PSC Approves Sale Of Hazard Gas Co.
The Public Service Commission has approved the sale of the Hazard Gas Co. facilities to the City of Hazard for $325,000.

The PSC dismissed a case involving alleged excessive gas leakage from company lines. By state law, city-owned utilities are not under PSC jurisdiction. The leakage was one reason the PSC last April refused to approve a rate increase for Hazard Gas. However, company president Glenn Spradlin, of Martin, said the company could not afford to repair the leaks without an increase. Spradlin blamed the company's ensuing financial problems on the PSC's rejection of the rate hike.

Revival Continues At Baptist Church

The revival which began Monday evening at Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church will continue through Sunday night, and community-wide attendance was being sought by the pastor and congregation. The evangelist for the daily services, which are held at 7 p.m., is the Rev. John Huffman, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Mayfield, Ky. The Mayfield minister is widely known in the Southern Baptist Convention as both pastor and evangelist. Soloists during the week-long meeting will be Bill and Anna Keith, of Bowling Green. In addition to special music by Mr. and Mrs. Keith, the music program by the church choir will be led by Gus Kalos.

The 3,000 miles of highway planned, more than 900 miles are now in use and about 1,200 more are in engineering and construction stages. For example, highways built by the ARC now connect Campton and Whitesburg, Louisiana and Prestonsburg, Middlesboro and Harlan.

3. Modern public services and facilities. With the help of ARC funds and its effect on federal funding agencies, an improved network of water and sewage treatment facilities, health services and other public service projects has been delivered, Whisman said.
4. Vocational and technical schools. "ARC has spent well over $200 million on approximately 400 vocational education facilities and equipment throughout the region," he said, noting that the ultimate goal is to provide job training for as many people as possible. A more direct concentration on jobs, incomes and living standards will be undertaken in coming years, Whisman said, with public programs specifically designed to meet these needs.

He noted that the energy crisis will have a profound impact on Appalachia, as the region's vast coal reserves hold the potential for both great economic benefits as well as land exploitation. But, he added, "we are in a new era where purely economic strategies increasingly include attention to conservation and overall development perspectives." ARC had no cohesive answers to some of the more pressing questions asked at the May Lodge meeting. Such as, where was ARC when homes were sliding in mud off of Sanctified Hill in Harlan county? Wasn't ARC an organization formed to deal with a region's most hurtful needs? Not necessarily, Mr. Whisman had to answer. Houses were slipping to destruction down that hill in Cumberland, but the ARC had no housing money, Whisman explained. The hill's best bet was to be declared a disaster area, but the ARC couldn't have helped there, either, because it had no disaster money. The one way the ARC might have plunged into the act was for Sanctified Hill to have been declared a "recreation area," the ARC spokesman said. Dr. William C. Hambley, mayor of Pikeville, suggested that housing is the most dire need of Appalachia and that the region has no easy way to get housing funds. And what about the jobs that could be handled by older, less skilled Appalachian residents? The question was asked by Dr. Paul T. Brizendine, a Louisiana physician.

Two other murder cases, those of Greenberry Tackett and Richard Tackett, may be heard during the term. Two others may be dismissed. Juries have failed to agree in two earlier trials of Carlos Johnson, who was charged with the slaying of Roy Dean Ray. A third trial may be considered fruitless and a waste of time. In the other case William Howard Nelson was named in a grand jury indictment in the death of his sister, but this case is probably headed for dismissal. Trial of Bobby Workman, who has been accused of the slaying five years ago of James Chaffins on Arkansas Creek, may depend upon the success of efforts to extradite the defendant from Michigan, where he now resides. Trials of Eddie Jones and John Martin, charged with the slayings of Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Conley and James Clayton Conley, were shifted on charge of venue to Pike county, but new indictments which included Agnel Jones, father of Eddie Jones, remain in court here.

News comes out of Frankfort telling of a special legislative interim committee's study of a proposal to help put vineyards on Eastern Kentucky hillsides with wineries nearby to convert the fruit of the vine into wine. It's proposed that these wineries would be permitted to bottle and sell, at both retail and wholesale, their products. Wonder what they'll do for the fellow with a small patch of hillside corn?

CAUSE FOR ARMAGEDDON?
Oil has always loomed large in human consciousness. And it has always been a part of Biblical lands. Time was when the oil from the olive trees signified blessing and honor. The heads of kings were anointed with it. The Psalmist, with an inspired trust, sang, "Thou anointest my head with oil." Today the same land produces from beneath its uninviting soil an oil on which civilization depends, and for which civilization may be willing to become uncivilized. It is needed not only to move vehicles for peaceful purposes but also to propel tanks and planes and other instruments of war. If anybody has ever wondered how Armageddon could be fought over such a worthless part of the world, the question is now pretty well answered.

Shoe-on-the-other-foot dept.—The U. S. Labor Department recently inspected an 11-story building in downtown Washington. The two-day check turned up more than 300 "hazardous conditions" in the building. Who occupies the building? Printers who have been exposed to inspections by the government agency will be delighted to know the tenant is the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), which not long ago penalized a Baltimore printer for not having split toilet seats in order to conform with OSHA code.

in increasingly short supply and industries, especially metals companies, might be lured to locate near a stable supply of synthetic gas, Haywood said. This concept, if successful in Pike county, could provide Kentucky with a decided national edge in attracting industrial prospects, Haywood said. The study, by Battelle Memorial Institute of Cleveland, is expected to take nine months. If the project is proved feasible, a $1 million-to-$4 million plant to convert coal to gas could be completed within two years from now, Haywood said.

Jim Hammond, attorney for Salisbury, apologized to the court for his failure to be present on the original examining trial date, Oct. 29, but explained that when he found he could not be present he had arranged with Richard E. Fitzpatrick, attorney here, to represent Salisbury. Judge Stumbo said Mr. Fitzpatrick had appeared for Salisbury. The judge said, however, that since Fitzpatrick is juvenile judge by his appointment he did not think it was proper for him to represent the defendant in his court.

Four Arrested For Marijuana

Four men arrested Sunday night were charged with possession of marijuana. Bobby Bryant, Jackie Reed and Elmer Hall, all of Wayland, were charged after Constable Bob Hackworth and Magistrate Kenneth Roberts stopped Hall's car in which the three were riding, near Allen. Hall was also charged with driving under the influence of drugs. The three are set for trial, November 9.

Checking a disturbance at the home of Hawley Daniel Scott in the Goble-Roberts Addition here, Deputy Sheriffs Doug Lewis, Linzie Hunt, Ray Reynolds and Sherman Williams found a "marijuana party" in progress and arrested Scott on a charge of possession of marijuana. A small quantity of "grass" was confiscated. Scott was booked to Magistrate Bill Wells' court.

A raid on the premises of the former Dewey Lake Association building on the Lake road by Sheriff Joe W. Lewis and Deputies Green Slone, Doug Lewis, J. D. Martin, Linzie Hunt and Ray Reynolds resulted in the arrest of Freddie Williams on a charge of possession of alcoholic beverages. Ten cases of beer were seized in the raid, and Williams later executed bond.

Louisa Hospital Dedicated Sunday

The new Louisa Community Hospital was dedicated Sunday in ceremonies that featured an address by television personality Art Linkletter, and a tour of the 3-story, 90-bed hospital by hundreds of area residents.

Mr. Linkletter, who viewed the facility before the dedication program, praised the quality of the building and its equipment and what he described as the warm, friendly attitude of the hospital's people.

"The hospital is really a gem, and the people who made it and those here who are going to be running it will have something extra, that most don't have. That is care, compassion, a feel for human beings," he told the guests.

Smiley W. Westerford, Jr., administrator of the new hospital, was master of ceremonies. Mayor A. B. Richards, M.D., accepted a symbolic key to the new facility from Joseph C. Greene, executive vice president of Humana, the Louisville, Ky.-based hospital company.

Construction of the steel and brick building was started in January, 1973. Every patient room has individually controlled heating and cooling; electrically operated beds; piped in oxygen and vacuum; voice communication with the nursing station; full bathroom facilities, including shower; telephone and color television.

There are two operating rooms; obstetrical facilities; two X-ray rooms; a cystoscopic procedures room, emergency department and a full range of related ancillary facilities for full medical-surgical care.

The hospital will serve patients principally from Lawrence and Martin counties in Kentucky and Wayne county, West Virginia.

Louisa General Hospital will close when the new facility begins accepting patients later this month.

Grant of $9,000 Made for Aide To Prosecutor

The Floyd County Commonwealth Attorney's office has been awarded $9,000 under an anti-crime grant announced last week by Governor Wendell H. Ford.

Ford said the money will be used to hire one district detective to assist the commonwealth attorney in the investigation and preparation for trial of criminal cases arising in the district.

Of the total amount awarded, $6,750 will be paid out of federal money made available through the Kentucky Crime Commission (KCC) by the U. S. Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA). The remainder will be paid by the Floyd fiscal court.

In all, slightly over $4.1 million in grants were announced by the governor. The grants were financed by $3,344,319.48 in LEAA funds, plus an additional $787,026 in state and local matching money.

Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo said Saturday the grant and guidelines have not developed to the point of employing a detective.

Pupil Cost Unit Slates Hearing

Frankfort, Ky.—The Pupil Cost Unit Subcommittee of the Interim Committee on Education is reviewing legislation that has changed the Minimum Foundation Program's method of funding local school districts to the weighted pupil concept. An open hearing will be held at 1 p.m. Nov. 13 at the Millard Vocational School at Pikeville.

The group will meet at 11 a.m. at the Pikeville Motel, where a panel discussion of the following topics will be held:

1. What is our present dropout rate?
2. How has this varied over the past 10 years?
3. Have our vocational education programs and programs for exceptional children increased our holding power?
4. Is there data on cultural deprivation in Kentucky and to what degree should this be considered an exceptionality?

Sen. Thomas Ward, chairman of the subcommittee, will be moderator of the panel discussion. Panelists will be Rep. Clayton Little, State Superintendent of Public Instruction Dr. Lyman Ginger, James Melton and Arnold Roberts.

After lunch at the Pikeville Motel, the group will go to the Millard Vocational School where a tour will be conducted from 1 to 3 p.m. Dr. Carl Lamar and Lynn Tackett will discuss vocational education and the pupil cost unit concept.

(Adv.-It.)

To the Many Friends Of the Town Branch Church:

The following notice was published in the Floyd County Times and signed by a man calling himself Rev. Troy Shepherd. "TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

"This is to notify you that by a vote of the Fellowship Church of God Conference the Town Branch Church and Ted Nelson have been expelled from said conference."

"REV. TROY SHEPHERD"

The plain truth of the whole matter is that Mr. Shepherd was dismissed from membership of the Town Branch Church for disorderly conduct—namely, fighting in the church house to the extent of hitting the Sunday School teacher in the face with his Bible. The church voted not to letter up any more with the Baptist Fellowship Church of God on account of the bad conduct of Mr. Shepherd and if Mr. Shepherd wishes to continue this you can look for more complete details to follow.

The slender A-line skirt, highlighted with scattered lace appliques, extended into a full chapel train. Her short, tiered silk illusion veil was held by a pearl-studded lace Juliet

Aged Inn Remains Symbol of Old South

By ARTHUR B. LANDER JR.

Beaumont Inn in Harrodsburg, Kentucky's Bicentennial city, stands as a reminder that the earliest settlement west of the Alleghenies quickly developed into a genteel and cultured town, typical of the mid-19th-century Old South.

Known now for its quiet lodgings and fine, traditional Southern dining, Beaumont Inn was an educational center in the days when gentlemen and ladies might have passed away a summer's eve on the veranda of a white-columned mansion.

In Harrodsburg, the traditions of that era remain, today as much a part of the Kentucky lifestyle as Thoroughbred racing, burley tobacco and bourbon whiskey.

Beaumont Inn sits amidst monarch oak, walnut and maple trees. Built in 1845 on the site where Supreme Court Justice John Harlan spent his boyhood years (1834-41) in a log and frame home, the 24-room mansion was operated for 10 years as Greenville Institute, a school for young ladies. Later the school became known as Daughters College.

Under the direction of John Augustus Williams, former president of the University of Kentucky and founder of Christian College in Missouri, Daughters College operated until 1894.

Then Col. Thomas Smith, a veteran of the Army of the Confederate States of America, bought the school and renamed it Beaumont College. The school's motto was, "Exalted character graced by elegant culture and refined manners." The girls' institution offered "art, elocution, a conservatory of music and the strongest of literary courses in preparation for the best American and European schools."

Beaumont College closed in 1916. In 1919, the mansion was reopened as an inn, offering lodging and meals in an atmosphere of hospitality and elegance.

Beaumont Inn, now in its 55th year, is decorated with the furniture of its past eras. Antique love seats, grandfather clocks, rare old portraits and crystal chandeliers charm the old mansion, which was designated a Kentucky landmark by the Kentucky Heritage Commission in 1971.

The menu at Beaumont Inn features such Kentucky favorites as Southern-style fried chicken, country ham and red eye gravy, Kentucky Bibb lettuce, corn pudding and homemade bread. Luncheon is served at noon and 1:15 p.m. daily, dinner at 6:00 and 7:15 p.m. Reservations are preferred (phone 606-734-3381).

Accommodations are available in the inn itself or in the nearby Beaumont Goddard Hall and Beaumont Greystone. Rates range from $23 to $26 a night, including a Continental breakfast.

Berea Fetes Music In Old-Time Manner

Frankfort, Ky.—String music, hymn singing, ballads and songs are some of the activities highlighting Berea College's Traditional Music Celebration, November 8-10.

A square dance will begin the celebration Tuesday according to Lloyd Jones, director of the Berea College Appalachian Center. Music for the dance, beginning at 7:30 at the Berea Community School, will be provided by Lewis and Donna Lamb and the McLain Family, with John Bill Allen as caller.

Starting at 7:30 Friday night, old-time music will be played at the Phelps Stokes Chapel on the Berea College Campus. Square dancing will begin at 10:00 in the Dodge Gym.

Saturday will be devoted to informal workshops "in instruments, music and singing," Jones said. "And at 2 o'clock there will be a symposium on traditional music moderated by Dr. Gary English. Old-time music and early radio will be the principal topics discussed."

Sunday's activities will include a hymn sing at 9 a.m. and a performance by Jean Ritchie at 7:30 in the college chapel.

The Berea College's Traditional Music Celebration is sponsored by the National Endowment for the Arts.

Health Notes

However, the Wayland Outpost Clinic will be held on this day in the basement of the Wayland Methodist Church from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. with the following services being available, free of charge: TB skin tests, immunizations, diabetes screening, blood pressures and hemoglobins.

Also, there will be no nursing or clerical services on Tuesday and Wednesday, November 12 and 13. The nurses and clerks will be assisting in the heart clinic being held at the health department on these days.

Regular nursing and clerical services will resume Thursday, November 14, at 8 a.m.

Board Asks Fiscal Court To Advertise For School Bids

In an abbreviated meeting Saturday, the Floyd County Board of Education petitioned the Floyd fiscal court to advertise for bids on construction of the McDowell school physical education-lunchroom complex and approved to contract to reimburse the Mayo Vocational School for training afforded Floyd county students at Garth Vocational School.

The fiscal court may at its next meeting arrange for the advertising for the McDowell work which will cost an estimated $664,714. If an acceptable bid is received, bonds will be sold to finance the cost.

Various schools are being served by independent collectors of waste materials who haul the waste to the recently established county landfill on Turkey Creek. A dumping fee is charged at the landfill, and the board at its Saturday meeting voted to add this fee to the nominal charges made by truckers for haulage.

Personnel employed are: Mary Louise Hall as substitute teacher, Danny O'Quinn as replacement teacher at Osborne Elementary; Velva W. Hall as temporary replacement teacher for Charles Martin at Martin; Lizzie Lewis as custodian at Betsy Layne.

James Reed, of Drift, who is Floyd county's member of the Citizens' Advisory Council for the evaluation of the Minimum Foundation Program, reported to the board on the Council meeting held at Frankfort last month.

RETURN FROM FLORIDA

Opinions from Office of Attorney General

Frankfort, Ky.—Among opinions released last week from the office of Atty. Gen. Ed W. Hancock were the following:

John C. Vigor, Jr. of Bellefonte asked if the city of Bellefonte, a sixth class city, could install a traffic light on a state highway in front of the school for safety purposes without the consent of the Department of Transportation. The Attorney General's opinion said that the legislative intent of the related statutes is to grant to fiscal courts and cities the decision-making power regarding traffic control devices on highways in school zones. A city may install a device which meets bureau standards in a school zone whether or not the Bureau of Highways approves the installation.

Fulton Superintendent of City Schools L. C. Thomas told the Attorney General about a chiropractor who didn't think it was in the best interest of his step-children's health to receive immunizations against diphtheria, tetanus, etc., and made a written certification to that effect. The Office of the Attorney General said that the chiropractor's certification isn't legally significant to exempt him or his step-children from the provision of state law because a chiropractor isn't a physician within the meaning of the related statute. Even if he were qualified, his statement must say that the immunization would be injurious to the children's health.

William Boston of Louisville requested an opinion concerning the necessity for school districts to buy liability insurance that would protect students and the general public while on the school premises. The Attorney General replied that as school districts are agencies of the state, they enjoy sovereign immunity from liability. Further, it was his opinion that a school district cannot legally expend school funds for such a purpose without an enabling statute.

The Office of the Attorney General, in reply to Donnie L. Martin, assistant principal of Barbourville's Knox Central High School, said that it would be legal to announce over the local radio station the names of students absent from school each day. The Attorney General knew of no statute or constitutional right which would be violated by that practice.

According to the U. S. Department of Labor, in fiscal year 1973 nearly 335,000 apprentices received training and more than 50,000 completed their apprenticeships in registered programs during the year.

Lecture Series Fund Sought To Honor Late Joe Creason

A fund raising campaign is under way to establish a continuing lecture series at the University of Kentucky in memory of Joe Creason.

Creason was a widely-known columnist for The Courier-Journal who died suddenly last August.

"The Joe Creason Lecture Series" will bring to Kentucky and the campus of the University of Kentucky outstanding journalists to meet and talk with students, take part in seminars with other Kentucky journalists and speak before an assembly of students, faculty and the general public.

The lecture series will be made possible in part through a matching grant from the Bingham Enterprises Foundation of Kentucky, Inc. Each dollar donated by friends of Joe Creason will be matched by the Bingham Foundation up to $25,000. Revenue from the $50,000 will enable the series to continue for years to come.

The Bingham family publishes The Courier-Journal.

"Joe Creason served The Courier-Journal and the people of Kentucky with great distinction for many years. I am pleased that the Foundation UK alumni and friends will join to create this living memorial to Joe which will benefit Kentuckians whom he so dearly loved."

said Barry Bingham Jr., vice president of the Foundation and editor and publisher of The Courier-Journal.

Dr. Otis A. Singletary, president of UK, said: "Joe Creason was a superb newspaperman, but beyond that he was a charming, considerate and wonderfully warm man. This lecture series will be a fitting tribute to a great Kentuckian who served this University so well."

Friends of Joe Creason are asked to send their gifts to the Office of Development, Room 204, Administration Bldg., University of Kentucky, Lexington, Ky. 40506. Checks should be made payable to the University of Kentucky, and all gifts are tax deductible.

Seventh District Clubwomen In 56th Annual Meet at Park

From left, Mrs. W. T. Hatcher, Hindman, a charter member of the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club and the oldest clubwoman present at the 56th annual Seventh district meeting of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Donald W. Dammert, president, K.F.W.C., and Mrs. J. C. Wells, president, Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club, host club for the annual meeting.

Clubwomen of the Seventh district came together Saturday, October 26, at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, to hold the 56th annual district meeting of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, with the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club as host. The meeting, presided over by Mrs. F. G. Frazier, district governor, saw the largest gathering of recent years, a total of 136 from 19 clubs. There are 20 clubs in the district.

Mrs. Donald W. Dammert, president of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, followed the Kentucky Federation's Bicentennial theme, "Ring the Bells of Freedom," in the principal address of the meeting. She stressed that Americans must realize that the freedom won by the forefathers must be nourished and kept alive by each succeeding generation.

"Our forefathers," she continued, "warned against imbalance in the distribution of power, and for this reason they created the three separate branches of government. I think we have forgotten, as a nation, what made America great—that whatever greatness we still hold to is primarily due to what the people have done for themselves and not primarily what the government has done for the people." Mrs. Dammert related that James Russell Lowell when asked by a French historian how long he thought the American republic would last, answered, "as long as the ideals of the men who founded it are dominant." She urged club women to be "a watchguard for America, an instrument of peace and a unifying force for change wherever needed." She challenged her listeners "to examine what is good for America, to give new hope to our youth, to bring honesty and integrity forth in our government by demanding the best that is in our lawmakers and demanding that they hold a firm line with our lawbreakers."

The Invocation was given by the Rev. Floyd Tackett, of the Wayland Methodist Church. The Pledge of Allegiance was led by Mrs. S. M. Martin, of the host club. Mrs. J. Crittenden Wells, president of the host club, gave the welcome, with a response by Mrs. Tommy G. Frazier, of the Magoffin County Junior Woman's Club. Mrs. Carolyn Puckett, of Wayland, sang "America, the Beautiful," accompanied by Miss Kim Tackett, also of Wayland, at the piano.

Federation dignitaries present besides Mrs. Dammert and Mrs. Frazier were Miss Chloe Gifford, Lexington, past General Federation and Kentucky Federation president, and presently an honorary Seventh district member; Mrs.

State Asks Public, How Wild Is Wild?

By MARVAGAY
Frankfort, Ky.—State government wants suggestions on how it should manage its wild rivers system.

The division of special programs in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection is working on a long range management plan for the wild rivers. "But," said Tommy Reed, division director, "there are some very complicated issues which must be resolved, and we're not sure what should be done. So, we're seeking suggestions from the public."

"We're not running a popularity contest," added Reed. "There are certain things the law says we must do. We want to know what the public thinks we should do."

According to the Wild Rivers Act of 1972, designated rivers must be preserved in their primitive state. That includes the land which extends 2,500 feet from the center of the stream or to the visual horizon, whichever is closer.

Wild rivers designated by the state legislature include parts of eight streams—the Cumberland River, Red River, Rockcastle River, Rock Creek, Green River and the Big South Fork, Little South Fork and Martin's Fork of the Cumberland River.

According to Reed, the problem boils down to deciding how primitive the areas should be and how much money should be spent to keep them that way. "The law says we should leave these areas primitive," said Reed. "But, the law also says we must make the wild rivers accessible. And, within limits, the law says we may add certain conveniences such as foot trails, horse trails, camp sites and comfort stations. If all depends on how primitive you want to be."

Reed also wants suggestions on whether the state should purchase clear title to the surface and mineral rights of the land bordering the wild rivers, or if it should secure use easements instead. If use easements are obtained, the present land owners would keep title to the land, but the state would have control over its use.

"Both of these options present problems," said Reed. "Buying title to the surface land would cost around $1.5 million and the mineral rights would cost millions more. On the other hand, some people may not want to let the state purchase use easements and control their property."

To help decide how to handle the wild rivers, the division is asking for suggestions and answers to the following questions:

- Should we purchase fee simple (clear title to surface and mineral rights)?
- Should we attempt to secure use easements?
- Should we establish foot trails?
- Should we establish horse trails?
- Should we develop camp sites?
- Should we allow camping anywhere?
- Should we allow campfires?
- Should we build comfort stations?
- Should we close wild river segments for overuse?

Similar questionnaires have been mailed to civic groups throughout Kentucky. Signed responses must be returned by Nov. 16 to the Division of Special Programs, Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Landfill Plans Must Now Be Advertised

Frankfort, Ky.—"Coming Soon to Your Community—A New Sanitary Landfill."

That isn't exactly how it reads, but advertisements in newspapers throughout Kentucky are carrying that message. Since June 21, state law has required that anyone applying for a permit to construct a new landfill must advertise the proposal in a local newspaper.

For 30 days after the advertisement appears, anyone who doesn't want the landfill can request a hearing on the proposal. If a hearing request is made, the division of solid waste in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection will withhold the permit until the hearing has been held.

According to Sam Johnson, director of the division of solid waste, the new law gives Kentuckians a better opportunity to present their view to the division before the permit is approved. "Before this law," said Johnson, "many people wouldn't know a landfill was planned for a particular area until the bulldozers moved in. That meant most of the protests came after the fact and weren't as effective as they might have been."

"Also," Johnson continued, "before the new law took effect, we could hold the hearings in Frankfort instead of in the affected county. But, many people who might have participated in a local hearing couldn't travel all the way to Frankfort. Now, the hearings must be held in the affected county."

Johnson cautioned that the division can turn down an application only when technical evaluations of the site reveal that the landfill will not be designed and operated in a safe manner. "Anyone protesting a landfill application," said Johnson, "better get the technical facts. They'll need expert witnesses who can back up their arguments with information about ground water pollution levels, soil composition, engineering and other technical aspects."

Permit applications, which contain many technical details of a planned landfill, are available for review at the division's Frankfort office.

"Most important," added Johnson, "anyone who calls a hearing must realize we do not have the power to act as a zoning board. We can only evaluate technical aspects which affect the safety of the area. Any other arguments must be directed toward local agencies. We will not issue a permit until all local agencies have stated that the proposed landfill will not violate any local ordinances.

Since June, the division has received several requests for hearings. "But," said Johnson, "we haven't had any hearings yet because these applications haven't been completed. No decision is made until all information needed to evaluate the application is before the division, and local governments have indicated their approval."

During the past few years, the division has averaged about 50 applications to construct a landfill each year. Usually between 10 and 20 per cent are turned down. According to Johnson, most of those are for sites which were already owned by the person making the application. "Often," Johnson explained, "someone wants to use his own land, but the site doesn't satisfy departmental requirements. So, we have to deny it."

After a hearing, a permit denial or issuance can be appealed to a circuit court.

According to the U. S. Department of Labor, in fiscal year 1973 nearly 335,000 apprentices received training and more than 50,000 completed their apprenticeships in registered programs during the year.

If you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness seems to "run in the family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of your hair loss.

Many conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead you are beyond help. If you still have hair on the top of your head, don't put it off until it's all off. It doesn't make sense for anyone to let himself go bald, certainly not without seeing a National Hair and Scalp Consultant to see if we can help you.

Male pattern baldness is the cause of a great majority of cases of baldness and excessive hair loss, for which no method is effective. National's Hair consultant cannot help those who are slick bald after years of gradual hair loss.

Area Train Tunnels Make Rail History

By HELEN PRICE STACY

"Can you tell me how to get to the Wrigley Arch, 'I was asked recently, and for a moment it was a puzzling question. 'Oh, you must mean the Twin Tunnels just below Wrigley.'"

"No, it's a natural bridge across a road." So began an explanation of the Twin Tunnels, with some history thrown in about other tunnels that once were roadways for the region's most colorful huff-and-puff trains.

The tunnels of the Morehead and North Fork Railroad make a unique contribution to its history. "Poppin' Rock tunnel" was named because the rock popped when the 725-foot hole was being cut," Howard Perry of Craney once commented.

This tunnel eventually became part of the scenery at Cave Run Reservoir and according to engineers could be a passageway for boats when the lake is at certain pool stages.

It was big, tough Clack Mountain that slowed progress on the railroad, for the tunnel through the mountain, Poppin' Rock Tunnel and the Twin Tunnels all were cut with manpower, horses and mules.

When Clack Mountain Tunnel finally was opened, William W. Wrigley, the railroad's bookkeeper and passenger agent, decided to be the first person through. He tried on a mule named Maude, which balked at the entrance. However, when the first locomotive was ready to try the tracks, Wrigley was at the controls.

A short distance from Wrigley on Ky. 711 north are the Twin Tunnels, one cut for the railroad and the other to divert North Fork Creek in preference to building a trestle-bridge. Through the years these man-cut openings, weathered and softened became so covered with moss and plant life that they look like natural arches.

Not aware of the story behind the tunnels, it would be easy to believe they are natural bridges or arches. The tunnel for the creek is a long one, almost as long as Poppin' Rock, and in the stream diversion, loops of North Fork were left to themselves in removed water pockets or pools. These pools, rimmed by cliff and boulder, became popular for fishing spots and picnic grounds.

Hickman's hollow is a long expanse of lawn stretching from the road to the house and on behind to a hillside vale. On one side is a wooded hill marked by a grassed-over wagon trail; on the other side is Clack Mountain Tunnel, still long and dark, still exciting and interesting.

Mr. and Mrs. Clines Elliott, of East McDowell, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Joyce Ann Elliott, to Mr. Leslie Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arville Hamilton, also of East McDowell. Wedding plans are incomplete at this time.

Floyd Library Receives Grant

Charles Hinds, director of the state Department of Library and Archives, has announced that the department has mailed checks to Floyd and 32 other Kentucky counties to amortize the cost of local library construction and renovation projects.

The amount of Floyd county's yearly amortization grant from the Department of Library and Archives is $7,276.

The Department of Library and Archives began the amortization grant program in 1969 to help fill a gap left by cuts in the federal Library Services and Construction Act. The matching fund grants are given annually over 10-year periods.

Prior to the 1974 legislature, the 33 counties were receiving yearly grants totaling $389,984. Four new amortization projects are scheduled to be announced soon, according to Department of Library and Archives construction administrator John Lee West.

Music Theatre Set To Employ 1975 Producer

Dr. Ernest C. Holbrook, head of the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre, announced here last week that Thomas Cleary, a consultant with the American Theatre Association, Washington, D. C., will be employed as fulltime executive producer for the theatre's 1975 season.

Four productions instead of the usual three will be offered at the Jenny Wiley amphitheatre next season, which will begin in mid-June and continue till Labor Day.

Dr. Holbrook said arrangements are being made to show "Godspell," "My Fair Lady," "Brigadoon" and "Most Happy Fellow" next summer.

The Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre will be in its 10th year, next year. Dr. Holbrook said overall attendance during the 1974 season was up 60 to 70 percent, with a nightly "house of about 265.

"We ended up financially better off than last year but not quite at the break-even point," he said. Six rainouts hurt, and housing for the cast presented problems, he added.

RESOLUTION

The following resolution is hereby adopted and made part of the permanent record of the Prestonsburg Water & Gas Commission, the purpose of this resolution being to honor the memory of William O. Goebel, Sr., Chairman of the Commission, who passed away on September 13, 1974.

William O. Goebel, Sr. served as Commission and as Chairman of this Commission for a period of ten years, beginning November 19, 1964. He was a man of unquestionable integrity. He served the citizenry of Prestonsburg with loyalty and a dedication to service beyond that expected of a public official. His sound judgment and sense of fairness to all who had cause to appear before the commission met the highest ethical standards.

Be it therefore resolved that a plaque, bearing a tribute to his memory be designed and placed in the office of the Prestonsburg Water & Gas Commission as an inspiration to those who serve and will serve in the capacity of a public official; that they too, may adhere to the high quality of leadership essential for the well being and progress for the City of Prestonsburg.

Scenes from Last Week's Professional Motorcycle Hillclimb

Although "wheelies" executed by some riders are surefire crowd pleasers, such antics generally cut down on elapsed times.

Behind the dust kicked up by this cyclist's climb, some of the crowd watching the hillclimb can be seen.

Cosell Doesn't Know... Turkey Bowl Set Here Thanksgiving

Turkey Bowl VII, the annual example of gridiron mayhem, will once again be played here Thanksgiving Day when East meets West in a bone-crunching, head butting quest of the elusive pigskin. Battered Black Cat veterans and battle-scarred sandlot stars will square off on the usual field of mud and mire, well-soaked prior to play by the fire department. This cushion of muck hopefully provides a margin of safety for the combatants who play without benefit of pads and other protective gear. While Howard Cosell may not be all atwitter, East and West teams are in training with feathers ruffled for the coming fray. This year, tickets are being sold with turkeys to be given two fortunate fans at halftime. Proceeds will go toward establishing an annual scholarship fund for a senior football player to attend Prestonsburg Community College.

Cats Lose to Raceland; To End Season, Friday

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON
The battle of the leading scorers in Eastern Kentucky didn't quite materialize Friday night but the battle itself did. Prestonsburg was defeated by Raceland by a score of 16 to 13, although the cats led at halftime, of 13 to 0. Coming into the ball game, the Cats were 6 and 4 while Raceland was 8 and 2. Raceland's Terry Howell had scored 124 points and Prestonsburg's Danny Layne had 111. The only scoring by the two was Howell's two points on a run and Layne's one point on a kick. Layne, however, couldn't be blamed too much since he wasn't around in the second half to score. He was ejected from the game after he and a Raceland second stringer had a flareup, which may have been the game plan—to have Layne taken out for some reason or the other. The Cats not only lost Layne's scoring in the second half, but he has been one of the better defensive players. Greg Dixon hit Dennis Walker a 90-yard touchdown pass as Dennis Walker outran the entire Raceland defense. This gave Walker a total of 30 points. Greg Dixon, the sophomore quarterback, threw another touchdown pass, a 38-yarder, to Mike Calhoun, giving him a total of 18 points. Layne kicked the extra point. All Prestonsburg scoring came in the first quarter, Raceland scored two touchdowns in the second half and both times made two-point conversions. The Black Cats will close out their season Friday night when several seniors will bow out, and that same night Coach Eddie Radjunas will call it quits after four years here. Radjunas' record, which includes Friday night's loss to Raceland, is 25-17-2. The Cats, with a record now of 6-5, will face Paintsville (5-5) at Paintsville.

Coach Radjunas Calls It Quits After 4 Years

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON
Winding up his fourth year as head football coach at Prestonsburg High School, Ed Radjunas has announced that he has resigned, effective immediately after his team concludes the season Friday night against Paintsville. Radjunas will be returning to Ashland, where he was a starter for the Tomcat football team in high school, to take a position with Ashland Community College. "This is a tremendous opportunity for myself as far as advancement and my future are concerned," Radjunas said. "When the opportunity came I became selfish in thinking of myself and my family, for once. My resignation is effective Nov. 8 because I want to finish out the season. I have had a great relationship with these seniors. They came in when I did and I want to be with them for the final game. We're all bowing out together."

Allen Central Downs Millard

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON
The Allen Central Rebels opened their 1974-75 basketball season last Friday with a big win over Millard by a score of 84 to 71. This is the first year Coach Gene Frasure has had such an inexperienced club with not one starter or anyone on the roster who started in a varsity game last year. Allen Central's quickness and control of the boards was the difference. They were led in scoring by Rick Park, who cashed in with 24 points. Wayne Scarberry, with 20 points, was next. Brent Patton controlled the rebounds and scored 14 points. Coach Frasure substituted freely, due to foul trouble with most of his starters. Millard was led in scoring by Eddie Dorton with 16 points.

This was the first varsity girls' basketball game to be held in the 15th region. McDowell's Geri Grigsby took scoring honors for both teams as she scored 37 points, Pam Reid and Jamie Martin each had two points for the winners. The winners were led by Kathy Isaacs who racked up a total of 29 points. Next in scoring for Allen Central was Kim Hall with 8 points. The Allen Central Rebellettes are coached by Pat Murphy, while the McDowell Daredevillettes are coached by Bobby Moore.

The best way to know is come and try for yourself.

Our foods are fresh, we do not use any substitutes, such as frozen turkeys or instant potatoes, or additives to stretch the quantity and destroy the quality of the food, neither do we cut any corners. WAYLAND NEWS

AGING IS CLUB TOPIC

"Gerontology" was the subject for the October program meeting of the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club at the home of Mrs. Hansel Bradley, Garrett.

Program leader, Mrs. Marie Mullins, pointed out that aging has presented a new kind of national problem which is being discussed and studied by both the Senate Committee and the White House Conference on Aging. All are agreed there is no single cause for aging, but disease, breakdown of body tissue, the process of cell division—all are contributing factors.

The business session of the meeting was presided over by Mrs. J. C. Wells, club president. Mrs. James E. Martin read the Club Collect prior to the program followed by devotions by Mrs. J. T. Spillman. The meeting opened with the Pledge to Flag led by Mrs. Don Hughes.

Those present were Mrs. Rex Martin, Mrs. J. T. Spillman, Mrs. Charles Collins, Mrs. Joyce Stevens, Mrs. Felix Coburn, Mrs. Marcellous Dunfee, Mrs. Marie Mullins, Mrs. James A. Duff, Mrs. J. C. Wells, Mrs. Mervil Dixon, Mrs. John Reed, Mrs. James E. Martin, Mrs. Hansel Bradley, Mrs. Bobby Joe Castle, Mrs. Don Hughes, and Mrs. Otto Martin, members, and Mrs. Edward Sturgill, guest.

The next program meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Otto Martin with the Allen Central Music Director, Mrs. Linda Gay Barnett in charge of a musical program on November 18.

With total pledges of approximately $2,000, 40 persons joined the third annual March of Dimes Walk-a-thon Saturday at Jenny Wiley State Park. The 15-mile route began at the amphitheatre on to Dewey Dam and back.

Mary and Brian Sturgill were first to complete the walk. Mrs. Glen Brickley was the oldest successful walker. Others taking part in the trek which was sponsored by the Home Life Department of the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club are Mary Elste, Velva Gibson, Cindy Greer, Darlene Hill, Martha Elste, Leesa Cox, Kim Marcum, Deidre Music, Ann Flanery, Beverly May, Sandra and Angela Goble, Bernadine Wells, Jonell

A 10-speed bicycle will be awarded to the walker who collects pledges from the largest number of sponsors at 10 cents a mile or more. Pledges must be sent to Mrs. Janice Allen, Box 674, Prestonsburg, by Saturday, November 16.

County chairman for the walk was Hershel Joseph and co-ordinators were Dell Jagers and David Flanery. Members of the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad were on hand to minister to any walker who might need aid, and local merchants supplied refreshments which were served by members of the Prestonsburg Junior Woman's Club.

'Aerial Survey' On New KY 80 Begun in County

Secretary of Transportation Billy Paxton last week announced that 100 per cent state funding has been authorized in order to expedite the engineering study to determine the best corridor location for the construction of new KY 80 in Floyd, Knott and Perry counties.

The new KY 80 will begin at the junction of KY 15 near Hazard and extend northeast to a junction with US 23 near Water Gap in this county. New KY 80 will provide a higher capacity, safer and faster route between these points than the highway presently in use, Paxton said. "It will be a wider, straighter and less hilly road."

The corridor location study for the section between Lackey and Water Gap will be complete before the study for the section between Hazard and Lackey because there are fewer alternative corridors to consider on this portion of the road, Paxton said.

"The Department of Transportation's photogrammetry section will begin this week to take the aerial photos and gather other related data on the Lackey to Water Gap section," Paxton said. "The consulting firm which makes the study will be supplied with this information so they can go ahead with their design engineering studies."

Paxton also advised that it is anticipated that federal funds will be utilized to finance right-of-way acquisition and the actual construction of new KY 80.

"As plans for this project are developed," he said, "the public will be advised through the news media of public meetings and public hearings which will be held at various times."

"The public's input will be appreciated at these meetings or at any other time." Inquiries regarding the proposed highway project should be directed to Gail Mullins, District Engineer, Kentucky Bureau of Highways, P. O. Box 2468, Pikeville, Kentucky; or to James Stidham, District Engineer, Kentucky Bureau of Highways, P. O. Box 621, Jackson, Kentucky.

Grocery Prices Show Slight Drop During October In Pikeville

Food prices have dropped 1.6 percent in Pikeville this month according to market basket results computed by the economics department at Pikeville College.

In the first of what will be a monthly report of food prices for Pikeville consumers, Dona Burney, an instructor in economics at the college, said the total cost of twenty-seven food indicators were down primarily due to a seasonal factor in the price of potatoes and apples. The cost of the twenty-seven item market basket was $28.27 on September 2, while the price dropped to $27.82 on October 1.

Of the six food categories which comprised the items priced, two were down and four showed increases. Burney said the cost of meat went down five percent. The decline was attributed to a decrease in the cost of bacon and processed meats. Fresh produce showed the greatest decrease.

Climbing still higher over September prices were dairy products, bread and cereal, staples and canned fruits and vegetables. The economics professor said a seven percent increase in canned products could be attributed to the increased cost of metal used in the cans.

The results were computed using prices at three major supermarkets in the Pikeville area using items used in Kentucky urban market baskets.

Burney said, "I expected to see a major difference in the Pikeville food index as compared to the national index as Pikeville is considered a rural area and the national index is based on metropolitan areas; however, the surprise came when we found the decrease over September. Nationally, the prices have been increasing monthly as they did again this month."

"I believe," continued Burney, "the decrease stems from local supermarket sales and seasonal adjustments on produce items which we selected as indicators. For instance, we could buy ten pounds of potatoes for ninety-nine cents."

Burney predicted an increase next month due to the disappearance of seasonal factors.
