

Suit Names Phone Co., Contractor City Claims Street Damage Is $40,000 In Laying of Lines

The city of Prestonsburg and members of the Prestonsburg Water, Sewage and Natural Gas System last Wednesday filed suit to recover from South Central Bell Telephone Company and its contractor, the American General Corp., a total of $41,177.52 which plaintiffs claim as damages resulting from the laying of underground telephone lines here.

The city asks $40,000; alleging that the contractor failed to repair two streets as provided by the city's contract with the telephone company. The utilities commission claimed $1,177.52 damages to utility lines.

The streets listed as damaged and not repaired are Highland, between Dingus and Court streets; and Riverside, from Burchett to Club street.

Filed as Exhibit A was the contract between the city and the telephone company which provides that a special condition of the contract was that South Central Bell "binds itself to see to it that any damage done to the streets or any utility lines owned by the City of Prestonsburg shall be promptly repaired."

In another damage action Ballard Tussey, as father and next friend of Lisa Lynn Tussey, sued Kentucky West Virginia Gas Co., claiming a total of $15,500 damages. The child, Tussey alleges, was injured when she and other children were attracted to an oil pump stored in an open place at West Prestonsburg by the company. The suit asks $10,000 for permanent injury and disfigurement of her hand and arm, $5,000 for pain and suffering and $500 medical expenses.

(Reports of damage actions necessarily present only plaintiffs' versions of such cases.)

Ivel Postoffice Safe and Funds Taken by Thieves

Thieves who broke into the U. S. postoffice at Ivel after midnight last Friday hauled away the postoffice safe and its contents, including approximately $500 in cash and money orders.

Postal inspectors were investigating the robbery this week but clues were scarce. Wendell Stratton, postmaster, posted a $500 reward for recovery of the safe and its contents, which included some of the Strattons' belongings.

Mrs. Stratton told The Times entrance to the postoffice was effected through the adjoining Opal and Joe's Restaurant, three doors being pried open en route to the postal quarters. The safe, which weighs approximately 1,000 pounds, was removed via the front door of the postoffice.

Some cash was taken from the restaurant.

The only known clue was a fingerprint found on a jar containing pennies in the restaurant. It is believed the break was committed between 1 and 5 a.m. Saturday.

Heabeas Corpus Frees Haywood

A day after he had been jailed here and held "for investigation," Charles E. Haywood filed in circuit court for a writ of habeas corpus, and on the following day he was at liberty.

Haywood's petition, filed last Thursday, said a city police officer and a member of the county police force appeared at the home where he was staying on April 23 and requested that he accompany them to the courthouse. He claimed they had no warrant and that he was not arrested but was jailed, with no charge. The reason for his imprisonment, he alleged, was given as "hold for investigation." He added that on April 24 his wife was denied permission to see him.

The hearing set for Friday was brief, and he was released.

Sheriff Joe W. Lewis said Haywood was taken into custody at the request of Indiana authorities who said they were investigating a break into a residence. A teletype message later was received from the Indiana officer but this was not sufficient to hold the prisoner, Lewis said he was told by the court.

AGAIN, THE MIRACLE!

The miracle of spring has happened again, all gloomy predictions to the contrary. Wish I could bring back friends who came to these parts during the winter when only an artist's eye could see any beauty in the pattern of naked trees. Now the land is alive and blooming with redbud, dogwood, apple blossom, flowers of every kind and shade . . . Now we'll see if all these April showers have the traditional effect on the May flowers. Honestly, they seem a shade deeper already, but it may be that I've just learned at long last how to operate my bifocals.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Place names occasionally claim the wandering attention. Why was Lickskillet so named? And Rough and Tough, and Henclip and Puncheon, and so on? Somebody, an event or some thing usually supplied those picturesque names. Kentucky has its share of them, but Texas, I learn, may hold an edge in that department.

There's a hamlet down that way that is called Frog Not, and it attracts the attention of—shall we say?—souvenir hunters so much that the highway department has grown tired of replacing Frog Not signs at the approaches to the village. How-come it was so named?

Well, the story is, according to Frank X. Tolbert, the nearby waters of Pot Hook had more than its share of frogs, and the boys made captive certain of the bullfrog variety. But their teacher, who surely was a harsh, old spinster, forbade them the privilege boys once enjoyed of bringing to school their pet frogs.

Hence—Frog Not.

The writer does not tell how Bug Tussle, Jot 'em Down and Black Ankle earned their names, but maybe we'll be able to bear not knowing this, along with a lot of other things.

ADD Board Approves P'burg's Application

The application of the City of Prestonsburg for $306,025 in Housing and Urban Development (HUD) funds for improvements locally last week won approval of the Big Sandy Area Development District (Big Sandy ADD).

This approval cleared the way for the application to be submitted to HUD for final action.

With only $8 million available to all Kentucky city officials are not too optimistic about Prestonsburg's funding chances this year. They, however, expect to be in line for 1976 funding, if the 1975 funds are exhausted too early to be of help this year.

The application, which had been criticised by Joseph L. McCauley,

Citywide Promotion By Business Firms Slated Three Days

"The Great Outdoors" will be the theme May 8, 9 and 10 as the Prestonsburg Businessmen's Association sponsors a city-wide spring sales campaign.

The three-day sales promotion, to be held on Court street, will take the form of a recreation show with area businesses bringing boats, campers, trailers and other recreational vehicles, as well as displaying clothing and athletic equipment. The center of the downtown business district, which will be partially blocked to traffic, will serve as the display area.

Mike Blankenship, spokesman for the Prestonsburg Businessmen's Association, said, "In addition to encouraging downtown shopping, we want to bring attention to the many recreational activities that are available to the public in the Prestonsburg area."

Benches Just in Time for Spring

Visitors to the Floyd County courthouse can now relax, whittle, talk politics or just soak up the warm, Spring sunshine with the recent addition of two benches in front of the building.

Floyd Merchant Dies in Wreck

Harold Lloyd Patton, 44, well-known Auxier merchant, was killed and James Connors, 50, also of Auxier, a passenger in his automobile, was seriously injured last Thursday afternoon when Patton's car was rammed by a log truck on US 23, along a cliffside north of Combs Airport.

Patton died at the scene of the wreck of internal injuries and a deep throat laceration. Connors, who is in a Lexington hospital, is expected to recover. He suffered a broken arm, severe hip and leg injuries and head lacerations.

Albert Wiley, 32, of Lowmansville, driver of the unloaded truck, was charged by State Trooper Kenneth DeBoard with reckless homicide and was held under $2,000 bond for a Monday hearing before Johnson County Judge Ward. At his hearing he was placed under the same bond to answer to possible action of the next grand jury.

Trooper DeBoard said Wiley apparently was driving too fast under prevailing conditions and when he attempted to slow down as he overtook a line of traffic traveling north lost control of the truck. The truck hit the right shoulder of the highway, then cut into the left lane into the path of Patton's south-bound car.

Mr. Patton was a son of T. A. and Lucy Hall Patton, of Auxier, and had operated a store there for several years. Besides his parents, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Betty Wells Patton, and two daughters, Mrs. Pamela Joyce Richmond, of Van Lear, and Miss Suzanne Patton, of Auxier.

Couple Claims Discrimination By Dept. Heads

A Floyd county couple who claim they have been denied reimbursement for travel expenses to a Lexington hospital as Medicaid patients because they own an auto which they or members of their family can operate filed a class action in circuit court here Monday to declare unconstitutional and contrary to Social Security Act provisions such rejection of their claims.

The suit was filed by the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund on behalf of Robert Clifton, 66, and his wife, Maudie, 71. Together, they receive $239.40 a month from Social Security and Supplemental Security Income. In 1971 they bought a car for use in making almost monthly trips to the UK Medical Center at Lexington. Mr. Clifton drives.

Named as defendants are C. Leslie Dawson, secretary of the Department for Human Resources, and Gail Huecker, commissioner of the Bureau of Social Insurance.

Prior to going to the Medical Center last Sept. 10, Mrs. Clifton applied for payment of expenses, or reimbursement, and was denied because they owned their auto which they or a member of their family could drive.

The Cliftons contend that federal regulations require the Department for Human Resources and the Bureau of Social Insurance to provide all Medicaid recipients necessary transportation to

Salisbury Trial Set For May 7

Defendant's Illness Continues Last Case On Murder Docket

The last murder case expected to be brought to trial during the current circuit court term was removed from that status Monday morning when Gene Salisbury, charged with the slaying of Crit Butler, was granted a continuance.

His trial was set for May 7. Motion for a continuance was filed last week, and when the case was called Monday the court was told that Salisbury was ill and in a hospital.

Also continued was the trial of Diana Rector, who was indicted in the Butler slaying as an accessory after the fact. The charge against her will probably be dismissed for lack of evidence.

Four men charged with arson after a home in the Stanville areas was burned entered pleas of guilty last Thursday and each was sentenced to a two-year pen term. They are Albert Hunt, Graham Hurd, Jr., Bennie Lewis and Randy Stapleton.

The possession of illegal drugs charge against Albert Hunt was dismissed.

The fact that Dora Johnson, of the Melvin area, is 75 years old did not prevent a jury last Tuesday from holding her guilty of possessing alcoholic beverages for the purpose of sale, but it did help her to a lighter jail term than that of Bill See, who was her co-defendant on the liquor charge.

The jury set Mrs. Johnson's fine at $100 and recommended that her jail term be for 30 days "due to her age." She was also fined $100 but his jail term was set at

Student Art Fest At City Park Here To Begin Saturday

Final plans have been made for the Floyd County Student Art Festival which is to be held at Archer Park this weekend. The public may view the work of student-artists from schools throughout the county from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, and from 1 to 5 p.m., Sunday.

The festival is being sponsored by the Prestonsburg Branch, American Association of University Women, with the aim of offering encouragement to youth in this area who are artistically talented. The organization urges the public to attend this exhibit which is without charge.

Thursday, May 1, art work will be registered at Clark Hall, Archer Park, from 1 to 4 p.m. Thomas Whitaker, art instructor at Prestonsburg Community College, and his class will display the art.

Friday evening, a dinner in honor of the art festival judges will be held at the home of Mrs. John P. Francis. Judges for the event are: Dr. Billy J. Bryant, associate professor of art, Morehead State University; Mrs. Janice B. Ford, instructor of art at Pikeville College; Mrs. Connie S. Lyons, art teacher at Johnson Central High School, and Stephen Reynolds, art teacher at Sheldon Clark High School.

Meigs Dismisses Suit On Chair-Lift Pact

Judge Henry O. Meigs, Jr., of the Franklin circuit court, dismissed Monday the $1.7 million damage suit filed by Ed Music, of Prestonsburg, against the state after his contract to build and operate a chairlift at Cumberland Falls State Park had been cancelled and Governor Carroll had voided a subsequent settlement.

Judge Meigs held that the contract was illegal from the outset because the chairlift violated the Wild Rivers Act.

"While the sovereign (state) can waive immunity," he commented in dismissing the suit, "it can't ever waive the law and enter into an unlawful contract and be bound under it without legal remedy."

C. Kilmer Combs, attorney for Mr. Music, later said he will appeal the Meigs ruling to the Court of Appeals. He argued that Music had relied on the state Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection to tell where the Wild Rivers boundaries were and to administer the law.

"They had this map hidden, and there is no way he (Music) could have found it," Combs charges. He referred to the persons responsible for administering the law as "Carroll's clowns at Natural Resources."

The original contract with the Prestonsburg man was signed by Ewart Johnson, who at that time was commissioner of parks, and Charles Pryor, Jr., commissioner of finance.

Governor Ford later cancelled the contract on the grounds that it violated the Wild Rivers Act, and an agreed settlement awarding Music $127,100 was entered in Franklin circuit court five days before Ford left the governor's office last December.

But the new governor, Julian Carroll, stopped payment on the check and succeeded in having the agreed judgment set aside.

In Monday's hearing of the case Judge Meigs indicated that Music was partially at fault for not making sure the contract was valid.

Music claims he acted in good faith and paid for equipment and work which cost him at least the amount of the agreed judgment.

Hearing Scheduled May 6 On Water Regulations Changes

By JENNY PULLIAM
Frankfort, Ky.—The division of water resources in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection is changing its regulations.

The proposed regulations will be explained at a public discussion held by the Environmental Quality Commission at 9:30 a.m., May 1, in room G-2 of the Capital Plaza Tower in Frankfort. Then the division will hold public hearings on the proposed regulations on May 6 in room G-2 of the Capital Plaza Tower.

The first hearing, at 10 a.m., will cover the regulation establishing design criteria for dams and associated structures in Kentucky. The second hearing, at 1:30 p.m., will consider the regulation which is necessary to exempt certain dams and stream obstructions, proposed in conjunction with strip and deep mining, from being reviewed by two divisions in the environmental protection department. These would be reviewed either by the division of water resources or the division of reclamation.

A 1974 state law required that each state government agency readopt its regulations by July 1975. Any not readopted by that time will be dropped automatically.

Some of the current regulation changes resulted from modifications in state and federal laws or from changes in definitions, which the division must meet.

Revisions were made in the regulation relating to the design criteria of dams. A construction permit for a dam no longer must be filed with the county clerk in the county where the dam is being built.

Also, the regulations now state that a design engineer must supervise construction inspection. This measure should assure that responsibility for the structure is maintained.

The regulation which covers dams and other stream obstructions associated with coal mining has been broadened to include structures other than silt dams.

However, because the division of reclamation already reviews designs for dams, embankments, levees, dikes, bridges, fills and other stream obstructions related to surface or deep mining, those which do not present a potential hazard to life or property will be exempted from the water resources review. The exemption will avoid duplication of efforts.

A section of dam inventory, which is required by new federal and state laws, also has been added. Inspections must be made of all dams 25 feet or more in height or with an impounding capacity of more than 50 acre-feet.

Research Center's Leaders Participate In Two-Day Session

Gerontology training sessions for professionals in the field of aging and interested senior citizens in Eastern Kentucky were held April 16 and 17 at the Prestonsburg Community College. These sessions were sponsored by the Aging Program unit of the Kentucky Department for Human Resources and will be held throughout the state.

Lecturers were from the University of Kentucky's Sanders Brown Kentucky Research Center on Aging. They included: Mary Smith, psychiatrist at the University of Kentucky Medical Center; David Wekstein, acting director of the Center; Paul Kim and Kennard Wellous, both assistant professors at the University of Kentucky's College of Social Professions. The biological and emotional aspects of aging were discussed, as was the status of aging programs within the area, state and nation. The attendance for both days was 287.

Staff and approximately 67 senior citizens from the George P. Archer Senior Citizens Center participated in the two-day event.

EX-GOV. WENDELL FORD PEARL STRONG

Pearl Strong for State Senator

An ex-coal miner, professional baseball player, Miner's Memorial Hospital employee, Magistrate and State Senator.

As an ex-magistrate he knows the problems that the county judges and magistrates have with the county roads, especially in Eastern Kentucky. As State Senator and ex-coal miner he knows the problems of the coal miner. He was one of the four legislators that the 1970 "Ky. Black Lung Bill" was named for. As an ex-professional baseball player he knows the needs for athletic programs for young people. He worked for and got an increase in teachers' and school administration salaries and got more money put in elementary and secondary school programs.

As you probably read in the paper in 1970, he proposed a severance tax in a special committee and asked the Governor to consider it in a special session of the General Assembly that was called. His proposal was 15 cents per ton, with the coal producing counties getting 60 per cent of the coal tax money back. He was also on a special hearing committee and he asked the question of how much coal had been mined out of Eastern Kentucky. The coal representative stated that 5 per cent had been mined according to the Bureau of Mines in Washington, D. C. That means there's at least 4 or 5 hundred years of coal mining left in Eastern Kentucky, so it looks good for future generations. Don't get discouraged, fellow Eastern Kentuckians, the future looks good for years to come, and Pearl Strong would like to help as your State Senator to keep Eastern Kentucky one of the most prosperous places in the U.S. to live in.

Elect Pearl Strong for a sober and fulltime Senator on May 27, 1975. The Democrat.

More People Ask Coal Mine Tours

By JENNY PULLIAM

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Touring coal mines seems to have become popular recently—127 different groups toured Kentucky's coal mining operations during the last six months of 1974 and 11 groups toured Kentucky mines last March alone.

Those coal mine tourist groups averaging four to 10 people—students, teachers, legislators, federal Environmental Protection Agency employees and citizens concerned with coal mining. The groups visited the mines under the supervision of the division of reclamation in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

Probably the group to travel the greatest distance to visit the mines is the one from a Polish mining agency, scheduled for next month.

Recently, a group of students from Morehead State University toured some eastern Kentucky coal mines. With the cooperation of the Prestonsburg reclamation office, 10 agriculture students and their instructor, Robert Wolfe, toured mines in Boyd, Carter and Greenup counties.

"The land conservation class from Morehead requested a tour of a mine to see how it looked while it was being stripped," said Roger Gillum, one of the reclamation inspectors who guided the group. "They also wanted to see the different phases of reclamation as they are being done: backfilling, grading, and seeding."

Gillum said that the division staff discussed the seeds used for grasses, legumes and trees, and told them about seeding rates and the amount of fescue and fertilizer used in reclaiming a stripped area.

The group saw the operations of about six mines. Three of them—Grayson Coal Co., S.S.C. Coal Co. and Haney Brothers Clay Co.—are located in Carter County. The other mine sites, Westover Coal Corp., Boyd County Coal Co. and Mile Branch Coal Co. are situated in Boyd County.

"Although the division doesn't have regularly scheduled tours," said Gillum, "we will usually accommodate any group which requests a tour. We'll show them coal sites that are being mined, being reclaimed and already reclaimed."

The Waste Problem

Floyd county desperately needs a cleanup, and members of the fiscal court just as desperately need public support as an effort is being made to clean up the mess we all create daily.

Wishful thinking is not going to do the job. It will cost, and the price must be paid. If it develops that not enough residents of this county are willing to participate in the solid waste disposal program to make the work profitable, nobody is going to do the work.

But, even if this is done, the county will have the old problem with those who use the nearest stream as a "disposal." The Times has been asked by residents this question:

"Except for getting rid of our own waste, what good is the program going to do as long as my neighbors upstream dump their plastic jugs and all kinds of waste into the creek and let it wash down onto me, every time the stream gets outside its banks?"

The only answer to that question can be provided by the courts. This county is going to have to get tough. Those who will not pay for having such materials hauled away and buried must be made to pay to the courts. And without exception, any time they can be caught.

Most people don't want to bury themselves in their own garbage. Nobody wants to be buried beneath the other fellow's.

Letters to the Editor

In Support of Frasure

Recently the Floyd County Board of Education announced publicly that Gene Frasure had been removed from the position of basketball coach at Allen Central High School. No reason or explanation was given for this action.

Gene Frasure and I were classmates and have been friends for years. I have been proud of his record as coach at Wayland, Maytown and ACHS. I have admired his coolness from the bench and thrilled at his ability to guide a team from behind to win in the last seconds of a game. It is my opinion that this man places consistency, discipline, clean play and sportsmanship behaviour among his boys above winning. The team that strives to win but can lose with grace is a winning team. The boys are winners because they have learned one of life's lessons—we win some and we lose some—we cannot all be winners all of the time.

There are so many unanswered questions about this decision to take a man from the work he loves most, "building boys". How does a man "build boys?" I have never attended Coach Frasure's practice sessions so I cannot comment on the coach-boy relationship in private practice. But I can say from observing Coach Frasure in public he "builds boys" in the following ways:

He sets a clean moral example; his public image is above reproach; he believes in and practices discipline; he makes every effort to be consistent; he believes basketball is a team sport and teaches his boys to play for the team and not individual glory; he seeks no glory for himself; his behaviour from the bench is that of a man who has complete control of himself even when under pressure; he believes in and practices clean and fair play.

Will the persons behind the pressure placed on the Board of Education to remove Gene Frasure from his position as Coach at Allen Central High School be happy with any other man who might fill this position? I wonder.

providers of medical service. The defendants, however, have established a program of reimbursement which excludes them. On the other hand, it is pointed out, private auto reimbursement of 9 cents per mile and a $2 waiting fee are paid when circumstances require a non-family member to be hired to drive the auto of the Medicaid recipient or family.

The action, which asks both declaratory and injunctive relief, alleges the policy established by defendants is contrary to the Social Security Act and its implementation, and that it denies plaintiffs and members of their class equal protection of the laws as guaranteed by the Fourteenth Amendment to the U. S. Constitution and by Article III of the Kentucky Constitution.

Mr. McCauley pointed out that his review of the application was intended to show its weaknesses so that it could be changed before final application. He pointed out that he sent his review of the application to HUD but did not make it available to the newspaper.

The ADD board approved a $2,500 appropriation for planning the use of 10 acres of Prestonsburg Industrial Foundation land near Cliff as a public or private housing project.

No More Grumbling

We wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Morrison and Mr. and Mrs. John Tufts for the use of their water while we had none here in Wayland. I've never grumbled about the water any more after seeing on the news all those dying of thirst and hunger. We should thank God, for we do have springs of running water from our beautiful mountains. We live in a land of plenty and we aren't thankful enough.

ALL OVER BUT THE SHOUTING

This Poke Warden campaign, which closes today (Wednesday) at high noon, as they say, has drawn a pretty heavy vote from a rather vocal constituency. Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Minnesota, West Virginia and other states as well as our own have supplied either votes or comment. Some have attempted to vote by telephone, a matter which will be taken up with the election commissioners. There has been one write-in ballot, with a woman voting for her husband because he had brought home poke gathered as far away as Carter City, Grayson and Morehead and she had a feeling such a yen for the greens deserves one stout vote at the very least.

The editor of the Benson County Farmers Press at Minnewaukan, N. D. concluded an interesting letter last week along these lines:

"Ever since I've been receiving your paper, I've been intrigued by the numerous references to Poke Warden and Poke. The dictionary tells me it's a weed, the roots and berries of which are poisonous. What on earth is this stuff and what is its use?"

Mr. Webster proved himself to be a misanthrope by mentioning only the poisonous parts of the plant and neglecting to mention the edible. The proof that the leaf of the poke is not only non-poisonous but a boon to man after a long, hard winter is seen in the fact that we here in these parts are still up and walking around, even hunting more poke.

Red Cross Spends $162,250 On Kentucky Flood Relief

Robert Spangler, manager of the Kentucky Division American Red Cross, announced this week that Red Cross disaster services assisted 673 families in the 18-county area of the state affected by spring floods.

In its relief effort the Red Cross provided food, clothing, temporary housing, and emergency medical assistance costing $162,250.

The largest expenditures were in Whitley and Bell counties in Southeastern Kentucky and McCracken county in the western part of the state.

During the peak flooding period, the Red Cross sheltered 308 persons and fed an estimated 5,000 victims and relief workers.

In addition to local volunteers and Kentucky division staff, personnel from as far away as Florida, worked with governmental disaster recovery agencies and other private organizations to help individual families develop plans for meeting disaster-caused needs, according to Mr. Spangler.

The Kentucky Division manager emphasized that all Red Cross disaster relief to victims is an outright gift. The money that makes this assistance possible comes from contributions received during individual Red Cross fund drives and United Way campaigns.

Hunt for Shale Gas Could Skip Floyd Co.

Governor Rhodes of Ohio has interested the Appalachian Regional Commission in the quick-energy possibilities of shale natural gas which, he says, lies in rich volume in Kentucky, West Virginia, Ohio and Indiana.

But a gas company official here said last week that whatever comes of a new search, by new methods, for shale gas, it will mean little to Floyd county.

Floyd county's shale gas has already been fully developed and its possibilities exhausted, except for scattered small tracts, the industry spokesman said.

The ARC was sufficiently interested by Governor Rhodes' appeal for quick action to send its top energy experts to view a U. S. Energy Research and Development Administration project at Morgantown, W. Va.

There the potential of shale gas is getting thorough study. It was said here that the potentialities of slant drilling in order to get greater penetration of shale formations and heavier "fracking" and shooting of wells are getting particular attention in the Morgantown studies.

Although admittedly far from excited about Eastern Kentucky shale gas production, the source here said Floyd county has future possibilities in the Big Six and Clinton formations. Western Kentucky, he said, holds stronger promise of new shale gas production.

Rhodes told the meeting of the Appalachian Regional Commission that shale gas pools in Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia and Indiana could be tapped almost immediately to help gas-short industries in his and other states.

The natural gas, pumped for some purposes for more than 50 years, could be developed for commercial use with improved drilling methods, which scientists believe could be devised within a year, he said.

This is a fraction of the time that scientists estimate will be needed to develop other energy sources such as coal liquefaction or gasification, he said.

"We can't wait 10 years for them to research the sun or the wind," Rhodes told representatives of the 13 Appalachian states. "We in Ohio can't stand it that long. Unless we get gas soon we're going to have massive unemployment . . . We will lose our industry . . . We are talking about survival."

After listening to Rhodes' impassioned plea, the ARC, a federal-state development agency, voted to explore regional natural gas potential. The agency authorized spending up to $10,000 for a meeting of Appalachian governors on the matter.

The agency's immediate target will be to seek congressional authorization of research funds and to consider supporting a $21 million grant proposal that Rhodes intends to present to federal energy officials.

The grant claims that 1.6 million man-days were lost to Ohio workers laid off during the last five months due to natural gas shortages.

But just what impact this might have on Kentucky, which has large shale gas deposits, was unclear.

Gov. Julian Carroll, who met briefly with Rhodes, said Kentucky will continue to pursue efforts to develop coal, oil and gas reserves in the state.

Dr. Charles Haywood, Kentucky's ARC representative, said he believes there is "some potential" for shale gas use in gas-short areas of Central Kentucky.

He said Rhodes' "emphasis on a short term energy solution is well taken" and Kentucky will cooperate in exploring ways shale gas can be developed.

In other action, the ARC, which completed a three-day meeting in Lexington.

—Delayed action on beginning a major energy research effort until a special meeting is held on the matter.

—Approved a formula that will provide continued financing of Appalachian area development districts in Kentucky at about the same level they operated under last year.

—Approved a formula that will give Kentucky $758,000 in emergency federal job funds for the eastern part of the state.

Health Notes

By DONNA J. GRIFFITH

The Floyd County Health Department would like to remind all new parents that early immunizations protect the whole family as well as the child. Kentucky children are required by law to be immunized against whooping cough, polio, measles, lockjaw and diphtheria early in life, beginning at two months of age.

Although not required by law, rubella vaccine is highly recommended for children between the ages of one and approximately twelve years. A new combined vaccine can now give permanent protection against both measles and rubella in a single shot.

The health department urges all parents to check their records to make sure their children are up to date on all of their immunizations. You will be protecting your children by having them fully immunized against these serious childhood diseases.

An Open Letter To The People of Floyd County:

Although I have never before desired or sought political office, I am now seeking the Democratic nomination for State Representative of Floyd County, for never in my life have I seen so much to be done for our county through the legislature, with no one willing to do it. Do you realize that although millions of dollars were taken from this county by the coal severance tax last year, only a pauper's share was returned? Do you also realize that of the pauper's share returned, we are not allowed by law to spend any of this to build roads and bridges, educate our children, or even supply minimum fire and police protection for our homes? To me, the greatest shame that has ever befallen the people of Eastern Kentucky is the allowance of the exploitation of the God-given wealth of our region without Floyd County sharing in enough of this wealth to even supply the most fundamental government services. If you see fit to send me to the legislature, I will fight for all Floyd Countians welfare by seeking A RETURN OF 50 PCT. OF ALL THE SEVERANCE TAX collected from our county, free to be used:

1. For construction and maintenance of our county roads and bridges.
2. For construction, remodeling and maintenance of our children's schools.
3. To supplement our teachers salaries which are now totally inadequate.
4. To supply adequate police and fire protection to our citizens and their homes.

The foregoing are only a few of the things that may be accomplished by hardworking, earnest representation of Floyd County's interest, and this realization is what forces me to seek this office. I honestly feel that whom you decide to support in this race could prove to affect what type of county we have for years to come. Please consider what I say, and give me your support and vote. I will take that support and vote with me to Frankfort and repay it daily with hard work and dedication to your best interest and welfare.

7-1 Blackcat Golfers Fall to Pike Panthers

Playing without the services of their fourth man, the Prestonsburg Blackcats were nosed by only two strokes on Thursday, April 24, in a match with the Pikeville Panthers at the Green Meadows Country Club in Pikeville.

With teammate Jim Bill Frasure being the only member ever to play on the Pikeville course, the Blackcats' top men, John McCauley with a 39, Jim Bill Frasure with a 40, and Phil Green with a 41 were able to hold their own with the Panther's first three whose score totaled the same as the Blackcats.

Ken Necessary, playing his first game for the Cats, carded a respectable 46.

Not including two games forfeited by Johnson Central, the Blackcats presently hold a record of seven wins to one loss. They expect to avenge this loss when Pikeville comes to Jenny Wiley during the week of May 5 and the Cats have all five starters back in the lineup.

The Cats will wind up a busy week when they meet Russell, last year's Regional Champions, on Ponderosa in Ashland on Friday, May 2. Russell expected to be a strong contender again this year along with the Cats who are showing improvement as they advance through the season.

The Blackcats have played the Ponderosa course once this season when they defeated the Ashland Holy family team with Phil Green carding a 39, John McCauley a 41, Glen Franco a 46, and Eddie Ward a 62. Jim Bill Frasure, was absent for this game as a result of being on the High School senior trip.

Since Phil Greene will be absent for the Friday contest with Russell, only four men will make the trip to the Ashland course. These will be John McCauley, Jim Bill Frasure, Glenn Franko, and Ken Necessary. The Cats will return to their full strength beginning May 5.

Wilcox Escapes Second Rail Crossing Smashup

Deward (Bobby) Wilcox, of Bayes Branch, perhaps knows better than most that railroad crossings are dangerous. On April 13, last year, a tractor which he was driving hung up at the Bayes Branch crossing, and Wilcox barely contrived to get himself and a small boy clear before it was struck by a train.

Last Thursday night, Wilcox' truck stopped on the same crossing. Moments later, it was "totalled" by a train. Again, Wilcox escaped injury.

The tractor damage is the subject of a circuit court suit here in which Ursal Ray Wilcox, brother of Deward and owner of the tractor, asks $5,000 of the railway company.

Task Force Seeks to Upgrade Kentucky's Corrections System

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Upgrading Kentucky's correctional systems on state and local levels was discussed here Thursday by a special task force appointed to look at ways of achieving that goal.

A follow-up to a national commission which drew up more than 500 recommendations all states might follow to reduce crime mainly by cutting the recidivism rate (the number of ex-offenders returning to prison), the Kentucky group is not bound to adopt the national standards. Under the terms of a federal grant funding the group, the members are required, however, to study the proposals for possible inclusion in Kentucky's own criminal justice plan, according to State Justice Secretary Henri Mangeot.

During the next 18 months, the task force will study all areas of corrections, ranging from prisoners' rights to education and training of corrections personnel. At the end of this time, specific proposals will be written and submitted to the Kentucky Advisory Commission on Standards and Goals.

The corrections task force is one of five groups formed by the Justice Department to study and recommend improvements in all areas of criminal justice such as police, courts, juvenile delinquency and manpower.

Mangeot, who, by statute is also chairman of the advisory commission, said the meetings are "purposely going to be non-structured to promote free-flowing exchange of ideas and a no holds barred look at the criminal justice system."

Those attending Thursday's meeting, spent the day discussing ways to grasp the full scope of the problems faced by those involved in corrections—prisoners, public, courts and corrections officials.

The next scheduled meeting is in June. At that time, task force members will discuss the federal recommendations and their possible application to Kentucky.

SCHOOL SPORTS SUMMARY

The Maytown Wildcats' basketball season ended March, 1975 at the close of the Floyd county tournament in which they finished in fourth place. This has been a very busy and successful year for our school. School's record for the year is: 13 victories with 8 losses. The team competed in three tournaments, finishing second, third, and fourth. Boys earning all-tournament were: Phil Stone, Anthony Scott, Tom Hagans, Keith Harris, and Chris Stephens.

Our girls at Maytown have been great cheerleaders. They won two cheerleaders' trophies—one at the Wayland invitational and one at the Maytown invitational tournament. In addition to being leaders, they have been successful with their basketball club. They finished second in the Melvin invitational. Their records stands at 6 wins and 4 defeats. Tammy Martin and Trena Hensley were chosen for the all-tournament team.

Sportsmanship has been our aim throughout the year. We feel under the leadership of Ralph O'Quinn we have accomplished our objective.

The school would like to express appreciation to Danny Stevens for his services at our invitational tournament. The Maytown Fire Department was very helpful in managing the parking of automobiles.

Thanks to the entire community of Maytown for helping make the Maytown basketball program a success.

Mayor Proclaims Nursing Home Week

Mayor William O. Goebel, Jr. has proclaimed the week of May 11-18 as Nursing Home Week in Prestonsburg and is urging all citizens to visit nursing homes and participate in scheduled activities during the observance.

Eleanor Robinson, administrator of Mountain Manor Nursing Home here, said the purpose of this annual observance, Nursing Home Week, which begins on Mother's Day, is to honor the many residents and patients in long term care facilities, and to recognize the valuable service these facilities provide in the community.

National Nursing Home Week, sponsored by the American Health Care Association, is designed to focus attention on the needs of the convalescent patient, the aged and chronically ill and the quality of care provided by the long term care profession in Kentucky.

National Honorary Chairman for the week this year is well-known Hollywood celebrity Cesar Romero.

"Our facility will be conducting various activities each day, including open houses, and the public is invited to participate in this salute to our older citizens," Mrs. Robinson said.

"These activities are designed to arouse and involve the community's awareness of long term care residents' needs and the impressive range of rehabilitative service provided by quality nursing homes," she explained.

The Ky. Assoc. of Health Care Facilities, one of 50 state associations affiliated with the American Health Care Association, represents both proprietary and non-proprietary nursing homes.

And, sometimes a lot of years have to go by to really know how much one little word can mean. Prestonsburg merchants have put a lot of thought into selecting the perfect things to give. Autopsy Asked In Jones Death

An autopsy was performed Tuesday in an effort to determine the cause of the death of Everette Jones, 57, whose body was found late Monday afternoon near his home at McDowell after he had been missing since the preceding Saturday. There was no report on the autopsy findings, late Tuesday.

The body of the retired miner was found by members of his family in a small hollow on the hillside near McDowell, about 50 yards from his residence. A deep laceration extended along the right side of the victim's head. One of his shoes was found at the top of the elevation from which descent is made into the hollow, and Jones' camp was on the bank of the small stream. His face was submerged. No money was found on his person, it was said.

The death was investigated Monday night by State Detective Gary Rose, County Detective Sam Hale, Commonwealth's Attorney Harold J. Stumbo and County Attorney James R. Allen. The officials decided an autopsy should be made to determine if the death had resulted from foul play.

The victim was a son of the late Marion and Lucy Jones and was a native of Bevinville. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Verna Johnson Jones; one son, Ronald Dean Jones, of Morehead; a daughter, Pamela Lynn Jones, of Frankfort; five brothers and three sisters, Bart Jones, of Bevinville, Ballard, Curtis and Thomas Jones, all of Monticello, Ky., Edgar Jones, of McDowell, Mrs. Viola Turner and Mrs. Sarah Cooley, both of McDowell, and Mrs. Dorothy Bentley, East McDowell. He leaves one grandchild.

The body is at the Hall Brothers Funeral Home, and the funeral will be conducted there at 10 a.m. tomorrow (Thursday) by the Rev. Charlie Jones. Burial will be made in the Martin cemetery.

Mobile Home, RV Dealers Must Now Be Licensed

FRANKFORT, Ky.—State Fire Marshal Warren Southworth has signed the first "Kentucky Mobile Home or Recreational Vehicle Dealers License" to be issued in the state. Mobile home and recreational vehicle dealers in Kentucky will be issued the licenses under a program designed to insure that such vehicles meet minimum standards outlined in the National Fire Protection Association Code.

Mobile homes and recreational vehicles manufactured or sold in the state after March 12, 1975 must be in compliance with the code, according to Southworth's office.

The licenses will be issued under the "Mobile Home and Recreational Vehicle Program" set up by an act of the 1974 Legislature. The program is self-supporting, deriving its funds from the sale of seals and in licensing of manufacturers and dealers.

The state Fire Marshal's Office, a unit of the Department of Insurance in the Commonwealth's Public Protection and Regulation Cabinet, will be charged with enforcement of the program.

Inspectors for the program are given a 200-hour course covering the National Fire Protection Association Code and the National Building Code. They also complete a 60-hour course in manufactured housing inspection procedures.

State officials hope the program will reduce the incidence of mobile home and recreational vehicle fires in the Commonwealth.

David Group To Display Crafts at Ohio Show

The women at David Appalachian Crafts are particularly busy these days. Carefully packing many of the numerous and varied articles they have made painstakingly by hand over the past winter months, they are making preparation for the upcoming Cincinnati Appalachian Festival where their handiwork will be displayed and sold along with the wares of scores of other similar craft groups from all parts of the southern mountains.

The craft group, composed mainly of women from the David area, with some from other sections of Floyd county, has participated in the Cincinnati festival since its organization three years ago, and recently the group was especially recognized by the Appalachian Community Development Association of Cincinnati for the rapid growth and improvement in crafts at the craft center in such a short time.

Although not "officially" organized until 1972, it was in 1971 when Sister Mary Pineau, a former home economics teacher and staff member of St. Vincent's Mission at David, began teaching adult education sewing classes both at Prestonsburg Community College through the school's Community Services Program and in private homes in Drift and Wayland. After making some stuffed animals for gifts for their children, a few women found that there was an interest in the items and later several types of hot pads and pin cushions were made and sold. By the fall of 1972, a group was formed at David, meeting in Sister Mary's home, and within a few months the number of members had increased to the point where a building was needed. With donations from various sources, the women were able to renovate and move into the second floor of the David Child Care Center (the former swimming pool bath-house).

Now 40 persons are involved in the production of crafts. These include residents of Drift, who now use the Presbyterian Church building there, a small group in Magoffin county, a group of women from the Dixie subdivision of Goble-Roberts Addition here, as well as the David area craftswomen.

Articles produced by the group are, for the most part, traditional mountain pieces, with most of which the craftswomen were already familiar. "We tried to choose crafts native to this area," said Sister Mary. "I really wasn't familiar with local crafts, so the ideas and designs belong primarily to the ladies." Patchwork, for example, is emphasized and utilized in pincushions, placemats, square and hexagonal pillows as well as the traditional quilts. "I like to have the ideas come from the women," Sister Mary emphasized. She and Jeanne Lyttle serve as teachers and organizers, and recently Rosie Reffitt, of Risner, joined the group, teaching patchwork and quilting.

Sister Mary explained that about half of the women supplement their income from the crafts while others participate for their own enjoyment.

Ten per cent of each item sold is used for the operation of the center. Most of the expenses are covered, however, by donations from area residents and people who have heard of the center elsewhere. "We've had some pretty close calls as far as money is concerned," Sister Mary said, "but we always make it. And we're a sort of faith group, too, so we depend on God's help to continue operating."

The craft group will not operate this summer because, as Sister Mary explained, "the kids are home and most of the ladies have gardens."

Handmade products made by the group include fabric flowers, woven belts and bookmarks, sunbonnets, clutch balls, calico spice hangings and quilted coasters in addition to the patchwork items.

Products of the craft group will be on display at the Cincinnati festival, May 8 through 11. Eighty booths of crafts will be featured with demonstrations of quilting, whittling, pottery-making, spinning, weaving and other traditional mountain crafts. Mountain music and other entertainment will be featured each day.

Consumer Comments

By Atty. Gen. Hancock

If you're thinking about buying an air conditioner to help you beat the heat this summer, be "cool" when you buy it.

The first question is whether you want a room air conditioning unit or a central air conditioning system. Room units usually require little installation and some are even portable. Central air conditioning systems include an air conditioning unit and a means of spreading the air throughout the house, usually by ducts.

For a room air conditioner, you want a highly efficient unit that gives you quick cooling capacity. An undersized unit will never be able to cool properly; an oversized unit will leave a room clammy and waste your dollars and everyone's energy. An air conditioner's capacity for cooling is measured in British thermal units (called BTU's), which measure the amount of heat which can be removed in an hour.

To measure efficiency, divide an air conditioner's cooling capacity (in BTU's) by the power (in watts) required to run it. This gives you what is called "energy efficiency ratio." The higher this ratio the better. A high energy efficiency means more cooling capacity for each unit of power input.

There are two basic types of central air conditioning systems. A split system actually splits up the equipment, with some inside the home and some (the condensing unit) outside. A single package system combines all elements of the system and includes an air exhaust connection with the outdoors.

The cost of central air conditioning installation and equipment will differ according to the size and kind of house involved. If a contractor has to change existing ducts or add insulation or wiring, the additional work and materials will add to the cost. In addition, the larger the house, the greater the cooling capacity needed.

If you are looking for a contractor, check with friends and neighbors and the Better Business Bureau. You need a reliable contractor who provides good service. Ask at least two or three contractors for written estimates, describing the system to be installed, and compare them by cost, warranties and equipment.

There aren't enough words to express our thanks to those who helped us so much in our time of sorrow. To everyone who sent flowers, food and spent many hours at church and home. To all warm-hearted members of Joppa Regular Baptist Church, and ministers who preached of being surrounded by love, in a home of love. What a wonderful feeling in a time of sadness. God bless you all, and Forest McCown for his consoling prayers.

Ky. Health Planning Council Approves Some Area Projects

FRANKFORT, Ky.—During its April meeting the Kentucky Comprehensive Health Planning Council reviewed applications from Eastern Kentucky health care agencies. The council, in the Department for Human Resources (DHR), has the responsibility of assuring that health services and facilities are distributed evenly throughout the Commonwealth, rather than concentrated in certain areas.

The council approved the following applications:

—Middlesboro—Ruby's Rest Home, Inc., to decrease the allocation of personal care beds from 31 to 20;

—Middlesboro Appalachian Regional Hospital, to decrease skilled nursing beds from 55 to 18, add 25 intermediate care beds and renovate first and third floors amounting to $50,000;

—Patrick Family Care Home, Seitz, to establish a three-bed family care home;

—Huff Family Care Home, Salyersville, to establish a three-bed care home;

—Hill-Top Lodge, Owingsville, to add one personal care bed to the existing facility consisting of 36 intermediate and three personal care beds;

—Valley View Hospital, Benham, to construct a new facility to replace the non-conforming facility. The new facility will consist of 14 acute care beds, 55 personal care beds and 27 intermediate care beds. It might also house many of the other health services now provided in separate facilities;

—Methodist Hospital of Kentucky, Inc., Pikeville, for constructing and equipping radiation therapy unit at an estimated cost of $272,000;

—York Intermediate Care Facility, Burnside, to change present Certificate of Need from 16 intermediate care and 20 personal care beds to 26 intermediate care beds;

—City of Somerset Skilled Nursing-Intermediate Care Facility, requests 40 skilled nursing and 86 intermediate care beds in the existing facility;

—Keal Funeral Home, to establish an ambulance service for Bath County;

—Clay County Ambulance Service, Manchester, to establish an ambulance service for Clay County;

—Alcohol Rehabilitation Center, Barbourville, to change 21 skilled nursing beds to 21 special purpose beds.

Three applications from Corbin health care agencies were approved with stipulations:

—Hoover Family Care Home, to establish a three-bed family care home, approved with the stipulation that it pass local health department inspection;

—Colonial Manor Personal Care Home, to convert remaining 24 personal care beds to 24 intermediate care beds, approved with the stipulation to reduce intermediate care beds to 16;

—Hillcrest Nursing Hme, to convert 40 skilled nursing beds to 40 intermediate care beds in a facility consisting of 120 skilled nursing beds, approved with the stipulation to reduce intermediate care beds to 16.

Boyd County Convalescent Center, Ashland, applied to convert 40 personal care beds to intermediate care beds for the mentally retarded and developmentally disabled. The council deferred this application based on the state plan.

Mountain Manor Intermediate Care Facility, Pikeville, submitted an application to construct a new facility. It is in competition with Eduplay, Inc., Louisville to construct a new facility with the same number of beds. Both applications were deferred and sent back to the appropriate regional health planning councils.

The application of Richmond Manor, Irvine, to convert 25 personal care beds to intermediate care beds in a 96-bed personal care-intermediate care facility, was denied because it would create an excess of intermediate care beds in the area.

'Your Way' Is Philosophy Of SCS Since Early Days

Back in the 1930's, the U. S. Soil Conservation Service (SCS) learned that democracy was the only effective way to heal the scarred landscape. Ever since, SCS has told landowners, "Have it your way."

As SCS observes its 40th birthday on April 27, 1975, the agency of the U. S. Department of Agriculture still fills conservation orders according to customer wishes.

The agency's leader, Administrator Kenneth Grant, said SCS learned in its early days you could not make decisions for landowners. Grant reminded all SCS workers in the country that SCS, in its early years, worked primarily with farmers. SCS people learned if they "oversold" recommended conservation practices, farmers referred to the work as "those SCS terraces" or the "government's grassed waterways."

Grant emphasized that, in most cases, "It is not the business of SCS to tell people how to use their land."

By the time the 1940's rolled around, local people all over the United States began organizing conservation districts. Today, Kentucky has 121 conservation districts that form the conservation programs for each county. SCS State Conservationist Glen Murray said in Lexington this week that his agency "will continue to provide conservation plans according to the expressed wishes of Kentuckians who know their own land better than anyone else." He said, "It's our job to provide the land user with the necessary environmental facts and offer the various alternatives. Each land user, whether private or public, develops the land to suit his needs. Conservation plans are made to fit each situation."

Grant pointed to the SCS scientific soil survey as a case in point. If an individual is interested in a homesite, the survey merely points out there are severe limitations on building homes on a particular soil. Grant said, "It would be quite another thing to say that people should never build there. If the latter course were taken, it would be the job of locally elected representatives of the people."

The SCS leader added that a number of our leading American cities would not be thriving today if they had refused to build because of poor soil conditions. He said the people who built such cities as New Orleans, San Francisco, or Chicago obviously were willing to pay the price of a wet or unstable soil to take advantage of the geographic location. Since these cities have paid the price and are prospering, the lesson of "have it your way" is driven home once again.

HERD HEALTH

You should not rely on drugs and vaccines to keep your livestock healthy. That is pointed out by don LaBore, Extension veterinarian at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. At the very best, drugs and vaccines are aids, says LaBore.

Kentucky Afield

By Hope Carleton
Dept. of Fish and Wildlife

By JOHN WILSON

While most of Kentucky's outdoorsmen are suffering from bad cases of fishing fever with the coming of spring, there's a small but dedicated bunch that's all set to go hunting as soon as the season opens April 26.

Unless you're one of this group you might be wondering just what kind of hunting takes place in April, but if you're a turkey hunter, you're certainly aware of the upcoming spring gobbler season and probably already have your plans made and your hunting are thoroughly scouted.

The wild turkey is perhaps the most difficult game bird to manage successfully. Their preferred habitat is the deep woods, usually as far away from people as they can get. Too much use of an area by man will drive turkeys away, and there is evidence that during the critical nesting season, they cannot tolerate even recreational use of their home range.

Suitable turkey habitat in Kentucky exists in portions of the eastern part of the state, mostly in the Daniel Boone National Forest, and at Land Between the Lakes (LBL) in Western Kentucky. Although LBL receives heavy recreational use, most human activity is concentrated around the shorelines of Kentucky and Barkley lakes, leaving large tracts where the turkeys can live unmolested.

Although Eastern Kentucky's turkey population is holding steady, game biologists would like to see it increase. Therefore, the season this year has been reduced from the nine days of past years to four days—April 26 and 27 and May 3 and 4, for turkey gobblers with visible beards only.

Hunting is permitted in Pulaski (except the Beaver Creek Wildlife Area), Clay, Leslie, Jackson, Owsley, Wolfe, Bath, Menfee, Powell, Laurel, Rockcastle, Lee and Rowan counties. In addition, the portion of McCreary County east of US 27 and north of KY 92, and the portion of Whitley County north of KY 92 will be open, as well as the parts of Breathitt, Knott and Perry counties not in the Robinson Forest Wildlife Management Area, which is closed to all hunting.

The turkey season in Land Between the Lakes is April 17, 18, 19, 24, 25, 26 and May 1, 2 and 3.

Hunting hours are from daylight until noon, prevailing time, except at LBL, where hunters must check out by 11:00 a.m.

In Eastern Kentucky's open areas, both shotguns from 12 to 20 gauge and rifles are legal for turkey hunting. Shotgun slugs are prohibited, as are handguns except for muzzle-loading pistols on the Pioneer Weapons area in Bath and Menfee counties. LBL has its own special regulations which hunters should check in advance of their hunt.

Turkeys may also be taken by archery, using broadheads at least 3/8 inch wide. Crossbows are permitted only on the Pioneer Weapons area, and must be of 80-pound pull with broadheads at least 3/8 inch wide. Contact your local conservation officer or write the Department of Fish and Wildlife, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601 for complete regulations.

Hunting the elusive and wary wild turkey takes knowledge, skill and practice. The successful hunter usually wears complete camouflage and is proficient with at least one of the many turkey calls on the market. The best bet for the beginner is to team up with an old hand at the sport and learn as much as possible from him.

For Responsible and Responsive Leadership In A Representative—

Vote For James "Jitter" Allen For Representative, 95th Legislative District of Floyd County

Leadership in representation and responsiveness to the needs of people comes only from aggressive and independent-minded men who are not hand-picked for office by selfish individuals and machines. I pledge that YOU will be represented at Frankfort, that your needs will ever be paramount, not the needs of selfish men and political machines.

Let me submit to you voters certain planks in my platform, planks that I will diligently seek to have implemented by legislation.

1. The coal severance tax that is returned to the coal producing counties should be used for rural roads and other public needs, not for the restrictive uses set out by the recent dictum out of Frankfort. Many needs of our county should have priority. I think I know what the priorities should be.
2. I believe the Vietnam veterans are entitled to a bonus and that the financial needs of veterans widows and their children should be compassionately considered by legislators.
3. There are certain local highway conditions in this county that should be corrected by the Highway Department. Two specific conditions come to mind. High water often cuts traffic off at McDowell and on Abbott Creek. There are others, I'm sure. The roads should be elevated to keep traffic flowing at all times.
4. Teachers' salaries should be increased. Our teachers are as fine and well-qualified as any teachers anywhere in the United States and should be as adequately compensated. Emphasis on vocational education should be deepened and strengthened. Professional negotiation should become recognized as the inherent right of teachers.
5. The Public Service Commission and the laws under which it operates should be liberalized and reconstituted so as to make it more responsive to the peoples' needs. The high energy costs we all are bearing are end results of the PSC overlooking the burden of these high energy costs and granting rate increases and rate differentials adverse to the pocket books of the average man. I want to change all of that.
6. Housing for the elderly should be made a priority of the social system of this state. Too long have our financially-pinched elderly people been brushed aside. Let's reward them for lifetimes of good citizenship by secure and adequate housing.

Upon these planks I submit my candidacy. Elect me your representative and I will respond to your needs at Frankfort.

'All Went as Planned,' Hughes Writes Family Of Cambodian Airlift

When Operation Eagle Pull, the evacuation of Phnom Penh, Cambodia, got under way, members of one local family were deeply concerned with its success.

Mrs. John Delmar Hughes has been kept up to date on plans for the airlift by her husband, Lt. Col. Hughes, Chief of the Tactical Air Control Center at USSAG-7th Air Force Headquarters, Nakhon Phanom Air Base, Thailand. In a recent letter to his family Lt. Col. Hughes wrote about the success of the operation, and gave some details of how it was carried out:

"As you know by now, we executed our Eagle Pull plan on Saturday, April 12, 1975. Everything went almost exactly as planned, but that sounds too simple. Actually, we wrote dozens of plans, for different courses of actions, and, after much deliberations, chose to use Option III, utilizing helicopters—12 Air Force helicopters from here and 12 from the USS Okinawa; and, at the last minute, 12 additional ones from the USS Hancock, newly positioned to our advantage. We disseminated our revised Eagle Pull plan at noon on Friday, April 11th, and late Friday afternoon, following a formal request from (American) Ambassador Dean in Phnom Penh, we transmitted the message, Execute. We sent our last change to orders at 1830 on Friday, adding some ordinance for certain Tactical Air Assets, and two reconnaissance aircraft to document (on film) the situation before, during and after the operation. All went as planned!"

Lt. Col. Hughes, who has been reassigned to the National War College in Washington, D. C., will write the military history of Operation Eagle Pull, and a critique of the entire operation. He is now involved with the evacuation of Saigon.

DAY HOMEMAKERS MEET

Day Homemakers held their regular meeting April 9 at 1:30 p.m. in the home of Dorothy Burke. Otella Smiley opened the meeting and Opal Dingus gave the devotions. Mrs. Pitts gave the lesson on landscaping with slides of flowers members can grow. She also reminded the group of the area homemakers' meeting in Greenup county, the cultural arts camp and the state homemakers meeting in Lexington in June. Everyone present signed up for the "Green Thumb." The hostess served cake, coffee and tea to Gertrude Bradbury, Gladys Blackburn, Kathryn Coop, Opal Dingus, Ruth Francis, Eleanor Horn, Mary Sue Moore, Becky Short, Otella Smiley, Stella Spurlock, Dorothy Sturgill, Pat Necessary, Beatrice Collins and Frances Pitts.

ORDINANCE 75-01

WHEREAS, the Town of Wayland, being a town of the 6th class, has incurred many problems with the garbage situation, has experienced the littering of yards from those not keeping garbage in proper receptacles and having same picked up, has closed their city garbage dump as of January 22, 1975.

THEREFORE, the Board of Trustees does ordain the following:

That, since the Fiscal Court of Floyd County has granted the franchise for hauling garbage in this district to the Floyd County Sanitation Dept. who dispose of this refuse at the County landfill on Turkey Creek, and since it is unlawful for any other contractor to pick up garbage in this district, be it ordained that each residence within the corporate limits shall have their garbage picked up by the contracted hauler; and that this ordinance will take effect and be in force from and after its posting in the time and manner as required by law.

This ordinance passed in regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trustees April 7, 1975.

Signed: HOBERT WEBB, SR.
Chairman, Board of Trustees

Attest: F. B. Morrison

Pension Benefit Hearing Postponed Indefinitely

The hearing on the application of the Anthracite Health and Welfare Fund for a guarantee of pension benefits upon a partial termination of the fund which had been scheduled by the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation (PBGC) for April 14, 1975, has been postponed indefinitely. The Anthracite Fund requested the postponement because issues raised by its application may be affected by collective bargaining negotiations now taking place. PBGC granted the request as being in the public interest. Parties who have sought to participate in the hearing will be notified if it is rescheduled. The provision in the Notice of Hearing previously issued, for submission of written comments on the application by April 12, 1975, is also indefinitely postponed.

New Cave Run Lake Beckons Visitors

For the vacationer planning to take to the water for a few days or weeks, the Daniel Boone National Forest offers a lake within an easy drive of Cincinnati, Louisville, or Ashville, and all points in between.

Cave Run Lake, a new 8,270-acre reservoir built and operated by the Corps of Engineers, is near Morehead, off Interstate 64. The U. S. Forest Service manages the surrounding land for recreation, wildlife, timber and watershed. Through a multiple-use administration, the lake offers swimming, boating, fishing and camping, while providing an active and unique hunting area.

Twin Knobs, the first major recreational development on the lake, will open May 2 with 80 single and double camping units. A nominal fee of $4 for single and $5 for double units will be charged per night. This fee includes free use of the 1,000-foot beach and adjoining bathhouse scheduled to open Memorial Day Weekend. There will be no concessions available at the beach.

Carloads arriving for a day's visit will be charged $1 for beach use, while those arriving by bus, bike or walking will pay 50 cents. Bathers are allowed to picnic at the beach.

An additional 35 camping units and 1,000 feet of beach line will open through the summer. Forest Service officials anticipate the dam level will keep the water at the beach at least 4½ feet deep.

When completed, Twin Knobs will offer more than 250 camping units, most equipped to handle both trailers and tents. A trailer sanitation station now gives vacationers a chance to clean and fill their water and sanitation tanks.

Boat ramps at Scott Creek, Twin Knobs, Warix Run, Claylick, Bangor, Twentysix, and Leatherwood allow boaters and fishermen to enter and leave the water safely. The lake has a population of largemouth bass, bluegill, crappie, catfish and muskie. Some 8,000 six-inch muskie will be stocked in June or July. Water skiing is allowed in designated areas, 9 a.m. until dark.

The Minor E. Clark Fish Hatchery, operated by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, is just below the earthen dam. Visitors can see the fish breeding operation for stocking the varieties of fish all over the state.

Cave Run Lake's southern edge borders the 7,300-acre Pioneer Weapons Hunting Area. It tests sportsmen against grouse, deer, turkey and squirrel. Only percussion cap and flintlock rifles, longbow and crossbow are permitted in the area. The state controls game management and hunting regulations in the Pioneer Weapons Hunting Area.

There are more than 16 miles of trails in the area for year-round use by hikers and backpackers.

Clear Creek Furnace, with 24 camping units, adjoins the hunting area on Forest Service Road 129. It offers scenic trails and picnicking, as well as a rifle range. From the remains of an iron furnace, visitors get an idea of the thriving iron industry which made Kentucky the nation's third largest iron producer in the 1830's.

Located within the city limits at Morehead, next to the district ranger's office, is Rodburn Hollow camping and picnic ground. Eleven sites are open for tents and trailers up to 22 feet long. The picnic area has a shelter and horseshoe pit. A loop hiking trail is available and both camping and picnic areas have drinking fountains and flush toilets.

The Morehead district ranger has additional information on features near Cave Run Lake.

Visitors are encouraged to contact the local ranger's office, or the forest supervisor's office in Winchester, when making plans to travel in the Daniel Boone National Forest. Information covering camping and usage, as well as brochures on other scenic and historic sites, is available upon request.

Under the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970, the U. S. Department of Labor has approved the plans of 26 states for administering their own job safety and health programs.

By LARRY BURKE

From the land of Ambrym we hear of a beautiful word, the native word for love. Literally translated it means: "The heart keeps calling, calling for me."

This is very likely the best of all translations of the word "love."

Think of young lovers—their hearts are calling out to each other, that's why we say they're in love. A child has the same call going out for a parent, and a parent's heart calls to a child.

Friendships based on love are moulded through the staying in touch by way of the heart.

If the hearts of mankind kept calling, calling for one another, what a different world it would be. There would be no room for envy, hate and prejudices.

Wars would be eliminated if all people practiced the natives of Ambrym's description of love.

OUR THOUGHT TO REMEMBER: "TO BE LOVED—ONE MUST FIRST LOVE."

Basic Braille Taught at PCC

Among the many interesting things taking place on the campus of Prestonsburg Community College is a Community Service class called basic braille. Of the five adult members of the class, two are special education teachers, one is a staff member of the Eastern Kentucky Rehabilitation Center at Thelma, another is the father of a three-year-old blind boy, and another is partially blinded.

Instructor of the class is Diantha Hodges who, with her husband, Steve, serve as volunteer workers for the Floyd County Christian Service Ministry of the Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Hodges is a 1974 graduate of Earlham College with majors in psychology and sociology. Goal of the class is to learn the braille alphabet, how to read it without sight and later how to write the alphabet, using stylus and slate.

Mrs. Hodges "is very happy to be teaching it," and she is glad that "doing things for the blind is awakening" in Eastern Kentucky.

Prestonsburg Community College has applied for a federal grant to help expand its educational services for the blind. In order to receive this grant, approximately $16,000 (or one-fourth of the necessary amount) must be raised locally. The services have been projected to cover the six counties served by the college, including Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin, Pike and Knott.

Prater Cr. Community Meet Studies Needs

The 4th and 5th grades of the Prater Creek school staged a skit for those attending the recent Prater Creek community meeting.

Bill Bridges, development specialist, talked to a group in the community about organizing a development club. He showed slides on how a small community in Perry county had brought pride back to their community.

Those attending were divided into small groups to list needs of Prater Creek. Following are some of the suggestions made: Community clean-up, recreation center for all ages, community medical clinic, volunteer fire department, help for the needy, library facilities, first-aid training, craft work raising money for the community, move junk cars, water systems, organize Boy and Girl Scouts.

Rozella Lewis specified team visits to people in the community explaining community development before the next meeting which will be held Friday, May 2 at 6:30 p.m. at the school.

Present were John Maddox, Jean Boyd, Gordon Boyd, Herman Tackett, Deborah Tackett, Doris Akers, Ruby Conn, Geraldine Jarrell, Cornella Conn, Lucille Wallen, Ruth Slone, Blanch Akers, Lizzie Spears, Eva Rejuon Hamilton, Lorene Cordial, Norman Conn, Marcy Jarrell, Elizabeth Jarrell, Lenore Rowe, Caroline Dillon, Mrs. Coy Sammons, Mrs. Richard Click, Pamela Boyd, Cozetta Lawson, Mrs. Troy B. Maytown Groups Plan Fund-Raising Events

The Maytown Volunteer Fire Department, Maytown Grade School and the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, located at Langley, will hold open house Sunday, May 4, beginning at 2 p.m. with grade school students performing in the gym. Events of the day will be jointly sponsored by the three organizations. Edward F. Robinson is Fire Chief, George Gray, Jr., is assistant chief, Johnny Rodebaugh is secretary-treasurer, and Paul Richard Patton is fund raising chairman. Tim Atkinson is county team director of the MCCC and Charles Hicks is supervisor of the adult activity center. Ralph O'Quinn, principal of the grade school, is being assisted by the PTA with Sandra Bradley, president, Donna Gray, secretary, and Pearl Ellis, treasurer.

Also during May, the fire department and the grade school will co-sponsor wrestling on Saturday, May 10, at 8 p.m. in the school gym. Wrestling will be held on the second Saturday of each month. Sunday, May 11, the groups will co-sponsor a Mother's Day dinner in the school lunchroom from 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Paul Richard Patton, fund-raising chairman for the fire department, says the fire department will sponsor an old-fashioned box supper and square dance in the grade school gym Saturday, May 17. The box supper will begin at 6 p.m. and the square dance will begin at 8 p.m. All ladies are urged to fix a box of cake, pie, fried chicken, etc. and let the men bid on it. A pretty girl contest and an ugly man contest is also planned. All proceeds will go to the Maytown Volunteer Fire Department. All the younger adults and teenagers are encouraged to ask their parents or someone else as to how this works. Ray Prater is in charge of all events of the evening.

Then on May 22, 23, and 24th the Maytown Grade School will sponsor picture taking at the school. Coupons are now being sold by several of the parents. Proceeds will go to the school.

Officials' Trial Set in Letcher

Whitesburg, Ky.—Eight Letcher county officials, indicted on charges of willful neglect of official duties, pleaded innocent Monday in circuit court.

Their trial was set for July 9 by Circuit Judge F. Byrd Hogg, who permitted them to remain free under bonds of $500 each.

Hogg rejected a defense motion to quash the indictments but sustained a motion that each defendant be presented with a bill of particulars that would list specific allegations.

Named in the indictments are County Judge Estill Blair, Sheriff Reuben Watts, County Jailor Vernon Hall, and all five fiscal court magistrates—Estill Banks, James F. Tackett, Harry Smith, Monroe Hogg and Doug Wright.

The indictments simply state the charge and do not specify how the officials allegedly neglected their jobs. The officials were charged with neglecting their offices between Jan. 17, the last day of the January grand jury, and April 10, the first day of the April grand jury.

The January grand jury, in its final report, stated that the 11-year-old courthouse, which contains the jail, "is in poor condition and in need of a general cleanup and repair." The jury directed its foreman to appear before the April grand jury to help see that its recommendations were carried out.

Those indicted insisted they had not neglected their duties.

Camp Selects Two Floyd Boys

DINGUS

Two Floyd county boys have been chosen to represent Kentucky at Camp Rising Sun, N. Y., a camp with international horizons.

The camp began in turbulent 1929 when Wall Street crashed. Pondering what one person might do to add a measure of stability and peace to a torn world, George E. Jonas reasoned that the hope of the world lay in its young people. What could he do to encourage, stimulate and motivate them?

He hit upon the idea of a camp, one that "is interested not merely in the boy but in the man the boy will become." And he found the perfect facilities. Located about 90 miles north of New York City, high in a ridge, nestled among sloping hills and towering trees, was a large 200-year-old white house and a rickety red barn, nothing grand but functional. Mr. Jonas bought the property. As a tribute to his late father, he set up the Louis A. Jonas Foundation and Camp Rising Sun was born.

Run by a staff of experts, the Camp is fully organized, with specific periods of instructions. Yet nobody is required to conform to the activities. A youngster might devote an entire day to a project of his own—writing a story, landscaping, editing the camp newspaper, or shooting a film, for example. At lunch you might find a boy from Addis Ababa, Ethiopia telling a camper from Langley, Kentucky about electromagnetism or a Nigerian boy asking a camper from Alabama about race relations in U. S.

Today the camp alumni number more than 2,500 and represent some 30 countries.

This year, and for the past eight years, Mr. Jonas has spent one week in Kentucky interviewing from 50 to 60 young men as candidates for scholarships. This year he chose two outstanding students from J. H. Allen Central High School.

Phillip Ray Flannery, a sophomore, is the son of Herschel and Betty Flannery, of Maytown. He is a member of the Allen Central High School Club of Science Watchers Acting Together (SWAT), the National Beta Cub and the Estes Aerospace Club. He raises German Shepherd Dogs and is an avid chess fan. While at Allen Central he has maintained a 4-point average.

Kelly Dingus is the 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James O. Dingus, of Martin. He is a sophomore at Allen Central and is in the pep, concert, and marching bands. He has been selected for All-Area regional band twice and has attended the State Band Festival three times. He has won the school conservation essay title twice and has maintained a 4-point average throughout school.

What But Dancing on Hoedown Island?

By HELEN PRICE STACY

Dip and Dive,
Cheat or Swing,
Adam and Eve,
Divide the Ring.

The above is not a poetic quatrain per se, and the rhyme is not as "swifty" as it appears. Each line is the title of an Appalachian Mountain dance, and each might be performed any Saturday night during square dance time on Hoedown Island, Natural Bridge State Resort Park near Slade.

This popular pastime, a tradition at the park, located a short distance from Mountain Parkway, will continue each Saturday night through October.

"Dances also will be conducted on Friday nights beginning May 23," said Richard Jett of Campton, director of dances. "Friday night dancing will extend through Aug. 22."

Square dancing under the stars on Hoedown Island began about 10 years ago and has not only become a favorite pastime for families living in the area, but accounts for many tourist groups stopping at the park.

"It is common to see more than 1,000 people assembled on the island for dancing during June, July and August," Jett said. "All seem to greatly enjoy the frolicking and friendly atmosphere."

In addition to dances that have been enjoyed by generations of people who settled in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky, park programs on the island also include couple dancing, western style square dancing and the like.

Since the wildflower season is also "swinging," many families plan visits to Natural Bridge to enjoy hiking and identifying the many species of flowers, trees, shrubs, ferns and mosses that abound in this rugged land of natural bridges, cliffs and canyons.

Dancing on beautiful Hoedown Island, rimmed by trees and a lake formed by the Middle Fork of the Red River, is sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Parks, Bruce Montgomery, commissioner.

Also a part of the park's dance and musical entertainment this season are the following:

- May 24—Kentucky Mountain Hoedown contest and Bluegrass show;
- May 25—Fifth Annual Kentucky Mountain Music Shindig;
- June 20-21—Ninth Annual National Mountain Style Square Dance contest;
- July 3-6—Seventh Annual Mountain Music and Square Dance festival;
- Aug. 2—Fifth Annual Country Music Show featuring Lanny Rogers;
- Aug. 29-31—Tenth Annual Western Style Square Dance festival.

Jett invites any individual or group interested in performing in these events to contact him at Campton, home phone 606-668-6650 or office 668-3106.

Other favorite square dances with the Natural Bridge crowd are Forward Six, Grapevine Twist, Heads Go Forward and Back, Kentucky Circle, Nine Pin Reel, Sally Goodin, Shoo Fly Swing, Texas Star, Tunnel Through and Virginia Reel.

There are special dances for children, who, together with their parents and grandparents, sometimes fill out an adult circle to go through a set.

In the traditional dance, Adam and Eve, Jett, who stands on a platform a bit above the dancers, starts the call: "Join your hands and circle south, get a little sunshine in your mouth. The other way back on the same old track make your feet go wicky wak. Swing your corner gal around, now swing the prettiest girl in town."

Perkins Says Coal Gasification Know-How Already at Hand

Additional information has been released showing that the "know how" needed for immediate construction of commercial size coal gasification plants is available today, Rep. Carl D. Perkins recently told the U. S. House of Representatives.

In a floor statement, Rep. Perkins, sponsor of major legislation designed to bring about coal gasification and coal liquefaction on a commercial scale, told the House that the new information was absolutely conclusive.

The informatin about commercial scale potential for coal gasification came to light in a report delivered a few days ago at the British Embassy in Washington, he said. It was contained in a report on the Westfield project, which combined the efforts of several American and British companies and associations, at a place called Westfield, Scotland he said.

The basic process is called the "Lurgi" process, and the Lurgi gasifier was perfected in the 1930's, he said.

Rep. Perkins quoted one of the participants in the British embassy meeting as saying, "the Lurgi process is a proven process for gasification of American coal."

The Kentucky Congressman said the future of the coal industry in Kentucky is insured, if the Congress and the Administration will move ahead on legislation he has introduced to establish a commercial scale gasification and liquefaction industry, using coal.

"The people at Westfield have again proven beyond a doubt that commercial scale gasification is feasible," Rep. Perkins said. "In Eastern Kentucky, we have enough coal to supply a great area of the nation for uncounted years, and we also have an abundant amount of water—a vital part of gasification," he said.

"Once we get this legislation passed, we will ensure prosperity and jobs for our coal counties, and also ensure fuel at fair prices for the rest of Kentucky, and for other areas," he said.

"Red Baron" of Bird World Returns to Eastern States

Attention bird watchers and outdoorsmen in the Atlantic Coast region: should you happen upon a new bird darting through the woods at speeds of up to 200 miles per hour, treat it with tender loving care—it might be the Red Baron of the bird kingdom, the peregrine falcon.

Once indigenous to the eastern United States, the now-endangered peregrine will be reintroduced to several eastern states this spring under an experimental program devised by Cornell University scientists and the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

As reported in a recent issue of CONSERVATION NEWS, an education service magazine of the National Wildlife Federation, the peregrine has been bred in captivity successfully by Cornell ornithologists for reentry into the East.

Presently, the falcon, also known as the duck hawk, exists in North America only in Canada, interior Alaska and the continental United States west of the Rocky Mountains.

A major contribution to the bird's decline was the build-up of pesticides during the 1960's, particularly DDT and its derivative, DDE. The pesticides increased adult mortality, impaired the peregrine's reproductive mechanisms and led to its eggs becoming thin-shelled and breaking prior to hatching.

Another factor in the endangering of this falcon has been man's intrusion upon the bird's habitat and disturbance of its breeding areas.

Under the experimental program, peregrines bred in captivity at Cornell by Dr. Tom Cade and his associates will be released in the Cayuga Lake Basin and Shawangunk Mountains in upstate New York and two or three sites in the Chesapeake Bay area on the Aberdeen Proving Grounds in Maryland. If additional young area available, further releases will be made at natural cliffs in New England. Scientists eventually hope to spread the program throughout the East.

As Dr. Cade explained, the birds born and raised in captivity will not be able initially to fend for themselves, so they will be reintroduced to nature through a process known as "hacking."

In the "hacking" procedure, the birds will be placed in groups of four to six in protective enclosures at suitable eyries. As soon as they are capable of sustained flight, they will be permitted to fly free.

Because the birds will associate the hacking station with food, they will be able to return to the hacking site for food until they can feed themselves through their own hunting efforts.

Dr. Cade and his colleagues believe that the young peregrines will develop a lasting fixation to the hacking sites, which then will serve as breeding areas, according to the National Wildlife Federation publication.

The experiment is being carried out in a cooperative venture involving the U. S. Army Material Command, the National Audubon Society, the U. S. Forest Service, the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the Peregrine Fund of Cornell University's Laboratory of Ornithology.

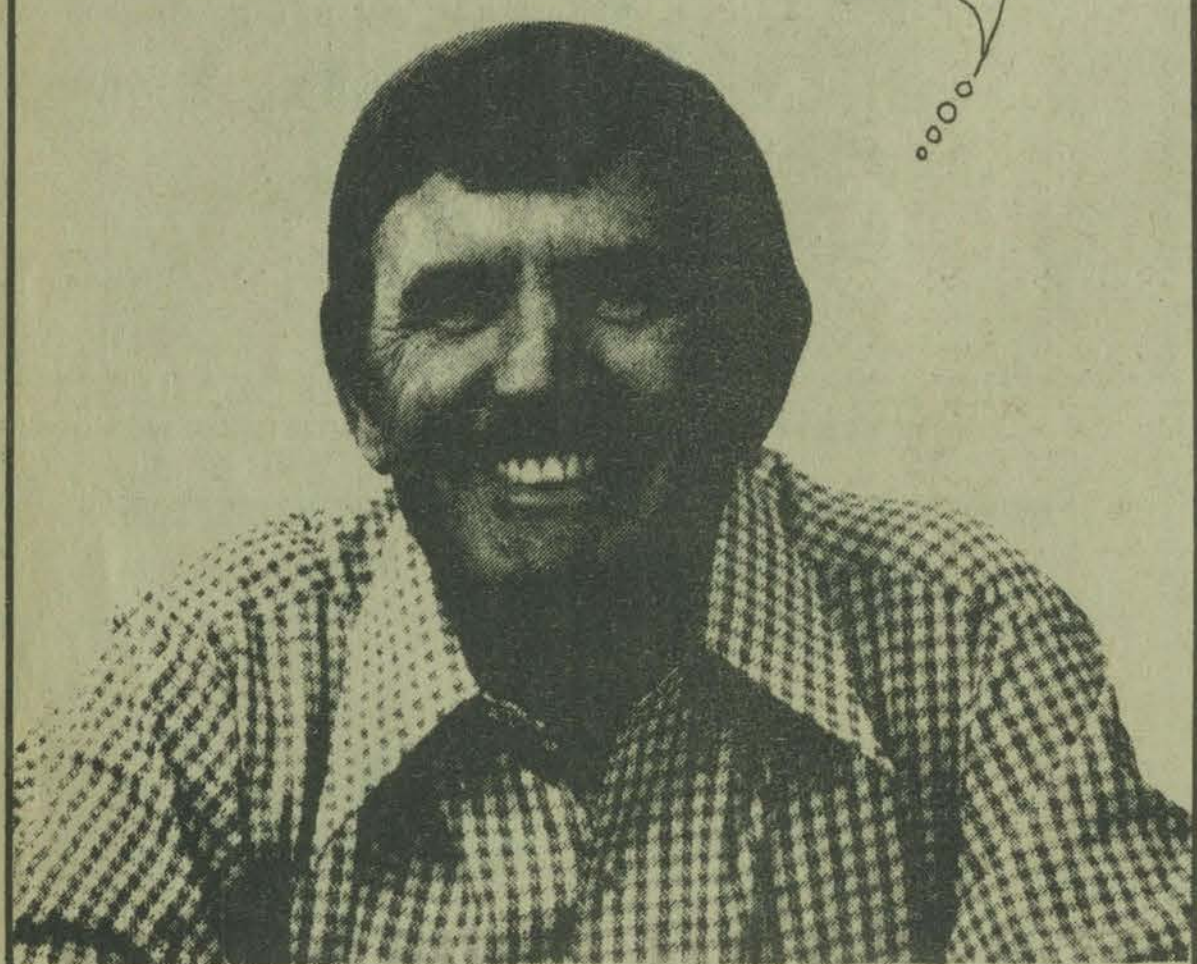

The peregrine falcon has maintained a high stature in the bird world, beginning with its having been worshipped in Egypt as the Lofty One and then being trained in Persia and later in Europe as hunters for game.

Adult peregrines grow to 15 to 20 inches, from head to tail, and have a 43-inch wingspread. The birds are distinguished by their hooked beaks, sharp claws, long pointed wings and narrow tail. Their normal life span is four to five years.

A lot of Kentuckians will stay on the job this year.

And coal is the reason why. While unemployment remains a serious national problem, in Kentucky the coal industry provides stable, good-paying jobs. Again this year, 50,000 coal and coal-related jobs will generate more than half a billion dollars in wages. Half a billion dollars in coal incomes that will keep coming in, and going out, buying goods and services throughout Kentucky, helping other Kentucky workers to keep going strong.

With energy demands and oil prices up, research is on. Coal is entering a new age as an important, plentiful power source. Science is solving the problems of clean air and reclamation so all Americans can enjoy the good life that coal energy can help provide. And Kentucky provides more than one-fifth of all the nation's coal.

Kentucky's future is bright. It's filled with the promise of more and better jobs . . . the promise of a stable economy. It's a future that's secure for thousands of Kentuckians who can count on a paycheck on payday.

Leads Competition

Trooper R. O. Forsythe leads other Pikeville-based Kentucky state policemen competing for an all-expense paid vacation for two to Hawaii at the end of this year. Forsythe has been awarded two "screaming Eagle" decals for his car under a program jointly sponsored by the state police and independent insurance agents of Kentucky to recognize troopers making the most auto theft arrests and vehicle recoveries. Since the program began in January, 30 vehicles valued at $84,000 have been recovered by Pikeville area state troopers.

Pine Sawfly Harm Is Expected Light During the Spring

Frankfort, Ky.—The Virginia pine sawfly has been detected in Kentucky. However, sawfly damage will probably be light this spring.

Appearing with the first signs of warm weather, usually from mid-to-late April, this insect attacks Virginia, shortleaf and pitch pine trees. During the past five years, the Virginia pine sawfly has stripped pine trees of their needles in eastern and south central Kentucky, resulting in light to severe defoliation.

However, surveys made in December, 1974, indicate that destruction will be light this spring, according to officials in the division of forestry of the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection. This insect does its damage during the larval, or caterpillar, stage. The light green caterpillar with shiny black heads have four gray-to-black stripes running the length of their bodies.

Although the insects are capable of defoliating a tree in two weeks, they feed entirely on one-year-old needles and complete their development before the new needles appear.

If other conditions are favorable after the insects are grown, the trees can produce enough new foliage to survive. Trees that have been stripped three or more consecutive years are often severely weakened. Therefore, they are highly susceptible to attack by other insects or diseases.

Anyone needing additional information concerning this insect and its control should contact the District Forester, Kentucky Division of Forestry in this area.

EXPERIENCE COUNTS

For four years, from 1968 to 1972, I was State Senator for the 29th District. That experience to me was invaluable as I came to know so many people throughout the area, the needs of our Eastern Kentucky region, how the state (and national) governments work, the people in Frankfort (and Washington) that can help us, and how that help can best be gotten.

Now, I am seeking this office again. I believe the experience I gained in those four years qualifies me to ask for your vote and support for the following reasons.

SEVERANCE TAX

How much money, IF ANY, will be returned to coal-producing counties from the severance tax in the next four years? This is a question vital to Eastern Kentucky and will be a major issue in the next legislature. The only three Eastern Kentuckians to hold leadership posts in the last Legislature—Rep. W. J. "Bill" Reynolds, Floyd County; Rep. Terry McBrayer, Greenup County; and Sen. Joe Stacy, Morgan County—are not seeking re-election. The incumbent Senator from this district is not seeking re-election. If we are to get the money we need from our coal, to use where we need to use it, I believe we also need a Senator with experience, who knows and has worked with Gov. Julian Carroll as I have in the past, and who knows and has worked with many of the other Senators and Representatives who will be voting on this issue.

FEDERAL PROGRAMS

In the Senate, I was privileged to work for four years with then-Senators Walter "Dee" Huddleston, now U.S. Senator; Romano "Ron" Mazzoli, now third District Congressman; and Carroll Hubbard, now first District Congressman. Our other U.S. Senator, Wendell Ford was then Lt. Governor and President of the Senate. Because of this relationship, I know these men, both personally and politically, as well as I do our own Seventh District Congressman Carl Perkins. I can and will work with these officials in Washington to help this district.

ROADS

I am aware that it sometimes takes years to get approval to build a road. As a Senator (and since that time) I made countless trips to Frankfort with delegations from this district to get approval on streets, roads, highways and bridges for this district. I was working for Ky. 80 in both the 1968 and 1970 legislatures, as were others in both the House and Senate. Now that engineering contracts have been awarded and work begun on this road, I believe your next Senator should be working for approval of the roads we will need for our future growth. This I will do.

EDUCATION

In my last term, I was a member of the Senate Standing Committee on Education, and named Chairman of the Special Committee on Education. I am fully aware of the problems faced by our school systems, teachers and administrators. I also know that one Senator, working alone, cannot pass any bills or raise any salaries. It requires a majority of 38 senators and 100 representatives plus the cooperation of the Governor. I believe my past experience qualifies me to obtain the support needed to help bring our educational programs, budgets and salaries in line with the rest of the nation and I will work honestly toward that goal.

How Our Foreparents Used Dyes From Nature

Dyeing wool or cotton cloth seems to have become a lost art in most homes of Appalachia. Nowadays people buy their clothing and socks already dyed by the manufacturers. It wasn't so in the days of our foreparents, who had no access to store-bought dyes and factory-made garments. They dyed their wool or cotton cloth by well-tested home methods, and they knew what plants in nature to use to obtain the desired colors.

I used to see the oldtimers wearing brown or red socks, dyed and knitted at home, or blue sweaters and red mittens dyed and knitted by hand. These were real works of art. I learned much about how these various colors of dye were obtained from nature and how they were used. It seems you had to know your plants, which ones to use to get the desired colors.

If you wanted a pair of socks or a scarf, or a sweater of a deep maroon color, you made you dye from ripe pokeberries, which were boiled in the "dye pot." When the dye was ready, the wool was placed in and boiled to make the dye "take hold." If you wanted to have a sweater or a scarf of a deep purple color, you chopped up the roots of pokeberry plants and boiled them down to make the dye. And here's a mystery of nature! The roots are whitish but boiling them brings out the latent deep-purple color.

To color cloth green, they used green oak leaves and boiled them with the cloth some two hours. Green chlorophyll is the most constant color of nature and does not change its green even in boiling.

To get a beautiful, light-yellow color, the yellow blossoms of dandelion were boiled to make the dye. Beautiful blue dyes were obtained from various sources of nature. You may have seen plants like goldenrod with large swellings on the stems. These are caused by gall insects, which lay their eggs in the enlarged section of the stem. Galls round as a golf ball are also found on oak and hickory leaves. Oldtimers gathered these galls and boiled them to make a lovely shade of blue.

The inside bark of maples, which appears pink, produces a beautiful blue dye when boiled for several hours. Copperas was added as a mordant to set the dye. The oldtimers kept a large kettle called a "dye pot," used exclusively for making dyes. Believe it or not, they gathered "tree moss" from oaks and other trees and boiled it in the pot for about an hour. Salt was added as a mordant to set the dye. This gray tree moss, called "old man's beard," produced an orange-yellow dye—another mystery of nature. This kind of moss was often used to make dye for yarn.

The enterprising oldtimers studied the plants and learned the secrets of nature. Take the large patches of broom sedge growing on open, sunny hillsides in poor soil; they gathered this in the fall and boiled it to make tan or yellow dye.

Hulls of black walnuts were the most common source of dyes for brown or dark brown. The hulls were gathered soon after the walnuts dropped; they were put in a bag and boiled down to make a lovely shade of brown. This was much used for dyeing quilt linings. Walnut hull dye was also used to dye yarn to make brown socks. To make a real dark-brown dye, the roots of walnuts were used. They were heated just enough to make the bark slip off; this was then boiled to make the dye.

The dark-brown outside bark of hickory trees was beaten off the trees and boiled to make a beautiful shade of yellow. Alum was added to the dye to make it set. The inside orange-yellow bark of black oak trees was also used to make a dye of a showy yellow.

The blossoms of wild coreopsis, similar to those of wild sunflowers, were used to make lovely yellow dyes. In the red clay country of the south, the clay was gathered and boiled in a bag to make red dye. Salt was added to set the dye.

To dye cloth a deep black, they used the grayish bark of witch hazel trees. When boiled down, the bark produced a shiny black dye.
