Goebel Resigns As Mayor Here

KENTUCKY

Council Names Harold Cooley His Successor

A major change in the Prestonsburg city administration resulted from the resignation last Thursday night of Mayor William O. Goebel, Jr.

Upon the mayor's resignation City Council elected one of its members, Harold W. Cooley, to succeed Goebel. The new mayor took the oath of office after resigning from the council.

Mayor Goebel tendered his resignation after presiding at an early part of the council meeting during which the television franchise of Flanery and Dingus was renewed for a period of 15

The letter of resignation read, in part: "With deepest regrets but on the advice of my physicians . . . I hereby submit my resignation as Mayor of the City of Prestonsburg, Ky., effective immediately.

The oath of office was administered for the new mayor by City Attorney Joe Hobson as a notary public. His term of office will expire Jan. 1, 1978.

Mayor Cooley was in his second term as a member of the Council and had served as mayor pro-tem. He is a pharmacist and is the owner of Cooley's Apothecary here.

Dr. Larry Leslie was named to the Council post vacated by Cooley upon assuming the duties of mayor.

In action following the resignation of Mayor Goebel the Council approved a new budget anticipating the expenditure of $666,500. (Details of the budget will be available next week.)

Council also voted to raise the annual unloading license fee, effective Jan. 1, from $50 to $150.

Charge Against Jones Dismissed in Pike Co.

In the news-story last week which stated that the trial of Eddie and Agnel Jones has been scheduled in the Pike circuit court for Jan. 10, The Times failed to note that the charge against Agnel Jones has been dismissed-because that information had not been given us.

The indictment against Agnel Jones vas dismissed because it was illegal Times was told this week, since the crime alleged occurred in Floyd county. An earlier indictment in Floyd county against the elder Jones also was dismissed on motion of the Commonwealth.

Newsoms' Trial Continued Until January Session

The murder trial of John Henry Newsome and his two juvenile daughters who are charged with the knife-slaying here of Gerald McBrayer was continued Monday to Jan. 17 when no attorney for any of the defendants appeared in court.

Direct cause of the continuance was the illness of Dan Rowland, former public defender who had remained as a defense attorney. When John Henry Newsome recently asked for separate defense counsel, Ralph Stephens was named in the court order as his legal representative, but Stephens did not

The father remains at liberty under $25,000 bond. The two girls are in jail.

Mr. Rowland filed a motion last week, seeking to withdraw from the case, and the two girls at the same time asked the court to transfer the indictment against them to juvenile court.

Circuit Judge Hollie Conley earlier had called on State Public Defender Farley to supply an attorney for the defense.

Meanwhile, the county remains without a public defender, since no successor to Rowland has been named. Tomorrow (Thursday) will end the (See Story No. 3, Page 4)

Federal Funds Sought For School Projects

Read Each Week by More Than 8,000 Families

The Floyd County Board of Education last week filed formal application for funding under the new Public Works Act of two major construction projects which will cost an estimated $735,000.

Submitted with the application were completed architects' plans.

One of the projects, which will cost between $375,000 and $385,000, is the development of land adjacent to the new Allen Central High School. If approved, the work would provide for a football field with permanent stadium type seats, ? a year-round track, tennis and outdoor basketball courts, and a baseball field. The stadium work would include showers and dressing rooms for players beneath the stadium and public restroom

The second application is for construction of a 475-seat gymnasium at the Allen Elementary School which would cost an estimated $350,000. The gym would be a replica of the Martin Elementary structure. architect, did the plans for the gymnasium. Forrest D. McCloskey and Associates, Lexington, planned the stadium and other facilities at Allen

Supt. of Schools E. P. Grigsby, Jr. said the board of education expects to learn within the next 60 days if the projects are acceptable for funding under the Public Works Act

Supt. Grigsby said the board at its meeting last Wednesday evening discussed the possibility of acquiring from the state the 17-acre tract of level land created near Betsy Layne by the construction of new US 23.

He said the board is interested in the tract as a possible future school location. He added that, if it is available, he hopes to work with the Floyd fiscal court toward use of the land not only for a school center but also for recreation.

Told that the tract had earlier been discussed as a possible industrial site, Mr. Grigsby said the board was not being greedy but was considering the site simply because it had not been put to use and was lying idle.

He said that he hopes to discuss the matter soon with Governor Carroll.

Osborne Victim In Trailer Fire

Barney L. Osborne, 60, member of a well-known Floyd county family, was burned to death in the fire which partially destroyed his mobile home at Eastern, shortly after last Thursday

The Maytown Volunteer Fire Department received word at 12:50 a.m. Friday that the two-bedroom trailer was ablaze and reached the scene 10 minutes later. A bedroom in which the fire apparently started was by that time destroyed, and firemen could not penetrate either the living room or kitchen. The blaze was extinguished by 1:45, and Osborne's body was recovered at 3 a.m.

The body lay within a few feet of the living room door, firemen said. A State Police investigation followed, and it was indicated that cause of the tragedy was accidental. Mr. Osborne was alone at the time of the fire.

A veteran of World War II, he owned and operated a cleaning plant at Allen 20 years. He was a son of the late Salem B. (Burr) Osborne and Rhoda Stephens Osborne and was a native of the Eastern community. Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Ella Fife Osborne, of Eastern; a brother, Charles Astor Osborne, Lufton, Texas, and three sisters, Mrs. Hollie B. Hall, Sarasota, Fla., Mrs. Edna Nelson, Irrigan, Ore., and Mrs. Berneice Gayheart, of Eastern.

Funeral rites were conducted at 11 a.m. Sunday from the chapel of the Hall Brothers Funeral Home by the Rev. Robert L. Martin, and burial was made in the family cemetery at Eastern.

Marsillett Held Able For Trial; Bond Set Friday at $5,000

A psychiatrist held last Friday that Jot Marsillett, who is accused of first degree wanton endangerment in the recent shooting near Bonanza of Tom Nelson, is competent and able to stand trial. County Judge Henry Stumbo set the accused man's bond at $5,000, which he executed.

Condition of Nelson remains serious. He is at the UK Medical Center.

This Town...That World

Since the weather, about which we admittedly can do nothing, continues to be a conversation piece hereabouts, some have taken the lighter approach even when it's gloomiest. The other day, with the rain pouring down, one of the force solemnly announced that my muchmourned Indian Summer had come. He neglected to mention that the Indian's name was Rain-in-the-Face.

As if there weren't problems enough these days, my neighbor, George Brown, this week produced a problem which the late Prof. Walter M. Byington posed for his eighth-grade pupils at the old Kentucky Normal College in Louisa, back in 1916. The problem was a part of the process used in determining who should take the examination for a teacher's certificate, and we reproduce it here for the delectation of all masters of the New

JOB WELL DONE

With no thought of downgrading the efforts of his predecessors, we would say this fellow Leeman Bevins is doing the best job for the Kentucky State Police as public relations officer that has been done since they've been operating in this section of the state. For the first time we get reports from the KSP when the news breaks, without having to call the Pikeville post and, failing there to get the desired information, have to try to locate troopers in their cruisers or at their

Board Buys Garth Site For Garage

Proposed Building To Ease Congestion At Allen Location

The Floyd County Board of Education last week approved the purchase of a 3.4acre site at Garth for a future school bus

The board action was the last step toward acquisition of the site which had already been approved by the State Department of Education. The land, which is located across the highway from the Garth Vocational School, is above high water and will afford space not only for a modern shop building accommodating at one time as many as four or five buses but also will provide outside parking of as many vehicles as required at a given time.

The site was purchased from Sam Martin, Jr. for $55,000.

Work on the garage itself will necessarily await funding, Supt. of Schools E. P. Grigsby, Jr. said. But he expressed the hope that it might be completed within a year.

"This is one of my long-range plans for the school system," he said. He spoke of the importance of keeping school buses in sound condition and the difficultues experienced at the present location in a residential section of Allen.

"We have a fleet of 55 school buses, besides other vehicles, and at Allen we have room for only one bus at a given time inside the garage," he said, recalling that buses are parked on the street, scattered around Allen and that some are even worked upon, outdoors.

The transportation and maintenance departments of the school system share the Allen quarters. The maintenance department would in all likelihood continue to use the Allen building.

Agencies Offer Help To Board In Drug Study

The Floyd County Board of Education received at its meeting last Wednesday offers of help from the Kentucky State Police and Mountain Comprehensive Care in the school system's fight on drug use by students.

The board heard State Trooper Leeman Bevins, public relations officer with the Pikeville Post, outline the KSP educational program, with emphasis on marijuana. The board delayed a final decision on adoption of the program.

Representatives of Mountain Comprehensive Care were given permission to conduct a survey in the county's high schools to determine the extent of drug use and the underlying reasons for it. The same type of survey is being made in the Johnson and Pike county schools. Students answering questionnaires will do so on a voluntary basis and will remain anonymous.

The board revised provisions for emergency leave days to include relationship by marriage. Hitherto, emergency sick leave was granted only on illness within the immediate family.

A leave of absence for remainder of the school term was granted Gwen Moore, (See Story No. 4, Page 4)

Road Work May Open Way for New Housing

An Abbott Creek road improvement project now being planned by the state Department of Transportation will indirectly affect, if not make possible, the construction of a multi-million-dollar housing complex in the vicinity of Cliff.

One of the requirements which must be met by the Prestonsburg Housing Authority to get the housing project approved is elevation of the road above flood level in two sections near the old Cliff railway station.

The proposed road improvement will meet that demand. The main Abbott road change is planned to straighten the curve and perhaps reduce the grade at the home of Judge Harris Howard, and the earth removed in the process will be used to raise the road leading to the housing development.

Gail Mullins, district highway engineer, said plans are not complete for the road improvement work but that it appears the new road will be cut as much as 20-25 feet into the bordering hillside to remove the sharp curve.

The Housing Authority has acquired from the Prestonsburg Industrial Foundation 32 acres, six of which are level, as a site for the proposed 94-unit low-rent housing complex.

Ed Music, president of the Industrial Foundation, expressed the hope that remaining acreage owned by the Foundation will eventually be the site of an industrial plant.

Two other requirements remain to be met to win approval of the Cliff site for the housing construction. One of these is sewerage, which will be sought from the city. The other is installation of gates at the railway crossing which would be in regular use, once the housing units are built and occupied.

Representatives of the Housing Authority and Railroad Commissioner Jimmy "Gabe" Turner were in Frankfort Tuesday, negotiating for the crossing improvement.

Although the new bridge spanning the river at Banner is being used, it is not officially open, District Engineer Mullins said Tuesday. Another deck overlay remains to be added next spring before its official opening, he said.

Home for Seven Generations

There's a beautiful old house at the mouth of the Slick Rock Branch of Cow Creek. About 150 years old and filled with reminders of the early history of the Big Sandy Valley area as well as the memories of the seven generations who have lived there, the house has withstood the test of time and thus far, at least, the trend of tearing down old homes to make room for smaller, more modern struc-

"I considered having it torn down several years ago," said Laura Belle Herald, present owner of the home, "but the night before the workmen were to come, my mother told me she just wouldn't feel right to see the old house destroyed. I called the men right away and told them I'd changed my mind . . and now I know I'd feel just the same way my mother did if I thought it was going to be torn down.'

The house, a rambling two-story structure, is built primarily of hewn poplar logs, each more than two feet wide, which were brought to the present site, according to the grandfather of the late Ballard Harris, by a team of oxen. The kitchen was at one time separate from the rest of the house, as was the custom in earlier days. The old weather boarding which covered the logs was replaced a couple of years ago with modern aluminum siding.

The house is full of beautiful antiques, most of which are well over 100 years old. Several of the pieces have always been part of the furnishing of the home, and one which is of particular sentimental value to Mrs. Herald is the kitchen cupboard of her great-great-grandfather and Revolutionary War veteran John

Although Graham never lived in the house, the early Big Sandy settler and landowner brought the cupboard with him from Virginia along with other personal possessions (including a number of slaves), and eventually the piece was brought to the house on Cow

This cupboard in Herald home at Cow Creek was brought overland from Virginia by pioneer John Graham.

Floyd County Health Notes

The Floyd County Health Department will conduct a general Pap clinic on Thursday, December 9. Clinic hours will be from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and from 1 to 2 p.m. Since most doctors recommend that women have a Pap smear at least once a year, the community health nurses urge all women to take advantage of this free cervical cancer screening.

Monday, December 13, a Community Health Nurse will be in the basement of the Methodist Church at Wayland, offering the following medical services: immunizations, TB skin tests, diabetes screening, blood pressures and flu shots. This clinic will be conducted from 10 a.m. to 12 and from 1 to 2 p.m.

All persons in this area are welcome to attend this clinic for these free services.

On Tuesday, December 14, the health department will hold a glaucoma clinic from 9 to 11:30 p.m. and 1 to 2 p.m. Glaucoma is a serious disease that can cause blindness, slowly and painlessly, and it usually strikes persons age 35 or

For this reason, the community health nurses urge all persons who are 35 years of age or over to come to the health department for this free Glaucoma screening. Remember, early detection is your best defense against Glaucoma.

The Floyd County Health Department has received recommendations from the Public Health Service Advisory Committee on immunization practices concerning swine flu. These recommendations follow: -All persons between the ages of 18 vaccine given four weeks apart is recommended for healthy persons, ages 3 through 17. These persons were not previously eligible for this vaccine.

-Children, age six months to three years with high-risk conditions should get two doses of bivalent split-

The health department is now offering these swine flu vaccines, Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. If a special clinic is scheduled on a certain day, however, patients attending this clinic must be given priority in regard to

Co. Brigade Cited In Factory Blaze

Prestonsburg Fire Chief Thomas A. Blackburn this week commended the Prestonsburg Shoe Company's employee fire brigade for its effective response to a fire which broke out at the plant at Goble-Roberts Addition here Thursday

The fire brigade consisting of about 10 of the plant's employees, is credited with containing the blaze, which began in a dust collector, and because of their action, Blackburn said, "a great deal of damage was prevented."

Plant Manager Tom Crabtree said several members of the company brigade had considerable fire fighting experience and also commended their efforts. "It was mighty reassuring to hear that fire truck's siren," he said, referring to the arrival of the Prestonsburg Fire Department.

Although the plant's 345 employees were sent home for the day resulting in some production loss, actual damage to the plant building was negligible.

Why Not Go Slow as a Starter?

It's quite possible that the majority of those legislators who are in special session assembled to implement the so-called Judicial Amendment would prefer to forget the whole affair and go home. But they can't.

The amendment changing the entire court system in Kentucky was approved by the voters, not by a majority of the state's electorate but by a majority of those voting, which was a relative

Now, undertaking the job of putting that mandate into effect, the legislators are warned by Governor Carroll against letting the new system raid the state treasury to the extent that education, for instance, could suffer.

From another source, Supreme Court Chief Justice Reed, comes word to them that the state's financial balance is in no danger and that full implementation of the amendment will cause no new taxes.

Governor Carroll has suggested a "proceed with caution" policy, asking the Legislature to reduce the number of district judges, who must be full-fledged lawyers, and to leave a sizeable portion of the work to commissioners who will be responsible to the judges but who are not required to be licensed attorneys.

Justice Reed says a payroll of 123 district judges and 55 trial commissioners not only is practical but also is needed to make the system work. He thinks the $21.3 million requested to establish and support the new district court arrangement isn't extravagant. The judges and commissioners will cost the state, if his suggestion is followed, more than $5 million a year in salaries, not to mention the pay of clerical help, office expenses and the cost of rebating cities and counties the money they will be losing from fines, forfeitures and the like.

Somehow, we feel the governor has a point there. We think his grasp of the financial situation is better than that of a man on the high court bench. For that reason, we have an idea the note of caution that Governor Carroll has sounded makes sense.

It's certain, anyhow, that this one session of the Legislature will not cross every t and dot every i that will have to be dealt with in this sweeping judicial venture. That being true, other sessions can meet developing situations, correct mistakes, perhaps make a few new ones, and in a period of four or five years wind up somewhere near where the supporters of the Judicial Amendment thought we were going.

Creek through Mrs. Herald's grandfather's mother (John Graham's daughter), Sophie Graham.

The massive cupboard is fashioned from solid walnut, although several layers of paint which have accumulated over the years obscure the natural wood surface. The cupboard's shelves are made of solid, two-foot wide walnut planks. In the cupboard are several pieces of very old and lovely china and dinnerware which are obviously the source of much pride to Mrs.

Mrs. Herald's considerable skill with needle and thread is in evidence throughout the house as scores of handmade quilts, pillows and coverlets lend an appropriate flavor to the interior.

Although the future of the house cannot be certain, it is encouraging to note that, as Mrs. Herald said, "the grandchildren 'seem to like it." According to Mrs. Herald her granddaughter, Tamra, who lives with her, appreciates the idea of the house being constructed of logs, and she plans to remove some of the interior panelling to expose the yellow poplar logs and "chinking" and perhaps have a natural stone fireplace built.

As it stands, the house is one of the oldest on the Big Sandy and in its oldtime beauty it lends a touch of character to an area where most of the old homes have long since been destroyed.

Expected Colder Winter Rouses Interest in Fuel Situation

Frankfort, Ky.-An unusually cold October and predictions for a winter colder than normal have caused renewed interest in Kentucky's current energy situation, according to Energy Commissioner Damon Harrison. The past four winters have been warmer than normal, Harrison said.

Natural gas curtailments by Kentucky's gas utilities are projected as subtantially greater than last winter. Curtailments from based period volumes to the five distribution companies serving most of Kentucky's needs averages 23 per cent for the upcoming Nov. 1-March 31 heating season, said Harrison. This compares with 16 per cent for the past heating season.

"This does not mean that all classes of users are curtailed at the same rate,' he explained. "residential and other high priority users will not be curtailed at all. On the other hand, many industrial users will be curtailed drastically.

A very cold winter increases residential consumption of natural gas and leaves even less available to maintain production and support jobs. Conservation of natural gas in the home is extremely important to insure that jobs are supported and unemployment avoided," Harrison added.

Curtailed industry has met the problem in the past, primarily through shifts to other fuels, particularly heating oil and propane. Emergency gas also can be obtained in some situations, although at a premium price. An adequate supply of substitute fuels must be available in order to avoid production cutbacks. A recent projection by the Federal Energy Administration indicated that Kentucky is one of eight states which may face potential shortages of heating oil because of logistical problems, warned Harrison.

A survey of the state's five major heating oil suppliers indicates the supply will be adequate. Individual problems could occur, however, for firms with limited storage facilities requiring frequent re-supply. The situation will be closely monitored by the Kentucky Department of Energy.

"The outlook for the upcoming heating season, while subject to some questions, appears manageable," said Harrison. "But it is of extreme importance that energy be conserved and that waste be

Requiem for a Teacher:

(By Maury Vincent, The Macomb Daily, Mt. Clemens, Michigan)

"Love ya and miss ya, Mr. Adams," read one signature on the card.

'Hurry back, hillbilly," read another from a less formal student.

But Don Adams did not hurry back from the lingering illness which had struck him in August of 1975 and hospitalized him last May in Melbourne, Fla., where he received this card from his students-and where he died.

The signatures on the card reflected the respect, admiration and, yes, even the love his students harbored for Don Adams during his long tenure as a teacher of history, government and humanities at Mount Clemens High

That special quality he possessed endeared him not only to students but to parents and fellow teachers alike. It was a rare quality of caring and understanding, tempered by a healthy respect for the views and opinions of

Through him, the students undertook a learning experience they were not soon to Admittedly, this is a long-range assessment of the man. I knew him only perfunctorily, although I had heard much about him from my daughter, Cynthia, one of his former students. But Virginia Adams, his widow, brought me a letter from another student which embodies the feeling toward her late husband.

The writer is Ann Haman, a former student, now in college. She writes, in part:

"I don't know how many hundreds of students heard, 'You are the sum total of all your experiences,' flavored with his Kentucky drawl.

"During my time in his Early American class I developed a great respect for Mr. Adams, and an affection for him I've seen mirrored in almost everyone he once taught. "For me, he was the first teacher to present an irresistable challenge; to think for myself and to be able to answer for that thinking . . . My experiences with him showed that he delighted in students who could rise to his challenges and

"He believed very deeply in an informed democracy, and fought to interest adolescent minds in critical analysis of their country, rather than just destructive criticism. Surprisingly, often he succeeded.

"For students who could care less about school, the years are filled with teachers who couldn't care less about them. Mr. Adams cared for his pupils because he cared about people, and his kindness touched borderline and honor students alike. He took an interest and he took the time to listen, and for many that was all they could have ever asked of a

"I'm happy that those who have their own debt to him have an opportunity to do something for a cause in which he strongly believed. Many goodbyes and thank yous can be channeled toward helping some student develop the lively and thoughtful kind of mind that Don Adams valued and himself possessed."

Carroll Urges Special Session To Guard Against Over-Spending

Governor Carroll addressing special General Assembly session last Wednesday.

Frankfort, Ky.—Gov. Julian Carroll opened the special session of the General Assembly today, advising the legislators to apply common sense and fiscal responsibility to their considerations on the implementation of the judical article.

Meeting in joint session, the state legislators heard Carroll say, "I am sounding a strong note of fiscal caution. I am contending that we cannot finance a first-class justice system and be content with a second-class educational and health system in Kentucky."

"We are presently responsible for the educational welfare of some 694,000 young students in our public elementary and secondary schools. We are responsible for the health care of more than 40,000 Kentuckians who are hospitalized throughout our state," Gov. Carroll said. "We cannot blindly fund any service rendered by state government without considering the responsibility and burden of other government services.

Gov. Carroll said that while he had supported an elected district judge for each county, 'I fully recognize that the (judicial) article as written effectively prohibits such a plan. The constitutional requirement that such a judge be an attorney and that he not practice law, effectively precludes many counties from the opportunity to have such an elected office.

"While one might rightfully contend that a qualified lawyer could be secured if the General Assembly would provide a full-time salary, such an action . . . would be fiscally irresponsible as well as indefensible"

Gov. Carroll explained that the minimal duties of such an office do not merit a full-time salary, saying, "The taxpayers are entitled to full time work for a full-time salary."

Gov. Carroll said that, according to the article, using the First Judicial District of Ballard, Fulton, Hickman and Carlisle counties as an example, "Even if you authorize four district judges for that four-county district, there would be no guarantee that each of those counties would elect a district judge," since the article requies that all candidates run atlarge. It would be conceivable that all judges in that district would come from one county.

Committee Seeks Spending Cuts

Frankfort, Ky.—In the first day of hearings on the executive budget, members of the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations and Revenue took a hard line with state agencies requesting additional funds.

The committee is trying to reduce agency requests as much as possible, said Rep. Joseph P. Clarke (D-Danville) following the hearings.

Agency requests exceed the amount of unappropriated funds by more than $2 million.

Clarke, who presided at today's hearing said the requests "are for money for poor management in the past."

Throughout the hearings, committee members demanded that agencies account for the funds they are requesting and that they indicate the expected results of additional funds.

"We want some way to measure the results of the appropriations," Clarke told the agency representatives.

The committee heard from five agencies today: The Department of Banking and Securities; the Kentucky Center for Energy Research; The Governor's Council on Agriculture; The Kentucky Retirement System; and the Department of Justice.

Only the State Police portion of the Justice request was considered. The committee plans to take up further requests tomorrow.

Clarke said he hopes the hearings will be finished this week, with hearings on the judiciary budget to come last. The legislature must fund the lower court system of the state's unified court system approved by voters in 1975.

But Gov. Carroll noted that instead of authorizing a district judge for each county in the district, judicial offices should be funded according to whether a county or combination of counties "has a sufficient workload to support a full-time

Gov. Carroll said that while he had "never suggested . . . that (the General Assembly should) fail to authorize a district judge for any county or district that can reasonably justify such a full-time position," or that a position which is now proposed be removed, "I now suggest that in counties where more than one district judge has been proposed, you closely examine the potential workload in such counties" and fund only the positions which can be clearly justified by the expected workload.

Gov. Carroll said that any position that was authorized, then found unnecessary, would be difficult to remove from the judicial formula. "We don't have a very good reputation in Kentucky for abolishing unneeded positions" once the position is authorized, funded, then filled, he said

Gov. Carroll explained the need for fiscal responsibility, saying that the legislators must plan according to funds already available, because "I would veto" any measure which would increase taxes in the state.

Gov. Carroll also mentioned other issues before the special session, such as deep mining safety, workmen's com-

Legislative Update

Frankfort, Ky.—The Senate Judicial Courts Committee Monday recommended approval of two bills dealing with court reform.

The committee sent Senate Bill 10, which would establish small claims courts in the new district courts, to the Senate with the recommendation that the bill pass.

Senate Bill 15, which was also sent to the Senate, sets the jurisdiction of the circuit courts. The committee approved an amendment to the bill which would allow individuals to contest the decisions or actions of administrative agencies, and special districts or boards. The circuit courts would hear the cases as original actions.

In other action, the Senate Judiciary-Statutes Committee reported in favor of a bill which would restructure collection of fees for the operation of jails in Ken-

The bill (Senate Bill 14) requires state payment of prisoner per diem fees. Such fees are currently paid from local, county or state governments to jailers.

The proposed bill would increase those fees from present levels, and require them to be paid by the state to local operators of the jails (usually county treasuries) instead of to the jailers themselves

Two bills relating to numbers of district judges were also introduced in the House Monday. That brings to four the number of such bills which have been introduced in the House thus far in the special session.

House Bill 29 was introduced today by Rep. Bobby Richardson (D-Glasgow). It calls for a total of 112 district judges. A bill introduced by Rep. Charles Wible (D-Owensboro) provides for 123 district

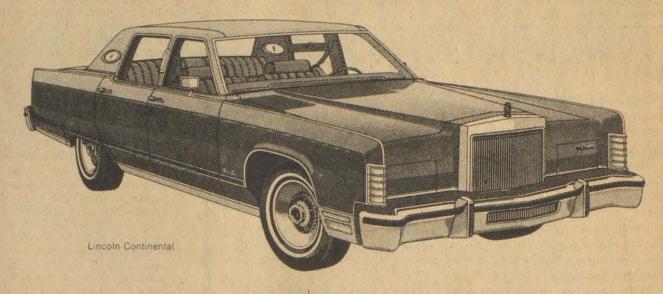

House Bill 1, introduced Dec. 1 by Rep. Thomas Givhan (D-Shepherdsville) provides for 169 district judges, while House Bill 7 provides for 174 judges. The letter was introduced Dec. 1 by Rep. Harold Demarcus (R-Stanford).

The General Assembly is charged with settling on the number of district judges and their auxiliary trial commissioners so the fourth tier of the four-tier unified court system can be fully implemented in pensation insurance, capital punishment and legislation to ease repayment to Jefferson County citizens forced by federal guidelines to link with that county's sewer system.

Floyd Catholic Parish Lists Month's Schedule

The Floyd County Catholic Parish has a full December schedule. Members of the Parish will participate in the East Kentucky Charismatic Conference on Healing in Jackson on Dec. 11, in the Mountain Deanery Pastoral Council at Jackson on Dec. 12, in a joint Christmas social with the Presbyterian and Episcopal churches at St. James Episcopal Church on Dec. 15, in a Christmas party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hodson in the Clark School subdivision on Dec. 18. The public is welcome to these events.

The McDowell High School drama group will present a Christmas rock concert, "Joy," at Saint Juliana Church in Martin, Dec. 19 at 7 p.m. There will be no admission charge. An afternoon performance will be given at Drift Presbyterian Church.

Members of Saint Juliana Church from the McDowell area will gather, the evening of Dec. 12, at the home of Drs. Gene and Margaret Moore at Minnie for singing and fellowship. The high school class will also meet there at 6:30,

The Parish recently established two out-reach ministries: a prison reform study group meeting after the 10:30 a.m. Sunday worship in Prestonsburg and a local chapter of Amnesty International. The prison reform group will visit the Federal Correctional Institution in Ashland in January. Amnesty International is a world-wide organization based in London seeking the fair trial and release of prisoners of conscience, mostly in police states. Local chapter members write two letters a month on behalf of prominent prisoners selected by Amnesty International. More information is available from Sue Von Handorf, of St. Juliana Church at 285-

HAVE DINNER GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Fairchild entertained to dinner, Sunday, having as their guests Mrs. Edith F. James and Miss Christine Spradlin, of Prestonsburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Billy Paul Fairchild, of Lexington.

I ran across a poem the other day. The author is unknown, but the words of this poem should be read by everyone.

1 Know Something Good About You!

Wouldn't this old world be better, If the folks we meet would say:

I know something good about you,'

And then treat us just that way!

Wouldn't it be fine and dandy If each hand-clasp warm and true,

Carried with it this assurance, "I know know assurance, something good about you!"

Wouldn't things here be more pleasant

If the good that's in us all were the only thing about us that folks bothered to recall!

Wouldn't life be lots more happy If we'd praise the good we see,

For there's such a lot of goodness In the worst of you and me!

Wouldn't it be nice to practice this fine way of thinking, too-"You know something good about me, I know something good about you." -Author Unknown . . . Can you think of a thought to remember more important to each of us? Floyd Funeral Home

Asks State Bd. Set Voc. Ed. Priorities

Frankfort, Ky.—A letter from Gov. Julian Carroll, urging the State Board of Education to establish priorities for the construction of vocational schools, prompted a report the board received Dec. 3 during a special meeting.

The information, provided by the Bureau of Vocational Education, included: a status report on construction of vocational facilities; factors to consider in determining construction priorities; a listing of those projects currently active, those approved by the state board that not funded and those not approved by the board, and other information about the vocational capital construction needs.

The board agreed to review the information and discuss in their next quarterly meeting, December 14 and 15, the need and the method of establishing priorities for the construction projects.

In another action, the board met in a closed session for nearly two hours to discuss a lawsuit filed against the state board by the Courier-Journal and Louisville-Times Co. The suit charged that the board met in violation of the open meeting law on Oct. 26 of this year.

When they returned to open session, a motion was made and unanimously passed to ratify an agreed judgment and to give their counsel the authority to sign the agreed judgment on behalf of the State Board of Education.

The agreed judgment would require the state board to give the Courier-Journal and Louisville Times Co. notice of all special meetings of the State Board of Education and makes no findings of fact or conclusions of law regarding the question whether that particular gathering complied with the open meetings law

An agreed judgment is one that is agreed to by both parties in the litigation and is submitted to the court. If the court accepts it, it becomes the final judgment in the law suit.

An item on the agenda for the December 14 and 15 meeting includes a report on proficiency examinations by Don C. Bale, assistant superintendent of instruction. Proposals that high school students be required to demonstrate their proficiency before they graduate have been hotly contested.

The board also agreed to discuss financial regulation proposals recommended by attorney Robert J. Turley, of Lexington, at their first quarterly meeting in 1977.

DISTRICT REBEKAHS MEET

Miriam Rebekah Lodge, No. 31 hosted District 4, Saturday evening. Dinner was served at 6 o'clock. The lodge was decorated throughout, in keeping with the yule season. Gifts were arranged around a lighted Christmas tree, and were later exchanged by members and guests. Most lodges in this district were represented.

Four Knott, Pike Students Picked for Governor's Conference

Frankfort, Ky.-Two high school students from Knott county and two from Pike have been tapped to attend the second annual Governor's conference of the Kentucky Youth Traffic Safety

And some 825 high school students, after participating in eight statesponsored meetings, are now readying programs to get the highway safety message out to their home communities.

The last of the eight regional meetings was held in Louisville last week. Earlier, area high schools sent 98 delegates to the Kentucky Youth Traffic Safety Conference held at Jenny Wiley State Park. Students from Floyd, Lee, Owsley, Perry, Letcher, Wolfe, Breathitt, Magoffin, Knott, Johnson, Pike and Martin counties participated.

State Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts said he is very impressed with the progress the youthful traffic 'experts' have made in one year. "Youth listens to its own," he said. "We're finding out that one of the best methods of getting the safety message out is to equip student leaders with the facts. They will lead the

The regional Kentucky Youth Traffic Safety Conferences were sponsored jointly by the Office of Highway Safety Programs (OHSP), an agency in the Kentucky Department of Transportation, and by the Kentucky Department of Education. Fall meetings were held at Ft. Mitchell, Jenny Wiley State Park, Greenbo Lake, Corbin, Rough River, Kentucky Dam Village, Richmond and Louisville.

Students who attended the conferences will now start programs for presentation to their fellow students and to their local communities. This year they will place major emphasis on three vital areas in which public participation would cut traffic tolls: Encourage the voluntary wearing of seatbelts; spotlight the role of drivers' behavioral attitudes on highway safety, and look into the feasibility of classified driver licensing.

The three local student leaders chosen at the conference to represent their districts as members of the Kentucky Youth Traffic Safety Committee (KYTSC) at Frankfort in April are Jackie Perkins and Deidra Hylton, both of Knott Central High School; Kyle Jackson, of Pikeville High School, and Jennifer Newsom, Virgie High School.

"Drink, Drank, Drunk"

Carol Burnett, whose own parents died of alcoholism, will host an hour of useful information and friendly advice for the 35 million Americans who live and work with alcoholics in an encore performance of "Drink, Drank, Drunk," airing Monday, December 20, at 8 p.m. on KET.

Segments in the program include the personal experiences of families living with an alcoholic, an industrial program designed to help the alcoholic employee and a viewer quiz on alcoholism

Through light entertainment and frank conversation, "Drink, Drank, Drunk" offers help and hope to viewers.

Frankfort, Ky.-Kentuckians and visitors needing quick access to the state's recreation areas, industrial centers, coal producing communities and regional business offices may find air transport increasingly available.

A series of five meetings held in different areas of the state in the past two weeks, addressed the state's growing need for airport facilities. A total of some 175 private citizens, state and local government officials, airport board members, flying clubs and representatives from organizations interested in local growth have put their heads together about the state's aviation needs. According to State Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts, the meetings were the second round of a series of three sets of regional meetings being conducted in connection with the updating of the Kentucky Airport System Plan (KASP). KASP is the Kentucky Department of Transportation's comprehensive plan for airport growth, first outlined in 1971. The new plan is KASP 77.

Airport supporters came away from the meetings with realistic ideas about the need for cooperation, and a clear picture of the challenges which the separate communities will face in the next quarter century if air transportation is to be a viable mode.

Alternatives for meeting their communities' needs were discussed at each of the meetings. Of some dozen or more concepts presented by the Department of Transportation, some "hybridization" occurred until, according to the language of one of the aviation planners, the ideas "percolated down to five or six with real

"Following the guidelines set by the previous System Plan, some individual airport boards have developed their own master plans and have looked at sites,"

This information will be for developing KASP-77 and used by state aviation planners in making detailed analyses of five or six of the alternative concepts for presentation at later meetings.

A Cincinnati-based firm, Landrum and Brown, has been retained as consultant. Analysis will take in such considerations as size of the communities the air facilities will serve, their projected future size and "population visitation figures." The latter give a metod of computing transportation needs in recreational areas where the number of visitors far exceed the number of year-round residents

College Here Offers Resuscitation Course

A cardiopulmonary resuscitation course was recently taught at Prestonsburg Community College through the Community Service Program and with the cooperation of Highlands Regional Medical Center, Pikeville Methodist Hospital and Louisa Community Hospital.

Instructor for the course was Bill Baker, who is the state instructor for the Red Cross CPR. Seven persons were certified to give treatment in CPR. Two others, Mrs. Glen Kinder, of Prestonsburg Community College, and William Thomas Fannin, of the Cardiopulmonary Disfunction Clinic, Paintsville, qualified as instructors.

The standard CPR course will be offered again during the spring semester, 1977. Persons interested in taking this course may apply by contacting the Community Service Office at Prestonsburg Community College.

Martin County Wins Top Award At Keep America Beautiful Fete

New York City-At the National Awards banquet concluding the Keep America Beautiful, Inc. (KAB) 23rd annual meeting at the Biltmore Hotel, Dec. 1, Martin county, Ky., received the first-place County Award in KAB's 1976 National Awards Program.

County Judge Ray Fields accepted the award, an engraved silver bowl, from James C. Bowling, KAB chairman, and senior vice president and assistant to the chairman of Philip Morris, Inc. Bowling commended the Martin County Fair Board, Inc., the Martin county fiscal court, Soil Conservation Service, Extension Service and the county's citizens for their impressive achievements in environmental improvement and community recreation facilities.

With financial assistance and technical guidance from state and federal government, Martin county involves more than 2,400 people in an extensive program of litter prevention and education which includes an improved solid waste collection system green boxes placed throughout the county, a slide presentation on the advantages and proper use of the green boxes and cooperation with owners in planning land reclamation at strip mines. The county conducts demonstrations on how to reseed hillsides.

Future plans include ongoing education through the schools, improvement and beautification of existing fair grounds, working with the Economic Development Administration to provide sewage treatment facilities and working with coal companies to insure proper land reclamation.

Sixty-four winners were selected from among hundreds of entries by KAB's judges.

Founded in 1953, KAB is a national nonprofit, public service organization working with citizen groups, government agencies, academic institutions and private industry to encourage individual involvement in environmental improvement. KAB sponsors the Clean Community System, a locallyimplemented program adapting behavioral science to management.

Harnessing energy used to be simple.

Years ago, most energy needs were met by what you had in your right arm. Or by something you kept in a stall, in your barn.

Today, meeting energy needs is a gigantic undertaking. And a complex problem. Because the need is still

Even conservative estimates tell us the demand for electricity alone will double in the next 15 years.

Just keeping up with this increase is going to be tough. It's going to take new facilities. But major facilities take from five to ten years to build.

And a lot of money.

Building a power plant today, for instance, costs five times what it did 15 years ago. And it was costly even then. Besides that, everyone knows how the price of fuel used to generate electricity has skyrocketed since 1973

But while we continue to make every effort to hold down our costs in meeting your future energy needs, there are some things you can do to help conserve that energy and keep your costs in line at the same

By using your electricity wisely. Insulating your home properly. Checking into more energy efficient appliances and systems, like the heat pump.

And by understanding that the generation of electricity is a costlier and more complicated process than it used to be.

When you get right down to it, the best way we know to harness the energy we all need for the future is by working together today.

State Fire Marshal Offers Safety Tips

Aromatic fir trees, gaily decorated packages and twinkling electrical displays have long heralded the approaching Christmas season. Unfortunately, this traditional time of peace and goodwill is too often marred by needless injuries and even death.

State Fire Marshal Warren Southworth explained that the customary Christmas decorations, compounded with a greater use of fuel for cold weather, makes fire especially likely during December. 'People should not sidestep a few simple safety precautions in their eagerness to celebrate Christmas. Those who do could make the local news," he commented.

Southworth said improperly prepared Christmas trees were often a leading cause of fires. He recommends artificial trees since they are all required to be fire

Aluminum trees were well-received when first introduced several years ago. However, they are now very rarely sold since electrical short circuiting often occurred when lights touched the tree's metallic branches. Southworth said owners of aluminum trees should illuminate them with revolving colored

The fire marshal said he is well aware that for every owner of an artificial tree, there are several others who prefer choosing "the" tree from a lot or forest. For those who insist on a live tree, he advises that the tree be in the home for a short stay. Warm air may comfort a family but it hastens the deterioriation of

Too, the tree should be placed away from exits and heat sources such as furnace vents or fireplaces.

If a tree is purchased from a commercial lot, chances are it has been cut for several weeks. Such trees should have an inch cut from the base since the sap may have sealed off all water entrances. The cut should be angled for better suction before the tree is immersed in water.

Live trees may be sprayed with fire retardants but the process is often neglected because of the expenses. Southworth explained that several spray cans may be required to adequately protect the tree. "It is ironic that so many families spend several hundred dollars at Christmas but refuse to go that extra mile to protect gifts surrounding the tree," he said.

Southworth noted that while a dry tree is itself dangerous, it becomes a time bomb when decorated with faulty electrical lights. He advises a precautionary check for cracked sockets and frayed wires before the lights are placed on the tree. Buyers of new light sets should look for the "UL" seal of approval, which certifies that it has met safety standards of the Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc., an independent testing agency.

Outdoor decorating contests have become almost as traditional as the annual Christmas parade. Those who wish to erect elaborate lighting displays are advised to employ a professional electrician. Moreover, indoor lights should not be substituted for recommended outdoor lighting.

Audubon Paintings In Exhibit

By SALLY WILSON

Frankfort, Ky.-John James Audubon was not only a great artist, but a man who consciously cultivated his image as a Kentucky backwoodsman. It was in Kentucky that Audubon learned the skills which led to his fame as a wildlife artist, and it was here that he became familiar with many of the birds which would appear in his "Birds of America."

Audubon will be honored in the Kentucky Historical Society's (KHS) Inaugural Exhibit at the Old Capitol, Frankfort, opening Dec. 5 and continuing through January, 1977.

"We are very excited that Mrs. Julian Carroll will open the exhibit," said Gen. William Buster, KHS director. "And we would also like to extend a cordial welcome to the public for both the opening at 3 p.m., Dec. 5, and the reception which will follow.'

This exhibit will give many Kentuckians their first chance to see Audubon's great work at first hand, said Elizabeth Perkins, KHS curator of exhibits. "Audubon painted his birds lifesize and the larger birds are quite impressive. All of them are impressive for their color and realism.

To show visitors just how realistic Audubon's birds are, Mrs. Perkins borrowed stuffed birds to display on pedestals near the painting of the same species

Kentucky Afield

With Thanksgiving over, most of us turn our thoughts toward Christmas and the problem of the right gift. If you are buying a present for a hunter or fisherman, this problem can be eased considerably, for there are literally hundreds of items in all price ranges that the sportsman will welcome.

The best bet for the person who knows little about hunting and fishing equipment is to seek the advice of a knowledgeable salesperson in a sporting goods store about brand names, styles and sizes. A safe practice is to stick to the medium-priced article, which is usually of high quality and lacks only the frills or the flash of a more expensive counterpart. The low-price items may not meet the needs of the sportsman, or they may be poorly constructed of low-quality

Anyone contemplating a major gift, such as a boat and motor, should forego the element of surprise and let the recipient choose his own, since he will probably have some definite ideas about what he needs and wants.

For the fisherman, choice gifts are tackle boxes, lures, lines, tools, fish stringers, hooks, sinkers, filleting knives, bait knockers, flashlights, small first aid kits, reel oil and gear lubricants. Or the fisherman may welcome some of the new electronic gadgets, such as electric trolling motor depth finders, electronic thermometers, or oxygen meters.

For the hunter, there are rifles, shotguns, bows and arrows or other archery equipment, gun cases, telescopes, binoculars, gun racks, shells, decoys, hunting coats, pants, boots, caps, duck and goose calls, reloading tools, pocket and sheath knives, shooting glasses, cleaning kits, or even sharpening stones.

For either hunter or fisherman, there are tents, sleeping bags, air matresses, lanterns, thermos jugs, insulated inner and outer wear, rain gear, life-saving devices, ice chests, camp stoves and heaters, or even camp cooking utensils.

Or if the sportsman on your list also like to read, you might consider giving him a subscription to a hunting and fishing magazine, or making a gift of one of the many books on hunting, fishing, camping, or woodslore which are available at most bookstores. Another possibility is "Kentucky Happy Hunting Ground," the official publication of the Department of Fish and Wildlife. A oneyear subscription (six issues) cost one dollar and is available from the Division of Public Relations, Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky., 40601.

Finally, there is one gift which any sportsman will find absolutely necessary. This gift will be good for an will need it each time he goes into the field or to the lake. This gift is a 1977 hunting or fishing license ($5 each) or a combination license ($9), good for both fishing and hunting. The 1976 licenses expire on Dec. 31, so one for next year can be used almost immediately.

Licenses are available at the offices of all county clerks, and many sporting goods also sell them. You don't need to worry about a license being the wrong size or color, and it's a gift no sportsman will return.

So get your shopping done early and avoid the rush.

Frankfort, Ky.-Kentucky's new forestry director, Elmore C. Grim, says he is evaluating all programs of the state Division of Forestry with the idea of 'gradually upgrading, strengthening, expanding and updating the division.'

Grim, New Director

Of Forestry Division

Grim and the first time in 37 years that Harry Nadler, Grim's retired predecessor, had not been in the Division

Grim's experience with the division dates back to 1958 when he served as a forester in the Pineville, Ky., area. He joined the central office forestry staff in Frankfort in 1963.

"The Bureau for Natural Resources is fortunate to have someone with the experience of Elmore Grim to take over the division," said John Witt, commissioner of the bureau for natural resources. which houses the forestry division. "I'm sure he will not only continue the division's fine work, but will enhance it and add to it," Witt said.

Grim, who last served with the Federal Environmental Protection Agency, was appointed to his new post by Robert D. Bell, secretary of the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

A graduate of Penn State University's school of forestry, Grim said his top priority would be to "help the forest land owners of the Commonwealth.

Voices of Appalachia Visit Floyd Schools

Pippa Passes, Ky.-"Voices of Appalachia," an a capella choir from Alice Lloyd College, will appear in concert in two Floyd county schools today. They will appear at Wheelwright High School at 9 a.m., and at McDowell High School

The choir is under the direction of Paul Tse, who comes to Pippa Passes from New York City where he received a Master's degree in music from the Manhattan School of Music and a Master's degree from the Teacher's College of Columbia University.

The 37-member choir specializes in the hymns and ballads of the Southern Appalachian highlands, specially arranged for their concerts. ALC's choir will go on two tours this winter, one to Florida another through the Northeast.

Twenty years later prehistoric survey program, moderated Medford was overwhelmed by incredible swarms of caterpillars and adult moths. In general, Polsgrove told the group The moth caterpillars were so thick they that before Kentucky's nominations are caused millions of dollars in damages, > of houses, even getting into food supplies. In 1890 the Massachusetts government began employing fairly successful control measures and continued until 1901, when they decided enough money had been spent controlling bugs. Out of this regulation, however, came two important precedents: the first state law in the U.S. requiring the extermination of an insect and the establishment of the first legal authority to enter and inspect private property for that purpose. By 1905 the gypsy moth, seemingly unscathed by these control measures, had spread to several states and in 1906 the federal government took up the fight and has been battling the insect since that ment to begin a controversial mass insecticide spraying program over much of the Northeast. Taxpayer lawsuits finally dissuaded the shotgun approach; besides, it was never destined to be

was the idea.

There has never been a species of insect eliminated through the use of pesticides, yet our government agencies still cling to the outmoded notion that our troubles can be sprayed away. The gypsy moth is now in Kentucky and will probably invade most of the South.

permanently effective, even though that

The secret to insect control is to attack the insect's most vulnerable stage in the most natural way possible, with the objective being control, not extermination. At least 12 natural gypsy moth enemies (one virus, nine parasites, and two predators) have been imported from Europe and Asia and have been successful control agents in some areas, although their effectiveness in the North has been limited because of their inability to withstand the climate.

Insecticides, primarily Sevin, can be locally effective on a few trees, but the real answer probably lies in disparlure, a recently developed synthetic hormonal sex attractant very much like the powerful natural female secretion. For a period of three months, one application of disparlure attracts males from several miles distant to insect traps where they can be killed.

Only males are attracted because the female gypsy moth, also stimulated by the hormone, is a very weak flyer. The attractant is only effective on gypsy moths and does not interfere with other species, but extensive field testing must still be done.

Sen. Ford Reports on Overseas Mission

(Senator Ford has been appointed to a special Senate Mid-East and Europe. The group left Washington on November 5, and returned November 23. The 12member delegation visited Austria, Israel, Egypt, Jordan, Iran and England. This is the third of a series of reports to Kentuckians by Senator Ford on the events of the trip. The report was filed by Senator Ford from the city of the dateline, covering the period of November 11-14, and distributed upon its receipt by his Washington office.)

CAIRO-We left Israel on the morning of Thursday, November 11, headed for Egypt with a short stopover scheduled in Amman, Jordan to meet with King Hussein.

Upon our arrival in Amman, we were given a briefing by the Ambassador and then left for a short tour of the city. I was shocked by the poverty which exists here. I understand the slums in Cairo are even worse.

We toured a museum and then went to the palace of King Hussein's grandfather, which we understand is only used on special occasions. We lunched with King and his wife; and later in the King's conference room, held a broad-ranging question-and-answer session that lasted for two hours.

In our conversation with the King, he told us that nuclear power was of minor consideration to him. His main concern is to keep the country's army and air force in good shape in order to be in a position to defend the country in case of war.

Our business in Jordan completed, we flew on to Cairo. Incidentally, we were told that our flight was the first since 1948 to proceed directly from Israel to Jordan.

Saturday morning we went to a government building for a meeting with Deputy Prime Minister Ahmad Sultan. The Prime Minister was ill and his deputy was filling in for him. We had a productive meeting, and again they allowed each of the Senators to ask

He was very frank when we inquired if Egypt would ratify the Nuclear Proliferation Treaty. He said Eyppt would ratify it the day after Israel did. it seems that most of the Arab nations are very much interested in ratifying the NPT and this could possibly be a nuclearfree zone. However, I am not too sure that will ever come about because of Israel's reluctance to ratify the treaty and the Arab countries "wait until Israel signs" attitude.

The Egyptians advised us there would be no recycling or enrichment in their nuclear power plants. This indicated to me that they are not in a position, nor do they desire to develop materials which could be used as nuclear weapons. They told us we were free to visit anywhere we wanted in their country.

Egypt has entered into a letter of intent with Westinghouse for their first power plant. The plant will be a $900 million, 640 megawatt operation. They will need an additional grid distribution system in order to facilitate the new generation of power. Estimates are that the new distribution system would cost approximately $600 million. Eventually, they want to go to 2,400 additional 'megawatts, and it will cost an additional $600,000 for distribution of each added 650 megawatts.

The plant will be located in an area that is totally isolated-unlike some of the proposed sites in the United States-and they expect to complete construction in five years.

At the meeting, we encountered no surprising developments or answers. The discussion was very frank and open, and I found them more than willing to cooperate.

We left there to go to a meeting with President Sadat. En route we passed the University of Cairo which has 85,000 students on one campus and 50,000 on

Our caravan traveled at a snail's pace so that we would arrive at Sadat's palace no earlier than the appointed hour and we rolled to a stop at 12:25 p.m., the exact time at which we were supposed to

The wives joined us at Sadat's home. Sadat and his Vice President greeted all of us, and Sadat went around the room shaking hands with everyone as if he were campaigning for office.

According to President Sadat, Egypt is willing to prepare for peace talks at Geneva. He said that Egypt would insist on several conditions. First, the Israelis must move back to the land they occupied prior to the 1967 war. Second, there must be a Palestinian state set up on the west bank and the Gaza Strip, and that this must be part of an agreement rather than a treaty. The third condition was that Israel agree to end-in his words-"the belligerency" and that all countries wait for a designated period before opening up the borders and starting diplomatic relations with Israel. Sadat said that because this has been such a bitter struggle, it would take some time for the people to become adjusted to

As we crossed the Nile to Sadat's home, which is on a small island where the Nile separates, we observed many soldiers. We saw numerous trucks stored along the way-military trucks with tires off, hoods up in order to find spare parts for other military vehicles

I have never seen anything like what I saw in Cairo as far as poverty is concerned. It is a city of some 81/2 million people, and there is poverty everywhere you turn. We passed several cemteries and thousands of people were encamped there to live. More than 100,000 people reside on the grounds of a large cemetery in the heart of the city.

All through Egypt, we saw little plots of ground where people were attemptingand most often succeeding-in raising three different crops. Their irrigation system is gravitational, and some of the country's agricultural experts indicated too much water was being put on the land. The ground is as rich as it can be, but it is short certain items, one being nitrogen. We were told that the corn crop could be increased by 50 percent, if more fertilizer, primarily nitrogen, was

There is no mechanization in agriculture here. All of the work is done by water buffalo with plows that have nothing but a stick at the bottom. The women take the dirt, put it in a basket, and carry it on their head from one place to another in the fields. It was a most unusual sight.

Sadat agreed that improved agriculture was one of his main goals over the next three years. He said several thousand acres have been prepared, which he believes can be tilled mechanically. He is willing to utilize American technology here and would give them a share of any profits in order to benefit from our technology. I think that might be one of the best things that can happen to them. They do produce, but they apparently are not much of an export country. With all of the water they have here, it is a shame they cannot put it all together so that they could be in a position to feed themselves.

Our next meeting was Sunday afternoon with the Foreign Minister, followed by a session with the Prime Minister and the Minister of Defense.

The Defense Minister told us Egypt had no nuclear weapons, wanted no nuclear weapons, but if Israel continued its production, as Egypt believes, of nuclear weapons, his country would have to follow suit

The Prime Minister said, in Egypt's opinion, America was sustaining the fear of war in this area since the Soviet Union had been expelled under Sadat and that Russia no longer had use of their port here. He said that because we continued to support Israel with arms and dollars, this in itself continues the cloud of war and no peace over the Mideast.

He expressed the opinion that Israel is afraid of peace while Egypt is not, and that Egypt was not asking Israel to withdraw before Geneva. So I asked him if the settlement of the Palestinian question was really the root of the problem, and he said yes, that that would probably be the bottom line in the negotiations. He added that another war would be horrible; that an atomic energy explosion would be horrible, but the real explosion which Egypt fears is an explosion of hunger. Egypt, with its limited resources, anticipates its population will nearly double to 75 million by the year 2000, and every individual who can be encouraged to leave Egypt for another country helps ease the present and future

But as I see it, the immediate hope for Egypt improving its agricultural situation is not good. We were told their goal in agriculture now is a glass of milk for every child every day. They have yet to reach their goal, so you can imagine the problems that are being faced by these people.

Extension News

MULCH STRAWBERRIES NOW Strawberry plants are now at a maturity stage where mulching will be 'very beneficial," according to John Sparks, county Extension agent.

He urged the mulching in view of the cold weather that has been experienced thus far in the fall and winter seasons in Kentucky

A mulch of clean straw applied evenly over the entire patch at the rate of 3,000 pounds to the acre, or 30-50 pounds per 100 feet, was recommended. He noted that mulching will benefit any strawberry planting.

'The mulch will help reduce winter injury and plant heaving. It will suppress weed growth next spring and will keep the fruit and pickers clean when the harvest season rolls around."

The mulch, he added, will also delay bloom of the plants in the spring to help assure the blooms not setting on too

Sparks suggested that an application of Enide or Dacthal herbicide just before mulching would also help control weed growth next spring. He emphasized that such application be made according to label directions for best results.

Recycle Those Throwaway Items

By HELEN PRICE STACY

This Christmas, make a gift from something saved, stored or gleaned from nature. Use up some of those bread wrappers, pine cones, pebbles and scraps and see if they can be recycled into Christmas gifts or useful items.

"There should be some way to re-use those hangers," we told a registered nurse a few weeks ago. We were referring to the shiny, aluminum bands around I-V (intravenous feeding) bottles.

"Oh, they have lots of uses," shesaid. "'Our doctors make splints for broken fingers from them.

'We have hundreds of them-more than enough. Some of us take the bottle to a florist and have a hole cut in the side. They make beautiful hanging planters. I decorate my house with them," she said.

For those not having access to hospital discards, there are other gleanings to rework into still another use, another life. If there are too many pet rocks still around, glue some together and paint to make another shape, such as animals or insects. Pebbles can become tiny eyes, feet, hands or ears and a tail. Some need only to be painted to make Lady Bugs for paperweights or just to place on a table

If you, like others of us, have saved bags of plastic bread wrappers, now is the time to single crochet them into gifts such as placemats, wall hangings, even rugs and hats. They are durable and "I have saved last year's brown market bags with a Christmas motif," said a West Liberty woman, "and this year's bags with Bicentennial flags and minute men." She explained that "I am gluing the bags around coffee cans to make cannister sets, desk sets and waste baskets for gifts and for my own kitchen." She uses white glue that dries clear and finally puts a coat of thick glue over the outside to add a satiny finish.

A Johnson county woman slices pine cones from the woods to make flowers and wall plaques; a Lawrence county woman makes apple dolls for gifts for shutins; a Greenup Countian dries flowers and weeds, seed pods and grass to be arranged into gift bouquets, interspersed with silvery dusty miller and twigs with berries for a holiday effect.

Compost Toilet OK Delayed

Frankfort, Ky.-The state Plumbing Code Committee has delayed any action on a request for approval of compost toilets until its next meeting.

The toilets, manufactured by Clivus Multrum in Sweden, collect both toilet and organic kitchen wastes and convert them into a humus usable as soil fer-

Environmentalists in favor of the compost toilet fear that the committee, made up of representatives of the building and plumbing industries, might reject the toilet because it doesn't use water or require pipes.

Committee members, along with a representative of the Kentucky Assn. of Plumbing Contractors, requested more information on the compost toilet and asked Larry Jones, Kentucky representative for Clivus Multrum, to make an additional presentation at the committee's next meeting.

Jones told the committee that the toilet operates on the principles of "gravity and natural draft, producing unaided microbial decomposition. He explained that the bottom section of the toilet, which would probably be in a basement or under a house in a singlefamily dwelling, is set on a 30-degree incline that combines household wastes. Heat is generated within the storage area, evaporating liquids and reducing atmospheric pressure inside. Pressure reduction allows air from intake valves to circulate in the storage area.

Jones said there is no odor from the toilet because of the heat generation, which causes a natural downward draft from the toilet or disposal chute in a

The toilet, which costs between $975 and $1,325, was invented in Sweden in 1939. At present 2,000 are in use in that

They were introduced in the United States four years ago and so far Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Oregon and New Mexico have approved their use.

Jones reported that 40 to 50 per cent of water used in the average household goes for flushing the toilet and that the average person contaminates 13,000 gallons of water per year by flushing.

A spokesman for the Strategists for Environmental Control in Louisville said that his group has asked for approval to build a demonstration house in Jefferson county using the compost toilet, along with solar heating and cooling. If approved, the house would be built 18 months to two years from now.

Probably of all the songbirds that range the broad expanses of North America, the one most recognizable to the most people is Robin Redbreast. It is a bird symbolic of spring, and while at one time normally a bird of sparse woodlands, forest edges and open scrub lands, it-unlike so many other forms of wildlife-has found the changes wrought by encroaching civilization much to its liking. It now nests more commonly near dwellings in city suburbs and on cultivated lands than in wilderness areas. As a matter of fact, the writer cannot remember seeing a robin's nest out in the wild. Without exception the nests seen were in trees and shrubs around homes, in nearby apple orchards and in sheltered recesses in outbuildings.

Contrary to what some may believe, all robins do not fly South for the winter. We have seen robins in all months of the year, especially in areas where there was an abundance of wild fruits and berries such as honeysuckle, holly, mistletoe and squaw vine. In places like this, robins will stay all winter while their less courageous comrades are enjoying life in sunny Florida and elsewhere in the

It is true, though, that some robins do migrate, and in long ago spring seasons, we used to watch with considerable wonderment their arrival. They would come home in great swarms to alight and hunt for worms in meadowlands, pasturefields, and cleared fields readied for spring plowing. It was fascinating to watch them, after feeding all day, take off for roosting places, usually in piney woods along the bluffs of the North Fork

Robins are full of song and to hear them singing in springtime is pure delight. To watch them go about their business of hunting worms, building nests and rearing their young is a most interesting pasttime.

Greenhouses Becoming Widespread

Greenhouses, once found only on the estates of millionaires, are popping up in backyards all over the country, even peeking out of windows in apartment buildings. According to the November Reader's Digest, more than half a million units will probably be sold this year.

Organic gardeners, fresh-food devotees and houseplant enthusiasts are largely responsible for the boom, and they're buying anything from cold frames to harden transplants for outdoor gardens to comfy walk-in models, with heat and running water. Greenhouse prices range from $189 for a plexiglass window unit to roughly $1500 for a backyard walk-in model.

The prices don't exactly stop there, however. Some prefabricated models can be assembled by people who know their nuts and bolts, but others really require the skills of a contractor. For a functioning walk-in unit, you'll also need benches, a sink, an exhaust fan and some form of shading for very sunny days. In cooler climates you'll probably also need some heating-either an electric heater or a mini-furnace. Heating bills, the article says, run from $150 to $250 annually for an 8-by-12-foot model.

"Realistically, a top-quality 8'-by-12" glass greenhouse, installed and equipped, can cost as much as a compact car. For the price of a mid-sized car, you get a 14'-by-14'; and for a Cadillac's tab, a 14by-28-footer with an architecturally pleasing curvilinear roof," the authors

But the benefits are terrific! Yearround gardening is an exciting hobby-a great stress reliever, according to a cardiologist who is also a practicing gardener. Greenhouse-grown winter produce has no match in the grocery store, and some garden hobbyists have turned a profit by growing vegetables for local markets.

Wander Mall, founder of the Hobby Greenhouse Association of America, says: "Indoor gardening is the closest thing to playing God. Outdoors, you're at mercy of the elements. In a greenhouse, you grow in a controlled environment-with you at the controls."

Boy Scout Jamboree Applications Available

According to Arthur Leach, of Prestonsburg, Boy Scouting Chairman of the Lonesome Pine Council, applications for the 1977 National Scout Jamboree are available at the council office in Pikeville for those Scouts who wish to attend.

The jamboree, to be held August 3-9, 1977, at Moraine State Park near Butler, Pa., 70 miles north of Pittsburgh, will be attended by slightly more than 31,000 boys from across the country.

Leach said, "We have set our qualifications rather high so that boys with outstanding records and leadership potential will attend." Afterward those who attended will share their experience with the many troops in the Lonesome Pine Council.

Thousands of Scouts will be involved in a week of working, learning and living with Scouts from all 50 states and over 300 brother Scouts from most of the 109 member nations of the world Scouting movement.

Leach said, "This is going to be the 'summit conference' of Scouting, one where all of the Scoutcraft skills and techniques will be blended with other program events to be shared with the various troops we work with.

Ky. School Board Hears Budget Ideas of Education Friday heard three recommendations for changes in its regulations, designed to make school budgets more complete and easier to

The board had requested a study of the state regulations in light of the Jefferson County schools' financial problems.

The recommendations were made by Lexington attorney Robert J. Turley, whose firm was hired to look into the regulations.

Jefferson county school officials said they were facing a deficit budget for the 1976-'77 fiscal year. Later that month, the state board met with school officials and directed them to come up with a balanced budget. They finally did, on Frankfort, Ky.-The Kentucky Board any, made by the grand jury and state Auditor George Atkins, who also is reviewing the system's practices.

The board directed state Supt. of Public Instruction James B. Graham and the board's Bureau of Finance to analyze the material and make recommendations by early next year.

Turley's recommendations were: -A breakdown, in at least general terms, should be required for each fund in the budget. It would provide supporting information for a group of budget items that are not accounted for in current practices. Turley said that out of a dozen or so items, such as a building fund, the Jefferson county budget included breakdowns for only two. He said this is common practice throughout the state, but that he thought the budgets would be easier to understand if a breakdown were required for all such funds.

All prospective income and expenses should be required to be a part of all the preliminary budgets the system must submit to the state. Turley said Jefferson county had omitted $20 million to $30 million expected from federal sources because it was uncertain exactly how much the school system would receive. He said these funds should be at least estimated, and that if the estimates were wrong, the budgets could be adjusted later.

The board should establish a timetable for submission of budgets that would be consistent with state law.

Turley said that by law a school system's first preliminary budget is to be submitted before July 1, and its more detailed "close-estimate" budget is due by Sept. 15.

He noted, however, that Jefferson county had not even received from the state Department of Revenue the information it needed to prepare either budget until Sept. 16. That information was supposed to have been available before June 1.

Turley said he was not blaming anyone for the delay. But he said the state board's timetable should be based on when the information is available.

Turley said part of Jefferson county's budget problems stemmed from the lateness of the Revenue Department's reports, but not all of them. However, he declined to name any other reason. He said it was up to others to comment on the other reasons.

Consumer Comments

By ROBERT F. STEPHENS (Attorney General)

A recent advertisement of "earn money at home the easy way by folding T-shirts" is a typical scheme used to get the housewife or student to invest their money and time for little or no profit. Such inducements are often fraudulent nemes to take easy money from thinking consumers and should be avoided

A company from the Netherlands has been sending letters to housewives informing them of an opportunity to earn big money at home by folding T-shirts. The company requests the housewife to send a $50 deposit, which will supposedly be returned upon the housewife's completion of the trial package.

The ad also states that there is a collection and distribution depot in the same geographical area and that is why they have been "chosen" for an opportunity to make easy money. A distributor is supposed to live at this depot and will pay in cash for the finished work. The ad states that a person can make up to $250 per 1,000 folded T-shirts.

The problem, according to files in the Consumer Protection Division, is that those who have invested in this business have never received their trial packages of T-shirts and have never been refunded their $50 deposits. No one has been able to contact the distributor or any other representative of the company. Thus, the consumers have lost their money and have no way of recovering it.

Consumers should exercise caution and investigate any business offering a way to make easy money. If you are interested in some type of work-at-home program, you should at least:

(1) Write and ask for all available literature about the company.

(2) Check with the Attorney General's Office or the Better Business Bureau. (3) Know, before spending any money, what your total cost will be in time and

(4) Make sure all earnings claims or guarantees used in the sales pitch are in

If you have a consumer complaint, write to the Office of the Attorney General, Division of Consumer Protection, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. The office has found that it can most effectively deal with written complaints and encourages you to write when you have a complaint. However, if you have an emergency situation, call the Consumer Hotline. The number is 1-800-372-

Soda and Detergents Judged Ineffective

Frankfort, Ky.-A procedure for pesticide decontamination of water wells using washing soda, household detergent and laundry bleach is ineffective and may be dangerous, according to Dr. Frank Stanonis, commissioner of the state environmental protection

Several state veterinary newsletters have outlined the procedure, which the Federal Environmental Protection Agency, (EPA) says fails to determine what specific pesticide may be in the well water or the circumstances for which the procedure is applicable.

'Before attempting to decontaminate any private water wells, it is necessary to evaluate the water in terms of what specific pesticides are present," Stanonis

You have to know the kind and concentration of chemicals contaminating the water, but above all, it should be remembered that no universal chemical method for detoxification exists for all pesticides," he added.

Stanonis said the procedure may be potentially hazardous and that even with proper decontamination methods, an expert in pesticide chemistry should always supervise because of the hazardous nature of detoxifying reagents and chemical degradation products.

He said that the EPA has contacted the U.S. Department of Agriculture's national pesticide coordinator who, along with the EPA, will warn potential users of the procedure.

LAWSON ENLISTS IN ARMY FOR THREE-YEAR TOUR

George E. Lawson, the son of Eddie and Harriet Lawson, of Garrett, enlisted in the Army, at Louisville, Nov. 24, for a period of three years.

Lawson is guaranteed training as a field artillery crewman and an assignment to Europe after he has completed his training. According to his recruiter, Sergeant First Class Gordon Shepherd, of the Pikeville Army recruiting station, Lawson will not actually begin active duty till June 23 next year-after he has graduated from Allen Central High School where he is presently a senior.

Lawson said that he decided to join the Army because it gave him the chance to "travel and see other places." He can wait to begin his active duty under the Army's Delayed Entry Program which gives a person up to twelve months to finish school, wind up another job or put his house in order before he leaves for

McDowell Girls Win Title

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON

The McDowell Daredevilettes won the Floyd County pre-season tournament for girls by defeating the Prestonsburg girls at Allen Central High School Saturday night, 77 to 62.

Geri Grigsby ripped the nets for 51 of the winners' points. The Prestonsburg defense held Grigsby to 18 points in the first half, but she came back for 33 points in the second. The Prestonsburg offense was lead by Bridget Clay with 39 points. Prestonsburg led at halftime, 33 to 29, but in the third and fourth quarters the

Coon Hunters Asked To Assist in Study By Reporting Coons

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 1-Coon hunters in several Eastern Kentucky Counties are being asked to cooperate with a research project conducted by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources by reporting any tagged raccoons they take.

Game Biologist George Wright, the project leader, estimates that 2,500 tagged raccoons have been released in the area, most of them supplied by local sportsmen's clubs.

One of the chief purposes of the project is to study the effectiveness of stocking raccoons, particularly those imported from southern states. The results of the survey should lead to specific recommendations for those clubs which do stock the animals, Wright says.

The marked raccoons are fitted with an ear tag. One side of the tag bears the inscription "Notify Ky. F & W" and theother side of the tag has a number on Any hunter taking a tagged raccoon should save the tag and either turn it in to the county conservation officer or send it to the Division of Game Management, Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

A few raccoons have been released with radio-transmitter collars, allowing biologists to check their movements. Any person taking a collared coon should also report it immediately to the local conservation officer or to the game management division.

Trojans Win Pre-Season

The Wheelwright Trojans won the Floyd county pre-season tournament by defeating the Betsy Layne Bobcats, 54 to 52, Saturday night on a 30-foot shot by Jeff Riley with less than six seconds remaining in the championship game.

Riley came into the game with a 30point scoring average but had been held to 15 points before his title-winning shot. Wilburn Samons cashed in two free throws to tie the game at 52-all, but in the in-bounds play went to Riley at mid-court and he scored.

Betsy Layne was hampered by the loss of Jim Rose in the third quarter. He picked up his fourth foul in the second quarter and had to sit out the entire third quarter. Marty Gore took scoring honors with 24 points as he constantly connected on long range shots. Wheelwright had moved into the championship game by defeating Mc-Dowell Friday night, 80 to 66. Jeff Riley was the big gun in that game with 30 points. Wheelwright also won over the Prestonsburg Blackcats Wednesday night, 80 to 62. The game was close for three quarters, but in the fourth Wheelwright got hot and connected from all ranges, with Riley leading the way with 27 points.

Betsy Layne moved into the championship game by defeating Allen Central Thursday night, 73 to 61. Jim Rose led the Bobcat attack with 22 points, but scoring honors went to Allen Central's Rick Pack who had 27 points.

In the presentation of trophies, the Prestonsburg Blackcats received the sportsmanship trophy. The Betsy Layne cheerleaders received the first-place trophy while the Prestonsburg cheerleaders placed second. Area Road Contracts Let for $10.1 Million Frankfort, Ky.-State Transportation Secretary John C. Roberts has awarded nine contracts totaling $10,102,637 for improvements along various roads in Eastern Kentucky. The contracts stemmed from a bid letting held here November 18. In all, $20.1 million in contracts were awarded

The largest project awarded involves construction on 7.6 miles of KY 80 in Pulaski county under the Appalachian Development Program. The work involves two sections-grade, drain and blacktop surfacing on 3.6 miles beginning two miles east of KY 461 and extending easterly to a point one-half mile east of Buck Creek; and grade and drain construction only between Buck Creek and Price Valley School. The successful bidder was Ralph Rogers and Co., Bloomington, Ind., with a total bid of $6,116,978 on both projects. On another major highway improvement project-6.1 miles of US 460 in Johnson and Magoffin counties-the successful bidder was East Kentucky Paving Corporation, of Grayson, which bid $2,335,844 for blacktop surfacing and incidental construction between KY 114, three miles east of Salyersville, and the edge of Johnson county

In Knox county, construction of a bridge and approaches at the Cumberland River on KY 225 was successful bid by the E. Randle Company, of Frankfort, whose bid was $1,293,149 for sixtenths of one mile of grade, drain and blacktop surfacing.

Other highway contract awards in Eastern Kentucky included:

-Lawrence county-Construction of a bridge and approaches over Blaine Creek at Fallsburg on the Fallsburg-Fullers Road. The contract was awarded to Haydon Bridge Company, of Springfield, on a low bid of $155,898.

-Breachitt county-Repairs to the deck of a bridge on KY 15 over Quicksand Creek near KY 30. Safety Engineering Co., of Paint Lick was the successful bidder ($41,262)

-Knott county-Repairs to deck of bridge on the KY 7-Buckingham Road over Beaver Creek near KY 7. The contract was awarded to Ramco Construction Co., of Frankfort, on a low bid of $13,989.

Party Organization Meet Set Saturday

As Democrats across Kentucky engage in establishing their organization at the county level next Saturday, Floyd county party members showed no inclination oward a party fight.

Precinct committee members were elected last Saturday, and no contests are known to have developed there, County Chairman W. W. Burchett said.

Precinct committeemen will meet at the courthouse at 2 p.m. Saturday to elect the executive committee, which, in turn, will name the county chairman, the vicechairman and a youth chairman.

Columbia Gas Wins Big Rate Adjustment

Frankfort, Ky.-A $5,022,000 rate adjustment increase has been approved for Columbia Gas of Kentucky by the state's Public Service Commission. The increase, granted in a Dec. 2 commission order, was a result of an increase in the wholesale cost of gas from the firm's supplier, Columbia Gas Transmission Corp. The Kentucky's firm's request was an amendment to its Oct. 12 filing and results in a smaller increase than the original request. The new rate schedule sets a $3.15

NEW KODAK EK4 INSTANT CAMERA

Instant pictures at a budget price.

The new KODAK EK4 Instant Camera is small in price but big in features. It features an easy-to-use "zooming-circle" distance finder, and focuses from 31/2 feet to infinity. It has an electronic shutter and a silicon-cell light meter to provide correct exposures automatically under a variety of lighting conditions. Prints are ejected easily with a few turns of a folding crank.

Just insert a pack of KODAK Instant Print Film, press shutter release, and crank out the safety cover. Sight through the projected-frame viewfinder. Focus with the easy-to-use focus slide on the front of the camera by using distance scale, zone symbols, or the zooming circle. When the circle is brought into position closely surrounding an adult subject's head, the camera is properly focused. Then press the shutter release and crank out the picture.

In minutes, the print develops into a beautiful, full-color picture with a textured Satinluxe™ finish. There's no peeling or litter, and no need to time the development process. Uses one J-size battery which is supplied with the camera.

CANCER nswer line

(A regular feature, prepared by the American Cancer Society, to help save your life from cancer.)

A postal worker asks: "What is 'Make Today Count'?'

ANSWER line: "Make Today Count, Inc." is a national organization for advanced cancer patients and their families which was formed in 1974 by Orville E. Kelly, a journalist, a year after he discovered that he had cancer. The group, which has a number of local chapters throughout the country (some of which work with American Cancer Society units in the community) offers emotional bolstering and the chance to share problems among people confronted by cancer. Kelly himself travels widely and speaks to the public frequently about his own emotional reaction to cancer and the importance of living to the fullest, regardless of how long one has to live. He is a spokesman for more honesty when dealing with patients. He believes that many patients don't realize that medicine can often extend their lives even if they cannot be cured. He also has called public attention to the sellers of unproven remedies who prey on frightened cancer patients and their

A housewife writes: "Several years ago my cancer was treated by a physician called a therapeutic radiologist and now I know someone who is being treated by a radiation oncologist. Are they the same?

ANSWER line: Yes. The terms therapeutic radiologist, radiotherapist, radiation oncologist and radiation therapist all have the same meaning: a physician who has received specific training in therapeutic radiology; one who is certified by a recognized medical specialty board, and usually limits his or her practice to radiation therapy. The radiation oncologist has a particular interest in cancer, although the others also treat the disease.

A man in his 40's explains: "I am a bartender and my work puts me right in the middle of a lot of cigarette smoke. Is there anything that I can do to protect

ANSWER line: First, it is important for you to be a non-smoker because if you smoke you will compound the harmful effect of inhaling your customer's tobacco smoke. Second, try to make sure that your work area is well ventilated. A study done at the University of Cincinnati showed that bartenders inhale the equivalent of 36 cigarettes during an eight-hour shift if they work in a stuffy area but that number drops to the equivalent of 12 cigarettes if the area has

Receives POW/MIA Scholarship

William D. Biediger a freshman student at Texas A & M University, College Station, and a former Prestonsburg residents, has received the second annual four-year $10,000 scholarship awarded by Purolator Services, Inc., New Hyde Park, N. Y

The scholarship, awarded on the basis of scholastic merit to sons and daughters of Southeast Asia POW's and MIA's, was presented to Biediger Sept. 1 Kevin Murphy, president of Purolator Services, and by Major G P. Flynn, Commander of the Air Force Military Training Center at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio. The 1976 award was made in the name of Major General Flynn, the senior prisoner who was held in Southeast Asia from October, 1967 until the spring of 1973.

'We feel these scholarships are one small way of honoring Bill Biediger's father and the other men who died or were held as POW's or MIA's in Southeast Asia for many years," Murphy said. "Purolator will continue the scholarships until all children of POW's and MIA's have passed college age, approximately by 1995." The program was begun in 1975 and provides up to $2,500 annually over a four-year period.

Biediger is the son of Mrs. Julie Osborne Stewart, of Universal City, Texas, and the late Col. Larry W. Biediger, an Air Force officer who was shot down in January, 1967 in an F105 over North Vietnam and was declared dead in 1974. His grandmother is Mrs. Allie Anderson, of Martin.

Col. Biediger's mother, Mrs. Alton Moak, of Castroville, Texas, also was present for the scholarship award with young Biediger's two brothers, David, 17. and Matthew, 13, and sister, Amy, 16. Biediger is a graduate of Samuel Clements High School, Shertz, Texas, and is a pre-med student at Texas A & M.

MAKE THINGS EASIER

When Herman Grove of Barboursville experienced a chest pain he thought, "All I need is a vacation." His doctor told him he needed something else-open heart surgery.

For most people, preparing for an operation means doing away with fears. But once Rev. Mr. Grove, evangelist and construction worker, consulted God for guidance, he had to perform a delicate but necessary task. He had to ask 12 people for one pint of their blood.

Not knowing how to go about recruiting blood donors, Rev. Mr. Grove asked the church for help.

But then, finding blood donors was one thing. Asking these members to travel 150 miles to the Lexington hospital was another.

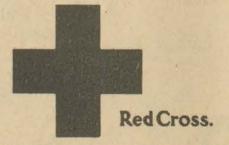

Red Cross was there.
Tri-State Red Cross Blood
Center made sure the blood was in Lexington in time for the operation.

That was some time ago.
The operation? A success.
Rev. Mr. Grove is now the owner of a religious book store. His life style has changed. But Rev. Mr. Grove remains concerned that congregations become involved in blood programs.

If only 20 per cent of the church families give blood once a year, the entire congregation would be assured through Red Cross.

Rev. Mr. Grove says Red Cross "sure makes things a lot easier."

Let Red Cross work for you. Develop a blood donor group today.

Maxey Flat Firm Says Report Killing Business

By DAN KAUFFMAN Courier-Journal Staff Writer

The head of the company that runs the Maxey Flats nuclear-disposal site near Morehead last week charged that the federal and state governments have almost destroyed the company.

James Neel, president of the Louisville-based Nuclear Engineering Co., said a report from the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), which said the site posed a radiation hazard, is a "fraud on the public." The report, released last December. said geological formations in the Maxey Flats area make it possible for radiation to leak out Neel and other company officials contend that the site produces no radiation hazard to people living in the

But Dr. William Rowe, head of the EPA's office of radiation programs, said that there definitely is radiation material that has migrated "off site" from Maxey

He said that the report that Neel referred to was only the professional opinion of a staff member.

He said Neel asked him to supress it but that he didn't because "you can't stop a professional paper.'

He said a professional paper must then be attacked or approved by other experts. Subsequently, EPA has found the report scientifically accurate, he said.

Neel said that further EPA studies, which haven't been released, will bear out his safety contentions.

But Rowe said he knows of no future EPA studies that will say that.

Another EPA scientist, Dr. Daniel Montgomery, has said publicly that 'potential (radiation) exposure level to residents is quite low."

Neel said that since the December report his company has lost 95 per cent of its Maxey Flats business

He charged that without the report the state would have never passed a tax that is so heavy that disposers of nuclear waste have started using sites outside of Kentucky

Neel further charged that several members of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy have told him that Rowe released the report because he saw it as a way to draw attention to his office and enlarge his Neel declined to name any of the congressmen who relayed such information to him.

Rowe said the charge is ridiculous. "If I wanted to raise the budget that's hardly the way I'd go about it," he said. Neel claimed that the report contained some 120 technical inaccuracies and more than 20 geological misstatements. He said that unless some changes are made in state law, his company will probably have to go out of business.

Explains Fund-Raising At Road Intersections

This article is in response to the article published in the Floyd County Times on November 22 regarding the fund-raising issue being conducted at the intersections at Allen and Prestonsburg. The organization conducting the fundraising is the Floyd County Citizen's Association. The Floyd County Citizen's Association is a non-profit organization made up of low-income families. The purpose of our organization is to inform people of their rights toward eligibility for food stamps, public assistance, blacklung, S.S.I., disabled social security, decent health care, etc. Our organization survives entirely on membership dues and each Christmas they strive to raise enough money to at least make certain that each member's family has a decent Christmas dinner.

This organization is in no way affiliated with the Operation Santa Claus here in Floyd county, although some of our members do help this organization wrap Christmas gifts and distribute them throughout the county. I hope this article helps clear up any questions any of you may have and if you have any further questions you can contact the chairman of our organization, Daniel Mullins, at 377-6108, or by writing him at Box 7534, Drift, Ky. 41619. We also want to take this opportunity to thank all of you who have contributed to our Christmas drive. The proper agencies have been contacted and informed of our activities and credibility and have given a clear approval of such activities to continue their fund raising efforts.

Request for Mail

I am a prisoner who is desperate for mail. I receive no letters from the outside world. I would be ever so grateful if you could put my name somewhere in your paper so that someone may see it and maybe write me a letter.

If I had some money to pay you, then I would be more than happy to do so, but I'm in protective custody and I am not allowed to even work here in the prison. I'm 19 years old and all I have to look forward to each day is mail call. I beg for your help.

Sincerely, Steve Fuller, No. 76180 Box 188

Assistant State Librarian

Mrs. Williams, new state library official.

Barbara May Williams, of Frankfort, dicapped in Frankfort and Louisville, formerly of Prestonsburg, recently joined the Kentucky Department of Library and Archives as assistant state librarian.

Charles F. Hinds, director of the department, said Mrs. Williams works directly with all the field and in-house library programs. "She will be coordinating all the program offered by 110 public county libraries participating in the state library system," Hinder said.

This work includes KENCLIP—the Kentucky Cooperative Library Information Project-which provides patron accessibility to all the resources of libraries across the state, the bookmobile program, and technical services which deal with microfilm readerprinters and audio-visual equipment and materials.

"She is also working with the Library for the Blind and Physically Hanand with libraries in institutions such as prisons and juvenile delinquent centers,' added Hinds.

Mrs. Williams who is a daughter of Mrs. Bess S. May, of Prestonsburg, and the late Andrew May, is no stranger to the state library or state government. She was employed with the state library from 1965 to 1968, then worked until 1972 with the Kentucky Program Development Office, where she organized that office's library. From 1972 and 1974, she worked in the state Finance Department. Mrs. Williams is active in the Council of Planning Librarians a group interested in problems of library organization and research and in dissemination of information about city and regional

KENYA'S OLDEST MAN

DIES AT AGE 132

NAIROBI-Kenya's oldest man, Mathayo Achungo, has died at age 132 in his village of Kanyadhiang, the Kenya News Agency has reported.

Achungo, who left 125 grandchildren, used to say he could remember clearly as a young man seeing some of the first Europeans arrive in Kenya.

Floyd Students in ALC Play

Alice Lloyd College drama students rehearse for their upcoming production, "The Business of Good Government." The Christmas play will be presented, free of charge, at 8 p.m. December 15 in Cushing Hall. The actors are, from left, Keith Banks, of Weeksbury, Molly Cook, of Waterville, Ohio, Neil Ward, of Mason's Creek, and Andrew Erdman, of Pippa Passes.

Pippa Passes, Ky.—Four Alice Lloyd College students from Floyd county have D'Arcy. It was first produced in a village been cast in "The Business of Good Government," a Christmas play to be presented at 8 p.m., Wednesday, December 15, in Cushing Hall. They are Lealisa Akers, of Galveston; Mike Hughes, of Martin; Bill Hook, of David, and Keith Banks, of Weeksbury.

'The Business of Good Government,' which will be presented free of charge to church in Brent Knoll, Somerset in 1960, at the request of the Vicar. In the community spirit that pervades it, it is meant to be acted by non-professionals, according to Appalachian Theatre director Bob Arlett.

The play is based on the biblical Christmas story, but from its very beginning the traditional is placed, side the public, was written by British by side, with the everyday.

NOTICE

V.F.W. Post No. 5839, Lancer, will hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. Friday, December 17, for the purpose of electing a Junior Vice-Commander.

GLENN WEBB, Post Commander ENTERTAIN FAMILY

Mr. and Mrs. Gervin Waddle and daughter Vikki, of the Abbott road, entertained their family during the Thanksgiving holidays. Those visiting them were Mrs. Kathy Elliott and daughter, Lisa, of Lexington; Bill Reynolds, of Williamson, W. Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Gene David Campbell, of Prestonsburg.

MARTIN NEWS

Mary Daniels, of Trenton, Mich., spent the Thanksgiving week-end with her sister, Vernie Messinger, and also visited her brothers and their families, Preston Collins, of Hite, Tilden, of Drift, and Ted, of Minnie. Jim and Judy Aikens and little daughter, Jennifer Marie, also visited with them and with Vongie Newsome at over the week-end. The people here in Martin enjoyed a nice parade over the week-end, thanks to the Woman's Club.

Noah Collins and family visited their daughter and family in Perrysville, Ohio

I wish to take this opportunity to express my gratitude to each one who in any way assisted upon the passing of my son, Carey Hall. Those who sent flowers, food and did many other kind deeds too numerous to mention are greatly appreciated. Thanks to the Little Dove Church and also for the consoling words of the Old Regular Baptist ministers and to all who helped in any way. Many thanks to the Hall Brothers Funeral Home for your kind service. Walker Hall and Family
