Court Acts To Procure 2 Landfills

County's Purchase Of Road Machinery Made at Meeting

The Floyd fiscal court in its special meeting last Wednesday invested $63,056 in road machinery and moved toward acquisition of two additional solid waste landfill sites.

County Attorney James R. Allen was authorized to prepare leases on tracts owned by Sam Hale, on Middle Creek, in Magisterial District 1, and by Harry Martin, of Drift, in District 3. The leases will provide that Hale is to be paid $4,800 rental a year, and Martin $1,200.

If the leasing of the two tracts becomes final, the county will have three of the four disposal sites originally recommended for the county's solid waste program. Only Magisterial District 3 would have no such facility.

The one landfill now in operation is in Magisterial District 2, on Turkey Creek. If no other landfills are put into use, relieving the load on this one site, it is estimated that it will be filled to capacity within a matter of months.

Machinery purchases were made on the basis of low bids. They follow:

A crawler dozer for $79,908, less $31,845 trade-in allowed on the county's TD15, purchased from the Wayne Supply Co., Louisville; a loader-backhoe for $12,554 and a General Model 6 DOW Tagalong trailer for $2,439, both from Machinery, Inc., Charleston, W. Va.

In other action the court paid Geisler Rhodes Associates $3,071.67 for core drilling the site of the proposed court-house annex here.

Johnson Couple Held Here After Deputy Slaying

A Johnson county man and his wife were brought to the Floyd county jail early Sunday from Johnson county for safekeeping after a Johnson deputy sheriff had been shot and instantly killed.

Charged with first degree murder in the slaying of Deputy Sheriff Robie Fairchild, 31, at Kerz, are Johnny and Vern Preston. Bond has not been set for either, and a formal arraignment is not expected until after the victim's funeral.

Fairchild was shot in the back of his head with a bullet from a .38-caliber revolver. The shot was apparently fired from a second-floor apartment of the Prestons and at a distance of about 17 feet.

Gas Company Claims Firm Uprooted Lines

A restraining order in each case and a total of $112,201.85 are asked in three circuit court suits filed last week.

The Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company last Friday asked of the Triple Elkhorn Mining Company and its head, Harry Hale Ranier, $27,201.85 damages to its gas lines during stripmining operations and $25,000 punitive damages, plus a permanent injunction against further destruction of its lines.

Two days earlier, the Black Hawk Mining Co., a Prestonsburg-based partnership comprised of Max E. Kofford and Wesley Blackburn, claimed $50,000 damages of Winston G. Taylor and William E. Damron. Plaintiffs alleged that Taylor and Blackburn closed a roadway and refused them permission to enter on coal property which they have under lease on the Crooked Branch of Johns Creek. The temporary injunction which they ask would restrain defendants from interfering in any way with them in beginning mining operations and, specifically, from denying them the right to use the surface of their property for the purpose of moving equipment across the road to the property to be mined.

In the third action Paul R. Gearheart, Elaine Gearheart, Jim Steele and Mae H. Hinchman claim $2,500 damages each and ask an injunction against Max Kofford and the Harold Fuel Company. Plaintiffs allege defendants have barricaded a road and prevented access to their property, near Boldman.

Specific claims of damage made by Kentucky West Virginia follow:

This Town . . . That World

This weather somehow brings to mind the story illustrating the power of kindness by telling of the wind whooping and whooping and failing to make the man take off his coat and of the kindly sun then turning on its power. The only weakness of the story is this: Kindly, old Sol couldn't make the man put on his coat again.

TWO VERSIONS

The first sign posted on my office wall after we returned to this location read, "Bless This Mess." Then, whether by design or by accident, somebody placed directly beneath that a picture of Dewey Lake.

The latest adornment of the wall reads, in part:

We have done so much
 With so little
 For so long,
 We are now qualified
 To do anything
 With nothing.

That's layin' it on pretty thick, we admit, but we are not the cynic who changed the lines to read like this:

We have done so little
 With so much
 For so long
 We are now qualified
 To do nothing
 With anything.
 Take your choice.

New Lab To Serve Coal Industry

Preparing a "bomb" used in determining the b.t.u. content of coal are, left, John A. Salisbury, and Mike Jarvis, technicians at the new coal-testing laboratory recently opened near here by Harry Hale Ranier. At far left is Cleo Akers, of Dwale, former technician for the Princess Elkhorn Coal Company, who acted in an unpaid advisory capacity in equipping the laboratory.

As Prestonsburg Community College was ready to begin its 11th year at 8 o'clock this morning, its director, Dr. Henry A. Campbell, Jr., was expecting the highest enrollment in its history.

Early Tuesday afternoon, registration had matched last year's 481. Dr. Campbell expects it to rise beyond 500 by tonight (Wednesday).

Dr. Campbell said all departments of the college appear to be ready for a successful academic year. He cited the Community Service and Nursing programs as outstanding examples of benefits developing within the college.

"The Community Service program," he commented, "is growing, it's bigger and better. Mr. Ratcliff is doing an excellent job with this . . . The Nursing program looks very good. Thirty three of the 35 who graduated from our first nursing class are now nurses, and 17 of the 20 completing work last May passed their final exams."

Third Drowning At Dewey Lake Claims Boy, 7

Dewey Lake, which for two years had escaped tragedy, last Sunday afternoon claimed its third victim within a month.

Seven-year-old Christopher Watkins, of Salyersville, drowned in the Stratton Branch arm of the lake, a short distance from the state-owned swimming pool. Although the area was crowded, nobody apparently saw the child drown. Hillard Hall, who was walking along the lake shore, discovered the victim in about four feet of water at 4:30 p.m. It is believed the child had drowned as long as 30 minutes earlier.

Mouth-to-mouth resuscitation by David Allen, lifeguard at the nearby pool, and other efforts at artificial respiration failed.

Other recent lake victims were Lester Howard drowned in the German area, and Robert Dean Thomas, who drowned near Goble Branch.

The week-end was one marked by water tragedies in the area. At Grayson Reservoir Naomi Johnson, 66, of Isonville, was killed when the motorboat in which she was a passenger was rammed by another craft which was towing two

The region's newest coal-testing laboratory, TEMCO, Inc., opened in this new structure on old US 23, near Sugar Loaf, last week.

Cleo Akers, of Dwale, who for 22 years was a technician in the Princess Elkhorn Coal Company's laboratory at David, acted in an advisory capacity in the selection of equipment for the new lab and in the training of personnel.

"This is the best in Eastern Kentucky," Mr. Akers said last week.

The 50 by 20-foot, three-room building was erected by Harry Hale Ranier, Prestonsburg coal operator, adjacent to his headquarters near Sugar Loaf. "And," said Akers, "he didn't spare himself when he bought the equipment—he bought the best, although cheaper equipment might have done the job."

Heading the laboratory are Mike Jarvis, who has a mathematics degree from the University, and John A. Salisbury, graduate majoring in chemistry from Eastern Kentucky State University.

Employees' Vote On Union Viewed

It became almost certain this week that a National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) election will be held to determine if employees of the Highlands Regional Medical Center will be unionized.

Certainty of an NLRB-conducted poll of hospital employees rests on three facts:

1. Employees last Thursday presented a written request for recognition of the National Union of Hospital and Health Care Employees (RWDSU-AFL-CIO) as their bargaining agent.
2. At the same time a petition for an election was filed with the NLRB regional office in Cincinnati in the event that the hospital management will not comply with the request.
3. The request has not been granted.

(The alphabetical RSDU used in identification of the union refers to the Retail and Wholesale Department Stores Union, it was said.)

Dan Stewart, organizer for the union, said that in the written request for recognition of the union, it was pointed out that "the vast majority of all fulltime and regular part-time employees of the Highlands Regional Medical Center" joined in the request. "We are willing," the request added, "to substantiate the authenticity of our representation rights through a third party and to commence contract negotiations on wages, hours and terms and conditions of employment for these employees."

Gene Divine, administrator of the medical center, commented this week: "We do not believe there can be a fair determination without an NLRB election, with a secret ballot and with all parties fully informed."

He pointed out that the medical center was founded for the purpose of rendering high-grade medical services to the people of a five-county area at a reasonable cost, adding: "The best way to implement that plan is for it (the hospital) to remain non-union."

He said the hospital administration has been working to increase the pay of employees and that a move toward an employee retirement program was begun well before the union demand was made.

"We are convinced," Mr. Divine said, "that the policy which we are implementing is for the welfare and best interests of the community, the hospital and its employees."

The Highlands Regional Medical Center began operation three years ago. It employs more than 300.

Operation of the hospital continues, as usual.

UMW Sets Labor Day Rally Here

Miners of District To Observe Holiday In Varied Program

The celebration of Labor Day by the United Mine Workers of America, which annually attracts to Eastern Kentucky its biggest single gathering of the year, will be held at Archer Park here, next Monday.

The annual observance is sponsored by District 30, United Mine Workers of America, one of the heaviest coal-producing areas in the nation.

The Archer Park Labor Day rally will begin at 10 a. m., and a full day's program of music, contests and varied entertainment has been planned, according to George Vaughan, chairman, and Bill Loone, secretary, of the UMWA Labor Day Celebration Committee.

Congressman Carl D. Perkins and Squire Feltner, president of District 30, will be on the speaking program. Arnold Miller, UMWA president, may not be able to attend the celebration, it was said this week.

The Labor Day committee will give away during the day a new 1975 automobile, a color TV set and an automatic shotgun. The oldest UMWA member present will also receive a prize.

International executive board members and all presidents and members of other districts have been invited to attend the celebration, and the committee emphasized that all members of the UMWA, their families and friends are urged to be present for the occasion which historically honors working people.

Raid Not End Of Day's Work, Lewis Learns

Sheriff Joe W. Lewis thought he had done a fair night's work with the confiscation of 61 cases of beer and a small quantity of whiskey and the arrest of two men, shortly after Monday midnight, but he hadn't finished.

He had just retired for the night, sometime after 2 a.m., when a call came from Jack's Creek that a man had been shot there. Within an hour he had arrested Harold Bolen, Jr., who allegedly had shot and wounded Henry Hall, of Perry county.

Bolen ended only a week ago a year's stay in jail here and in two hospitals for examination after he had blinded Hillard Akers with a shot fired in the vicinity of the Tuesday morning shooting.

Hall was taken to a Whitesburg hospital, suffering wounds in the face and leg from a .25-calibre automatic pistol. Bolen was returned to jail.

Arrested earlier in the night by Sheriff Lewis and Deputy Sheriff Eddie

Perkins Speaks At Head Start Training Meet

"The program is here to stay," Congressman Carl D. Perkins assured a large group of Head Start teachers and staff members who gathered at Prestonsburg Community College last Friday for an in-service training seminar.

Addressing the group in the auditorium of the Pike Technology building on the PCC campus, the Seventh district congressman called the Head Start program "one of the greatest programs we've ever enacted in Congress in terms of what can be done for rural child development," and he vowed that bills would be passed supporting the program, "even if the President vetoes them."

Perkins pointed out that he considered the primary importance of the Head Start program was "to assure that children from rural areas have early preparation more closely approximating the backgrounds of children from more affluent situations."

"Talking" Books Fill Vital Need

A recording of Hillbilly Women by Kathie Kahn made a Top Ten list last year in Kentucky.

Hillbilly Women is not a song, however. It's a talking book, and one of the most popular titles circulated during 1975 by the Kentucky Regional Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped (LBPH).

Other favorites were Memories of Old Jack by Wendell Berry and Walter de la Mare's Stories from the Bible.

The LBPH provided 101,455 free books and magazines on a regular basis to more than 2,000 Kentuckians last year, according to LBPH director Dena Wilson.

LBPH readers include not only blind Kentuckians, but also people with other handicapping conditions (such as cerebral palsy and stroke) that prevent them from reading or holding conventionally printed material.

Figures for the 1975 fiscal year show that the most frequently used LBPH materials were long-playing records on which books and magazines are read by persons certified by the Library of Congress. The LBPH circulated 73,760 talking books and 16,567 magazines on record last year.

Another popular talking book format is the tape recorded cassette. "Between February, 1974 and July, 1975 the number of our readers regularly using cassette players increased from 63 to 860," Mrs. Wilson said. The Library of Congress, which provides most of the material the LBPH circulates, plans to concentrate on cassette books in the future, she noted.

The library circulated 296 magazines and 9,303 books on cassette tape during fiscal year 1975.

Participants in the LBPH program receive record players and cassette players at no charge. They receive and return books by mail, postage free, for loan periods of one month.

Some readers use catalogs to pick reading material. Others choose to receive books selected by LBPH staff members who are familiar with the categories of books each reader enjoys.

The LBPH served about 150 Kentuckians with Braille material last year. However, for many people blindness came with old age, making it difficult for them to master Braille. "These people rely on recorded material for information and entertainment," Mrs. Wilson said. There are about 60 nursing homes on the LBPH mailing list.

Mrs. Wilson said that the LBPH hopes to increase the number of blind and physically handicapped readers during the coming year. "Many Kentuckians who could benefit from the talking book program don't realize they are eligible," she said. "We are trying to inform as many people as possible about the free services we offer."

Proposed Courthouse Move In Rowan Draws Protests

Morehead businessmen have joined residents in protesting Rowan county fiscal court's decision to locate the county courthouse two miles from downtown.

Businessmen said they feel the courthouse relocation will cause deterioration of the downtown business district.

The proposed new site, formerly the Pine Crest Children's Home, is located on the connector road to Interstate 64 in a newly annexed section of Morehead already populated by businesses and homes.

Besides a Holiday Inn and other commercial enterprises already in the area, a Heck's discount store and a 20-business shopping center are planned for the area.

The site includes two buildings and 25 acres of land, and plans call for rebuilding an existing house to be used as the jail and jailer's quarters.

The present jail was condemned four years ago following an unexpected investigation by county officials and local media representatives. The jail was a Works Projects Administration structure built during the depression.

With that in mind, an effort was made to plan for a courthouse complex that would house county and city jails, city hall, courthouse offices and a fire station, but no plans were made.

The brick courthouse, built in 1890, has been in bad repair in recent years and has come under fire from grand juries. The present courthouse took the place of a building which stood from 1863 to 1890.

The original courthouse, built 119 years ago, burned during the Civil War, the victim of a torch.

The current site is part of a 117-acre tract purchased in 1950 from Mr. and Mrs. Glennis Fraley by Kentucky Baptists, who operated the Pine Crest Home for 15 years. After that, the state leased the facility and used it as a detention center for boys and a treatment center for girls.

George Brown has an idea that one of the most intelligent insects, and one of the few that is friendly to mankind, is the black cricket. As proof of his theory he points out:

"To the rear of our warehouse is a steel door sealed with plastic to satisfy the whims of state, national, international and local sanitary inspectors. When I opened this door, in hopped six crickets. They skipped about for a while, then disappeared in a tile wall. Smart, I'd say—they seemed to know I was neither an inspector nor a fisherman."

THE MYSTERY SOLVED

This is apropos of nothing, unless you have experienced the trouble of breaking in a new set of store teeth or endured some other such ordeal.

This man is described to me as one of those small, cherubic individuals who seemed to be smiling even when he wasn't. Even after the dentist had hauled out all his teeth but two, an eyetooth upstairs and one an inch or so out of line in the lower story.

I am informed in the most solemn tones that a resident of the town passed this man's place of business and was startled to see the usual beaming countenance contorted in agony, the man twisting and running about, holding one jaw, then the other and occasionally yanking at his chin.

"It disturbed me, and I walked over to lend a hand," the teller of the tale says. "I just couldn't figger out what was the trouble. I asked him if he needed a little help, and the grin came back. He hung his head and said, 'No. To tell the truth, I was just tryin' to hem a peanut between these two teeth doc left me.'"

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

After much thought and consideration, and in a combined effort to better serve this community in their capacity as funeral directors, neither the Hindman Funeral Home nor the Casebolt, Hoskins and Cox Funeral Home will offer an ambulance service as of September 1, 1975.

The two establishments mutually agree that it is no longer financially feasible to offer an ambulance service. This is no longer possible due to substantially increased operating costs and recently enacted governmental requirements.

This is a necessary step in order that both Casebolt, Hoskins and Cox Funeral Home and Hindman Funeral Home will be able to offer the same high standard of service in the future as they have in the past in their capacity as funeral directors.

Animal Shelter Site at Martin May Be Chosen

Well on its way toward establishing an animal shelter to serve the county, the recently-formed Floyd County Humane Society designated the Martin vicinity as the area best suited for construction of the shelter.

"We decided that a central location in the county would better serve all sections of the county," said society secretary Debbie Burke. Society meetings, which were, for a time, held at the Clark School, near here, are now being conducted at the Martin Grade School due to increased involvement by persons from all over Floyd county.

"We need at least two acres," said Mrs. Burke, "and we'd rather lease, although we'd certainly consider purchasing a good tract of land."

Money for the founding of the animal shelter will consist primarily of approximately $30,000 which was donated to Floyd county as part of the bequest of a Middlesboro woman, Susan Hawkins Lieb, who left similar amounts to other communities in the state for the founding of humane societies and animal shelter construction.

The Floyd society has thus far established an accepted by-laws, elected a board of directors, and has applied for incorporation as well as membership in the U. S. Humane Society.

The next meeting will be held next Tuesday at the Martin Grade School at 7 p.m. President of the group is John Burke, Jr., of Prestonsburg.

Asks Squad Search For Missing Man

Capt. Graham Burchett, of the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad, said Tuesday morning that he has been asked by Mrs. Hansford Burchett, of the Betsy Layne area, to make a search of the Upper Dewey Lake section for her husband who has been missing since Saturday.

Unless other traces of his whereabouts are found, it was said, the lake may be dragged in the German area.

The Burchetts, the Rescue Squad leader was told, regularly spend their week-ends in that area. Last Saturday morning Mrs. Burchett was delayed in her departure from home. Her husband left for their campsite, and was seen driving his truck up the mountain between Cow Creek and the lake area. When Mrs. Burchett arrived at the place where she was to meet her husband, she found no trace of him, it was reported.

Hearing Slated September 9 On New Assessment Formula

A proposed formula for assessing farm land based on its income-producing capacity will be the subject of a legislative hearing in the Senate Chamber of the State Capitol Tuesday, September 9, at 1 p.m. (EDT).

Representatives of farm organizations, county property valuation administrators, the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and several state agencies will be invited to comment of the formula, which is designed to carry out the intent of a 1969 amendment to the Kentucky Constitution.

The amendment called for farm land to be assessed based on its value for agricultural or horticultural use, rather than its potentially greater value for residential, commercial or industrial development.

Members of the public are invited to speak on the proposed formula as well. Those wishing to testify at the hearing must notify Brooks Talley of the Legislative Research Commission staff, State Capitol, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601, (502) 564-5370, by September 5.

The 1970 General Assembly passed legislation directing farm land assessments to be based on the sale price of comparable land in the area.

Critics, including Senator John M. Berry, Jr., D-New Castle, who is chairman of the subcommittee on Assessment of Agricultural Land, say the current basis for assessments is artificial. Often, they contend, speculators and "hobby farmers" buy land at prices far exceeding its value for farm purposes which, in turn, causes assessment on other property in the area to increase.

The proposed legislation says that in order to qualify for the lower assessment a farm must produce a minimum annual gross income, which would vary ac-ording to the size of the farm but in no case would be less than $1,000.

At present, a farm qualifies for the lower assessment regardless of its size if it produces an annual gross income of $1,000 if there is evidence that it will produce that amount.

Berry says the bill would give more specific guidelines for assessing farm property and would carry out the intention of the constitutional amendment.

Natural Bridge

Powell — Wolfe Counties

Natural Bridge has excited Americans since long before the days of Daniel Boone; the area is full of Indian relics, shelters and burial grounds. It has been estimated that the formation of this impressive natural arch took more than a million years.

The ridge of which the bridge is a part, is the dividing line for Powell and Wolfe counties; however, the State Resort Park is in Powell, and reference is therefore generally made as such.

The park contains acres of rugged, wooded land which includes many trails leading to some of the other natural and man-made wonders, including a cave, towering rock formations, and such luxuries as a lake, a lodge, cabins, pavilion, swimming pool and camping areas.

Natural Bridge forms an arch with an opening 78 feet in length and 65 feet high. There are more than 15 million pounds of rock in suspension, supported by two immense abutments. The rock at the center of the arch is 40 feet thick and 30 feet wide at the top; and flat enough to actually serve as a bridge.

The view from the bridge is of the magnificent Daniel Boone National Forest. The surroundings are actually what makes this bridge so much more interesting than other similar natural arch structures, notably in Kentucky, Virginia and Utah.

The area was originally owned by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, and was a very popular excursion trip around the turn of the century. It was turned over to the state about 1926, with the intention that State ownership and more intensive improvements would give the park the place it deserved in the ranks of national playgrounds.

It was among the first Kentucky State Parks and retains the honor of being one of the most popular State Resort Parks even today.

Civil Preparedness Education To Help Students in Emergency

Frankfort, Ky.—How Kentucky students and their teachers react in case of tornado, flood, fire or other emergency may well depend on a program being carried out by the state Department of Education.

Allocating responsibility in case of an emergency and presenting school districts with a model emergency plan are two parts of the program, directed by June Preston, a former education specialist with the Department of Military Affairs' division of disaster and emergency services.

An important part of Miss Preston's job is helping Kentucky's school districts work out definite plans to follow during specific emergency situations. She has already helped develop plans in use in eight school districts in Kentucky.

When Miss Preston works with a school district, she often gives them a model emergency plan that they can adapt to fit their particular needs.

This plan specifies who is responsible for certain emergency tasks such as notifying the police or fire department (the principal's duty) and checking to see if any children are missing (the teachers' responsibility).

It also includes sample letters to be sent to parents to determine if they want their children to remain at school or to be sent home or to a neighbor's house in case warning of an emergency is received in time to permit students to reach home before being exposed to danger.

"In the past there have been some effective, but scattered, programs for emergency planning in Kentucky," said Conley Manning, head of the Bureau of Instruction's division of program development. "Through June Preston, we hope to help local superintendents throughout the state prepare their districts for emergencies."

Another aspect of Miss Preston's job is assisting in the development of a disaster preparedness curriculum designed to help students understand the consequences of different types of civil emergencies and how to avoid these consequences, Miss Preston said.

To accomplish this goal, Miss Preston is introducing school systems to a student book and teacher's guide called "Your Chance To Live," which was produced by the national Defense Civil Preparedness Agency.

"Your Chance To Live" deals with emergencies ranging from forest fires and severe weather to atomic disasters and power failures. The material is available to schools free by contacting Miss Preston. Teachers may also borrow 16 mm films, filmstrips and cassettes to accompany the text.

"After studying 'Your Chance To Live,' we students probably know more about what to do in an emergency than most adults do," wrote a Bourbon County student whose class was asked to evaluate the program.

"The only problem with 'Your Chance To Live' is that it is aimed primarily for junior high school students," Miss Preston said. To remedy this situation the Bureau of Instruction is now developing a special disaster education curriculum for the elementary grades.

Earlier this year, Superintendent of Public Instruction Dr. Lyman V. Ginger appointed an advisory committee on disaster education made up of school administrators, teachers, and curriculum specialist, other educators and Military Affairs officials who helped to develop this curriculum.

Their work should be ready for Kentucky elementary teaches this fall or by early next spring, according to Miss Preston. In addition to teaching students how to prepare for emergencies, the material will help them deal with the emotional aftermath of a disaster, with fears and apprehensions all too familiar to teachers in areas of Kentucky hit by last year's tornado.

Miss Preston attended Morehead State University and Kentucky State University. She worked for two years in the former Civil Defense area office in Paintsville before transferring to Frankfort. She has taken classes and attended workshops at the Defense Civil Preparedness Agency staff college in Battlecreek, Mich.

Anyone interested in future information about civil preparedness in the schools may contact June Preston at 1939 Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort 40601.

Coal Firm, Union Hearing Postponed

A hearing set last week for complaints filed against the United Mine Workers of America (UMW) and the Martin County Coal Corp. by the National Labor Relations board has been postponed until Oct. 6, the board announced.

The complaints concerned alleged illegal activities arising from a unionization drive in Martin county earlier this year. A unionization vote apparently failed 135-127, but the election has not been certified by the NLRB because of 20 votes challenged by the union.

Charges against Martin County Coal include illegal firing of five workers involved in the union drive.

Charges against the coal workers include damaging company cars on two occasions, assaulting a newspaper reporter and assaulting three company sympathizers.

The hearing will be heard at the Boyd county courthouse in Catlettsburg.

Electric Power Complex Under FPC Investigation

The Ashland Daily Independent reported last Wednesday that the American Electric Power Co., which owns seven electric utility companies, including Kentucky Power Co., is under investigation by the Federal Power Commission.

Focusing on the coal dealings of the company, the nation's largest private utility, the FPC is setting a precedent. This is the first time the agency has ever investigated coal-buying practices and "fuel adjustment" rates.

Kentucky Power, based in Ashland, buys about 2.5 million tons of coal per year to serve its 119,000 customers in Eastern Kentucky. The company buys all its coal from Eastern Kentucky, which supplies coal to two other AEP companies.

An American Power company has taken option on 10,336 acres of coal land in Knott, Perry and Breathitt counties and has been conducting core drillings there.

Lavish and controversial ads urging the U. S. to "dig more coal," stop using sophisticated pollution devices at coal-burning power plants and reject federal strip-mine laws have been conducted by American Power, and have now become a target for the FPC.

An FPC spokesman said his group would investigate the utility's "advertising policies, practices and expenditures relating to strip mining and provisions of the Clean Air Act; learn about the procurement and use of fuel supplies throughout the AEP system; and consider the wholesale fuel adjustment charges of AEP subsidiaries."

The FPC says it has authority to investigate the company as part of its duty to regulate price of electricity sold wholesale in interstate commerce. The action was brought about by complaints that Appalachian Power Co., AEP's West Virginia subsidiary, had made unfair profits on its "fuel adjustment charge" and was lax in attempts to cut fuel costs.

Many states, including Kentucky, have approved fuel adjustment charges to allow utilities to automatically adjust their rates to match changes in the price of fuel.

The FPC says it cannot judge the West Virginia case without investigating the AEP system as a whole.

A spokesman for the FPC said "Appalachian Power is but one member of a large, complex system of interconnected companies which operate as a single, integrated system. An investigation of the entire AEP system as it relates to coal is required."

Hearings will begin Oct. 1 and could be a test of the fuel adjustment concept, the object of an increasing number of consumer complaints. Hearings have added importance since both President Gerald Ford and his critics agree that utilities will have to use more coal in the future.

AEP Chairman Donald C. Cook, responded to the Aug. 4 FPC order, and said: "We welcome the opportunity to present the facts on our total coal operations to a responsible federal agency and thus to lift the matter above the local political activity of greedy coal producers who would stop at nothing to deny us the opportunity to develop our own fuel supply at costs well below their inflated selling prices."

The prices a utility company pays for fuel from an affiliated company are fixed by a Securities and Exchange Commission formula.

AEP coal companies furnish about 11 per cent of the coal burned by AEP power plants, and the company wants to increase that amount.

The FPC spokesman said the commission became interested in the matter last November when it received a letter from the Appalachian Research and Defense, Inc. of West Virginia.

The letter raised questions such as: the pricing of "affiliate-produced coal" in retail fuel adjustment clauses; a too-heavy reliance on "spot" market rather than long-term coal purchases; shifting of coal among AEP subsidiaries; anti-regulation advertising campaigns; and failure of AEP companies to meet federal clear air standards.

David Ellis, a rate analyst for the West Virginia Public Service Commission, last September said the company made $2 million extra in 1974 by over-estimating fuel costs.

Earlier this year the West Virginia legislature abolished the fuel adjustment clause.

The FPC said its investigation would not interfere with the authority of the SEC. AEP companies operate generating stations along the Ohio River and one at Louisa on the Big Sandy—and a new plant, near Ghent, Ky., is planned.

More Than 1,000 Workers Added To Single State Department

Frankfort, Ky.—The rapid rise of unemployment in Kentucky in the past year and the accompanying increase in the demand for social services has caused an increase of 1,072 full-time workers since January in the Kentucky Department for Human Resources (DHR).

As Kentuckians felt the recession's pinch more and more, the caseloads in the areas of food stamps and unemployment insurance increased.

Field service clerical and eligibility worker needs in the Bureau of Social Insurance resulted in adding 430 full-time workers in the six months from January through June.

Additionally, 354 new workers for the Administration and Operations Bureau were required to meet the need for more computer programmers, key punch operators and other clerical staff and support personnel.

An overall total of 1,520 employees, including temporary summer personnel and part-time help, have been added to the Department for Human Resources since January, but the salaries of 1,280 of these are fully or partially paid by federal funds.

The federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) provides funds through state or local governments to give work to those who are unemployed or classified by Washington as underemployed or financially disadvantaged.

There are 241 CETA-funded new employees on the state payroll and 139 of them are working as clerks, food stamp and unemployment interviewers and mini-home and personal care home examiners in DHR.

Since January, under the CETA program, the federal government has made just under $27 million available to state, county and city governments to provide employment in public service jobs.

Approximately 4,000 Kentuckians have jobs in these programs.

The CETA jobs are, of course, entirely dependent upon the federal government's willingness to continue them.

Another factor that has had an upward effect on the numbers of employees in Kentucky government in recent months is the need to keep pace with state and federal programs. This effort to maintain high service standards has affected practically every agency of state government.

The Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection employed 89 new full-time workers in the first six months of 1975. Of this number, 54 are in the CETA-funded category.

Two new divisions—sanitary engineering and plumbing—and the need for compliance with new federal programs are responsible for the increase. These include new inspectors in the pesticides program, intensification of the forestry incentive program, dealing with new legislation on surface disturbance by underground mining and new environmentalists hired in the division of solid waste.

Between January and July, the Bureau of Public Safety had taken on 59 new state troopers. Additionally, 13 other new employees are involved in the federally-funded regional crime laboratory program and in implementing a state-wide uniform accident reporting system for the Commonwealth.

A new state park and two new camping areas were opened this summer by the Kentucky Department of Parks, which increased its payroll by 130 employees. There are 37 employed at the new E. P. Sawyer State Park in Jefferson County, 63 new employees at Fort Harrod and its new camping area and 12 additional workers at the new camp-site at Rough River Dam State Park.

The Kentucky Department of Education added 63 people during the six months ending June 30, more than half of them in the expanded area of vocational education. The School for the Deaf, the new Bureau of Education for Exceptional Children and the increased availability to school districts of surplus federal goods constituted the bulk of the increased hiring.

The Governor's Office is another agency of state government in which increases in the scope of its work added to the size of the staff.

On Jan. 8, 1975, in announcing a reorganization of his office, the governor said, "I intend to see that my office takes the lead in meeting the needs of Kentuckians in a responsible, coordinated and professional manner."

"The governor of Kentucky has the full responsibility of overseeing the operation of the largest business in Kentucky, 'the people's business,'" Gov. Carroll continued, "and we are responsible for the efficient expenditure of a $5 billion biennial budget and the productivity of the work of 30,000 employees.

"This cannot be done by the governor alone and cannot be done well by essentially the same size staff governors have had for many years."

When Gov. Carroll took office, the number of staff personnel that had been employed there was 39. It has increased by 13 employees.

There are state government agencies whose personnel rosters decreased in numbers during the first two quarters of 1975.

The Bureau of Highways is one example. From January to July of this year, permanent full-time employees decreased by 81. The drop is due mainly to the loss of skilled heavy equipment operators in the Eastern Kentucky coal fields, skilled trades personnel who left for higher salaries and the closing of the toll booths on the Kentucky Turnpike.

The Secretary's Office of DHR, in another case, dropped 11 workers in the first half of this year.

On Dec. 30, 1974, two days after he took office, Gov. Carroll ordered state agencies to restrict new hiring to the upgrading or continuation of vital programs.

Divisions of state government were also directed to review vacancies and abolish any not critical.

The non-vital vacancies subsequently done away with totaled 3,054.

Using a low first-year salary of $6,000 as an average, Gov. Carroll's action prevented the potential expenditure of more than $18.3 million during this year.

When Gov. Carroll took office in late December, there were 31,645 permanent full-time workers in Kentucky state government. There are now 33,317. The increase of 1,642 is one half of one per cent.

So, with Gov. Carroll's action on more than 3,000 non-critical vacancies upon taking office and the subsequent employment of only 1,642 additional state workers since then, a ratio now exists of almost two vacancy abolitions to every new hiring.

"The necessity to keep a tight control on Kentucky government spending is vital now, more than at any time in recent history," Gov. Carroll said. "I am insistent that every employment action be accompanied by assurances that the job is necessary and must be filled."

"It is obvious, by my actions in recent months and by the extremely low percentage of increase in the face of multiplied needs for new services, that this administration will not be a haven for needless hiring and needless expense to the taxpayer."

Natural Bridge Books Dance Fest

By HELEN PRICE STACY

There are 12 great natural arches within Daniel Boone National Forest (as well as a number of lesser spans), but what an elderly Powell county man calls the "granddaddy of them all" is the one that gave the name to Natural Bridge State Resort Park, near Slade. Here, almost directly below the 78-foot-long bridge, Richard Jett's 10th annual Western Square Dance Festival will take place, Aug. 29-31.

Hoedown Island with its spacious outdoor dance floor has replaced the old but well-remembered dance pavilion that hugged the Red River on one side and long-gone railroad tracks on the other. But the fun is still the same.

Jett's popular week-end square dances held on Hoedown Island attract large crowds, with most of the dancers in conventional or tourist attire. But, when the Western dancers hit the floor, they do so garbed in yards of calico and tulle and colorful men's wear.

The festival gets underway at 7 p.m., Aug. 29, with Bill Claywell of Louisville and Jim Marcum of Lexington doing their bit to make a lively night of entertainment. These two men will conduct a workshop for anyone interested in square dancing, calling and judging at 2 p.m., Saturday, Aug. 30.

The program from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m., Aug. 30, will feature Claywell, Larry Adams of Indianapolis and Bill Spangler of Newark, Ohio.

On Sunday, Aug. 31, starting at 6:30 p.m., Lanny Rogers and the Kentucky Mountain Barn Dance TV Gang will be featured.

Jett promises that "a good time will be had by all" and adds that the festival, like all his dance and musical programs, "are wholesome and wonderful times to bring the entire family for fun and frolic."

Natural Bridge State Resort Park has other entertainment to fill any gaps for vacationing families. Jett said some visitors might enjoy horseback riding, hiking, riding the skylift, fishing, swimming, nature studies, boating "or just sitting on the lodge balcony and looking out over all that beautiful scenery."

Jett explained that more seats had been added to the island for convenience of onlookers. There is a large parking area near the island and nearby concession booths.

"Bring the family for a day or evening of good fellowship," he said. "And, if the old folks don't want to do any dancing, they can have fun just watching."

Some visitors like to sit on the balcony at Hemlock Lodge, located well above Hoedown Island, and watch the proceedings. The light and colorful activity—together with Hoedown Island music—make it an experience to remember.

82 Teams Vie in Softball Tourney Here; East Ky. Auto Parts Wins Second Championship

East Kentucky Auto Part's victory over Watts Mobile Homes, of Salyersville in the Regional Softball Tournament recently at Archer Park here, marked the end of a season of softball competition that has seen a total of 520 mens' games being played at the park by 82 teams.

The East Ky. Auto Parts team, which was also regional champion last year, won two and lost two before they were eliminated in the state tournament. East Ky. beat a Glasgow team on the first day of the tournament 9-6, lost to Sir Pizza, of Lexington 11-10, defeated LaRue county 11-10 and lost to Trigg county on the final day of the tourney 3-2.

In the District tournament here, Watts

Mobile Homes won over the Francis Stores team. Third in the district was Owens Construction Company, of Prestonsburg. Trophies valued at $1,100 were awarded tournament winners and runners-up.

Softball league all-stars were chosen by the various team managers. This year's top players include: Danny Hamilton, third base, East Ky. Auto Parts, outfield, Earl Stevens, East Ky. Auto Parts were named "Best Offensive Players," and Barry Hall, of National Mines, was named "Best Defensive Player."

Under the direction of Bill R. Collins, A.S.A. commissioner of the 37th and 39th (Floyd and Pike) districts, the Floyd County Softball League has become the largest and most active league in Eastern Kentucky and is well-known and respected throughout the state. Featuring a Fourth of July tourney as well as the district, regional and invitational tournaments and with 380 regular league games, it is said that more people play or watch softball than any other recreational sport in Floyd county.

Untried Cats Open Season at Home

An untried Prestonsburg Blackcat team will open its 1975 football season here Friday night against Breathitt County. With Joey Hyden injured, only three veterans, Sam Isbell, Mike Dixon and Leslie May, remain from last year's squad.

Though short on experience, Coach Phillip Haywood expressed the belief that a combination of confidence and determination can overcome this. Speaking of Breathitt County, Coach Haywood said, "We have a great deal of respect for the AAA school and know we will have a tough challenge on our hands. . . but for a team that is young and inexperienced, I have a lot of confidence in our ability to play football."

Trojans Split Two; Play at Home Friday

The Wheelwright football team has split their first two games. Losing to John's Creek in their August 15 opening game, 18-12, in a sudden death. Last Friday the team bounced back to defeat Virgie 22-14.

In their first game with John's Creek, the Trojans played a tough game, outgaining John's Creek 330 to 137 yards. Darren Little had scoring runs from the 3-yard line and the 15-yard line for the Trojans, and gained 111 yards on 20 carries. Dewey Jamerson had 179 yards on 36 carries. Joe Tackett went 2 for 6 in passing for 24 yards, and Tackett also had 16 yards in two carries. The Trojans had 11 first downs. John's Creek scored on the first play of their possession in sudden death overtime to win the ball game.

In the contest with Virgie, the Trojans pounced quickly in the first quarter, scoring 16 points. The Trojans got on the scoreboard first with a safety, with Ricky Thornberry tackling the ball carrier in the end zone. Following the free kick, Darren Little romped 63 yards for a Trojan touchdown. Dewey Jamerson scored the two extra points. Later in the quarter, Jamerson scored on a run from the 3-yd. line. In the second quarter, Virgie came back with runs of 79 and 15 yards for 14 points. Little later scored on a 17-yard run, his fourth of the year. Darren Little had 87 yards on 17 carries, and Dewey Jamerson had 74 yards on 23 carries. Joe Tackett went two for 10 for 26 yards in the passing department. The Trojans had 12 first downs and 186 yards gained, winning 22-14.

Wheelwright's next game is at home this Friday with Fleming-Neon.

The Bridge

An old man going a lone highway,
Come at the evening, cold and grey,
To a chasm, vast and deep and wide,
Through which was flowing a sullen tide,
The old man crossed in the twilight dim,
The sullen stream had no fears for him;
But he turned when safe on the other side,
And built a bridge to span the tide.

"Old man" said a fellow Pilgrim near,
"You are wasting strength with building here;
Your journey will end with the fading day,
You never again may pass this way;
You have crossed the chasm, deep and wide,
Why build you the bridge at eventide?"

The builder lifted his old grey head:
"Good friend, in the path I have come"
he said,
"There followeth after me today
A youth whose feet must pass this way,
He, too, must cross in the twilight dim;
Good friend, I'm building the bridge for him."

School Bus Accidents Fewer

Frankfort, Ky.—Despite the fact that there are more school buses on Kentucky roads each year, the number of school bus accidents continues to decrease, according to Paul Jones, director of pupil transportation for the state Department of Education.

Kentucky transports 450,000 pupils each school day—67 per cent of the total enrollment.

Appearing on the Department of Education radio program "Education Speaks," Jones credited Kentucky's good safety record to four factors: "better trained drivers, better school bus equipment, improved roadways and greater awareness of school buses by other motorists."

Each summer the Department of Education holds training sessions for school bus drivers around the state. These sessions train new drivers and help experienced drivers keep up with new laws, regulations and school bus safety features.

"Kentucky buys the best in school bus equipment," Jones said. He ranked Kentucky among the top four states in the nation in school bus safety requirements.

"Kentucky was the first to use 12-ply tires and the first to require air brakes and padded seat backs. Padded seat backs have practically eliminated face and dental injuries on the buses," Jones said.

An anti-skid, anti-lock device—operated by computer—protects all buses purchased this year. The computer is programmed to keep brakes from locking during panic stops.

It also allows the bus to come to a stop without skidding, even if some of the wheels are on ice and some are on a dry surface.

Most safety features, however, add to the cost of the school buses. The computerized brakes raise the price of each bus by $1,000, for example.

Jones said Kentucky helps to hold the line on pupil transportation costs by standardizing specifications and bidding for the whole state. "Instead of each school district purchasing different kinds of school buses separately, the state buys a large number of buses that are exactly alike," Jones said.

Due to this standardization, Kentucky pays about $2,250 less per school bus than a neighboring state does for buses with comparable specifications.

A large contribution to school bus safety comes from parents, Jones said. By making sure their children arrive at the bus stop on time, parents prevent the school bus from having to wait in a dangerous position on the roadway.

To protect children who meet the school bus before daylight or after sunset, parents should dress them in light-colored clothing, Jones suggested.

He also urged parents to cooperate with school bus drivers and principals in maintaining good order and discipline aboard the buses.

Lexington Firm Makes Low Bid On Lake Work

The P. & N. Construction Co., Lexington, Ky., is the apparent low bidder on harbor and dock improvements at the Jenny Wiley Boat Dock, but a contract had not been awarded as of Tuesday afternoon.

In fact, the low bid was about $200,000 above engineers' estimates. The Times learned. It was pointed out, however, that inflation during the two years since the estimates were made is accountable for the higher bid, and it is held possible that a contract may be awarded on the basis of that bid if funds expected from the U. S. Corps of Engineers are made available. A state appropriation of $750,000 was made, months ago, for the work.

One phase of the project is the removal of 12,000 to 14,000 yards of silt from the bottom of Brandy Keg Cove where the dock is located. If this is done, the silt will be deposited in a small hollow, upstream from May Lodge and possibly create a level area large enough for recreational development.

The work there, which has been delayed a year or more, was planned to begin soon after Labor Day. But it is not known at this time when, or if, the contract will be awarded and a work order issued.

George Barker, Jenny Wiley State Park superintendent, said this week he is anxious to learn when work will begin so that boat-owners may be notified in time for the removal of all craft from the harbor.

THE FLOYD COUNTY HUMANE SOCIETY . . .

Savings Bond Chain-Letter Results in Prosecution

If someone asks you to join a money-making plan involving chain letters and U. S. Savings Bonds, you'd better refuse. You aren't likely to make any money—it's more likely you'll lose your "investment" to get in on the deal—and it's possible you may be prosecuted for violation of federal, state or local laws.

A few months ago, a number of endless-chain schemes were launched in Southern California. The intermingling organizations were active under several misleading names—"Your March of Bonds", "Inflation Defense Foundation", "Century Club", "Exclusive One Million, Inc.", "Uncle Sam Investment, Inc.", "Six-Pack Club".

The scheme most often used worked this way: The victim became an "active member" by paying $37.50 to a "sponsor". In return, he received a membership list of 10 names and a $25 Savings Bond, recently purchased for $18.75, made payable to the first person on the list. The new "member" made two new membership lists, crossing off the top name on the original list and adding his own name at the bottom. He then purchased two $25 Bonds, payable to the person who was then first on the new lists. He delivered the Bond that came with the first list to the person named—personally or by mail.

As a "new member", he was required to pay annual dues of $3 and to purchase membership books, at $1.50 each, to give to the two "new members" he brought into the scheme. The victim had spent $81, but was told he would recover most of his investment when he sold his two lists. He did, in fact, recover $75, if he was able to do so.

However, for one member to receive $19,200—the promised windfall—1,024 new members would have had to join after he did, without the chain's being broken. To achieve "optimum success", the schemes required a membership of 250 times the entire population of the world.

Since the membership lists were originally prepared by the promoters—with their names and addresses or those of their associates heading the lists—the scheme would provide Bonds for the promoters long before—if ever—new members reaped any harvest.

The promoters of that plan used two variations—the "Six Pack", involving lists with only six names, and the "Century Club", which used $100 Bonds, in lieu of $25 Bonds.

The California Attorney General, Los Angeles County District Attorney and the Los Angeles City Attorney cooperated in the investigation, arrests and convictions of the promoters, who were held in violation of the California Penal Code concerning endless-chains and lotteries.

Rather than circulate the lists or the Bonds through the mails, those promoters relied upon meetings in private homes to further their schemes. Had the mails been used, the promoters would have been in violation of the U. S. Code, Title 18, Section 1302—the "lottery" statute—which proscribes the mailing of material concerning a lottery.

promotion. It establishes criminal sanctions of a $1,000 fine or imprisonment for not more than two years, or both, upon conviction. They would also have been in violation of Section 1341—the "mail fraud" statute.

Most of the "bottom-liners" involved in such schemes are relatively innocent of wrongdoing. They have no intention of perpetrating a fraudulent scheme or otherwise using the mails illegally. In addition to the promise of a dollar reward, they are often persuaded that they are being "patriotic"—helping their government's Savings Bonds Program.

Over the years, the Department of the Treasury has advised the public that chain-letter schemes involving Savings Bonds—which are essentially get-rich-quick endeavors—do a distinct disservice to the Savings Bonds Program. Instead of encouraging individuals to develop genuine savings plans, they create the illusion that participants are both aiding their government and themselves. Even in the rare case where an individual receives a large return, it is likely that he would quickly redeem the Bonds, thereby placing a further burden on the Treasury.

From time to time, the Treasury's Savings Bonds Division distributes news releases warning of the illegality of chain-letter schemes involving Savings Bonds. When a specific instance is brought to its attention, special releases are distributed to news media in the areas involved.

Individuals who purchase Savings Bonds for such chain-letter schemes, and who discover that participation may violate certain laws and regulations, may request a refund, using Treasury Form PD-2966. This form is available at many banks; it may also be requested from the Bureau of the Public Debt, 200 Third St., Parkersburg, W. Va. 26101.

Gibson, Eighth Titlist in a Row

For the eighth consecutive year Floyd county last week produced the Kentucky State Fair's individual senior poultry judging champion.

Top winners in the senior division (ages 14-19) of the state contest were (left to right) Phillip Gibson, 14, of Langley, who placed first among senior 4-H'ers in the contest; Grady Stephens, 15, of Pyramid, second high in scoring; Donald May, 15, Elkhorn City, fourth place winner, and Thomas Reed, 14, Rt. 2, Greenup, who placed third.

These four will represent Kentucky in national 4-H poultry judging competition to be held in connection with the North American Livestock Show in Louisville, next November. They are shown with the trophy which the Floyd county 4-H'ers will keep for the coming year because their county team scored highest in the competition.

The 1975 champion is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Gibson, Jr. and a member of the Allen Central 4-H Club. He scored 1038 points out of 1100 possible.

Grady Stephens is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Stephens and is a sophomore at Prestonsburg High School. In winning second place he scored 1031 points.

Other senior judges from Floyd county were Michael Reffett, Hueysville, sixth, with 874; and Jeff Campbell, Hueysville, ninth, with 789 points.

Both the junior and senior division judges from this county were coached by Jack Friar, county agent—4-H.

Inspectors To Use 'Copter In Stripmine Surveillance

Frankfort, Ky.—Surface mining inspectors of the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection will be able to more thoroughly monitor reclamation activities with a helicopter being purchased by the department.

In addition, the helicopter will be equipped with special litter gear so that it can be deployed in emergency evacuation work. In that role, it would complement the kind of injury evacuation service provided in Western Kentucky by helicopter units at Fort Campbell.

The unit is being purchased from the Bell Helicopter Co. of Fort Worth, Texas at a price of $194,734. Four companies were invited to bid.

The helicopter is jet-powered and will seat four passengers and a pilot.

The fast-paced advances of modern surface mining technology have made necessary supplemental means of reclamation inspection. It is impossible for inspectors to properly oversee all surface mine activities underway in Kentucky in land vehicles, and aerial surveillance will give the inspectors a far better view of the mining sites than they could get on the ground.

"We must, of course, recognize the importance of coal production in Kentucky at a time when the development of that resource holds the key to the energy problems of this Commonwealth and, indeed, the entire nation," Gov. Julian Carroll said.

"Along with this responsibility goes the necessity for continued good reclamation practices and therefore a more efficient method of surface mine surveillance."

State officials have consulted with representatives from West Virginia and Pennsylvania who confirmed the advantages of helicopter surveillance. Both states currently use helicopters in monitoring surface mine and reclamation activities.

Additionally, many major surface mine operators in both the Eastern and Western Kentucky coalfields own helicopters for travel between mining sites.

The state division of reclamation currently is inspecting approximately 300 permitted surface mining operations covering 18,500 acres in Western Kentucky. A total of 1,700 permits involving 60,000 acres are active in Eastern Kentucky.

While the time required under current conditions to inspect all of these sites takes from four to five weeks, the new helicopter will allow inspection of each Eastern Kentucky site every 10 days and all of the Western Kentucky surface mine operations within two days.

An added advantage is the improved opportunity of the division director and area supervisors to evaluate the performance of the reclamation inspectors and the coal operators.

Additionally, the Department of Transportation can make use of the new helicopter to allow inspection of remote or inaccessible road construction sites.

Mountain Music To Feature 'Our Appalachia Day'

The fourth annual "Our Appalachia Day" will be held on the campus of Alice Lloyd College, Saturday, September 6, from 9:30 a.m. until late in the afternoon.

The annual Mountain Music Festival will include a wide range of individual musicians and groups playing all kinds of instruments ranging from dulcimer, guitar, to fiddle and harmonica. The all-day affair, sponsored every year by the Appalachian Learning Laboratory of Alice Lloyd College, is designed to bring back for at least one day the original music of the mountains. Electrical instruments are not allowed in the "Our Appalachia Day" program; it's strictly an old-fashioned music festival of the type held in years past.

Last year, more than 900 persons were on the campus to hear the musicians and groups from the area entertain and observe the crafts display of homemade wares in the exhibition areas set up around the festival grounds.

Mike Mullins, director of the ALC Appalachian Learning Laboratory, indicated that this year's "Our Appalachia Day" would be the biggest yet, with more than 1,000 expected to be in attendance, more craft displays than ever before, and the largest group of musicians ever to participate in the four-year-old program. Mullins also indicated that a free "soup bean" supper would be provided free of charge by the College, but the participants themselves would need to bring lunch. Mullins issued a special invitation to everyone in the immediate area to attend the "Our Appalachia Day" program, visit with their neighbors and hear a full day of old-fashioned mountain music.

Report for EKV Football Practice

These Eastern Kentucky natives were among the more than 90 candidates who reported to Eastern Kentucky University head football coach Roy Kidd for the start of fall drills recently. Kneeling: Randy Heaberlin, sophomore tackle, Worthington; Ernie House, sophomore quarterback, London; Corky Prater, freshman quarterback, Vanceburg. Back row: John Garnett, senior tight end, Arjay; Inman Sherman, junior split-end, London; Ricky Cobb, freshman offensive tackle, Corbin; Randy Leslie, senior tight end, Prestonsburg; and EKV assistant coach Bobby Harville. Eastern opens its 11-game 1975 schedule Sept. 6 at home against the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh.

Attorney General's Opinions

Diane Deason, director of Pennyrite Allied Community Services, Inc., of Hopkinsville, asked if the Head Start program her corporation sponsors is eligible to purchase its own schoolbuses. It is the opinion of the office of the Attorney General that Head Start would not be able to do so. Under Kentucky statutes, such buses are centrally purchased by political subdivisions—and while the area served by this program encompasses the same area as the Pennyrite Area Development District—the Head Start program, as well as the corporation sponsoring it, can only be described as an agency of the political subdivision, not the political subdivision itself.

Frank Farmer, Berea city councilman, asked if the city council holds the authority to remove members of the planning and zoning commission because of the manner in which they voted. The office of the Attorney General held that the city council neither appoints nor removes commission members. The mayor appoints a commission member with the consent of the city council, and he can also remove those members from office for inefficiency, neglect of duty, malfeasance or conflict of interest—and all commission members are entitled to a hearing. In light of the above, it would appear there are no valid grounds for removal.

Jerry C. Alleyne, director of the Frankfort office of the Kentucky

Education Association, asked whether a school board policy of transferring a teacher to one building solely on the basis that he or she happens to be married to a person teaching in another building is a form of discrimination. The Attorney General's office expressed the opinion that the policy is a valid exercise of the power of the board of education and that the regulation is not discriminatory.

State Representative Arthur L. Schmidt, of Cold Spring, inquired if a group organized to support or oppose a public question when an election is not being held is required to register with the Registry of Electin Finance. Schmidt also asked if a citizens advisory council for education or a group organized to support or oppose a zone change violates the Corrupt Practices Act by not reporting contributions in excess of $1,000 to the registry. The Attorney General's office told Rep. Schmidt that such groups—when not dealing with a referendum—are not governed by the election finance act and do not have to register with, or report to, the registry.

E. C. Calman, of Sturgis, asked if a citizens' advisory committee is subject to the open meetings law when organized by citizens on a voluntary basis. The Attorney General's office held that the open meetings law only applies to public agencies created by statute, ordinance or executive order. Therefore, it would not apply to such a group as a citizens advisory committee, which is a private or voluntary group.

State Reclamation Agency Explains Rules To Operators

Frankfort, Ky.—More than two hundred coal miners recently gathered at Pikeville College to learn the new rules under which they must operate.

In early July, the state adopted new strip mine reclamation regulations. These rules regulate the disturbance and the recovery of land on a strip mine site. The requirements not only govern the construction and use of access roads, backfilling and grading, blasting and water quality, but also call for the planning of revegetation, sediment control and methods of surface mining adjacent land.

The recent meeting was held by the division of reclamation in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection to explain those newly adopted regulations. Bill S. Lewis, commissioner of the department's bureau of land resources, expressed his intentions to firmly enforce the regulations with the cooperation of the strip mine operators.

"We want the coal operators to fully understand what the new regulations require of them," Lewis said. "Although most of the state reclamation regulations remained the same, several of them—such as requirements for access roads, revegetation and water impoundment—were tightened to better protect the natural resources, as well as the citizens of the state."

The meeting was the first in a series. Others will be held in the various reclamation regions: 7 p.m., Aug. 28, Hazard Community College, Hazard; and 7 p.m., Sept. 2, Madisonville Community College.

Copies of the new regulations have been mailed to more than 1,200 strip mine operators.

Grays Knob Coal To Pay $15,000

Frankfort, Ky.—Grays Knob Coal Co. has agreed to pay a record $15,000 for pollution of Martins Fork Creek in Harlan County allegedly caused by its coal operations. The payment of the $15,000 penalty must be made within 14 days. The coal company was charged by the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection with violations covering a seven-month period.

The agreed order, signed Aug. 20, is the result of months of court and administrative battles between the company and the department. The coal company sued the department in Franklin Circuit Court challenging its right to suspend the coal firm's operations by an administrative order. The order provides for the dismissal of that court action, a companion case and other pending administrative action.

The order further provides for remedial measures to be performed by Grays Knob Coal Co. including around-the-clock checks of their disposal processes, the keeping of log books, the cleaning of ponds, ditches, preparation plants, tipples, refuge bends and other coal washer related facilities. The company is further required to carry out a continuous program of cleaning and maintenance to protect the state's water quality standards.

The company has 45 days to furnish the department with complete engineering specifications for the modification of their coal washer and related structures that will eliminate future violation of the Commonwealth's water quality standards.

The Grays Knob Coal Co. was represented by attorney Rudy Yessin and the department was represented by attorney Joseph J. Zaluski.

10% of Assaults Made on Police

Frankfort, Ky.—Ten per cent of all assaults reported in Kentucky in 1974 were against state and local police officers.

According to the recently released state police Uniform Crime Report (UCR) for 1974, 382 of the 3,824 reported assaults were against police officers. That figure, however, was a drop of four from the 1973 count.

County police officers continue to be the most frequently assaulted group—29 assaults per 100 officers, an increase of 10 per cent over 1973. The next highest rates were for police in cities of 25,000-100,000 population—22 assaults per 100 officers, up from the 1973 rate of 14.

Other agencies and their records were: State Police, 8.9 assaults per 100 officers; police in cities under 5,000, 5.2; police in cities of 5,000-10,000, 3.6; police in cities under 100,000, 3.5; police in cities of 10,000-25,000, 1.5; and sheriff's departments, .7.

The UCR also shows that while 26 per cent of the 382 assaults resulted in physical injury, no police officers were killed in the line of duty last year, as compared with two each in 1973 and 1972.

The "typical" assault situation in 1974 involved a county police officer who met physical resistance in attempting to make an arrest for another crime between 10 p.m. and 2 a.m.

In developing that scenario, these facts were used:

—32.7 per cent of the assaults took place while police were attempting another arrest, with the next most prevalent types of activity being transporting prisoners, 17.5 per cent; family disputes or tavern disturbances, 22 per cent; and traffic pursuits, 11.5 per cent.

—89.3 per cent of the assaults were by physical force, with 2.6 per cent by firearms and 1.3 per cent by knife.

—37.4 per cent of the assaults took place during 10 p.m.-2 a.m., the busiest two-hour period. 53.7 per cent took place during 8 p.m.-2 a.m. and 61.5 per cent during 8 p.m.-4 a.m.

Dr. Ephraim McDowell Home Danville

The early home of Dr. Ephraim McDowell, pioneer Kentucky surgeon and "father of abdominal surgery," was built circa 1789 on a tract of land owned by Isaac Shelby, Kentucky's first governor and father-in-law of Dr. McDowell.

The two-story, white clapboard house, standing on Second Street in Danville, has nine rooms, 24-paned windows, a transomed doorway and seven fireplaces.

Dr. McDowell, born in Augusta County, Virginia, on November 11, 1771, was the son of Samuel McDowell, one of the judges of the first Kentucky court in 1783 and president of the convention that framed the first Constitution of Kentucky. Ephraim McDowell studied medicine at the University of Edinburgh, 1792-93. He settled in Danville three years later and became the foremost surgeon west of the Allegheny Mountains.

Here on Christmas Day, 1809, Dr. McDowell successfully removed a 20-pound ovarian tumor from Mrs. Jane Todd Crawford of Green County. The operation lasted about 25 minutes without the benefit of an anesthetic. The doctor had improvised an operating room in his house. The patient was partially dressed and conscious of every movement. To restrain any involuntary muscle movements, men held her arms and legs with force. During the operation she repeated the Psalms. Dr. McDowell's 45-year-old patient survived the operation by more than 32 years.

In 1795, Dr. Ephraim McDowell and Dr. Adam Rankin opened an apothecary shop in the brick building adjoining the house, and it was used by their successors until 1856, when the property was purchased by the Methodist Church for use as a parsonage.

Dr. McDowell practiced medicine in Danville until his death in June 1830; he was buried with his wife at Traveller's Rest, the Isaac Shelby estate six miles south of town.

The Kentucky State Medical Association on May 20, 1939, presented the McDowell home to the Commonwealth of Kentucky. It is maintained as a shrine to Dr. McDowell and the epochal event which occurred here over 160 years ago.

Nomograph Predicts Road Noise Levels

By CELIA BREWER
Frankfort, Ky.—If you are upset about the noise that a new road in your community might create, the Kentucky Bureau of Highways' Research Division has developed a new procedure that should ease your fears.
According to W. B. "Bill" Drake, assistant state highway engineer for research, his division recently discovered a more effective way of predicting just how noisy a new highway might be while it is still on the drawing board.
"And that technique is helping our engineers make design changes which can result in a substantial lessening of traffic noise when that highway finally is built and opened to traffic," he said.
Much of the credit for developing the newer, more reliable procedure goes to Ken Agent and Charles Zegeer, engineers at the state Bureau of Highways' research center at Lexington, who hit upon the idea of using a nomograph to make noise level predictions.
The nomograph is a mathematical scale which can be used to plot unknown variables by using certain other known values.
"In our case," said Drake, "the known values were average vehicle speeds, the planned composition and density of the highway and other roadway characteristics such as grading, elevation, intersections and landscaping along the road."
The unknown variable which Agent and Zegeer were attempting to plot was the noise that those known values might generate, he added.
While design engineers can do little about vehicle speeds, there is a great deal they can do to lessen future noise problems by making design changes in highway composition and roadway characteristics "if they are given the proper information early in the design and planning process," Drake said.

"Zegeer and Agent have done exactly that."
The proof that the new system will work came during a lengthy testing period during which Zegeer and Agent collected nearly 300 noise recordings at 40 different highway locations in Kentucky and, using a prediction procedure established by the Federal Highways Administration (FHWA), applied that procedure to the nomograph.
Drake went on to say that the method has received FHWA approval and now is being recommended for use nationwide by those highways which are expected to carry an average of less than 10,000 vehicles daily.

Oldsters To Enjoy Low Camping Rates

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Kentucky's senior citizens will soon be able to use state park campgrounds free of charge nine months a year and at reduced rates during the summer months.
The announcement of the reduced rates was approved recently by Gov. Julian Carroll.
Kentuckians 62 years of age and older will be able to use the state's campsites free from Sept. 1 until May 30 each year. A discounted rate of $1.50 a day will be charged the senior citizens during the remainder of the year. Regular rates are $3.50 a day for recreational vehicle camping and $3.00 daily for tent or primitive camping at the state's 2,400 campsites.
"We are glad to be able to take this forward step in creating special camping rates for Kentuckians in their golden years," Gov. Carroll said. "They have additional free time in which to enjoy these facilities now, and many of them are living on limited incomes."
The National Park Service employs a similar program, said Bruce Montgomery, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Parks.
The exact guidelines of the program are still being finalized, Montgomery said. He indicated that eligible persons will probably be issued complimentary cards similar to the free fishing license granted by the state to senior citizens. In the meantime, however, senior citizens can gain free admittance to the campsites beginning next month by simply showing proof of age.

Attempts To Modify "Broad Form" Law

Representative Raymond Overstreet, Liberty, Ky. Republican, has submitted to the Legislative Commission a modified version of the "Broad Form Deed" law which was declared unconstitutional after its passage by the General Assembly last year, but they're already saying his proposed new legislation "won't work."
* The 1975 legislation which was voided by Franklin Circuit Judge Henry Meigs, Jr. and the Court of Appeals would have prevented the stripmining of coal rights held under the old deed unless the surface owner agreed to such mining.
The revised act proposed by Overstreet would require approval by the landowner of the reclamation plan before a stripmine permit could be issued.
Perry White, an attorney for the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, was quoted as saying he doubts that Overstreet's proposed legislation would be workable.
Landowners already have the right to request a hearing before the department if they feel a stripmine permit will harm their property, White said.
The last bill was struck down on the grounds that it violated the rights of holders of the broadform deed. The Court of Appeals ruled that, while the measure was intended as an environmental measure, all it did was give one party in the contract a vote over use of the land by the other party.
"It puts the owner in position to be paid again for what he or his predecessor has already received compensation for," an opinion by the Court of Appeals states.
Around 1890 coal companies sent Kentucky lawyers into the hills to have mountain dwellers scribble their "X" on long, complicated documents giving mineral rights to the coal companies. The documents were so complicated they became known as broadform, or long form deeds.

Japanese Man Completes Sail Across the Pacific

SAN FRANCISCO—A Tokyo taxi driver says he played the saxophone and rode out three gales on a 9,000-mile, 48-day solo sail across the Pacific.
Yukoh Tada completed the journey Saturday in a 30-foot, two-masted vessel he designed and helped build himself. He said he lived on rice, seaweed and soybean paste during his nonstop journey from Japan.
When in calm waters, Tada said, he painted, listened to jazz cassettes and practiced on his saxophone. He said he withstood three gales without use of his boat's auxiliary engine.

Squire Pate's House
Hancock County

Kentucky holds many legends and stories about her native son Abraham Lincoln. The prominent birthplace, homeplace, "Marriage Temple," etc., far overshadow the many delightful tales which follow Lincoln's years in Kentucky.

The home of Samuel W. Pate, farmer and justice of the peace in Hancock County, is one of the choice Lincoln lore subjects; however, the documented story is very interesting and significant itself.

This old home still stands some three miles from Hawesville, on Highway Ky-334. It is a seven-room, two-story house built in 1822 of hewn logs, with weatherboard added some years later. The front porch once had an enclosed stairway to the second floor; the stairs have since been removed.

It was in the spring of 1827 that Abraham Lincoln, future President of the United States, was tried for operating a ferry across the Ohio River without a license.

At the time, he was working on a ferryboat, earning $6 a month and board. Lincoln had constructed a scow, or light flatboat, for his own personal use. One day, two salesmen in a buggy asked Lincoln to take them to the middle of the river to catch a passing steamboat. This he did, and was paid 50¢ by each man.

The ferry operators, John and Len Dill, had Lincoln arrested for infringing on their rights. The case — Commonwealth of Kentucky vs. Abraham Lincoln — was tried in the east room of the log house before Squire Samuel Pate, the presiding justice. The testimony failed to show that Lincoln had ever set any person "over" or "across" any river or creek. He had, as Lincoln testified himself, taken passengers to the middle of the river, and no farther.

The 18-year-old Lincoln served as his own counsel. After a short trial, the case against him was dismissed. It is said that in the preparation of this, his first case, he became so intrigued with law that he continued to study the legal arts, and did in fact make law his profession after he left the state.

Samuel Pate is buried with his wife in the family burial plot several hundred feet back of the house, overlooking the Ohio River. There is also the well-marked grave of Caroline Thrasher (nee Meeker), said to have been a sweetheart of Lincoln, the subject for those many colorful local yarns.

Nature Trails

By Rufus M. Reed

Soil is the most important thing on planet earth, and nature has countless helpers and infinite processes for building soil and renewing it.

A group of students and I made a special study of the leaf mold of the forest (leaf mold is the "mother of soil"). We peeled off a large slab of leaf mold from the forest floor; we called it "the primeval mother of all life on earth." The underside of the leaf mold was turning white—the work of fungi, which help to change the fallen leaves back to soil. We discover many tiny mushrooms growing on the leaf mold; they are shaped like little parasols, and the students call them, "the parasols of the wood nymphs." We learn that these small mushrooms feed on dead leaves and help to reduce them to humus.

We find countless life organisms living in the leaf mold—all of them nature's helpers in changing leaf litter to soil. Among the tiny creatures living in the leaf mold, we find roundworms, termites, earthworms, millipedes, centipedes, ants, snails and bugs. We know there was also a great number of microscopic things living in the leaf mold, such as protozoa bacteria, molds and others. These help to set up chemical changes for converting all animal and vegetable matter to soil.

We soon see that the rich, black soil of the forest is a highly complex thing, composed of billions of decayed organisms, rotted leaves, twigs, countless dead bodies, wastes of animal matter—all this forming a thick layer of humus beneath the leaf mold.

We now examine a section of the humus under the leaf mold, and find it to be the home of many small creature, such as snails, millipedes, larvae of beetles, centipedes, spiders, toads, ants, salamanders and angworms. These are nature's helpers in building the soil. The angworms alone make many tons of new soil yearly on a single acre. The ants also work together to plough the soil, to drill it full of holes to let in oxygen and nitrogen.

Here we note an endless cycle of nature: The green leaves do their work of photosynthesis and make the food to build the trees. Their work is for one brief summer, then in autumn they change color, fade and die, to fall to the forest floor. Their work then is just beginning; they return to the soil all their elements to help nourish future trees and plants.

We note the leaf mold is always moist under the trees; it is truly a sponge that soaks up moisture and retains it. Thus it prevents the rapid run-off of rainfall and keeps the soil from washing down. Next we look at some fallen logs and old stumps. We tear the rotten ones apart and find them filled with life forms, such as bessybugs, wireworms, mice, shrews, ant nests, termite colonies, which chew up and digest the cellulose inwood and pass it out as a residue to mix with the soil and help to enrich it. We also note that this forest, with its thick bed of leaf mold has been stable and self-sustaining for centuries; it changes a little every day but remains forever the same. We find a number of old moss-covered stumps, indicating that some of the larger hardwoods have been cut in former years and no doubt sawed into lumber.

Men have not yet vandalized this forest by tearing it up with bulldozers; so life goes on uninterrupted and fills the endless cycles of nature. The cycles of nature for all creation are: Birth, growth, maturity, life span, old age, death, decay. Nature's stern decree is: All things born on earth must die when their life work is ended and give back to mother earth the elements borrowed for use in one—short lifetime.

Cline-Pope Vows Said July 26 at Lexington

Miss Deborah Lynn Cline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cline, of Danville, and Joseph Yoder Pope, son of Dr. and Mrs. William M. Pope, of Maysville, were married at 11:30 a.m. Saturday, July 26, at Centenary United Methodist Church, Lexington, by the bridegroom's father.

The double-ring ceremony was performed in front of an altar with candleabra decorations. The altar was banked on both sides with bouquets of carnations, roses and greenery, which were in tall, pedestal flower holders.

Wedding music played included "One Hand, One Heart", "You Are The Sunshine of My Life," "We've Only Just Begun", "Wedding Song", "Ode To Joy" and the bridal chorus and wedding march. Organist was John Tremaine, of Lexington.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a floor-length gown of white organza over taffeta with a sweetheart neckline, empire bodice and long fitted sleeves, all accented with guipure lace.

A camelot headpiece held the bride's cathedral length illusion veil which was also edged in matching lace. She carried a bouquet of white gardenia, white sweetheart roses and babies' breath.

Maid of honor was Darlys Harmon of Louisville. Karen Young of Edgely, N. D., and Vickie Judd of Connersville, Ind., were bridesmaids.

All attendants wore whipped cream floor length gowns of floral print with short puffed sleeves, empire bodice and a V neck with wide collar edged in white lace. They wore pink picture hats and carried nosegay bouquets of pink carnations and white sweetheart roses framed in blue net.

For her daughter's wedding, the bride's mother wore a belted street length dress of pink polyester knit with fitted bodice, under a matching waist length long sleeved jacket. She wore matching white accessories.

The bridegroom's mother was attired in an aqua belted street length dress with a high round collar with pink accessories. Both mothers wore a white gardenia corsage.

Best man was Sam McNeill of Flemingsburg. Ushers were Eldon McCarty, also of Flemingsburg, Bruce Grant of Louisville, and Steve and Scott Cline, both of Danville, brothers of the bride.

The couple took a wedding trip to Nags Head and Cape Hatteras in North Carolina. They plan to make their home at 557 S. Ridge Dr., Lexington.

The bride is employed at International Clinical Laboratories in Lexington. She is graduate of Georgetown College and St. Joseph Hospital School of Medical Technology with a BS degree. She was a member of Sigma Kappa Sorority at Georgetown.

The bridegroom, an employe of University of Kentucky Medical Center, received his BS degree from Eastern Kentucky University, where he belonged to Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity. He is a graduate of St. Joseph Hospital School of Medical Technology, also.

Awarded Fellowship

Stephen H. Benedict, 28, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Benedict, Jr., former Virgie and Wheelwright residents, and who now reside at Mt. Vernon, Illinois, has been awarded the coveted Waksman Graduate Fellowship Award in Microbiology.

Benedict is currently working toward his Ph.D. degree under the direction of Dr. A. S. Kaplan in the Department of Microbiology at the School of Medicine at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn. He is studying interactions of the herpesviruses with cells which have been oncogenically transformed by RNA tumor viruses.

Benedict has co-authored three papers in major scientific journals and also presented a paper on his current work at the national meeting of the American Society for Microbiology in New York last May. Benedict was selected from several thousand applicants who were candidates for this award.

The Waksman Fellowship is awarded to assist highly qualified candidates for the Ph. D. degree in Microbiology. It was established to fill a pressing need for the support of microbiological education at the graduate level. Awards are made with the purpose of supporting education which will satisfy developing world needs.

Benedict was graduated from Wheelwright High School, received the Bachelor of Science degree in 1968 and Master of Science in 1971, both were from the University of Kentucky. For the Master's degree he studied aminopterin resistance in diplococcus pneumoniae with Dr. Thomas C. Gray. Benedict then spent two years at the U. S. Army Medical Research Laboratory at Fort Knox, where he worked with Dr. Ed Spoerl on sugar transport in saccharomyces cerevisiae.

Benedict is married to the former Paula Banks, of Wheelwright, and they have a year-old daughter, Angela Marie. He is the grandson of the late Steve and Susan Benedict, of Virgie, and the late Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hayes, of Lackey.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Judith Gail Leslie Shepherd wish to express our appreciation to the friends and relatives who were so kind to us during our bereavement; also, to extend our appreciation to the nurses at Highland Regional hospital and the doctors and nurses at St. Joseph Hospital in Lexington, Ky. We would like to thank all the people for the beautiful flowers and those who visited at the funeral home.

Kentucky state parks had 647,828 guests in camping areas from April through October, 1974.

Disaster Applications Down in Floyd County And Throughout Nation

The nation's farmers are filing fewer disaster applications this year than they did last year. Figures recently compiled by the U. S. Department of Agriculture show that disaster applications are down 35 percent from a year ago.

Generally favorable weather conditions throughout the country are thought to be the cause of the reduction. To date, a total of 86,003 applications have been received, while at the same time last year, 115,627 applications had been made. Three applications have been received in Floyd county so far this year, compared to 20 last year.

Under provisions of the disaster payment program administered by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), farmers who have a feed grain allotment may be eligible for payments should a natural disaster affect the production of these crops.

ASCS made disaster payment of about $552.4 million to 318,000 farms during the 1974 program year. Of this total eighteen farms in Floyd County received about $2500.

Participation in USDA programs is open to all without regard to race, color, sex, creed or national origin.

Breathitt Countian Succeeds Dr. Allen

Pershing Hayes, of Tyner, and Dr. W. W. Campbell, of Jackson, have been named by Governor Julian M. Carroll to serve four-year terms on the state Fish and Wildlife Commission.

Hayes, an insurance agent, will represent the Ninth Wildlife District on the nine-member commission and replaces James McGlamery, Baxter, whose term expired this month. Dr. Campbell, an optometrist, replaces Dr. C. L. Allen, of Martin, who represented the Seventh District and whose term also expired in August.

The appointments were made by the Governor after licensed sportsmen in the Seventh and Ninth Districts met and selected five persons from each district as candidates for the posts.

The new commission members will be formally sworn in Friday, just prior to the commission's regularly quarterly meeting.

Ninety-five persons died by drowning in Kentucky during the first half of 1975. Twenty-three of those fatalities occurred in boat-related activities. The 12-month toll for 1974 was 150.

THE HILLS seemed to turn a much darker green after a recent afternoon shower. This view looks off the Brush Creek Mountain with houses of the Hippo area in the valley below.

Three Cave Run Boat Docks To Close from Oct. 1 to May 1

Several recreation areas will temporarily or permanently close, and many others will operate under a new clean-up system, according to plans released last week by the Daniel Boone National Forest. The closings are timed with the normal shutdown of areas at the end of the summer season.

While most recreation sites within the 640,000-acre forest will reopen next spring, three sites will be permanently closed. They are the Auger Springs and Indian Trail picnic areas in Laurel county and Hemlock Grove picnic area, in McCreary county.

About a dozen areas will temporarily close, including eight camping sites on Lake Cumberland.

Most of the seasonal closings are staggered from after the Labor Day week-end to Columbus Day, October 13. The heavily use campgrounds at Twin Knobs, on Cave Run Lake, and Koomer Ridge, in the Red River Gorge, will remain open, week-ends, until October 13.

White Oak Boat-In Campground, on Laurel River Lake, near Corbin, will remain open year-round, but under the pack-in, pack-out system. Campers will be responsible for carrying away their own trash.

Forest managers in Winchester emphasize recreation areas will be closed if the public does not cooperate with the pack-in, pack-out method. The cost of providing a trash pick-up service would close many of the 23 sites open under this system.

The program is an economy move by managers of the 640,000-acre forest to bring the cost of administering sites in line with the fiscal year '76 budget. While there was a moderate increase in the total recreation budget, commitment to recreation programs at Cave Run and Laurel River Lakes reduced the funds for recreation throughout the remainder of the forest.

Cave Run Lake will remain open all year, although Bangor, Claylick and Twentysix boat ramps will close, October 1 to May 1. Scott Creek boat ramp will close from after Labor Day until the middle of October for improvements and will reopen when construction is complete. Poppin Rock, Leatherwood, Longbow and Warix Run boat ramps will remain open year-round. Twin Knobs camping area will remain open for week-end camping until Columbus Day weekend, but the beach will close immediately after Labor Day. One of the boat ramps on the Twin Knobs peninsula will stay open during the week and both will operate during the week-ends until Columbus Day. Boat ramps will then close until next Memorial Day week-end.

The increased number of visitors to the Red River Gorge area will be required to carry away their own trash, although the Gorge will remain open year-round. Picnic tables at Chimney Top, Grays Arch, Rock Bridge and Sky Bridge can be used year-round under the pack-in, pack-out system. The 54 units campground at Koomer Ridge will stay open for week-end camping through October 13. Then it will close until Memorial Day. The Visitor Information Station at Ky. 715 and Forest Service Road 24 will close between Labor Day and Memorial Day.

READ THESE FACTS ABOUT DIRECT DEPOSITS....

- Why is there so much interest today in the direct deposit of social security checks?
 The Treasury Department has initiated a program to encourage the recipients of all recurring Federal payments to deposit these directly into a financial institution. Under this plan, an individual can have his check sent directly to his financial institution for deposit.
- How will I benefit from direct deposit of my social security check?
 It saves a special trip to the bank just to deposit your check. It eliminates worry about the check being lost or stolen in the mail. And, any time you are away from home or cannot come to the bank, your check is automatically deposited for you.
- Can I have it deposited to my savings account as well as my checking account?
 If you want a portion to go into the savings each month, ask your bank about an automatic transfer of a specified amount each month from checking into savings. By law your Social Security check must be directed to one specific account, either checking or savings.
- How do I sign up for this service?
 Simply complete the government form (SF1199) available at any bank. Personnel at your commercial bank will be glad to help you complete the form.
- How do I get the information needed to complete the forms?
 All the Social Security information you will need is on your monthly check or in your initial awards letter from Social Security. If you need any assistance or have any questions, your bank will be glad to assist you.
- Do I send the form directly to social security?
 No, you should complete the top half of the form only and take it or mail it to your bank. They will complete the form, sending one copy to you and one to Social Security.
- After I sign up, when will the bank start receiving my check?
 It should take about a month for the form to be processed. At the start of the program, it could take slightly longer.

You can deposit your check directly ...

Do you have a checking or savings account in a bank, savings bank, savings and loan association or similar institution, or a Federal or State chartered credit union? Did you know you can have your check deposited directly in your account in one of these organizations? If you don't have an account now, you can open one and have your check deposited directly.

Direct deposit of your check has certain advantages. For example:

- Even if you are away from home, your check would be deposited instead of sitting in your mailbox.
- You don't have any problem in cashing your check because it goes directly into your account.
- You don't have to stand in line to cash your check or to deposit it.
- You don't have to worry about losing your check after you receive it or having it stolen from your mailbox.

The decision is yours. It's entirely up to you whether you want your check deposited directly.

(please see other side)

If you want your check to continue coming to your present address, don't do anything. It will keep on coming just as it has in the past.

But if you do want your check mailed to a financial organization or if your check already is mailed to one, this is what you should do:

Contact the financial organization where you now have or where you want to have an account and ask for a direct deposit form SF-1199. (Completion of the form does not permit withdrawals from your account by anyone other than those authorized by you.)

If you want more information, get in touch with your financial organization or contact any social security office.

To Head Girl Scout Fund Drive

Mrs. Delores Smith, of Prestonsburg, has been named fund drive chairman for the Floyd county Girl Scout fund drive to be held this fall. Mrs. Julian Carroll, general chairman of the Wilderness Road Girl Scout Council fund drives, made the announcement at a luncheon August 15 at the Governor's Mansion.

The luncheon was held for the chairmen of the 39 fund drives to be held in those areas of the local Girl Scout council with no federated campaigns such as United Way or Community Chest. The goal of these local fund drives has been set at $25,000 or 7 percent of the $392,610 budget. The remainder of the support for Girl Scouting in 55 counties in Kentucky and one county in Tennessee and one in Ohio comes from United Fund contributions, gifts, grants, foundations and from the annual Girl Scout cookie sale.

Pike Grocery Store Loses Food Stamps

Atlanta, Ga.—A Pike county food store—the Jean Slone Grocery, of Raccoon—has been removed from the food stamp program for one year because of violations, the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) reports.

The store, which is owned by Jean Slone, was disqualified for one year, starting July 15. It had been charged with selling ineligible items for food coupons. Among them were cigarettes, clothing, kitchen utensils. The store was also charged with exchanging cash for coupons.

Robert Cunningham, in charge of the Prestonsburg field office of the Food and Nutrition Service, explained that the store will not be allowed to accept food coupons during the disqualification period.
