Dewey Lake Gets Tiger Musky

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources completed this year's stocking of Dewey Lake with hybrid tiger musky last Wednesday when 1,000 were introduced to the lake.

Wednesday's stocking of five-inch fingerling brings the total number of tiger musky stocked in Dewey this year to more than 1,300. During the spring, about 300 three-inch fish were released there.

The tiger musky is a cross of a male northern pike and female musky which reaches legal size at 30 inches in about two years and has been known to grow as large as 30 pounds. Dewey Lake is the only lake in the state which the department has stocked with tiger musky.

"We're hopeful this species will provide a good angling opportunity for fishermen in the area," said Mike Hearn, fisheries biologist at the state-owned Minor Clark Fish Hatchery, where the fish were hatched and reared. "We feel the large amount of large forage fish present in Dewey Lake should provide plenty of food for rapid growth of tiger musky," he added.

Dewey Lake was last stocked with tiger musky in 1975 after the state received over 500 fingerling from another state. This year marks the first time the two species have been crossbred at Clark

Hatchery, which is located near Morehead and Cave Run Lake.

"We feel there are now legal size tiger musky in Dewey, but apparently anglers either don't know they're there or are having trouble landing them," Hearn said. He suggests fishermen use the same techniques employed to catch musky in fishing for tiger musky, adding that trolling deep running baits or casting large spinner baits should prove effective.

Statewide limits on tiger musky follow those on musky. Besides the 30-inch size limit, there is a daily limit of five and a possession limit of 10.

Pike Co. Youth Drowns on His 14th Birthday

Arthur William Collins, of Stone Coal, near Pikeville, drowned July 4 on his 14th birthday in the tailwaters of Dewey Dam.

The fatality was the only one reported in Floyd county, despite heavy holiday highway and lake traffic.

The youth, a son of Charles Claude and Lona Little Collins, and another boy were wading across Johns Creek in the stilling basin area below the dam, early Monday evening, when he stepped into deep water. Randy Sutherland, 16, of Virginia, a brother of young Collins' wading companion, saw that the two boys were in trouble and contrived to get his brother to safety but failed to reach Collins, moments later.

The Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad was notified of the tragedy at 8:10 p.m., and the body was recovered at 9:25 p.m., near the point where the youth submerged.

Six persons reportedly witnessed the tragedy. In the nearby recreation area maintained by the U.S. Corps of Army Engineers, below the dam, were several

A Tale of Two Lakes . . .

Dewey, Trouble Deep; Fishtrap, Debris Trap

Tourists are staying away in droves from Fishtrap Reservoir in Pike county because its surface is an unsightly mess of floating debris. At Dewey Lake where the surface is uncluttered but where a deadly silting-in is going on, deeper down, as many as two million persons a year come visiting.

Silt has become such a problem at Dewey that for the third year Boy Scouts camping at Camp Shawnee, in the German bridge area of the lake, are being bussed across Cow Mountain to the swimming pool at Stratton Branch, miles away.

"It's because of the silt," a Boy Scout leader told The Times last week. "Where the boys used to swim they let down now and sink to their knees in mud, and in a few minutes the swimming area is pure mud."

Construction of small dams in the headwaters of the lake has been urged for more than a year, but no action in that direction has been taken. Meanwhile, siltation studies continue there.

The beneficial effect of such structures is apparent at the new Carr Creek Reservoir in Knott county where silt structures were built at the junction of streams with the lake.

Pike county is becoming clogged by garbage and debris, and tens of thousands of tourists apparently are staying away.

"You name it, and it's in here. We pull out refrigerators, commodes, car bodies, tires and tree trunks. But the worst of it is the Clorox bottles and the regular garbage," J. C. Hockbe, an Army Corps of Engineers maintenance employee, said last week as he worked on a flatboat pushing debris toward the lake shore.

$1 Million Suit Fails of Verdict

A million-dollar damage suit, the aftermath of the near-fatal electrocution of a Floyd county man, ended in a hung jury in circuit court last Friday when members of the jury reportedly could not agree on the amount of damages to be awarded.

Agreement by nine of the 12 jurors could have effected a verdict.

The suit was that of Sherman Wallen, employee of B. & B. Engineers, Inc., Prestonsburg firm, who was badly burned Aug. 15, 1975 when heavy equipment which he was operating on Abbott Creek came in contact with a rural electric line.

Naming the Big Sandy Rural Electric Cooperative Corp. (Big Sandy RECC) as defendant, Wallen alleged that his injuries were "a direct and proximate result of defendant's negligent maintenance of a dangerous instrumentality."

Court Members Say No Budget Without Change

Floyd county as a governmental unit was at least temporarily paralyzed financially Tuesday after the fiscal court declined to take action toward approving or rejecting the county budget for the new fiscal year.

No payments of county funds for any purpose requiring budgeting can be made, it was said. This leaves all official salaries, road employee and other payrolls to remain unpaid until a budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 and ending next June 30 is adopted.

Magistrates Bill Wells, Kenneth Roberts and Dewey Roberts attended the meeting and took with them copies of the new budget for study. The court will meet again Monday in regular session.

Tuesday's meeting was in response to a call for budget action made by certified letter from Judge Stumbo to the magistrates.

After Judge Stumbo had called for a motion to adopt or reject the budget, which already had been given state approval, he explained that "we owe a lot of people and they can't be paid if we don't adopt a budget." There was no motion on that issue, but Magistrate Kenneth Roberts moved that all motions made in the original April meeting on official salaries and voted by the court be voided.

Judge Stumbo refused to entertain the motion, pointing out that the matter of setting salaries was by law required before the election. When the judge directed that the motion not go into the

This Town...That World

EAGLE OR OYSTER?
The Fourth is over, and did you make the Eagle scream? I would inquire about how you make the Eagle scream but am headed off by a question which I read, the other day.

This fellow asked why the national emblem is the Eagle. Why not the oyster? he asked.

There was a time, another wrote, when men roared for liberty but now they bleat like sheep for security.

If it's security we need, the oyster would serve well as the national emblem. It can just lie there, open its mouth, or whatever, and the tide washes in its food.

But if men have an idea of continuing their roar for liberty, it's the Eagle for them—the wild, fierce bird, depending on its own speed and talons for its food, building its own nest, not in security but up there where the winds howl, and teaching its young that life, short or long, is one thrilling adventure.

The Eagle suited to a T those who voluntarily sought the dangers of a wilderness for freedom. How appropriate it is for the nation today may well depend upon what you and I do, or don't do, today.

Big Sandy ADD Board Renames Judge Stumbo

Floyd County Judge Henry Stumbo was re-elected chairman of the Big Sandy Area Development District (Big Sandy ADD) board of directors at the recent annual meeting of the board.

Russell Williamson, of Martin county, was named vice-chairman; O. T. Dorton, Paintsville, secretary, and O. J. Arnett, of Magoffin county, treasurer.

The ADD board, comprised of representatives of five counties—Floyd, Johnson, Martin, Magoffin and Pike—serves the region as a clearing house for all projects in which federal and state funds are involved. It also serves as a planning body for the five-county district. Joe McCauley is its executive director.

Holbrook, HUD Settle Dispute

Glenn Holbrook, who has had a fuss going with HUD over possession of the mobile home which, he says, HUD "forced on him," has decided to turn the facility back to the federal agency.

Holbrook, who is employed as a mechanic at a Prestonsburg service station, planned to return with his family to the public housing unit they occupied till the April flood routed them.

He has had the trailer located on the property of his father on Abbott Creek. He said he "never asked for the trailer in the first place" when he visited the flood disaster relief center established at Auxier, "but they (the disaster relief officials) talked me into it."

After the trailer had been moved onto the Abbott Creek property, HUD officials decided he wasn't eligible for such help, since his public housing apartment had been made available again.

The 41-year-old mechanic, who was unemployed at the time of the April flood expressed some bitterness about the transaction.

He said the affair had cost "$570 that we could not afford. We spent that on an attorney and changing of the power and other things we had to have."

Official's Residence Destroyed by Blaze

While Magistrate and Mrs. Kenneth Roberts were vacationing in Florida last week their home near the mouth of Stone Coal, Garrett, was destroyed by fire with all its contents.

Cause of the blaze has not been definitely fixed. The fire followed an electrical storm which had resulted in low voltage in the area. Magistrate Roberts could not be reached for an estimate of his loss.

The Wayland Area Fire Department arrived at the scene too late to save the residence but prevented the fire from spreading to nearby buildings. It was said that the home was locked and that this interfered with attempts to save any of the contents.

The building was a two-story frame structure.

A TREE GREW . . .
Somebody has said that the loss of a thousand lives in a disaster on the other side of the world is a statistic but that the death of one person next door is a tragedy.

That, to some degree, describes the reaction of most of us as we become aware of the destruction of timber (many trees) in all the ways man has devised. A mere statistic to most of us.

But when a beautiful sugar maple is blown down, or twisted up, by wind the other midnight it became for us a tragedy. It was our tree, in our yard.

It had grown so beautifully tall and straight all these years that we never had

P'burg Guard Unit At Ft. Hood, Texas

Members of the Prestonsburg unit of the Kentucky Army National Guard will be among the first Guardsmen to receive a recently-developed "Opposing Force" briefing on equipment, uniforms, weapons, and tactics of other nations when they reach Fort Hood, Tex. this week.

Detachment 1, Company B, 1st Battalion, 149th Infantry (Mechanized), is commanded by 1st Lt. John A. Julian.

The Prestonsburg Guardsmen will also have an opportunity to examine equipment and uniforms captured by Israeli forces and relocated to Fort Hood.

During the two-week annual training encampment, approximately 50 members of the Prestonsburg unit will work with other components of the battalion and the 149th Armor Brigade, headquartered in Bowling Green.

All of the units, composed of about 1,400 members, would be assigned to serve with the 2nd Armor Division at Fort Hood in the event of a federal call-up.

Although the estimated 60,878 visitors at Dewey over the four-day July 4 weekend is down from other years, the loss is not believed to be connected with silt. The surface of the lake is as beautiful as ever except when spring rains or heavy rainfall at other seasons turns it muddy.

The Goble Branch camping area at Dewey was filled to capacity over the holiday period, boating was heavy and few accessible points along its shores were unpeopled.

The heaviest holiday influx of visitors was last Sunday when an estimate based on a traffic count placed the number at almost 24,000. The count for last Friday was 7,295; for Saturday, 14,000-plus, and on the 4th itself in excess of 15,000.

That's the picture at Dewey where the ugliness of silting goes on, unseen. Now for Fishtrap, where it is nauseatingly visible, the story as told by The Courier-Journal's Stephen Ford:

Problem-plagued Fishtrap Lake in

REUNIONS, PICNICS, or just the sharing of a cold watermelon are customary Fourth of July activities. This group was photographed Monday enjoying an outdoor banquet at Dewey Dam.

Floyd Members at FHA Training Camp

State and regional officers of the Kentucky Association of Future Homemakers of America from all parts of the state met June 21-23 at the FFA Leadership Training Center in Hardinsburg, for the FHA Leadership Olympics. State officers instructed the regional officers in their responsibilities and duties, and advisors of the officers served as consultants during the conference. The program included sessions on leadership and responsibility, group sessions on FHA concerns and Regional Executive Council meetings.

Floyd county members of Region 11 attending were Anita Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Purvis Hamilton; Sherry Watkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Watkins; and Mrs. Debbie Campbell, FHA advisor at Betsy Layne High School.

Highlights of the program included a welcome by Mrs. Agnes Foster, state advisor of the Kentucky Association of FHA, presenting "Team Work for Action". "FHA Facts Forum" was presented by Miss Jewell Deene Ellis, State Director of Home Economics. Dr. Bruce Carpenter, from the University of Kentucky Medical Center, spoke on "Entering the Leadership Arena". For recreation a mock Olympic was held. Region 11 was awarded one gold medal and four silver medals.

Scott-Taylor Reunion Held at Breaks Park

The second reunion of more than 100 descendants and visiting friends of the unions of Garfield H. Scott and Easter Angeline Lowe; Easter Angeline Lowe Scott and Wallace Bailey Taylor; Wallace Bailey Taylor and Mary Burchett was held in the Breaks Park, June 25.

Copies of the Family Trees, as prepared for the first reunion by Fon Taylor, son of Dixie Scott and R. L. Taylor and grandson of Angeline Lowe and Garfield Scott and Charles Spears (son of Elizabeth Taylor and Andrew J. Spears and grandson of Angeline Lowe Scott and Wallace B. Taylor), gave the names of six children born to the union of Angeline Lowe Scott and Garfield H. Scott, namely, Thomas, Walker, Orrison, Bird, Dixie and Ben.

Of the 17 children born to the three unions, there are five living: John Taylor, of Johns Creek; Bertha Taylor Cornett, Lexington; Eliza Taylor Blackburn and Elizabeth Taylor Spears, of Betsy Layne, and May Taylor Thompson, of Paynesville, Ohio. Of these there were present at the second reunion May Taylor Thompson, Bertha Taylor Cornette, Eliza Taylor Blackburn and Elizabeth Taylor Spears. Also attending were two widows of deceased sons, Jettie Sesco Taylor, wife of Clint Taylor, and Louise Burchett Taylor, wife of Burley Taylor.

Several of the 82 grandchildren and husbands and wives, many great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren, some of them with families of their own, were present. All three units of the family and each of the 17 members were represented, including the fifth generation of the Scott-Lowe-Taylor Burchett family.

Charles Spears presided and gave the welcome. After his remarks regarding the first reunion of last year, he called upon Floyd Hall, husband of Hazel Scott, to give the invocation and prayer of thanks to God for the occasion and the food.

This was followed by a medley of hymns sung by Billie Jean Blackburn Osborne, Leslie Kay Blackburn, and Cheryl Blackburn Meade and her daughter, Lisa.

Silver dollars given by Lenora Spears Smith were presented to the youngest descendant present, who was one-month-old Beverly Kay Blackburn, daughter of Debbie and James Hillard Blackburn.

Another presentation was made to Mrs. Nell Ruth Scott Kraft, of Tampa, Fla., daughter of Mrs. Lula Scott and the late John Scott, Sr., of Pikeville, as attending from the greatest distance.

The presentation for the largest family was made to May Taylor Thompson, her husband, Thomas Thompson, and five of their ten children.

Madge Mullins guided the four honored sisters and the two sisters-in-law to lead the procession around the tables of food and others followed. Plates were heaped from the basket dinner and a delightful time of visiting and renewal of acquaintances along with meeting others for the first time was enjoyed.

During and after the repast, many stories of past years were passed around, everyone was asked to register, and give addresses, some pictures were taken, and it was with great reluctance that the relatives and friends departed for their homes, but the coming together had been a joyful gathering and had deepened the family ties and the appreciation of family heritage. —By Angeline Spears George.

Recruiter Aide

Pvt. Michael Kidd, of Honaker, has been assigned to spend 30 days at home as an aide to recruiter Staff Sgt. Gordon Shepherd, of Pikeville.

Pvt. Kidd is the son of Zelma and Bobby Lawson and was graduated from Betsy Layne High School in 1975. Since his enlistment, he has completed basic training and advanced training as a Chapparral Missile crewman at Ft. Bliss, Texas.

As a recruiter aide, Pvt. Kidd is home to talk with friends and other interested persons about his experiences in the Army to date. He plans to stay with his parents and work out of the Pikeville Army Recruiting Station. He can be reached by calling 437-6042.

When he completes his present duty, Kidd will go to Schofield Barracks, Hawaii, to serve in his specialty.

Floyd Had 737 Unemployed During May, Figures Show

Eastern Kentucky's employment picture continues to improve with unemployment dropping to 4.4 percent in May.

Floyd county had 13,169 of its labor force of 13,906 employed, leaving its unemployment rate 5.3 percent.

Magoffin county recorded the high in the state at 8.1 per cent. Boyd county was low in this area at 2.8 percent.

Robert MacDonald, chief labor analyst for the state, said, "The current decline in unemployment is primarily due to increased hiring throughout industry."

According to MacDonald, Kentucky's unemployment figure continues well below the national average which during May was 6.4 percent, compared to Kentucky's 3.6 percent.

MacDonald said the state figure is the lowest unemployment rate in almost four years compared to 3 percent in September, 1973.

Regionally, the Bluegrass recorded the lowest rate with 2.4 percent while Northern Kentucky had the high figure at 5.5 percent. Bourbon county was lowest in the state with only 1.6 percent.

Other county-by-county figures for Eastern Kentucky follow:

Bell, 4.9 percent; Breathitt, 4.7; Carter, 5.8; Clay, 6.0; Elliott, 3.9; Estill, 4.2; Greenup, 3.4; Harlan, 5.5; Johnson, 4.1; Knott, 5.0; Knox, 4.8; Laurel, 3.0; Lawrence, 5.3; Lee, 6.7; Leslie, 5.5; Letcher, 5.1; Martin, 4.2; Menifee, 5.0; Morgan, 5.4; Perry, 5.0; Pike, 4.5; Pulaski, 3.2; Rowan, 3.3; Wolfe, 4.7.

Settlement School Plans Two Workshops

The Hindman Settlement School has scheduled two workshops—an Appalachian writers workshop and a workshop in Appalachian folk arts—both to run concurrently on campus at the Forks of Troublesome Creek August 1-12.

The Writers Workshop staff includes Harriette Arnow, James Stil, Billy C. Clark, Dean Cadle, Albert Sewart and Shirley Williams. The program includes informal classes, group sessions, individual student-staff conferences in the areas of fiction, poetry and non-fiction.

The Folk Arts Workshop staff includes Edna Ritchie Baker and her husband, Floyd, Michael Ware, Frankie and Lionel Duff. Subjects: How to play the Appalachian dulcimer, making corn shuck dolls, pottery, folk dancing and folk singing and dulcimer construction.

For further information and copy of brochure write Summer Workshops, Hindman Settlement School, Hindman, Ky. 41822.

To Subscribers

Please note date shown opposite your name on your copy of The Times or on the wrapper. If the date reads, for instance, "March 77," your subscription will expire at the end of March.

Because of increased mailing costs, notices to subscribers of their expiration dates will be discontinued. Subscriptions which have expired must be cancelled within one month of the expiration date.

Yearly subscription rates are: $6.30 in Floyd county; $7.35 elsewhere in Kentucky; $8.50 outside Kentucky.

June 24 Marks Beginning Of Required Water Testing

As of June 24, all of the nation's 40,000 community drinking water systems are required to take special steps to insure that their water is safe to drink. June 24 was the date the Environmental Protection Agency's first set of drinking water health regulations under the Safe Drinking Water Act went into effect.

Under the regulations all community water systems will have to sample their water routinely to make sure it's clean enough to meet EPA's new standards. And, just as important to consumers, people using a public water system must be told by the water supplier if their water is found to be unacceptable for health reasons.

EPA's new standards cover contamination by bacteria, which can cause waterborne diseases such as typhoid, cholera, dysentery, and hepatitis. They also cover nitrate, which is of concern in that it can cause an anemic condition in very young children.

Also included are limits for such inorganic chemicals as arsenic, cadmium, lead, mercur, chromium, fluoride, barium, silver, and selenium, as well as for pesticides endrin, lindane, methoxychlor, toxaphene, 2, 4-D, and 2, 4, 5-TP Silvex.

There is also a maximum level for turbidity (murkiness), which can interfere with the disinfection of water, and for radioactivity.

The "public notification" process is a new idea, spelled out by Congress when it passed the Safe Drinking Water Act in late 1974. Congress believed that consumers should be guaranteed the right to know when and if a problem exists that affects the quality of their drinking water. The idea was that consumers can participate fully in making decisions affecting their health only if they know all the facts.

Notification about such problems may be made by means of a notice accompanying water bills, in the newspaper, or on TV and radio. The notice will explain what the problem is and what is being done about it. It will also suggest precautions the consumer can take himself, if such measures are seen to be necessary.

PUBLIC SALE

Mine Water Hearing Slated at Pikeville

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency announced last week that it will hold two public hearings to receive public comment concerning the proposed issuance of more than 700 water pollution control permits to coal mining operations in Kentucky—58 in Floyd county.

The standard permit proposed for the facilities is a "model" developed by the EPA for issuance to mining operations. The permits would be issued under the National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) and would restrict the amounts and types of pollutants that may be discharged into lakes and streams.

The Eastern Kentucky hearing will be held August 16 at 2 p.m. in the Chrisman auditorium of Pikeville College.

The hearings had previously been planned for July 6 and 8, but were rescheduled due to a large portion of the mining industry being on vacation during early July.

The Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, Division of Water Quality, will co-chair the hearings to receive public comment regarding State certification of the proposed permits.

Both oral and written comments will be received at the hearings. The regional administrator, or his designated representative, reserves the right to fix reasonable time limits on the length of oral presentations.

Floyd county mines for which permits are being proposed are:

B & H Elkhorn Coal Company, Inc., Lexington, for its Betsy Layne mine; discharge enters Hunt's Fork, Layne Branch and Powell Branch.

THE EMPLOYMENT RETIREMENT Income Security Act (ERISA)—which protects participants and beneficiaries of private pension and welfare benefit plans, does not require any employer to establish a pension or welfare benefit plan, but those that do must meet certain standards. The law provides that employed individuals not covered by a pension plan other than Social Security and Railroad Retirement may put aside a certain amount of compensation for retirement, according to the U.S. Labor Department.

Miss Hicks, Mr. Mulvaney Wed

The marriage of Miss Shirley Ann Hicks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Hicks, of Prestonsburg, and Mr. Neil Anthony Mulvaney, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Mulvaney, Sr., of Ashland, was solemnized at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, June 18, at the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church here. The impressive double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. John H. Woods before the altar adorned with a basket arrangement of yellow mums, white daisies, Boston fern and baby's breath flanked by spiral candelabra entwined with ivy and holding lighted tapers.

Selections of nuptial music included "Wedding Song" and the "Lord's Prayer" by soloist David Nelson and Mrs. Alice Buchanan, organist. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a sleeveless gown of Quiana knit fashioned with scooped neckline, lace bodice, and A-line skirt. A white picture hat with white streamers completed her ensemble. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses, daisies and baby's breath, and her only jewelry was a pearl pendant, a gift from the groom. Maid of honor was Miss Betty Boswell, of Henderson, who wore a gown of but-tercup yellow Quiana knit styled similarly to that of the bride. Best man was Danny Mulvaney, of Lexington, brother of the groom. Ushers were Ricky Hicks, of Prestonsburg, brother of the bride, and Brent Mulvaney, of Ashland, brother of the groom. The bride's mother chose a blue and white knit dress with white accessories for her daughter's wedding, and the mother of the groom wore a pale blue Quiana knit dress with white accessories. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the church. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. James Meek, Mrs. Donald Hicks, cousins of the bride, Mrs. Billy Hicks, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Mitchell Dotson, aunt of the bride. The bride is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School and of Prestonsburg Community College. She received her B.A. in psychology and Master's degree in rehabilitation from the University of Kentucky, and is presently employed as a disability examiner with the Department of Human Resources in Frankfort. Mr. Mulvaney is a graduate of Paul G. Blazer High School and received a B.A. degree in psychology from the University of Kentucky. He is a supervisor in industrial engineering with United Parcel Service. Following a wedding trip touring the Western states, Mr. and Mrs. Mulvaney are residing in Lexington.

ENTERTAIN FAMILY MEMBERS
Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Davidson had members of their family for lunch, Sunday, June 26. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Roger D. Collins and Roger, Mr. and Mrs. Carl T. Watson and Marsha, Dr. and Mrs. Randall Wells and Troy Lynn, Mrs. Marsha Wells, Mrs. Franklin Conley, Bob and David, Jim and Bob Wells and Debbie.

GUESTS FROM PIKEVILLE
Mr. and Mrs. William J. Baird, III, and daughter, Elizabeth Anne, and Mrs. Penny Beth Amos, of Pikeville, were supper guests here Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Roberts. The Bairds and Mrs. Amos were en route home from Camp Cardinal, near Olive Hill, where they had taken their daughter and son, Virginia Kirk Baird and Shannon Amos, for a week of camping.

To Appear in Play at ALC, Sunday

In this scene from Alice Lloyd College's production of "Jack Goes Courtin'", a Jack Tale for children by Ken Baldridge and Andy Marein, Jack finds out that if he wants to marry the King's beautiful daughter he has to steal the King's bedsheet while the King is asleep on it. This typical Jack Tale problem is only one of many faced by the famous Appalachian Jack on his way to the wedding. Appearing in "Jack Goes Courtin'" are, from left, Dalton Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Howard, of Hueysville, an ALC and student at Morehead State University; Keith Banks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delmer Banks, of Weeksbury, an ALC sophomore; John Michael Hughes, son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Hughes, of Martin; Andrew Erdman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest J. Erdman, of Pippa Passes, an ALC sophomore; Sandy Marshall, daughter of Ova C. Marshall, of Isom, a May graduate of ALC; Lealisa Akers, daughter of Nellis Martin, from Galveston, also an ALC sophomore; and Harold Hamilton, a University of Kentucky senior and ALC graduate from Perry county. The play will be presented at 2 p.m. Sunday, July 10 on the ALC campus, and will be repeated at 2 July 24. Admission is free.

Ky. School Districts To Get $1.9 Million, Carroll Says

Governor Carroll announced last Thursday that he will distribute $1,905,000 to Kentucky school districts. The allotment amounts to approximately $3 for every pupil in average daily attendance (ADA).

The financial assistance is intended to ease the financial problems many school districts are experiencing this fiscal year because of harsh winter weather, spring flooding and the implementation of specialized programs in the local districts.

(Two weeks ago Governor Carroll applied to the U.S. Office of Education for $5.7 million in federal grants to help Kentucky school districts affected by last winter's damage. The amount asked for Floyd County was $25,354. Pike county schools claimed $692,000 damage.)

"During the winter I met with local school superintendents when many schools were closed for prolonged periods and being confronted with fuel cutbacks and high utility bills," Carroll said. At that time the governor indicated a concern for the plight of local school districts by endorsing a Department of Education regulation change in calculating ADA. "The change increased state funding to local school districts by $700,000," he indicated. The fiscal 1977 state support to local school districts through the Minimum Foundation program is approximately $393 million.

Department of Education officials encouraged the governor to make a supplemental allocation to local school districts from the Minimum Foundation program. After considering this possibility, the governor requested an attorney general's opinion as to the legality of such an action. The opinion indicated that the contemplated allocation, because of the peculiarities of Minimum Foundation program statutes, would be a supplemental appropriation. The 1976 General Assembly's regular session, removed all supplemental appropriation authority from the governor.

Following the attorney general's opinion, Gov. Carroll wrote each school district superintendent:

"Since the law will not allow me to provide additional funds to your district through the Foundation program, I have looked to other areas where funds may be available."

Carroll added, "The funds to support our allocation will come from three sources: the School Food Services program, the Identification and Evaluation of Exceptional Children program, and the Governor's Contingency Fund."

Several school districts are converting from catered cafeterias to fully-functional kitchens. Besides, much kitchen equipment was lost in the Eastern Kentucky floods. Each district has been establishing evaluation committees to outline educational needs for all exceptional children. These specialized programs have contributed to the budgetary difficulties in local school districts.

The funds distributed from each of these programs must be spent in those program areas. This, however, still provides individual districts with flexibility, since in most cases the state funds will free other funds that would have been spent in these specialized areas.

The amount of exceptional children-related funds that will be distributed is $800,000, while the amount of School Food Services funds is $725,000. These funds would have returned to the state's uncommitted general fund if they had not been committed last Thursday. The additional $380,000 necessary to provide $3.00 per student in Average Daily Attendance is being provided by the Governor from his Contingency Fund. The Department of Education has been charged with developing an appropriate distribution mechanism that will disperse the funds over the next two weeks.

"Over the last few years several districts have had repeated budgetary difficulties," the Governor pointed out. "It is our intention between now and January 1, 1978 to examine the problems relating to local school district budgeting and financing. Upon completion of this review, we plan to share our analysis with the General Assembly. Any difficulties facing local community in financing a school system will be appropriately addressed during the 1978 regular session."

WATCH IT! Even cavities are catching. Scientists learned this in their search for a vaccine against tooth decay. When they put cavity-active hamsters into a cage with cavity inactive animals, declares the July Reader's Digest, they found that the second group also developed cavities.

MUSIC IS POPULAR IN JAPAN
TOKYO—Western music was formally introduced into Japan's school curriculum in 1872. Now as many as 100 classical concerts consisting of Western music are staged annually in Tokyo. Tokyo has 10 music colleges, with more than 10,000 students.

Retirement Act

THE EMPLOYEE RETIREMENT Income Security Act (ERISA) was signed into law on Labor Day, Sept. 2, 1974. The pension law has been described as one of the most important pieces of social legislation enacted in recent decades. The law, administered by the U.S. Department of Labor and the Internal Revenue Service, affects some 40 million workers and their families enrolled in private pension or welfare benefit plans, according to the Labor Department.

Letters to the Editor

The Spirit That Would Turn to Plowshares

Now that a part of the cleanup after the recent flood is behind us, I, with a little spare time, would like to express my sincere appreciation to those who gave assistance in any way to other members of my family and me.

Thanks to the Hayes brothers, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hayes, of Betsy Layne; to Mike Sturgill, Mike Robinette and Jimmy Stratton; to Randell Blackburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Odis Blackburn and friends of theirs—wish I could thank each of you personally.

Many thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Senters who welcomed us into their home, and for the meals they prepared for us and for others who came by. Thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cooley who took care of what furniture of ours that was saved and for food sent or brought to my home.

It was amazing here in our little community of Stanville and surrounding areas, the way helping hands reached out to try to help in some way others around them. Even some of those whose own homes were flooded seemed to want to contribute something.

Two brothers, a niece and nephew who live in Barboursville came to give us aid in the cleanup. One brother who couldn't get through at first helped out in flood-stricken Pineville. More than once, this thought came to my mind: That if love like this could incircle the world, then implements for war could indeed, be turned into plowshares.

Modern Education

By WILMAY

Many teachers everywhere no doubt welcome the news that the National Education Association and the National Association of Elementary Principals have advocated discontinuing group I.Q. tests. These tests originated in France, early in the century, and were quickly adopted in the U.S., with mixed results at all levels, from college down the line. There are several types of intelligence: intellectual, mechanical, social, inventive, creative, etc. Unfortunately, most tests were and are limited to the first-named. They fail to take note of other assets of equal value in the child or in an adult. Countless individuals—particularly children—suffered dreadfully, sometimes for long periods, because of poor showings. By classifying and grading pupils, plus other means, results or scores often became known, sometimes embarrassing siblings as well. Children to whom grades meant much often gave up, stopped trying, perhaps "for keeps." Despondency and discouragement were common.

Sadder still was the fact that most tests were prepared by experts who had no children of their own, or by persons in urban areas who knew little of life elsewhere, putting youngsters in rural sections and small towns at a tremendous disadvantage in many cases. This calls to mind the related story of an experience at Pippa Passes, years ago, when some prominent educators from the East came for a visit. While there they tested a number of the Caney Creek (now Alice Lloyd College) boys who did not do too well on the metropolitan-oriented tests that included use of dial phones—then strange to these parts. At the conclusion of the examination the men in charge asked students if they had any questions. Quick as a flash—according to report—one teenager whom some of us remember stood and with rapid fire turned the tables by asking his interrogators questions about wahoo and pawpaw trees, coon hunting, pickled corn and beans, et cetera. The visitors got the message quickly!

Many teachers know students who on occasion underwent standardized tests with a splitting headache, severe cold, fever, or some other handicap because those conducting the tests could not return to repeat them. Ordinarily, the same child would have scored much higher when up to par. Native intelligence is vastly different from the acquired type. A percentage of children, urban or rural, lack opportunities early in life, have uneducated parents, few magazines and books in the home, little interest in reading, and frequently emotional insecurity for scores of reasons—all certain to affect his responses and scores. It was years before most outstanding authorities in the field of tests and measurements recognized and admitted that the I.Q. of an individual can and often does fluctuate, that it can be raised by several means. Tests rarely reward a child for good behavior, effort, creativity, commendable facets, resources worth no less than a high I.Q. Thomas A. Edison had a very limited formal education, but it was said no man could hire him, though he could hire almost any man he wished because of his inventive genius. His teacher had called him a dunce. Heartache was not uncommon among pupils who made low marks on the I.Q. tests, or of whom too much was expected because one scored high. Organizations mentioned in this item urge parents to ask educators to abandon these tests. Let's do! More teaching, less testing—great recipe!

Two weeks ago Mr. Allen had a marvelous editorial on the deteriorating quality of education, the inability of many students to spell simple words, the need to return to more emphasis on fundamentals, the old-fashioned Three R's. He struck a responsive chord in many parents and teachers. Ask any person who employs a large number and gets numerous applications yearly, if it is not evident that on the whole, almost everywhere, the educational system is going downhill. You know what the reply will be.

No one should lay all blame on educators. TV takes a high toll. Early habits, refusal to discipline in home and school oftentimes aggravate the problem.

Like it or not, most of us know elderly individuals who got just an eighth-grade education in the old one-room schools, who then and now surpass many with high school diplomas and some who have college training. This is no reflection on good students at all levels. Something should be done about it and could be, if enough of us care sufficiently. Part of the decline—described often in many magazines not educational—can be attributed to the eagerness with which many school personnel everywhere accepted any new program or experiment, some of which have proved worthless. Tested, tried and true methods are often best.

In Kansas City, Mo., during their recent annual convention, Southern Baptists by an overwhelming majority approved a motion against homosexuality, and certain rights the gays are demanding, and in support of Anita Bryant whose efforts are sparking nationwide opposition to same, by various groups not even concerned with the biblical aspects of this aberration. Miss Bryant, and her husband, Bob Green, have founded S.O.C., SAVE OUR CHILDREN, a nationwide organization to oppose the gays. One wonders how many persons and churches care enough to send a donation to S.O.C.

SUMMER JOBS FOR YOUTHS

THE U.S. LABOR Department reminds teenagers and employers that according to federal laws governing summer jobs, workers 14 and 15 years old can be employed in a variety of jobs. Such jobs may be clerical and office work, various retail and food service jobs; or errand delivery work by foot, bicycle or public transportation. Work at gas stations dispensing gas and oil and performing courtesy service is also permitted.

Tot Escapes Drowning At Dewey Lake, Tuesday

A near-tragedy was averted early Tuesday evening when a 17-month-old child was rescued from drowning at the Stratton Branch swimming area of Dewey Lake.

Park rangers, who went to the child's aid, took the toddler to Highlands Regional Medical Hospital where its condition was said to be satisfactory.

Park rangers listed the mother as Mrs. Connie Clark.

ACCORDING TO THE U.S. Department of Labor, most state child labor laws require employers to obtain employment or age certificates (work permits) for minor employees. The federal Fair Labor Standards Act, enforced by the Labor Department, contains no such requirement, but it is good practice to require proof of age to protect employers from unintentionally violating the law.

INFORMATION ON child labor restrictions and hazardous occupations is available from local offices of the Wage and Hour Division, listed in most telephone directories under U.S. Government, Department of Labor, Employment Standards Administration.

Miss Chaffin Graduated With Distinction at EKU

Richmond, Ky.—Eastern Kentucky University honored 314 graduates for academic excellence during the recent 70th spring commencement at which about 2,000 degrees were awarded.

One hundred and fifty-seven seniors graduated with high distinction and 103 with distinction.

Twenty-one students in the two-year associate of arts program graduated with high distinction, and 33 associate of arts students graduated with distinction.

The honorees included Deborah Chaffin, of Prestonsburg, who was graduated with distinction.

Minister Succumbs Following Sermon

Minutes after he had completed delivering a sermon at the Martin Free Will Baptist Church last Sunday morning, Elder Curtis Senters, 44, of Prestonsburg, was dead of a heart attack.

An ordained minister of the Free Will Baptist Church, Mr. Senters owned and operated the Curtis Senters Distributing Company here. He was a son of Mrs. Ethel Miller Senters, of Betsy Layne, and the late Carl Senters who also was a Free Will Baptist minister.

Surviving, besides his mother, are his widow, Mrs. Virginia Reed Senters; a son, Larry Senters, of Ivel; six brothers, Clyde Senters, Dundee, Ia., Willis Senters, Lorain, O., Ervin Senters, of Michigan, Bobby and Fred Senters, both of Detroit, and Buddy Senters, of Betsy Layne; four sisters, Mrs. Ruby Garrett, Betsy Layne, Mrs. Norma Jean LeTourneau, Troy, Mich., Mrs. Georgianna Irick, Marion, O., and Mrs. Clotene Fuller, of Detroit. He also leaves one grandchild.

Funeral services are being held at 11 a.m. today (Wednesday) from the Betsy Layne Free Will Baptist Church, the Revs. Bill Amburgey, Jack DeRossett and Bill Campbell officiating. Burial will be made in Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel, the Hall Brothers Funeral Home directing.

Club Extends Thank-You

The Weeksbury Community Club extends a sincere thank-you to all those who worked so hard on our behalf in obtaining coal severance tax money for purchase of our community center and park.

A special thank-you to the members of the Coal Severance Tax Economic Aid Board for their unanimous approval of our application. These board members are Richard Allen, Claude Swiney, Pete Grigsby Jr., James Reed and William Goble.

Our deepest appreciation to Harold Stumbo for doing our legal work, free of charge.

We also extend our thanks to the Department of Engineers and Island Creek Coal Company for surveying our property, free of charge. These engineers were Bill Blair, Gilbert Little, Billy Hall, Dave Case and Donnie Miller.

We also thank Judge Henry Stumbo for his letter to the State Board regarding our severance tax grant.

To all these and any we have unintentionally missed, we extend our deepest appreciation for making our dream of owning our community center and park become a reality.

INTERNATIONAL NEWS

PRESIDENT CARTER DESCRIBES SPANISH TRANSITION TO DEMOCRACY AS "BRILLIANT"

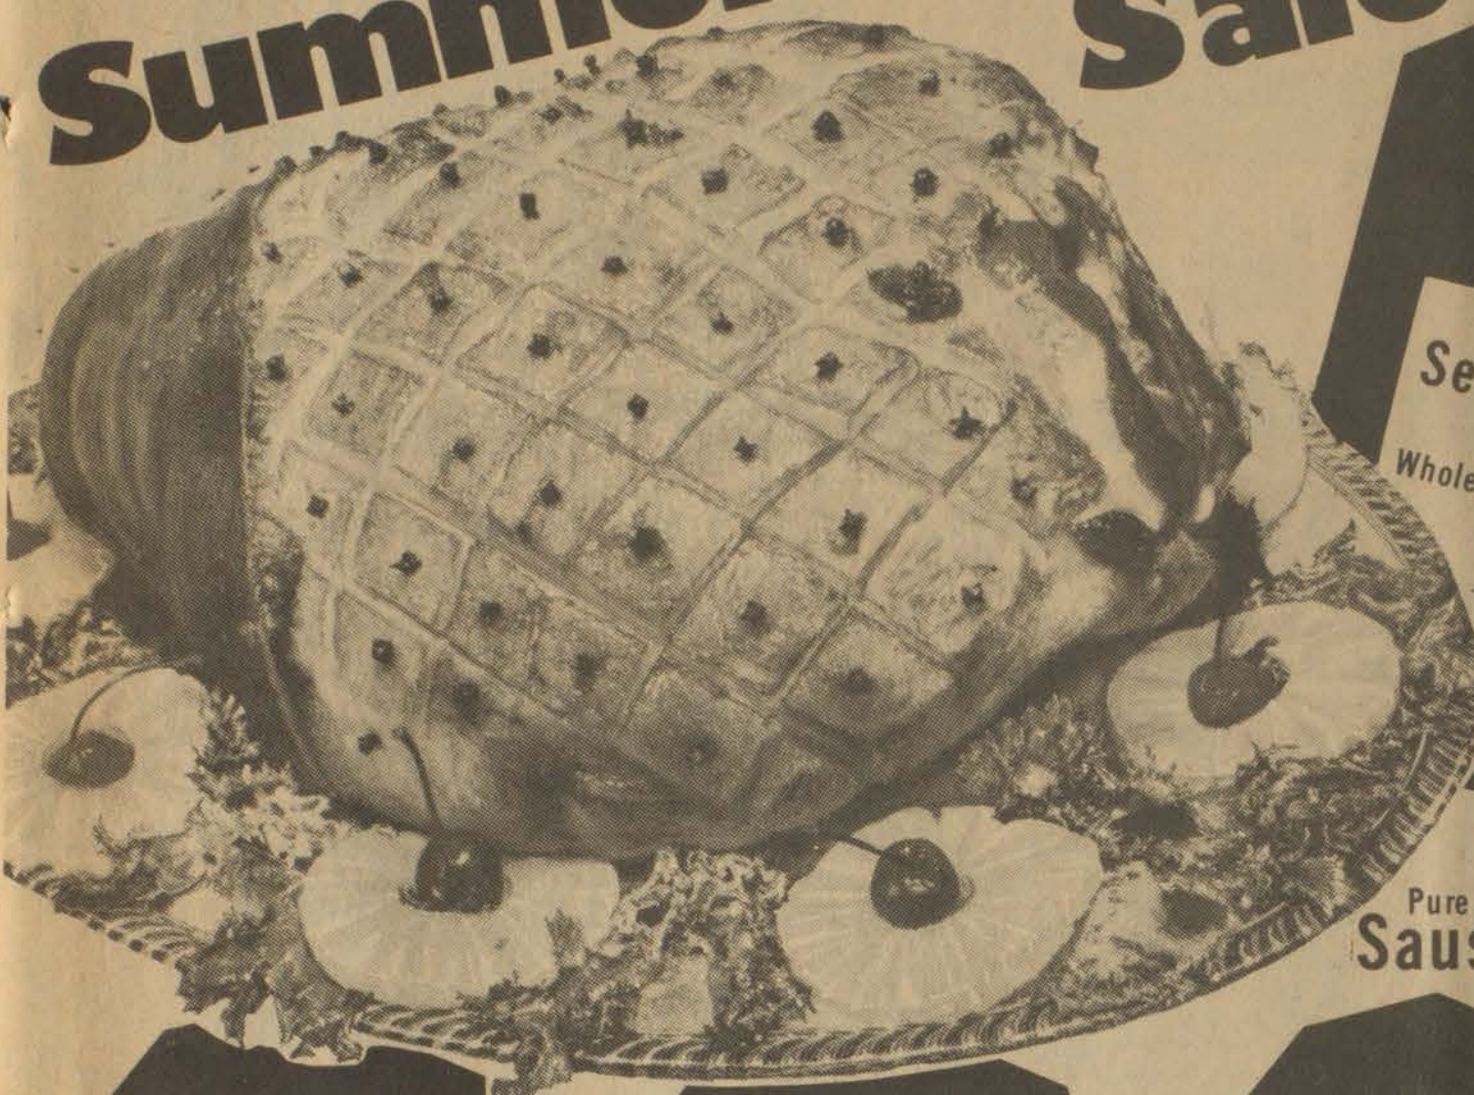

Spanish Prime Minister Adolfo Suarez, who seeks an electoral mandate for his democratic reform programs, will stand as a non-campaigning candidate in Spain's general elections—the first free voting in that country in four decades. The Prime Minister's dynamic efforts to thrust his country toward a more modern, democratically-oriented way of life received strong support from President Carter during his visit to the White House. President Carter praised the Prime Minister's performance in office, describing as "brilliant" the recent moves toward freedom and democracy by Suarez and Spain's monarch, the 39-year-old Juan Carlos I. Experts have observed that with a democratic form of government, Spain may be voted into the European Economic Community, and probably be accepted as a NATO member. Ever since his selection as Prime Minister by Juan Carlos last July, Suarez has aimed at providing Spain with a popularly elected Parliament. The voting marks the culmination of his efforts. The stable, strong government that seems to be in Spain's future will be an effective base for the profound economic transformation Spain is experiencing. Indeed, rarely in history has an entire nation of nearly 40 million people moved so successfully through as enormous a change—a complete transition from an agricultural to an industrial state—in less than fifteen years.

Ridgeway Fuel Wins Annual Tournament

Four days of almost steady softball play ended at Archer Park Monday with the final game of the Floyd County Softball League's annual Fourth of July Tournament. This year's winner is Ridgeway Fuel.

Winning in double elimination play, the Prestonsburg-based Ridgeway team defeated Addington Brothers Trucking, 10-8 to win the tournament crown.

The Addingtown Brothers team beat Watts Mobile Homes, Shake Shop, of Grayson, Ky. and B. & D. Motors before falling to Ridgeway and placed second, overall in the tourney.

The Grayson team placed fourth, and B. & D., third.

Hall and Clark Agency Representing Allstate

Hall and Clark Insurance Agency, Inc., of Prestonsburg, has been named the representative for Allstate Insurance Companies in Floyd county.

The agency will continue to represent other insurance companies, in addition to representing Allstate.

"I am pleased to add Allstate, one of the best known, most widely accepted names in the business, to our complete insurance lines for people in the Floyd county area," Blaine R. Hall, president of the agency, said.

A native of Floyd county, he has been an insurance agent here for 25 years. He also has been active in the Kiwanis Club, Chamber of Commerce, and in church work.

C. Richard (Dick) Clark, vice-president, has been with the agency for 12 years. He is a graduate of Georgetown College and active in church affairs.

Ruth C. Hall, Juanita Akers and Joan Gibson, the account secretaries, complete the agency staff.

Flood-Damaged Harold Elementary Receives Donations from Ohioans

Textbooks are being handed up to Chris Conn, 11, of Harold, by Cliff Justice, of Lorain, Ohio, in the picture above.

When the April flood left the Harold Elementary School with its library completely destroyed, as well as all classroom furniture and supplies flooded, the outlook was grim indeed.

However, through the efforts of Vance Akers, of Vermillion, O., who was visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Akers in this county when the flood struck, the school has received more than 300 desks with attached chairs, several dozen boxes of textbooks and cash.

The money was given by Mr. Akers and his co-workers at the Ohio Truck Plant in Avon Lake where school officials also donated elementary textbooks. With the help of a former Lorain teacher, Akers contacted Lorain school officials who donated the desks and additional textbooks.

This accomplished, Mr. Akers' sister, Mrs. Marie Conn, president of the Harold School P.T.A., found the Floyd County Board of Education willing to provide transportation via a 40-foot trailer which she, her husband, Ranel Conn, and son, Chris, Kenneth Osborne and Ned Bush accompanied to Lorain.

Kentucky Afield

By JOHN WILSON

"Old Whiskers" isn't much to look at, but he proves the old saying that beauty (or the lack of it) is only skin deep. Under that ugly skin of a catfish there's some really beautiful meat just waiting to be turned into a mouth-watering fish fry.

And a catfish isn't as particular about what he eats as are some of the "fancier" game fish we often wear out our arms and our patience on. He'll take everything from an occasional artificial lure to special home-made concoctions which smell so bad the cat will try to bury them.

The variety of a catfish's appetite is matched only by the number of methods fishermen have devised for catching him. Kentucky anglers go after catfish with everything from cane poles to rods and reels which look like they belong on a deep-sea fishing expedition.

The heaviest tackle will show up below the dams at Kentucky and Barkley Lakes, where anglers "fish the boils" for big blue, channel or flathead cats. For those who want their catfish angling exciting, this is the way to go fishing.

The "boils" are the turbulent areas immediately below the dams where water from the generators is discharged. The water will actually boil up, sometimes as much as 18 inches, above the surrounding surface. In addition to water, the generators also discharge fish which have been sucked into the intakes, and catfish gather at the outlets for an easy meal.

Expert boil fishermen prefer flat-bottom boats with small outboard motors. They run the bow of the boat into the boil, when let the motor hold the craft stationary against the flow of the water.

They then lower a hunk of cut bait directly down into the boil, using a 20 ounce sinker to counteract the upflowing current. And they pull out some monstrous fish. The state record blue catfish, a 100 pounder, was taken from Kentucky Dam.

Needless to say, this type of fishing is for the experienced. Just handling a boat in the boils takes some doing, and it's definitely not the place to take the family for an afternoon's outing. But for those who want their catfish angling a little less exciting, there are suitable waters, and fish, just waiting.

Many farm ponds throughout the state are stocked with channel catfish, and these small bodies of water can offer some fine fishing. Rivers and large streams also offer the opportunity to laze away a hot summer afternoon by sitting in the shade waiting for a catfish to pick up a bait from the bottom.

Or you can try trotlining or limb lining. A limb line is just that—a line with a baited hook tied to an overhanging limb. The limb serves as a rod, its flexibility preventing the fish from jerking loose before the angler gets back to check it.

A trotline, or limb line, may be used by fishermen with a sport fishing license, but the trotlines must have no more than 50 hooks, with the hooks no closer together than 18 inches. These lines must be checked every 24 hours and must be removed from the water after use.

A favorite trotline bait is small bluegill or other bait fish, but cut bait or special catfish mixtures can also be used. For the family on a combined fishing and camping trip, a trotline is sometimes an ideal choice. It can be set just before dark and run just after daylight, freeing the day for swimming, sight-seeing or other amusements.

Of course, some care must be exercised in handling a trotline.

Effects of Strip-Mine Bill?—Coal Men Fail To Agree

Coal men are divided in their reactions to the strip-mine bill planned by the Congress.

Some Kentucky operators see hardships which will put many miners out of business. West Virginia operators say it's no more than what they're already required to do under state law and say they're glad the industry over the country is being required to meet conditions under which they already are working.

In any event, President Carter appears ready to sign the compromise Senate-House measure when and if finally voted.

Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., predicted both the House and Senate would go along with the compromise legislation the committee approved last Thursday.

"There were compromises on both sides, but I think it's a good, strong bill," said Udall. "I think we'll be at the White House sometime during the last 10 days of July for a ceremony I've waited a long time for."

The bill agreed to by the conferees is less stringent than the measure approved by the House in April but stricter than the Senate version approved in May.

It would impose national environmental standards on coal strip mining for the first time and would require coal operators to restore the land they mine to its original contours in most instances.

And it would impose a tax of 35 cents-a-ton on strip-mine coal and 15-cents a ton on deep mined coal to pay for restoration of past strip mine excavations that now scar the landscape.

An estimated 60 per cent of the nation's coal is now produced through strip mining, where layers of topsoil and rock are "stripped" away to get at the underlying coal.

Environmentalists, who have long sought a tough strip-mine bill, said they would have preferred the tougher House-passed bill, but could live with the compromise.

John McCormick, lobbyist for the Environmental Policy Center, said, "The important thing now is to see that it is properly enforced."

Sponsors of the legislation have tried to get it enacted for six years. Former President Gerald R. Ford twice vetoed such a bill.

In resolving major differences between the House and Senate bill, the conferees:

—Agreed to a Senate proposal to give small Appalachian strip mine operators more time—until January 1979—to meet the standards.

—Approved a Senate-passed proposal allowing flat benchlike land resulting from strip mine operations to be left behind by coal operators, but only in instances where this land could be used for a specific public purpose—such as building housing projects or recreational facilities.

—Went along with a plan permitting strip mining in environmentally fragile "alluvial" valleys in the West as long as it does not interfere with farming, rejecting the all-out ban of the House bill. Such valleys contain 2 per cent of the stripable coal in the West.

—Adopted the House proposal that would give western landowners the right to veto or to strike the best deal for the mining of federally owned coal beneath their land.

—Agreed to the Senate rule that strip miners show they can restore prime farm land before being permitted to dig for coal in such areas.

—Rejected a Senate exemption that would have allowed the Tennessee Valley Authority to strip mine in national forests.

Only God Can Make a Tree

By GEORGE L. MOORE

The poet who said, "Only God can make a tree," knew what he was talking about. When we consider the multitude of inanimate objects in this universe, the tree is one of the most important and the most interesting to man.

The products of the forest made it possible for the early settlers to survive. It provided the materials for building their houses; fuel for heating their houses in winter and for cooking their food the year around. In colonial times most of the kitchen utensils were made of wood. There were wooden plates, bowls, forks and spoons. Those who could not afford plates had to settle for a trencher. This consisted of a long, scooped-out piece of wood that extended the full length of the table. All the food was dumped into this trough and all members of the family dipped it out with wooden spoons.

Since we are all surrounded by trees on every hand, it is surprising to learn how little the average person knows about them. It is a rare individual that can identify more than twenty different species. I was amused recently by a student from the University of Vermont. We were standing under the shade of a huge red oak, talking about how the income of the farmers of Appalachia could be increased. He said, "Mr. Moore, I should think that you could realize a considerable sum of money by having this big maple tree cut into two by fours."

Sometimes I sit on my front porch and watch the swaying to and fro of the leaves of the ancient oaks in my front yard. They seem to be whispering to each other, "Little man, five centuries look down upon you, we were firmly anchored in the earth long before you were born. We have felt the numbing chill of the winter winds, the broiling heat of the summer sun; yes, we have survived many generations of God's creatures that roam the earth. Yet we know that the inexorable forces of nature will cause us to wither and die and be replaced with another generation of oaks whose topmost boughs will be reaching for the sky a hundred years from now."

I have always been a sort of Johnny Applesseed character as far as trees are concerned. I have found that trees are like animals: they respond to good treatment. Too many people plant them and then forget them.

My first priority when I purchased a farm was to see to it that all the steep hills were planted to trees. This was some 25 years ago. At that time most people of the hill country thought you had to be some kind of nut to clear a thicket of brush from a hillside and stick it full of small seedlings no larger than a match stem in diameter. One old man, who stopped to visit with me while I was engaged in this kind of work, said, "Son, don't you know that these little sprouts will never amount to nuthin' in yore lifetime? They will never be waist high and if you want my advice you've got too damn many sprouts already". As the old man took his departure, he gave me a look of utter contempt as if to say, "You pore fool; nothing can be done for you."

The man with whom I was talking has long since passed on. The thirty thousand little seedlings are some forty feet tall and more than a foot in diameter. I have worked closely with the Department of Forestry and have some beautiful fields of white pines and white oaks.

If this sounds like braggin', I refer you to what Dizzy Dean said about his pitching. Some said, "Diz, you brag too much." He replied, "It ain't braggin' if you can back it up." I would like to modestly report that I can back it up by showing two Tom Wallace Awards for good forestry practices.

I have never planted a single tree, except locust, with the hope of receiving any financial gain from it in my lifetime, but I have a strong belief that every individual ought to contribute something to posterity.

Jenny Wiley Park Seminar To Study New Constitution

The Kentucky Humanities Council, Lexington, announced last week that it has awarded a grant for $8,249 to the Legislative Research Commission for 10 seminars and six newspaper articles on "Should Kentucky Have a Constitutional Convention?"

Seminars will be held in September and October at Jenny Wiley State Park, Kentucky Dam Village State Park, Owensboro, Bowling Green, Elizabethtown, Somerset, Ashland, Covington, Lexington and Louisville.

The conferences will examine the question, which will appear on the November ballot of calling a constitutional convention. The newspaper-article series, which will be distributed to newspapers throughout the state, will explore the history of Kentucky as it relates to the constitutions of this state.

Schools To Send Leadership Teams To 2-Day Workshops

Local leadership teams from each of Kentucky's school districts have been invited to attend a two-day workshop designed to help them develop skills in staff development.

The Kentucky Department of Education (KDE) is sponsoring five, two-day workshops in July to help local school districts identify processes and gain skills for designing and implementing staff development programs on the local level.

According to Juanita Jones, director of KDE's staff development unit, "The workshops should enable each district to do a much better job of implementing staff development activities through a systematic approach to professional growth." Local school districts have four in-service days a year to be used to promote such activities.

The workshops for this area will be held at Lexington's Continental Inn, July 11-12.

AUCTION

CHILDERS FARM DISPERSAL

JULY 16, 1977

Saturday, 1:30 p.m.

We will sell this beautiful farm located in Powell County, Kentucky, approx. 4 miles by road south of Clay City, Kentucky. This farm is highly improved and is one of the finest farms in Powell County for its size. Containing 100 acres more or less and fronting on Red River for over 1/2 mile. You will find some of the finest river bottom land to be put on the market in this area.

This farm is boundary line fenced and cross fenced. At the present there are approx. 25 acres in clover and the balance is in pasture. For several years Mr. Childers has bred and raised registered Angus cattle. There are feed lots which are fully equipped with feeders, troughs, etc. There is a good barn for which hay and feed can be fed straight to the troughs. There are pens and loading chutes adjacent to the barn. There are 5 ponds stocked with fish, and also running spring water. There is an equipment building with work benches, concrete floor and electric service. There is a corn crib and a tool house. There is a nice, comfortable, brick home having 3 bedrooms, electric baseboard heating system, drilled well with good water, and a cellar house with upstairs storage above it. The yard is well landscaped with a circular drive-way.

The amenities of peace and quiet prevail on this farm, since there is no through traffic or any nearby traffic. The service road from the county road dead ends on this farm. This farm lies in the bend of Red River so it is bounded by 1 boundary fence from the northeast to the southwest and Red River on the other sides. The farm is above flood stage and does not overflow. During a high flood there is approx. 1 acre that the water will back up on. This is one of the most beautiful farms to be ever offered for sale at public auction in Powell County. This farm lies only 45 minutes from downtown Lexington, a 20-minute drive from Winchester or Mt. Sterling, and approx. 1 1/2 hours from Pikeville or Hazard, Kentucky, and is very easy to get to off the Mt. Parkway. This farm will be shown by appointment after June 30, 1977.

Also selling will be a herd of Angus cattle consisting of 8 cows, 6 calves, and one 3-year-old bull. The cows and the bull are registered. The calves could be registered. These cows will calve around Nov. 1, 1977. These are fine cattle and would make a good foundation herd.

Also selling will be farm equipment as follows: A Ford Diesel tractor; new mowing machine; hammer mill; drag harrows; set of cultivator plows; 1960 Chevrolet farm truck with 16-ft. dump bed; a Kemper silage chopper with 2 point hitch, like new; 1966 Chevrolet 1/2-ton pickup; 1 set of bog harrows and a 14-ft. john boat. Also a number of household items of furniture and appliances. Lots of tools, hand tools, barb wire and electric fence, and many other items too numerous to mention.

This farm will be sold in the bulk including all livestock, farm equipment, tools and supplies, except for the pick-up truck, bog harrow, silage chopper and boat which is partnership-owned and will be sold separately, and the right will be reserved to sell the farm equipment and personal properties separately.

You as a prospective buyer will have the opportunity to buy this outstanding farm, intact and ready to move in to. For further information contact the selling agent, and for an appointment to inspect the property before auction time contact the selling agent.

To get to this auction from the East, take the Mt. Parkway to the Clay City exit at the dragstrip and the Kennen Tractor Company, exit, turn left and go approx. 1 mile to the first blacktop road to the right. Turn right and go approx. 1 1/2 miles to the first gravel road to the right, turn, follow road to the farm. From the West take the Mt. Parkway to the Clay City-Irvine exit. Turn right on Hwy. 82, go approx. 1 mile and turn left on the second gravel road after crossing Red River. Follow road to the end, turn left to the farm. Auction arrows will be posted.

OWNERS—J. Gordon Combs and J. O. Briggs
TERMS—10 percent deposit on real estate, or if sold in bulk balance upon passing of deed in 30 days; if sold separately, on personal property CASH before removal.

The Kentucky Land Auction Company

OUTDOOR LORE

by Neville Sherkelford
UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY • COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

Ubiquitous as ragweeds and persistent as broomsedge, blue chicory is a common wayside wildflower of summer. If this weed wasn't so plentiful, it would most likely be of great demand for domesticated flower gardens. It has a beautiful blossom and, according to wildflower artists and other authorities on color, is one of the purest blues in the color spectrum of the floral world.

Because it readily takes to pasture and hayfields, farmers generally hate chicory. It crowds out pasture grasses, adulterates winter hay, and at times and under certain conditions can become an all-around nuisance. But what many American farmers may not know is that in certain parts of Europe, chicory was once cultivated as fodder for livestock. It was also cultivated as a salad plant and its young, tender roots were cooked for table use. And as most everyone knows, the long, fleshy, mulky root has long been dug, dried, roasted and ground and used for adulterating coffee.

In the United States, however, pure food laws prohibit such use without proper notification on the label. For those who may be interested, chicory may easily be detected in ground coffee by putting a spoonful of the mixture in a glass of clear, cold water. The coffee will float on the surface, but the chicory will separate and discolor the water as it precipitates. It is said that years ago when ground coffee began to appear in country grocery stores, backwoods merchants used this testing method to be sure they were getting the "pure coffee" they had bought from the drummer.

Old in story, chicory is also known as succory and sometimes as "Blue Sailors." In the first century before Christ, the Roman poet, Horace, mentions it as being part of his frugal fare while he was living and writing his epodes, odes, satires and epistles on his farm in the Sabine Hills in the ancient Italian province of Latium. As history records, the Sabines were tillers of the soil, simple in tastes and without exception, extremely strong physically. Their great strength was reputed to come from chicory which they ate in great quantities.

Old Pliny was impressed by the supposed virtues of chicory and in his writings mentioned it as an important item of diet of ancient Egyptians.

Chicory is classified under the terrible name, "Cichorium intybus," and it grows from Newfoundland to Minnesota and southward to the Gulf of Mexico. It grows, as the poet said, "Not in Ladies' gardens, but in upland pastures and by the dusty roads where tired feet toil and racing wheels go to and fro."
