This bus, converted into a motor home by its owner, William F. Paulsen, of Heath, Ohio, was completely destroyed by fire Monday morning as it was parked at the roadside in Jenny Wiley State Park. The blaze began when Paulsen reportedly spilled hot grease on the floor of the bus while frying fish, igniting the rug and curtains. Paulsen's attempts to control the flames with a small fire extinguisher were unsuccessful and he reported that three passing motorists ignored his pleas for help. By the time Park rangers and the Prestonsburg Fire Department could be called to the scene the bus had been gutted at an estimated loss of $60,000.

Waste System That Will Work Urged by Jury

The grand jury in its final report to Circuit Judge Conley last Friday called on the Floyd fiscal court to take immediate action to effect a workable garbage collection system in the county. "We recognize," the report said, "that other grand juries before us have cited the serious problems our county has had with garbage and pollution. It is our feeling that the Floyd county fiscal court should take immediate action to initiate a workable garbage system... Further, it is our feeling that law-enforcement officials should make every effort to prevent dumping of garbage in streams and along highways of the county."

The report, signed by Roland Jones, foreman, noted that the "great majority" of crimes is committed by juveniles, and expressed the opinion that the juvenile detention center now under construction here can be very useful in curbing the juvenile delinquency problem.

The jury recommended that the county employ a professional janitorial service to clean all parts of the courthouse; that courthouse hallways should be kept free of boxes; that lighting should be more closely attended to, third-floor windows cleaned and shower curtains provided in the woman's section of the jail. The jury also suggested that the jailer should closely supervise all cleaning work and the providing of other needs of the courthouse.

Friends of Kentucky Educational Television Floyd County Mini-Board will meet tomorrow (Thursday) at 7 p.m., at the Prestonsburg Woman's Club Arts and Crafts House, Archer Park. All members of the board are urged to attend as plans for the ascertainment interviews, in compliance with FCC regulations, must be made at this time.

Magoffin Man Fourth Charged By Grand Jury

By the time of its adjournment last Friday morning the Floyd circuit court's grand jury had voted murder indictments against four persons and a fifth true bill alleging first degree manslaughter.

Three of the murder indictments were filed, early in jury's split session. These named John Henry Newsome and his two daughter, Barbara and Gloria Faye, in the stabbing death here of Gerald McBrayer. The fourth murder bill was voted last week after the jury's return from a recess. It named Dallas Fletcher in the Salyersville shooting of Mike Williams, who later died at Highlands Medical Center near here.

The indictment against Fletcher, who was listed as a Magoffin county deputy sheriff at the time of the shooting, alleged that Fletcher "did intentionally shoot with the intent to kill Mike Williams, a police officer in the city of Salyersville, while the said Mike Williams... was in the lawful performance of his duties."

The manslaughter indictment named Edward Allen Tackett in the shooting death last June at Wheelwright of Mrs. Corinne Boyd Hall, 42.

A first degree robbery charge was lodged against William A. Riley and Albert Kingerly, who were accused of

Media Fault Alleged In Story of Hospital

Hospital Plans Added Services, Official Claims

Any impression given the public by recent daily newspaper publicity that Our Lady of the Way Hospital at Martin may close is completely erroneous, a hospital representative emphasized here Monday.

Sister Loretta Ann, co-administrator at the hospital, expressed concern that the publicity failed to afford a true picture of the situation and may have created in the public mind the belief that Our Lady of the Way might cease to function. She added that the hospital not only will continue to operate but that it plans extensions of its services.

The only normal service that has been temporarily curtailed is surgery, she said, and that followed the departure of the Drs. deGuzman.

"The hospital is actively recruiting a surgeon and will inform the community when surgery is available," it was said.

One 10-bed wing of the hospital was closed temporarily, but it has been reopened for three weeks now, Sister Loretta Ann said. She explained that limited areas of the hospital have been closed temporarily in the past.

Eastern Bridge Let to Contract On $54,000 Bid

The Floyd fiscal court at its meeting Monday afternoon awarded a contract for the construction of a bridge to span Right Beaver Creek at Eastern on a bid of $54,000.

The successful bidder is Bush & Burchett, Inc., of Prestonsburg. The firm, which was the only bidder, proposes to construct a poured-in-place concrete bridge. Its bid does not include grade work on approaches or temporary detour if one is required.

Awarding a contract on the work was delayed when the State Bureau of Highways suggested that the route of new KY 80 at Eastern should first be determined. County Judge Henry Stumbo was absent from Monday's meeting, and Magistrate Dewey Roberts was chosen by the other three magistrates to preside as acting chairman.

The court approved the claim of Sheriff Joe W. Lewis for $2,414.75 postage expense incurred in mailing tax bills. Reimbursement will be made when the tax bills are collected and the sheriff's claim is submitted, the court order noted.

County Attorney Harold J. Stumbo announced the receipt of $33,300 in coal severance tax funds to pay for land purchased from the C. & O. Railway Company for the county park near Allen. Contract on Phase I of the park is scheduled for letting at the Oct. 11 fiscal court meeting.

This Town...That World

Two weeks after the Labor Day deadline they tell me the straw hat season is over.

Fellow who is uncommonly lucky fishing once solemnly assured me that you have to be smarter than the fish before you can catch 'em. At this juncture I would say that any fish that felt so low that it figured I knew more than it did would simply give up, bypass the hook and crawl into the boat.

WHO KNOWS WHAT?

Somebody is guilty of inconsistency. Months ago, we indicated to the boys at Frankfort that a lot of brood bass were being taken every spring from Dewey Lake and that it might be a good idea to give the fish a chance to hatch their own and so repopulate the lake. Back came a letter in which the writer expressed little less than positive delight that the lake was yielding fish like that and voiced no fear whatsoever that the supply might not be inexhaustible. In fact, fish biologists for years have been assuring one and all that you can't "fish out" a lake, and most of them have denied the necessity of a closed season at spawning time.

But now comes the inconsistency. When a biologist was asked, some weeks back, according to the Morehead News, why the bass fishing was poor this year at Cave Run reservoir, near Morehead, the reply was to the effect that "they caught all the keeper-size bass last year."

SLOWLY, PLEASE

Read something, the other day, that indicates that people dearly love to have the pants scared off them. This fellow was speaking of the allure a giant and particularly death-defying roller coaster holds for him. Told of going onto it, of the blood congealing, the old eyes popping, the heart stopping, the ears popping at the top where the plunge began and on the hairpin curves which threatened to hurl him out into space, and so on. And then... he would crawl back onto the

Court Term To End Friday; Jury Holds Garrett Man Guilty

The criminal term of circuit court was winding down this week to its adjournment Friday.

In the one trial completed this week Harold Lloyd Prater was convicted on a charge of knowingly receiving stolen property and was sentenced to 12 months in the county jail. Prater was named in connection with the looting of the Garrett school lunchroom of approximately $1200 worth of foodstuffs, a part of which was recovered.

With a civil session to begin here next Monday, criminal trial interest shifts to the Pike circuit court where Eddie Jones is slated for trial Oct. 12. It is also expected that his father, Agnel Jones, who was indicted by the Pike grand jury last week on a charge of conspiring, aiding and abetting in the murder of Lawrence Conley, will go on trial at the same time in a consolidation of the cases.

Jurors Listed For Civil Term

The September criminal term of circuit court will end Friday, and the October civil session will convene Monday, Oct. 4.

Jurors summoned for service at the civil term of court are:

Elmer Campbell, Allen; Phillip Porter, Allen; Ted Hicks, Prestonsburg; Eddie Hackworth, West Prestonsburg; Mrs. W. W. Wallen, Prestonsburg; Charles Marshall, Prestonsburg; Eugene Rose, Harold; Franklin D. Governor Carroll To Speak Here at Festival of Faith Event

Gov. Julian Carroll will be the featured speaker at the regional service to be held Oct. 2 at the Jenny Wiley State Park amphitheatre as a part of the state's three-month Bicentennial Festival of Faith.

Events in the Festival of Faith have been planned by the 23-member Bicentennial Prayer Events Committee, appointed by the governor. The committee, representative of all religious denominations in the Commonwealth, was appointed to ensure that the state's religious heritage was emphasized during the Bicentennial.

"It is my belief that Kentucky's progress must, in large part, be attributed to our faith in God, and I call upon my fellow Kentuckians to pray, each in his or her own way, for the strength to meet the challenges of the future and to pay tribute to our religious heritage by participating in the various activities planned by the committee," Gov. Carroll said.

The music program by Kenny Price, of country music fame, will begin at 2:30 p.m. Governor Carroll will speak at 3 p.m.

Reed Refuses To Destroy Case Records

Andrew J. Reed, formerly of Hueysville and Martin, who is chief of police at Richmond, Ky., is involved in a legal question which is so knotty that it may not be untied.

The question is whether a police judge may require police to get rid of records of a suspect whose case has been dismissed.

The question arose when Jack Daniels, a former Eastern Kentucky University student, had a bad-check charge dismissed in police court.

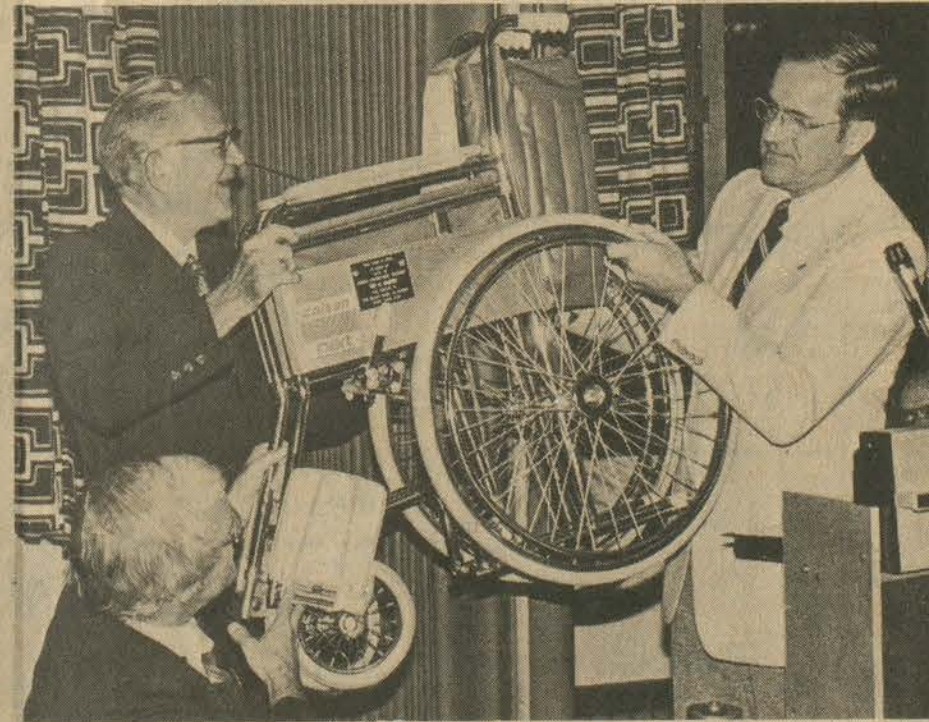

Lawyer Bob Moody sought to have Daniels' case removed from the police records.

Police Judge Paul Fagan ordered police to get rid of the records, but Police Chief Reed has refused.

Since Moody, the city attorney, was representing Daniels, State Sen. John Lackey, also a Richmond attorney, represented the police.

Kiwanis Division 8 Meets Here

President of Kiwanis International Ted R. Osborn presents wheelchair to Chalmers Frazier, president of the Highlands Hospital Corporation.

Approximately 150 members representing most of the 16 clubs of Kiwanis International, Division 8, gathered at May Lodge Thursday evening to welcome International President and Prestonsburg native Ted R. Osborn on the last official visit of his term to the Kentucky-Tennessee Kiwanis District.

After short addresses by Prestonsburg Kiwanis Club President Jim Necessary and Lieut. Governor for Division 8 "Huck" Francis, who served as master of ceremonies, Charles Gibson, governor of the Kentucky-Tennessee District of Kiwanis International, introduced Osborn. Mr. Osborn spoke to the group about his travels to Kiwanis organizations in 52 foreign countries. Citing a number of worthy projects initiated by Kiwanis in other lands, he told the group the ways in which other clubs had helped realize this year's Kiwanis motto of "Touch a Life."

Osborn presented one of three wheelchairs which had been given him by the Wilkes-Barre, Pa. club to Chalmers Frazier, president of the Highlands Hospital Corporation, who accepted on behalf of Highlands Regional Medical Center. "The Wilkes-Barre club presented these wheelchairs to me so I could, in turn, donate them to organizations which I felt would be worthy," Osborn said. "And it gives me a real sense of satisfaction to present this chair to such a fine hospital serving my native area."

Osborn also presented a plaque to Cecil Sturgill, president of the East Floyd County Kiwanis Club for the club's efforts in organizing the first two "Builder's Clubs," or grade school versions of the Kiwanis organization's high school Key Clubs, which were established at the Harold and Betsy Layne Elementary Schools. The East Floyd club was also cited for organizing the first new Key Club to be established by any club for the 1975-'76 year. The new Key Club was organized at Betsy Layne High School.

National Mines Team Wins Kentucky Title

National Mines Corporation's Beaver Creek Division mine rescue team which, a few months ago, was engaged in rescue efforts at the Scotia mine under the grimmest, most tragic conditions, last Saturday won the state mine rescue contest by excelling in battling simulated disaster-situation.

The state title was won in competition with 15 other mine rescue squads from various parts of Kentucky.

Last year, the National Mines team won the U. S. one-hour mine rescue contest.

The state mine rescue and first-aid contests were held at Madisonville. The teams competed Friday, and, overnight, judges using an intricate point system decided that the National Mines squad was the winner. The competition involved make-believe hazards of every kind to be encountered on the way to rescue imaginary victims.

Peabody Coal Company's No. 1 Mine in western Kentucky won second place. The first-aid championship was won by a team representing the P & M Coal Company in Muhlenberg county.

The two-day state competition was held on a baseball field in the Madisonville city park. The objective of the rescue teams was to reach three "trapped" miners through a maze of gas, fire, roof falls, water, dangerous air and ventilation devices that had been rendered useless.

The events were sponsored by the Kentucky Mining Institute with the cooperation of the U. S. Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration, the Big Sandy-Elkhorn Mining Institute and the West Kentucky Mining Institute.

Students Offer Help in Battle On Drug Usage

Students themselves have made a worthwhile contribution toward a solution of the drug problem in Floyd county schools, Supt. of Schools E. P. Grigsby said this week.

Mr. Grigsby said the suggestions which concerned students have offered will be presented at next Wednesday's monthly meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education.

The students have suggested that, in addition to tighter controls and drug education, youthful users of drugs might be helped by discussing their problems with other students, thus establishing contact with persons of their own age who share modern-day problems.

Superintendent Grigsby said the board of education will be given a complete resume of all findings and recommendations made by teachers, ministers and others following a meeting with the board here several weeks ago. He added that some school principals already have initiated drug education and control in their schools.

A second general conference of board members, school leaders, ministers and others is expected to be held.

Hale-Harmon Vows Exchanged

On Friday evening July 16, in a bicentennial wedding, Miss Gwendolyn Sue Hale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hale, of Blue River, and Mr. Robert Vance Harmon, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Harmon of Hueysville, exchanged vows at the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church.

The candlelight ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. D. Jagers before an altar centered with a prayer bench and decorated with white mums interspersed with red and blue carnations. Spiral candelabra were flanked with palm fronds, while ivy-wreathed candelabra completed the setting. Golden candelabra decorated with red, white, and blue ribbons were used as pew markers.

A program of music was provided by the organist, Mrs. Joe Buchanan, of Prestonsburg, who also accompanied the vocalist, Mr. Darrell Bailey of Salyersville. He sang "If Ever I Would Leave You", "Wedding Song", and "We've Only Just Begun".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of traditional white sata peau, enhanced with Alencon lace, bugle beads and pearls. The sweetheart neckline, shepherdess sleeves, empire waist and a-line silhouette added to the attached lace-strewn semi-cathedral train. Her profile headpiece of lace motifs which was sparkled with pearls held her mantilla veil, deeply bordered with Alencon lace. She carried a bouquet of white sweetheart roses, a single gardenia and babies breath, with long, white satin streamers.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Diane Bailey, of Salyersville, and the maid of honor, Miss Betty Kay Rice, of Lexington, were attired in off-white floor-length gowns of polyester imprinted with red and blue flowers. The gowns, accented with lace and scooped necklines, featured a deep ruffle at the hemline, puffed sleeves, and a contrasting red ribbon at the waist. To complete the ensemble an off-white hat with a contrasting red band was worn. They carried nosegays of red carnations, white and blue daisies, with flowing red streamers.

Bridesmaids included Miss Joette Combs, of Paintsville, Miss Janet Johnson, of Blue River, Mrs. Anita Barber, of Lexington, sister of the bride, and Miss Edwynna Hale, of Blue River, sister of the bride. The bridesmaids wore identical dresses to those of the maid and matron of honor with a blue ribbon at the waistline and a blue band on the hat. They carried nosegays of red carnations, white and blue daisies with blue streamers. Flower girl was little Miss Maurina Allen, of Pyramid.

John Coburn, of Beattyville, brother-in-law of the groom, served as best man. Groomsmen included Adrian Bentley, Jr., of Hueysville, Darrell Bailey, of Salyersville, Ned Lidvall, of Lexington, Roger T. Watkins, of East Point, and Frank Harmon, cousin of the groom, of Benton, Illinois. Master Jonathon Hale, of Blue River, served as ringbearer.

Mrs. Hale attended her daughter's wedding in a floor-length gown of light blue quiana polyester. Mrs. Harmon was attired in a floor-length, short-sleeves, two-piece illusional gown of powder blue. The mothers wore corsages of white sweetheart roses.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, where the Cliffroads Band entertained with music.

Mrs. Louise Howard, Mrs. Clara Stephens, and Mrs. June Stephens, all of Pyramid, Mrs. Priscilla Allen, of Hueysville, and Mrs. Mildred Whitaker, of West Prestonsburg, served as receptionists. Miss Brenda Hicks, of West Prestonsburg, presided at the guest register.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Francis Harmon, of Benton, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Lon C. Hill, Huntington, W. Va., Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Allen, Manchester, Ky., Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harmon and daughters, Evansville, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. James Henry Hale, San Antonio, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Perkins, Washington, D. C., Frank Harmon, Tampa, Fla., Dave Triplett, Corbin, Ky., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tingue, Lexington, Ky., Mr. and Mrs. Church Nunley and Susan, Frankfort, Ky., and Mr. and Mrs. Dana Miles Stephens, South Williamson, West Virginia.

The couple enjoyed a two-week European honeymoon, touring Switzerland, Germany, Austria, Italy, Holland, and a cruise on the Rhine River. They now reside in Lexington, Kentucky.

Alice Lloyd Offers Extension Courses

Would you like to try your hand at pottery; brush up on your art skills; learn to play guitar; gain insight into personal growth; learn more about Appalachian culture?

This fall, Alice Lloyd College is offering many interesting extension courses—some for college credit, others for personal enrichment.

Courses for credit include "Appalachian Style: A Symposium on Mountain Ways" promises to be an exciting avenue for learning more about mountain culture. Meeting at the Hindman Settlement School beginning Tuesday, September 21, the courses will be taught by ten outstanding experts in their own fields.

Also at the Hindman Settlement School, Lyn Adams and Peter Cary will teach "Mass Communication: Learning to Communicate through Writing and Photography." Adams is an outstanding photographer, layout and design consultant. Cary is editor and writer for the Mountain Review magazine. This course offers an opportunity for students to see their own work published in local media. Students can earn three hours of credit in this course which will meet Tuesdays from 7-10 p.m., beginning September 21.

Two courses for credit are offered at Jenkins High School. Glenna Matney will teach "Art Introduction: A General Course in Appreciation and Beginning Art," and James Bergman will teach "Psychology 120: Ways of Personal Growth. Both courses earn three hours credit and will be taught Thursdays, 7-10 p.m., beginning September 23.

"Guitar: For Beginners and Intermediates" can earn students one credit hour. Warren Wolfe, classical guitarist, will teach a variety of methods and styles and will give individual attention to each student. The 10-week course begins Wednesday, September 22, 7-10 p.m., in the Hindman Settlement School Library. There is a $15 fee for this course.

These courses for college credit may be taken tuition free upon application during the Fall 1976 semester only. High school seniors can get a head start on their college education under the dual enrollment with principal or counselor's permission plan. For more details on

Child Care Project In Knott, 14 Other Counties Is Funded

Frankfort, Ky.—Gov. Julian M. Carroll has announced that a grant totaling $983,175 has been approved by the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) for the fifth and final year of funding of the Development Child Care Project.

The project, administered by Kentucky Youth Research Center, Inc., serves 1,182 children up to five years of age in a 15-county area of Appalachian Kentucky. The counties include Knott, Bell, Whitley, Laurel, Rockcastle, Knox, Wolfe, Breathitt, Harlan, Jackson, Clay, Lee, Letcher, Leslie and Perry.

Development Secretary William L. Short said that of the 15 counties served, 14 provide center-based services to 1,032 children aged three to five years and include day care, nutrition, health screening and follow-up, education stimulation, referral to appropriate service agencies and parent involvement.

In Knott county, home-based services are provided to 150 children up to three years old and include education stimulation, nutrition, health screening and follow-up, referral to appropriate service agencies and parent involvement.

courses for credit call: Community Programs, Alice Lloyd College: 368-2111; (Night) 368-3640.

If you're not interested in college credit, but would like to learn some new (and fun) skills, Alice Lloyd College offers courses of interest, too. At the Hindman Settlement School, Mike Ware will teach pottery on two days—Monday and/or Thursday, 6:30-9:30 p.m. A $20 fee for the 12-week course covers materials. Course begins September 20.

Daphne Moore will teach cake decorating in a "learn through doing" situation at the Hindman Settlement School. Classes begin September 23 at 7 p.m. and meet once a week for 6-8 weeks. Cost: $10 plus recipe ingredients.

At the Old Knott County High School, Pippa Passes, Betty Bergman and Christine Medlin will teach creative cooking. Beginning Tuesday, September 21, 6:30 p.m., the class will decide what they want to create. There is no fee for the 6-8 week course. Recipe ingredients costs will be determined.

Charlie Whitaker has learned basket making from Will Owsley, master craftsman. He will share his skills with students beginning Tuesday, September 21, 7 p.m., in the craft shop at Alice Lloyd College. The six-week class costs $15, but Charlie points out that there is a market for these baskets which may be sold for $15-$35. Three baskets can be assembled in six weeks.

Registration for all courses will be the first day of class. For more information on registration for courses for credit or interest; call or write: Community Programs, Alice Lloyd College, Pippa Passes, Ky. 41844. (606) 368-2111.

Our Lady of Mountains P.T.A. Meeting Held

Our Lady of the Mountains School P.T.A. held its first meeting of the current year, September 16, at the school in Paintsville.

Following opening prayer led by the Rev. Shockey, a nominating committee was appointed to recommend new officers, and the budget was discussed. The school's annual magazine subscription drive will begin soon, and the citrus fruit sale will be directed again this year by Mrs. William Cook. Both are conducted to meet necessary expenses of the school which this year has an enrollment of approximately 85. Volunteers to act as teachers' aides were asked by Sister Alma Marie, principal, who conducted the meeting.

At conclusion of the meeting, a social period was enjoyed.

Court Orders Restrain Mines

Franklin Circuit Court Judge Squire N. Williams recently issued restraining orders to two eastern Kentucky coal operations, following action by the state environmental department.

The Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection had charged Wallins Creek Coal Co., of Wallins Creek, and Thomas L. Parson, of Eolia, with strip mining without first obtaining a permit from the state division of reclamation.

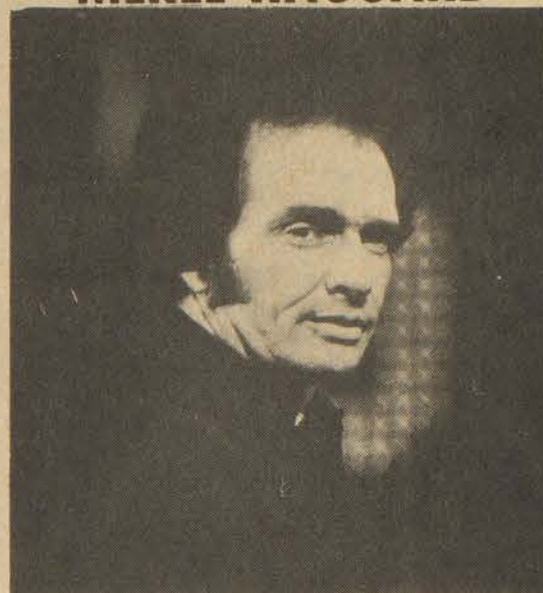

Wallins Creek Coal Co. was charged with illegally strip mining an area of approximately 12 acres located on Meadow Creek of Wallins Creek in Harlan County. The environmental department is seeking a bond of $84,000 as the cost of performing reclamation if the coal firm doesn't carry it out.

Also, the environmental department charged Thomas L. Parson with strip mining without a permit a three-acre site off Highway 15 on Highway 1410 near Amburgey in Knott County. The department seeks a performance bond of $21,000 as the approximate cost of reclamation.

The environmental department is seeking a penalty of $1,000 for the initial violation and $1,000 a day for each day the violation continues from each operator. The department is also asking that each operator submit a reclamation plan to the division of reclamation to insure proper reclamation of the affected areas.

The Governor Is Right

Kentucky's Governor Julian Carroll's stand against the proliferation of nuclear power plants along the Ohio river has attracted wide interest and deserves the support of other governors of states in the area to be affected.

The governor rightly holds that coal, the faults of which are known, is preferable to nuclear power with all the shadows of the unknown hovering over it.

Governor Carroll may have already read the Bechtel Corporation's so-called White Letters of a few years ago. If he hasn't, he should, for this "plan for the future" charted Kentucky as the nation's energy center, with coal to be produced first, and then as its supply diminished nuclear power to become dominant—so dominant that the White Paper even looked to the displacement of the population and its housing, not in duplexes but in what was graphically—and prophetically?—termed "nuplexes."

White Paper No. 2 continued with plans for energy production and the conversion of a gutted Eastern Kentucky into a giant playground, with its valleys converted into lakes.

All this, when it was first proposed, had all the unreality of science fiction. But as present plans develop it appears that somebody has taken Bechtel seriously.

It is comforting to know that Governor Carroll and others are concerned about a situation which could not only relegate the coal industry to the scrap pile but also create another industry that could upset the whole pattern of living for a great part of the population.

Warrant Names Ivel Man As 'Bad Liquor' Seller

An Ivel man was named here Tuesday in a warrant alleging that he sold illegal intoxicants to a resident of that section of the county, and County Attorney Harold J. Stumbo was told that the purchaser may lose his eyesight as a consequence of drinking the liquor.

Elige Collins is receiving treatment at a Pikeville hospital. One warrant which the county attorney said was sworn out by Virginia Sumler named Ed Kidd as the seller of the intoxicant. Another warrant charged both Kidd and his wife, Doris, with terroristic threatening.

State troopers were called to the courthouse after threats against Mrs. Sumler were reported, and they booked the Kidds. Mrs. Kidd later executed bond.

A raid by Sheriff Joe W. Lewis and Deputy Sheriff Randall Lewis in the Buckingham Mountain vicinity Saturday resulted in the arrest of Harry Gordon Johnson on charges of selling and possession of alcoholic beverages. Johnson's arrest came after Deputy Sheriff Lewis, driving an unmarked car and dressed in plain clothes, purchased beer from him. About four cases of beer were confiscated in the raid.

Other booked at the county jail, charges against each and arresting officers follow:

Rickie Stanley, drunk driving, eluding police officers and reckless driving, by Wheelwright City Marshals Harold and Mildred Bates; Earnest Little, carrying a concealed deadly weapon, by State Troopers Stumbo and Shelton; Elisha Adkins, drunk driving, by Deputy Sheriffs J. D. and Melvin Martin; Orville Tom Hall, drunk driving, by Deputy Sheriffs J. D. and Melvin Martin; Dennis Conn, drunk driving, by Deputy Sheriffs J. D. and Melvin Martin; John W. Patton, drunk driving, by State Trooper Hall; William D. Samons, drunk driving, by Park Rangers Hughes and Maynard; Harold Senterfeit, drunk driving and extreme reckless driving, by Deputy Sheriffs Doug and Randall Lewis; Mae Senterfeit, resisting arrest, by Deputy

Scouts Announce Recruiting Plans

The annual fall membership campaign in Lonesome Pine Council, Boy Scouts of America, began this month as 97 Scout troops, Cub Scout packs and Explorer posts are enrolling new members. The Scout council expects to give an opportunity to more than 700 young men and women to join the Boy Scouts John Fischer, Council president, said.

Troop Rally Nights, Parents' Nights and Roundups are scheduled this fall by nearly every Scouting unit in all 13 counties served by the Council.

Fischer explained that a boy may become a Scout when he is 11 years old or has completed the fifth grade. He may become a Cub Scout when he is 8 years old or has completed the second grade. High school age young people are invited to join Exploring.

In addition to the young men and women who join existing packs, troops, and Explorer posts, Fischer said, the Council's professional staff expects to organize 21 new packs, troops, and posts.

Information about the Scout, Cub Scout, and explorer programs is available from the council service center, P. O. Box 110, Pikeville, Kentucky 41501. Phone (606) 437-6209.

Although four doctors on its staff resigned, it was the departure of Dr. deGuzman, surgeon, and his wife, who also is a doctor, that caused most public concern. A petition bearing the names of hundreds of persons was circulated, asking the deGuzmans' return.

The 39-bed hospital recently celebrated 29 years of service to the county, and announced that it continues to improve and expand its services. The staff, normally 11, now consists of seven doctors who are located in different areas of Eastern Kentucky—"so as," it was explained, "to be more available to the people in need of health care." These staff members are Dr. Lowell Martin, of Martin; Dr. Grady Stumbo, Dr. Laurie Dornbrand, Dr. Cathy Payne and Dr. Kenneth Payne, all of the East Kentucky Health Services Center, Hindman; Dr. Roger Akers, Wheelwright, and Dr. Mary Swaykus, of the Mud Creek Health Project at Craynor.

The hospital explained its status in a prepared statement:

"All professional services, respiratory therapy, laboratory, X-ray and pharmacy services, continue to complement and complete the hospital's medical services. The pharmacy department has recently expanded its services to include a new method of supplying medicines to the hospitalized patient called 'Unit Dose.' This system provides more checks to assure that the patient is properly receiving the medicines ordered by the doctor and that those medicines are being properly charged for. Furthermore, the system allows the pharmacist to assist the doctor in making sure that none of the medicines ordered interfere with each other.

"The Pastoral Care program provides a ministry to the sick and dying, assisting them with prayer and physical presence and providing moral and prayer support to their families in a way that is truly a celebration of the fullness of life. The Social Service department, staffed with two full-time social workers, assists patients and staff in a variety of ways which include the following: Home health referrals, emotional support, medical equipment, transportation, housing, nursing home placement, child abuse, eyeglasses, senior citizens, rehabilitation, blood bank, black lung benefits and other forms of financial assistance.

"In order to evaluate the health care needs so that hospitalization for the patient as long as medically necessary is assured and to determine the level of care required in the immediate post-hospitalization period, Our Lady of the Way has a very active discharge planning committee. Three times per week, a team of hospital personnel from nursing service, pastoral care, social services, dietary, utilization review and in-service education departments meets to review each patient's needs. Medical staff (members) are present on a consultative basis. By doing this early in the patient's hospitalization, the physician and hospital staff are able to better care for the patients most in need of their abilities and skills. Not all patients are in need of services following hospitalization, but this system guarantees that those needing to be followed by a specific hospital department or by an agency outside the hospital are not bypassed.

"In the future, Our Lady of the Way sees itself as moving in the direction of family health care. Drawing upon the very close-knit family units and the strong extended family relationships of Eastern Kentucky, it is desirable to use and expand these existing ties in promoting health. In the entire delivery of health care as seen by the hospital, family members would then become nurse extenders. Through the provision of health care education to patients and their family members and the delivery of preventive health care, Our Lady of the Way Hospital hopes to promote family health with the involvement and cooperation of family members in giving health care to their own families."

thing again, irresistibly drawn there by the promise of more thrills.

Maybe that explains why we used to sit before a big, open fire, shivering in our boots, scarcely drawing a breath while some older person would tell ghost stories. The night outside was never darker, the soft night sounds were never eerier, and there was no place to hide. But we loved it, and always came back again for the fright that we knew awaited us.

Scare me again—but don't make it sudden-like.

THE DREAMER

Now this from the Masonic Relief Association's Bulletin:

He used to dream of the things he'd do when grown to be a man, beguiling boyhood years away with many an idle plan.

And now, when grown to be a man, he knows no greater joy than dreaming of the things he'd do if still he were a boy!

And now a promise:

If the mill next week is as sadly wanting for grist as now, this column will go on vacation.

Revival at Martin

The Rev. Ed Taylor will lead the Community Church in McGuire Camp, Martin, in a revival beginning today (Wednesday) and continuing through Oct. 3. Services will be at 7 p.m. daily, with special singing. The public is invited to attend.

taking at gunpoint a 1976 Cadillac automobile from Millis Hamilton. Among the major indictments was one naming Verlin R. Smith on a first degree arson count for allegedly setting fire to the home of Virgil Hunt, and a forgery bill against Racheal Webb who was accused of forging the names of Burl Wells Spurlock and Elza Webb to a $13,867.11 check. Hobart Terry, who last week was convicted of burglarizing the service station of Dickie Allen at Bybro and given a three-year pen term, was indicted on a charge of third degree burglary for allegedly breaking into Allen's home and taking articles valued at $500 or more.

Five indictments named as many persons on the charge of possessing alcoholic beverages for the purpose of sale. All five bills were voted on the testimony of Sheriff Joe W. Lewis or a deputy. Defendants were listed as Bobby Clay, Bill Tom Shepherd, Kent Lambert, Azzie Newsome and Edgelge Hall.

Other indictments follow:

Phillip Kidd, first degree criminal mischief, accused of destroying $3,000 worth of the equipment of the Leonard Hall mine; Randy Hall, first degree burglary, taking a "Red Devil" and wire valued at more than $300 from the Carry Back Coal Company at Sugar Loaf; Robert Henry Grey, first degree criminal trespass onto the property of Millard Hughes, and terroristic threatening of serious bodily harm against Larry Hughes; Reon Slone, Russ Slone, Jr., Johnny and Sam Hall, third degree assault and third degree mischief against Denver Slone; James Lee Hall and Robert Hall, theft of a CB radio and flashlight from the auto of Shirley Turner; Gene Allen Rivers, theft of a 1975 Pontiac automobile from Michael Jervis; Tommy Terry, wanton endangerment, shooting into the home of Willard Ashley; Lynn Hall, first degree assault, striking Andy Hall with an auto; Johnny Wright, terroristic threatening on the life of Lana Martin; David Akers and Sterling Hall, second degree burglary, two cases, one for allegedly taking more than $300 in merchandise from the business of Emmett Howell, the other for taking items valued at $200 or more from the business of Sherman Rice; Oliver Setser, first degree wanton endangerment by shooting at Shirley Hayden; Johnny Ballard Keathley, theft of a CB radio from the auto of Karen Skeens; Hershel Shepherd, first degree wanton endangerment by shooting at Johaha Tackett, and Henry Shepherd, first degree assault on Tackett; Bobby Campbell Sanders and Jim Sanders, third degree assault on Kathleen Willis; Gene Hayden, third degree assault on Charles Hayden; Marvin Moore, third degree assault on Keith Lawson; Faye Stanley, theft by giving Cline Trucking Co. a $367.50 worthless check; Debbie and Betty Caudill, first degree wanton endangerment by shooting at Karen Blankenship; Maikie D. Harvey and Douglas Hall, third degree burglary by entering the store of Elmo Campbell; Jerry Adkins, James W. Cleavenger and Bruce Irvin Miller, third degree burglary, entering of the motorcycle shop of Baker Bros., Inc.; Danny Joe Brown and Claude Plummer, third degree burglary of Dean's Used Cars; Raymond Jarrell, hit-run by striking the auto of Eunice Sammons and leaving the scene of an accident.

By agreement, both sides asked for an opinion from the state attorney general's office. That didn't help.

The opinion, received earlier this month, merely said Kentucky has no law that permits expunging of police records—and no law that forbids it.

Moody said last week that not only is there no state statute dealing with the question, "there are no Kentucky cases on it, either." He said expunging of records is "a common-law equitable remedy for a court to administer justice."

Chief Reed said, however, that if police departments were ordered to get rid of records in dismissed cases, they "would immediately need to employ additional help."

Lackey noted also that police area required within 30 days of an arrest to send records to the state police and the FBI. He said it would be almost impossible to get them back.

"The chief is in a bind," Lackey said. "He said the next move would be to take the case to circuit court to get a ruling one way or the other."

But Moody said he has not been retained to take any further action in the case. He said Daniels has returned to his home state of Florida and has not been in touch.

(Reed was formerly police chief of Martin in this county.)

CB Club News

The Floyd County CB Club met Sunday at 2 p.m. at the courthouse. The members were a bit disappointed with their efforts at the Floyd County Fair. Members had been enlisted to bake cakes and pies and make candy to sell, then were told the club could not have a concession stand. So all they could do was give away coffee and sell chances on the radio which was given away Saturday. It was won by Terry Cooley. The club takes this opportunity to thank the Prestonsburg Police Dept. for being so efficient in protecting the CB booth at night.

Each meeting, a member donates a raffle gift. This week's gift was donated by Casino Lady (Maude Franko) and won by Beechnut (Donnie Goble).

The next meeting will be Oct. 9 at 7 p.m. at Archer Park. All members are urged to attend and bring a covered dish.

Several members plan to attend the Falling Leaves Jamboree at Chillicothe, Ohio, Oct. 10. Anyone wanting to go, contact Casino Lady (Maude Franko) at Foley's Restaurant.

Members present were Horney Toad (Selton Mullins), Cornshucker (Jack Hopson), Tee-Rail (Frank Sumpter), Casino Lady (Maude Franko), Nine Fingers and Wing Walker (Jerry and Brenda Stricklin), Sunshine (Ray Howard), Beechnut (Donnie Goble), Messengerboy and Ding Bat (Victor and Jean Hickman), Tall Timber (Harry Short), Twister (Betty Slone), Fishy (Frank Slone), Mr. Whiskers (John Tipton), 4 Wheeler (Robert Kensley).

There's Money Waiting

Frankfort, Ky.—If you are at least one-quarter Alaskan Indian, Eskimo or Aleut, a citizen of the United States and were alive on December 18, 1971, you are an heir to the government's $962.5 million dollar grant.

It has been estimated that 90 or more Alaska natives are residents of Kentucky, eligible for shares of their rightful inheritances, portions of the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act of 1971.

It is believed that those Alaska natives in the Commonwealth may be members of the military, native children adopted by non-native parents; perhaps elderly in homes or public institutions or simply those who have chosen to live in Kentucky.

Those who have not yet enrolled are urged to request an application from Pouch 7-1971, Anchorage, Alaska, 99510.

Our Fragile Earth

By DR. HERRY HOWELL
Director of Environmental Studies
Morehead State University

The last article examined some of man's successful efforts in helping endangered species survive. Some of his other actions, intentional and unintentional, though, have hindered species survival. Perhaps the most heartless of these actions are the ones which promote the killing of animals for novelty products.

Modern gift shops often bulge with tasteless curios, primarily animal parts, although whole animals are occasionally on exhibit. Mummified baby alligators and armadillo shells for use as baskets are often found for sale. Gnu and water buffalo tails have been sold as flyswatters and buffalo scrotums have been used as tobacco pouches, complete with zippers. One of the most perverse curios is the elephant foot waste paper basket, obviously for the use of the idiot who has everything.

The Pacific walrus has recently had its population decimated by ivory hunters. There are only about 30,000 of these animals left and as many as 7,000 are killed each year for the ivory carving trade. Obviously the walrus, unprotected by international agreement, cannot withstand this onslaught and the future is bleak because demand for ivory figurines and ornament is increasing.

Human superstition has also increased the demand for certain animal products and this has contributed to the extinction or near-extinction of some species. The ibex or wild mountain goat was exterminated in the Swiss Alps in the 1600's because every part of its body was considered to have some beneficial use.

According to legend, its heart made a strength-giving tonic; its blood was a cure for bladder stones; its heel bone helped combat spleen diseases; its droppings helped anemia and consumption; hair balls found in its fourth stomach were thought to cure cancer, dizziness, hemorrhoids and a host of other ailments. Modern Swiss no longer believe this, probably because there are no more ibex there.

Some modern Chinese still believe in the aphrodisiac qualities of powdered rhinoceros horn. This simple belief has helped reduce the population of the Indian rhino to 600, the Sumatran rhino to 600, the Javan rhino to 21, the black African rhino to 13,000 and the white African rhino to 3,900.

A number of animals have become endangered simply because people have allowed fashion to govern their life styles. Millinery demand for feathers in the early part of this century caused many birds to be placed in danger of extinction. The African ostrich, several species of egret, and New Guinea's species of birds of paradise were victims of this senseless fashion mode.

The sea otter, white seal pups, the African leopard and the Indian tiger have also seen their populations decimated simply because their skin is fashionable. One solution to this senseless slaughter may be to print money from the skin of the purchasers of the products and use the greenskins to buy additional habitat for the animals.

Work Time, Legal For High Schoolers

Frankfort, Ky.—The practice of allowing high school students to check out of school during the last period of each day to work in downtown businesses is legal, according to an opinion from the state Attorney General's Office.

The opinion, issued Sept. 15 to Louis Martin, principal of Corbin High School, was written by Robert L. Chenoweth, assistant attorney general.

In the opinion, Chenoweth wrote, "We note that this program of off-school-premises work would not be a shortening of the school day in fact nor through the course of any action of the school administration."

He said that such a program should be used by school administrators "as an integral part of a high school student's education," and said that emphasis would be in keeping with the Career Education Act of 1976.

PRESTONSBURG HALFBACK William O. Goebel scrambles for several yards during Friday night's contest with Breathitt County high. The Blackcats won the game, 31-0.

The Local Sports Scene

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON

The Prestonsburg Blackcats last Friday rolled to their fourth win of the season as the Cats defeated Breathitt County, 31 to 0. The Wheelwright Trojans at the same time suffered their second straight loss at the hands of Crum, West Virginia by a score of 34 to 16. The Crum team was rated fifth in the state going into the Friday night game at Crum.

Coach Phillip Haywood and his assistants watched the Cats really show their strength on offensive and especially the defensive units as they carried out their assignments with near perfect performances.

The offensive was spearheaded by quarterbacks Greg Dixon and William O. Goebel. The Cats led at halftime, 18 to 0. Dixon scored two touchdowns on runs of 1 and 10 yards. Goebel scored on a 3-yard run in the first half of play. In the second half, he scored two more touchdowns on runs of 35 and 55 yards.

The Cats were successful only one time in their try for the extra as Greg Dixon's kick was good in the second half on the Cats' fourth touchdown. The Cats will get a big test Friday night when they travel to Belfry (3-0).

Against visiting Wheelwright Crum's offensive machine scored 28 points in the first half while the Trojans scored only one touchdown when Ricky Thornsbury recovered a fumble at the 4-yard line and ran it over. Darren Little scored the 2-point conversion. In the second half the Trojan defense tightened and held Crum to only one touchdown while Ricky Thornsbury scored on a 25-yard run and Darren Little scampered over for the 2-point conversion. The Trojans will travel to Elkhorn City Friday night to face the Cougars in a district game.

Oct. 11-15 Named Ky. Cleanup Week

Oct. 11-15 has been proclaimed Community Cleanup Week in Kentucky by Gov. Julian Carroll.

The cleanup week is being sponsored by the state Department for Natural Resources and cleanup projects will be carried out by Kentucky's 114 chapters of Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA). DECA is an educational association designed to teach students marketing, merchandising and management techniques and principles.

The DECA chapters will be competing statewide for awards to be presented by the Department for Natural Resources at the organization's spring state convention in Louisville.

GUN CONTROL

THEY ADVOCATE OR ARE FOR TAKING AWAY YOUR GUNS

WHO DOES?

MR. CARTER AND HIS ASSOCIATES DO

Oh! No, No, No, how could any one think of doing such a thing? That would be suicide. How are we going to protect our homes and our lives against the criminals? You know they are going to get guns somehow, and the good citizens of this country would be at the mercy of criminals, vandals and terrorists.

The good citizens of this country are harmless with a gun — they only want them for the protection of their homes and their lives in event of an attack.

To take away our guns would leave this nation wide open to attack and terrorism.

Say No to Mr. Carter, by Voting for President Ford.

We Want Security. Keep Your Guns.

The cheerleaders participated in a week of activity under the direction of the National Cheerleader Association Staff.

The Cheerleaders received instruction by the National Cheerleader Association Staff in new cheers, stunts, tumbling and crowd psychology. These girls won the following awards: One Superior ribbon, three Excellent ribbons, four Spirit Sticks, and the Super Star Club Award.

Cats Win Big Over Breathitt

By BRIAN STURGILL

The Blackcats' record went to 4-1 as they won 31-0 against the Breathitt County Bobcats, last Friday night. The Cats, playing at Breathitt County moved the ball a total of 326 yards, while their defense limited the Bobcats to 134 yards.

The scoring started in the first quarter when Greg Dixon ran the final two yards for the touchdown. The extra-point kick by Dixon missed. The next two touchdowns came in the second quarter—the first on a 10-yard run by Greg Dixon, the second on a 2-yard dash by William Goebel. Both Dixon kicks for the conversions failed. The next touchdowns came in the fourth quarter. Both were scored by William Goebel—the first on a 31-yard run, the second for 51 yards. Dixon's kick was good after the first touchdown, but he missed on the second.

Goebel was the leading rusher for the Blackcats, carrying the ball 149 yards for an average of 12 yards per carry. Greg Derossett led the winners' defense, making nine tackles and blocking a pass. Other leading defensive men for the Cats were Scotty Waker with seven tackles and two fumble recoveries, and Mark Chaffins with 9 tackles. The Bobcats' Doug Johnson had 13 tackles, four of them unassisted.

The Blackcats play at Belfry Friday night.

Three State Golf Teams In Walter Hagen Finals

Teams from Owensboro, Paris and Louisville emerged from a 31 team field and qualified for the 4th annual Walter Hagen national golf championship to be held at Disney World, December 10, 11 and 12, by winning the best-ball play in the Kentucky Division finals September 10 at Lakeside Golf Club in Lexington.

This year's Walter Hagen tournament netted more than $17,000 for the American Cancer Society, Kentucky Division. Floyd county golfers' participation in early rounds of play produced $500. The money will help finance the Society's lifesaving programs of research, public and professional education and service.

Uncle Sam Is Not a Villian

The current trend of virulent anti-Americanism has concerned a Canadian journalist, Robert Nielsen, of the Toronto Star. Writing in the October issue of Reader's Digest, he says: "The United States, notwithstanding grievous errors, mistakes and occasional villainies, is committed by its whole history to fundamental human rights. The Soviet Union . . . is inexorably bent on the destruction of those rights." But because of continuous pressure and criticism, it appears that America is "retreating toward a new isolationism."

What happened to the image of the benign and beneficent U. S., usually the first major nation on the scene with emergency relief in time of famine, flood and earthquake? Nielsen says it's the result of many influences:

The two largest factors contributing to what he calls the Big Lie deal with the news media. For one, good news is not "news"; bad news is. Secondly, facts are accessible only in free countries where the press is not restricted. The upshot? More bad news comes out of the United States than virtually any place in the world.

The Pakistan "tilt" outrages India; support of Israel infuriates the Arabs. The U.S.S.R.—to advance its own interests—issues a steady spate of anti-U. S. propaganda. Have-not nations tend to envy and resent those who have; totalitarian governments discourage open communication with and comparison to free and flourishing countries.

We cannot help what other countries say about us, but we can change our views about what we say about ourselves.

To Observe 70th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Williams, of Lafayette, Ohio, will celebrate their 70th wedding anniversary October 6. They were married on October 6, 1906, in Prestonsburg, and they moved to Ohio in 1944.

Mrs. Dora Adams Williams was born April 3, 1889, in Prestonsburg, and Merida B. Williams was born March 29, 1888, in Prestonsburg.

They have five daughters and one son: Mrs. Norman (Maggie) Prater, Mrs. Johnny (Mada) Neeley, and Mrs. Russell (Marie) Howell, all of Prestonsburg; Mrs. Opal Webb, of Rt. 2, Ada, Ohio; Mrs. Milo (Ruth) Hackworth, of Rt. 5, Lima, Ohio and Earnest Oscar Williams, of Lafayette, Ohio. They have 36 grandchildren and 69 great-grandchildren, and are members of the Lonesome Valley United Baptist Church, of Alger, Ohio.

Judicial Article's Importance Stressed By Former State Rep.

Louisville, Ky.—"If we are truly going to turn government back to the citizens, then we must continue to revitalize the state-regional-local partnership as we are now doing—through the implementation of the judicial article," said Terry McBrayer, former chief executive officer for Gov. Julian Carroll.

McBrayer, the former state representative from Greenup who now practices law in Lexington, represented Gov. Carroll at the Kentucky Council on Crime and Delinquency's 17th annual convention in Louisville Sept. 14-17.

McBrayer was the featured speaker at a workshop on the Commonwealth's new judicial article which was approved by the voters last November.

"Local governments all across Kentucky are in trouble. At the grassroots level, we can see the mismatch between fiscal resources and human needs; and political boundaries and population settlement patterns. Resources are inversely proportionate to the needs of the majority of our citizens," he said.

McBrayer said the judicial article will afford "significant change" in the duties and responsibilities "of those local officials who have in the past been mandated to be both administrative or legislative and judicial officers."

"The judicial article relieves our local officials from those dual roles, freeing them to serve the state-local partnership in executive and legislative functions brought about by the reversal of the 200 years gravitation of power toward our state capitol and Washington, D. C.," he told the group.

Gov. Carroll has said the implementation of the judicial article will be a topic for the special session of the state legislature which he is anticipated to call sometime between Thanksgiving and Christmas.

McBrayer said more than 26 agencies and associations have studied the judicial article and, "At Gov. Carroll's insistence, every interested person has been afforded the forum in which to express his concerns and to offer his suggestions."

McBrayer said his hope for the implementation of the judicial article is that it will restore people's confidence in the judicial system. He said he believes it should align authority and resources with the people's needs.

South Central Bell Loses Bid for Increase in Rates

The Kentucky Public Service Commission (PSC), in a unanimous decision Sept. 21, dismissed South Central Bell Telephone Company's case requesting a $50.6 million annual rate increase.

The PSC ruling followed motions by the PSC staff and the attorneys for the Consumer Protection Division of the state Attorney General's office.

In sustaining the staff motion to dismiss, PSC Chairman Barkley Sturgill said, "The filing is deficient in that the application fails to conform to the requirements and regulations on which this commission can determine just and reasonable rates."

"This information was not filed and annexed to the application as required by statute, nor is it contained in the testimony which has been filed with this commission," he added.

Sturgill explained the unanimous decision by saying, "This commission and its staff should not be burdened with the responsibility to ask for information that is required under our regulations. The piece-meal submission virtually destroys the five-month suspension period under which we operate."

By law, the PSC has five months in which to grant or deny rate increases. If a decision has not been reached in this time period, the company requesting the rate increase may put the proposed rates into effect, subject to refund, without the authority of the commission.

The telephone company's application also advocated the use of future projections, rather than past experiences, as the test period in the commission's consideration of rate increases.

"It has been the policy of this commission to use test periods based on actual experience. There may be some trend to use a future test period based on company projections but this commission is not influenced by trends. We do not believe in the 'crystal-ball' approach to rate-making," Sturgill said.

The motion entered by Glenda Beard, representing the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's office, was to strike the telephone company's financial exhibits from the record of the case. According to Miss Beard, the striking of these exhibits would have necessitated dismissal of the case.

Sturgill and the attorneys for the Consumer Protection Division said that they expect South Central Bell to re-evaluate their application and make a new filing as soon as possible.

CANCER Answerline

American Cancer Society

A man in his 20's writes: "I intend to do a lot of underwater snorkeling and diving on my vacation in the Bahamas, and a friend says that I can get sunburned under water. Is that true?"

ANSWER line: Yes. The sun's rays can search you out—even three feet under water. Since the skin can be damaged by the sun's ultraviolet rays, and most skin cancer is sunrelated, it's important for you to be extra cautious under the strong Caribbean sun. A sunscreen lotion containing PABA (para-aminobenzoic acid) protects the skin and permits gradual tanning. But, it must be reapplied when your sun exposure includes swimming. Lifeguards often use zinc oxide, a thick white ointment to totally block out the sun's ultraviolet rays. If you are floating on the water's surface to snorkel, this kind of ointment might help protect the back of your neck. The American Cancer Society Unit in your community has an informative new pamphlet called, "Sense in the Sun." It is yours free for the asking.

A woman writes: "A close friend recently died of a rare form of cancer which they say began because of some shipyard work he did in World War II. Is that possible? Also, could you tell me what's being done today to protect workers?"

ANSWER line: During the Second World War, some shipyard workers breathed in asbestos fibers while at work. Scientists have since identified the substance as a cancer hazard. For example, the American Cancer Society and the Environmental Science Laboratory at Mount Sinai Hospital in New York City, have done significant research on this problem. But, because of a hazard that wasn't known 30 years ago, some of those former shipyard workers have been dying of mesothelioma, a rare form of cancer. Industrially-related cancer is being widely discussed and studied today and the American Cancer Society, unions, regulatory agencies, and the National Cancer Institute are seeking to protect both workers and the general public. Alert consumers have to help by making sure that any controls that evolve are enforced in their own workplaces.

A concerned wife writes: "My husband has always had a sprinkling of small brown moles on his right shoulder. But now I notice either a new large one, or maybe it's just one that's grown bigger. Is that a warning signal of cancer?"

ANSWER line: You can help yourself and your husband by suggesting that he see a physician. Then follow up by making sure that he does. Probably this mole is nothing to be alarmed about, but only a physician can make an actual diagnosis.

Pike, Three Other Counties To Benefit from ARC Funds

Frankfort, Ky.—Gov. Julian Carroll announced last week that Kentucky has received approval to use almost $16 million in unobligated money currently in the 1976 Appalachian Development Highway System fund.

"I was notified at about noon today (Sept. 21) by Appalachian Regional Commission Federal Co-Chairman Don Whitehead that Kentucky had the go-ahead to plan construction lettings on five projects in three Eastern Kentucky counties, along with a right-of-way project in another mountain county," Gov. Carroll said.

He explained that the counties in which the new work will take place are Pike, Pulaski, Laurel and Wayne.

He added that the money was authorized by Congress for use in the ARC Development Highway System, but that other states in the system cannot, for varying reasons, make use of the funds during the current fiscal period.

"The development of the Appalachian road system is of vital interest to all of the states in the ARC," Gov. Carroll said, "and if all of the money appropriated is not put to use, the states would stand little chance in subsequent years of securing added funds from the Congress."

"I believe it is important to wisely utilize all the funds in our Appalachian program before making budget requests for 1977," the Governor continued, "and Kentucky, with our continuing problems in Appalachia posed by the need for improved roads for the transportation of coal, has been fortunate enough to be granted use of the unobligated dollars."

Federal Highway Administration officials have indicated they are ready to approve the new Kentucky projects for construction. Gov. Carroll said he is optimistic that the projects can be let to construction by December 1.

The projects for which Kentucky has received authorization to use the Appalachian Highway Development System funds are:

Pike county, right-of-way purchase, 2.4 miles, $1.8 million; Pulaski county, two projects for construction, totalling 7.7 miles, $3.98 million; Laurel county, three projects for construction, totalling 6.7 miles, $4.9 million; and one project for construction in Wayne county, 4.7 miles, $3.9 million.

UNIDENTIFIED DISEASE KILLS 12 IN RURAL PART OF CHILE

SANTIAGO, Chile—An unidentified disease has killed 12 persons in a rural area of southern Chile, the National Health Service said Saturday.

An epidemiologist flew into the area yesterday by helicopter to study the outbreak, which doctors say may be a variety of measles, the service said.

Among the 12 dead, five were children who showed symptoms of measles, the health service said. It said the other seven dead were adults, some with measles symptoms and all with signs of respiratory infection. All died this month.

Kentucky Fishing Report

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 27—Black bass fishing is generally fair around Kentucky, with crappie anglers also experiencing good to fair results around the commonwealth. The lake-by-lake rundown, as compiled by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources:

BUCKHORN: Black bass fair and improving on artificial nightcrawlers along edge of weed beds; crappie fair over submerged cover; in tailwaters, trout fair; clear to murky, falling, six feet below pool and 64 degrees.

GRAYSON: Bluegill fair in inlets and bays; crappie slow along deep banks over submerged cover; in tailwaters, trout fair; clear, falling slowly, one foot below pool and 71 degrees.

GREEN: Black bass fair casting medium runners and by still fishing small crawfish off points and over drop offs; bluegill fair around stick ups; in tailwaters, trout fair; clear, stable at one foot below pool and 73 degrees.

FISHTRAP: Black bass slow but improving on surface lures off rocky points and deep banks; crappie good over submerged cover and around stick ups; in tailwaters, trout good; clear, falling, 4 1/2 feet below pool and 62 degrees.

DALE HOLLOW: Black bass fair on surface lures in the jumps and by casting medium runners along shallow banks; crappie slow over submerged cover; clear, stable at 2 1/2 feet below pool and 72 degrees.

CUMBERLAND: Black bass fair to good on surface lures in inlets and bays and by casting artificial nightcrawlers and still fishing small crawfish along points and deep banks; crappie fair over submerged cover; in tailwaters, trout good; clear, falling slowly, 40 feet below timberline and 71 degrees.

HERRINGTON: Black bass to fair at night on artificial nightcrawlers along points and deep banks; bluegill slow around stick ups; clear to murky, rising slowly, six feet below pool and 73 degrees.

DEWEY: Crappie fair over submerged cover and around stick ups; clear, falling slowly, two feet below pool and 72 degrees.

KENTUCKY: Sauger fair to good trolling deep runners over ridges and by drift fishing minnows in the Kentucky-Barkley Canal; black bass fair and improving on surface lures and crank baits off points and along shallow banks; in tailwaters, sauger fair and catfish slow but improving; clear, stable at winter pool and 73 degrees.

BARKLEY: Crappie good in inlets and bays and over submerged cover; black bass slow and improving on surface lures in inlets and bays and on artificial nightcrawlers along rip rap; in tailwaters, catfish and rockfish fair; clear, stable at 3 1/2 feet below pool and 74 degrees.

NOLIN: Crappie fair over submerged cover; black bass slow on artificial nightcrawlers off points; in tailwaters, trout good; clear, falling slowly, 2 1/4 feet below pool and 74 degrees.

BARREN: Crappie fair over submerged cover; black bass slow to fair on medium runners along deep banks; clear to murky, stable at 12 1/2 feet below pool and 74 degrees.

ROUGH RIVER: Crappie fair around stick ups and over submerged cover; black bass slow on surface and medium runners in inlets and bays and on artificial nightcrawlers off points and over drop offs; clear, stable at one foot below pool and 74 degrees.

LAUREL: Black bass good on surface lures in the jumps and on crank baits off points and deep banks; trout good night fishing live nightcrawlers off deep banks; clear, stable at pool and 68 degrees.

Local Sports

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON

The Prestonsburg Area Boosters Club youth football program continued last Tuesday night with three games, and for the first time this season a couple of teams were outside of the program. In the first game, the Prestonsburg Whites, with three of their regulars out due to injuries, lost to Meade Memorial Grade School, 22 to 0. In the second game of the senior division, Paintsville defeated the Prestonsburg Whites, 32 to 0. In the third game of the night, also in the senior division, the Prestonsburg Reds and Clark had to settle for a 6-all tie. Maurice Minix scored for the Reds on a 10-yard run through the middle while the Clark score came on a handoff from quarterback Haywood to Carlos Griffith.

Other action in the countywide football program Thursday night at the Prestonsburg football field: the Osborne Elementary School's "B" team and the Prestonsburg "B" team had to settle for a scoreless tie. In the second game the Osborne "A" team won over the Prestonsburg "A" team, 18 to 8. Osborne led at halftime, 12 to 0. Allan Tackett scored both touchdowns, one on a 50-yard return, the other on a 55-yard gallop down the sideline. In the second half, Ronnie Little broke loose for a 40-yard touchdown, but was called back as he was ruled out of bounds. Later in the game, however, he scored on a 65-yard run. Prestonsburg scoring came in the fourth quarter when Tony Reynolds scored on a 12-yard run, and he ran for the two points. Also on Thursday, the Maytown Grade School team lost its first game as Meade Memorial won over them, 43 to 0.

PELE, dazzling superstar of soccer, is turning the U. S. on to soccer with his peerless playing on the New York Cosmos team, observes the September issue of Reader's Digest.

Fruit of Labor—Apple Butter

The finished product, East Point apple butter, came to more than 300 quarts on the day this was made. Looking over the reward of their labor are, from left, Alma Baldrige, Larue Robinson, Glenis McKenzie, Gypsy Baldrige, Beatrice Dunnagan and Betsy Baldrige.

Members of the East Point Area Development Club have concluded another successful year of making apple butter in copper kettles for the annual Kentucky Apple Festival held at Paintsville.

For the past five Saturdays and Labor Day, the members have come out as early as 7 a.m. to start the apple butter making process, which begins with peeling, quartering, coring, and slicing. Then with the fires roaring under the kettles, the sliced apples are poured in and the constant stirring begins which lasts until about 2:30 p.m. After sugar and spices are added and the apple butter cooked down to the right consistency, it is canned. This year, 160 bushel of apples will be used and 1300 pounds of sugar to produce approximately 2,000 quarts of apple butter.

Each Saturday was a time of old-fashioned neighborliness with the exchange of bits of news as in the days before radio and TV. There was a lunch served which varied each week and was prepared by the members. The club wishes to thank everyone taking part and hope they will make it back next year.

College Drainage Installed, RC&D Views Other Measures

The land drainage measure installed this summer on the Prestonsburg Community College campus by the Big Sandy Area Resource Conservation and Development Council (RC and D) has improved the usefulness of a 12-acre tract in the southeastern corner of the campus.

Dr. Henry A. Campbell, director of the college, recently said, "We are really pleased with the drainage system. We are expanding our recreation facilities onto land that was too wet most of the year for any use."

The drainage was accomplished by use of a system of plastic tubing buried in trenches about four feet deep and spaced about 60 feet apart. The only visible structure is the steel outlet pipe that empties the water from the system into a small ravine about 50 feet south of the main entrance to the college. The construction cost was about $9,000. The college paid half the cost and the U. S. Department of Agriculture (RC&D funds) paid the remaining half. USDA-SCS provided technical services at no cost to the college.

In addition to the drainage measure on the College campus, several other RC&D measures have been started.

1. The flood prevention measure at Salyer Elementary School in Magoffin county is under construction. This measure involves a reinforced concrete flood wall, a paved roadway to carry overflow water from a creek and streambank protection by use of heavy rock riprap.

2. The flood prevention measure at Porter School in Johnson county has been contracted and materials are being assembled for construction. This involves a diversion ditch to intercept and collect flood water from a steep hill at the back of the school and a large conduit to carry the water underground across the campus to an outlet in a creek.

3. The measure plan for a water-based recreation area in Pikeville, adjoining the new Pikeville High School campus, has been drafted and is now being reviewed and approved by the city of Pikeville and the Pike County Conservation District. The plan calls for construction of basic recreational facilities, including a picnic shelter, rest rooms, picnic tables, a canoe mooring ramp, walking trails, children's playground equipment, lights, walks, sewer hookon, etc.

4. The land drainage measure plan in the Paintsville park and playground has been approved, the drainage system designed and construction is scheduled to start in October.

5. Preliminary planning is being done on a flood prevention measure at the McDowell School and a land treatment measure for critically eroding and sediment producing areas around the Inez water supply lake in Martin county.

6. Several other measures have been approved and priorities set for planning by the RC&D Council. Among these are Salyersville flood prevention measure (cut-through) in Sukey's Creek water-based recreation measure in Pike county, and a streambank stabilization measure at Archer Park here, among others.

MAYTOWN NEWS

Arnold Cassidy has been visiting relatives and friends here before moving to Florida from Pinckney, Michigan where he has been residing for the past 15 years. He and his son, Austin, will be living in Vero Beach where he has purchased a home.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Baldrige and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ramey were in Ashland on business last week and were luncheon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Theron Hocker. They also toured the Rose Hill Baptist Church and Rose Hill mausoleum Chapel.

Several friends from here attended the funeral of Lloyd Stumbo last Sunday at the McDowell gym.

Mrs. Claude J. Webb, Mrs. Gorman Cooley, Mrs. Buddy Woods, Mrs. John Turner, Miss Hattie Cooley, Mr. and Mrs. Dorian Cooley and Harold attended the funeral of Alonzo Patton, of Hamden, Ohio, at the Blower Funeral Home, McArthur, Ohio, Saturday. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Gardis Prater and were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Prater while there. The Patton family formerly resided in this county.

Mrs. Shirley Stewart visited Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Stewart in Amelia, Ohio last week-end. She came home via Stockdale, Ohio and brought her mother, Mrs. Rebecca Salisbury, here with her. Mrs. Salisbury spent the week visiting Mrs. Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. Claud Webb. She also attended the 151st session of the New Salem Regular Baptist Association in its new building at Minnie, which is now the permanent site for the association. A large number of members and friends from Maytown also attended the meetings.

Mr. and Mrs. Morton Adkins have returned from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Morton Adkins, Jr. and Chrissie, in Hepzabah, Ga.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ramey and Mr. and Mrs. John R. Baldrige were shopping in Huntington last Wednesday and also visited Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jarrell at their home. Mrs. Jarrell is doing nicely at present.

Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Elizabeth Baker at Marcella's Kountry Kitchen were the Rev. David Puckett, pastor of the Maytown United Methodist Church, and Margaret Ann Vaughn. They were joined at the table by Mrs. Bradas May and Arnold Cassidy.

Margaret Ann Vaughn and Lorena Hall were in Lexington Saturday to attend the U. K.-West Virginia football game.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ramey and Tim, of Alexandria, Ky., were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ramey and Mr. and Mrs. Thurmal Click here and Mrs. Marie Martin and Yvette at Eastern.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETS

The September meeting of the Maytown Women's Club was held Thursday night at the home of Nancy Lois Blevins. Donna Griffith, health educator from the Floyd County Health Department, spoke to the club about the Swine Flu immunization clinics to be held in October and explained duties of volunteer workers.

Following her talk and questions, a business meeting was held in which Kathy Halbert was named Community Improvement Program chairman. Her first project will be to call a town meeting of all interested Maytown citizens to discuss possible solutions to current community problems.

Hostesses, Nancy Lois Blevins and Deniece Queen, served refreshments to Mosalette Patton, Lorena Hall, Judy Banks, Margaret Ann Vaughn, Peggy Jean Gibson, Diann May, Kathy Halbert, Sandy Patton, Shirley Stewart, and Judy Halbert.

EAT LESS but more often for effective loss of weight, the October Reader's Digest suggests. The body seems to store more fats and sugars on three squares a day than it does with frequent feeding.

ALLEN NEWS

Sympathy is extended to the family of Harry S. Martin, who passed away last Thursday at his home of an apparent heart attack. Mr. Martin is survived here by his wife, Mrs. Martin, his daughter, Miss Elinor Martin, and a brother, A. D. Martin, and his daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Parsons, and family of Miamisburg, Ohio.

Mrs. Mildred R. Hall is spending some time with her sister, Mrs. George Gallup, of Catlettsburg, who is recovering from illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Snodgrass had as guests this week-end her sister, Mrs. Hobert Francis, and Mr. Francis, of Ashland, and Mr. and Mrs. John Snodgrass, of Covington, who were here to attend the funeral of Harry Martin.

Mrs. Ramsie Damron underwent surgery at Kings' Daughter's Hospital in Ashland, Monday. Members of her family have been there with her.

Mrs. Edna Mae Callison, Mrs. Eugene Allen, and Mrs. Delores Bradley attended the 50th wedding anniversary dinner of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hagans at Maytown, Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Porter were in Huntington, Tuesday, on business. En route home they visited Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Preston in Lawrence county. Mr. and Mrs. Preston has as visitors, Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Crisp and Nancy Jo, and Mr. and Mrs. John G. Auxier, of Whites Creek, West Virginia, who were overnight guests.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Crisp spent several days this past week visiting their daughter, Mrs. Wally Hammons, Mr. Hammons, and grandchildren at Painsville.

Kenneth Donta, senior at Eastern State University at Richmond, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Donta, and James this week-end. Sunday, Kenneth visited relatives and friends at Ashland.

Mrs. David Marcum, accompanied by Mrs. Tex Keathley, were in Lexington, Monday, where Mrs. Marcum went for a medical checkup.

Mrs. Laura Ratliff has returned home after several weeks spent visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller and new granddaughter, Amy, at Rural Retreat, Virginia. James Oscar Ratliff, senior at the University of Kentucky, also visited his sister and family there last week-end.

Mrs. Virgil Smith has returned home after spending several weeks with her mother, Mrs. Corsbie Slone, of Marion, Ohio, who underwent surgery there. Other daughters visiting their mother were Mrs. Norsie Lynch, Mrs. Hester Sheer, and Mrs. Jane Morris. Doug Smith went to Marion to accompany his mother, Mrs. Smith, home, Sunday.

Ray Brackett and Harry Wallace, of Prestonsburg, were in Lexington on business, Saturday. Dinner guests of Mr. Brackett while in Lexington were his daughter, Laura, and Mike Dixon, both students at the University of Kentucky.

Mrs. Darrell Jones, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Pat Fulks, was in Lexington on business and medical consultation, Monday.

Alan Derossett, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Derossett, spent Tuesday and Wednesday as a patient in the Highlands Regional Medical Center.

New Community Service Classes To Begin Next Month at PCC

Three new Community Service classes are scheduled to begin at Prestonsburg Community College, the first two weeks in October.

The first offering will begin October 5 at 7 p.m. This class, entitled "Western Outlaws," will be taught by Michele Butts, history instructor at the college. The course will survey the lives and legends of western desperados on both sides of the law. These may include the James Younger Gang, Butch Cassidy and the Sun Dance Kid, Billy the Kid, Calamity Jane, etc. During the first session participants may suggest other characters of interest to them.

Wednesday, October 6, Basic Photography, taught by John South, of Prestonsburg, will begin. This class will include an overview of photography, a look at various types of cameras and their handling, use of filters, exposure meter, film processing (including developing slides), and general picture-taking techniques.

Individuals looking forward to the Christmas season will welcome "Floral Arranging for the Yuletide," scheduled to begin October 13 at 6:30 p.m. This course, taught by Don Colvin, well-known Prestonsburg florist, will consist of demonstrations and a laboratory sessions in the proper selection of containers, flowers, and other materials, and the arrangement of these in pleasing and decorative ways. The Christmas season will be emphasized and fresh flowers will be furnished by the instructor. Each participant should bring a container, knife, ribbon, scissors, and wire cutters. Enrollment for this course is limited, therefore, pre-registration is suggested.

For additional information, call the Office of Community Services at 886-3863, extension 243.

UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY • COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

With what success we do not know, but in times past doctors have used it to treat wounds. At the same time, housewives have called down the wrath of God upon it, poets have raved about its beauty in myriad rhyme, and Indians have worshipped it as a creation of the sun god.

And what is this thing that has attracted so much attention over the years? It is something very much in evidence at morning at this time of year—the spider web.

Traced with dewdrops, a spider web is indeed an artistic creation and worthy of much admiration. The silken threads that make up this creation are produced by a special set of glands that open to spinnerets on the end of the abdomen of this strange little outdoor creature.

According to entomologists, some of the specialized glands and spinnerets are "fearfully and wonderfully made." Some make a sticky silk for snaring and restraining insects for spider dinner tables, while others concoct a stronger silk used as structural supports for webs.

The silk, the entomologists add, is a protein similar to that produced by the silkworms of China and Japan. This protein has a special arrangement of molecules that gives it exceptional strength. In fact, some silk spun by spiders is stronger than steel wire of the same diameter.

Spiders spin silk for several reasons. The most familiar, of course, is for the purpose of capturing prey. Spiders also give their eggs a protective covering of silk. Some of the underground homes of spiders are wallpapered in silk, and some spiders use their silken strands as a means of transportation. Some of the smaller species of spiders travel about by spinning silken threads which are caught up by the gentle breezes of late summer and early autumn and sent drifting for long distances.

Also adding to the lore of spider webs is the fact that they are fairly reliable when it comes to predicting the weather—or, it might be more accurate to say, indicating the weather.

Upon arising at morning, check the spider webs that may be on the shrubbery or on the grass of the lawn. If there are droplets of dew glistening on these webs, you can be confident that no rain is in sight for the next several hours. If, however, the webs hang dry, it is an indication that the air is saturated with moisture. Not having condensed out as dew, this moisture may very well be precipitated out shortly as rain—dry webs as sunrise, as the old weather saying once went, wet spiders at nightfall.

All this and much more makes a spider's web an interesting and versatile skein.

Speaker at Martin Tribute Dinner

Mrs. Bert Combs, wife of the former governor from Prestonsburg, speaks in his behalf at a dinner held recently in tribute to Dr. Robert R. Martin, retiring president of Eastern Kentucky University, and Mrs. Martin. The E.K.U. Alumni Association sponsored the dinner for Martin who has served the University as president for 16 years. Those offering tribute included Governor Julian Carroll and former governors Earle Clements, Bert Combs, Edward Breathitt, Louie Nunn, and Wendell Ford. Other pictures show some of the 1,100 diners in the grand ballroom of the Keen Johnson Building and Dr. and Mrs. Martin holding a plaque designating the gift of an automobile by E.K.U. alumni, faculty and staff members, students, and friends of the University to the Martins. In photo also are shown Governor Carroll and Dr. Martin.

HOW TIMES HAVE CHANGED! In 1939, the October Reader's Digest recalls, producer David Selznick had to get special permission from the head of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America to include that famous line, "Frankly, my dear, I don't give a damn," in his production of Gone With The Wind. The word "damn" had previously been barred by the motion picture production code.

State Agency To Recognize Contributions to Environment

Frankfort, Ky.—Amid its many regulations and legal actions against offenders of the state's environment, the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection has decided to give some awards.

"The only thing the public ever hears coming from this agency are new regulations, noncompliance orders against strip mining companies, restraining orders and the like," says Robert D. Bell, secretary of the department. "But there are industries and individuals with an environment conscience that are trying to do the right things in regard to problems in protecting our natural resources and our environment."

To recognize those industries and individuals the department will make 19 awards for environmental contributions at the first annual Governor's Conference on the Environment, Oct. 8-9 at the Galt House in Louisville.

The awards—among them, the Outstanding Reclamation award for a coal operator in Eastern and Western Kentucky—cover every program or sub-program administered by the state's environmental protection agency. Other awards will be for air and water pollution abatement, the best public and private water suppliers and the best landfills in the state. Public utilities, private industries, individuals and local governments in the state will receive the awards.

The awards will be presented on Saturday, the second day of the conference. On Friday, 15 seminars covering such subjects as future location of power plants on the Ohio River, the advantages and disadvantages of no-return bottle and can legislation and of surface mining and reclamation will be discussed.

Information and reservations for the conference can be obtained by contacting the chairman of the Governor's Conference on the Environment, Fifth Floor, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky., 40601.

Specialist to attend "Beltone cares about you" Better-Hearing Consultation

Mr. Kermit Byrd highly respected Factory-Trained Hearing Aid Specialist will be present at this event to be held at:

Kentucky Motel—Prestonsburg, Ky.

Wednesday, Oct. 6

Heart 'O' Highlands Motel—Paintsville, Ky.

Thursday, Oct. 7

9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Here's your chance to talk over your hearing problem with a person who is really an expert in his field. Mr. Byrd will advise you on how to protect the hearing you still have and what you can do to conserve your ability to hear. He will also arrange a modern hearing loss test for you to evaluate your hearing ability. Hearing aid users will have their aids cleaned and adjusted (any make or model) at no cost or obligation.

Not even a Beltone aid can solve every hearing problem. But thanks to modern technology, most hearing problems can be helped better than ever before. Plan to attend now. Bring a friend or family member with you. It may be the only chance Mr. Byrd will ever have to give you the special assistance and attention he personally can provide. Phone for an appointment now to reserve a time and date most convenient for you.

Kentucky Afield

Kentucky's archery deer season will open Oct. 1, and hunters have a better chance of getting a deer this year than in the past. The Commonwealth's deer herd continues to grow and is now up to around 120,000, according to Harold Barber, chief forest game biologist for the state Department of Fish and Wildlife.

This is quite an increase from the approximately 1,000 deer in the state just 30 years ago. In fact, there are probably more deer in Kentucky now than there were in Daniel Boone's time.

In pioneer times, Kentucky was covered with mature hardwood forests, a habitat which does not favor high deer populations. A browsing animal, the deer needs low, second growth timber and brush for food, a situation provided in Boone's day only by the re-growth of forest fire areas.

The situation today offers a much more diversified habitat and this, along with modern wildlife management practices and increased wildlife law enforcement, has created a situation favorable for the increase in our deer population.

But as the modern hunter knows, a high deer population doesn't necessarily mean venison in the freezer. It takes skill, knowledge and a good measure of luck to bag a whitetail, particularly for the bow hunter.

But the self-imposed handicap of hunting with a bow is offset, to some extent, by the length of the archery season. From the first of October, bow hunters have through Nov. 14 to hunt during the first part of the split season.

Then after about a month layoff, bow hunters may again take to the woods from Dec. 18 through Dec. 31. Some management areas have different dates or other special regulations which the hunter should check before hunting.

Bow hunters may take either bucks or does and may use longbows or compound bows. Legal arrows must be equipped with barbless broadhead points at least 7/8 inch wide. Crossbows are not permitted except in one location, the Pioneer Weapons Wildlife Management Area in Bath and Menifee counties.

Archers may not use chemically treated arrows or arrow attachments containing chemicals, nor may they carry firearms of any kind while bow hunting.

All deer hunters—gun hunters as well as archers—should remember that several counties are closed to deer hunting. These counties are Jackson, Owsley, Clay, Harlan, Powell, Clark, Leslie, Wolfe, Perry, Johnson, Knott and the portion of Breathitt south of Buckhorn Creek Road.

Deer hunting as well as hunting for all other species is prohibited on the following wildlife management areas: Robinson Forest (Breathitt, Perry, and Knott counties); Beaver Creek, including private inholdings (Pulaski and McCreary); Grayson Lake (Carter and Elliott); Pine Mountain (Letcher) and Redbird, including private inholdings (Leslie and Clay). Deer hunting is also prohibited within Mammoth Cave National Park.

In addition to an appropriate valid license, all deer hunters must also have a deer permit ($10.50 for residents and non-residents), and the locking portion of the permit must be attached to any deer taken. A three-day, non-resident license is not valid for deer hunting.

Bow hunters are exempt from some requirements which apply only to gun hunters. Archers need not wear a "hunter" orange garment, nor are they required, as gun hunters will be this year, to take deer to a check station for validation of tags.

For a complete rundown of 1976 deer regulations, write for the current Deer Digest to: Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Division of Public Relations, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Driver Reexamination Plan Not Final, Official Says

Justice Secretary John L. Smith said this week that current state police plans to reexamine Kentucky drivers every four years and increase the force's air patrol are still in the proposal stage.

The plans, released recently in a 10-year Kentucky State Police master plan, have not yet undergone the necessary executive or legislative reviews, Smith said.

The state police plans propose that one-fourth of the 1.8 million licensed Kentucky drivers be reexamined every four years. If implemented, the reexaminations would cover vision tests, tests of knowledge of road signs and rules of the road and, at the discretion of the examiner, actual driving tests.

The plans propose nearly doubling the state police force by 1986, expanding the aircraft unit, constructing six new posts to replace existing structures and several other long-range plans.

State Police Commissioner Truett Ricks has said that he could not put a cost estimate on the proposals.

The objectives of the master plan include a 10 per cent reduction in highway fatalities, a five per cent reduction in personal injury accidents and a 10 per cent decrease in state police response time to calls for assistance, among others.

Smith said, "We feel it is necessary to explain that these state police plans are not etched in granite. If the governor and the legislature find they are warranted, they will be implemented. If a better way is found to reach these goals, naturally that way will be chosen."

Magoffin Surfacing In Recent Letting

Frankfort, Ky.—More than $10.4 million in bridge and road improvement contracts were announced here this week following a Sept. 16 bid-letting held by the state's Bureau of Highways.

According to state Department of Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts, the two largest contracts awarded were for road surfacing work and related construction in Jefferson and Montgomery counties.

In Montgomery county, Kentucky Road Oiling, Inc., of Lexington, won a contract on a low bid of $1,565,312 for about 1.6 miles of improvements along the Mount Sterling bypass between US 60 and US 460.

Eleven contracts totaling another $2.6 million, to be financed with funds allocated locally through the state's Energy Road Fund (ERF), also were awarded for the surfacing of some 90 miles of roads in Muhlenberg, Hancock, Magoffin, Henderson, Hopkins, Union and Webster counties.

OLDSMOBILE 1977

MORE THAN JUST BETTER CARS THEY'RE BETTER OLDSMOBILES

In our search for a new measure of excellence, we've strived to make every Olds a better Olds for 1977. Our new Ninety-Eights and Delta 88s are more space-efficient, more weight-efficient and fuel-efficient than last year. (EPA test results below are estimates; your mileage depends on how you drive, your car's condition and its equipment. California EPA estimates are lower.)

There's lots more, too. Redesigned Rocket V8s... beautiful new interiors in many models... a new Cutlass Supreme Brougham 4-door with a luxurious 98 Regency-type interior... a new Toronado XSR so dramatic in design it causes excitement wherever it is seen. So read our news, then visit your Olds dealer. He's got the Olds that fits your needs and lifestyle!

Oldsmobile

CAN WE BUILD ONE FOR YOU?

98 Regency. A remarkable new kind of luxury.

Only a completely new car could do everything a luxury car must do in 1977. So here's the room, comfort and splendid luxury you expect in a Regency... plus the unexpected luxury of good gas mileage: an estimated 21 mpg in the EPA highway test; 16 mpg in the city test, with the standard Rocket 350 V8! You've got to experience its driving ease to believe it!

Delta 88 Royale. New idea in family cars.

Now you don't have to sacrifice the room, the comfort, and the great ride you want—to get the kind of good gas mileage you need! There's new headroom and legroom in the rear, new suspension systems for the smooth, big-car ride you like. Yet Delta 88 mileage is dramatically improved: 23 mpg, highway; 17 mpg, city test, with available Rocket 260 V8.

Which kind of Cutlass is the right Cutlass for you?

Salon: The "grand touring" Cutlass. With 260 V8, 5-speed transmission, 2.73 axle, EPA estimates are: 26 mpg, highway; 17 mpg, city. Hatch roof available.

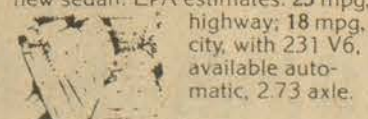

4-4-2: The legend lives on! Bold, sporty looks. FE2 rally suspension. EPA estimates with available 260 V8, 5-speed transmission, 2.73 axle: 27 mpg, highway test; 17 mpg, city.

Cutlass S: Classy Cutlass look, ride, and comfort in the lowest-priced Cutlass of all! Plus an EPA highway rating of 26 mpg; 16 mpg, city, with standard 231 V6 engine and manual transmission.

Supreme Brougham: Big-car luxury interior, practical size in coupe or new sedan! EPA estimates: 25 mpg, highway; 18 mpg, city, with 231 V6, available automatic, 2.73 axle.

Toronado XSR. New concept in personal luxury cars.

Twin sliding roof panels, wraparound rear window, a new classic look. New Rocket 403 V8 with computerized MISAR electronic spark timing. EPA estimates: 19 mpg, highway; 13 mpg, city.

Starfire GT. The joy of driving is alive and well!

See what's in Starfire with the available GT package: buckets, floor-shifter, tach and gauges, GT stripes, rally wheels—and more! EPA estimates with available 231 V6, 5-speed transmission, 2.56 axle: 34 mpg, highway; 19 mpg, city. Sensational!

Omega Brougham. Economical answer to expensive European sedans.

Our impressive "import fighter." Roomy, luxurious-feeling, inside; compact, maneuverable on the road. The affordable alternative! EPA estimates: 27 mpg, highway; 16 mpg, city, with standard 231 V6 engine and manual transmission.

79 Students Find Summertime Jobs With Island Cr. Coal

In keeping with its policy of providing summer employment to students interested in a career in mining, Island Creek Coal Company has during the past summer provided jobs for 79 students in Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Most of the students worked as classified laborers in the company's mines, while others were employed as clerks, technicians and general laborers. Last year, Island Creek provided jobs for 69 students in the same kind of program. The students represented over 20 colleges, community colleges, and vocational schools in the eastern United States and one college in the western part of the country.

Twenty-five students were employed in the company's Northern Division, headquartered in Craigsville, W. Va., while 20 students worked in the Island Creek Division located near Paintsville. Eighteen students worked in the Virginia Pocahontas Division, headquartered in Keen Mountain, Va., and 8 students were employed by the West Kentucky Division in Madisonville, Ky. In addition, 7 students worked for the company's stores division located in Holden, W. Va., while one student worked at the corporate headquarters in Lexington, Ky.

Of the 79 students employed, 38 are majoring in mining engineering or mining technology, and 15 are studying in other fields of engineering or engineering technology.

THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION in Washington, D. C., is considered the most all-encompassing museum in the world, reports the October Reader's Digest. Its beginnings were funded in 1838 by an Englishman, John Smithson, who had never visited America and had no American friends. Why he did it remains a mystery. Now the Smithsonian is host to 75 million catalogued items—although only a small fraction of these can be displayed at any one time. Some 20 million visitors will view the Smithsonian's treasures this year.

A Walk in the Woods

By KAY P. HALL McELROY

"In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth." (Genesis 1-1) He also created all things therein and I like to believe that, as an afterthought, He waved His mighty hand and the mountains of Eastern Floyd County, Kentucky, came into glorious being.

"I will lift up mine eyes unto the mountains from whence cometh mine help." (Psalms 121-1) When I was a little girl, growing up within the Kentucky hills, I claimed a particular area on the top of one of these hills, and today, after forty years, I remember with nostalgia, this was an altar where I dreamed of fantasies only the mind of a little child can conjure.

Late in the summer of each year I get a feeling of wanderlust and if I cannot personally revisit this special shrine of my childhood, I can, at least, walk back down memory lane for another jaunt into the woods.

I invite you to come and stroll along with me along this unforgettable trail, to another era when life was uncomplicated and days had a joyful kind of beauty. Perhaps, along the way, a lovely monarch butterfly will flash by in a blaze of delightful color. There is a hummingbird hovering over a fragrant honeysuckle vine. Only a master artist could have given this magnificent bird its gossamer wings, and I had a pleasant thought that one of His angels had placed this dainty creature before me as a prelude to this long-awaited day.

As the sun of the morning pushed the shadows of night up the hill and the dew beneath my feet made the grass look like shimmering silver spider webs, I felt like singing. Yes, it was the kind of morning found only in the month of August in the country. It felt so good to be alive and I felt like running. Thus, up the old remembered lane and across the meadow I went. Instantly, I became aware of this old trail which time had almost forgotten to erase. This path, now overgrown with blackberry vines and underbrush of scrubby, little trees competing desperately to survive, was still visible. I had to laugh when I remembered just how this path had come into existence so many years ago. The family cow had engineered this route as the shortest way from the barn gate to the once-luscious pastureland along the edge of the hill. Why, I wondered, did cattle choose to saunter around the side of a hill crest for a short way and then turn at a right angle and slowly move onward and upward, seemingly to be constructing a spiral stairway from blueprints which would be the envy of architects educated in colleges and holding degrees for such planning: not especially cow-trails, but often poorly planned parkways found winding and twisting themselves tortuously throughout areas nature has had to relinquish in the name of progress. At least, my favorite pathway to my hilltop still remains, and if I come back again, it will be waiting because a path as worn as this one had become cannot fade away.

At the top of the ridge I turned around. Far below me, in the valley, the houses and roads took on appearance of being miniature statues and the panorama reached across the mountains into the distance and beyond. I could make out the terrain of even loftier summits outlined against the azure sky. Nearby,

I found one of my favorite altars of the hills—a towering pine tree which seemed to have challenged all other trees in the forest to grow higher. Although a little bent from the years of violent storms of summers past and furious winds of winter seasons, the tree remained majestic. Many branches had seen healthier days, yet others continued to loom elegantly over and above smaller trees. Moss draped the base of this old pine as a frayed and lacy shawl trying gallantly to warm the cold and aging shoulders of a once-lovely and graceful lady.

The silent woods, as though on cue from a master of ceremonies, burst into cymbals of inspirational melodies from every nook and cranny of the forest. In appreciation of being serenaded by some of the sweetest creatures of their domain I abruptly realized this concert was not necessarily for my pleasure—just the daily tribute being made to every dawn which open the eyes of these hills.

A brilliant flash swooped near me and then soared away to the topmost branch of an aged oak tree. When I squinted up into the filtering rays of the sunlight coming through the leaves of trees now beginning to splash themselves with all the flair of colors of the on-coming autumn, I saw a downy woodpecker. It was trying excitedly, to tell a neighbor on the other side of a ravine that an unwelcome visitor had invaded their private neighborhood. Getting the message, loud and clear, I hurried away.

Farther along the trail I stepped upon a carpet of velvety fern. Just as I raised a foot to go forward on this mat of greenery I quickly stopped and looked down. My attention was drawn to a bed of flowers. I saw a wild orchid peeping timidly up at me. I knelt to admire this hidden beauty, nesting within the damp mulch of decaying leaves and dying trees. I was looking at flowers so rare and exotic that only here, in their natural habitat, could they have grown and developed to such perfection. I was overcome with awe and wonderment as I realized this greenhouse I had come upon here within the depth of this private flower garden had not been planted by human hands. With humility and a sense of reverence I knew that only hands of great strength, gentle tenderness and an everlasting love, had watered and cultivated the delicate petals of these precious creations growing here. I felt so grateful yet I also felt like an intruder who had walked into a sacred temple, but in a quickening instant I knew that the keeper of the greenhouse had guided my footsteps and ordered me to kneel at this shrine of wild flowers for some plan He will reveal to me when it is time for me to understand.

I emerged from the forest and found the big rock which had been another favorite place I had visited so often back in those good old days. Yes, there was the same crevice where I had spent many amusing minutes just watching lizards playing hide and seek around the spired formations. How many times had I sat here, looking across the kaleidoscopic foothills of the Cumberlands and the valleys as they criss-crossed the lowlands? How many questions had I asked myself, back in those days of curious childhood, about the unknown places waiting to be discovered? Out there across all those mountains, somewhere, beyond my youthful range of vision and thoughts, had to be all the answers to all the questions of inquisitive children.

Forty years later, and miles and miles across time and space, I have learned some of the questioned answers, but the best one I learned is this—however far one may travel, whatever lessons learned, both from pages of books and just from everyday living, not one single, solitary thing can replace the magical fantasy of having been a little child.

I was wise to revisit my mountains this day. I have become aware how selfish I have been. These are not really my mountains. They belong to all people who love nature and enjoy the bountiful gifts so freely given. I know that I should have left those treasures I found in the mountains a long time ago, to another child who would have loved and remembered them, as I have. I am sure someone did discover some rare tokens, such as the knowledge that dreams can really be woven into golden threads of memories which can live deep within some special place of the heart as souvenirs gathered along the way of other days in another time. As for myself—I know I can never really give up my altars in the mountains, not as long as my spirit can remember.

If time will now stand still, for one second; for just one minute, I will settle myself down into the softness of the fern-covered ground and look out upon the sculptured amphitheater of the everlasting mountains. One of life's greatest dramas begins to unfold before me—the ending of a flawless day! With a greater certainty than I have ever before known, I now know that the past, all of it; this day; this evening; tomorrow and all the future, comes under, the precise direction of the great playwright of them all, our own Omnipotent Creator!

"And God saw all that He had made, and behold, it was very good." (Genesis 1-31)

RECENT PUBLICITY to the contrary, no shark can fairly be called a man-eater—since none of the 250 to 300 species customarily dines on human flesh. Nor are they as dangerous as they're touted to be. The Reader's Digest points out that more people die of wasp and bee stings than of shark bites, and each year three times as many people are hit by lightning in the United States alone as are bitten by sharks in waters all over the world.

Puzzle 1
See if you can write the numbers from 1 to 9 (once each but only once) in the nine circles so that each side totals 17.

Puzzle 2
A man wanted 100 animals for a children's zoo. He had exactly $100 to buy exactly 100 animals. He wanted at least 20 of each of three kinds. Baby rabbits cost $2 each; baby kittens cost $1 each; and baby chicks cost 10¢ each. How many of each kind must he buy to get 100 animals for $100?

Puzzle 3
How shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation?

Here are the answers

Puzzle 1
There is no answer. The Lord Jesus Christ earned a great salvation by His life and death. Those who believe on Him assure themselves of present and future joy. Those who neglect this offer will find that all their wisdom, money, or good works will not help them in the great judgment day. Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved. (Acts 16:31)

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to acknowledge my gratitude to every person who helped in any way upon the passing of my husband—to the doctors, nurses and all others at the Highlands Medical Center who were so kind; the ministers, the Revs. Charles Crider and Moses Kitchen, for their comforting words; those who brought food and sent floral offerings; the many who offered the solace of kind words, and the Floyd Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service.

THIRD MAN DIES OF OVERDOSE OF POSSIBLY STOLEN DRUGS

St. CHARLES, Ill.—A third man has died of an overdose of drugs that may have been stolen from an animal hospital.

Daniel T. Hanlon, 17, of St. Charles, died Friday in a hospital. He had been in critical condition since last Sunday, when he was found unconscious along with the bodies of two companions in a friend's apartment.

Kane County sheriff's police are investigating the possibility that the drugs were animal tranquilizers stolen from a St. Charles facility.

Nora Reynolds . . . Plf.

VS. NOTICE OF SALE

Hayden Reynolds . . . Deft.

By virtue of an order of sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the July 9 term, 1976 in the above-styled cause I shall proceed to offer for sale at the courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 30th day of September, 1976 at 10:30 o'clock a.m., same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, for cash or upon a credit of six months, the following described property to-wit:

A certain tract or parcel of land lying in Floyd county, Kentucky, on the waters of Clear Creek and being more particularly described as follows:

Beginning on a horn beam at the upper end of the orchard at the branch; thence down the branch to the railroad and; thence down as the railroad to the Smith Henson line; thence up the hill with the Henson line to a chestnut oak marked at top of point; thence down the top to a sassafras; thence down the hill to the beginning, at the horn beam.

Being the same property that was conveyed Alfred Reynolds, et. ux. from Martha Osborn by deed of December 6, 1927, recorded December 19, 1927 in Deed Book 77, page 125 in the Floyd County Court Clerk's office.

This property is being sold to settle the estate of Alfred Reynolds and Frances Reynolds.

For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment with a lien retained upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.

Given under my hand, this 10th day of September, 1976.

Hearing Set on Federal Aid To Improve Coal-Haul Roads

Frankfort, Ky.—Gov. Julian M. Carroll will testify at a public hearing to be held Oct. 12 in Frankfort by the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) on the need for federal assistance to improve Kentucky's coal haul roads.

The hearing, scheduled to start at 9 a.m. (EST) in the State Office Building Auditorium, is part of the U. S. Department of Transportation study mandated by an amendment to the 1976 Federal Highway Act. The amendment, proposed by Sen. Walter Huddleston (D-Ky) will require investigation of energy transportation needs nationally.

Similar hearings also are scheduled at Billings, Mont.; Albuquerque, N. M.; and Pittsburgh, Pa.

According to FHWA Administrator Norbert T. Tieman, who announced plans for the four regional hearings, they are designed to solicit the views of private citizens, groups and public officials on the need for additional federal assistance in the building or rebuilding of highways used for hauling coal or other energy resources.

Gov. Carroll, who has been a leader and innovator in the effort to find solutions to this problem—including a possible national coal severance tax—told a Senate Public Works Subcommittee in Washington, D. C. earlier this year that such a tax might be a way of coming up with the money required to meet "the special and critical needs" of the coal haul roads.

He added that this problem was truly a national one and was brought about by the increased need for coal to help resolve the energy dilemma.

Estimates indicate that to build an adequate coal haul road system in Eastern and Western Kentucky would necessitate a 10-year program costing at least $1 billion, he said. However, Kentucky could not afford to put up more than $300 million of that amount.

The remainder of the required funds would have to come from the federal government, the governor said.

Gov. Carroll also pointed out that the delivery of coal from Kentucky "to the generators, coke ovens, furnaces and ocean docks of America" was clearly a matter of national concern.

And the problems it creates along the way must be resolved by some national solution that does not penalize those states like Kentucky who have moved responsibly to deal with the issue, he said.

Currently, between 80 and 90 percent of Kentucky's coal production serves power generators in 22 states.

According to State Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts, 77 per cent of the coal produced in Eastern Kentucky last year was moved from the mines by truck. The figure for Western Kentucky was 28 per cent.

The number of coal trucks using Kentucky's coal haul roads also is expected to increase from about 3,000 in 1973 to more than 10,000 by 1980, Roberts said.

According to a spokesman for the FHWA, any citizens or groups wishing to express their views before the Oct. 12 hearing should notify the presiding officer, Robert Johnson, Tel: (502) 352-5468, in advance.

Other interested persons may file written statements with the FHWA, Office of Chief Counsel, Room 4226, 400 Seventh Street S. W., Washington, D. C. 20590 before the close of business on Oct. 29.

Consumer Comments

By ROBERT F. STEPHENS
Attorney General

Your picture, or the picture of a notable local event or person, appears in the hometown newspaper. Several weeks later you receive a laminated copy of the photo and a bill for $3.25. Or perhaps a picture of your golden wedding anniversary appears in the paper, followed some time later by a mail offer to send you 50 stamp-sized copies for only $5.00. Do you have to pay for these? Should you buy them?

The Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection has been hearing about these problems in the last few weeks, because many consumers think they must pay for the laminated pictures received in the mail, even though they did not order or request them. There is no such responsibility under Kentucky law. Consumers do not have to pay for the unsolicited goods described in this situation.

Unsolicited goods are any items received through the mail that were not ordered or requested by the consumer. The consumer is not required to return the item. It may be kept and used. Don't let yourself be unwittingly forced into purchasing these items. Should the company begin harassing you about payment, report this to Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection.

In situations where personalized items are offered through the mail, you should exercise the same caution. Are you sure you will receive the offered material after sending your money? You should not send your money to anyone without checking to be sure you are making a wise expenditure.

Should you have questions or complaints about these photo offers or any other consumer complaint contact the Office of the Attorney General, Division of Consumer Protection, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. The office has found that it can most effectively deal with written complaints and encourages you to write when you have a complaint. However, if you have an emergency situation, call the consumer hotline. The number is 1-800-372-2960.

A whole new car, a whole new ball game.

It was clear that cars had to become more efficient. Not just small cars. All cars.

It was equally clear that plenty of people still preferred cars of size and substance, and were not about to settle for less.

So we gave them more. More economy and common sense on the one hand, more head room and rear leg room and trunk room on the other.

All in a crisp, clean, beautiful new package we call The New Chevrolet. A whole new kind of 6-passenger car that's more manageable in size, more responsible in its use of fuel and materials, yet retains "big car" room, ride, comfort and pride.

It's more than a new car. It's a whole new ball game. See for yourself at your Chevrolet dealer September 30.

If forwarded by mail, the sealed envelope containing the proposal must be enclosed in another envelope and mailed to the County Clerk, Floyd County Courthouse, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653, allowing sufficient time for such mailing to reach this address prior to the scheduled closing time for receipt of proposals.

Bids shall be accompanied by a certified check or bid bond made payable to Floyd County, Kentucky in an amount not less than five per cent (5 pct.) of the base bid. No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of Sixty (60) Days after the date bids are opened. He may, however, withdraw his bid at any time prior to the time and date scheduled for opening of same or any authorized postponement thereof. Any bid received after the time and date specified shall not be considered and will be returned unopened to the bidder.

The Contractor's attention is called to the fact that funds will be made available from Federal Agency grants and the owner's current funds for the construction of this project.

Work to be performed by Contractors involved in this project is subject to the

Hearing Slated On Deep Mining

Frankfort, Ky.—A public hearing will be held Oct. 12, beginning at 9 a.m., at the State Capitol on a new draft of regulations governing the surface effects of underground mines.

At the same time, Bell said he requested the Legislative Research Commission to withdraw a regulation previously proposed because, "The current proposals differ so substantially from the proposal which was published (in the Administrative Register) in September 1975."

The department head estimated the revision required approximately 1,000 man-hours. "Ten staff members discharged the very difficult and time-consuming task of giving full consideration to all testimony—both oral and written—given at that hearing (in October, 1975)," Bell added.

He said the project was made "more difficult" as the department attempted to resolve two possibly conflicting objectives in the development of the new regulations.

"Wherever appropriate," Bell continued, "we wanted to make the new regulations consistent with our existing regulations on surface mining operations. At the same time, we wanted to concurrently address those features of underground mining which set it apart from operations conducted on the surface."

Bell said two principal points of difference are the length of time required to complete the mining operation and the surface acreage disturbed by each type of mining. An underground mining operation may continue for as long as 25 years, while the typical surface operation may require no more than one or two years.

"Obviously, the length of operation has direct relationship to the period for which a mining permit is issued," said Bell. Because of the longer time frame of deep mine operations, Bell said the department had proposed a "living permit."

"That is," he explained, "a permit which is valid for the life of the operation, unless suspended or revoked for non-compliance with the applicable statutes or regulations." The present practice for surface mining is to issue or renew permits on an annual basis.

Bell pointed out that the October hearing is not required by law. However, he said it is in the best interest of all persons and organizations affected by the proposal "to have the fullest opportunity to make their views known" before the regulations are resubmitted to the Legislative Research Commission for publication in the Administrative Register.

"In some respects, it seems a long time since the 1974 General Assembly directed the department to promulgate regulations which would control the surface effects of deep mining," said Bell. "However, I would like to point out the fact that Kentucky, upon adoption of these regulations, will become the first state in the nation to require reclamation of the surface effects of deep mining in such a comprehensive manner."

NO CB'S IN MEXICO

BECAUSE of a recent change in policy by the Mexican government, American motorists who had planned to cross the Mexican border with their citizen's-band radios should now leave their units at home, the American Automobile Association says.

Mexican government officials have ceased issuing permits to U. S. citizens wishing to operate their CB's south of the border, says AAA.

The change in policy apparently is the result of a substantial number of violations of Mexican regulations by American CB operators.

minimum wage rates established by the U. S. Department of Labor under the provisions of the Davis-Bacon Act and the Kentucky Department of Labor, as set forth in Chapter 337 of the Kentucky Revised Statutes (per amendments adopted by the 1970 General Assembly.) Contractors will be required to pay whichever minimum wage rate is higher for the individual crafts.

Both Federal and State wage rate determinations will be incorporated into the specifications by an addendum issued prior to the scheduled bidding date.

The project is to be financed in part by a Grant from the U. S. Department of Interior, Bureau of Outdoor Recreation and is referred to as Project BOR-21-00397.

Bidders must comply with the President's Executive Order Nos. 11246 and 11375, which prohibit discrimination in employment regarding race, creed, color, sex or national origin. Where the President's Executive Order No. 11246 is shown, Executive Order No. 11375 also applies.

Bidders must comply with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Anti-Kickback Act and the Contract Work Hours Standard Act.

The Fiscal Court of Floyd County, Kentucky may consider informal any bid not prepared and submitted in accordance with the provisions of this advertisement and-or the specifications and may waive any informalities or reject any and all bids.

Tourism Interest Found in Europe

Frankfort, Ky.—Gov. Julian Carroll today reported surprising acceptance of the state's commercial and industrial development program, as well as its tourism program, by Europeans he met with during the last two weeks.

The governor's assessment followed a 12-day economic development tour that took him and a dozen others to four European countries.

"Much to our surprise, we actually had excellent acceptance of our commerce or industrial development program, and we think that we maybe will have some announcements to make real soon," the governor said in a briefing for the state's Department of Public Information.

Carroll said the group made five specific contacts that promise to be fruitful in the next couple of years. And he said he expects one contact to result in an announcement perhaps in the next 30 days. That contact was with a large German company which manufactures mining equipment.

The governor said the German company, through negotiations with a Kentucky company, might locate manufacturing facilities here.

"Only time will really tell whether or not our industrial development or commerce side of our office in Europe will be successful," said Carroll, adding, "We cannot expect immediate results in this field."

While in Europe, the governor, eight other state officials and four men from the private sector opened Kentucky's European office for tourism and industrial promotion in Brussels, Belgium.

The governor said today that he expects success of the state's tourism efforts to show up immediately. "We found, to our surprise, that it's going to be a lot easier for us to bring tourism to Kentucky than we initially had thought," he said. "As a matter of fact, they're (European tourists) already coming, but they don't stop here."

He said travel agencies in the four European countries visited—Belgium, England, Germany and France—assured him Kentucky can be added to tour itineraries.

Carroll said he doesn't want Kentucky to be known as the "Kentucky Fried Chicken" state or the Kentucky Derby State. "I want Kentucky to be known for its natural beauty; I want Kentucky to be known for its people and their hospitality," the governor said.

Kentucky is the 24th state to open an international office overseas. The Kentucky office, however, will be the first to have a full-time tourism official overseas, Carroll said.

The governor and his group arrived home Tuesday night. Their trip included 33 meetings in the four countries.

Candy Sales Raise Funds for National Kidney Foundation

A candy sale sponsored by the staff of the hemodialysis unit at Highlands Regional Medical Center has collected more than $360 over the past two weeks.

A large number of volunteers helped in the candy sale, proceeds from which will go to the National Kidney Foundation. The money will be used by the foundation in research efforts seeking cures and prevention of kidney disease, currently the fourth greatest cause of death from disease in the United States.

The hospital's hemodialysis unit was put into operation August 24 of this year serving victims of kidney disease in this area who otherwise would be forced to travel to hospitals in Lexington or Huntington, W. Va. for weekly dialysis treatment. As presently equipped, the dialysis unit will be able to accommodate up to eight chronic dialysis patients in the near future.

"Patients with total renal failure must receive dialysis three times a week for the rest of their lives," a dialysis unit staff member said, "and the medical center's unit should go a long way toward making the treatment more convenient and less of a financial burden for area kidney disease victims."

Head Start Funding Made in 3 Counties

Gov. Julian M. Carroll and Secretary C. Leslie Dawson, Department for Human Resources, have announced the allocation of $553,851 in federal funds to two Community Action Agencies and a board of education in Eastern Kentucky. The grants will enable the agencies to provide full-year, part-day and handicapped Head Start programs.

The Northeast Kentucky Area Development Council, Olive Hill, Carter county, will receive $274,000 for its program, enrolling 259 children.

In Morgan county, the Gateway Community Services Organization, West Liberty, will receive $196,500 for a program which will serve 200 children.

The Ashland Board of Education, Boyd county, has been granted $83,351 to operate its program for 80 children.

Head Start programs provide pre-school training for children from low-income families. Under federal guidelines, these programs also provide nutritional, medical, social and dental services which the children might require.

Senior Citizen News

The George P. Archer Senior Citizens center held its dedication Friday, Sept. 24, honoring the late Dr. George P. Archer, county Judge Henry Stumbo, and Big Sandy ADD.

This project was administered by a Senior Citizen board of directors made up of Ed Music, chairman, Judge Henry Stumbo, Joe Helton, Hawley Scott, Irvin Stumbo, Ermine Hall, Mrs. Ann Goble, Dr. Ed Leslie and Burl Wells Spurlock.

As the program advanced, new board members were added. These are Trilby May, Claude Swiney and Arthur Bradbury.

George Preston Archer spoke on ways his father had of making his dreams come true. An example is the city-operated Archer Park where the center is located.

Portraits of Dr. Archer and Judge Stumbo were officially presented to the center and hung by Yvonne S. Jones, daughter of Judge Stumbo, and George Preston Archer and Marthan Archer Damron, daughter and son of Dr. Archer.

Local officials who participated in the dedication included Mayor William O. Goebel, Jr., County Judge Henry Stumbo, County Court Clerk C. "Ollie" Robinson, County Attorney Harold Stumbo, and City Manager Curtis Clark.

The Archer Park board has given support and encouragement to the center at all times, and Leona Winkler read a tribute to the honorees.

County Court Clerk C. "Ollie" Robinson was master of ceremonies for this event.

Among those taking part in the center's activities were Verlie Newman, director, Dee Burchett, fiscal officer, L. B. Lemaster, ageing coordinator, Mr. and Mrs. Ola Gayheart, of Allen; Lou Vena Pritchard, of Wayland, Julia Holbrook, of Garrett; Mr. and Mrs. Rainley White, Prestonsburg; Elbert Gibson and Goldie Vance, of Wayland; Grace L. Mountain Review To Stress History Of East Kentucky

"Two hundred years of mountaineers"—that's the theme of the latest issue of Mountain Review, a quarterly magazine published in Whitesburg. In a collection of articles, short stories, photographs and poetry, this special issue of the magazine covers much of the history of the Central Appalachian region over the past two centuries.

An article by Henry P. Scalf, of Stanville, tells the stories of the first settlers in Eastern Kentucky's Big Sandy Valley, including the capture by Indians of Jenny Wiley.

"The Rowan County Trouble," by Stuart Sprague, of Morehead State University, is a study of the feud that occurred in and around Morehead, Kentucky, between 1884 and 1887. A second article by Sprague, "Hard Times in Bell and Harlan," recalls the violent struggle over unionization of the coalfields that came with the Depression in Eastern Kentucky's Bell and Harlan counties.

The boom-and-bust cycle which has dominated much of Appalachian history is the subject of an article by Joseph Suppiger, a professor of history at Lincoln Memorial University. In "All This Shall Pass Away," Suppiger recounts the rapid rise and demise of a luxurious resort hotel in the Harrogate, Tennessee area of the 1890s.

Other articles examine an Appalachian boom town in West Virginia, the early days of railroading in the mountains, and the varying attitudes Appalachians have had toward their own culture. Two short stories about mountain moonshining and mountain politics also appear in the magazine, along with poetry, reviews, writing and photography by junior high school students in Letcher county and historical photographs from the archives at Alice Lloyd College.

Student and Job Needs Both Vital, Howard Says

By SALLY WILSON

Frankfort, Ky.—Kentucky's vocational educators are concerned about human needs as well as job needs, according to Billy Howard, new director of the Bureau of Vocational Education.

There are two different philosophies of vocational education, Howard said. One claims that the sole function of vocational education is to train people for jobs in accordance with manpower needs, even to the extent of putting aside student interests.

The other philosophy claims that, although training should be in keeping with a realistic view of the job market, it should also consider student interest and increased student mobility.

"We in Kentucky follow the second philosophy," Howard said. "But," he added, "we are doing everything we can to keep job training in line with job opportunities."

"Needs assessment is vital," Howard said. "And an important way of making sure programs are geared to manpower needs is continuous communication with business and industry. The bureau's staff exchange program and the State Advisory Council for Vocational Education are providing that communication now."

The staff exchange program permits educators to spend up to four weeks in a business or industry related to their teaching fields. This experience enables them—and their students—to keep abreast of rapidly changing technology.

The council, which advises the bureau, is also working on a system to utilize information from local areas. Howard, former executive director of the council, said this information will aid the bureau in keeping the curriculum current, evaluating programs, and keeping up to date on equipment.

But, Howard said, assessing manpower needs can't stop at the local level. Increased student mobility means that state and national needs must be considered too.

"People will go all over the state, or out of state, to take a job they're interested in," Howard said.

Howard said he didn't think there would be any major conflict of student interest and manpower needs. Secondary school training emphasizes career guidance, orientation and exploration of careers, he explained. And providing students with information on such things as job opportunities and salaries can influence student interest a great deal.

Howard would also like to emphasize the co-op programs, he said, because they can have a significant effect on a student's ultimate career choice.

The co-op programs provide students with first-hand job experience.

"Balancing the needs of the students with the needs of the job market isn't always easy," Howard said. "But we try to do it because both are essential to a good vocational program."

CARD OF THANKS
We would like to express our appreciation to all of our friends, neighbors and relatives who in any way expressed their sympathy at the passing of our dear wife and mother, Lucy Lykens. We would thank the ministers of the Regular Baptist Church, and a special thanks to the Hall Bros. Funeral Home for its kind and efficient service.

Please take notice that The Bank Josephine has repossessed the personal property described as follows:

- 1 Used Caterpillar Dozer w/85 blade, tilt cyl and 8B ripper, rops cab, Serial No. 46A25149
- 1 275 B-C Michigan end loader, Serial No. 425C148, complete with rops, enclosed cab, 15 tires, and 6 cu. yd. GP bucket with teeth.

That The Bank Josephine claims a first lien against said personal property by virtue of a financing statement signed by The Bank Josephine and Lady Washington Mining Company, Inc. and filed on January 2, 1975, in the Office of the Clerk of the Lawrence County Court, being File No. 17949.

The United States of America, in behalf of its agency and instrumentality, Internal Revenue Service, on October 22, 1975 filed a lien for F.I.C.A. taxes amounting to $20,812.60, with the Clerk of the Lawrence County Court, a copy of which is attached hereto and marked Exhibit "A" for identity.

On November 13, 1975, the United States of America, in behalf of its agency and instrumentality, Internal Revenue Service filed another statement claiming a tax lien for F.I.C.A taxes in the amount of $12,210.46, with the Clerk of the Lawrence County Court, a copy of which is attached hereto and marked Exhibit "B" for identity.

On November 3, 1975, the Commonwealth of Kentucky, Department of Revenue, filed with the Clerk of the Lawrence County Court a statement claiming a tax lien to secure the payment of the sum of $2,719.89, a copy of which is attached hereto and marked Exhibit "C" for identity.

On December 30, 1975, the Commonwealth of Kentucky, Department of Revenue, filed another statement with the Clerk of the Lawrence County Court claiming an additional tax lien, a copy of which is attached hereto and marked Exhibit "D" for identity.

On March 3, 1976, the Commonwealth of Kentucky, Department of Revenue, filed another statement claiming another tax lien with the Clerk of the Lawrence County Court, as shown by statement filed herewith and marked Exhibit "E" for identity.

On October 23, 1975, the Commonwealth of Kentucky, Department of Human Resources, Ex Rel Division for Unemployment Insurance, filed another statement with the Clerk of the Lawrence County Court in the sum of $1,134.25, as shown by Exhibit "F".

On December 18, 1975, the Commonwealth of Kentucky, Department for Human Resources, Ex Rel Division for Unemployment Insurance, filed with the Clerk of the Lawrence County Court another statement claiming a lien in the sum of $254.06, as shown by Exhibit "G".

On May 10, 1976, the Commonwealth of Kentucky, Department for Human Resources, Ex Rel Division for Unemployment Insurance filed another statement with the Clerk of the Lawrence County Court claiming another tax lien for $13.15, as shown by Exhibit "H" hereto attached.

You and each of you are hereby notified that The Bank Josephine will conduct a public sale of said personal property on the 16th day of October, 1976, at the hour of 10:00 a.m. on the property of Edward Music and the Estate of Dr. George P. Archer, at the mouth of Katy Friend Branch in Floyd County, Kentucky, at the intersection of Kentucky Highway No. 124 and U. S. Highway No. 23, and at said sale The Bank Josephine claims that it is entitled to have the property sold to satisfy a lien which it has against said personal property amounting to the sum of $226,718.16, which lien it asserts is superior to the lien asserted by the United States of America, in behalf of its agency and instrumentality, Internal Revenue Service; by the Commonwealth of Kentucky, Department of Revenue; Commonwealth of Kentucky, Department for Human Resources, Ex Rel Division for Unemployment Insurance, all of which liens were filed against Lady Washington Mining Company.

This notice will be published in one issue of the Floyd County Times prior to October 16, 1976, the said Floyd County Times being a newspaper published in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, and in the county where said personal property is now located.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, The Bank Josephine has caused this notice to be signed by its President, this the 14th day of September, 1976.

Wins 3 Trophies in Week-End

Jeff Blackburn of Betsy Layne, Ky. recently won three trophies in one week-end at horse shows in this area. He won two first places in the Open Pleasure and the Gentlemen's Pleasure at the Pikeville horse show and went on to the Salyersville horse show the following day to win first place in the Open Pleasure. The mare, "Billie's Beauty," is owned by Dean Osborne Stables of Betsy Layne.

New Classes Begin October 4, at PCC

Two new Community Service Classes are scheduled to begin on Monday, October 4, at Prestonsburg Community College.

An organizational meeting will be held at 7 p.m. for the speed reading and comprehension class taught by members of the Jenny Wiley Council of the International Reading Association in cooperation with the Community Service Program. The aim of the class is to double the participants' reading rate while retaining a comprehension level of 70 percent or higher. This class is limited to 15. The meeting will be held in Room 104 of the Pike Technology Building.

An Advanced Cake Decorating Class will meet for four sessions: Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday, October 4, 5, 7 and 8 at 6:30 p.m. in Room 216 of the Pike Technology Building. This class is designed for the individual with basic cake decorating skills who wants to acquire more advanced techniques. The class will be taught by Mrs. Connie Scarberry, of Nippa. Enrollment is limited to 16.

Also scheduled to meet on Mondays, 7 p.m., beginning October 4 and continuing through November 15, is a novel course which Prestonsburg Community College plans to add to its courses given at the Louisa Community Hospital. This is a unique and timely course designed to aid Lawrence County students and citizens in understanding and appreciating "what makes educated Asians tick."

Both classical and more recent literary masterpieces in English translation from the cultural treasures of China, Japan, and Hindu India are the materials for this course—ranging from the ancient Indian "Vedas," the "Analects" of Confucius, and Japan's early novel "The Tale of Genji" down to modern Asian short stories and even the poems of China's Mao Tse-Tung. The course will be enriched by colorslide programs displaying backgrounds of each nation's life and arts, by recordings and cassettes enabling students to hear native speakers singing or reading Asian poems, and by unique original exhibits of Chinese picture scrolls, Japanese prints and figurines, and Indian fabrics.

The instructor in this course will be Dr. Ben W. Fuson, living now on Route 1, Louisa, and recently retired from sixteen years as professor of English at Kansas Wesleyan University, Salina, Kansas. Dr. Fuson, who was born in China, the son of American Missionaries, has lived and taught in China, India, and Japan, and also in Iran. Most of the course's slides and recordings and art items were collected or prepared by Dr. Fuson from his firsthand Asian experiences. A 200-page special study-guide used for student help and continuity in this course was prepared by Dr. Fuson and issued by Kansas University's extension center; it won a national award for publications in this category.

Area students and others interested in enrolling for this non-credit "Far Eastern Literature and Culture" course this fall are asked to contact the Office of Community Services, Prestonsburg Community College, Prestonsburg, or call 886-3863, extension 243.

L'ville Man To Give Writing Skills Award

A Louisville businessman has given $50,000 to the University of Kentucky to encourage and reward the development of composition skills, in honor of his deceased wife and her lifelong interest in good writing.

Albert L. Entwistle, Louisville, a franchise agent for a national company, has set up an endowment which every school year will award $500 each to six students at UK who have demonstrated the greatest improvement in composition skills. "We are delighted," said UK President Otis Singletary, "with Mr. Entwistle's generous gift to support a cause we feel strongly about, the encouragement of better writing by our students."

The prizes are a memorial to Mrs. Entwistle, a native of Frankfort, who attended UK in 1926-'27 and maintained until the end of her life a deep interest in good writing and a lively affection for the University of Kentucky. Mrs. Entwistle, who died this past March, for a time was secretary to a former Louisville Courier-Journal publisher, Mark Ethridge.

Entwistle expects the program to "develop an incentive for University of Kentucky students in all courses and from all walks of life to take a keen interest in better English."

Entries are not confined to work done in English classes. Any class requiring moderate or substantial amounts of writing may produce candidates for the Entwistle Prizes, which will be awarded for the first time next May.

Entwistle is considering the extension of his prizes to a secondary school and an elementary school. Decision about this move will be made after Entwistle and a consultant, Mrs. Martha Hundley, a Louisville English teacher, study together with UK officials the effectiveness of the program's first year at UK.

A "typical" claimant of unemployment insurance is a white male who has been unemployed from 5 to 14 weeks, is between 25 and 34 years of age, and had been employed in an industrial job, performing structural work of low complexity, according to December 1975 data reported in "Worklife," a publication of the U. S. Labor Department's Employment and Training Administration.

If Dodge hasn't got your new car, nobody has.

If Dodge hasn't got your new car, nobody has.

Your local Dodge Dealer has just raised the curtain on the new '77 models. And Dodge has never looked better. Whatever kind of new car you have in mind, Dodge has it. Spacious. Sporty. Even downright sexy. If Dodge hasn't got your new car, nobody has!

The unbelievable Aspen wagon.

Your Dodge Dealer invites you to come in and see the remarkable small wagon that's so roomy it doesn't seem small at all.

Charger, for night people.

Meet the car that was designed with the evening in mind. Charger, the sleek Dodge that takes over after dark.

Royal Monaco Brougham.

It's still a big country. There's still a big Dodge! For '77, Dodge still gives you a full-sized car with full-sized room and full-sized comfort.

Monaco. More room for the money.

Dodge introduces the luxurious car that's not too big outside, but has room for six inside.

Pickups that have got it where it counts.

As usual, Dodge brings you the pickups that have a lot to offer when it comes to price and payload.

Sportsman. Great for kids and cargo.

Whether you're planning on moving passengers or packages, Dodge Sportsman has the room you need.

Welcome to the new Dodge cars and trucks for 1977.

Coal made the day.

The coal industry provides the good things in life for Kentuckians like Butch Ratliff. He earns a good salary as a coal mining engineer. So he and his family are able to enjoy weekends of camping and boating. The Ratliffs and families like them can look forward to a lot more. Because there's ample opportunity ahead for men like Butch in the coal industry.

More than 40,000 Kentuckians work directly in coal mining; another 20,000 are involved indirectly. That's 60,000 jobs — more than three quarters of a billion dollars in wages — all generated by Kentucky's leading industry.

Jobs in Kentucky's coal mining industry are secure because increasing energy requirements will put higher demands on coal as a fuel source each year. The same demands are opening job opportunities — for high school and college graduates, and for people who want on-the-job training that leads to higher positions.

Coal has made life in Kentucky good. And it will for a long time to come. Kentuckians who want a solid future will find it right here — in coal.

I heard about a super salesman who made a million dollars commission on one sale. The time he spent closing the deal was two hours.

I haven't calculated the exact amount of money this man made, but it was somewhere in the vicinity of $8,333.00 per minute. There are many people who work a full year and make less than this man made in a single minute.

This story is the ultimate in success, if you classify success as making money.

There are a lot of people in the world who believe success comes to a person in forms other than monetary. In true friends, loving members of the family, good neighbors, good health—just plain happiness.

It would be nice to have a million dollars. There are people who don't have any money—and have riches beyond the millionaires fondest dreams. These wealthy-poor people are among the finest in the earth.

OUR THOUGHT TO REMEMBER: WHEN YOU COUNT YOUR BLESSINGS—LOOK BEYOND YOUR MONEY.

Highway Beautification Law May Get New Lease on Life

Frankfort, Ky.—Whatever happened to the federal Highway Beautification Act of 1965 that would have required unsightly junkyards to be screened from the view of passing motorists?

According to sources here, the Act is alive and well after undergoing several years of reappraisal just about everywhere. And while some states still are enforcing it only poorly at best, the smart money is on the side of those who say that its enforcement will improve appreciably—soon.

Those who favor the federal measure are looking to a 1974 amendment to the Act which will compel some states to upgrade the quality of their regulations to meet higher federal standards or face the prospects of losing their share of federal aid money for roads.

According to state Department of Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts, Kentucky already is in the clear as far as state compliance with federal requirements is concerned. And a tough, new drive to enforce those standards already is under way.

"It's in everyone's interest that we get moving on this," said Roberts, "and I have instructed our division of maintenance to aggressively pursue the matter among the 3,000 junkyards in our state."

Roberts said that the regulations will be enforced evenhandedly along state roads as well as interstates. "But since it can't be done overnight, we will have to set some priorities."

Junkyards near the interstate system in Kentucky—some half-dozen in all—already are screened adequately, he said. "But there are several hundred more along our primary, federal-aid roads that are not in good shape at all."

The elimination of those eyesores will be the state's first priority, Roberts said. Next in line will be other junkyards located along county roads.

To satisfy state regulations, the junkyards must meet two basic screening criteria. First, they must be blocked completely from the view of passing motorists. And secondly, the screening material must blend harmoniously with the natural surroundings.

For example, a bright aluminum fence may not blend harmoniously with its surroundings in an agricultural area, but if the same fence were painted, then it might. Acceptable fencing also may be of wood, masonry or metal. Or a screen of trees and shrubs could be used.

If a screen of trees and shrubs is used, it must be evergreen so that it hides the junkyard effectively in winter as in summer.

Failure to comply with the screening law can lead to an order requiring that the junkyard be relocated elsewhere.

Roberts said that the state has no control over junkyards on city streets or side streets where the yard is more than 2,000 feet from the center line of a road controlled by the state. Nor will the state interfere where local zoning laws have procedure.

Women in Management Seminar To Be Offered

A new and unusual seminar will be held at 7 p.m. October 12, 19 and 26 at Prestonsburg Community College. The seminar, designed especially for women and is entitled, "Women in Management," is sponsored by the Office of Community Services and will have faculty members from the college's Division of Social Sciences and Related Technologies leading discussions. These faculty members will include, among others, Ron Carter, chairman of the division, Ronnie Chaffins, Mazola Salmons and Leo Weddle.

Several guest speakers are scheduled for the seminar, including Marcia Carter, assistant administrator of Mountain Comprehensive Care Center and Caroline Hay, regional coordinator for the Big Sandy FIVCO Area Health Education System.

The seminar will deal with topics such as Women and Leadership, Women in a Man's World, Human Relations in Action, Human Behavior, Communication, and Management of Time. It is intended to help prepare individuals for management positions within their organizations by being exposed to actual workday problems.

Any individual who is interested in this subject is invited to attend on Tuesday evenings, beginning October 12 at 7 p.m. For additional information, call the Office of Community Services, 886-3863, extension 243.

Martin S-Mart Enlarging with New Addition

S-Mart, opened barely a year-and-a-half ago at Martin, is already enlarging to accomodate new lines of merchandise. The new addition will provide 10,500 more square feet to the building for a total of 30,500 sq. ft. The pre-fabricated metal addition is expected to be complete by November 15. S-Mart Manager Sam Hicks (at left) and owner of the building George Barnett are pictured at the site of the work.

Natural Gas Conservation Said Key to Energy Problem

Frankfort, Ky.—Conservation of natural gas is the key to meeting Kentucky's most pressing energy problem, said Damon W. Harrison, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Energy. "Curtailements of natural gas for the winter ahead fall heaviest on industrial users. Careful management of natural gas in the home and in commercial establishments can free up this valuable fuel for essential industrial use," Harrison said.

"This is important because saving at home supports jobs in the factory," the commissioner said.

"Residential natural gas users can immediately take a number of steps to conserve, including insulation, weatherstripping of windows and doors, turning down thermostats to no more than 68 degrees and adjusting the water heater thermostat to a reasonable level."

Harrison said natural gas is the number one target for conservation, but Kentuckians must get in the habit of conserving all energy in order to reduce costs and avoid future shortages.

"Kentucky's supply of electricity is adequate and the future looks good," Harrison said. But he added that the use of electricity still must be managed efficiently.

"I'm frequently asked, 'Why conserve electricity when we have plenty?' The answer is simple: you can immediately save money and conservation can reduce the need for new gathering facilities in the future."

Harrison said this will help costs lower and avoid environmental problems.

"Conservation reduces the use of coal and other natural resources which will be required for essential purposes in the future," Harrison said.

Mandatory Miner Training Is Topic

Lexington, Ky.—Representatives of the state Department of Mines and Minerals, the federal Mines Enforcement Safety Administration (MESA), Kentucky's Bureau of Vocational Education, U. S. Sen. Walter "Dee" Huddleston and coal operators in the Commonwealth met here to review the status of proposed mandatory training programs for coal miners.

According to Sam Johnson, executive assistant to Mines and Minerals Commissioner Harrel N. Kirkpatrick, the Sept. 23 session was "a meeting of the minds to insure that there is no duplication of efforts or conflicts in the requirements of the state and federal agency."

Mandatory training programs have been provided for in proposed MESA regulations, in the recommendations of Gov. Julian Carroll's Deep Mining Safety Commission (DMSC) and in legislation currently before the U. S. Senate.

Assistant Superintendent Billy Howard told the group of the state Bureau of Vocational Education's plans to seek federal funding for the training of miners. "We envision our role as that of providing additional training needed but not existing because of a lack of manpower," Howard said.

The program outlined by Howard, based upon the guidelines of the proposed training requirements, would be a cooperative effort between the bureau and the state Department of Mines and Minerals.

"We'll grab the ball, put the programs where the need is, and implement the kind of programs that are needed, but first, we must know the requirements," Howard added.

MESA's state grant program was explained to the group by its director, Bill Bowers.

According to Bowers, the program, in effect since 1971, allocates money for the improvement of conditions in mines on a cost sharing basis. Eight per cent of the funding is supplied by the federal government and twenty per cent by the state.

Bowers said Kentucky was one of only two states that had participated in the program since its implementation. "Today, 15 states, representing ninety per cent of the coal production in the United States, are involved," he added.

One million dollars was allocated for the administration of the grant program last year, said Bowers. He praised Sen. Huddleston, saying that the Kentucky senator was instrumental in securing an $80,000 supplemental grant for the program in 1975.

The MESA official said Kentucky had received approximately forty per cent of the available grant funds last year and added that the state's full request for funding in 1977, approximately $600,000, would be approved.

He said that $2.5 million had been allocated for the program in the coming year and added that the Kentucky Bureau of Vocational Education's proposal will be looked on with favor by the federal agency officials.

Ed Graves, representing Sen. Huddleston, said the Congress had appropriated $5 million for the programs at maturity. "I strongly suspect that once mandatory training goes into effect congress will have to provide the entire amount," Graves said.

Graves reviewed the present status of a bill, known as the "Mine Transfer Bill," presently before the Senate. He said the bill includes a provision for mandatory training that is in line with the MESA requirements. Graves said, "There is not likely to be a bill passed before adjournment on Oct. 1." He added that he expects the MESA regulations to be the federal requirement for mandatory mine safety training. DMSC members announced that they would review their proposal in relationship to the MESA requirements at their next full commission meeting on Oct. 4-5.

Illegal Aliens Threaten Economy

Legal residents and U. S. citizens are paying $13 billion a year in taxes to support the 8 million aliens who live here illegally. Illegal aliens take jobs away from legal residents; they force them into unemployment. They apply for welfare, send their children to the public schools, and pay no taxes.

According to Commissioner Leonard F. Chapman Jr. of the U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS), the situation—critical for some years—"now threatens to become a national disaster." The impact of illegal aliens on the labor market is staggering, he avers. "If we could locate and deport the three to four million illegals who currently hold jobs in the United States, replacing them with citizens and legal residents, we could reduce our own unemployment dramatically, by as much as 50 per cent," he writes in the October issue of Reader's Digest.

Legal residents want these jobs, Chapman claims; it simply isn't true that illegals take the "unwanted" assignments. He cites the case of 50 illegals discovered working for a janitorial-services company in Chicago: "When news of the arrests was published the following day, nearly 150 citizens lined up outside the firm's offices to apply for the vacated jobs."

Benefits—such as medical and dental payments, public education, welfare—for illegal aliens cost the taxpayer $1 billion a year; the figure in New York City alone is a staggering $180 million.

Time was when the United States welcomed immigrants of all nationalities, in unlimited numbers. But now the economy is fragile; the citizenry is heavily taxed; legal residents desperately need jobs; the INS is stretched too thin to stem the tide of illegal aliens.

Chapman calls for federal legislation, such as the Eastland bill, which would penalize employers for harboring illegal laborers when U. S. residents are available to fill those jobs. He asks that state and local agencies make an effort to determine if aliens have valid registration. He urges budget increases to step up INS activities in ridding the country of resident illegals.

"But first," he writes, "Congress must pass legislation that will attack the heart of the problem: employment of the illegal alien. And action must be swift, for there is no time to lose."

200 Boy Scouts Enjoy Camping

When a Scout troop goes to Camp Shawnee, the summer training camp of the Lonesome Pine Council, Boy Scouts of America, it brings together a year's worth of adventure into six days.

According to Arthur Leach, Boy Scouting chairman for Lonesome Pine Council, during the past summer 200 Scouts and leaders from 23 troops used the camping facilities at Camp Shawnee, in the upper Dewey Lake area of this county. A trained camp staff assisted the troops in carrying out a broad Scout program, including swimming, boating, field sports, hiking, and camping skills.

Leach said that again this year nearly 100 handicapped youngsters also attended Camp Shawnee, participating in all the regular program activities, plus many others designed specifically to meet their special needs. The camp's regular staff was augmented during that two-week period by 25 volunteers from the New England states who heard of this special camp and wished to help make it successful.

Schools Must Advertise Commodities Totalling Over $2,500, Is Ruling

Food commodities which cost a public school system more than $2,500 a year must be advertised for bids according to an opinion from the Office of the Attorney General.

The opinion was issued Sept. 20 by Robert Chenoweth, assistant attorney general, in response to a letter from William Armstrong, superintendent of the Bellevue Public Schools.

In the opinion, Chenoweth stated that if the total amount of any commodity (milk, bread, meat etc.) exceeded $2,500 in the school year, then that item must be advertised for bids. He noted that this requirement could not be avoided by making several smaller purchases of the commodity.

Chenoweth said that when it is impossible to get a year long bid on an item, bids for short-term contracts on that item could be taken. For instance if milk suppliers would refuse to take a year's contract then bids should be taken for a sixty-day period contract.

Friends may call at the Carter Funeral Home this afternoon (Wednesday).

Victim's Father, Brother Charged In Pike Slaying

State Police Sunday night arrested the father and brother of a Pike county man who was killed earlier that afternoon on Fork's Branch, a short distance south of Pikeville.

Earl Robinson, 69, and a son, Johnny, 30, were charged with murder in the death of 43-year-old Eugene Robinson, who was shot with a 12-gauge shotgun near the residence of the elder Robinson. State Police Detective Fred Bailey said the quarrel between the victim, who lived a short distance from the house where his father and brother resided, and his relatives involved a land dispute.

The Robinsons were lodged in the Pike county jail Monday night pending arraignment later this week, Det. Bailey said.

Hearing Schedule Change Announced

Frankfort, Ky.—A change in the time and location of an informal public hearing on proposed regulations on the surface effects of underground mines has been announced by the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

Robert D. Bell, secretary of the department, said the hearing will be conducted at 2 p.m. (EST) on Tuesday, Oct. 12, in the State Office Building auditorium.

He said the session was originally set for 9 a.m. in the Capitol's House Chamber, but was rescheduled after the department learned the U. S. Department of Transportation planned to conduct a hearing at the same hour on the need for federal financial assistance in building and maintaining coal-haul roads.

"The decision to make the change in our hearing was made because we believe there are many people who are interested in both hearings and it would be more convenient to hold them in the same building," Bell added.

Fire Laws Stressed By Forestry Service

The Division of Forestry is reminding all Kentuckians that the fall fire season begins Friday, October 1, and continues through December 15.

Because this fall's accumulations of leaves and other vegetation will not be compacted by snow, as they are in the spring, the fall fire season can be severe with fires extremely difficult to control.

During the fire season there are two state laws which should be remembered. These laws include the 4:30 burning laws, and the law providing that no person shall set fire to any flammable material without taking all reasonable care and precaution to prevent the fire from spreading. This applies to burning trash, garbage, brush, grass, or any thing else that will burn.

For further information or advice on forestry laws or safe burning practices, call the District Division of Forestry Office, 886-8562, local Forest Rangers, S. R. Brackett, Allen, 874-2659, Tilton Johnson, Weeksbury, 452-2503, or see Rocky Hamilton, Prater Creek, or Willard Hamilton, of Grethel.

SPENDS WEEK-END HERE

Miss Rose Sammons, student at Morehead State University, spent the week-end here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dallas D. Sammons, of the Auxier road. Visiting with her was Miss Debbie Brock, of Elizabethtown, Kentucky.

Area Road Contracts Awarded

Frankfort, Ky.—More than $2 million in road and bridge improvements have been approved for the Eastern Kentucky region under the latest contract awards to be announced here by state Department of Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts.

The awards were announced following the state Bureau of Highways' Sept. 16 bid-letting, at which more than $10.4 million worth of contracts were awarded statewide.

According to Roberts, the largest single contract awarded in Eastern Kentucky went to Kentucky Road Oiling, Inc., of Lexington, which asked $1,565,312 on a contract for the Mount Sterling Bypass in Montgomery county.

That contract will provide for grade and drainage improvements and surfacing along the bypass from US 60 to US 460, a distance of about 1.6 miles.

Of 11 contracts announced during this latest letting and totaling some $2.6 million in Energy Road Fund money, only one was awarded in Eastern Kentucky.

It went to East Kentucky Paving Corp., of Grayson, which bid $114,188 to surface 2.6 miles of Middle Fork-Breathitt county line road (KY 378) in Magoffin county, beginning at the right fork of Fritz road (CR 1262) and extending to the southwest.

The remaining non-ERF contracts announced for Eastern Kentucky were: —Grade and drainage improvements and surfacing at the bridge spanning the east fork of the Little Sandy River on the Alley-Garner Rush road (KY 854) in Boyd county. The contract was awarded to Martin & Judy, Inc., of Cynthia which bid $195,774.

—A $37,601 contract for surfacing one mile of the Roberts-Morrow Road in Wayne county from KY 790 extending southeasterly. The bid was submitted by MaGo Construction Co., of Bardstown.

—Replacement of the superstructure of the bridge spanning Cutshin Creek on the Smilaz-Dailey road (KY 2057) in Leslie county. The $35,934 contract was awarded to All-Point Construction Co. of Lexington.

—Two contracts for surfacing Skidmore road in Menifee county, from the junction of KY 1274 extending northwesterly just over one mile. The contracts awarded to Walker Construction Co., Mt. Sterling, for $19,928 and $13,914 respectively.

—Surfacing various roads and parking areas at Greenbo Lake State Resort Park in Greenup county. The $18,730 contract was awarded to Ashland Asphalt Paving Co. of Ashland. (The state Department of Parks will reimburse KYDOT for the total cost of this project, Roberts said.)

—Surfacing one-half mile of the Williamsburg-Pineville road (KY 921), from a point in Whitley county 5.5 miles west of the Bell county line and extending westerly. Nally and Gibson Surfacing, Inc., of Springfield won the $9,538 contract.

—Cleaning and painting the bridge spanning Barrett's Creek on the Grayson-Olive Hill-Morehead road (KY 1947). The $7,050 contract was awarded to W. R. Mollohan Co. of Elk View, W. Va.

WOMEN'S HOURS LIMITED

The first law limiting the working hours of women to 10 hours a day was passed in Ohio in 1852, according to "Important Events in American Labor History," published by the U. S. Department of Labor.

Carroll Opposes Radical Changes In County Government Operation

The Kentucky General Assembly—in its upcoming special session—should not attempt to approve legislation that would cause sweeping changes in the operation of county offices, Gov. Julian Carroll says.

"My suggestion is that the General Assembly restrict its legislation in the special session to only the implementation of the Judicial Article and changes in those (county) offices which are absolutely necessary," Carroll said in an interview at Paducah during the week-end.

Last week, several western Kentucky lawmakers predicted that proposals for changing the operations of most county offices would result in a heated battle during the special session, which will be called later this year to implement the final phase of the Judicial Article, approved by the voters last year.

One of them, Rep. Kenny Imes, D-Murray, said he felt the new judicial system would be too expensive and probably would result in an increase in taxes.

But Carroll said the "article will be implemented without a tax increase supported by me."

He added, however, that under the new system the state Supreme Court will have the power to order that "additional funds be allocated for the operation of the new court system."

"If the General Assembly fails to provide the necessary funds," that could result in a tax increase, Carroll said.

The Judicial Article established a four-tier court system. Legislation implementing the Supreme Court, Court of Appeals and circuit courts was approved earlier this year.

Legislation at the special session will deal with the establishment of the district courts which will replace city, county and magistrate courts.

Carroll has said that other topics which would be brought up at the session include workmen's compensation, the state's death penalty law and problems associated with Louisville's sewer system.

Duties in three county offices will experience major changes because of the Judicial Article, the governor said.

"Any changes made in other offices in the courthouse are not necessary," Carroll said. "The Judicial Article does not directly affect anyone but the county judge, county clerk and circuit clerk."

The governor said 26 committees are studying implementation of the article and its impact on local offices.

"Presently there's a lot of discussion and a lot of controversy but when the session starts the issues will be identified and the answers will be more definite," Carroll said.

ENJOY WEEK-END OUTING

An overnight stay in the Big Branch area of Dewey Lake was enjoyed Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Carter Tackett, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Neil Allen and a large setter dog. A meal of hot dogs with everthang, damp C. C. Biggs cookies and RC's, combined with an evening of carp fishing for a most memorable time indeed.

A Good Word for the Rat

By GEORGE L. MOORE
Perhaps the rat is the most hated and despised of all God's creatures. It was not until I began working in the mines that I learned that the rat did, indeed, have many friends. I noticed a number of rats the first day that I ate my lunch in the mines. As I opened my lunch pail and began to eat, I noticed that three or four large rats emerged from the piles of slate and came close to where I was eating. I picked up a piece of slate to hurl at the loathsome creatures. An oldtime miner came along and told me not to do that. He said, "The rat is the miner's best friend". I was later to learn that what he had said was true.

The rat, at least in the old days, was a good safety engineer. He not only was never killed by a slatefall but also warned the miner when impending danger was near. As you drive an entry in the mines, you leave, in most cases, what they call draw slate. As you advance under the mountain, you set timbers to keep it from falling. When there is danger of the slate falling, the rats immediately go to work. They seem to have an instinct to warn them of danger. You will notice them running up to the top of the timbers, cocking their ears against the mine roof and listening attentively. If the danger increases, you will notice that they become excited and make frequent trips up and down the timbers. When they make an exodus from the mine entry, the miner will gather his tools and move out. The rat never seems to make the wrong prediction. I feel quite sure, at least in the old days, that these rats saved the lives of many miners.

Regardless of what the book says, I contend that there are two species of rats in my section of the country—the cliff or pack rat and the common ordinary, garden variety usually called the house or barnyard rat. The pack rat dwells in the shallow caves or crevices of a cliff; the home rat takes up homestead anywhere he can find an abundance of grain or other food.

The pack rat is, for the most part, harmless and does very little damage to the farmer. Like the chipmunk, he spends most of his time laying up a supply of food. Sometimes it will fill a large crevice in the cliff with pods of pokeberries, huckleberries, and any other edible berries he can find. It is strange but true that rats will work for days storing up materials that they could not use.

A few years ago we missed several of the lower leaves on eachstalk of tobacco near each barn post as we were taking it down for stripping. As we approached the lower end of the barn, we found all the missing leaves of tobacco stacked on bales of hay. None of the leaves were damaged. That night I set a steel trap to catch the nocturnal prowler. The next morning, two beady eyes looked up at me from the dark hole in the hay mow as if to say, "Mister, let me go. I was only helping you with your tobacco and I have done you no harm".

The barnyard or house rat is a gray horse of another color. Since the dawn of history it has been called the scourge of mankind. It is said that the Bubonic Plague that destroyed millions of people during the Middle Ages was disseminated by the rat. In this case, it was the black rat that did the damage.

There have been many stories of fact and fiction told about the rat. I once knew an oldtimer who told this yarn about the ingenuity of the rat. He said that his place was so infested with the loathsome creatures that they ate everything on the place. They ate all his shuck beans, all his dried corn and all of his dried punkin. Finally they got down to the canned goods. At first they were puzzled how to get to the contents inside the jars.

Eventually one rat fastened his front paws securely to the top of the Mason Jar lid. Another took this rat by the tail and pulled him around in a circle until the jar lid was unscrewed.

Aside from acting as safety engineers in the mine, the rat has benefitted mankind in numerous ways. It has been invaluable to medical science in testing new drugs before the drugs are tried on humans. Man, in his scientific laboratory, has infected the rat with every conceivable disease. In experimental psychology, the rat has been subjected to all manner of pain and torture. The knowledge gained by such experiments has become a part of our social heritage.

Kick, Pass, Punt Winners

The annual Kick, Punt and Pass competition was held Saturday at the Prestonsburg High School football field. The local Ford dealer, B & D Motors Company, sponsored the event, which was conducted by Kenny Conley, Tommy Hale and Gary Holbrook. Each boy who won in his class and age group will compete Saturday, October 9, with all the winners from other Ford areas. The following placed in the top three in each age group here:

- 8 Years Old: First place, Tom Horton; second, Steve Wells; third, Paul Horton.
- 9 Years Old: First place, Wendell Burke; second, John Goble.
- 10 Years Old: First place, John C. Hale; second, Doug Green; third, Gerald Leslie.
- 11 Years Old: First place, Patrick Horton; second, Todd Johnson.
- 12 Years Old: First place, Carlos W. Harris; second, James Allen.
- 13 Years Old: First place, Robert Horton; second, Sammy Huffman; third, Robie Tackett.

Coal Trucks Running Again On Lake Road

Strict enforcement of load limit regulations across Dewey Dam and on the lake-bordering road from that point to Hager Gap may be easing off after several days of strict enforcement, The Times was told Tuesday.

For a time all heavy traffic, mainly the trucks hauling coal from the Daniels Creek area below the dam, were routed over other roads. A few have ventured back.

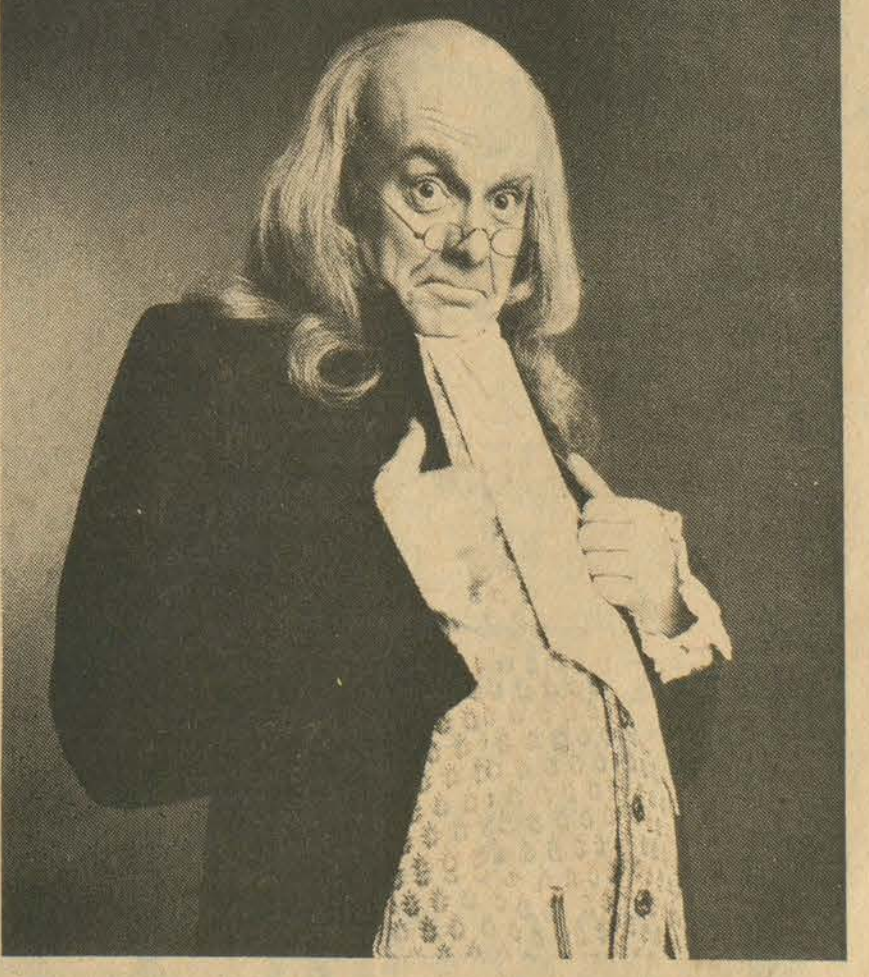

The state Department of Highways imposed a 17-ton weight limit across the dam itself and a 12-ton limit on the road from the dam to Hager Gap. That precluded coal trucks, because they weigh more than 12 tons, unloaded. Most of the heavy traffic was routed down the Johns Creek road to US 23, north of Auxier.

The weight crackdown followed several wrecks on the lake road. The Corps of Engineers first began the attempt to alleviate the situation a few months ago by issuing citations alleging reckless or overweight operation, and all cited were fined in U. S. district court.

Three school buses travel the Dewey Dam-Hager Gap road daily, and the Girl Scout camp is located a few yards off the route.

Repair of the road after heavy damage by trucks was made a few years ago at a cost of more than a million dollars, it was said.

200 years ago I didn't know where to register, either.

Register to vote. It's the Bicentennial thing to do.
