was unanimously approved by the House Appropriations and Revenue Committee.

The measure, sponsored by House Majority Leader John Swinford, D-Cynthiana, would establish a Kentucky Savings Bond Authority which could issue bonds with a maturity of 15 years.

Speaking at a hearing on the measure, state Finance Commissioner Don E. Bradshaw said the plan might be frowned upon by the federal government.

"The federal government is not going to like this," he told the committee. "It competes with savings bonds and ours are exempt from taxation."

Bradshaw said the project's aim is to save money by refinancing high-interest turnpike bonds.

He estimated the bonds could yield 4.5 per cent interest at the outset, though the rate would vary with market conditions.

The savings bonds, unlike general-obligation bonds, would not be backed by the full faith and credit of the commonwealth, but Bradshaw indicated the security would be adequate.

The U. S. labor force—those who are working and those seeking work—is expected to number more than 100 million workers by 1980, growing by 15 million in the '70'.

Essay, Poster Contest Winners

Winners of the "Hire the Handicapped" essay and poster contests, sponsored by the Kentucky Commission of Employment of the Handicapped in conjunction with The First National Bank were honored February 23 with awards presented by First National Bank executive vice-president, Burl Wells Spurlock.

Mr. Spurlock presented $25 Savings Bonds to Rebecca Stewart, Maytown high school, winner of the essay contest, and to Sandra Richter, Garrett high school, winner of the poster contest. Second and third place cash prizes of $10 and $5, respectively, were awarded to Susan Elaine Compton, Maytown high school, and Paul Mullins, Garrett high school, for their essays, and to Myra Green and Craig Hicks, both of Garrett high school for their posters. All prizes were donated by the bank.

Miss Stewart's essay will be entered in the state competition, sponsored by the Kentucky Commission, where winners will receive a $150 Savings Bond and a free trip to Louisville for the annual awards luncheon.

Expert Med Badge Awarded to Samons

U. S. Army, Germany—Sp-5 David Samons, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Samons, Martin, Ky., recently was awarded the Expert Medical Badge while assigned to the 3rd Infantry Division in Germany. The badge is the Army's highest non-combat proficiency award for medical personnel.

Samons qualified for the award through proficiency in emergency medical treatment procedures, transportation of sick and wounded, field sanitation, and hygiene. He also passed a series of written examinations.

A medical aidman with headquarters Company, 2ND Battalion of the Divisions 15TH Infantry near Wildflecken, he entered the Army in January, 1970, completed basic training at Ft. Knox, Ky., and was last stationed at Ft. Sam Houston, Texas. He attended Martin (Ky.) high school.

Panel Votes Down Cigarette Tax Bill

A subcommittee of the House Appropriations and Revenue Committee unanimously voted against passage of a proposed three-cents-a-pack increase in the state cigarette tax.

The recommendation now goes to the full committee for consideration.

A public hearing was held on the proposed bill and only its sponsor, Rep. Nicholas Kafoglis, D-Bowling Green, spoke in favor.

Several tobacco industry spokesmen criticized the increase and urged continuation of the current three-cents-per-pack tax, one of the lowest in the nation.

Subcommittee chairman, Rep. Victor Hellard Jr., D-Versailles, said in a report to the full committee that current problems facing the tobacco industry would only be complicated by a tax increase.

"Any raise in the cigarette tax... might well have a direct or indirect effect," he said. "The subcommittee feels a further increase in tax is unnecessary and unwarranted at this time."

Things are seldom what they seem.

Big cars often pose as big cars, when they're really small cars.

For instance, notice how much bigger the big car seems than the Volkswagen Squareback Sedan. Then count the number of suitcases it can take on: only 12.

Now, notice how small the Squareback seems to be. Then count the number of suitcases it can take on: 16.

That's because the Squareback has 32.8 cubic feet of carrying space. Which is one and a half times as much as that of the largest sedan trunk.

Of course, if you really have a lot to carry you can always fold down the Squareback's rear seat. Then you'll have more than twice as much carrying space as the largest sedan trunk.

So which would you rather have—a sedan that looks like a big bully but really is a 12-suitcase weakling?

Or a little fella who's really a 16-suitcase giant?

Program Taps Teens' Potential

Pippa Passes, Ky.—The teenagers didn't behave; they were discipline problems and "underachievers" in their high schools. But in an atmosphere where everyone had similar strengths and weaknesses, where they were treated as individuals, they began to demonstrate their abilities as students.

This concise summary of what happened during the eight-week Upward Bound program this summer at ALC was made by Denward Johnson, the 26-year-old director of the program. Johnson and a staff of nine tutor-aids (all of whom were college students) and counselors worked with about 100 high school sophomores, juniors and seniors from Knott, Floyd, Letcher, Magoffin, and Leslie counties. During the school year, students work on planning committees and participate in activities associated with Upward Bound. Johnson says that students often provide morale boosts for each other. "There is a certain enthusiasm we try to foster by encouragement and actual assistance in very practical matters—such as their well-being and progress in school."

Too often, Johnson believes, educators have a tendency to attach labels to particular students. Once labeled by a teacher, a student finds it difficult to demonstrate his ability in the classroom. Although he may be capable of exceptionally good work, the student feels that he cannot escape the teacher's impression of him.

During Upward Bound, Johnson and his staff tried to establish an "environment of accomplishment." Students were given special tutoring in their weakest areas besides taking classes in which they had particular interest. In this situation, students who were often trouble-makers and poor achievers in their regular high schools were able to work closer to their true abilities.

Johnson, who came to ALC after earning an M. A. degree in guidance and counseling at Indiana State, believes that some basic attitude changes are necessary for the Upward Bound students. "There tends to be a negative outlook, especially about themselves," he said. "Tutor-aids and counselors often must help the youngsters build their self-confidence, which may have been almost destroyed by past academic experiences. The student must realize that he is important as a person. He needs to pinpoint exactly what he can and cannot do. Once this happens, there is greater likelihood that we can show him some of the benefits of higher education and that he can better take advantage of them."

One tutor-aid working at ALC this summer was Janie Newman, an 18-year-old Alice Lloyd sophomore from McDowell. She emphasized that good personal relationships between the staff and students were essential. Janie, along with other tutor-aids, was selected by a number of the Upward Bound students themselves. "If you're going to spend that much time with someone, work closely with a person, then you ought to have a voice in choosing that person," was how Johnson described the rationale behind this policy.

Individually planned programs for each student were very important to the success of Upward Bound and to the successful personal growth of the students—which is what Upward Bound is all about, Johnson said. This means that the type of course and its procedures are more tailored to the students as individuals. A lock-step situation that takes little account of a student's particular strengths and weaknesses is avoided.

In Floyd county 33 students from six high schools participated—11 from McDowell, six from Garrett, three from Prestonsburg, four from Wayland, four from Wheelwright and five from Martin.

From Letcher county there were 15 students from four high schools: 22 from four high schools in Knott county; four from Magoffin county, and one from Leslie county.

Kentucky leads the nation in the delivery of local mental health services through a system of 23 comprehensive care centers operated by regional boards governed by local citizens, according to the Kentucky Department of Mental Health.

Dr. Hayes received his A. B. Degree from UMC in 1939 and his M. A. in 1942. He received Ph. D. in 1948 from the University of Wisconsin and an honorary LL. D. degree in 1966 from Eastern Kentucky State College. He held the Frank P. Blair Scholarship at UMC and was a member of Phi Eta Sigma.

Johnson Central Wins Tournament; Losing Maytown Hi Shares Honors

The Golden Eagles of Johnson Central high school, Paintsville, took all the marbles in the 15th regional basketball tournament here last week-end and are in the big show at Louisville this week, but the big story of the regional was written by a team that lost.

Maytown high school's Wildcats were the losers in the finals of the tournament, but this team which three weeks ago was not rated a chance of getting out of the district meet, lost in a heart-stopper by a lone point to Johnson Central Saturday night in one of the best final games recorded in the 15th regional.

Maytown in the district tournament was doped to lose to Garrett, but the Cats won. Then they were rated the losers to Martin. Again they won. They got into the regional as runners-up to Betsy Layne.

In the regional Elkhorn City was "supposed" to take Maytown in stride, but Maytown easily defeated the Cougars. Then that final encounter with Johnson Central. At the half it was Johnson Central, 34-32. At the end of the third quarter the Eagles still were ahead, 54-52. Then, in the final stanza, although losing two starters to fouls, the Wildcats crept up to within a single point as the game ended.

Johnson Central is making its first trip to the state tournament, and the 15th region champs will meet Bryan Station, of Lexington (22-6) this afternoon (Thursday). It is the first trip to the state meet for either team.

Betsy Layne, 58th district champion, was upset by Johnson Central in the regional, 68-62, in a game which many considered an upset.

Other tournament scores: Virgie 92, Warfield 73; Maytown 91; Elkhorn City 66; Johnson Central 72; Johns Creek 55; Betsy Layne 75; Pikeville 63; Maytown 99; Virgie 84.

The scoring in the regional championship game:

Johnson Central—Preston 20, Wallen, 18, McCarty 12, Marsh 12, Salyer 2, McKenzie 2; Maytown—Gibson 30, Prater 17, Campbell 8, Robinson 6, Blevins 2, Bailey 2.

The all-tournament team: Darrell Prater, Bill Robinson, and Kent Gibson of Maytown; Danny Hall, Clyde Tackett and Ralph Bryant of Betsy Layne; Neil Marsh and Mike Wallen of Johnson Central; Rick Johnson and Joey Osborne of Virgie; Joe Stepp of Warfield; Jimmy Kerr of Elkhorn City; Ray Haley of Pikeville.

Pollution Could Delay Dam Work In Knott County

Construction work on the Carr Fork reservoir dam in Knott county conceivably could be delayed till the quality of the water which will make the reservoir is improved.

After the Army Corps of Engineers had admitted that coal mining is damaging the quality of the water which will feed into the reservoir, Congressman Henry Reuss, chairman of the House committee on conservation and natural resources, asked the corps this week to inform him why it plans to go ahead with construction of the dam before an acid-drainage study is completed.

"We are well aware that strip, auger, and drift (deep) mining has had a detrimental effect on the quality of water in the Carr Fork drainage area," Lt. Gen. F. J. Clarke, chief of engineers, said.

Clarke said that the capacity of streams in the area to absorb acid drainage from the mines "has been greatly reduced." He said a study was under way to calculate the full dimension of the problem, but he said the corps planned to proceed with the reservoir project in the meantime.

The engineers' chief said that one benefit of the study "will be a qualitative estimate of the amount of additional mining, if any, the area can support without irreversible damage to the future impoundment." He said the information to be collected might also be of use in developing a program "to mitigate the effects of mining and provide a more useful lake project."

The corps has purchased land and relocated roads there and is preparing to advertise for bids to construct the dam.

High acidity levels in streams kill fish life, can damage boats and may, because of appearance, discourage swimming.

Reduced Pollution Necessity for Race

"Pollution and Preservation" was the theme of the program presented before the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club by Mrs. J. T. Spillman at the home of Mrs. John Reed, Feb. 21. Mrs. Spillman explained that preservation is a must for several of humans as well as wildlife. She also reminded members of their obligation to cut down on pollution around their own homes. A committee was elected for the nomination of officers for the coming year to be installed at the annual May breakfast. The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Bill Castle. Following the meeting a dessert was served to the following members and guest: Mrs. Bobby Castle, Mrs. Charles Hughes, Mrs. Bill Castle, Mrs. Rex Martin, Mrs. Stanley Bamer, Mrs. M. M. Collins, Mrs. Mervil Dixon, Mrs. Orville Duff, Mrs. Alice Hornsby, Mrs. S. M. Martin, Mrs. John Reed, Mrs. Rudolph Spencer, Mrs. T. T. Spillman, Mrs. Dorothy Haywood.

Mrs. Mary Alice Hall, 93, of Catlettsburg, formerly of this county, died last Tuesday at King's Daughters Hospital in Ashland following an extended illness.

Born in Pike county, she was a daughter of Scott and Rhoda Johnson Burke and was a member of the Joppa Regular Baptist church. She was the widow of Will Hall, who was a director of the Bank Josephine at one time.

Survivors include four brothers, Dave and Wiley Burke, both of Halo, Britton Burke, of Betsy Layne, and Bailey Burke, of Oil Springs; a sister, Mrs. Leanner Johnson, of Hall, Ky.

Funeral services were conducted at 10 a.m., Saturday, at the Wiley Hall residence at Halo by ministers of the Regular Baptist church. Burial was made in the Scott Burke cemetery there under direction of Merion Funeral Chapel.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all the friends, neighbors, and the family who brought food, floral offerings and their presence in our hour of trouble. Special thanks to the ministers who officiated. May God bless everyone.

Food Stamp Regulations Liberalized for Kentucky

Frankfort, Ky., March 2—Liberalized federal Food Stamp Program regulations now are in effect in Kentucky, Garnett Johnson, acting commissioner of the Department of Economic Security, has announced.

"Persons already certified for Food Stamp participation will receive increased benefits this month," he said. "The Department is presently certifying persons who have become eligible because of the new regulations."

The new regulations redefine income and resources for recipients. A family of four will have an income exclusion of $360 as compared to $235 under the old regulations.

The allotment of food stamps has been increased for a family of four from $106 to $108. The cost of these stamps has been reduced and varies according to the amount of income the family has.

The new regulations establish uniform income and resource eligibility standards for all states.

Under the new definition of households, all members of a household under 60 years of age must be related by blood, affinity, or through a legal relationship sanctioned by state law for the household to be eligible for food stamps.

Stamps will be issued free to one- and two-person households with incomes under $20 per month and to all other households with incomes under $30.

The new Food Stamp law sets work registration as an eligibility requirement for any household containing an able-bodied member between 18 and 65, unless that member is responsible for dependent children under 18 or of incapacitated adults, a student enrolled at least half time in a school or training program, or working at least 30 hours per week.

Elderly participants who are disabled or feeble now can use food stamps to pay for meals delivered to them by a non-profit meal delivery service, if available.

Estimates indicate that the liberalized Food Stamp regulations can result in at least a 35 percent increase in the number of Food Stamp participants.

If realized, this would increase the number of eligible persons from 300,000 to 405,000 in the 73 counties where the program is in operation.

As a result of these liberalized regulations, the bonus benefits of the program that ran about $54 million during the last fiscal year could move to $90 million next year.

Gilley Gets Chair In Yublonski Case

Paul E. Gilley, son-in-law of former Wheelwright resident Silous Huddleston, last week became the second defendant in the Yablonski killings to be sentenced to die in the electric chair.

Earlier, Aubran (Buddy) Martin was given the death sentence for the murders of Joseph Yablonski, his wife and daughter in their Pennsylvania farmhouse.

The killings followed Yablonski's unsuccessful bid for the presidency of the United Mine Workers of America.

Also charged in the slayings are Huddleston, now a resident of LaFollette, Tenn., and his daughter, Mrs. Anette Gilly.

Claude Vealey, who had pleaded guilty to the murders, testified at the trial of Gilley and claimed he, Martin and Gilly broke into the Yablonski home and shot the victims in their beds.

The state charged that Gilley was the go-between in the killings, that he received from a man who was referred to only as "Tony" $5,200 to arrange the slayings.

The verdict will be appealed, and there is strong doubt that either of the convicted men will be put to death in Pennsylvania. The electric chair there has been dismantled and the present governor has declared nobody will be put to death during his term of office.

IN APPRECIATION

We wish to thank the members of the Ball Branch Regular Baptist Church, the ministers and all who by their presence, flowers, cards, or acts of kindness have shown so much thoughtfulness and sympathy to us in the passing of our loved one, Rebecca Centers. We also wish to express our appreciation to the Hall Brothers Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service.

Boating, Arson Officers Training To Relieve Police Work Load

By FRANK COOTS

Frankfort, Ky.—Twenty-eight newly hired boating officers and 16 arson investigators began training Monday, March 6, as part of an effort to free state policemen for more pressing duties.

Assigned to the state fire marshal's office, the new arson investigators are expected to relieve the state police criminal investigative command from the time consuming job of investigating arsons. The boating officers, who will report to the recently created water safety division of the Department of Public Safety, will relieve about 30 state policemen previously assigned to patrol Kentucky's waterways.

This shift in responsibility was first proposed by Gov. Wendell H. Ford during the gubernatorial campaign and is the first of a number of planned state agency reorganizations to be put into effect.

Governor Ford's Press Secretary Thomas Preston said the move would put more state troopers on the highways "into the roles they are trained and best suited for." He described the action as "another fulfillment of the governor's campaign commitments to the people of Kentucky."

A spokesman for the Department of Public Safety said the new boating officers will help alleviate problems on some of the more remote waterways in Kentucky where enforcement has been weak in the past due to a lack of manpower. To this end, the department anticipates hiring 17 additional officers by July.

Some of the more common boating infractions the officers will be looking for are overloading, overpowering and failure to register boats.

Two separate bills, pending passage by the General Assembly, are expected to give both boating officers and arson investigators the general powers of a law enforcement officer.

In addition to enforcing water safety regulations, the boating officers will share with state police the responsibility for investigating thefts and acts of vandalism reported by boat owners and dock operators.

Funding under the federal Emergency Employment Act (EEA) will provide a major portion of the costs for maintaining both programs over the next two fiscal years. The Bureau of Arson Investigation has been allocated $110,000 for fiscal year 1972-73, $90,000 of which are EEA FUNDS. The Division of Boating has been allocated $472,280 for the same period, $257,780 of which are EEA funds.

Howard's Magazine Gets Ky. Arts Grant

At a recent magazine judging held at the Phoenix Hotel, Lexington, WIND Magazine, published by Quentin R. Howard, Route 11 Pikeville, was awarded a grant of $250 by the Kentucky Arts Commission.

Previously, the magazine had received a national award of $500 from the federal-funded agency, the Coordinating Council of Literary Magazines, New York.

WIND was the only privately owned magazine to receive this amount. Dr. B. W. Ball, Agnes Scott College, Decatur, Georgia, commended Howard on his selection of poetry of high quality and quoted 11 poets whom he had published in the last four issues, in a speech, entitled "The Three Occasions For Poetry." These Kentuckians are Malcolm Glass, David Winkler, Ron Seitz, Mildred W. Boggs and Lee Pennington.

WIND is published three or four times a year, and Number 4 is now being distributed. Number 5 will be distributed in late April.

No Cash Change On Food Stamps USDA Announce

Effective March 1, merchants were prohibited from giving cash change in food stamp transactions, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service.

This was the original policy when the food stamp program was started. The regulations were later changed to allow up to 49 cents in cash change in the hope that it would speed up food stamp sales at the checkout counter.

There were so many reports of abuses of the program under the revision, however, that there were widespread demands that the cash change be ended.

Under the new policy, when the amount of change due is less than 50 cents, the food stamp customer should have a choice: (1) Accept a credit slip for 49 cents or less; (2) Trade out the balance in eligible foods or; (3) Pay the store the difference in cash.

No pressure should be placed on the customer regarding which option he should select, Carl Horn, district manager for the Food and Nutrition Service, said.

Credit slips cannot exceed 49 cents in a single transaction. All credit slips issued must show the amount of the credit slip, and that the credit slip is redeemable only for eligible food at the named store.

In preparing slips or tokens, Horn advised food retailers that slips or tokens must not look like or be the same size or material as United States coins. Credit slips must not look like official food coupons, and they may not use the seal of the U. S. Department of Agriculture on them.

Credit slips issued by one authorized firm may not be accepted by another authorized firm unless the two firms are under a single ownership or are obviously members of the same food marketing cooperative.

Horn stressed that each credit slip or token must clearly state that it can be redeemed only in eligible foods.

Unendorsed 50-cent coupons can also be used for change as usual. Grocers were advised by Horn to keep a sufficient supply on hand for this purpose.

The FNS district manager also reported that five more Kentucky counties—Carroll, Greene, Jessamine, Robertson and Webster—have been designated by the federal agency to administer food stamp programs.

With the addition of these five new counties, Kentucky will have a total of 78 counties operating food stamp programs. The other 46 counties will continue to operate USDA's direct food distribution program for needy families.

Because of the continuing responsibilities in connection with the administration of the Food Stamp Program in the state of Virginia, the Bristol (Virginia) field office was assigned to the local Southeast District. Mr. Horn assumed responsibility for the Bristol office as of March 1. Cities and counties included in the Bristol project area are: Dickenson, city of Bristol, Grayson, Lee, Washington, Wise (city of Norton), Wythe, Smyth, Tazewell and city of Galax.

Cooking is Clean and Safe on an Electric Range!

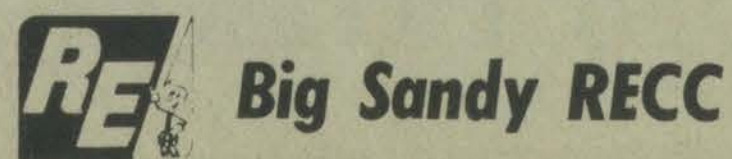

Flameless electricity is the only truly clean heat source for cooking. There is no soot, fumes or flame. Pots and pans stay clean with no black residue to scrub off. There's no fuel grime to stain walls, ceilings and curtains. So your kitchen stays cleaner with an electric range.

An electric range cooks with heat, not flames. The heating element distributes the heat evenly across the bottom of the cooking utensil.

A clean, efficient electric range offers so many cooking advantages. And remember, flameless electricity gives you a cleaner, safer home environment.

Electricity — the cleanest energy you can use.

Senate Black Lung Amendment Shifts Payments to Employers

The Senate saved Kentucky's deep mine coal industry from what is spokesmen said would be near death Friday with the passage of a previously defeated amendment on black lung claims.

The amendment, approved 18-16, would require all employers in the state to begin paying 25 per cent of the cost of occupational disease claims after Jan. 1, 1973. It was tacked onto the end of a comprehensive workmen's compensation bill, that subsequently passed 32-4.

As originally introduced by Sen. Joe Stacy, D-West Liberty, the bill would have required employers to pay 50 per cent of the costs of such claims after Jan. 1, 1973, and 75 per cent after Jan. 1, 1974. The rest would be paid by a special workmen's compensation fund, which now pays 100 per cent of all OD claims.

Supporters of the amendment said that without it the bill, coupled with the 4 per cent coal severance tax passed this session, would destroy the deep mining industry in Eastern Kentucky and create a tremendous increase in surface mining.

Opponents of the amendment argued that since coal miners received approximately 90 per cent of the benefits from the special fund, the coal industry should pay more than the 10 per cent it currently contributes. The fund is maintained through assessments on all employers.

With the amendment, coal operators will continue to pay 10 per cent of the special fund but also will pay 25 per cent of black lung costs.

The amendment, offered by Sen. Kelsey Friend, D-Pikeville, was added while the bill was before his Senate Labor and Industry Committee.

Health Department Stresses Measures To Prevent Poison

March 19-25 is National Poison Prevention Week, and the Floyd County Health Department says it's a good time to review the measures you take to protect your family from possible poisoning.

In Kentucky during the first six months of 1971, there were 18 accidental deaths from gases and vapors, four from drugs and medications and two from other solid and liquid substances. Despite the ever-present danger of small children's exposure to poisonous substances, all these accidental poisoning victims were teen-agers and adults.

The health department suggests the following poison prevention measures for the whole family.

Lock up or keep out of the reach of children all dangerous substances, including shoe polish, ink, glue and all cosmetics, such as nail polish, perfumes and facial creams. Mark all poison containers as poisonous. Store medicines and household products away from food. Use cleaning fluids with adequate ventilation.

Don't transfer a product from its original container without transferring the label to the new container. If that can't be done, don't transfer the product. Never put poisonous substances in containers such as pop bottles which children associate with food and drink. If you must put a cleaning substance in a pan, use that pan only for that purpose.

Read the label on every product you buy and reread before each use. After use of household products, don't leave them open or within reach of children, even for that moment you're out of the room.

Date all drugs when you get them. Clean out medicine cabinets at least twice a year and flush old medicines down the drain. Rinse out empty containers before putting in the trash. Don't store medicine containers that are similar next to each other. Don't give medicine prescribed for one person to another. Don't take or give medicine in the dark, for you may have the wrong bottle or the wrong amount. Don't tell a child he's getting candy when it's medicine or else he may try to eat more later.

Don't burn aerosol containers, for they may explode and some chemicals produce harmful fumes when burned.

Get rid of all poisonous plants if you have children. Teach them never to eat plants, wild mushrooms and toadstools.

Beware of carbon monoxide poisoning. Don't turn your car on in a closed garage. Don't travel or sit at a drive-in in a completely closed car with the motor on; always at least open one window slightly. Don't use charcoal indoors for cooking or heat, for it, too, can give off carbon monoxide.

'Johnny Horizon' Starts Monday in Lake Area

"Johnny Horizon" arrived at Dewey Lake Monday, and he will stay there for some time to work, Dean Murray, Dewey Dam manager, said this week.

"Johnny Horizon" is the name given by the U. S. Corps of Engineers to the massive cleanup program planned for the reservoir area.

Mr. Murray said the lake itself has been cluttered with all kinds of debris after rising waters there had pulled onto the lake surface a distressing accumulation of discarded cans, plastic jugs and other trash left behind by visitors, campers and the public in general.

He said state Department of Highways trucks will be available to haul away trash collections and that its workers will clean up state road right-of-way through Jenny Wiley State Park. The help of Mainstream workers also is being sought.

Groups which already have promised cooperation or active participation in the cleanup campaign include the Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce, the Dewey Lake Fish & Game Club, the Junior Woman's Club here, the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad, the Community Action Program and the Senior Citizens' Program.

Two Land Cases Reach Decision In Court Here

The heavy backlog of civil cases resulting from the condemnation of right-of-way by the Department of Highways for construction of new US 23 in this county is being reduced but the work is slow and hearing of the last of about 25 such cases apparently lies some distance ahead.

Two cases had been heard during the current court term as of Monday morning. In the trial of the Department of Highways case vs. Rosemary Meade, et al, last Friday the landowners gained an $18,000 verdict but actually will receive only the $15,000 figure originally set by court-appointed appraisers because the case was not appealed to circuit court in time. The state had offered only $9,500.

In the other trial of the week Clifford and Draxie Reynolds, et al, were awarded $10,000 damages. They had been allowed $12,500 by the appraisers and had used the money. The court directed that they repay the Department of Highways $2,500, plus interest from Aug. 13, 1970.

The April criminal court docket is expected to be light, with no murder or shooting and wounding cases booked for trial, and it is possible, court attaches said, that some of the term will be devoted to hearing other right-of-way cases.

Presidential Primary Bill Gets Approval by the Kentucky House

The House of Representatives passed the presidential primary bill with an amendment that would bar candidates seeking more than one party nomination and independent candidates.

It would provide for election of national-convention delegates at the regular primary election on the first Tuesday after the fourth Monday in May.

Several lawmakers praised the measure and expressed displeasure with national conventions as a means of selecting presidential candidates.

"I don't like conventions—I don't like county conventions, state conventions or national conventions," said Rep. Fred Morgan, D-Paducah, a long-time proponent of presidential primaries. "I don't like having the candidates for president chosen in smokefilled rooms in Chicago or Miami. I am looking forward to the day when we have a national primary election."

The amendment, sponsored by Rep. Nicholas Kafoglis, D-Bowling Green, would exclude candidates such as Alabama Gov. George Wallace who ran as an independent in 1968 and now is seeking the Democratic nomination.

GREEN MOUNTAIN FALLS, Colo. (AP)—Pat Brady, jovial sidekick of cowboy Roy Rogers in movies and on television, died recently. He was 57.

Candidates would get on the primary ballot by petition of at least 1000 registered voters of a party, appointment by a presidential-candidate selection committee or by appearing in at least two other primaries and getting at least 5 per cent of the total vote cast.
