

Court Fails To Take On Waste Job Vote To Purchase Floyd Sanitation Ends in Deadlock

The move by the Floyd fiscal court to go into the solid waste disposal business on its own apparently was stalled Monday when it split on the purchase of the equipment, franchise and contracts of Floyd Sanitation, Inc.

The court recently directed County Attorney Harold J. Stumbo to contact the sanitation company about the purchase, and the company responded with a price of $315,000. Its franchise includes Magisterial Districts 1, 2 and 3 and it listed in its equipment 10 trucks, one 2 1/2-ton compactor and three steel dump beds.

Magistrates Kenneth Roberts and Leroy Akers voted to make the purchase, with a down payment of $120,000 to be made, but Magistrate Dewey Roberts and County Judge Henry Stumbo voted against it. Magistrate Bill Wells abstained.

The court's Monday session was one of its longest. It adopted a resolution pointing to the need of KY 80 reconstruction and urging state action on the highway. In another action the court unanimously voted the employment of a water line inspector for the Beaver

Barker To Leave State Park Job, Baker To Return

George Barker, manager of Jenny Wiley State Park here for the past three years, will leave the park next week to assume a new post with the parks system's central office in Frankfort.

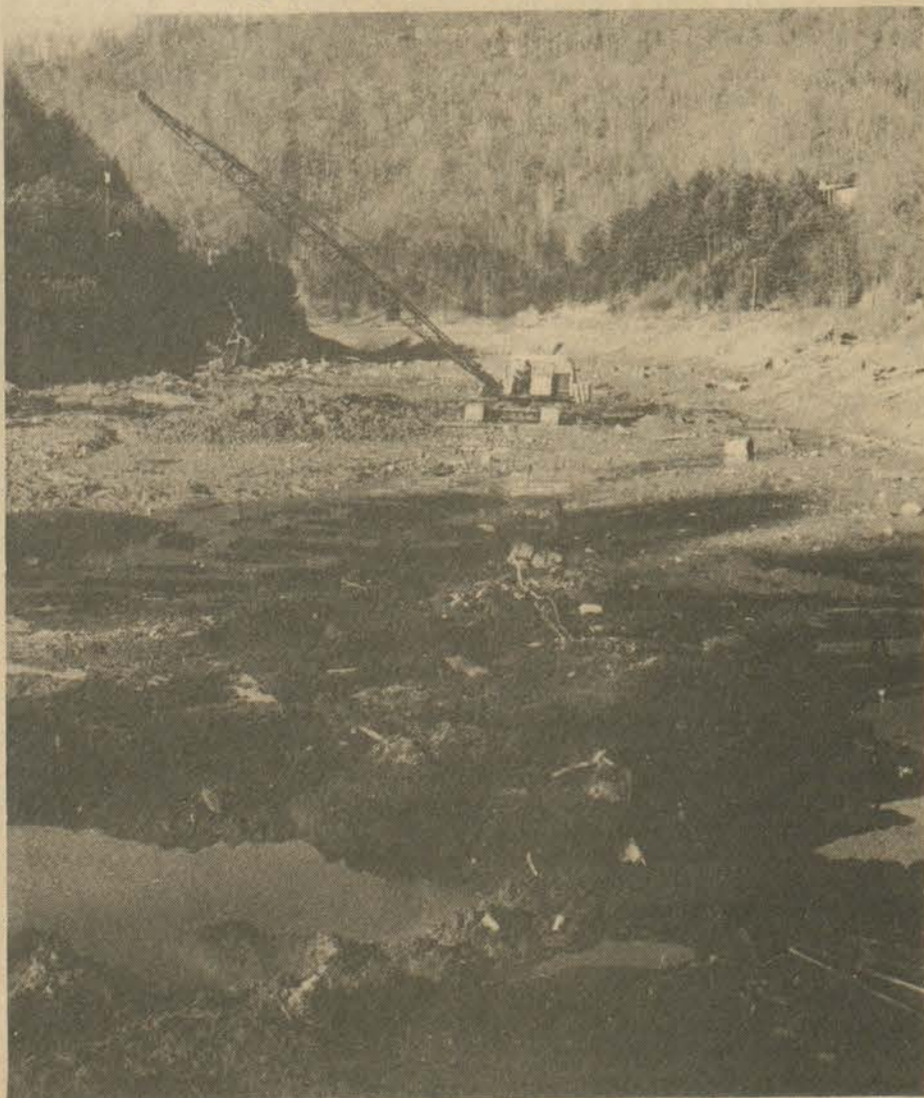

Barker's replacement will be Lowell Baker, superintendent of Natural Bridge State Park, and formerly a Jenny Wiley State Park superintendent.

Mr. Barker, a native of Danville, has been named director of boat docks and camping areas for the state parks system as a whole and will leave for the new position in Frankfort early next week.

Barker said his replacement was already somewhat familiar with Jenny Wiley from his previous experience with the park. "We've had several meetings and travelled the park together to bring Mr. Baker up-to-date on the park as it is today," he added.

Barker described his stay here as "most pleasant" and he said his family "really has come to call this area home."

Drag-Line Method on Trial

P & M Construction Company, of Lexington, which for the past few months has wrestled with the problem of how to dredge Brandy Keg Cove as part of the larger Jenny Wiley Boat Dock renovation project, may have finally come up with a feasible technique. A large dragline (pictured above) began work last week in the cove and actually scooped up a couple of truck loads of muck, accounting for the first real progress toward dredging of the area. Earlier attempts utilizing backhoes and other smaller pieces of heavy equipment failed after the machines bogged down in the muddy lake bottom.

Hammond Outlines Severance Plan

This Town...That World

I have on occasion been accused of downright sloppiness by some who have not been blessed with an appreciation for a disorderly desk. I accept the criticism but hasten to remark that the aforementioned desk has not improved appreciably during my absence.

Scott Collins is one who hasn't let living in town cramp his style overmuch. First, it was beagles that he had to catch my attention, every time I passed. Now it's two beautiful hounds (half redbone, half black-and-tan) that are the eye-catchers.

Political fence-mending is a well-practised art, but few of this age know of the problems faced in the days of the old rail, stake-and-ridered fence. Such fences were, shall we say, rather vulnerable if a mule or cow-brute took into his or her head to sail across or if a hog sought freedom by hitting the rails, low down.

It was the exasperated owner of such a fence, says Mrs. Gladys Connelley, of the Salyersville vicinity, who after working for days stood back, viewed her handiwork and remarked to any animal that might be near: "Now you critters, look here. Don't bother that fence any more; it won't do you any good. For this time I've got her mule high, bull strong and pig tight."

That item, somehow, recalls the story of the old mountaineer who was asked if the mineral under his land had been sold. "Nope," he replied, "I own 'er hell deep and heaven high."

As soon as I feel like starting a row, I shall propose that if our sportsmen want to give the bass a chance to reproduce in Dewey Lake they might push for a closed spawning season.

Don't suppose Watt Hale will resent my retelling a yarn credited to him, some years back. It has to do with a fellow who loved his wife but had a feud going with her mother that would have defied Kissenger, the U.N. and all other peacemakers.

Yet, when the old gal fell sick, the man finally called in the doctor, and the latter, after examining her, emerged from the room to tell her son-in-law that she was very ill, that there was nothing he could do.

"You're going to have to get her to a warmer climate," the medic gave as his considered opinion.

Maybe he was considering the expense involved, maybe not, anyhow the man declared, "Can't do it, doc—can't do it. . . But tell you what, I've got a double-bitted axe out there—you do it."

Huntington Firm To Do Roof Job At Five Schools

The Floyd County Board of Education at its meeting Saturday accepted the $96,000 low bid of the Washington Roofing Co., Huntington, W. Va., for the reroofing of eight buildings on five Floyd county school campuses.

The bid covers roofing of three buildings at Wheelwright, two at Melvin and one each at Garrett, Auxier and Harold. This work is a portion of the roof repair planned for school structures in the county.

The board also discussed with its architect, Forrest G. McCloskey, the renovation of the old Martin High School building for elementary school purposes.

Sportsmen Group Asks Help On Dewey Silt Control

An area sportsmen's club is asking the support of county, state and federal officials in its plan for construction of a silt dam or a retaining-type structure in the headwaters of Dewey Lake to check the siltation of the reservoir.

In a letter which has been sent to area county judges, senators and representative, Governor Julian Carroll and Army Corps of Engineers officials, the Highlands Bass Club, a fishing and conservation group, spoke of their concern "that sedimentation is increasing, and that the lifespan of the lake, its flood control advantage and also its wildlife potential may be adversely affected."

Although the Corps of Engineers has no plan for such a project at present, sedimentation studies involving Dewey

Allen Confident Carroll's Plan Will Help Area

State Representative James (Jitter) Allen said here Saturday that he is confident Governor Julian Carroll has a satisfactory plan for the allocation of coal severance tax funds for the improvement of Eastern Kentucky and that the governor also is truly interested in rebuilding KY 80 from this county through Knott to Hazard in Perry county.

The legislator declined to discuss details of Carroll's plan, although it has been outlined to him, pointing out that he is treating statements made by the governor as confidential.

Asked about criticism voiced by some legislators of the governor's failure to earmark in his budget specific severance funds for coal-producing counties, Allen said he does not think criticism at this time serves any good purpose and that he is "trying to exercise good, common sense as a freshman representative."

"I do not think a lot of loose talk at this time serves any good purpose," he added.

He was joined by State Senators Jim Hammond and Lowell Hughes, among others, in expressing confidence that the coal areas will receive an adequate return from the severance tax.

The Floyd representative said he is continuing his efforts to help Mare Creek

Three Arrested During Past Week On Liquor Charges

After allegedly attempting to elude Deputy Sheriffs Doug Lewis and Linzie Hunt Monday evening in a chase through Prestonsburg streets, Herman Joseph was arrested and charged with illegal transporting of alcoholic beverages, reckless driving and attempt to elude police officers, and Charles "Buck" Joseph was charged with possession of alcoholic beverages.

The liquor charges came after the two were allegedly found in possession of four pints of whiskey which they reportedly attempted to break. Herman Joseph pleaded guilty to charges and was fined $57 for transporting, and $27 for each of the other charges by Police Judge Tom Lafferty. Charles Joseph executed bond.

Floyd county Sheriff's deputies also arrested Delbert Whitaker, Saturday, at his mobile home on the Floyd-Magoffin county line near David. Whitaker pleaded guilty to charges of illegal possession of alcoholic beverages and was fined in Magistrate Bill Wells' court.

City Tax Rate Stands at 30¢

Prestonsburg city taxes, the City Council voted last Thursday night will stand unchanged from the past year. The basic real estate and personal property tax rate will remain at 30 cents per $100 evaluation.

Council decided to call on City Engineer Earl Martin, requesting that the city map, including the Goble-Roberts Addition, be brought up to date for tax purposes.

Harold Cooley, mayor pro-tem, presided in the absence of Mayor William O. Goebel. Bids on two police cruisers were opened, and the purchase was made from Music-Carter-Hughes on its low bid of $5,071 for each vehicle.

Bobby D. Burchett and David Chaffin were added to the auxiliary police force. Complaints were heard relating to the condition of the road on the hill approaching the Goble-Roberts Addition, but residents were told this is a county, not a city, road.

The treasurer's report for the month of December showed receipts of $85,534.86 and disbursements totalling $51,189.29. Main items on the list of receipts were these: Property tax, $32,952.56; miscellaneous receipts (Archer Park and municipal aid funds), $36,809.16; sanitation fees, $5,403.04; minimum license fees, $1,971; license fees withheld, $1,169.83; police court fines, $2,508.50.

State Senator Jim Hammond unveiled here Monday Governor Julian Carroll's proposed program for the return to the coal counties the revenues to be derived from the state's coal severance tax.

The freshman Democratic senator explained, in releasing contents of the plan which will be embodied in a House bill, that he had "cleared" the release with Governor Carroll and that he had been careful not to violate any confidence.

Hammond was obviously exultant at the governor's decision to make four-lane reconstruction of KY 80 a part of the package which will be put on display late this week or early next. The bill which the General Assembly will be asked to approve will earmark $12 million a year for this work, all of which will be in Floyd, Knott and Perry counties and all in Hammond's 15th district.

The senator described the coal severance bill, the work involved in preparing it and the continued effort toward its passage as the governor and the legislature working as "co-partners in common sense for the common good."

He said that, while some legislators were critical of Carroll when he failed to include the severance tax in his budget, he (Hammond) and others have been working with the governor. "Representative James 'Jitter' Allen has been a big help in working this out, often quieting colleagues who were inclined to be critical," he said. Hammond also commended the contribution made by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley and County Judge Henry Stumbo toward a plan for this and other coal counties.

The bill returning the severance monies to the coal counties, he said, will envision a total income per year of $53 million.

That total, he said, will be expended on an annual basis on six separate causes. These are:

1. Rural highways and county aid road program, $15 million.
 2. "Flow-through" monies to coal counties' severance councils, $5 million.
 3. KY 80 reconstruction, $12 million.
 4. Occupational disease fund, $7 million.
 5. Tax cut on the first $30 of residential electric bills, $8 million.
 6. State development, $6 million.
- Funding of such a program, Senator Hammond said, will involve a 1 percent increase of the severance tax—from 4 pct. to 5 pct.—and the raising of the minimum tonnage tax from 30 cents to 50 cents.

Hammond spoke of Governor Carroll's commitment to KY 80, a road which not only will link US 23 at the Floyd terminus with the Mountain and Daniel Boone Parkways at Hazard in Perry county but residents with the "Little Floyd" problem. Because the Legislature in 1845 enacted legislation cutting the Tandy Stratton farm from Pike county and making it Floyd county territory, that part of this county is an "island," lying between parts of Pike county. As a consequence, neither county has ever assumed full responsibility for road construction and maintenance there. Although residents of the Pike county sections of the valley pay taxes to Pike county, they vote in Floyd county, and both counties benefit from the population count of the entire valley when the census is taken, one resident said.

Federal cartographers have failed to mark the boundary lines on Mare Creek, leaving the entire valley in Pike county. At the request of Representative Allen the Attorney General's office has studied the situation, and Assistant Attorney General Walter Herdman has suggested that interested parties may file a suit in circuit court here to get an official determination of the boundary matter. The court then could direct the county surveyor, or some other licensed surveyor, to make a survey based upon the boundary lines previously fixed between the two counties.

The first boundary, established in 1821, cut a straight line from Brushy Creek to the mouth of Hurricane Creek, bisected Buffalo Creek, Mare Creek, Pike-Floyd Hollow at Betsy Layne and cut through a portion of Pin Hook Branch.

But the later legislative act restored the Tandy Stratton farm to Floyd county, and the situation has become so interesting that the National Broadcasting Company has expressed interest in making of the area and its problems a television feature.

Combs To Head Seal Campaign

EX-GOVERNOR COMBS

The Kentucky Easter Seal Society has named Ex-Governor Bert T. Combs to serve as chairman of its 1976 statewide Easter Seal campaign.

The 1976 Easter Seal campaign will run from March 1 to Easter Sunday, April 18. As chairman, Combs will spearhead the many activities of thousands of volunteer workers in Kentucky's 120 counties who will participate in the fund raising appeal.

Contributions to the annual Easter Seal drive will be used to help finance the society's program of therapies, medical and hospital care, hearing and speech services, recreation and resident camping for children and adults crippled by many causes.

The society owns and operates seven Easter Seal facilities. These centers are in Lexington, Paducah, Louisville, Covington, Carrollton, Ashland and at McDaniels, in Breckinridge county.

Now a Louisville attorney, Combs has served as a judge of the United States Court of Appeals for the sixth circuit. He was a judge on the Kentucky Court of Appeals prior to his term as governor.

In 1963 Combs received the Joseph P. Kennedy International Award for outstanding contribution to and leadership in the field of mental retardation. In 1964 he was named Kentucky's outstanding attorney for his service to the legal profession. During World War II, he attained the rank of captain and served in the South Pacific on General Douglas MacArthur's staff.

SUFFERS HEART ATTACK

The daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hicks, of Langley, —Rochella, Ruby, Darlene, of Williamsburg, Va., —learned late Wednesday evening their father had suffered a severe heart attack at home, and was rushed to a McDowell hospital, where he is in the intensive care unit. His condition has improved and is stable. Ruby and husband Dennis Bentley left Thursday evening for Kentucky to visit her father and brother, Eugene, who underwent major surgery in the Highlands Regional Medical Center. Unsuccessful attempts were made at the time to reach their daughter, Mrs. Gladys Battle, of Jacksonville, Fla., with news of her father. It was later learned that her husband, Jim, and daughter Loree were in a Florida hospital suffering from bronchitis and pneumonia.

Ever heard of the Genie of the magic lamp?

Let's suppose there were such creatures, and suddenly you had the opportunity to make three wishes. What would you wish for? . . . a million dollars? . . . to be a king? . . . to travel all over the world? Whatever your wishes were, if you lived long enough—you'd probably want to change them.

Of all the wishes a person could make—the three of the most importance would be—"I wish to be healthy, wealthy and wise." These three would encompass more of your life than any you could ask for.

Health—without it you would be most unhappy and life would have little meaning. Wealth—with this just about anything material could be yours. Wise—with wisdom you would maintain the first two, and through wisdom you would find happiness unsurpassed.

On the other hand these three can be yours without a Genie. You alone are the captain of your fate. After all, aren't all of us the kind of person we've worked at becoming?

Health Programs— A Big Rip-Off?

It is quite disgusting and disturbing to see our tax money go into federal health programs such as we have in Eastern Kentucky—e.g., Mental Health and a Comprehensive Health Program.

These programs seem to have a lot of things in common: Nice offices, a high salaries for the administrators, lots of people (nonproductive) on the payroll, the best in office equipment and, obviously, people unable to manage the budget.

Another common denominator for these programs is helping people, especially poor people. Now this isn't bad, but do the people get help, or the run-around? And what about the taxpayers? Do they qualify for the "services" our own money is paying for?

I have some friends who have tried to get medical help in a clinic in Wheelwright and have been put off and can't get to see the doctor who is never there or doesn't show up until late in the afternoon. Is this what we are paying for—people on the payroll, but not earning their money?

What are the purposes of these programs? Why isn't the budget for such programs made public? What services are being offered, not on paper, but in reality? Can't our health department provide the same type of services? It seems one of the functions of the federal government is to duplicate services and waste our money. Everything is becoming socialistic and the government uses some local people to help push or cram federal health programs down our throats.

Maybe I come across very negative, but when I see a little clinic in our Mud Creek section doing good and helping people without federal dollars and compare the other comprehensive health program with two clinics and a parttime doctor, and the comprehensive health program is not providing any services but paying a lot of salaries, then—Yes, I am disturbed!

I guess what I am saying is for the citizens and taxpayers to become concerned about the abuse of our tax-dollars on the local level and write our Congressman to see if we can get the money appropriated for better use.

Praises Hospital

Editor, The Times:

I would like to take this opportunity to express my congratulations to you and Floyd County for the Highlands Regional Hospital. I just spent seven very pleasant days there including a minor operation in this very fine hospital.

While I would like to name names I realize that this well-run hospital requires the cooperation of staff and personnel and they would be too numerous to mention in this letter.

Questions Official Interest

On February 1, a gentleman in his late sixties by the name of Charlie Newman, of Hi Hat, Ky., came to visit my mother on the new Bull Creek road, and in his good clothes went to work on a road that was impassable, so that children could reach the school bus and others could travel it.

By hand he dug and trenched for hours until he got the water running off which had been standing in the middle of the road for sometime and near knee-deep. This being a dirt road, it was impossible for anyone to get in or out.

I think it is very sad when someone from another town cares more about our conditions here in Prestonsburg than our own officials do. What are the people there paying taxes for?

The good deeds and promises before elections mean nothing—it's what happens after that counts, and people are more aware of it every day.

We need people in these jobs that care, all the time.

On Power of Judges

Your recent editorial, "Is a Judge's Power Unlimited?", referring to Judge Walter's dismissal, or what amounts to that, of the Eddie Jones murder trial, is a breath of fresh air in this era of general permissiveness and maudlin concern for the criminal and a corresponding lack of concern for the victim.

I agree with you that politicians are held in low esteem. I especially single out the judiciary in all levels, top to bottom, who have been handing down decrees by judicial fiat, based, not on constitutional provisions, but rather on the ideological bent of the individual judge, influenced, no doubt, by the current revolutionary mores.

I think it's time the legislative and executive branches of government bury the "power jealousy" hatchet and concentrate upon the real usurpers of power. Commendations are due Commonwealth Attorney Allen and County Attorney Stumbo for their integrity and determination to see this case through to a just legal determination of justice.

Asks Help With Local History

To the Editor:

A letter I received the other day asked me three questions I could not answer.—Would any reader be able to help me answer this letter?

1. "Who was the first white man buried in what is now Letcher County when it was part of Floyd?"

2. "What is the story of a Spencer Adams paying for some land with a Bible to a man named Bach?"

3. "Who, oh, who are the Bachs?"

Any help will be thankfully received.

Application forms to be used by veterans in applying for immediate payment of their adjusted compensation certificates were received last week by officials of Floyd Post, American Legion, here. Bogey Shepherd, 21, of Salt Lick creek, is in serious condition at his home as the result of a bullet wound in his thigh suffered Sunday night when he accidentally discharged a pistol on which he was working. Definite action toward contracting for the construction of a new courthouse, or the enlargement and remodeling of the present building, was deferred by the fiscal court Saturday until Tuesday, when, it is announced the court will make its final decision. Senator Joe P. Tackett, serving his first term in the General Assembly, has been appointed to the Rules Committee of the Senate. All highways in this section have been in a hazardous condition since the onset of bad weather just before Christmas. ALC Upward Bound Program Preparing for Tenth Year

Pippa Passes, Ky.—The Upward Bound Program at Alice Lloyd College will begin its tenth year of operation this summer, and plans are being made now to make this year's program the most successful in Upward Bound's history at the college. The program, designed to offer assistance to qualified high school students from the seven-county area (Floyd, Knott, Perry, Leslie, Letcher, Pike and Magoffin) has served nearly 600 students over the past 10 years. Many of these students are now in college or have completed college degrees.

Upward Bound is a co-operative venture between Alice Lloyd College and the Office of Education of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The program is intended to help high school students develop the skills and motivation necessary to attend college.

Qualified students live on the Alice Lloyd campus for eight weeks during the summer, taking classes in math, science, English, social studies, reading, crafts, physical education and drama. Highlights of last summer's program were a cultural field trip to Cincinnati, Ohio, and Berea, Kentucky, and the high school students' production of the Gay 90's melodrama, "Dirty Works at the Crossroads." This year, similar field trip and many student-generated activities are planned.

But Upward Bound is not just a summer experience. Throughout the school year, the Upward Bound staff visits the high schools to talk with Upward Bound students and school personnel. In addition, each month the students are invited to attend a meeting on the ALC campus, where educational programs are planned for them.

The Upward Bound staff is presently in the process of recruiting students for the 1976-77 program which begins on June 13, with the on-campus phase. Applications may be obtained from the high school guidance counselor by writing the Upward Bound Office, Box 42, Alice Lloyd College, Pippa Passes, Ky., 41844. Instructions accompany application explaining the procedures to be followed.

The program also now is accepting applications for summer staff positions in the following areas: math, science, English, social studies, reading, drama, recreation, men's dormitory director, women's dormitory director, and tutor-counselors. Applications may be obtained from the Upward Bound Program, Alice Lloyd College, Pippa Passes, Kentucky, 41844, or by calling the office at 368-2101, extension 10. Application deadline is March 5.

Pictured are four of the paintings which won recognition for Floyd youngsters in this past week-end's Winter Week-end for artists at Jenny Wiley State Park. At top is Russell May's first prize-winning landscape in oil. Tom Whitaker's watercolor portrait (above right) of a boy won second in that category of competition. Third place winner in oil portraits was won by Jean Mann with her portrayal of an old woman holding a doll (bottom right). Glennora Montgomery's intricate canvas portraying the development of man and his history (above left) won a first place in non-objective oil.

which will also connect by major, four-lane highway the Big Sandy, Kentucky and Cumberland River valleys. He said completion of the route is expected within three to four years and that this is not over-optimistic because planning of the highway has already been completed and no federal "red tape" will delay work, since no federal funds will be involved.

Financing of KY 80 at an estimated cost of $180 million is planned through issuance of notes over a 20-year period, with tax revenues, not bonds, to amortize the indebtedness.

"This road is viewed," he said, "as the take-off now for this area and the assurance of its future."

The $15 million planned for rural highways and the county aid program, he explained, is in addition to funds already budgeted. Severance funds for this phase would be returned on a pro rata basis, depending upon the severance monies derived from coal mined in each county, and county fiscal courts will determine, as they now do, on what roads the money will be spent.

The proposed $5 million "flow-through" fund is designed to finance in the coal counties sewage and water districts, solid waste disposal, schools and recreation. This fund in each county will be administered by a five-member Coal County Severance Tax Council composed of the judge of the fiscal court, a representative elected by the school board, the mayor of the largest city in the county and two members-at-large who are to be appointed by the governor.

The $6 million proposed each year for state development—not restricted to any part of the state—would be in addition to any other funds otherwise budgeted for the purpose. The amount budgeted for development by Gov. Carroll, plus the $6 million to be earmarked from severance funds, would bring to $65 million the total to be expended. This fund will be marked for airports, industrial sites and the like.

Senator Hammond said the use of $7 million of severance funds for occupational disease compensation—mainly Black Lung—will ease the compensation burden on coal companies to the extent that the increase of the severance tax should not be objectionable.

He said the legislation assigning the severance tax funds will be, if enacted, perpetual—that is, re-enactment at future General Assembly sessions will not be necessary.

ADVICE TO A BRIDE

Doing the family wash was quite a bit harder for Grandma than in these days of automatic washers and dryers. Here is one old-timer's authentic "receipt" in its original spelling, written for a bride, a few generations ago:

1. Build a fire in back yard to heat kettle of rain water.
2. Set tubs so smoke won't blow in eyes if wind is pert.
3. Shave one hole cake of lie sope in bilin water.
4. Sort things, make three piles. 1 pile white, 1 pile cullord. 1 pile work britches and rags.
5. Stur flour in cold water to smooth, then thin down with bilin water.
6. Rub dirty spots on board, scrub hard, then bile. Rub cullord, but don't bile—just rench and starch.
7. Take white things out of kettle with broom stick handle, then rench, blew, and starch.
8. Spred tee towels on grass.
9. Hang old rags on fence.
10. Pore rench water on flower bed.
11. Scrub porch with hot soapy water.
12. Turn tubs upside down.
13. Go put on clean dress, smooth hair with side combs, brew cup of tee, set and rest and rock a spell and count your blessings.

Would Eliminate Many Such Scenes

A move to reduce litter-strewn eyesores such as the Floyd roadside shown above has been introduced in Senate Bill 59 before the Kentucky legislature by John Berry, Jr. The bill, similar to laws in effect in Oregon, Vermont, South Dakota, would require a deposit on all beer and soft drink containers. Proponents of the bill also cite the saving in state and local monies for cleanup costs, the saving of natural resources such as aluminum, and the reduction in danger to both people and wildlife from broken throw-away bottles.

Those who favor the bill are being asked to make their position known to their state representatives and to the governor.

Famous Birds of Literature

1. THE TURTLE DOVE OF BIBLE TIMES... This dove is the one we know as the "mourning dove."

The turtle dove (mourning dove) was the most highly regarded bird of Bibles times. It is often mentioned in the Old Testament, as it carried out three important missions for Noah while he was in the ark. The first time he sent out the dove, she soon flew back and Noah knew the flood was still over all the land; he reached out his hand and drew her back into the safety of the ark. "She had found no rest for the soles of her feet."

A week later, when Noah sent the dove out, she soon returned with a green olive leaf clasped in her beak. Noah then knew that the flood was receding. When he sent her out the third time, she failed to return, so Noah knew she had found refuge perhaps in the trees, and the flood had departed.

The highest honor paid to the dove by the New Testament writers is using it as a symbol of the Holy Spirit. In Matthew 3:16, after Jesus had been baptized by John, the Scriptures say: "Lo, the heavens were opened and he saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove and lighting upon him."

The dove has also long been used as a symbol of love and peace. Two turtle doves were offered as a sacrifice after Jesus was eight days old. This indicated his parents were too poor to afford a lamb of the first flock.

A turtle dove could be used under the law of Moses for a "sin offering," and also one for the "burnt offering."

I strongly feel that our mourning dove, for its gentle nature and the way it symbolizes peace and was a sacred symbol in the time of Christ, should be regarded as a very special bird, one that should be protected at all times. This dove never raises a fuss with other birds.

and is also noted for its parental devotion and love of its mate. Yet it is placed on the game bird list in some of the states and ruthlessly slaughtered by hunters. Many of these doves get their eyes shot out and can never find their way back to their nest; many parent doves are killed, leaving the young to die of starvation.

The mourning dove is the only bird that can drink from water and swallow it without having to lift its head to swallow. It is of great value to the farmer, as it consumes weed seeds and many obnoxious insects.

The mourning dove's song is something special to hear. At close range, the voice seems to come from a deep, hollow-sounding music-box in the bird's throat. It is introduced by a hollow, mournful cooah, and then follows a series of coos, which seem too melancholy for such a sleek and gentle bird. There is a note of wistful pining in this dove's song; it might be spoken of as "the lovelorn singer of Nature."

The mourning dove can be readily identified by the black spot behind each eye and by its buffy brown head and grayish body, with a blue tint on the wings, and by its long, sharp-pointed tail, which is edged with white and contains exactly 14 feathers. The wings make a whistling sound in flight. The feet and legs are red.

The mourning dove rears two broods each season and its favorite nesting sites are elm trees along well-kept lanes or highways. Henry Collins says: "The low, gentle coo of this dove reminds one of the carefully mowed lawns and shade trees of suburban estates."

It seems to me the mourning doves have become quite scarce in our region. I used to hear several cooing during the year, but now I count it lucky to hear one or two. We should protect this dove and strongly protest its slaughter each year.

What To Do in February

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD
(UK College of Agriculture)

February is the shortest month of the year—a fact for which most people in the North Temperate Zone are thankful, since, in character, February is a month of storms and cold. Although it usually has a few warm, sunny days that point to spring, often the very heaviest snows of the year come and linger on the ground longest during its tenure. Not too many years ago, as can be recalled, remnants of a snow that fell on St. Valentine's Day remained on north hillsides until the last day of March.

Because it is usually a month of dreadful weather, February may seem an off month for the gardener, but it isn't. Traditionally, February 14 was the date to plant peas. Then, as the busy month of March is in the immediate offing, February is high time to make ready for the garden season.

February is a time to paint, sharpen, and repair garden tools and equipment; make an inventory of garden supplies, and order seeds—while there is some leisure time yet available. It is much easier to have the rototiller taken care of now than it will be when it is needed to break up a potato patch. Also, it will be much more convenient to have the lawn mower blade sharpened now and the machine ready to go when it is time to cut the grass for the first time. With these two jobs out of the way, the gardener will not be in competition with all those who have waited until the last minute and when service is likely to be slow and uncertain.

Horticulturists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture say that February—before the trees start to grow—is a good time to get your fruit-tree pruning done. Fruit trees will bear, of course, if they are not pruned but will do better if pruned at this time. It is the time, too, to spray fruit trees with a solution of lime and sulphur or dormant oil to control scale insects. Good fruit is the result of intelligent pruning and spraying. The products of trees that do not have this care are usually wormy and knotty.

The horticulturists also advise the trimming and shaping of certain kinds of shrubbery in February, adding that shrubbery is pruned largely to remove the oldest wood in order to induce new growth from the bottom. Be careful to trim only the flowering shrubs that bloom late in the season. To trim or prune the early flowering varieties now will destroy the blossoming wood, and there will be fewer blossoms. Also avoid pruning trees and shrubs that bleed—trees like elm, birch, and maple. Leave these trees until September or until the foliage is well developed.

On inclement days in February, time sometimes hangs heavy; reading seed catalogs, the new almanacs, and other literature falls; and symptoms of cabin fever begin to appear. This situation can be brightened by putting on overshoes and fleece-lined jacket and going out to collect some woody branches for forcing into bloom. Pussy willow, forsythia, and flowering quince are good subjects for forcing.

After bringing the branches into the house, submerge them in lukewarm water for 24 to 48 hours. Then place them in a vase of warm water and store in a cool place (50-60 degrees F.). As soon as color begins to show, place them in a well-lighted area. Then choose the best branches and make an arrangement to bring a touch of spring to the house.

In passing, it is not worthy that while February is the shortest month, it has much more than its share of unusual days. There is Candlemas Day and Ground Hog Day on the 2nd and Pea-Planting Day on the 14th. Then there are birthdays of Washington, Lincoln, Dickens, Lanier, Lowell, Longfellow, and host of other notables of great character and high ambition who achieved greatness and everlasting fame. February seems a good month in which to be born.

Garth School Notes Vocational Ed Week

Merits and accomplishments of vocational education is being spotlighted particularly during National Vocational Education Week, February 8-14.

Faculty members of the Garth Area Vocational Education Center at Hite, who are welcoming visitors to the school, are prepared to answer any questions the public may have regarding vocational education.

Frank Sammons, coordinator of the center, said recently that both young people and adults today face a tremendous task in selecting career development programs. "Careful investigation and observation are necessary for the potential student to choose the training program which will provide the most satisfying and rewarding career," he added.

Regional director of vocational education, Bronelle Skaggs, urges the public to visit the Garth school during this week to view on-going projects and programs.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to express our appreciation to all of our friends and neighbors who were so kind as to send food and flowers and offer words of comfort upon the passing of our loved one, Tandy Hamilton.

We especially wish to thank the members and ministers of the Little Rosa Church for their kindness, the Hall Brothers Funeral Home for their efficient service, and anyone else who helped in any way.

THREE MISSING CLIMBERS FOUND IN GOOD CONDITION
GOVERNMENT CAMP, Ore.—Three teen-aged climbers, missing since Jan. 1 when they set out to hike around Mt. Hood, were found Friday, January 16. All were in good condition except for frostbitten feet.
More than 15 feet of snow had fallen on parts of the mountain since the three disappeared. Blizzards kept search efforts to a minimum until yesterday when the weather cleared.
It was 16 days earlier when the trio started what was to have been a five-day climb around the 9,000-foot level of the 11,235-foot glacier peak.

Carroll Pledges To Make Tourism Ky's Third Billion Dollar Industry

Pledging to make Kentucky's travel and tourism industry the third billion dollar industry in the Commonwealth, Gov. Julian Carroll announced last Wednesday, "We're going to launch a very responsible, and a very direct program of international 'Sell Kentucky'."
The program, the governor announced, would take two forms. The first would be to get foreign visitors to come and visit Kentucky, and the second form would be to get foreign businesses to locate and stay in Kentucky.

tourists in Kentucky last year, the 39.5 million out-of-state visitors spent $650 million, he added.

Labeling the tourism and travel industry "the most underestimated industry in Kentucky," Gov. Carroll noted that the Commonwealth hosted 14 million foreign travelers last year. Of that total, the governor delineated that eight and one-half million came from Canada and three and one-half million from Mexico.

To keep the industry strong, the governor's international promotion program includes advertising in international press, cooperating in joint promotional efforts with the United States Travel Service, and working extensively with airlines and travel agencies.

Commissioner of the Department of Public Information, James Vernon, expressed great hope in the governor's new concept of international promotion. "Our great success with travel and tourism has shown us that the possibilities are endless. Certainly international promotion will be a great boon to all facets of Kentucky life," Vernon remarked.

Delegates to the Governor's Conference on Tourism in Louisville heard the governor state, "Since 1963, Kentucky's tourism industry has grown 195 per cent." Of a total $893 million spent by

Homecoming Is Feb. 14 At Pikeville College

PIKEVILLE, Ky.—Graduates of Pikeville College can expect a telephone call from college officials this week-end.

Fred W. Cox, director of alumni affairs, said the school will conduct a telenotion to inform graduates about the forthcoming Homecoming '76 events to be held on Saturday, February 14.

Cox said, "We will be calling the class representatives for each graduating year to let them know about the homecoming activities. We are trying to make this the best homecoming yet."

Cox continued, "For many graduates, even in the local area, Pikeville College has been the only college they attended. Some alumni have never returned to the campus. Homecoming '76 will give the grads an opportunity to see the campus, learn about new programs, and visit with old friends."

Activities for Homecoming '76 include: a bicycle race through downtown Pikeville at 10 a.m. starting at the City Park; the Pikeville College Bears vs. Thomas More at the college gymnasium at 2:30 p.m.; a reception for alumni and students in the college's Gold Room at 6 p.m.; a candlelight dinner in the school's dining hall at 7 p.m.; and a dance at the Pikeville High School Gymnasium at 9 p.m.

tax tip of the week

RECORD KEEPING

QUESTION: I am getting some papers together so I can file my income tax early this year. Can you tell me what all I might need and what would be a good method of keeping income tax records?

ANSWER: You will need your W-2's, any records of other income, a record of business and itemized deductions, reports of any sales of property or securities, any receipts for charitable contributions, cost and value records for any casualty losses and a list of medical expenses. A good method of keeping records is a free Tax saver available at any H & R Block office or any other tax record keeper available at most stationery stores. Both have spaces for recording income and expenses and for keeping tax records.

Columbia Sees Summer Cuts In Gas Supply

Columbia Gas of Kentucky announced last week that a current review of its gas supply and requirements picture indicates that it will not be necessary to make a change in current winter curtailment levels at this time. However, the company is advising its industrial customers to anticipate heavier curtailment levels next summer due to continued deterioration of natural gas supplies.

The gas company is advising its 75 curtailed industrial customers in the state that all industrial loads of a million cubic feet or more a month, excluding boiler loads, can anticipate 15 per cent curtailment during the seven-month period beginning April 1 and ending Oct. 31. These loads currently are being curtailed 10 per cent.

The customers also are being told that industrial boiler loads of a million cubic feet or more a month will be curtailed 100 per cent next summer, a continuation of the curtailment level now in effect.

Columbia's 117 commercial customers in the state that use one million cubic feet or more of gas a month will be curtailed 15 per cent during the summer months, the maximum summer curtailment permitted for commercial users. These customers currently are being curtailed 10 per cent.

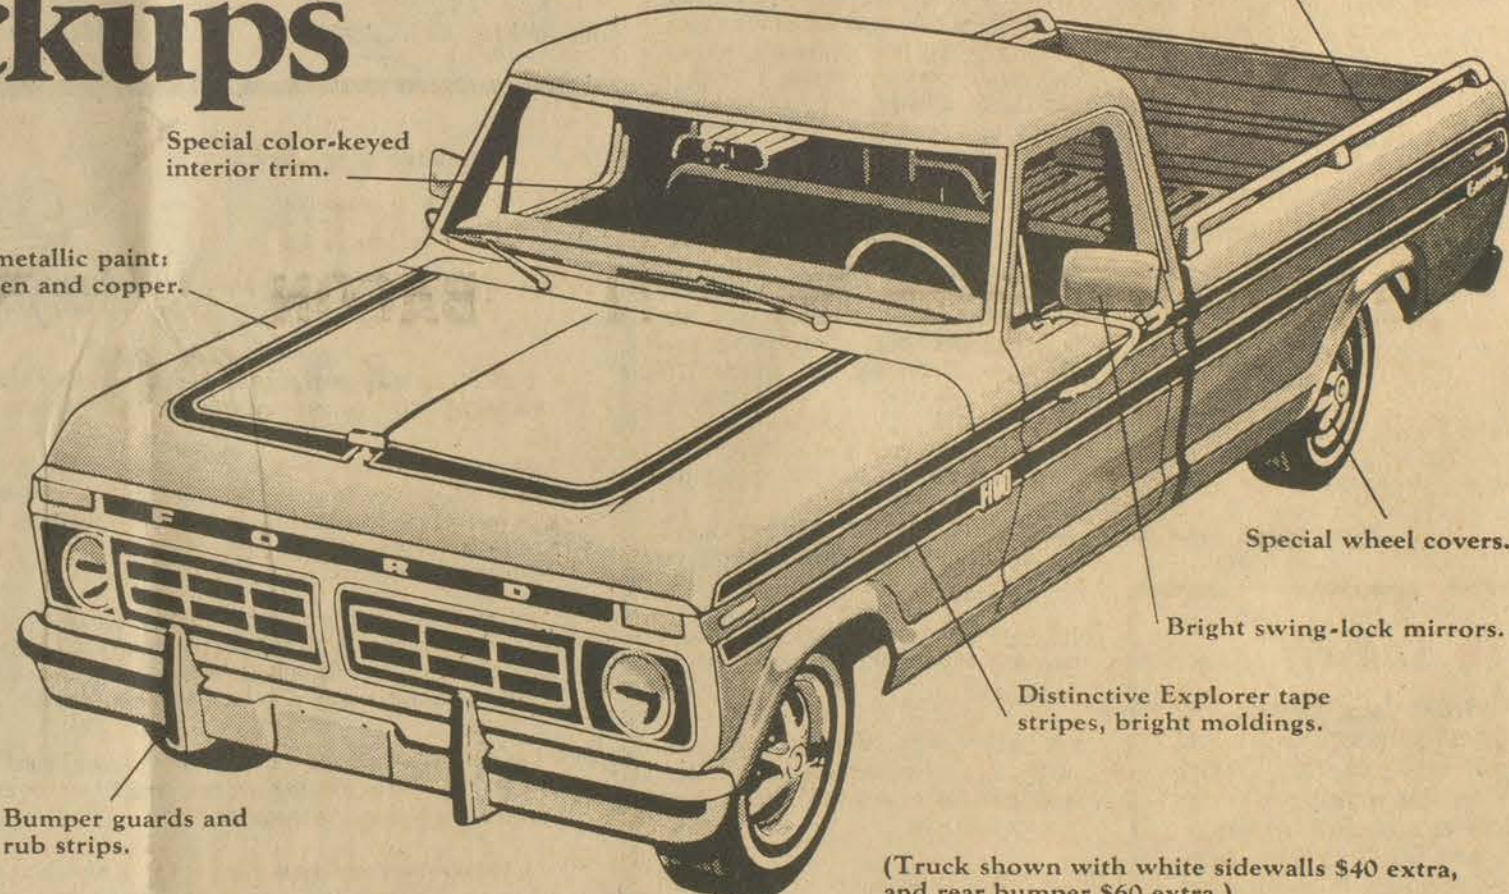

Jack Stumbo, area manager for Columbia Gas in the Prestonsburg area, emphasized the projections being announced for the remainder of the winter and for the seven-month period are based on the best data available to the company at this time and cautioned that the company's supply situation is under constant review and subject to change at any time.

State's Appalachian Area Outgrowing Other Sections

Recent figures showing Appalachian population gains are among signs of a brighter future for this area of Kentucky, according to state Development Secretary William L. Short. The growing importance of coal to the national economy and energy supply, and expected diversification of the Appalachian economy, are among the factors which may accelerate the future growth of Kentucky's eastern area, he said. Short cited figures recently sent to him by the Appalachian Regional Commission which indicate growth of the region's population. "The Appalachian region gained an estimated 840,000 residents over the last five years, with an annual growth rate of about 160,000 residents per year between 1970-'75." Short said, "This compares with an annual growth rate of only about 32,000 residents per year between 1965 and 1970. "In fact," Short added, "only 490,000 people were added to the Appalachian population in the 10 years prior to 1970, so we're dealing with a real acceleration of growth in the region." He said the ARC figures show a 7.5 per cent increase for the population of Kentucky's Appalachian region during the last five years, as compared with an increase of 4.7 per cent for the non-Appalachian areas of the state. "The shift in the growth of population has been accompanied by a shift from out-migration, with the natural increase rate paralleling the national trends. I think this is a good sign that many are coming back to the region and that fewer will be leaving in the future." Short is also the state's representative to the Appalachian Regional Commission.

Popular Vote for Election Of Superintendent Is Sought

State Representative Herbert Deskins Jr. (D) introduced last Thursday a bill which, if passed, could have decisive effects upon local education in Kentucky. House Bill 382 would make the position of superintendent of county boards of education subject to popular election. Currently, a county school superintendent is elected by the board of education members. This has sparked considerable controversy in many counties.

"This bill," Deskins said, "provides that a superintendent will have to have the same educational and professional qualifications as is currently required. However, I feel that in each county there are several qualified individuals who would be interested in seeking the position and I believe that the people have the right to choose who will be the chief administrator of their school system."

If passed, candidates would file for election on a non-partisan basis, as do candidates for board membership.

State Educational Official Says Voc Ed Needs, Many

Frankfort, Ky.—“While we are serving 78 per cent of Kentucky high school students, there are large unmet needs for vocational education at the post-secondary level,” a state education official says.

Last year we served 15 per cent of those between the ages of 19 and 25 who needed entry-level job skills,” said Royce Justice, who is in charge of planning for vocational education in the state.

Gov. Julian Carroll repeatedly has stressed the need to provide more vocational education to Kentuckians. He provided more than $7 million last year to complete construction of additional vocational schools included in the 1974-'76 budget and his 1976-'78 budget recommends money to build five new vocational schools and renovate seven others; in addition, he included more than $2 million to expand programs at existing schools.

Justice expressed concern for the estimated 23,000 youths who will drop out of high school in 1980. “The number of jobs for unskilled workers shrinks drastically year-by-year, both in Kentucky and in the nation,” he said.

Dr. Carl F. Lamar, assistant superintendent for vocational education, pointed out that the mission of vocational education is to serve all who can benefit from training in useful or gainful occupations. He numbered among these the unemployed, the underemployed, the disadvantaged and handicapped, those who wish to return to the work force, those who wish to change careers and those who need upgraded training.

Lamar said that for the past 10 years the Department of Education has been heavily involved in the construction of new facilities. He said that 56 new area vocational education centers—which primarily serve secondary students—and six new state vocational-technical schools for postsecondary students have been built in that time period. Additionally, 20 schools and centers have been expanded.

“We sorely needed the new facilities we have built. Without them we would not be able to offer the quality of up-to-date training demanded of our graduates in business and industry. Last year we served over 200,000 citizens across the state,” Lamar said.

“Now we have reached the point where a vocational training facility in a high school or an area center or school is within 25 miles of nearly every Kentuckian,” he explained.

Lamar said that along with programs to build and expand facilities, the Bureau of Vocational Education is attempting to increase the number of students served in existing facilities.

“A number of services have been added recently which are helping us to reach more of the people who need vocational education,” Lamar said. He mentioned financial aid for post-secondary students, vocational guidance counselors at the state's 15 vocational-technical schools and career ladder programs in which students study at the vocational schools and at a community college or state university receiving an associate degree and a vocational certificate.

“We now have over 70 programs preparing people for different occupations,” he said. “Because of the large number of programs we sometimes have difficulty letting people know the wide variety of careers open to them through vocational education. Our Practical Arts programs are developed to acquaint junior high school students with the entire spectrum of jobs and give them a sample of what to expect through hands-on experiences.

“Financial constraints limit our abilities to serve all who need vocational education, but one of our biggest problems is letting the people know what we can offer them,” he said. “We are hoping to improve our programs to keep the public informed.”

State's Jobless Rate Is Highest In Eastern Ky.

Statistics released last week by the Department for Human Resources (DHR) for the month of December, show both the highest and lowest unemployment rates in the state occurring in Eastern Kentucky.

Lee county showed the highest rate with 19.1 per cent unemployment, while Martin county, a county which as recently as 1968 was listed among the poorest counties in the nation, had the lowest unemployment rate of an even 4 per cent. The figures show Floyd county with a 12.1 per cent rate for December.

The unemployment rate for the 34 counties designated by DHR as Eastern Kentucky rose from 8.3 per cent in November, to 9.3 per cent in December, the figures show. Thus, according to the statistics, Eastern Kentucky's rate remains the highest in the state in comparison to the state's December rate of 7.7 per cent.

MacDonald said that Eastern and North Central Kentucky had the highest gains in numbers of unemployed, while Northern Kentucky and the Bluegrass areas had the least. "The increased unemployment in the state is due in part to seasonal layoffs which usually do push the rates somewhat higher in December," he explained. He cited construction, sawmill work and agriculture as areas which usually slow down during the month.

County-by-county unemployment rates in Eastern Kentucky for Dec. are listed below:

Bath, 12.7; Bell, 10.9; Boyd, 6.0; Breathitt, 12.7; Carter, 13.6; Clay, 12.9; Elliott, 6.7; Floyd, 12.1; Greenup, 7.1; Harlan, 8.1; Jackson, 14.0; Johnson, 7.6; Knott, 9.4; Knox, 9.8; Laurel, 8.0; Lawrence, 8.5; Lee, 19.1; Leslie, 13.5; Letcher, 12.5; McCreary, 11.4; Magoffin, 15.2; Martin, 4.0; Menifee, 14.4; Montgomery, 6.6; Morgan, 11.7; Owsley, 13.9; Perry, 10.3; Pike, 6.8; Pulaski, 7.6; Rockcastle, 9.4; Rowan, 5.6; Wayne, 11.0; Whitley, 11.6; Wolfe, 14.2

Carroll Urges Full Support of Guard

Gov. Julian Carroll proclaimed February as "Spirit of '76 Month" last Thursday and asked all Kentuckians to support enlistment in the Kentucky National Guard.

Gov. Carroll signed the proclamation and told Adjutant General Richard L. Frymire that he has been very proud of the service men and women in the Guard have rendered to the state.

Frymire noted that the Kentucky National Guard is now engaged in a concentrated recruiting effort to bring all units to full strength.

"We've been expanding the Kentucky Guard into several new communities in the past two years and we've gained additional manpower spaces. These units bring considerable income into the communities, so we're very anxious to see all of the units at full strength," Frymire said.

The general said that about 1,000 new enlistments would be required to keep units at full strength through the end of 1976. The first three weeks of January brought in 269 recruits.

The Prestonsburg National Guard Unit is currently engaged in an all-out recruiting effort as part of the statewide effort.

Gov. Carroll Proclaims Respect Life Month; Library Exhibit Made

In response to Governor Julian Carroll's recent proclamation naming February, Respect Life Month in Kentucky, the Floyd County Right to Life Association is displaying a pro life exhibit at the Floyd County Library here through the first three weeks of February.

Dated January 22, Gov. Carroll's proclamation reads in part:

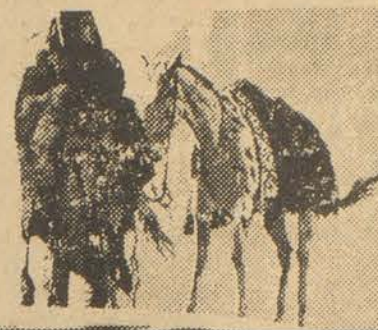

"... in dedicating our mind, hearts, and abilities to advancing the respect for all human life, it is recognized that this basic right of life must be insured to all innocent human beings, regardless of their age, health, race, sex, religion, circumstances, or condition of dependency, including the young and the old, the born and the unborn, the rich and the poor, and the incompetent, impaired and incapacitated, as well as the healthy."

Louisiana State, after winning its first seven games, has lost four in a row and six of its last eight, and currently ranks ninth in the SEC with a 2-5 mark. The Tigers are 9-6 overall.

Reaching Out Through Vocational Education

CAREER EDUCATION OFFERS DIRECTION TO EVERY INDIVIDUAL

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION

Today Vocational Education is accepted as an integral part of the total educational program in a community. It has been defined as to provide training, to develop skills, abilities, understandings, attitudes, working habits and appreciations, and to impart knowledge and information needed by workers to enter and make progress in employment on a useful and productive basis.

Vocational Education provides preparation at the secondary and post secondary level for 80 per cent of all occupations. It is for all students who are interested in preparing for a career and who can benefit from the program offered. The courses are tailored to student's needs and the job market. Vocational graduates get good jobs and may receive higher starting pay than university graduates.

DESCRIPTION OF GARTH AREA VOC. ED. CENTER

The Garth Area Vocational Education Center, located near Martin, is part of the Floyd County School System. It serves the five high schools. Prestonsburg and Betsy Layne students attend classes in the morning; students from Wheelwright, Allen-Central, and McDowell attend in the afternoon. The student spends 2 1/4 to 2 3/4 hours per day at the school. Each high school grants credits accordingly. GAVEC can serve 222 students in the morning and 222 students in the afternoon. Any student who is 15 years old or older can enroll in either of the nine classes.

WELDING

Teacher: Mr. John C. Frazier
The primary purpose of this course is to provide a sound training program that will enable youth to obtain skills involved in welding along with a background of technical information needed by the modern welders.

The curriculum is designed to give the student a sound foundation in the principles and safe practice involved in becoming a skilled craftsman in the welding field. At the same time, the student will be subjected to related courses that should prepare him with the technical background and the use of modern up-to-date equipment and tools which will enable the student to learn the trade as it is used in industry.

MACHINE SHOP

Teacher: Mr. Clifford VanHoose
The machine shop class is designed primarily to introduce the junior and senior high school students in Floyd County to the metal working trade as practiced by the machinist. Practically all the necessities of life are made by machines, and, the machinist is directly responsible for their production. The chief function of the machine shop class is to teach the intelligent and safe operation of the basic machines such as power saw, drill press metal working lathe, grinder, shaper, and milling machine. Manual skills are learned primarily through practices. The class in machine shop is designed to advance these skills through basic operations and the actual making of many projects from metal. Should the student wish to advance further in the machinist trade, the hours recorded to him as GAVEC can be directly transferred to Mayo State Vocational-Technical School in machine shop or tool and die making, where he is urged to enroll on a full time basis.

HEALTH CAREERS

The Health Careers Class is a two-semester course offered in local high schools, area vocational education centers and state vocational-technical schools throughout the United States. The students in high school who are interested in working with people may enroll in the Health Careers Class to: explore the various careers in the health fields; to get a lead start in professional training at the post secondary or college level; to learn skills to qualify as an assistant upon graduation and it will help them to make a definite decision whether to prepare for a career in the health field. For those who want to "do something to help people" this course can provide guidance and direction by "hand-on" experience.

The first semester is spent studying basic health subjects supplemented by site visits to hospitals, nursing homes, and other local health facilities. The student spends the time divided in class and laboratory practice of skills. At the beginning of the second semester when an acceptable level of performance is reached in the class laboratory students participate in selected activities in the clinical facilities. This enables the student to practice the skills learned in the classroom under the class supervision of the certified vocational instructor. The students will spend one-half of this semester in the facilities actually obtaining knowledge that will help them choose a career that is best for them.

The Health Careers Class of Garth Area Vocational Education Center is the first in the Kentucky Department of Education, Region Eleven. The possible enrollment is 30 students in the morning serving Prestonsburg and Betsy Layne and 30 students in the evening serving Allen-Central, McDowell, and Wheelwright. The student spends from 2 1/4 hours to 2 3/4 hours per day in the class. At present, Melvina Thomson, R. N. and Mary E. Anderson, R. N. are the instructors. The class is designed for seniors, but since it is a new program we do accept juniors and sophomores, if space is available.

Training for a health career may be on the job following high school graduation or may last as long as twelve years—the decision is yours. Investigate the possibilities in the health field that Kentucky offers you. Men as well as women find unlimited opportunities in careers such as nursing, purchasing, engineering, administration pharmacy, medicine, secretary, accounting, and some two hundred additional specific occupational titles. We have a great shortage of health workers. Find out for yourself.

ELECTRICITY

Teachers: Mr. James Montgomery & Mr. Ezra Mitchell
This program begins with the fundamentals of electricity and includes circuitry, electromagnetism, motors, and house wiring. Principles of radio and other instruction lead to more complex fields such as T. V., solid state circuitry, more advanced electronics and electrical engineering. Electricity will play an important role in the energy sources of the future.

MINING ELECTRICITY

Teachers: Mr. Ezra Mitchell & Mr. John C. Frazier
This class consists of electricity, hydraulics, and welding.

BUSINESS & OFFICE

Teachers: Mrs. Doris Lawson, Ms. Linda J. Turner, Ms. Alice V. Williams
SECRETARIAL PROGRAM: This is a two-year program designed to train students in the skills and knowledges necessary to develop competence in the various duties necessary to become a vital part of any office.

The beginning student will learn to apply his typing knowledge and skill with speed and accuracy to many business situations; to develop business communication skills; to acquire acceptable telephone techniques; and to become adept at performing a multitude of other office activities. A Model Office Class is provided for the second year of this program.

CLERICAL PROGRAM: This is a two-year program designed to take the student at his individual level and to help him become a productive clerical worker.

The beginning student is helped to attain the basic skills necessary to become an efficient clerical worker. Students learn to operate business machines; learn basic bookkeeping skills; develop business arithmetic skills; develop proficiency in typewriting skills; and learn to develop proper business behavior and attitudes. A Model Office Class is provided for the second year of this program.

ACCOUNTING-JUNIOR MANAGEMENT: This is a two-year program designed to train the student for occupational positions such as bookkeepers, accounting clerks, and beginning management positions.

First year students develop typewriting proficiency; improve basic mathematical skills, with and without machines. Skill in accounting practices is emphasized along with instruction in business law, business communication, business economics and business organization. Leadership is encouraged by the development of good business attitudes and behavioral patterns which are necessary for managerial jobs. A Model Office Class is provided for the second year of this program.

MODEL OFFICE, Ms. Alice V. Williams, Manager. This program provides occupational preparation through simulation. Students assume realistic employee roles and work in a classroom-laboratory designed as a modern business office. Students improve and refine basic skills through actual practice. The method is simulation and the concept is reality training. The class meets for two consecutive hours and meets specific facilities, equipment and course content requirements. Prerequisite: Typewriting I and senior vocational status.

CARPENTRY

Teacher: Mr. George Barker
This course being taught in carpentry is designed to provide the basic and fundamental training needed to enter general carpentry, cabinet making and masonry work. Units of instruction include building construction, blueprint reading, estimating costs, drawing plans, science and related mathematics. Building new homes, factories, churches, and other structures will require trained personnel to fill the jobs of the future.

DRAFTING

Teacher: Mr. Jerry May
This course deals with the skills and techniques of drawing. Before an industry builds any product a detailed plan must be made. Students learn line technique, lettering, shape description, blueprint production and make numerous drawings of items that would be produced in industry. It is a universal language used in industry to interpret to the craftsman the ideas and plans developed by the engineering staff.

Come and visit the Garth Area Vocational Education Center during National Vocational Education Week, February 9-13.

The school is open from 8 a.m. until 3:30 p.m.

Asleep? Barely Breathing? You Might Be a Groundhog

If you are now asleep in your bed, taking a slow, easy breath about every eight minutes and stirring occasionally to wonder what the weather outside is like—you must be a groundhog. If your curiosity gets the best of your wonderings, on Feb. 2 you might want to make sure about the weather and creep out of bed testily, only to be scared by your own shadow and run hastily back to your secure nest.

But the damage has been done. You saw your shadow, which meant the sun had decided to come out the same time you did. This duo-action means six weeks bad weather for the rest of us, while you, are snoozing away. Believe it? Yes. I not only believe, but my people before me believed. But being one who dotes on rain and fog, snow and wind, storm and cloud, I do not dislike you. In fact, a short time ago while taking pictures on a sideroad in Eastern Kentucky I grieved when I saw a barn, its sides covered with skins of your people and your neighbors.

Skins of your groundhog cousins and other animals were stretched tight, spread-eagled, drying against the day they would be sold or used.

It has been a way of life, and who is to say it was wrong then. In years past Highlands people have hunted you, trapped you and used you in many ways that helped make their life easier.

Some of you were taken in deadfalls. This type trap might have been more merciful than a steeltrap that often caught you by one leg, leaving you with no alternative unless you chewed off the leg.

The hard part to a trapper was not going out to the woods on a cold day hunting you; that was his joy. No, the difficulty was the time later. Oldtimers would save wood ashes all year long to mix with water to make lye. They used some of this to make soap and some to cover your skin that had been placed in a wooden-hewed-out trough. The lye would eat off your thick hair, leaving the skin.

Then a long time was spent pummeling your skin, rolling and pounding it until at last it was smooth and soft as a scrap of satin.

You then were used to make shoes and shoestrings, powder pouches for the men who carried long rifles, satchels and to mend saddles, saddle pockets, harness and bellows. Long strands were made into belts to hold up linsy-woolsey pants and as suspender ties.

Rufus Reed from Tug Fork of Big Sandy once said that your skin made many slingshots for mountain lads and banjo heads for mountain men. He pointed out a folk song you inspired, one that could be picked on a banjo made partly from you.

I picked up my gun and whistled to my dog,

I went to the woods to ketch a groundhog—

Groundhog! Here comes Sal with a snigger and a grin, Groundhog grease all over her chin. Groundhog!

A hill woman once explained how she prepared you for a table treat for company. You were well washed, she said, and cooked in a kettle of water to which onions had been added. "This takes away the gamey taste," she emphasized. You then were baked and usually served with sweet potatoes. They agreed you were delicious, if a bit strong.

You should be stronger tasting and stronger smelling, for you never heard of anyone cooking that neighbor of yours who goes around in his striped coat and protects with a strong smell!

Anyway, here's a different version of the folk song that is not so old—in fact, it's brand splinter new.

I picked up my camera and whistled to my dog.

I went to the woods to 'shoot' a groundhog—

Groundhog! Here you come with a snigger and a grin,

Waddling in hair from your toes to you chin—

Groundhog, say 'Cheese'!

Snap! goes my camera and not a gun, Quit your posing, now, I got a good one—

Groundhog, Thanks!

Draft Boards To End Work

Twenty-seven years of drafting young Kentuckians into the armed forces will come to an end Feb. 28 when the state's 125 draft boards close their doors. The state Selective Service system will be closing down at the end of the month due to a $6 million cutback in Selective Service operations for next year in President Ford's proposed budget.

Col. Taylor L. Davidson, state Selective Service director, said a skeleton staff of two-to-three people would remain to finish the President's reconciliation service program.

A total of 190 persons are enrolled in the amnesty program in Kentucky, although only two are draft evaders.

The 12 area Selective Service offices to close at the end of the month are at Paducah, Owensboro, Bowling Green, Elizabethtown, Louisville, Frankfort, Somerset, Covington, Lexington, Hazard, Ashland and Pikeville.

The local boards will forward their records to a federal records archives.

Health Notes

By DONNA J. GRIFFITH
The Floyd County Health Department will conduct a pap smear clinic Thursday, February 12, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. The health nurses remind all women that in order to have continuing protection against cervical cancer, they should have a pap smear at least once a year. This clinic is free, and all women are welcome to attend.

The Floyd County Health Department will be closed, Monday through Wednesday, Feb. 16-18, in observance Monday of Washington's birthday, and on Tuesday and Wednesday the staff of the health department will be attending the regional conference at Jenny Wiley State Park. Regular business hours will resume Thursday, February 19, at 8 a.m.

Heart attacks were responsible for more than 675,000 American deaths last year alone, but there are a couple of things you can do to give yourself a fighting chance against this No. 1 Killer. One thing you can do is follow the Heart Association's recommendations for reducing your risk. That means a diet low in saturated fats and cholesterol, normal weight, having our blood pressure checked, no cigarettes, moderate daily exercise and regular physical examinations.

Another thing you can do is support the Heart Fund.

Pippa Passes, Ky.—Eleven Floyd County students were named to the Dean's List for academic achievement last semester at Alice Lloyd College.

Ensign Receives Commission

Ensign Roger Dale Hughes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hughes, of Weeksbury, has received his B. S. degree in electrical engineering from the University of Louisville and was commissioned as ensign in the U. S. Navy.

A graduate of Knott County High School, he joined the navy, and attended Aviation Electronics Class A school.

He flew as rescue crewman in helicopter utility squadron 2, attended aviation electronics class B school and was then stationed in the aviation maintenance department (AMD) in Rata, Spain.

Later he attended P-3 Orion Electronics School at NAS Maffet Field, Calif.; served in AMD Sangle Point, Republic of Philippines; attended Avionics Advanced Class B School; served in Attack Squadron 43 (VA 43); attended Old Dominion University where he majored in Electronics Engineering Technology, and was promoted to aviation electronics technician chief E-7. He was then accepted in the Naval Enlisted Scientific Education Program and attended college preparation school in Bainbridge, Md.

Since receiving his commission and degree, he is being assigned as Aviation Safety Officer on board aircraft carrier USS Independence.

His wife, Patricia Cooper Hughes, and children will reside at Virginia Beach, Virginia.

Martin Girl Attends New England College

Pippa Passes, Ky.—Imogene Bates, daughter of Mrs. Hazel Bates, of Martin, participated in the Alice Lloyd College Student Exchange Program through January. She attended Garland Junior College in Massachusetts over the four-week term. The program gives ALC students like Miss Bates a first-hand view of academic and social life on other campuses throughout the nation.

The exchange of students between Alice Lloyd College and other schools was initiated in 1964. Since then, ALC students have visited such schools as Oberlin and Kenyon Colleges in Ohio; Harvard University, Radcliffe College, Garland Junior College in Massachusetts; Hamline University in Minnesota; the University of Wisconsin; the University of Michigan; and Cornell University in New York. Exchanges are usually for four weeks in January.

ALC students on exchange have the opportunity to take classes not offered at Alice Lloyd, to visit historical and modern places of interest, and to make new friends. The exchange program thus helps to create a balance between ALC and urban colleges and universities.

Consumer Comments

By ROBERT F. STEPHENS
Attorney General

A salesman comes to your house and talks you into signing an agreement to buy a vacuum cleaner for $149. After the salesman leaves, you discover that your new vacuum cleaner does not work properly or that for some other reason you simply do not want to purchase it. Can you cancel the contract and return the vacuum cleaner? And, how do you do that?

The answer to these questions is in a Kentucky law which provides for a three-day "cooling-off" period when home solicitation sales of goods or services are involved. It does not, however, apply to sales of less than $25 in value, to sales involving insurance or to sales involving goods or services provided to the buyer in an emergency.

Anytime you purchase goods or services by signing a contract with a door-to-door salesman, make sure you get a copy of the contract and that it contains all the information necessary to inform you how to cancel and who to contact if you choose to cancel. The contract should also have a section boldly entitled

"BUYER'S RIGHT TO CANCEL." The law requires it to read as follows:

"If this agreement was solicited to your residence and you do not want the goods or services, you may cancel this agreement by mailing a notice to the seller. The notice must say that you do not want the goods or services and must be mailed before midnight of the third business day after you sign this agreement. The notice must be mailed to (name and address of the company)."

Until the seller has complied with this legal requirement, the buyer has a continuing right to cancel the home solicitation by notifying the seller in any manner and by any means of his intention to cancel.

Cancellation occurs when the buyer gives written notice of cancellation to the seller at the address stated in the agreement or offer to purchase. This cancellation notice must be postmarked by midnight of the third business day after the consumer signs the agreement. Briefly stated, a home sales contract may be cancelled by a letter from you, the buyer, within three business days after the sale.

After a consumer has written and mailed the cancellation letter, the salesman has 10 days in which to return all payments made by the consumer, any goods traded in to the salesman and any note or evidence of indebtedness. The seller must make an effort to reclaim his merchandise from the consumer within a reasonable period, which the law says is 40 days.

During this time, the consumer must insure that the merchandise in his possession is kept in good condition. If the salesman does not claim his goods within 40 days after cancellation of the contract, the goods become the property of the consumer. The wise consumer will keep the goods in his possession until he has all the refunds which are due to him.

If, after cancelling and revoking your contract, you have difficulties settling the matter with the company, or if you need any information regarding the three-day cooling-off period law for home solicitation sales, contact the Attorney General, Division of Consumer Protection, The Capitol, Room 34, Frankfort, Ky. 40601 or call toll-free on the consumer hotline, 1-800-372-2960.

RC&D Assists Area Water Resources

By W. H. DEMPSEY
Big Sandy RC&D Project

Someone has stated that "the story of water in Eastern Kentucky is one of too little or too much". This is pretty much the situation as reported by the Water Resources Committee of the Big Sandy Resource Conservation and Development (RC&D) Project.

The committee is fully aware that local flooding is an everpresent threat to lives and property throughout the project area. The information gathered by the committee was included in the RC&D project plan and used by local sponsors to take steps to relieve flooding problems. Many of the problem areas have been proposed as RC&D measures. The RC&D Council has approved and started planning or conducting studies on some of the measures that they considered as high priority. Among these are local flood prevention at Salyer school and the Licking River "cut through" at Salyersville in Magoffin county, local flooding at Porter school and Paintsville Park in Johnson county, Coldwater Fork of Rockcastle in Martin county, local flood prevention at Johns Creek school in Pike county, local flood prevention at McDowell school and in the City of Prestonsburg, and land drainage at Prestonsburg Community College.

In the category of "too little", many communities, throughout the project area, do not have adequate supplies of good quality water for household, business and industrial uses. Progress is being made to expand water treatment facilities, extend water lines, create or expand rural water districts and other related developments. Among the actions being taken or planned for the near future, are extension of water lines to all Martin county schools (local self-help county project), and to the towns of Beauty and Lovely in Martin county, expansion of water plant at Prestonsburg, formation of a rural water district in the Abbott Creek and Little Paint Creek areas, and extension of lines on Beaver Creek area in Floyd county, expansion of water plant at Paintsville to allow for further extension of water lines, and extension of water lines in Shelby Creek area of Pike county.

Among the objectives of the Big Sandy RC&D Project Council is to cooperate with the Big Sandy ADD and other groups for a coordinated program for the development and improvement of water supplies and distribution system and prevent or lessen flood damage to public, residential, commercial, and agricultural areas. These are among the several objectives to conserve, protect, and develop the natural resource base for the use and enjoyment of the people of the project area.

Local Sports

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON
The 58th District Basketball Tournament will get underway in about three weeks at the John E. Campbell arena at J. H. Allen Central High School with the usual type of basketball tournament in store for the 58th District (Floyd County). Fans see no team with a definite edge. However, the Betsy Layne Bobcats have the winningest record, 19-6. Last week the Bobcats won two and lost one. The Wheelwright Trojans went outside the region and won one and lost one. Their won and lost record is now 13-4. McDowell won one and lost one last week. Their won and lost record now stands at 17 and 8. The Allen Central Rebels won one game and now stand at 12 and 12. The Prestonsburg Blackcats lost two games last week and their record now is 8-14. The Betsy Layne Bobcats last Tuesday night won their 18th game of the season over home standing Prestonsburg by a score of 71 to 54. Rick Roberts scored 20 points to lead the Bobcats and Jim Rose connected for 14 points. The Blackcats were led in scoring by David Lemaster with 16 points. On Friday night everything went wrong for the Bobcats as they were defeated by the Sheldon Clark Cardinals by a score of 77 to 61. Jim Rose of the Bobcats was top gun for Betsy Layne with 18 points. Roberts followed with 14 points. Saturday night, the Bobcats were red hot as they thumped Belfry by a score of 99 to 72 with Rick Roberts scoring 21 points and Jim Rose, 19. Wilburn Sammons, one of the top guards in the state, had one of his best nights with 14 points. Scoring 12 points each were Randy Ferrell and Bruce Stapleton. Ron Clark broke out of his scoring slump and scored 12 points for the Bobcats. The Wheelwright Trojans traveled outside the 15th region on Friday night and won early over Bracken County by a score of 90 to 59. Gary Anderson tossed in 22 points as the Trojans picked up win number 13. On Saturday night, the Trojans faced 10th rated Bath County there and lost the game in the 4th quarter by a score of 90 to 59. Wheelwright had trailed by only two points going into the final quarter.
The McDowell Daredevils looked real impressive as they won over the Virgie Eagles by a score of 92 to 81. However, on Friday night John's Creek surprised the Daredevils by winning over McDowell by a score of 72 to 69. In the Virgie game, the Daredevils were led in scoring by Bubby Osborne with 22 points and nine rebounds. Terry Tuttle chipped in with 18 points; Harold Tackett with 17; Steve Newsome 13, and David Grigsby with 10. On Friday night, McDowell traveled to John's Creek and lost by a score of 72 to 69. The Devils led at halftime by a score of 32 to 28 but couldn't hold the lead. Larry Daugherty had 18 points; Harold Tackett 16; Bubby Osborne 13. Grigsby and Newsome each had 10 points. The Allen Central Rebels faced the Prestonsburg Blackcats for the fourth time this season and won by a score of 82 to 69. Rick Pack scored 29 points. Rick Prater had 21 and Wayne Scarberry 20. Sophomore Grady Stephens led the Blackcats attack with 17 points while David LeMaster connected for 10 points.

Price Boys' Club Membership Drive Now in Progress

Price, Ky.—Now nearing the end of its first year, the 18-member Price Boys' Club is conducting a membership drive, hoping to enlist the interest of more boys between the ages of 7 through 16.

The club was organized last April by Gary Compton and Archie Horn, scoutmasters at Price, and meetings are held at the Left Beaver Rescue Squad building, Wednesday evenings at 6.

Main interest of members is to help the elderly of the community—running errands, cutting grass, anything that might be helpful. They ask that any person needing their help call 377-6513 or 377-6683.

The boys during the past year have enjoyed the Shrine circus at Prestonsburg, camping, baseball and basketball, cook-outs and the community carnival which they sponsored. They expressed appreciation to State Trooper Bevins for his recent talk on bicycle safety and the dangers of drugs and to John C. Frazier for taking them on a tour of the Garth Vocational School.

Pike Co. Strip Permits Revoked

The state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection has revoked a strip mine permit in Pike county.

The permit was issued to Crescent Coal Co., of Elkhorn City. It was issued Jan. 9 for coal located on federal property on Millers Creek.

Natural Resources Secretary John Roberts, in revoking the permit, said state law prohibits issuing strip mine permits on public property and the permit was issued through an administrative oversight.

The Crescent permit came to light during administrative hearings Jan. 28-29 on the denial of a strip mine permit in the Daniel Boone National Forest to the Greenwood Land and Mining Co.

The permit was denied in September by Hoffman and upheld in December by Franklin Circuit Judge Squire Williams.

During the hearing, Greenwood attorneys pointed out Crescent had been granted a permit for public land, but department attorney Alan Harrington said then it was through an oversight and steps would be taken to rescind it.
