

Allen Trustees Assail Ordinance

Claim Marshals' Percentage Pay In Fines Illegal

Two members of the board of trustees of the town of Allen filed suit here last Thursday, asking a restraining order to effect the removal from office of the town marshal, Virgil Conn, the voiding of the ordinance under which he and his predecessor, Gene Hall, were hired and to collect salaries paid them through a percentage of fines.

The plaintiffs, Chester Porter and Delbert Claxton, name as defendants the city of Allen, its other trustees, Obie Crisp, Bennie Lafferty and Gerome Kinzer, and the present and former marshals.

(Bennie Lafferty, one one of the trustees named, said last week legal means will be, or are being, sought to dissolve the charter of the town as an incorporated community. The incorporated section of Allen is confined to what is known as Old Allen, and Mr. Lafferty said it is without funds to continue operation as a municipal body.)

Porter and Claxton allege that the marshals have held office under ordinances providing compensation to them equal to 75 per cent of fines; that Conn, who was first hired Jan. 6, 1975 and rehired on May 4, this year, collected $10,000, and that Hall, who was marshal in 1974 till October of that year, likewise was paid from fines approximately $14,000.

The suit asks that both the former and the present marshal make an accounting of funds received and that the funds be paid to the city of Allen.

Crane Operator Asks $1 Million In Damage Suit

Sherman O. Wallen, of Dwale, who was seriously burned last Aug. 15 when a crane which he was operating came in contact with a power line, filed suit last Friday in circuit court here against the Big Sandy Rural Electric Cooperative for $1 million.

Wallen was employed by B & B Engineering Company in laying a gas line beneath the highway on Abbott Creek when the crane came in contact with a power line carrying 7,000 volts of electricity. He was severely burned.

His suit says that he is totally and permanently disabled, that he has already incurred medical expenses of $70,000 and that future expenses will be heavy.

Powers Sought On Rape Charge

Vernon Powers was in custody here of Sheriff Joe W. Lewis, late Tuesday afternoon. The sheriff said he sent Powers' brother and two cousins to Webb Hollow, near Van Lear, to bring him here and that Powers willingly came. State troopers took charge of the prisoner, Lewis said, on the way here. He said Powers maintains his innocence of his daughter's rape charge but admitted that he and his wife had had some trouble.

Vernon Powers, 39, of Calf Creek, near Emma, was being sought this week on separate warrants held by Sheriff Joe W. Lewis and Kentucky State Police.

The warrant held by the sheriff charges Powers with the rape of his 17-year-old daughter. State Troopers have a warrant sworn out by Powers' wife last Sunday, charging him with harassment. Both warrants were issued by Magistrate Bill Wells.

Powers left home for the nearby woods, armed with a shotgun, officers were told.

The harassment charge was made Sunday by Mrs. Powers after her husband allegedly had fired a shot inside the house and threatened the family. The rape charge was lodged Monday by her mother. The girl said the rape incident was not the first but that she had feared to tell of previous incestuous acts because he had threatened to kill her.

Mrs. Powers told Magistrate Wells that her husband struck their 14-year-old son with the butt of a shotgun when he found him smoking a cigarette. She also said that he threatened her and that she left home to go to the home of a sister.

Powers had not been captured as of Tuesday noon.

Body of Missing Woman Found

Members of Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad at the end of their search for body of Mrs. Schell.

The search for 61-year-old Elizabeth Mae Burchett Schell, who disappeared from her home here early Monday morning, June 1, ended last Thursday when members of the Floyd County Emergency and Rescue Squad recovered her body from the Big Sandy River, approximately 200 yards above the Town Branch bridge here.

Although the river banks between Prestonsburg and Knotley Hollow had been combed by searchers, as had mine openings, abandoned houses and cemeteries in the same area since Mrs. Schell's disappearance, Rescue Squad boats began actual dragging operations around 9:30 Thursday morning. Following a report that Mrs. Schell had been seen near East Kentucky Auto Parts and Brock-McVey, boats were launched in the South Lake Drive vicinity and the body was discovered lodged against some debris at 1:45 p.m.

Coroner James J. Carter directed that an autopsy be made at King's Daughters' Hospital, Ashland, but he said there was no suspicion of foul play. "We simply wanted to know the definite cause of death," he said.

Mrs. Schell, a daughter of the late Tom P. and Nettie Elam Burchett, was born June 6, 1914 and was a member of the First Methodist Church here. Her husband, Hershel Schell, and a sister, Thelma B. Branham, of Battle Creek, Mich., survive.

Funeral rites were conducted Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Floyd Funeral Home chapel, the Rev. Walter Applegate officiating. Burial was made in the Richmond Memorial cemetery here.

Active pallbearers included Oliver Webb, Jr., Howard Schell, William White, Billy Ray White, Palmer Marshall, Joe Mills, and Jody Spradlin.

Honorary pallbearers were Paul Justice, Bill May, Austin Wright, Amos Newsom, Clyde Burchett and Norman B. Martin.

Rescue Squad Finds Body of Lake Victim

Tony Edward Wells, 16-year-old Auxier youth, was drowned shortly after midnight Saturday when a small boat capsized with him and three companions near the mouth of the Stratton Branch arm of Dewey Lake.

It was the second drowning here within a week and the first in Dewey Lake this year. The body of Mrs. Elizabeth Burchett Schell had been recovered from the Big Sandy River here only four days earlier.

Dragging operations seeking the recovery of the boy's body were begun at 1 a.m. Sunday by the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad, continued through the day Sunday and was resumed at 10 a.m. Monday. The body was found by the Rescue Squad at 12:30 p.m. Monday near where Stratton Branch joins the main lake.

An inquest was held Monday afternoon at the Rescue Squad building here by Coroner James J. Carter, and the jury held that young Wells was a victim of accidental drowning.

Testimony at the inquest indicated that the tragedy resulted from the overloading of a 10-foot aluminum johnboat occupied by four youths—the victim, Hansel Cooley, Jr., of Prestonsburg, Oliver Ray Setser and Scott Bogitt, both of Auxier. They were using a paddle to travel from the east shore of the lake to the road side of the impoundment. Officials said none had life preservers.

Two of the survivors were not located for some time in the early morning hours after the tragedy, and it was at first feared three lives had been lost.

The victim was a son of Edward and Eula Mae Fannin Wells, of Auxier, and was a junior student at Prestonsburg High School where he was a member of the baseball team. Besides his parents, he is survived by two brothers, Darrell Wells, Winchester, Ky., and Harold

This Town...That World

THANKS, FRIEND!

The Dis-Organization Man . . . Last week, I launched this column with something to the effect that if you want to meet him, just drop around.

Then, to emphasize the lack of organization or something, we haul off and swap the heading of this column to the "Courthouse Happenings."

There were at least three reactions to the makeup error. One surmised that we deliberately switched headings to emphasize our "disorganization." Another ascribed it to a simple "dumb newspaper mistake."

Then there was this other from a good friend whose kind note proves that a real friend looks for the best, not the worst. He decided I was smart enough—which I wasn't—to let the listing of divorce suits and marriage licenses tell the story of our town and little world with those bare facts representing the tragedy of broken marriages on the one hand and the joy of young lovers on the other.

His kind note says something to me. It confirms my oft-stated opinion that your real friends think the best of you. One of my greatest privileges is having this good and talented man as my friend.

Coal Firm Land Gift 'Accepted'

Court Resolution Sees Help Certain On Recreation Plan

The Floyd fiscal court's dream of a central recreation area at Allen to serve all sections of the county appeared this week to be nearer realization as the court adopted a resolution at its Monday meeting, accepting the gift by the National Mines Corporation of five separate tracts of land which will be a part of the complex.

The court acted in advance of actual receipt of a deed to the property, but officials have been notified by National Mines that the deed is in process of being signed by various company officials.

The court has for months negotiated with the mining firm through its president, George E. Evans, of Lexington, who formerly resided in this county. Mr. Evans expressed, from the outset, interest in the recreation plan because of his regard for the people of this county.

Earlier, the court entered into an agreement with the Chessie System (C. & O.) to buy for $33,500 approximately 10 acres of level land adjacent to the National Mines property. Most of the National Mines acreage is on the hillside overlooking the present Beaver Valley Golf Club course, near Allen.

The plan is to convert the land into a golf course with grass greens, tennis courts, basketball courts, picnic areas, children's play areas, a swimming pool and to develop other recreational features.

Adequate federal outdoor recreation funds are at hand to develop the property, it was said.

In other action the fiscal court: —Authorized County Attorney Harold Stumbo to notify the Texaco Company to remove poles from the road right-of-way on Daniels Creek within 60 days or face court action.

—Guaranteed perpetual maintenance of the Cushman bridge that it to be built on Left Beaver Creek.

—Accepted the rental equipment agreement with the state for the coming fiscal year.

Woman Killed, Tackett Bond Set at $6,000

Edward Allen Tackett, of Melvin, was released under $6,000 bond Tuesday after his examining trial by County Judge Henry Stumbo on a manslaughter charge in connection with the gunshot death last Friday night of Mrs. Corine Boyd Hall, 42, Wheelwright mother of four and wife of Eddie Hall.

Mrs. Hall was dead on arrival at the McDowell Appalachian Hospital of a .22-caliber revolver bullet wound in her breast.

The defendant did not testify at the hearing. State Police Detective Gary Rose was the principal state witness, and he told of Tackett's oral statement to him and others on the night of the woman's death. He quoted Tackett as saying Mrs. Hall shot herself. Rose said the physical evidence consisted of the fact that the bullet passed on a level plane through the woman's body, lodging in her back, and

1,000 Attend Institute Meeting

This year's annual meeting-banquet of the Big Sandy Elkhorn Coal Mining Institute was held Saturday at Jenny Wiley State Park with a record attendance of approximately 1,000 supervisors and guests representing coal companies from a six-county area.

Following a dinner at May Lodge, members of the institute gathered at the park amphitheatre for the annual presentation of door prizes and the naming of new officers.

In addition to the awarding of 360 door prizes, announcement was also made of the $1,000 scholarship fund which is annually donated to Pikeville College. The fund is split into four separate scholarships of $250 each and awarded to four college students. The scholarship fund is one of several projects conducted each year by the institute which is designed primarily to encourage education, especially as it relates to mining technology, and the development of more effective techniques of mine safety.

The institute includes members from Floyd, Johnson, Martin, Pike, Letcher and Knott counties.

Delbert Davis, of the Island Creek Coal Co., Wheelwright, was elected this year's president of the institute.

Other officers named for the coming year are: First vice-president, Orville Blevins, of Betsy Layne, general

Few Major Teacher Changes Made as School Board Hires

Floyd county's biggest employer, the Floyd County Board of Education, hired 398 principals, teachers and coaches and 35 special remedial reading instructors last Saturday, plus administration, transportation, attendance and other departmental personnel.

The only major changes in instructional personnel were in the Prestonsburg and McDowell high schools. At the latter, Lloyd Stumbo, principal there for 11 years, retired and Hugo Miller was named as his successor.

In the Prestonsburg school William R. Hughes, native of Martin and former dean of students at Alice Lloyd College, was named principal to succeed Ronald Hager who is slated for other service with the board of education. Gene Wright was named assistant principal here to succeed Bobby Wells who had asked that he be assigned to classroom work. Mr. Wright, a native of the Prestonsburg vicinity, is a former principal of Frankfort High School.

Another change featuring Saturday's meeting of the board was the vote to designate the Bank Josephine as depository for county school funds for the period July 1, 1976 to June 30, 1978. The change from the First National Bank was made after both banks had submitted bid proposals to the board, which adjudged the Bank Josephine to be the better offer. Ray Brackett, assistant superintendent, was again designated school funds treasurer for the same period.

The board broke with tradition when it shifted its monthly meeting date from the first Saturday of the month to the first Wednesday. A special meeting will be held June 16 as a "cleanup" session prior to the induction to office of a new superintendent. Superintendent Charles Clark will preside at the 7 p.m. meeting July 1 only till his successor, Pete Grigsby, Jr., takes the oath of office. After that session the monthly meetings will be at 7 p.m. on the first Monday of the month.

Teachers were employed on recommendation of Supt. Clark, with the understanding that they were being hired subject to enrollment being sufficient to warrant their use and subject to transfer from one position to another if necessary. Those employed:

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Tribute to Retiring School Superintendent

When most people read The Times this week the term of Floyd County School Superintendent Charles Clark will be close to an end. I am sure it will be a sad moment for him but one of relief also. During the past 16 years he has had a tremendous responsibility. He has been a very able public servant and I think the people of Floyd county owe him a vote of thanks for a job well done. He has had to make many difficult decisions during his term in office and I am sure all were made with the welfare of the school children and Floyd county in mind.

Just as Mr. Clark leaves, Pete Grigsby, Jr. will become superintendent of the Floyd county schools. Without a doubt Mr. Grigsby is very able and willing to do a good job. And I am sure that Ray Brackett, assistant superintendent, will contribute much toward better schools, just as he has in the past.

Probably about the easiest thing on earth is to criticize. We are all guilty of it. I sincerely hope the people of Floyd county will get behind Mr. Grigsby for a better Floyd county.

Two suits, each asking $50,000 damages, also were filed here last week. In one Winston and Draxie Gillon sued Triple Elkhorn Coal Co., Wesley Blackburn and Max Kofford, doing business as the Black Hawk Mining Co., claiming that their property near the mouth of Cow Creek was damaged by the defendants' dynamiting during strip-mining operations. In the other suit Gladis and Selmer Newman name as defendants South Central Bell Telephone Co. and its employee, Arnold Collins, claiming that their car was struck by the company vehicle operated by Collins. The suit alleges negligence.

Plaintiffs contend that the ordinances employing the two men and providing for their compensation are illegal. The last, enacted May 4, this year, the suit claims, was voted by the three trustees named in the action. Lafferty says he voted against it, and Claxton was not present at the meeting.

Coal Firm Here Has Paid State $3,000 Damages

B & M Coal Co., of Prestonsburg, has paid the state $3,000 in damages and agreed to reclaim area on Mud Creek disturbed by its mining activities, the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection reported last week.

Following issuance of a noncompliance citation on February 10 by the state environmental department, the coal firm agreed to construct a haul road according to regulations and to modify silt structures to provide adequate control of silt leaving the permitted area.

In addition to paying the civil penalty, the coal company has agreed to stop placing spoil material in a no-spoil area and to seed and mulch those areas immediately. B & M agreed also to scalp the area required to be scalped, to remove spoil from drainage ways and to seed and mulch outcrops.

After the firm complies with the remedial measures prescribed for the site, the state environmental department will lift the order of suspension placed on its mining activities, it was said.

that there were powder burns inside the wound.

He also said there was evidence of previous trouble between Tackett and the woman, and that bruises on Mrs. Hall's body indicated she may have been beaten.

The shooting took place at about 10:30 p.m. at the home of James Hall. It was explained that the victim was staying at the Halls' home while they were on a fishing trip. Coroner James J. Carter, who did not testify at the hearing, said Tackett claimed he went to the home to deliver a bill of sale to an automobile, that Mrs. Hall was talking on the telephone when he arrived but that she came to the door and began shooting. Coroner Carter said Tackett indicated that the woman fell and accidentally shot herself.

A .22-caliber revolver was found in the yard, and Tackett said he tossed it there after picking it up and determining it had no loaded cartridges.

The victim was a native of Pike county and was a daughter of Jefferson Boyd, Sr., of Wheelwright, and the late Cora Williamson Boyd. Besides her husband and father, she leaves three sons and one daughter, Eddie Douglas, Edward, Darrell E. and Dorothy Jane Hall, all of Wheelwright; four brothers, Ernest Boyd, Hall, Ky., Randy and Willie Boyd, both of Wheelwright, and Jefferson Boyd, Jr., of Jack's Creek; four sisters, Mrs. Mary Potter, Pound, Va., Mrs. Martha Johnson, Kimper, Ky., Mrs. Ruth Hampton, Ovid, Mich., and Mrs. Lana Hall, Vermillion, Ohio.

Funeral rites were held Monday from the Wheelwright Pentecostal Church by the Revs. Howard Hamby and Speed Hall, and burial in the family cemetery at Weeksbury was under direction of the Merion Funeral Chapel.

Miss Faith Lea Hensley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hensley, Whitesburg, Ky., became the bride of Donald Hughes Goble, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Goble, of Prestonsburg, in an afternoon ceremony May 2 at the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church.

The bride was given in marriage by her father before an altar of candelabra and lilies. She wore a gown of white muslin with long cape sleeves and a cummerbund of soft embroidery. She carried Johnny Childers, of Pikeville, in one party at Kerr Reservoir; in another group at Kerr, Harold Dicks, of New Boston, O., with Tom Oak McGuire, Earl Castle, Gordon Moore and Fred Harris, all of Prestonsburg; at Barkley, Mr. and Mrs. Shannon Greer, and at Cherokee Mr. and Mrs. Tom G. Dings. There's one thing wrong with that item. Can't discover it? Don't see my name in it, do you?

FOR THE LOYAL OPPOSITION

The story is told of the oldtime Johnson county politician who had made an "appointment to speak" at Oil Springs. The place designated for the rally was a much-used (by the cows) cow pasture, and some fellows of the baser sort who did not see eye-to-eye politically with the candidate raked the ground well in preparation for the event, piled it all into the shape of a platform, covered the smelly mess with a thin coat of soil and grass—and sat back to watch.

The speaker arrived a little late, hurried to the platform and immediately sank to his shoetops. But he, so to speak, stood his ground. Looking about him, he caught sight of the miscreants responsible for his predicament. Then he intoned:

"Ladies and gentlemen, I speak to you today for the first time in my life from a Democratic platform!"

THE GOOD GUYS

Any time you have an idea you might hesitate about supporting these rescue squads which serve Floyd county and wherever else they are called, ask yourself: "What would we do without them?"

Members of the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad worked all Memorial Day and for three days thereafter, searching for a woman who was missing from her home here. The search ended sadly last Thursday. Then, shortly after Saturday midnight, came the call for a search of Dewey Lake for a youth who had drowned. That search continued till its conclusion Monday.

It is difficult for the less committed to understand these men. They never have a pleasant task. Tragedy does not choose good weather or convenient places and hours. And there are no television cameras waiting out there at midnight to record heroics. They even remain nameless in news-stories telling of their work.

Those who demand that they be given credit for every little thing they do would do well to consider the selfless service these men render.

REP. HAYS

Writing with tongue in cheek about Congressman Hays and his disgraceful shenanigans, the Paintsville Herald's "Bud" Perry had this to say last week: "Quite a few people, according to the pollsters, are losing faith in government. Can't imagine why. If a fellow like Hays can, at age 65, marry a young woman, maintain a mistress, and figure out how to have us taxpayers foot the bill for it all, surely he can handle little problems like the economy, or Russia and China."

I have no yen to end this on a macabre note, but try this for a word-chiseled description of malevolence and cunning as reported by Lenna Moore:

"He's so mean he would drive a finishing nail in the top of your head and comb the hair over."

Howard Named New Jaycees President

The Floyd County Jaycees recently elected new officers naming Chalmers Howard, president. Howard succeeds last year's president, John Horn.

Other elected officers were Robert Castle, vice-president; Jerry King, secretary, and Mike Williams, treasurer. John Horn, Philip Price and Thomas Hereford were voted to the Jaycees Board of Directors. Howard, who resides at Auxier, has held several prior offices in the Floyd County Jaycees Chapter. He is a 1968 graduate of Morehead State University and is employed by Mountain Comprehensive Care Center.

Robert Castle, past Jaycees secretary is a 1968 graduate of the University of Kentucky and has recently enrolled in the UK grad school. He is a social worker for the Bureau of Social Services, Department of Human Resources in Prestonsburg. Jerry King is a 1974 UK graduate and is an engineer for the General Electric Company. Mike Williams is employed by the Mountain Comprehensive Care Center in Prestonsburg, and is a 1974 Morehead State University graduate.

The directors include John Horn, a graduate of Eastern Kentucky State University and an employee of the Mapco-Martiki Coal Company in Martin county. Phil Price is director of the Meals on Wheels program in Floyd county and is a Morehead State graduate. Tom Hereford is associated with the Bureau of Manpower, Department of Human Resources in Prestonsburg and has his Masters degree from Morehead State.

The Floyd County Jaycees, a county-wide community service organization is currently involved in several projects in and around Prestonsburg. Chapter meetings are held the second and fourth Tuesdays in the month at 6:30 p.m. at the Kentucky Power building, N. Lake Drive, Prestonsburg.

New members and visitors are welcome to these meetings as the Jaycees welcome any suggestions on how they can better serve the community.

Bigotry and Politics

Caption 5-26-76, "The Bigot and His Hillbilly," by Robie Skeans:

What Christian cares for the opinion of bigots anywhere? Rather, they can be a source of amusement and one can consider their source. I have lived in many places beside bigots. I am from Fayette county and my husband is from Floyd county. One cannot carry one's feelings on one's sleeve. There is such a thing as not rising to the bait of one's tormentors, but rising above them with dignity. The same Lord of battle in the Old Testament is the very same one turning the other cheek in the New.

I enjoyed the story in the Floyd County Times about the Hatfields in the war and the hillbillies. Education without moral precept is what I call educating for hell. There is a great religious revolution taking place in our great land. As for the Georgia hillbilly presidential candidate, lots of hypocrites are trying to claim religious affiliation, and only the Lord himself knows how many are genuine. Martha Mitchell, heroine of Watergate, is gone now. I would not be surprised to learn that they did away with her in some way. They bragged about their secret poisons, etc. and how they could kill people without a trace. They will not escape God's judgment.

As for poverty, responsibility grows with riches. I miss the old ways where children played and swam in the old fishing hole and had swings in the giant trees and feeding the chickens was a great experience. Going to the Baptist church in the old buggy. There is much more to life than dollars. Dollars cannot make the sun to shine and all the beauty round about us that we take so much for granted. Picking berries on a hillside was such great fun. Milking the cows and riding the horses, making mud pies and sculpture. I am so thankful for the many Bible programs on the radio and the many wonderful ministers. I am a born-again Christian, raised in the Baptist church in my early years but baptised in the Christian church (Disciples of Christ). My life has been turbulent but His grace has been sufficient for me. Being rebuffed by bigots can be beneficial; that way your time is not wasted in casting your pearls before swine. Rather, spend your time in studying, that you may be helpful if they have need. The Lord has forgiven me many things and always makes a way for me. I have faced many difficult things. No life is great that does not point to Christ—how true that is. I feel so small and as Paul said, "That I would not, I do and that I would, I do not". The Lord judges us by what we have in our hearts and we are saved by His grace, not our works. We are saved by the blood, not what church we attend or what color we are or who our parents were. The Lord meets and supplies all our needs. I have been broke and away from home but never in need. My Lord has ever been present where I am.

I am just another mother and housewife dissatisfied with government. I am an American Party member trying to do what I can in my small way to encourage the young and old alike to do all they can to clean up politics. Scandals of all kinds, rumors, blockers of all progress and the taking over of all media for propaganda, for their gun control schemes and world government. Who do they plan on heading up their world government?—some Russian or Chinese? These clowns being elected to make policy for us, traitors to our country, pessimists—we have just begun to fight!

Grocer Wounded, Hall Arrested

Johnny Wright, owner and operator of Bestway Market, at Topmost, is expected to recover at McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital where he was taken Monday evening after having been shot in the stomach with a .22-caliber pistol. James V. Hall, of Dema, was arrested by state troopers and charged with the shooting.

The shooting reportedly followed an altercation between Hall and his wife in front of the store. After Wright warned Hall that he intended to call the police, he went back inside and was shot while making the call, officers were told. Mrs. Hall had been employed at the market until about a week before the incident.

State police said that Mr. Wright made the call to them reporting his being shot. Trooper Paul Sandlin, Hazard State Police, investigated the shooting and took Hall to Hindman where he was charged with assault in the first degree. He is free under bond.

Wasting No Time!

When the bell rung last Thursday afternoon at Prestonsburg Grade School, it was for the last time of the school year, and with thoughts of baseball, watermelon and swimming pools crowding their minds, the children wasted little time in clearing the building. Similar scenes marked other schools in the county as the 1975-'76 term came to an end.

Strip Mine Laws Effective, June 19

Revised state laws affecting strip mining reclamation will become operative June 19.

According to officials of the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, two new laws will raise the maximum reclamation bond from $1,500 to $3,000 and increase the number of days allowed to issue or deny a permit from 20 to 30.

Officials said the bond increase was needed to more accurately cover the cost of reclaiming disturbed areas. The minimum bond of $500 was retained.

The law also increases the maximum fine for unpermitted strip mining from $1,000 to $5,000 per day. According to a department official, the old maximum of $1,000 a day didn't cover the amount of environmental damage that could be caused by an unpermitted operator in a day or two.

Other legislation gives the department's legal staff the authority to initiate legal action without prior approval from the Attorney General's office.

The staff of the Attorney General's office retains the right to initiate or intervene in litigation.

Blue Angels To Perform At Bluegrass Air Field

Blue on blue should capture the sight of thousands when the U. S. Navy Flight Demonstration Squadron, the Blue Angels, perform precision aerobatics during Lexington's Bluegrass Air Show, June 12 and 13.

Officially formed in 1946, the Blue Angels' mission is to demonstrate the quality of the men and equipment of the Navy. During their 29 years of conducting aerial demonstrations, they have electrified over 122 million spectators around the world.

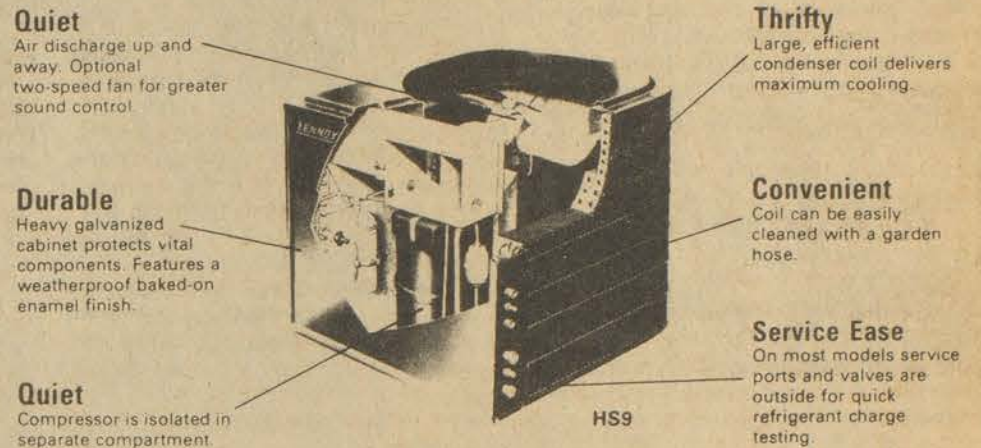

Six McDonnell Douglas A-4F Skyhawk II's serve as platforms for the Blue Angels who perform a prescribed sequence of maneuvers while flying at speeds approaching the speed of sound. The Skyhawks are a world apart from the Grumman F6F Hellcats first used by the original Blues. Demonstration flights in 1946 culminated with a simulated shooting down of a training aircraft painted with a "zero." This routine was eventually dropped but the tight diamond formation flown by the original pilots became the trademark of the Blue Angels.

TON OF NEWSPRINT TAKES 5.16 GALLONS OF GASOLINE
Harvesting enough U. S. wood for a ton of newsprint and getting to the concentration point or mill takes an average of 5.16 gallons of gasoline or diesel fuel, an American Pulpwood Association survey shows.

The Canadian average is estimated at under 5 gallons because in Canada there is generally a shorter haul from woods to depot or mill.

Floyd county's nine community development clubs were honored Friday evening at the third annual Floyd County Community Development Awards Banquet held at the high school cafeteria here.

First-place and runnerup awards were presented to winners in the farm, rural non-farm, and village categories by representatives of the Floyd County Extension Service, sponsors of the banquet.

Winner in the rural non-farm category was Weeksby. The community was cited for helping organize three new development clubs, conducting sewing, cooking, handicraft and gardening classes, sponsoring a community-wide clean-up, planting a community flower bed, and conducting numerous fund-raising and community social events. Runner-up in the category was the Stanville Community Development Club.

Abbott Creek Community Development Club took top honors in the farm category. Club projects over the past year included the purchase of the Alka Miller curve for straightening, grading and ditching of the basketball court, donation of $100 to the Irish Acres 4-H camp, the erection of signs marking creeks and tributaries along the Abbott road, sponsoring of a home gardening workshop, and other community projects and events.

Newest of the county's development clubs, David, took first place in the village category. The community was honored for its efforts over the past year which included circulation of a newsletter, "The Voice of David," designation of September as "Paint-Up, Fix-Up Homes Week," sponsoring of a softball tournament, conducting four community cleanups, general town beautification and the procurement of service from the Beaver Elkhorn Water District. Runnerup in the category was the Tri-Community (Wayland) Development Club.

Presidents of development clubs who were given certificates for their leadership ability included:

James Shepherd, Abbott Creek; Mrs. Dorothy Clark, David; Paul Crawford, Hi Hat-Price; Mrs. Otelia Smiley, Prestonsburg; Clinton Akers, Prater Creek; Erman H. Ratliff, Stanville; Miss Peggy Bradford, Weeksby, and Bobby Issacs, Wheelwright.

Certificates of Appreciation were presented to Burl Wells Spurlock, First National Bank; Curtis Clark, Chamber of Commerce, and Bill Wells, manager of Big Sandy R.E.C.C., for their support of the county's clubs.

James Shepherd, president of the county committee, served as master of ceremonies.

The winning clubs will compete with 11 other counties, and winners will be announced at the Northeast Kentucky Rural Community Development Association's annual banquet, July 10, at the Henry Clay Hotel, Ashland.

Really!—Could a Magistrate Draw $1,297 Pay Per Month?

Frankfort, Ky.—Magistrates in Kentucky could earn as much as $1,297 per month after June 19.

That possibility is based in two "ifs": —If the fiscal court in their particular county—composed of the magistrates and the county judge—raises the magistrates' salaries to the maximum $16,768 per year the attorney general's office said they could under a new law.

—If the attorney general's interpretation of the law then either goes unchallenged or is upheld by the courts.

Magistrates currently may earn a maximum of $260 per month for their fiscal court duties. In addition they may receive salaries for trying criminal cases. But, in most counties magistrates generally no longer exercise such judicial functions.

The large salary hike which the attorney general's office says is possible is the result of a law which passed the legislature with little attention. The statute becomes effective June 19.

When House Bill 423 was originally introduced by Rep. Steven Beshear, D-Lexington, on Feb. 3, it provided for bringing the salaries of county coroners under a law that fixes maximum pay for county officials in accordance with the cost of living.

The law, in effect, applies the 1965 Court of Appeals "rubber dollar" principle in the case of Commonwealth of Kentucky vs. Hesch to the officials included in the law.

In that decision the court said the legislature could adjust the salaries of current officeholders to reflect an increase in the cost of living. The court said this could be done by equating current salaries with the purchasing power of the 1949 dollar. In 1949—when the maximum salaries of county officials was last changed in the Kentucky Constitution—the salaries of most county officials were set at $7,200 per year in the constitution.

The "rubber dollar" principle was applied by the court to get around the constitutional prohibition of raising an official's salary during his term in office.

KRS 64.527 provides that the state Department of Commerce determines the maximum county officials who are included in the statute may receive by figuring the change in the consumer price index from the preceding year. The formula to determine this uses 1949 as the base year.

Britain To Try Using Energy from Waves

LONDON—For centuries the tempestuous seas around Britain's coastline have served as a barrier against invasion and as an inspiration to its poets. Now the waves that pound those bulwarks may be put to use.

The British government has decided that, of all the less conventional sources of energy—sunlight, wind, tides, waves and geothermal heat—ocean waves are "intrinsically the most attractive."

Four schemes to extract that non-polluting form of energy are under consideration and, to assess them, Britain has allocated a million pounds (slightly more than $1.8 million) for a two-year research effort.

Preliminary analysis has indicated that, for every meter of coastline 40 to 70 kilowatts could, in principle, be generated on an annual average. Thus, according to the Energy Department, a dozen arrays, each 50 miles long, could produce about half Britain's current electricity needs.

Youth Summer Jobs To Cost $4.3 Million

Frankfort, Ky.—Gov. Julian M. Carroll announced last week that more than $4.3 million in federal funds will be used to provide summer jobs for youth employed in 89 counties.

"The program is designed to help young people by providing them with meaningful work experience, a source of summer income, counseling, and a valuable opportunity to explore careers," Gov. Carroll said.

Participants in Kentucky's Summer Youth Program must meet current federal poverty income criteria before being hired through the Department for Human Resources' Bureau for Manpower Services offices.

Participants in the program must be from 15 years of age to 21 years of age. They will be paid $2.30 an hour for a maximum of 40 hours per week and may work no more than 240 hours over the summer.

Workers will be employed by public and private non-profit organizations in a variety of public service jobs.

"Participating communities will benefit by being able to complete needed community programs and projects," Gov. Carroll said.

The Summer Youth Program will operate under the governor's prime sponsorship in 89 counties. Kentucky's other prime sponsors are the Eastern Kentucky Concentrated Employment Program (EKCEP) and the areas of Louisville, Jefferson County, Lexington-Fayette County and Kenton County.

Our Fragile Earth

By DR. HERRY HOWELL
Director of Environmental Studies
Morehead State University

The last article gave a brief history of American wilderness discovery and wildlife exploitation. Game hunting to near extinction was commonplace and some critics say the situation is unchanged. This is only one of the charges that have been leveled at hunting, especially in recent years.

There is some basis for the extinction charge of anti-hunting advocates. The demise of the American bison by hunting is well-documented; it was extirpated from its range in little more than a decade in the 1870's and 1880's. Several factors were responsible for the killing of an estimated one million buffalo. It was used for food and its skin was used for clothing. It was a victim of the white man's western migration and, because of the terrain and its size, it had no place to hide. In recent years the animal has been restored, under protection, to several of its original habitats. A major colony exists in Custer State Park in the Black Hills of South Dakota, but the only large herd remaining in the wild and intimately associated with its major predator, the wolf, is confined to Wood Buffalo National Park in Canada. The buffalo is no longer in danger of extinction.

A recorded animal extinction directly attributable to overhunting was that of the passenger pigeon. The passenger pigeon was once the most abundant bird ever encountered by man. An 1810 flock in Kentucky was estimated by Alexander Wilson, an ornithologist, to be 240 miles long and a mile wide, containing 2.23 billion birds.

Nesting was erratic in the species and dependent upon food availability. So if it was a good year for acorns in Minnesota, the birds nested there, but plenty of beechnuts in Michigan meant that they concentrated and nested there. In Wisconsin in 1871 a nesting area was measured to be 75 by 15 miles, with birds nesting in every tree and numbering about 136 million. Hunters were attracted to nesting of this sort and killed millions of birds. These massive kills disrupted flocking and nesting behavior to the point of actually causing the bird's extinction. The last passenger pigeon, a female named Martha, died in 1914 in the Cincinnati Zoo.

Other examples of exploitation by overhunting exist. The great auk, a flightless sea bird resembling the pigeon, once nested along the periphery of the North Atlantic from Maine to Spain. Never existing in great numbers, this bird was very agile in water, but clumsy on land. This clumsiness led to extinction because fishermen and organized hunting parties easily preyed on them for food, feathers, and oil. By the early 1800's the birds were near extinction and the last two were clubbed to death in Iceland in 1844.

Alligators, once very close to extinction, have since recovered but certain species of whales, egrets, leopards, tigers, and other animals, decimated by overhunting, have not been so fortunate. Recently American sportsmen have begun a campaign to inform the public that as a group they have never been responsible for exterminating a species. They have also been supportive of legislation to punish poachers, other game law violators, and the type of hunter graphically referred to as a "slob."

These actions are commendable and whether one agrees with the basic philosophy of the organized hunter or not, credit must be given to those sportsmen who advocate these principles.

Knott Fiscal Court Votes Coal Tax Funds for Grid Field

By BRYAN WILKINS
(In The Lexington Herald)
Hindman, Ky.—Knott County Fiscal Court last Wednesday voted to appropriate an additional $60,000 of coal severance tax funds to the $125,000 it had previously set aside for a football field, stadium and track.

Morton Combs, superintendent of the county's schools, appeared before the court to request the additional amount because he said the lowest bid the school board had received for the athletic project was $185,000.

In addition, the board voted to take $12,000 of its 1975 coal severance tax funds to construct a rescue squad building at Dema, and $4,000 for a Head Start project.

Knott County Attorney Robert Morgan cautioned the court that it was over-spending its severance tax funds if it intended to construct a new courthouse.

The original courthouse was destroyed in a fire last year. The fiscal court has voted previously to take $150,000 in coal severance tax funds to buy property across the street for a new courthouse. This spending proposal has yet to be reviewed by the severance tax advisory committee in Frankfort and approved by the commissioner of finance, according to the law.

The court has applied to the federal government for a $500,000 grant for the construction of the new courthouse. The county would match this with its own $500,000.

According to figures provided by the state Office of Local Government, Knott county has $545,691 remaining in coal severance funds before last week's spending appropriations.

OUT OF STEAM

Although popular for many years, the Greenbrier Scenic Railroad at Ronceverte, W. Va., has had to abandon operations. The nonprofit corporation has canceled plans for any further steam excursions because of increased operating costs.

Four passenger coaches owned by Greenbrier are to be sold by bid; 14 other cars, owned by the West Virginia Department of Natural Resources, will be stored on Cass Scenic Railroad property.

Meanwhile, the Cass is getting up steam for its new season of operating trains pulled by logging locomotives on 4,842-foot Bald Knob. Further information: Cass, State Commerce Dept. Capitol, Charleston, W. Va. 25305.

County Attorney Morgan said he didn't see how the county could raise the needed $500,000 matching funds without borrowing from a bank.

In other matters the court discussed the problem of a landfill for the county. The court received $200,000 of its coal severance funds last year to set up a garbage collection system and landfill.

Magistrate Homer Sawyers said the problem the court had was finding a system that would work in the county, without losing the allocated funds. He said the court didn't have the legal right to levy a garbage tax.

Sawyers and other members of the court said the system of placing large metal collection boxes around the county had failed in other Eastern Kentucky counties.

"This county couldn't afford to spend $40,000 a year to run a garbage truck and pay two men," he added.

They Have Passed the 100 Mark

Re-discover

The poem says, "Grow old with me. The best is yet to be—the last of life for which the first was made." These words express the Commonwealth's feelings in regard to the state's elderly. Programs in Kentucky continue to work toward help for its older citizens that their lives are more rewarding.

George L. Athey, native of Wolfe county, and Mrs. Lockie Burke, of Pike county, continue to look ahead, but since they have lived 100 years they frequently look back. Memories are part of living when minds are filled with happenings of a century. Both Mrs. Burke and Mr. Athey are alert and optimistic.

Mrs. Burke, who lives on Long Fork of Shelby Creek, marked her 101st birthday with a party in her honor on Mother's Day. Athey, who lives at Daniel Boone Convalescent Center, Morehead, was 100 on May 22.

His longtime friend, Mrs. Taylor Booth of Campton, said, "He is missed by his many friends around Campton."

According to Mrs. Booth, local editor of The Wolfe County News, "It seems only a short time ago that he was here in Campton, walking to the post office every day. He is admired for many reasons—kindness to people and animals, his military bearing and 'soldier perfect' attire at all times."

Athey is a veteran of the Spanish-American War and after military service became a barber in Campton. "There's never been another person like him, and there never will be," Mrs. Booth said. She remembered that Athey was called the Good Samaritan. He made a point to pick up elderly citizens who had to walk to the county seat and never failed to help stray animals.

The old soldier was eight miles from home one day when he noticed a mule that had been "turned out to pasture." Athey drove back and forth every day to feed the animal. He treated and carried food to "starving, mangy" dogs. When a neighborhood man died, Athey went immediately to the man's house to shave him and groom his hair. When illness struck a home, Athey helped to keep things in order and brought groceries and mail to the home. Both he and his wife Ruth, who died some time ago cooked more than enough food on holidays so they could feed needy families and have enough left to go about feeding stray dogs and cats.

During his military years—two enlistments—he was selected to guard Aguinaldo, the "Terror of the Philippines", and was so kind to the prisoner that within a year he had persuaded Aguinaldo to become a friend of the United States.

Athey's life of service and goodwill for his neighbors is comparable to the life of Mrs. Burke of the Kentucky Highlands. She was born in 1875 and remembers much about the early history of her region and its settlers. In addition to church work, she has been ready through the years to help her neighbors when there was a need.

Mrs. Burke and her husband Duran had been married only 14 years when she was left a widow. By 1949 both her children had died. All 10 grandchildren are attentive to her though only two live in Kentucky. Most of her grandchildren and great grandchildren attended her 101st birthday party at her home. She enjoyed greatly her guests and gifts and especially the religious services held as a part of the celebration.

Both Mrs. Burke and Athey enjoy cards, letter and visits. They enjoy talking about early days and could relate area and regional history.

It was Athey who several years ago figured in bringing peace to two Civil War enemies. Athey's friends, the Taylor Booths, recalled that Capt. Bill Hurts of the Union and Capt. Sampson Smith of the Confederacy "continued to fight the war every time they met. They didn't see eye to eye on anything until the day both decided they wanted George Athey to shave them when they died."

Harris Howard May Be Named Appeals Judge

Harris S. Howard, Prestonsburg attorney, is regarded as likely to be appointed by Governor Julian Carroll as one of the two judges from the Seventh district to the newly designated Court of Appeals.

Only Mr. Howard and Elijah Hogg, of Morehead, have been mentioned for the appointments from this district.

If named by the governor, they would serve only the few months until the November election at which they would be candidates for the full six-year term. Governor Carroll has said that he will support his appointees for the full term.

The new Court of Appeals will be an intermediate-level court to rule on most of the appeals from the state's circuit courts. The seven judges who were on the old Appellate Court now comprise, under the Judicial Amendment approved by Kentucky voters last year, the state Supreme Court.

Appellate judges will be paid $37,000 a year.

Mr. Howard is a son of Mrs. Florence Stephens Howard, of Prestonsburg, and the late J. Woodford Howard, long an attorney here and onetime state senator.

UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY • COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

There is something strange and uncanny about plants which have no parts that are green—they seem corpse-like or like people without blood. Therefore, it is no wonder that dozens of superstitions surround toadstools and their kin.

The deadly poisonous qualities of some mushrooms made them also a natural ingredient of the witch's cauldron. But science, in these modern times, has brought revelations far more wonderful than the web which superstition wove about them.

When plants are without green parts and, thus, through the alchemy of chlorophyll, sunlight and air, are unable to manufacture their own organic food, it stands to reason they must get it some other way. Therefore, such plants must be either parasites or saprophytes. If parasites, they steal the food from the cells of living plants; if saprophytes, they live on such of this food material as remains in dead wood, withered leaves or soils enriched by their remains.

Some mushrooms are good to eat and are prized as a table delicacy. Some are so poisonous that a piece no larger than a robin's egg will, if eaten, result in death. Others, like the parasitical bracket fungi—sometimes called shelf mushrooms, are deadly enemies of living trees. Spores from these mushrooms enter the tree through an unhealed wound or knot hole and from these spores grow sinister threads that push into the heart of the tree. Eventually, the tree dies or becomes so weakened that it is broken down by the wind, ice or snow.

But even though some mushrooms sometimes kill trees and people who are unwary when gathering them from the wild, we could hardly get along without them.

Since the majority of mushrooms are saprophytes and live on dead vegetation, they are great soil builders. Without fungi, our forests would be choked with dead wood. Decay is simply the process which fungi and other organisms break down dead material. Some of this material returns to the air in gaseous form, and the remainder, now mostly humus, mingles with the soil and enriches it.

There are many kinds of mushrooms and they vary greatly in form, color and size. From the fairy ring to the Indian pipe and the evil-smelling wood witch mushroom, all are interesting and contribute greatly to the lore of the outdoors.

Honors McDowell Athletes And Stumbo, Retiring Principal

MCDOWELL'S MOST VALUABLE PLAYERS . . . From left, David Martin, fennis; Terry Tuttle, baseball; Geri Grigsby, girls' basketball and tennis; Larry Daugherty and Bubby Osborne, boys' basketball.

Retiring Principal Lloyd Stumbo, (right) of McDowell High, is greeted by his school's former basketball coach, Pete Grigsby, Jr., now assistant superintendent of Floyd schools.

McDowell High School's athletic outing to honor members of the school's basketball, baseball and tennis teams was held at Jenny Wiley State Park last Friday evening.

Also honored at the outing by Assistant Superintendent of Floyd Schools Pete Grigsby, Jr. was the retiring school principal, Lloyd Stumbo. Mr. Stumbo is retiring from the McDowell post because of ill health after 11 years there. Asst. Supt. Grigsby was basketball coach at McDowell during most of those 11 years, and he paid tribute to Stumbo not only as an educator but as one who also has been a strong supporter of the school athletic program.

Most Valuable Player awards were made, as follows:

Larry Daugherty and Bubby Osborne, co-winners in boys' basketball; Geri Grigsby, in both girls' basketball and tennis; David Martin, boys' tennis; Terry Turner, baseball.

David Turner, coach of boys' basketball and baseball teams, Johnny Turner, girls' basketball coach, and Johnny Slone, tennis coach, presented the awards.

In basketball the McDowell boys won 23 games last season while losing 11, were runnersup in the 15th regional tournament and were champions of the Floyd County Conference. Their feminine counterparts, meanwhile, had a 29-2 record while winning the 58th district, the Floyd County Conference, and the Tom Wiley and pre-season tournaments. For most of the past season, the McDowell girls were rated No. 1 in the state. The tennis teams, both boys and girls, advanced to the regional tournament at Ashland.

Widowed Mother of 2 Earns Degree

MRS. MOORE

TERESA

Five years ago when her husband, Terry, died, Annette Adkins Moore was left a young widow with two small children. She was a high school graduate but had little or no preparation for any specific area of work or service.

She moved with her son and daughter, Jeffrey, who is now 13, and Teresa, now 10, to Somerset where she attended Somerset Community College. Then to Lexington where for the last two years she has been a student at Transylvania University.

Mrs. Moore was graduated May 30 from Transylvania "with distinction" in sociology. Earlier, she had fulfilled her student teaching requirements by teaching psychology at Henry Clay High School, Lexington.

Meanwhile, Jeffrey and Teresa themselves are elementary school students.

Mrs. Moore is a daughter of Mrs. Omadell Adkins, of Prestonsburg, and the late Orville Adkins.

MISSING EARL'S PROPERTY SOLD AT BRITISH AUCTION

LONDON—The silver-and-gilt coronet and ermine robes of the missing Earl of Lucan were auctioned recently for $936, nearly doubled the expected price.

Miss Philippa Mansergh said she bought the items for stock on behalf of a London silver dealer. The bidding started at $360.

Past and future sales of the earl's possessions are expected to cover his $126,000 in debts, discovered when he disappeared in November 1974. A Scotland Yard warrant charges him with the murder of the family governess, Sandra Rivett, and an attack on his wife.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of my father's birthday, Bill Gunnells, who passed away December 21, 1974 of a heart attack. He was born April 3, 1903.

Today was your birthday, Daddy. I would have liked to see your smile. How gay it would have made me feel on this special day.

Birthdays will come and birthdays will go, But Dear Daddy you haven't been forgotten For I think of you so often.

For me this day hasn't gone right. I dreamed of you last night.

As the days and nights drag on, I wonder what will I do now that you are gone For to me you were my favorite one.

Senate Committee To Consider Coal-Haul Road Aid Program

Washington—Kentucky representatives secured a promise last week that the Senate Public Works Committee would consider early next year proposals for federal assistance in repairing and maintaining coal-haul roads.

Senator Walter (Dee) Huddleston called the commitment from Senator Jennings Randolph, committee chairman, "a significant achievement, a good first step toward achieving our objective."

Huddleston, Gov. Julian Carroll, and Senator Wendell Ford all appeared before the committee to appeal for special aid to repair Kentucky highways damaged as a result of increased coal production.

Huddleston pointed out that 80 per cent of Kentucky's coal is exported to other states—and 10 per cent of that amount is exported to foreign countries.

"We are providing the coal to produce the energy for millions of people in other states, and as a result our highways are being torn up," Huddleston said, pointing out that more than 60 counties in the state are affected.

The Kentucky senator said that as long as energy self-sufficiency remains a national goal upgrading the transportation system "deserves the attention of the federal government as a matter of legitimate national interest."

The recently enacted Federal Aid Highway Act of 1976 includes an amendment offered by Huddleston requiring the U. S. Department of Transportation to do a one-year study of coal-haul highway repair needs.

Club Marks 50th Anniversary

Officers installed at the 50th Anniversary Dinner of the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club—are from left, Mrs. Don Hughes, treasurer; Mrs. Otto Martin, corresponding secretary; Mrs. James E. Martin, recording secretary; Mrs. Marie C. Mullins, second vice-president; Mrs. Bobby Joe Castle, first vice-president; Mrs. James A. Duff, president, and Mrs. Gary Ratliff, Seventh district governor, Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, Pikeville, who was the installation officer.

Fifty years of community service were relived in speeches, skits, and reminiscences recently when the Lackey-Garrett-Wayland Woman's Club assembled to celebrate its 50th anniversary. The Masonic dining hall at Wayland, decorated in the Bicentennial theme, held club women from five clubs in the area and many out-of-town guests and former members who had returned for the celebration.

Mrs. J. C. Wells, club president, gave the welcome, which was followed by a reading, "I Am the Nation" and the Pledge to the Flag by Mrs. Otto Martin. Mrs. J. T. Spillman gave the invocation and dinner was served to 63 clubwomen.

The club especially honored its remaining four charter members, only two of whom were able to be present, Mrs. W. T. Hatcher of Hindman, and Mrs. M. M. Collins, of Prestonsburg, recently of Lackey. The other two, Mrs. Ellen Hornsby, of Winchester, and Mrs. Earl Castle, Estill, were unable to attend because of recent illnesses.

Mrs. Hatcher told of early quilting meetings to raise money to assist the needy and later, after the club was federated, to further Federation projects. She then read an essay of her own composition on "What the Club Means to Me."

Mrs. Wells gave a brief history of the organization which began as a "Mothers' Club" in 1926 and was federated as the Lackey-Garrett Woman's Club in 1934 and later was changed to its present name, Lackey-Garrett-Wayland, to include all the communities in the area from which its membership was drawn.

A skit relating the various projects of the club through the years was presented by Mrs. Otto Martin and Mrs. S. M. Martin representing the "tired" older club members and Mrs. Bobby Joe Castle, the "brash" younger generation.

Mrs. J. T. Spillman read a memorial to the club's late charter member, Mrs. O. J. Webb. Mrs. Wells recognized the visiting district and state officers, past Seventh district governors, past presidents, the guest clubs represented and out-of-town guests and presented gold plaques to the two charter members. She then presented bicentennial bells to the officers and chairmen who had served during her administration. Mrs. Otto Martin paid tribute to Mrs. Wells for her outstanding leadership and dedication during the three terms she had served as president at different intervals.

Dr. Mary Pauline Fox, second vice-president, Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, presented a gold "happiness candle" to the club and many other gifts were presented from visiting clubs and individual guests.

A candlelight installation of incoming officers was conducted by the district governor, Mrs. Gary Ratliff, with the following officers being installed: Mrs. James A. Duff, president; Mrs. Bobby Joe Castle, first vice-president; Mrs. Marie Mullins, second vice-president; Mrs. James E. Martin, recording secretary; Mrs. Otto Martin, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Don Hughes, treasurer.

Out-of-town guests were: Mrs. Margaret Sherman, Beckley, West Virginia, Mrs. Rebecca Rasnick, Prestonsburg, Mrs. Dolly Messer, Garret, Mrs. Dolly Pettrey, Prestonsburg, Mrs. Stachia Ison, London, Mrs. Dorothy Blanton, London, Mrs. Bea Copley, Middletown, Ohio, Mrs. Jo Webb Martin, Lackey, Mrs. Christine Stewart, Franklin, Ohio, Mrs. Roberta Sloan, Pikeville, Mrs. Guialene Smith, Pikeville, Mrs. Virginia Combs, Hindman, Mrs. Ollie Morgan, Hindman, Mrs. Janet Ratliff, Elkhorn City, Mrs. Lettie Hall, Pound, Virginia, Dr. Mary Pauline Fox, Pikeville, Mrs. Alma Frazier (past district governor), Salyersville, Mrs. Arthur Bradbury (past district governor) Prestonsburg, Mrs. Eva Collins, Prestonsburg, Mrs. Anna Hoffman, (past district governor) Drift. Guest clubs included: Drift (four members present); Wheelwright (five members present); Magoffin county (five members present); Martin (four members present) and from the Wayland club (28 members present). Miss Sherri Burke, of Wayland, (dressed in colonial costume) served as hostess.

Committees were composed of the following: Registration: Mrs. Mervil Dixon and Mrs. James E. Competency-Based Vocational Ed. May Be Trend of Future

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Increasingly, vocational teachers and officials in the state Bureau of Vocational Education, are talking about competency-based vocational education (CBVE).

The name sounds impressive, but essentially, CBVE means that students in vocational education should be considered finished with a course when they are competent, not when they have completed a required number of hours or semesters.

CBVE also means that students should work at their own pace, moving from one task to the next as soon as they demonstrate their competence. Consequently, instruction in CBVE should be individualized, since students progress at different speeds.

To implement CBVE, however, preliminary work must be done. First, vocational educators want to determine which programs will be most necessary to satisfy future needs for trained personnel. These programs will receive first priority for CBVE implementation.

Next, educators must identify the relative importance of the tasks necessary to perform a particular job. Then, a checklist of tasks can be developed, along with a standard of competence which students must meet.

The checklist will be extremely detailed, with each task or job broken down into its smallest components. For example, students studying to become bank tellers will work through such individual tasks as cashing a check or a group of checks, sorting and stacking coins and inspecting a customer's identification.

Educators and workers familiar with a particular job will then examine the checklist for clarity and accuracy. When necessary revisions have been made, instructional materials will be developed, tested at selected schools and then demonstrated to vocational education teachers.

When all of these things have been done, the statewide CBVE program can begin.

Much of the preliminary work already has been done and a workshop on CBVE has been established for regional representatives.

Also, bureau officials say the work involved in implementing CBVE will be more than offset by the advantages it will bring. Along with being able to progress at their own pace, students will also know in advance exactly what is expected of them, since performance levels are specific. These specific levels, in turn, will make the programs more accountable to students, prospective employers and taxpayers, since the results can be measured objectively.

WAYLAND NEWS

A party was held in the Wayland Grade School gymnasium Tuesday night, June 1, to honor those who during the year had been cheerleaders and those who had participated in gymnastics. The party was given by John Case, school principal, and the Boosters Club. Ed Taylor, a professional photographer, took pictures of the boys and girls as they stood under an arch of roses. About 75 students, teachers and Booster Club members enjoyed the evening, listening and dancing to the beat of The Kentucky Express. The tables were decorated in Bicentennial red, white and blue. Refreshments were served at intermission.

Half of Elderly Eligible Not Receiving Food Stamps

Frankfort, Ky.—A significant number of low income, elderly Kentuckians are eligible to receive food stamps under federal guidelines, yet are not taking advantage of the program.

The state Bureau for Social Insurance said last week that only about 50 per cent of the eligible low income elderly are taking advantage of the food stamp program in Kentucky.

Gail Huecker, commissioner of the bureau, said the state has been looking into the various reasons why more of the elderly are not taking advantage of the food stamp program, which is scheduled to undergo some revisions unless a court suit filed by Kentucky and 25 other states is successful.

She said some tentative "guesses" as to why not more of the elderly are in the food stamp program are being discussed.

"For one thing, our investigators tell us because of the purchase requirement for the stamps, some of the elderly are feeling they should spend the money on medical needs rather than food," she said. "There is also the possibility complications in reporting may affect the situation."

Some other eligible groups have complained in the past that the lack of information regarding eligibility requirements has hindered them from purchasing the stamps. However, Mrs. Huecker said this does not seem to be a problem in the case of the low income, elderly.

"They seem to know about it all right," she said. "It's somewhat of a puzzle why not more of them are taking advantage of it."

Statistics also show that 1 per cent of the eligible aid to families with dependent children recipients are taking advantage of the food stamp program in the state, significantly higher than the percentage of the low income, elderly.

Spreading over all eligible age and income groups, the number of persons taking advantage of the food stamp program in Kentucky has been steady for the past several months, according to the latest state figures.

There are approximately 449,000 food stamp participants in the state, and Huecker attributed the fact the number has remained steady to better economic times.

Johnny B. Keathley, 18, of Lawrence county, was returned to the county jail here Sunday, two days after he escaped the custody of a turnkey while in the hallway of the Floyd county courthouse. Keathley, who had been booked at the jail earlier the same day, broke free as the turnkey who was leading him and another prisoner from the county judge's office to the jail, and ran out the front door of the courthouse. A search was immediately launched in Floyd, Johnson and Lawrence counties, and two days later investigation of a telephone call from an anonymous informant led State Troopers Stephens and Shelton to Lowmansville, Lawrence county, where Keathley was arrested.

Gary Allen, of Abbott Creek, who escaped custody May 28, had not been returned to the jail here as of Tuesday afternoon.

Sheriff's department officials arrested Clarence Martin, Saturday, at his home on Stumbo Hollow, near Drift, on a charge of illegal possession of alcoholic beverages for the purpose of sale. Officers recovered 40 cases and 21 cans of beer and 84 half-pints of liquor. Martin paid a fine of $72.50 in Magistrate Bill Wells' court.

In another liquor action Saturday, Deputy Sheriffs J. D. and Melvin Martin arrested Jeffrey McKinney, of Mud Creek, on a charge of illegal transporting of alcoholic beverages. Eight cases of beer were recovered. McKinney executed bond the following day.

Others booked at the county jail, charges against each, and arresting officers follow:

Thomas L. Gick and Terry L. Calhoun, contributing to the delinquency of a minor, by Deputy Sheriff Doug Lewis; Robert Hall and James Lee Hall, theft by unlawful taking, by State Trooper D. Williamson; Sterling Hamilton, drunk driving, by State Trooper Shelton; Roger Gayheart, drunk driving and no operator's license, by Wheelwright Police Harold and Mildred Bates; Ellis Castle, Jr., drunk driving, by State Trooper Sizemore; Charles Edward Baker, reckless driving and speeding, by Deputy Sheriff D. Bradley; Tim Mullins, drunk driving, by Deputy Sheriffs J. D. and Melvin Martin; Mattous Owens, drunk driving, by Deputy Sheriffs J. D. and Melvin Martin; Kermit Joseph, drunk driving and reckless driving, by Deputy Sheriff Doug Lewis and Prestonsburg Policeman Darrel Conley; Paul Roberts, drunk driving and no operator's license, by Deputy Sheriffs J. D. and Melvin Martin; John M. Patton, wanton endangerment, by Constable Bob Hackworth; Ernest C. Hutton, drunk driving, by Wheelwright Police Mildred and Harold Bates.

Arrested by Prestonsburg City Police were Paul D. Goble, drunk driving and resisting arrest, by Policemen Lawson and Kilgore; Bob Hensley, drunk driving, by Policemen Dean Webb, Billy Bays, and Craig E. Kilgore.

Floyd County Health Notes

By DONNA J. GRIFFITH
(Health Educator)

President Ford has recommended that a mass immunization program be put into effect to immunize every American against the new swine-like influenza virus in advance of the coming influenza season. Because of this, the Floyd County Health Department is presently developing plans for a Mass Influenza Immunization Program to be conducted throughout the county in the summer and fall of 1976. In order to get as many people immunized as possible, health department personnel, the private medical sector, volunteers, the news media, in fact, the entire community will have to be involved and willing to offer their services.

As the health department staff continues making plans to get the influenza immunization clinics organized, we will most likely be calling on various organizations and other volunteers in the county for much-needed help and support. The success of this immunization program will no doubt be determined by the amount of participation and cooperation received from all Floyd countians.

The health department will keep the public informed as further plans for this program are developed.

The Floyd County Health Department is conducting a pap smear clinic tomorrow (Thursday) from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. The public health nurses remind all women that they should have a pap smear at least once a year in order to maintain protection against cervical cancer.

An outpost clinic will be held next Monday in the basement of the Methodist Church at Wayland from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. A public health nurse will be conducting this clinic and the following medical services will be offered: Immunizations, TB skin tests, diabetes screening and blood pressures.

This clinic will be free of charge and open to the public.

A weight-control class is conducted each Tuesday night at 7 o'clock in the air-conditioned basement of the health department. The purpose of this class is to form good eating habits in relation to weight control. A nurse is present at each of these meetings to counsel, instruct, distribute materials and lead in the exercises.

He has attended the Kentucky School for the Deaf since 1963 and was a member of the Key Club, Junior National Association of the Deaf chapter and secretary of the freshman class. He will seek employment or attend the Jefferson State Vocational Technical School in Louisville.

Unemployment Rate in Floyd Drops in April

Eastern Kentucky's unemployment rate dropped from 8.8 per cent in March to 6.6 per cent in April, and Floyd county's from 9.1 to 8.4 per cent, according to figures supplied June 1 by the Department for Human Resources. The state rate for April was 5.9 per cent.

This represents a drop of 5,878 in the number of people unemployed in the Eastern part of the state, Robert MacDonald, chief labor market analyst for the Department, said. MacDonald attributed the lower unemployment in the area to the availability of seasonal construction and service jobs.

Although mining is a major industry in the area, mining employment for the state increased only by 100 jobs, and is not responsible for this drop in unemployment, MacDonald added.

April figures for counties in this area are:

Boyd, 4.8; Breathitt, 8.1; Carter, 8.1; Clay, 9.7; Elliott, 5.5; Greenup, 5.7; Harlan, 6.2; Johnson, 7.1; Knott, 8.4; Lawrence, 5.9; Lee, 16; Leslie, 7.8; Letcher, 9.2; Magoffin, 10.4; Martin, 3.3; Menifee, 8.2; Morgan, 7.1; Owsley, 10.5; Perry, 7; Pike, 5; Wolfe, 10.3.

Construction Begun On PCC Drainage

Construction is under way this week on the land drainage measure at Prestonsburg Community College. This is the first measure to reach the construction stage in the Big Sandy Resource Conservation and Development Project area.

The project involves internal soil drainage on about 12 acres of poorly drained land that will be used for open space and recreation by the college. The U. S. Department of Agriculture and the college will share construction costs. The Soil Conservation Service of USDA is providing technical assistance for design, layout and performance supervision.

Other RC&D measures programmed for construction this summer are flood prevention measures at Porter Elementary School in Johnson county and at Salyer Elementary School in Magoffin county.

The RC&D Council will consider proposals for other measures at its meeting tomorrow (Thursday) night at Jenny Wiley State Park.

Historymobile To Feature Coal

By DAN ADKINS

Frankfort, Ky.—Tom Gatewood and Dan Zwyer have an interesting assignment. The Kentucky Historical Society has charged them with taking the story of Kentucky's colorful history to the people of the Commonwealth.

Gatewood and Zwyer are the curators of the society's "Historymobile" program. The Historymobile is housed in a tractor-trailer which carries a mobile museum exhibit concerned with a period in the state's past. The two men plan the truck's exhibits and take turns driving to various cities, towns, schools and festivals.

The present traveling exhibit concerns the pioneer decade—1774-1784. It includes several scale models of such things as flatboats and stations and houses a replica of a log cabin. The ceiling of the cabin elevates enough to reveal a screen used for a slide show about the routine and customs of the first Kentuckians.

Within the year, say Gatewood and Zwyer, the exhibit will be replaced with one more relevant to today's Kentucky. The new exhibit will tell the story of the state's coal industry and its effects on the state and the nation. Gatewood and Zwyer have been collecting data and artifacts for several months now.

Recently, in fact, their collection took them beyond the Commonwealth's borders. To get more detailed information, the two went to Washington, D. C., to visit the Smithsonian Institute, the Library of Congress and the National Archives.

Unfortunately, because of their lack of time, Gatewood and Zwyer left Washington largely empty-handed. They were not in the capital city long enough to get into the red tape involved in borrowing artifacts for their exhibit, he said.

So, upon returning from Washington, Gatewood set out on a similar mission, only within the state. He spent a week in Kentucky's eastern coalfields region talking with miners and retired miners. According to Gatewood, his venture into eastern Kentucky was much more successful than his trip to the District of Columbia.

"One of the real finds in eastern Kentucky," Gatewood said, "was a fellow who was a mining engineer for something like 40 years. He helped me a lot by talking about how they mined, from the early periods right up to the present. He also had some artifacts that are going to be used in some of the sections in our tentative designs (of the exhibit). He had the original surveying equipment and some old mining lights."

The concept behind the "mobile museum," according to Zwyer, is that "teachers should try to integrate the Historymobile into their classroom." To help teachers do this, the two joined Nancy Penney, director of the society's Younger Historian program, and worked up an educational packet on Daniel Boone.

"Boone was a typical pioneer leader," Gatewood said, "when you get into his actual life. We tried to show the man, not the myth. But, sadly, too often teachers refuse to backtrack, to go back to a period they have already covered. If they would only take the time, it would make the children's visits to the Historymobile much more meaningful."

Zwyer told a story about one festival he visited. "One woman couldn't understand one of the remarks made in the tour about why the Indians considered farming such a threat to their existence, so she came up to ask me about it after the tour. I spent about five minutes with her, explaining that farming used land and woods the Indians used for hunting. Once she understood that such activity would drive away a certain amount of wild game, she was satisfied."

Both men said they were allowed a great deal of freedom in the program, largely because the concept was still in the formative period. Not that the concept was theirs originally, Gatewood explained, because it wasn't.

When Gatewood joined the society three years ago, Lewis Woods, the society's field services director, and Ann Bevins had been adapting the idea to fit Kentucky. They used similar "mobile museum" projects in Pennsylvania, Illinois, Michigan, North Carolina, Wisconsin and Nebraska as their models. Although other states initiated similar programs, Kentucky's is one of only a few left operating.

And for a time it seemed that this one also would shut down, for lack of funds. But Gatewood said that since the governor's 1976-'78 budget passed the General Assembly, there would be no funding problem, at least for this biennium.

Still, Gatewood said, there are some needs. "We need a third man. Dan and I split up the driving duties—he takes a week or so, then I drive. But that kind of pace does not let us focus enough on replacing the exhibits—on getting new ideas. It would be nice to have another driver."

Gen. William Buster, director of the Historical Society, agreed. But he said the pair was doing a "great job." Describing the program as "highly successful," Buster explained the problems Zwyer and Gatewood have to contend with. "The people at the site just don't realize what is necessary in the way of electrical hookup and that sort of thing. There have been times that we have lost half a day trying to set up properly because the facilities weren't prepared. But we are trying to straighten that out by sending Lewis Woods or Nancy Penney ahead to do the advance work."

So, according to Gen. Buster, Tom Gatewood and Dan Zwyer, the Historymobile is very much a "family" affair. The success of the program has been a source of great pride in the Historical Society, and the program's curators are intent on maintaining that success.

But Gatewood and Zwyer agree that foremost on their minds is sticking to the program basic philosophy—taking Kentucky's history to the people.

Winter Damage To Roads Placed At $3.9 Million

Frankfort, Ky.—Now that spring has finally arrived, everyone has stopped muttering about that miserable weather last winter—everybody except the Kentucky Department of Transportation.

According to State Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts, the state expects to spend an estimated $3.9 million over the next several months to repair winter damage to Kentucky's highways.

The work will include repairing everything from major earth slides, road-bed erosion and water damage to potholes and pavement break-ups.

Roberts said that the cost of those repairs comes on top of yet another $2.3 million spent during the 1975-'76 winter to keep the roads clear of snow and ice.

Between December 1975 and March 1976, state road maintenance crews spread 56,000 tons of salt on state-maintained roads.

Most of that work took place near the larger urban centers. Most of the spring and summer repair projects—many already begun—will be concentrated in the more-rural areas since damage to roads in those areas often does not become evident until traffic begins to pick up in the spring.

METHODIST STUDY CRITICAL OF WOMEN'S IMAGE ON TV

CHICAGO, Ill.—Preliminary findings of a study by the United Methodist Church show that the image of women on prime time television is "partial and dehumanizing."

The report on a TV-monitoring project, presented to a meeting of the church board of Global Ministries, says that "with the exception of occasional tokens, women are not portrayed as professional, well-trained and educated, competent persons."

"Don't destroy your ideals! Don't tear down your dreams!"

These are words of advice that we have all heard throughout our lives. They are still excellent bits of wisdom that could well be passed on to our young people today. We read of sit-ins, demonstrations, walk-outs, and many other forms of revolt and rebellion. "We fight for our ideals," they say. It is a noble thing to have ideals. But, if in our haste to obtain our own rights, we over-lap and take away the rights of others, we can easily be tearing down, rather than building up.

We all have dreams and ideals, and they were not easily obtained. Usually when we destroy these ideals and dreams, we end up breaking our own hearts.

OUR THOUGHT TO REMEMBER: Only your attitude builds your dreams and ideals. Only you can destroy them.
