

Road Funds Of $122,700 In Budget New County Budget Calls for Spending $384,827 This Year

Floyd county's budget for the fiscal year beginning June 30 envisions the expenditure of $384,827—$38,379 more than last year.

Added to anticipated receipts is an item of $15,000, the surplus from the preceding fiscal year.

The road fund got a boost this year of $8,100 as the total allocated for county highways was set at $122,700. General government, which includes the courts and official salaries, also gets a raise—from the $154,198 actually expended last year to $174,608 for the next 12 months.

In all nine principal budget categories only one, forestry, was unchanged. Its $2,900 appropriation remains at $2,900. And one had a reduction—the $21,000 budgeted for protection to person and property is $1,160 less than the amount spent during the preceding year. Others had increases: Health and sanitation, $2,500, up $100; hospitals, charities and corrections, $8,700, up $175; libraries and other educational activities, $2,500, up $350; debt service, $16,000 as compared to $11,615 last fiscal year; miscellaneous, $33,919, up by $6,019.

Expenditure increases involved some official salaries and services. Among these are the following:

The trial commissioner for the county judge's office, $7,200, an increase of $2,400; jury fund, $5,000, up $2,500; assistant county attorney, $1,200, up $400; county clerk's fees, $6,700, up $2,500; board of supervisors, $100, an increase of $25; county treasurer, $2,400, an increase of $600; magistrates' salaries, $14,400, up from $9,600; courthouse janitor, $3,600, up $1,200; utilities, $30,000, up $400; circuit clerk, $1,500, up $200; grand jury reporting, $1,000, up $450; election commissioners per diem, $1,000, up $570; election officers, $4,500, an increase of $500; tabulators, $120, an increase of $90; rentals of polling places, $9,000, which is $1,200 more than last year; printing and advertising, $6,000, up $1,800; jailer, $18,000, up $1,000.

Reductions were made in several instances:

'Pot Farming' Charge Names Eastern Man

The search Friday by state police of a house and surrounding grounds at Eastern, resulted in the arrest of 28-year-old Ray Osborne, who was charged with illegal possession of marijuana and booked in county jail.

Confiscated in the raid by State Troopers Danny Stumbo and Phillip Tucker were two small vials of seeds, two packages of marijuana, one rolled cigarette, one package wheat paper, a small package of seeds and an instruction booklet on growing hemp. In addition, marijuana was found growing in two plots near the house and approximately two dozen plants were seized.

Trooper Stumbo was said to have observed the marijuana since it was planted by Osborne and had watched it grow for 40-50 days. Osborne was released on $1,000 bond.

In another incident the following night, Walker Newsome was arrested at Honaker by State Trooper Denny Williamson and charged with transporting alcoholic beverages in local option territory. Taken from Newsome's pickup truck were 49 cases of beer, 48 half-pints of whiskey, 48 half-pints of vodka, and 24 fifths of wine. Newsome later executed bond.

Others booked at the jail within the week:

Daniel Robinson, drunk driving, by State Trooper Castle and Lt. Van Hoose; Howard Perry, drunk driving, by State Trooper A. Cantrell; Leon Slone, drunk driving, by State Trooper Bevins; Delmar Green, drunk driving and no operator's license, by State Trooper Newsome; Billy Mitchell, drunk driving, by Deputy Sheriffs Victor Tackett, O. Hall, and Jay Bartley; Billy Wayne Thornsby, failing to yield to an officer and reckless driving, by Deputies Victor Tackett and O. Hall; Arlie Young, drunk driving, by Deputy Sheriffs Hall and Younce; Shirl Newsome, no operator's license and drunk driving, by State Trooper Williamson; Ronnie Boyd, destroying private property, by Sheriff Frank Leslie; Raymond Luther Cox, drunk driving, by City Policeman Lawson; Conard Mills, drunk driving, by Policeman Lawson, and Frank Stephens, drunk driving, by Policeman Woods.

Some Played For the Sheer Joy of Playing

Among the 200 or more Kentucky musicians and craftsmen entertaining at the Folklife Festival in Washington, D. C. last week were a number of Floyd countians, including singers of the oldtime "lined" hymns, the Goins Brothers whose Bluegrass music won wide newspaper coverage, and others. Half a million visitors reportedly attended the festival during Kentucky Week, but here and there were smaller groups attracted by this musician or that who simply picked up his instrument and played for the sheer joy of the thing. Such was the case in the photo above showing Ivory Howard, of Hueysville, doing an impromptu banjo "piece" in the Kentucky hospitality tent.

This Town . . . That World

And now comes the lull after the storm . . . an attempt to settle down and make an effort not to transmit the jitters to those who may chance to read.

If you think things are rough, consider this description of the unhappiest place on earth—where it was happiness not to be crying.

CAREFUL, MISTER...

Richard D. Howard, another friend whom I miss, is doing graduate work at the University of Alabama but remembers my need for a bit of levity. So he records this incident for our consideration:

"I happened to be in a local drug store the other day when a lady came in who looked like she'd been grown in the cotton fields. I didn't think there was a mule anywhere outside the hills of Kentucky, but her remarks to the druggist reminded me that rural folk all over are pretty much the same. It also made me realize that Alabama folk are not too different from the mountain people when I heard her make her last remark.

"Women usually let their true feelings show through whenever their security is at stake. She handed the druggist two prescriptions and said, 'One is for my husband and one is for my mule.' As she was given the medicines by the druggist, she asked, 'Did you mark them well? I wouldn't want to give the mule the wrong medicine.'"

Dr. Allen Resigns after 33 Years; Board Member Leaves Meeting

Resignation of Dr. J. H. Allen as member of the Floyd County Board of Education from Division and the naming of Ray "Shag" Campbell, of Banner, as his successor precipitated a reaction from one board member which resulted in premature adjournment of the board's Saturday afternoon meeting here.

Only three board members—Chairman John M. Stumbo, Dr. Mary L. Hall and James Arville Duff—were present at the meeting. Dr. J. D. Adams, another member, was on vacation and Dr. Allen was unable to attend. When Dr. Allen's resignation was presented all board members voted to accept it. James A. Duff then moved the appointment by the board of Campbell to fill the vacancy and the chairman, Stumbo, temporarily vacated his place as chairman in order to second the Duff motion. Then the vote was taken, with Dr. Hall casting a dissenting vote.

Immediately thereafter, Dr. Hall walked out of the meeting. That left the board without a quorum, and the meeting abruptly adjourned.

Mr. Campbell, who is a son of a former board member, the late Johnny Campbell, of Garrett, took the oath of office, shortly afterward.

Dr. Allen's resignation ended what is perhaps the longest service by a Kentuckian on a school board. He has been a member of the board of education 33 years, first being appointed in March, 1936 and serving since that time with the exception of one four-year term.

Fiscal Court Moves To Change Load Rule

The Floyd fiscal court last Thursday virtually killed the 10-ton coal truck load limit which it had earlier imposed on the Sugar Loaf road.

The court voted to provide that the load limit shall apply to that part of the road which is above the point where coal trucks enter. No coal is being hauled on the road from points above this present entrance onto the road of trucks hauling coal for the Triple Elkhorn Coal Company.

The order had not been entered Monday on records of the court, but County Attorney James R. Allen said the court has directed him and Clifford B. Latta, attorney for Triple Elkhorn, to prepare it. He added that H. B. Ranier, Jr., head of Triple Elkhorn, promised the court to execute bond to keep the road in good condition.

Katy Friend Church Plans Special Services

There will be a fellowship meeting at the Katy Friend Free Will Baptist Church beginning Sunday night, July 15. Services will be at 7:30 each evening, and there will be a different preacher each night, with special singing.

The public is cordially invited to attend this meeting, the pastor, Elder Charlie Rowe, said.

At an earlier meeting the court had amended its 10-ton load limit order for Daniels creek to make it effective, beginning one-fourth mile up the creek from the intersection with US 23. This was done, it was said, to make possible construction of a bulk oil and gasoline plant near the mouth of the creek.

The court also abandoned the old county road which extended from the new US 23 at Katy Friend through property of Dr. George P. Archer and Ed Music and accepted a new location of the road as a part of the county road system.

Kenneth Ray Wells was employed at last week's court meeting as supervisor of the county solid waste program. The order did not state his salary.

In other action the court re-employed Sam Fitzpatrick as county road foreman at no change in salary, and Bill Woods, Jr. as truck driver.

Acting under a new statute which enables local units of government to participate in a state-provided monetary incentive program of training and education for local law-enforcement officers, the fiscal court last month voted an annual salary of $4,350 for each member of the county police department, effective July 1. Sam Hale as county detective is the only county police officer at this time.

The order provides a work-year of 2,080 hours, requires each such officer to have a high school education or its equivalent, and provides that each officer complete within a year a basic training course of at least 400 hours and an in-service training course of 40 hours each year.

Mental Health Staffing Grant Totals $412,039

Richard T. Stai, executive director of Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, the regional mental health agency for the Big Sandy Valley, announced last week that the agency had received from the U. S. Department of Health Education and Welfare approval of its continuation staffing grant totalling $412,039.

Notification of the award came from HEW's Regional office in Atlanta and is a continuation of the original grant made in 1967 from funds provided under the Community Mental Health Center Act. These funds are in addition to the grant announced last week approving $522,159 for a supplemental staffing grant.

From its earliest beginnings in Pike county in 1966 until the present time, Mountain Comprehensive Care Center or Mountain Mental Health, as it was

Phase II Action, Heating System Get Early Okeh

Actions of the Floyd County Board of Education at its Saturday meeting moved toward new construction and improvement projects which will involve the expenditure of an estimated $1,245,000.

One of these is the changed version of Phase II of the new Allen Central High School development program. Preliminary plans prepared by Forrest McCloskey and Associates, Lexington architects, were approved by the board. The plans call for a multi-purpose room (gymnasium-auditorium) and an indoor, all-seasons, YMCA-size swimming pool. County Superintendent of Schools Charles Clark said it is hoped that the pool may be used for a summertime swimming program for all schools of the county. Cost of Phase II is estimated at $1,160,000, which is $40,000 less than the estimate on the original plan.

The board also approved the superintendent's selection of the firm of Adams, Frazier & Anderson, Inc. to plan replacement of the antiquated heating system at Prestonsburg elementary with modern heating. It also approved the firm's early plans for this replacement to take the form of a gas-heated hot water system in the school which will cost about $85,000.

The board directed the planners to complete final plans as quickly as possible so that bids may be asked and work begun in time for completion of the work by winter. Work on week-ends and at night is proposed on the project in order to avoid disturbing operation of the school during early months of the coming term.

The board asked the fiscal court to set the school tax rate per $100 valuation, as follows: General fund, 51.3 cents; special gym tax, 7.6 cents; bank shares, 38 cents; poll tax, $2. Only the general fund rate was changed from that of last year, and that by .4 cent.

Draft Center Here To Serve Three Counties

A regional Selective Service center is being established here, but it will serve only three counties instead of the four originally planned for the consolidation.

The fourth county, Pike, which was planned to be moved to the center here, will remain a separate draft board, it was announced last week. Johnson county's draft board moved here two weeks ago. Martin county's was moved earlier.

Mrs. Martha Johnson will be manager of the Area 20 Site, the designation given the consolidated office here. Mrs. Carol Wolfe is her assistant. The two were in charge of Selective Service work here prior to consolidation.

Because there has been no official word yet from state Selective Service headquarters Mrs. Johnson was unable to say if other workers will join the staff.

Hugh Collett, executive director of the Pike County Chamber of Commerce, met earlier, it was said, with Col. Taylor L. Davidson, Kentucky director of Selective Service, in an effort to get the regional center located in Pikeville. He did not succeed in achieving that but did manage to keep the Pike county draft board there.

Governor Ford apparently was asked to lend his support to Pike county. In a letter to Col. Davidson he wrote:

"In reference to our conversation of June 21 concerning the realignment of the Selective Service System in Kentucky . . . I am convinced that we ought to amend our collation plan to provide an office at Pikeville."

Accused Man Free On $10,000 Bond

Glenn Martin, accused slayer of Robert Griffith Sr., Estill business man, entered a plea of not guilty on his arraignment last Thursday in the Pike county quarterly court and waived the case to the grand jury. Martin is free under $10,000 bond.

Although the shooting of Griffith took place in this county, he died at the Methodist Hospital, Pikeville, and the warrant charging him with murder was issued by the Pike court. Under new Kentucky statutes his trial will be held in the county where the warrant against him was issued.

Appeal Seen In RECC Case, Plaintiffs Say

There is a possibility that the election of three members of the board of directors of the Big Sandy Rural Electric Cooperative may be delayed beyond the scheduled July 19 date set for the voting.

This became apparent Saturday when Ronald Frasure, Russell Blackburn and Billy Reffett announced that they will ask the Court of Appeals to reverse the decision made last Thursday by Circuit Judge W. D. Sparks, denying them a place on the ballot.

Judge Sparks ruled that the ballot should stand as printed, bearing only the names of three incumbent members, Bradis Goble, John Ed Shepherd and Hauley Scott.

The suit filed June 18 by Frasure, Scott and Blackburn alleged that they were not given proper opportunity to have their names placed in nomination for the election and accused the nominating committee of meeting at 5 p.m. instead of its usual 7 p.m. meeting time in order to thwart their candidacies.

Judge Sparks held that the plaintiffs had failed "to exhaust the remedies they could have used" in learning the correct procedures for seeking the offices.

Blackburn asked a place on the ballot to oppose Goble in the co-op's District 5; Frasure sought to oppose Shepherd in District 6, and Reffett would have opposed Scott in District 7.

Testimony in the case was heard in a two-day trial held at Louisa.

Bill Wells, RECC manager, said evidence was also presented at the hearing that the plaintiffs, Blackburn and Reffitt, failed to appear at the

Allen, Survivors of 1943 Raid To Hold Anniversary Reunion

Prestonsburg Attorney Jarvis Allen is cancelling all local appointments for August 17. For he will be in Denver, Colo. at that time, keeping rendezvous with those yet living who were with him on the afternoon in 1943 when their Flying Fortress was shot down over Belgium.

August 17 is the 30th anniversary of that World War II event, and Allen and those who survive, seven in all, plan to mark the day with a reunion at the Denver home of their co-pilot, Carl Smith.

It all began after the Prestonsburg man had heard a rumor that a Carl Smith was employed by United Air Lines in Denver. Last Christmas, he sent a card. The former lieutenant and his wife got in touch with Allen and began a roundup of addresses of other survivors of the Fortress, "Frisco Jenny," which they rode through a flak-filled sky, climaxing a daylight bomber raid over Germany.

The reunion will bring together:

T-Sgt. Jarvis Allen, engineer; Lieut. Smith, co-pilot; T-Sgt. Victor Ciganek, Long Island, N. Y., radio operator; T-Sgt. Gerald Tucker, waist gunner, now a Montana rancher; T-Sgt. Albert Diminno, Las Vegas, Nev., assistant engineer; T-Sgt. Rudolph Thigpin, ball turret gunner, and T-Sgt. Edward Winslow, of California, bombardier.

Thigpin may thank a kindly fate for being alive, Mr. Allen said. He had been wounded on an earlier bombing raid and was in a hospital Aug. 17, a day when American bomber forces had perhaps their heaviest losses in any single day of the war. His replacement, Starr Tucker, was killed. Richard Martin, the regular navigator for "Frisco Jenny," was assigned to another plane that day and was killed. His replacement, a Lt. Carlen, was killed on Allen's plane. The pilot, Lt. Jack Hargis, died when the bomber exploded, and another crewmember, Leland Judy, tail gunner, of Cuyahoga Falls, O., died after the war.

All who survived the flight were taken prisoner except Allen, Diminno and Judy.

The Floyd countian escaped capture through the assistance of the French Underground and other Allied sympathizers, making his way across France and across the Pyrenees into neutral Spain.

The full story of the Flying Jenny's crew is of saga proportions. These seven who will meet in Denver next month will have plenty to talk about and many notes to compare.

Paintsville May Use Mall Plan Abandoned Here

Paintsville may be on the way to adopting a shopping district improvement plan similar to the outdoor mall which was proposed last year for Prestonsburg by Mayor George P. Archer but later dropped for want of full participation.

The Paintsville improvement plan, The Paintsville Herald reports, has on two occasions been presented to business people and residents, and to date has won enthusiastic response, although it remains in the preliminary stages.

Included the Paintsville plan are changed traffic patterns, off-street parking areas, elimination of street parking in much of the central business district, remodeled store fronts and canopied sidewalks, "green" areas for shoppers and visitors, conversion of a mid-town service station into a rest area and information center, and possible construction of a new bridge connecting the downtown area with Route 23, north of the present bridge.

Funding would have to come from a variety of sources, possibly including revenue sharing, allocations under the proposed Better Communities Act of the Federal level, and, in the remodeling and canopy structures, from businesses and property owners.

"I hope to gain additional information on the Better Communities Act in a meeting next week at Louisville," Mayor Chandler said. "It appears that this particular federal program, if adopted, could be a major factor in what we've proposed to do to improve our downtown area, and we need more information before we can take much positive action."

Direct costs of planning are relatively minor, Chandler said, with the planning firm speculating on full payment only if the plans are successfully funded.

Mayor Archer proposed the mall here to protect the established business district from possible competition later from a shopping center possibly located outside the city limits.

CLINIC SLATED TODAY

The Floyd County Health Department announces that a pap smear clinic will be held Wednesday, July 11 from 9 a.m. till noon and from 1 to 2 p.m. This service is free and open to the public.

A Lot of Dirt in the Water

The Regional Comprehensive Water and Sewer Plan prepared for the Big Sandy Area Development District made a number of interesting suggestions (see The Times edition of July 4).

One of these called for "definite action" to eliminate damage being done to Dewey and Fishtrap reservoirs by siltation from upstream strip-mining operations. Said the report:

"Rigid regulations should be adopted to protect the watersheds because of the asset these reservoirs are to the Big Sandy Area Development District."

The position thus taken looks on the reservoirs not only as of great value in flood control but also as the means of maintaining a steady flow of water in the Big Sandy on which communities depend as a source of water.

A statement made in June, 1966 in a "Study of Strip and Surface Mining in Appalachia" by the Secretary of the Interior must also have had influence on writers of the report.

It reads:

"In areas undisturbed by strip-mining within the Appalachian region, the average sediment loads transported by the larger streams range from about 20 tons to 3,000 tons per square mile of watershed. Data on sediment loads in streams draining strip-mined areas are scarce. Studies were made, however, in parts of Beaver Creek Basin, Kentucky from February, 1956 to the end of 1959 by the U. S. Geological Survey in collaboration with other government agencies and the Commonwealth of Kentucky. The results indicated that the annual sediment yield from the strip-mined part of the basin, as measured at a downstream location, equalled about 30,000 tons per square mile, or 10 times the maximum amount from undisturbed lands."

Read it again: "Thirty thousand tons per square mile . . . 10 times the maximum amount from undisturbed lands."

If this was the sediment load in the 1956-1959 period, what is it now? And if the Beaver Creek basin was so affected, what is the story on Johns Creek and at Dewey Lake which has no current to pull the sediment load on downstream?

Strangely enough, there is no specific sedimentation date available for Dewey Lake. Not until recently did the Corps of Engineers install measuring devices there. Yet a representative of the Corps blandly assured this newspaper, some months ago, that there was no evidence of a sedimentation problem there.

No, one more question:

Will the Big Sandy Area Development District attempt to do anything about a situation which affects Dewey Lake and the thousands who would be affected by lessening of its capacity for water storage—or will it carefully file the report away?

It Was July 4 At Archer Park

The Fourth of July for most of Floyd county was at Archer Park here, where hundreds spent the day and a good part of the night picnicking, swimming, watching ball games, "visitin'" with acquaintances or just soaking their feet in the creek which runs through the park. At some time during the day most of those who gathered at the park found irresistible attractions of the carnival "playing" there. Not even the rain which sent folks scurrying down the midway for shelter could chase the crowds away. Then, at dusk, "bombs bursting in air" was reenacted in the annual July 4 fireworks display. By 9 p.m. autos parked along the median and both sides of the Mountain Parkway extended to the Katy Friend intersection of new US 23 while several thousand watched the aerial display.

Letters to the Editor

So That's Why There Are So Many Clorox Jugs!

Editor, The Times:

In reference to Mr. Castle's letter in your last edition, I would like to raise a couple of points in defense of those who create the black water problem, in our once beautifully scenic county.

I would like to point out that an effort is being made to purify the streams in our county. This is evident due to the large number of Clorox bottles strewn along the banks of the streams. Everyone knows that a little Clorox in dirty water will purify it to the point that it will again sustain life.

But, on the other hand, the bottles themselves have become an unsightly problem. Maybe the people who are "purifying" the water think the water will dissipate the bottles. Or could it be, there just isn't any place to dump them. Where are the legal dumps in Floyd county? I've heard there are to be four created, one in each magistrate's district. When will the government's revenue-sharing money be spent to build them?

With all the "bug dust" and garbage, a bullfrog doesn't have a fighting chance.

Protest "1776" Profanity

Having attended the drama, "1776," last night, we are writing to you. We were shocked to hear the men who signed the Declaration of Independence using profanity, especially God's name in vain repeatedly. Indecent remarks and suggestions were made, such as Benjamin Franklin referring to his son as "that little bastard."

This drama tears down the noble, Godfearing image of our country's forefathers. We trust you will not endorse this in your newspaper.

Says 'Results of Past' Should Be Considered

Editor, The Times:

In a few weeks it will be election time again, and again the choice is yours. Regardless of what kind of government we have in the future, here are a few results from that of the past:

Our mountains are ravaged by strip-mining, the highways littered with garbage, the streams poisoned with acid water. We have burning slag heaps; Big Sandy River is an open sewer; and Left Beaver runs black, the year around.

Citizens of Sugar Loaf, Bull Creek, Big Mud, Right Beaver, Caney, Martin and David have appealed in vain to the courts of this county for help in preventing overloaded coal trucks from destroying their roads up the hollows. For a few weeks, the courts forced truckers to stay within the load limits, but now have lifted restrictions. Circuit judge Don Ward has assessed fines for overloaded trucks in Perry county. Is there one law for Perry county and a different one for Floyd?

Such conditions have been brought about by the negligence and indifference of many officials, some whom will again be candidates this fall. They will again shake your hand and ask for your vote. Consider carefully whether their past performances indicate they deserve your support, and after due consideration, then cast your vote accordingly.

Nature Trails

By Rufus M. Reed

On the high, dry ridges and spurs of the Tri-State region grow large patches of low shrubs, which are called locally "huckleberry vines." These are shrubs, not vines, and their habitat is sweet-scented pine-tree woods, where mountain laurel, azaleas and teaberry grow. There are two kinds of these shrubs and both are found growing together. While both are called "huckleberries," the leading one is the true blueberry, and the books call it "the low blueberry bush." These are members of the Heath Family, which is noted for preferring a dry habitat with plenty of sunlight and acid soil.

Of these two, the blueberry produces the best fruit for canning and making pies. If you have ever put your nose down to a pail full of ripe blueberries, you will long remember the rich, woody, mellow flavor. For canning and making pies, the blueberry has few equals. During any year when the crop is abundant, several thousand quarts of blueberries are picked on the farms of Kentucky and West Virginia, mostly for home use. Some persons pick the berries while they last and sell them on local markets. There is always a strong demand for the "huckleberries," as both kinds taken together are called.

Of the two, the huckleberry shrub grows taller, about knee high, and produces berries that are sweet as sugar, glossy black when ripe, but somewhat seedy. The blueberry is juicier and can be cooked in its own juice for canning. The berry first turns red, then dark blue when fully ripe.

In the latter half of July and early August, is the time to pack a lunch and climb the high ridges to pick huckleberries. This year, more than any other, is the time for all persons who can spare a day now and then, to pick all of these berries they possibly can. And right here, a word of caution is in order: Patches of ripe huckleberries are favorite haunts of rattlesnakes, which steal there to prey upon the small animals that eat these fruits—most every animal of the forest dine on these berries. So when you go on the high ridges to pick them, better wear leggings and take along a snakebite kit.

Another word of caution: If you begin eating the ripe berries, you'll fill the belly but the pail will be empty. The berries taste so sweet and good, it is almost impossible to stop eating them once you get started.

Both kinds of these berries bloom in May. The bloom of the huckleberry is pink or red, shaped like a tiny bell; the blueberry bears small, greenish-white blossoms, also bell-shaped. The blueberry is rated as one of the top wild fruits of our region; each mountain farm should have a large patch of these fine shrubs, which should be protected against forest fires and stripminers.

Blueberries were highly favored by the Indians, who used them for both food and medicine. They made blueberry tea for use as an anti-spasmodic; Indian women drank the tea to promote easy childbirth from the squaws; according to a medical book published in 1813, the tea was widely used by pregnant women.

In Lord Culpepper's England, blueberries were used to cure diarrhea and "to cool fever of the stomach and bowels." Blueberry tea and wild honey were used by the Indians to cure a "hacking cough." Blueberry tea was also used to stop excessive menstrual flow.

One of the sublime joys of boyhood was when I climbed the high ridges with my parents to pick huckleberries. I loved to be away up there near the blue heavens and hear the pine-tree wind make its soft, sweet music. Somehow the air up there seemed pure and immensely invigorating. And there was the chance now and then, when father wasn't watching me, to eat a mouthful of ripe blueberries, with that rich, deep-down goodness few other wild fruits possess. Lastly, father had a stern rule not to eat blueberries while picking them. "Get the pail full first," he ordered.

Tax Preparer Gets One-Year Pen Term

A U. S. District Court jury at Paducah June 28 convicted John W. Bostick, 61, Fulton, Ky., a commercial tax return preparer, of eight counts of preparation of false and fraudulent tax returns from his clients. Judge Charles M. Allen sentenced Bostick to serve a concurrent term of one year and one day on each of the counts.

Bostick was arrested on the charge April 6, by special agents of the Internal Revenue Service Intelligence Division and indicted by a federal grand jury at Paducah, June 11. He could have received a sentence of up to three years and a fine of $5,000 on each of the counts.

Retires After 30 Years

Ola Gayheart, of Allen, retired from employment of the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company, May 1, after 30 years and three months' service. Mr. Gayheart was employed as compressor station operator during the entire 30 years and worked at the company's Maytown station at the time of his retirement.

Most shooters have found that a mirror is not entirely satisfactory to use when examining the interior of a shotgun or rifle barrel. A better method is to use ordinary household aluminum foil. It has a duller surface than a mirror and reflects just enough light into the barrel to discover fouling or corrosion without eye discomfort.—SPORTS AFIELD

Completes Training

Pvt. Patricia L. Shelton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Owsley, of Estill, graduated recently from the Fort McClellan W. A. C. training school at Fort McClellan, Alabama.

Pvt. Shelton is now at Ft. Sam Houston, Texas for her AIT training as an Operating Room Specialist. This training will last seven weeks after which time she will be stationed at the Army hospital in San Antonio, Texas as a surgical technician.

Our Error

The special discount offered by the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre in last week's Floyd County Times was inadvertently printed with an error. The coupon was to be honored only if the person presenting it at the box office was accompanied by another person paying the regular price of admission. We regret any misunderstanding that may have arisen by this printing error. The error was not the theatre's fault.

Foundation Program Study Review Set

Results of the new Foundation Program study undertaken in recent months will be presented in 15 regional meetings to be held July 16 through July 25. These meetings will primarily involve the 5,000 local study committee members and other school related personnel. All meetings will begin at 7:30 p.m., local time.

The evaluation meeting for Region 14 will be held at the Prestonsburg High School cafeteria.

Card of Thanks

We would like to express our thanks to all who helped in any way during the sickness and at the death of our loved one, Thomas A. (Tom) Webb. Our special thanks to Rev. John Huffman, Herbert Ousley, Danny Stephens and the choir of the Maytown United Methodist Church; Hall Brothers Funeral Home for its kind service, for the lovely floral offerings, all those who brought food, visited at the home and at the funeral home. Your friendship and kindness mean so much to us.

'Wilderness Voices' Set Park Concerts

A group of college vocal entertainers, The Wilderness Voices, will present a concert at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park each Monday night at 9 o'clock. The group is composed of six college students from various universities in the state. The Wilderness Voices group was originated by Kentucky native and former actor, Tom Ewell.

The purpose of this ensemble is to earn the expenses of each of these students for the fall semester at the university of their choice. Three members of the group are presently studying at Morehead State University. They are Cheryl Melloan, senior from Louisville, Bob Myers, a senior from Dover, Ky., and Mary Sue Webb, originally from Hazard, who is doing graduate work at MSU. Diane Irwin, a junior at the University of Kentucky, is from Louisville, Herb Thornton, a native of Jeffersonton, Ky. is also in this group. He is presently attending the University of Louisville, where he is a senior. Mike Henry, of Bowling Green, and is a junior at Murray State University, is the piano accompanist.

The first effective State workmen's compensation laws were passed in 1911, according to the U. S. Department of Labor.

Floyd Girls in State Style Revue

Floyd county will be represented at the State Style Revue, July 16-18, by Ann Flanery and Judy Stewart.

These two girls will join other style revue participants from across the state in three days of modeling, tours and recreation on the campus of the University of Kentucky.

Miss Stewart (left in photo) is the 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stewart, of Langley, and is a member of the Allen Central 4-H Club.

The 15-year-old Miss Flanery (at right), is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Flanery, also of Langley. She also is a member of the Allen Central 4-H Club.

The two advanced to the state competition through participation in county and area style shows.

Mrs. Thomas Flanery will accompany the girls to the state contest.

Let Us Clarify

Last week the Times listed the schedule for performances of Alice Lloyd College's Appalachian Theatre but failed to specify the time for the Saturday productions of "The Thread That Runs So True." This play will begin each Saturday evening at 8 through August 11.

Mud Cr. Water Problem Solved Ending Shortage

The problem of inadequate water supply and pressure in the Mud Creek Water District no longer exists, The Times learned this week.

Until recently it was virtually impossible to fill any of the several ground elevation reservoirs serving Mud Creek because the Sandy Valley Water District, which supplies the Mud Creek district with water purchased from the Pikeville municipal system, was not getting sufficient water.

That situation was cured, Jack Branham, of the Sandy Valley district, said this week when the Pikeville system added sufficient water storage capacity. The result was an adequate supply for both Sandy Valley and Mud Creek.

The Public Service Commission had suggested a booster pump station on Sandy Valley's 12-inch supply line near Blair Town, but Sandy Valley district officials had argued that if enough water were made available to it and Mud Creek, both of which are at a lower elevation than Pikeville's supply, gravity would solve the problem. And it did, they say.

'Gas' Can Explodes, Tot Badly Burned

Hayden Winslow Milligan, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Milligan, of the Briarwood Addition here, remained in critical condition Tuesday morning at St. Joseph's Hospital, Lexington, after suffering extensive burns Monday in a gasoline fire.

A phone call alerted Prestonsburg firemen to the accident scene at about 11:30 a.m. Monday and a fire truck with first-aid equipment was dispatched to the scene. The child was rushed to Highlands Regional Medical Center and after examination and emergency treatment there was taken to St. Joseph's.

Prestonsburg Fire Chief Frank Vaughan said the blaze apparently resulted from the explosion of a plastic container of gasoline which was stored in the garage. He said the child's father told him that an older brother had only minutes before taken a lawn mower he had been using into the garage and Vaughan said it may have been the heat from the mower that ignited the gasoline.

The child's condition was reported as critical but stable Tuesday and arrangements were being made to transfer him to the Shriners' Burn Treatment Center in Cincinnati.

NOT JUST ANOTHER DOG

Now I learn that some folks some miles from here are interested in learning what became of the little cocker which had me on the verge of going back into the dog business, some weeks ago. Well, the dog appears to have been like many of us humans: it was so anxious to make friends that it couldn't stay in one place long, and soon disappeared from our back door. My last sight of it was outside a local grocery store where it was darting back and forth, trying to escape being run down by a car—and, I suspect, still looking for a friend. Don't ask me how I managed to drive away without stopping for a word.

Now, let me tell you about another dog. I am not a fickle sort of a critter—me, fickle!—but this overgrown Boxer pup is the greatest. He first showed up at grade school here and adopted, and was adopted by, most of the children. Then he began dividing his time between the homes of Dan Rowland and Carl Watson, on our street and in his idle time doing a bit of tail-wagging at my place.

This dog is a gentleman; I meant to say, a gentle dog. He will chase a cat in long, joyous bounds if the cat will run, and will even give tongue if a cat gets its back up and tries the old spitting game with him. But no rough stuff, please. One day, our cat took a swipe at him and in his surprise at her resentment and viciousness he tripped over his feet or tail, or something.

This dog looks as dangerous as Pinky Lee in a sailor's cap. His name? The children at school call him "Sweet Thing." I wouldn't know. Our acquaintance is not based on talk, so I do not call him anything. I'm almost as dumb as he is.

I have an idea I've used this before, but it will never get into a cookbook, so...

ELEPHANT STEW

- 1 Medium-size Elephant
- 2 Rabbits, optional
- Salt and Pepper

Cut the elephant into small bite-size pieces. Add enough brown gravy to cover. Cook over kerosene fire about four weeks at 465 degrees. This will serve 3,800 people. If more are expected, two rabbits may be added. But do this only in emergency; most people do not like hare in their stew.

Renewal of the agreement with Morehead State University for a library adult education program a second year was voted. The contract with Alice Lloyd College for its use of the Home Branch school in its ALCOR program also was renewed.

Closing of the three-teacher Weeksbury school was made official, and the board directed that the approximately 11 pupils there by transported to the Melvin and Osborne elementary schools.

1. A leave of absence of a year to John Campbell, Jr., the leave to begin with the 1972-'73 school year. Mr. Campbell, a teacher at Garrett, underwent heart surgery, earlier this year.

2. Approval of a contract with DeGarmo DeRossett, of Prestonsburg, for his use of the grade school auditorium here for karate classes, DeRossett to pay all utilities.

3. Approval of personnel for operation of the Head Start program.

4. To authorize Supt. Clark to advertise for bids on fleet insurance, custodial, maintenance and transportation supplies.

5. Approval of the selection by the superintendent from school supervisory personnel of an auditing committee to audit all elementary school activity and lunchroom funds. An audit of similar funds in the high schools will be done by Lawton Ray Allen, accountant.

6. To authorize George Lee Shannon, architect, to advertise for bids on construction of an off-street parking and loading facility on U. S. 23 to serve the Prestonsburg elementary school.

Youth Week Plans For July 9-15 Told

John David Evans, Jr.

Youth of Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church invite the public to join them, the week of July 9-15, in observance of Youth Week at their church. Throughout the week the youth will be making home visits, and several activities have been planned.

Sunday morning, July 15, John David Evans, Jr. will occupy the pulpit during church services. Brad Kalos will serve his church as minister of music. Two other youth members will take part in the Sunday morning services as Miss Lynn Brown will be the pianist and Miss Susan Martin, the organist. A vocal ensemble from Mayfield, Ky. will also take part, and the Baptist youth choir will present special music. The Sunday morning classes will be taught by the youth members of the church. The Sunday evening church service will be under the direction of Oakie Shepherd. The Sunday morning service will begin at 11 a.m., and the evening service at 7:30 p.m. principal office of the co-operative on the date alleged in the complaint. Evidence was also presented the written petitions as submitted by the plaintiffs were not drawn on June 1, as alleged, but were not prepared until June 15, 14 days after the nominating committee met. The order and judgment said that the board of directors and nominating committee complied with all the rules and regulations as set out in the bylaws.

Evidence presented at the hearing also indicated that the meeting time had been changed periodically throughout the past number of years and that this change in meeting time was a discretionary power of the board.

Speaking for the board of directors and member-consumers, Mr. Wells said he wishes to apologize to all the 6,000 member-consumers of the co-operative for any adverse publicity that may have arisen out of this action and assured all member-consumers that the co-op will always endeavor to defend any action taken against the co-operative and to protect the interests of the members, since they are the owners. He added that he apologizes for any inconvenience or confusion that may have existed among the members as a result of this action.

The Big Sandy RECC manager said the co-operative has always held open elections and that any member interested in becoming a member of the board of directors should possess the proper qualifications and appear before the nominating committee at the time and place specified in the bylaws.

initially known) has grown in both staff and services to where its staff of 185 professionals and paraprofessionals are serving a monthly caseload of more than 2,000 people in five counties with outpatient, day training, partial hospitalization, emergency services, alcohol and drug abuse treatment and rehabilitation and consultation and education services in the field of mental health and mental retardation.

Mr. Stai also announced the appointment of Dr. Charles J. Saporito as staff psychiatrist for the agency's Johnson and Magoffin county teams.

Dr. Saporito has been in private psychiatric practice in Fort Lauderdale, Florida, specializing in child and adolescent psychiatry. He is a graduate of Louisiana State University School of Medicine and interned at Charity Hospital in New Orleans. He later took his psychiatric residency in Florida and was an instructor in child psychiatry at the University of Florida. Saporito is married to the former Carolyn Skaggs, of Paintsville. They will reside in Paintsville.

Stai observed that with the appointment of Dr. Saporito Mountain Comprehensive Care Center now has three full-time psychiatrists and one part-time psychiatrist in its five county region in addition to the services of a medical consultant in each of the counties.

Two Floyd Seniors In Special Program

Debbie Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenis Hall, of Melvin, and Leslie Trent Auxier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Trent Auxier, of Emma, are among 12 high school students enrolled in a special summer program at Berea College. The program is geared toward a better understanding for the students of their environment and consists of a course in wildlife biology for college credit which attempts to study life on a number of levels.

A minimum of ten hours' labor each week is required of Berea students, and the wildlife biology class is fulfilling this requirement by working in the Berea College Forest, building and improving hiking trails.

Miss Hall is a senior at Wheelwright high school. Auxier is a senior at Betsy Layne. Both were selected for the program from a list of gifted high school seniors in the 230 counties of Southern Appalachia.

July Wedding Planned

Mr. and Mrs. William Boggs, of Garrett, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Rosalind Sharon, to Mr. Michael O'Neal Conley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Conley, of Martin.

Miss Boggs is a graduate of Prestonsburg Community College and is employed at the Sherman Medical Clinic at Martin. Mr. Conley, a graduate of Morehead State University, is an employee of the Kentucky Department of Revenue.

The wedding is set for July 27 at 8 p.m. at the Hueysville Church of Christ where the gracious custom of open house will be observed. The couple will reside in Martin.

ATTEND FUNERAL HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hale and Mr. and Mrs. James Wallen, of Sciotoville, Ohio, have returned home after attending the funeral of their uncle, Harmison Slone, at the Carter Funeral Home here. While here they visited Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hicks, of Blue River.

Retiring State Librarian Honored

Frankfort, Ky.—The state's highest honor, that of "Distinguished Citizen," was conferred on Miss Margaret Willis by Gov. Wendell H. Ford in recent ceremonies marking her retirement as state librarian.

The designation came during a reception in the Capitol with Governor Ford presenting Miss Willis a silver coffee service. On it was inscribed, "The Governor's Distinguished Citizen Award." This marked the first such award presented by Ford since he has been Governor.

Miss Willis served in the Louisville Free Public Library from 1943 through 1954. She became coordinator of the State Library Extension Division in January, 1955 and a year later was named acting director. In 1957 she was appointed director.

After gaining departmental status in 1962, the State Library system was headed by Miss Willis until her retirement.

Ford, in a proclamation, cited a depth of understanding on the part of Miss Willis in acting on the needs of Kentuckians who live in all sections of the state.

"She seized the rare opportunity to improve the lives of thousands of Kentuckians, especially children, by extending library services throughout the Commonwealth," Ford said.

He said her actions throughout several administrations were marked with "sincerity and refinement" which made Kentucky a national leader in library programs.

Friends jammed the State Reception Room to honor Miss Willis during the two-hour event sponsored by Friends of Kentucky Libraries and the Kentucky Library Trustees Association.

Charles Hines of Murray succeeds Miss Willis, who will remain for several months as a consultant to the system.

A trip to the Greek Islands is also in the future for Miss Willis after the trustees announced she would go there as their guest.

STATE LIBRARIAN HONORED—Gov. Wendell Ford presents Miss Margaret Willis, retiring state librarian, with the state's highest honor, "The Governor's Distinguished Citizen Award," during a recent reception in the Capitol Reception Room.

RENT FREE

(St. John, Chapter 14)

In my Father's house are many mansions—holy, perfect and rent-free, and all you do to own one is, believe and obey.

(St. John, Chapter 3)

And a wonderful thing: They are permanent—no fires, no floods, just beauty—the streets are gold and flowers never fade for all of eternity.

You don't have to beg for a place to live in, and all people will be welcome there who have trusted Jesus as their Saviour and lived in love and prayer.

If you are looking for a place to live, free from dirt, crime and pollution, Jesus is the way, the truth and the life, and the only perfect solution. I'll see you there.

Offer Scholarships In Photo Contest

Registered Scouts who have earned the Photography merit badge are eligible for Scout photo scholarship awards, according to George Chidester, district executive, Lonesome Pine Council, Boy Scouts of America.

The contest, sponsored by the Eastman Kodak Company, has two categories—black-and-white and color. Scouts may enter a maximum of three pictures in each category, Chidester said.

Prizes will consist of scholarships for each of the two categories—first place, $1,000; second place, $500; and third place, $250. In addition, a certificate of merit will be awarded to entries demonstrating photographic excellence or unique applications.

Requirements to enter the contest are that a boy must be a registered Scout at the time of entering the contest, must be age 11 through 15 as of October 1, 1973, must have earned the Photography merit badge prior to entering the contest, and must submit pictures taken after Oct. 1, 1972. The official entry form which must accompany photos is available from the Scout service center, P. O. Box 110, Pikeville, Chidester said.

Entries must not be mailed before September 1, but must be postmarked no later than October 1, and received by October 7. Entries will be judged on the basis of originality, composition and good camera technique.

800 Invited To Visit Council Camp Sites

Approximately 800 civic leaders and other friends of Girl Scouting in 57 counties, including Floyd, have been invited to visit two camp sites operated by the Wilderness Road Girl Scout Council.

The sites, where established camp programs are in operation this summer, are Camp Cardinal in Carter county and Camp Judy Layne in Morgan county.

Mrs. Wendell Kingsolver, Carlisle, president of the Council, said that the leaders and friends would visit Camp Cardinal from 2 to 5 p.m. Saturday, July 14, and Camp Judy Layne from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday, July 15.

Justice-Jones Vows Spoken

The marriage of Miss Teresa Jean Justice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Justice, of Pikeville and Mr. Rick Lee Jones, son of Mrs. Bill Davis, of Pikeville, and LeRoy Jones, of Virgie, was solemnized at 2:30 p.m. June 12 in the sanctuary of the United Methodist Church, Pikeville. The pastor, the Rev. Kenneth Holbrook, officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Arrangements of white carnations and baby's breath in two altar vases and emerald palms decorated the altar.

Bill Johnson, minister of music, at the organ played wedding music and the traditional processional and recessional wedding marches. He accompanied the soloist, South Whitt, who sang, "Till the End of Time" and "The Twelfth of Never," preceding the ceremony, and the Lord's Prayer during the ceremony.

The bride wore a designer gown of imported organza and re-embroidered Alencon lace, enhanced with hand rolled petals. The scalloped scoop neckline, tiny sleeves and empire waist added to the deeply flounced hemline that swept into a semicathedral train. Her headpiece was a profile of lace motifs and held her lace-trimmed floor-length mantilla to complete the radiant picture. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white butterfly roses, stephanotis, baby's breath and leatherleaf greenery.

Mrs. John Faulkner, of Lexington was her sister's matron of honor Miss Debbie Page and Miss Nancy Bergman, both of Pikeville, were bridesmaids. They wore floor-length gowns of violet voile enhanced with printed flocked voile, grosgrain ribbon and tiny venise lace. The deep oval necklines, cap sleeves and slightly raised waist complemented the self-ruffle flounces around the hemlines.

They wore picture hats in matching color and carried white baskets filled with purple and lavender asters and baby's breath.

Mark Steven Justice and Philip Grey Justice, brothers of the bride, lighted the two single tapers at each side of the altar. They also served as junior ushers.

Patrick Huffman, of Richmond, Ky., was best man. Terry Huffman and Donnie Max May, both of Pikeville, were ushers and groomsmen.

Mrs. H. A. Page was the director of the wedding.

Mrs. Justice attended her daughter's wedding in a beige silk designer ensemble and brown accessories. Her corsage was of brown cattleya orchids.

Mrs. Davis, mother of the bridegroom, wore a yellow French peau de soie, with reembroidered lace, ensemble and matching accessories. Her corsage was a white cattleya orchid with pale yellow throat.

Mrs. Frank Owens, grandmother of the bride and a patient in the Mountain Manor Nursing Home was presented a corsage of pink carnations and pink roses from the bride and bridegroom.

Mrs. Ben Martin, grandmother of the bridegroom, attended the wedding. Her corsage included pink cymbidium orchids.

The newlyweds are residing on the North Mayo Trail, Pikeville.

The new Mrs. Jones was graduated from Pikeville High School, and is presently employed by the First National Bank of Pikeville.

Mr. Jones was also graduated from Pikeville High School. He attended Eastern Kentucky University and Pikeville College. He is presently employed by the High Chapperal Coal Co.

KENTUCKY AFIELD

By Hope Carleton
Dept. of Fish and Wildlife

Squirrel hunting is a tradition among Kentuckians that dates back to the time when Daniel Boone was credited with being able to "bark" one off a limb with his trusty flintlock rifle. And it's still the No. 1 choice for Kentucky hunters.

The annual harvest of this cunning and challenging animal exceeds two million and indications are the 1973 season should be another good one.

Harold Barker, chief forest game biologist for the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, says that studies and observations show a good production of mast (mature nuts and seeds) in 1972—which afforded an ample food supply for the squirrels during the critical winter season. This allowed a healthy population of squirrels for the annual reproduction. (Squirrels produce several litters throughout the year with the two major reproducing cycles being in late winter and early fall.)

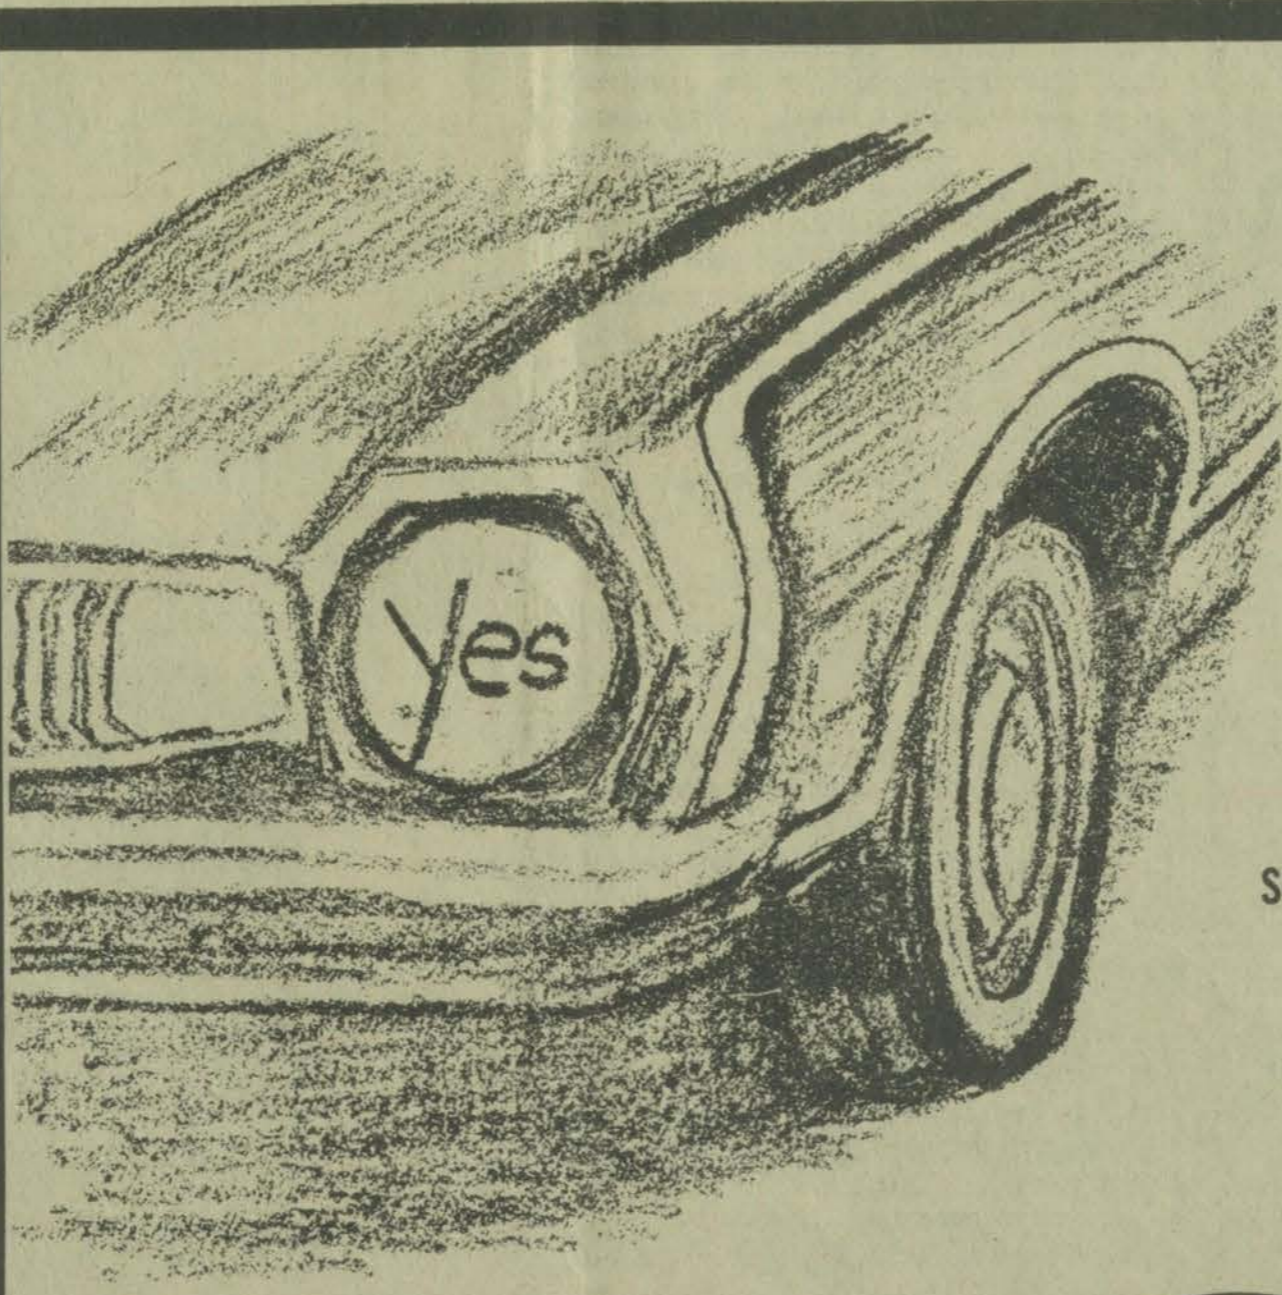

So, there should be plenty of squirrels available when the first portion of the split season opens August 18. (The first part continues through October 31 and reopens November 15 to continue through December 31. The daily limit is six, the possession limit 12.)

Barber pointed out that during the first two or three weeks of the season hunters often find fewer squirrels than they expect. This is due, he said, to the fact that squirrels are scattered at that time and don't concentrate in a given area until the mast has ripened. It doesn't indicate a low squirrel population, as some hunters think, Barber added.

There are several hunting techniques for harvesting squirrels. Some hunters choose to establish themselves in a given spot in the woods and wait for the squirrels to move about. Others like to walk, look, stop and listen for squirrels. Both methods are good and in the course of a season will produce good results.

Another very effective method is used during the latter part of the season when the trees are bare of leaves. This technique calls for the use of "squirrel" dogs and this combination of man and dog is one of the most challenging ways to hunt squirrels.

With opening day only weeks away, now's the time to scout your territory, get the landowner's permission and check out that trusty weapon. And don't forget your hunting license.

Miners Bureau Slates Dust Sampling Class

The training class, "Sampling and Evaluation of Respirable Coal Mine Dust," is scheduled to be conducted by the U. S. Bureau of Mines, July 24-26, beginning at 8:00 a.m. in the conference room at 218 High Street, Pikeville. Provisions of the Federal Register relating to respirable dust in underground and surface coal mines will be discussed.

Persons interested in attending the class should contact the U. S. Bureau of Mines Office, Pikeville, Kentucky, Telephone 437-9616.

PARTICIPATE IN UK INSTITUTE—More than 80 persons are attending the four-day, 16th annual Executive Housekeepers Institute at the University of Kentucky. Clean-Up Has Statewide Kickoff

The Common Wealth Clean-Up Campaign—a concerted effort to rid Kentucky of the estimated 400,000 junk automobiles and various other forms of trash that blight its landscape—had its statewide kickoff June 28 in four pilot counties—Ballard, Bullitt, Caldwell and Clark.

Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Commissioner Thomas O. Harris, whose department is coordinating the efforts of the state and federal government agencies and other organizations which will help out on the county level in the campaign, said, "We have designated this effort the 'Common Wealth' Clean-Up Campaign because we believe a cleaner Kentucky will add enrichment to the lives of all the Commonwealth's citizens."

In his speech at the Clark county kickoff, Governor Ford said, "The quality of life in all of Kentucky depends to a great extent on the beauty, durability and safety of the environment in which we live."

"If our environment is to be beautiful, durable and safe, it must also be something else—it must be clean."

At the same time Governor Ford was speaking in Clark county, the campaign was also being kicked off in Ballard, Bullitt and Caldwell counties.

Prior to and after the Governor's speech, Jim Pyles and his crew went about the business of converting around 150 junk automobiles into scrap metal.

Pyles, owner of Standard Metals of Junction City, has an agreement with the state to get one of his two car crushing machines on the scene whenever a minimum of 150 cars can be rounded up at a central staging area. The machines can crush approximately 50 cars per hour.

The Division of special Programs in the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection is charged with coordinating the campaign and getting every county in the state involved in it. Special Programs' Director E. T. Reed said the Common Wealth Clean-Up Campaign is utilizing all the manpower and equipment in the state that can be made available in order to get the job done.

"We didn't have to begin organizing this campaign from scratch," said Reed, "because we had a pretty good existing framework to build on. The Make Kentucky a Cleaner, Greener Land Committee, Inc., with members in almost every county, has been in existence since the early 60's."

"The members of this committee have been dealing primarily with beautification projects such as painting community eyesores, planting trees and shrubs and picking up litter."

"Now," continued Reed, "with the advent of the Common Wealth Clean-Up Campaign, the county judges will mobilize people in their counties to work with these existing clean-up and beautification organizations."

"The Common Wealth Clean-Up Campaign is underway in the four pilot counties and will continue from there," said Reed, "moving our heavy equipment to nearby counties as they are ready to utilize it."

"We have made a beginning in four counties, and this effort will continue until it has spread to all 120 counties," concluded Reed.

Commissioner Harris said he was very much encouraged by the number of people and organizations who have worked to get this statewide clean-up effort underway.

"Many have done a great deal already, and they have promised to continue their efforts until the clean-up effort is finished," said Harris.

Some of the organizations who will be supplying manpower and equipment to the Common Wealth Clean-Up Campaign are the 100th Training Division of the Kentucky Army Reserves, the Kentucky Jaycees, the Kentucky Boy Scout Councils, the Kentucky National Guard, State Department of Transportation, and the Division of Forestry in the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

Consumer Comments

By ED W. HANCOCK
 Attorney General of Kentucky

Every summer, all over the country many young people in search of summer jobs fall prey to the slick promoters of deception.

"Fly-by-night" operations glide through small towns and large cities, gathering with them large numbers of unskilled young people, filling their heads with enterprising propaganda to cover the shoddiness of the saleable goods, the unethical operations of the business, and the general deceit surrounding an operation which uses the gullible in order to make the "fast buck."

Certain precautions may be taken in order to avoid the users of the young: Check out a company's reputation, know the product, contact members of the local community about the idea . . . and stay away from an operation that promises a dream without a logical and ethical means of obtaining it.

Young people should report any possible unethical schemes to the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, and warn their friends as well.

If you have a consumer complaint or problem, call the Attorney General's Consumer Hotline, toll-free, between 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, at 1-800-372-2960.

The earliest authenticated strike of workers in a single trade in the United States occurred in 1786, when Philadelphia printers gained a minimum wage of $6 a week, according to the U. S. Department of Labor.

Attic Treasures May Find Home

By BONNI BROCKMAN

Frankfort, Ky.—Great-aunt Clara's antique brass candlesticks and Cousin Alfred's Victorian library table may be just what the curator of the Old State Capitol is looking for.

As curator, William Barrow Floyd is in charge of acquiring authentic furnishings for the Old Capitol and its adjacent building, the Old State Capitol Annex. Because he wants to obtain Kentucky-made and Kentucky-used furnishings, Floyd is requesting that those with the appropriate furniture, silver and paintings donate their treasures to the state for exhibition in one of the two buildings.

"We have decided to restore the Old Capitol as closely as possible to the architect's original plans," Floyd said, "but, to interpret it for the public, we will be showing its entire usage throughout the period the Old Capitol was used." Therefore, Floyd is looking for furniture used between 1830 and 1908.

Rooms in the Old Capitol will be furnished with articles from different time periods. For example, the entrance hall will use furniture of the 1830 period, while the House of Representatives will be furnished in the post-Civil War period. American Empire furnishings are planned for the East Committee Room and Victorian era pieces will be in the West Committee room.

Basic furnishings needed for the Old Capitol include:

—Two mahogany American Empire sofas, upholstered in red satin with a gold motif, such as a laurel wreath.

—Four red stencilled Hitchcock chairs.

—One pair of six or eight-branch Empire candelabra with columned shafts.

—Two pairs of large, heavy antique brass candlesticks and brass and irons and fender, about 1830.

—Two American Empire pier tables with marble tops and a large mahogany Empire secretary.

—One mahogany grandfather's clock, to be displayed in the Senate, which will be returned to its 1830 appearance.

—Two secretary-desks, two mahogany grandfather's clocks, two console or card tables, eight mahogany side chairs and 20 pairs of brass candlesticks for the House of Representatives.

"We are also looking for examples of ante-bellum silver made by Kentucky silversmiths," Floyd said. "Income tax deductions can be received through donations."

Julep cups, tea services and pitchers are the sort of silver Floyd is looking for.

"We are seeking some additional portraits and paintings by fine Kentucky artists, as well as oil portraits or busts of early governors," he said.

Busts and portraits of chief figures in the state's history, including Daniel Boone and Henry Clay, will be displayed in the Kentucky Hall of Fame, to be in the Old Capitol's former federal court room.

A Kentucky Art Gallery in the old court of appeals room will feature creations by outstanding artists who worked in Kentucky.

"We would like to get worthwhile paintings by such Kentucky artists as Matthew H. Jouett, Joseph Bush, Oliver Frazer, William Edward West, John Grimes, Frank Duvenceck and Edward Troye," Floyd said.

The completion date for the restoration and renovation of the Old Capitol and Annex buildings is the fall of 1974, he said.

"I should like to emphasize that when the architects walk out of the completed buildings," Floyd said, "the museum will not be set up in final form and will not be ready to open the next day. It will take a considerable amount of time to lay extensive carpeting, hang innumerable paintings, set up exhibits in the annex and in general prepare in the buildings for exhibition.

"I can't wait much longer for donations to trickle in," he emphasized. "We need to get certain things set as soon as possible so we know where we stand."

The executive committee of the Kentucky Historical Society has set three criteria for its acquisitions. THE OBJECT MUST:

- have political, social or cultural significance in the history of Kentucky.
- be an outstanding example of its kind which was used, or produced, in Kentucky.
- be necessary to the accurate interpretation of an exhibit relating to Kentucky history.

Floyd said that some furnishings will have to be special-ordered, including 96 desks and chairs for the House of Representatives and 38 desks and chairs for the Senate.

Furnishings may be donated by writing to Floyd at P. O. Box 791, Frankfort.

"Damn Yankees" Run To Begin Tonight at J W Amphitheatre

A carefree, tuneful musical comedy about a man who sells his soul to the Devil but then firmly resists the wiles of Satan's most bewitching temptress the attraction beginning a three-week run tonight (Wednesday) at the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre and to continue nightly, except Monday and Tuesday, until July 29.

This "Damn Yankees," which deviled New York theatre goers for more than two years with its modernised Faust story and its rousing set of song-hits led by the celebrated "Whatever Lola Wants" and "You Gotta Have Heart."

Written by George Abbott—co-author of such other notable musical comedy hits as "Where's Charley?", "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn," "The Pajama Game," and "New Girl In Town"—in collaboration with Douglass Wallop, the musical tells again the oft-told Faust legend, but this time amusingly and against a background of Big League baseball.

Allen Meek will be starring as a middle-aged man who is transformed into a strapping young baseball player able single-handedly to lift a listless baseball team into league leadership—as a result of a barter with Old Nick.

The show's switch from the classic Faust legend is that the deal with the Devil for regained youth is solely for diamond glory and not for the customary purpose of seducing an attractive Marguerite. When the rejuvenated fellow shows signs of backing out of his bargain, out of longing for the warm-hearted but middle-aged wife he had thoughtlessly left behind in his baseball enthusiasm, the Devil then tries to tighten his grip on the fellow's soul by tempting him with the usually effective bait. He calls on his most seductive handmaiden to foreclose the mortgage by using her most inflammatory tactics—but the show's hero stands firm.

Dennis Kreider will be seen as the enterprising and sinister buyer of souls, and Kathy Herring will be the sultry agent he assigns to do his devilish work. When she bewitchingly sings to her victim "Whatever Lola Wants" in the musical's big seduction scene—and then fails to get what Lola wants—Mephisto angrily forecloses on her and turns the fatal beauty back into the ugliness she had sold her soul to escape.

This slyly amusing story is told to the accompaniment of some of the decade's most popular song-hits. In addition to the "Lola" and "Heart" numbers, which led the Hit Parade for long periods, the tunes of "Damn Yankees" also include such now familiar melodies as "Goodbye, Old Girl," "Two Lost Souls," "A Little Brains, a Little Talent," "The Game," and "Near to You." These ditties are by the team of Richard Adler and Jerry Ross who also wrote the song-hits of "The Pajama Game."

SENIOR CAMP AWARDS

Several senior 4-H campers from Floyd county received special recognition for achievement in camp activities. Receiving awards in recreation were Pam Epling, Lance Blackburn, Karen Duff, Dalton Howard, Rita Duff.

Archery patch winners included Jeffery Martin, Steve Green, Karen Duff and Bobby Rowe.

Handicraft awards were presented to Jeff Jones, Pam Epling, Rita Duff, Johnny Peters and Connie Turnley.

AREA CLOTHING JUDGING

The area clothing judging training and contest will be held Friday, July 13, at 9:30 a.m. at the Clark school near West Prestonsburg. Any 4-H girl interested in this activity should contact the County Extension Office.

RECEIVES APPLICATIONS

Applications are being received by the Floyd County Community Action Program office for the position of homemaker service aide on the Senior Citizens' Program. Applicants must be age 55 or over, own and be able to operate an automobile, and meet the OEO poverty income guidelines. The CAP Office is located on the second floor of the courthouse here.

Makes Debut

Miss Jeannette Mont'e Waddell, daughter of Major and Mrs. James W. Waddell, made her debut June 22 at the Officers' Club of Wright-Patterson Air Force Base. Miss Waddell was presented by her father to General and Mrs. Jack J. Catton at the 1973 Presentation Ball. General Catton is commander of the Air Force Logistics Command.

Miss Waddell graduated with the class of 1973 of Stebbins High School, Dayton, Ohio, and will be enrolled as a pre-med student at Wright-State University for the fall term.

The month of June was filled with a variety of parties honoring the 21 Wright-Patterson debs, including a formal tea by Mrs. Catton and a punch party by Mrs. Irby B. Jarvis, wife of Brigadier General Irby B. Jarvis, Wright-Patterson base commander. Miss Waddell shared the honors with Miss Martha Driessnack, Miss Louise Richardson and Miss Nancy Spruill at a Taco party hosted by their parents. The presentation ball was opened with the formal presentation and bows, the grand march, and the presentation of the debs' roses to their mothers. Then the fathers claimed the first dance before surrendering their daughters to their primary escorts, cadets from the Air Force Academy.

Miss Waddell is the paternal granddaughter of Mrs. James Waddell of Miamisburg, Ohio, and her maternal grandmother is Katherine Stratton, of Banner.

Mountain Manor Notes

Activities promoted at Mountain Manor Nursing Home here for the benefit of patients are varied.

On Mother's Day flowers were presented each female patient. These flowers were donated by Jenny Wiley Florist and Allen's Florist.

On Father's Day baskets of fruit were made for all the men patients.

Patients who are able to come to the dining room are brought out each day for a time of playing games, singing religious songs and a time of prayer.

In June all employees enjoyed an Hawaiian Party. The patients enjoyed a party on the 4th of July—included in this event were decorations and refreshments—typical of the season.

Patients are always remembered on their birthdays with a birthday cake.

Mrs. Eleanor Robinson administrator invites the public to visit the rest home and its patients.

NOTICE

Brenda Johnson, Weeksbury, Ky. has applied with the Floyd County Court for a license to operate a place of entertainment, Johnson's Drive-In at Weeksbury.

C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON
Floyd County Court Clerk

James R. Yocom, Commissioner of Labor, has named a 15-member task force to investigate problems in the black lung program. To be studied are attorney's fees charged in filing black lung claims, and the backlog of Workmen's Compensation Board cases dealing with the miners' disease.

Building Bids Opened Monday

Bids from individuals or firms seeking a contract to provide housing for a Social Security office were received and opened at 4 p.m. Monday in Atlanta. The bids originated in both Prestonsburg and Paintsville, and the building may be located in either town or along US 23 between the two county-seats.

It is expected that from 30 to 45 days will pass before a contract is accepted and information concerning the bids is made public. "We must negotiate each and every offer received before deciding which to accept," an official said.

The bid specifications called for at least 4,000 square feet of first floor office. The new office will serve an estimated 16,000 Social Security beneficiaries in Floyd, Johnson, Martin and Magoffin counties. In addition, the proposed facility, which specifications say must be ready for occupancy by Dec. 1, will process about 3,500 black lung claims.

HEREF ROM FLORIDA

Mr. and Mrs. Elson Kendrick, of Panama City, Fla., are visiting relatives in Prestonsburg and vicinity this week.

Perkins, Dent Slate Second 'Lung' Hearing

Congressmen Carl D. Perkins of Kentucky and John H. Dent of Pennsylvania announced that the second phase of the hearings on black lung legislation will begin July 11, in Washington.

The first phase of the hearings was held at Allen Central High School at Eastern this county, June 23, when more than 1,000 miners and their families appeared to testify on eligibility problems.

Representative Dent is chairman of the General Subcommittee on Labor, which will hold the hearings. Representative Perkins is chairman of the full Education and Labor Committee, and these committees produced the black lung legislation which now exists.

James Yocom, Kentucky commissioner of labor, will testify, July 11, followed by industry representatives. Governors Milton Shapp of Pennsylvania, Linwood Holton of Virginia, and Arch A. Moore of West Virginia have been invited to testify July 17.

Congressman Perkins has introduced a bill which would continue federal administration of the black lung program for two additional years, instead of turning it over to the states.

"This program should be kept under Social Security, where it now is, for two more years, so that thousands and thousands of people who believe they have been unjustly denied benefits can have their cases reviewed, and get a determination," Representative Perkins said.

"We need two more years to get the program—which has helped so many people—in good shape to be turned over to the states, because the states just are not equipped to handle it now," Perkins added.

Fund Being Raised To Tot in Battle Against Leukemia

Relatives and friends of four-year-old Regina Rae Hughes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hughes, of Allen, who has leukemia and must be treated at the University of Kentucky Medical Center at Lexington for an indefinite period, are joining in subscribing funds to help defray costs.

Persons who desire to contribute to the fund should send donations to Mrs. Tommy May, Box 328, Allen, Ky., or to the Regina Rae Fund, care of The Bank Josephine at Allen or Prestonsburg.

May's Dairy Freeze of Allen is donating all ice cream product sales Friday, July 13, to the Regina Rae Hughes Fund. All friends are asked to help promote this day as these sales will help defray costs of treatments for the child.
