

Garth Work Lowest Bid Is $348,490 Bradley & Powers To Build Addition; Title I in Doubt

The construction firm of Bradley & Powers, of Paintsville, is the apparent low bidder on construction of the delayed addition to the Garth Vocational School, it was said after bidders from six contractors were opened Saturday by the Floyd County Board of Education.

Bradley & Powers' bid of $348,490 is approximately $20,000 below the lowest bid offered at an earlier advertising of the project. The lower figure resulted from a change in the wage rate set by the Kentucky Department of Labor after a hearing held here.

Appalachian Regional Commission funds totalling $200,000 will go into the Garth project.

Although Title I teachers were employed Saturday, complete funding remains in doubt, Supt. Charles Clark said. Most of the teachers employed for Title I work are on tenure, and if the program is not fully funded some of these will of necessity be transferred to regular teaching posts and will take the place of non-tenure teachers. If Title I funding fails to materialize altogether, as many as 40 positions could be affected.

The board of education approved a contract with the state Department of Economic Security for a possible 22 job "slots" for high school students under revenue sharing, the state department to administer the program. This is regarded as a "stop-gap" measure to mitigate the loss of the NYC program which benefitted students in need of financial support.

This Town... That World

I AM THANKFUL

I caught no fish during that fishing tournament. I hasten to add: I didn't enter. As if that would have made any difference.

I must not let this opportunity pass to thank the planners of this tournament. They saved me a day's time, perhaps a severe sunburn and considerable loss of aplomb by having it on Sunday.

R.S.V.P.

My two sons represented the family in that tournament, and they, too, were missing from the winner's circle. Both are nursing what they describe as second-degree burns and are recuperating from more hard work than either had done in the last five years.

Their motor conked out, some miles away from the dock, and they spent the better part of the day paddling in the trough of passing boats. Finally, like Bogart in "The African Queen," the younger took to the water, pushing the boat ahead of him along the shoreline, while his brother kept an eye out for submerged objects, approaching craft and, perhaps, a likely spot to drop a lure.

They join me in inviting Roland Martin, Bill Dance and any other expert available to come to Dewey Lake for next year's bass tournament. We have an idea those guys are getting to be just a wee bit too cocky.

Jenny Wiley Launches Own Litterbug Fight

The Kentucky Department of Parks is considering pitching into the national "Pitch In" anti-litter program, and in the meantime such a program is already under way at Jenny Wiley State Park.

Buzz Ryland, assistant park manager, said the early move here is not designed to "beat the gun" but that the need at Jenny Wiley State Park is such that waiting for the system-wide effort would be a waste of time.

Mr. Ryland has enlisted the cooperation of Mayor George P. Archer, County Judge Henry Stumbo, County Attorney James R. Allen and other officials. Mayor Archer said he will initiate an anti-litter program at Archer Park here to coincide with the effort at Jenny Wiley.

"We hope to get the entire county involved," Ryland said. "This is no one-day or one-week program. It will be a summer-long cleanup and beautification effort."

The assistant park manager said the anti-litter program at the park is getting down to cases, to begin with. For instance: There already have been arrests by park rangers for alleged

"Places Where People Grow" Planned Near New Hospital

Begun in a small greenhouse at Flat Gap, Mountain Comprehensive Care Center's Greenhouse Training Project offers a new opportunity for development of the area's mildly retarded, and for this reason is referred to by project leaders as "a place where people grow."

Barely four months old, the program is designed to emphasize each step in the development of the individual from initial contact with the agency to possible job placement. Training Supervisor Chalmer Howard, explained that many people who are "mildly or moderately developmentally disabled" are made to believe in their daily experiences that they are not capable or fit to work at productive jobs or to accept any degree of responsibility. The project is designed to encourage these people and develop an awareness of their own capabilities.

"We want to encourage and develop a greenhouse industry in the area," Howard said, "and then place our trainees when possible." He said this area, with its natural gas supply and a relatively poor potential for open land farming, is particularly well-suited to greenhouse projects. "But," he emphasized, "our trainees could just as easily be placed in a service station, for example."

The project presently accommodates 12 trainees from Floyd, Johnson, and Magoffin counties. These trainees are involved in 12 inter-related training segments of the program, including operation and maintenance of light banks; participation in work cooperatives and home projects; horticultural training; training in care and

DR. WRIGHT AND FAMILY LEAVING FOR BOSTON

Dr. Ballard Wright will leave June 6, for Boston, Massachusetts, where he will serve as Examiner for the American Registry of Inhalation Therapists. Dr. Wright served as National Consultant to the ARIT and is on the Joint Review Committee for Inhalation Therapists Education and Standards.

Mrs. Wright and children will accompany Dr. Wright for a vacation in the Boston Area. He will return June 11 and will be in his office June 12.

littering. More arrests are to follow, and all will be publicized, he said.

Hopefully, more litter bags will be available for use at the state park. Trash cans are there, and more may be added, but the supply has a high casualty rate as the result of vandalism, signs encouraging visitors to the park to keep the surroundings clear of waste materials will be posted. The park will enlist the help of both Boy and Girl Scouts.

Within the next two weeks a meeting of officials—park, city and county—will be held for a discussion of problems.

Two May Lodge guests were arrested by park rangers last week for vandalism. Rest rooms at the Stratton Branch recreation area were partially wrecked recently, but the vandals have not been identified. Dewey Lake itself has within the week been the receptacle of a wide assortment of litter—beer and soft drink cans, plastic jugs, paper and the like.

Conservation Officer Dalton Ray Conley made the first littering arrests of the season a few days ago at the lake. More are to follow, those determined to clean up the area have decided.

maintenance of lawns; reforestation and reclamation; nursery training; garden and lawn machinery repair; janitorial and food service training; and retail merchandising.

Within the next two weeks, Howard reported, construction will begin on two large greenhouses adjacent to the site of the proposed Mountain Comprehensive Care Center across U. S. 23 from Highlands Regional Medical Center, near here. These will more adequately serve Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike counties, and services will eventually be extended to other surrounding counties.

Director of the project, which is one of two such programs in the nation, is Tom Hummer. David Gillespie is the staff horticultural specialist, and Jim Valentine serves as training supervisor.

MENTAL HEALTH ASSOCIATION TO MEET AT LIBRARY, MONDAY

The Floyd County Mental Health-Mental Retardation Association will meet Monday, June 6, at the library here. Plans will be made at this meeting for the Eastern State Hospital picnic to be held in July.

List of Teachers Employed Shows Few Major Changes

The Floyd County Board of Education may have done its biggest single day's work of the year last Saturday when, in addition to letting a major construction contract and handling other affairs of business, it employed 456 teachers and supervisors for the coming school term. The new list of teachers involves no big changes, and the changes that there are resulted from promotions and resignations.

Wilburn "Shorty" Jamerson is the new principal of Wheelwright high school, filling the vacancy created when Ronald Turner moved from that position to become Title I director. Sammy Elmer Wells asked to be relieved of his duties as assistant principal of the Prestonsburg elementary school so that he could return to classroom teaching, and Frank Stewart, Prestonsburg high school science teacher, was named as his successor. Russell Mont Frazier succeeds Danny Branson as assistant principal at Betsy Layne. Mr. Branson will fill the science teaching post vacated here by Frank Stewart.

Because of the loss in enrollment, eight non-tenure teachers were left off the list of those hired.

Those employed:

ALLEN ELEMENTARY—Lewis Campbell, principal, Elizabeth Bailey, Emily Allen, Danese Amburgey, Glenda Blackburn, Emmogene Caldwell, Phyllis Craft, Frank G. Grey, Jimmy D. Harold Youth 'Cycle Victim

Sixteen-year-old Kenneth Ray Price, of Harold, was almost instantly killed Sunday night when the motorcycle he was riding ran over an embankment, near Harold.

Young Price was apparently traveling at a high rate of speed, according to State Police sources, when the vehicle went out of control, plunging over a 40-foot embankment. Price's nephew, 11-year-old Ronald Gene Price, was passenger on the bike but escaped with abrasions and lacerations.

A son of Frank and Juanita Weddington Price, he was born February 15, 1957.

Survivors, besides the parents, include four brothers, Gary and Bobby Gene Price, both of Harold, Frank Price, with the armed forces in Taiwan, and James Price, of Springfield, Ohio, and a sister, Mrs. Lamona Sue Stumbo, of Hillard, Ohio.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete as of Tuesday morning.

New Water System Has First "Customer"

Limited water service was begun recently by the new Beaver Elkhorn Water District when it supplied water to the new Allen Central high school at Eastern in the closing days of the term, and the entire 82-mile-long system is due for operation by Oct. 31. J. C. Wells, of Wayland, chairman of the district, said this week.

The $2,790,000 project is said to be the longest rural water system in Kentucky. Mr. Wells said 1,000 customers are expected for the system by completion date. Approximately 500 have already signed for service, and a canvass of both Right and Left Beaver Creeks is being initiated to give every householder and business an opportunity to contract for connection at the basic $25 charge, which is refundable.

Customers who fail to contract for service before the initial tap-on period elapses will pay a minimum of $75, which is not refundable, Mr. Wells said.

Water drawn from the Big Sandy at Allen and treated at the district's $600,000 plant there was pumped to the Eastern school, a distance of about 10 miles. An effort is now being made to establish water service at the McDowell Ap-

3-Vote Margin Is Unaffected By Recounting

The last tabulation of the Floyd county primary vote was not completed till Monday morning when a recount of the absentee ballots was made.

This recount and Saturday's recheck of the voting machines in the Democratic races for Representative, Sheriff and District 3 Magistrate made no change in the overall results.

The one race watched with intense interest was in District 3 where Leroy Akers led Eddie Caudill, incumbent, for magistrate by only three votes. The recount made no difference in the vote between the two.

Although a "big" winner in his race for the Democratic nomination for Sheriff, Joe W. Lewis asked a recount of Toler precinct after learning that he had received 100 more votes there than had been reported. "I felt that what the people wanted to say by their votes should be recorded right," he explained after requesting the recount.

And the recount of the precinct showed that Lewis' vote there should have been 161 instead of the 61 originally listed.

Other recount results: In Arkansas precinct, James "Jitter" Allen received 78 instead of 76 votes for Representative in Legislative District 95. Jimmy "Gabe" Turner, Democratic candidate for Sheriff, received 20 votes in Weeksbury precinct instead of the 2 originally reported.

Allen Taylor, Democrat, received 16 votes rather than the reported 6 for Sheriff in Melvin precinct.

In the absentee vote recount, Joe Wheeler Lewis received 17 votes in District 4 instead of the 16 reported, and his nearest opponent, Henry C. Hale, received 11 votes instead of the reported 9.

(The gains resulting from the recounts are not reflected in the precinct tabulation of the vote which appears on another page of this week's Times.)

Ratliff Quitting Schools Position After 21 Years

Wayne Ratliff has resigned the post of assistant superintendent of Floyd county schools after 21 years' service in that position under two county school administrations.

Mr. Ratliff's resignation becomes effective No. 1, and till that time he will remain as a half-time consultant, helping to acquaint his successor, Ray Brackett, of Allen, with the intricacies of a $4 million school budget.

Mr. Brackett's employment as assistant superintendent was approved by the Floyd County Board of Education at its meeting last Saturday. When he submitted his resignation Ratliff volunteered his help, without pay, beyond the November 1 date.

Mr. Brackett has been director of the school system's Title I program.

Commenting on Mr. Ratliff's resignation, Superintendent Clark said: "Wayne Ratliff possibly contributed more than any other man to the present improved method of handling and checking on school finances. The entire school system will miss his steady influence and his unflinching insistence that what is good for children is good for a school program."

Mr. Ratliff began his work in the field of education as a classroom teacher, served as principal at Bonanza and Wheelwright, then was assistant superintendent eight years during the administration of Virgil O. Turner and now is concluding 13 years in the same capacity with supt. Clark. He was educated in the schools of this county and at Caney Junior College (now Alice Lloyd College) at Pippa Passes and received his master's degree from the University of Kentucky. Besides his part-time work during the next few months with the school system, Mr. Ratliff plans to work in real estate.

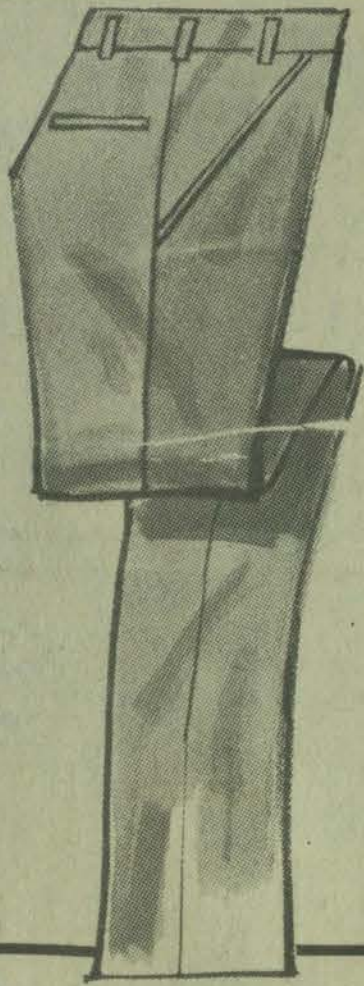

His resignation set off a series of changes in top personnel posts. With Mr. Brackett's advancement to the position of assistant superintendent the post of Title I director was vacated, and Harry James Wallace, assistant director, was named to fill the vacancy. Ronald Turner, who for the last two years has been principal of Wheelwright high school, was named Title I assistant director, and Wilbur "Shorty" Jamerson was named to the school's principalship.

Commissioners Have Sound Plan

Out of the recent hassle over the naming of election officers something of real value may emerge. It will, if Election Commissioners Jim Hammond and Gormon Collins stick to their announced resolve to insist that election officers serve as designated.

The two commissioners agreed, a few weeks ago, that a future grand jury should investigate the failure of designated precinct officials to serve, and to look into their excuses for not reporting for duty.

The Times has no desire to see any citizen under the onus of investigation or prosecution, but what these two men have proposed to do is important. Unless the ancient practise of substituting precinct officers for those who report they are sick or otherwise prevented from appearing for the day's work is ended, no election board, however honorable and conscientious it may be, can staff every precinct with officers who can be depended upon to conduct an honest election.

There will always be a few election officers who because of real illness, death in the family or other untoward circumstance cannot serve. But if no solid basis for precinct officers' absence is demanded, it will continue to be easy for the force "inside the house" to be stacked for or against this candidate or that by the simple act of substituting a "friend" for an officer who is can't be "depended upon" because he or she is impartial and capable of conducting a fair test of strength between those who seek office.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

After 36 Years

In October of last year, I received my first issue of the Floyd County Times in thirty-six years. A friend of over a half century subscribed for me. Had I known what I was missing, I would not have been without it all these years.

I have always had a special love for Floyd county and Prestonsburg and in order to keep some kind of contact with your section of Kentucky I have corresponded all these years with some Floyd county citizens. Of course, I have not had the full scope of the news but at least this has helped to keep my interest in, and my love for, those dear people and places I love and miss so much. Now I can hardly wait for the Floyd County Times to get in my mail box each week. Incidentally, I was very much disturbed when I read about the loss of your plant by fire. Also, I was very happy when I read that another printing plant came to your assistance. In the last number of years I have traversed the entire United States and have read the newspapers with large circulations and I read a number of weekly newspapers, and I must say that the Floyd County Times is outstanding. Your format is good and your news, while mostly local, is diversified. I could name some of the articles that are of great interest to me, such as "Our Yesterdays" and "This Town-That World".

My best good wishes to you and all the people of Floyd county. May the Floyd County Times have many more years of successful publication.

Commends Stand Taken By Officer on Littering

As a citizen of Floyd county and one certainly interested in our welfare, I want to commend Dalton Ray Conley for the stand that he has taken in regard to littering at our beautiful Dewey Lake and "visitor attractor," Jenny Wiley State Park.

Mr. Conley is only doing his duty, as every other man in uniform at the Park should do. He is not a "hepped up" environmentalist but he does sincerely believe that the investment that the federal government, the state—and that is all of us—have made should be protected. He also believes that the beauty which the maker gave us should not be desecrated by Careless people.

May I carry this littering by careless people a step further? We now have laws on our books and have spent tens of thousands of your dollars and mine to erect signs on our highways warning us careless people that littering is punishable by fine.

Is it not a fact that officers of the law have taken an oath to uphold the law? Then, if that be the case, and it is, how many of our law officers have themselves violated the law and thus violated their oath by turning their heads when a passing motorist, or one driving ahead of the officer, chucks his trash on the highway for some one else to pick up?

Would, you Mr. Editor, give me one bit more of space?

Let's take the "litterers" along our streams and small roads and up the hollows, and ask our Health Department how long it has been since it or they have served notice on the owners or renters of property with literally truck loads of trash on the bank or brink of a would-be beautiful stream, praying for the stream to rise and carry it down on his neighbor.

Floyd county is a beautiful county, blessed by good roads, good schools, one of the most beautiful lakes and parks in the state and blessed by some of the finest people in the world—yet cursed by some of us and some of our visitors.

Don't we all think it is high time that all our officers of the law start living up to the oath they have taken—and, in short, start "cracking down" on us when we turn litterbugs?

SPEED READING

For the first time ever the American public is now being offered a complete speed reading course at a tuition rate within the budget of everyone. Now you and your entire family can take a speed reading course for the unprecedented low cost of $19.95.

The course is comparable to the courses which are being offered on an 8 weeks basis with a tuition rate in excess of $250.00. In some ways it is superior to the more expensive courses.

First, you learn to speed read your own materials.
Second, everyone takes the course from the same professional teacher.
Third, the course is designed with a continuing lesson. It can be continued until you reach your desired goal.

WHAT SHOULD YOU EXPECT TO ACCOMPLISH
READ NOVELS OF 250 PAGES IN LESS THAN ONE HOUR
READ LONG NOVELS IN LESS THAN THREE HOURS
READ NEWSPAPERS IN LESS THAN 15 MINUTES.
READ TEXTBOOKS, REPORTS, AND PROFESSIONAL JOURNALS
MANY TIMES FASTER AND WITH MUCH BETTER COMPREHENSION

HOW CAN WE OFFER THE COURSE AT THIS RATE

- (1) We have eliminated salesmen's salaries
- (2) We have eliminated teachers' salaries
- (3) We have eliminated classroom rental

WHAT IS INCLUDED IN THE COURSE

Two one-hour cassette tapes. All the instructions that you will need for the entire course.
Three books. We will lead you through a step-by-step speed reading of these books.

Freeman-Moore Wedding Solemnized on June 2 At Methodist Church

The wedding of Miss Teresa J. Freeman and Mr. Gale E. Moore was solemnized June 2 at 2:30 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church here, the pastor, the Rev. Howard Coop officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Dallas Freeman, of Auxier. The maid of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Greer, of Findlay, Ohio, and the bridesmaid was her sister, Mrs. Thomas E. Rose, of Prestonsburg. Paul Glass, of Sabina, Ohio, served Mr. Moore as bestman, and Tom Hodson, also of Sabina, was usher.

The bride wore a green, floor-length gown, with shoulder-length veil. She carried a prayer book with a bouquet of daisy pom-poms.

The reception rooms at the church was decorated with green and yellow streamers. Presiding at the serving table, which was decorated with nuts and green and yellow mints, was the groom's sister, Miss Patty Moore, and the bride's cousin, Miss Cheryl E. Manns.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of Eastern Kentucky University. Following a wedding trip, the couple will reside at 1010 Locust Street, Northland Apts., Quincy, Illinois, where Mr. Moore is employed with the Moor-Man Mfg. Company.

Performers from Past Season Back for New Jenny Wiley Season

MISS ENOCH

MR. KRIEDER

Two of the performers to be featured in productions at the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre, which will begin its 1973 season June 20, are Dennis Krieder and Kay Enoch.

Mr. Krieder is a resident member of the performing troupe and will be featured as Mr. Applegate (the Devil) in the summer stock's production of "DAMN YANKEES." Jenny Wiley audiences may remember him from the summer of 1971 when he featured as Carnes in "Oklahoma!," Admiral von Schreiber in "The Sound of Music," and originated the role of Buzzy Close in "Jenny Wiley!" Mr. Krieder is from Atlanta, Georgia where he is an active model-singer-actor-dancer. Atlanta critics have acclaimed his performances there as Schlegel in "Carnival," Littlechap in "Stop the World, I Want To Get Off," and Snoopy in "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown."

Most recently Dennis has toured extensively through the East and South as Motel in "Fiddler on the Roof" and returned to Atlanta to dance with Southern Ballet of Atlanta in their spring repertoire.

He plans to move to New York following the summer productions at Jenny Wiley State Park. He will also appear in "1776" and "Man of La Mancha" this summer.

Miss Enoch is from Boston, and is returning from last year's company to work again at Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre. She is currently studying at the Boston Conservatory of Music as an acting major and musical theatre minor. Her training there includes studying voice with former Metropolitan Opera star, Madame Philene Falco. She also studied drama for two years at Boston University. Last year, she understudied and performed Jenny in "Jenny Wiley!" Miss Enoch has worked professionally on the stage since she was 16 in a variety of roles. Her repertoire includes such roles as Nancy in "Oliver," Anne in "Richard III," Meg in "Damn Yankees," Tessie Tura in "Gypsy," Catherine Reardon in "And Miss Reardon Drinks a Little," and Adriana in "The Boys From Syracuse." She will be featured this summer at Jenny Wiley as Martha Jefferson in "1776" and will also perform in "Damn Yankees" and "Man of La Mancha."

These are only two of the performers of Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre whose credits and past experience in the theatre prove that this season will be one of the best to date. The entire company totals close to 60 and includes a production staff of 10 composed of general manager, production coordinator, musical director, designer-technical director, costumer, choreographer, three directors, a resident photographer, a performing troupe of 25 actors, actresses, singers and dancers, an apprentice program, a technical staff including lighting and sound technicians, and a resident orchestra to provide live musical accompaniment for all three productions.

The ninth season for Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre will begin June 20 with a three-week run of "1776," followed beginning July 8 with a three-week run of "Damn Yankees," and closing out the season, starting August 1, and continuing for a three-week run is "Man of La Mancha." Performances are on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday evenings beginning at 8:30. General admission tickets are on sale daily at the box office located at the Jenny Wiley State Resort Park. Season tickets are currently on sale and offer a substantial discount to those who take advantage of them. For further information call 886-6647.

Only 10 states provide workmen's compensation coverage for domestic employees. New York, one of the 10, has now extended coverage to all private and domestic chauffeurs.

To The People of Magisterial District 2

Since the election is over, I want to thank all the people who supported me for magistrate.

The election is more or less like a ball game, everyone hates to see their side lose. I did my best to win, and still lost by a small margin. I went into the election expecting to win or lose and I am not hurting.

So let's all join together and make Floyd county a better place to live. I have no ill feelings toward anyone. I will still be your friend.

Nature Trails By Rufus M. Reed

Highly colored birds are quite proud of their fine feathers and are often seen preening, smoothing and keeping them scrupulously clean. Birds take a bath daily and always look neat and well-groomed.

A feather is one of the marvels of nature. Feathers grow from a central stalk, the shaft, which is light and hollow. The shafts of the wing feathers, called quills, were used in olden times to make ink pens. The feathers show the beautiful colors of the bird and some are very brilliant. A bird is the only animal known that has feathers.

How many feathers are on a bird? A mathematician with a large bump of curiosity once counted the feathers on a mallard duck and found their number to be exactly 11,903. A duck has many more feathers than a songbird. A sassy bluejay has some over 4,000 feathers. The smaller warblers average about 2,000 feathers each. Birds shed their feathers at the end of the nesting season, usually in late summer, just before getting all set for the southward migration. Moulting is a miserable ordeal for the birds, but when they get their brand-new feathers, their spirits perk up and they have a new lease on life.

A bird can adjust its feathers to fit the temperature. On a cool day, the feathers are pressed tightly together to insulate the body against the cold. On hot days, the feathers droop and fall loosely apart to admit air. Birds also adjust their feathers to streamline the air and this helps them to shoot forward smoothly and swiftly.

Birds and trees go together and compensate one another. Where there are trees, there are usually birds nesting and singing. Birds protect trees by devouring the insect pests; in turn, trees furnish birds with food and shelter, as well as nesting places. So Joyce Kilmer writes: "A tree that may in summer wear A nest of robins in her hair."

The best way to attract more birds is to plant trees and shrubs that furnish them food and shelter. Among the best ones to plant for birds are: "Sarvis," wild cherry, mulberry, sweet birch, hawthorn, dogwood, wild plum, persimmon and sumac. The seed pods of sumac make a good winter food for birds.

As a winter shelter for birds, no tree is better than the eastern hemlock, known locally as "spruce pine." This tree is tops as a shade and a border tree; it also furnishes nesting places for parula warblers and other birds; chickadees and other birds also eat the tiny seeds of the numerous cones.

For border and hedges, plant privet, barberry, and these furnish both food and shelter for many species of birds. Robins like the berries of barberry as a winter diet. The fruits of the mountain ash attract the evening grosbeaks in winter.

Instead of tossing these plastic "jugs" on the garbage heap to add to the unsightly pollution, use them to make nesting houses for wrens, bluebirds and tree swallows. The caps of the jugs can be nailed top up to the bottom of a crosspiece or a wooden frame. After the containers are properly fixed, they can be screwed fast to the nailed-on caps. Cut holes in the side of each, about one-third the way up, to allow entrance. An inch hole is suitable for the house wren; a slightly larger hole is needed for the bluebird. Holes should be punched in the bottom of the containers to permit drainage. A crossbar four feet long nailed to a post will afford space for six nesting containers.

SPEAKS TO BOARD MEMBERS

Chet Huntley speaking at the NSBA convention, said, "My major feeling toward you school board people is one of sympathy. In general terms, it seems to me that the tremendous and incredible social changes occurring in this country have had an impact on our schools far beyond that affecting any other institution. But the school system does not have the equipment to cope with this impact of social change."

State Will Seek Bicentennial Funds

Kentucky will be seeking part of the $600,000 recently allocated by the National Bicentennial Commission for pilot projects in a national bicentennial grants program.

The money has been distributed in three $200,000 inter-agency agreements with the National Endowment to the Arts, the National Endowment to the Humanities, and the National Science Foundation. It comes from non-appropriated funds available to the bicentennial from commissions on medallion sales.

"I am very hopeful," said Clyde Webb, chairman of the Kentucky Historical Events Celebration Commission, "that the detailed plans resulting from this conference might fit under one of the agency's listed existing programs." Webb was speaking at the conference on Kentucky Bicentennial Publications and Teaching of Kentucky History attended by more than 300 historians, writers, and bicentennial enthusiasts on the campus of Eastern Kentucky University.

"Kentucky's planning for the '74 celebrations puts us in the forefront with proven expertise when federal monies are made available," Webb said.

"Kentucky has a good reputation in Washington for its bicentennial programs. Plans for a bicentennial park have been well received. Our state's bicentennial planning booklet is getting the same reception," Webb told the assembly.

Webb stressed that the Bicentennial Commission staff is developing programs that will involve everyone across the state. He noted that "committees are being organized in every county to bring the bicentennial to every corner of the state. In July, Kentucky will be featured by the Smithsonian in its annual program on American folklife held in Washington, D. C. The bicentennial will use the State's appearance there as the kick-off for an intensive publicity campaign to let others outside the state know about our Kentucky '74 plans."

Some of the few remaining laws governing women's working hours were removed in 1972 by repeal in Maryland, Missouri and South Carolina and by attorney generals' opinions in Kentucky and New York.

Teenage employment averaged 6.7 million in 1972, or 485,000 above the 1971 level. This was the largest annual advance in teenage employment since 1966, according to the U. S. Department of Labor.

Expects Increase To Observe 80th Birthday In Parks Trade

Chances are the Kentucky tourist trade will be bigger than ever this year.

Commenting on the approaching tourist season during a Kentucky Department of Public Information "Kentucky Calling" radio interview, Ewart W. Johnson, commissioner of the Parks Department said "indications are that this is going to be a banner year. "He pointed out one such indication was that "for the first April on record, all 15 of the state park restaurants operated in the black."

This year the Kentucky park system will be trying to top the $20 million mark in total revenues. It was noted that last year tourists spent $5 million dollars on food alone in state park restaurants.

Visitors at Kentucky's state parks will find a wider variety of things to do this year. According to Johnson, "We have greatly expanded our recreational program from the previous year."

Planned recreational programs have been under way in Kentucky's state parks since 1961. Last year, a quarter of a million people took part in planned recreational activities at Kentucky state parks.

Tourism in Kentucky is expected to net the state over $700 million this year.

Mrs. Cora Branham, of Betsy Layne, will observe her 80th birth anniversary on June 13, her children announce. Mrs. Branham's sons and daughters are Jack Branham, Jr., Betsy Layne; Bob Branham, Kopperston, W. Va.; Jim Branham, of the Air Force; Mrs. Ruby Conn, Jacksonville, Fla.; Mrs. Juanita Rucker, Roy, Utah, and Mrs. Betty Eastern, Maitland, Florida.

TO THE VOTERS OF FLOYD COUNTY:

I sincerely appreciate the large number of voters who cast their ballots for me in the Primary election for State Representative and I thank each and every one of you. It was a privilege for me, as a young man, to meet so many fine people and to receive such a fine response in my first campaign for public office. It is especially gratifying, to know that so many apparently approved of my program and my goals for Floyd County. I hope you will all join me in supporting the Democratic ticket in the November election.

Bible Club Holds Annual Program

Eastern, Ky.—The 12th annual Achievement Program of the Joy Bible Club was held here on May 26. The program, entitled, "Jesus, The Way, the Truth and the Life," was enacted under an archway of red roses and fern. The program included recitations, poems, Bible books, Bible verse memorization, songs, flannelgraph skit on the Wilderness Tabernacle, children's choir, solos and various other exercises. Three former Bible Club members gave testimonies and told the worth of Bible Club training in their past and present years. They were Laura Hopkins, Beverly May and Ann Flannery.

This year, the boys and girls raised $101 for John and Jan VanWingerden of Artic Missions, Alaska. The highlight of the program was when Carla Martin, president of the club, presented the VanWingerdens with this gift. The Alaskan missionaries thrilled the audience with their color slides and curios.

The annual gold trophy cup was won by Jeff Wicker as Bible drill champion and Debbie Johns, runner-up. Andrea Wicher received the bronze cup for champion of the Thursday class.

The children with perfect attendance were presented certificates with a special gold seal. Camp awards were presented to Larry Acree and Teddy Meadows. Other camp awards were presented to Andrea Wicker, Linda Gobel, Della Scarberry and Connie Gray. Stephen Halbert was honored for his memory work, as was Connie Gray. Other awards were given to Stanley Martin, Carla Martin, Debbie Johns, Jeff Wicker, Teddy Meadows, Larry Acree, Elizabeth Halbert, Don-Don Branham, Marsha Scarberry, Lowell Scarberry, Ollie Goble, Carla Huff, Craig Tackett, Debbie Davis, Danna Bradley, Angela Rowe, and Arnold Daniels.

A table of handcraft was displayed. Flowers from the gardens of Vada and Goldia Osborn decorated the room. Carla Martin presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Marie Stephens made the "flower garden" cake which all guests enjoyed.

Miss Barba Wynsma and Miss Lois Holmquist are teachers of this Bible Club at Eastern, which will begin again in September. Miss Debbie Johns served as treasurer this year and Larry Acree as vice-president.

HAROLD NEWS

HOMEMAKERS ELECT OFFICERS

The Harold Homemakers Club recently held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Mae Cecil, of Harold. Mrs. Dorothy Sturgill, president, presided. The devotionals were given by Mrs. Molly Stapleton. Mrs. Kate Robinette called the roll and collected the dues. Officers for the coming year were elected, as follows: Dorothy Sturgill, president, Sylvia Allen, vice-president; Kate Robinette, treasurer; Carma Sturgill, secretary. Flower arrangement was the lesson, which was given by Mrs. Delphia Hale and Mrs. Carma Sturgill. Mrs. Vanie Turner, one of the regular members, was in the hospital at this time and two vases of the flower arrangements made up during the meeting were taken to her by Mrs. Carma Sturgill and Mrs. Dorothy Sturgill. Mrs. Mae Cecil, who was hostess for this meeting, served dinner to the following members: Delphia Hale, Mae Cecil, Bernice Mason, Kathryn Akers, Sylvia Allen, Dorothy Sturgill, Kate Robinette, Carma Sturgill, Doris Akers, Molly Stapleton, Gertrude Adkins, Faye Cecil and Mrs. Frances Pitts, home demonstration agent.

Mrs. Kathryn Akers, a new member, was welcomed into the club. This was the last club meeting until September, when a new club year will begin. One of the goals for the new year is to increase membership and expand the number of families now reached in the community.

CARD OF THANKS

River Trip by Canoe Wins Scouts Award

Twenty members of Boy Scout Troop 27, of Prestonsburg, won the "Fifty-Miler Award," the week-end of May 26-27, by completing the 50-mile trip from Prestonsburg to Louisa via the Big Sandy river in canoes. The swift current took the Scouts near Louisa, the first day. Making the canoe trip—one which the great-grandfathers of some of the Scouts made by raft in the early 1900's—were Charlie Neeley, Tim Cooley, Rodney Holbrook, Mark Isbell, Rick Ellis, Clyde DeRossett, Robert Thomas, Wayne Harris, Ken Crisp, Gary Crisp, Marty Osborne, Scotty Walker, Bill Reynolds, Jack Thomas, Sam Isbell, Hansel Cooley, Gary Dotson, Jack Shildress, Derek Hicks, Marshall Robinson and Scoutmaster James Goble.

FROM BRANDY KEG TO WHITE HOUSE

Most places and eras have their legendary figures such as Paul Bunyan, Atlas, Hercules and fellows of the muscular type and with considerable derring-do. One of the less publicized men of the sort was the fellow who, I am told, lived years ago on Brandy Keg, near here.

His story begins with a cow animal of the male persuasion whose bellows kept householders awake of nights and whose tossing of his long, sharp horns sent passersby scurrying to distant hillsides. Generally speaking, he made of himself such a nuisance that his owner decided to have those horns off.

But his job was like that of belling the cat—who would do it? The owner of the bull was promptly turned down when he approached men who did odd jobs for him. Finally, he thought of this burly character who was a jack-of-all-trades and wasn't too particular about the trade. He offered the man $10 if he would saw the animal's horns off short—real short, down below the hairline.

It was a deal, and the man went home, sharpened his handsaw and returned for what turned about to be the longest dehorning operation on record. The following is purportedly the dehorner's own account of the proceedings:

"I sidled up to this here animal and sized him up, and he 'peared to be sizin' me up, too, and finally, all of a sudden, I caught him off his guard and jumped a straddle of his neck and started sawin'... Well, we had quite a tussle; you might say, we had the doggonest tussle ever heard of in these here parts. That critter would try to bawl, and he would toss them horns around somethin' awful, but I stuck with him.

"I don't know how long the job took. I remember glimpsin' chickens flyin' up into trees and dogs runnin' under floors, but I was right busy at the time and can't describe things in detail... To tell you the truth, I didn't know where I was till I got that last horn off and looked up and saw a sign.

"Wish I may die, if it wasn't the C. & O. depot, and the sign said, 'White House, Ky.'"

NYC employed about 360 students in this county, and Congressman Carl D. Perkins still insists it will be funded again. Besides, he contends that the use of revenue-sharing funds for these student jobs is illegal. Perkins says the funds were intended to go to the benefit of Vietnam veterans and unemployed fathers.

With NYC (The Neighborhood Youth Corps) not yet funded, the board named Estill Hall, its director in this county, Lexie Allen, assistant director, and Anna Lee Johnson, bookkeeper, to close out the program.

The accounting firm headed by Lawton Ray Allen was employed to make the audit for the year. By directive of the State Board of Education, a certified public accountant and auditing firm will be employed to audit internal school accounts of all school systems.

Resignations of Virginia A. Draughn, Claudina Hamilton and Claude May were accepted. Out-of-state travel to Tennessee was granted Clark school personnel for a study of a model Right to Read program. Employment of Gordon Moore as physical education supervisor for the school system, was increased from 10.25 months to 12.

The board authorized the superintendent to negotiate with a heating engineer to prepare plans for the conversion of the heating system at Prestonsburg high school from coal to gas.

Cumulative vacation days for full-year employees was limited to 60.

Woodrow Allen was employed as director of instruction; Herbert Prater, as director of pupil personnel, with Richmond Slone as assistant director, and Mildred Kendrick as visiting teacher; Anna Sue Stumbo, Marcus Owens, Blanche Dings and Winnie B. Johnson, as supervisors; James W. Salisbury, as director of transportation and supervisor of adult education.

Office personnel employed included: Wanda Hamilton, bookkeeper; Joyce Slone, secretary; Johnny Calhoun, clerk; Debbie Click, clerk; Brenda Bowling,

1-Party Service In Phone Plans

The Harold Telephone Company has begun an engineering and feasibility study aimed at offering one-party service to all its customers. This would eliminate all party line service within the company's operating area.

Party-line service has been a major problem since the beginning of communication by telephone.

If the company is successful in this effort, it would become the second independent telephone company in the state to offer this type service.

Along with the one-party program, the Harold firm is planning to offer and "optional calling" plan. This service would perform substantially the same function as "extended area service," commonly called "free service," between its Harold and Grethel exchanges and all other exchanges in Floyd county, including Prestonsburg, Allen, Martin, Wayland, McDowell and Wheelwright.

In effect any telephone subscriber in any of these exchanges could contract for a calling plan between any or all the Floyd county exchanges. For example, a customer in Grethel would pay a fixed rate for one hour per month, enabling him to call subscribers in Prestonsburg. These calls must be DDD, station-to-station messages. The calls would not appear on the regular monthly statement of the customer with such an arrangement.

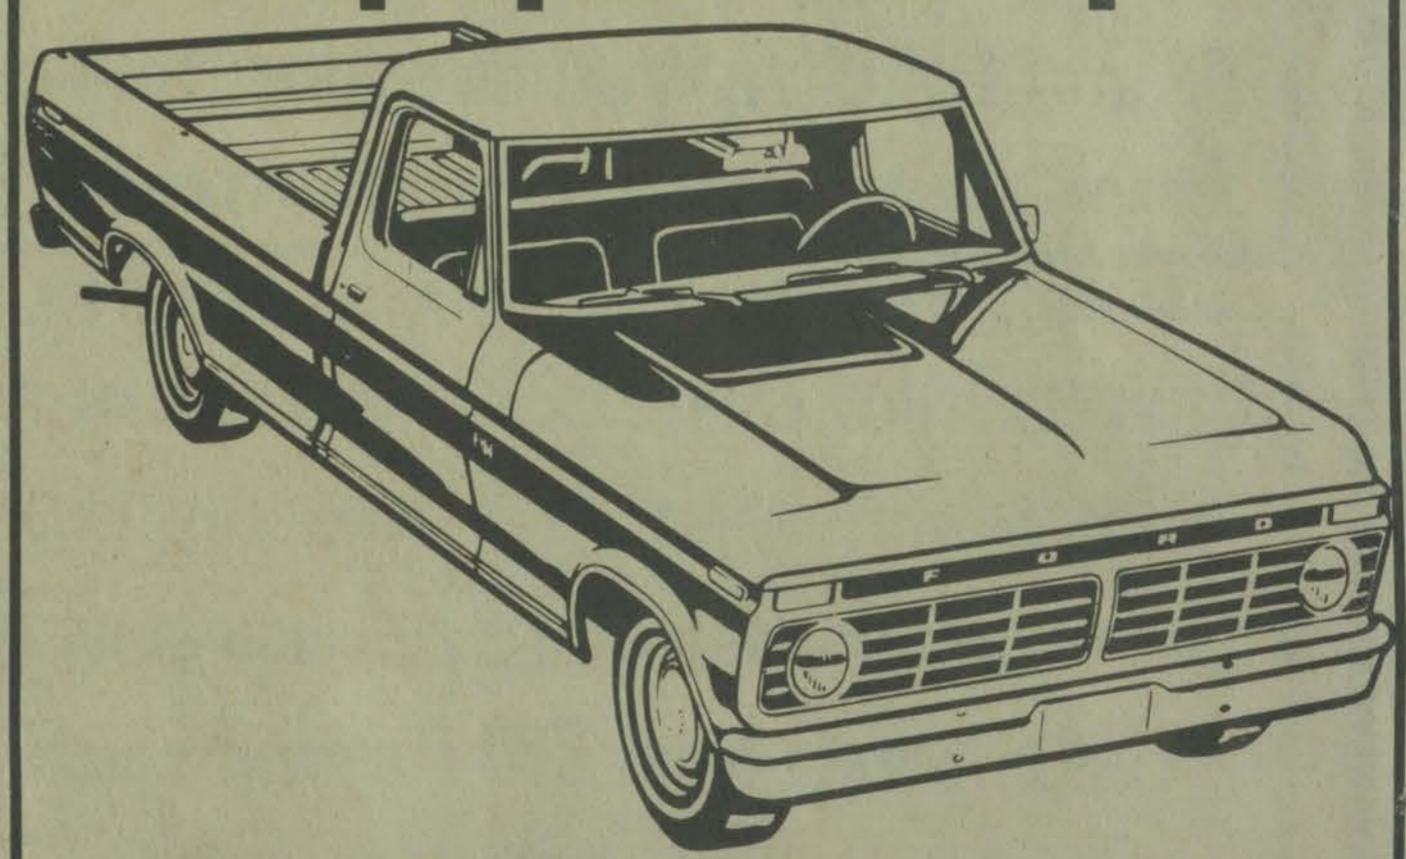

This service is relatively new in the telephone industry, however it is now being used in a few locations in Kentucky, Paul R. Gearheart, president of Harold Telephone, said.

Preliminary estimates of the investment cost to complete the company's new plan is approximately $1 million.

Harold Telephone Company celebrated on June 1 its 20th year of service to the people of eastern and southern Floyd county and a small portion of western Pike county. Beginning two decades ago with 71 customers, he company now serves more than 2,700 telephones.

Banjo-Picker Buell Kazee, 'Up Creek Boy'

By BONNI BROCKMAN

It's been 72 years since Buell Kazee was born in a log cabin "up the creek" from Salyersville, but in all that time he's never forgotten the small, two-room house.

"That house has held a lot of happiness," recalled Kazee. "My mother and father were both singers. I had two older sisters and three brothers, and we would all sing around the fireside and in the old country church and wherever informal groups gathered."

Kazee used to accompany his family with a banjo, and those early experiences led the Kentucky native to a lifetime of banjo picking. This summer Kazee will be among the more than 150 Kentuckians who will represent their state at the Festival of American Folklife in Washington, D. C. Sponsored by the Smithsonian Institution and the National Park Service, the open air festival will feature Kentucky's folk life from July 4 to July 8.

Kazee, a retired Baptist preacher, taught himself to play the banjo when he was 5 years old.

From 1930 to 1952, he was the pastor of the First Baptist Church at Morehead. From 1957 until his retirement three years ago, he was pastor at Devondale Baptist Church in Lexington. He also has taught at Cumberland College and at Lexington Baptist College.

"We were all visiting across the hill at Aunt Sade's, and there I spied an old, worn, homemade banjo," he remembered. "I cried for it and I got it."

After weeks of "thrashing the strings and driving everybody mad," Buell could play the banjo. He played at a few dances with a fiddler until he began to develop a strong religious conviction in his teens. "I did play some at home then," he said.

It wasn't until Kazee attended Georgetown College that he began to realize the unique knowledge he had gained by singing the mountain songs and playing the banjo.

"When I first started going to Georgetown, I was ashamed of the banjo because it was countrified," he said. "I was getting educated, you know."

However, through his studies Kazee soon began to appreciate his mountain heritage. By studying English and ancient languages, he learned that "Shakespeare talked like Mother talked. Mother used words like 'fetch' and 'yon side' and so did Shakespeare."

By studying English literature, he realized that "I had a store of English music in my mind. I decided to lecture on it and illustrate it with my banjo."

Since Kazee made that decision, he has performed throughout the United States, at the Newport Music Festival, U.C.L.A., Temple University, the University of Illinois and Chicago University. He also made 58 folk and religious records for Brunswick Recordings from 1927 to 1930. The recordings include "A Married Girl's Troubles," "Rock Island," "The Faded Coat of Blue" and "Rambling Blues."

Kazee, who considers himself a ballad singer, plays the whole spectrum of folk music except for Bluegrass.

"Folk music covers the whole area of human experience," Kazee explained. "It has to do with the customs, events and the history of the life of a people."

Folk music is an antique, Kazee said. "The music today does not relate to the events of life like folk music does," he explained.

The songs Kazee and his family sang in that little cabin during the early 1900's were handed down from generation to generation. Because of the lack of roads, the music was isolated and not influenced by outside trends, Kazee said.

"In 1914, World War I broke the isolation of the mountains, and the music was no longer limited to our folk songs," said Kazee, who lives in an antique-filled home in Winchester with his wife, Jennie, a teacher.

Kazee explained what he thinks to be unique about his style: "In ballad singing the rhythm goes on but the time is up to the singer, allowing him to express his emotional feelings."

The study of classical music has not altered the way he would play folk music, explained Kazee, who studied voice and music at Georgetown College. "I play the genuine article," he said.

Despite his impressive background in banjo picking, Kazee said he considers himself mainly a preacher. "I've been preaching for 56 years," he said.

Goble-Harris Team Winner

The team of Jimmy E. Goble, of Stratton Branch, and Irvin Harris, of Prestonsburg, won three of the five prizes awarded Sunday afternoon at the conclusion of the Dewey Lake Fish & Game Club's first annual bass fishing tournament.

Their five bass won for each a 5000C Garcia reel, and Goble's 1½-pounder, the largest of the day, won for him the individual prize, a thermos bottle.

The one bass caught by the team of John Huffman and Gerald Jones won for them tackle boxes as second prize.

With the upper section of the lake thick with mud and the clearer lower section thick with boaters, fishing conditions were at their worst. The boat occupied by one team, Chalmer Howard and Claude Newberry, capsized when caught between two speeding boats. They lost their fishing gear. (And their tempers.)

Fourteen two-man teams participated in the tournament.

Harvard Graduate

John David Preston, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Francis Preston, of Allen, will receive the A. B. degree in history, Magna Cum Laude, in Harvard Yard, Harvard College, Cambridge, Massachusetts, June 14. President Derek C. Bok will present the degree to Preston and A. B. degrees to 1,500 other seniors at the 322nd Harvard Commencement. Playwright Arthur Miller will be guest commencement speaker.

Preston, a graduate of Prestonsburg high school, has been the recipient of a Harvard College scholarship for the past four years, and has been named to the Dean's List every year. The thesis he presented this spring for his degree in history was "The Major Political and Military Divisions of Eastern Kentucky During the Civil War," and covered much local history of Floyd, Pike, and Johnson counties during this period.

Preston who was named to "Personalities of the South" this spring will attend the University of Kentucky Law School at Lexington this fall.

Cats Lose in Regional Finals To Rowan County High, 1 to 0

Jr. Club Welcomes Teenage Volunteers

The Community Improvement Department of the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club met at the Highlands Regional Hospital, May 24, with the administrator, Chalmer Frazier, Mrs. Margaret Ackerman, R.N., and Mrs. Lora Hamilton, R.N., to welcome prospective "Teenage Volunteers."

The "Teenage Volunteer Program" was explained by Mr. Frazier, Mrs. Ackerman, Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Anna Onkst, chairwoman, with a question-and-answer session. A dessert was served by clubmembers, Mrs. Jeannie Brown, Mrs. Carl Rice, Mrs. Sharon Stai, Mrs. Kay Cooley and Mrs. Geraldine Hall. Following the dessert, a guided tour of the hospital was given by Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Ackerman.

The Teenage Volunteer Program is not only for young women but for interested young men between the ages of 13 through high school.

A contract has been awarded to Raymond Construction Company, Louisville, as the low bidder on the new Civil Defense Emergency Operations Centers to be constructed in the Boone Guard Center complex. Raymond's bid was $1.4 million. Construction is to start in early June with a 1974 completion date.

Prestonsburg high school's baseball team made it to the finals of the regional tournament held at Johnson Central high school, Paintsville, but lost the championship game last Friday afternoon to the Rowan County high Vikings, 1 to 0.

The final game of the meet was, as expected, a hurling duel between Prestonsburg's Gene Calhoun and Winfred Adkins, Rowan County's ace righthander. Each team collected six hits, but the winners bunched half of theirs in the second inning to score the lone run of the contest.

The Black Cats mounted their biggest threat in the seventh when, with one out, Kippy McNally rapped his third hit of the game and pinchhitter Randy Wells followed with a single to right. McNally was thrown out trying to make third on the hit.

The loss was Calhoun's first since district play began. He pitched a no-hitter, striking out 15 in the first round of the regional against Virgie, a team which had a 15-0 season record. In the second Black Cat game of the regional Calhoun was the winner, 2-1, over Bath County in extra innings. In that game Calhoun fanned 19.

Rowan County reached the championship game by defeating Morgan County, 9-1, and in the semi-finals downing Ashland, 2 to 1.

Solid Waste Program Enlarged

Since the budget for solid waste was more than quadrupled by the last session of the Kentucky General Assembly, the state's solid waste program has made great strides. Back in 1967, Kentucky was the first state in the nation to organize a statewide solid waste project. However, it was only funded to prepare a plan for solid waste control and to complete an inventory of disposal sites in the state. Even during fiscal 1971-72, the budget was only $60,000 a year. At that time there were seven people in solid waste control to cover the entire state. We were very limited in our capacity to provide needed services. In 1972, the state legislature appropriated $260,000 for solid waste control during 1972-73 and $265,000 for the following year. With those funds, the Division of Solid Waste reorganized, expanded its programs, increased its staff to 17 and opened four field offices. I am proud of the progress we have made in solid waste control. The Division of Solid Waste now has three active programs—field; planning and technical assistance; training and hazardous waste. The field program operates the permitting, field surveillance and complaint section. The opening of field offices in Earlington, Columbia, Harlan and Morehead has stepped up inspections and surveillance and increased the efficiency of the program. The planning and technical assistance program keeps the statewide Comprehensive Solid Waste Management Plan updated, conducts special studies and details plans for various solid waste problems. This program also assists local and regional political subdivisions in obtaining federal grants and in conducting special studies. The program handles computer programming and participates in production of technical documents, many of which are available to the public. The training and hazardous waste program carries on activities to train operators, supervisory personnel, public officials and design personnel involved with solid waste collection and disposal. Members of this program provide the expertise needed for finding solutions to chemical and industrial hazardous waste problems. I believe the close working relationship the Division of Solid Waste maintains with local health sanitarians and county regional health departments shows what can be accomplished when we all work together to insure a healthy environment.

Hayes Metal Co. Buys New Location South of Pikeville

A. E. Hayes, president of Hayes Metal Company, of Elkhorn City, formerly of Hi Hat, announced last week that his firm has negotiated a lease of approximately five acres of land, three miles south of Pikeville, on the York estate.

The sales and design offices will be moved as soon as possible to the York family home. Some steel and supplies will be stored on the property, and plans are in the making for a possible shop building. The firm now has approximately 20 employees and will be in position to offer new and fabricated steel to mining and other industries. The company is currently manufacturing screens, feeders, picking tables, storage bins, coal washing and cleaning plants and all types of material handling systems.

Mr. Hayes said his firm began business at Elkhorn City only few months ago and has grown so rapidly that there is a need for more space. "Our need for space is the only reason for moving," he said.

Famed Heart Surgeon To Address KHA

Louisville, Ky.—Dr. Michael DeBakey, president of the Baylor College of Medicine, will be guest-speaker at the 24th annual meeting luncheon of the Kentucky Heart Association, June 14.

Dr. DeBakey, known worldwide for his accomplishments in cardiac surgery, will address those attending on recent developments in the fight against heart disease.

Gov. Wendell Ford, a patient of DeBakey's, will be present at the luncheon to introduce the noted surgeon.

The luncheon is scheduled to begin at 12:15 p.m. (E.D.T.) and will be held in the Cochran Room of Louisville's Galt House. The public is invited to attend.

Among Top 5 in Record Judging

Three Floyd county 4-H Club members finished in the top five in four projects at the state record judging held recently at the University of Kentucky.

Jeffery Martin was second in the poultry project, Jeannie Auxier fourth in the career project and Lance Blackburn fourth in conservation and fifth in woodcraft.

Jeffery is the 15-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Graydon Martin, Langley, and is a member of the Allen Central Teen 4-H Club. Jeannie, 15, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Auxier, of Emma, and is a member of the Betsy Layne 4-H Club. Lance, also a member of the Betsy Layne 4-H Club, is the 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Blackburn, of Stanville.

'Workfare' Place 2,157 in Jobs

Frankfort, Ky.—Welfare recipients in Kentucky who have been placed in jobs since the federal "workfare" program went into effect last July number 2,157, the Department of Economic Security announced today.

The Work Incentive Program (WIN) requires able-bodied welfare recipients to register for work or training in an effort to reduce the welfare rolls and increase the number of individuals placed in gainful employment.

Economic Security Commissioner Gail S. Huecker said that since the program began, 17,112 individuals have been registered for work. Over 443 have successfully completed the program, which included training or job placement, or both.

The tax credit incentive, applicable to employers who offer jobs to WIN participants, has induced several business firms to hire 112 recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC).

As of May 1, there were 44,141 Kentucky families receiving AFDC. This figure represents more than 152,808 individuals.

Nationwide 104,356 welfare recipients have found employment since last July. More than a million have registered for work and 327,831 are certified as ready for training or jobs with child care and other social services provided.

Perkins Asks Speedy Passage Of Education Act Extension

Representative Carl D. Perkins has begun moving the major piece of education legislation the Congress will handle this year, and has called for an all-out effort to secure speedy passage.

The legislation extends the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, which is the nation's most important program of support for elementary and secondary schools.

"We're going to get a good bill through Congress, because a lot of people in Kentucky and everywhere else in the country are working for it," Perkins said.

"School children need and deserve a good education to get them started as productive citizens, and the parents need some support and help with the costs of education," he said.

Perkins pointed out that the program was passed in 1965, "and it has made a tremendous contribution toward improving education since then," he said. "We are getting reports from Eastern Kentucky and from all over the country, about schools losing special teachers and other personnel, that were helping so many young people," he said. "That's because the Administration is cutting back on education funds.

CARD OF THANKS
We would like to take this opportunity to thank all those friends and neighbors who brought food and flowers or who expressed their sympathy in any way. We also extend thanks to the ministers, Abe Vanderpool, Albert Frederick and Henry Crider, the singers and others for their consoling words and to the Floyd Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service. KEA Board Favors Two Amendments

The Kentucky Education Association (KEA) board of directors has gone on record in favor of two proposed amendments to the state Constitution providing for annual sessions of the General Assembly and for appointment of the state superintendent of public instruction by an elected State Board of Education.

The proposals are included in two "clustered" amendments to the Constitution that will be on the ballot in November.

The proposed cluster amendment on legislative reform calls for the General Assembly to meet on the first Tuesday in March, rather than in January, in years following gubernatorial elections. It also allows the General Assembly to meet up to 45 legislative days a year, not necessarily consecutive days. The only time limit would be that the legislature could not be in session longer than six calendar months each year.

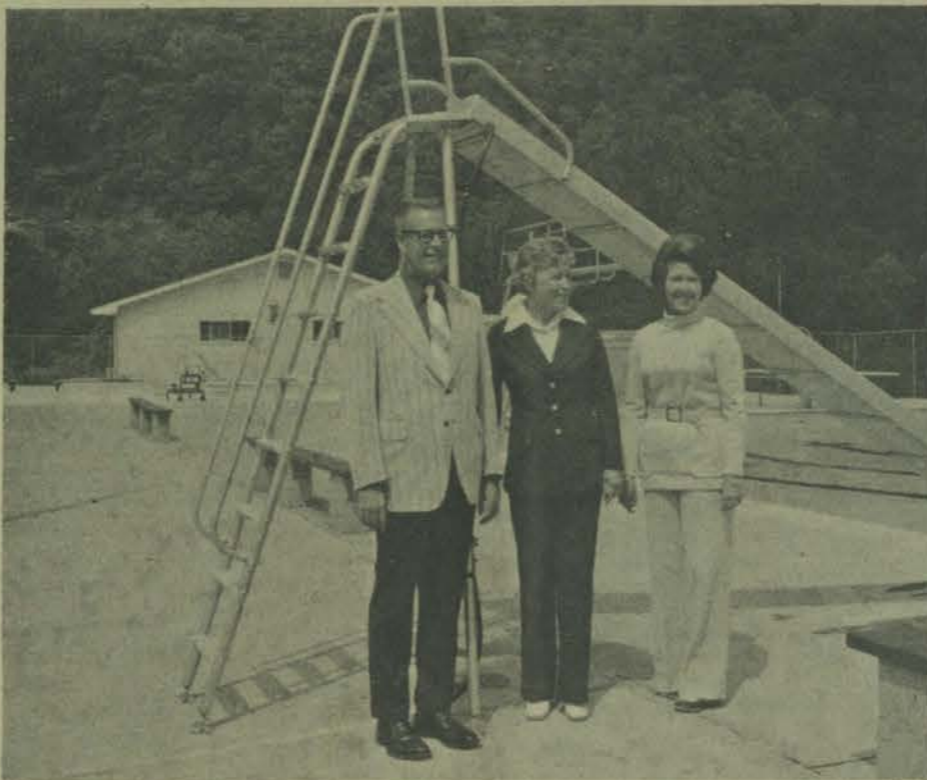

At present the legislature meets every two years for 60 successive days between early January and mid-March.

The other proposed cluster amendment, in addition to changing the method of selecting the state superintendent (now elected) and the State Board of Education (now appointed by the governor), would allow sheriffs to succeed themselves in office. It also would abolish the State Railroad Commission.

Dunham-Kinder

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Greene have returned from Germantown, Ohio, where they attended the wedding of their grandson, Roger Lee Kinder, and Miss Peggy Ann Dunham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Dunham, of Germantown. The double-ring ceremony was solemnized in the Evangelical Lutheran Church, with a reception following. They left for a honeymoon in the Great Smokies. Other relatives attending were Mr. and Mrs. K. D. Maggard, Narrows, Va., Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Kinder, West Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Greene, Jr. and children, Dayton, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Greene and children, Christiansburg, Ohio.

INSPECT PARK IMPROVEMENT

Ed Music, president of the Park Board, Mrs. Paul C. Combs, Community Improvement chairman, and Mrs. James D. Adams, immediate past president of the Prestonsburg Woman's Club, inspected the sliding board purchased by the Woman's Club for the Archer Park pool prior to the pool's opening last Saturday. The purchase of the sliding board represented a part of the club's community improvement project for the 1972-'73 year. Landscaping of the Arts and Crafts House and the dedication of a magnolia tree to a former Prestonsburg Woman's Club member and Park Board member, Mary Jane Harkins, were also included in the program for Archer Park by the club.

KENTUCKY AFIELD

By Hope Carleton
Dept. of Fish and Wildlife

Kentucky sports-fishermen should have some of this spring's most outstanding fishing during the next couple of weeks.

Bluegill are on the nest and large spawning areas are to be found in the majority of the state's smaller impoundments such as Beaver, Guist Creek, Malone, Carpenters and other similar areas. Farm ponds are hot spots, too, especially those that have been stocked by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. Bluegill fishing is fast improving in the larger bodies such as Kentucky, Grayson and Rough River Lakes.

Most bluegill fishermen use crickets or worms, or both, fishing various depths and places until a school of feeding fish are located. Once this happens, it's just a matter of time until a basket of fine, hand-size bluegill are harvested. (There is no size or creel limit on bluegill on a statewide basis; however, special regulations apply on some of the smaller impoundments. Be sure to check these before fishing.)

While the bluegill are active during the days, white bass and crappie are taking over at night, especially on the major lakes. Night fishing at Cumberland, Nolin and Herrington has already started and at the other major impoundments it is expected to get underway soon.

Night fishing for white bass generally takes place along the deep banks and points. Lanterns and minnows are two main items used by night fishermen who, as a rule, will stay out all night in quest of those two fine game fish.

The daily and possession limit on both white bass and crappie is 60.

Black bass activities are possibly at peak when the nesting bass have finished their spawning spree. Those casting or fly fishing with surface lures or big bass bugs should have some exciting action as these lunkers hit surface lures; many should harvest limits.

Early mornings and late evenings are prime times and the quiet waters of the inlets and bays are choice spots.

The daily limit is 10 per day with 20 in possession after two or more days of fishing. The size limit is 10 inches. Again, special regulations apply on some smaller bodies of water—so be sure to check before fishing.

Now is the time for peak spring sport fishing, if you don't give it a try you may miss some of the outstanding fishing of late spring.

Carter Heads Groups To Study Water Resources, Needs in State

By MARVA GAY Frankfort, Ky.—Knowledge and money for research on water problems have been brought together with the formation of the new Kentucky Water Resources Institute Advisory Council. The Council brings together university professors looking for ideas and money for research—and governmental agencies with the money, seeking the knowledgeable researchers.

Council members determine areas and priorities in which they need water research. Then, the Water Resources Institute at the University of Kentucky notifies other state universities what those priorities are. Next, specific research proposals are sent to the institute from the universities—and the institute selects which projects will be funded.

According to council chairman, Bernie Carter, the initial funds come from the U. S. Department of the Interior, Office of Water Resources Research. Carter, an aide to Commissioner Thomas O. Harris, of the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, said although this year's allocation is $100,000, the total expenditure for research may be increased by obtaining matching funds from foundations or state and local agencies.

Calling the council a step toward closer cooperation between governmental agencies and the university community, Carter said, "We need to stay in touch with each other. University researchers might as well contribute their efforts, at least in part, in areas where government officials think there is greatest need. The council helps get university people out of the ivory towers and gives them an opportunity to contribute to the real world."

According to Carter, research projects may run from one to five years, but most are completed in two years. Research projects for fiscal year 1974 have already been set and council members are now debating priorities for the next year.

Carter praised the council for its cross-section of members. "This council represents about as broad a field of disciplines in federal and state government as you can come up with. This will help us select priorities that can really be useful."

Council members represent the U. S. Department of the Interior, the Ohio River Basin Commission, the forestry and soil conservation services of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, The U. S. Environmental Protection Agency, the U. S. Corps of Engineers, the Ohio River Valley Sanitation Commission, the Kentucky Departments of Commerce, Fish and Wildlife, Mines and Minerals and the Kentucky Geological Survey, in addition to the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

Sidewalk Work, Slides Removal Are Scheduled
 Governor Wendell H. Ford and Transportation Secretary Elijah M. Hogge last week announced the 1973-74 Municipal Aid Program for the City of Wayland is based on an allotment of $1,737.23 for the coming fiscal year.
 Commissioner James E. Gray, head of the newly established Bureau of Highways, explained that the Municipal Aid Program provides for construction of sidewalks on the Wayland-Minnie road in Wayland. The activities authorized will be accomplished by the city, with the Bureau of Highways financing all or a portion of the work in accordance with the Municipal Aid Agreement.
 While campaigning for governor, Ford stated his concern about the money problems of Kentucky's cities and towns and his intention of finding some manner of helping local officials meet them. The Municipal Aid Program, which becomes effective July 1, is the product of his concern and commitment.
 The appropriation for the fiscal year beginning July 1 is $9,330,000. This sum is distributed among the incorporated and unincorporated areas according to the terms of a formula chosen by the General Assembly in 1972.
 Deputy Commissioner Otto Ingram, of the Bureau of Highways, announced an improvement project for Floyd county which is being financed with a special allotment of County Road Aid funds and provides for the correction of a number of slides on the Branham Creek road which constitutes a danger to the public.
 The County Road Aid Program is supported by the General Assembly's appropriation of $13 million for the current fiscal year. Its purpose is to help the counties meet their responsibilities for local roads.

Confidence Is Our Most Important Asset.

Examiners Must Expect Unexpected

By DAVID KENNAMER

When he gets into the car he looks like the biggest, meanest man in the world. He's polite though, and that helps. He explains the procedure and says, "You can pull out when it is safe to do so."

This scene is one nearly all of us have gone through, usually at the tender age of 16. It is our driver's test.

The state trooper is performing one of the most important functions of the State Police—the testing and licensing of drivers. This function is contained in the Bureau of Driver Licensing, headed by Capt. Harold Pierce.

In 1939 the Highway Patrol initiated the driver's testing procedure. This duty fell to the State Police in 1948. In 1949, the State Police started making changes.

At first driver's license examinations were a secondary duty. The important function was law enforcement. Now certain troopers are assigned to give license examinations on a permanent basis.

In 1949, a special training class was set up to teach troopers how to administer and score both written and driving tests. Capt. Pierce said, "In 1949 emphasis was placed on the importance of dealing with the public, with the purpose of license examining, and how to inform the applicant about his score." In each of the next 23 years State Police conducted a licensing examining training school. Pierce believes this is a national record.

The same basic things that are taught today were taught in 1949. Now more emphasis is placed on developing and abiding by a set of standards. In this way they hope to assure that every driver's test is comparable, regardless of the examiner of the location.

In 1949, there were only 15 regular examiners for the state's 120 counties. Today there are 49 troopers who perform this duty regularly, along with 12 replacement or "roving" examiners, and 13 men working in supervisory and administrative capacities.

Since 1949 the number of licensed drivers in the state has risen by one-half million. In 1950, the first year that records were kept, 78,000 tests were given. Changes in procedures since then make comparisons difficult.

In 1950, written and driving tests could be given on the same day and were considered together as one test. In 1954, the regulations were changed requiring applicants to take the written and vision tests in order to receive the learner's permit first. Then they had to wait a month before taking the driving test.

The written and the driving tests are each considered separately as a "contact." In 1972 there were 371,289 of these. This change in regulations, as Pierce says, "cut down the percentage of people not passing and increased the safety of the examiner. Before, people came in just to see if they could pass."

He remembers an instance years ago when he was an examiner. An applicant ran over a curb and a parking meter. It turned out that the person had been driving for three days.

Over the years the techniques for giving tests have been improved a great deal due to experience. Today, examiners are told to "always tell where before what." Applicants have been known to run over a curb or anything else after hearing the policeman say, "Turn right..." but not letting him finish his instructions.

Pierce says that license examiners must have a special set of personality characteristics. They must be able to handle the routine but at the same time they must be "constantly alert for the applicant to do something unexpected because of nervousness."

The fact that most people are nervous when they take their driver's test is one of the biggest problems the examiners face. They must try to put the applicants at ease, but Pierce says the same words or actions may soothe one person but make another even more nervous. He says, "It just takes experience and judgment."

"The examiner," Pierce says, "has to be able to catch mistakes before they are made—for his own as well as the applicant's safety." The classic question is, "Is this guy going to stop at the stop sign or will I have to remind him?"

Over the years there have been remarkably few serious accidents involving license examiners and applicants. Pierce does remember one case in which a woman was trying to parallel park as part of her test. She ran over a parking meter and her husband, who was sitting nearby watching.

The course, no matter where the test is given, must include a smooth stop, a straight backing maneuver, a turn about in close quarters, a stop, a start on a hill, parallel parking if possible, and a minimum of three right and three left hand turns. The course is generally a mile to a mile and a half in length and the average test takes about 10 minutes.

You KNOW it!

Did you say, "Kentucky wants to be last?"

We've heard so much about Kentucky being near the bottom that most of us live and die for basketball season. At least in basketball, we generally come out near or at the top.

Actually, we're not all that bad. Our horses are fast. Our tobacco smokes good. And we've never taken a back seat in the area of feminine or scenic beauty. In fact, most of us can come up with something else we excel in, and the list could be pretty long.

But, let's all hope we'll be last in one area, and maybe not make the list at all. That's the list of American communities that are facing "brownouts" and "blackouts" because of a shortage of electricity.

Some places are really struggling. Low voltage can ruin electrical appliances. The loss of electricity, even for a few days, means lost work and wages, ruined food, and discomforts you wouldn't believe.

Up to now, we're in good shape. Too many of us remember those days before Rural Electric to let go now. To avoid that "blackout" list, for instance, each of the power suppliers for our Rural Electrics (East Kentucky, Big Rivers, TVA) has interconnections with neighboring utilities to ensure reliability of service. These pooling arrangements allow the sharing of power when one or another region runs short.

This does a couple of things even beyond helping neighbors. It allows us to sell power that we can spare during our low use periods, which helps keep our costs reasonable. And it protects us against "blackouts" if our supply comes up short because others will help us. We're hoping to stay off that list.

Rev. George P. Smith

Rev. George P. Smith, 79, of Gallipolis, Ohio, died May 28 in a hospital there after an extended illness.

Born March 16, 1894 in Lawrence county, he was a son of the late Bulford and Hannah Nicely Smith. He owned the Clear Branch Mining Company at Hi Hat, and was a minister for 50 years.

Surviving are his wife, Annabelle Hayes Smith, of Gallipolis; seven sons, Bluford Smith, of Hi Hat, Earl Smith, of Gallipolis, Henry Smith, of Bidwell, O., Delmon Smith, of Detroit, Mich., Frank Smith, of Wayne, Mich., Bert Smith, of Kaleen, Texas, Robert Smith, of Dearborn, Mich.; two stepsons, Randall Newman, of Detroit, Mich., and G. B. Newman, of Hi Hat; two daughters, Mrs. Hannah Calhoun and Mrs. Rose Caudill, both of Hi Hat; one brother, Jay Smith, of Prestonsburg, and four sisters, Mrs. Della Edwards, of Blaine, Ky., Mrs. Lean Henson, of Chesapeake, O., Mrs. Mary Preston, of Barbersville, W. Va., and Mrs. Emma Nelson, of South Point, Ohio. Twenty-eight children and two great-grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services were conducted Thursday at 1 p.m. at the Church of God of Prophecy at Hi Hat, with the Revs. Allan Davidson and Charles Trotter. Burial was made in the Newman cemetery at Hi Hat, under the direction of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Oscar Little

Oscar Little, 62, of Wheelwright, died Monday at his home after an extended illness.

Born June 29, 1910 at Wheelwright, he was a son of the late Miles and Lucy Little.

Surviving are his wife, Mary Bell Little, of Wheelwright; two sons, Ray Little, of Wheelwright and Robert Little, of Dayton, Ohio; two daughters, Miss Betty Little, of Dayton, O., and Mrs. Dora Barnette, of Columbus, ; one brother, Robert Lee Little, of Wheelwright, and one sister, Mrs. Veana Johnson, of Columbus. Eighteen grandchildren and six great-grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 10 a.m. at the Joppa Regular Baptist Church, with ministers of that church officiating. Burial was made in the Sie Hall cemetery at Wheelwright, under the direction of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Plane Involved In 'Pot' Arrest

Pikeville, Ky.—A quantity of marijuana was taken from an airplane at the Pikeville airport after police confiscated the plane and arrested the pilot, Friday night.

The Pike county detective bureau said Rodney Kirk Smith, 19, of Pikeville, was charged with illegal possession of marijuana for the purpose of resale.

Police said the drugs apparently were flown into the airport and then left on the plane. Smith apparently was not in the plane when arrested.

Smith was arraigned before Pike County Judge Wayne T. Rutherford Saturday morning. He waived preliminary hearing and was freed on $10,000 bond pending trial during the regular July term of Pike quarterly court.

The plane was registered to the CAP Aero Club, based at the airport, police said. Pike County Attorney Herbert Deskins, Jr., who led the raid, said, "It is a part of a continuing crackdown on marijuana and dangerous drugs directed to rid Pike county of these menaces."

The arrest was the fifth for drugs here in the last 30 days.

Officers for the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club for 1973-'74 are front row, left to right—Mrs. Roger Jurich, treasurer; Mrs. Kenneth Brown, second vice-president; Mrs. Charles Ormerod, Jr., third vice-president. Back row—Mrs. Howard Lockhart, Seventh District governor and installing officer; Mrs. Harold Cooley, president; Mrs. Gordon Johnson, first vice-president; Mrs. Fred Setser, corresponding secretary. (Mrs. Jerry Leslie, recording secretary, absent from picture.)

The final meeting of the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club for the 1972-'73 club year was held at May Lodge, May 31 at 7 p.m., with Mrs. C. R. Rice, club president, presiding. The dinner prayer was offered by Mrs. Bruce Spradlin.

Following the dinner, Mrs. Rice introduced Miss Rebecca Haywood, soloist, and her accompanist, Mrs. Ratcliffe, as special entertainment for the evening.

During the business session Mrs. Rice told clubwomen of the recent KFWC convention held at the Galt House in Louisville and told also of the awards that the Prestonsburg Juniors had received. She then presented all outgoing officers gifts of appreciation for having served the club so effectively during the past year.

Mrs. Danny Hamilton, of the Home Life Department, presented gifts to the following clubwomen: Mrs. Harold Cooley, for community involvement; Mrs. Cloyd Johnson, as best homemaker; Mrs. James McConnell as most artistic; Mrs. John Rosenberg, as most congenial; Mrs. John D. Sammons, as best-dressed.

Mrs. James R. Allen, first vice-president, announced that the club had chosen Mrs. C. R. Rice, club president, as "Outstanding Clubwoman" for 1972-'73. This award is presented annually to the clubwoman who does outstanding work in all areas of club endeavors.

The high point of the evening was the installation of officers for the 1973-'74 club year by Mrs. Howard Lockhart, of Pikeville, who is presently serving as Seventh district governor and is a member of the Pikeville Junior Woman's Club.

Officers installed were: Mrs. Harold Cooley, president; Mrs. Gordon Johnson, first vice-president; Mrs. Kenneth Brown, second vice-president; Mrs. Charles Ormerod, Jr., third vice-president; Mrs. Jerry Leslie, recording secretary; Mrs. Fred Setser, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Roger Jurich, treasurer.

Mrs. Cooley was presented the President's Pin by Mrs. Rice. The meeting concluded with the new president stating that her aim for the new club year will be to develop all clubmembers intellectually, spiritually, physically and socially and to render service to the community.

BILL WELLS

In East-West Game

Danny Wells, standout on the 1972 Prestonsburg high school football team, has been named to participate in the annual East-West football game to be played August 4 at Western Kentucky University, Bowling Green.

Wells, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Wells, of Lancer, has played varsity football for the past three years at Prestonsburg high, and was all-state football honorable mention in his junior and senior years.

The last two years, Wells was the leading scorer and ground gainer for the Blackcats, as a fullback. His senior year, he was moved to inside linebacker along with his offensive duties. He was co-captain, his senior year.

Wells has not yet decided where to attend college. Morehead State, Eastern Kentucky University, Western Kentucky and East Tennessee State have shown interest in his football abilities.

"We were very happy that Danny was selected for this honor," Coach Ed Radjunas commented. "We feel he will represent P. H. S. well." Only 25 boys are selected for the honor team.

Randy Leslie, now playing football at Eastern Kentucky University, was selected last year for the East-West game.

Jenny Wiley Summer Theatre
Lists Cast for First Production

The 26-member cast has been announced for "1776," the prize-winning musical about the disputes and debates that led to the Declaration of Independence, which will be presented at the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre for 15 performances beginning June 20 and continuing through July 8 nightly except Monday and Tuesday in the amphitheatre at Jenny Wiley State Park.

Gary Marchacek, of Jeffersonville, Ind., will be seen as John Adams, one of the leading begetters of the historic document; the hornet who stings his fellow delegates to the Continental Congress out of their indecision, and the man who nags Pete Franklin, of Madisonville, Ky., as Thomas Jefferson, into composing the Declaration.

Michael Edwards, Nashville, Tenn., will have the role of the droll and shrewd Benjamin Franklin; Kevin Dearing, Lexington, Ky., will portray Rutledge, the fiery South Carolinian who cannily represents the sectional interests of the southern colonies. Peter Heuchling, Wooster, Ohio, will be seen as Richard Henry Lee of Virginia. Jim Bradford, of Carbondale, Ill., will enact the bibulous Rhode Islander, Stephen Hopkins. Mike Fields, from Nashville, Tenn., will be seen as Delaware's brave Rodney and Ronnie Meek, of Goodlettsville, Tenn., will play John Hancock. Steve Wilmot, of Baton Rouge, La., will play Dickinson, Pennsylvania's sharp-tongued opponent of Independence.

Eleven other Founding Fathers shown fighting among themselves will be portrayed by James Gearhart, of Charleston, South Carolina; Clarence Godwin, Greenville, N. C.; George Bennett, Nashville, Tenn.; Larry Zulauf, Jeffersontown, Ky.; Billy Larimore, Baton Rouge, La.; Dennis Krieder, Atlanta, Ga.; Butch Miller, Clarkston, Ga.; Mark Torres, Jeffersonville, Ind.; Jerry Winsett, Clarksville, Tenn.; Lyle Gregory, Nashville, Tenn., and Danny Mizell, Tarboro, North Carolina.

The two feminine members of the cast will be Kathryn Ann Paris, of Louisville, as the wife of John Adams, and Kay Enoch, Boston, Mass., as Thomas Jefferson's wife.

Rex Lyons from Lexington, Ky., and Charles Underwood from Hattiesburg, Miss., have roles of the custodian and the secretary of the Congress, and Richard Bryant, from Greensboro, N. C., and Joe Kopesky, Cherry Hill, N. J., have other roles.

The action of "1776" takes place chiefly within the famous meeting room and its

Kentucky's Vanishing Bridges

Although more than 400 covered bridges used to dot the Kentucky landscape, the ravages of time, progress and arsonists have narrowed the number to 16. The Chaplin River bridge, above, was burned in 1971. Still standing are Franklin County's Switzer Bridge, top right, and Washington County's Beech Fork Bridge, right. The decaying Sharpsville Bridge, below, has been condemned.

John Doe Writ
Alleges Rape;
One Arrested

A John Doe warrant sworn out by State Detective Gary Rose calls for the arrest of an unidentified man charged with the rape at Wayland last Friday of a 19-year-old Alice Lloyd College coed, and a second man accused in the case has been jailed here.

Albert Chaffins was arrested by Detective Rose and booked as an accessory to the crime.

Edd Gillespie, of Arkansas Creek, was booked Saturday afternoon on a charge of possessing illegal intoxicating beverages for the purpose of sale after ABC Agent Arvil Nelson had reportedly found 17 cans of beer on his premises. Jerry Greathouse was arrested last Thursday by Detective Rose and State Trooper Newsome on a car theft charge.

James Hunt and Forrest Ray Hardie were jailed last week by Park Ranger Craig E. Kilgore on a charge of destroying public property. They were accused of committing the offense while occupying a room at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park. Estill Yates was jailed by Deputies Johnson, Hall, Yontz and Tackett on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

Except for arrests by conservation officers of persons charged with fishing without license, all others booked were arrested on traffic violations. Defendants, charges on which they were booked, and names of arresting officers follow:

James Delong, fishing without license, by Conservation Officer Cantrell; Kenneth Ratliff, reckless driving, by Wayland Policeman Troy Mullins; Charles Shepherd, drunk driving, by State Trooper Estep; Bill Mosley, drunk driving, by State Trooper Dennis Williamson; John Bray, Jr., drunk driving and no operator's license, by State Trooper E. B. Allen; Denver Stewart, drunk driving and no operator's license, by Trooper Williamson; David Akers, resisting arrest, by Trooper Williamson; John Leonard Gibson, drunk driving, by State Trooper J. C. Ray; Perry Slone, drunk driving, by Trooper Newsome; Hillard Thornsby, fishing without license, by Conservation Officer Dalton Ray Conley; Walker Slone, attempting to bribe an officer, by Deputy Sheriff Dester Hamilton; Richard Sammons, drunk driving, by State Trooper Newsome; Larman Rogers and Donald Stone, reckless driving, by Deputy Sheriffs D. Tackett and W. Hall; Larry Edward Eplin, no operator's license, and Bobby Scott, reckless driving, both by Johnson, Hall, Yontz and Tackett.

Raymond Clutter, who is under federal sentence of six months for postoffice burglary, was brought to the county jail here May 25 by Deputy U. S. Marshal Joe R. Mullins. Walter Verlen Abel and Winfred Eugene Thompson were jailed here May 25 by FBI Agent Sheets.
