

New School Adds To Village Census

Allen Central High Opens at Eastern With 644 Pupils

The village of Eastern had its own "population explosion" last Wednesday when the new Allen Central high school opened its doors there to 644 students.

The school, which will accommodate students of four former high schools—Martin, Maytown, Garrett and Wayland—is the first new high school to be established in the county in almost 50 years. The transition from individual schools to one educational center was made smoothly as pupils unloaded from a fleet of school buses and headed for the day's work inside the new structure.

The new school, which was receiving the finishing touches even as classroom work began, has the most modern educational facilities available and has been hailed by educators and school officials as "the finest in Eastern Kentucky." James David Hensley is principal of the school.

At 7:05 a.m., as the first huge yellow bus rolled in, a jubilant County Superintendent Charles Clark walked to the door to greet the first student to descend. Mr. Clark was joined by James Arville Duff, member of the Floyd County Board of Education, who has an added special interest in Allen Central—his daughters are enrolled there; and Ross "Bud" Cooley, former board member, who had been forced to resign because of ill-health but has followed the progress of the new million-dollar school plant with much interest.

In addressing the student body, Supt. Clark extended greetings to all of "Allen Central High School Family." He reminded the student body and faculty that this is only the beginning of a huge educational endeavor. Phase II contract will be let within weeks and will include a multi-purpose building housing a gymnasium, auditorium and music department.

Grayson Firm Gets US 23 Surfacing

Highway Commissioner Charles Pryor, Jr. last week announced that a contract calling for 1.279 miles of bituminous concrete surface class I on US 23, the Prestonsburg-Pikeville Road, was awarded by the Department of Highways.

The successful low bidder was East Kentucky Paving Corporation, Grayson. The amount of the contract to be executed is $19,190.81.

Music of Mountains To Feature Festival

They'll be coming from Florida to the south and from Detroit to the north, for the seventh annual Kentucky Folk Festival which will begin Friday evening at the Jenny Wiley Amphitheatre, but the sound of music will be predominantly mountain.

Banjoes, fiddles, guitars, dulcimers and ballad singers will feature the two evening programs, Friday and Saturday, Mrs. Edith F. James, founder and director of the festival, said this week.

And when the festival closes next Sunday afternoon with its memorable hymn sing early chants and well-loved religious songs of the region will predominate.

The program for Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoon is expected to include the greatest number of artists and the widest variety of music yet presented at the festival.

Hunting Mishap Survivor Faces Possible Charge

A Floyd county man who explained his fatal shooting last Wednesday in Fleming county of a hunting companion by saying he thought he was firing at a groundhog, faces possible arrest on a manslaughter charge.

Fleming Coroner Robert Jones said he would seek a warrant for the arrest of Alvin Caudill, 45, of Melvin, in the shotgun death of Northern Brown, 55, of Virgie, when Caudill is dismissed from Fleming County Hospital where he was admitted for treatment for shock and chest pains.

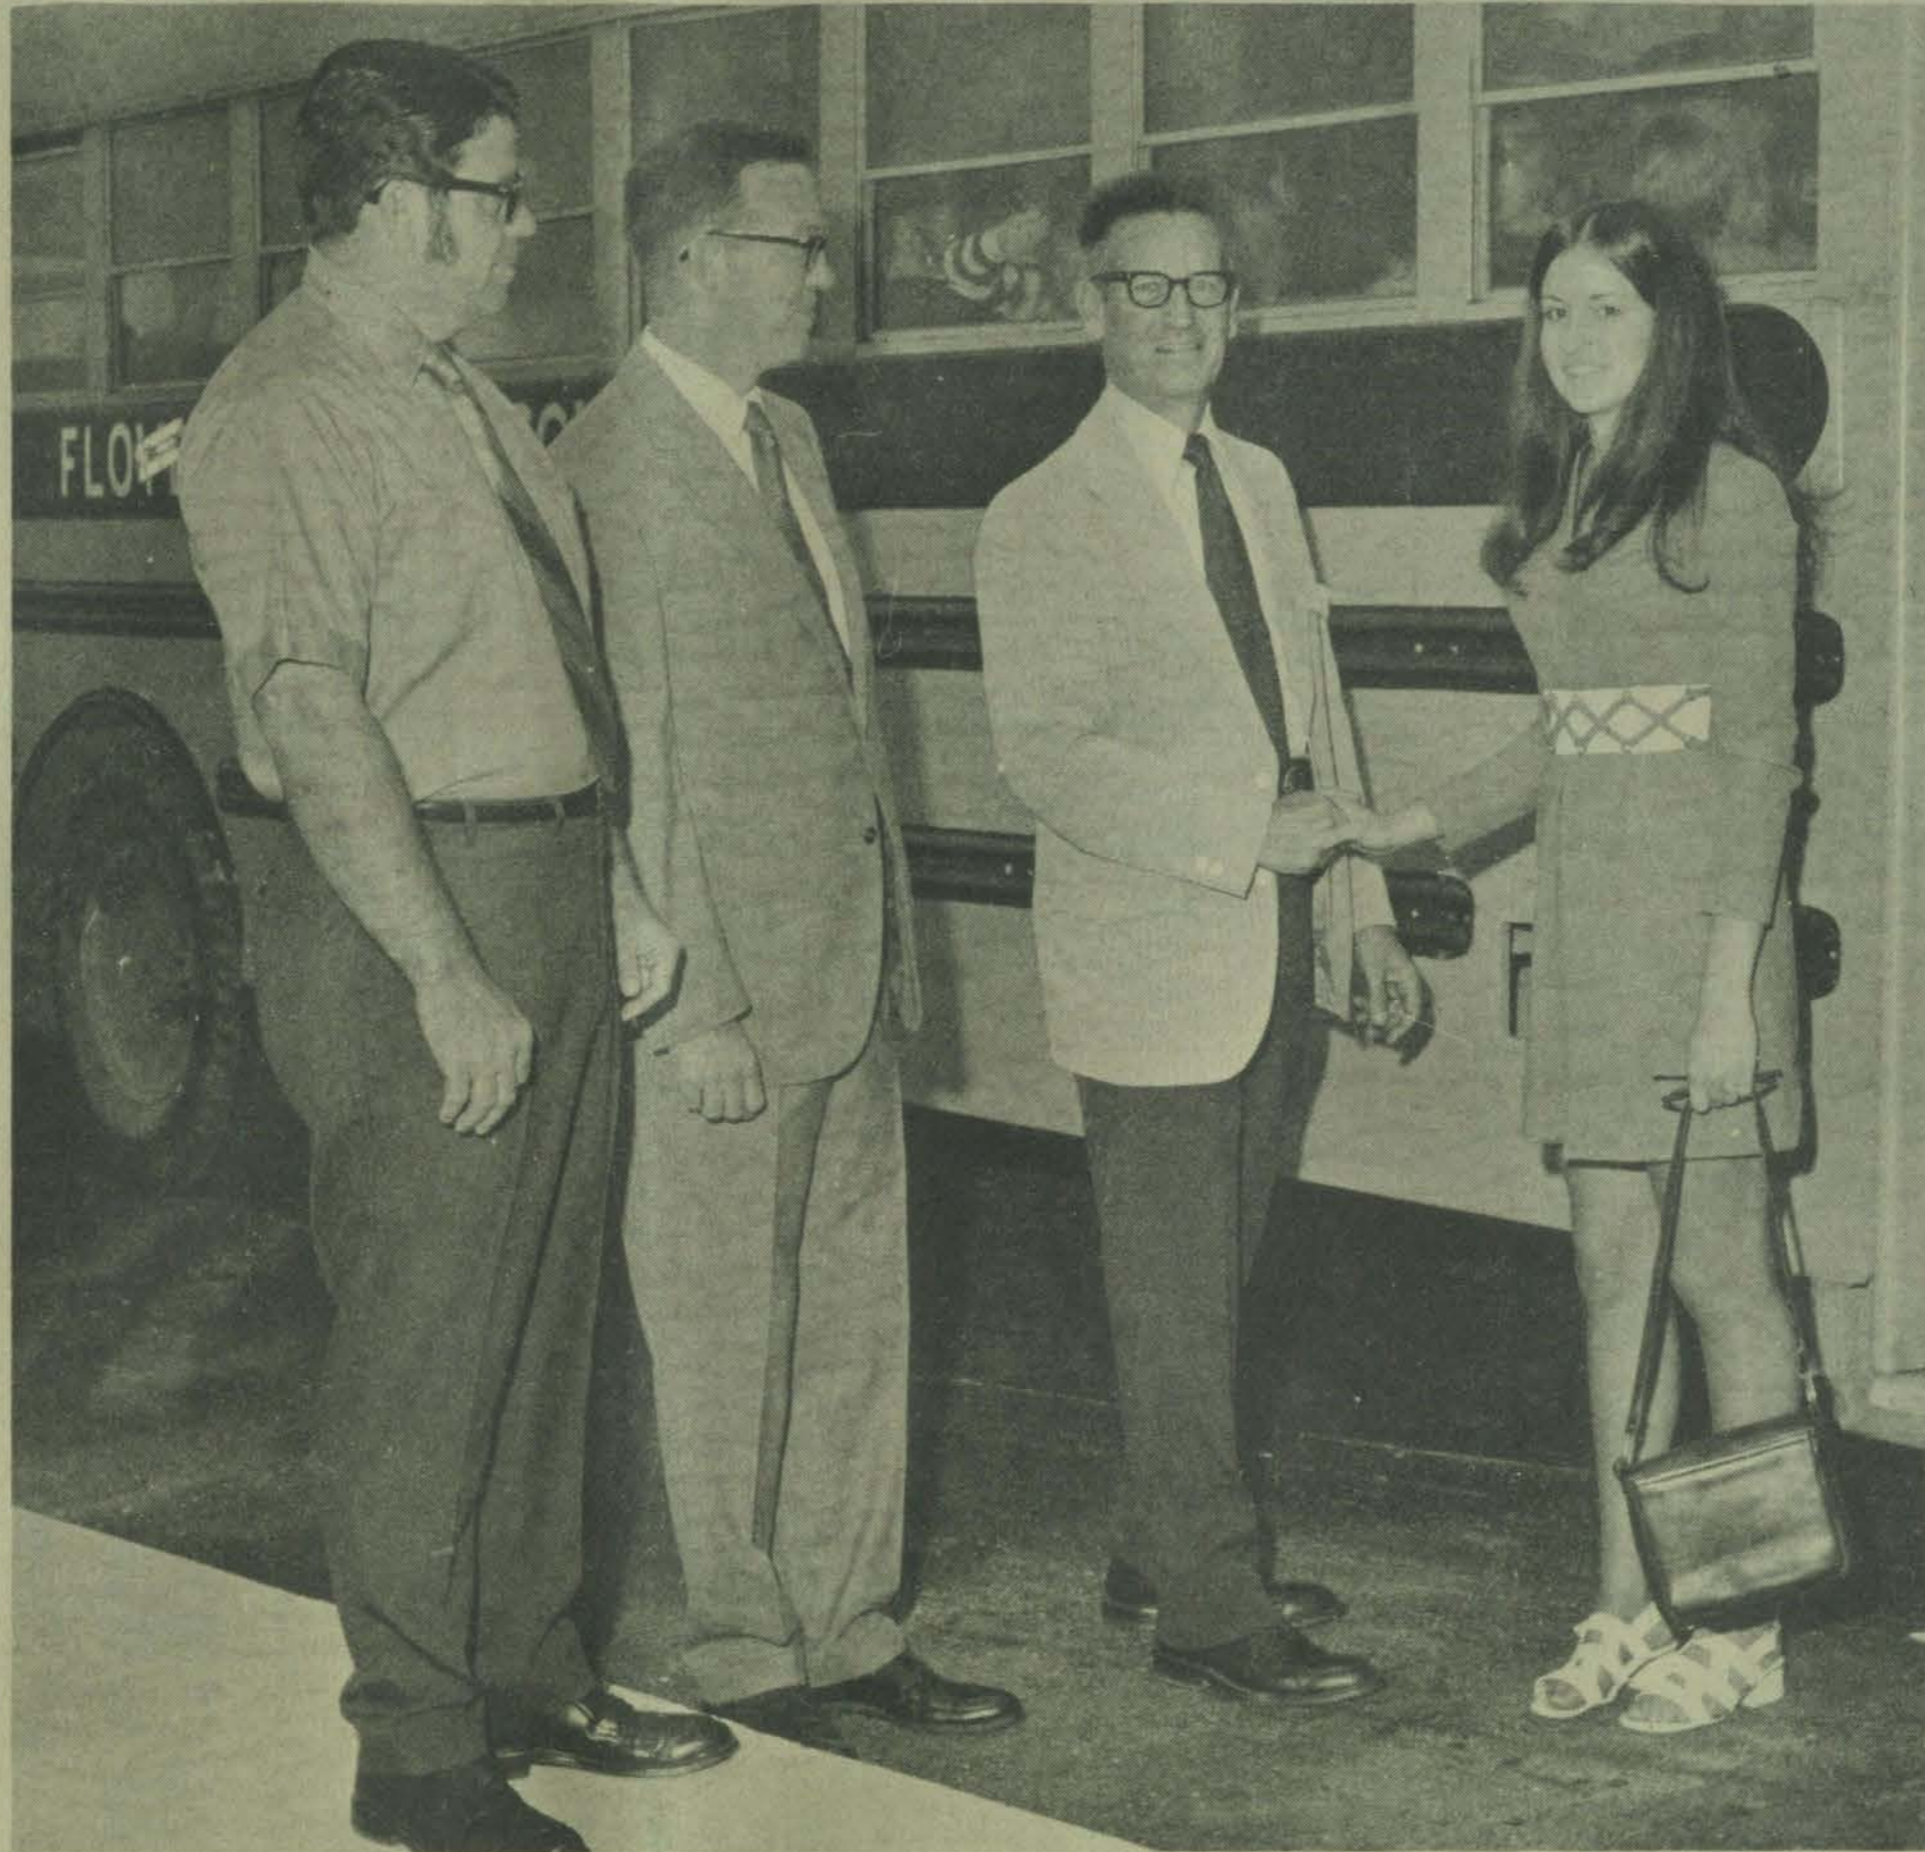

The inquest scheduled for Monday also was contingent upon Caudill's dismissal from the hospital.

Apparently, three shots were fired. Brown, a retired miner and Regular Baptist minister, was struck in his face, shoulders, arms and hips by shotgun pellets fired at a range of about 50 feet.

Hubert Thornsbury, 45, of Melvin, hunting companion of Brown and Caudill, said the two men involved in the tragedy were cousins and that both were ordained ministers of the Regular Baptist Church. It was indicated that Caudill's condition was such that he has been unable to give a full statement.

The shooting took place in a woodland off KY 616, near Fairview, Fleming county, around 9:30 a.m. The three men had been hunting since dawn, Fleming authorities were told, Caudill and Thornsbury hunting

Clark Greets First Arrival at School

Bomb Threats Reported Here And McDowell

Last Tuesday's bomb threat at Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin, was only one of a series of such offenses, The Times learned Tuesday morning.

The McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital was evacuated, the night following the Martin threat, after receiving a telephone call warning that a bomb had been placed in the building. Only two patients were not removed from the hospital, because doctor's held their evacuation would result in their deaths, Sheriff Frank Leslie said.

Then came the same type call Monday night to the Mountain Manor Nursing Home here which is occupied largely by elderly patients. After a male voice had telephoned the warning at 10:35 p.m., members of the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad searched the building, room by room, but no patients were disturbed.

At about the same time telephoned threats were received by Jerry's Restaurant and by Mrs. Tommie Owens, on Highland here. Both male and female voices made the threats, it was said.

An attempt was made by The Times to ascertain if South-Central Bell Telephone Company has been asked to anticipate future calls and attempt to trace them.

Floyd 4-H'ers Score In State Competition

Floyd county 4-H Clubs have produced at the 1972 Kentucky State Fair two individual state poultry judging champions and a championship demonstration team.

In the senior 4-H judging competition three Maytown clubmembers ranked one, two, three. They are Jeffery Martin, new state poultry judging champion, son of Mr. and Mrs. Graydon Martin; Kent Flanery, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Flanery, and Steve Herald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Herald.

Young Martin scored 1047 points out of a possible 1100, and Flanery and Herald were only one point behind. The tie existing between them was decided by the fact that Flanery had more 100 (perfect) rings.

This year was the fifth in a row for a Floyd county 4-H'er to be the top individual judge in the poultry classification, Jack Friar, coach of both the junior and senior teams, said. All three of the Maytown top scorers in the senior division will represent Kentucky in the national poultry-judging competition in Chicago, Thanksgiving week-end.

In the junior division Dale Conn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hershell Conn, of Dana, won the state championship, replacing the 1971 champion, Mark McGuire, of Langley. Young McGuire, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde

This Town . . . That World

THE HEARING SHARPENS AND DULLS

When the late afternoons draw on, nice and cool, I begin to hear sounds of fall. But let the sun warm things up a bit—up into the far 80's, say—and my hearing seems to fail... One who was asked if "it" didn't sound like fall grumpily replied, "Ask me after school starts. I keep my earplugs in till the young'uns all get back in school."

I try to keep this column on the lighter side, but it gets to be a problem. And I am not alone. The fact is, this present era is perhaps producing less humor from those who write, or attempt to write, than at any time in several generations. Things get so grim, sometimes, that you can't laugh at yourself—and when you reach that stage, my friend, you're in what is known in some circles as "a bad fix."

THE HELPLESS UNDER ATTACK

This week is a case in point. I see no humor whatsoever in these bomb threats that rout from hospitals the sick, the weak in years, young or old. Somebody is viciously cruel or cruelly thoughtless... It's past understanding, the wizardry and the ineptness of science. From the Space Center in Houston, Texas men can make adjustments in the flight of a spacecraft on its way to the moon—look, no hands!—but

Childers Jailed On Nine Counts

Walter C. Childers, Betsy Layne coal company executive who earlier had been named defendant, or co-defendant, in a series of civil suits, was jailed here last week on nine warrants charging him with uttering worthless checks. A 10th check charge was also lodged against him.

Childers, who was jailed by State Trooper Gary Rose and County Detective Sam Hale, is accused of issuing worthless checks which total about $38,000.

He and his firm, the Colonial Coal Co., Inc., were named in civil actions seeking to recover a total of $265,965. Assets of the company were attached.

In a week-end which brought the jail population here up to 34 the only report of violence was that of the severe beating of a Halo man at Garrett Sunday night.

Paul Ray Caudill, about 35, was brought to the Prestonsburg General Hospital by Sheriff Frank Leslie and deputies after he had been beaten about his head with a blunt instrument—possibly, a pistol-butt, Leslie said. He suffered severe loss of blood. Caudill failed to identify his assailant.

Court Buys Machinery, Asks Grant Outdoor Recreation Funds Being Sought To Build Mini-Parks

Floyd county last week completed negotiations for three items of new road machinery, and paid cash for one of the three.

The cash purchase was made possible, in part, from the $10,427 in strip-mine fees paid to the county by the state. The item partially covered by these fees is a grader, purchased from the Brandeis Machinery Company for $23,500.

Two other items of machinery were bought on a three-year deferred payment plan. One of these was a loader bought from the Kentucky Machinery Company for $33,195, less $10,750 credit on the trade-in of the county's old loader. The other is a caterpillar dozer purchased from the Wayne Supply Company for $35,826, less trade-in credit of $11,225 on the old dozer.

In a recent meeting the fiscal court adopted a resolution requesting a grant from the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation to provide mini parks at several locations in the county.

County Attorney James R. Allen said his understanding of the program is that federal funds will be available to a maximum of possibly $5,000 per site for a program of this kind to provide recreation in rural areas. The court's resolution indicated an interest in establishing from 8 to 10 mini-parks, and Allen said at least one such facility will be sought for each magisterial district.

The county would be required to provide sites for such recreation areas, each to be not less than an acre in area. Such acquisition would be by 25-year lease. One such site is already in prospect.

The county attorney said communities near such parks would be asked to contribute to their planning. Mini-parks such as those considered might include picnic tables, tennis courts, basketball courts and the like.

Two Ivel Homes Suffer Damage In Train Wreck

Thirty-six cars of an 84-car manifest freight of the C. & O. Railway Company derailed at Ivel last Tuesday, damaging two homes and injuring two women. No estimate of company damage was available.

Work continued Monday on tracks torn up by the derailment, but a passing track has been in use since the day of the wreck.

The home of Mrs. Lula Belle Osborne was reported damaged beyond repair and that of Mrs. Lou Osborne as having severe damage, although the company's public relations office in Huntington said Monday morning it had received no report of severe loss to either home. Injuries to the two women were not serious, it was said. Mrs. Lula Belle Osborne was hurt as she fled the scene and was grazed by a tree knocked down by the wrecked cars.

Ready To Relinquish Title

Lovely Rhonda Hall, who soon will relinquish her crown as the reigning Miss Floyd County, said last week that her year as holder of the title has been a most rewarding experience.

"I feel it has enabled me to meet a wide variety of people, to broaden my outlook on life, and has permitted me to serve as a representative of the many persons in the Floyd county area," she remarked.

Miss Hall will relinquish her title when she crowns the new Miss Floyd County who will be selected Saturday at 8 p.m. at Prestonsburg high school at the climax of the pageant being conducted under sponsorship of the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club.

Since winning the title last year, Miss Hall has appeared throughout the area as representative of the Floyd County Pageant at a number of civic and social functions. Shortly after winning the local event, she competed in and won the title of Miss Kentucky Apple Queen of 1972 in Paintsville.

Although she will be ending her year of duties, Miss Hall said she is pleased that she can make way for another area young lady to enjoy the honor of wearing the crown of Miss Floyd County.

"Each one of the 11 contestants entered in the pageant this year is worthy of the honor," she said. "Although only one will be selected for the title, all the girls who participate in the pageant will find it a great experience."

Miss Hall is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hall, of Betsy Layne, and is a student at the University of Tennessee. She was sponsored last year by the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad.

Robert R. Thornsberry, Knott county native and former Floyd teacher, will become acting administrator of Appalachian Regional Hospital's community health center in Man, W. Va., Sept. 1.

His assignment was announced by T. P. Hipkens, president of ARH, a non-profit health-care system which operates an 82-bed hospital and related services in Man.

Thornsberry will go to Man from Lexington, where he is an administrative assistant in ARH's central office. He is 47 and a native of Kite, Knott county.

He received his master's degree in hospital and health services administration from the Ohio State University in Columbus last June.

In qualifying for the master's degree he served an administrative residency in the Metropolitan Health Planning Corporation, Cleveland, Ohio.

Before going to Ohio State, Thornsberry had spent 14 years in various administrative positions in Appalachian Regional Hospitals and its predecessor, the Miners' Memorial Hospital Association.

He entered the health care field in 1956 as admissions supervisor of what is now the ARH hospital at Hazard. In 1964 he was transferred to an accountant position in the ARH Central office. He went to the Harlan ARH hospital in 1965 as an administrative assistant and later was promoted to assistant administrator. In 1968 he was assigned to assistant administrator of the ARH hospital in Beckley, W. Va., and in 1969 returned to the central office.

Prior to entering health care, Thornsberry served as a teacher in Wheelwright high school, and worked for the Detroit Transmission Co. and for Inland Steel Co., Wheelwright.

He was graduated from Knott County high school at Hindman, in 1943, attended Caney Junior College (now Alice Lloyd College) for two years, and received a bachelor's degree in business administration from Morehead State University in 1952. He also did graduate work at Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond.

Thornsberry is married to the former Ruth Daniels, of Hindman, and they have one daughter, Mrs. Wayne Curry of Harlan, Ky. He is a member of the Baptist church.

The new acting administrator of the ARH center in Man succeeds Administrator Jason M. Riggins, Jr., who on Sept. 1 will become administrator and chief executive officer of ARH's community health center in Hazard.

When Education Is Not Enough

Thoughts on the opening of schools over the nation:

Is it reactionary to look backward and actually yearn for some of the qualities of education of earlier years? We refer to the time spent in those days on the basics, to actual "book-learning," exclusive of the broader purview of human knowledge that modern schools claim to provide... commonplace matters such as reading, writing, arithmetic, history, spelling, and so on. And a return to the old emphasis on the fundamentals of good citizenship.

There is a popular theory, these days, that education can save the world. Education may, instead, destroy the world. That is not to derogate the importance of learning but to contend that knowledge does not of itself mean a better world. It was education that produced the A-bomb; it is not uneducated men, but the educated, who are destroying the only environment in which man can live.

Education without God, knowledge that penetrates even the mysteries of the universe and which yet fails to include those teachings of honesty, justice, love for home and parents, God and country ("how corny can you get?")—just plain goodness—simply prepare the "educated" to commit greater atrocities than the caveman ever conceived.

The people of the United States are better educated, in a fashion, than ever before. The crime rate is higher than ever before. "Educated" men and women urge violence in the name of a justice and freedom they have never learned, either at home or in school. Leaders, from the President to the lowest official echelons, ponder the situation, and worry, and plan counter-measures.

But neither money nor weight of the law will change the riotous natures that have never received the gentling teachings that aren't found in the modern-day textbook.

The first great institutions of learning in America were founded on the bedrock of religion, based on the Bible. Harvard and Yale are two of these. Today, these and almost all other higher learning centers have left these principles of the pioneers. So-called "academic freedom" has left instructors free to sow the seeds of atheism, revolution and even Communism among a "captive" audience, those whom they teach.

Maybe a backward look would help us. Somewhere back there we lost something.

The agenda will include approval of job description of the project director, including advertising and recruitment procedures; discussion of special conditions of the grant financing operation of the program; election procedures to be followed in filling the vacancy created on the board by the resignation of Joe Ratliff, of Hueysville; the hiring of an auditor and a preliminary audit survey.

Pike Rest Home Workers Strike

A second Pikeville health facility, the Mountain Manor Nursing Home of Pikeville, became involved Monday in a labor dispute with the Communications Workers of America.

The nursing home is owned by a group of Floyd county men.

The first labor dispute began at Pikeville June 12 when employees of the Methodist Hospital went on strike.

The Mountain Manor situation centered on 12 employees who claimed they were fired because of requests for union representation.

Meanwhile, the strike situation at Methodist Hospital there was punctuated by the explosion Sunday night of two sticks of dynamite on the hospital grounds. Damage was limited to a few cars parked nearby. A white 1962 Chevrolet car is said to have figured in the dynamiting.

The action of the employees at the nursing home who walked off their jobs Sunday night was termed an "unofficial strike" by the home administrator, Mrs. Edith Almond.

Mrs. Almond circulated a letter Monday to eight persons who formed a picket line about 3 a.m. Monday, asking employees to "reconsider the patients, yourselves and the nursing home and return to work at once."

She termed the strike illegal, claiming no union member had contacted her requesting negotiations. Striking employees have requested representation by Communication Workers of America Local 10317, the same union involved in the long strike at Methodist Hospital.

One nursing home employee, Mrs. Trudy Thacker, a nurse's aid who stayed away from work Monday "to honor the picket line," said the 12 employees who left their posts on the 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. shift were relieved of their duties.

Mrs. Almond said Monday the employees refused to work with those employees who had not signed a union card, denoting membership in the CWA and were, therefore, relieved.

The strikers are asking, according to Mrs. Thacker, for wage increases, sufficient supplies and equipment, a guaranteed lunch break, and "to be treated alike," claiming employees of equal status receive unequal pay.

Mrs. Almond said she discussed workers' grievances at their request last Friday. "I asked them to bear with me until the board meeting Monday night and they agreed," she said, adding the matter was added to the meeting agenda.

The administrator said she also talked to the employees Sunday before the walkout. "I explained that to sign (a union card) or not to sign was their privilege, but I would prefer they not do it on the premises or during working hours," she said. "They twisted what I said, claiming I was firing them," she added.

A nursing home spokesman said a sufficient number of the 90 employees are remaining on the job to care for the 88 patients.

Why Inspect Restaurants?

By JOE B. Vance
(Health Educator,
Floyd County Health Dept.)

Why do sanitarians inspect restaurants? Sanitarians inspect restaurants to protect the public health by preventing the spread of disease and maintaining sanitary conditions. By law, every restaurant in the state must apply for a Kentucky State Department of Health Certificate to operate. Certificates are granted if the restaurant meets the requirements of the State Food Service Code. Each restaurant is inspected before the Certificate to Operate can be issued. It is checked at least once every six months thereafter.

The State Food Service Code is the sanitarian's guide to what is checked in each restaurant. Basically, they check food supplies and methods of protecting food from contamination. They check personnel for cleanliness, health and disease controls. They look at food equipment and utensils to be sure they're clean, constructed and installed properly so that they can be used properly and cleaned easily. Under the category of sanitary facilities and controls, sanitarians check water supplies, methods of sewage disposal, plumbing, toilet facilities, hand-washing facilities, methods of garbage and rubbish disposal as well as vermin control. Finally, they look at the total building and the restaurant operation in regard to housekeeping procedures, provision of dressing rooms and lockers, appropriate ventilation, lighting and materials used for floors, walls and ceilings.

The sanitarian is your friend. It is his job, his obligation and his duty to protect the health of people patronizing eating establishments and yet be sure that food being prepared is done so under clean and sanitary conditions.

Pallbearers Listed

Pallbearers at the funeral here last Wednesday of Robert L. Slone, of Mishawaka, Ind., who died in a South Bend, Ind. hospital, were Bill H. Howard, Jesse L. Lafferty, Greene Haywood, Carvel Ousley, Frank Leslie, Virgil Conn, Leven Burchett, Benton Ousley, William Wills, Carl Castle, Elzie Whitaker, James Carter, James Carter, Jr.

Gov. Wendell Ford presented Harlan County Judge Hugh Hall with a $24,000 check to reimburse the county for flood damages suffered in 1963, 1967 and 1970. Civil Defense spokesmen said the relief came late "simply because previous administrations overlooked disaster aid to the counties."

'Strongest Swimmer' To Give Exhibition, Sunday and Monday

Walter A. Poenisch, of Grove City, O., who is billed as "the world's strongest endurance swimmer," will give a demonstration at Dewey Lake of his strength in the water during Labor Day week-end.

At 3 p.m. Sunday and 11 a.m. Monday the 59-year-old Poenisch will tow a houseboat while swimming in the lake, in the vicinity of May Lodge. No charge to spectators will be made, and the public is invited, Lonnie Durbin, assistant manager at Jenny Wiley State Park, said Tuesday.

Mr. Poenisch, who is listed in Swimming's Hall of Fame at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., holds the world's record for the longest ocean swim, has pulled a 15-ton steamer 1.5 miles while swimming, and a few months ago swam 50 miles against strong current in an attempt to swim from Nassau to Miami.

Dept. of Highways In 4-Day Experiment

Frankfort, Ky.—The Department of Highways is experimenting with a 10-hour day, 4-day week, Commissioner Charles Pryor, Jr. said last week. The test is being undertaken on a limited basis in Highway District Two, headquartered at Madisonville.

At present, only mowing crews are involved. Other maintenance operations of the district are to be phased into the experiment as scheduling permits.

The test period will run from August 1 to October 30. The starting hour for the Department's workmen, 7:30, remains unchanged. Two hours are added at the end of the work day so it now concludes at 5:30.

As arranged in District Two, the shorter work week includes Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The schedule allows a few men to be on duty on Friday, providing any special services that may be required.

The 10-hour day is now being used by many industries, particularly in urban areas, where the competition for labor is keen. The three days off this schedule provides are very attractive to many employees.

Commissioner Pryor pointed out that many of the Department's maintenance workers are small farmers. A four-day week gives them more time to devote to their crops.

Pryor emphasized that the scale of the experiment is quite restricted and no conclusions have yet been drawn. He said it is unlikely the Department would ever be able to schedule 10-hour work sessions except during the longer daylight hours between May and October. It could not be done in winter.

A major advantage to the Department is the elimination of travel time on one workday. When a crew is far from maintenance headquarters, this unproductive time can be substantial. Results of the experiment will be evaluated by maintenance engineers this winter and a determination will be made then whether to adopt the ten-hour day as a standard summer schedule for the Department's maintenance crew, Pryor said.

Equalize Funding For Schools Urges Lieut. Governor

Lt. Gov. Julian Carroll says Kentucky must develop a plan to equalize the funding of local school districts, but without taking money away from any district.

Addressing the Kentucky Association of School Administrators, the lieutenant governor said a prime goal for the state in this decade is to "improve education in such a way as to improve the quality of life for our citizens."

He said one of the main problems in improving education is equalization of funding.

"Like California, Texas and most other states in the nation, Kentucky makes use of property taxes in financing its public schools," Lt. Governor Carroll said. "And herein lies the source of great disparities."

He noted that the assessed valuation per student in Kentucky ranges from $9000 in some districts, to more than $90,000 in others.

"The Supreme Court may tell us we must equalize these disparities, or it may not," he said. "In any case, we ought to do it."

Lt. Governor Carroll did not outline a proposed plan, but said it should be a "leveling-up" process which would raise the expenditures of the lower districts toward the highest.

"It would be opposed to any scheme which would take money away from any district," he said.

Robert C. Stone, executive director of the Kentucky Law Enforcement Council, says the state's newly-revised penal code "must be polished up by the next legislature."

Stone's staff has prepared an 83-page analysis of the code's weaknesses for study this summer.

One Game, One Championship—Black Cats Down Wheelwright

By MARK LAFFERTY
The Wheelwright Trojans suffered their second straight loss of the season here Friday night as the Prestonsburg Black Cats romped over them, 32-8, for the Floyd county championship and their opening season victory. Last year, the two teams battled to a tie.

The Black Cats grabbed the opening lead, 7-0, on an 18 yard pass from Jim Blackburn to Robert Tackett. Prestonsburg widened the lead to 13-0 by the end of the first quarter with the aid of two Wheelwright fumbles that came only minutes apart. In the second quarter Wheelwright stalled the Cat offense and drove to the one-yard line where Clifford James, Wheelwright quarterback, sneaked the ball over for the Trojans only score. Darrell Branham bolted through the middle for the two-point conversion.

The third quarter was scoreless as the Prestonsburg offense was completely stopped. But the Trojan offense could do no better as it continued to turn over the ball on fumbles.

The fourth quarter was all Prestonsburg as the Cats came up with three touchdowns. One of these was on a 60-yard punt return by Earl Stevens, his second touchdown of the evening. His first came on an option play around left end in the first quarter. Then Dell Jagers, sophomore quarterback completed two touchdown passes on identical plays, Paul Pelphrey snaring the first from 20 yards out and Danny Layne the second from 16 yards away.

Next week, Prestonsburg hosts Clark County and Wheelwright goes against Fleming-Neon.

Tidbits of Kentucky Folklore

"WOODCHUCKS"

Only a few months before John Burroughs, the great nature writer and interpreter, left his country estate just north of New York City for a winter in California, he entertained at Woodchuck Lodge, his home, the popular nature writer Dallas Lore Sharp. In their chatter that day the eighty-eight-year-old Burroughs remarked that he had studied the woodchuck or groundhog all his life and still was learning new things about it every day. Sharp somehow felt that this remark summed up Burroughs as a writer and an observer. After a few months in California the old man decided he wanted to get back to his own acres to die; he died on the train as he was making his way back to an area that he interpreted as only one other American scene has been interpreted in books, Henry David Thoreau's Concord, Massachusetts, area.

Somehow it pleases me when some great scholar or great writer or a combination of these two decides to start digging right under his own feet, assured that the center of the earth is beneath. Some great people lose their chance to be identified with some place on the globe by trotting all around over it so fast that no place becomes for long their spot. I have never actually begged some student to stay where he was unless he had discovered that for him there was gold in them thar hills. On several occasions I have had the satisfaction of finding young fellows who, like Thoreau, traveled extensively in their own little ConCORDS, who found satisfaction, a living, and happiness in what, until their times, may have seemed just another little old place. It is alluring to set out to see the world and to persist until you have seen a lot of it. But for some of us, maybe hampered by not getting away and as far as we would often have liked, life has seemed very rich right in the cosmos around us and under our feet.

In this field of folklore many scholars have felt that they must go to the most undeveloped areas of the world, spend years on end trying to learn strange languages that have never been reduced to writing, and other years trying to arrive at the psychology of some half-wild tribes. They have done some remarkable work in this bringing back to the world of learning the customs and other folkways of little-known peoples.

Another type of folklorist has felt that our own folklore, so well known that it seems universal and commonplace, deserves our attention. In nearly every part of America are now working scholars who have decided to start digging on their own acres, especially before those acres are overrun with modern interstate highways or occupied by skyscrapers. Forty years ago the local folklorist who thus tried to set down what is actually the folkways of his own area was looked down on by the real scholars in the field. Unless you could come up with something strange, you were not studying folklore at all. It has always been a source of great satisfaction to me that our own Kentuckian, a music teacher in the Louisville schools, thought enough of folk music to ride on horseback into the most out-of-the-way mountain counties to find and preserve these treasures of folk life. Miss Josephine McGill was a whole generation ahead of her time, for most of her contemporaries still felt folklore was wild stuff, concerned with illiterate, even coarse, people, people who lived the other side of nowhere or back of somebody's field. I have used Miss McGill as an illustration of what I am trying to say: right at your fingertips, maybe, and certainly close by are buried treasures of folkways that should be dug out and kept for future people to know how to judge themselves and their backgrounds.

Lexington Girl Wins 1972 Miss Ky. REA

Miss Cynthia Pryse Williamson, of Lexington, is the new Miss Kentucky Rural Electric. The 19-year-old, brown-eyed, brunette daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Williamson, Jr., represented Blue Grass RECC in the Miss Kentucky Rural Electric beauty pageant held in Louisville, August 22-23.

Miss Williamson was selected by the judges from a total of 21 participants. Each participant had been selected to compete in the State Pageant by a local beauty contest at her rural electric cooperative.

As the reigning Miss Kentucky Rural Electric, Miss Williamson will now represent the state in the National Miss Rural Electrification Beauty Pageant to be held in Dallas, Texas, next February. An all-expense paid trip to Dallas for the national finals is one of the prizes Miss Williamson has won.

Other prizes awarded to her as winner of the State Pageant include a $300 scholarship to the school of her choice, the coveted winner's trophy, and an expense paid trip to Washington, D. C., next summer to participate in the national Rural Electric Youth Tour.

Miss Williamson ranks horseback riding, working with children, cooking and swimming as her favorite hobbies. As part of her extensive 4-H Club activities, she has shown horses all over Kentucky for the past six years. She also enjoys music and drama.

Her plans for the future include teaching speech and hearing therapy to physically handicapped children. She is currently a junior at the University of Kentucky.

The regularly scheduled meeting of the East Point Area Development Club for Monday, Sept. 4, has been postponed until Tuesday, September 5, at 7:30 at the Masonic Temple, East Point.

Miss Holmes, Bride of Mr. Curtiss

Miss Sarah Jane Holmes, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Harold Holmes of West Lafayette, O., became the bride of David Lynn Curtiss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Curtiss, of Westchester, O., Saturday, Aug. 12. The wedding was solemnized in the First Church of the Nazarene of Mount Vernon at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, with Dr. Dallas Baggett, of Cincinnati, district superintendent, officiating. Nuptial music was provided by Ron Neal.

The bride, a 1969 graduate of Athens high school, attended Olivet Nazarene College and Ohio University and was graduated from Mount Vernon Nazarene College in 1971. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Saunders, of Willard, formerly of the Prestonsburg vicinity.

The bridegroom was graduated from Lakota high school in 1970. He attended Mount Vernon Nazarene College and will be attending Trevecca Nazarene College in Nashville, Tenn., this fall. They will make their home in Nashville.

For her wedding the bride wore a floor-length gown of white nylon fashioned with high neckline and long shirtwaist sleeves. It was enhanced over-all with rows of tiny lace ruffles, and the Empire waistline was marked with a white satin ribbon. A pillbox headpiece held her full length mantilla veil which was edged with ruffles of lace. She carried a white Bible covered with lace and topped with a bouquet of red sweetheart roses and baby breath.

The bride's attendants were Miss Janelle Mullins of Athens, maid of honor, and bridesmaids Miss Phyllis Vanderpool of Willard, cousin of the bride, and Miss Christina Holmes, the bride's sister. Their floor-length gowns of chiffon in pink, mint green and lavender, respectively, were trimmed with eyelet lace with matching ribbon. They wore white picture hats with ribbon streamers to match their gowns, and they carried white baskets with carnations, pompons and baby breath in mixed colors.

Debbie Holmes, the bride's sister, served as flower girl.

Bruce Davis was best man, and guests were seated by Steve Holmes, brother of the bride, Tim Godbey, and Bob Tocheff.

Floyd Co. Students Share in Grants From Pike College

Pikeville College has awarded 18 presidential scholarships—two to Floyd county students—for the 1972-73 school year, according to Dr. Robert S. Cope, college president.

The scholarships amount to $1940 for men recipients and $1840 for women receiving the award. The difference is due to additional expense in dormitory facilities for men students.

These scholarships provide for tuition, room, board, and laboratory fees at Pikeville College for one year. They are renewable if requirements are met. A student to maintain the scholarship must earn a 2.5 grade point standing at the end of the freshman year and 3.0 in following years, and must follow academic and non-academic regulations of the college.

Thirteen of the awards were repeat scholarships going to students who had received similar scholarships for the 1971-'72 school year. The five new scholarships were awarded to 1972 high school graduates, all but one from Eastern Kentucky.

Renewal scholarships went to: Miss Rebecca Brown, East McDowell, McDowell high school graduate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Evan Brown; George William Greene, Ashland, Fairview high school graduate; Alan Dale Lawson, Drift, McDowell high school graduate, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie D. Lawson; Joseph Frederic Montebello, McRoberts; Gregory Randall Scott, R. R. 11, Pikeville; Craig Cole Anderson, Jenkins; Miss Deborah Hatfield, Ransom, Ky.; Miss Linda Kay Hinkle, Milo, Ky.; Billy Joe Lauhon, R. 2, Catlettsburg; Miss Sheila Christine Lowe, Pikeville; Miss Peggy Ann Newsome, Star Route, Virgie; Miss Jayne Robinson, Whitesburg; Miss Linda Delrhea Stiltner, Zanesville, O.

The five new scholarships went to: Vicky Sue Hackney, Williamson, W. Va.; John Richard Johnson, Pikeville; Richard Boyd Morris, Neon; Rossalene Mullins, Inez; Terry Clay Russell, Mouthcard.

CARD OF THANKS

My sincere thanks go out to all of our friends and neighbors who were so kind and helpful at the passing of my dear husband, Jesse Elliott. The loving hands that prepared food, the beautiful floral tributes, the efficient service of the Baker Funeral Home, the tender care of the pallbearers, the lovely voices of the choir, and the comforting words of the ministers will long be remembered and cherished by me.

Shepherd Scholarship Funds Available For Distribution

Established to commemorate Robert Lee (Bob) Shepherd, Floyd native who died on February 18, 1971, the Robert Lee Shepherd Scholarship Memorial Fund is now ready for distribution.

About $1,000 will be made available to the applicant who qualifies and is selected to receive the scholarship.

The criteria that will be used by the Scholarship Committee in selecting this person have been listed as follows:

1. The applicant must be a graduate student striving to pursue advanced workable knowledge in horticulture or related sciences.

2. He must be from one of the counties making up Eastern Kentucky, and agree, upon completing the period of study afforded by this scholarship, to return to the area to work among the people and particularly, to inspire the young to study and become engaged in the field of horticulture.

3. The applicant must be of high moral character, outstanding in his studies, and, of course, able, capable, and willing to work.

The late Mr. Shepherd was a former professor of horticulture at Berea College before joining the staff of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture as a horticulture specialist. During the last 10 years of his life he served in that capacity among the people of Eastern Kentucky. He believed that a knowledge and use of horticultural sciences was vital to environmental development and stability and to the spiritual enrichment and general betterment of the people of the region.

Friendly, generous, always on the move, and deeply concerned with the welfare of people, he became widely known as "The Good Shepherd." He was interested in people of all ages, from young children to those of greater age than he ever reached himself, for he was barely 60 when he died. Upon his death, his friends and co-workers donated funds for this scholarship dedicated to his memory.

Applications for this scholarship will be accepted until November 1, 1972. Counties from which applicants are eligible include Floyd, Bell, Boyd, Breathitt, Carter, Clay, Elliot, Estill, Greenup, Harlan, Jackson, Johnson, Knox, Laurel, Lawrence, Lee, Leslie, Letcher, McCreary, Magoffin, Martin, Menifee, Morgan, Owsley, Perry, Pike, Powell, Rockcastle, Rowan, Whitley, and Wolfe.

More information regarding the scholarship may be procured by writing Mike Duff, Cooper House, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Kentucky 40506.

together in one direction, Brown going alone in another. He said they had agreed on a signal of three quick shots if any of them encountered trouble. Thornsburg and Caudill later separated, and when Thornsburg heard the shots which resulted in Brown's death, he said, he hurried back toward their camper and found Brown where he had fallen.

Hospital Moves Patients After 'Phone Threat

A bomb threat caused evacuation of Our Lady of the Way Hospital at Martin last Tuesday night, and the 38 patients, some of whom were seriously ill, were not returned to their rooms until after midnight.

A male voice notified a hospital staff member by telephone that a bomb would explode in the hospital at 10:45 that night. Although a search of the building failed to uncover any such device, it was decided to take the extra precaution of vacating the hospital until the 10:45 deadline passed and further search could be made.

Involved in the investigation were the Martin police and fire departments, the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad and State Troopers Elmo Allen and Rodney Hutchinson. No identification of the person who made the call has been made.

Hospital personnel handled the orderly evacuation of the hospital, with the assistance of the Duff Ambulance Service.

"If the person who made this call could have seen old people and children, some very sick, being carried or wheeled out of the hospital, surely he would have been sorry for them," Chief of Police Hershell Lester commented.

The patients were taken to a nearby building. Their return to the hospital began at 11:45.

The Martin bomb threat was the second made this year on a Floyd hospital. Prestonsburg General was threatened, a few months ago. Classes at various schools have been disrupted on several occasions by bomb threats—all made by telephone.

Mr. Hensley was quoted as saying "he was extremely pleased by the smoothness and expediency with which the schedule and planned activities were being executed." At mid-day no more than minor schedule conflicts had developed. He commended faculty, staff and students for their cooperation.

At the school opening Supt. Clark commented:

"Seeing our wonderful young people here for the first day is like a beautiful dream coming true. Since our young people deserve the best, we want to see every school-age youth housed in buildings as modern as this Allen Central facility. The Board and I have other dreams, some of which surely will come true within a reasonable time. At an open house ceremony to be announced later, we want all Floyd countians to visit this, the first new secondary school to be established in Floyd county in almost 50 years."

Eighteen of the 36 wrecked cars were loaded. The train reportedly was travelling at a speed of about 45 miles an hour when the wreck occurred and was en route from Russell to Elkhorn City.

An 11-car derailment at West Prestonsburg last May caused damage placed at more than $100,000. Here, 120 yards of main-line track was torn up, the depot building damaged and perishables in transit were lost.

Our Two-Party System

In traveling over our county I have found some very smart people who are for their county and fellowman rather than their party. We as a people who know right from wrong should band together and make our county one of the best places in the world to live in.

We have every opportunity because we live in one of the wealthiest counties in Eastern Kentucky, yet we are called a poverty area. Who is to blame—our leaders or we, the people?

Help me to help Richard Nixon. Then President Nixon needs some one to help him. That is Louie B. Nunn for U. S. Senate and Bob Holcomb for Congressman. Let's let everyone earn his own bread by the sweat of his brow. That's the way God planned it for us, so let's get with it.

Two Floyd Women In Awards Program

Janice Blackburn Allen, of Prestonsburg, and Mary Jo Ronk Waugh, of Allen, have been selected Outstanding Young Women of America for 1972, the director of the national awards program has announced.

They are now being considered for further state and national awards.

This fall, 50 of the young women nominated for the Outstanding Young Women of America Program—one from each state—will be named as their state's Outstanding Young Woman of the Year. From the 50 state winners, the national Ten Outstanding Young Women of America for 1972 will be selected.

Now in its eighth year, the program was conceived, and is today guided, by leaders of the nation's major women's organizations. The program board of advisors, composed of the national presidents of women's clubs, is headed by Mrs. Dexter Otis Arnold, honorary president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Cooper Asks More U.S. Aid For Community Sewage Plants

Senator John Sherman Cooper, member of the Senate Public Works Committee and the Subcommittee on Air, Water and Solid Waster Pollution—known as the Muskie Subcommittee—said last week that the conferees from the House and Senate have not yet reached agreement on the Water Pollution Control Act of 1972 but that he expected an agreement will be reached next month.

"The bill will provide controls on industrial and other sources of water pollution and municipal sewage treatment plants with the purpose of improving the quality of water in two stages, the first through 1977 and the second through 1983."

Senator Cooper noted that two proposals he had offered during the conference had been approved. The first would authorize a basic federal grant of 75 percent of the cost of municipal sewage treatment plants including improvements to bring the plants into compliance with the law when the bill is enacted. The present law authorizes a federal grant of 30 percent which can be increased to 55 percent when the States provide supplemental assistance.

"Thus far, most Kentucky communities," Senator Cooper commented, "have received a basic federal grant between 30 percent and 33 percent." Senator Cooper noted that the bill provided reimbursement to communities which have expended funds under the existing law—up to 30 percent for those facilities constructed between 1956 to 1966 and up to 55 percent for those constructed between 1967 and 1971.

Earlier this year, Senator Cooper introduced in the Senate an Administration bill to establish an Environmental Financing Authority to assist communities unable to sell treatment plant construction or improvement bonds, or to sell bonds at reasonable interest rates. This will apply only to communities which cannot sell their bonds or where the interest rate would be unreasonable on the public market. The bill was offered by Senator Cooper as an amendment to the water bill and was approved by the conference.

Miss Knott Urges Need To Save Ballads of Early Settlers

By HELEN PRICE STACY

How many Kentucky families continue to sing the old ballads that came across the ocean with the early settlers? As ox teams, wagons and carts made paths through the great wilderness, burdens and dangers of dark forests and fear of robbers often were dispelled by songs, loved and familiar.

In Western Kentucky, Sarah Gertrude Knott continues to search for singers, dancers and folk artists who know and sing the old ballads, songs of the sea and mining tunes that, to the music world, are as wildflowers to the forest.

"When Cecil Sharpe came from England in 1911 in search of the folk music that early colonists had brought with them, he found every family a singing family," Miss Knott recalls. "How many singing families were there in Western Kentucky? How many are there now?"

One song might tell of "A Pretty Sea Maid," another about "Dan'l O'Connor's Daughter" or another of death, "Low, Lay the Lilies Low"—but all belong with the heritage so much a part of the commonwealth.

Miss Knott, a resident of Princeton, Ky., is aware of the storehouse of folk culture in Eastern Kentucky. She cites the work of Edith James, leaders at Berea College, Hindman Settlement School and others who foster workshops and festivals in an effort to preserve this aspect of Kentucky's heritage.

"The Old Harmony Singing at Benton has preserved shaped-note singing for 85 years," Miss Knott said. "Are there singers in other parts of the state who sing the notes first, then the words?"

She pointed out that Paducah and Owensboro are promoting events to help record regional traditions.

If Miss Knott has her way, every song, dance, superstition and folk tale will be recorded. She has traveled widely, gathering the material that the pioneers brought to Kentucky.

Each region has its traditions and these should be so designated, she believes; however, she also has found that folk songs of the Eastern Highlands are sung in Western Kentucky as well as in the southern mountains and in Tennessee.

"Who has heard their family sing 'Barbara Allen', 'Lord Lovel', 'Black Jack Davey' and 'Gypsy Davey'?" she asks.

She pointed out that Dr. Leonard Roberts, of Pikeville College, has written "South from Hell Fer Sartin," which is filled with folk tales of the mountains. Richard Jett, of West Liberty, has co-authored a book with directions for square dancing, giving the words of some songs hundreds of years old.

"Morris, sword and country dances have long been a part of the folk culture program at Berea College, and what about Kentucky songs like 'Doggett's Gap', 'Casey Jones', 'John Henry', 'Floyd Collins' and 'Sixteen Tons'?" she said. "These all are part of our culture."

This is the season of festivals in Kentucky. Whatever the reason for the festival and celebration, each will include traditional music and dancing. These are the things Miss Knott wants to know about.

She lists specific types of songs which must be recorded and preserved. Among these are British ballads and folk songs, songs of Western and Eastern Kentucky, religious songs, square dances, German and English folk dances, mining songs, Negro songs and railroad songs.

Corps of Engineers To Spend $308,425 On Fishtrap Camping

At Fishtrap Reservoir, Pike county, where no state park has been established, the U. S. Corps of Engineers has awarded a $308,425.60 contract for development of recreation facilities in the Grapevine Creek area. The reservoir is in its third year.

The work will involve 28 campsites including crushed aggregate surfaced roads and pull-offs; a concrete boat-launching ramp, a paved parking lot, a comfort station and wash-house. Also included in the contract are all utilities with a 20,000-gallon water storage tank and a 10,000-gallon sewage treatment plant.

Low bidder on the project is Armstrong Constructors, Inc., of Ashland. The bid of Bradley and Powers, Paintsville general contractors, was second low at $317,582.21. Work is to be completed in 270 days.

The $3,900 Audi has the same steering system as the $38,400 Ferrari.

It's called rack-and-pinion steering. And it's the simplest, most direct type of steering system any car ever had.

It's precisely this simplicity and directness that gives you such an uncanny feel of the road. And the better your feel of the road, the more control you have over the car.

Besides the $38,400 Ferrari, the Audi has a lot in common with a lot of other great automobiles.

The Audi has independent front suspension just like the Aston Martin. And front-wheel drive just like the Cadillac Eldorado.

The Audi has the same trunk space as the Lincoln Continental Mark IV. And just about the same headroom and legroom as the Roll-Royce Silver Shadow.

Our interior looks so much like that of the Mercedes-Benz 280SE, you can hardly tell them apart.

And as for service, you'll get the same kind of expert service that a Volkswagen gets. Because a Porsche Audi dealer is part of the VW organization.

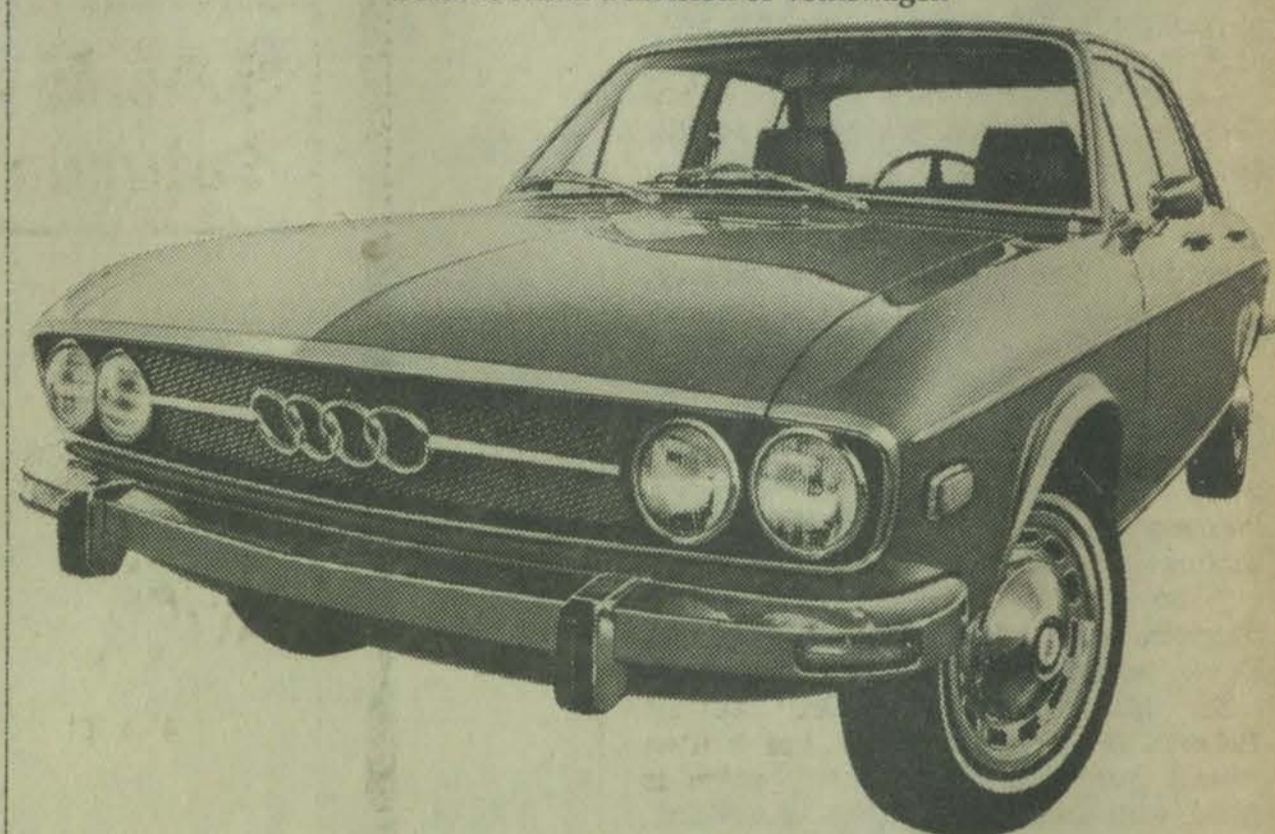

You don't hear about a car like the Audi every day. A car that in many respects bears a remarkable resemblance to some of the finest cars ever made.

That's why we don't consider $3,900 a lot of money for the car.

The way we look at it, it's a lot of cars for the money.

Football Review

This week brought some surprises to the fans.

Prestonsburg won easily over Wheelwright, 32-8; Clark County lost to defending state champ, Bryant Station, 32-0; Elkhorn City was shut out by strong Whitesburg, 21-0; Boyd County defeated M. C. Napier, 21-0; Russell over Fairview, 19-6; Everts over Hazard, 37-0; Johnson Central picked up its first win, 18-8, over Catlettsburg, and Paintsville slipped by Simon-Kenton, 20-12.

This Friday night has some top games on tap for the fans to enjoy. Try to beat the "Picks";

Powerful Ashland has to rate as the top team in Eastern Kentucky as the high school season rolls into gear but there are some capable teams which could provide a surprise or two. Boyd County, Russell and Prestonsburg all look to be improved.

All in all it promises to be a well-balanced slate of competition throughout the next ten weeks.

State Commerce Commissioner Damon Harrison says Kentucky must provide 300,000 to 350,000 new non-agricultural jobs in the next decade. The state is developing a new Occupational Training Information System to determine future manpower needs and develop training programs to fill the jobs.

Kentucky Utilities Co., which has retail customers in 78 Kentucky counties, has asked for a rehearing on $3.8 million rate increase recently granted it by the state Public Service Commission. KU originally sought a $13.8 million rate increase.

Campsite Area Work Is Begun By Parks Dept.

Bulldozers began moving earth at Goble Branch this week in preparation for the installation by next season of an 88-unit campsite by the Kentucky Department of Parks.

At the same time Park Superintendent George Barker announced that plans are being made for a dinner theatre at May Lodge.

The campsite work, which has been in the planning for about four years, will provide a central service building with showers and restrooms, concrete camp "pads" and utilities to serve campers, a sewage system and highway construction.

The Department of Parks is considering either the construction of a new building for central service or the moving of a nearby structure formerly used as a church by the Girl Scouts to serve the purpose after renovation. The lodge structure at the former Camp Chatterawha there will be converted into a recreation building for use by campers during the camping season and for community and park events at other times.

The dinner theatre is planned for the lounge area of May Lodge. Meals there would be buffet-style, and a portable stage would accommodate theatre offerings.

Mr. Barker said plays which require small casts are planned. It was pointed out that the entertainment feature is planned not only for park guests but also for residents of the surrounding area.

Five or six members of the cast of "Jenny Wiley!", one of the offerings featured during the Jenny Wiley Summer Theatre during the season which ended last Saturday evening, will remain here to play the dinner theatre roles. The first presentation planned is "All-American Girl."

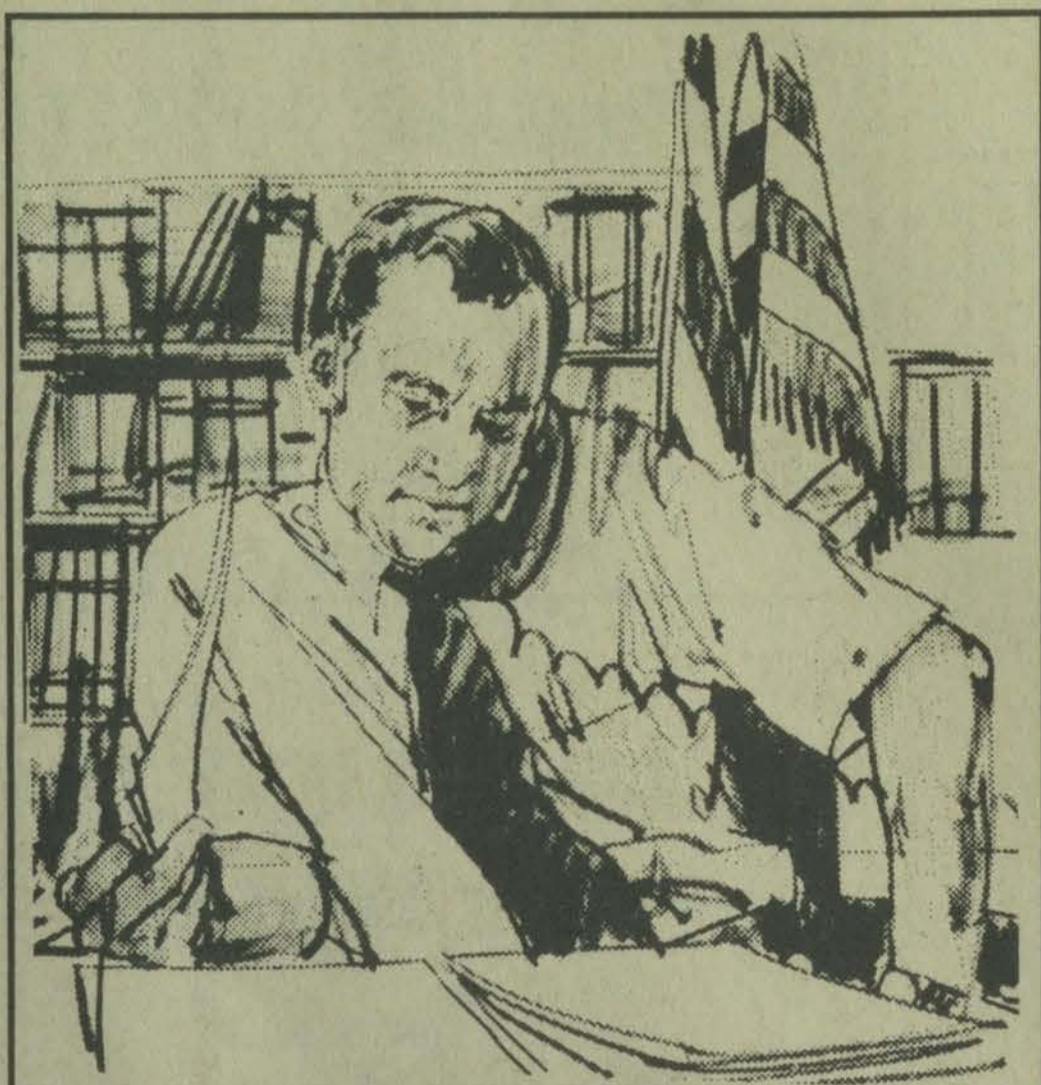

The innovative entertainment feature is due for its opening early in October. Plays will be offered on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

These and other improvements are a part of a general program designed to restore Jenny Wiley State Park after 10 years of operation without major improvement or repair. Gov. Wendell H. Ford recently directed the Department of Finance to make a capital construction grant of $90,000 for the park—$65,000 for furniture, drapes, carpeting and bedding at the lodge and in cottages, and $35,000 for plumbing, wiring and other repairs.

State Economic Security Commissioner Gail S. Huecker has announced a departmental reorganization which she said will "establish a realistic chain of command." Under the plan, eight new offices will be established, each headed by a deputy commissioner for administration.

The Kentucky Bar Assn. has asked Governor Ford to stop the clock-stopping practices during regular sessions of the General Assembly. The procedure, used in both chambers, casts serious legal doubts about all legislation passed and upon the honesty and integrity "of all branches of government."

Times Want Ads Pay!

A new experience began last Wednesday for the high school students of Garrett, Martin, Maytown, and Wayland when all four schools began the year as one—Allen Central. For nine lovely, young girls the experience began a few months ago. After being elected at their former schools, these girls spent the summer preparing for the upcoming sports season of the new Allen Central Rebels.

They attended summer cheerleading camp at the University of Kentucky and won five ribbons and the highly coveted Spirit Stick. The girls demonstrated their enthusiasm by welcoming the Rebel prospects at Coach Gene Frasure's first basketball practice.

As the season draws nearer the Rebel rooters will continue their fund-raising projects for uniforms. They will sponsor a cake sale at Maytown, Sunday, September 3. The stand will be located at the turn-off to the Floyd County Fish & Game Clubhouse at John's Branch.

All of these projects are geared toward one goal—the Rebels' premiere, November 4.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my gratitude to all my friends and relatives at Auxier and Prestonsburg for their expressions of sympathy in the recent illness and death of my beloved husband, Savage W. Allen. It is gratifying to know, even though we have been away so long, that friends remain the same.

Miss Porter, Mr. Wallen Wed

The marriage of Miss Susan Renee Porter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Porter, of Prestonsburg, to Ronald Anthony Wallen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Wallen, of Stanville, was solemnized at 1 p.m., August 12, at the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church here.

The vows were said in a double-ring ceremony before an altar of greenery amid two cathedral candelabra draped with red sweetheart roses, white miniature carnations, and trailing ivy. The officiating minister was the Rev. Cohen Campbell, uncle of the bride.

Preceding the ceremony, a program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Dean Osborne, organist, and Mrs. Dean Conn and Miss Sherry Lynn Conn, soloists.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length empire gown of white silk organza and Chantilly lace. The bodice was of lace embroidered with seed pearls with long fitted sleeves. A deep hem of lace extended around the hemline and the attached chapel train. Her mantilla, of illusion net edged and applied with matching lace, was attached to a Juliette cap. She carried a bouquet of white orchids surrounded by miniature sweetheart roses.

Miss Rhonda Hall, cousin of the bride, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Freda Campbell, cousin of the bride, Miss Sharon Mitchell, Miss Bette Blaisdell, Miss Amy Blaisdell, and Mrs. Marvin Bush. The attendants wore identical gowns fashioned with a white bodice trimmed with a bib of lace and red velvet ribbon, and a full skirt of red and white checked nylon. Their picture hats were red trimmed with matching lace and ribbon. They carried clusters of long-stemmed red roses trailing with ivy and streamers. Miss Candi Campbell, serving as flower girl, wore a long gown of white sashed with red and white checks. She carried a white basket trimmed with red star flowers and filled with rose petals.

Danny Wallen served his brother as best man. Ushers were John Richard Porter, brother of the bride, Phillip Bradbury, cousin of the groom, Bobby Branham, Neil Bailey, and Marvin Bush. Len Burnett Jagers was ring bearer and David Walter Spradlin was Bible bearer.

A reception followed at the Plantation Motel. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with cluster of fresh roses and surrounded by red star flowers. The color theme of red and white was carried throughout the dining room. Presiding at the serving table were Miss Barbara Parsley, Miss Caroline Simpson, Miss Lisa Meade, and Miss Kay Blackburn. IGA CONSUMER CORNER

WHAT ABOUT GRADING SYSTEMS?

Most grading systems are based on such factors as color, flavor, texture, size and shape, or in the case of meat, the ratio of lean to fat meat. At IGA we go further than these basics - and ask other questions such as, "Does the product taste good?", "Does it look good?". In grading, either numbers, or letters of the alphabet are commonly used to identify quality of products. The assignment of these numbers, or letters, is made at IGA by qualified quality control personnel.

IGA specifications for all canned vegetables, frozen vegetables, and frozen orange juice, all refer to the U.S. Standards. Only products that will meet U.S. Grade A fancy requirements are shipped under the IGA brand. IGA specifications include the requirements with which the food processor must comply. These include all applicable federal, state and local food and drug laws.

IGA's fully staffed, expertly-trained meat selectors, grade IGA TableRite fresh meat right at the slaughterhouse.

Beef is one of the meat varieties selected according to IGA specifications. These specifications detail the methods which the processor must follow. After the meat has been properly prepared, our IGA selector inspects it and stamps it "IGA TableRite" only if it meets our specifications.

Cannon, Civil War at White Hall

By BETTY ELLISON
Cannons flashing over green fields and on a movie screen will revive the dark, explosive days of the Civil War in Kentucky when the North-South Skirmish Association holds its Midwest Regional Competition at White Hall State Shrine, near Richmond, Sept. 2-4.
Musket, revolver, carbine and cannon competition will be as much at home at White Hall as will the film classic, "Birth of a Nation," for the shrine is the ancestral home of Kentucky's great abolitionist, Cassius Marcellus Clay. Embattled advocate of every man's right to be free, Clay fought for the abolishment of slavery with an audacity that constantly placed his life, his family and his fortune in peril.
While the nation was healing its Civil War wounds, another famous Kentuckian was born in Oldham County. His name was D. W. Griffith, and his cinema masterpiece, "Birth of a Nation," will be shown on White Hall's front lawn at 8 p.m., Saturday, Sept. 2. In case of rain the four-hour-length film will be shown in the mansion's

Kentucky Utilities Co., which has retail customers in 78 Kentucky counties, has asked for a rehearing on $3.8 million rate increase recently granted it by the state Public Service Commission.
The secretary of state must provide new absentee voter registration forms, designed to make voter identification more accurate, after Sept. 1, under a new regulation issued by the state Board of Elections.

Beach Decides 'Punch Mining' Is a Form of Surface Mining

State Reclamation Director Buddy A. Beach says he no longer believes special regulations will be needed to control punch mining, which in the past has been considered a form of deep mining, and, therefore, outside the jurisdiction of the Division of Reclamation.
Beach had been planning to develop some new regulations to cover the process, which embodies some characteristics of both surface and deep mining.
The punch mining process involves the use of deep mining equipment to remove coal from an already established high-wall. Since coal is removed from shallow shafts cut into the highwall, the process was legally considered a form of deep mining and not subject to state strip mine laws.

"After a lot of thought on the subject, I now feel punch mining should be considered a form of surface mining, in the same sense as augur mining, which it resembles," Beach said. "I think our current laws and regulations can apply to the process and will be adequate."
Beach said his office probably will prepare a memorandum announcing that, after a certain date, punch mining will be considered a form of surface mining and subject to state reclamation laws.

Auditor Is Critical Of 1972 Pay Raise

State Auditor Mary Louise Foust has criticized several laws passed by the 1972 General Assembly, including one raising legislators' monthly expense allowances from $300 to $400.
Miss Foust pointed out that only five of 120 expense accounts submitted by her own field agents since Jan. 1 exceeded $400. And those auditors were on the road full time, she said.
Under the expense boost, legislators' get $400 each month the General Assembly is not in session for "secretarial assistance, books and periodicals, reports or publications, conduct of small scale studies, postage, telephone services or any other expense incident of performance of the legislator's duty."
Miss Foust also criticized a 1972 law which authorizes the state treasurer to clear his records of unpaid checks after one year.
State agencies could use that to get around the requirement to turn in to the general treasury each June 30 any funds appropriated to them which are not spent, she said.
That could be done, she said, by the agency's writing a check to itself, then holding it for 13 months, at which time the money would revert to the agency under the 1972 law.

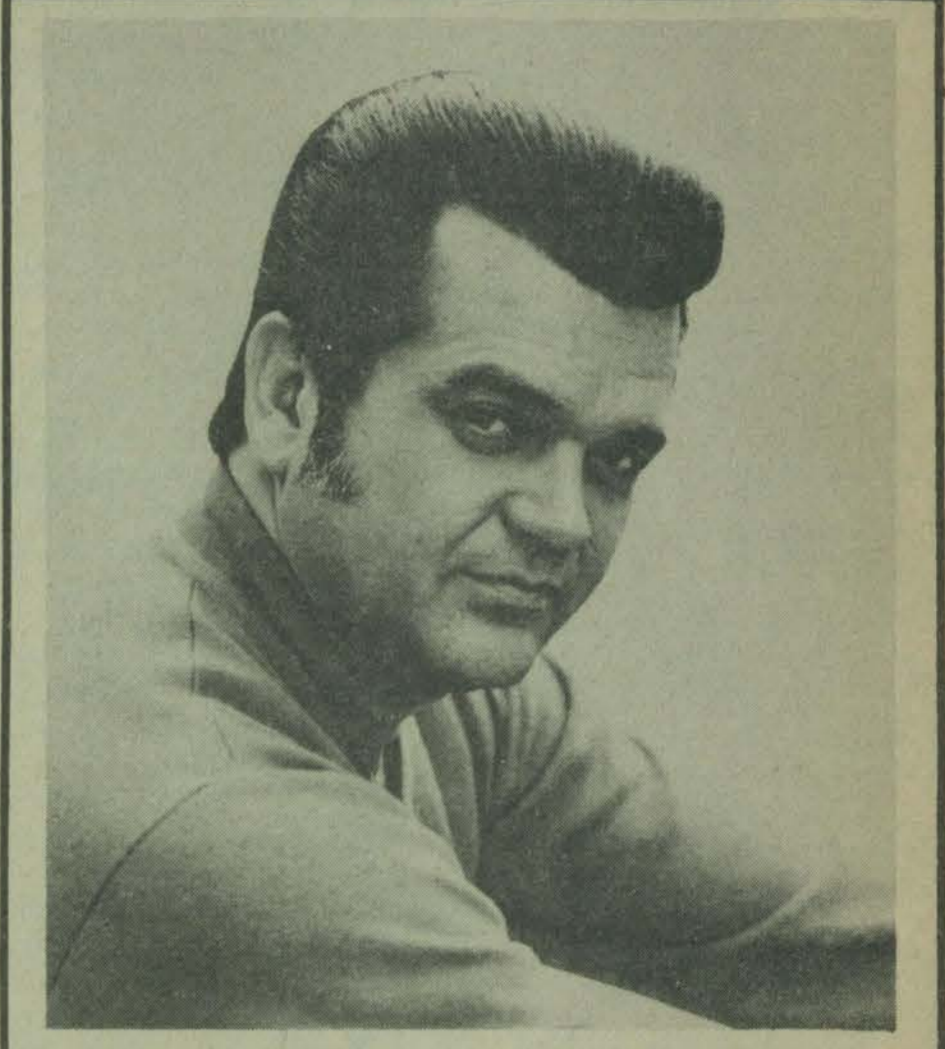

Month of July Tax Receipts Up

Revenue Commissioner John Ross says total general fund receipts during July, the first month of the new fiscal year, were up 9.9 per cent over the same period last fiscal year.
Road fund receipts increased fractionally over last July, totalling $22,970,587. However, road fund tax receipts jumped 56.2 per cent, totalling $21,963,607.
Ross said non-tax receipts decreased significantly during July, because no federal matching funds were processed during the month.
Individual income tax receipts increased 35.6 per cent during July, while sales and use tax revenues were up 8.3 per cent.
Corporation income tax receipts were down 56.4 per cent during the month, primarily because of delays in processing, Ross said.
Coal severance tax revenues totaled $2,684,731 for the month.
Motor fuels normal tax receipts totalled $16,234,010 for the month, a 71.2 per cent increase over July, 1971. Ross attributed the increase to the advancement of the filing date for the tax.
July receipts included gasoline tax payments for May and the first half of June. Also included was $33,000 in two cents per gallon "floor stocks" tax due on seven-cents-per-gallon inventory on hand at the close of business June 30.

Opinions Touch Officials, Voters

The attorney general's office says a county attorney may hold a state Highway Department contract for title work without conflict of interest as long as he performs no title work in his home county.
"The state Highway Department informs us that title work involving lands in the county attorney's own county is not assigned to county attorneys," the opinion said.
It also said pay for such work "would be money received in private practice" and would not apply toward the $12,600 maximum salary for county attorneys.
In another opinion, the attorney general's office said any group created to promote or defeat any public question on the ballot is not required to register with the Kentucky Registry of Election Finance.
Assistant Atty. Gen. Walter Herdman said in his opinion that such a group also is exempt from requirements on filing expense statements or identifying advertisements on an issue.

Head of Regular Baptist Group Reviews Aims of Organization

Paul Hudson, Chicago, Ill., president of the Old Regular Baptist Church of Jesus Christ, Inc., the organization which has been chartered in five states, explained here last week that the organization which he heads is designed simply to establish a base of friendship and cooperation between associations of the church and to cultivate cooperation among moderators of all associations.

He admitted that some suspicion of motives of the organization exists in the Eastern Kentucky area, a Regular Baptist stronghold, but expressed the hope that a full understanding of its aims will clear the atmosphere.

One aim of the incorporated body, he said, will be to halt the loss of membership in the five states in which the church has been incorporated—Kentucky, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana and Illinois. He pointed out that the membership in the area in 1940 was approximately 21,000 but that by 1962 had dropped to around 14,000. A recent survey showed, he said, a membership this year of 9,847.

The corporation, he pointed out, would have a 25-member Central Committee, composed of moderators and assistant moderators of corresponding associations. This committee, he added, would work in the background, appearing only when situations arising in churches or associations could not otherwise be settled. Each church, Mr. Hudson pointed out, would hold its own key, receive and dismiss members as it has in the past, and associations would continue in their present capacity.

He cited an example of the committee functions:

If a church is not in order and the association cannot correct the situation, it could as a member of the corporate group leave the matter with the Central Committee which would remove the pastor of the church and permit the church itself to continue its relationship and work with the association.

Mr. Hudson pointed out that the by-laws, rules of decorum and constitution of the corporation are the same as those of New Salem Association of which churches of this section are a part.

Lt. Gov. Julian M. Carroll says Kentucky must develop a plan to equalize funding of local school districts, but without taking money away from any districts. He said the assessed valuation per student in Kentucky ranges from $900 in some districts to more than $90,000 in others.

The Department of Labor was created by an Act of Congress in 1913 "to foster, promote and develop the welfare of the wage earners of the United States, to improve their working conditions, and to advance their opportunities for profitable employment."

Pikeville Studies Rate Increases

Extension of water and sewer services at Pikeville may hinge on a 6 per cent increase in rates for the two services, but the meeting of the City Council there adjourned last week without definite action. The motion for a rate increase was tabled and "is to be studied" before further action is taken.

Although tentative contracts have been awarded for water and sewer service extensions, Dr. William C. Hambley, Pikeville mayor, said names of the contractors will not be announced until financing of the projects is effected.

The proposed $1,500,000 water project would add service to Ferguson, Chloe and Ratliff Creeks, Harolds Branch and Fairview. The proposed sewer expansion is designed to include Ferguson and Chloe Creeks and Fairview.

The Council voted to authorize the renegotiation of the city's water contracts with the two water districts served by Pikeville. They are the Big Sandy and Mayo Village areas.

Reports were distributed at the meeting on the proposed two-stage increase in the city's water capacity, but no action was taken. The study by Watkins & Associates of Lexington, Ky., outlines expanding the plant filter capacity in the first stage and later enlarging the plant itself.

Hambley said the city has reached 20 per cent of its capacity service load and such expansion, not necessary at present, will be needed within the next two years.

During fiscal 1971, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration conducted 32,701 safety and health inspections in 29,505 establishments employing over five million workers. Of the establishments inspected, 7,418 or 25 percent were in compliance with federal standards.

Occupational Safety Workshop Scheduled At Pikeville, Sept. 8

The Pike County Chamber of Commerce will co-sponsor with the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce a workshop on the Occupational Safety and Health Act, Sept. 8, according to an announcement by Burlin Coleman, president of the Chamber.

The workshop, to be conducted at the Top of the Landmark Restaurant in Pikeville, will be based on solutions to problems that have arisen from the OSHA now in force. The Act and its enforcement have brought on a myriad of problems for the businessman, involving many requirements with which business must comply in specific ways, Coleman said. The Act requires 248 pages for listing of the various regulations involved and various supplements in interpretation.

Charles I. Miller, president of Loss Prevention Systems, Inc., of Cincinnati, Ohio, a nationally-known safety consultant and a specialist in helping employers to meet requirements of the Act, has been engaged to conduct the workshop.

Beginning at 8 a.m., the workshop agenda will include the following topics: OSHA—An Overview, Requirements of Record Keeping, Hazard Identification, Problem Solving and A Safety Program for You.

Various sections of the program will be geared toward presenting facts and solutions based upon actual experience thus far in the OSHA picture.

All employers are encouraged to attend the workshop. Admission will be by tickets only which may be obtained by contacting the Pike County Chamber of Commerce, Pikeville, or call 606-437-4776.

Miss Jones, Mr. Fuller Wed

The ceremony which united in marriage Miss Judith Elizabeth Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tilden Jones, of Bevinville, Ky., and Jimmy Darrel Fuller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Landon Fuller, of Feds Creek, Ky., took place at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, June 10, at the First Church of God at Feds Creek, with the Rev. Fonso Cool performing the double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white silken organdy. Her empire bodice featured a bib of lace and high Victorian collar. The full, sheer organza sleeves ended in venise lace. The semi-full skirt ended in the same venise lace and ruffle of silken organdy. Her veil was of matching white organdy and venise lace. Her bouquet was of baby mums and centered with an orchid.

Mrs. Carol Ann Compton of Lexington, Kentucky, was her sister's matron of honor. Miss Susie Jones, sister of the bride, and Miss Karen Williams, of Feds Creek, served as bridesmaids. They wore identically-styled floor-length dresses of whipped creme dotted Swiss with puff sleeves and accented with ruffles at the hems. The dresses carried out the theme for the wedding of "Flower Garden" in colors, of pink, blue and yellow. They wore wide-brimmed hats with ribbon streamers matching the colors of their dress, and carried baskets of pink and yellow daisies.

Lewis Cox of Phyllis, Kentucky, served as best man. Ushers were Richard Fuller, brother of the bridegroom, Howard Jones, brother of the bride and Brad Fuller.

Little Miss Jennifer Lynn Fuller, cousin of the bridegroom and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Fuller, of Feds Creek was the flower girl.

Master Ricky Jones, nephew of the bride, served as ring bearer.

The bride's mother was attired in a blue dress with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy and white ensemble. Both wore corsages of white carnations.

A reception was held in the basement of the church, immediately following the ceremony. The bride's table was centered with a two-tiered wedding cake made and decorated by Mrs. Compton, sister of the bride. Mrs. Toni Akers, cousin of the bridegroom, assisted at the reception.

Miss Debbie Keene, cousin of the bridegroom, registered the guests.

The newlyweds are presently residing at Feds Creek.

Girl Scout Council Names New Advisers

Four new field advisers will be on duty as Girl Scout activities in Eastern and Central Kentucky increase with the opening of the 1972-'73 school year.

Mrs. Evans C. McGraw, Lexington, executive director of the Wilderness Road Girl Scout Council, last week announced the appointment of Mrs. Mari Sout, Mrs. Connie Christian, Mrs. Kathleen Duvall and Mrs. Betty Scott as advisers.

Field advisers provide professional assistance and guidance to volunteer leaders in assigned counties in the development of local Girl Scout troops and programs.

In the remainder of the Council, two present field advisers, Mrs. Ann Bray and Mrs. Irma Robinette, will continue in their present capacities.

The Green of Oranges Only Skin-Deep, Claim

Orange growers in California and Arizona have asked the State Department of Health's nutrition director to assure Kentucky consumers that green-tinged oranges now in the markets are fully ripe. Mrs. Harriet Dotson, director of the Nutrition Program, said, "We want people to have this information because oranges are such a good source of vitamin C and shoppers may hesitate to buy the green-tinged oranges thinking they are not fully ripe."

The western orange growers explain their green-tinged product this way: while most of the country was suffering from record cold weather and severe rain and floods, the western part of the nation was experiencing an unusually warm spring. This caused the Valencia oranges grown in California and Arizona to color early before they were fully ripe. Then as the fruit ripened, it began to green again, just on the outside. This phenomenon of nature is called "regreening" and is caused by warm ground temperatures which actually cause chlorophyll (the greening substance) to return to the skins.

1,900 In Appalachia To Get Job Training

The AFL-CIO Appalachian Council will help an additional 1,900 jobless or underemployed persons in 12 Appalachian states get job training under a new $2-million contract with the Labor Department, Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson announced recently.

Vietnam-era veterans will make up 40 percent of the new hires recruited by the Council, Hodgson said, in response to President Nixon's call for priority service for veterans and continuing concern for the hard-core jobless. The program will be undertaken in Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Maryland, Mississippi, Tennessee and Ohio.

The Council is a cooperative effort of AFL-CIO organizations to aid in the economic development of Appalachia. It works with employers to create job-training opportunities.

The contract provides for about 185 trainees in Kentucky with an approximate federal allocation of $217,800.

About $1,392,650 is earmarked for on-the-job training costs and $186,100 for classroom trainee allowance costs to be administered by the Labor Department's Manpower Administration; $421,250 for supplemental instruction costs to be administered by the U. S. Office of Education.

On-the-job training will last from 4 to 26 weeks, for an estimated average of 15 weeks. About 300 trainees will get classroom instruction in basic education and prevocational training for 6 to 16 weeks, for an average of 10 weeks. The average OJT and classroom, or "coupled," training period, will be for a period of 25 weeks, with a maximum period of 36 weeks.

Training for journeyman upgrading or preapprenticeship will be given to current employees selected by employers.

Trainee wages and benefits paid by the employer will comply with existing collective bargaining agreements. Trainees are paid the federal minimum wage or wage rates prevailing in an area, whichever is higher, and fringe benefits.

At least 65 percent of the new entry positions will be filled by persons recruited from the disadvantaged jobless.

The State Employment Service office determines the need for workers in the occupations in which training will be provided and refers, tests, and counsels applicants. The state employment security agency administers payment of trainee allowances.

The state is seeking a $400,000 federal grant for a vocational school at Eddyville State Penitentiary. The school, which will serve about 150 men, will be designed to help inmates find and hold jobs after they are released.

Report Reveals Details About Kentucky Crime

By Leonard Kimball
FRANKFORT, Ky.—For anyone interested in getting the lowdown on sin and sinners in the state, a little, blue-covered publication, recently released by the Kentucky State Police is proving pretty hard to beat.

According to one nervous citizen, it certainly seems to reinforce an unhappy view held by some, that things are getting so bad that the day may not be far off when we will have go worry about being mugged even within the sanctified confines of that last great American retreat, the executive washroom. (Last year in Kentucky, a robbery was reported every three hours and 40 minutes.)

But the 1971 Uniform Crime Report, as this gentleman's "Kentucky Confidential" is officially designated, also offers some other rather informative sidelights on crime which don't always attract much attention from a hardened, big-city police reporter.

For example, Robertson county is having a crime wave. Or so the 150 per cent hike in felony offenses reported there during 1971 might lead you to believe. Only three other Kentucky counties (Washington, with a 285 per cent increase; Morgan, up 210 per cent; and Knott county, 180 per cent) reported a bigger climb in crime for the year.

Yet, it seems highly improbable that such a whopping surge in crime is apt to drive any of Robertson county's 2200 residents into hiding behind locked doors and cocked shotguns, or force its two-man sheriff's department to issue a frantic plea for state police help.

Robertson county is still one of the safest places in Kentucky, if not the United States, to live.

As the county-by-county crime count also shows, no county reported fewer offenses. Behind that 150 per cent increase was a grand total of 10 offenses (one rape, two assaults, one breaking and entering and four thefts) as compared with four in 1970.

Jefferson county, on the other hand, while registering a slight drop in the number of offenses reported (from 27,725 in 1970 to 26,173 for 1971), easily led all 120 counties in each of the seven major crime categories which make up the annual state police statistical report on crime in Kentucky. In addition to those crimes already mentioned, the report also covers murder, robbery and car stealing.

One other category, included in the survey for the first time this year, also shows Jefferson county leading the state in total drug arrests.

In those cases which involved violence (about 12 per cent of a total 63,302 offenses), murders and assaults were at their heaviest in June, August was the peak month for robberies and September recorded the highest number of forcible rapes.

A composite picture of the average murder victim showed him to be a white male, between the ages of 20-24. He most likely was shot to death with a handgun during an argument with a relative or friend in his home on a Saturday in June.

Nearly 31 per cent of all murders (352) reported for the year occurred in a private residence. Spouse killing spouse accounted for 16.5 per cent of those slayings, parent killing child, 1.4 per cent and murder by relative or friend, another 12.8 per cent. Felony murders, those which occurred during the commission of another crime, crimped up in only 16.7 per cent of the total deaths reported.

If there is any single group which might be classified as hardest hit by the reported 5.1 per cent rise in murders during the year, it probably would be Kentucky's law enforcement officers. During 1971, five policemen were shot to death in the line of duty as compared with no deaths just one year earlier.

Assaults against police officers also increased, from 308 in 1970 to 319 during 1971, with the rate of assaults being highest among county police agencies.

Property losses during the year, resulting from robbery, breaking and entering, larceny and car theft, cost Kentucky about $75,663 per day.

Auto thefts, while down by 2.4 per cent from 1970, represented the greatest average loss per victim. Police placed the average value of a stolen car at $1270.

Robberies were next with an average loss of $165 per victim. Bank and chain store holdups were a chief factor behind that high dollar figure. Breaking and enterings averaged $330 per victim, with residential burglaries accounting for 87 per cent of the losses. Larcenies, trailing behind with an average loss per victim of $131, showed their greatest volume in thefts of auto parts and accessories.

Meet Woodsy Owl. He represents a major step forward in our fight against pollution.

A major step forward in getting our smoggy skies blue again. A major step forward in saving our forests, lakes and wildlife. And a major step forward in improving the quality of our environment. You'll be seeing and hearing a lot about Woodsy. He knows how you can fight pollution...and he needs your help.

Woodsy has a hooter. When he blows it, it goes Hoot! A Hoot is a pollution stopper. Some of Woodsy's Hoots are: Trees make many things possible, plant a tree. Recycle all cans, bottles and papers. Man paints houses only nature should paint forests. Sh sh sh sh sh sh...noise pollutes too. Trees and flowers can't hold their breath...smog's a killer. Tuned engines mean less smog. Keep your engines tuned.

In months to come you'll be hearing many more Hoots...over one hundred. If you have good Hoots...practical ways people can fight pollution, send them to Woodsy Owl, U.S. Forest Service, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Give a hoot! Don't pollute.

PTA Joins Massive Fight Against Alcoholism in Youth

Pilot projects to combat alcohol abuse and cigarette smoking are being initiated by the National PTA with the beginning of the school term this fall in five different parts of the country. At the same time, local PTA's, councils, and districts in all states across the country will be continuing their long-standing programs in smoking and health and many will institute prevention programs on alcohol abuse.

"With the help of government funds we are undertaking an experiment in which young people will be encouraged to develop their own preventive and control programs in smoking and alcohol abuse," said Mrs. Elizabeth Mallory, National PTA president.

From their own efforts and initiative we hope to gain clearer insights into causes of personal choice behaviors and how they may be dealt with more effectively in the family, the school, and the community," she added.

The National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, a unit of the U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, has provided funds to work toward solutions for the growing problems related to alcoholism in young people. It has joined the National PTA and the National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health, also a unit of HEW, to launch and innovative education-information program.

This cooperative venture marks a milestone in relations between the PTA and the two government agencies. "Such a program will enable parents and youth to work together to combat cigarette smoking and alcohol abuse," Mrs. Mallory pointed out.

The new program comes at a time when the problem of alcohol abuse among young people is increasingly being recognized as serious. Seventy-five percent of high school students now drink alcoholic beverages, a Gallup poll reveals. Fifty-seven percent more admit that they have more than once drunk too much. Seventh and eighth-graders are drinking cheap wine by the pint, and grade schools are increasingly requesting experts to come and talk to their students about alcoholism.

Dr. Morris B. Chafetz, director of the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, doubts that teenage drinking is a new form of youth rebellion. "Most drinking problems rise as young people attempt to copy the drinking behavior of older peers and adults," he told the American Medical Association at its recent convention in San Francisco.

"The use of alcohol in America is here to stay," Dr. Chafetz asserted. "We adults must help young people learn to treat drinking in a socially responsible manner, if they choose to drink. And we must teach them to take a responsible attitude toward their peers who choose not to drink."

1972-73 is the first year of funding for the National PTA program in alcohol education. Mrs. Carolyn Hendrick, who has served as the National PTA's coordinator of smoking and health since 1966, will also direct the new program.

For many years, the PTA has been seriously concerned about the health hazards young people incur by drinking, and has called attention to the need for preventive efforts in varied ways. In 1966 the National PTA published a booklet, Thinking Straight About Drinking, consisting of four articles from The PTA Magazine by Herman E. Krimmel, director of the Cleveland Center on Alcoholism.

A National PTA convention resolution in 1968 urged that "education on the abuse of alcohol and other drugs be emphasized among other health problems in comprehensive school and public health education programs."

Over the past six years nearly ten million copies of the National PTA leaflet, "His First Cigarette May Be a Matter of Life or Death," have been distributed to individuals and units of the PTA all over the country. Copies of this leaflet are available without cost from the National PTA, 700 North Rush Street, Chicago, Illinois 60611. "We hope to have similar success with a leaflet on alcoholism prevention which we will distribute as soon as one has been prepared," Mrs. Hendrick said.
