

Enrollment At College Up 12 Pct.

New Tech Courses, Including Nursing, Get Credit for Gain

Enrollment at Prestonsburg Community College totals 457 this semester, a 12 per cent increase over the 408 students registered at this time a year ago, it was announced Friday by Mrs. Carolyn Hay Francis, admissions and financial aid officer.

Of these, 303 are freshmen as compared to 284 last fall, and 154 are sophomores, compared to 129 registered at this time last year. Counties represented in this total are: Fayette 1, Floyd 261, Johnson 120, Knott 8, Magoffin 35, Martin 9, Pike 20, and Powell 1. Two out-of-state students are also registered.

This semester's increase was attributed by Mrs. Francis primarily to the new technical programs being offered at the college, the improvement in the road situation between Prestonsburg and Pikeville, and the two Career Days which were held on campus during the 1971-'72 academic year.

The school's technical departments, housed in the Pike Technology building, are a part of the Associate in Applied Science program and offer the student interested in a two-year degree a wide variety of technical and vocational training. Enrollment in each of these technical programs this semester is as follows: Broadcasting technology 6, civil engineering 4, communications 1, forest and wood technology 5, inhalation therapy 2, management technology 14, secretaryship (general, legal and medical) 22.

Three new additions to the technical program are nursing, home economics, and early childhood education. Of these, nursing accounts for the most significant rise in total enrollment with 58 full-time and 23 part-time students this fall, while early childhood education shows two full-time and 15 part-time students, and Home Economics 1.

Cycle Wreck Claims Hatton

A mishap involving a (motorcycle) and a pick-up truck claimed the life of a former Prestonsburg man and seriously injured his passenger.

Richard J. Hatton, 24, of North Hollywood, Calif., was killed early Saturday morning when the motorcycle he was riding swerved off a highway on Los Angeles County, striking a parked pick-up truck. Hatton was apparently thrown over the truck while his passenger slid underneath the vehicle. He had been employed at a motorcycle shop in North Hollywood.

A son of C. R. (Bud) Hatton, of Prestonsburg and Mrs. Gloria Friend Griffin, of Naples, Fla., he was born in Louisville, Oct. 1, 1947. Mr. Hatton was a army veteran.

Surviving, besides the parents, is a sister, Mrs. Kaye Newman, of Northbrook, Illinois. The body was returned here Tuesday, and funeral services were conducted today (Wednesday) at 2 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church here, with the Rev. (See Story No. 5, Page 4)

Floyd Co. Fair Parade Slated For Saturday

The Floyd County Fair will be in full swing tonight (Wed.) but Saturday will be its biggest day.

To start off a full day and night of festivities, a parade involving high school bands from throughout the county will make its way through the streets of Prestonsburg. Beginning at 10 a.m., the parade will be under the supervision of city manager, Curtis Clark.

New Building on a New Road

New roads bring new buildings and businesses, and one of the most imposing structures on the Lancer-Water Gap road is this building housing the B. & D. Motor Company. The structure has 11,000 square feet of floor space, is air-conditioned, carpeted and includes business offices, display rooms and service departments of the company. Formal opening of B. & D.'s new quarters will be held Friday and Saturday.

Dorsey Memorial Dedicated Here

The bulletin board memorial erected at the Community United Methodist Church here in honor of the late Cochran Dorsey was dedicated, the evening of Sept. 11. Young Dorsey was killed at Danville, Ky., last September. His father, Dr. Harold W. Dorsey, served Community Methodist as pastor, without pay, from 1953 through 1956 during his pastorate of the First United Methodist Church here. The memorial was erected by Methodist men and the Woman's Society of Christian Service. Joining members of the congregation and friends of the church at the dedicatory ceremony were Dr. Kenneth Clay, Ashland district superintendent, and Mrs. Clay. A fellowship dinner followed the dedication.

Monday Meeting Scheduled On New Water System Plan

A mass meeting has been scheduled for next Monday evening at the United Baptist Church at Banner for citizens to deliberate the fate of the Levisa Water Association, it was announced this week. The meeting will be at 7 p.m.

The water association already has available a loan of $360,000 from the Farm Home Administration, plus a grant of $100,000, to finance construction of a water system to serve a wide area, but it was pointed out that 390 consumers must sign for water service before the funds can be released and work begun. A representative of the Farm Home Administration will attend the meeting and confer with potential consumers.

The area to be served by the water association includes Tram, Tom's Creek, Ivel, Banner and Prater Creek. A survey made a year ago showed that the area has about 500 potential customers.

It was explained that the Levisa Water Association is a non-profit organization and that it is a cooperative fashioned along the lines of REA, with each consumer a stockholder.

Ervin Akers, one of the leaders in the move for a modern water supply, said it is important that residents of the area attend the meeting.

OF SEASONAL AILMENTS

One of my chimney-corner medical advisers assures me that spring fever and hayfever are both the results of allergies. An allergy to sunlight, in one of the "fevers," an allergy to pollen, in the other. This is comforting, to a degree. I'm pleased to learn it isn't plain laziness that plagues me, every spring, but it's a bit disconcerting to go for umpty-ump years, impervious to ragweed, goldenrod and all the other banes of more susceptible mortals, then suddenly begin shaking the plaster down with whooping sneezes.

CASE HISTORY

Speaking of that springtime malady, Ralph Marshall approached me, the other day, to outline a case history. Said a neighbor of his who had always grown a garden didn't raise a vegetable this year. This strange circumstance inveigled the interest of the neighbors and they did a bit of quiet sleuthing, till finally the secret was out. And this was what Ralph said they reported:

The man started to plow his garden but got so hot that he had a relapse of spring fever.

"Do you reckon," Marshall asked, "I should go to the health department and report this?"

AND FORGET THE BIRDIES

I am indebted to my neighboring editor, "Bud" Perry, of The Paintsville Herald, for circulating a report to the effect that I caught a 26-inch bass as Dewey Lake. With such friends, I can't have to lie, or even pray that I catch a fish so big that I don't have to indulge in stretching the well-known blanket, or even a fish. Now, having learned what a plastic worm is and that it is (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

Island Cr. Coal Company Ends Floyd Co. Operation

Three Injured, One Seriously, Driver Sought

State and county officers continued Monday the search for a 17-year-old Wheelwright youth who fled the scene at Auxier where the auto which he was driving left the highway and struck an Auxier woman and her daughter and son.

Sixteen-year-old Cora Lee Webb, one of the three hit by the car, was taken to a Lexington hospital and was reported in serious condition. Her mother, Mrs. Rachel Webb, wife of Elva (Polkie) Webb, of Auxier, had arm and leg injuries, and her son, David, 14, suffered arm and leg abrasions.

State Trooper Dennis Williamson said the car driven by Leon Moore, a Negro, left the road in Auxier, a short distance from the bridge which crosses the river there, and struck the mother and her children. Time of the incident was placed at 12:25 p.m. Williamson said that when he arrived, the car, occupied by a passenger, Clarence Trammel, 51, also of Wheelwright, was surrounded by a crowd. He arrested Trammel and booked him on a drunkenness charge. Trammel paid a fine Tuesday after pleading guilty.

Moore fled afoot before arrival of the trooper, and subsequent search failed to locate him.

The girl's pelvis was reported to have been crushed, and her head injuries are such that plastic surgery may be required, a member of her family was reported as saying.

Coal Underlying Road Is Subject Of Laynes' Suit

Coal underlying right-of-way bought by the Department of Highways for the new four-lane US 23 in this county is the subject of a circuit court action here in which $100,000 damages are asked.

Chester Layne, of Ivel, and his wife, Jean, are plaintiffs in the suit, naming the Department of Highways and road contractors, Greer Brothers & Young, as defendants. They say they sold the surface but not the coal on right-of-way for the road, that the contractors have uncovered and are about to remove the coal and sell it without remuneration to the plaintiffs.

Plaintiffs say they have offered to remove the coal at no cost to defendants but that they have been refused permission to do so.

In addition to damages, the Laynes ask the court for a temporary injunction to restrain defendants from removing the coal.

In another circuit court suit John Bays, Jr. seeks to recover from the Island Creek Coal Co. and the Occidental Oil Corp. a total of $30,000 which is claimed because, he says, the companies permitted a sludge pile

205 Petition Sheriff Asking Voting-Place Change for Precinct

Sheriff Frank Leslie said this week that he has received a petition signed by 205 persons asking that the voting place at John Possum precinct be moved back to the old C. & O. depot building from the Slope Service Station on Stephens Branch.

Sheriff Leslie said the change to Stephens Branch was made last year when, with only a week in which to find a voting place for the precinct, he was obliged to settle with the railroad company had refused to approve use of the depot. He added that at that time, when there was little interest in the election, nobody showed any interest in the location change. Leslie said he committed himself to use of the service station this year when he arranged for its use in 1971.

McDowell Raid Nets Nine Cases Of Beer Sunday

Nine cases of beer were confiscated Sunday from the premises of Elmer Newsome at McDowell in a raid made by Sheriff Frank Leslie and Deputy Sheriffs Otto Fannin and Dester Hamilton. The officers said Newsome was booked in Magistrate Eddie Caudill's court.

State troopers reportedly arrested 18 persons and jailed eight of them when they allegedly refused to disperse after a crowd had gathered Saturday night at a Wheelwright drive-in restaurant.

Jailed within the week were: Clarence Tackett, reckless use of a deadly weapon, arrested by State Trooper A. Cantrell; Anthony McClanahan, hit-run driving, by State Trooper Danny Stumbo; Morris Thacker, shooting in a dwelling, by Sheriff Leslie; Robert Blanton, drunk driving, and no operator's license, by Trooper Cantrell; Purvis Riley, drunk driving and carrying a concealed deadly weapon, by State Trooper Dennis Williamson; Colin Vanderpool, no operator's license, by Trooper Williamson; Darrell Lafferty, conversion, by Policeman Lonnie Herald; Gail Daniel Blair and Silas Smith, both charged with drunk driving, arrested by Trooper Williamson; Roscoe Pitcock, drunk driving, by State Troopers

Make a Winning Combination

Miss Stanley and Surprise in Winner's Circle.

Wheelwright's Sherry Stanley and her horse, "Surprise!" prove themselves to be one of the great combinations in today's show ring when they won seventh place in the world championship amateur three-gaited division at the recent Kentucky State Fair in Louisville.

Their other major wins this year include third, fourth and fifth in Houston, Texas; sixth in Lexington, first at Paris, Ky., second at Lawrenceburg, first at Richmond and reserve champions at the West Virginia state championship show. Miss Stanley plans to attend four more shows before ending the season this year. These are Knoxville, Tennessee, Madison Square Garden in New York, the American Royal in Kansas City, and at Montgomery, Alabama.

Sherry and Surprise are under the guidance of Tom and Rae Deane Stone, of Lexington.

Miss Stanley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Stanley, of Wheelwright.

Grand Jury Resumes Session; Wilson May Not Be Charged

Elmer Ted Wilson, 32, of Tram, who shot and killed his cousin, Sammy Lackey, 33, at Tram Sept. 10, may not be prosecuted.

He was jailed here last Wednesday after recovering from a leg wound suffered in the shoot-out with Lackey. He waived examining trial Monday afternoon and was granted liberty under $2,500 bond, pending grand jury action. The grand jury resumed its session Tuesday morning. Later in the day it was unofficially reported that the jury had heard witnesses in the case and had declined to indict Wilson on the ground that the slaying was a justifiable homicide.

Lackey was shot, witnesses said, while standing in the yard of the Wilson home.

The grand jury resumed upon its return to work an intensive investigation into the mystery slaying of Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Conley at Garrett and of James Clayton Conley, near Wayland.

Indictments voted prior to its recess last week are expected to be reported by week's end.

McIntyre Confirms Report He Asked Post for Combs

Frankfort, Ky.—Former state Motor Transportation Commissioner Alex McIntyre of Hazard has confirmed a report that he recommended Carter F. Combs at the time Combs was hired by the Department of Natural Resources in 1968.

Combs, a Hazard native, was hired in May, 1968 by the previous Republican state administration as an administrative assistant, one of a number of such non-merit-system jobs which since have been abolished as illegal under state personnel law.

In January, 1969, Combs was named a chief reclamation inspector and made supervisor of the Paintsville district of strip-mining control, even though he apparently lacked the minimum job qualifications. The new natural resources commissioner under the current Democratic administration, Thomas O. Harris, transferred Combs to a lesser job in Hazard, Aug. 1, after discovering reclamation violations he called "beyond comprehension" in the Paintsville district.

"Naturally, being a Perry county boy, when he (Combs) wanted a job, he had to have somebody in Perry county to OK him," McIntyre said in a telephone interview. "This was normal through the political channels."

"I'm sure that I recommended him and I'd be glad to do so again," said McIntyre.

McIntyre, a former Republican state representative, was a 1967 campaign aide to former Gov. Louie B. Nunn and after his election Nunn named McIntyre to the motor transportation post.

Combs said that he was "not aware" that McIntyre helped him get his job although "he very well could have."

Library Notes

By ALICE HACKWORTH, Librarian

The Floyd County Library receives a large selection of juvenile or children's books from the Kentucky State Department of Libraries. These books are housed in the shelves on the main floor of the library. They are divided into two sections: Easy and Juvenile. "Easy" books, located in the corner behind the circulation desk, cover pre-school through third grade. The juvenile books (labeled with a "J") are located on the shelves along the wall and range from third grade through high school in difficulty.

Among the books received this week for children are:

"The Beatinest Boy," by Jesse Stuart, A rugged story of the Kentucky mountains, and yet a tenderhearted one. Grades 4-6.

"The Cowboy Trade," by Glen Pounds. An entertaining and informative view of what it was really like to work at the cowboy trade. Grades 5-7.

"Deathwatch," by Robb White. A harrowing tale of survival on a desert hunting trip. Grades 9-up.

"How to Write a Story," by Bentz Plagemann. An explanation of the basic concepts every writer works with; especially designed for the would-be writer. Grades 6-9.

"The Impossible People," by Georress McHargue. A marvelous compendium of mythological beings. American and European folkore are the author's main fields of reseach. Grades 5-8.

"John Fisher's Magic," by John Fisher. Seventy-five dazzling magical feats, showing the heart of the magician's trade. Grade 5-up.

"Model Car Building," by Bill Neumann. The complete book of information for builders of model cars.

"Pony Problems," by Fional Hughes. A book about ponies and some of the problems every pony-owner should recognize and understand. Grades 3-6.

"Team Racer," by W. E. Butterworth. Steve Haas wasn't sure that he would enjoy a desk job after test driving cars, but he was willing to give it a try. Grades 7-9.

Miss Hicks, Mr. Palmer Wed at Yorktown, Va.

The marriage of Miss Darlene Rose Hicks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hicks, of Langley, Ky., to Mr. Arnold H. Palmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvie Palmer, of Williamsburg, Va., was solemnized at 2 p.m. September 2 at the Lebanon Church of Christ, Yorktown, Virginia.

The vows were said in a double-ring ceremony. The officiating minister was the family minister, Rev. Rupert Wallace, of Yorktown. Preceding the ceremony, a program of wedding music was presented by the son of Rev. and Mrs. Wallace.

Given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Dennis Bentley, of Seaford, Va., the bride wore a floor-length gown and carried a bouquet of white carnations, surrounded by lace, ribbons and blue sprays.

Mrs. Frankie Lorene Bentley, daughter of Mrs. Carl Nance, of Prestonsburg, served as matron of honor.

Mr. Donny Smith, of Williamsburg, served as best man. Ushers were Mr. Howard Bentley, and Mr. Tommy Hitchens.

A reception followed in the basement of the church. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake. The color theme of green and white was carried throughout the reception hall.

Presiding at the serving table were Mrs. Ruby Gay Bentley, sister of the bride, Mrs. Frankie Lorene Bentley, and Mrs. Irmgard Palmer, mother of the groom. Richard Brian Bentley, nephew of the bride, registered the guests.

Following a honeymoon in Colonial Williamsburg, the couple will reside at the Ranch House Trailer Court temporarily until mid-September when Mr. Palmer will complete his tour of duty in the U. S. Air Force, Langley Air Force Base, Virginia. After Mr. Palmer is discharged, he will be employed at Lee Hall, Virginia, near his home.

It's 1973, and Chevrolet roofs are opening, seats are swiveling, bumpers are retracting, hatches are flipping up.

Did you ever have so much to talk about that you didn't know what to say first? We're happy to report that's us for 1973. But since everything must begin somewhere...

Isn't it romantic? You see that rectangle beaming at you from above? That's a moonroof. Not to be confused with a sunroof. (Although many people will undoubtedly be caught using it like one.) A power roof is available on Chevelle and Monte Carlo; a manual one on Nova.

Bumpers are exciting? This year's are something to get stirred up about. One of our new bumpers, for example, is built around twin hydraulic cylinders. So on minor impact, the whole system retracts to cushion the shock. It's standard on all big Chevrolet, Chevelle and Monte Carlo models. Nineteen different models to choose from.

We've been thinking about your legs. One of the few things people asked us to improve in our popular Chevelle was leg room in the backseat. Well, your knees will be pleased with the '73s. There's almost 3 1/2 more inches in the sedans.

So what else is new. Naturally this is only a taste of what's new for '73. Among other things, we're introducing larger gas tanks for longer cruising range, a new Exhaust Gas Recirculation system, a hatchback for wagons, and a highly refined flow-through power ventilation system. Plus a reading light for front seat passengers, improved suspension systems, engines that give you performance combined with gas economy, reclining seats and scores of dramatic styling changes. We invite you to see it all at your Chevrolet dealer's.

(above) Caprice Coupe. Our new uppermost Chevrolet. Its luxury, comfort and quiet ride rival the most expensive cars you can buy.
(below) Monte Carlo S Coupe, America's newest road car. With the handling of the finest European cars, and the looks and comfort of an American car.

The Voice of a Moderate

Elsewhere in this edition of The Times appears a news-story comprised mainly of quotations from a speech made by Paul Patton, of Virgie, Pike county, who is described as one of the more moderate spokesmen for the coal industry.

Most of what Mr. Patton says makes sense to us. We agree with him that the federal Coal Mine Safety Act has encouraged strip-mining because it has made mining an operation which is too costly for the small operator of deep mines and difficult for those who are better fortified, financially. And on our own part we add that this legislation, national in scope, unjustly blankets Eastern Kentucky coal mines in its "gassy" indictment. Nobody, we think, is against safety, but the effect of this legislation is to impose a ruinous "quarantine" against a "disease" where it does not exist.

Deep mines, small and large, can supply America's coal needs without the destructive operation of strip-mines—if government will give the deep mines a chance.

Mr. Patton also speaks quite frankly, and as a sensible operator should, of such matters as overweight trucks, greedy men who flaunt the law, the need for the coal severance tax to apply to the mine product of other states as well as to Kentucky's. With equal frankness he admits that the severance tax is not nearly so injurious to the coal industry as the new Workmen's Compensation Act.

Quite sensibly he notes that "the people will no longer tolerate the destruction of the land and the streams without effective means of reclamation." Then he points out that the public must be willing to pay the cost of these improvements in the form of higher utility bills and other items that depend in varying degree upon coal.

pay the cost of these improvements in the form of higher utility bills and higher prices of other items that depend in varying degree upon coal.

This is inevitable. The consumer always pays. He will pay in the form of higher utility rates or he will pay in more denuded hillsides and acid streams.

This is not to endorse, blanket-style, everything this coal operator says. But we do want to say that it is refreshing to find an industry leader speaking forthrightly, at least leaving some room for others to feel that they may have a part in the dialogue.

or more. Two years ago, the cost of beginning such a mine was around $6,000.

The Health and Safety Act, which requires new equipment, more supervision and often delays production, is blamed for many of the ills of deep-mining as it competes with surface mining for a place in the coal market. Operators also claim that the Kentucky severance tax places their coal in an unfair competitive position with coal from other states and that competing strip-mined coal escapes most federal regulations and the severance tax.

And, say these sources, when the new Kentucky workmen's compensation law becomes effective next Jan. 1 the cost per ton of coal produced may be as much as 20 cents higher.

Commends Our Effort

Editor, The Times:

The Floyd County Times is doing an excellent job of keeping your readers aware that clean-up needs to be a year-round project.

We were particularly interested to see the article entitled "It's the Adults' Time, Next Time" in your July 26 edition. We applaud the ideas you presented as possible solutions to Floyd county's solid waste problems. If just a few habitual litterbugs reform from reading your clean-up and beautification printings, many tax dollars will be saved.

Marines Favor Miss Ison

We are a few of the many Marines stationed overseas, and by good luck and fortune we receive your paper, The Floyd County Times, every week.

We have taken a very deep interest in your paper, because it tells us what people back home are doing.

Lately, we have been keeping a very close look at the Miss Floyd County contest.

The Miss Floyd County contest has made the last few weeks extremely unusual and very exciting for us. Before the final decision was made to determine the winner, the few Marines stationed at Mt. Fuji Japan held the Miss Floyd County contest by secret ballot, which went over outstandingly. We were very lucky because we have a winner, who made it in the top five. We are very proud of her because we knew she had what it takes to be a winner.

We matched our findings with your paper. Miss Ison was the only one in good standing in our judging of contestants. So we, the few marines of the 3rd FSR and Service Bn. and 3rd Tank Bn. would like to congratulate Miss Denise Ison and the 1973 Floyd County Queen and all contestants involved in the bid for Queen.

Claims Kentucky Fails

Editor, The Times:

Sometime ago when a man who believed himself indispensable and was virtually a dictator while governor of Kentucky, many business people told me they were getting tough treatment from their local health departments. One man said he was run out of business because the health inspector had a relative who was a competitor. He said he knew of other business men who were up against the same thing.

Another report was from an out of state man who came into Kentucky to establish a business that required a great deal of plumbing. He had his own plumbers who were licensed in Kentucky but the local health department people told him he would have to use plumbers from their town or they would not O. K. his work. The man went to Tennessee and set up his business.

I've traveled by boat on the Ohio River from Cairo, Illinois to Huntington, W. Va. All along the north bank of the river huge smokestacks belching out black smoke could be seen, showing there was much business, but on the Kentucky side they were few and far between. There is a reason for this, and can it be that we do not have people with business ability?

Kentucky has more water suitable for factories than any other state and its vast lakes and rivers, closely connected with the Mississippi, makes it virtually a seaport; and the state is situated near all the great inland markets. Yet our young people have to leave Kentucky to find work.

A young school teacher told me she was paid nearly twice as much for teaching in Michigan than she could get in Kentucky and wondered why it was this way. I showed her two counties in Michigan with nearly as much taxable property as the entire state of Kentucky.

Three-Day Parley On USDA Program Is Held at Lodge

Carl R. Horn, district manager of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service, said Monday that the agenda of the three-day conference held at Jenny Wiley State Park, September 13-15, covered Food Stamp Program regulations, revisions, procedures and administrative matters.

All officers-in-charge, food program specialists and secretaries in the Prestonsburg district, which includes the state of Kentucky and a portion of Virginia, attended the meeting, along with representatives from the Southeast Regional Office in Atlanta. Regional officials attending the seminar included FSP Director R. Hicks Elmore, Wylene Cooper, Leo Davenport, Elijah Jones, Robert Bacon, Chuck Connor and Eleanor Ligon. Others attending were Paul Stobough and Linda Fletcher, of the Washington office, and Rich Crawford, state Food Stamp Program supervisor.

Our Yesterdays

(Items taken from The Floyd County Times, 20 and 30 years ago)

Thirty Years Ago

The American Red Cross spent a total of $74,354.13 for the relief of flood-stricken Eastern Kentuckians following the cloudburst of July 8, M. D. Powers, chairman of Floyd Chapter, announced this week. . . Estill Hall, 15-year-old McDowell youth, was instantly killed late Monday afternoon, near his home, when he was caught in the tread of a tractor. . . Leading all Kentucky counties in the collection of scrap rubber by the Works Progress Administration since that agency began covering rural districts in the search for junk, Floyd county by the second day of this month had jumped into second place in the total of metal collected. W. A. Toney, Floyd WPA supervisor, was advised this week. . . Alex Bingham, 30-year-old Handshoe miner, was instantly killed Wednesday night when a "kettle bottom" fell from the roof of Mine 38 of the Elkhorn Coal Corp. at Wayland. . . Training of civilian defense workers began here Tuesday evening at a meeting at City Hall, with W. Claude Caudill, Civilian Defense Chairman, as instructor. . . Prestonsburg tied up the Drift-P'burg baseball series Sunday at two games each in a tense 11-inning struggle, 6 to 5. . . There died: Jack Hale, 86, of Amba, Sept. 15, at home; William Prater, 63, Sept. 13, at his home at Risner; Mrs. Mary Frazier, 63, Sept. 11, at the home of a daughter, in Martin; Buck Boggs, 37, formerly of Town Branch, Sept. 11 at a Lexington hospital.

Twenty Years Ago

Mrs. Lula Webb, 61, of Harold, was fatally injured Saturday night when the car in which she was riding collided with another vehicle near Williamson. . . A deal completed last Thursday after several week's negotiations transferred ownership of the Utilities Elkhorn Coal Company holdings at Martin and gave promise that the idle workings will be in operation again within a few days, providing potential employment for 150 men. . . Six hundred persons were guests for Dr. George P. Archer and Dr. John G. Archer Sunday as an "open house" was observed at the opening of the new Prestonsburg General hospital. . . A circuit court jury refused to believe unanimously that blonde Gloria Kramer kidnapped Nolan Worley, 35, of McVeigh, on the night of Aug. 26 and forced him at gun point to drive her to this county, and was discharged as hopelessly disagreed this afternoon. . . Married: Mary Catherine Prater, of Bonanza, to Thomas Lea Music, of Dwale, Aug. 13, at Allen. . . Born: a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Gordon W. Gill, formerly of Prestonsburg, Aug. 8 at St. Joseph's hospital, Lexington. . . There died: Rev. William J. Setser, 87, Sept. 13 at his home on Long Branch of John's Creek; Zella Collins Hicks, 59, of Minnie, Sept. 12 at Beaver Valley hospital; Alpha Fields, 72, of Honaker Sept. 12, at Honaker; Amos Akers, 63, of Ivel, Sept. 18, at Prestonsburg General hospital; Joe Tackett, 40, of Martin, Sept. 15 at the Beaver Valley hospital; Alex Osborne, 76, of Honaker, Sept. 15 at Prestonsburg General hospital; George W. Allen, 66, of Minnie, Sept. 12 at Beaver Valley hospital.

Federal Judge Stays Eviction At Paintsville

U. S. Judge H. David Hermansdorfer, of the Eastern Kentucky district, recently enjoined the Paintsville Housing Authority from taking any action to evict Mrs. Louise Wiley from Unit 400 of the Authority's low-rent housing complex, unless it has previously complied with the grievance procedure defined by the court.

This procedure provides that: A tenant shall be afforded an opportunity for a hearing before an impartial hearing panel if he disputes within a reasonable time the housing authority's action or failure to act in accordance with the lease requirements, or any housing authority's action or failure to act involving interpretation or application of the housing authority's regulations, policies or procedures which adversely affect the tenant's rights, duties, welfare or status.

The number of members on such hearing panel shall be an uneven number, provided that housing authority representatives are appointed as members of such hearing panel, that tenants shall be represented on the panel in equal number by tenants elected by the tenant body, with an impartial member appointed as a tie breaker.

If the tenant requests a hearing, the housing authority shall notify him with a reasonable time prior to the hearing of the complete grounds or reasons for the housing authority's disposition of the tenant's complaint or grievance.

The tenant shall be given notice of any rules and regulations governing the hearing within a reasonable time prior to the hearing.

The tenant shall be afforded an opportunity to present his side of the dispute, including the opportunity to be represented by counsel or another person of his choice, to bring in witnesses and to confront and cross-examine witnesses in appropriate circumstances.

When a decision is made, the official or panel that conducts the hearing shall notify the parties to the dispute in writing of the decision and the reasons and evidence relied on.

To the extent that the decision is not inconsistent with state law, the United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended, HUD regulations and requirements promulgated thereunder or the Annual Contributions Contract the decision shall be binding on the housing authority, unless the housing authority shall determine and notify the complainant to writing within thirty days of such decision that the hearing panel has acted arbitrarily or exceeded its authority. In such event the matter may be subject to judicial review.

If the decision is in favor of the housing authority or if the hearing panel elects not to act upon the complaint because the issue has already been decided in favor of the housing authority in hearings of other complaints based on essentially the same set of facts, remedies and the tenant may seek appropriate relief.

Nelson-Owens

Smell of Wood Smoke And Apple Butter Making

By HELEN PRICE STACY

Big, black kettles oozing spicy goodness in golden spills, pans of quartered apples and wood smoke mixed with tangy aromas signal the approach of another Johnson County Apple Festival in Paintsville. Everyone in the county is busy preparing foods and displays, entertainment and costumes for the event that in the past has attracted as many as 50,000 visitors.

A highlight of the festival on Oct. 6-7 will be "that girl from Butcher Holler," for Loretta Lynn is coming home again.

"Oh, how we do like that girl," "She's every bit as pretty as she sings," and "I remember when she used to walk out of Butcher Hollow carrying her shoes so she wouldn't get them soiled before she got to town. There's no put on about Loretta. She's a great woman."

These and other complimentary remarks about Miss Lynn, a Johnson countian who has reached stardom in the country music field, are spoken over and over as festival time nears. She will perform at the festival both days.

Nobody will enjoy the festivities of Apple Day Festival more than Miss Lynn. Elmon Davis, chairman and founder of the festival, gives credit for her "homecoming" to her family physician Dr. John Turner.

Her song, "Coal Miner's Daughter," reveals the love, close family ties and emotions connected with her early years near Van Lear.

Babies will be an important part of the festival, for the Apple Baby contest at 3 p.m. Oct. 6 in the Mayo State Vocational School auditorium, Paintsville, is open to all Kentucky babies.

Added to this year's festival is an arts and crafts show with members of the Kentucky Arts and Crafts Commission demonstrating how to make traditional craft items. Many items will be for sale, according to the festival committee, but some will be for display only.

There will be antique cars, musical entertainment, appearances of celebrities and outstanding regional personalities and the Apple Queen beauty contest.

All of it is exciting and it all started more than eight years ago when Elmon Davis and local farmers placed some Johnson county apples in a bank window display.

The Future Farmers of America, Future Homemakers of America and other school, church and civic organizations will sell apple cider, apple candy, cookies, pies and cakes at sidewalk stands during the festival.

Members of development clubs in Johnson county and other adult groups will man concession booths where they will mix, mold and fry hand-size apple pies on the spot.

Hovering over the festival will be clouds of smoke from beneath the apple-butter kettle on Main Street. Visitors to the festival will have opportunity to see apple butter being made as it was 100 years ago.

Ask most grandmothers in the region how to make apple butter and the answer usually is: "Take a lot of apples, peel them, quarter them, put them in a big black kettle to cook with some water; add a lot of sugar, some cinnamon and cloves and stir, stir, stir."

For the past few weeks members of the Paintsville Garden Club and the East Point Area Development Club have been making apple butter in order to have a good supply on hand for the festival.

"The apple butter the clubs are making now will be for sale only at the festival," said Mrs. Eula Preston, president of the garden club. In years past members have sold as much as 2,000 quarts of apple butter at the festival. "We plan to have at least 1500 quarts made by festival time," Mrs. Preston said.

Johnson county invites everyone to join the crowd at the festival, have fun and go home with a bushel of apples, a gallon of cider and a quart or two of apple butter.

Oldsmobile for '73

Cutlass. It's two new cars.

Cutlass S
 Colonnade
 Hardtop Coupe.

Sportier this year. Roomier. Heavier. Yet surprisingly easy to own. Even if you order the new swivel bucket seats.

Cutlass Supreme Colonnade Hardtop Coupe (foreground). More of a little limousine than ever. You can see it in the formal roofline and new opera side windows. You can feel it in the spacious, quiet interior. And even in the ride we've patterned after our bigger Oldsmobiles.

Delta 88—with a new grille that swings out of harm's way.

For '73, we've made the Delta 88 tougher than ever. The Swing-Away Grille (pictured at left) is just one way. It's teamed with an improved hydraulic front bumper system: if the bumper gets tapped, the grille swings out of the way. We pound the seats 100,000 times, and drive the Delta 88 thousands of hard miles, to test durability. All to make sure it's more than just big, comfortable and smooth-riding—not just another pretty car.

Omega. The new compact Olds at a compact price.

It's a whole new kind of Olds. And the lowest-priced of all. Omega is a compact—but one with big-car thinking built in. It's nearly 500 pounds more car than some smaller compacts.

Its wheelbase is longer, 111 inches, for a smooth ride. And you can feel the difference on the road. A deluxe interior with new "wet-look" vinyl trim is standard. So is full carpeting. And a 250-cu.-in. engine. Coupe, 3-door hatchback or sedan, it's a lot of Olds for the money.

See the '73 Toronado, Ninety-Eight, all the new ones at your Olds dealer's showroom now.

Black Lung Benefits To Orphans Cited

The Black Lung Association of Kentucky announced this week that the Black Lung Benefits Act of 1972 permits orphans to claim benefits...

Any child under 18 and unmarried, or who is totally disabled, or who is a student, may recover back benefits from December 30, 1969...

To apply for these benefits, every person should contact his local social security office as soon as possible.

Miss Perry - 'Star-Spangled Girl'

Repertory Group To Open Season

The Floyd County area resident theater company, the Jenny Wiley Repertory Company, will open its first season with Neil Simon's hit comedy "Star-Spangled Girl," Friday, September 22...

"Star-Spangled Girl" is fast-moving and witty entertainment about the day a patriotic Olympic swimmer moves next door to an underground protest magazine.

The Jenny Wiley Repertory Company's production stars Victoria Perry as Sophie Raushmeyer, Stephen Hale as Norman Cornell, and Thomas Cavano as Andrew Hobart...

Though performing their first play at Prestonsburg Community College, the Jenny Wiley Repertory Company will move to May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, as a dinner theater for "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," the charming off-Broadway musical based on the "Peanuts" comic strip.

Further plans cannot be completed until the response to "Star-Spangled Girl" and "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," can be determined.

The company will keep some of its shows in repertoire and tour them to colleges, high schools and other area theaters on afternoons and open nights, upon request.

For information and tickets call 886-6647.

Trojans Defeat Virgie for 2nd Win of Season

The Wheelwright Trojans ground out victory No. 2 Friday night as they defeated Virgie, 22-16.

The Trojans' record now stands at two wins and three losses. The team is slowly, but surely returning to full strength with Lowell Parker back and Rod Thornsbury expected to return next week.

Virgie grabbed the opening lead as they burnt the Trojan secondary with a long pass on the third play from scrimmage. Wheelwright bounced back to capture the lead which they held for the remainder of the evening. Mike Armour got the Trojans on their way with a 25-yard scamper for the first Wheelwright touchdown. Darrell Branham added the conversion. The score stood, 8-8, at the end of the first quarter. Clifford James then sealed the win with Wheelwright's second touchdown. The conversion attempt failed.

The Trojans controlled most of the game with a crunching ground attack that kept Virgie at bay all evening. It continued on through the third quarter as Darrell Branham added another touchdown and his second conversion. Virgie later added the last touchdown of the game in closing minutes of play after hope of catching the Trojans had been lost.

The Trojans travel to Johns Creek this week to try and even their record.

Football Review

Another successful week for "Piggy"—10 out of 14 correct; a three-week total of 28 right and 13 wrong. A winning percentage of 68.2 and rising, after a disastrous first week.

Prestonsburg won its first district game, 41-0, and powerful Pikeville rolled over Johnson Central, 75-0! (The Panthers are in Prestonsburg Friday night.)

The pick of the week is Lynch over Paintsville for the Tigers' first loss of the season.

Cats Defeat Napier, 41 to 0; Next To Play Pikeville High

By MARK LAFERTY

The Prestonsburg Blackcats are looking for their first AA district title, and chances seem to favor the Cats this year more than ever. Bearing this in mind, the Cats humiliated M. C. Napier, their first district foe of the season, 41-0, in a fine overall performance last Friday night.

The Cats have been plagued by turnovers in previous meetings this year, but managed to control the ball better against the Napier defense. A strong performance was turned in by Jim Blackburn with his smooth ballhandling and fine execution of plays. In the first quarter a pass from Blackburn to Earl Stephens set up Danny Wells' three-yard touchdown. At the end of the quarter the Cats led, 6-0.

The first score of the second quarter came on a backfield mix-up. Robert Tackett was struck by an errant pitch-out which he alertly hauled in and ran 25 yards for the score. The conversion failed. With 41 seconds left in the half, Ronnie Burke dashed around left end for 59 yards to the Napier 24 yard line. John Heinze took the ball in from there with the Blackcat score. Stephens twisted across with the conversion. Halftime score: Prestonsburg 20, Napier 0.

The third quarter was quiet with only one touchdown scored, that coming when Jim Blackburn went nine yards on a bootleg. The conversion was good. In the fourth quarter the Cats added two touchdowns as Jim Blackburn passed to sophomore end Dennis Walker for one, and then scored the other on a three-yard keeper. Tackett kicked both conversions, making his total three for the evening.

This week the Cats are at home against the tough Pikeville Panthers, last year the teams tied at Pikeville.

IN MEMORIAM

Of my loved ones, my husband, Herbert Baldridge and my daddy, Henry Wallen:

Softly the stars are shining upon the precious graves. Beneath it lie the ones I could not save. I think of them in silence, no eyes can see me weep. But many a silent tear is shed While others are fast asleep. When evening shadows are falling, I sit quiet, alone; In my heart there comes a longing, If only they could come home. How I miss the welcome footsteps of the ones I love so dear. Oft I listen for you coming, feeling sure you are near. Only God knows how I miss you, only God knows the pain. I have suffered since I lost you, Life has never been the same. Thou art gone but not forgotten, for as long as I have memory Fresh my love will ever be, for I will always think of thee. Soft above the swirling waters, you have crossed the bar, Earth has lost two precious pearls But Heaven, has gained two stars. If all the world was all mine to give, I'd give it, yes, and even more To see the faces of those I loved and have them once more.

Church Charter in Kentucky Dissolved, Leader Announces

Mail in support of corporation shown on Mr. Hudson's desk.

The Old Regular Baptist Church of Jesus Christ, Inc. last week dissolved its Kentucky charter, it was announced by its president, Paul Hudson, of Chicago, Illinois.

Dissolution of the charter followed opposition to the corporation which, Mr. Hudson said, was formed for the purpose of establishing a base of friendship and cooperation between associations and their moderators.

The charter may be reinstated later, if churches of the state favor its implementation, Hudson said.

"We do not want to create any confusion or to do anything that would hurt our churches," the Chicagoan said. He added that, although his address in Chicago has not been publicized, he has received about 400 letters expressing support of the corporate plan. There are about 10,000 Regular Baptists in the region proposed for incorporation.

In a statement signed by Mr. Hudson and Hillard Proffitt, secretary, it was said the corporation had no debts or other obligations and that all contributions received have been returned to the donors.

Johnson Countian Heading Area Work With Handicapped

Roger Marshall, a Johnson county native, has been named regional director of Developmental Disabilities Services for the Mountain Mental Health Service, it was announced here this week by MMHS Executive Director Richard Stai. Marshall assumed his new duties September 1.

Marshall formerly had been a team director with responsibility for Mountain Mental Health Service programs in Johnson, Martin and Magoffin counties.

In his new position, he will have responsibility for regional program development in the area of the developmentally disabled, including the mentally retarded, the cerebral palsied, epileptics and other neurologically handicapped individuals.

In announcing Marshall's new appointment, Stai said, "Although our teams in each of the five counties served by Mountain Mental Health Service have made remarkable progress in working with the developmentally disabled, the number of East Kentuckians affected by such disabilities clearly requires a more far-reaching program of services. Roger, through his experience and training, is uniquely qualified to give regional guidance and direction to this program."

Marshall is a graduate of Morehead State University where he earned an undergraduate degree in psychology and sociology and a master's degree in psychology. He is a past member of the Central Kentucky Psychological Association and has co-authored three articles for the Journal of Physiological Psychology. He and Mrs. Marshall reside at 618 Stafford Street in Paintsville. They have two daughters.

Whatsoever Things Did you ever want to quit? Did you ever want to hang 'em up and call it a game? If you haven't, then you aren't normal. Several years ago I charted a course for my life. I chose what I believed to be the highest and truest way of living. I gave myself to it. And I have pursued it. But there have been times when I have wanted

Did You Ever Want To Quit? to quit—to call it a game and hang up the togs. Quitting is tempting because it is easier. When you get knocked down time and again it is hard to get up and go another time. Life is tremendously demanding if a person pledges himself to the best he knows. It becomes so difficult sometimes that the temptation to give up is very strong. The benefits of giving up seem appealing and attractive. I can understand why some people have given up. They grew tired of following their highest dream. And then they started demanding less and less of themselves. Finally, the dream was no more. A person needs a solid foundation if he attempts to follow the highest and best he knows. Because when the storms of doubt and despair blast against our structure, it will crumble like dust if there isn't something solid underneath. As I write this I'm tempted to quit—to give up—on the direction I chose some years back. All the advantages of giving up are looming out before me like water to a man dying of thirst. How strong the desire to quit! But I will not quit. I can't. Because I know that nothing worthwhile can be accomplished by quitting. I will never accomplish all I would like to, but I will accomplish nothing if I give up. And back there when I made my decision, I wasn't promised peaches and cream. The One I follow was crucified. Why do I think following Him should be easy? No, I made my vow to be faithful. And that is all He desires of me. Not to be successful. Not to be popular. One thing He desires of me—to be faithful. I can do that. I can be faithful. I can hang in there and give the best I have. I will be a better person by doing that. And stronger. And by doing so I can help another who is struggling to stay above water. Quit? Sure, I want to quit. How easy life would be if I would just call it a game and run away. But I will not do that, no matter how great the temptation. He is depending on me to be faithful. And that one thing I can and will do. I will not disappoint Him. I will be faithful. Give me a drink of the Living Water! I'm ready to get back into the game of life.

FIRST DAY OF AUTUMN. Nature starts to "turn in" for the long, cold winter ahead. Man gathers the harvest of his summer's labor. The most classic example of autumn is the squirrel storing acorns for the barren winter ahead. By instinct this small animal knows to put some away for a time of need. Emergencies arise in our lives, and we need to set some aside to meet those needs, perhaps at a time (like winter) when things won't be so bountiful. Plan now to save, each payday, a small amount of your earnings. Then when "winter" comes you'll be ready for it. True Story of A Mockingbird Seldom do we give the wild things of nature due credit for the remarkable intelligence many of them possess. Take the mockingbird, for example. This bird is undoubtedly one of the wisest of all wild creatures; it possesses a remarkable memory which enables it to listen to and remember the songs of at least 50 species of birds.

Once I saw a mockingbird listening to the song of a cardinal and when the cardinal stopped singing the mockingbird sang the cardinal's song even better than it could sing it.

The following true story of an old man and his pet mockingbird convinces me that this bird has remarkable powers higher than most of us suspect and that its intelligence is far superior to most creatures of the wild.

The old man had a pet mockingbird and a pet squirrel, and after his retirement he spent most of his time caring for the birds and other wildlife. It was well known to him that a mockingbird is fond of nutmeats, so he kept a supply of nuts on hand and every evening he would crack the nuts and feed the kernels to his pet bird and squirrel. The mockingbird would take food right out of the old man's hand because it loved and trusted him. But it wouldn't let anyone else get that near. After being fed each evening, the mockingbird would fly into a nearby tree and treat the old man to a burst of the finest music it could produce.

And the mocking bird is a most excellent singer. It is often called "the American nightingale," and has its own special love song which it pours out from some tree-top during the mating season. He puts all his power and energy into his special song and works himself up to a fine ecstasy until he often floats down through the air, still singing his superb music.

This was the kind of song the pet would sing in appreciation of the old man's feeding him and talking kindly to him, it was the bird's finest expression of love for the old man, whom everybody called "Big Daddy" because of his kindness and fatherliness to all living things.

Big Daddy lived to be 80 years old and until the time he died his pet mockingbird would come every evening to take the nutmeats from his hand.

The old man died early in March; it was too cold and early in the season for the birds to sing their love songs, but the mockingbird was there at the burying and didn't forget to sing.

While the minister was saying the last prayer over the casket, the mockingbird began to sing from a nearby cedar, and the bird kept on singing as long as the clouds were being filled in the grave.

Those who heard the song pronounced it sublime; it was as if a choir of angels had come down to sing a last farewell tribute to the man who had been kind to all living creatures.

Those who listened in rapt wonder at the bird's farewell song to his old friend had not the slightest doubt that this was the beloved pet of the deceased.

One of the mourners reported: "Never in life had I heard a bird sing so sweetly. Its song took all the hurt away from my heart and made me realize that this was his mockingbird come to pay its farewell tribute and I knew that somehow Big Daddy had gone to his peaceful rest. I realized it was too cold and early for a mockingbird to sing but this one sang, anyhow, because it never forgot the kindness of an old man's heart."

It is abominable, but it has been rumored among reliable sources that the Republican Party in Pike County plans to send an undetermined amount of money into Floyd County with the intent of defeating Congressman Carl D. Perkins, John M. Stumbo, Maness Crawford and James A. Duff for School Board members.

The Stumbo-Crawford-Duff Campaign Committee unalterably supports the best friend education has in Washington, our great Congressman, Carl D. Perkins. Now, friends, let us not make any bones about it, let us not sweep it under the rug — the Republican Party is trying to take over Floyd County's dynamic school system by electing their "hand-picked" candidates for Board members. We say, no, no, no, a thousand times no. Our school does not belong to any one political party but belongs to all of the people of Floyd County. We ask members of both political parties to join with us in Keeping Eastern Kentucky's most progressive school system moving ahead, by electing:

HALL-McCOY VOWS SAID

Miss Tonda Layne Hall, daughter of Mrs. Omery Hall, of Price, became the bride of Mr. Gary Houston McCoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Houston McCoy, of Burton, Ky., Saturday, September 16, at 4 p.m., at the Wheelwright Freewill Baptist Church. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Russell Jacobs.

Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Libby Hall, pianist, and the selections, "What the World Needs Now" and "Twelfth of Never," were sung by Mrs. Betty Frazier.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Rex Gearheart, of Price, the bride wore a Victorian style, floor-length gown of polyester moss crepe, with princess seaming, long set in sleeves and a ruffled stand-up collar and circular sleeve ruffles edged with lace. Her elbow-length, bouffant veil was held to a head-piece of white sheer petals with strings of lily of the valley. She carried a white lace-covered Bible, decked with white carnations and pom poms, interlaced with ivy.

Miss Nada Hall, of Price, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Jane E. Gearheart, Price, and Miss Karen Lynn Hall, of Minnie.

The maid of honor wore a mint green, floor-length, empire waist gown of dotted swiss, with puff sleeves, rounded stand up collar with a matching head piece. The bridesmaids' gowns, being pale blue and yellow, with matching headpieces, were similar to that of the maid of honor. Each carried a white, long-stemmed carnation with ribbons matching their dresses.

Serving his brother as best man was Mr. Larry McCoy, of Price. Ushers were Mr. A. J. Thornsberry, of Wheelwright, and Mr. Garland Thornsberry, of Burton.

Mrs. Hall, mother of the bride, chose for her apparel a dress of pink polyester knit with matching accessories. Mrs. McCoy, mother of the groom, wore a dress of green knit jersey with matching accessories. Each wore a corsage of white carnations.

Assisting at the reception in the church basement were Miss Mary Helen Scrocco, Miss Ann Newsome, Mrs. Jeff Hall, Miss Rosemary Little and Mrs. Maggie Gearheart. Assisting at the guest register were Miss Phyllis Ann Scrocco and Miss Carrie Rene Hall.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Scrocco, Mary Helen, Phyllis Ann, and Nancy, Cleveland, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Hall, Carrie Rene and Christopher Kyle, Dayton, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Willie A. Hall, Mike and Mark, Dayton, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carlos Hall, Lexington, Kentucky.

Mr. and Mrs. McCoy will make their home in Columbus, Ohio.

The Fable of The Little Red Hen

Once upon a time there was a little red hen who scratched about and uncovered some grains of wheat. She called her barnyard neighbors and said, "If we work together and plant this wheat, we will have some bread to eat. Who will help me?"

"Not I," said the cow.

"Not I," said the duck, as did the goose.

"Then I will plant it," the little red hen said—and she did.

Much later, when the wheat started to grow, the little red hen again was denied help. At length, the wheat was ready for harvesting.

"Who will help me reap the wheat?" the little red hen asked.

Not I," said the cow. Same thing from the duck and the goose.

"Out of classification," said the pig. So the little red hen harvested the wheat herself. Then she ground the wheat into flour. Now at last, she asked help with the baking.

"That's overtime for me," said the cow.

"I'm a dropout and never learned how," said the duck.

"I'd lose my welfare benefits," said the pig.

"If I'm the only one helping, that would be discrimination," said the goose, "No thanks." So the little red hen baked the bread and showed her neighbors the five loaves.

"I want some," said the cow, as did the duck.

"I want my share," said the goose.

"No soap," said the little red hen. "I'll just take it easy for a while and enjoy my bread."

"Excess profits!" cried the cow.

"Company fink!" shouted the goose, while the pig also demanded equal rights.

Pretty soon the farmer came to investigate the commotion.

"You must not be greedy," he told the hen.

"Look at the oppressed cow, the disadvantaged duck, the under-privileged pig, the less fortunate goose. You are making second class citizens out of them."

"But I earned the bread," the little red hen said. "Exactly!" the farmer said. "That is the free enterprise system. Anybody can earn as much as he wants. In other barnyards you would have to give all five loaves to the farmer. Here, you keep one and give four loaves to your suffering neighbors."

And they lived happily ever after, including the little red hen, whose neighbors never ceased to wonder why in the world she never raised any more wheat or baked any more bread.

Beware of the "Packsaddle"

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD
Several autumns ago, while out picking wild gooseberries, a small lad suddenly felt an intense burning sensation in the tender flesh between the fingers on his right hand.

The pain grew in intensity until it became almost unbearable and the hand swelled to almost twice its normal size. After a couple of hours, the agony gradually subsided, but it was several days before the hand assumed its normal size.

No fang marks could be found, but the father of the boy was sure at first that his son, had been bitten by a copperhead snake. However, upon investigating the gooseberry bushes, he found nothing more than a fat little insect with a green body and a brownish-purple spot on the center of its back. Then he knew what had so painfully stung his son. It was what some country people call a "packsaddle."

Books on insects generally make short shrift of this caterpillar which Wesley W. Gregory, UK Extension specialist in entomology, identifies as Sibine stimulea, the saddleback. But because of its potential for causing pain to people with sensitive skin, it is well worth knowing and avoiding.

Generally, contact with the stinging spines of this insect does not cause the extreme discomfort suffered by the small gooseberry picker. In any case, though, they are to be avoided. There is no specific remedy for the sting but bicarbonate of soda packs will help ease the pain.

The saddleback is the larva of a brown moth and is most prevalent in the fall. It is to be found most often in cornfields, in gardens, and in the woods feeding on the foliage of wild shrubs.

The spines or hairs attached to knobby growths on the saddleback are hollow and attached to poison glands. They are the means by which the caterpillar helps protect itself against predatory enemies. They do not, however, save it from destruction by parasitic flies such as the ichneumon and several varieties of wasps that destroy them in great numbers.

Some humans are more allergic than others to the sting of the "packsaddle," but, for everyone, contact with this insect porcupine's spines is no joke. For a minute or so, it feels as if a live coal had been placed on the skin.

To avoid being stung by one of these insects while harvesting in the garden, cornfield, or the wild, wear long sleeves and keep on the alert. Keeping an eye out may also prevent being stung by wasps, yellowjackets, and hornets that are always prevalent in the fall.

International Pot-Pourri Marks New Year Opening For University Women

The Prestonsburg Branch of the American Association of University Women opened the 1972-'73 meeting year with an international pot-pourri last Thursday evening at 6:30, with each member bringing a dish of a foreign country.

Included in the menu were: Tuna tetrazzini, beef a la flammode, Mexican casserole, sweet and sour pork, Danish bean casserole, Russian beets, French broccoli with mustard sauce, German potato salad, Caesar salad, chef's salad with Italian and Russian dressings, Norwegian layer cake, Danish apple cake, cheese cake, homemade French bread, and Old English spiced cider. The tables were decorated with flower arrangements and a display of flags of many countries. Also on display were dolls from Anna Stumbo's international doll collection, as well as other interesting mementos from foreign lands.

Yearbooks were distributed and the business session featured plans for the coming year. Most imminent are plans for a membership drive in October which was announced by the second vice-president in charge of membership, Roberta Davidson. Any woman who has a degree from an accredited college is eligible for membership and may join simply by making known her wishes to do so and presenting the proper credentials.

After the business session, an interesting program consisting of accounts by members of their travels abroad was enjoyed. Pat Harrison told of her trip to Europe this summer and Ruth Worland of her trip to Rome two years ago. The cleanliness of the countryside and the beauty of the scenery were stressed, as well as the economical usage of land. Each speaker mentioned that every little piece of land was put to use.

Marge Sammons, of Martin, and Shirley Stewart, of Maytown, planned the meeting. Others attending were Boots Adams, Helen Ankrom, Zella Archer, Donna Brown, Jane Combs, Roberta Davidson, Kathryn Frazier, Alice Harris, Pat Harrison, Kathy Hatfield, Betsy Rennick, Jean Rosenberg, Sarah Clay Stephens, Minnie Sutherland, Helen Wells and Ruth Worland, all of Prestonsburg.

Even the Doornail Isn't Dead

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD
(UK College of Agriculture)

You may not have thought of it in this light but, of all the fasteners ever devised, none has been of more importance in holding man's world together than the nail.

But after more than five thousand years this common farm and home item is being pulled from many of its traditional roles. Carpenters, fix-it-yourself enthusiasts, and others who once took hammer in hand to build, mend, or otherwise construct some article of necessity, now often use glues and fasteners made of plastic, alloys, or metals other than those that once went into the nail.

But have no fear. This old standby is far from being dead as Dickens' doornail. As many nails as ever are being made in the United States (340,000 tons in 1971) and nearly as many more (mostly from Japan) are being imported, according to B. F. Parker, chairman of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture's Agricultural Engineering Department. Yet, as perhaps a sign of the times, new ways have cast a shadow of sorts on the age-old trademark image of house building: a carpenter reaching into a nail keg for more ammunition for his hammer.

Today, old-fashioned nail kegs turn up only in antique shops. Nails now come in cardboard boxes, often packed in parallel rows like toothpicks, Parker notes. This is to keep their points from puncturing carpenters' fingers. They are even sterilized in some instances to protect busy upholstery men who habitually hold nails in their mouths.

Today's nails are made of steel, aluminum, iron and copper. Besides boards, they are banged into concrete and even shot into steel by a nail gun powered by blank cartridges.

The nail has been designed with screw threads, ridges, barbs, and square edges to prevent it from working out of woodwork constructions. It may come blued like a gun barrel or galvanized to make it rustproof. It is still sold in pennyweight sizes. For instance, a three-inch nail is called a "10 penny" because that was what 100 of them used to cost, Parker says.

Prior to 1834 when a Frenchman invented a wire nail-making machine, all nails were made by hand. Hundreds of thousands were turned out by American colonists around winter firesides. These so-called "cut nails," fashioned from strips of iron, are now valuable as antiques, and old barns and houses have been burned down just to salvage them from the ashes. Nails similar to these are still preferred in laying floors because their square points seldom split floorboards.

And so, since the first carpenter mashed his thumbnail off attempting to drive one, there has been plenty to say about nails. The Bible makes frequent mention of nails. They have been celebrated in art and other forms of literature and during the Middle Ages, became a synonym for the profundity of death. The old saying, "dead as a doornail," referred to the stud used to reinforce heavy front doors.

According to legend, nails used in the crucifixion were square-sided, between six and eight inches in length, and wrought by a blacksmith. They resembled the nails dug up a few years ago from a Roman fort abandoned 1,900 years ago in the face of attacking Scottish highlanders. These nails were sold for as much as $7.50 each.

Library Report

By ALICE HACKWORTH
(Floyd County Librarian)

Among the new books received this week by the Floyd County Library are:

"The Bronze Claws," by Paul Kruger. Murder blends with an intricate plot and believable characters in this exciting mystery.

"Gothic Tales of Terror," by Peter Haining. A collection of classic horror stories collected from the literature of Great Britain, Europe, and United States.

"How to Get Along With Black People," by Chris Clark. An unusual volume that reveals unique insight into the problems that arise from inter-racial social contact.

"Loser and Still Champion: Muhammad Ali," by Budd Schulberg. A record of Muhammad Ali's wizardry in the ring and his place as a symbol of American life in the twentieth century.

"Walk in the Paradise Garden," by Anne Maybury. An engrossing and rather frightening plot characterizes Anne Maybury's latest book.

Collegians To Lead Fitzpatrick Revival

Each person's need for Christ will be emphasized in a week-end revival, Friday through Sunday, Sept. 22-24, at Fitzpatrick Baptist Mission, on the Middle Creek road, it is announced by the pastor, the Rev. Lee Caudill. Services, which will be at 7:30 p.m. daily, will be led by students at Eastern Kentucky State University, Richmond.

Collegians who will lead in the revival are Jim Cowan, preacher; Wayne Jones, song leader; Diane Hill, pianist, and Joy Martin, social chairman. The public is invited.

Sight impaired because of cataracts can often be restored, says the Kentucky Society for the Prevention of Blindness, although many with a cataract do not realize anything can be done about it.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE
 By GORDON WILSON, Ph.D.

How Seriously?

In my years of collecting folklore, I have made no effort to separate the beliefs that are taken seriously and those that are known but merely laughed at. I have always felt that a folklore collector had better stick to his knitting and make no effort to change the opinions of the ones he is interviewing; I am sure any such effort to set people right in their beliefs, superstitions, if you like, would do more harm than good that they would not give an interviewer a full account of their beliefs. In my writings I have given beliefs as I found them, some of them sensible and well-grounded in observation and even in science, others plainly nonsensical or even harmful.

With the rapid passing of so many of the things that older generations knew, I wonder whether beliefs and figures of speech may not be adapted to newer objects and experiences. It is well-known that the early settlers brought with them a belief that the badger comes out of his burrow, looks around, and decides to remain out or return for six more weeks of winter. Since badgers are not to be found in many parts of America, it was easy to transfer this belief to our woodchuck or groundhog. The funny thing to me has been that, in my part of the state, where we had never seen a groundhog, the belief in the animal's prophetic powers was as strong as in any other area, where the animal has always been known. I wonder why the Jackson Purchase people did not associate this age-old belief with some well-known animal. It amuses me to find hundreds of city-bred people, who never saw a groundhog and may never see one, but regard the belief, sometimes, as very true. And lots of people who have seen groundhogs refuse to believe me when I mention having seen the animals at every possible time in winter; their groundhog, of tradition rather than of the woods, comes out only on Groundhog Day, February 2.

When an elderly woman, of considerable educational background, told me she would starve to death before she would eat a bite of any animals that had been killed by lightning, was she fooling or serious? I do not know, and I am sure that she doesn't, for she is not likely to have anyone coming to her house with a dish of lightning-struck squirrel or raccoon or other game animal or bird. And when a well-to-do merchant declared his belief in the power of faith-doctors—curers of thrush, wart-rubbers, goiter-rubbers, blood-stoppers—and in water-witches, I was equally uncertain as to whether he was serious or had probably never thought to question the powers of a good many people who he had known in a rather long life. Or maybe he had had a relative who belonged to this mysterious group and needed some family support in his mysterious acts and beliefs.

Similarly, in many folk medicines there may remain a mixed belief: in broad-open daylight, when all one's senses are alert, and when one is well and happy, most of the things that Granny used to dispense seem silly. But away along in the night, when the prescribed medicines seem to be doing no good, and the baby keeps on screaming with pain in the tummy, I suspect that many a cynic, remembering what used to be, would try some catnip tea or even some other folk remedies not nearly so likely to do good as some warm tea, maybe dashed with a bit of corn liquor.

Lucky and unlucky acts seem widely known still, but a great many of them will have to be updated if they are to scare anybody into following them. Coal-lamps used to sputter, and wiseacres said that this was a sure sign of rain; but they rarely sputter now for the simple reason that they can't find any coal oil for fuel. Breaking a lamp-chimney used to be a very unlucky act, but most youngsters that I know would ask, "What is a lamp chimney, Grandpa?" There are not so many opportunities for horsehair snakes to be as there were when horses were numerous; and Junior, fresh from high school, can tell even Grandpa that these horse-trough worms were merely one stage in the life of a worm, and never had any connection with horsehairs.

Miss Cornett, Mr. Tussey Wed

The sanctuary of Highland Avenue Free Will Baptist Church was the setting for the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Shirley Faye Cornett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Cornette, of Cliff, and Ira Joe Tussey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe W. Tussey, of David. The vows were exchanged August 5, the Rev. Clifford Austin officiating.

Mrs. Katherine Frazier provided the wedding music, and Miss Pamela Burchett, cousin of the groom, was soloist.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a long-sleeve gown of white sata-peau, adorned with chantilly lace appliques, designed with a Victorian neckline and ruffled hemline. She wore a floor-length veil trimmed with lace and carried a cascade of white roses.

Mrs. Reginald Reynolds, of Augusta, Ga., was her sister's attendant. She was attired in a floor-length gown of romance blue chiffon and crepe. The dress was of empire silhouette design with a scooped neckline, and peau-de-soie bow centered at the waist. Her veil was held by a chiffon bow, and she carried a nosegay of blue carnations and white roses.

Steve Tussey served his brother as best man. James Albright and Michael Moore, both of Richmond, served as ushers. Lighting the tapers were Joe Barnard and David Shroat, both of Mt. Sterling, Ky.

Assisting at the reception held at the church were, Mrs. Marie Stephens, Miss Janie Wright, Miss Karen Evans and Mrs. Frank Tussey. Miss Lynne Haywood, niece of the bride, was at the guest register.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Astor Cornette, Mrs. Buford Allen, Mrs. Richard Branham, and Mary, all of Ypsilanti, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Reynolds, of Augusta, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Scott Stephens, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sewell, of Louisville; Mr. and Mrs. Michael Moore, Mr. and Mrs. James Albright, of Richmond; Mrs. Ilene Miller, of New Jersey; David Shroat and Joe Barnard, of Mt. Sterling; David Dennis, of Lexington; Mrs. Mae Wiley, and Mrs. Bill Conley, of Paintsville.

After a brief honeymoon at Buckhorn Lake State Park, the newlyweds are residing at 207 Brocton, Richmond. Mr. Tussey is a senior at Eastern Kentucky University.

PTA Studies Needs Of Local School

The Prestonsburg elementary PTA met September 12 at the grade school lunchroom. Mrs. Rose Collins, president, introduced the new officers for the year: Mrs. Carol Holland, vice-president; Mrs. Ella Jane Howard, secretary, and Mrs. Mary Jo Hereford, treasurer. Mrs. Dodie Jagers gave the devotional.

Mrs. Collins announced that the PTA has approximately $2,500 which was earned last school year, to spend on school improvements this year, and asked for suggested needs from teachers and parents. Suggestions of parents and teachers having been heard, the president appointed a committee to determine the need and price for improved classroom lighting, and bring its recommendations to the October PTA meeting. Mrs. Roberta Davidson was appointed to check on the cost and quality of a duplicator for the school, and all teachers were requested to prepare and present a list of their individual classroom needs which were not furnished by the Board of Education. The PTA also voted to buy window shades for all classrooms where needed, to replace a slide for the playground, and to help buy a stereo for the music room.

It was announced that the classroom lighting, duplicator for school use, and teachers individual classroom needs would be voted on at the October meeting, and also that plans for the PTA-sponsored Halloween carnival would be completed. It was announced that Mrs. Elva Newsome, of Teaberry, was the winner of the 1972 Vega given away by the PTA, last May 31.

'The Wizard of Oz' Casting Dates Set

Casting dates for the production of "The Wizard of Oz" have been set for Sunday and Monday, Sept. 24 and 25 at the Prestonsburg elementary school. The time will be 3:30 p.m. both days.

Adults, college, high school and grade-school-age players will be needed for this production. Any person in the Floyd county area is eligible to try out.

"The Wizard of Oz" will be under the direction of Stephen Hale and will be produced by Jack Wicker. Both have performed at the Jenny Wiley Amphitheatre.

It is preferred that those wishing to try out for roles bring their own musical selection, but if this is not convenient selections will be made available by the casting committee.

Tau Chapter Receives New Members Sunday

Tau Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma met Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Floyd County Library. Roberta Davidson, president, presided at the initiation ceremony. New members are Janice Allen, Faye Holbrook, Edith Hopkins and Alicia Mayo. Other members of the chapter who were present are Blanche Dingus, first vice-president; Nancy Sue Dingus, second vice-president; Anna Sue Stumbo, corresponding secretary; Lexie Allen, treasurer, Sarah Clay Stephens, parliamentarian, Betsy Rennick, Barbara Conley, Betsy Porter, Marie Stumbo, Violet Allen and Lassie Copley.

Construction Begun On Dowell Building

Construction of a building to house a new Floyd county industry is under way on the Mountain Parkway, four miles above the Clark elementary school.

The 44 x 114-ft. cinder-block structure, being built by Holbrook Construction Company, of West Prestonsburg, will be the site of Dowell, a division of Dow Chemical Company. The firm, which will initially employ 13 men, specializes in the servicing of oil and gas drilling rigs and wells.

Completion of the building is expected in late December or early January.

Prior servicemen—Navy, Army, Air Force, and Marine Corps—discharged from service as an E-3 can now go into the U. S. Marine Corps as an E-3 if they have an acceptable reenlistment code and possess certain needed skills.

Toll Road Receipts Rise During August; Mt. Parkway in Gain

Kentucky's toll receipts for August totaled $1,870,423. This represents an increase of $162,054 over the same period last year.

Once again the Kentucky Turnpike was the most heavily traveled road, recording receipts of $777,870 as compared with $696,717 in August, 1971.

Toll receipts for each facility as they compare to the 1971 receipts were: Shawneetown Bridge, $36,851, down from $39,465 in 1971; Mountain Parkway, $186,618, up from $184,635; Western Kentucky Parkway, $342,080, up from $332,085; Blue Grass Parkway, $225,139, up from $214,832; Jackson Purchase Parkway, $46,293, up from $42,855; Pennyryle Parkway, $193,770, up from $167,894; Sebree Bridge, $4,759, up from $3,340; Audubon Parkway, $33,435, up from $26,547.

The Daniel Boone Parkway, which was opened to traffic on October 28, 1971, received $20,608 in tolls for the month of August, 1972.

Miller To Speak At Miners' Rally

The campaign for the presidency of the United Mine Workers of America will be emphasized in a meeting at 6 p.m., Sept. 27 at Wheelwright high school when Arnold Miller, opponent of Tony Boyle for the top UMWA office, will be the principal speaker at a meeting of Miners for Democracy.

Forrest McCown, a leader of the Miners for Democracy, said disabled miners, widows of miners, those rejected for Black Lung benefits and pensioners, as well as active UMWA members, are being invited.

Florence Physician New KMA President

Dr. Lee C. Hess, a family physician from Florence, Ky., was installed as the 119th president of the Kentucky Medical Association at the President's Luncheon September 20 during the annual meeting in Louisville. Elected by the House of Delegates, the Association's top policymaking body, Dr. Hess succeeds Dr. John S. Harter, Louisville.

A 1956 graduate of the University of Louisville School of Medicine, Dr. Hess has practiced in Boone county since 1957. Continuously active in the affairs of KMA for more than a decade, Doctor Hess has already served two terms as chairman of the KMA Board of Trustees and has represented Northern Kentucky both as a trustee and a delegate to KMA since 1958.

In addition to his work with KMA, Doctor Hess is a member of the Boone County Medical Society, the Kentucky and American Academy of Family Physicians, and the American Medical Association. He also is active in Civic Affairs.

Insurance Company Names Dana Native

A
THING?

Not where arthritis is concerned.

Arthritis is our most widespread chronic disease... and modern woman is its chief victim.

A little knowledge about it can be a very valuable thing. It can make the difference between control and crippling.

Instead of pretending to yourself that those pains and swellings will go away... that it won't really get worse... that you may be imagining the whole thing...

Instead of wearing a little copper bracelet on your arm... or indulging in other fantasies...

Instead of smiling bravely when you want to cry inside...

Use this little knowledge: something can be done. And see a doctor. Do just what he tells you. He'll help you realize how much can be done about arthritis. If you act in time.

Another thing. To give help. The Arthritis Foundation needs help. For research to find cause and prevention. For services to patients. For finding new ways to prevent and correct disability. For training specialists. For finding and testing new drugs. For spreading knowledge.

Now that you know... let's help each other.

High School Who's Who Names Wayland Student

Northfield, Ill.—John David Cooley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Cooley, of Wayland, and a senior at Allen Central high school at Eastern, was recently notified that he is to be featured in the sixth annual edition of WHO'S WHO AMONG AMERICAN HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS, 1971-72, the largest student award publication in the nation.

In addition to having his biography published in the book, young Cooley will also compete for one of ten $1,000 scholarship awards funded by the publishers and will be invited to participate in the firm's annual "Survey of High Achievers" later in the academic year.

Pike Coal Operator Hits U.S. Laws Controlling Mining

Federal regulation of the coal industry has already hurt and more of the same could be destructive, Paul Patton, president of the Kentucky Elkhorn Coal Co., Virgie, told the Ashland Kiwanis Club last week.

Passage of a congressional proposal to regulate strip mining would have "catastrophic" economic consequences for the people of Appalachia, he said.

Patton, regarded as one of the more moderate industry leaders, said he is referring to a bill that would in effect ban strip-mining in much of Appalachia by prohibiting it on slopes greater than 20 degrees.

"The economic consequences of such precipitous action would be catastrophic," he said. "Coupled with the effect of the federal mine safety act and the general weakness of the coal market, conditions in the coal counties of Eastern Kentucky would equal the dark days of the 1950's and could conceivably get worse."

Patton criticized the safety act as "right in its diagnosis of the problem, but wrong in prescription for the cure," contending it has not saved lives while driving small underground operators out of business.

He also said the new state severance tax already has put an economic crimp on Kentucky operators trying to compete successfully with rivals in other states.

A group of coal operators from Eastern Kentucky and nearby areas filed suit in Franklin Circuit Court Monday challenging the validity of the severance tax, but Patton appeared to take another position.

"It is our hope that neighboring states will follow Kentucky's lead and enact a similar tax to restore the relative competitive positions," he said.

Acutally, he added, the new workmen's compensation law of the General Assembly "will be much more damaging than the severance tax" and will fall almost entirely on underground operators, thus encouraging more strip-mining.

Patton acknowledged that the overweight coal truck situation "is probably the most obvious irritant of the coal industry to the citizens of Eastern Kentucky."

Noting many trucks operate today at more than 100,000 pounds when only 48,000 pounds is legal, he said:

"While 70,000 pounds on the truck might be reasonable, and 48,000 pounds is just not possible economically, 100,000 pounds is sheer madness."

He said he would not be surprised to see some operators try 150,000-pound trucks if they become available and nothing is done about overweight practices.

"Some people don't know where to stop," he said. "... We need reasonable weight limits on coal trucks and then we need them enforced. The longer this problem goes without being solved, the worse it will get."

Patton called for the United States to rely less on foreign sources for its energy supply and more on domestic coal.

He declared that with proper attention, money and research the coal industry can meet the nation's needs.

The coal industry "has left Appalachian one of the richest areas of the nation in terms of natural wealth — the poorest part of the nation in terms of benefits for its citizens," Patton said.

He termed coal the "cornerstone of the industrialization of the nation and cheap coal or low-cost coal has been a fundamental element in our high standard of living."

He said coal "has enabled us to consume one-half of all the energy used each year in the entire world, even though we constitute only five per cent of the world's population."

"But low-cost coal has had a tremendous social cost," he said. "It has claimed the lives of miners over the years and left thousands more crippled, disabled and suffering from black lung and other diseases. Cheap coal has left the land ravaged with unreclaimed strip and underground mines, acid streams and dangerous and unsightly slate piles."

The price of coal has almost always been kept low, he said, "because the large reserves of coal make it possible for many different individuals to enter the business at the slightest indication of good profits."

He cited a change in public attitude toward the coal industry, and noted that "high fatality and disease rates are no longer acceptable. The people will no longer tolerate the destruction of the land and the streams without effective means of reclamation."

"But they must be willing to pay the cost of these improvements in the form of higher utility bills and higher cost for most other items that depend to a greater or lesser extent on coal," Patton stated.

Social problems brought on by past practices are being eliminated or minimized today by coal operators, he said, but admitted many have resisted changes.

He said the public, through government action or public opinion, often has properly diagnosed the problem but prescribed the wrong cure.

"A prime example of this is the Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act of 1969... conceived in the hysterical aftermath of the terrible Farmington (West Virginia) disaster (or November, 1968, in which 78 men perished;")

The Act "Does not take a rational attitude toward mine safety," he asserted. He maintained it punishes the operator, particularly the small operator, and does not provide practical guidelines.

Since the law became effective "all our worst fears" about its effects on the small mine operators have been realized. Nine of the safer mines predicted by the law's proponents have materialized, he said.

He blamed the law for practically destroying small coal mine operations in Eastern Kentucky and for damaging larger operations.

"It has forced more and more operators into surface mining, and, what is even worse, it has induced many outsiders such as road contractors, doctors, store owners and anybody else who could buy a bulldozer to try strip-mining."

In almost every case, Patton said, people who know practically nothing about coal have been unwilling or unable to properly reclaim land.

Extension Service

By JACK M. FRIAR
(County Extension Agent)

Several Floyd county 4-H Club members (other than the champions listed recently) did excellent work participating in the Kentucky State Fair.

Deborah Reffett, Garrett, finished 16th in the junior clothing judging, while Lara Hopkins, of Eastern, was 19th in the senior clothing judging.

Receiving blue ribbons in demonstrations were Clisandra Ratliff, Trena Trimble, Karen Conn, Judy Layne, Cathy Hamilton, and Lara Hopkins.

Rita Duff and Lara Hopkins participated in the state food judging contest.

MAYTOWN NEWS

MAYTOWN HOMEMAKERS MEET
 Maytown Homemakers met at the home of Mrs. Thelma Hicks Sept. 7 at 7 p.m.

Mrs. Imalee Spillman gave the devotional, with Mrs. Thelma Hicks leading the group in singing. The financial report was given by Mrs. Hicks.

The club will be having an arts and crafts display at the postoffice. The September lesson was, "Fall Clothing Forecast," each club member modeling a dress. First, second and third prizes were awarded, compliments of Mrs. Minnie Gearheart. The lesson for October will be on cake decorating, and the meeting will be held at the home of a new member, Mrs. Nora Martin.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Ruby Halbert and Mrs. Anzie Martin.

Refreshments were served to Alta Jean Gibson, Nora Martin, Trilby May, Imalee Spillman, Helen Boyd, Thelma Hicks, Minnie Gearheart, Anzie Martin, Ruby Halbert, Lenie L. Allen, Marcella Bailey, and Frances Pitts.

Owens-Collins

The marriage of Miss Patty Ann Owens, of Prestonsburg, and Bucky Collins, also of Prestonsburg, was solemnized Sept. 16 at 10:30 a.m. at Clintwood Va. by the Rev. Leon R. Burger in the Free Will Baptist Church. Attendants were Earnest Collins, Ray Campbell, and Mrs. Jack Nelson.

CARD OF THANKS
 We would like to take this means of thanking everyone who helped us during the passing of our beloved mother and sister, Rhodina Mullins. We especially wish to thank those of you that sent flowers, food, or did anything to help. And a special thanks to the ministers Charley Jones, Andy Hamilton, Hershell Hamilton, Hilbert Mullins and Perry Jones, and the Hall Brothers Funeral Home for its fine service.
