

Children's Swine Flu Shots Next

Health Department Sets One-Day Clinic Here for Thursday

The U. S. Public Health Service announced last week that swine flu vaccination is safe for children, and as an aftermath of that determination health departments in Kentucky are planning immunization clinics for "high risk" children from age 3 through 17.

The Floyd County Health Department will hold a swine flu immunization clinic for this age group tomorrow (Thursday) from 8 a.m. till 4 p.m.

At the same clinic those 18 years of age or over may receive the swine flu immunization.

The health department explained that a "high risk child" is one who has some type of chronic disease or long-term illness from heart or kidney disease, a respiratory ailment or diabetes. All these must be accompanied to the clinic at the health department by parents or guardians.

The procedure for persons 18 years of age or over will be the same as at last week's clinics.

Clinics were held at eight schools over the county last Wednesday and Thursday, but a disappointingly low number of adults received the immunization—as a result of the "scare" stemming from clinics held in Pittsburgh where deaths of elderly persons followed the "shots." Although it was determined that these deaths were not connected with the swine flu shots, enough doubt lingered to cut down on clinic attendance here and elsewhere over the country.

Anticipating that under normal conditions 70 per cent of the adult population would receive the immunization, James B. Goble, health department administrator here, had estimated that as many as 14,000 adults might appear for the immunization shots last week. Instead, only 3,138 were vaccinated.

Every precaution against an untoward incident was taken at the eight clinics in the county—a physician was on hand at each, along with nurses and other technical help—and only a minor reaction was experienced by a few, possibly four or five, it was said.

The breakdown of immunizations at each of the eight clinics follows:

Clark Elementary School, 205; Prestonsburg High, 680; Garrett Elementary, 192; Martin Elementary, 371; Wheelwright High, 437; McDowell High, 464; Stumbo Elementary, 189; Betsy Layne High, 600.

Work Delayed On Ramada Inn

Construction of the Prestonsburg Ramada Inn has been delayed, possibly until next spring, Bill Carmichael, executive vice-president of the Acme Corp., Indianapolis, Ind., which will be the construction contractor, said late last week.

Mr. Carmichael said the project in "on hold," and that he did not know exactly when it will be begun, but suggested next spring as a possible starting time. He explained that the delay developed because Acme is trying to complete other projects under way before starting the work here.

The Ramada Inn is planned for location on a six-acre tract which the nationally known motel chain leased about 18 months ago from Edward Music and associates. The site is on the Mountain Parkway, near the junction of that route with new US 23 at the mouth of Katy Friend, outside Prestonsburg.

Present plans call for the construction of a 150-room inn.

Earlier plans announced for a shopping center and a twin cinema on the same site are indefinite at this time, it was indicated.

Mild Push Made for Votes As Fateful Nov. 2 Date Near

The two major political parties were in the closing days of the current campaign this week trying to stir up voter interest in their candidates.

In this county the Democrats staged a rally at the Prestonsburg High School fieldhouse where Governor Julian Carroll, Congressman Carl D. Perkins, U.S. Senator "Dee" Huddleston and others spoke.

Republicans in their campaign fight were joined this week by John Sherman Cooper, former U. S. senator, who

The Hoedowners, one of scores of groups taking part in Saturday's patriotic event here.

Hundreds lined either side of Lake Drive here Saturday, braving an unseasonable chill to see the Red, White, and Blue Day parade.

And a grand parade it was with more bands, more floats, more Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Cub and Brownie Scouts, majorettes, antique cars, National Guardsmen, and of course, Shriners on motorcycles, some blasting away at one and all with a blank-filled long rifle, others in cars and on foot.

This year, there was a place for everyone in the parade, from pre-school baton twirlers to senior citizens.

WHERE THE LIGHTS DIM

Travel from here to Lexington, and see the lights go out. It happens as you leave the hills, near Stanton, and the brilliance of the foliage suddenly dims, with only here and there a patch of color appearing like a dim light in an isolated farmhouse on a dark night.

I shudder at the thought, but another week or so and it will be dark, all the way.

TRAVELER'S LAMENT

The daughter who sometimes has a yen for far places had an idea to take us on a jaunt to New England last week, but the weather map indicated snow in those parts, and my apparel being what it is I decided maybe it was time to do some hemming and hawing and see if it couldn't be arranged to hold that trip to a warmer clime.

We settled for Central Kentucky where, a weather forecaster had confidently predicted, a high coming out of the South would assure bright, autumn weather.

I did not go fishing, but it rained and rained. And the luck ran from bad to worse. First of all, Shakertown was full up. We went, anyhow, on the long chance there would be a cancellation. No cancellation. Moreover, the place was so full—why, I have no idea—that they couldn't serve us either supper (dinner, to you) or breakfast.

So, next day, we slushed our way over to Richmond, thinking we might pay Whitehall a call. We made it to Whitehall, and read a sign which informed us that the place was closed for the season. Then we backtracked a bit and went over to this pottery place in which I had no interest whatsoever. It, too, was closed.

So, while the skies wept for us, we made it back to the hills, and there I expressed some wonder at the sort of mentality that would cause a body to leave a place so beautiful.

Still, the skein of bad luck hadn't ended. Once we were home, the daughter had an idea a milkshake might do something for a wayfarer in my condition, so she went for a batch of same.

Gas Company Posts Rewards after Blast

Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company announced this week the posting of a total of $150,000 in rewards for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any person or persons responsible for acts of sabotage against its properties or equipment.

The rewards were posted after a battery of oil storage tanks had been destroyed last Thursday night when an explosive device apparently had been detonated at an oil well site near Cornettsville, Perry county, and valves of two gas lines had been closed, allegedly by vandals.

The Perry county explosion, apparently caused by dynamite, started a fire which spread through five of eight 210-barrel tanks at the well location. The blast is being investigated by state police and officers from the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Division of the Treasury Department.

The following evening, the valve of an eight-inch main supplying gas to Prestonsburg, Paintsville and other communities was closed, but company supervisory personnel located and reopened the valve before line pressures dropped below the level that could have left several thousand area residents shivering. The Johnson County Gas Company and Mountain Utilities, Inc., which serve rural Johnson county residents, receive their gas supply from the same line.

The same evening, about 10 homes in the Teaberry vicinity on Mud Creek were without heat for about two hours after a valve on a two-inch line had been closed.

About 300 Kentucky West Virginia employees, members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union, went on strike, Oct. 17, after negotiations toward a new wage contract had failed.

Officers Seize Beer, Whiskey

A haul of 1752 cans of beer and 130 half-pints of whiskey was taken Tuesday morning from a truck outside the home of Jack Akers on Mud Creek by State Police Detective Gary Rose, County Detective Sam Hale and State Troopers Weedman and Sizemore.

A warrant for the arrest of Akers was issued. Mrs. Akers told the officers he was hunting at the time of the raid.

Others arrested, charges against each and names of arresting officers follow:

Glenn Collins, theft by deception, held for Magoffin county, by Deputy Sheriffs Raney Boyd and Ed Isaacs; Jack Price, drunk driving, by State Troopers Shelton and Hall; Howell Isaacs, Jr., drunk driving and no operator's license, by State Trooper Weedman; Dwayne Pack, drunk driving and no operator's license, by State Trooper Shelton; Jesse Little, (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

Social Security Office To Move

The Prestonsburg Social Security office expects to move from its present downtown Prestonsburg quarters to a new building on US 23, near the Highlands Medical Center, by Dec. 1.

The new Social Security building is being constructed by Ron Reid, Prestonsburg and Martin pharmacist, under lease contract with the General Services Administration, with completion slated November 1. The one-story building of steel packaged in brick will be 60 by 90 feet on a 150 x 200-foot lot.

The contract with GSA provided for the building to accommodate future 20 per cent expansion of the office.

James Kelley, Social Security office manager, said the office here presently employs 18 persons and serves Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin and Martin counties.

The Social Security office now occupies the former States Motel building on North Lake Drive here.

Public Defender To Leave Office On November 15

Dan Rowland, Prestonsburg attorney, has submitted his resignation as Public Defender for the 31st judicial district, effective Nov. 15.

Mr. Rowland's resignation was made in a letter dated Oct. 18 to Jack Emory Farley, state Public Defender. He had held the post since its initiation in Kentucky of the Public Defender system in January, 1975.

A successor to Mr. Rowland had not been named as of Tuesday. The office pays a salary of $14,500 a year.

In his letter of resignation Rowland explained:

"I have a continually developing and growing practice, and the demands placed on me by my work as Public Defender has caused me to limit my civil practice."

Although he did not suggest a successor, he did write Farley, "I feel our Public Defender should be a local attorney familiar with our courts here, and do not feel . . . that his work should be classified under the Merit System."

He added that he could arrange to leave the post Nov. 1 and added that "personal plans and commitments make it impossible for me to hold the job longer than November 15."

Although Mr. Rowland will officially terminate his tenure as Public Defender not later than Nov. 15, it is highly

Federal Funding Of Project Here Is Held Possible

The plan to construct a municipal building here to house all departments of city government came out of mothballs at last Thursday's meeting of the City Council when Mayor William O. Goebel announced that Prestonsburg has "a very good chance" of getting 100 per cent federal funding for the project.

This funding, he said, could come through the 1976 Public Works Bill. The new legislation requires that not less than 35 per cent of the cost of a project to get funding must be for labor and thus improve the employment situation. Because the project application must be filed within 20 days from the date of the meeting, the original plans for the building will be submitted.

Amount of the application had not been determined this week but will be known after an engineer-architect cost estimate is made.

Estimated cost of the municipal building, when first projected three years ago by the late Dr. George P. Archer as mayor, was $360,165. In December, 1973, after Archer's death, the outgoing council rejected bids on the project because the lowest was about $58,000 above the estimated cost.

Now, it is expected that the estimated cost will run from $600,000 to $1 million.

Lake Muddiness Bans Fertilizing

Despite a newspaper report to the contrary, the Division of Fisheries will not resume fertilization of Dewey Lake next year, Charles Bowers, director of the division, told The Times this week.

"We will not be fertilizing the lake again until its muddy condition clears up," Mr. Bowers said. He explained that the addition of fertilizer to a lake characterized by muddy water is a waste of time and money.

Bowers said no stocking of bass in the reservoir is planned next year, because, he said, "both creel and population studies show that the bass supply is much better this year than last."

Heavy stocking of bass was done at the lake last year, and a good Kentucky bass spawn was later reported.

Bowers added that the stocking of tiger muskie will continue at Dewey as the fish are available. Tiger muskie, a crossbreed of musky and northern pike, are procured mainly from Ohio.

Paralyzed Youth Is No Quitter

For a 16-year-old high school junior it was hard to face the prospect of living without walking. For Donnie Wells it was particularly hard.

A varsity football player at Paintsville high school, he had always excelled in most types of athletics and the accident which in 1968 rendered him a quadriplegic seemed, at first, particularly cruel.

It was during the winter of that year that Donnie suffered a broken neck in a freak fall which resulted when he tripped in a short jump from a carport at the home of a friend in Paintsville. At first paralyzed from the neck down, he gradually regained some use of his arms during his initial eight-week stay at the University of Kentucky Medical Center, Lexington.

"When I first went home," Wells recalled, "I didn't want to do anything. I felt like giving up." But, according to Donnie, his parents wouldn't let him.

"I guess I have two of the finest parents God ever put on this earth," Wells said, "and they worked with me and encouraged me." Older brother Ron also came home from college to help out and offer further support during the period of his brother's rehabilitation.

Although exercises helped a great deal to develop the areas of his body least affected by the accident, Donnie yet had to accept the fact that he would never walk and that he would have only limited use of his hands.

With his family's love, the encouragement of friends and his own determination, however, he accepted the challenge of coping with his handicaps and by 1970 had received his high school diploma from Paintsville through courses administered by a homebound instructor. Two years later he enrolled at Prestonsburg Community College where he completed three semesters, majoring in broadcasting technology.

Early this year, Wells, now 24, contacted the Eastern Kentucky Concentrated Employment Program (EKCEP) after hearing of the employment agency through Homer D. Neeley, of Abbott Creek, who supplied application forms, and Dean Murray, Dewey Reservoir manager. The non-profit agency, sponsored by the U. S. Department of Labor and operating in 22 Eastern Kentucky counties, provides on-the-job training with pay and supportive services.

Through the Prestonsburg EKCEP office and Area Coordinator Nello Francis, Wells became involved in an eight-week training program with the Kentucky Division of Forestry's district headquarters as a radio dispatcher. With his background in broadcasting and a personal interest in citizens' band radio, Wells was a logical choice for the job.

Wells' primary duty as dispatcher is to man the radio "base" at the district forestry office and take incoming calls regarding forest fire activity in the area. He receives and answers calls from forestry reconnaissance planes, mobile units and other state forestry headquarters, and his handicap has proved to be an insignificant factor in the execution of his duties.

"During times of heavy fire activity Donnie might wish he could write faster," District Forester Arthur Leach

Nature Trails By Rufus M. Reed
Nature Abhors a Vacuum

One of the great axioms for revegetation of the barren earth is, "Nature abhors a vacuum," and will not long let any spot remain completely barren. Even in the bleak tundras of the far North, hardy plants such as reindeer moss and lichens grow and thrive. Nature quickly took over the abandoned field and went to work with all her manifold helpers to reclaim the eroded, barren land. The first plants I noticed appearing were those hardy pioneers, the tufted lichens called "old man's beard." They soon sprang up in the old field and seemed right at home in the worn-out, depleted soil. They formed dense clusters and soon began to spread widely. They paved the way for the next succession of plants. These were the mosses, which formed dense mats of lovely jade green, lending the first real touch of beauty to the barren land. The mosses spread far and wide, adding moisture and some fertility to the land. The mosses thus paved the way for future plants. The next plants were upright ones, and were the red-stemmed pokeberries. These are hardy plants and are made just right to take footing and grow in depleted soil. They are the first large plants to take root and grow in stripmined areas. I wondered why nature was planting to many pokeberry plants. I soon saw it was her scheme for attracting the birds; she needed birds badly to help re-forest the field. The first abundant crop of pokeberries attracted many species of birds; these feasted on the juicy berries in the fall and spread the seeds of other plants they carried in and passed out in excreta. Birds are the greatest planters of shrubs and wild flowers known. One day I saw a flock of bluejays flying low over the field; they carried white oak acorns in their bills and scattered them. I recalled that these acorns form the staple diet in winter for the jays. These hide acorns in hollow stumps as a backlog against cold winters. I now knew there would soon be luscious, young oaks appearing in the field. There soon appeared in the middle of the field some fine shrubs, which soon gained a firm foothold and formed dense patches. They soon spread roundabout and in winter provided a bountiful crop of reddish-purple berries for a winter diet of the birds. These shrubs are known to many as "Indian currants;" some call them the "Chaney bush," but they are known to botanists as "coralberry." They are evergreen and bear large clusters of reddish-purple berries. Nature had done wisely in planting the coralberry shrubs; they formed dense thickets, which kept the soil stable and helped to attract many more birds. The more birds ranging in the field meant more plants to come in the future. The third year after the field was abandoned, I began to see the evening primroses appearing. These are hardy plants and often spring up in old fields and roadsides. They form large winter rosettes which play nursemaid to the soil and help it to have more moisture and fertility. Another of nature's best helpers in reforesting the field was the fall winds. They blew briskly over the land, spreading the seeds of the tulip poplar. These trees have seeds with a single wing and I often saw thousands of them spinning around and around in the brisk fall wind as they finally settled down to find a winter bed and sprout in the spring. In a year or so, I began to see literally hundreds of young tulip trees spring up all over the field. They soon formed thick stands of lusty young tulip trees and I kept an eye on them. I knew they would soon grow tall and straight and become handsome forest trees. (To be cont'd.)

School Boards Elect Chairman

School board members and administrators representing seven area school districts have elected Richmond Salyer, of Salyersville, chairman of the Kentucky School Boards Association's Eastern Kentucky (South) Region for 1977. Salyer, a member of the Magoffin County Board of Education and former vice-chairman of the region, will also serve on the KSBA board of directors, the governing board of the statewide organization. The KSBA Eastern Kentucky (South) Region dinner meeting was held at the Paintsville Country Club, October 19, with Holmes Cassady, the retiring chairman of the region, presiding. Cassady is chairman of the Martin County Board of Education. The meeting participants included local district school board members, administrators, KSBA officers and staff. They discussed the development of school board policies and administrative procedures designed to improve and encourage employee communications within local school districts. John M. Stumbo, chairman of the Floyd County Board of Education, was elected vice-chairman of the region, and Herald Whitaker, superintendent of Magoffin county schools, was named to succeed Martin County School Superintendent Sheldon Clark as secretary of the region.

MSU Promotes Buford Crager

Morehead State University President Adron Doran announced Wednesday that Buford Crager, dean of students at Morehead State University since 1967, has been promoted to vice president for student affairs, it was announced last Wednesday by University President Adron Doran.

The appointment will be submitted to the Board of Regents at its Nov. 19 meeting.

Crager, 36, succeeds the late Roger L. Wilson who died October 10. A native of Floyd county, he holds bachelor's and master's degrees from MSU and has additional graduate work at Miami University.

Crager is the son of Mrs. Marietta Crager, of Prestonsburg, and the late Woodrow Crager. He is a 1957 graduate of Prestonsburg High School where he received the Reatherford-Salyers Award as the outstanding senior athlete.

"Dean Crager is eminently qualified for this promotion by virtue of his preparation, experience, integrity and stability," Dr. Doran said in making the announcement.

Before returning to Morehead, Crager served as a teacher and coach in the public schools of Fairborn and Kettering, Ohio. He is an honor graduate of MSU and served as president of the student body and captain of the football team as an undergraduate student.

"This is a great honor and a tremendous challenge," Crager said. "I am grateful for the confidence and support of President Doran and others, and I look forward to maintaining the present spirit of cooperation with the entire University community."

The new vice president is married to the former Jenny Ball, of Ashland. They have two sons.

said jokingly, "but I can't see that his handicap has affected him at all in this job."

Wells is pleased with his position, which he has held since August of this year, and he credits EKCEP with his finding the work. "If it hadn't been for this program I probably would still have been looking," Wells commented.

Wells drives to work each day aided by special hand controls and makes it a point to attend a number of concerts each year. A CB'er, he operates a base station from his home and also owns a mobile unit for his car (his "handle" is the "four wheeler").

He is presently attending ground school for private pilot training at Prestonsburg Community College and hopes to attend flight school as soon as he can afford the rather costly special controls which are made for pilots with similar physical handicaps.

Though seriously handicapped, Donnie Wells does not let his physical restrictions stop him from leading a varied and active life. "I have so many hobbies and interests," he said, "that I could never afford or even have time for them all." "I actually lead a very normal life," Wells said. "The main difference is—I don't walk."

(Donnie is a son of Herman and Jeannette Wells, of East Point).

SETTLING THE SCORE

A woman called her son, long distance, in the middle of the night, and when she got him on the phone asked him how he felt and then wished him happy birthday. He said, "Gee, Mom, is there anything wrong?" And she said, "Why, no, it's your 30th birthday, so I thought I'd call you." "Holy Toledo, Mom," he yelled, "you didn't drag me outa bed at 3 o'clock in the morning just to wish me happy birthday, did you?" And she said, "Well, 30 years ago tonight you made ME get up at 3 a.m., and now I'm paying you back!"

Dedication Event At McDowell Hi To Honor Supt.

McDowell High School will dedicate its new gymnasium Friday evening, and the event will honor Superintendent of Schools E. P. Grigsby, Jr.

The gym, a part of a $592,000 building venture at the McDowell school, will be dedicated as the Pete Grigsby, Jr. Fieldhouse.

Supt. Grigsby was basketball coach at McDowell 13 years before becoming assistant superintendent and superintendent of schools, and during that time his teams won three regional championships, scored 330 victories against 131 losses, and Grigsby was named Coach of the Year six times.

Former players and team managers, beginning with 1961 and continuing through 1964, the last year Supt. Grigsby coached the team, are being invited to attend the dedication as honor guests.

Dr. Mary L. Hall, member of the Floyd County Board of Education, will deliver the dedicatory address, immediately prior to the first game to be played in the new fieldhouse at 7 p.m., and a reception in honor of Supt. Grigsby and other honor guests will be held in the new school lunchroom.

The fieldhouse-lunchroom structure was completed this fall, and the first game in the new facility will pit the McDowell girls against Letcher County. The second game of the evening will be the first of the season for the McDowell Daredevils, who will play Dorton.

Mayor Goebel told the council he strongly favors the project if federal financing can be procured. He emphasized the fire department section of the proposed complex which would replace the present structure on Highland Avenue, adjacent to Mountain Manor Nursing Home and on a street which is restricted to one-way traffic during peak traffic from nearby Prestonsburg Elementary School.

"The state fire marshal's office has recommended that we move from Highland Avenue to the highway, so that fire trucks will have easier access in all directions," Goebel said.

Originally, Dr. Archer proposed the issuance of revenue bonds to finance cost of the building. The first floor of the structure, under this plan, would have been leased as private offices to provide bond amortization income.

The original plans, prepared by George Lee Shannon Associates, will be submitted with the application for funding. These plans call for a four-story structure of steel packaged in brick with a floor area of 12,209 square feet. It would have three fire bays, city offices, sleeping areas for firemen and policemen, plus lounge areas.

The site for the proposed building was purchased about four years ago by the city from the Anna Stephens heirs for $79,200 but after the rejection of bids on the building the lot was converted into a parking area. Plans provide that 34 of the present 96 parking spaces would be retained.

The application for funding will also include a water tank to provide fire protection for the Mays Branch area, an auxiliary fire station at Lancer, new sidewalks along US 23 here and a pump for the flood control gates on Second Avenue.

The council approved the promised $50-a-month salary hike for all city employees to become effective Nov. 1. The transfer of $8,100 from the contingency fund was voted to cover these raises and increased health insurance benefits for employees till Jan. 1.

probable that Circuit Judge Hollie Conley will require him to defend John Henry Newsom and daughter in their murder trial Dec. 6 for the slaying here of Gerald McBrayer. This was regarded a certainty, since assignment of a new Public Defender to their case would require a continuance of the case and the two girls would remain in jail till later trial. Their father is at liberty under $20,000 bond.

Letters to the Editor

He's Coming Home

Almost 22 years ago (July 1955) I left Floyd County, Emma, Ky., to pursue a career in the United States Air Force. I had the privilege to visit all the 50 states including Alaska and Hawaii, plus visits to countries like Germany, Spain, Portugal, Guam, Philippines, Thailand, Japan, Vietnam, to name a few. After months of soul searching, I asked myself what did those places have to offer that Kentucky, especially Floyd county, didn't have. My decision? Nothing! My decision was greatly influenced by a Christmas present from my brother Danny, in December 1975. A year's subscription to the Floyd County Times.

A Happy Resident

I am a senior citizen, live in Green Acres, Prestonsburg. I was reading a writeup in the paper of a housing project for senior citizens and how unhappy 700 persons were.

I want to say what I think of our clubs of our town and the treatment we get from every one. We have nice housing, a nice bus for our project. Couldn't be any better taken care of. We also have a nice hall for us older people to meet at five days a week; have noonday meals brought in and a bus to take us to and from our homes to our nice place to meet. I just love it. We also have churches of all denominations to go to.

I am so happy and so proud of our Prestonsburg, Ky., and especially our Green Acres.

$60 Million Damage Suit Filed in Scotia Mine Disaster

A $60 million damage suit was filed last Thursday in behalf of the widows of 15 miners and rescue workers who were killed in the Scotia mine.

The suit charging Blue Diamond Coal Co. with gross negligence was filed in the U.S. District Court in Knoxville, Tennessee.

The suit also charges that the mining company had deliberately deceived federal mine inspectors with regard to the proper operation of the mine's ventilation system just prior to the March 9 explosion.

In all, 26 persons were killed in methane explosions last March in the mine at Oven Fork, just south of Whitesburg. Two days after the original explosion, 11 other persons, including three federal mine inspectors, were killed in a second explosion.

The bodies of those 11 were sealed in the mine until July when recovery efforts began. The bodies still have not been recovered from deep in the mine shaft.

The suit asks $30 million in compensatory damages and another $30 million in exemplary damages for the women widowed by the first explosion. The complaint notes that the families included 24 children, two of whom were born during the summer, months after the Scotia mine explosions.

A son was born, July 14, to the widow of Jimmy Wayne Sturgill, 20, and a daughter was born Aug. 18 to the widow of Robert Griffith, 24.

The suit claims that during early February, daily mining was discontinued in the area of the mine where the fatal explosions occurred. At the same time, a new shaft was opened nearby.

The suit contends that the ventilation system in the mine was modified during that period, creating inadequate ventilation conditions in the shaft. The suit also contends that the operators of the mine, a subsidiary of Blue Diamond, had found dangerous levels of methane in the mine in February and March.

The suit says that on March 8, the day before the first explosion, a mine inspector had found inadequate ventilation in the shaft and that the mine operators had taken steps to deceive the inspector into believing the condition had been corrected.

The suit also contends that the mine operators had on one occasion burned off methane gas without properly reporting the activity to federal authorities; had failed to give miners proper safety training, provide for fire drills or escape routes from the mine and had violated a number of state and federal mine safety regulations.

The suit seeks $4 million for each of the widows and their children. It asks that Blue Diamond be required within 45 days to provide documents relating to the safety or safety conditions of the Scotia mine, plus any notices of violation of safety regulations and deficiencies in the mine's ventilation system, results of weekly examinations and reports of hazardous methane conditions, plus documents since March 9 related to the Scotia explosion.

Abbott-Little Paint Water District Wins Preapplication OK

Gene R. Graves, county supervisor for the Farmers Home Administration, reported at the Abbott-Little Paint Water District's October meeting that the district's pre-application for federal assistance is eligible for funding and can compete with similar applications subject to feasibility and availability of funds.

F.H.A. suggests that the water district proceed with a preliminary engineering report and other supplemental information. All residents are advised to sign up this week in order to avoid paying a higher tap-on fee when construction on the project is begun. This week, the last full week in October, all householders who have not been contacted to sign a user agreement will be visited, or they may contact either of the water commissioners, John T. Hill, Thomas Hereford, III, or W. L. Baldrige, Jr.

OUTDOOR LORE

by Nevyle Shackelford
UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY • COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

The little animal sitting on a log in the above logo, or "standing head" which is the trademark of this column, is a chipmunk, one of the smaller members of the squirrel family. This attractive little wild critter with a "rally stripe" is primarily a ground dweller. Under certain circumstances, however, like when in search of dogwood berries or hazelnuts for food or when chased by a cat, it can skin up a tree with considerable skill. But mostly it prefers to stay on the ground where, if danger threatens, it can scamper in a hole or under a rockpile.

While chipmunks do not go into complete hibernation like the groundhog or skunk, they usually disappear in late October into deep burrows for a period of sleep that borders on that of hibernation.

About the only difference between chipmunks and other hibernators is that chipmunks awake at frequent intervals, especially during warm spells of winter, and sally forth in search of food. Normally seed and grain eaters, mid-winter emerging chipmunks will eat anything that doesn't eat them first. Once during a warm spell in January, a chipmunk was personally observed killing and eating an unfortunate and unwary starling frequenting a backyard bird feeder. Usually, though, a chipmunk prefers a vegetable diet.

The burrow of a chipmunk is lengthy, often covering 30 feet or more. What this little animal does with the excavated dirt when digging a burrow is still something of a mystery. Wildlife biologists think perhaps that the dirt is stored in the little animal's cheek pouches, carried out, and scattered out on the forest floor to make the burrow opening less conspicuous.

Favorite habitats of the chipmunk include open woods, stone walls, rocky ledges where copperhead snakes like to hide, and thick patches of underbrush, especially adjoining vegetable gardens where there are patches of sweet corn.

From these latter vantage points, chipmunks that otherwise could add to the attractiveness, interest and enjoyment of the outdoors often become so numerous as to assume the status of pests. They take up corn and newly-planted bulbs and attack cultivated fruits such as apples, peaches and plums—not to eat the fruit but to get at the seed—and in the meantime, they stop up household drain pipes with stores of acorns and any other nuts that may be available.

These pretty little things can be controlled, that is, if one has the heart. They can be shot, trapped or poisoned as the occasion or circumstances demand. Humans as well as little wild creatures have to live.

Restraining Orders Hit Coal Companies

Frankfort, Ky.—Restraining orders have been issued to two Eastern Kentucky coal firms by Franklin circuit court, following action by the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

The state environmental department had charged Gallagher Coal Company, of Barbourville, and Adams and Hogg Coal Company, of Whitesburg, with strip mining without first obtaining a permit from the state division of reclamation.

Gallagher Coal Company was charged with strip mining illegally a two-acre site located about one mile south of Barbourville off Highway 459 on Walker Park Road in Knox county. The environmental department is seeking a bond of $14,000 as the cost of performing reclamation at the site.

The department charged Adams and Hogg Coal Company with strip mining without a permit and affecting an area of four acres. The strip mined area is located near the junction of Highway 15 and Old Highway 119 near Whitesburg. The department is seeking a performance bond of $28,000 as the cost of reclamation to the area.

The state environmental department is also asking that each firm pay a $5,000 penalty for the initial violation and $1,000 for each day the violation continues. The department asks each firm to submit a reclamation plan for approval and fulfillment of the approved plan according to departmental standards.

Columbia Gas Rate Decrease Authorized

Frankfort, Ky.—The Kentucky Public Service Commission (PSC) has granted Columbia Gas of Kentucky nearly $1.3 million rate adjustment decrease due to a decrease in the cost of wholesale gas furnished by the firm's supplier, Columbia Gas Transmission Corporation.

The decrease affects gas supplied on and after Oct. 16. The commission order authorizing the decrease was released Oct. 18.

A purchased gas adjustment clause adopted by the commission in November, 1975, outlines conditions for rate adjustments due to an increase or decrease in the wholesale cost of gas.

Court Restrains Mine Operations

Frankfort, Ky.—Franklin Circuit Court on October 20 issued restraining orders to four southeastern Kentucky coal operations following action by the state environmental department.

The Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection had charged A & B Coal Co., of Mayking, Holbrook Mining Co., of Whitesburg, D & D Coal Co., of Dawson Springs, and Leemike Coal Co., of Hazard, with strip mining without first obtaining a permit from the state division of reclamation.

A & B Coal Co. was charged with illegally strip mining a five-acre site located on Cram Creek near Mayking in Letcher County. The department claimed that the firm had not satisfactorily reclaimed the disturbed area and asked that a bond of $35,000 be set as the cost of performing reclamation.

The environmental department charged Holbrook Mining Co. with strip mining without a permit a two-acre site situated about one and a half miles south of Whitesburg on Highway 119 off Little Cowan Creek in Letcher County. The department is seeking a performance bond of $14,000 as the cost of reclamation.

D & D Coal Co. allegedly strip mined without obtaining a permit a two-acre site off Highway 931 about one mile from Whitesburg in Letcher County. The environmental Department is seeking a bond of $14,000 as the cost of reclamation performance.

The charge claimed the Leemike Coal Co. illegally strip mined a three-acre area located about one mile south of Hyden on Owls Nest Road in Leslie County. The department is seeking a bond of $21,000 as the cost of performing reclamation to the affected area.

The environmental department is seeking a penalty of $5,000 from each firm for its initial violation and a penalty of $1,000 a day for each day that the violation continues. The department is also seeking a reclamation plan to the division of reclamation for approval and fulfillment of the approval plan according to departmental standards.

Floyd Native Develops "Jimmy Carter Cut"

Mrs. Humble demonstrates "Carter Cut."

For the past few weeks seven beauty colleges located throughout Michigan have been featuring and promoting a new idea in men's hairstyles—"The Jimmy Carter Cut."

The idea was developed by Bonnie Humble, formerly of Floyd county, and vice-president of the Michigan State College of Beauty, which operates the seven state schools.

Commenting on her idea, the cosmetologist said, "Jimmy Carter promises, if elected, to cut a lot of things in Washington—taxes, red tape and cuts in excessive government. I zeroed in on the word 'cut' . . . so, I got to thinking, 'Why not a Jimmy Carter cut for men's hair?'"

Of the style she said, "This hair style is very fashionable. It has a feathered-type of look. It's not slicked down. By adding a little gray around the temples, it looks just great."

Mrs. Humble is a daughter of Mrs. Anna Stewart, of Honaker, and daughter-in-law of Carl Humble, of Dwale.

In response to a growing demand for floral arrangements, employment in the occupation of floral designer is expected to increase faster than average, with about 3,300 annual job openings through 1985, according to the U. S. Department of Labor's "Occupational Outlook Handbook in Brief, 1976-77 edition."

A Thought to Remember

By LARRY BURKE

Someone once said: "Physical work is a specific contact with the beauty of the world."

When a man puts in a hard day's work, and his limbs ache, and he is exhausted from his labors—life is more beautiful for him than he realizes.

The happiest homes are those where the family gathers around the table after a long, hard day. The feelings of accomplishment that come to the laborers are never known by the idle.

Our nation was built by hard workers, and it is kept alive only by the workers still.

Very few rioters join the ranks of the militants after a hard day on the job. The dissenters are, for the most part, unemployed. The marchers, protestors have nothing better to do, and nothing more important.

Oh, how sad, when idleness causes a person to lose sight of the beauty of the world.

CHICAGO—A mild pain-killing drug that is being marketed as a safe substitute for aspirin may cause severe liver damage and even death if taken in large doses, according to a team of medical researchers.

The researchers reported the first death due to the drug in this country in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The drug, which is available over the counter, is called acetaminophen. It is marketed under the names of Tylenol, Datril, Amphenol, Apamide, Apap, Conacetol, Febrolin, G-1, G-Lixir, Nebs, Neopap, SK-Apap, Temptra and Valadol.

Although the dangers of the drug have been unrecognized in this country, acetaminophen poisoning is the most common cause of liver failure in Britain, said Dr. Brittain McJunkin, of the University of Virginia School of Medicine, who headed the study.

Compounds containing acetaminophen recently have been promoted on a wide scale and an increase in severe toxic liver reactions can be expected, he said.

In Britain there appear to be several thousand hospital admissions annually due to acetaminophen overdoses, McJunkin said.

The death reported in the journal involved a 24-year-old woman suffering from depression who took 40 tablets. She became nauseous, vomited, and lost her appetite. She complained of stomach pains. She entered a hospital, fell into a coma and died several days later.

The death rate from acetaminophen overdoses ranges between 2 and 20 per cent and it is imperative that doctors be aware of the potential fatal consequences of an overdose, said McJunkin.

Acetaminophen has been promoted as a safe alternative to aspirin because it avoids the gastric upset and bleeding sometimes associated with aspirin.

McJunkin said that while small doses of acetaminophen can safely be handled by the liver, large doses allow a toxic breakdown chemical to build up and damage the liver, he explained.

Early recognition of an overdose is important because the rapid administration of a drug called cysteamine appears to be able to prevent serious liver injury, he added.

DIFFERENCES IN CULTURE PRAISED

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Roman Catholic Bishop Patrick F. Flores of San Antonio, Tex., told a meeting in Washington that Spanish-Americans do not let differences in culture make them "feel inferior to others."

On the contrary, he added, "We believe that in being different, we can make many contributions."

Kentucky Power Wins $10 Million Increase

The Public Service Commission has granted a $10 million rate increase to the Kentucky Power Co., which serves 20 counties in eastern Kentucky.

The average increase will be 16.7 per cent. Kentucky Power originally had asked the PSC for increased rates of about $17 million and later revised that figure to $16.5 million.

The company also proposed a major revision of its fuel adjustment clause.

In an order released Oct. 20, the commission said it approved rates that will permit the utility to gross annual revenues of nearly $70 million.

The new rates, the PSC said, are "sufficient to permit it (Kentucky Power) to pay its operating expenses, service its debt, pay a reasonable dividend on its stock and have a reasonable amount remaining in its surplus."

The commission also redistributed the increase on a "more uniform basis, and said it favors smaller residential users on one rate schedule and high load factor customers on other rate schedules.

Kentucky Power proposed to revise its fuel clause by changing the base fuel levels to relate more closely to current costs.

The PSC ordered the company to file a calculation of fuel costs within 60 days. This would be uncollectable because of the change in base fuel cost. The commission said it would subsequently approve a surcharge on monthly electric bills during 1977 to compensate for those losses.

The new rates are effective immediately.

The average monthly residential for a customer without electric heat will rise about $2.40 to $18.31 for 600 kilowatt hours, according to a company spokesman. He said the surcharge, when applied in January, will be "almost indiscernible," amounting to a few cents a month.

LEADING RUSHER for the Prestonsburg Blackcats, William O. Goebel, shown in action during Friday night's defeat of the Morgan County Cougars.

PHS Wins District Grid Title

By BRIAN STURGILL

The Prestonsburg Blackcats won the District I title for the first time since 1959 in a home game Friday night with the Morgan County Cougars. The Cats won the game 42-6, soundly beating the Cougars in all areas of defense and offense.

The Cats started their scoring early in the first quarter with their first touchdown, a 35-yard run by Kerry Slone. The conversion was made on a kick by Greg Dixon. The next, also in the first quarter, was a pass from Greg Dixon to Tim Patrick of 20 yards with the conversion, another kick by Dixon.

The next two touchdowns for PHS came in the second quarter—the first, a 20-yard run by William Goebel—the second, a 6-yard run by Thomas Slone. Both kicks by Dixon were good. The Cats last two touchdowns came in the fourth quarter, both on runs by William Goebel. The first was 3-yards, the second was for 90 yards.

The only scoring for the Cougars was a 3-yard pass from Perry Allen to Scott May in the first quarter. The conversion run failed.

The Cats had 535 yards total offense. Making most of the yardage was William Goebel, rushing 220 yards, for 15.7 yards per carry.

The Blackcat defense did an outstanding job in holding the Cougars. Though the Cougars had 368 yards total offense, the Cats allowed them to score only once and blocked six Cougar passes. Morgan County's main method of moving the ball, Thomas Slone was leading defensive man for the Blackcats, with 1 pass block, and 15 tackles, 6 of which were unassisted. Other good defensive men were William Goebel with 13 tackles, 9 unassisted, and Greg DeRossett with 13, and 5 unassisted.

The Blackcats have done very well in district play this year, averaging 420 yards total offense, while holding their opponents to only 190 yards total offense. The Cats move the ball 12.8 yards per each point scored. Their district opponents had to move the ball 34.5 yards for each point scored. The Cats beat all of their four district opponents by more than 30 points, except Rowan County, who they beat 18-8. William Goebel was leading rusher in the 4 games, with 484 and 11.5 per carry.

The Blackcats have a 7-2 record. They play the Somerset Briar Jumpers at Somerset this Friday.

Autumn Art Weekend Slated At Greenbo This Weekend

By HELEN PRICE STACY

The second annual Autumn Art Weekend at Greenbo Lake State Resort Park near Ashland has been scheduled for October 29-31. Guest artists will be West Virginia's Charles (Chuck) Ripper, of Huntington; Ohio's Paul Bradford, of Athens, and Kentucky's C. Don Ensor, of Louisville.

Ripper and Ensor are familiar throughout the tri-state area for these two professional artists have participated in all Winter Week-ends for Artists at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park. Bradford's work has won for him a purchase prize from the Kentucky Arts Commission and distinctive honors in gallery shows and juried exhibits.

The art week-end, sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Parks, will consist of three general sessions, each designed to give depth and insight to all painters and artists. The sessions will be meaningful and helpful to both professionals and amateurs and in addition will be entertaining and enlightening for the non-artist.

"Not everyone has a desire to be an artist," commented Ensor, who specializes in oil paintings of nostalgic collectibles, "but everyone can be more appreciative of art after participating in such a week-end as this at Greenbo."

The art week-end will be "a learning and doing experience," according to Bob Bates of the Department of Parks, Frankfort. "On Saturday everyone will have an opportunity to paint along with the guest artist-lecturer and receive friendly, individual assistance."

At Saturday afternoon's general session anyone who registers for the week-end may submit paintings for evaluation and help us to technique, form, composition and color. "This session is purely for instructional purposes," Bates said, "and has proved an effective method of art education."

Registration for the week-end is from 2 to 6 p.m. Friday. At 7:30 p.m., Ripper will show a slide demonstration on developing a painting from beginning to end.

Starting at 10 a.m. Saturday, Bradford will direct a session on "Painting with Watercolors." He asks that participants "bring your paper, brushes, paints and board." Ensor requests those who want to paint with him from 2-4 p.m. Saturday bring 12 x 16 canvas, oils, brushes (Nos. 2 and 4 flat sable; and easel for a general session devoted to "Painting the Transparency of Glass in Oils." At 7:30 p.m. Saturday, a roundtable discussion will find all three guest artists present to answer and discuss questions pertaining to art.

The popular critique session is set at 9:30 a.m. Sunday when everyone may mingle and talk with guest artists as well as other visiting artists and are free to continue questions on art.

"This is also a good time to tour the park and lake," said Bates, "and explore the unlimited possibilities for paintings." All three artists featured at this week-end event are nationally known professionals who not only paint and lecture but who have their works reproduced in prints and who have painted magazine covers and other illustration art.

Greenbo Lake State Resort Park is northeastern Kentucky could be an inspiration for any aspiring or professional artist in late October. Here are brilliant woodland scenes, green valleys, covered bridges not far away, one-room schools, country stores and weathered barns all waiting to be put on canvas or watercolor paper.

A special package price is being offered at the rate of $45 per person for the week-end starting with Friday dinner and continuing through the noon meal Sunday, plus two nights' lodging in beautiful and comfortable Jesse Stuart Lodge. For reservations call the park at 606-473-7324. For further information contact Bob Bates, Department of Parks, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, phone 502-564-7160.

"Wake Up, America"

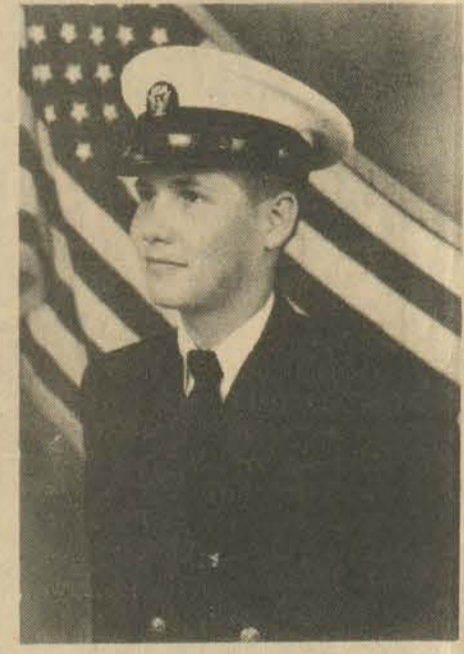

There is a dangerous undercurrent which is cutting at the very foundation of Freedom. That is why I have been advertising the column called "The Dangerous Road." Mr. Carter is flirting with the dangerous road. According to THE HERALD-DISPATCH statement, he gave the go-ahead for Mrs. Bella Abzug to cross-country campaign for him, and she is a very strong Communist sympathizer. AMERICAN OPINION Magazine says Mrs. Abzug has close ties with the Communists, and cites her trips abroad to participate in Communist meetings. I can't understand anybody that is halfway American that would even consider voting for any politician even remotely associated with Communist sympathizers. Of course, every one to their own opinion—that is what this country stands for. Mr. Carter might be the man that would do things more suitable for you, but I certainly wouldn't want anybody under these circumstances, if he has a Communist working for him, I don't care how good he might be otherwise, and, regardless of his promises, I wouldn't have him.

I would rather live on cornbread and water and be free than to have all any politician could possibly promise me and live under the danger of the Communist trend. Look at what has happened to every country they have taken over, how they are tortured and suppressed. We must, for the sake of us all, begin right now to counter the trend that is taking us down the Communistic road, or we all perish. We must walk American, talk American, sleep American and truly be American if we are going to survive our way of life. There are not enough precious Americans that we have to be divided, we need every one that we have, and we need to kick out every one that is not American. Each of us should purely love every one that you truly feel is real American. I think we should study to the best of our ability to recognize true democracy, the kind which is good for this great republic, and for the principals for which it stands. There is but oneism, as far as I am concerned, and that's true Americanism. Down with Leninism, Communism, Facism or any otherism. This country needs to watch its schools closely, to see that we weed out any otherism's, other than Americanism. If we train our young minds right, our system will prevail. All America needs to go by the Kentucky slogan, "United We Stand, Divided We Fall." Think about it. Every time you vote, think what this man might do for you, also think what he might do to you. Or where he might lead you.

As we all know, if the Communist comes in Freedom goes out. I don't say Mr. Carter is a Communist, but he is associating with one, according to the HERALD-DISPATCH and AMERICAN OPINION. As you know, Communism is the opposite of freedom. Under their rule you are just a number, you work for the state, you follow their rules to the letter, you don't plan, they plan for you. When they come in, down goes your flag, down go your churches, out goes your freedom (gone forever), away goes your bank account (you share it with the state), you are under the constant eye of the Red Guard. You can't go when you want to go, you go when they permit you to go. Their first move is to take your guns (do you see the sign?). We must all henceforth be very wary and cautious that we do not let our officials slip into the web of Communism, or even Communistic sympathy, as it is absolutely dangerous to freedom and our way of life. They would, of course, just love to have beautiful America and live on the fat of our very productive land, and make slaves of us as they do so. Think about it.

Your American Friend,
Charles M. McCoy

Fire Dept. Conducts Training Session

(Photo by David Caudill)

A mock auto mishap complete with catsup "blood" was staged recently as part of a training session by the Prestonsburg Fire Department. The training was designed to familiarize firemen with emergency procedure in the case of a car wreck involving fire. Fire fighting techniques and first aid were included in the training.

New Procedure Would Simplify Driver Licensing

Frankfort, Ky.—For the past few months, the Kentucky Division of Driver Licensing has been experimenting with a new procedure aimed at simplifying driver license renewals.

Several thousand drivers in Jefferson, Fayette, Campbell, Greenup and Kenton counties already have been introduced to the new procedure.

According to Eugene Hodges, state driver licensing director, the new procedure is saving time both for the driver and the circuit court clerks who issued the licenses.

Hodges explained the new system as follows:

Instead of receiving a printed notice through the mail from Frankfort reminding them that their license is about to expire, drivers in the test counting are being mailed the license itself. The license is virtually complete except for the driver's photograph and the clerk's validation.

Upon receiving the license, the driver takes it to the circuit court clerk's office where his photograph is made and laminated to the license. He pays his license renewal fee of $4.00 for a renewed operator's license, $4.00 for a renewed motorcycle license or $7.00 for a combined renewal of both.

Hodges said that the new system is much quicker and easier because it eliminates the need for the circuit court clerk to spend time filling out the license with all the essential driver identifying data.

"That is done in Frankfort before the license is mailed," he said, and, as a result, is saving time for everyone involved, the driver as well as the clerks."

The only inconvenience that might arise would be in those cases where drivers receiving the new cards do not take care to avoid soiling or mutilating them before they get to the clerk's office, he said. In those cases, the card probably will have to be returned to Frankfort.

Some delays also may be encountered when a driver has not notified the division of a change-of-address, he said.

Where that happens, the unclaimed card also will be returned to Frankfort and, as was the procedure followed in the past, sent to the issuing location nearest the driver's last address in a further attempt to locate him.

Hodges also said that in order to eliminate the problem of locating drivers who change their residence in the future, the division now has started enclosing a change-of-address card with the license which can be held by the driver and used later to notify the division when and if they do move to another location.

Whether or not the changed system of license renewal eventually takes effect statewide will depend upon the circuit court clerks themselves, he said. The state is leaving it up to each clerk, individually, to decide whether he wants to adopt the new system within his county, Hodges said.

Mayor Sets Thursday As UNICEF Day Here

UNICEF Day has been designated Thursday, October 28, in Prestonsburg by proclamation of Mayor William O. Goebel, Jr.

The proclamation read in part, "Whereas October 28, Hallowe'en, is a special holiday for children; and . . . Trick or Treat for UNICEF and other benefit activities are a constructive expression of our concern and friendship for the less fortunate children of the world . . . each coin collected for UNICEF can mean food or medicine for the sick and hungry children of the world . . ."

Now, therefore, I, William O. Goebel, Jr., Mayor of the City of Prestonsburg, do hereby proclaim Thursday, October 28, 1976, as "UNICEF Day".

Those collecting for UNICEF will carry black and orange containers imprinted with the official UNICEF message, and will be accompanied by a responsible adult or teenager. The proclamation urges all residents to welcome these youngsters.

AND NOTHING BUT THE BALD FACTS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—Jefferson County Commission President Tom Gloor just wanted the bald facts.

Gloor was the first caller to inaugurate a new telephone health education service called Tel-Med. Callers can ask for any of 257 tapes on various health topics.

The commissioner asked for one entitled, "Baldness and Falling Hair." Gloor said, "I just wanted to see why my hair is falling out."

$300,000 Grant For Mine Safety

Frankfort, Ky.—Kentucky will be receiving a federal grant of $300,000 for mine safety training, according to Billy Howard, director of the state Bureau of Vocational Education.

"We estimate that about 10,000 people will be affected," Howard said.

According to the grant proposal, the funds will provide initial and subsequent annual training for both underground and surface miners, initial qualification and requalification of electricians, emergency medical training and qualification training for supervisory personnel.

The funds also will be used to employ instructors and program coordinators.

"We are already providing a great deal of training throughout the coal mining areas," Howard said. "But we didn't have sufficient financial support or a program organized statewide." Howard added that even with a statewide program, the emphasis will remain on the coal-producing areas.

"The hazards of coal mining, as well as the importance of coal to both the nation and Kentucky's economy, made it imperative for us to undertake such a project," Howard said. "This project won't eliminate the hazards, but it will greatly reduce incidents caused by the lack of ability of knowledge."

Howard also said that he hopes the increased safety training will benefit everyone connected with the mining industry, either directly or indirectly.

The project will be carried out in cooperation with the Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals.

In Memoriam

My heart still aches with sadness,
My eyes shed many a tear.
God alone knows how I miss you

Your memory is my keepsake,
With that I'll never part.
God may have you in His keeping,
But I still have you in my heart.

State Gives $4.8 Million For Coal Conversion Aid

Frankfort, Ky.—Gov. Julian Carroll has announced approval of $4.8 million in state money to help build three coal conversion facilities in Eastern and Central Kentucky, one of which is in neighboring Pike county.

"These three projects, which will have a total investment of more than $20 million, will strengthen Kentucky's position as a major source of energy to meet our nation's future needs," Gov. Carroll said.

"Federal grants of approximately $8 million for these projects, which have been confirmed recently, recognize Kentucky's leadership in this field," he added.

"Our starting construction of America's first coal liquefaction plant at Catlettsburg soon is further proof of our efforts to explore numerous ways to develop our coal resources into energy for America," Gov. Carroll said.

Approval of the state grants by the Kentucky Energy Research Board are subject to contracts being negotiated for each.

The other facilities will be in Scott and Carter counties. Each will involve construction of low-BTU gasification systems for industrial use.

David Drake, administrator of the Kentucky Center for Energy Research, said the combined coal demand for the three gasifiers should exceed 18,000 tons a year.

The three facilities are: —In Georgetown, Irvin Industrial Development is proposing two gas-producing units, a clean-up unit and a storage tank. It will serve one or more adjacent industrial plants and is expected to attract more light industry. Employment at the industrial park could reach 1,500 to 2,000 within five years.

—In Pike County, plans are for the facility to provide energy to 500 housing units, a 120-bed medical facility, a 750-student school, a day care center, a shopping center and a concrete block plant, all located seven miles from Pikeville.

—At Hitchens in Carter County, General Refractories plans to use the gas to replace natural gas for heating brick-making kilns, lessening its dependence on natural gas during a time of curtailment.

The two-stage coal gasification unit at Hitchens will be the first of its type in the United States.

"Projects such as these will help our administration achieve its goal of creating a better and more stable market for our coal," Gov. Carroll said.

"The accelerated coal output which foreclosed the 1973 Arab oil curtailment has now been offset by a decline in the industrial use of electricity during the recent recession," he said.

"Not only will this demand return when we get our people back to work, we are now more dependent than ever on foreign oil," Gov. Carroll said. "These types of projects both help provide our industries with the energy they need and keep our coal in demand."

Cardiac pain following a heart attack is no laughing matter. Yet the most successful treatment for it is laughing gas, reports the September Reader's Digest. The practice of administering laughing gas (nitrous oxide) to heart-attack victims originated in the U.S.S.R., and just recently its success has been confirmed in U. S. hospital tests. Physicians say it is far superior to traditional methods of alleviating this particular form of intractable pain.

Indian Summer

Indian summer, with its glorious, balmy days and cold, frosty nights, is a phenomenon of the Northern Hemisphere. It's called "after summer" in Germany, "peasant women's summer" in Russia, and the ancient Greeks called it the "halcyon days." According to the September Reader's Digest, no one knows why Americans use the term Indian summer, but it was in our vocabulary in the Northeast in the late 1700's and Webster's Dictionary made it official by listing it in its 1841 edition.

CANCER

Answer line
American Cancer Society

(A regular feature, prepared by the American Cancer Society, to help save your life from cancer.)

A young woman writes: "My mother died when I was a little girl, and I don't know just what drugs she may have taken during the difficult pregnancy that resulted in my birth. I am afraid that I may be a DES daughter, and may develop cancer because of a drug that she took. What should I do?"

ANSWER line: If you are not already under the care of a gynecologist, a specialist in women's health conditions, please have a checkup and explain your history. Your mother may or may not have taken DES which is an abbreviation for the name of a chemical compound (diethylstilbestrol) that was given to some pregnant women likely to suffer miscarriage. A very small percentage of these women's daughters have developed a form of cancer of the vagina. An annual gynecological examination will uncover any possible suspicious cellular changes in the vaginal area. It is therefore a wise idea to give yourself the protection of professional care.

A biology student asks: "Could you explain what happens when a researcher makes a discovery under an American Cancer Society grant?" Does the ACS own the drug, or make a profit from it?"

ANSWER line: The ACS does not profit from discoveries made under its grants. The Society does, however, require certain legal arrangements which insure that any discovery useful in the diagnosis, treatment or prevention of cancer will be made available to the public at the least possible cost. Your local ACS Unit has full information about the society's research program and governing policies.

A business executive explains: "I am a cigar smoker but it seems to me that the habit is far less noticeable now than when I was a boy. Is this a trend? Also, aren't cigars safer than cigarettes?"

ANSWER line: In June of this year, the National Clearinghouse on Smoking and Health presented a thorough evaluation of the uses of tobacco by American adults, and findings agree with your observations: Americans are smoking fewer cigars. While 18 percent of American men are cigar smokers today, the study found that another 25 percent have stopped smoking cigars, most probably within the past 10 years. Also, less than one-half of one percent of American women smoke cigars. In terms of "safety" while cigar smokers are at a lower risk of developing lung cancer than cigarette smokers, the cigar smoker is still at a higher risk than the non-smoker. The cigar smoker is also at a higher risk than the nonsmoker of developing tobacco-related cancers, such as cancer of the larynx. Hence, while the cigar smoker is in a better position than the cigarette smoker, the nonsmoker is in the best health position of all!

Dr. Potter Named Fellow by Academy

Kansas City, Mo.—Dr. Ira B. Potter, of Lackey, Ky., has been named a Fellow of the American Academy of Family Physicians.

The degree was conferred September 21 upon more than 800 members of the Academy in conjunction with the AAFP's annual convention and scientific assembly in Boston. Ceremonies were held in Boston's Hynes Veterans Auditorium before some 2,000 persons.

IT WAS A 'PAINFUL' EXPERIENCE
SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—Credit the capture of a robbery suspect to a bathroom window.

Sheriff's officers said that when they tried to serve a warrant to the suspect, a 19-year-old youth, he tried to elude them by slipping through the bathroom window. The window wasn't quite big enough, however, and the suspect got stuck.

It took several men to free the youth, officers said.

Coal Truck-Auto Crash Kills Five In Knott County

A coal truck travelling from this county to Knott county figured in a collision with an automobile near Cody, Knott county, last Thursday, resulting in the deaths of five persons and injuries to three others.

Killed were Mrs. Martha A. Church, 50, of Kona, Ky., Carlos N. Church, 17, Brenda S. Church, 17, Maggie Caudill, 59, and Michael Lee Hips, 16. All were residents of Kona except Mrs. Caudill, who lived at Brinkley, Knott county.

The only survivors of the seven persons in the car were two small children, Regina Church, 2, and Susan Church, 3. Condition of the former was later listed as critical at the UK Medical Center, Lexington. Susan was said to be in fair condition at the Hazard Appalachian Regional Hospital.

The driver of the coal truck, Danny L. Johnson, 27, of Speight, Ky., was released from the Hazard hospital after treatment for minor injuries.

State Police were quoted as saying Johnson was driving for the Johnson Trucking Co., of Martin. State Trooper Patrick Simpson, who investigated the smashup, said the auto, driven by Mrs. Church, apparently ran through a stop sign and slid into the path of the oncoming truck. The tragedy occurred shortly before 1 p.m., at the intersection of KY 160 and KY 15.

Beaver Creek Wilderness Area Mining Question Set for ETV

The Beaver Creek Wilderness Area in the Daniel Boone National Forest is Kentucky's only declared wilderness under the 1975 Wilderness Act. This stretch of land, consisting of nearly 5,000 acres, was sold to the United States in 1937 with sub-surface mineral rights reserved for the seller.

The proposed prospecting of the Beaver Creek Wilderness preserve for minerals with mechanical equipment has been a point of controversy between conservationists and coal companies. The question is one of property rights versus public rights.

"Commonwealth Call-In," Kentucky Educational Television's (KET) weekly forum for current topics of interest in Kentucky, tackles this question on Monday, Nov. 8 at 9 p.m. (ET), 8 p.m. (CT).

Host Bob Shy and his guests—Dr. Fred Pipkin from the Executive Committee of the Louisville group of the Sierra Club; Richard Wengert, forest supervisor of the Daniel Boone National Forest; and a representative from the Greenwood Land and Mining Company—will be on hand for discussion and to answer viewers' questions. Toll calls are accepted for those viewers dialing long distance.

Consumer Comments

By ROBERT F. STEPHENS

You may have suspected that your milk carton didn't contain an entire gallon of milk or that the gasoline pump wasn't measuring correctly. If you have a complaint about the advertised weights or measurement of anything you have purchased, there is a Kentucky state agency that will investigate your problem.

The Division of Weights and Measures in the Department of Agriculture is responsible for checking the accuracy of any commercial weighing or measuring device and for inspecting commodities in packaged form to see whether they contain the amount stated on the label. These inspections include gasoline pumps, supermarket items, and even toothpaste tubes!

The Division carries out this responsibility by sending investigators to businesses throughout the state. When an investigator has tested a weighing or measuring device, he affixes a sticker to the machine stating his findings. If the machine is found to be correct, the sticker will state this, the date of inspection, and the inspector's name. If the device is not functioning properly, the sticker will reflect this and the company usually has 10 days in which to correct the problem. In some cases, the devices may be condemned and immediately taken out of service. Not only are retail commercial outlets investigated, but also wholesale outlets distributing products made and packaged by national manufacturers.

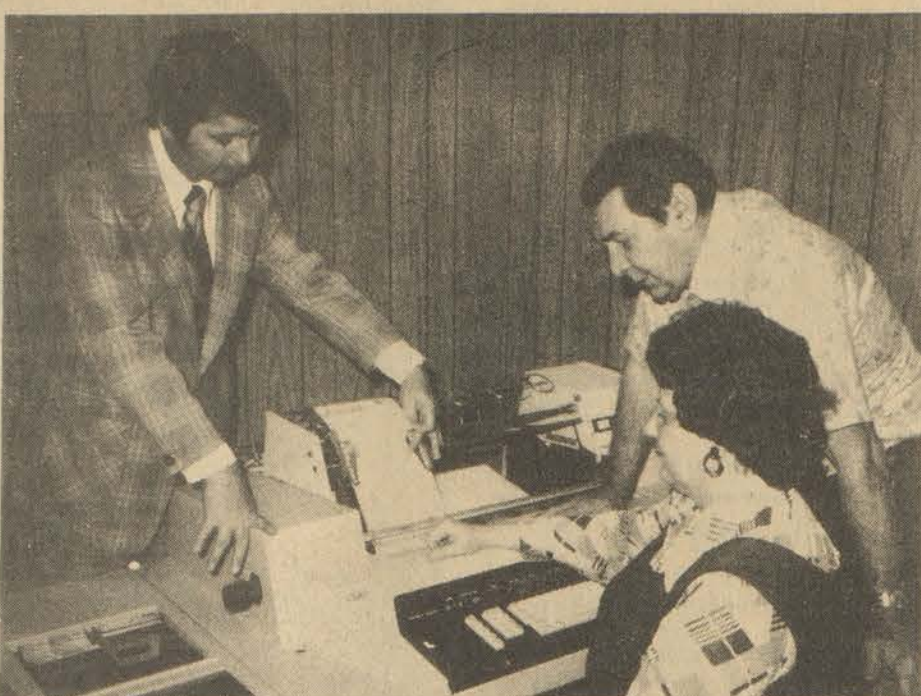

If you feel that some product is not being weighed or measured accurately, report your complaint to the Department of Agriculture, Division of Weights and Measures, 106 W. Second St., Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or you can call the division at 502-564-4870. Each complaint will be investigated. If you would like to be notified of the results of the inquiry into your complaint, please state this in your request.

Remember too that companies like to hear directly from their customers when they have questions. Many national firms want to be notified of problems consumers encounter with matters like the weight or measurement of products. Generally, companies are very responsive to these inquiries.

MUCH IMPROVED

Mrs. Opal Dingus, and Mrs. Julia Harrington were able to attend services at the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, Sunday. Mrs. Harrington, who was ill for a few weeks, is again working part-time at the office of Dr. Hal Midkiff. Mrs. Dingus was a patient a short time ago at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

New Billing System Effective Nov. 1st

DWIGHT CLAGG, an account manager with the NCR Corporation, explains how rates and consumption information is fed into the new NCR 499 mini-computer being installed by the City's Utilities Commission. Operating the machine is Janet Whitten, commissioner billing clerk, while Shirley Lewis, office manager, looks on at right.

With an eye toward efficiency, the City's Utilities Commission is revamping its billing system. The commission has outgrown the old way of doing things and is in the process of installing an NCR-499 mini-computer that will be capable of handling the city's 2,500 present customers and take on more as the list grows.

Announcement of the change-over was made this week by William H. Howard, superintendent, who said the new system will replace two previously used machines and provide the commission with much more information, such as the number of delinquent customer by route, consumption analysis for water and gas, deposit refunds and statistical information needed for rate studies.

As for efficiency Mr. Howard explained that a tremendous amount of time is being saved in the preparation of utility bills. Billing that formerly required 10 days now can be done in four days. Other areas that will mean a saving in time were listed as automatic rate calculation, automatic past due notices, revenue breakdown of payments for daily bank deposits and a report of consumption on the number of gallons of water and cubic feet of gas used by route.

The first billing with the new system is expected November 1.

School Problems Show Progress Says School Board Chairman

By SALLY WILSON

Frankfort, Ky.—The State Board of Education has dealt with a number of thorny issues in the past several months—testing of exceptional children, basic accreditation ratings and competency-based high school diplomas. It would seem easy to believe that education has fallen on hard times.

Not so, said the Rev. Bob Brown, state board chairman, as he discussed these and other issues on New Shapes Education, a public service television program produced by the Department of Education.

Actually, Brown said, the problems facing the board are signs of great progress. "For example, five years ago we would not have been concerned about testing methods because there isn't much emphasis on special education. Testing is a concern now because we've made such great strides in educating exceptional children."

In the same way, he said, the vast improvement of accreditation ratings in the past three years has increased the board's desire to bring all schools up to the standard level.

At its last meeting, the board voted to eliminate the basic accreditation rating, the lowest level of full accreditation, by 1980. In most cases, that vote will mean that schools must reach standard accreditation or be abolished. When asked if the board would go to that length, Brown said, "Yes, I guess we would if it came to that." The number of schools which have improved their ratings shows that it can be done, he added.

What the board wants, Brown said, is to make sure that no child is denied an equal educational opportunity because of his place of residence.

Brown also discussed the concept of a competency-based high school diploma, which would require that students demonstrate their ability to read, write and do basic math before graduation.

Stories of the number of high school graduates who are functional illiterates indicate that some kind of proficiency test is needed, Brown said. He also said that proficiency tests should begin much sooner than the senior year of high school and be given several times during the child's school years.

Brown said that the opposition voiced by the Kentucky Education Association (KEA) to the competency-based diploma is premature. "All we've asked for is a study," Brown said, "and a plan hasn't even been formulated yet."

Brown said he was somewhat surprised by the opposition to the plan, especially since most states are requiring students to be competent at only the ninth-grade level. "What I don't understand is why we can't expect students in the twelfth grade to be competent at the twelfth-grade level," Brown said. "I don't think we're expecting too much if we ask a high school senior to be able to balance a check-book."

Commenting on KEA President James Sproull's statement that a proficiency test may become "merely another club with which to beat teachers," Brown said, "We're not trying to 'stick it' to teachers—or anybody else. We just want good education."

Students, Sportsmen In Effort To Provide Wildlife Supply

Members of Daniel Branson's biology class at Prestonsburg High School are doing their bit to promote wildlife survival in the Jenny Wiley State Park area.

This week they supplied sportsmen 16 pounds of nuts which the sportsmen in turn will plant and raise to the seedling stage, then replant in the hills around the park to provide food for squirrels and other wildlife. Their collection included hazel nuts, chestnuts, chinquapins, butternut and black walnuts, hickory nuts and acorns. The nuts will be raised to seedlings by Irvin Harris, Chalmers Howard, David Gillespie, Camden Garrett and Bill Pettrey. Planting of nuts themselves in the area has been unsuccessful, largely because they are dug up and eaten by squirrels and perhaps other animals, it was explained.

Seedlings already planted in the area this year by Mr. Pettrey, assisted by Mainstream employes, include 86 chestnuts, 150 autumn olives and 18 chinquapins.

Woodsbend Seeks 'a Sense Of Belonging' for Its Charges

West Liberty, Ky.—The three boys in raincoats sat outside the woodworking shop, using their hatchets on the sticks of cedar. Oblivious to the sprinkling rain, they were cutting the sticks down into what would be smooth legs for wood tables and stools which were being smoothed inside the shop.

The tables and stools were made for display at the West Liberty Sorghum Festival, held the first week in October. Making wood furniture is not the only way that Woodsbend Boys Camp participated in the festival. They also entered a float in the festival's parade, and helped clean the grounds of litter when it ended.

Woodsbend Boys Camp is located next to a Morgan county tree nursery operated by the State Division of Forestry. It is one of nine state residential facilities for treatment of boys, ages 14-18, who have been determined "delinquent" by juvenile courts and committed to the state Department for Human Resources for an indeterminate period of time.

Since the camp was opened in 1964 by the state Department for Child Welfare, now within the Department for Human Resources, participation in Morgan county activities has been a high priority of camp administrators. By instilling a sense of belonging in the boys, the camp's treatment program has been quite successful.

Camp Superintendent John Karman explained, "Everything (at the camp) is part of a total treatment program. Everyone on the staff, teachers, counselors, even maintenance personnel, is part of the program."

Karman said the camp's philosophy is to find the boys' strengths and abilities and help them build on those. "We want to help them find those abilities and recognize them. We try to give them recognition for their achievements, whatever they might be." Karman noted that the camp's capacity for residents—50 boys, usually for a period of 4½-6 months—helps ensure that each boy will receive the attention he needs.

Part of the program is directed at education. The camp has four instructors provided by the Morgan County Board of Education. Emmanuel Hampton teaches boys with needs assessed at the elementary level, Kenny Cottle and Jack Cochran cover the secondary level and Billie Jean Hayes teaches a remedial reading class. Karman said the remedial reading class has been very effective, increasing participants' reading levels as much as 2.5 grades in four and one-half months.

Speaking of the camp's program, Hampton said, "As boys enter school, we do some testing to check for their present abilities and work on these, also considering the boys' future plans. We move them as far as we can, especially in math and reading."

If a young man hopes to attend college, Hampton said, "we try to encourage him as far along in that direction as we can. We have a rehabilitation counselor, who is not tied to the camp, who tries to arrange financial aid if it is needed. We can also help arrange grants through the Department for Human Resources. Financing has been no problem to the boys who have wanted to attend college, and we have had a great deal of success."

Hampton said many boys over 16 try to get the General Equivalence Development (GED) certificate, since the camp holds GED classes twice weekly. Twenty-eight young men at the camp received the certificate last year, and 34 received theirs the year before.

But he noted that many boys will not use the GED program preferring to return to high school after release from the camp and earn their diploma. Younger residents can earn the eighth grade diploma at the camp.

Hampton described the total education program as "very intense. The boys move at their own speed. Our main objective is to give the boys what they need to survive in the community."

Overall, Karman expressed pride in his camp's programs. Superintendent for the past two and one half years, he served as assistant superintendent when Jack Lewis, presently commissioner of the Bureau for Social Services, was superintendent.

"We get kids who are basically suffering from not feeling good about themselves," Karman said. "Only by demanding and having expectations that these kids produce, do we enhance their self-concepts and self-images. If we succeed in doing that, I feel they will start trying to do the best they can do, in all aspects of daily living."

PORTENTS OF HALLOWEEN, this scarecrow, fodder shock and jack 'o lantern on the edge of a wood at Auxier create a foreboding scene. The eerie exhibit was created by Roger and Kimall Collins, 13-year-old twin sons of Mrs. Maggie Collins of Auxier.

DINNER GUESTS
Mrs. Annie B. Keck, of Philadelphia, Pa., entertained her sisters, Mrs. Paris Conley, of Prestonsburg, and Mrs. Harry Baldrige, of East Point, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Miller, of Prestonsburg, to dinner at Effie's Restaurant, Wednesday. Mrs. Keck, who spent two weeks here visiting her sisters, other relatives and friends, has returned home by plane.

Floyd Native Leader in Fight To Save Threatened Industry

Hawaii's sugar industry, beset with gloom due to this year's sickening plunge in prices for its product, got some good news recently, a native of Floyd county who now is senior vice-president of one of the Island's largest companies announced. It may not have to face a one-time $75 million tax jolt after all. U. S. House and Senate conferees adopted language in the omnibus tax reform bill which would exempt Hawaii's sugar and pineapple industries from a drastic switch in required IRS accounting methods.

Since the pending legislation would in effect override the IRS action, "it would save sugar and pineapple from an extraordinary disaster," commented Benjamin W. Baker, senior vice president of Maui Land & Pineapple Co.

Baker, who has made five trips to Washington, D. C., this year to argue his industry's case, said Maui Land & Pine would have to pay $5 million in added taxes if required to switch accounting methods. By comparison, the company's total pretax profits in 1975 were $5.4 million.

Mr. Baker is a native of Langley, the son of Elizabeth May Baker, of Langley, and the late Ben W. Baker, Sr. He was graduated from Maytown High School, Berea College, Bowling Green Business University and Stanford University. He has been living in Hawaii since 1955. He was sent by his company recently to hong-Kong and at the conclusion of the meetings they visited other places in the Far East and Australia before returning to Hawaii in mid-October.

BEVINS-BRACKETT

Miss Connie Lee Bevins and Stephen Ray Brackett were united in marriage October 2 at seven o'clock in the evening at the Allen United Methodist Church at Allen.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leeman Bevins, Sr., of Banner, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Brackett, of Allen. The Rev. Kenneth Lemaster performed the private ceremony. Music selections were presented by Miss Mary Avonne Stephenson, of Lexington, and Mrs. Lowell Marcum, of Allen, who sang, "We've Only Just Begun." John David Preston, of Paintsville, uncle of the groom, was taper lighter.

The bride wore a gown of white polyester knit fashioned with a V-neck accented by lace, and carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and stephanotis, entwined with pearls. Mrs. Leeman Bevins, Jr., matron of honor and sister-in-law of the bride, wore a pale green gown of polyester knit and carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations. Ray Brackett, father of the groom, served as best man.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Brackett. Assisting were Mrs. Ray Crisp, Mrs. Mary Bevins, Mrs. Howard H. Moore, Miss Laura Frances Brackett, and Miss Mary Avonne Stephenson.

The bride is a graduate of Feds Creek High School, and is a secretary for W.D.O.C. Radio Station at Prestonsburg. The groom is a graduate of Prestonsburg high school, attended Prestonsburg Community College, served two years with the United States Army Military Police Division at Walter Reed Army Hospital at Washington, D. C., and is currently employed by the Kentucky Division of Forestry. The couple is residing at Dwale.

Laser Cane Aids Blind

PHILADELPHIA—Waving the long, white red-tipped cane in front of her, Mrs. Marian Allen, who is blind, moved gracefully between vehicles in the parking lot of the Frankford YWCA in Philadelphia.

Whenever an obstacle was ahead, the cane emitted a beeping sound, whereupon Mrs. Allen would move the cane until the beep ceased, assuring her of unimpeded movement.

This was no ordinary cane. It was a laser cane, equipped with an optical scanning device that uses low-intensity laser beams to detect obstacles in front of the carrier.

"The key to rehabilitation of the blind is mobility," Mrs. Allen said. "With this cane, I have true mobility."

The laser cane is not new, but only in the last two years has it been available to civilians. It was developed by Bionic Instruments of Bala Cynwyd, Pa. in the late 1960s in cooperation with the Veterans Administration for use by blinded veterans.

The cane, powered by a small six-volt rechargeable battery that operates for six hours on one charge, uses three sensors—one focused straight ahead, one upward and the third downward—to pick up "bounce-backs" of the harmless pencil-thin laser beams probing for obstacles.

When the cane is silent, the user knows that his path is unimpeded. A high-pitched beep warns that he is approaching an overhead obstacle, such as a low-hanging awning. A medium-pitched beep indicates that there is an obstacle directly ahead of him, and a low hum notifies the user that he is approaching a drop-off—for example, steps or a curb—more than five inches deep. The cane can pick up obstacles or depressions up to 12 feet away.

Miss Pelphrey-Mr. Gibson Wed

On Saturday evening, August 7, Miss Teresa Rhea Pelphrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ray Pelphrey, of Prestonsburg, and Mr. Miles Kenton Gibson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Gibson, of Langley, were united in marriage at the Community United Methodist Church, here.

The candlelight ceremony was performed by the Rev. James H. Grayson before an altar centered with a prayer bench and decorated with orange mums and smilax. The circle candelabra and two spiral candelabra were also decorated with orange mums, baby's breath and smilax.

Preceding the ceremony, nuptial selections were played by Miss Susan Compton, and Gus Kalos sang "One Hand, One Heart", "There is Love" and the Lord's Prayer.

A poem was read by Paul Leslie Pelphrey, brother of the bride, entitled, "What Is Love."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a designer gown of ivory peau d'oisie, enhanced with peau d'ange lace and seed pearls. The wedding band collar, long fitted lace sleeves and princess silhouette were enhanced by the attached semi-cathedral train. Her profile headpiece of lace was accented with pearls and held her floor-length, lace-bordered mantilla. The bride carried a cascade of miniature orange carnations, ivory gardenias, and baby's breath.

Miss Connie Lynn Pelphrey, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of orange ice jersey, with an ivory lace shawl and a picture hat of ivory with orange ice grosgrain ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Miss Pamela Pelphrey, sister of the bride, Miss Robin Stoddard, of Cincinnati, Ohio, Miss Judy Borders, of Salyersville. They wore gowns like that of the maid of honor and carried umbrellas made of miniature mums.

Miss Mary Click and Miss Amy Hicks, of Langley, cousins of the groom, were flower girls. They wore ivory and orange printed gowns with orange ribbon and carried white baskets with orange petals.

Tony Bleivins served as best man. Groomsmen were Roy Reasor, Phillip Gibson, brother of the groom, and Paul Leslie Pelphrey, brother of the bride, Darrell Collins, cousin of the bride, of Paintsville, served as ringbearer.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride.

After a honeymoon spent at the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania, the couple are living in Lexington, where Mrs. Gibson is employed by Landrum, Patterson and Dickie, Attorneys at Law.

Mr. Gibson will receive his Bachelor of Arts Degree in biology in May 1977 and enter the University of Kentucky College of Medicine in August.

Mrs. Gibson is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Houston, of Meally, and Mrs. Don Pelphrey, of Denver, Kentucky.

LOSING HAIR?
Hair Consultant In Pikeville Sunday
WILL EXPLAIN HAIR PROBLEMS FREE

Before Treatment
S. Raymer shows results by Liberty Home Treatment.

MEN and WOMEN just take a few minutes of your time on SUNDAY, OCTOBER 31 and go to the LANDMARK MOTEL between 1 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. and ask the desk clerk for Paul Jordan room number, or call for appointment.

There is no charge or obligation... all consultations are private, you will not be embarrassed in any way. Learn how you can treat yourself right in the privacy of your own home.

If you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness seems to "run in the family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of your hair loss.

Many conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead you are beyond help. If you still have hair on the top of your head, don't put it off until it's all off. It doesn't make sense for anyone to let himself go bald, certainly not without seeing a Liberty Hair and Scalp Consultant to see if we can help you.

Male pattern baldness is the cause of a great majority of cases of baldness and excessive hair loss, for which no method is effective. Liberty's Hair consultant cannot help those who are slick bald after years of gradual hair loss.

Parents must accompany those under 21.

Notice of Intention To Mine
 In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Greer, Inc., P. O. Box 460, London, Ky. 40741 intends to file an application for the surface mining of approximately 15 acres located North of Stanville in Floyd county. The proposed operation is approximately 3/4 miles East of Mare Creek Rd.'s junction with U.S. 23 and located North of Mare Creek. The surface of the area to be mined is owned by: Chester Layne. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is: Strip and auger. The application will be filed at the Division of Reclamation, Prestonsburg Area Office, 405 Southlake Dr., Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653.
 Persons wishing to object to the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection as to the issuance of a mining permit must do so in accordance with KRS 224.081(2) and must forward same to the Director, Division of Reclamation, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

Safety Groups Makes Final Recommendations

Frankfort, Ky.—The Deep Mining Safety Commission presented Gov. Julian Carroll with its final recommendations for improving Kentucky's coal mine safety program on Oct. 15.
 Proposals include a training and certification program for all miners, the creation of a mine safety analyst position within the state Department of Mines and Minerals and the revision of Kentucky's Mine Safety Law.
 In order to achieve overall certification of miners, a suggestion first submitted by commission member Ted Haley, University of Kentucky mining engineering professor, the commission recommended a minimum 40 hours training be provided a prospective miner before he is issued a training certificate to begin actual work. He would then gain 90 work days experience in a mine before becoming eligible for a miner's certificate.
 The commission also suggested that all miners receive a minimum eight hours' annual retraining to maintain their certification.
 A Division of Miner Training, Education and Certification within the Department of Mines and Minerals would be created to administer the program according to the commission's recommendation. The director of the proposed division would be required to have five years practical experience in underground mining.
 The commission also unanimously endorsed the creation of a Board of Miner Training, Education and Certification, to replace the existing Board of Examiners.
 The use of existing educational resources, particularly the state vocational education system, was advised as the core for any state-operated training programs.
 After considerable debate on the actual duties of the analyst and the implementation of the position, the commission recommended the creation of a separate Division of Safety Analysts within the state department.
 The analyst would have the same powers as a mine inspector, but these powers would be secondary to his function as an evaluator and advisor in the area of mine safety.
 A majority of the commission agreed to recommend that the legislature initially fund 100 analysts positions in order to implement the program. However, several members expressed concern that some mines might not benefit, at least initially.
 Because of this concern, the group adopted a general recommendation that the proposed safety analysts visit every working section in the state at least four times per year, if the manpower is available.
 Other recommendations approved by the commission include:
 —Creation of a Department of Mining Engineering at the University of Kentucky. Mining engineering courses are now offered as a part of the civil engineering curriculum.
 —Reduction of the number of mandatory annual inspections of all mines in the Commonwealth by the state Department of Mines and Minerals from three to two. The reduction is intended to give the inspectors more time to concentrate on mines with problems.
 —Upgrading of the first aid course taught by the state department to include all material in the Emergency Medical Technician course which is relevant to coal mining. All applicants for a mine foreman's certificate would be required to successfully complete the course.

—Placement of an Emergency Mine Rescue and Training mobile unit in each of the state's five mine districts.
 The 15-member commission, appointed by Gov. Julian Carroll on March 29, was to investigate the problem of mine safety as an "expert work group" and draft legislation for consideration by the Kentucky General Assembly in its special session to be held later this year.
 The group, chaired by Sen. Ken Gibson (D-Madisonville), divided itself into three separate task forces in order to more effectively deal with specific areas.
 The task force on Regulatory Agencies and Procedures, chaired by Sen. Gene Huff (R-London), was charged with the responsibility of reviewing the current role of the state Department of Mines and Minerals to determine the status of existing regulations and to assess the effectiveness of the enforcement process.
 Other members of that task force were Mines and Minerals Commissioner Harrel Kirkpatrick; Paul Patton, a Pikeville coal operator; Jack Crawford, representing the federal Mine Enforcement and Safety Administration (MESA), and Charles Head, representing the United Mine Workers (UMW).
 Ted Haley, a professor of Mining Engineering at the University of Kentucky, was chairman of the task force on Miner Training and Certification, the subcommittee responsible for evaluating the present certification process and for determining the adequacy of the current safety training program.
 Serving with Haley on the task force were Rep. W. D. "Doc" Blair (R-Paintsville); Robert Carter, a UNW representative on the commission; Willard Stanley, of Martin, district manager for the Department of Mines and Minerals, and Tom Barton, representing Peabody Coal Co.

 The third task force, dealing with the concept of resident mine safety inspectors, was assigned the task of studying the role and relationship of current mine safety personnel and determining the feasibility of incorporating full time safety inspectors in each mine.
 The chairman of the group was Rep. Glenn Freeman (D-Cumberland). Other members included Bobby Dukes, a UMW representative on the commission; Sam Johnson, assistant to Commissioner Kirkpatrick and Cloyd McDowell, president of the Harlan County Coal Operators Association.
 Each task force met at least twice, in addition to the five one-day and three two-day sessions of the full commission.

$25,000 REWARD

($100,000 Maximum)

Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company has suffered certain malicious acts of sabotage involving explosives against its property and equipment, beginning October 18, 1976. Law enforcement officers, including federal, state and local, have been notified.

The Company offers to reward any person or persons furnishing to the Company or to any law enforcement agency of the state of Kentucky, or the federal government, or to the sheriff of any county, or to the police of any municipality, information directly leading to the arrest and conviction of any person willfully or maliciously interfering with the flow of gas or oil or injuring or destroying any of the Company's operating equipment or facilities by the use of any explosive devices or by setting any explosive devices for such purpose or for aiding or procuring any person to do such an act.

The maximum of reward payable in each instance or interference with the flow of gas or oil, or injury, or destruction of property by an explosive device or by setting any explosive device for such purpose is $25,000 and the total amount of the rewards payable for all such instances shall not exceed $100,000. The Company reserves the right to determine the person or persons entitled to the reward and the proportionate amount to which each is entitled. This offer shall terminate March 1, 1977, subject to extension by the Company.

In addition to the reward noted above regarding explosives, the Company also offers a $5,000 reward ($50,000 maximum) for other types of willful or malicious interference with the flow of gas or oil subject to the following conditions:

The Company offers to reward any person or persons furnishing to the company or to any law enforcement agency of the State of Kentucky, or the federal government, or to the sheriff of any county, or to the police of any municipality, information directly leading to the arrest and conviction of any person willfully or maliciously interfering with the flow of gas or oil, injuring or destroying any of the company's operating equipment or facilities, or for aiding or procuring any person to do such an act, without the use of explosives.

The maximum of reward payable in each instance of interference with the flow of gas or oil, injury, or destruction of property is $5,000 and the total amount of the rewards payable for all such instances shall not exceed $50,000. The company reserves the right to determine the person or persons entitled to the reward and the proportionate amount to which each is entitled. This offer shall terminate March 1, 1977, subject to extension by the Company.

Such acts of sabotage endangers the public which is dependent on gas for safety, health, and comfort. Any such acts affecting any of the company's facilities will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law as part of Kentucky West Virginia's obligation to provide safe and dependable gas service to its customers.

Dangers of Christmas For Children Cited

Frankfort, Ky.—Christmas should be a happy season for everyone, but each year some 12,000 Kentucky children are injured by unsafe toys.

E. Edsel Moore, manager of the Department for Human Resources' pesticides and consumer product safety program, said, "We want to make this a safer Christmas for everybody. So we're cooperating with the U. S. Consumer Product Safety Commission to inform purchasers of what to look for when selecting toys for this holiday season."

Before buying a toy, Moore suggests that consumers ask themselves the following questions:

- 1. Will it break easily, revealing sharp cutting edges?
2. Does it contain tiny parts that can either be swallowed or become lodged in a child's ears, nose or windpipe?
3. Will it produce sounds or noises loud enough to damage a child's hearing?
4. Is the toy suitable for the age level of the child? (For example, a chemistry set should not be bought for an eight-year-old.)
5. If an electric toy, it is constructed properly so as not to shock or burn?

The founding of the AFL-CIO on Dec. 5, 1955, brought under one roof unions representing approximately 16 million workers, over 85 per cent of the membership claimed by all unions in the United States, according to a U. S. Labor Department publication, "Important Events in American Labor History, 1778-1975."
