

This Town...That World

I am not complaining, mind you, but the snow which for a week or more has been predicted is yet to arrive. Beautiful! If you're not satisfied with Kentucky weather as it is, stick around another 15 minutes.

HILL HASN'T SHRUNK

For some years now I have been, as they say, threatening to climb yon hill and look again over the countryside below while the wind tosses my locks, lifts the spirit and blows away collected cobwebs. Well, I waited too long for any lock-liftin', but I made it up there last Sunday to places which for years had existed only in memory.

The old beech which I remembered as a towering giant and which still has in its innards a pound or so of .22-calibre lead fired by me and associates, is a topless, decrepit, half-hollow shell of a tree. But it may be good for another fifty years, its big roots seem so sturdy and firmly planted. A rock or so that I remembered, too, as overshadowing the landscape seem also to have shrunk. But everything was bigger, or darker, or steeper, or higher, or greater in our Lilliputian days.

Even so, not everything has shriveled. That hill, for example—if I am not sadly mistaken, that boyhood Matterhorn is at least twenty degrees steeper than before, and it slopes even more sharply as you try to get back to level ground.

PRINTER'S ORDEAL

Edgar Allen Poe, a tragic figure at best, on occasion would try to shake the gloom and try his hand at humor, but it simply wouldn't come off for him. Recall his "X-ing a Paragrab"? It wasn't one of his better efforts. The following is along that line, and it reportedly comes from an oldtime hand-set newspaper which was short a couple of letters:

"We begin the publication of the Roccy Mountain Cyclone with some phew diphiculties in the way. The type phounder phrom whom we bought our outphit phor this printing ophphice phaled to supply us with any ephs or cays, and it will be phour or phive weecs bephore we can get any. Two Die in Collision Sunday Near Airport

A two-car collision early Sunday morning on U.S. 23 in the vicinity of the Combs Airport, near the Johnson-Floyd county line, claimed the lives of two persons and injured two others.

John Wallace "Butch" Branham, 44, of Auxier, passenger in a car driven by his wife, Greta, was almost instantly killed when their car, travelling south, was struck, head-on, by a car driven by Clede Salyers, 23, of Gifford, Magoffin county.

A passenger in the Salyers vehicle, 14-year-old Kimberly Bailey, of Salyersville, died en route to the Highlands Regional Medical Center.

According to witnesses at the scene of the tragedy, the Salyers car, heading north, pulled into the opposite lane, striking Mr. and Mrs. Branham's vehicle. It was said that upon impact the Salyers car flew into the air and travelled nearly 80 feet, jumping a guardrail and coming to rest at the foot of an embankment where it burst into flames. A local resident reportedly pulled Miss Bailey and Salyers from the burning vehicle. A second passenger in the car, Herschell Coldiron, 19, of Salyersville, was thrown clear of the car. Coldiron was reported in satisfactory condition at the medical center and Miss Salyers was released after being treated for minor hurts.

Mrs. Branham, 39, was said to have had a broken pelvis, a broken nose and jaw as well as suffering severe lacerations. She was transferred from Highlands Regional to a Lexington hospital where she was reported in satisfactory condition.

An employee of the Kentucky Coal Company, Pikeville, Mr. Branham was born at Water Gap, a son of the late Lewis and Lucinda Dillon Branham. Survivors, besides the wife, include two daughters, Lila Davis, of Paintsville, and Twila Branham, of Somerset; three brothers, Charles "Pete" Branham, Water Gap, Robert and Walter Branham, both of Willard, Ohio; four sisters, Josephine Branham, Willard, Helena Smith, of Valparaiso, Indiana, Opal Jean Reed, of Columbus, O., and Darcus Spradlin, of Water Gap, and one grandchild.

Funeral rites will be conducted today (Wednesday) at the Floyd Funeral Home Chapel with Brother Wallace Calhoun officiating. Burial will be made in Richmond Memorial Cemetery here.

Miss Bailey was a daughter of Adrian and Shirley Salyers Vailey, and was born January 31, 1961 at Paintsville. She was a freshman at Salyersville high school and was a member of the cheerleading squad. Besides the parents, she is survived by a brother and a sister, Michael and Tammy Bailey, both at home.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday at 11 a.m. at the Free Will Baptist Church, of Salyersville, by the Revs. Wayne Meade, Jr., David Lykins and John Clay Watkins. Burial was made in the Patrick cemetery at Salyersville.

Salisbury Trial Ends in 13-Year Prison Sentence

The 13-year-old pen term given Gene Salisbury last Wednesday morning for the slaying at Drift of Crit Butler concluded the murder trails for the year in the Floyd circuit court and also marked the last such case to be prosecuted by Harold J. Stumbo as commonwealth's attorney.

Stumbo's term of office will expire with the end of the year, and another criminal term of court will not convene till his successor, James R. Allen, takes office.

Ed Wright, who himself is under indictment in the Butler slaying, charged as an accessory after the fact, was the principal Commonwealth witness. He said Salisbury shot Butler two times with a .38-calibre revolver, then drew from the fallen man's waistband a .22-calibre pistol, remarked, "I'll just put the... out of his misery," and shot Butler in his head.

Testifying in his own behalf, Salisbury said he, Butler and Rice were playing poker and that he and Butler had placed their weapons on the table. An argument arose, and Butler moved for his gun, Salisbury said, whereupon he fired two shots. He added that Wright then shot Butler with Butler's own gun, the .22.

Commonwealth testimony claimed Wright had his own gun, a .25-calibre pistol. Two youths told of talking with Salisbury at the jail here and quoted him as saying he could not understand why "they had Wright up here." (Wright also was jailed during early days of the investigation.) Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Hale, neighbors of Salisbury, told of

Wreck at Water Gap Brings Toll to Six

Charles Jailed In Fatal Knifing Of Harold Man

Johnny Wayne Charles, of Toler Creek, who was jailed here Sunday night after he had allegedly stabbed to death William (Bill Lee) Adkins, 35, of Harold, may not be officially arraigned before County Judge Henry Stumbo till after the victim's funeral tomorrow (Thursday).

A warrant charging Charles with murder was sworn out Monday morning by State Police Detective Richard Ray.

An autopsy was being performed Monday. It was said Adkins was stabbed several times, and the accused man told Detective Ray he recalled stabbing him twice—once in the abdomen and again, he thought, in the back as Adkins seized him.

The accused man said he called State Police to tell them of what he had done. He indicated that he cut Adkins, in self-defense.

The wounding of Adkins took place in the yard of the home of Velva Kidd, Charles' mother-in-law. Charles said cars drove past the home, one finally stopping and both men and women emerging from it to threaten him. He said he stayed inside the house but heard one person say, "You will be dead by morning." He also said he saw a weapon a rifle or shotgun, in one man's hands and that he told the callers to go on down the road and leave him alone.

After that, he said, a man whom he did not know came across the fence. As the man crossed the fence, he said, he pulled his knife. As he stood by the front steps of the home, this version of the slaying said, Charles heard some shots, and as Adkins advanced toward him the stabbing took place.

Charles said "seven or eight" persons were in the yard when the stabbing took place.

New Wage Pact Gains Approval In Secret Vote

Members of two local unions of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers last week by secret ballot approved a new contract with the Columbia Gas Transmission Company which provides an across-the-board basic wage increase of 44 cents per hour.

Announcement of the new contract was made last Friday, beating the Sunday midnight expiration of the old wage pact and the threat of a strike. The union has the option of reopening contract negotiations after a period of a year.

In addition to the 44-cent basic increase, hourly wage increases ranging from 4 to 12 cents for job grades 1 through 9 are provided by the new contract. Another wage spread of 3 to 8 cents for the same job grades will become effective next June 1.

The two local unions having a part in the bargaining are Nos. 3-372 and 3-628, with members in Kentucky and parts of West Virginia.

Holiday Period Has Drop in Population At the County Jail

The Thanksgiving holiday here may have exerted a calming effect on would-be lawbreakers in the county, or at least kept them closer home, as this week's listing from the county jail shows a lighter than usual number booked. Those arrested at the jail here, charges against each and arresting officers follow:

Terry Dixon, assault in the second degree, by Ky. Dept. of Motor Transportation Officer Eugene Mullins; James Floyd Hunter, drunk driving, by State Trooper Cantrell and Sgt. Akers; Charlie Hamilton, drunk driving, by State Trooper Shelton; Jimmy Johnson, drunk driving, by State Troopers Stepp and Castle; Dan Wardlan, drunk driving and speeding, by State Trooper K. Hardin;

Endicott Woman And 2 Daughters Victims, Monday

Thanksgiving was followed by a grisly record of highway tragedy, with six persons dead as a result of four separate wrecks between Paintsville and Water Gap, near here, in a period of 48 hours.

Latest of the tragedies was the late Monday afternoon collision of an automobile with a tractor-trailer at the intersection of KY 3 (the Lancer-Water Gap road) and US 23 at Water Gap in which an Endicott woman and her two daughters were instantly killed. The dead in that wreck are Mrs. Annie Belle Spears Collins, 45, wife of Woodrow Collins, of Endicott, and her daughters, Shirley Dean Collins, 22, and Velvet Lee Collins, 12. Her brother, James F. Spears, was seriously injured and was taken to a Lexington hospital.

Killed in the head-on crash of two automobiles on US 23, near Combs Airport early Sunday morning were John Wallace "Butch" Branham, of Auxier, and Kimberly Bailey, 14, of Salyersville. Injured were Branham's wife, Greta, and Herschell Coldiron, 19, of Salyersville. (See separate story.)

Robert King, 39, of Staffordsville, was fatally injured at 11:20 p.m. Saturday when the car in which he was a passenger failed to negotiate the Harry Davis curve, west of Paintsville, and plunged over a 20-foot embankment. Criminal charges have been filed against the driver, Wade D. Tackett, also of Staffordsville.

FBI Launches Probe Of Meeting at Wise

The Courier-Journal in separate copyrighted news-stories last Thursday reported (1) that the FBI is investigating the 1971 meeting of U. S. Senator Wendell H. Ford, then a candidate for governor, with coal operators at Wise, Va.; and (2) that strip-mine operators in Pike county were solicited for an estimated half-million dollars in campaign funds for Gov. Julian Carroll's recent campaign.

(Later, Eugene E. Siler, Jr., who will move up soon from the post of U. S. district attorney to that of U. S. district judge, announced that a federal investigation of the Carroll campaign fund is being given consideration.)

The FBI's only comment on the Wise meeting investigation was to the effect that it was "a phase of an investigation." A Courier-Journal story last April quoted Hobart Potter, Pikeville mine operator, as saying 16 operators were solicited in advance of the meeting for contributions of $5,000 each.

Senator Ford has admitted that the meeting was held at Wise but has denied that its purpose was to collect money from coal operators or that any was collected.

Potter has been interviewed by the FBI, and the investigation is expected to include questioning of some Floyd operators who attended the meeting.

The Louisville newspaper's story on the alleged Carroll fund-raising was based on statements by Pike coal operators who requested that their names not be divulged. The report said that the coal men were promised that in return for their contributions John S. Hoffman, secretary of the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, would be replaced. Hoffman has maintained a strict enforcement stance on reclamation. He later said he had no intention to leave the job soon but that he had accepted it only temporarily. He added that there had been no friction between him and Governor Carroll and that he had tried to be fair with operators.

Through his press secretary, John Nichols, Gov. Carroll said it would be useless for him to discuss the reports of fund soliciting because he knew nothing about them. "I was the candidate, and others handled the campaign," Nichols quoted Carroll as saying.

Man Shot Here Sues His Host For $288,000

A Pikeville man who claims his Prestonsburg host shot him in the mouth last January has filed suit in the Floyd circuit court, asking a total of $288,000 in damages and expenses.

The court action was filed last Wednesday by James Franklin Blair, against Jim Bob Vance. Blair alleges that on or about Jan. 14, 1975 while he was "an invited guest" in the home of the defendant, Vance negligently and recklessly shot him in the mouth.

The plaintiff asks that he recover $15,000 for medical expenses to the time of trial for the case, $15,000 for future medical expense, $100,000 for pain and suffering, $100,000 for impairment of earning power, $8,000 for loss of wages, and $50,000 punitive damages because, plaintiff alleged, the shooting and wounding "was so wanton and reckless as to indicate a wilful disregard for life."

Trial of Vance in circuit court here last October on a charge of first degree assault resulted in a hung jury. Later, the Commonwealth filed a motion to dismiss the charge, but court attaches said the cases remains on the court docket.

(Only the plaintiff's version of a case appears in damage suits when filed.)

Concerned Mother Gets Results

One woman's concern for the safety of children riding the school bus from the Mayo Addition and other upriver points to school here is credited with getting the Department of Highways busy at this scene where last year a giant slide blocked the highway near the Ball Alley curve here. State machinery has been scooping out loose earth and rocks, and workmen are here shown going farther up the mountainside to rid the area of large rocks which could become a part of future slides. Mrs. John Grant Anderson, of Prestonsburg, called on highway officials to correct the situation which, she contended, posed a threat to traffic and the buses which school children ride daily past the spot.

Machinery Hits a Soft Spot

The very first move toward harbor dredging at Dewey Lake stopped suddenly Monday when the backhoe-endloader sank deep in the mud left behind by the receding water. Workmen for the contractor, the P & N Construction Co., Lexington, were busy most of the following day getting the machinery out of the mess it was in and ready for work on firmer footing.

Ashland Hospital Gets Installment of $100,000 On Health Care Grant

Secretary C. Leslie Dawson, Department for Human Resources, last week presented a $100,000 check to King's Daughters' Hospital for the development of regional emergency medical services.

This is the first of quarterly payments, totaling $436,548, which will be used to upgrade emergency health care in Boyd, Carter, Elliott, Greenup and Lawrence counties.

The money will be used to purchase ambulances, hire staff and improve the communications link between ambulances and hospitals.

Although the contract is with the King's Daughters' Hospital, which is located in Ashland, the money will be shared by all emergency service providers throughout the FIVCO area to improve existing services.

The contract between the department and the hospital calls for 25 per cent of emergency medical service funding to be supplied locally and 75 per cent to be supplied by the state and federal governments.

The number of women in the labor force nearly doubled between 1950 and 1974; women now account for two-fifths of all workers.

Kentucky Educational Development Region XI and the Bureau of Education for Exceptional Children co-sponsored a workshop for local school districts at Jenny Wiley State Park November 25 to discuss the identification, location, evaluation and placement of exceptional children. Consultants from the bureau included Dr. George Troutt, assistant superintendent of public instruction, and bureau staff members Pearl Vaughn, Joanna Brooks, Fred West, Carole Kruse, and Majorie Tyler.

Topics discussed included Kentucky school laws applying to the education of exceptional children, Kentucky administrative regulations, program guidelines, the establishment of local task forces to assist in the identification of exceptional children, methods and forms for task force data collection, due process, school-based and administrative and releases committees, and the subject of primary concern—evaluation, individual education plans, and placement of exceptional children.

It was stressed that, although it may not be possible to provide an ideal program for each exceptional child, school districts should work toward providing the least restrictive alternative. Also stressed was the importance of the involvement of all school personnel in the effort to meet the needs of such children. It was pointed out that no educator can afford to be indifferent or uninvolved with this task.

Participating in the workshop were Anna Sue Stumbo and Gordon Moore (Floyd county), John Waddell and Jack Clevenger (Pikeville independent), Mable Lemaster (Paintsville independent), Charles Wright (Pike county), and Mary Radcliff (Johnson county.) KEDR XI staff members participating in the workshop were Reo Johns, executive director, Audrey Pratt and Shirley Beard.

Return to Oldtime Spelling Bee Planned

As its part of the celebration, the Kentucky Education Association this year will sponsor a KEA Bicentennial Spelling Bee—a reminder of the way we were at one point in Kentucky school history.

Announcing the contest, KEA president Mrs. Billye Pope said, "We believe our members, their students, parents and relatives of students, and the general public will enjoy visiting the past through an old-fashioned spelling contest."

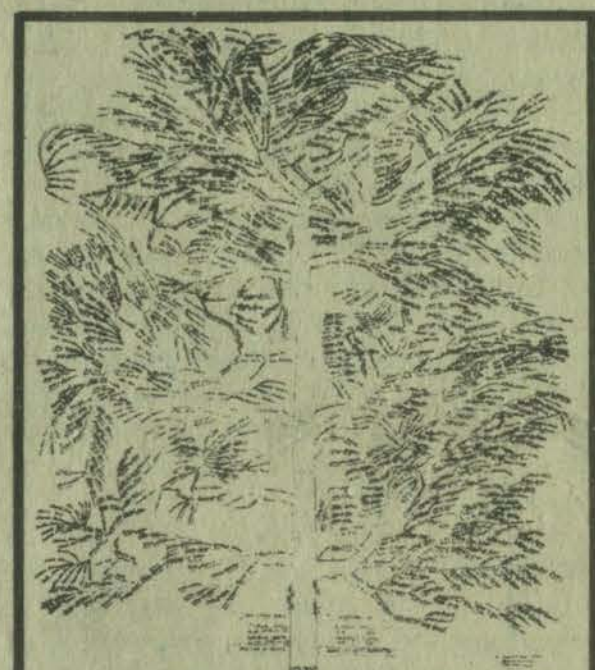

KEA's local education associations are being asked to organize and conduct competitions within their school systems to determine a systemwide spelling champion who may be in any grade from one through eight.

Local contests are to be held between January 5 and February 14.

Winners of local spelling bees will compete at the KEA district association level for the district championship. There are 12 KEA district associations but one of them, Jefferson county, is considered both a local and a district. District contests will be held between February 20 and March 13.

The finals, at which the state champion will be chosen from among the 12 district winners, will be Wednesday, April 14 in Louisville, the first day of the annual KEA convention.

CAN'T HELP

Male pattern baldness is the cause of a great majority of cases of baldness and excessive hair loss, for which no method is effective. Ebb Hair Specialists cannot help those who are slick bald after years of gradual hair loss.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss?

Many conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick Bald and your hair roots are dead you are beyond help. So, if you still have hair on top of your head, and would like to stop hair loss and grow more hair . . . now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

FREE CONSULTATION

Just take a few minutes of your time on Friday, December 5, 1975, and go to the Plantation Motel, Rt. 23 & 460, Prestonsburg, Kentucky, between 1 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. and ask the Desk Clerk for J. H. Norton's room number.

Four-Lane or Two Lanes, Give Us a New KY 80

There is only one thing possibly wrong with the recommendation that KY 80 from Water Gap in this county to Hazard, Perry county, be made a four-lane highway. It may cost too much.

If the state of Kentucky can find the estimated $176.1 million required for four-lane construction, four-laning is a great idea. This Floyd-Knott-Perry county area through which the road passes will grow, is growing now, and in the years ahead will play a vital part in the coal production which national leaders have declared a necessity for the future. The road will connect a new, four-lane US 23 with the new Daniel Boone Parkway at Hazard. Indeed, the ability of the latter road ever to pay through tolls the bonds issued for its building depends much on a major "feeder" link such as KY 80.

But all the need for the highway and all the plans will mean nothing if the cost of four lanes makes it a financial impossibility. In that case, why not go for a two-lane highway with passing lanes?

That's not a super-highway, and it may require widening later—a job better done to begin with, admittedly. But the Daniel Boone Parkway has only two lanes with a passing lane on hills, and it's a dream alongside this narrow, twisting KY 80 that we now try to negotiate.

So we plead: "Give us a road, the best road that the money in the till will buy."

Scene of Highway Tragedy

Pictured are the two vehicles involved in a crash at Combs Airport early Sunday morning which took the lives of two persons and injured two others (see story elsewhere). In the car at top, John "Butch" Branham, 44, of Auxier, was killed almost instantly. At bottom, the vehicle in which 14-year-old Kimberly Bailey, of Salyersville was killed, still smolders while firemen attempt to extinguish the fire that occurred after the auto jumped a guardrail.

Gibson, Stephens At Nat'l Contest

National 4-H Poultry Judging Contest
Two Floyd county 4-H clubmembers participated in the National 4-H Poultry Judging Contest held in Louisville recently as a part of the North American Livestock Show. The two Floyd members are Phillip Gibson, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Gibson, Jr., Langley, and Grady Stephens, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Stephens, Pyramid.

Grady Stephens was a silver medal winner in the dressed bird division of the contest, scoring 496 points out of the 500 possible.

These boys were joined by Tom Reed, Greenup county, and Donald May, Pike county in making up the Kentucky team. The team was fourth in the dressed bird contest and finished 12th, overall.

Ten Years Ago

(December 2, 1965)

The Mountain Mental Health Association met Monday at the Floyd County Health Center here, to emphasize the need for a mental health association for Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike counties. Plans for the public information center long-planned for construction here by the Department of Public Information have been approved and advertisement for bids has been authorized. At mid-semester almost 49 per cent of the 518 fulltime students at the Prestonsburg Community College were well on their way to failing to make passing grades, Rondal Lawson, bursar-recorder at the college, was quoted as saying recently. The 1965 Christmas season officially opened in Prestonsburg Saturday with the fourth annual Christmas parade and Snow Queen pageant. Married: Miss Susie Stephens, of Prestonsburg, and Mr. Larry Burke, of Catlettsburg, November 24 at Pikeville. There died: Mrs. Katy Porter, 81, November 25 at her home at Allen; Sherman Short, 47, November 26 at his home at Kite; Jimmy Crate Gibson, 14, of Tram, November 26 at the Pikeville Appalachian Regional hospital; Dr. Earl T. Arnett, 62, former Floyd dentist, Tuesday at Mt. Sterling; Mrs. Alice Scalf Nunnery, 85, of Justell, November 29 at Our Lady of the Way hospital, Martin; Mrs. Cynthia Fannin, 82, of David, November 24 at Handshoe; Luther Mack Rector, 79, of Garrett, November 28 at the McDowell Appalachian Regional hospital.

Twenty Years Ago

(December 1, 1955)

Purchase of the interest of R. M. Sirkle in the Beaver Valley hospital at Martin has been made by Dr. Claude L. Allen, it was learned here last week. Formal signing of a contract to construct the Floyd County Health Center is expected this week, it was said Tuesday by County Judge Henry Stumbo. Figures produced by the American Automobile Association show that a car in the popular price range, driven less than 18,000 miles a year, costs $602 in fixed charges and 3.5 cents additional for every mile driven. Latest of the buildings to be occupied after erection in this year's record-breaking construction program here is the R. V. May Company structure on South Lake Drive. If not used by December 22, 23,000 units of Kentucky's present supply of polio vaccine will be wasted, the Kentucky State Department of Health announced today. The Prestonsburg Black Cats' sharpshooting Lowell Hughes found the goal for 42 points, but Wheelwright's ace guard, Homer Osborne, hit the jackpot in the last second looping a 20-foot jumper that gave the Wheelwright Maroons a 79-77 win in the first round of the Floyd pre-season tournament at Wayland Tuesday night. John Blackburn, 69, native Floyd countian, Tuesday in Long Beach, Calif.; Esalona C. Ratliff, 84, Tuesday at her home at Martin; Jim Dock Hall, 90, of Price, recently at his home; Joseph Wallace, 60, of Garrett, last Thursday at Veterans' hospital, Louisville.

Thirty Years Ago

(November 29, 1945)

Work expected to begin next spring on the Johns Creek dam at Dewey, this county, hit a snag this week as the House Appropriations committee refused to approve President Truman's request for $130,000,000 for flood control and navigation projects which had been stopped by the war. The army, with the support of one civilian, had too much might for the 1945-'46 edition of the Prestonsburg Black Cat basketball team to cope with in the charity game played here Friday night for benefit of Prestonsburg children of defective vision. The alumni won, 30 to 25. Completion of organization of the Floyd County Tuberculosis Association was effected at a meeting here Saturday. Attendance Officer Paris Conley this week announced that four more Floyd county fathers have been fined for failure to send their children to school. Married: Miss Sylvia Sellards and Mr. Fred Hall, both of Banner, were married Nov. 15 at the home of the officiating minister, the Rev. F. H. McGinnis. There died: Mrs. Polly Bradley, 65, Sunday at her home at Dock; Mrs. Artie Justice, 78, Thanksgiving Day at her home at Eastern; Mrs. Frances Roop Jarvis, 39, last Thursday at her home at Cow Creek.

Forty Years Ago

(November 29, 1935)

Shotgun blasts, one fired as the result of a drunken row, the other writing another tragedy in the record of a family feud, resulted in the slaying Saturday of young miner Jeff Daniels, of Hunter, and Seland Cook, 45, veteran Floyd county teacher, on Left Beaver Creek. Somewhere between Louisville and Paintsville, The Times was told this week, the paving project for Friend street here has been lost. Relief in Kentucky is over at the time this is published today, November 30, as far as the Federal Government is concerned. Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee Leslie at Martin November 13, a daughter; to Mr. and Mrs. Ray Howard at their home here, Sunday, a son, Ray Ollie. There died: B. Morgan Spradlin, 42, Monday morning at King's Daughters' hospital, Ashland; William Brackett, 48, Saturday at his home at Wheelwright; Corbett Miller, 26, of Cliff, last Wednesday at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin, of tuberculosis.

Somebody has said that Thanksgiving is the only truly American holiday. That statement has been disputed by those who point to July 4 and demand to know what's foreign about it. Still it's a matter that's open to argument. Even the turkey and cranberries are pure American. But those fireworks used to celebrate the grand and glorious Fourth may have been made in Japan.

LACKEY NEWS

A surprise birthday celebration was given for Laura Conley on her 75th birthday Saturday, November 29, at her home. She received many gifts, and dinner was served to the following guests:

Letters to the Editor

Calls for Opposition To Bill in Congress

The following excerpts are taken from the Congressional Records:

"What is at issue is whether the parent shall continue to have the right to form the character of the children or whether the State, with all its power and magnitude, shall be given the decisive tools and techniques for forming the young lives of the children of this country.

"As a matter of the child's rights, the government shall exert controls over the family because we have recognized that the child is not the care of their parents but the care of the State. We recognize further that not parental, but communal, forms of upbringing have an unquestionable superiority over all other forms. Furthermore, there is a serious question that maybe we cannot trust the family to prepare young children for this new kind of world which is emerging."

People—that may sound like something right out of the Soviet Union, and indeed it is, but it is now pending before the Congress of the United States for passage. I believe it is quite clear in its meaning; however, if you have any doubts let me assure you the intent is to take your children away from you and have the State raise them.

Now you say, "It can't happen here in this country. The people won't let it!" It already has. The Congress of the United States passed this, both in the House and Senate in 1971. It was vetoed at that time by President Nixon; however, it is again pending before the legislature, and we now have a veto-proof Congress! You say it won't pass again! What are you doing to make sure. Don't sit back and let it happen. Do something right now. There'll be no pleasure in saying, "I told you so."

This is a death warrant for many parents and children alike if it is passed and enforced. Will you give up your children when they come? Don't wait until then. Write your Congressman, Senators, the President and anyone else you feel might help. My 10-year-old son wrote the President, I'm writing everyone I can and urging them to vote against this. Won't you help now? The bill in the House of Representatives is HR2966; in the Senate, 8262.

I was born and raised in Floyd County. My mother lives in Prestonsburg.

A Staffordsville man, Raymond Horne, was the driver of the tractor-trailer which smashed into the auto occupied by Mrs. Collins and daughters. State troopers said witnesses to the tragedy told them that Mrs. Collins, who was driving up KY 3, stopped at the intersection with the four-lane US 23, then pulled into the main highway, in the path of the oncoming truck. The driver of the tractor-trailer was apparently unhurt.

Mrs. Collins was a daughter of the late Dew and Dixie Collins Spears and was a native of the Endicott section. She was a member of the Church of Christ here. Surviving are her husband, one son, Belvra, of Endicott; three brothers and three sisters, James F. and Kermit Spears, both of Endicott, Estill Spears, Alliance, O., Mrs. Renie Burchett, Mrs. Lydia Sherman and Mrs. Scherilda Endicott, all of Endicott. She also leaves one half-brother, Bill Goble, of Endicott.

Funeral rites for the mother and daughters will be conducted at 11 a.m. tomorrow (Thursday) from the Collins residence by the Rev. W. D. Jagers. Burial in the family cemetery will be directed by the Floyd Funeral Home.

place. He said he had drunk "about four beers" since the preceding noon.

The victim was a son of Mrs. Lizzie Lewis Adkins, of Harold, and the late Tom Adkins. He was a native of Cow Creek. Surviving, besides his mother, are his widow, Mrs. Katie McKinney Adkins; two sons and one daughter, Tom, James and Nyokia Jane, all at home; two brothers, Ernest Adkins, of Banner, and Arnold Adkins, of Fremont, O.; three sisters, Mrs. Nancy Justice and Mrs. Barbara Kelly, both of Betsy Layne, and Mrs. Georgia Hillstrom, Clyde, Ohio.

The funeral will be conducted from the Adkins residence at 10 a.m. Thursday, and burial will be made in the family cemetery at Harold under direction of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Others were quoted by Sheriff Joe W. Lewis as saying the trouble began developing, earlier in the night when Charles allegedly went to the Kidd home and inquired after the whereabouts of a man and struck the brother of the man he sought in the face a blow from his fist. This version of the slaying claims that Adkins had attempted to retreat from Charles's advance before he was stabbed.

Club Federation Head Asks Support for KET

The Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs believes that there can be no issue more crucially important to Kentucky than education. Education is a Kentucky crisis now, we rank 49th in the nation.

We have at our disposal a tool which, if fully used, would help to raise Kentucky's educational level by reaching every school child in the state with challenging educational programs. That tool is KET.

A Study Commission, composed of lay citizens from all across the state, has thoroughly investigated KET and has made recommendations that will, if implemented, enable KET to reach its potential in raising Kentucky's educational levels. The Study Commission's report recommends funding. Matching funds for school districts so that they can afford TV sets and antenna system. Funds for videotape recorders so that teachers can show programs at the hour that suits them best. Funds for more secondary and elementary level programs. New transmitters and translators to solve reception problems in schools and in homes. More cultural and public affairs programs for adults at home.

The recommendations are being considered by the Governor's budget and finance staff. The budget will be submitted to the upcoming legislature.

As State President of the KFWC, I am proud to call on you for your support for these urgently needed measures. I hope you will.

Write the governor to lend your backing to this effort. Write your legislators. Have your clubs and organizations draft resolutions of support.

You will have made a concrete step toward improving our children's future and your own.

Warns Against Land Use Legislation in Kentucky

Land use has failed to pass twice in the House in Washington. Now Big Brother would like to slip it in through our state legislatures and will if enough property owners don't let their state legislators know how they feel.

Two bills are coming up in the next session. One is by Senator John Lackey, of Richmond, and the other by Senator Joe Graves, of Lexington. These bills will hamstring property owners from top to bottom, and if you don't believe it write to the Legislative Research Commission in Frankfort for copies and read them yourself.

Instead of your saying, "I can't do anything," I wish you would remember one thing: Politicians are interested in one thing and that is staying in office. If enough people let them know they aren't going to get re-elected because they voted for land use, it would make a difference.

Some legislators' argument for land use is to preserve the environment for future generations. I would like to preserve freedom and what is left of the American system for them, too.

Look at welfare, the food stamp program and other federal programs. Do you trust Big Brother to plan all the land and have a bureaucrat at your expense to issue you a permit?

Vermont passed a land use bill in 1969 similar to Senator Lackey's bill. The people in Vermont have been trying to get rid of land use ever since.

Count Lustig, king of the con men, sold London bridge and the Eiffel tower twice. If our legislators can sell Kentuckians land use on the grounds of keeping junkyards from in front of our homes and of preserving farms and country sides, using our tax money with Washington guidelines, it will top everything the Count did in his career.

Salisbury coming to their home after the shooting and before any officers had arrived on the scene and of his telling them he had killed a man.

Testifying as a defense witness, Sheriff Joe W. Lewis told of finding Butler's gun on the hillside, some distance from the Salisbury home, and it was not explained how the weapon got there. He also attacked findings of State Police and Commonwealth's Attorney Stumbo, alleging that County Judge Henry Stumbo and County Attorney James R. Allen had stopped the investigation. Counteracting Wright's claim that his arm was broken in a fall over a fence as he fled the shooting scene, Sheriff Lewis told of items of Butler's clothing being found in a building occupied by a German police dog, and he claimed Wright's injuries were inflicted by the dog, possibly when Wright entered the building with Butler's clothing.

Commonwealth's Attorney Stumbo emphasized the point that nobody had interfered with the investigation of the slaying.

Salisbury is expected to appeal the jury verdict.

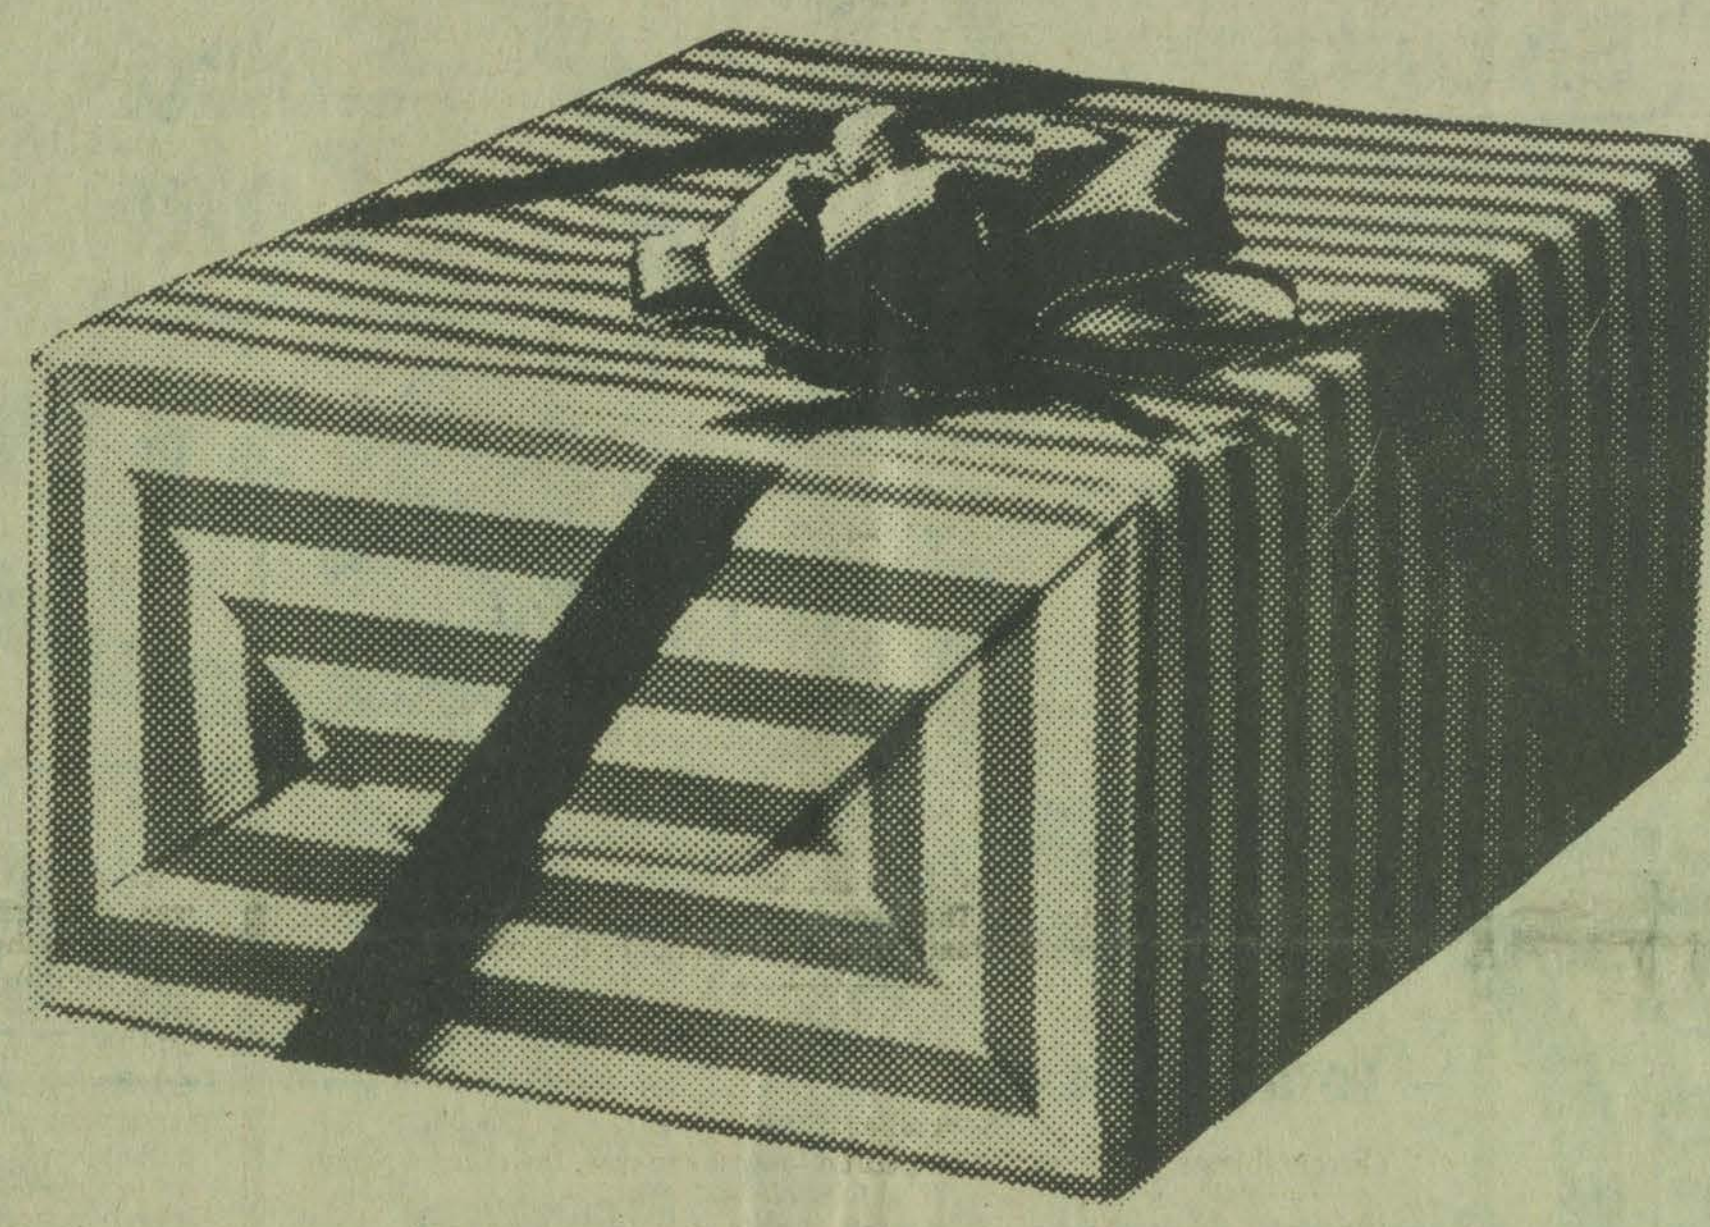

VISITING HERE

Miles Chaloupka, of Flushing, N. Y. arrived here last week to join Mrs. Chaloupka, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Grace Burke and her daughter, Mrs. Betty Davis. They were overnight guests of Mrs. Ruth D. Sowards, Thursday night.

ALC Seeking Toys For Needy Children

Students, faculty, and staff at Alice Lloyd College are collecting toys in an effort to make Christmas merrier for needy children of the area. The toy drive is under the direction of Christine Stumbo and is part of the ALCOR (Appalachian Leaders in Community Outreach) Program.

Most of the recipients of the gifts will be children contacted through the ALCOR summer program. During the summer, college students live in isolated rural hollows and help provide families with recreational activities, learning experiences and health services.

Local residents are asked to donate old toys and books to the drive. Volunteers at Alice Lloyd College will repair or recondition any articles in need of such attention. Collection boxes have been left at locations in Floyd, Knott, Pike and Letcher counties. The Floyd locations are:

Big "Y" Food Saver, Allen; Piggly Wiggly, Prestonsburg; Reba's Market, Drift; Midway Market, Minnie; Martin's Best Way Market, McDowell; Annette's Country Kitchen, McDowell.

12,000 Rural Postoffices Face Possible Shut-Down

Washington—Two House subcommittees failed to resolve the fate of 12,000 rural mail facilities that the General Accounting Office (GAO) wants shut down.

While the subcommittees in recently concluded hearings decided not to broaden the statutory authority under which the Postal Service (USPS) can close facilities, action by the two panels appears to have left the door open for USPS to decide how many and which post offices will be closed.

The Postal Service favors closing large numbers of rural mail facilities as a budget saving measure.

The post office subcommittees heard testimony from congressional witnesses who nearly unanimously opposed widespread closings.

The recommendation that 12,000 facilities be shut down for reasons of economy was made by the GAO in June and has precipitated enormous public opposition nationwide. The GAO is Congress' investigative agency.

The USPS is prohibited by statute from closing a small post office just because the facility is operating at a deficit. But the service contends it can close down many rural facilities for other reasons and maintains that in most cases postal services improve in areas where small facilities are eliminated through expanded rural delivery routes and other services.

Assistant Postmaster General Edward Dorsey made it clear in testimony before the subcommittees that the USPS intends to proceed with plans to close rural post offices on a "case-by-case" basis. He gave no precise indication, however, as to how many facilities would be eliminated, although he said there would be no "wholesale closings" such as the GAO proposed.

"Prudent management dictates that we replace uneconomical small offices which no longer play a useful role in our service system," Dorsey said. "We will not make progress towards this goal if we insist on retaining every existing post office until the community it serves has been abandoned, or the postmaster has quit, or all but 24 families have moved away, or nobody in town wants to be postmaster," he said.

The GAO reported that the USPS has been precluded from "realizing substantial economies" because of congressional opposition to the shut-downs. The GAO reported that closing 12,000 rural post offices could save the Treasury $100 million a year.

The USPS has been under pressure to cut costs in order to achieve what the GAO called "a mandate to be self-sustaining by 1984."

In fiscal year 1974, the Postal Service operated at a deficit of $2.3 billion.

Opponents of the closings argued that Congress never intended that all post offices be self-sustaining and that rural mail service would be diminished if the facilities were eliminated.

Several congressmen also testified before the post office panels that post offices frequently provide a unique social gathering place in rural areas and that these would be obliterated by the closings.

Rep. John Anderson, R-Ill., blasted the proposed closings as an example of "massification" in our society, which he defined as "diminishing concern for people in small towns and non-urban areas."

Congress may attempt to restrict the USPS from closing rural post offices when postal legislation is considered in the full House. But unless it specifically prohibits the closings, it appears likely that the Postal Service will go ahead with plans to shut down many of the facilities using its existing statutory authority.

At present, the USPS is allowed to discontinue a post office if a community has been abandoned or a vacancy exists in the position of postmaster, or if it can provide alternative service that will be as good or better than that currently provided.

Post offices may also be closed if no one can be found to take charge of an office for an extended period of time, if there are no suitable quarters for the facility, if fewer than 25 families are served by the facility, or if another post office is located within three to five miles.

IN FIELD EXERCISE

Ft. Campbell, Ky. (AHTNC) Oct. 31—Army Master Sgt. James W. Castle, of Price, Ky., and other members of the 101st Airborne Division at Ft. Campbell, Ky., were deployed to Ft. Stewart, Ga., to participate in a field training exercise, October 21 through November 10.

3 Historic Sites Listed at Pikeville

Three Pikeville sites and structures were recently placed on the "Kentucky Survey of Historic Sites" by the Kentucky Heritage Commission.

The survey is a list of sites and structures judged to possess significance in history, art, architecture or culture.

The three sites and structures listed are: The Sowards-Oliver-Rogers House at 506 Fifth Street; the stained glass windows at the First Presbyterian Church and the Dils cemetery.

These properties join six other sites and structures in Pikeville and 21 others in Pike county already included on the survey.

The Fifth Street residence was cited for significance in architecture, being an excellent example of late 19th century wood victorian residential building. Recently remodeled, it is the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Fon Rogers.

The windows at the Presbyterian Church were honored as having excellence in the art of stained glass. The windows were installed in 1908-10.

The Dils cemetery was cited for history, being an important early cemetery in the city. Many early Pike County families are buried there including five members of the Randall McCoy family. The Cemetery is believed to contain the remains of participants in every American war. It was named for John Dils, Jr., whose grave occupies the top of the knoll, overlooking downtown Pikeville.

Explorers Look To 1976 Events

Local high-school-age young men and women who are Explorers have several national events available to them during the remainder of 1975 and 1976, according to John Fischer, president of the Lonesome Pine Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Presidents of Explorer posts in this area will attend the Area 2 Officers' Training Seminar in Gatlinburg, Tenn., December 12-14, as well as the President's Congress to be held in Washington, D.C., March 28-April 1, Fischer said. The Exploring Division of the Lonesome Pine Council, Boy Scouts of America, will also provide high adventure superactivities next summer to Land Between the Lakes and Philmont Scout Ranch in New Mexico.

Exploring, which is the fastest growing youth program in the nation, offers a planned program of action that brings young people voluntarily into association with adults in activities related to their common interests, Fischer explained. Exploring helps young people find their present and future roles as individuals in society and in the world of work.

In January, a special selection committee of the council will meet to select nominees for the National Exploration Award and the Young American Award.

The National Exploration Awards Program selects top Explorers who have achieved recognition and show promise for a career in one of the field or exploration sciences. The Young American Award recognizes the contributions of outstanding American young persons.

On Nov. 4, 1782, Capt. William Wilmot of the 2nd Maryland Continentals was killed near Johns Island, N. C., in what is believed to be the last incident of bloodshed by a Continental soldier in the Revolutionary War.

The earliest authenticated strike or workers in the United States in a single trade occurred in 1786 when Philadelphia printers gained a minimum wage of $6 a week, according to the U. S. Department of Labor.

WHAT THEN?

When the plants of our mighty cities
Have turned out their last finished work;
When our merchants have sold their last yardage
And have dismissed the last tired clerk,
When our banks have raked in their last dollar
And paid out their last dividend;
When the Judge of the earth says,
"Closed for the night."
And asks for a balance—what then?

When the choir has sung its last anthem,
And the preacher has made his last prayer,
When the people have heard their last sermon
And the sound has died out on the air;
When the Bible lies closed on the altar,
And the pews are all empty of men,
And each one stands facing his record—
And the Great Book is opened—what then?

When the actors have played their last drama,
And the mimic has made his last pun;
When the film has flashed its last picture,
And the scoreboard displayed its last run,
When the crowds seeking pleasure have vanished
And gone out in the darkness again—
When the Trumpet of the Ages has sounded,
And we stand up before Him—what then?

When the bugle's call sinks into silence,
And the long-marking columns stand still;
When the captain has given his last orders,
And they've captured the last fort and hill,
And the flag has been hauled in from the masthead,
And the wounded afield have checked in,
And a world that rejected its Savior,
Is asked for a reason—what then?

Cost of Moving Fuel from West
May Save Eastern Ky. Coal

(In The Lexington Herald)
Booming coal production in western states is not yet threatening Kentucky's markets for the fuel.
Reporting this over the week-end, Tom Duncan, president of the Kentucky Coal Association, added that the future is clouded by some unknown factors.
Currently, he said in an interview, "it costs more to move a ton of western coal into our markets than you can buy coal for here."

He said the transportation cost is $18 to $19 a ton and that Kentucky coal now is selling in that price range.

The western coal, however, is a low sulfur fuel more adapted to air quality standards.

Three uncertain factors, Duncan continued, could affect the future competitive situation between western and Kentucky coal.

These are developments in air quality standards, transportation costs and technology improvements to eliminate sulfur from Kentucky coal.

From the Coal Exporters Association of the United States, meanwhile, came a report that bituminous coal exports increased by 15.7 per cent during the first eight months of this year to 44 million tons, with 34 million tons going overseas.

Saying that Kentucky metallurgical coal shared in this increase, Duncan added that most such state exports go to Japan or Western Europe.

And, federal and state figures show Kentucky has experienced respectable income growth as a result of the current coal boom.

The figures, reported by the Associated Press, reflect an 80.6 per cent increase in personal income in the mountain counties from last year's coal boom in Eastern Kentucky, compared to what they received in 1969.

The AP said total income gained 59.2

per cent from 1969 to 1974 in both Eastern and Western Kentucky as a result of the coal boom.

The U. S. Bureau of Economic Analysis reported 18 coal counties in Eastern Kentucky had a total income of $695.4 million during 1969. A University of Kentucky study shows a total income of $1.255 billion for those same counties last year, representing an 80.6 per cent growth.

Don't Wait Until It's Too Late—
Stop the Ku Klux Klan Now!

You've all heard of the Ku Klux Klan rallies in Charleston, W. Va., Harlan, Louisville, Huntington, Boston and in the South. David Duke Grand Dragon of the Klan has announced that the KKK will make Kentucky its main focus for a membership drive in November. Now, is the time to act to stop this racist, fascist organization. Let's not wait until they move in with their soft sell line about "cleaning up the community" to cover the violence and anti Black and anti worker views they really stand for! Join with the Mountain Workers Unity Organization to stop the Klan NOW!

Look What the Klan Has Stood for Over the Years

The KKK has stood for dividing working and poor people and weakening their fight for justice and a better life. In the 20's, 30's, and 40's the KKK killed, lynched, and terrorized Black people throughout the country, but especially in the South. Now they are still trying to divide Black and white and promote open terrorism against the Black community. This has been their main role in the Boston and Louisville busing issues. The Black community in Huntington feels that the Klan is behind the murder of a Black teenager there recently. Not so many years ago here in Floyd County the Klan burned a cross in Tram but were run into the river by shot gun fire when people there defended their community. When the Wheelwright school was integrated, the Klan again burned crosses, broke windows, and urged people to attack the Black community.

The KKK has been consistently anti-union and has been the tool of the coal operators and the chamber of commerce as they have tried to turn white workers against black workers to weaken the union movement. UMW President Arnold Miller has called the KKK an "anti-union organization that has always opposed the rights of working men and women". When John L. Lewis started the CIO in the 1930's, the union organizers they sent into the South were tarred and feathered, beaten and killed by the KKK. In recent weeks the Klan has reportedly burned crosses in front of UMW members homes and threatened a number of people in Harlan County. Their rally in Harlan was mainly attended by scabs and operators.

The KKK has tried to divide by calling people of Italian, East-European, Jewish, or Catholic background enemies, un-american, communist. In their filthy literature and in their deeds they violate and oppose the most basic rights of working people.

Why Is the Ku Klux Klan
Starting to Move Again?

The KKK works for the rich and their servants who control the country. With the economic crisis brought on the greed of the monopolies, the government and the rich are worried that poor and working people are going to organize and stand up for themselves. We are facing prices rising much faster than wages, unemployment, cut backs in all services, the danger of a new world war, and daily attacks on our basic rights and freedoms; the last thing the rich want now is for us to get together. So, they promote and defend groups like the KKK to divide people and keep the weak, to attack black people so as to use them for scapegoats and make that extra buck off low wages and high prices.

Defend Our Communities

Let's stand together to serve notice to the KKK and all other such organizations that they will not be allowed in Floyd County. The Mountain Workers Unity Organization stands firmly against the Klan and for the interests of all working and poor people, black and white, men and women. Join with us.

Fight on Sleeping Sickness Includes War on Mosquitoes

Frankfort, Ky.—Because many cases of viral encephalitis, or "sleeping sickness," have during the year been reported across the state, Fred Waters, head of pesticides section in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, has issued a list of ways to prevent and control mosquito growth.

"Mosquito control," Waters said, "can usually be accomplished through a thorough program of sanitation, water management and chemical control. This program starts with outdoor and indoor protection against mosquitoes."

"Water management is vital for outside mosquito control. Although mosquitoes can fly into one's area from several miles away, growth of the insects' population can be prevented or greatly reduced many times by eliminating breeding sites in and around the home."

Waters explained that mosquitoes breed in water-catching places that people tend to overlook or neglect to empty. For example, removal of tin cans, buckets, plastic swimming and wading pools, and other containers will get rid of many water-catchers. A person should empty bird baths and waterers every four or five days and clean out roof gutters so water won't back up and become stagnant.

"When damp areas have been prevented," said Waters, "a person can use an approved insecticide effective against mosquitos. One of the most commonly used is Malathion, which is effective for 48-72 hours. It should be applied several times to insure that mosquitos hatching daily are controlled and new egg deposits are prevented."

The federal Environmental Protection Agency has cleared several other insecticides for mosquito control, including Diazinon, Sevin, Baygon, Methoxychlor and Dursban. Because toxicities, application rates, precautions and required time between sprayings vary from one product to another, a person spraying his lawn should read the label first. Water-based compounds are usually less injurious to lawn plants than oil-based ones.

"Generally," Waters continued, "these chemicals don't present an extreme hazard to persons or pets when used as properly diluted sprays. However, it's best to keep people and animals out of target areas when spraying. People should follow label-specified times for reentry to sprayed areas."

For inside protection against mosquito entry, a person should begin by putting screens on windows and doors. By using screens with 16 x 16 or 14 x 18 mesh, a person can prevent mosquitos from coming in through the holes.

Waters added, "Aerosol insecticide sprays, such as pyrethrins plus piperonyl butoxide, provide another indoor mosquito control. Before beginning to spray, a person should make sure that no other persons or pets are in the house. For the best results, all windows and doors should be closed."

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of our dear father, Bill T. Gunnells, who passed away Dec. 21, 1974:

Daddy, I knew you had to go. For you were getting old,

And unto God I will hold, for he Has you in his fold, and I know you Are walking the streets of gold.

As I drive past the old home place I look and stare but never shall I see your face there. But I hope To meet you, Daddy, in that land so fair.

As I sit here in the cold night air. I think how happy you are up there. I miss you so, no one knows how. Dreadful it was to see you go.

The holidays grow nigh. What I would give To see your smile or sit down beside you For a while and talk as we use to when I was a child.

Those days are gone but I'll never forget Because, Daddy. I love you yet.

Sady missed by his two daughters, Lillie Blizzard, Langley Ky.; Ellen Slone, Garrett, Ky.

Bribery Charges To Be Reviewed

Frankfort, Ky.—Franklin county's new commonwealth's attorney says he will review allegations that state coal-mine reclamation inspectors have accepted bribes from coal operators.

"If I find any evidence of law violations in Franklin county, I will be glad to have the grand jury look into it," said Ray Corns, who was elected last month.

Corns was quoted in a front-page editorial in the Kentucky Coal Journal, a monthly coal-industry trade publication.

He said later that if his review convinces him an investigation should be made, it probably would be done in the spring because of the heavy January jury term.

Corns said if he finds criminal acts have occurred in other counties, he would forward findings to the appropriate commonwealth's attorneys.

The allegations were made in a 110-page study issued several weeks ago by the Center for Science in the Public Interest, a private group in Washington.

The study quoted a former state inspector as confirming that bribery of inspectors does occur, but said he would not reveal names.

The study said its survey indicated that half the inspectors responding report "enormous pressure" by the industry to accept favors.

They listed as favors such items as money, trips, parties, sports-event tickets, meals, gifts, food and women.

The coal journal editorial criticized the study for failing to identify alleged participants and called for an investigation.

Corns said the study makes broad charges that "seem to indict everyone in general and no one in particular. If what the report says is true, it ought to be stopped."

Ken Hart of Frankfort, editor of the Kentucky Coal Journal and public relations man for Coal Operators and Associates, Inc., of Pikeville, said the study brands all state reclamation inspectors as "corrupt before the public."

Hart said he tried to obtain names of those alleged to be involved in bribery, but was unsuccessful.

He quoted Mark L. Morgan, a student at the University of Kentucky Law School, as saying he promised a number of persons that names would not be revealed.

Morgan coordinated the strip-mine study for the Washington research group. He said an investigation of bribery allegations "runs the risk of diverting people from the root problem."

Morgan contended that bribery of an inspector "is just a superficial example."

He said that if all corruption were eliminated in enforcement of strip-mining laws, "you would still have lax enforcement."

John Stanley Hoffman, secretary of the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, could not be reached for comment on the editorial.

Boom in CB Radio Could Wipe it Out

Applications for Citizens Band radio licenses have quadrupled in the past year, and the president of the 650,000-member U. S. Citizens Radio Council says the boom has resulted in "disgusting" problems for serious CB operators.

George Martin of Anniston, Ala., told his organization's annual meeting here last week-end that people who use CB radio "have to straighten out or lose the CB channels."

The Federal Communications Commission received 204,918 CB license applications in September 1975, compared with 38,325 applications in September 1974. The commission says it expects the number of applications received last month to total more than 250,000.

Overcrowding of CB channels now is causing horrible problems, Martin said, such as children who use CB radios as toys and adults who "show no courtesy to their fellow CBers."

He said the FCC estimates that 30 to 50 per cent of the nation's CB operators don't have licenses—a violation punishable by up to two years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

"We regulate all broadcast media, and this CB surge has put a tremendous burden on us," said William Simpson of the FCC office in New Orleans. "We've had to curtail some work in other areas."

Martin said the FCC must enforce its CB rules and CB operators must regulate themselves to stave off the possibility of a future ban by the federal government on CB operations.

"There are more than 10 million CB radios in the country. That means there are nearly 500,000 persons for every one of the 23 CB channels, and if we misuse the channels we're in trouble," he said.

Food Stamp Reform Held Needed But What To Do a Question

The huge, entangled federal food stamp program set up by Congress a decade ago to feed poor people needs reforming, and on Capitol Hill these days, you'll find a congressional consensus in support of both of those contentions.

But beyond the general issue of food stamp reform, there's no consensus—either among Kentucky's congressmen or in Congress as a whole—on what specific changes Congress should make.

The food stamp reform movement is growing apace with the rhetoric from such government officials as Treasury Secretary William Simon, who recently attacked the program's "loosely drawn eligibility guidelines" as a major cause of what he called "good stamp chiselers and rip-off artists" getting into the program.

In recent interviews, Kentucky's senators and representatives firmly proclaimed their continued support of the federal food stamp program. "I don't want anyone to go hungry," said Rep. Tim Lee Carter, R-Tompkinsville.

And again, on the general subject of reform the Kentuckians say they're all for it. "I want to get rid of some abuses in the program," said Sen. Wendell Ford, D-Ky.

But firm statements and agreement end when the talk turns to specific reforms.

Ford, for instance, believes reform must center on eliminating red tape in the program. A complex process of computing net income—allowing deductions for medical and utility bills, as well as other expenses—is currently used to determine eligibility for the program.

But Carter said he would like to see workers spend even more time with food stamp applicants—not just filling out forms, but visiting in their homes to determine if they really need more food.

It isn't just Kentucky's legislators who have varying ideas about reforming the program. Some 150 food stamp reform bills have been introduced in the House, and while many are repetitious or would change only one administrative practice, they reflect the wide diversity of congressional opinion on the program.

However, three bills are considered the major pieces of legislation. Although they differ in philosophy, parts of each are likely to form the food stamp reform bill expected to pass Congress sometime next year.

The most stringent reforms are contained in a bill introduced by Sen. James Buckley, Cons.-N.Y., and Rep. Robert Michel, R-Ill. Their bill, estimated to save about $2 billion a year, would eliminate all income deductions except $25 a month for senior citizens.

And the income cutoff point would be the official federal poverty level. That means a family of four with an annual income about $5,050—after the senior citizen deduction—wouldn't be eligible to receive food stamps.

The Buckley-Michel bill would also eliminate all strikers from the program. And college students would no longer be eligible, unless they are dependents of families that meet the eligibility requirements.

Somewhat less restrictive in its income guidelines is the administration bill, which would allow all recipients a standard $100 a month deduction, plus $25 a month for senior citizens.

The administration bill, which is supposed to save $1 billion a year, would eliminate any family of four with an annual income, after deductions, above $6,250.

Both the administration bill and a more liberal proposal from Sens. Robert Dole, R-Kansas, and George McGovern, D-S. D., would eliminate college students unless their families are eligible for food stamps.

The Dole-McGovern plan would allow more deductions than the other bills, including deductions for taxes and Social Security payments as well as a standard $125 a month deduction for all recipients and the $25 a month senior citizen provision in the other bills.

The Dole-McGovern eligibility line for a family of four would be drawn at $7,776 a year. And stamps wouldn't be purchased. Currently, a family might pay $115 to get $162 worth of stamps. The Dole-McGovern bill would simply give them the $47 in benefits with no exchange of cash.

Here's where Kentucky's legislators stand on some of the major reform proposals:

Income eligibility:
Rep. John Breckinridge, D-Lexington, said he had nothing specific in mind. "I haven't made up my mind yet," on food stamp issues, he said.

Carter said, "I feel like $6,000 for a family of four is high enough."

Rep. Carl Perkins, D-Hindman, said, "I'm not acquainted with the pending legislation, but it's always been my purpose, and it's still my purpose, to see that needy people who are welfare recipients, the elderly and the handicapped and those in great need should receive food stamps."

Ford also said he didn't have a specific figure in mind for determining income eligibility.

Sen. Walter Huddleston, D-Ky., stated he believes the cutoff point should be above the federal poverty level, at about $7,500 or $8,000 a year for a family of four.

Allowable deductions:
Breckinridge again said he had nothing specific in mind.

Carter said he would support the $25 a month deduction for senior citizens but couldn't say what other deductions he might support.

Mrs. Hall Receives Presidential Award

Mrs. Eula Hall, social worker for the Mud Creek Health Project at Craynor, was honored with the American Public Health Association's Presidential Citation at the APHA's annual conference held in Chicago, Illinois, November 16-20.

Mrs. Hall was one of two persons who were accorded this honor in the U. S. for 1975. Betty Friedan, well-known author, was the other recipient.

Instrumental in establishing the Mud Creek Health Project, Mrs. Hall was honored for this and other work which has helped to bring adequate health care to her community as well as surrounding areas.

LIGHTWEIGHT BOXER HOLLOWAY DIES OF BRAIN INJURY

LAS VEGAS, Nev.—Lightweight boxer Roy Holloway of Los Angeles has died of brain injury after a ring mishap here. He died of severe swelling of the brain stem Friday night after being knocked out in a fight Wednesday, a spokesman at Valley Hospital said.

An autopsy has been ordered. Holloway struck his head on the press table when he was knocked out of the ring in the 10th round of a fight against Maguel Mayon.

Boxing officials said it was the first death in the sport in Las Vegas.

Pikeville Grocery Loses Food Stamps

Carroll's Grocery, of Pikeville, has been removed from the food stamp program because of violations, the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) reports.

The store, which is owned by John Carroll, was disqualified from the program for one year, starting Nov. 11. It had been charged with selling ineligible items, including clothing, motor oil, health and beauty aids and cleaning supplies, for food coupons.

Robert L. Cunningham, in charge of the Prestonsburg field office of the Food and Nutrition Service, said the store will not be allowed to accept food coupons during the disqualification period. Cunningham added that food stamps, by law, can be used only to buy food. The only exceptions, he said, are garden seed and plants to be used to produce food.

"Mixing It Up" In the Mud

Although it's hard to be certain, a tackle seems to be in progress in this scene from Sunday's Turkey Bowl Classic.

Turkey Bowl Players Warm Up By Chasing Fugitive Gobbler

The Turkey Bowl East-West game of 1975 is just a painful memory for most participants in Sunday's local gridiron lunacy. The effort cost at least one broken nose suffered by Wayne Brown, numerous bruised ribs, stiff necks, and a general tendency to groan and limp a lot.

The West chalked up a 16-14 win, and the record now stands West, 4, East, 3, and one tie game.

Team members warmed up for the game in a somewhat unusual and haphazard manner. With the escape prior to the game of their mascot who obviously had got the word that he was not destined to become anybody's pampered pet, players made much yardage over the riverbank and up and down same in pursuit of the feathered fugitive. With seconds to go, man once more proved he is superior to animal, at least when animal is out-numbered.

Discounting physical damage, nothing much happened in the first quarter. The second quarter saw Steve Crabtree score on a 29-yard pass from Steve Clark with the extra point try successful. In the same quarter, Wayne Brown scored on a seven-yard pass from Steve Clark. The extra point try failed and the score stood East, 14, West, 0.

Following an eventful halftime interim, about which more will follow, John Leslie scored for the West on a nine-yard run with Wimpy Clark scoring the extra point. It was in the fourth quarter with only minutes to go, however, that East's feathers fell when Dennis Walker recovered a fumble in the end zone to score and put West in position of top turkey for 1975. This was cinched, with John Leslie's extra point run making the final score West, 16, and East, 14.

At halftime, Turkey Bowl Queen contestants, whose number had dwindled to three hardy heroine types, lined up for the slide across the 50-yard line to muddy victory. Emerging bedraggled but unbowed, Miss Marla Burchett was named Miss Turkey Bowl Queen for 1975. Runnersup were Miss Donna Horn and Miss Sharon VanHoose.

In addition to the above, two turkeys were awarded to fans for future use.

Blackcats Lose Opener To Millard, 67-57

The Prestonsburg High School Blackcats opened their 1975-'76 season with a 67-57 loss to the Millard Mustangs.

Despite the loss, David LeMaster, P-burg forward, enjoyed a fine night, scoring 23 points. Other high scorers for the Blackcats were Mike Dixon and Jim Crisp with 10 each, and Ricky Morgan with six.

Top scorers for the Mustangs were Fred Boyd, Ricky Adkins and Mick Stanley, all with 16 points, and David Bostic, with 15 points.

Deerhunters Are Unhappy As Lake Road Still Closed

It's deer-hunting time, but hunters are having trouble reaching some of their favorite hunting grounds in the upper reaches of Dewey Lake.

The lake has been drawn down 20 feet to permit dredging of the Jenny Wiley boat dock harbor, and that has left water only in the original Johns Creek stream bed, down-lake. Farther upstream, the water is not negotiable by boat.

And those going into the German area to hunt cannot travel by road into the Copperas Creek area, since the 2.7 miles of county road leading from the German bridge to Copperas Creek has been closed since September by the U. S. Corps of Engineers.

Throwing A Muddy Football

East quarterback Steve Clark unloads a short pass, typical of the form that led his team to a 14-0 half-time lead over the West. The West team avenged itself, however, scoring 16 points in the second half and winning the annual fracas.

Allen Central Edges Cats To Win Invitational Tourney

The Jenny Wiley Invitational Basketball Tournament ended Saturday night in an exciting clash between the Prestonsburg Blackcats and the Allen Central Rebels with the Rebels edging by the Blackcats, 54-53.

Though Allen Central led throughout the game, the Cats made a comeback to make the score 54-53 with 6 seconds remaining on the clock. After several timeouts and fouls the clock ran out, giving the Rebels their victory.

Trophies awarded after the game were:

Best playmaker, Lloyd Hall (Virgie); best rebounder, Donnie Newsome (Virgie); best defensive player, Tim Crisp (Prestonsburg); best offensive player, Ricky Pack (Allen Central); individual free throw, Ricky Pack (Allen Central); team free throw, Virgie; cheerleader runnerup, Johns Creek; cheerleader winner, Virgie; sportsmanship, Pikeville; consolation, Virgie; runnerup, Prestonsburg; champion, Allen Central.

High scorers for Prestonsburg during the tournament were Ricky Morgan with 39 points and David Lemaster and Tim Crisp, both with 37.

Top scorers for the Rebels were Ricky Pack with 55 points and Doug Bailey and Charles Slone with 28 points each.

In earlier games of the tourney Allen Central downed Johns Creek, 51-50; Virgie defeated Johnson Central, 72 to 67; Prestonsburg defeated Elkhorn City, 50-47; Pikeville won over McDowell, 65 to 60; Allen Central eliminated Virgie, 59 to 50, and Prestonsburg ousted Pikeville, 65-49.

Malaysia has asked Thailand to help stop a rash of elopements across the border. Malay authorities said Thai imams, or Moslem priests, are known to be more liberal about age limits and parental consent than strict Malaysian imams, luring many young couples across the border.

By LARRY BURKE

There is a story from Arabia that is worth repeating.

A young man came to a wise old sheik, and asked, "What kind of people live in El Kamen? I would like to move my family from our village."

"What kind of people live in your village now?" asked the sheik.

"Unpleasant, selfish and unfriendly," stated the young man.

"You will find them to be the same in El Kamen—they're unpleasant, selfish and unfriendly," advised the wise old sheik.

In a few days another young man approached the old sheik with the same question about El Kamen.

"What kind of people live in your village? he again inquired.

"Wonderful, thoughtful and considerate," the young man said.

"The people in El Kamen are the same—wonderful, thoughtful and considerate," the old man smilingly replied.

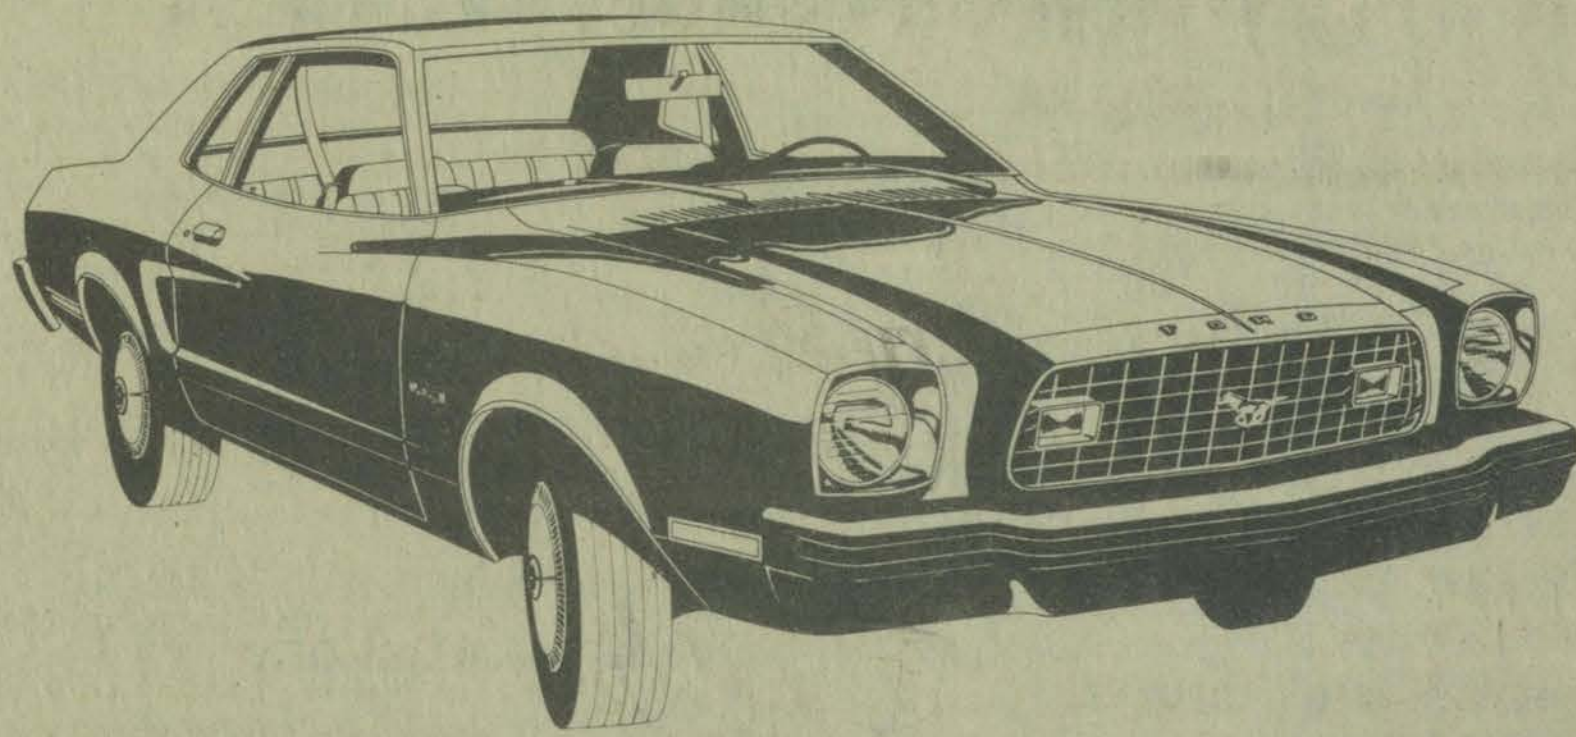

This is just a story—but isn't it true that by our attitudes we make life just about what it is.

CANADIAN GAS PRICES HIT 83 CENTS FOR REGULAR

If you plan to take a trip into Canada this fall or winter, expect to pay about 83 cents for a gallon of regular gasoline.

Compared to the average 59 cents Americans have been paying recently, the Canadian price is higher even taking into account that the Canadian imperial gallon gives motorists one-fourth more gasoline than an American gallon. (Canadians measure liquids in imperial gallons that contain 160 fluid ounces as compared to the U. S. gallon of 128 fluid ounces, a difference of 25 per cent.)

The Canadian gasoline price reflects a new 10-cent tax and a rise of about 5 cents in the crude-oil price allowed by the government.

Driver Program To Be Expanded

Frankfort, Ky.—Kentucky's already highly successful driver improvement program may be expanded soon to reach an even larger number of traffic violators.

According to state Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts, the program, which until now has been limited to providing classroom training and counseling only for traffic offenders with eight or more points on their driver record, may be further upgraded soon to include offenders at the six-point level.

Roberts said that the anticipated change should be made possible by the allocation of an additional $54,500 to the state's division of driver licensing, which administers the program. The division is an agency of the state's Department of Transportation.

The additional funds are coming from the state's Office of Highway Safety Programs, which, earlier this year, received $1.8 million from the Federal Highway Safety Administration for allocation to state and local traffic safety programs.

"With the present rate of traffic deaths in Kentucky moving steadily upward, the importance of this program with its consistently good record of helping motorists with their driving problems now assumes even greater significance than before," Roberts said.

Eugene Hodges, director of the driver licensing division, said that of those drivers who have completed the 10-hour training program each year since it first was organized, only three per cent have had later trouble with the law to the extent that their licenses had to be suspended.

Of those who quit the course before completion, approximately 50 per cent are suspended within two years.

The state currently conducts the program through 16 clinics located at Paducah, Hopkinsville, Glasgow, Elizabethtown, Louisville, Crescent Springs, Catlettsburg, Somerset, Harlan, Prestonsburg, Lexington, Owensboro, Henderson, Hazard and Bowling Green. Last year's graduates from all 16 clinics totaled 6,821.

Until recently, any driver completing the course successfully was granted a three-point credit on his driver record. However, Hodges said that under a recent rules revision, his office now is authorized to raise the credit to four points.

In other words, said Hodges, "if you were a six-point violator, successful completion of the program would automatically reduce the total number of points against you on our records to two."

Hodges said that the new money being allocated to the program will be used to hire additional instructors and purchase a new movie projector and 22 new training films. Lecture material used in the clinics also will be upgraded, he said.

"Hopefully, the end result will be both a reduction in the number of traffic violators and traffic accidents because we will be reaching more errant drivers at earlier stages," Hodges said.

Most of the offenders dealt with in the clinics have been convicted of speeding, reckless driving or driving while intoxicated, which, Hodges noted, are the three main causes behind the majority of the state's traffic injury and fatality accidents.

Wartime Work for Club Members

Alden G. Barber, chief Scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America, will be the principal speaker at the Annual Recognition Banquet of the Lonesome Pine Council, Boy Scouts of America, Friday evening, March 26, it was announced today by John Fischer, of Big Stone Gap, president of the Lonesome Pine Council.

"This is the first time a chief Scout executive has ever visited the Lonesome Pine Council since its founding in 1934", Fischer said, "and Mr. Barber's visit indicates his sincere interest in helping us provide for the boys of eastern Kentucky and southwest Virginia the highest quality Scouting program possible."

The banquet will be held at the Elkhorn Country Club at Jenkins, and all adult Scout Leaders as well as those who work on the district and council level, will be invited to participate. Fischer said that the purpose of the banquet is to recognize the outstanding service of the many volunteer leaders throughout all thirteen counties served by the Lonesome Pine Council.

Leadership Posts Decided In New Kentucky Assembly

GILBERTSVILLE—Leadership positions in the 1976 Kentucky General Assembly were decided here Monday during party caucus elections.

House Democrats—William Kenton of Lexington was elected House speaker, after being nominated by Norbert Blume of Louisville, who relinquished the position after two terms.

Kenton and other House leadership candidates ran unopposed and were reported to be handpicked by the administration of Gov. Julian Carroll. Others elected were: Lloyd Clapp of Wingo, speaker pro-tem; Bobby Richardson of Glasgow, majority leader; William Donnermeyer of Bellevue, caucus chairman; and Dwight Wells of Richmond, whip.

Republicans—Harold DeMarcus, of Stanford, beat Larry Hopkins, of Lexington, for minority leader by a vote of 12 to 8. DeMarcus will start his fourth consecutive term in the job this January.

Herman W. Ratliff of Campbellsville, defeated Louis R. Guenther Jr. of Louisville for caucus chairman, succeeding Hopkins. In the race for minority whip, Arthur L. Schmidt of Cold Springs lost in his attempt for reelection to Raymond Overstreet of Liberty.

Senate Democrats—The Democratic leadership in the Senate underwent a major, but expected, restructuring. Tom Garrett, of Paducah was re-elected to a second term as majority floor leader.

Joe Prather of Vine Grove succeeded William Sullivan of Henderson as president pro-tem. Sullivan had served four terms in that job.

Danny Yocom of Louisville succeeded

The Study of Winter Trees

Winter is the ideal time to learn the trees better. The bark is the best feature for studying trees in winter. There are a number of trees that may be identified quickly by the way they shed their outer bark.

1. THE SHAGBARK HICKORY. This tree sheds its outer bark in long, thin strips which cling to the trunk at the ends, giving the tree a shaggy look—hence the name, Shagbark. One may identify this tree at any time by its loosely hanging outer bark. These thin strips are easily pulled from the trunk and make fine kindling for starting a campfire.

2. SYCAMORES. Large sycamores shed their outer bark in late autumn and stand stark white in winter. The sycamore may be identified in winter by its glistening white trunk. Winter sycamores with their tall, white columns standing lofty beside a stream add picturesque grandeur to the countryside.

3. THE RIVER BIRCH. This tree is known locally as "water birch." It sheds its outer bark in thin, papery layers which are coated with a grayish powder. The bark clings to the trunk, giving the tree a ragged, unkempt look. The river birch grows to a large size along the banks of streams. The tough wood was formerly used to make wagon hubs and rims. River birches add much to the picturesque scenery along streams.

4. THE BEECH. This is one tree that never sheds its bark, but keeps its tight-fitting gray bark during its long lifetime. The bark is smooth, no ridges or furrows. This tree's trunk holds initials or knife marks longer than any other tree. Recently I found an aged beech on the Hall Branch of Martin county which had the name of Daniel Boone carved on the bark in 1801. I also found another large beech bearing three knife marks which had been made in 1796 by the surveyor who surveyed patents on Tug River for the Rev. James Madison in 1796.

4. THE BLACK OAK. The outer bark of the black oak is often quite black, but when you cut through this rugged outer bark you will find the inner bark a rich yellowish-orange color—a sure sign of a black oak. Oldtimers often make a beautiful orange-colored dye from the inner bark of the black oak.

2 Coal Companies Agree to Damages

Clarence Maggard Coal Co. of Perry county recently agreed to pay the state a $3,500 civil penalty and to construct a settling pond for its strip mine operation. This came as a result of action taken by the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

The environmental protection department assessed the civil penalty and a remaining cash performance bond in the amount of $6,500 that will be held by the department until construction on the settling pond has been satisfactorily completed. If the requirements for the settling pond are fulfilled within the 60-day period allowed in the agreed order, the department will return the cash performance bond to the company.

Robyn Coal Co., of Letcher county, also agreed to pay the state $2,000 as a result of action taken by the state environmental protection department. The Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection had charged the company with strip-mining without a permit near Beaver Dam Branch near Colson.

The department has agreed that reclamation of the disturbed land has been satisfactorily completed. The department has also agreed to the dissolution of a previously issued restraining order.

The Employment Standards Administration of the U.S. Department of Labor seeks to upgrade the status of working women, minority group members and handicapped persons.

Chorus To Present 'Messiah' Dec. 7th

The Prestonsburg Community College chorus will present "The Messiah" Sunday, Dec. 7, at 3 p.m. in Pike Auditorium at the college. A second performance will be given that evening at 8 p.m. at the Mayo Methodist Church, Paintsville.

Soloists for the performance will be Don Fernandez, tenor; Doug Smith, bass; Louise Cooper, soprano; Rebecca Haywood, soprano; Elizabeth Sutherland, contralto. Mary Grace Garland will accompany the chorus and soloists. The performance will be under the direction of Gus Kalos, head of the music department at Prestonsburg Community College.

"The Messiah" was completed by Handel during the twenty-four days between August 22 and September 14, 1741. After a rehearsal on April 8, 1742, it was performed for the first time at a charity concert held at Dublin on April 13. Approximately a year later, it was heard in London on March 23, 1743 but since that time has probably had more performances than any masterwork in the history of music.

The public is invited to attend the program.

Schlesinger Hits "Imperial" Presidency

Noted author-historian Arthur Schlesinger, Jr. says the Presidency of Gerald Ford—a man whose name has never appeared on a Presidential ballot—is "imperial" in nature, and an acquiescent Congress is to blame. Contrary to opinions held by skilled observers at the time, the office of Presidency was neither weakened nor diminished by Watergate events; in fact, he asserts, Presidential authority may be broader than ever.

Writing in the December issue of Reader's Digest, Schlesinger says, "On issue after issue, Congress has shown itself confused, vacillating, dilatory and ineffectual."

During the Nixon administration White House staff burgeoned, isolating the President, weakening the Cabinet, and concealing policy behind the shield of executive privilege. In the face of this, the Ford administration submitted a bill that would nearly double top White House staff and would provide the Vice President with more high-priced assistance than Franklin D. Roosevelt had during World War II. "Confronted by this preposterous requisition, the House of Representatives voted to give the President what he wanted," the historian observes.

A weak Congress only makes the President more powerful, Schlesinger notes, and points to Ford's veto rate in relationship to past Presidents: "Nixon in nearly six years vetoed 43 Congressional bills; the mighty Lyndon Johnson only 30 in 5 years; John Kennedy 21 in 3 years. President Ford, the loyal Capitol Hill man such a short time before, has vetoed 39 bills in 15 months. Nearly all of his vetoes have been sustained."

When Ford invoked gunboat diplomacy last May to rescue the seized merchant ship Mayaguez from Cambodian territory, it was an action, according to Schlesinger, that merited "close Congressional scrutiny." Despite the fact that the President had acted without Congressional approval or consultation, few voices were heard from Capitol Hill to question the affair and there was no formal hearing.

What has happened to the checks and balances? The President, by virtue of the complexities of government today, must exercise initiative and decisive leadership. But, according to Schlesinger, he should also be accountable to the other branches of government, the press and the people—and preferably in advance of his actions.

This accountability will not come about without strenuous efforts on the part of all involved. A strong Cabinet, which Schlesinger feels President Ford has, should make the President aware of the needs and concerns of the nation. The Congress, which in his view has abdicated power, must reassert itself—an act which will require courage and will.

And finally, the American people, as voters, must insist on accountability. "One fears," Schlesinger writes, "that too many Americans not only long to admire their President but have such a terror of responsibility in this dangerous and intimidating world that they secretly want a leader who will make their decisions for them."

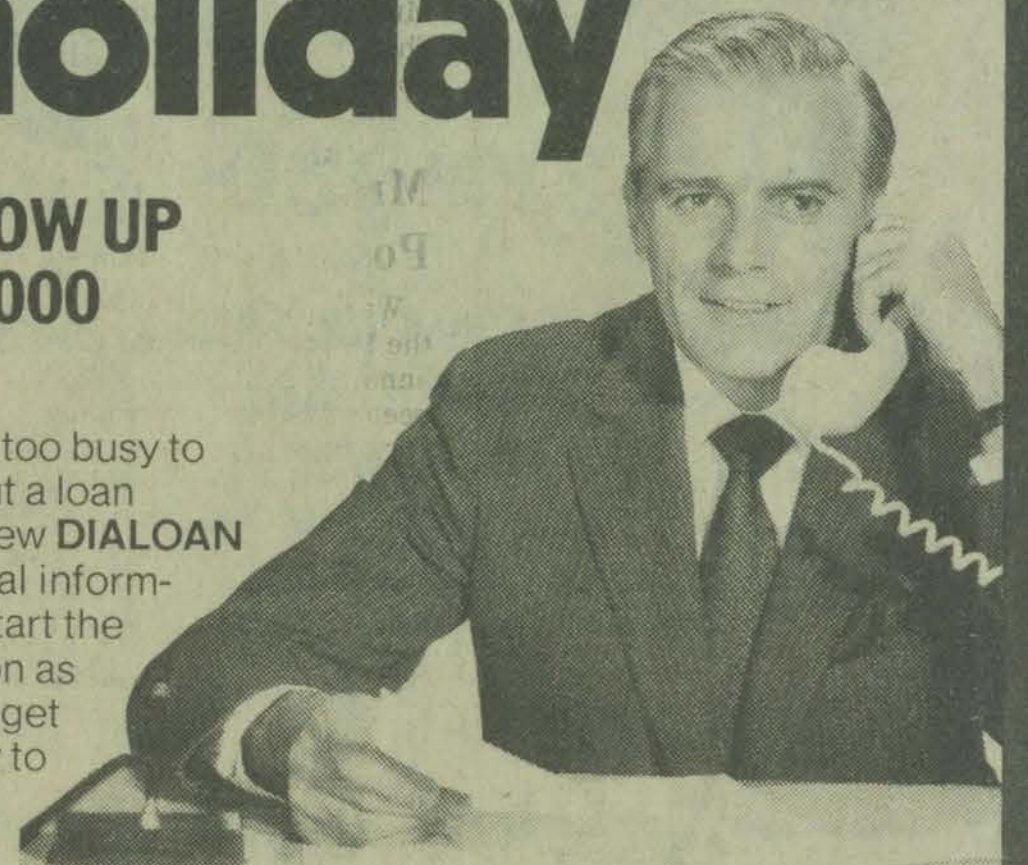

Noting that a nation usually gets the government it deserves, he concludes that the will and resolve of the voter will ultimately determine the power of the President.

Male household heads working full-time reported the highest weekly earnings average in May 1975—a median of $231, up from $214 in 1974, according to the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Consumer Comments

By ED W. HANCOCK
(Attorney General)

Do you know your rights as a consumer in Kentucky? The Commonwealth of Kentucky protects its citizens as consumers through the Kentucky Consumer Protection Statutes. These statutes provide for the Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection; and consumer education is one of the duties of this office.

The Attorney General's Office has a consumer education specialist to help educate consumers as to their rights and responsibilities in the marketplace. This educational program is carried on through the use of brochures, speeches, a film, articles such as this one and other activities.

The film, THE BAD APPLE, is a satire reviewing the Consumer Protection laws and making suggestions for avoiding consumer problems. The film is distributed free of charge to any group in Kentucky. If you would be interested in viewing this film, write the consumer protection division so that the film can be scheduled at your convenience.

Also, the division has two brochures, which are distributed free of charge to any interested individuals or groups. "KENTUCKY'S CONSUMER PROTECTION LAWS" is a complete listing of laws which protect the consumer in Kentucky. "10 DANGER SIGNALS IN BUYING" provides helpful hints for protecting yourself against "rip-offs" by fraudulent businesses.

The consumer protection division will also provide a speaker to any school, civic or church group. A program on consumer protection will include information on how to file a consumer complaint, as well as describe a consumer's rights and responsibilities in Kentucky.

Organizing consumer workshops, answering individual questions, developing new brochures are a few more of the services the division supplies.

The people in the consumer protection division think it is important that Ken-

The Old Brown Fields

By GEORGE L. MOORE

James A. Brown, member of the 22nd Kentucky Infantry, enlisted in the Civil War at an early age. On the Union side he served his country well, taking part in many skirmishes. In the battle of Gettysburg he was severely wounded when General Lee sent Pickett in a desperate attempt to break through the Union lines. The attempt failed, but "Uncle Jim," as he was later called, was in the hand-to-hand fighting that ensued.

In time he recovered, returned to his native Kentucky, married and settled down on the high rolling hills between Arab Fork and Clay Fork of Sinking Creek. It was at that time a part of Carter county but has since been added to Elliott county. The land was little more than a wilderness at that time. Except for few cleared patches here and there, it was covered with virgin forest. Giant walnuts, tall yellow poplars and stately white oaks dotted the landscape. Here for centuries leaves had dropped from the lofty boughs to form a deep mulch on the forest floor. Underneath this soft cushion of decayed vegetation was a rich black loam, the most fertile soil that could be found anywhere.

It was on a level place in this valley, between two gentle, sloping hills, that the ex-soldier and his wife settled down to carve a farm out of the wilderness. They built a sturdy log house, a smoke house and a log barn. There was not much cost involved in building a house in those days. Most of the materials were taken directly from the forest. In most cases the floors were made of puncheons and the roofs were made from handmade boards. Puncheons made a surprisingly good floor that was virtually indestructible. Some of the puncheons that were placed in my grandfather's house in 1830 are in existence today. Puncheons were made by splitting five-inch slices from straight-grained virgin trees and then hewn to a marble smoothness with a broad ax. The finished product was about three inches thick and well over a foot wide. When scrubbed with lye soap and sand they had a white, frosty appearance that was pleasing to the eye.

I think it might be of some interest to take a trip through Uncle Jim's smokehouse. It was log structure some 12 feet wide by 20 feet long. It had a dirt floor. As you entered, there were a number of wooden barrels lined up around the wall. First, there was a barrel of pickled corn, followed by a barrel of pickled beans, a barrel of kraut, a barrel of molasses, and two barrels of sulphured apples. The reason for the large supply of sulphured apples was that they were thought to have a medicinal value and were consumed daily by all members of the family. Toward the back of the house a trench was dug five inches deep and three feet wide. Cabbages were brought in from the garden and placed in the trench, head downward. The roots were left attached. They were covered with a thin layer of earth with the tip of the roots exposed. In this manner they were kept fresh during the entire winter.

The main function of the smokehouse was for storing meat. On one side of the house was a wide shelf made from puncheon boards. After the hogs were slaughtered, the hams, shoulders, sides of bacon and the jowls were placed on this shelf and salted down. When the meat had absorbed enough salt it was suspended from the ceiling, and a hickory smoke was placed under it on the ground below. It was kept in this manner until the desired flavor was attained. Pumpkins, too large to push under the bed for storage, were cut in rings and hung on pegs protruding from the wall. There was also a bin in the back for dried corn and another for dried apples. There were numerous strings of green beans suspended from the rafters. They were called shuck beans or "leather britches."

With the use of an ax and a mattock Uncle Jim began to push back the forest. In a few years wide, gentle, sloping fields spread out from the house on both sides of the valley. Here he was to live a half century and raise a large family. The orchard that he planted here lasted for 75 years. Some of the apple trees grew to enormous size. They were called Frosty Milams. They were so called because they did not ripen till hard frost. Uncle Jim was one of the most respected citizens in the community. As much as was possible, he lived in peace and harmony with all men. It was said of him that he was willing to make any sacrifice or go to any length to avoid controversy with his fellowman. This is best illustrated on one occasion when he purchased a sheep and was driving it home for slaughtering the following day. As he traveled along the trail, he came to a place where some men were raising a barn. They were working some distance above the road. He tied the sheep to a bush by the roadside and went up to visit with the men. In the meantime, Old Clabe Jones came along and appropriated the sheep for himself. When Uncle Jim was told what happened, he spoke not a harsh word but continued his homeward journey.

A few weeks later he met Old Clabe, face to face. The only words that were spoken were: "Was that purty good mutton, Clabe?" Uncle Jim was known, far and wide, for his kindness and sympathy for those who were sick or in distress. He never failed to pay a visit to a home in which there was a serious illness. He was always there to offer his sympathy and lend a helping hand in any way that he could. He never failed to attend a funeral that was in riding distance from his home.

It was a common saying in the community that there should be a large crowd at Uncle Jim's funeral, since he had been so faithful in attending others. This saying came true in 1924 when a huge crowd gathered to pay their last respects. Here beneath the spreading oaks that overlook his beloved farm, they laid him to rest.

A century has passed since he started to clear this land but today all the people in this part of the country still refer to these fields as the Old Brown Fields.

Kentucky Afield

By Hope Carleton
Dept. of Fish and Wildlife

With Thanksgiving over, most of us turn our thoughts toward Christmas and the problem of the right gift. If you are buying a present for a hunter or fisherman, this problem can be eased considerably, for there are literally hundreds of items in all price ranges that the sportsman will welcome.

The best bet for the person who knows little about hunting and fishing equipment is to seek the advice of a knowledgeable salesperson in a sporting goods store about brand names, styles and sizes. A safe practice is to stick to the medium-priced article, which is usually of high quality and lacks only the frills or the flash of a more expensive counterpart. The low-priced items may not meet the needs of the sportsman or they may be poorly constructed of low-quality materials.

Anyone contemplating a major gift, such as a boat and motor, should forego the element of surprise and let the recipient choose his own, since he will probably have some definite ideas about what he needs and wants.

For the fisherman, choice gifts are tackle boxes, lures, lines, tools, fish stringers, hooks, sinkers, filleting knives, bait knockers, flashlights, small first aid kits, reel oil and gear lubricants. Or the fisherman may welcome some of the newer electronic gadgets, such as electric trolling motors, depth finders, electronic thermometers or oxygen meters.

For the hunter, there are rifles, shotguns, bows and arrows or other archery equipment, gun cases, telescopes, binoculars, gun racks, shells, decoys, hunting coats, pants, boots, caps, duck and goose calls, reloading tools, pocket and sheath knives, shooting glasses, cleaning kits or even sharpening stones.

For either the hunter or fisherman, there are tents, sleeping bags, air mattresses, lanterns, thermos jugs, insulated inner and outer wear, rain gear, life saving devices, ice chests, camp cook stoves and heaters or even camp cooking utensils.

Or if the sportsman on your list also likes to read, you might consider giving him a subscription to a hunting and fishing magazine or making a gift of one of the many books on hunting, fishing, camping or woodlore which are available at most bookstores. Another possibility is "Kentucky Happy Hunting Ground," the official publication of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. A one-year subscription (6 issues) costs $1.00 and is available from the Division of Public Relations, Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Finally, there is one gift which any sportsman will find absolutely necessary. This gift will be good for an entire year and the hunter or fisherman will need it each time he goes into the field or to the lake. This gift is a 1976 hunting or fishing license (5.00 each) or a combination license (9.00), good for both fishing and hunting. The 1976 licenses expire on Dec. 31, so one for next year can be used almost immediately.

Licenses are available at the offices of all county clerks and many sporting goods stores also sell them. You don't need to worry about a license being the wrong size or color—and it's a gift no sportsman will return.

So get your shopping done early and avoid the rush.

Permits Show Annual Increase

Frankfort, Ky.—The number of active permits to strip-mine in Kentucky doubled from October, 1974 to October, 1975.

According to records of the division of reclamation in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, at the end of October, 1974 there were 1,043 active permits to strip-mine on 43,203 acres. At the end of this October, the number had risen to 2,171 active permits on 83,043 acres.

The number of non-compliance and suspension orders issued this October also increased since last year. There were 47 noncompliance notices issued in October, 1974 and 131 issued this October. Also, 17 suspension notices were issued in October, 1974 and 22 issued this October.

According to division records, the number of active permits recorded this October decreased 31 per cent from the month before, when there were 3,159 active permits. Completed bond releases on surface-mined land almost doubled from 1,489 acres in September to 2,769 acres in October. Completed bond releases usually increase when the fall growing season ends. Bond is released after two growing seasons.

From its inception in the 1930s, the U. S. Employment Service has been one of the Nation's most current and comprehensive sources of detailed information about workers who are unemployed.

Gonorrhea Increases Through State

By DIANA PETERS

Frankfort, Ky.—It is estimated that during the next fiscal year 12,000 cases of gonorrhea will be reported to the Department for Human Resources (DHR)—more than all other communicable diseases combined.

In the last six years, the cases of gonorrhea reported by Kentuckians has doubled. The disease has increased six per cent to 20 per cent each year over the past five years. In 1970, DHR received 4,319 reports and last year, the department received 10,133 reports. One-third of these cases are persons between the ages of 15 and 19.

Because the cases of gonorrhea have increased each year, DHR is boosting its public awareness campaign on venereal disease and adding new educational services geared to health professionals.

A video-taped gonorrhea workshop, seven hours in length, is available through the Venereal Disease Control Section's division for preventive services. It can be presented in one day or in two half-day sessions. Already the tape has been presented to some 300 persons in 50 counties.

Various health professionals and Bureau for Health Services staff cover all aspects of gonorrhea control from specimen collection techniques to the interviewing of contacts.

Although the workshop was created primarily for public health nurses, it is designed to enlighten anyone working with gonorrhea control—physicians, student health personnel, hospital nurses, family planning personnel and others.

Any health care organization may request the workshop through the training section of the Community Health Services. For more information about the content, contact the Venereal Disease Control Section, Bureau for Health Services, Department for Human Resources Building, 275 E. Main, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

PSC Approves Gas Adjustment Decrease

FRANKFORT, Ky.—The Kentucky Public Service Commission (PSC) has approved a rate adjustment decrease by Wiser Oil Co. due to a decrease by its supplier, Columbia Gas Transmission Corp.
The West Virginia firm sells to several southeastern Kentucky firms.
The adjustment will result in a $24,411 savings to consumers and affects gas supplied on and after Sept. 2, 1975.
Commission Secretary Richard Heman said the PSC had previously provided for such rate adjustments through "a purchased gas adjustment clause" which outlines conditions for rate adjustments due to an increase or decrease in the wholesale cost of gas.
The commission is an agency within the state's Public Protection and Regulation Cabinet.

A total of 45 girls, first thru third grade, have expressed their desire to become Brownie Scouts. They plan to meet at the church on Tuesdays, 2:45 to 3:45 p.m.

A song fest was held, November 22, at the Drift Community Center. A total of 69 attended from the following troops: Drift Jr. 634, Wayland Jr. 864, Wayland Brownies, Allen Cadette 228, McDowell Brownies 841, Prestonsburg Jrs. 665, Prestonsburg Brownies 966, Allen Brownies 894, Goble-Roberts Brownies 19, Auxier Jrs. 65, and Allen Seniors 532. Adults attending were Mrs. Sandy Patton, field director; Mrs. Lila F. DeRossett, service unit chairman; Diantha Hodges, Doreen Martin, and Lynda Maggard, of Drift; Shelia Bentley, Novella B. Froman, and Stella Bentley, Wayland; Eula Ferguson, Auxier; Christine Stumbo, McDowell; Carolina Owens, Nell Lawson and Teddi Pence, Prestonsburg; Lula Ratliff, Allen; Sue DeRossett and Donna Goble, Goble-Roberts. Representing the Senior Scouts was Miss Cindy Roth, of Goble-Roberts. Miss Kimberly DeRossett, of Allen, represented the Cadettes. Mrs. Sandy Patton, field director, advised the following: Mrs. Lula Ratliff, and Mrs. Lila DeRossett, Allen; Mrs. Shirlee Branham, Prestonsburg; Mrs. Carolyn Owens and Mrs. Barbara Mandeville, Paintsville. Floyd County is ordering approximately 7,000 boxes of cookies.

Due to illness in the family, Mrs. Judy Spencer, of the Maytown Brownie Girl Scout troop, has resigned as leader. If any one else in Langley, or surrounding areas, wish to resume this leader position, please contact Sandy Patton, 285-3012 or Lila F. DeRossett, 874-2844. Thirteen little Brownie-age girls are very anxious to get started having fun and learning.

Training for the service unit team will be held December 8 at the Floyd Co. Library, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. The next service unit meeting in Dec. 4, 7 p.m., at Allen Methodist Church. Come, sample the cookies.

An adult backpacking week-end was held, November 7-9. A number of Johnson county leaders attended this event, and listening to them tell about it would convince any one that they had loads of fun—and sore muscles.

Out of all the service units in Wilderness Road Council, only one unit, the Ironhills Service Unit in Ironton, Ohio, received the Emerald Trefoil Award, in 1975. Floyd County could have been awarded this award if seven troops had registered their troop committee people. We met all the other qualifications.

Have Your Car Checked For Winter Driving

Frankfort, Ky.—Despite the warnings issued by traffic safety officials every winter, accidental asphyxiation—or death by carbon monoxide fumes—remains one of the season's major killers. Last winter, a Kentucky man never woke up after being lulled to sleep in his parked, tightly-closed automobile by the soft, caressing warmth from his car heater and maybe—as investigators conjectured afterward—from the soothing influence of a few drinks. His death was officially attributed to a faulty exhaust system that allowed the deadly fumes to seep through the car floorboards while he slept. Paul Stivers, assistant director of the state's division of inspections in the Kentucky Department of Transportation here, tells the story to illustrate this very real danger to winter motorists. "It is during the winter months—when motorists drive with their cars sealed tightly to keep out the cold—that the danger is the greatest," he said. "And the best protection against it happening to you is to get that exhaust system checked now—even if your car is not due for its annual inspection for several months yet." Snow tires also are a good investment. They should be put on a car at the first advent of bad weather and removed as soon as dangerous road conditions disappear in the spring. "The most important thing to remember about snow tires is that you must use the same size on both sides of the axle," he said. "If the car is not balanced on tires of equal size, you'll be setting up an unsafe condition which counteracts the skid-protection that the tires are designed to provide." Obviously, good visual conditions also are a safety factor for the winter driver and you will want to know that your defroster is working properly, he said. Stivers also urged that motorists check the antifreeze level in their automatic window washing mechanism so that the liquid won't freeze on the windshield and obscure the driver's vision. And for that comfortable feeling that comes from knowing that your car won't let you down along a remote highway on a cold winter night, check your battery and spark plugs now. Many of these safety checks can be run by the car owner. Again, Stivers emphasized: "If time is drawing near for your car's mandatory inspection, go on and have it done early. But if that time is still some way off, have a mechanic go ahead and check the exhaust and the other systems anyway," he said. "It could save a lot of grief."

Kentucky Delegate At National Meet

Jeffery J. Martin is attending the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago this week as one of the delegates from Kentucky. The Floyd county boy was selected on the basis of his overall 4-H club record and especially his work in the poultry project.

He has been county and area champion in this project for the last six years. Other major honors received include state championship in poultry judging, runner-up in the state vegetable judging contest. He has represented the county at the State Environmental Camp and has been a junior leader for the last four years.

Jeffery is the 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Graydon Martin, of Langley. He is a 1975 graduate of Allen Central High School and is now enrolled at Mayo Vocational School.

The U. S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that the proportion of workers on extended hours who received premium pay declined from about 43 percent in 1973 to 36 percent in 1975.

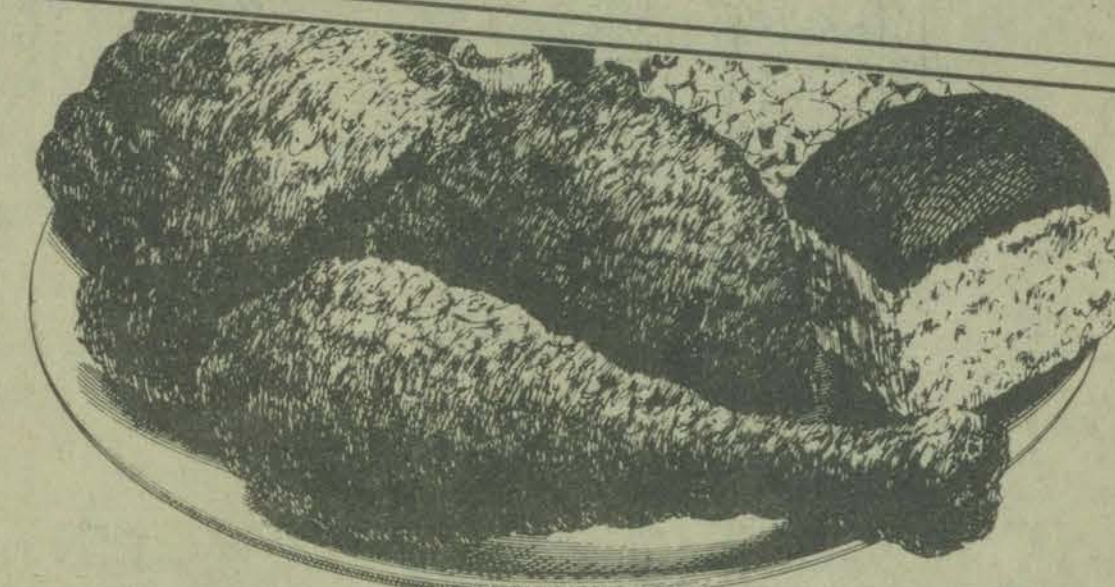

LABOR REGULATIONS

The U.S. Department of Labor's Employment Standards Administration enforces laws and regulations setting employment standards, providing workers' compensation to those injured on their jobs, and requiring federal contractors to provide equal employment opportunity.

Forestry Officials Go Back To School

About 200 foresters and fire fighters went back to school recently. Almost all the field personnel of the division of forestry in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection gathered at Kentucky Dam Village for three days of training designed to prepare them for the upcoming fall forest fire season. Divided into groups of 50, the students studied the problems of fire behavior, safety on fire lines and first aid, as well as reviewed forest management and utilization. Said Harry Nadler, director of the forestry division. "We hope we never have to use some of the things taught here, but our people must be trained in case there is an accident during the fighting of a forest fire." Nadler said the three-day session is the only training session which brings together at one time personnel from all nine district offices plus Frankfort. "This statewide meeting," said Nadler, "gives our personnel from the various districts an opportunity to discuss mutual problems." Districts conduct their own periodic training sessions during the year and foresters receive individual training. The district offices are in Morehead, Prestonsburg, Hazard, Pineville, Stamping Ground, Elizabethtown, Campbellsville, Madisonville and Mayfield. A few fire fighters remained in each district office during the recent school.

Awards for outstanding work were presented during the school by Nadler. Andrew Addott of Route 4 Monticello received an award for the best job on fire control, prevention and suppression. Addott is a unit ranger responsible for supervising fire control activities in Wayne, Clinton and Cumberland counties.

Charles R. Skaggs of Putney received an award for the best overall job during the spring tree sale campaign. Skaggs is a county ranger in Harlan County, which is part of the southeastern district.

The central district, based in Elizabethtown, was cited for outstanding work during the spring tree planting season. A plaque was presented to A. E. Sturdivant, the district forester over the central district.

About 20 service awards were presented to persons who have worked for the forestry division for 10, 15 or 20 years.

KEA Says Legislative Group Would Reduce School Funding

The Kentucky Education Association (KEA) warned last week that a legislative committee's attempt to cut proposed school funding increases backed by Governor Carroll and citizen groups could abort the state's "major and long overdue push" to rise from 49th place in national rankings.

"Governor Carroll has stated time after time that his first priority will be increased funding for elementary and secondary schools," said KEA executive secretary Robert Summers.

"And the Governor has emphasized on numerous occasions that he intends to seek parity with the seven surrounding states in per-pupil spending for Kentucky schoolchildren," he added.

A special legislative budget review committee chaired by Rep. Joe Clarke, D-Danville, on Nov. 25 adopted as a goal the achievement of parity in teacher salary with the average paid in 11 Southeastern states—rather than in the seven states bordering Kentucky.

The teacher salary increases would be part of the per-pupil spending figure that Governor Carroll, KEA, the Citizens Advisory Council and citizens advocacy committees throughout the state, the Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers, the Kentucky School Boards Association, the Kentucky Association of School Administrators, the Joint Legislative Committee of education groups, and the State Department of Education have said should be equal to that of the average of the seven surrounding states.

The legislative committee, however, made no mention of a per-pupil spending figure, which Summers called "dodging the issue."

"The Governor is committed to raising Kentucky's per-pupil spending figure to the average of the surrounding states," Summers said. "We are supporting his position. We have no intention of changing."

In taking its stand for paring proposed increases in a biennial budget request submitted by the Department of Education, the Clarke committee also suggested cutting funds requested for more kindergarten classes and for state-paid health insurance for local school employees.

Summers noted that the KEA legislative program adopted by the organization's Delegate Assembly calls for fully funding a complete statewide kindergarten program.

He also pointed out that Governor Carroll earlier this year ordered the state-paid health insurance program, already received by other state employees, extended to school employees.

"Why would the legislative committee want to eliminate this benefit for just school employees and not all state employees?" Summers asked.

Summers said of the committee's stand, "We do not compete with the Southeastern states; we compete with the states that border Kentucky."

"And when you rank 49th, you won't get much higher by taking halfway measures."

Woodmen Give Sixth Annual Scholarship

Woodmen of the World, Camp 714, Martin, held its annual Thanksgiving banquet at the Maytown Elementary School lunchroom Nov. 22.

This year marked the sixth consecutive presentation of a $100 scholarship to the Garth Area Vocational Education Center at Hite. The scholarship was accepted by Mr. Ezra Mitchell, industrial electricity instructor at Garth, from William Martin, secretary of Camp 714. The scholarship will be used by a worthy student to continue his education in a state vocational-technical school.

Mr. Mitchell gave a summary of the achievements of past recipients of Woodmen scholarships. All past recipients have continued their vocational education and have been very successful in their career choices, he said.

Motorcyclists Not Exempt From Traffic Safety Rules

By Jim Clarke

Frankfort, Ky.—It was a perfect day for cruising along a winding, country road under a leafy canopy of red and autumn gold, eyes squinted against the wind, the powerful roar of the cycle engine in his ears . . .

. . . A half-concealed curve just ahead held no hint of danger, so he leaned the cycle over a bit more, twisted the hand-grip throttle just a little higher and suddenly, the car was right there, turning onto the road in front of his from a tree-hidden drive. A shock-numbered brain mercifully obliterated the bloody agony that followed.

For the Kentucky State Police, (KSP), who must sweep up the carnage, traffic safety officials in the Kentucky Department of Transportation whose task it is to come up with programs aimed at halting such needless tragedy, it's an old and all too familiar story.

Another pleasure trip through the country had turned into a mad dash for life with the cyclist making the rest of the trip in an ambulance.

According to the KSP, there were 473 motorcycle accidents reported in 1974. Forty-nine of those resulted in deaths. Most of the remainder were injury accidents.

Although the official figures do show a slight reduction since 1973, Bennie Maffet, traffic safety coordinator for the state's Department of Transportation and Office of Highway Safety Programs, said there still is considerable room for improvement. Inexperience continues to be a major factor in cycle accidents.

"National Safety Council statistics recently showed that 20 per cent of the cycle accidents checked in a test area across the nation recently involved victims with less than a year's experience on a motorcycle," he said.

To offset that problem, Kentucky established its own motorcycle licensing requirements in 1968. Currently, Maffet's office is working on still another program to reduce the accident rate.

"We are cooperating with the state's Department of Education in training high school driver education instructors in the operation and instruction of motorcycle driving so they can include motorcycles as part of the driver education course for those high school students who want it," he said.

George Logan, project director in the Department of Education, said that, thus far, two motorcycle safety workshops have been convened for driver education instructors and, "We now have approximately 70 instructors across the state qualified to teach motorcycle education."

Logan said he hopes to have the motorcycle education program for high school instructors fully underway by next summer and would like eventually to have one cycle-qualified instructor at every high school in the state.

"Once we have a sufficient number of motorcycle education instructors, students completing the course will receive the same discount on their insurance premiums as do other students completing the driver education program for conventional automobiles now," he said.

Both Maffet and Logan say there are several things cyclists can do to reduce their chances of becoming an accident victim.

"Good riders should think of themselves as 'invisible'—that is, assume that no motorist is aware of the cyclist being in the vicinity—and never put themselves into a position where their safety depends on the performance of another motorist," they said.

In addition, cyclists should not drive beyond their own capabilities or faster than road conditions and the law allows.

Maffet emphasized that "before a cyclist can adapt to adverse riding conditions or sudden hazards, he must be familiar with his machine and proper riding techniques."

Logan also said cyclists must not forget that "use of a helmet is the law in Kentucky." National statistics have shown as much as a 49 per cent drop in motorcycle fatalities in states where the helmet was required.

"Motorcycles are great," Logan said, "if the basic commonsense rules are followed."

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reports that of workers who worked more hours than the standard work week in May 1975, about 70 percent of those who were union members and 30 percent of those who were unorganized received premium pay.

C.; Mrs. Mary Ann King and her two children from Lexington; Miss Carol Ruth Vasvary from Ashland.
