

Miners on Strike As Benefits Cut

Capital Parley On Fund Crisis Held Failure

The Pikeville office of District 30, United Mine Workers, said Monday that approximately 9,000 union miners in the district remain off the job in protest of the cutback on UMW benefit funds.

Coal production by independent operators also may have been curtailed to some extent as pickets asked truck drivers to stop hauling coal. Mark Bailey, executive secretary of Coal Operators and Associates, Pikeville, said, however, that he thinks few independent mines have been affected. Addington Brothers' truckers were moving Tuesday morning under Kentucky State Police escort.

While the unauthorized strike situation remained without radical change an effort was made to reach a solution of the health benefits problem. Arnold Miller, UMW president, met with Bituminous Coal Operators Association officials in Washington Monday, presumably to ask the operators to help the health benefits program with an allocation from the pension trust fund, but there was no indication of success.

Incidents of violence growing out of the strike were at a minimum. A fire which Friday night caused an estimated $20,000 damage to the independent Witten Coal and Mining Co. tippie at Van Lear was suspected of having been deliberately set, but there was no indication that the blaze had any connection with the strike. The Witten operation had been mentioned at a meeting of miners at Jenny Wiley State Park last Thursday as a possible target for picketing, but pickets had not appeared there.

C. & O. Promises End To Goble-Roberts Traffic Blockage

Prestonsburg city officials were assured by representatives of the C. & O. Railway system at last Thursday night's meeting of the city council that steps would be taken to correct the extended tie-ups of traffic caused by railway activity in the Goble-Roberts Addition area.

City Manager Curtis Clark said activity on the tracks at the approach to Goble-Roberts had tied up traffic in that vicinity for as long as three hours.

Porter Gray, representative of the Chessie legal department said corrections would be made and "that under no circumstances would the gates blocking the rails stay down more than 15 minutes at a time."

P'burg Utilities Seek Receivers For Auxier Firm

The Prestonsburg City Utilities Commission last week filed suit in circuit court to collect from Forrest Music, doing business as the Auxier Water Company, $32,542.15 which the commission claims was due as of July 11 for water sold at a wholesale rate to Music for distribution to Auxier area customers.

Meanwhile, the commission continues to supply water to Auxier, explaining in its suit that it has been reluctant to discontinue the service, since residents of that area would have no other source of supply.

The court was asked to appoint a receiver to handle affairs of the Auxier company and also requested that the Prestonsburg water commission be given a lien on all the assets of the Auxier system, such lien to be superior to any held by the Citizens Bank of Paintsville or the First National Bank of Prestonsburg.

In order to provide a continuity of operation of the defendant company, the Public Service Commission was made a party-defendant in the suit.

Farm Re-Visited by Windstorm

While most of the country was sweltering, a storm whipped up in the Cliff area last Thursday morning, shortly after midnight, and for the third time in two months created damage on the Sam George farm there. In the distance is the partially deroofed barn. In foreground are contents of a utility building which was picked up and scattered for a distance of a hundred yards.

State Demands Plans After Church Built

The Pine Grove Baptist Church at Price will soon open its new building for worship services—if the state doesn't stop the construction job that is now better than 90 percent complete.

The small Southern Baptist congregation at Price and in the surrounding area began planning a new sanctuary three years ago. Its members began contributing to the building fund. The site was cleared of trees, blasting was done in preparation of the foundation. Pastor, deacons, men, women—everybody worked.

A large sign outside proclaimed that this was "The Future Home of the Pine Grove Baptist Church."

After all that and with completion a matter of weeks away, a state fire inspector—whose residence is nearby—demanded that the Rev. Ishmel Elliott, pastor and leader of the building enterprise, produce the plans for the building.

There were no plans. The small congregation had extended itself in the effort to finance the undertaking, had raised approximately $12,000, and had borrowed more money from a bank. It had no money for the feeing of an architect; in fact, it had not considered that an architect was needed.

$224,920 Asked For Flood Help In This County

Kentucky communities will be getting $4 million in federal funds to help alleviate unmet needs resulting from this spring's disastrous flooding in Eastern Kentucky.

Prestonsburg-Martin-Floyd county has applied for $224,920 in block grant money.

The $4 million is in block grants from U.S. Housing and Urban Development Secretary Patricia Harris' discretionary fund for disasters. It will be allocated through HUD's area office in Louisville.

In addition, HUD's regional office in Atlanta is providing $100,000, to be matched with $50,000 in state funds, to help the communities implement their plans for using the block grant money. This $150,000 will be allocated through the state Department for Local Government.

Gov. Carroll noted that six applications, totaling $3.4 million, already have been submitted for the block grant money, for projects having a total estimated cost of $6.6 million.

Those applicants, and the amount each requested, are: Williamsburg, $300,000; Pikeville, $590,000; Pineville-Bell county, $998,705; Prestonsburg-Martin-Floyd county, $224,920; Martin county, $325,000 and Pike county, $962,300.

In addition, Neon, Middlesboro and Harlan-Loyal-Harlan county have applications well along and three or four other communities are in the process of applying for the grants. The deadline for applying is July 13.

McDowell ARH Begins Layoff Of Employees

Benefits Cutback Reduces Hospital Service Demands

Reduced health and retirement benefits to members of the United Mine Workers will result in layoffs of employees at the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital this week and in all probability more next week.

Edward Collins, administrator of the McDowell hospital, said Monday morning that he was not certain how many will be laid off but that the layoff notice was due for posting by 3 o'clock that afternoon.

Mr. Collins said one doctor who has been on vacation returned to work Monday, another was to return Tuesday, but the extent to which medical services will be in demand will determine the number of layoffs next week.

The drop in demand for medical services, with a resultant layoff of hospital workers, followed the cutback of medical benefits by the UMW Health and Retirement Fund (popularly known as The Fund). Until the reduced benefits were announced, miners' health expenses were paid entirely by The Fund, which was subsidized by the Bituminous Coal Operators' Association. Now, the miners must pay the first $250 of their hospital bills and 40 per cent of doctor bills.

Although McDowell and the other eight hospitals in the ARH chain are most severely affected, the miners' loss of benefits is expected to hit all hospitals authorized by The Fund to accept beneficiaries for treatment.

ARH President Dr. David Heydinger said in an open letter to employees that the effects of the cutbacks will be "devastating."

Heydinger said the system's cash flow will be reduced by several million dollars in the coming year, a situation that "is impossible for the Appalachian system to withstand."

Heydinger pointed out that the hospital system has already lost $1 million

Eddie Jones' Term Set at Two Years On Plea of Guilty

Edward R. (Eddie) Jones, of Lackey, entered a plea of guilty last week in U.S. district court at Pikeville to a charge of receiving and possessing a firearm, and was sentenced to a two-year prison term by U.S. District Judge H. David Hermansdorfer.

The federal conviction grew out of his arrest in April, 1972 on the weapon possession charge. Because he had been convicted earlier of a felony charge while in Army service, the gun possession was a breach of federal law.

Jones was cleared last March of a murder charge in which he was accused of the slaying at Garrett of Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Conley on April 12, 1972, the same day he was arrested on the weapons count. The trial was held in Pikeville on a change of venue from this county.

SOUND ADVICE

Returning to this desk after a week of freedom, I was inclined to accept the advice the lawyer gave his client who had been sentenced to the electric chair. When the condemned man asked his mouthpiece for a bit of counsel, the lawyer simply said, "Don't sit down."

SUMMER RERUN

Time was when county schools got going, along about this time of year. The crops were pretty well "laid by," the young'uns could be spared from the farm, and an early start on the six-month school term would get them out by the time winter was at its worst.

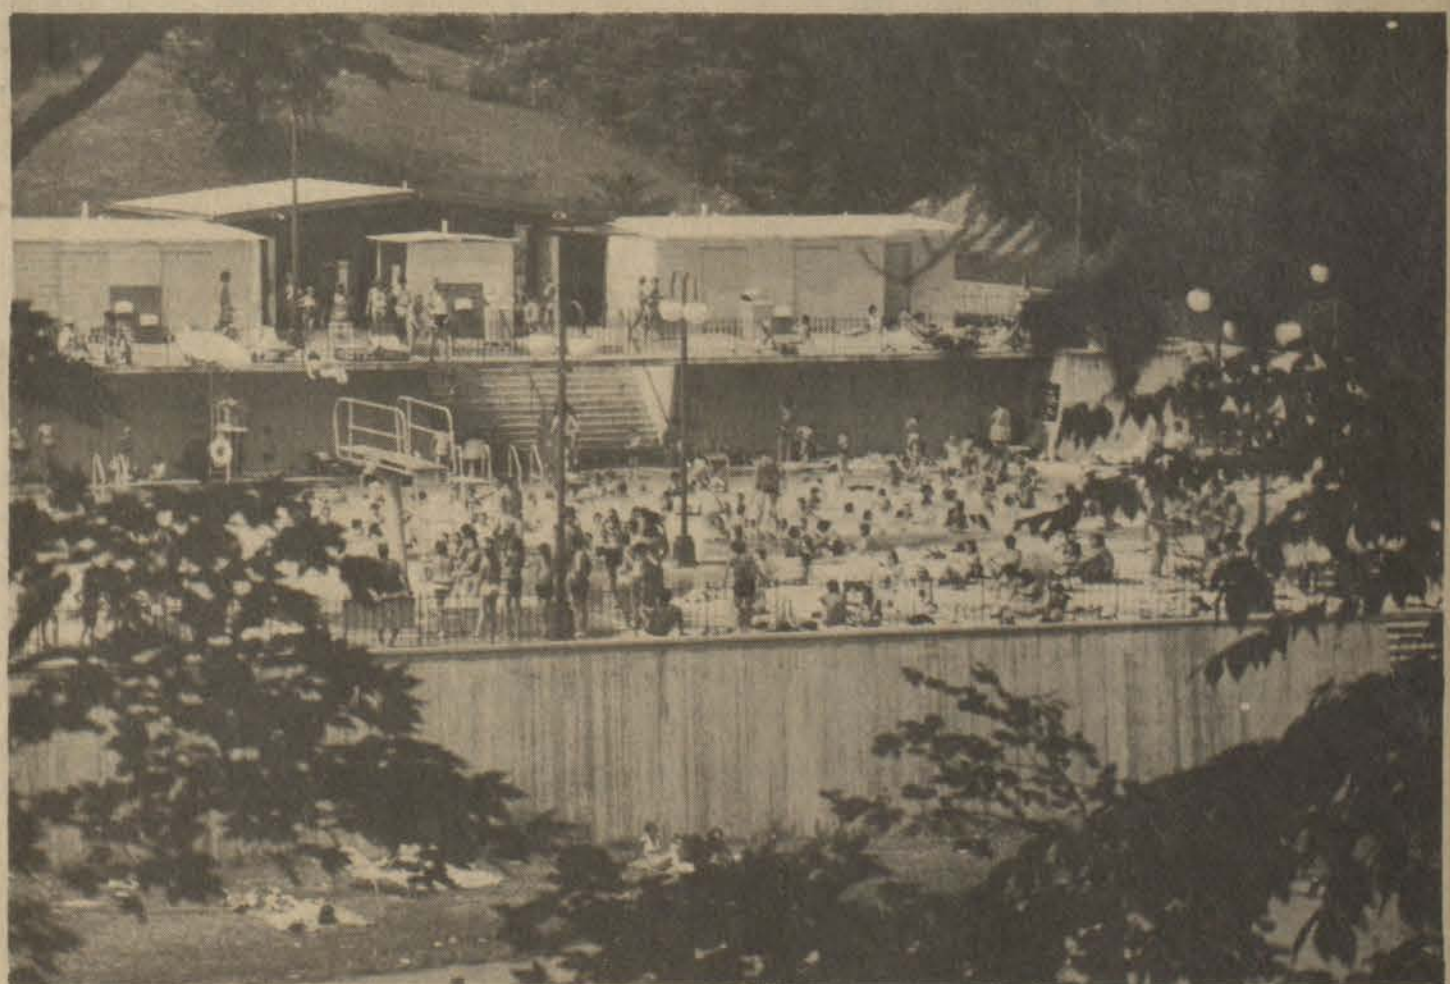

I suppose anybody who ever attended one of those schools has a lot of recollections that to him or her are more precious or amusing or even more tragic than they can ever be to those who merely hear or read about them.

In our school there inevitably was a pet sheep, usually one of the male persuasion, which came to school with malevolent intent or which soon acquired a predilection for taking dead aim and ramming his head into the backside of the first innocent boy whose path he crossed.

Why, I'm so old I can remember the day when we forsook the good, old democratic custom of using the common drinking cup, or dipper, for those

Heat-Weary Jam Pool, Park

The crowded Jenny Wiley State Park pool at Stratton Branch is indicative of the rush to escape the heat last week-end when the park, Dewey Lake and environs had one of the largest non-holiday crowds ever to visit the area.

These youngsters were among 100 Floyd county children who left from the courthouse here Monday morning, guests of the Big Sandy Community Action Program, on a bus trip to Mammoth Cave. The same number went from Pike county, and CAP will later host trips for disadvantaged youngsters in other counties of the five-county district, John Milton Stumbo, coordinator, said.

SS Co-op Holds Annual Meeting

Rondel R. Prater, of Hueysville and Lloyd Wells, of Auxier were elected to the local Advisory Board-Stockholder Committee at the Southern States Annual Membership meeting held here on July 8. Over 60 stockholder-members and their families attended the session.

Mr. Wells, of Auxier was named chairman of the local board-committee, while Charles Hicks, of Blue River was picked as vice-chairman.

Elected to the local Southern States Farm Home Advisory Committee were: Mrs. Troy Blackburn, and Mrs. J. G. Steppe, both of Prestonsburg.

Mrs. Steppe was also chosen as chairperson of the Farm Home Advisory Committee while Mrs. Blackburn was named secretary.

Mr. Wells was chosen as a delegate to represent the local membership at the Southern States Cooperative's 54th Annual Stockholders Meeting to be held in November. Rondel Prater was named alternate.

Jesse Whitehouse, of Huntington, W. Va., a member of Southern States Cooperative's regional staff, in reporting on the over-all operations of the co-op for the past year, told the session that volume was over $375 million. His report also pointed out that cooperatives are an integral part of the private free enterprise system that has helped make the United States the greatest country in the world. Cooperatives are different though, from other businesses, in that the members (farmers, in the case of farm co-ops) who own and control them are the primary users. Also, the main emphasis is on helping the farmer-member realize maximum profits from his farming operation.

The report on local operations and services rendered to farmer members was given by Kenneth Meade manager of Prestonsburg Farm & Home Store.

There was also a special recognition ceremony for new board-committee members, Farm Home Advisory Committee members, as well as those from these groups who were retiring. These included: Perry Prater, Ballard Stone, Mrs. Ollie Wallen, Mrs. Edward Hatfield, Mrs. Troy Blackburn, and Mrs. J. G. Steppe.

USE OF FUNDS

THE U.S. LABOR Department encourages state and local governments receiving funds under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act to use part of their money to assist offenders and ex-offenders. During fiscal 1976, they allocated about $85 million under the act to provide this group with special counseling, employment and training services.

Danger of N.Y.-Type Blackout Unlikely Says Kentucky Power

The possibility of a widespread power outage similar to that which affected much of New York City last week is virtually out of the question in the service territory of the American Electric Power System, of which Kentucky Power is a part.

That assurance came from Waldo S. La Fon, executive vice president of Kentucky Power.

He said that the AEP System has been developed over the years on the principles of widely dispersed generating units, which are integrated and interconnected with a highly protected high-voltage transmission system and has been designed, engineered and built with reliability uppermost in mind.

"AEP has in service more than 1,300 miles of 765,000-volt transmission lines, largest in the world. And additions to that system are being added at the present," he said. "This extra-high-voltage network makes it possible for AEP operating companies to ship and receive large blocks of electric energy over greater distances and to operate with greater flexibility than ever before."

He added that on many occasions large power generating units have been lost without affecting electric service to a single customer. The transmission network makes it possible for losses of generation in one section of the system to be picked up immediately from other locations.

"Every major community on the AEP System has more than one source of power available to it from our transmission network," Mr. La Fon said.

In addition to its own wholly-integrated power transmission system, AEP has more transmission interconnections—nearly 100—with neighboring electric companies than any other system in the nation, thus making it possible, should it become necessary, to receive assistance from many non-affiliated companies.

State Police Stress Crime Prevention

"Crime prevention will be a total State Police program" and will become a routine function for all troopers, sergeants and detectives, according to a memorandum to all Kentucky State Police personnel from Commissioner Ken Brandenburg.

"Burglary is our most serious problem, and that's what our prevention effort will concentrate on," Brandenburg said.

Earlier this month, Justice Secretary John L. Smith announced that all state troopers would be carrying several engraving pens for Operation Identification, a crime prevention program that consists of individuals marking their valuables with the initials KY and their social security numbers.

Routine crime prevention duties that troopers and detectives will now assume include enrolling citizens in Operation Identification; assisting homeowners, businesses and farms in identifying basic security weaknesses and encouraging their correction, and continuing to make crime prevention materials accessible to citizens throughout the Commonwealth.

The Office of Crime Prevention has already provided each State Police post with the necessary Kentucky Crime Check materials, including the engraving pens for Operation Identification, Smith said. Brandenburg said that each trooper and detective will carry a supply of markers and Crime Check stickers with him, together with home, business and farm security tips.

"The unique aspects of the program are twofold: Every state trooper will be involved, and, we are going to take crime prevention to the citizens, instead of waiting for people to ask us for the service," according to Brandenburg.

Most law enforcement agencies across Kentucky have been enforcing crime prevention services since May, 1975, when Gov. Julian Carroll initiated the statewide crime prevention effort.

According to Brandenburg's memorandum, public information officers at each State Police post have been carrying the crime prevention load, with some degree of success in motivating citizens to take effective prevention measures. These officers will continue to coordinate the State Police effort, Brandenburg said.

"With all personnel involved now, we are going to realize more citizen involvement, and hope to make crime prevention a part of daily living habits for all the citizens we serve, particularly in the rural areas of the Commonwealth," Brandenburg said.

He said citizens in areas where the State Police are "their police department" can expect to be contacted by a trooper who will assist them in joining "Operation Identification" and having a free security survey.

ADVISES CHECKING CORN FOR PESTS

With higher than normal populations of corn rootworm adult beetles and Japanese beetles appearing in Kentucky this year, farmers are being advised to check their corn fields for signs of the pests at silking time.

"Both insects can severely prune silks, reduce kernel-set, and cause a loss in yield," says Wesley Gregory, Extension entomologist in the UK College of Agriculture.

Farmers have a choice of two recommended insecticide products to control the two corn-damaging beetles—Sevin (carbaryl) or Diazinon. Gregory suggests making two applications three to five days apart, starting when corn is 40 percent silked, if infestation averages five or more rootworm beetles or three or more Japanese beetles per ear.

Instructions on the insecticide container should be followed. More detailed information also is available at county Extension offices.

UK Plans Appalachian Center

A two-year, $125,000 grant for the development of an Appalachian Center has been awarded to the University of Kentucky by the Rockefeller Foundation, New York City. An earlier Rockefeller Foundation grant of $35,000 financed a year of planning for the multidisciplinary center. Creation of the Center awaits action by UK faculty senate and the UK Board of Trustees. UK President Otis A. Singletary said, "We believe the Appalachian Center to be a 'natural' for this institution—and have really high expectations for it." Project director for planning and development of the Center, to be located on the Lexington campus, is Douglas Arnett, former instructor in Appalachian Studies at Ohio University and a doctoral candidate in political science at Duke University. Planning coordinator is UK professor David S. Walls of the College of Social Professions, a former director of Appalachian Volunteers in Kentucky.

The UK Appalachian Center would be, in Arnett's words, "a permanent research institute committed to the socioeconomic, political and educational well being of the people who live in Eastern Kentucky and the multi-state Appalachian region. The UK Appalachian Center would also involve itself in teaching and service and would "engage in only a few highly selective activities during the first few years." It would cooperate with existing Appalachian programs, with other researchers, and with mountain people themselves. UK won the planning grant partly because of "great interest within the University" and a "corps of talented and knowledgeable faculty and staff people with special commitment to Appalachia," said Dr. John Stephenson, UK dean of undergraduate studies, who also serves on the planning committee for the new Center. In its grant application, UK cited the resources of its 17 separate colleges, its libraries, its already-operating service programs in agriculture, medicine, education and social work within Appalachian East Kentucky, and its research facilities which are the most comprehensive in Kentucky.

Attend U.K. Majorette Camp

The majorettes attended the National Spirit & Sports Camp July 10-14, at the University of Kentucky where they received the following awards: forty-seven individual blue ribbons for superior performances; eight red ribbons for excellent ratings; seven pink ribbons based on outstanding showmanship and for "working harder than anyone else" in their class. Miss Ousley was presented a trophy for her solo performance.

Hot Weather Slows Fishing

Frankfort, Ky., July 18—The latest heat wave to sweep Kentucky has pushed surface water temperatures to the upper 80's and low 90's on the state's major lakes, reduced fishing pressure and generally slowed fishing. The lake-by-lake rundown, as compiled by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources:

BUCKHORN: Bluegill good off banks; white bass good at night over main channel; black bass fair at night with some catfish still fishing nightcrawlers off shallow banks; in tailwaters, trout fair; clear, stable, 1½ feet above pool and 85 degrees.

CUMBERLAND: Crappie fair to good on the lower lake drifting minnows over deep cover in inlets and bays; bluegill slow to fair still and drift fishing worms and crickets off banks and around stumps on the upper lake and off steep banks on the lower lake; black bass slow on the upper lake early mornings on surface lures off banks; in tailwaters, trout fair to good, catfish fair; clear, falling, 36 feet below the timberline and 88 degrees.

LAUREL: Trout fair at night still fishing cheese and worms off deep banks; crappie fair late evenings still fishing minnows and worms in inlets and bays; clear, stable at power pool and 80 degrees.

KENTUCKY: Sauger fair trolling deep runners and drifting minnows over ridge tops and gravel bars; white bass fair at night around bridge piers and rip rap; in tailwaters, catfish and sauger slow to fair; clear, stable at pool and 87 degrees.

Child Education Degree Offered

The Kentucky Department of Education has stipulated minimal qualifications for Instructional Aides who work in public and private early childhood education programs. A national Childhood Development Associate (CDA) degree program has also recently been developed. This program requires certain competencies in order to qualify an aide or teacher as a CDA Associate.

In order to meet these state and national requirements, Pikeville College is now offering an Associate of Arts degree in Early Childhood Education. The program is open to anyone interested, and is particularly recommended for people who are working in area and regional child care programs such as public and private day care centers, private nursery schools and kindergartens, headstart programs, and KIPP programs.

Dr. Presley Pendergrass, chairman of the college's Division of Human Development (formerly Education and Psychology), said that the Early Childhood program will also provide a vehicle for those people who eventually want to enter and complete four-year degree certification program at Pikeville College.

Admission to the program for this coming fall semester is still open and financial assistance is available. For more information call 432-3161, extension 334.

Two Are Awarded Music Scholarships

Due to the high level of talent presented at the recent auditions for the Jesse Elliott Music Scholarship, the Eastern Highlands Music Educators Association has elected to award two separate scholarships. One will go to Stephen C. Rice, pianist and trombonist, and one will go to Dee Dee Kalos, vocalist.

Miss Kalos, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Kalos, of Hager Hill, presented two songs of contrasting style. One was sung in the vernacular German, while her second song captured the mood of American spiritualism. Miss Kalos sang with considerable control and finesse, and in a most impressive range.

She has been a member of the Kentucky All-State Chorus for two years, received a Division I for the past 2 years as vocal-soloist as well as participating in various ensembles and choruses. In 1976 she was chosen vocalist to represent this area at KMEA and also placed fourth in the state at KMTA in Lexington. She was the music director of Little's Theater production of Lil' Abner at the Jenny Wiley Amphitheater this past June.

A 1977 graduate of Prestonsburg High School, Miss Kalos plans to attend Eastern Kentucky University this fall to pursue a music education.

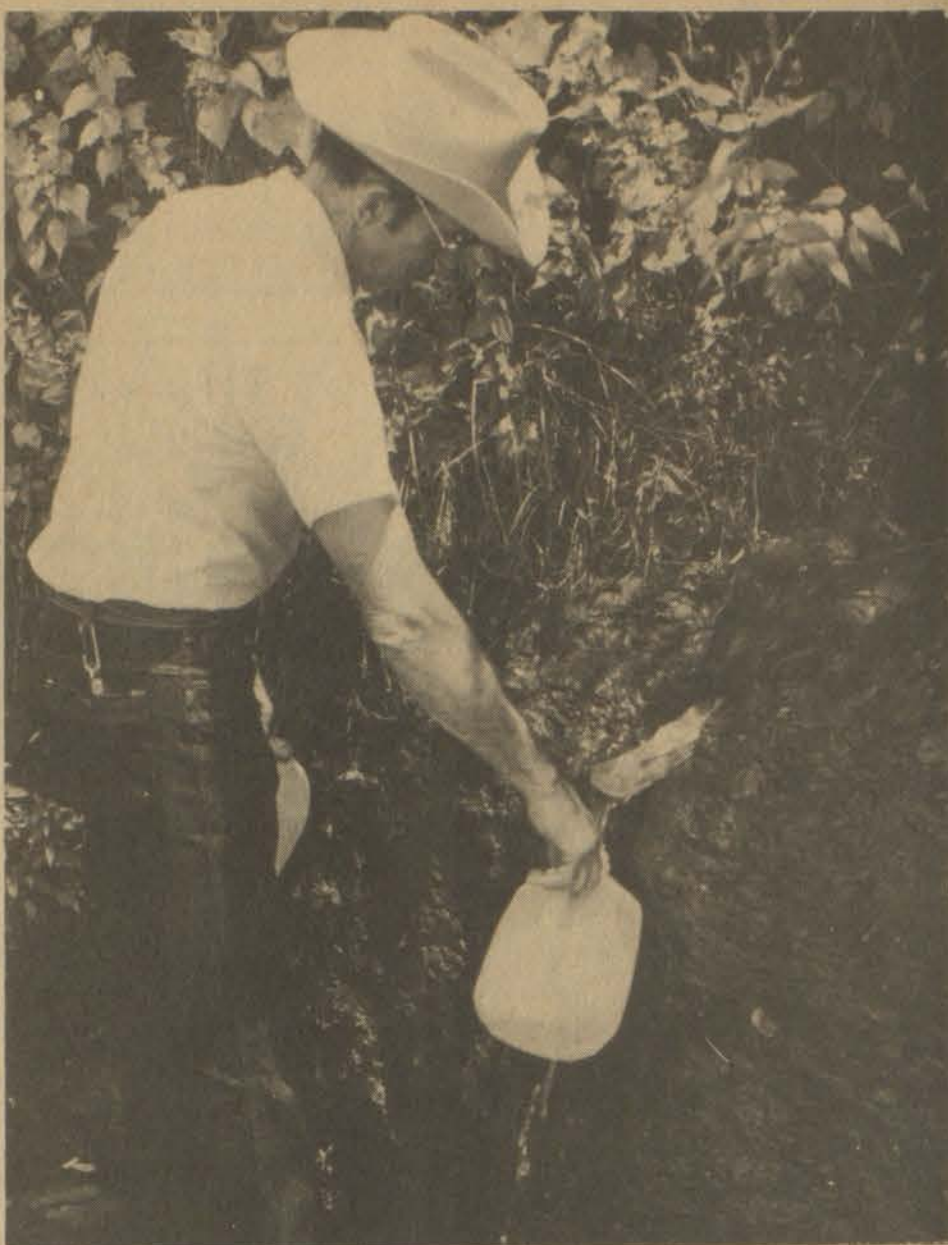

Stephen Rice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Rice, of Banner, performed the piano work Serenade by Claude Debussy. A third-year piano student of Mrs. Patricia Klatka, he was able to add a sound interpretation to the sometimes difficult French Impressionistic composer. His second presentation, on trombone, included a challenging theme and variation, and Rice showed well his ability to master the changing rhythms of the variation form.

He has played both trombone and baritone in ensembles over the past eight years receiving approximately 35 superior ratings. He was elected Most Outstanding Piano Student of 1976 and was named Mr. Music of Betsy Layne High School for the 1975-'77 school years.

He plans to attend Pikeville College this fall to major in music.

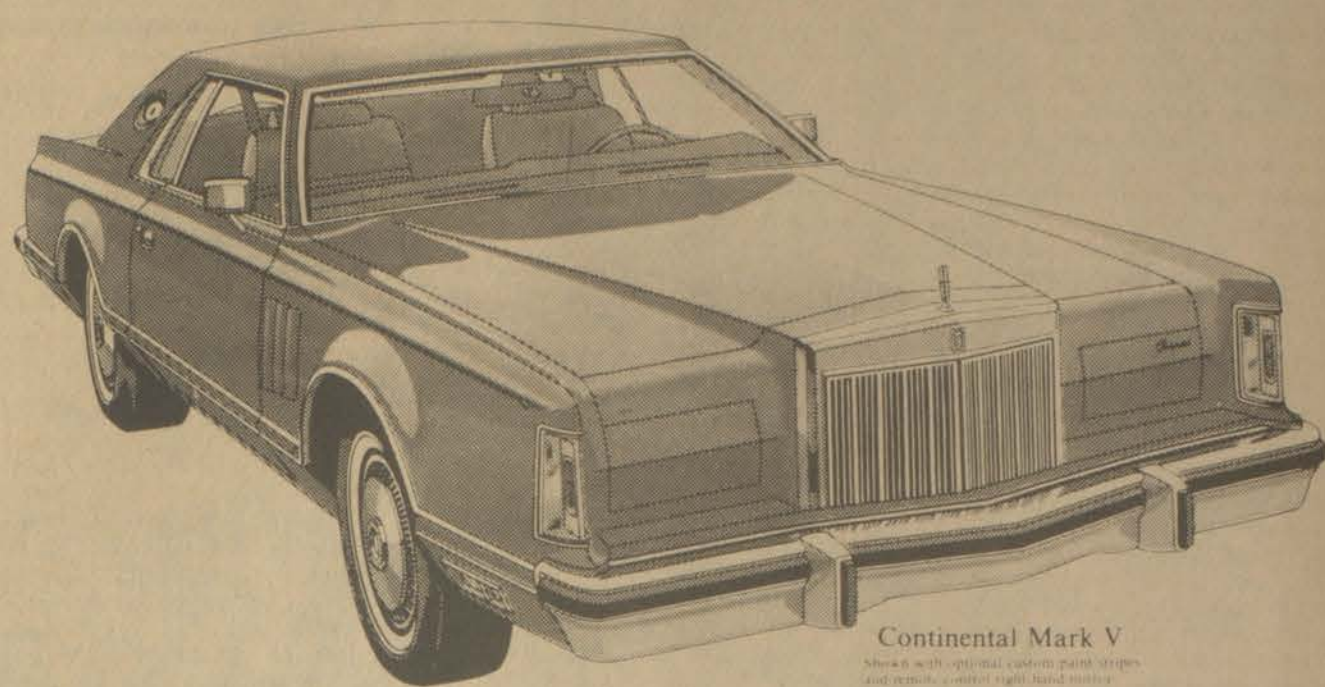

Eastern Highlands Music Educators Association annually presents these scholarships to the outstanding senior who plans to major in music in memory of Jesse Elliott.

Springs, Popular Water Source

John Howard, of Garrett, is only one of many who collect drinking water from the numerous springs that border KY 80 in the Wayland-Garrett-Lackey section. It's not that people don't have other, more convenient sources of water—Mr. Howard, for example, has a good, drilled well—it's just that the cold water that flows from the springs is favored for its taste. Many area natives, in fact, who have moved to other states, reportedly take back gallons of the water, undoubtedly as a reminder of "home" as well as a source of pure drinking water. The springs, which are actually seepage from an underground water source, were tapped by mining of a cannel coal seam along the road, decades ago.

Four Floyd County students have been named to the Dean's Honor List at Berea College, Berea, Ky. for the term just completed. They are:
 Patricia Watson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Watson, of Route 1, Martin; Sandra Ousley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Ousley, of David; Jolene Crawford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delzie Crawford, of Melvin, and Timothy Crawford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Manis Crawford, of Melvin.
 To be eligible for the Dean's List a student must receive a grade of B or better in all of four or more courses.
 Berea is a private liberal arts college offering tuition-free education to its students, primarily from the Southern Appalachian region.

MAKE FROZEN YOGURT IN ICE CREAM FREEZER

Frozen yogurt is a real crowd-pleaser, a nutritious summer dairy dessert. It need not be store-bought either.
 Get out the old wooden ice cream freezer, or one of those new-fangled electric models, and make your own. It will taste similar to the commercial product, but it won't cost nearly as much.

Here's the recipe from Dr. Sherrell Foree, UK Extension nutritionist, who starts you out with yogurt that you make at home for about 22c per serving. Use scalded whole milk, because the butter fat makes a smoother-textured frozen product. You could substitute skim-milk, but then add 1 cup whipping cream for the butterfat and smooth texture.

Heat 3 quarts of whole milk to 140 degrees Fahrenheit (or just scald it). Cool it to 120 degrees (lukewarm), then stir in 6 tablespoons of unflavored commercial yogurt.

Put the yogurt in two or three big glass jars (such as 3-pound peanut butter jars) or a crock container and set in a warm place (85 to 110 degrees) for 3 to 6 hours. Or you could leave it overnight, but no longer than 8 hours.

Your oven is a good place to incubate the yogurt. If you have a gas oven with a constant pilot light, put the yogurt on the middle rack and shut the door.

To use an electric oven, place a pan full of boiling water (3 or 4 cups) on the lower rack and shut the door. Replace the boiling water every hour or so.

Don't stir the yogurt while it's incubating. It should be about the consistency of commercial yogurt when it's ready. When you tip the jar, mixture should move slightly without flowing (the consistency of custard or thick gravy).

Now refrigerate the yogurt until it is thoroughly chilled, ready for making frozen yogurt.

- Frozen Yogurt
 6 cups chilled homemade yogurt
 1½ cups sugar or honey (omit if you like a less-sweet dessert)
 3 envelopes unflavored gelatin (softened in ¾ cup cold water)
 ¼ teaspoon salt
 1½ cups evaporated milk
 1½ cups sliced peaches, blueberries or other fruit

Scald the evaporated milk, stirring once in a while to keep film from forming. Add sugar or honey, salt and softened gelatin. Allow mixture to cool.

Puree fruit with a blender, or mash it with a fork. Stir the fruit and homemade yogurt into the cooled milk mixture and refrigerate for 2 hours or more. Now, transfer it to your ice cream freezer and proceed as for ice cream.

Make it before dinner and then let it "ripen" until you serve it. In case there's any left, put it in a regular freezer container before it melts and store it in the freezer.

One cup of frozen yogurt provides nutritive value similar to that in 1 cup of milk.

Miss Akers in ALC Production

Felix (left), one half of "The Odd Couple", played by Harold Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Hamilton, of Hazard, seems to be recovering from the effects of his recent divorce with the help of his upstairs neighbors, the Pigeon sisters, in Neil Simon's hit comedy which will be presented at 7:30 p.m. this Thursday and Friday (July 22, 23) at Alice Lloyd College. The Pigeon sisters are played by Lelisa Akers (right), daughter of Nellis Martin, of Galveston, in Floyd county; and Sandy Marshall, daughter of Ova C. Marshall, of Isom, a May graduate of ALC. "The Odd Couple" is a production of ALC's Appalachian Summer Theater. A second production, "Jack Goes Courtin'" will be presented at 2 p.m. Sunday (July 24), on the ALC campus. Both plays are presented free of charge.

Damage Actions Filed Last Week List Coal Firms

Coal companies were named in three of four damage suits filed in circuit court here last week and asking a total of more than a million dollars. In one of the actions Dewey Waters, owner of a gas lease, one oil well and two gas wells on the J. W. James property on Johns Creek, seeks to recover from the Circle C Coal Company, which leased and mined coal on the same tract, $180,000 damages, plus $100,000 punitive damages. Waters claims the coal company broke four gas lines and that in a 40-day period gas escaped into the atmosphere to his damage of $8,700. For allegedly cutting and destroying his access roads to the oil well and tank and creating surface conditions which resulted in slides, falling of trees and road blockage over a period of 15 months he asks $29,700. Plaintiff's loss of profits from closed roadways was placed at $190,000. An even heavier damage of $140,000 is claimed on the allegation that plaintiff's rights of drilling and locating new wells were hindered and held in abeyance for 18 months. In another action James Webb, Jr., Blanch Vicars, Imogene Radden, Bernice and Herman Porter ask of Adams Coal Enterprises, Inc., lessor of coal on their holdings, $250,000 for ending production from two gas wells from 1973 to the present time and for pushing overburden over one producing well, breaking the casing and causing loss of gas. Plaintiffs also ask $500,000 future damage to a well whose production was described as "totally and completely lost. An added $35,000 was asked for loss of profits over a five-year period, plus $5,000 damages on one occasion to a producing well now in operation, and $1800 cost of repair. They ask that the coal lease be cancelled. Orbin Moore and others sued Premium Elkhorn Coal Corp., alleging that the company entered upon their land, constructed a roadway and changed the natural boundary of the tract. They ask $50,000 compensatory and $25,000 punitive damages. Plaintiffs also ask 15 cents per ton for coal hauled over their land. They placed the coal hauled at 700,000 tons. In the fourth suit Lona Meade, administratrix of the estate of Herbert Meade, seeks the recovery of $10,000 from Genex-Greer, Inc. on the contention that when Meade was employed on Feb. 1, 1976 the company agreed to insure his life for $10,000 payable in the event of accidental death to his estate. Meade was killed, the petition says, April 29, 1976 while at work. Since that time, it is claimed, the defendant has denied all liability for the amount of $10,000 and did, in fact, fail to insure decedent's life. (Reports of damage actions provide only the plaintiff's side of such cases.)

MARTIN REUNION The Martin family will hold a reunion August 7 at Jenny Wiley State Park near the Skyline.

In Memoriam

(In Memory of Raben Pratt) Your gentle face and patient smile With sadness we recall You had a kindly word for each And died beloved by all. The voice is mute and stilled the heart That loved us well and true, Ah, bitter was the trial to part From one so good as you. You are not forgotten loved one Nor will you ever be, As long as life and memory last We will remember thee.

We miss you now, our hearts are sore, As time goes by we miss you more. Your loving smile, your gentle face, No one can fill your vacant place. Mother, Daddy and Sisters

Summer Is a Busy Time for Youths

Some youths use money they've earned to buy a bicycle, pay for a camping trip or maybe to purchase a tape recorder or the like, but at Woodsbend State Boys Camp in Morgan County, it is used to buy a horse and four pigs.

"We have two horses now," said Clyde Mays, assistant camp superintendent. "The boys made enough money at last year's Sorghum Festival in West Liberty to buy another horse and the pigs. Now they are anxious to get started on building a small barn to shelter the animals."

The camp, located a few miles west of West Liberty, is a treatment center for youths under guidance of the Kentucky Department for Human Resources. At present there are 44 boys being rehabilitated at the center.

Established in the 1960s, the facility occupies a broad valley in one of the region's most scenic areas. Green meadows stretch far into the distance to meet hills that rise gently from the valley floor.

Together with the camp program, caring for the animals and participating in varied activities, the youths are kept busy.

"We're planning a camping trip to Grayson Lake State Park," said Mays, "and later on in the year a trip to Dale Hollow Lake. The boys also are working on roadside clearing, a job they undertake twice each summer."

The road work is on route 205, from the junction with US 460 at Grassy Creek all the way to the camp. Youths clear away bushes and weeds, even trees, for about 30 feet on each side of the road that leads to the place that is home to them for about three or four months. A talk with homeowners along the road will let anyone know how much they appreciate the boys' work.

One reward for their labors is access to two swimming pools. Mays explained that youths painted the Kiwanis Community pool in West Liberty and the pool at Pleasant Valley Country Club, not far from camp, and in return get to use the pools each week.

"Each boy also does woodworking, and most of them are working on a bench or stool to take home with them when they leave," said Mays. "They soon will start work on furniture items to sell at the Sorghum Festival in West Liberty in October."

For the past three festivals, youths at the state facility have sold handmade benches, tables, stools, and other items from trees that neighbors want removed from their land or trees that have blown over in windstorms. The furniture is handsome and beautifully finished in a way that is both rustic and elegant and is extremely durable.

"The money they make this way and from other projects," explained Mays, "goes into the camp canteen. That's how they got the two horses and pigs. The boys do work for nearby landowners and farmers, and the money they make on week-ends or after 4 p.m. is their own personal money to keep."

In the autumn youths contract to area farmers to help house tobacco and do other necessary farm work.

"This work and caring for the horses and pigs as well as planting and caring for a two-acre garden is quite satisfying to the boys," said the assistant superintendent. "A great many of those here are from large towns where they've had no opportunity to get to know animals. It means a lot to them."

The boys will build the barn on land of Mrs. Eva May who lives next door to the camp. "We don't know what we'd do without her," Mays said. "She lets the boys keep the pigs on her land and has done much to help out here through the years."

Youths from the Woodsbend camp traveled to Danville recently to assist in getting a new facility, the Danville Treatment Complex, ready for its opening.

"Of all things the youths have been involved with, their trip to Pineville to help flood victims, has been the most meaningful," Mays said. "Two boys kept diaries of their experiences in the flood area and all of them were able to put into practice what we teach them here at Woodsbend and other similar facilities. They cared for the flood victims and pitched right into help them. They spent two weeks in Pineville and did such a great job they got a memo of appreciation from Commissioner Jack Lewis. The boys felt real good about that."

Any Sunday afternoon when visitors arrive at the camp they might find everyone busy. Youths could be in the garden, playing softball, feeding the pigs, putting an extra touch on a tree-slab table or working out plans for that new barn. Right now, plans call for two stalls, but there's another Sorghum Festival in October, or who knows. There might be need for a third stall in the new barn.

THE VETERANS Administration is sixth among all federal agencies in budget outlays, with annual appropriations exceeding $18 billion.

Quotes

By WILMAY

The National Enquirer gave permission to use random excerpts from 3 articles about homosexuality in its June 7 and 28 issues. It interviewed a number of psychiatrists from several states and outstanding medical centers. These authorities insisted that the 'gay rights' movement sweeping the U.S. is a threat to the nation's children.

Dr. Shirley Van Ferney declared, "Parents are correct to be fearful of the effects this is having on their kids. You have a right to raise decent children in a decent society. But that right will be taken away from you unless you make yourself heard. . . . It's admirable to be tolerant and sensitive to people's civil rights—but you have to draw the line somewhere, and a homosexual teacher who flaunts his sexual aberrations publicly is as dangerous as the religious cultists. Homosexuals have not only come out of the closet but they have become militant. Many of these militant gays are not fighting for their own civil rights but are attempting to win converts to their way of life."

Dr. Silverman of Harvard Medical School asserted, "What is needed now is a grass-roots movement against these militants."

Dr. Charles Socarides, a leading authority on the treatment of homosexuality warned, "Homosexuality militates against the family, drives the sexes in opposite directions and neglects the child's growth and sexual identity."

Preceding statements are from "Gay Rights' Movement Threatens the Nation's Children," by Maury Breecher. Police officials are alarmed as shown by quotes from "Homosexual Attacks on Children Are Increasing," by Steve Rothman: "The number of homosexual molestations of young boys has increased just incredibly," said Los Angeles Police Chief, E. M. Davis.

"I have actually seen homosexuals recruit young boys," said Sgt. Herman Clark, of Flint, Mich., police juvenile bureau. "It's a fact of life. Let's tell it like it is."

Capt. Chas. Delau, head of police investigations unit in Cleveland, said that police there consider homosexual enticement of youngsters a great danger, and he demanded harsh treatment for offenders.

Chief of Detectives, M. R. Wilson, of Providence, R. I., claims that homosexuals who prey on young boys can endanger the lives of their victims. "There are cases where children have been murdered by homosexuals, for fear of being found out," he explained.

Capt. Dennis Storenski of police juvenile division in Houston said a two-man team there works on nothing but homosexual-related cases with children. "Boys are turned into male prostitutes and selling themselves for $15 or $20. When they are subjected to that for a long time, they turn homosexual themselves."

"Homosexual attacks on children are sharply increasing, unleashing a whirlwind of tragedy that sometimes ends in the murder of the young victims," police warn.

Dan Schwartz in "Your Tax Dollars Will Pay to Teach Children Respect for Homosexuals," said San Francisco plans to teach school children greater respect for homosexual life-styles, and that the American taxpayer will help foot the bill for it. The schools there will receive more than $8 million in federal funds, part of which can be used for all kinds of programs. In San Francisco, called by many the "gay capital of America," an estimated one in five residents is a homosexual. The school board passed a resolution by a 7-0 vote. It noted that the Gay Advisory Committee and the city's Human Rights Commission had recommended that sex education teaching be revised "to accurately reflect gay life-styles" and "respect for human diversities." The board set up a committee to formulate the revisions. The guide book that the revisions are being prepared for is used from kindergarten through senior high school.

Gail Roberts, city coordinator on the Human Rights Commission, told the Enquirer: "The thrust of this proposal is to teach tolerance for the homosexual life-style. I hope the committee will correct any information conveying that homosexuality is a disease, or a cardinal sin, or an illness—that sort of negative connotation."

Singer Anita Bryant told the Enquirer, "I consider such teaching a form of brainwashing. When you present homosexuality as an alternative, you're talking about more than tolerance. You're talking about presenting it as a healthy life-style. And this comes across to children who are easily swayed, especially during the growth stage." End of quotes from the Enquirer.

These and other similar articles in various publications should serve notice to parents, Christian leaders, and educators that a stitch in time saves nine! Too often we think it can't happen HERE! That is what many in countless places believed about drugs among children. Time has proved that no locale, rural or urban, is immune.

Art Shows Set At Berry Hill

Berry Hill, home of the state Department of Library and Archives, will be the place for art lovers to visit during the next 15 months. The state library is sponsoring a series of art shows.

Danny Kreutzer, deputy state librarian, said the first art show at the library officially opened July 15 with a small reception. The opening exhibit included approximately 30 paintings from Jessamine, Garrard, Lincoln, Boyle, Mercer, Estill and Powell counties. These counties compose the Bluegrass Library District, South.

Kreutzer explained that the art shows were prompted by nostalgia, recalling the days when the house was owned by George Franklin Berry who held music concerts and entertained artists in the house. Berry, a lover of art, added a music room to the house in 1912 which housed a pipe organ. Here he entertained his acquaintances and friends.

And it is in the music room and the grand hall that the library paintings are being exhibited.

"There are 15 library districts in the state," said Kreutzer. "And each district is scheduled for one month to display paintings, sculpture, and other objects of art crafted by the residents in that area. The shows are in cooperation with the regional library network and local libraries."

The theme of the 15-month show is "A Common Wealth of Art" said Kreutzer, with the artwork emphasizing Kentucky life.

Emily Clark, district librarian of the Bluegrass District, South, is coordinating this month's art show. She said libraries in her district sponsor art shows from time to time, and from these art shows she has selected the items to be on display at Berry Hill. "I have selected about four paintings from each library's exhibit," said Mrs. Clark who has a major in art. The artists' ages range from 18 to 90 years. One, Lucy Trumbo, is known as the Grandma Moses of Garrard County. She is in her early eighties and specializes in primitive landscapes.

Kreutzer said the exhibit is open to the public five days a week, 8 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. This exhibit—from the Bluegrass District, South—will continue through August 15.

Forest Service Sets 200 Public Workshops

The U.S. Forest Service will hold a series of more than 200 public workshops in July and August to get public help in completing an inventory of roadless areas in the National Forest System.

M. Rupert Cutler, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, said the inventory will help determine whether the roadless areas are best suited for wilderness or non-wilderness use.

In Kentucky, a workshop will be held from 7 to 10 p.m., August 4, at Rooms A6 and A7 of the Agricultural Science Center North, University of Kentucky, Lexington.

GI BILL students planning fall enrollment may be eligible for advance payment of Veterans Administration allowances. Written requests should be made to the schools now.

Former State Senator Roy R. Ross, Dies

Roy R. Ross, 64, former state senator, county court clerk and current Democratic nominee for the office of Johnson County judge, died Monday at his home.

He was born May 14, 1913, in Johnson County, a son of Della Wheeler Ross and the late Marion Ross. He was a businessman.

In 1965, he was successful in a race for county court clerk, even though he was a Democrat in a dominantly-Republican county. In 1971, he was elected state senator from the Johnson-Lawrence-Boyd 25th district, the second Democrat ever chosen from the district.

He would have been on the ballot for county judge this November in Johnson county.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Agnes Daniel Ross; two daughters, Mrs. Ruth Ann Brickley, of Knoxville, Tenn., and Mrs. Peggy Alice Castle, of Columbus, O.; two sons, Donald R. Ross, of Wintonsville and Jackie A. Ross, of Paintsville; two brothers, Fred and Howard Ross; and a sister, Mrs. Con Dailey, all of Flat Gap.

Funeral services will be conducted at 1 p.m. today (Wednesday) at Paintsville United Baptist Church by Elders Tommy Bailey, Buell Ferguson and O. I. Williams. Burial will be in Highland Memorial Park at Staffordsville.

OUTPATIENT visits at Veterans Administration medical facilities will total 15.6 million this year.

Concert Series Receives Grant

Among the 40 organizations which will share is $115,000 approved in performing arts grants by the Kentucky Arts Commission's executive committee is the Eastern Kentucky Concert Series, Prestonsburg.

The grants were recommended by an evaluation panel which studied 80 requests. Special emphasis was given to performing arts sponsors which plan educational programs, artists residencies and outreach to rural areas, according to Marvin Weaver, director of performing arts programs for the Arts Commission.

About $69,000 will go to 29 organizations bringing professional touring groups to their communities. The remainder, about $46,000, goes to 11 performing arts companies to help them improve the quality and delivery of performing arts to the public. In many instances, Weaver said these 11 performing arts groups applied for temporary assistance to pay salaries of top-level staff.

Other groups in Eastern Kentucky receiving grants are Alice Lloyd College, Pippa Passes; Breathitt County Arts Council, Jackson; Hazard Community College, Hazard; Pikeville Concert Association, Pikeville.

MORE THAN seven million veterans have used Veterans Administration educational assistance to attend college since World War II.

TRADEMARK APPLICATIONS SET RECORD DURING 1976

WASHINGTON—The U.S. Patent and Trademark Office received 40,117 applications for trademarks in 1976, more than 5,000 more than the previous high in 1972.

Registrations dropped by 1,723 to 29,208 and abandonments fell 1,210 to 9,695 in 1976, compared with 1975, the U.S. Department of Commerce says.

Reading Reform Meet Is Slated

"Let's Teach Johnny to Read!," a cry that is being heard more insistently throughout the United States, is the theme of the 16th annual conference of the Reading Reform Foundation in Cincinnati, Ohio, Aug. 10-12.

The conference will feature 12 workshops, each presented twice, in which master teachers of intensive phonics will demonstrate their classroom-tested and proven methods of teaching children to read easily and fluently from the start of instruction.

Parents, teachers and all other concerned citizens are welcome at the conference, which also includes exhibits of phonics materials and a program of distinguished speakers from across the country.

The appalling state of reading instruction in the United States was set forth in bleak terms in a study recently conducted for the U.S. Office of Education.

That study found there are 23 million functionally illiterate adults in the country, unable to read a want ad or the directions on a medicine bottle, and another 30 million adults barely able to make proper use of such routine things as grocery ads.

These figures do not include the millions of youngsters now struggling through the schools, unable to read their textbooks and, all too tragically often, unable to decipher the words on their high school diplomas.

The nation's literacy rate has been in sharp decline since the introduction of the "whole word" or "look-say" method of teaching reading in the 1930s. The Reading Reform Foundation was organized in 1961 with the sole aim of improving the teaching of reading in the nation's elementary schools.

Complete program information, pre-registration forms and hotel reservation forms are available by writing the Reading Reform Foundation, P. O. Box 1289, Bloomington, Ind. 47401. Registration for the entire three days is $7.50 if paid in advance, $10 if paid at the conference.

The Disguised Killer

By GEORGIA S. DAVIS

Childhood's great killer in disguise, rheumatic fever, is a common cause of heart disease in adults and young children. It's apparently caused by an infection which may appear also as scarlet fever or nephritis of the kidney and is more common in colder months, especially in the spring.

A sore throat with respiratory infection is a characteristic stage of its onset. Culture of the bacteria may show hemolytic streptococci. After this infection, the child will show joint pains. There may be swelling and redness of the arm and leg joints, skin eruptions, a pneumonia-like condition, heart murmurs and changes in the electrocardiogram. Another sign is St. Vitus dance. In severe cases, small fibrous nodules may appear on the knuckles, elbows, knees, ankles, spine and other bony prominences, also heart muscle inflammation. The white blood count may be elevated, and other such as the sedimentation rate show various disturbances.

The mitral and aortic heart valves may be damaged. Loud murmurs produced by them mean true inflammation. Slight murmurs may disappear. With recovery from the acute stage the inflamed valve becomes scarred, and does not properly close, resulting in a leak, or it becomes narrowed.

The heart enlarges by a heavier work load demanded by the leaking or obstructed valve and stretches out by weakness of the inflamed heart muscle.

Later it may develop irregular rhythms and finally arterial fibrillation. Rheumatic fever may lead to a low-grade infection for months or years. Its tendency to recur is ever present after a cold or sore throat. This acute stage may be shown by vagal joint pains referred to often as "Growing Pains," by skin rashes, nervous twitching, nosebleeds, poor appetite, weight loss, abdominal pain, and an "out of sorts" child. Recurring attacks may appear every few months.

Wherever the streptococcus is prevalent, rheumatic fever is found. The sore throat with fever is the potential threat and should be treated early. Prompt treatment with penicillin is necessary with large doses up to 100,000 units twice a day. If this treatment is given it may again appear two or three weeks later so if the streptococcal (beta hemolytic) infection is found by lab tests, a full course of penicillin for ten days is advisable. The early stages of rheumatic fever may be very hard to diagnose. Often several weeks of bed rest is advisable before the child can be judged free from the active infection. This is why a child, after a bout of rheumatic fever, should be seen at least every three-months, even if the heart has escaped damage.

Often its best for a child to have daily doses of penicillin for several years after the attack, some say for life. Penicillin, aspirin and cortisone derivatives are the major drugs for the disease.

If the heart is permanently damaged by rheumatic fever, the course of the disease may be fatal in a matter of weeks or months. A striking fact, is that adults in their thirties to fifties or later who can never remember having acute rheumatism in life may be found to have valvular deformities due to rheumatic fever in earlier years. They may only remember the old story of "Growing Pains." These people may be unaware until a severe strain is placed upon their heart such as athletics, pregnancy, or infections. Sometimes total irregularity of the heart leads to heart failure.

Cardiac surgery has played an important role in this area of rheumatic valvular disease. Rapid progress is being made in fashioning artificial valves of human tissue or plastic materials.

Men and women with rheumatic heart disease usually live useful lives under medical care and now, after cardiac surgery, their life expectancy has been greatly improved.

Consumer Comments

By ROBERT F. STEPHENS

Attorney General

Kentuckians on the road this summer should be wary of dishonest mechanics that perform improper car repairs. A Kentucky motorist recently vacationing in the South experienced steering difficulties, and stopped at the first mechanic's garage he spotted on the highway. The mechanic insisted on realigning the front end and replacing all of the ball joints for a cost of over $100. Encountering further difficulties with the steering on his return trip home, the motorist took his car to his local repair shop and discovered that the realignment had been done improperly, and that the ball joints had been unnecessarily replaced.

There is little that can be done if you have car repairs performed while vacationing away from home, and later are dissatisfied with the repairs. Avoid being in this predicament by having your car serviced before you leave on vacation. Have your mechanic or local dealer check the car thoroughly and replace worn parts and bald tires.

However, if you find yourself in another state with car problems, there are several precautions you can take to avoid dishonest repair shops. First, check the reputation of the repair shop with local citizens, if possible. Ask if the garage is affiliated with the national trade association or a national dealership. Check to see if the mechanic who is working on your car is certified by auto manufacturers, oil companies or related industry organizations, or the state.

Next, before authorizing any work to be done, get a written estimate that lists each repair to be made separately and the cost involved. Make sure there is a notation on the estimate that advance approval must be made if additional work is necessary. Have the estimate signed and keep a copy of the signed paper for yourself.

While the repairs are being performed, it is a good idea to stay with the car and observe the mechanic to make sure he is actually performing the repairs you requested. Ask for the old parts from your car in advance of repairs, and a list of the new parts that were used for the replacement.

If upon returning home from your vacation you are unsatisfied with any car repair work you have had done while on the road, contact the service repair shop where the work was done and complain. If satisfaction is not met, notify the national dealer, the national trade association, or the agency certifying the mechanic or the repair shop. Call the Consumer Protection Office in the state where the repairs were made. If you still are dissatisfied, then contact the Kentucky Attorney General's Office; they may be able to help you contact the proper agency to seek a solution to your troubles.

For further information on car repairs, contact the Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. The office has found that it can most effectively deal with written complaints, and encourages you to write to us. However, if you have an emergency situation, call the Consumer Hotline at 1-800-372-2960.

Bolen Top Qualifier For Golf Tourney

French Bolen recently grabbed medalist honors in qualifying for the Fourth Annual News-Record Golf Classic in Greensboro, N. C.

Bolen, son of Coet Bolen, formerly of Garrett, carded a 67 to top the 208 man field. His 32-25 was four shots better than the next three contenders.

Bolen, whose family moved to Greensboro from Orlando, Fla. last year, is a sophomore at High Point College and hopes to eventually enter the pro circuit.

In shooting the five-under par round, he played the first four holes under par, going birdie, par, eagle, birdie to get the jump on the field. As leading qualifier, he was awarded tickets to the Big Four basketball tournament to be held in November.

Black Lung Bill Scheduled for Vote

Representative Carl D. Perkins said last week that he expected his bill, H. R. 4544, the Black Lung Benefits Reform Act of 1977, to be up before the House of Representatives late next week.

The Black Lung bill cleared the Education and Labor Committee, of which Perkins is Chairman, on March 31.

Perkins said he was confident of a favorable vote by the House Rules Committee next week, which action is necessary to enable the bill to be brought up before the full Membership of the House.

The Black Lung bill faces its stiffest test on the Floor of the House. Last year a similar bill sponsored by Perkins cleared the House by only 27 votes of the 393 members voting. This bill died in the Senate.

Perkins stated that he expected favorable action by both the House and the Senate this session, with the President signing the Black Lung bill into law.

There have been many inspiring words about overcoming our handicaps. The pages of history are filled with the stories of men and women who, despite handicaps, have achieved greatness.

Judges in the Bible tells of an interesting event which relates to the organization of an army. It says there were 700 chosen left-handed men.

The interesting fact about this great army is that these men had not always been left-handed. They were likely seasoned soldiers who had been in battle and been incapacitated of the use of their right hands—their sword hands. They had learned to be fighters with their left hands.

We all feel handicaps in our own lives. But the greatness in a person comes through when they overcome.

The 700 left-handed soldiers won their battle—so can we. Everyone has a strategic reserve of physical and spiritual energy and adaptability which we rarely use.

In addition after a $50 deductible, per calendar year, the Program pays the remaining 20% of physician's usual, customary, reasonable and necessary charges not paid by Medicare.

Fire Marshal Must Okay Building Plans

Although the office of State Fire Marshal Warren Southworth expects to review 2,500 proposed building plans for adherence to fire codes and regulations for the handicapped before the end of the year, a state official has expressed concern that hundreds of other construction projects could be implemented without prior approval.

Stanley Boyd, chief building inspector for the office, said a lack of information is probably responsible for the non-compliance with state law rather than an unwillingness to follow the statutes. He said the office will correct the problems by mailing written notices explaining state building requirements to every mayor, fire chief and county judge in Kentucky as well as local inspectors.

Boyd explained that local officials could advise contractors to submit their plans to the state fire marshal's office when a building permit is issued for the construction. The office reviews construction and remodeling plans of buildings such as institutional facilities, places of assembly, businesses, educational facilities, industries, high hazard occupancies (such as chemical storage areas), residential buildings of three or more units and storage buildings such as warehouses.

Including Boyd, the fire marshal's office employs six people for the review of the plans. The process can take a matter of minutes to a full day with major projects requiring several conferences as the building progresses.

Boyd said many unreported projects are discovered by ten field investigators while they are making routine visits to approved, completed structures. He noted that an unapproved building could be held liable for possible damages arising from noncompliance with state fire codes or regulations designed to benefit the handicapped.

Moreover, those builders who occasionally insist they are immune to state law can be summoned to Frankfort for a legal hearing. They may be liable for a $500 per day fine and-or a 60-day jail sentence for each day the problem goes uncorrected.
