

Sept. 1 Deadline Set for Trucks To Be Covered

Court Asks Officers To Help Enforcement; Minimum Fine $25

The Floyd fiscal court has set Sept. 1 as the effective date of its order demanding that trucks hauling coal over roads in the county be covered.

In a special meeting Aug. 15, a week after the order was voted, the court called on all county officers, including the county detective, to help enforce the regulation. It set the minimum fine for violation at $25 and the maximum at $100.

At the same meeting the county tax levy was set at 18.4 cents per $100 valuation, and Gary Lynn Goble was employed to audit the general and revenue sharing funds and to make settlement with the sheriff on $2,400 listed as due the county on taxes.

The court also directed that all insurance on county-owned property be advertised for bids when policies are renewable, the county clerk to notify the court in advance of the expiration dates of all insurance policies.

The Left Beaver and Right Beaver volunteer fire departments were each voted $1,000 of revenue sharing funds, and .6 mile of the Ferguson cemetery road and .4 mile of the Home Branch road were made a part of the county system.

Meeting again Monday of this week, the fiscal court adopted a resolution authorizing County Judge Henry Stumbo to contact Joe McCauley, executive secretary of Big Sandy ADD, in seeking a $50,000 grant to finance extension of water lines up Cow Creek a distance of

School Board Wins Fight For Flood Loss on 9 Buses

Superintendent of Schools E. P. Grigsby, Jr. last week received proof that it pays to stick to your guns—if you have the ammunition.

And the Floyd County Board of Education had it.

Soon after last April's destructive flood, a controversy between the board of education and a federal agency began. At issue was the value of nine school buses, vintage 1965 to 1970, that were "totalled" by the water. All were used as replacement vehicles and for special trips outside regular use for transporting pupils. All were in approved running condition.

For the nine vehicles Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) in Atlanta offered only $4,700. Grigsby and the board balked. Federal regulations provide that similar vehicles or the repair of those damaged should be made. They got estimates on repair, prices of operable buses of the age of those ruined.

They enlisted the help of Congressman Carl D. Perkins.

Three weeks ago, Albert Beatty, of HEW, respected the nine buses.

This week the board received notice from HEW that it will allow the school system $60,004 instead of $4,700.

This Town...That World

Now, I stop, take a fearful glance over the shoulder and wonder where the summer went . . . Perhaps it was our neighbor, George Brown, who brought me up short by dropping the information that the robins departed two weeks early this year and wondering if, maybe, that portends another tough winter.

OFT-USED ALIBIS

I don't know why, but Clifford Wright has seen to it that I receive a copy of Fishing Alibis published in the Ford Times. It was an old story to me, but I'll pass the excuses along for those poor, unimaginative, truthful souls who never explained why the stringer was empty. Some of them are listed as:

Full of the moon, wind from the north, wind out of the east, signs of the zodiac, too foggy, water too high, water too muddy, water too clear, too hot, too cold, not enough rain, thunder, loud talk, failure to spit on the bait, body odor on the lure, wrong color, wrong lure.

Thanks for the tips, but I think I've used them all. Here's one they missed:

Bass learn your bait. I can imagine them passing the word when we go fishing, "Here comes that No. 4 white bomber again—when will the poor dope ever learn?"

WATCHING THE STEP

I suppose I've found more pencils, pennies and other trivia in the last year than in any 15 years before. It's not because the eyesight is keener, certainly; more probably it's because the eyes aren't fixed straight ahead or toward the distant hilltop, any more. That's not to say the head is bending low under the load. It's simply because I watch more carefully the course errant feet take these days than before.

Having passed us up on a recent trip to the county, Dr. Henry Martin, of Richmond, tries to atone with a yarn about Billy Graham and Oral Roberts who, upon departing for the heavenly clime, found a temporary housing shortage and were sent down below with the promise of relief later. And when they were sent for, they found that Billy had converted half the population and Oral had put on such a successful fund drive that he had almost enough money to air-condition the place.

Water District Leaders Explain Delay in Work

Members of the Water Gap-Bull Creek Water Commission conferred recently with their engineer, Kenco Associates, Inc., of Ashland, on the lack of progress of the proposed water distribution system.

The commissioners and engineers discussed the delay over a period of several months in the development of final plans and specifications, a situation caused by the lack of plans for the relocation of KY 80 in the project area.

The commissioners and the engineers have been involved in attempting to procure a set of plans of the right-of-way location for the massive highway project coming through the project area. These plans were furnished by the Highway Department to the consulting engineer around August 1 after a three-month delay. The Engineers have now reviewed the plans for the highway relocation and are now preparing to move on the completion of the final plans and specifications for the water district development.

Blast Blamed in Woman's Injury

View of Mulkey residence shows where boulder came to rest after ripping a large hole in the back wall of the house, visible in background. (See additional photo elsewhere in paper.)

The huge boulder which crashed into a Mare Creek home last Thursday afternoon, seriously injuring Mrs. Bertha Mulkey, was dislodged as the result of a nearby strip mine blast, according to findings of a state Department of Mines and Minerals investigation.

Although it has not been determined whether state blasting laws were violated, D. T. Froedge, director of the division of explosives and blasting, said that blasting at the Genex-Greer Mining Company's strip job near the residence which is situated at the head of the Shop Branch of Mare Creek caused the one-ton rock to roll into the house.

The boulder, which rolled off the steep hillside just behind the Mulkey home, ripped a large hole in the area of the bathroom and plowed into the adjoining utility room where Mrs. Mulkey was standing. The rock struck a large freezer and pinned Mrs. Mulkey against the wall beneath the freezer. Mrs. Mulkey's husband, who was sitting on the porch said he heard the crash and then heard his wife scream. Mr. Mulkey then lifted the freezer away from his wife and her son removed the injured woman.

Mrs. Mulkey reported that she was hanging up a towel after drying her hair, "and the next thing, the freezer was on top of me."

"It came from behind so sudden," she said. "I had big holes in my legs down to the bone." Mrs. Mulkey said the freezer saved her from being struck directly by the rock, "but it tore everything all to pieces; turned the bathtub upside down."

Mrs. Mulkey sustained three cut tendons in her left leg, a severed ankle ligament, a lacerated muscle, and crushed bones in two fingers of her left hand, in addition to numerous lacerations on her face and body. Mr. Mulkey reported his wife underwent three hours of surgery and required more than 200 stitches. "They say they'll have to operate again in about six weeks," he said.

Mr. Mulkey's 16-year-old daughter Darlene, who was standing in the bathroom, narrowly escaped serious injury when she was thrown into a corner of the room away from the direct path of the boulder. She sustained a broken tooth and back injuries but did not require hospitalization.

Ray Mullins, vice-president of the London, Ky.-based mining company, confirmed that company personnel were blasting at the time of the incident but said, "We don't know what caused it (the boulder) to roll down the hill."

Jim Smith, a Shop Branch resident, reported that blasting from the strip site had thrown rocks into the creek below his house and Mrs. Mulkey's son, Billy Stratton, said tremors from blasting had caused cracks in the foundation of his home.

Dr. G. A. Maddiwar, of Our Lady of the Way Hospital, Martin, where Mrs. Mulkey is recovering, said Mrs. Mulkey "will probably be disabled for a long time from a functional point of view."

Tractor Crushes Mine Operator

Rex T. Martin, 65, prominent Knott county man, was fatally injured shortly after noon Monday when a tractor he was operating near his home at Dema overturned, pinning him beneath it. He was found by members of his family, a short time after the accident, and died at the scene of internal injuries.

Mr. Martin was owner of the Upper Beaver Coal Company and of T & K Coal Company. He had been a member of James W. Alley Lodge No. 869, F&AM for 27 years. He was born May 4, 1912, a son of the late Whitt and Mary Harris Martin.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Pauline Sparks Martin; one son, Rex Daniel Martin, of Dema; two daughters, Miss Barbara Ann Martin, of Jeff, and Mrs. Mary Rose Blevins, of Mt. Sterling; three brothers, Milt Martin, of Burnside, David Martin, of Lexington, and Rebel Martin, of Dema; two sisters, Mrs. Ocia Sloane, of Allen, and Mrs. Dal Slone, of Dema, and eight grandchildren.

3 Floyd Firms Return to Work After Meeting

The return of union miners to work began in this county Tuesday morning following Monday's meeting in Charleston, W. Va. of striking miners and the UMW's international executive board, but the situation still remained in doubt.

Robert Carter, president of District 30, UMW, said Tuesday noon that he had not been able to assess the situation, since most local unions were meeting during the day to vote on the return-to-work issue.

Carter said one or two local unions have already voted to work and that some "automatically returned to work without a vote."

In this county Island Creek Coal Company at Price and Turner-Elkhorn Mining Company at Price and two of its mines in the Martin area were back at work. The Wayland-based National Mines Corporation had one section working in nearby Knott county.

If the "wildcat" strike has indeed ended, the return to work is for only 60 days, until Oct. 22, if problems created by the cutback in union health fund benefits aren't resolved. Approximately 80,000 miners in Kentucky, West Virginia, Ohio and Virginia have been idled as union miners going to work were faced by pickets. Production of non-union coal has continued, however.

The six-hour meeting in Charleston Monday was a stormy one, with 300 to 400 miners jammed into a meeting room of the Daniel Boone Hotel. Reporters were barred from the session but said they could hear through the door taunts and jeers apparently aimed at Arnold Miller, UMW president, and executive board members.

"I think they'll start back tonight," UMW President Arnold Miller said, as a band of bodyguards hustled him out of the downtown Charleston hotel, where the meeting took place. He looked tired and drawn.

There is still some confusion as to the resolution adopted by the union's governing council. One portion of the motion calls for a four-member panel of district representatives from three regions in West Virginia and Eastern Kentucky, plus Miller, to meet with the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, the union's

Mine Safety Day Here To Include Women Miners

The 38th annual Safety Day events to be sponsored at Archer Park here, Friday and Saturday, will be featured by the never-before appearance of a woman's team of underground miners in competition with men's teams.

The nine-woman team representing the Beth-Elkhorn division will compete in the first-aid contest, Saturday morning.

Mine rescue contests, with 11 men's teams competing, will be held Friday. Six of the teams will represent various Beth-Elkhorn mines. Other mines to send teams are the Leslie mine, Eastern Coal Co., Kentland Elkhorn Coal Corp., National Mines Corp. (Beaver Creek Division), National Mines (corporate team) and the Scott's Branch mine.

Beth-Elkhorn teams will be the only participants in the first-aid section of the event. The contests will begin at 8 a.m., each day. Mine rescue contests will cover a period of two hours, and the first-aid competition will be for one hour.

The annual Safety Day program is sponsored by the Big Sandy-Elkhorn Mining Institute.

Following Saturday's program, a banquet will be held at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, where winners' trophies will be awarded. The hospitality hour will be from 3 to 4 p.m., and the banquet from 4 to 6 p.m.

B. F. Reed, president of Turner-Elkhorn Mining Co., Drift, and the only charter member of the Big Sandy-Elkhorn Mining Institute who is still active in the industry, will be the principal banquet speaker. Others who will speak briefly are Harry Campbell, president of the Big Sandy Coal Operators Association; J. H. Mosgrove, president of the Kentucky Coal Association; Robert Carter, president of District 30, United Mine Workers, and H. N. Kilpatrick, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals.

Orville Blevins is president of the Institute.

FIRST DAY OF SCHOOL for Floyd county's youngsters was Monday and although some, no doubt, were glad to get back, the 2:30 bell still signalled the usual end-of-the-day "break for freedom." Scene was taken on grounds of Prestonsburg Elementary.

'No Insurance, No License' Bill Proposed

The Interim Joint Committee on Banking and Insurance last Friday approved a new bill requiring motorists to have insurance before they can get car licenses.

The measure now will be prefiled for consideration by the 1978 General Assembly.

The new version is simpler than earlier versions and would require less paperwork, according to Sen. Tom Easterly (D-Frankfort), the bill's sponsor.

In effect the bill means: "No insurance, no license."

"The owner's or registrant's signature shall certify that he is currently maintaining the coverage for basic reparation benefits," the bill reads in part. "The certificate of registration and title shall contain a space where the owner or registrant shall list the name of the insurance company or the name of the agent of the company listing the auto liability policy."

A previous bill sponsored by Easterly would have required the motorist to show his insurance policy before being issued a license.

The new bill provides for fines of from $50 and $500 and forfeiture of license and registration certificate for failure to carry the required insurance.

$5,000 Mistake Made by State

The state Department for Military Affairs says it will try to persuade a Pike county man to voluntarily return a $5,000 flood relief check he accidentally received because of a typing error.

But, Tom Little, a spokesman for the department, said it would go to court if necessary to recover the money accidentally paid Floyd Blankenship, of Majestic.

Blankenship was sent money under the Individual and Family Grant program which was actually due Lloyd Blankenship, who also lives in Majestic and is unrelated to Floyd, for property damage as a result of last April's flooding.

Little admitted the name on the voucher was mistyped in the Military Affairs Department. The state treasurer's office went ahead with the payment, not knowing it was in error.

A check has since also been sent to Lloyd Blankenship.

Little said a registered letter would first be sent Floyd explaining the situation and asking him to return the money, which could be done in installments.

Little said if he doesn't, a representative of the Military Affairs Department will personally visit him and if he still refuses to respond, "the case will be turned over to the Attorney General for collection or prosecution if necessary."

He said the application for the grant was handwritten and "in Lloyd's signature the first letter can be easily mistaken for an F. The typist, when she typed the voucher for the check, just typed Floyd. It was a quirk of fate that both Floyd and Lloyd lived in Majestic."

Prison Inmates Back Stephens' Plan To Abolish Parole Board

About 300 inmates at the Kentucky State Penitentiary have endorsed a proposal to eliminate indeterminate sentences and parole.

A petition with the names was sent to Atty. Gen. Robert Stephens, who advanced the proposal June 1 in a speech at Lexington.

Stephens commented he has received hundreds of letters in support of his suggestion.

"But I was really uncertain about the reaction from the prisoners themselves," he said. "I had been advised by people that they were totally opposed to my plan."

Stephens seeks a law under which a prison term would be fixed firmly for a specific type of crime everywhere in the state. The convicted person would serve it out, and no premature releases would be allowed.

In a letter from the state prison at Eddyville, Ben Shaffner, a convict, submitted the petition which told Stephens:

"We overwhelmingly support your proposal that you intend to propose during the 1978 session of the Kentucky General Assembly to abolish paroles and be replaced with shorter and determinate sentences.

"We feel that the parole board is a failure, that it acts arbitrarily and that its rulings and decisions are not equitable and not in the best interest of justice.

"It has served no useful purpose in the past or present and any future would in all probability be as meaningless."

Shaffner then attached a copy of the signatures of other inmates.

Stephens said his proposal envisions the reduction of prison terms in view of the end to early release.

"Offenders would be sentenced for the crime committed—period—then released without any further intrusive restrictions on their freedom," he said.

The attorney general said there is a tremendous amount of disparity in what he called the game of obtaining parole.

"Some don't know how to convince the parole board that they are good and ready to go into society again," he said. "These (more inarticulate) prisoners would prefer equality."

Under Stephens' plan the 1978 legislature would set out crimes and appropriate sentences in detail.

He said the present U.S. attorney general and some of his predecessors have considered a similar proposal for federal prisoners.

At 1 p.m. Saturday, singers and musicians will conduct a musical "swap shop" and general jam session.

The festival, founded by noted folklore collector and authority, Edith F. James, of Prestonsburg, is under the direction of Mrs. Kathryn Frazier, also of Prestonsburg.

Time At East Point For Apple Butter

East Point, Ky.—It's apple butter-making time again. Saturday, August 27, at about 7 a.m., the first of the apples will be started along the process that will change them into tasty apple butter. This will be the fifth year the East Point Area Development Club has made apple butter for the Kentucky Apple Festival held at Paintsville. The five Saturdays prior to Apple Day, the neighbors meet to peel, quarter, core, slice, stir and can.

Everybody has fun doing their bit, visiting, talking, as well as partaking of a mouth-watering lunch. This year, the club has erected a permanent shed to shelter the copper kettles. Four pick-up truckloads of firewood have been hauled in by members.

Route 1428 (Old 23) in Johnson county is in the process of being blacktopped and, hopefully, the Floyd county portion will soon get the same improvement. East Point is expecting a "green box" soon. Each family in the area is urged to pick up litter and keep roadsides mowed.

COVERED BUTTER—Bordered BASE . . . COVER . . . Lafayette Landing at West Point

American History... Made in Staffordshire, England

In 1780, the year the tiny army of colonists struggled desperately to survive and the American Revolution seemed all but lost, the potters of Staffordshire created a quiet revolution of their own. A totally new process, discovered that year, made it possible to create a new special dinnerware.

In just a few short years, the most sought after and most proudly displayed dinnerware in the infant United States was this new product of the kilns and potters of Staffordshire. Transfer printed from copper etchings, glazed by this totally new process, and depicting scenes from America's history, Staffordshire Blue earthenware held a place of honor for over 75 years.

Until today, only a few highly prized and extremely valuable examples of this exquisite blue and white dinnerware survived, in museums, private collections, dealers' displays.

In early 1973, a special set of 4 dinnerware was commissioned. It was to be the most extensive and exciting collection of blue-printed Staffordshire glazed in-stone since 1862. It was to be authentic in every detail, in every step of its manufacture. And it could only be made by the potters of Staffordshire.

Liberty Blue Dinnerware
The results exceeded even our expectations. From the original copper etchings, created exclusively for this collection... to the absolutely authentic Wild Rose border (created circa 1784)... here is dinnerware that recreates an age and an art thought long gone.

It took the potters of Staffordshire to create Liberty Blue. It took a tradition of craftsmanship, passed from generation to generation, to duplicate each step in the original process.

Starlings Survive Spraying

A University of Louisville ornithologist told the state Environmental Quality Commission recently that Tergitol sprays of blackbirds are not affecting the species most responsible for agricultural problems and that by favoring this species more problems are being created for the following year.

Dr. Burt Monroe reported that starlings are less affected by sprays than other blackbirds and it is this species that is "100 per cent the culprit in winter wheat sprout-pulling and disproportionately responsible for feedlot problems on farms near blackbird roosts."

According to Monroe, the various species of blackbirds compete for food and that by increasing the percentage of starlings, more damage will be done to farms near roosts.

Monroe cited a spraying this winter on a roost near Milan, Tenn. where a large kill was achieved, but because only a small percentage of starlings were killed, damage to nearby farms continued at levels before the spraying. Of 1.1 million birds killed in that spraying only one per cent, or 10,000 of the birds, were starlings.

Monroe said that a 1975 study by Ohio State University had found that the starlings had evolved under harsher conditions and could withstand more than other species of blackbirds.

Tergitol removes the protective oil from bird feathers, reducing the bird's insulation and freezing them to death. Because a starling can generate more heat per gram body weight than other blackbirds they are able to survive the sprays.

Monroe thinks efforts should be directed at controlling the problem caused by blackbirds where they occur. Specifically, he says new means of feeding hogs and cattle will have to be developed.

Monroe's study will continue to examine health problems associated with blackbirds. Histoplasmosis, a disease which enters the lungs and affects the lungs, spleen and central nervous system, occurs in areas of heavy blackbird concentration.

Black Cats Open at Home Friday Against Johns Creek

The Prestonsburg High School football team will be kicking off the 1977 football season at home Friday at 8 p.m. Their opponent will be the Johns Creek Bearcats.
According to Coach Haywood, Johns Creek is a big, experienced ball club as they graduated only five seniors from last year's squad.
"We don't know a whole lot about them, except what we have read and from some of our notes from last year," he said. "We do know they have a whole lot of people coming back and they are going to have real good size. They are supposed to have a real good tight end and linebacker in David Lyons. We don't know much about them offensively and defensively, but with all that experience and size coming back, we're going to have our hands full."
If the Cats are short on any one thing, it is experience. They graduated eight starters from their offense and seven from their defense. This is a concern of Coach Haywood. He said, "Experience is one thing you can't teach; you only get it by playing. However we have some people who may not have been listed as starters last year, but have a lot of playing time behind them and this will help. On the other hand, we have a lot of young players who have never before been in a varsity game. I really don't know what to expect. We'll just have to wait and see."

Following is a roster of the Blackcats team:

Witt-Keenon Vows Solemnized

Miss Edith Stella Witt and Rodney William Keenon exchanged marriage vows at 7 p.m. Saturday, July 30 during a candlelight ceremony in the First Church of God, Maxwell, Virginia. The Rev. C. F. Mundy, pastor of the church, officiated at the doubling ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde A. Witt, of Maxwell. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. John H. Keenon, Sr., of Prestonsburg.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents. She wore a formal gown in imported silk organza and venise lace. Lace fashioned the bodice, high neckline and capelet sleeves, full skirt atop a flounce hemline and extending around the chapel length train. The bride wore a two tier fingertip veil of illusion edged with lace attached to a lace trim headpiece. She carried a bouquet of white sweetheart rosebuds, daisies and baby's breath.

Mrs. David Rye, of Blacksburg, was her sister's matron of honor and Mrs. Eli Jones, Jr., sister of the bride, of Tazewell, Va., was her only other attendant. Miss Jennifer Ayn Jones, niece of the bride, served as flower girl.

The mother of the bride wore a long two-piece beige dress. The groom's mother wore a long green gown. Each mother wore a carnation corsage.

Dr. Fred E. Meece, of Prestonsburg, served as best man. Ushers were John H. Keenon, Jr., brother of the groom, of Baton Rouge, La., Mike Thompson and Bill Allison, both of Tazewell, Va.

The church was decorated with baskets of yellow and white gladioli and daisies. Lighted candles in brass candelabra were in the center and on each side of the wedding party. A single candle and palm branches graced each window.

Preceding the ceremony traditional wedding music and special selections were presented by Mrs. Gwen Yost, of Tazewell.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Tazewell County Country Club. After the cake was cut by the bridal couple, it was served by Mrs. J. C. McCann, of Tazewell, and Mrs. Thomas L. Harrison, of Salem, aunt of the bride, served at the punch bowl. Aides were Mrs. Charles Shrader, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Mike Thompson. The guest book was attended by Mrs. Elmer Abel, cousin of the bride, of Maxwell. Little misses Marsha and Angie Lockhart and Katrina Woodall distributed the rice bags.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. William Woodall and Mrs. Jay Lockhart, of Tazewell.

The bride is employed by the Tazewell National Bank. The groom is employed by the Virginia State Forestry Department. After a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will reside in their new home in Rolling Hills Subdivision, Tazewell.

Housing School Is Held at EKU

An Appalachian Housing Training Program is being held this week at Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond.

The program, sponsored jointly by the Kentucky Development Cabinet and the Kentucky Housing Corp. will be conducted by the Housing Assistance Council, a federally-funded, non-profit organization out of Washington, D.C.

According to Development Secretary William L. Short, who is Gov. Carroll's alternate on the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC), "This intensive training program will cover all facets of housing, and is designed to give trainees a good working knowledge of available housing programs and the procedures for their implementation."

The 25-30 trainees include representatives from Eastern Kentucky Area Development Districts, community development organizations, housing development organizations, city administrators and others.

They will study establishment and use of pre-development loan plans, basic land and housing development processes, Farmers Home Administration, Rural Rental Housing Program, HUD, Housing Assistance Programs and other state and federal housing programs.

According to Darrell Gilliam, ARC Program manager in the Development Cabinet, one full day also will be devoted to a workshop designed specifically for staff members of the Development Cabinet's ARC section and the Kentucky Housing Corp. This workshop will deal with the Kentucky Appalachian Housing Program which recently was awarded $1.75 million in ARC funds, Gilliam said.

With the increasing emphasis on coal in the U.S. energy picture, "housing for Eastern Kentucky coal miners as well as other citizens of that area could become a critical problem," Short said.

"The Appalachian Housing Training Program is the first effort of its kind for Kentucky," he continued, "and is an integral part of the development of programs to provide better housing for Kentuckians living in the Appalachian area."

The training program at Eastern Kentucky University will be the first part of a two-part training program. The second component will consist of a review of the areas already covered with special emphasis placed on problems experienced by the trainees in the intervening period.

The Housing Assistance Council designed the curriculum for the program and will provide a training manual as well as instructors.

To Head Girl Scout Fund Drive

Mrs. Eulene Ratliff, of Martin, has been appointed 1977 fund drive chairman for Floyd county by Mrs. Julian Carroll, general campaign chairman for Wilderness Road Girl Scout Council. Mrs. Ratliff attended the campaign kick-off luncheon at the governor's mansion, which was hosted August 3 by Mrs. Carroll.

Mrs. Ratliff will be working with other local volunteers to help meet the council campaign goal of $35,000. This money will be raised in the 43 counties of the council which do not have United Way or Community Chest funds.

Wilderness Road Council served more than 450 girls in Floyd county in 1976-1977. The girl scouts were led by volunteer, Mrs. James DeRossett. Training for leaders, support services and other resources were provided by Miss Wilma Castle, field director for Wilderness Road Council. Other services to Floyd girl scouts were council-sponsored program events, registration with girl scouts of USA, monthly bulletins with new information for adult volunteers, and the support of the council office in Lexington, Kentucky.

Anyone who is not contacted by Mrs. Ratliff of one of her volunteers, may contribute by calling her.

12-Year-Old Vies For Junior Title

Competing last week-end at Disney World, Fla. for the national junior PGA golf title was 12-year-old Libby Akers, of French Lick, Ind., a coming golf star who is close to being a native of Floyd county.

The youngster, who has a sizeable collection of golf trophies and titles, is a daughter of Charles Akers, formerly of Dwale, and Leslie Shaw Akers, a former resident of Prestonsburg. Among tournaments which she has won are the Christmas Lake (Ind.) Invitational, the national junior at Fostoria, O., and the Hoosier Links title. At the national junior tourney she set records in both the 9- and 18-hole distances for her age group—a 37 on the front nine and a 78 for 18 holes. Libby won the Indiana PGA 12-14-year title with an 86.

She was accompanied to Disney World by her parents and her grandmother, Mrs. Dorothy Shaw. Her father is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Akers, of Dwale.

Health Notes

The Floyd County Health Department would like to remind any organization planning to sell food at the Floyd County Fair that all food handlers must have a TB skin test.

TB skin tests are offered at the health department on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Fridays from 8 to 12 and 1 to 4.

All persons needing a skin test are asked to please take this precautionary step at least one week prior to the upcoming fair.

Thursday, August 25, a pap smear clinic will be held at the health department from 9 to 11:30 and 1 to 2. This clinic provides all women with the opportunity to be screened for cervical cancer, free of charge. Also available at this clinic will be literature teaching women how to detect cancer of the breast by doing their own breast examination, once a month. This clinic is a free service and is open to all women.

Eight-State Group Honors Perkins for Anti-Poverty Work

Seventh District Congressman Carl D. Perkins was guest of honor in Louisville last Thursday night at an appreciation dinner given by the eight-state Southeastern Association of Community Action Agencies.

The Hindman Democrat helped write many of the antipoverty programs now administered by the agencies during his tenure as chairman of the powerful House Committee on Education and Labor.

The association showed its thanks with a dinner in Perkins' honor followed by a string of awards for his years of support for programs for the poor.

Perkins and Mrs. Graciela Olivarez, director of the Community Services Administration, were guest speakers at a banquet during the association's 11th annual meeting.

"This is Carl Perkins' family," said William Walker, regional director of the association. "I don't know of anyone we'd rather have representing us in Congress."

Various speakers listed Perkins' authorship and support of programs for the poor, from school lunches to blacklung benefits for miners to Head Start and libraries in rural areas.

Perkins in brief remarks returned the thanks, expressing appreciation for the community action members' own commitment to the nation's poor.

"I think you have touched so many poor people that government agencies never touch," Perkins said.

As for lingering criticism of alleged waste in welfare programs, Perkins said, "Considering the program all together, no more funds have gone down the drain than in programs administered by the government."

Perkins pledged to continue his fight for programs for the poor, adding, "We're not going to let our enemies in this country kill off one of the best programs ever enacted for the poor of this country."

Taking time out for a word of politics, Perkins said he hoped his appearance puts to rest what he called "rumors" that his health is poor and that he may soon quit Congress, an apparent reference to Republican opposition in next year's congressional races.

Perkins received a standing ovation from the audience as well as awards from various groups represented in the association.

One gift was a picture framed from wood taken from a barn on Perkins' farm in Knott county.

Appalachia

By WILMAY

In books, magazines and newspapers the limelight again focuses on Eastern Kentucky, describing our ways, politics, history, music, dramas, crafts, religion, "wife beaters," and so on—especially our shortcomings! With King Coal back in the ascendancy publicity will increase. The percentage of fact and fiction remains to be seen.

What amount features the good and what the bad in life here is not a guess. This depends somewhat upon the extent that we accept honest evaluation and refute untruthful reports, often made by persons who never came here, but rely on hearsay. One example of this a decade ago was a comment about Eastern Kentucky by Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, who wrote that adults go barefooted, and used as truth this tale:

"In winter an aged mountain couple were beside a log fire in their cabin. The old man said, 'Ma, you're standin' on a hot coal.' Ma replied laconically, 'Which foot, Pa?'"

Correction was mailed Dr. Peale, with an invitation to attend Maytown Homecoming and see for himself. He accepted the kindly criticism in the same spirit, but did not retract or say whether or not he ever came here.

Our young folks in particular have often felt embarrassed when away because of the general impression most people have of all Appalachia. This may be one reason that numbers make no effort to return here for permanent residence. One of our Ph.D.'s was back not long ago. He came to discuss the book he is writing on this part of the state. It was a joy to emphasize the "white" instead of the "black" conditions (nothing racial) existing through every generation, to explain obstacles overcome by stalwart forebears who had a nucleus in every hamlet, determined to forge ahead, never to give up, to be victorious though many who could and should have fled were making fun of the inhabitants of the hills. He said that for sometime after leaving he saw home through the glasses of writers who pictured only the gloom, but that he had acquired a different viewpoint, plus a genuine appreciation for those who keep on keeping on, despite opposition and false reports usually included in accounts of Appalachian life. As this columnist more than once has pointed out in publications, no one denies the existence of flaws and undesirable conditions, but cities have their slums, too, even though Uncle Sam has poured billions into them. No one cites Harlem as typical of New York, so why should such a gauge be applied to the hills?

One example was a July, 1976 Courier-Journal story about Mrs. Alice Lloyd, by Billy Reed, parts of which are quoted here, with permission from the Courier-Journal:

"The sophisticated Boston lady who arrived in Knott county in 1916 hardly seemed to be the sort of rugged individualist who was destined to spread the light of education to the darkest corners of a remote mountain area where ignorance was a way of life . . . Mrs. Lloyd was graduated from Radcliffe. In Knott county, where only 20 of the 1000 residents could read and write, her presence doubled the number of college graduates."

First, it should be said this writer knew Mrs. Lloyd well, and would be among the last to detract one iota from her noble character and work. We loved her sincerely, owed much to her, having met Edgar through her. We have known Dr. June Buchannan since 1924, admired her greatly, also Dr. and Mrs. Will Hayes, all of whose dedication to youth here has endeared them to everyone. This column is not a case of sour grapes but it is in defense of truth and our mountain heritage, which is far superior to what hundreds claim or imply. No one knows who was responsible for the false reports included in the article referred to, or in numerous others. No one blames Mrs. Lloyd for those occurring in her lifetime, but somebody is blameworthy for continuous misrepresentations from different sources that appear and often do more harm than good. There is nothing personal in this, for many know how we proved our gratitude and devotion to Mrs. Lloyd in her lifetime, though she never knew it.

According to record, Mrs. Lloyd spent just two years at Radcliffe. If she was a graduate of any college it is not known. As for Knott county and its alleged lack of knowledge in 1916: If most people there then could not read, outsiders were accountable, since Misses Mae Stone and Katherine Pettit of the Blue Grass founded the Hindman Settlement School at the first of this century. Misses Lucy Furman and Ann Cobb made it and the area the subject of considerable literature. And Professor George Clark—one of the most successful educators of his day—started a school in Hindman during the 1880's, that continued for decades, teaching thousands the same curricula offered by other schools. Vast numbers learned extensively and many were inspired to complete their education elsewhere.

Perhaps those who say Knott countians were unlearned in 1916 should be told that the late French and Burnam Combs already had law degrees from universities. Josiah Combs, brother of these men, secured an A.B. from Transylvania in 1911, another degree from the Sorbonne in Paris, brought a French bride back to the U.S., taught in various colleges and universities, was an author, editor and lecturer at home and abroad. Drs. John Wes and Richard Duke had medical degrees from U.K. before 1916. Townsel Combs took his in engineering. All were born in Knott county. Others in several disciplines could be named, but this side of Appalachian life is overlooked.

Now, who thinks ignorance was a way of life in our adjacent county back in 1916? Not only did numbers secure a thorough education but many distinguished themselves in various fields wherever they went, as hundreds of our youth are doing across the nation today. One major reason the Floyd County Hall of Fame was established in 1955 was to enable our youth to see, firsthand, how many citizens in every generation had made distinctive contributions to society.

If we visited Louisville, described the city in its infancy, then gave erroneous information concerning the education and knowledge of its people, some there would feel as many here do when the hills are downgraded in wholesale fashion. It would take pages to reply adequately to those exploiting the dim side of life here. Those wishing to know more of the early period can read Kitteney Stone, In Remembrance, by his daughter, Verne Mae Stone, of Pippa Passes. Mrs. Stone ably defends her ancestors. Some of our very own still portray and describe the worst of Appalachia, where M.A.'s and Ph.D.'s may reside on the same block or highway with illiterates, or millionaires live next door to welfare clients. The remarkable part of this is that in most instances each respects, admires and enjoys the other.

After all, Kentucky provided the only Abe Lincoln, and God sent His only Son to humble occupants of a lowly cottage in barren, hilly country, whose inhabitants lived close to nature and Him. True, we do owe much to outsiders: pioneers, explorers, circuit riders, industrialists, financiers, educators, etc. But our section also has much to give the outside, values that no earthly sum can purchase, if we hold fast to the good things here and do not sell them for a mess of pottage.

What Is a District Judge?

In Floyd County, the District Judge will do the work now being done by five City Police Judges, four Magistrates, County Judge, Judge Pro-Tem, Trial Commissioner and Juvenile Judge. Floyd County will still have a County Judge (now known as County Judge Executive) and Magistrates, but their duties will be limited to fiscal matters, making up the budget and supervising the spending of the county tax money.

The District Judge will preside over all civil cases where the amount involved is $1500, or less, all juvenile matters, and the violation of all state laws and city and county ordinances, except offenses punishable by penitentiary confinement or death.

In addition to the other duties, the District Judge will also preside over a new court, known as the Court of Small Claims (matters under $500).

It is estimated that 68 of every 100 persons having business before the courts will come first to the District Court.

The office of District Judge will require a person with not only a law degree, but also with considerable administrative ability. It will require a person with good health, good nerve and a willingness to work long hours. How the office is operated for the first time may set the pattern of justice in Floyd County for a long time to come.

Believing that I am qualified for the job, I respectfully urge you to vote for me in the November election. If I am elected, the fact that my residence is next door to the court house (and jail) will somewhat ease the problem of having your District Judge available after hours.

The office is non-partisan and I welcome the vote of my Republican friends as well as my fellow-Democrats.

State Corn Crop May Be

132 Million Bushels

Corn growers in Kentucky expect to produce 132 million bushels of corn for gain in 1977, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's July crop production report. This figure compares with 88 million bushels produced in 1975 and 138 million in 1976.

Growers expect to average 93 bushels per acre this year, compared to 102 last year, and 77 two years ago.

U. S. corn production is forecast at a record 6.33 billion bushels, 2 percent more than the 1976 crop and 9 percent above the 1975 crop. "If the production forecast is realized, this would be the third consecutive year that a production record has been set," the report said. Much of the nation's corn crop was in good condition at the end of June despite lingering droughts in many areas.

Kentucky growers expect to harvest 1.5 million acres of corn in 1977, compared to 1.3 million in 1976, and 1.1 million acres in 1975.

Corn stocks in storage in Kentucky on June 1, 1977 totaled 15.8 million bushels, according to the USDA. Farm stocks totaled 12.2 million bushels and off-farm stocks totaled 3.5 million bushels.

Saccharin Issue Deadline Aug. 31

Time is running out for public comments on the proposal to ban the artificial sweetener saccharin, with an Aug. 31 deadline for written statements.

A spokesman for the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) said there has been a heavy response to the proposal. He said every letter will be read and considered.

Comments should be sent to the Hearing Clerk, Food and Drug Administration, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, Md. 20857.

The deadline originally was in June, but the FDA extended the time for comments after receiving two more studies, one general in nature and one linking saccharin with bladder cancer in men.

The proposed ban would prohibit use of saccharin in food, in drugs where it is used to improve flavor and in cosmetics and other items which are likely to be ingested, such as lipstick, mouthwash and toothpaste.

No recall of products made before the ban takes effect is planned.

FDA is considering allowing the product to be sold as a nonprescription drug for use by diabetics and others who, for medical reasons, must restrict their intake of sugar.

Elvis Records Sell Out Locally After Rock King's Death

The news of the death of rock 'n roll king Elvis Presley last Tuesday shocked the music world and sent Elvis fans into a state of genuine grief. It also caused the sales of Elvis records and tapes to soar at a phenomenal rate.

Floyd county stores which stocked Elvis' music were no exception and by Wednesday most had sold their entire stock of his recordings.

"We had 45 of his records and tapes," J.R. Frisby, manager of the Prestonsburg Sundry Store pointed out, "and by Tuesday afternoon they were all gone." The next day, reported Frisby, 35 additional records and tapes arrived at the store and Frisby said "there was a long line waiting at the door and we sold out again, immediately. There were actually people who got mad because we didn't have any more."

The story was the same all over the country.

The RCA record-pressing plant in Indianapolis will be "working 24 hours a day, seven days a week," to catch up with the demand for Elvis Presley records, a company spokesman said.

Dick Veleta, RCA distribution manager, said 250,000 copies of Presley's latest album, MOODY BLUE, were sold nationwide yesterday.

"There is only one word to describe it and that's incredible," Veleta said. "The orders we've had have been gigantic. Everybody in the country wants Elvis Presley records."

"The plant will be working 24 hours a day, seven days a week to catch up with the demand. We are gearing up to full capacity."

Veleta said the Indianapolis plant handles 50 percent of the manufacturing and distribution for Elvis records and tapes.

Panel Asks How Regional Hospitals Can Be Saved

Ways to help the McDowell and eight other Appalachian regional hospitals will be sought, beginning tomorrow (Thursday) by a team of federal health-care professionals.

HEW Secretary Joseph Califano has said that the team will try to find what must be done to transform ARH "into a medically and financially viable health care system."

The hospital chain is "a critical regional health resource," Califano said. He added that HEW "will do all in its power" to bring financial stability to the health care system.

HEW announced two weeks ago that an interim Medicare payment of $500,000 was being made to ARH to keep its hospitals and clinics open another 60 days while long-range solutions were sought.

The health care system, based in Lexington, has said it encountered severe financial problems this summer because of cutbacks in United Mine Workers union health benefits.

The private hospital system said the average monthly payment from the UMW health fund dropped from $1.4 million in the first six months of 1977 to about $500,000 in July.

Trustees of the union health fund blame the cutbacks on wildcat strikes.

ARH operates health care facilities in Harlan, Hazard, Middlesboro, West Liberty, McDowell, Whitesburg and South Williamson in Kentucky and at Beckley and Man, W. Va., and Wise, Va.

In July, a year ago, 67 per cent of the McDowell hospital's patients were medical card holders. In July, this year, only 13 per cent had cards.

The Courier-Journal in a recent news-story by Mike Winerip discussed the situation at McDowell as applying to the hospital and members of mine families.

Every staff member at the McDowell clinic has stories of card holders who have aggravated medical problems because they avoided coming in.

... a surgeon at the clinic recommended a hernia operation for a young boy. Without the surgery the hernia could continue to protrude and become a bowel obstruction, the doctor says.

The child's father is on strike and the family cannot afford the $250 hospitalization fee so they decided against the operation.

Because the payment is supposed to be made before hospitalization, people are being scared off, Jerry Frost, administrator of the McDowell Regional Medical Clinic, says.

Frost said some of the confusion would have been avoided had the UMW mailed fact sheets explaining to card holders what they would have to pay for visits.

He gave a few examples: For a $12 routine visit, a card holder would pay $4.80. The typical $17 cost for treating a new illness would cost the card holder $6.80. A $35 physical would cost $14.

Barbara Moldauer, a spokesman for the UMW health fund in Washington, said such a list sounded like a good idea. However, she said the union could not get the information out before the October newsletter.

A special mailing would cost $30,000, which would be too expensive, she said.

As a result of the drop in visits, spokesmen at several Kentucky hospitals and clinics have said their institutions are in serious financial condition.

The clinic and hospital in McDowell, for instance, are in serious financial trouble.

Last year 65 per cent of the 33,000 visits made to the clinic were by UMW card holders. Since July 1 the average has dropped to 40 per cent. Daily clinic visits have dropped from between 72 and 119 since.

In June 34 per cent of the patients admitted to the McDowell hospital were card holders, but in July only 10 per cent were.

As a result Frost is having trouble meeting payrolls and is worried that he'll lose his doctors.

Under the old program, the UMW guaranteed a doctor at McDowell $40,000 a year. There is no such guarantee under the new system.

"This guarantee was important for attracting doctors," Frost says. "Without it I don't see how we can keep them over any length of time."

The hesitancy of card holders to be hospitalized or have family members hospitalized is reflected in the decline in surgery in the area. In June, before the change, 50 operations were performed at the McDowell ARH. In July, 25 were performed.

Dr. Mary Alice Hall, chief of staff at the McDowell clinic, tells this story of an elderly woman with a history of diabetes:

"In the past she has come in regularly, but this time she put off coming three or four days. She said she didn't have the money. When she finally got so sick she had to come, her sugar count was 650. (A normal count is between 70 and 110). Now she's hospitalized and she could go into a coma."

"It angers me," says Dr. Hall. "For years the fund provided full coverage and then they took it away with 10 days' notice. The union was not prepared, we were not prepared and the people were not prepared."

Childers-Simpkins
Vows Said August 6

Miss Suella Childers and Mr. William Daniel Simpkins were united in marriage on Saturday afternoon, August 6, at the First Church of the Brethren, Pulaski, Va. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Childers, Jr., of Cedar Bluff, Va., formerly of Floyd county. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Ethel Vicars, of Martin. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Simpkins, of Pulaski, Va. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Norman R. Cain.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white satin, fashioned with a victorian neckline of chantilly lace, A-line bodice, and long fitted sleeves. The gown was designed by her mother. A cap of white satin daisies held her floor-length illusion veil and she carried a bouquet of fresh daisies and greenery accented with white streamers.

Attending the bride as matron-of-honor was her sister, Mrs. Vicky Childers McKinney, of Nashville, Tennessee. She wore a floor-length dress of royal blue polyester with red roses in the design. She carried a nosegay of daisies.

John Gibson Worsham, III, of Christiansburg, Va., served as best man and Harry L. McKinney, Jr., of Nashville, Tenn., brother-in-law of the bride, served as usher.

Mrs. Childers wore for her daughter's wedding a street-length dress of blue polyester which she designed. She wore white accessories and a white daisy corsage. Mrs. Simpkins, mother of the groom, wore a street-length dress of white polyester with jacket and matching accessories. She wore a corsage of white carnations.

The reception was held at the home of the groom's parents. The bride's table was covered with a white table linen and the three-tier wedding cake, baked by the bride and groom, was decorated with yellow icing and fresh daisies.

Following a short wedding trip, the couple is residing in Christiansburg, Va. Mr. Simpkins is an architect, and Mrs. Simpkins is employed as executive secretary to the Associate Dean of Architecture, College of Architecture, VPI & SU, Blacksburg, Virginia.

Consumer Comments

By ROBERT F. STEPHENS
Attorney General

Every year at this time students begin searching for apartments close to campus in which to live for the next school year. If you have ever had to go apartment hunting, then you know the frustration that arises if you do not know the necessary questions to ask, or specific clauses in lease agreements to watch out for.

Kentucky's Landlord-Tenant Act statutorily outlines the rights and responsibilities of landlords and tenants. However, this act only applies to the Lexington-Fayette county and Louisville-Jefferson county areas. Whether you live in these areas or not, you should be careful to find the answers to the following questions before renting:

—Is there a lease agreement? Insist on receiving a written lease from the landlord explaining the terms for the renting period, and the length of time that the lease is to be in effect. Make sure you understand all of the terms of the lease. Never sign a lease until you have read the entire document and fully understand what the lease includes and what it does not include. The more details clearly explained in writing, the better the agreement for both the landlord and the tenant.

—What about the security deposit? Understand under what conditions the landlord can keep your deposit. Check the lease to see if the deposit is forfeited for damage to the apartment, or for failure of the tenant to pay rent or meet other conditions of the lease. Insist on inventorying the apartment with your landlord and making a signed list of damages that exist when you move in. Then when your lease ends, review the apartment with the landlord and note any new items of damage that may affect your deposit.

—What about repairs to the apartment? Find out who is responsible under the lease for any necessary repairs. Outline with your landlord, the procedures you, the tenant, must follow to give notice of needed repairs.

—What about eviction? Under what conditions can the landlord terminate your lease? Find out how much notice the landlord must give you before you have to move out of the apartment. You'll also want to know how much notice you must give the landlord if you want to leave before the lease is up.

There are many other questions that you may want to ask the landlord before renting the apartment, but remember these basic suggestions:

1. Ask for a written lease agreement.
2. Read and understand the entire lease before you sign it.
3. Make a signed damage list so you won't later be charged for damages existing at the time you rented the apartment.
4. Follow your lease provisions and pay your rent on time so you won't be subject to eviction.

If you have any questions about your rights or responsibilities as a landlord or a tenant, contact the Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. The office has found that it can most effectively deal with written complaints and encourages you to write if you have a consumer complaint. However, if you have an emergency situation or just need some information, call the toll free consumer hotline number at 1-800-372-2960.

Geiser Urges Increase Of Storage Facilities

Beverly G. Yeiser, Sr., executive director of the Kentucky ASCS, last week appealed to farmers to protect their grain supplies through proper farm storage. The grain storage situation is tight, and substantial increases are still needed in farm storage capacity, he said.

Mr. Yeiser said that the problem of inadequate grain storage facilities is not new. The tremendous increase in grain production in recent years was not accompanied by a corresponding expansion in storage facilities. All-out production, prompted by strong price incentives, directed producers' efforts toward increasing production.

Additional information regarding farm storage facility and dryer loans may be obtained at any county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office or the State ASCS office, 333 Waller Avenue, Lexington, Kentucky 40504.

Bible Charismatic Teaching Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Most sincere Christians are aware today of God's Divine Visitation upon the earth. This has often been referred to as "the Charismatic Movement." In reality we are experiencing the fulfillment of the Old Testament Prophet Joel and the New Testament Apostle Peter's preaching from the Day of Pentecost. In Acts 2:17 "And it shall come to pass in the last days, saith God, I will pour out of my Spirit upon all flesh."

This sovereign move of God's Holy Spirit is being visited upon all denominational and non-denominational churches alike. There are at least fifteen New Testament reasons and fulfillment of the great experience known as the Baptism of the Holy Ghost. In one chapter alone, I Corinthians 14, the scriptures proclaim the experience is beneficial to (1) The individual Christian, I Cor. 14:4: "He that speaketh in an unknown tongue edifieth himself;" (2) The Church is benefited, I Cor. 14:5: "For greater is he that prophesieth than he that speaketh with tongues, except he interpret, that the church may receive edifying"; (3) To God, I Cor. 14: "For he that speaketh in an unknown tongue, speaketh not unto men, but unto God"; (4) To the unbeliever, I Cor. 14:22: "Wherefore, tongues are for a sign, not to them that believe, but to them that believe not."

If Paul states this experience is beneficial to (1) the individual Christian, (2) the church, (3) to God, (4) to the unbeliever, doesn't this include all of God's creation? Shouldn't we be interested in learning and experiencing more of God?

God's Divine Visitations are set forth all through both Old and New Testaments. The word of God sets forth divine visitation in dual general respects, salvation and its blessings, and judgment because of sin. In the last days two tremendous paradoxes are evident. God's word teaches it is a great day of sinning, debauchery and apostasy. The Bible also teaches a great day of revival in the outpouring of the Holy Spirit. It is sad to see how rampant sin has become throughout the land. Likewise, I believe it is displeasing to the heart of God that so many churches seemingly have no knowledge we are living in the days of revival or God is moving by His Spirit throughout the earth.

In the book of Job, one of the oldest books in the Bible, the patriarch exclaimed (Job 7:17-18), "What is man, that thou shouldst visit him?" The Psalmist David said, "When I consider the heaven, the work of thy fingers, the moon and the stars, which thou hast ordained, what is man, that thou art mindful of him and the son of man, that thou visitest him?" God desires to have fellowship with man far beyond the ability to mentally assert and understand the truth of the scriptures. By His Holy Spirit he wants to give you the experience of John's gospel, 7:38: "He that believeth on me as the scripture hath said, out of his belly shall flow rivers of living water."

Neither individuals nor churches are complete without the experience of the Baptism of the Holy Ghost. In the book of Acts, chapter 8, we read of Phillip's great revival at Samaria. In verse 6, the people gave heed unto Phillip's preaching. This is proven by their desire to be baptized in water. Also in verses 6-7 great exploits of healing occurred. In verse 8 great joy came to the city. In verse 12 they were baptized in water, which is a vital teaching and commandment of the New Testament.

Yet another experience was lacking. In verses 15-16 we are told they had not received the Holy Ghost. In verse 17, "They received the Holy Ghost as hands of the apostles were laid upon the believers."

This Thursday night, August 25th, at 7:30 p.m. at the First Assembly of God Church at Martin, Ky. a teaching ministry on the Baptism of the Holy Spirit will be taught. The instructor will be Pastor Lorie Vannucci, a teacher and pastor for twenty-three years. He is a graduate of Elm Bible College of Rochester, New York which is one of the most respected Pentecostal Bible colleges in America.

The church is located one-eighth of one mile beyond the First Guaranty Bank of Martin. All students are encouraged to bring notebooks for each session. It.

3 Vietnam Vets Receive Awards

Gov. Julian M. Carroll has presented awards to three Kentucky Vietnam veterans who are making significant contributions to their communities.

The Editor's Choice Awards were presented in ceremonies in the Governor's office to Gary D. Wall and James L. Cherry, both of Louisville, and Vernon Rose, of Radcliff.

These state finalists are eligible to participate in the national competition from which 10 national finalists will be selected to represent Vietnam veterans across the nation. Selection of the national finalists will be made in the fall at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D. C. by a committee of distinguished journalists.

The Editors' Choice Awards program is sponsored by No Greater Love, a national, non-profit, humanitarian organization that seeks to recognize the veterans of the Southeast Asian conflict.

Wall, an employee of the Kling Co. in Louisville, is a staff sergeant in the 438th MP Company, Kentucky Army National Guard in Louisville. He was cited for his bravery in swiftly removing a smoke bomb from the race-track during the running of the 102nd Kentucky Derby, preventing certain injury and possible death to the jockeys.

Cherry, who served as a naval officer and pilot from 1963-'65 is totally and permanently disabled because of a progressive neuromuscular disease. He has persisted in his efforts to initiate, develop and implement programs designed to bring social changes to benefit handicapped persons. He is president of the Action League for Handicapped Adults in Louisville and a member of the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped. He was selected the Jaycees' Outstanding Man of the Year for Kentucky and America.

Rose, who served in the U.S. Army from 1967-'68, suffered a combat injury that left him 100 per cent disabled. He is active in volunteer work to benefit military personnel, particularly disabled veterans. Since the position of veterans officer was discontinued at Ft. Knox in 1974, Rose has served in that capacity without pay. He now has a staff of 15 volunteers rendering a variety of services to military personnel at the base.

The three were nominated by three Kentucky congressmen, Rep. Ron Mazoli, Louisville, Rep. Gene Snyder, Louisville, and Rep. William Natcher, Bowling Green. All congressmen were invited to submit names for nomination.

Extension Service News

HONEYBEE MEETING
A honeybee meeting has been set for 7 p.m. August 30 at the Johnson county extension office. William G. Eaton, bees and honey specialist, will discuss the stress that bees have gone through and problems they will be facing.

According to statistics, there were 60,000 colonies of bees in Kentucky in 1976. With a loss of half or 30,000 colonies, last winter at a minimum of $30 per colony the loss was $900,000, and that does not include their value of pollinating crops.

Mr. Eaton will discuss bee disease and how to prepare the bees to prevent another disastrous bee loss. According to the weather experts, another rough winter lies ahead, so now will be a good time to prepare for it.

For more information, contact the Floyd County Extension Office, 886-2668.

Hazard Gets ARC Grant of $307,600

Gov. Julian Carroll has announced approval of a $307,600 Appalachian Regional Commission grant to renovate and expand the Hazard water treatment plant in Perry county.

According to William L. Short, secretary of the Development Cabinet and Carroll's alternate on the Appalachian Regional Commission, this supplemental ARC money is part of the total subject cost of $1,615,200 predicated upon an Economic Development Administration grant of $807,600. Local resources will supply the remaining $500,000.

"The Hazard project will double water treatment capacity, eliminate raw water intake problems and improve filtration," Short said.

According to Short, because of the capacity problems now existing, the plant currently in use will be unable to serve future users. "This renovation will be important to sustaining the economic growth of Hazard and Perry county," he concluded.

The city of Hazard is the ARC grant recipient.

14 States To Participate In Barkley Lake Fish Study

A portion of Barkley Lake has been proposed as the site for one of the largest and most intensive fish population studies ever attempted. Fish and Wildlife Commissioner Arnold L. Mitchell announced Monday.

The study, as designed by the Reservoir Committee to the Southern Division of the American Fisheries Society, is planned for the Crooked Creek Embayment of Barkley Lake. Crooked Creek is on the Land Between The Lakes shore, across the lake and slightly north of Lake Barkley State Resort Park.

Biologists from 14 states as well as representatives from several federal agencies and universities will conduct the study, Mitchell said. The purpose of the project is to gather data which will help fisheries biologists make more accurate estimates of fish populations. Accurate population estimates are essential for almost all projects designed to improve fishing, so the results of this study should lead to better fisheries management throughout the South, according to Mitchell.

During the study, scheduled for September, 1978, Crooked Creek embayment will be blocked so no fish can either enter or leave the study area. Several population estimates will then be made using various sampling techniques, after which the 284-acre bay will be treated with rotenone, a fish toxicant, and all the fish in the study area collected and cataloged.

This actual count of the fish in the area will then be compared with the population estimates to verify the accuracy of the estimation procedures.

Mitchell said that natural recruitment from other areas of the lake should replace the fish in the study area within one month.

Other aspects of the study will include an assessment of the effectiveness of fish attractors and a check on estimating methods used in pollution-caused fish kills. Also, a bass tournament will be held in the study area to determine the effects of such contests on black bass populations. All bass caught during the tournament will be released outside the study area, Mitchell said.

A public meeting to discuss the project will be held at Lake Barkley State Resort Park Convention Center, September 13, at 7:30 p.m.

Huntington Steel Plans Pike Branch

R. Sterling Hall, president of Huntington Steel & Supply Company, Huntington, W. Va., announced this week that his firm is expanding into the Eastern Kentucky area. Huntington Steel has recently procured five acres of land on U.S. 23 at Mullins, approximately five miles north of Pikeville, and L. David Smith, Huntington architect, has been employed to design a building of approximately 10,000 square feet to be used as a steel warehousing facility. The building will include office space and a five-ton overhead crane.

Richard Koehler, manager of the company's warehouse division, said the Pikeville division warehouse, as it will be designated, will inventory a full range of steel items. The facility will employ five people, all to be hired locally, including a resident manager.

According to Hall, present plans call for the new warehousing facility to be operational by January 15, next year.

Friendship Force Director Named

Frankfort, Ky.—Gov. Julian M. Carroll has appointed Martha Layne Collins state director of The Friendship Force, a non-profit, private organization designed to promote world peace through "the force of friendship."

In announcing the appointment of Mrs. Collins, the Governor said, "The pursuit of peace has to be one of the most crying needs of our day. This citizen-to-citizen approach is a promising one, and Martha Layne's personality, dedication and proven record of public service make her an ideal person to head this effort."

Mrs. Collins presently is the state's Supreme Court Clerk. She is a former school teacher in Jefferson and Woodford counties and has worked in various political campaigns since 1970.

The Friendship Force was chartered in March, 1977 with the intent of creating an environment for establishing personal friendships between citizens of the United States and citizens of other countries. The Friendship Force was announced March 1 by President Jimmy Carter to a meeting of the National Governors' Conference. At that time, the President asked the governors to designate state directors in their home states.

The Friendship Force grew out of a project started by President and Mrs. Carter in 1973 when he was the Governor of Georgia. They made possible a 10-day exchange between 200 Georgians and 200 citizens of the State of Pernambuco in Brazil.

Rosalynn Carter was one of the travelers on the first flight, and she is now national honorary chairperson of The Friendship Force which takes the same format and amplifies it to include potentially all the states of this country and all the nations of the world.

The state director already has received inquiries from across the Commonwealth and the "interest in this exchange program to promote world peace is encouraging," Mrs. Collins reported.

She explained that a plane load of citizens from a designated city will fly to a city outside the United States for a 10-day stay. The same plane will bring an equal number of citizens from that city back to the U.S. to stay in private homes while the Americans are visiting abroad.

Mrs. Collins noted that persons normally will not know the country to which they will be assigned when they sign up for an exchange. "An important aspect of The Friendship Force is that people be willing to accept assignments any place for the purpose of establishing friendships in the world. The reason for such a procedure is to discourage the idea that the program is simply an inexpensive way to be a tourist," Kentucky director Collins said.

On every citizen-exchange visit, each traveling ambassador pays $250 regardless of the origin or destination of The Friendship Flight. The low cost is made possible through gifts from individuals, corporations, and foundations.

At present, Kentucky's first departure city has not been selected, and a departure date has not been set.

The Governor said Mrs. Collins will be working towards having a cross-section of Kentuckians on every flight, and that the demand for seats on the initial flight will exceed available space.

The President's goal for 1980 is to have a flight a month from all 50 states and countries all over the world.

Boy Scouts May Win Railway Scholarships

Registered Scouts who have earned Railroad merit badges are eligible to compete for scholarships offered by the Railway Progress Institute.

M. K. Eblen, president of the Lonesome Pine Council, Boy Scouts of America, said a boy must be a registered Scout who has earned the Railroad merit badge by the time he enters. He must submit an entry form to the Railway Progress Institute, 801 N. Fairfax St., Alexandria, Va. 22314, by September 15. Forms are available from the institute.

Accompanying the form must be a 600-word essay on "The Importance of Railroads to a Strong National Economy," with a description of how the essay was published and delivered orally.

Scholarship grant prizes are $2,000, first; $1,500, second; and $1,000, third. Eblen said the winners receive an all-expense-paid trip to Washington, D. C., on October 27 to attend the RPI annual meeting and receive their certificates. An adult of the winner's choice also receives a free trip to Washington.

Dog's Ears Shape Pike Court Verdict

(From The Pike County News)

The ears of a fawn colored dog, a pit bull named "Ginger Babe," decided the outcome of a criminal trial in Pike circuit court last week.

The 40-pound canine, about 10-months-old, throughout the hearing lay silently at the feet of Commonwealth Attorney John Paul Runyon.

Levi Dorton, of Three-Mile, was accused of receiving stolen property, the dog.

Dorton indicated that the dog had been found at roadside by his son who brought the animal home with him. The elder Dorton claimed ownership of the dog.

Primm Wallace, of Ashcamp, also claimed to be the dog's owner.

Wallace said the dog was stolen about a year ago and that the animal was located later at the home of Dorton.

Wallace, according to a court official, said he was positive the dog was his and that one means of identification was the manner in which the animal's ears had been trimmed by a veterinarian.

Dorton, said he himself had trimmed the dog's ears with a pocket knife, the official reported.

Commonwealth Attorney Runyon pointed to suture scars in the dog's ears and declared that the sutures could only have been the result of a skilled veterinarian's work.

Runyon had each juror examine the scars with a magnifying glass and also called as a witness a veterinarian who said he had performed the ear job at Wallace's request.

The jurors found Dorton guilty of receiving stolen property and fixed his penalty at a $500 fine.

After the verdict, "Ginger Babe," left the courtroom with Wallace.

Unemployment Drops in July

Unemployment figures for Kentucky released last week indicate that 8,200 people who were on the state's unemployment roster in June found jobs or left the labor force in July.

The estimated number of persons seeking but not finding work during July was 62,700. That total is 8,200 fewer than in June. This represents a 0.5 per cent decrease in the Kentucky unemployment rate, which dropped to 4.2 per cent in July from June's 4.7 per cent rate.

The national unadjusted rate of unemployment was seven per cent in July.

Robert MacDonald, Department of Human Resources chief labor analyst, attributes most of the rate decrease to school-age youth who looked for summer jobs during June but dropped out of the labor force in July because they were unable to find employment.

The total number of jobs in Kentucky decreased 12,500 in July, mostly because of seasonal layoffs within the school systems.

The largest employment gain was in construction work, representing 3,700 new employees. The largest decrease was in agriculture, down 13,800 workers. In Kentucky's industries, employment increased slightly during the month.

Berry Suggests State Provide Solid Waste Collection Points

State Sen. John Berry (D-New Castle) has proposed establishment of collection centers for litter and solid waste as an initial step in solving solid waste problems in a comprehensive statewide manner.

Berry's proposal was made at the first meeting of a solid waste commission, an 18-member body appointed recently by Gov. Julian Carroll.

The commission has been directed by the Governor to develop solid waste legislation for the 1978 General Assembly and hopefully provide answers to solid waste problems for the nation as well as Kentucky.

Under the system proposed by Berry, the state would purchase and equip the collection points. Cities and counties, either on their own or through contract with private enterprise, would haul to the centers and unload on a fee basis. According to Berry, the cost to local government would be far less than the cost of acquiring and operating a sanitary landfill.

Materials unloaded would be sorted into recyclable and unrecyclable materials with recoverable waste sold to industries engaged in recycling while the balance of the materials would be composted at the collection centers.

The compost would then be sold for fertilizer.

Berry said, "To put the plan into legislation and then to implement it would require that we receive input from the various private industries and counties and municipal governments that have been involved at the various aspects."

Although the proposal would require a substantial revenue commitment initially, Berry said that revenue derived from unloading fees from local government and the sale of recyclable materials and composts would substantially offset future maintenance and operating costs. "In fact, those costs might be completely offset and it is possible that the undertaking would be profitable," he said.

The Governor was successful, through his chairmanship of that committee, in setting up a subcommittee on waste management.

The subcommittee acquired a $100,000 grant from the Environmental Protection Agency and at Carroll's urging designated Kentucky as the pilot state for a demonstration project on waste management. Part of that money will be used for technical aspects of the commission's work.

Constitutional Debate To Be Aired on KET

Lieut. Gov. Thelma Stovall and Benton attorney Richard Lewis appear in a public debate on constitutional revision for "Debate: Constitutional Convention" Friday, August 26 at 9 p.m.

The debate, taped earlier at Western Kentucky University under the aegis of the Warren County Women's Political Caucus, is designed to give the public a better understanding of the call for a convention to revise the Kentucky Constitution.

According to Diana Barnhart, spokeswoman for the Caucus, "It's really more of a public forum with both sides of the issue being presented as to whether we want to have a Constitutional convention."

The issue of whether or not to call a Constitutional convention will be on the ballot for voters to decide in November.

In Memoriam

In memory of Parley Hunter, of Martin, Ky., who passed away July 8, 1976:

The world may change from year to year, and friends from day to day, but never will the one we loved from memory pass away. Your memory to us is a keepsake, with which we shall never part. Though God has you in His keeping, we still have you in our hearts. Nothing but memories as we journey on, longing for a smile from you. But you are gone. None will ever know the depths of our deep regret, but we will always remember after others shall forget.

You have gone out of sight but never out of mind. You're cherished in the hearts of your father, mother and sisters who are left behind.

Greatly missed by your Mother, Father and Sisters II-pd.

Cincinnati Teenagers Help Restore Pike Gym

Thanks to a group of Cincinnati area teenagers, the gymnasium at Pikeville College in Pikeville, Kentucky, is nearly ready for restoration. The interior of the gym was almost totally destroyed by flood last April 4.

The teenagers, members of the Interparish Ministry in the Greater Cincinnati area, paid their own way to Pikeville and worked for an entire week as part of their summer work camp. The Interparish Ministry consists of Indian Hill Presbyterian-Episcopal; Armstrong Chapel, UMC; St. Thomas Episcopal and St. Timothy's Episcopal churches. Rev. George Hupp, director of the Interparish Ministry, accompanied the fourteen young people.

The work on the college gymnasium included actual shoveling of mud and debris, washing down walls and fixtures, and scrubbing floors, walls, windows, and fixtures. The facility had not been cleaned out since the April flooding. The Federal Disaster Assistance Administration has approved funds to make major replacements and repairs to the facility.

Walking Horse Celebration, Harvest Festival

"It's the friendliest town," was the comment of a recent visitor to Morehead. To prove it, Moreheadians are opening wide the gates for throngs of visitors to the Kentucky Walking Horse Celebration and Harvest Festival, Sept. 21-24.

Take a friendly place like Morehead, surround it with beautiful Morehead State University and scenic Cave Run Lake and other attributes, then make it accessible by way of Interstate-64 and the walking horse celebration and festival will prove one of the best in the state.

In recent years Morehead, particularly through combined efforts of Morehead State University, has hosted outstanding horse shows. The county seat's horse history goes way back... even before the day Jesse James rode into town to establish a mother and child in a room at the Jim Andy Nickell home, to return four days later with a satchel of gold coins and gold notes. James left that day, leaving the woman and baby to depart on the westbound train that brought news of the Huntington Bank robbery.

Of course, Morehead is proud of its history and pioneer heritage, but the emphasis here is on the future.

People who travel to Morehead for the celebration will be dined and feted and given area tours to see the progress in living color. Land development will show broad levels with modern buildings and other developments awaiting new business structures. Downtown has been beautified throughout the summer with flower boxes and other improvements, and by Sept. 21-24 densely wooded hills that edge the city will be changing from deep green to brilliant red, orange, gold and rust.

Moreheadians have worked many hours putting the celebration together. Plans are to hold the nightly event in the arena of Morehead State University—a closed arena that will provide comfort even if the nights are cool or weather is rainy.

The Morehead Chamber of Commerce is working with the Kentucky Walking Horse Association to see that rooms are available for visitors and that their stay is a memorable, enjoyable one.

Cooperating with the chamber and association is the newly organized Morehead-Rowan County Arts Council. The arts council is arranging an arts and crafts show and sale in the parking lot at Citizens Bank. Booth space rents for $20, and interested artists and crafts people may contact Mary Levee, Chamber of Commerce, Morehead, Ky. 40351, phone (606) 784-8447.

In years past the walking horse celebration has been held in Louisville, Shelbyville and Lawrenceburg. Rowan countians believe their special hospitality and visitor conveniences will bring the celebration back. Mrs. Pearl Brown, celebration chairperson said, "We want to make it enticing enough that the association will vote to return to Morehead."

Morehead has much to offer: Cave Run Lake, as well as other outdoor fun on tennis courts and at the golf course. A one-room country school remains on the MSU campus to prove its long time interest in education. A campus plaque honors Rowan countian Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, who pioneered in Moonlight Schools, an adult education program that spread to other parts of the U.S. and to Europe.

"Country Squire" (Ray Crawford), former president of the Right Beaver C.B. Club, and his wife, "Raggedy Ann" (Maxine), former secretary of the club, have resigned as officials of the club but still remain members of the club. The reason given for their resignation was because of their heavy work schedule.

An executive meeting is scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 25, to appoint other officials. The other officials are appointed by the president.

The raffle this meeting was donated by yours truly, "The Smoke Blower." The raffle consisted of a selection of after-shave.

"Lazybones" was the raffle winner. Proceeds from the raffle and a donation from club funds went to help a member of the Left Beaver Rescue Squad pay his travel expenses to see his wife who is a patient at a Lexington hospital.

The next regular meeting of the club will be Sept. 11 at 3 p.m. at the Wayland Elementary School.

New membership in the club is always welcome.

Your corporation can buy your life insurance with tax deductible dollars.

Advantages both ways. It's good for the corporation regardless of size, because the premiums for life insurance on corporate owners, executives, key employees... all employees... are tax deductible as a business expense under a recent government regulation. So the employee gets the benefit of increased compensation, up to $50,000 in term life insurance purchased by the corporation, with no current income tax liability for either party! The employee can even have permanent life insurance, retain the cash values and benefits, and pay only the tax on the premium. It's a good concept.

Now, all you need is a little help to do something about it. Kansas City Life, The Lioness, would like to introduce you to one of our people who knows the ins-and-outs of this new concept.

Senior Citizens Day At State Fair, Monday

More than 3,000 persons, age 60 and over, are expected to travel to Senior Citizens Day at the Kentucky State Fair next Monday (Aug. 22).
 The annual event will be in the east hall of the fair's exposition center. Gov. Julian M. Carroll will open the program at 1:30 p.m.
 "Many Kentuckians over 60 look forward each year to Senior Citizens Day," said Gov. Carroll. "It is a day set aside for them to enjoy the State Fair together."
 The Institute for Aging will act as host for the day's sponsor, the state Department for Human Resources. Awards will be presented to the oldest man and oldest woman attending and to the largest group. Entertainment will be provided by groups from the Purchase and Penyrile Area Agencies on Aging.
 Also featured will be a country music program at 12:30 p.m.
 State Fair personnel will operate a free shuttle bus to and from the activities for the senior citizens. Until noon, fair admission will be reduced to $1.50 per car or bus-load.
 People 60 or older who want more information or who need to arrange for transportation should contact their Area Agency on Aging office.

Police May Lose $95,000 Funding

The Kentucky State Police may lose up to $95,000 in federal funds because of a recent sex discrimination suit won by two Lexington women.
 In a letter received by Gov. Julian M. Carroll, the Law Enforcement Assistance Association (LEAA) threatened to suspend its allocation of more than $94,700 to the state police this year.
 LEAA began taking action to suspend funds to the state police earlier this month after it was notified by the Kentucky Commission on Human Rights of Kentucky's practice of sex discrimination in its officers selection process.
 Last month, the commission found that two Lexington women were discriminated against because of their sex when they were denied admission to a state trooper cadet class because they failed to meet a 5-foot-6 minimum height requirement.
 Marta Pearson, 28, 1906 Deauville Drive, and Lupe Cota, 26, 3426 Holwyn Road, were awarded $1,000 each for damage compensation and invitations to enroll in the next cadet class.
 As a result of the sex discrimination suit won by the women, LEAA has found the state police in violation of a federal law which states that no person shall be discriminated against on the grounds of race, color, religion, national origin or sex by a federally funded program.

Health Systems Agency To Hold Public Hearings

The East Kentucky Health Systems Agency, Inc. has scheduled a public hearing on September 7 in each of the nine planning districts served by the non-profit organization to review a proposed Health Systems Plan being developed by the agency under the provisions of Public Law 93-641. The hearing for this area will be held at Prestonsburg Community College, from 7 to 9 p.m.

A long-range document in nature, the Health Systems Plan is being designed to promote local level Comprehensive Health Systems which will address the availability, accessibility and costs of health care to all residents in the 68-county health service area. Other planning factors such as quality, acceptability and continuity of care are considered in the plan.

The five-year goals and objectives set forth in the proposed plan will provide the foundation for the development of short-range priority objectives of implementation plans to be developed annually by the East Kentucky Health Systems Agency. The Health Systems Plan should be of use to area residents and the health community as a guide to how health systems should change over time. In addition, the plan should provide an effective planning, organizational and communications bridge with other related agencies at the state and local levels.

Fifteen major areas of concern to consumers and providers in the health service area were identified through local forums and analyses of health systems and health status data. These fifteen components of the plan include mental health services, health manpower, hospitals, primary care, respiratory disease, emergency medical services, cancer, maternal and infant care, long term services, prevention-detection services, heart disease, dental problems, and health education. Technical advisory groups made up of specialists in the particular areas of concern have assisted in the preparation of the major plan components.

All interested persons are invited to attend the public hearings.

Those interested in viewing the proposed plan prior to the hearing, may do so by visiting the Area Development District office serving their county.

A Class for Clowns

Want to be a clown, or just learn how to "clown around"?

"Introduction to Clowning," a new Community Service course to be offered by Prestonsburg Community College, will seek to train people in the art and skill of clowning.

Taught by "Frankie the Clown," otherwise known as Chaplain Frank Cancro, the class in clowning is for a wide range of people, including those who are serious about becoming professional clowns, those who are interested in clowning as a diversion and an activity that is at the same time challenging and relaxing—and a lot of fun, and for those who are "just interested."

The class will meet in the Student Center, 6:30 to 9 p.m. on Wednesdays, beginning September 7. The participant, as a student clown, will be introduced to the basic aspects of clowning: make-up, costume design, prop and skit preparation, performance, as well as an overview of clown history, clown ethics, and some introduction to skills in balloonology and clown magic. Upon completion of the course students will be eligible for consideration for membership in Clowns of America, Inc., for continued professional growth.

For more information, contact Office of Community Services, Prestonsburg Community College, telephone 886-3863.
