

Price Drop Hits Coal Production Some Market Gains Seen in 30-60 Days; Producers Stockpile

The Eastern Kentucky coal boom which was marked by unprecedented demand for the fuel and astronomical prices has slumped for the last 90 days, and the market this week was reported at its slowest in months.

But veterans of the industry view the situation philosophically. They do not expect a return to $90-a-ton prices, but see, instead, a leveling off and a continued demand for coal.

The current situation was viewed by one operator as a result of the general industrial sluggishness "catching up with us."

This source expressed the hope that there will be improvement in the metallurgical coal market within the next 30 to 60 days. At the same time, however, the feeling exists that little improvement, if any, will be experienced in the steam coal situation before the end of the year.

"I believe," one industry leader said, "the slump we now have is as bad as it's going to be."

Coal prices were described as "dramatically down"—steam coal reported as $17, some as high as $20, per ton, depending upon the b.t.u. content of the product; metallurgical coal, ranging from $35 to $40—"if you can get an order."

Although these prices are 900 per cent, or more, above those of pre-boom days, increased costs of production, including higher wages, costlier machinery and the like, place many operations in the marginal category, and some smaller operations are reported temporarily closed.

Others are stockpiling against the day of greater demand and better prices. Some whose yards are full have cut operation by as much as 40 per cent.

Most of the steam coal, which apparently is hardest hit by the slump, is produced by either strip or auger mining.

Accidental Gunshot Fatal to Drift Boy

The gunshot wound which killed Ronald Glenn Collins last Wednesday, two days before his eighth birthday, was accidentally fired by himself, it was held following an investigation.

The child was said to have been playing with a .22-caliber pistol at the home of his mother, Mrs. Mazie Spears Collins, of Drift, when the weapon was discharged, the bullet striking him in his face. He was dead on arrival at the Appalachian Regional Hospital, McDowell.

State Trooper Dennie Williamson, who investigated the tragedy, was told that Larry Wayne Collins, an older brother of the victim, witnessed the accident. The boy said he left the bedroom where his two brothers were playing and that as he re-entered the room the weapon fired.

Surviving are his mother; his father, Cullen Collins, of Colson, Ky., and three brothers, Larry Wayne, Tony and Jonathan, all of Drift.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 p.m. Saturday from Pilgrim Fest Regular Baptist Church at Price, and burial was made in the Lucy Hall cemetery at McDowell under direction of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Project Gets "Seed" Money

Thomas Hereford, former president of the Floyd County Area Jaycees, recently presented to Richard T. Stai, executive director of Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, a $5,000 check, a Project Mainstream grant which the local Jaycee chapter had been instrumental in procuring for the Center almost two years ago at the time Hereford headed the Jaycees.

Lightning Bolt Does 'Inside Job'

The exterior of the home of Mrs. Eva Layne at Harold almost completely escaped damage during a recent electrical storm, but the interior tells a grimmer story.

Lightning struck a tree, approximately 100 yards from the residence, the afternoon of July 23, and a neighbor, Carl Hatcher, said he saw a flame of fire shoot across the intervening space into the Layne home.

The result was that the interior of the house was charred or destroyed. A refrigerator partially melted. So did the television and other items containing metals. The aluminum facing of a window through which the lightning bolt is thought to have entered became liquid. Chairs, tables were charred. Nothing inside the building escaped damage.

Mrs. Layne was visiting in Pikeville at the time of the storm, and is convinced that if she had been at home she could not have survived the inferno resulting from the freak lightning bolt. She says she had the feeling while the storm was in progress that her home was burning.

No estimate of the damage was available.

Exterior of Layne home shows only blackened area around a window near the location of a switch-box inside the house. Interior photo shows "melted" refrigerator, stove, other items.

Board of Education Payroll Includes 700

The general budget of the Floyd County Board of Education which was adopted last Saturday indicates that that body is the largest single employer in the county.

Its payroll includes approximately 700 persons, in capacities ranging from superintendent of schools through the teaching categories, maintenance and custodial workers and the like.

Teachers alone will be paid a total of $3,704,234 during the next nine months. It is estimated that the cost of transporting pupils will be $462,000.

Administration of the school system will cost another $110,000, and the cost of pupil attendance services will be $62,170.69. Operation of plant, which includes cost of all utilities, salaries of custodians, etc., was placed at $340,000.

The entire budget is $5,566,694.19, but of this amount only $663,154, or 12 per cent of the total, is to be raised through district taxation.

The district's share of the budget is to be raised by a levy of 52.4 cents per $100 valuation on real estate, tangible and personal property and public service companies; 38 cents per $100 of bank shares, and 7.6 cents per $100 for the retirement of gym bonds.

Road Aid Fund Totals $137,240

Frankfort, Ky.—Gov. Julian Carroll has announced that Floyd county has been allotted $137,240 in county road aid money for the current fiscal year, beginning July 1.

According to the governor, the funds are being set aside to assist in maintaining more than 160.5 miles of county roads and five bridges.

Similar allocations to other localities in Kentucky also are being announced

Michigan Boy, 14, Hurt in Lake Dive

A 14-year-old Michigan visitor to this county suffered what was described as "a broken neck" Sunday when he dived into shallow water in the German bridge area of Dewey Lake.

The youth, Billy Holden, of Taylor, Mich., was taken to Central Baptist Hospital, Lexington, where his condition was described as satisfactory. He suffered two fractured vertebrae, it was said.

State Asks Bidding On Lake Work Nearly $1 Million Reported Available For Dock Area Job

Bids have been asked by the Department of Parks on Phase I of harbor and dock improvements at the Jenny Wiley boat dock on Dewey Lake, and the opening of bids has been scheduled for August 18, The Times was told this week.

George Barker, manager of Jenny Wiley State Park, said as much as $950,000 may be available for the work, since federal funds reported at $200,000 are being added to the $750,000 already appropriated by the state.

If acceptable bids are received, work is scheduled to begin, soon after Labor Day.

Phase I of the proposed work will involve dredging of the Brandy Keg Cove harbor and landscaping. Phase II, on which bids have not yet been asked, will include dock construction and other improvements.

Monday Meet At May Lodge To Talk Rates

The Governor's Commission on Electric Utility Rates and Regulations will continue its hearings at various places in Kentucky with a meeting at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, at 10 a.m. Monday.

The first meeting was held this week at Murray, where Dr. Thomas B. Hogan-camp, president of Murray State University, said the cost of electric power at the university had risen from $450,000 in 1972-'73 to more than $1 million the last fiscal year, forcing Murray State to cut back on its instructional services.

Clyde Reeves, of Lexington, chairman of the commission, said of the work it is undertaking:

"We're trying to learn what we can, gather all the information we can, to help solve the energy problem from the state standpoint."

He added that the commission hopes to have a report ready for Governor Carroll by December 1.

Court Approves Slight Tax Rate Boost for Year

Slight increases in the tax levy for the new fiscal year were voted last week by the Floyd fiscal court.

The levy for county tax purposes was increased from 18 cents per $100 evaluation to 18.2 cents, and the rate for school taxes was raised from 51.9 cents to 52.4 cents. The health tax was increased from 3.1 cents to 3.3 cents.

The levy for all other purposes remained unchanged—library, 2.1 cents; CET (extension), 1.4 cents, and gym tax, 7.6 cents.

The levy was based on these assessment estimates:

Real estate, $87,187,844; tangible personal property, $52,245,440; public service companies, $44,285,659; bank shares, $6,444, 940.

SPARE THAT SKUNK!

Time was when the hero snarled, "You lowdown skunk, unhand that there gal!" and everybody cheered. But since our publication of an item about skunks ambling around Prestonsburg we have been hearing from gardeners that the animals are much-maligned, that they aren't at all "onery" or "lowdown," not even when you call them polecats.

George Brown, whose garden is just outside my office window, tells me that I might not have been enjoying some of those tomatoes, cucumbers, peppers and so on that his wife left for me, had not a skunk been holding forth in the garden, all summer long. Says the animal has kept his garden clear of slugs and bugs and has been seen keeping watch at a crawfish hole in a neighbor's garden, anxious to help out in that department, too.

Mrs. Venelia Rinehart, who grows flowers, tells of similar service rendered by a family of skunks around her premises.

Block Grant To Help Park, Water System

Floyd county will receive $483,200 in Community Development Block Grant funds from the federal government.

County Judge Henry Stumbo has received a formal letter from HUD Area Director Virgil G. Kinnaird approving this county's application for funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974.

The new law, administered by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, eliminates the former categorical community development program and gives money to communities in one block grant. The local communities now set their own priorities and make the own plans—with minimal federal guidance or involvement.

Of the total block grant to Floyd county, $183,200 has been earmarked for a county recreation center planned at Allen, and the remaining $300,000 is scheduled for the extension of the Beaver Elkhorn Water District into David and vicinity from Brush Creek.

The Allen recreation center may be two years away, it was indicated last week when it became apparent that a site will not be available until after Jan. 1, 1976.

In a letter to Judge Stumbo congratulating the county, HUD Secretary Carla A. Hills wrote, "I hope you will be able to attract wide citizen participation as you carry out the plan, and I trust that this grant will be a positive step toward the betterment of your community."

Thomas Hereford, former Floyd County Area Jaycee president, (right) presents Richard T. Stai, executive director of Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, with a $5,000 check—a Project Mainstream grant to be used in development of an Integrated Food Processing Program for the handicapped.

Needed: A Floyd County Room

Whatever Floyd county's plans for the observance of the nation's Bicentennial, it is doubtful if anything we do could be of more lasting value or more appropriate than to preserve what is left of our historic past.

Much is already gone, or is past restoration. Many of the oldest court records have been lost or destroyed, or are missing. The present county court clerk has some of the oldest remaining records under lock, because such relics of the past have had a strange way of disappearing. This is another way of saying, some records have literally been stolen. Others were lost through improper storing in the old courthouse; many were lost to fire and flood.

Fortunately, a few of the oldest court records in the region remain.

As Bicentennial year approaches, we might also turn our thoughts to the preservation of the county's buildings which date from another century and wear the aura of history. Too many are being sacrificed to "Progress," to become sites of apartment complexes, parking lots and industrial buildings.

The Oral History Project at Alice Lloyd College is doing a monumental work in preserving the folk tales, the speech and culture of another day. The popularity of "The Foxfire Book," a work born of a similar undertaking, attests to the deep interest the old ways and things still hold for millions of Americans. But Floyd county's interest is mainly academic.

Our weakness is, we fail to recognize the gold in our own lode.

Somewhere—in the county library, at Prestonsburg Community College, or in the proposed courthouse annex—a Floyd County Room should be established, set apart to receive and keep safe for this and succeeding generations our historic past. Old court records, the music, the speech, the items that went into day-to-day early living, the genuinely historic memorabilia should be afforded such sanctuary.

'Privacy' Should Not Seal

Records of Known Criminals

By CLARENCE M. KELLEY
Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation

Some well-meaning proposals to further safeguard the privacy of individuals unfortunately threaten seriously the law enforcement profession's ability to combat crime. These efforts in behalf of privacy persist in the face of an alarming rise in nationwide levels of lawlessness in nearly every category of serious crime. Surely, crime conditions implore us to strengthen, not weaken, police resources.

Overall, serious crime in 1974 recorded its largest increase in 14 years. Violent crimes jumped 11 per cent, while property crimes spurted 17 per cent. Rural, suburban, and large metropolitan areas alike similarly reported substantial increases in crime as did each of the Nation's four geographical regions. Reports of offenses compiled thus far this year continue this frightful trend.

The most potentially harmful proposals to law enforcement efforts are those that would, after stipulated periods of varying length, seal criminal offender records, commonly known as "rap sheets," from examination by law enforcement agencies. Certainly, these proposals have the very best intention: to prevent a rehabilitated offender's or arrested and unconvicted person's record from exposing him to embarrassment or worse forms of public notice for the remainder of his lawful life. However noble is the purpose, the proposals to seal certain criminal offender records strike harshly at a pivotal resource to law enforcement investigations. These records are of invaluable assistance to law enforcement agencies, which commonly employ them at the outset of many investigations to quickly winnow logical suspects from dozens and even hundreds of possibilities. Criminal offender records permit this to be done by virtue of the positive, personal identifying date only they contain.

Indeed, should many criminal offender records be sealed or their examination delayed in the fast-moving pace of most criminal investigations, law enforcement agencies would be obliged to turn to the personal recollections of the investigating officers or resort to other less exact institutional-type records. Needless to say, such conditions could very easily expand the risks of invasion of privacy which the proposals are designed to minimize.

Furthermore, unless criminal rehabilitation programs show dramatic and unexpected improvement, it is a fact established by countless criminal recidivist studies that persons once involved with some significant violation of the law are much more likely to commit a crime than those who have no police record.

One has only to look at the sordid lawbreaking backgrounds of police killers to grasp the impact criminal recidivism has on the course of police investigations. In the murders of 858 officers during the period 1964-73, for example, of the police killers identified, 42 per cent had been previously arrested for a violent crime, 59 per cent had been convicted of a prior criminal charge, and 77 per cent had been arrested before on a criminal charge. Yet some of the proposals to seal criminal records would deny the police on patrol—in which assignment 68 per cent of the 858 officers met their deaths—critical, possibly life-saving, information on a suspect encountered on the street.

Privacy is an intangible and lofty goal. Still, there is no doubt it must be pursued with constant vigilance. But in doing so, let us ask ourselves some frank questions: Is any degree of privacy achieved by sealing certain criminal records of the few worth the added jeopardy this action would bring to the many law-abiding citizens and to a growing legion of persons who no longer feel safe from crime on the streets of their neighborhoods and even in their homes and places of employment? Must not privacy and the many other benefits of a mature society begin with the control of rampant criminality?

It seems to me that the privacy of individuals is scarcely served, and the community unnecessarily endangered, by shackling law enforcement efforts with the sealing of certain criminal offender records.

locally, the governor said. In all, the state has allotted $13 million to county road aid programs for this fiscal year.

Gov. Carroll also announced that the city of Allen has been allotted $9,862.39 in municipal, road aid money for the current fiscal year beginning July 1. Of the total amount allotted, $3,311 was identified as new money. The balance consists of unexpended funds from last year.

The funds will be used to provide for blacktop resurfacing of the Allen-Banner road, Back Main and Stone streets, and both drainage and blacktop resurfacing of Depot Street.

The work will be done by the city with the state's Bureau of Highways financing all or a portion of it in accordance with the municipal aid agreement.

Consumer Comments

By Atty. Gen. Ed Hancock

Don't let insects "bug" you—but don't let pest control salespersons "bug" you, either. If a sales person comes to your door offering a free inspection, beware. Our office has received several letters from consumers who complain they spent hundreds of dollars on unsuccessful treatments for insects and found the only thing that was exterminated was their bank accounts.

If you are told you have termites, beetles or other insects or bugs, don't panic or rush into signing a contract. A warning that your house is in severe danger may be nothing more than a scare tactic to make you sign a contract faster. An offer of a discount "today only" is another tactic designed to convince the consumer to sign a contract which is far more expensive than most other companies.

Before you do anything, get the opinion of two other pest control companies as to whether or not there is a problem. If the companies do not agree, or if you have doubts as to whether or not you have insects, write to the Director, Pest and Noxious Weed Control, Department of Agriculture, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. Their inspection team may be able to help.

Once you have determined that there is an insect problem, obtain price estimates for any needed work. All estimates should be put in writing, and each should describe the exact method of extermination to be used. Find out if periodic inspections are included in the cost, and ask that this information and any guarantees be put in writing, as well. Also, check the company's record with the Better Business Bureau.

All pest control companies must be licensed by the Department of Agriculture. The company's name and license number should appear on all service vehicles regularly used and each salesperson should carry an identification card issued by the Department of Agriculture.

If you have complaints about pest control inspection or service, write to the Division of Pest and Noxious Weed Control at the Department of Agriculture, and send a copy of your complaint to the Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection, the Capitol, Room 34, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Ratcliff To Teach Orchestral Strings

Orchestral Strings, which include violin, viola, cello and string bass, will continue this fall as part of the Community Service Program at Prestonsburg Community College. Buddy Ratcliff, gifted violinist who resides at Bucks Branch, Martin, is the instructor for these classes. Mr. Ratcliff, who plays all four instruments, will be teaching the beginning class for those who have had no lessons on Tuesdays, 6:30-7:45 p.m., starting September 2. For those who have had one or more years on their instruments, the class will meet from 8 to 9:15 p.m. For those who wish to study privately, studio lessons can be arranged.

A goal for this year is to establish one or more chamber ensembles with the hope of forming a nucleus for an orchestra. For more information, call 886-3863, Ext. 208.

Mr. Barker said plans for Phase I call for removal of five feet of silt from the bottom of the harbor, and extension of the harbor area farther into the head of the inlet. A dike will be built across the mouth of a hollow joining the lake at the rear of the May Lodge swimming pool to permit use of the hollow as a dumping ground for the 13-14,000 cubic yards of silt to be removed from the harbor area. This is expected to provide a level area which may later be developed in connection with May Lodge grounds or its recreation program.

Phase II is designed to provide docking facilities for a total of 234 boats. The east (lodge) side of the cove will be used for docking houseboats, with both electric power and drinking water provided. All smaller craft will be docked on the opposite side of the cove.

Phase II also will include a new or renovated dock building and bait shop.

The court received from residents of the Goble-Roberts Addition a petition bearing 207 signatures, asking the repair and opening of the bridge across the Big Sandy at Knotley Hollow. Metal flooring of the span was asked. The petition pointed out that the access road to the Goble-Roberts Addition was built and is maintained by the Kentucky Road Oiling Co., that the road is crossed by the C. & O. Railway tracks and that trains sometimes tie up traffic from 30 to 40 minutes. During such occasions, residents claim, that section of Prestonsburg would be cut off in an emergency from ambulance and fire department service, if only the access road is to be used.

They've convinced me that we should let the skunk alone, individually and collectively, and not go around creating a stink in the neighborhood.

"WHAT'S FAIR FOR THE GOOSE . . ." It's quite possible that that Falcon Coal Company experiment in grape-growing on stripmined land will be successful. We hope it is.

But the plan to convert those grapes into wine hits a snag with us.

We have no desire to prowl legislative halls, buttonhole legislators and lobby for this or that. But we subscribe to the principle of equal opportunity. For which reason, so help me, if the state approves a winery for those grapes I will insist upon a friend of mine who grows a hillside patch of corn, and all others like him, being given the right to convert his grain into a beverage, also.

THE SALMON EXPERIMENT

Fred Harris has for some time now been aware of my interest in hybrid fish, particularly in this cross of a rockfish and a white bass which has been stocked in lakes of the area and which I've insisted deserve a chance at survival in Dewey Lake. So it was that Mr. Harris, the other morning, handed me a sheet, headed, "Coho Salmon Experiments in Lake Michigan."

This report I pass on to you who may read:

The "Coho", not being a native of the Lake Michigan waters, has experienced difficulty in surviving. The female, when going up the Lake Michigan feeder streams, has been losing her roe on the rocky bottoms, and when she got far enough upstream in the small pools and inlets, had great difficulty getting back into the mainstream over the sand bars, etc. In fact, as high as 90 pct. were dying in the upper reaches of the Lake Michigan tributaries, which caused a pollution and odor problem.

The Lake Michigan Department of Fishing decided to crossbreed the "Coho" with the native "Walleye" for two reasons: (1) The "Walleye" had the strength and knowledge to get through the Lake Michigan tributaries and (2) was not prone to lose the roe while going upstream. This new species was named "CoWal". However, in crossbreeding the fight that the "Coho" was noted for, was lost to the more sluggish tendencies of the "Walleye".

To combat this sluggishness, the experiment went further. They bred the "CoWal" with the greatest fresh water fighter in North America, the "Muskie". This created a hybrid, double crossbreed and introduced a top American Game Fish. They named this hybrid the "CoWal-Ski" and they now have to teach the dumb so-and-so to swim.

They may want to rewrite the Warsaw Pact after that one.

By Hope Carleton
Dept. of Fish and Wildlife

By JOHN WILSON
(Guest Writer)

The sportsmen of Kentucky, through their purchases of hunting and fishing licenses and through a federal excise tax on hunting and fishing gear, provide virtually all of the financial support for the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. License holders also are entitled to participate in the selection of members of the Fish and Wildlife Commission, the governing body of the department.

In return, the department offers a variety of services to the sportsmen of the state and to all the people of Kentucky.

The local conservation officers, whose primary job is enforcing fish and game laws, are the backbone of the department. Without these men, members of the division of law enforcement, modern game and fish management would be extremely difficult, if not impossible.

Not only does the conservation officer control the illegal taking of fish and game, but he also—through the intimate knowledge of his local territory—serves as an indispensable aid to members of the department's other divisions.

He will often, for example, help game biologists in their research, management or survey projects. These biologists, members of the division of game management, engage in research projects to determine the problems and needs of wildlife. They also conduct annual surveys to determine wildlife population trends, surveys which form the basis of the yearly hunting season lengths and bag limits. The game management division is also in charge of the state's wildlife management areas and runs the popular Game Farm near Frankfort.

Biologists with the division of fisheries also conduct annual surveys to determine population trends of Kentucky's game fish and they do lake and stream water quality investigations and investigate cases of water pollution which cause fish kills.

Another important aspect of the fisheries division's activities is stocking fish, from rainbow trout into small mountain streams to giant rockfish or musky into large lakes. The farm pond stocking program, which provides pond owners with free bass, bluegill and channel catfish, is a popular part of this division's activities.

The department's division of conservation education employs 19 full-time teachers, who pay monthly visits to over 107,000 fifth and sixth graders throughout the state with lessons on wildlife conservation and outdoor safety. During the summer, this division also operates three camps for the youngsters who have participated in the school program.

The division of public relations, through its weekly television and radio programs, "Happy Hunting Ground" magazine, newspaper articles, brochures and pamphlets, attempts to keep the state's sportsmen informed about hunting and fishing conditions throughout the Commonwealth, about game laws and regulations and about current projects and policies of the department.

A small, but important division is engineering, whose four employees engage in a variety of activities, including land surveying, building design and construction on departmental property and other related work. Several of the state-owned lakes around Kentucky were planned and built by this division.

The fiscal control division is in charge of printing and distributing licenses, keeping payroll records and making sure the books balance.

The administration of the department is handled by the commissioner—appointed by the Fish and Wildlife Commission—and the assistant commissioner. Also included under the administrative section is the departmental attorney.

These, then, are some of the activities the sportsmen of Kentucky support through their hunting and fishing licenses. The sportsmen benefit from these activities through continued quality hunting and fishing, but all the people of the Commonwealth also benefit, both directly and indirectly, from bountiful fields and forests and from clean, productive streams and lakes.

Clerk, Floyd County Court

Traces Beginning Of the Mess

(The following materials are excerpts from a lesson response of a home study course on the American Environment recently completed by Bill Dempsey, of Prestonsburg, RC&D Project Coordinator, Soil Conservation Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture.)

This discussion of how solid waste is actually disposed of is no reflection on local units of government and private individuals who are feverishly seeking sites for sanitary landfills and other environmentally sound solutions to the problem. County Judge Henry Stumbo, of Floyd county, is especially active and vocal on this issue.

Background: Due to the many streams and narrow valleys of the area, the first settlers, indeed most people even today, built their homes on or near the banks of these streams. It seemed only natural to fling a dead cat or a pair of worn out shoes into the creek and let it float away, and besides, the kids' swimming hole was up the creek, and the drinking water came from the spring which ran out of the coal seam at the foot of the hill. At first, this didn't amount to much. There were only a few people in the "holler", and they were mostly subsistence type farmers who didn't waste anything. Kitchen garbage (or slop) was fed to hogs or other livestock. Old clothing was "made over for the 'younguns'" or given to cousin Josie. An occasional wooden packing crate was used for a truck to store clothing or quilts or maybe used to cover a crack in the cabin wall. In a few words, there were only a few people, who didn't have much to throw away and the creek was a good place to do it and besides most of what they did throw in the creek was readily degradable.

The foregoing is how it started and became the custom and has continued even to the present time. The population has grown to large proportions, along with ready transportation, changes in social customs, creation of industrial employment and other related factors, which have meant that needed goods are purchased and transported to the homes in containers. Americans have become the great containerized society. This is where big trouble starts. The containers are no longer wood, paper or even steel (which rusts readily when exposed to the weather). They are plastic and aluminum which lasts indefinitely. These things, along with table scraps (no hogs or chickens now), worn out machines and scores of other things are still, naturally, being thrown in the creek or out the car window into a road ditch and sometimes concentrated at illegal, uncontrolled "dumps."

The public is not entirely to blame for this area becoming one of the filthiest places in the country. A practical custom simply grew like "Jack's Beanstalk" until it has nearly enveloped us. No area-wide, organized, solid waste pickup and disposal service exists, so the people throw it in the creek, along roadsides, at one of the dumps where they see a big, neat sign saying: "$300.00 fine for Littering" staring them in the face, or living with it. This is the situation in much of the area today.

It is not all bad. All the bigger towns and several smaller communities, and some rural areas have regularly scheduled solid waste pickup and are making great strides toward disposing of it properly. Units of government are aware of their responsibilities and are making plans for solving the problem for all the people. These units of government are working through the Area Development District, RC&D committees, other resource groups to form solid waste districts, and other action programs to properly dispose of the mess and improve the natural beauty of the area and make it a clean and healthful place to live, work and play.

ERDA Awards $937,000 Contract To Develop Coal Gasification

The U. S. Energy Research and Development Administration has awarded a contract for $937,000 to Paramount Exploration, Inc., Waynesburg, Pennsylvania, for underground coal gasification experiments in West Virginia.

The contractor will drill three directionally controlled wells in the Pittsburgh coal-bed, near the village of Princetown, about 50 miles west of Morgantown, West Virginia. The drilling is expected to be completed by November and gas production started by next January.

The coal and surface rights for the wells were provided by the Consolidation Coal Company and the Continental Oil Company.

The wells will be initiated from a near-vertical position and drilled at an angle of approximately 4.5 degrees per 100 feet approximately 1000 feet below the surface, which is the depth of the Pittsburgh coal-bed. After the wells have been cased

Wild Greens

"SHONNIE," or "SHAWNEE."—Many of you in the country will search the rich woodlands and old newgrounds for a fresh mess of "Shonnie," more properly called "Shawnee," after the Indian tribe which taught the whites how to find it and enjoy eating it. I must ask you to spare "shonnie" as much as possible. The young plants look like violets but are no relation to them. Shonnie is a member of the Bellflower family, and is closely related to the famous "bluebells of Scotland," sometimes called "harebells."

By mid-summer, the young shonnie plants will be over four feet high, with a flower stalk having many light-blue flowers. The true name of shonnie is "star bellflower," and it is also closely related to Venus' looking-glass. Botanists know the plant as CAMPANULA AMERICANA, from the Latin, campana, meaning a bell. So I do not think we should eat much, if any, shonnie, because we need the lovely wild flowers to beautify this earth.

There are three other wild greens I do strongly recommend to your culinary delight and urge you to try these. The first one is called "curly-leaf dock," or yellow dock. The plants appear in early spring and have long leaves curled at the edges. The roots are yellow. Eat plenty of curly dock and you won't need to take Geritol for your iron deficiency. It is highly rich in iron, also has Vitamins A and C. The yellow roots are boiled to make a good tonic.

YELLOW DOCK GREENS. Gather the young leaves and mix with wild mustard or plantain. Cook until tender; add 2 cups of tomato juice and onions browned in fat. Let simmer, then serve.

WILD SPINACH. Also known as Lamb's quarters and white goosefoot. This highly prolific plant takes over gardens soon after the crops are gone. It is a member of the Goosefoot Family and often forms dense patches in rich soil. The leaves are frosty on top. Lamb's quarters, also called wild spinach, is quite similar to spinach in flavor and is rich in iron. The plants should be picked when about six inches high. The seeds were once ground and used on rolls. Cook the greens until tender, then add a sauce made of flour, milk, salt, pepper and bacon bits. The leaves of lamb's quarters slightly suggest the shape of the webbed foot of a goose—hence the name, "white goosefoot."

The Hazards of KY 80

Thank you very much for your observations on Highway 80. The terrible shoulders are not only on Right Beaver but from Allen to Hazard. There are drop-offs and holes. In the winter the mudholes are a foot deep.

Many children must walk these roads, darting in and out of traffic and in and out of mud holes to get to school. I watch them pass my house and wonder if they'll survive.

Even if great Highway 80 is built, we still live on old Highway 80. Our schools are there and we must be able to travel in a reasonable degree of safety. Why can't these shoulders be widened and graveled so our people can get out of the mud and travel in some degree of safety?

It seems to me that the fact that we must get around in our home county on decent roads, with decent drainage and decent shoulders is ignored. Great highways are fine but let's give our people at home a chance, too.

Mine Depths Yield Rum Haul

Approximately $1,800 worth of whiskey and beer was recovered Wednesday night by county and city law enforcement officers from an abandoned coal mine at the outskirts of Prestonsburg, and Charles "Buck" Joseph was arrested in connection with the raid.

Acting on a search warrant which was obtained after Commonwealth's Detective Doug Lewis had reportedly observed Joseph leaving the mine with two pints of whiskey earlier in the day, Lewis, Sheriff Joe W. Lewis and Prestonsburg Policemen Woodrow Lafferty and Keith Lawson returned at nightfall and followed the mine for an estimated quarter-mile. Two hundred sixteen pints of whiskey were found, and 480 cans of beer, which were buried three cases deep at the end of the mine, were also seized. Much of the whiskey was broken or poured out in the mine, it was said. Joseph was charged with possession of alcoholic beverages for purpose of sale. He executed bond the following day.

Wanted in the state of Nevada on a charge of non-support, Eugene Weathers was arrested here last Sunday by State Police Detective Gary Rose and State Trooper Estep on an extradition warrant and lodged in the county jail here. A hearing for Weathers, who executed bond the same day, is set for Friday.

Others booked at the county jail over the past week, charges against each and arresting officers follow:

50 More Rooms Needed at Park, Manager Claims

Costly improvements are being made at May Lodge and in the nearby vacation cottages of Jenny Wiley State Park, but, says Park Manager George Barker, most needed are 50 more rooms.

"A full house," the season long, has been the story at the park.

The demand may drop some after Labor Day, but Mr. Barker expects it to remain heavy through the off-season. Jenny Wiley is one of the state's parks which does not close during the winter.

A new roof for the lodge was recently completed at a cost of $104,000. New carpets and kitchen cabinets have been installed in all the one-bedroom cottages, and all but three of the two-bedroom cottages have been renovated.

The newest facility at the park, the Goble Branch camping area, is 80 per cent full on week-ends, despite the fact that some work yet remains to be done there. The grocery store serving campers in the area has been opened, and 35 new picnic tables are soon to be added.

Mrs. Bertha B. Sparks

Mrs. Bertha B. Sparks, mother of Circuit Judge W. D. Sparks, of Louisa, died last Friday at Highlands Regional Medical Center following an extended illness. She was 88 years old.

A native of Lawrence county, she was a daughter of the late Lee and Hessie Pack, and had resided at Old Hood for the past 62 years. She was the widow of John H. Sparks and was a member of the Old Hood United Baptist Church.

In addition to Judge Sparks, she is survived by another son, Marvin Sparks, of Blaine; two daughters, Mrs. Margie Slone, of Sitka, and Mrs. Jewell Ross, of Blaine; two sisters, Mrs. Fairrie Daniels, of Ephrate, Washington, and Mrs. Jessie Lemaster, of Flat Gap; three brothers, Tracy Pack, of Paintsville, Venson Pack, of Staffordsville, and Buell Pack, of Stambaugh; eight grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 1:30 p.m., Sunday, at the Old Hood United Baptist Church by Elders Jessie Edgar Cordle, Edward Salyers, and Tommy Bailey. Burial was made in the Sparks cemetery at Old Hood under direction of Preston Funeral Home.

Pallbearers were Billy John Sparks, Daniel Reid Sparks, Johnny Sparks, Henry Sparks, Dan M. Kiser, and Gregory Souther.

WILKES WANTS TO CHANGE NAME

SANTA BARBARA, Calif.—Keith Wilkes, the son of a Baptist minister who was the rookie of the year in the National Basketball Association with the Golden State Warriors, petitioned yesterday to change his name legally to Jamaal Abdul Lateef. Wilkes, a former UCLA star, is a Muslim.

Retired Harlan Judge Succumbs at Lexington

Funeral services for former Harlan Circuit Judge Edward G. Hill, 63, were held Saturday at the Harlan Baptist Church.

Judge Hill died last Wednesday night at U.K. Medical Center after a brief illness.

Burial was in Richmond cemetery, with graveside services there.

Hill served as judge of Harlan circuit court for 20 years. He assumed that position in 1955 through appointment by former governor Lawrence Wetherby. Hill succeeded the late Judge Astor Hogg, who left the Harlan bench to take a seat on the Kentucky Court of Appeals. Hill retired as judge of the Harlan court in January.

Hill gained national and state recognition during 1962 and 1963 when he presided over a grand jury investigation into vice and crime in Newport, Ky. Several indictments against major figures resulted from that investigation.

He was awarded the Judges Outstanding Service Award in 1967 by the Kentucky Bar Association.

He was also active in community activities and served on the board of trustees of Appalachian Regional Hospitals.

Hill was elected to the bench for three terms in Harlan county without opposition. In 1972 he was an unsuccessful candidate for the Kentucky Court of Appeals, Seventh Appellate District.

He received an Eastern Kentucky University Outstanding award in 1970 having graduated from the college in 1935. He attended the University of Cincinnati Law School and studied further at Harvard University.

Among survivors is his widow, the former Kathleen Welsh, three children, including Mrs. Lane Hill Gentry, Lexington, and Mrs. V. D. Florence, Jr., Cynthia and a brother, Walter Hill also of Lexington.

"KEPT"

"The Lord will KEEP the feet of His saints." (1 Samuel 2:9.)

KEEP! What a lovely word is recorded for us so many times in Scripture, and how much it means to the redeemed of the Lord. As we journey along our earthly pilgrimage, the difficulties to be encountered are too great, the burdens too heavy, the snares too powerful, and the evil in this present world of corruption too overwhelming — yet what strong consolation is ours by grace. Our blessed Lord not only saves, but He KEEPS, even the feeblest of His saints.

Let us remind ourselves of the promises concerning the Lord's KEEPING power. He guarantees to meet every need, and His Presence is our unfailing comfort. How beautiful is the promise in Genesis 28:15: "Behold I am with thee, and will KEEP thee." The Psalmist gives us a blessed prayer: "KEEP me, as the apple of the eye, hide me under the shadow of Thy wings." (Psalm 17:8). Again in Psalm 121:1-2, "I will KEEP thee from all evil. He shall KEEP thy soul. The Lord shall KEEP thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth, and even for ever more."

Another promise in Proverbs 3:25—"Be not afraid of sudden fear, neither of the desolation of the wicked when it cometh. For the Lord shall be thy confidence and shall KEEP thy foot from being taken;" and in Prov. 6:22 we read that when thou goest it (the Word of God) shall lead thee; when thou sleepest, it shall KEEP thee, and when thou awakest it shall talk with thee. Another jewel we find in Isaiah 26:3: "Thou wilt KEEP him in perfect peace—whose mind is stayed on Thee." At all times and in all circumstances KEEP. Also in Isaiah 41:10 "I the Lord do KEEP thee. I will KEEP thee night and day." Again a promise in Isa. 42:6. "I the Lord have called thee in righteousness, and will hold thine hand, and will KEEP thee."

In our Lord's great intercessory prayer, we have the promise of a two-fold KEEPING: "I come to Thee, Holy Father, KEEP through Thine own name those whom Thou hast given Me, that they may be one as we are." (John 17:11). Here we have the Father KEEPING us. In verse 12 we have the Lord Jesus KEEPING us: "I KEPT them in Thy name. These Thou gavest Me have I kept, and none of them is lost." Our Lord also prays that Thou shouldst not take them out of the world, but that they shouldst KEEP them from evil. What a tower of strength it is to know that our exalted Lord is ever living to make intercession for us.

The apostle Paul, writing to Timothy, assured him he had made a deposit, and had entrusted his present and eternal interests to the Lord, the KEEPING of his soul for time and eternity. With confidence he writes: "I am persuaded that He is able to KEEP that which I have committed unto Him against that day." (2 Tim. 1:12). What a satisfaction and comfort to have this assurance, concerning the keeping-power of our Lord Jesus Christ. We are truly KEPT by the power of God through faith unto salvation, for we are unable to KEEP ourselves, but upheld by His almighty hand.

The apostle Jude assures us in that beautiful doxology: "Now unto Him who is able to KEEP you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of His glory with exceeding joy, Amen." In Rev. 3:10, it is recorded: "because thou hast KEPT the word of MY patience, I also will KEEP thee from the hour of temptation which shall come upon all the world." May we know more and more the glorious reality of our Redeemer's KEEPING power moment by moment till we are safe in the glory WITH HIM.

With affectionate greetings in our Lord, HENRY SPENCE, 12 Maxwell Road, Winton, Bournemouth Hants, England.

KSP Plans Major Change In Crime-Fighting Efforts

By HERB BROCK

Frankfort, Ky.—State police officials are studying plans which, if implemented, would result in significant changes in the way criminal cases are handled and a major streamlining of investigatory systems.

State Police Commissioner Truett Ricks said that some of the wide-ranging proposals concerning criminal investigation procedures now under consideration will be adopted by fall.

At issue is an effort to relieve state police detectives of those felony cases having the slimmest chance of solution, freeing them to concentrate on crimes which require both the best investigative skills and are better solution prospects.

"Our detectives are just too overworked," Ricks said. "Both the public and the detectives' interests would be better served if they concentrate on the more serious crimes."

According to Col. Lewis Babb, commander of the State Police Criminal Investigation Section, detectives would concentrate on the violent crimes of rape, murder, assault and armed robbery and the growing "white-collar" crimes of fraud and embezzlement.

Babb said uniformed troopers would, without having to shift or add to their regular duties, take over most investigations of the largely property-related felonies, including breaking and entering and larceny and other crimes which traditionally offer few clues.

"Detectives are having to drive 75 to 100 miles to spend 30 minutes investigating a theft case where there's no physical evidence or suspects or identifiable property missing or anything else to go on," Babb said.

Babb said the proposal would end the present system of cases being assigned almost on an at-random basis to troopers and detectives. "You have a trooper working a complicated murder and, at the same time, a detective investigating a no-solution burglary," he said.

Babb stressed, however, that troopers are trained in basic investigative techniques and can handle at least the start of probes into every felony, in addition to their largely traffic control-oriented duties.

Babb acknowledged that every crime is serious, especially to the victim, but added that the planned move would be the most realistic solution to a manpower shortage problem. There currently are only about 55 detectives having to cover all 120 of Kentucky's counties in which state police have at least partial jurisdiction.

But, he said, a related proposal also would help remedy the short-handed situation. Under the proposal, each county would be manned by at least one detective. Those counties with high crime rates would get one or more additional detectives.

Babb said implementation of that proposal, which would mean more than a 100 per cent increase in the number of detectives, would take place gradually over several months or years.

Despite their low numbers, state police detectives still manage to keep one of the nation's best clearance rates—40 per cent—compared to the national rate (for all police departments) of less than 20 per cent.

School Bus Drivers Go Back to School

This summer an estimated 2,000 school bus drivers will go back to school for two day driver training sessions sponsored by the state Department of Education, division of pupil transportation.

The training schools will be held between July 15 and August 15 at 20 locations around the Commonwealth. The school serving Floyd and Pike counties was held this week at Mullins High School.

The schools cover far more than the mechanics of maneuvering a school bus, according to Paul Jones, director of the division of pupil transportation.

"The school bus driver is responsible for the safety of pupil passengers, the efficient and economic operation of the bus, good order and discipline and good public relations for the school system," a memo from the pupil transportation division states.

Jones said the Kentucky State Police will assist with the training sessions, which will include information on new traffic laws and Kentucky Administrative Regulations concerning pupil transportation, first aid, vehicle inspection, emergency procedures pupil behavior management and transportation of handicapped children.

During fiscal year 1976, the Kentucky Bureau of Highways maintenance crews will clean up 15,000 miles of litter, apply 65,000 gallons and 100,000 tons of herbicide, mow 200,000 acres, clear 3,000 miles of ditches and remove 250,000 lane-miles of snow, as well as repair 100,000 feet of guardrails and 300 bridges.

Home Ec Teachers Set Region Goals At Meeting Here

The Executive Council and Program of Work committee of the Region 11 Home Economics Teachers' Association held its summer planning session at the Floyd County Library, July 29, to choose regional goals and make plans for activities for the year.

The goals for the year, along with some of the major activities to meet these goals follow:

1. To support and promote legislation for vocational home economics education. Jamie Williams, of Johnson Central High School, has been asked to serve as a contact person for the state legislative committee.

2. To improve the teaching of the food and nutrition area in home economics. The fall meeting of the regional association will probably be held at the Eastern Kentucky Comprehensive Rehabilitation Center at Thelma, using the food service facilities and Bob Wainscott, food service and American Restaurant Association representative, as the resource person.

3. To increase the number of gainful classes in the state. Mrs. Inez Hill, of the University of Kentucky, College of Education, will be asked to attend the fall meeting to inform the group on how to begin and set up the teaching facilities for gainful employment classes.

4. To promote professional attitude and actions among home economics teachers. Handouts on writing news articles and other types of public communications will be distributed at the fall meeting.

5. To make effective use of extended employment. At the spring meeting a panel discussion of teachers explaining how they use their extended summer employment will be followed by a question-and-answer period, with a member of the state staff available for comments.

6. To make Future Homemakers of America an integral part of the home economics program.

7. To improve the quality of consumer and homemaking adult programs.

Attending the meeting were Lillian Wheeler, Mayo State Vocational School, president; Lula Reed, Salyersville High School, president-elect and chairman of the Program of Work committee; Jamie Williams, Johnson Central High School, stand-in for the secretary and chairman of the publicity of Committee; Janet Rowe, Prestonsburg High School, vice president; Sylvia Bowman, Johnson Central High School, immediate past president; Madge Mullins, Elkhorn City High School, and Requa Spears, Mullins High School, committee members.

The story is told about the farmer who had taken an old, run-down, grown-up piece of land and through many months of sun-'til-sun labor had made it into a beautiful farm.

A man riding by in a buggy one day, seeing the farmer working in a field, pulled up and called out: "You and the Lord sure do have a nice farm here." "Yes," the farmer replied. "You should have seen it when the Lord had it by himself!"

There is a great deal of truth in this story. We accomplish many things only through our own efforts. God helps us by supplying health and strength, knowhow and intelligence, but the fields are made beautiful with an axe, a grubbing hoe, and a lot of hard work.

The same is true with all phases of life.

OUR THOUGHT TO REMEMBER: "GOD HELPS HIM WHO HELPS HIMSELF."

Red Cross Works as Advocate Of Flood Insurance Program

Did you know if much of Kentucky was suddenly flooded by heavy rainstorms or an overflowing of the Ohio and all its tributaries many Kentucky businessmen and homeowners would be ineligible for Federal financial disaster relief?

Did you also know that since July 1, federal mortgage guarantees and insurance, as well as VA and FHA mortgage loans and commercial and industrial lending by federally insured or regulated financial institutions for construction purposes are no longer available within certain sections of the flood prone areas of Kentucky?

"The reason is," says Robert Spangler, manager of the Kentucky Division American Red Cross, "that many areas of our state have not yet either applied or qualified to enter the National Flood Insurance Program."

"The Red Cross is working as an advocate of the program," Mr. Spangler explained, "in an effort to mitigate the disastrous effects on communities and individuals of damages caused each year throughout Kentucky by floods and mudslides."

The National Flood Insurance Program is a comprehensive approach to flood damage protection. For the first time, individual property owners in flood prone areas of Kentucky are able to acquire insurance coverage at affordable rates. At the same time, however, it requires communities with designated flood prone areas to adopt flood plain management regulations to protect against the devastation of future flooding, said Mr. Spangler.

To be eligible for this federally-subsidized insurance protection, he said, the community in which an individual resides must apply to the Federal Insurance Administration (FIA) of the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and meet the minimum requirements established by FIA for participation in the program. Once an area has been accepted in the program, local insurance agents will sell the policies. (Floyd county and the cities of Prestonsburg and Wheelwright have been accepted in the program.—Ed.)

EXPLANATION

The Oliver Hall who was listed in The Times last week as having been arrested on charges of drunk driving and attempting to elude officers is not the Oliver Hall who resides at Galveston, in this county.

To be accepted in the program initially, the community must submit an application, part of which requires the adoption of minimum flood plain management regulations, such as a simple building permit system if one does not already exist.

Once the community has fulfilled this simple procedure and is accepted into the program, individual property owners throughout the entire community can immediately purchase subsidized insurance to cover losses up to $35,000 on a single dwelling; $100,000 on multi-unit dwellings, and $10,000 on the contents of each unit; and $100,000 on non-residential buildings and $100,000 on their contents. The rate for residential coverage is only $0.25 per $100 of value. Insurance protection for a residence valued at $20,000, for example, would cost the purchaser only $50 per year.

Following acceptance in the program, FIA will contract with a federal agency or private engineering firm to provide the community with flood data, necessary to develop adequate additional flood plain management measures to minimize flood damage. This technical information will include an actuarial rate map enabling property owners to purchase an equal additional amount of non-subsidized insurance at actuarial rates once the additional flood management measure are adopted for their area. A map and study will contain sufficient technical data on the special flood hazard areas of the community to enable it to formulate needed improvements.

Meanwhile, said Mr. Spangler, many property owners in Kentucky will continue to face the risk of uninsured losses caused by flood devastation until the community applies to join the Federal Flood Insurance Program.

Even in the communities that have joined the program, the number of policies that have been written is relatively small according to Mr. Spangler. On March 11 of this year the Kentucky Division of the American Red Cross held a news conference urging those individuals eligible to purchase flood insurance to do so. Shortly thereafter, flooding affected many sections of the Commonwealth. One common lament was heard from property owners affected by the flooding. It was, "I wish I had taken out flood insurance." Mr. Spangler urged that, "now, before the winter and spring rains hit Kentucky, communities that have not done so should qualify for flood insurance. In those sections of the state where this step has already been taken, the responsibility lies with the individual to purchase flood insurance."

Luxmore Guarantees Students Needed Help Is Available

PIKEVILLE, Ky.—“We are offering you the opportunity to succeed in college and I will guarantee a student who needs financial aid will not be turned away.” It may sound like an ad in the newspaper or a commercial on radio or television, but Paul Luxmore tells this to all newcomers at Pikeville College.

Luxmore heads the new federally-funded Special Services Program at the 86-year-old college.

It is Luxmore's desire to find 60 students among the college community who, because of academic or social problems, may not finish college. Said Luxmore, “The total social and academic structure of the student may not be geared to the social structure on campus. Whether or not a student has the ability to succeed is not the question. This (college) establishment itself turns off students.

“In many cases, what we as college professors face, “he continued,” is a young person from a non-professional home trying to cope with a professor who knows nothing but academic surroundings. It's difficult for both to understand.”

Under the Special Services Program, Luxmore, an aide, and a team of nine college students will counsel lower classmen in a wide range of potential problem areas.

Luxmore said, “We must first determine which students need help. During freshman orientation we will test the students and determine where they need academic help. After the series of tests, students will be counseled in the academic areas. From that point, students will be referred by their professors when they make a low grade, or the student himself may come to us for help. Our team of students will then take over with individual tutoring sessions. First we want to tutor a student with his individual problem, then have group study sessions the night before an exam.”

“The end product,” said Luxmore, is a student who may have quit after one semester, finishing college.”

The Special Services Program is jointly funded by Pikeville College and the Office of Education.

Attend Dance Educators' Meet

Although the nationwide employment service system was created in 1933 with passage of the Wagner-Peyser Act, there were municipal and a few state employment services before World War I and a labor distribution system to provide workers for wheat and fruit harvests before that.

A recently completed Bureau of Labor Statistics study estimates that approximately 765,000 systems analysts, programmers, computer operating personnel, and data processing machine repairs were employed in 1970 — a growth of several hundred percent since 1960.

Floyd County Health Notes

By DONNA J. GRIFFITH
Health Educator

Every boy and girl should have a complete physical examination before entering school. Hearing and vision should be tested and heart, posture and weight should be checked by his or her family physician.

But an examination will be of little value without necessary follow-up. These tests should be made early enough for any defects to be corrected before the school opening date.

When the child has his physical examination is the best time to consider his immunity to communicable diseases. Don't make the mistake of thinking that, once your child has been immunized, the protection will last indefinitely, because it won't. You must keep his immunity up to date. All children should be fully immunized against diphtheria, pertussis, tetanus, poliomyelitis, measles and rubella before enrolling in school.

If you have forgotten when your child received vaccinations for various diseases, ask your physician or call the Floyd County Health Department for his immunizations record. Every boy and girl deserves a clean bill of health for that first day he enrolls in school.

The Floyd County Health Department announces it will conduct a pap smear clinic Thursday, August 7, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Each year Kentucky physicians may report as many as 1,000 new cases of cervical cancer, but by means of this simple test signs which foretell the development of this kind of cancer can be seen even before the obvious symptoms are noted by the woman or her doctor.

Remember too, that in order to have continuing protection against cervical cancer, you must have a regular pap smear at least once a year. Deaths caused by cervical cancer could be completely eliminated if all women would take this simple precautionary step.

This clinic is free and open to all women.

The Floyd County Health Department announces that on Monday, August 11, a public health nurse will conduct an outpost clinic in the basement of the Methodist Church at Wayland. Clinic hours will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. with the following services being available: immunizations, hemoglobins, TB skin tests, diabetes screening and blood pressures. This clinic is free and open to the public.

The health department would like to take this opportunity to remind all Floyd county parents whose children will be enrolling in the first grade this fall that it is very important that they check their children's immunizations record to see if their children have had all their required immunizations, since certain immunizations are required before a child can be eligible to enroll in school.

Glaucoma is a disease that can slowly and painlessly cause blindness. During the first stages of glaucoma, pressure of the fluid within the eye increases, damaging the nerve fibers which are a major link in the process of seeing. It often takes years for any noticeable warning symptoms to show up and by the time a person realizes what is happening serious and permanent eye damage can occur. For this reason, glaucoma most frequently occurs in persons over 35 years of age.

The Floyd County Health Department is conducting a glaucoma clinic, Wednesday, August 13, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. The health department urges all persons over 35 years of age to take advantage of this free service.

ALC's Upward Bound Presents 'Dirty Works at the Crossroads'

The 1975 Upward Bound program of Alice Lloyd College presented Bill Johnson's funny Gay 90's melodrama, "Dirty Works at the Crossroads; or, Tempted, Tried and True," in Cushing Hall on the college campus, Monday and Tuesday, August 4 and 5.

The play is the hilarious portrayal of the traditional villain, good guy and heroine plot made famous by the silent movies of yesteryear.

The story revolves around the innocent Nellie Lovelace who is pursued by the evil villain, Munro Murgatroyd. The hero is Adam, the stalwart blacksmith's son. Complete with a railroad tracks climax, the play winds its way through romance, poisonings, comedy and tragedy.

The cast of the play is made up of area students who are participating in this summer's Upward Bound Program at Alice Lloyd College. Upward Bound is a special summer project designed to give area high school age students an early glimpse of college life and help prepare them for their future education by way of special classes and cultural activities.

The cast of players included: Kathy Tackett, of Dorton, as Nellie Lovelace, the true and tender heroine; Edsel Branham, of Virgie, as the brave but bashful hero, Adam Oakhart; Kay Craft, of Wayland, as the sweet and simple widow Lovelace; Robin Smith, of McDowell, as the deep and dyed Ida Rhinegold; Mike Hughes, of Martin, as the rude and rustic Mookie Maguaggins; Susan Bradley, of Wayland, as Mrs. Upton Asterbilt, high society from Newport and Brooklyn; Alvi Farler, of Viper, as Leonie, Mrs. Asterbilt's daughter and a Madison Avenue belle; McCletha Tackett, of Dorton, as the Asterbilt's French maid, and Lealisa Akers, of Betsy Layne, as the fatherless Little Nell. Ervin Polly of Jenkins, made a guest appearance as the villainous, Munro Murgatroyd. Polly, an ALC graduate, is a member of the college's Summer Theatre troupe.

Director of "Dirty Works at the Crossroads" Alan Donovan, is a graduate student at Florida State University. Musical director, Mark Rice, director of the Salyersville High School band is an eight-year veteran of the ALC Upward Bound Program.

Confusion on Dewey Camping Regulations Persists, Corps Says

According to a U. S. Army Corps of Engineers spokesman at Dewey Dam, visitors to Dewey Lake and Jenny Wiley State Park continue to be confused concerning designated camping areas.

"Much of our time is taken up issuing warnings and informing people they are illegally camped," said Ranger Robert Beverly. He explained that there are four designated camping areas on the lake and that outside these areas, anything besides picnicking is not allowed. The "legal" camping areas include the broad point directly across the lake from Terry's Boat Dock, an area across and immediately down the lake from the Stratton Branch swimming area, the Corps camping grounds in the German Bridge area and the state park camping area on Goble Branch.

Most other areas along the lakeshore are marked with either "No Camping" or "Picnic Only" signs, the ranger said.

Vinciguerra Resigns As Dean at Pikeville

PIKEVILLE, Ky.—Dr. Jackson O. Hall, president of Pikeville College, has announced he has accepted the resignation of Philip Vinciguerra, dean of students at the school.

The resignation becomes effective August 1.

Vinciguerra will leave his position at the college to become Director of Admissions and Records at Southern West Virginia Community College with branch schools at Williamson, Logan, and Pineville.

Upon accepting the resignation, Hall said, "I extend to him my appreciation for all that he has done for the college, and I wish him well in his new position at Southern West Virginia Community College."

Vinciguerra attracted national attention to himself and Pikeville College, when, at the age of 46, left his job as Preparation Foreman in the coal mines of West Virginia to enter college with his three daughters. In 1963, when he entered the college as a freshman, he said, "This is something I have always wanted to do. I don't feel insecure in leaving a guaranteed job to enter college."

Four years later, he received a Bachelor of Science Degree from Pikeville College and was hired by the school as Director of Admissions. In 1969, the native of Thacker Mines, West Virginia, became Associate Dean of Students and was appointed Dean of Students in 1970.

While continuing in his position as Dean, Vinciguerra completed a Master of Arts Degree at Morehead State University.

Vinciguerra has served as Acting Academic Dean and Registrar at Pikeville College and has been an Associate Professor in the Mining Technology Program since its conception four years ago.

Vinciguerra is married to the former Elizabeth Sparks, of Cedar Bluff, Virginia. Mrs. Vinciguerra is a teacher at Magnolia High School in Matewan, West Virginia. The couple has four daughters.

Region 11 Directors Meet

The KEDR 11 (ROPES Region 11) board of directors met July 29 at the regional office here, with the chairman, Charles F. Clark, superintendent of Floyd county schools, presiding. New board members attending the meeting were Herald Whitaker, superintendent of Magoffin county schools, and Dr. Curtis Phipps, director of the Division of Guidance. Dr. Phipps will represent the Department of Education on the board.

Reo Johns, Region 11 executive director, announced that a basketball clinic, sponsored by Region 11 and the Kentucky High School Athletic Association, will be held at Prestonsburg High School, September 15, 16, 18, 23, and 25 under the direction of Ed Rister, assigning secretary for this region. Johns also told the board that educational development regions in western Kentucky are urging the removal of sales tax on utilities for school districts. Johns was asked by the board to investigate the effect of this removal on school districts in eastern Kentucky.

Larry Jervis, Region 11 curriculum consultant, discussed Right to Read staff development activities to be held at Clark Elementary School, August 4-8 and Aug. 11-14. Activities were formulated by the Right to Read planning committee and will be carried out with an $8,100 grant for implementation of the committee's plans. Participating in the workshop will be three elementary teachers and the principal from each of seven pilot schools in Region 11. Schools chosen by superintendents to participate are: McDowell Elementary, Oil Springs, Salyersville Elementary, Grassy Elementary, Sycamore Elementary, Paintsville Elementary and Pikeville Elementary.

Bronelle Skaggs, director of Vocational Programs for the region, discussed construction of additional vocational education facilities in the region. Under construction are centers at Belfry and Salyersville. Although not yet under construction, a new building for Mayo State Vocational-Technical School and a vocational education center for Johnson County have been approved. Construction of the Johnson county center is contingent on availability of funds.

Tony Koester, Division of Program Development, Bureau of Instruction, discussed consumer education guidelines established by the Department of Education. He urged that consumer education be included in all schools. Koester also distributed copies of consumer education guidelines and pledged the support of the Department of Education in curriculum development services.

Don Burchett, area guidance consultant, and Dr. Curtis Phipps, director of the Division of Guidance. They discussed a placement program which will be implemented in Region 11 during the coming school year. Mechanics of the plan will involve receiving information about high school graduates with regard to what they do after leaving high school. When implemented, this plan will provide a vehicle whereby school district can evaluate curriculum as to effectiveness in preparing students for post-secondary schools or the world of work.

Also discussed by Burchett and Phipps was the possibility of school districts combining funds under Title IV-B, P. L. 93-380, to provide the services of a regional psychometrists. If employed, this person would oversee and coordinate the testing and placement efforts of the local school districts.

Also appearing before the board was Mrs. Ann Meade, of Paintsville. Mrs. Meade discussed the school in Paintsville being established by the United Parents of Handicapped Children. One classroom unit of the school will be opened in October.

Board action included: Endorsement of project applications submitted by the Big Sandy Area Community Action Program, Eastern Kentucky Concentrated Employment Program, Inc., Mountain Comprehensive Care Center; Berea College, and the Department of Justice; approval of the appointment of Lawton Ray Allen, CPA, as auditor for KEDR XI; approval of Right to Read Project expenditures.

Miller Alleges Fuel 'Gobbleup'

United Mine Workers President Arnold Miller said last week that all sources of energy in the United States are being "rapidly gobbled up" by a few giant conglomerates and urged a Senate committee to take action to restore free competition in the energy market.

Miller said the latest example of monopoly control in the energy field is the acquisition of control of Amax, Inc., the nation's fourth largest coal producer, by Standard Oil of California, the nation's fourth largest oil producer.

In a letter to Senator Philip Hart, Chairman of the Subcommittee on Antitrust and Monopoly, and members of the Subcommittee, dated August 1st, Miller called the Amax acquisition by SoCal the latest in a long series of takeovers of major coal producers by oil interests.

Miller said that 15 of the top 20 coal producers in the United States are wholly-owned subsidiaries of larger corporations with oil interests controlling more than 40 per cent of the nation's coal production.

Based on Highway Users Federation statistics, a four-person carpool can save each member an average of $570 a year if they drive 10 miles to work each day.

But the Words Keep on Ringing

I write this poem intense and grave
For the land of the free
And the home of the brave,

To all of those who came and went
On people's land
without consent.

Stripping the mountains of her land and trees,
Polluting the land
with their debris.

To all of those
with power and money
Who'd rob the bees
of their sweet honey.

And to the Almighty Saint, D-9
Who's raped our land so many times.

The following verse,
I dedicate
Out of sadness, fear and hate
For man and nature's heartsores plea
To all those blinded
by their greed.
Who dis-acknowledge environments—
To all of you
who came and went:

Oh, please Mr. Stripminer,
Help us to restore our land.
Since you're the one who ruined it,
Can't you lend a helping hand?

I've seen some reclamation jobs
—very poor indeed.
I've seen our green streams choking,
Oh, how our woodlands bleed.

Nature's God's creation, sensitive to the cruel
Someday when we awaken, she'll prove she can't be fooled.

Oh, please, Mr. Corporation,
don't destroy this land and flee,
But help us to restore it for yours and mine and me.

Bring out the government cannon, enforce the laws you've made
For the sobbing dirge of nature, for the colours of time and place.

But the words just keep on ringing thru the hills that used to be
And pass over the home of the rich and brave to the land of the poor and free.

FIVE FLORIDIANS ARE JAILED FOR HARVESTING WILD SEA OATS

FOLEY, Ala.—Five Floridians were arrested and jailed recently on charges of harvesting wild sea oats from Alabama's Gulf shore.

Chief jailer Jimmy Hartner said at Bay Minette he did not recall any previous arrests on that charge.

Signs along the beach warn: "Unlawful to harvest sea oats" on the basis that the three-foot tall weeds help prevent erosion.

Sea oats are sometimes used for decorations but have no other practical use after harvesting.

95-Year-Old Mountain Academy Schedules Annual Homecoming

By HELEN PRICE STACY

Hazel Green Academy stands on a knoll overlooking the Wolfe county community of Hazel Green, which was named for the lush growth of hazelnut bushes. On Aug. 8-10 the school will open its doors to the annual homecoming of former students, faculty and friends, who will spend the greater part of three days reminiscing, visiting remembered trysting places and catching up on news of school and old friends.

One approach to the beautiful town near the headwaters of the Red River is along a tree-lined road that provides a foothill for the academy, beginning its 96th year this fall.

When homecomers gather the second week-end in August, familiar landmarks may be seen, as well as improvements about the spacious campus and academy farm.

At the school's 75th anniversary homecoming, Association President J. Goff Long commented that HGA 'has had a glorious past, and we look forward to the years that lie ahead as the sphere of its service is widened.'

The academy was founded in 1880 and bears as its motto: "Where we find a path or make one." Its students have crossed mountains to find it, traveled through valleys and 'come up from the Bluegrass' to become educated at the "Light in the Hills."

Academy Director George Buchanan acknowledges an old law of the school—as old as its original founders Green Berry Swango, William O. Mize and J. Taylor Day—that "no student will be turned away from the academy because he cannot pay his way. We have some who pay less than $10 a month. All students, regardless of financial background, work."

From HGA's beginning, when classes were held in makeshift structures in Hazel Green, the student body was diversified in background. There were some who walked from small hill shacks to mingle with other students who arrived by horse and livery from stables of elegant homes. Yet, all had in common the work and training in Christian education they received at the academy.

All work at the academy has a purpose, according to Buchanan and, while practical, "we do not want it to be classed as drudgery."

From that early year when three area men each gave $500 to start the Light in the Hills, many people have contributed to the cause.

Back in 1906, when William H. Cord resigned as principal at HGA, a Berea College man replaced him. Henry J. Derthick knew that funds had to be raised to enlarge the school; so, much of his time was spent riding his horse to preach in area counties. His offerings were brought to the academy and used to build additions or to hire a new faculty member.

Derthick was invited out of state to preach on occasion and here, too, he managed to inject HGA's need for money. In Detroit, Mich. one Sunday, he learned that a faithful member was ill and unable to be in church. He made it a point to call unannounced on her. It was at the Edsel Ford estate, and Mrs. Ford left her bed to order the intruder from the premises with, "Sir, this is a private home and I demand that you leave."

When she learned that the caller was a minister and from her church, she invited him into her home and asked him to return a month later for another visit. During the second visit, Mrs. Ford explained that she had longed "for a son in the ministry, but death deprived me of this wish." Throughout the friendship, Mrs. Ford made sizeable contributions to Hazel Green Academy. Ford Industrial Building on the campus is a result of her gifts.

Through the years, the academy has been known for its culture. It has one of the oldest music and literature programs in the area. Once a school for all 12 grades, HGA now is a four-year high school and expects about 100 students this year. Albert B. Osborne, former superintendent of Clyde (Ohio) public schools, has been hired as principal. Like many principals and faculty members before him, Osborne is a minister in the Disciples of Christ (Christian) Church.

The homecoming program will begin Friday evening, Aug. 8, when visitors register and enjoy a social hour. The popular fish fry is set for Saturday night, followed by a talent show directed by Rex Brewer. The Sunday homecoming sermon at nearby Hazel Green Christian Church will be delivered by the Rev. Don Bickers, class of '62. Association President Fran Harmon requests that reservations be made with Mrs. George Buchanan at the academy.

Appalachian Heritage: A Portrait of Mountain Life

"Your work, Appalachian Heritage, is a sensitive portrait of life in Appalachia. It is a very human magazine, a messenger which helps to explain the ordeals and triumphs of our people" ... so wrote one prominent contributor to Al Stewart, the editor of the quarterly magazine published at Alice Lloyd College. The publication strives to portray the life styles and people of the Appalachian region in a truthful and uninhibited way.

Stewart, who founded the magazine and now serves as its editor, has long been a defender of the individuality of Appalachian people. "Southern Appalachia," he says, "is not one little generalized statement but a tremendous experience". Stewart complains with vigor when the people of the mountains are portrayed as ignorant, uninteresting, and near-savage by people who know little of how life in Appalachia really is.

Appalachian Heritage does not attempt to paint a perfect picture of the Appalachian region. Rather it admits the shortcomings of the area while pointing to the creativity and individuality of the people who live there.

In the most recent issue, the diversity of Appalachian life is underscored by way of the many subjects discussed between its covers. Literature, art, folklore, moonshining and coal mining are just a few of the areas touched on by the magazine's outstanding contributors.

This latest issue discusses the reaction of the people of Asheville to Thomas Wolfe's great novel, Look Homeward Angel, a story written about real characters in the hometown of the author. Thomas Wolfe's difficult beginnings with Look Homeward Angel and the intimate way he described those around him make the first part of Betty Lynch Williams's three-part discussion stimulating reading.

The remainder of the issue presents stories and poems from contributors from all across the Appalachian region. In "The Bewitched Cow", Henry P. Scalf tells a story of pride and witchcraft told to him by "Blind" John Adkins of Pike County, Kentucky. "Quiet Dignity" and "Eddie" written by Betty Peterson and Mary Alice Arrowood offer tales of incidents in life so real in subject and description that many will relate them into their own past. Harriette Arnow's "No Rats in the Mines" is a vivid recollection of the dangers of coal mining as presented by an old miner and Mrs. Arnow's own feelings concerning mine safety. "The Ballad of Jimmy Ray Jones" by William Wiser discusses the familiar Appalachian theme of moonshining and its often tragic consequences. "Hand-Made Quilts for Sale" is a description of how the old time way of making beautiful quilts by hand is still carried on enthusiastically in the mountain region. These and many other stories make up 75 to 100 pages of some of the most interesting and honest writing to be found on the subject of Appalachia.

The American Folklore Newsletter of El Paso, Texas described Appalachian Heritage as a "professional, impressive, and thoroughly absorbing" publication. The Library Journal noted that Appalachian Heritage has "an intrinsic honesty, unusual for regional magazines" and that it is "a worthy addition for any library."

Appalachian Heritage editor, Al Stewart, summed up the latest issue of the magazine by referring to the section on Thomas Wolfe. "Wolfe had genuine people not stereotypes. His characters were real Appalachian people and they have come to be some of the greatest characters in all literature. Once the stereotype is stripped away Appalachian people emerge as a diverse and interesting people."

One avid reader wrote in and said, "I received the Spring issue and think it wonderful. I am enclosing a check for $9.00 for a two year subscription. I can't afford it but I want it so much. I think I will call it my birthday gift to myself—I will be 70 years old on Sunday." If you would like to join the over 1500 readers of Appalachian Heritage simply send $5.00 for a one year subscription or $9.00 for a two year subscription to Appalachian Heritage, Box 132, Pippa Passes, Kentucky 41844. Subscription rates will go up soon due to the increased costs of publication.

Soil Insecticides Sale Suspended

Frankfort, Ky.—The sale of chlordane and heptachlor—soil insecticides which are widely used in Kentucky corn production—has been suspended by the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency.

Manufacturers of the two insecticides have been given until Aug. 2 to appeal to the suspension.

According to Fred Waters, chief of the pesticides section in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, the head of the federal agency, Russell Train, suspended the insecticides July 30 after classifying them as an eminent cancer hazard.

Chlordane and heptachlor are root and soil insecticides used commonly in controlling corn insects, such as corn rootworms, cutworms and white grubs. Use of chlordane for controlling termites is not included in the suspension order. However, most manufacturers say they cannot economically produce it for this minor use only.

The federal environmental agency is allowing the manufacturers and formulators of the chemicals five days to appeal the decision. After five days, any manufacturer who hasn't appealed is prohibited from selling the products. A stop-sell order issued for companies that don't appeal will make it illegal for them to sell the products.

Since informing formulators in Kentucky of the action, the state pesticides office has received complaints that without use of these insecticides, corn yields in certain cool damp soils of western Kentucky may be reduced by as much as 40 per cent.

Floyd Gets $3,459 To Promote Travel

Frankfort, Ky.—Floyd county is now eligible for $3,459.82 in the state's 1975-'76 matching funds program.

Of the statewide total of $329,700 allocated in the governor's budget for the matching funds program, the five-county Big Sandy region is eligible for $13,819.95.

The statewide allocation is an increase of $89,300 over last fiscal year's total, and Floyd county's allocation is $937.10 more than last year's.

Each county's allocation is determined by distributing one-fourth of the statewide total equally among the Commonwealth's 120 counties, with the remaining 75 per cent distributed on a per capita basis.

The matching funds program seeks to continue and develop programs which promote Kentucky's travel industry. The programs are of a regional and local nature, with the option of the most effective means of promotion left up to each area.

The promotions can be in the form of mass media advertising (radio, television, newspaper, magazine, billboard), promotional literature featuring local or regional attractions and points of interest, or through participation in sport and travel shows.
