

Present Route Out as US 23 Planning Near

Floyd-Johnson Link Wins Place in Plan To Improve Highway

When aerial reconnaissance of alternate routes for a new US 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville is begun—perhaps within a week—it is almost certain one route will not be flown over. That is the present two-lane, cliff-hanging route which the highway now follows between the two county-seats. Gail Mullins, Pikeville, district engineer, Department of Highways, emphasized that nobody knows where the new highway will be located—that is why several alternate routes are scheduled for study—but he agreed that the present route lying between the Big Sandy river banks on the one side and precipitous cliffs on the other is not likely to get consideration.

"There's no direction to go except back into the hill, and, besides, there would be the problem of waste disposition," he said.

The first attempt at aerial reconnaissance was made last week, but fog made it impossible. A second was planned for Tuesday morning, this week, but weather conditions at Frankfort cancelled it.

Four-laning of US 23 is under way from Pikeville to the Kentucky-Virginia line, and the same improvement already is well along in planning for the route from Catlettsburg to Paintsville. But for a time the Prestonsburg-Paintsville segment was in the "missing link" category, with no plans for its improvement in sight.

That situation developed because traffic projections were made only until

First Murder Trial of Term Ends in Nance Conviction

Carl Nance was convicted later Tuesday, and his pen term was set at 10 years. The jury deliberated less than an hour before reaching the verdict.

The first murder trial of the current circuit court term was nearing its end late Tuesday afternoon with the arguments of opposing counsel in the case of Carl Nance, who is accused of the revolver slaying on Stephens Branch of Buster Carroll.

The defendant claimed that he shot Carroll in self-defense and in fear of his life while Carroll was choking him. The only other eyewitnesses to the shooting, Willie Carroll, brother of the victim, and Burns Osborne, said they did not see the alleged attack on Nance, but the defense pointed to the fact that they were in the front seat of the car in which the shooting took place and did not see what was happening between Carroll and Nance in the rear. This Town...That World

Had a letter this week from a reader inquiring if Floyd county first went on Eastern Time after World War II. The lady is innocent—she doesn't know of my troubles with time. And I don't remember when they upset us all with that clock tinkering.

When some courteous visitor comes into this office, looks around and inquires if we have an ashtray, I never fail to recall the time when an acquaintance came in, took a gander at the floor and exclaimed, "Wall-to-wall ash tray!"

It may be that I am being a bit optimistic about the matter, but it's worth a trial. I refer to this matter of water quality and the wild pledges to clean up America's streams. What I have in mind won't stop the silting in of streams and lakes and other atrocities inflicted upon the environment with utter impunity. But the quality of the water—this could help, and could be the only way the government could make good on its promise of water purity.

My idea is simply this: Require every person who tosses a Clorox jug into a stream to leave a pint or so of the stuff in the jug, with the cap off.

The robins left ahead of schedule, a few weeks ago, it was reported. If so, they're back, ahead of schedule. Don't know what they've been up to while away, but they seem to be missing some of their feathers and color.

We have two dogs around the office now—Pup the Black, owned by Jimmy Goble, and my daughter's Mollie whose greatest distinction is her resemblance to the late James Thurber's dogs. Sometimes I catch myself mumbling in my beard, declaring the place has indeed gone to the dogs. Then I remind myself that if I had my old Dalmatian here to join them nobody would ever hear a peep out of me. How others here at the office

Flood Insurance Threat Seen in Home Rule Loss

The Kentucky Supreme Court decision which last week held unconstitutional the so-called Home Rule Law threatens the eligibility of Eastern Kentucky counties for flood insurance, a federal official later said.

The ruling apparently threatens thousands of flood insurance policies already in effect, said Don Hansford, a flood insurance specialist with the Department for Housing and Urban Development's Federal Insurance Administration in Atlanta.

One of the requirements for a county to be eligible for federal flood insurance is the development of a flood management system for construction in the flood plain.

This is achieved by ordinance by the county's law-making body in Kentucky's case, the fiscal court.

But the Kentucky Supreme Court last week declared unconstitutional a 1972 law giving county fiscal courts the power to enact laws.

If this ruling means what it seems to, the counties already approved under the emergency phase of the program "probably would face suspension," Hansford said.

Supreme Court Justice Pleas Jones, who wrote the court's unanimous decision, declined to comment on its implications Thursday. Court decisions become mandate, or final 21 days from the date of issue unless a petition for rehearing is filed within 20 days of the decision.

Jefferson County Atty. J. Bruce Miller has said he will petition the high court for a rehearing.

"Prior to the home rule decision, local governments had the authority for planning and zoning and I don't know whether these ordinances would be covered under that decision or not," Dave Rosenbaum, an engineer in the state Division of Water Resources, which coordinates the federal program, said.

A pool of 132 insurance companies issues flood insurance through a servicing office run by CNA Insurance Co. in Cincinnati.

Charles W. Luker, who heads the Cincinnati office, said 11,815 policies worth $263.9 million were in effect in Kentucky as of June 30.

Jefferson county accounted for 1,703 of those policies, Louisville had 1,387. Thirty-one Kentucky counties account for 1,889 policies. The rest are held by homeowners in incorporated cities.

But a substantial number of policies held by homeowners in counties are in those counties hard-hit by April floods.

For example, there are 587 policies in effect in Harlan county, 333 in Floyd, 204 in Martin, and 172 in Bell county.

"If this ruling means these counties cannot adopt ordinances to establish

Middle Creek Man In Serious Condition

Shot in the lower abdomen with a shotgun blast fired at point-blank range late Sunday afternoon, Tom Dotson, 25, of the State Road Fork of Middle Creek, was described as being in "fair" condition Tuesday afternoon at the Highlands Medical Center.

State Trooper Don Weedman, who investigated the shooting, said available evidence indicated the shot was self-inflicted. The shooting, which took place in the roadway, near the home of Ida Johnson, was not witnessed, the trooper was told.

The wounded man was employed by Big Sandy RECC.

Shelter Sites, Evacuation Plan Seen Countywide

A countywide disaster relief program designed to provide emergency shelter, provisions and medical supplies in communities throughout Floyd county in the event of natural disaster is in the final stages of organization, according to Mrs. Shelby Willis, executive director of the Floyd County Chapter, American Red Cross.

"The entire program should be all set up by October 30," said Mrs. Willis. At that time, she explained, various community shelters as well as the names of emergency disaster community coordinators will be announced.

The urgency of a need for some type of coordinated evacuation-relief plan for Floyd county was brought into focus during last spring's disastrous flooding on the Big Sandy. At that time emergency accommodations were hastily established by the Red Cross and county rescue squad groups, along with various schools, churches and volunteers, and although the efforts helped thousands of the county's displaced residents the relief efforts were, nonetheless, makeshift in nature. "Our disaster

HUD Announces $500,000 Grant To City, County

A $500,000 discretionary grant to Prestonsburg-Floyd county from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) last Friday was hailed as a breakthrough toward cooperative effort in future city and county development.

It was pointed out that $105,000 of the total will be for the extension of sewers in the Old Lancer vicinity, outside the Prestonsburg city limits, with other funds to provide rehabilitation of homes there.

The county-city program can in the future result in similar improvements being undertaken in other communities of the county, it was emphasized.

Remaining portions of the grant are earmarked for the acquisition of 12 to 15 acres of land on Abbott mountain for future development. This would include $105,000 for access roads and utilities there.

Outright grants or loans at 3 per cent interest also are expected to be announced soon for home improvements in the Lancer area outside Prestonsburg for qualified applicants, it was said.

The $500,000 discretionary grant was announced by Senators Ford and Huddleston and Congressman Perkins.

Election Board Names Officers Without OK of G.O.P. Member

Election officers to serve at the 44 voting places in Floyd county for the next two years have been appointed by the county election board.

The list of officers, as approved, was signed by Joe Helton, Lemuel Meade and William G. Francis. Gorman Collins, Republican member of the commission, did not sign.

Former Sheriff Collins, the only Republican member of the election commission, claimed the meeting at which the appointment of election officers was to be certified was illegal, since all commissioners were by law to have been notified in writing of the meeting, the time and the date, that this was not done and that "he has not and will not certify this list."

He claimed the commission first met Sept. 20 and that he was given the Democratic and Republican lists, which, he added, "had been selected apparently in private session" before the meeting. Collins claims he stated at that time that the Republican list was not satisfactory and that he marked the officers whom he felt would serve and "stand up for an honest election."

When the commissioners met last Thursday to certify the list of those appointed, he said, he was not notified of the time of the meeting, was not present when certification was made by the other three commissioners, all Democrats, and that 55 officers whom he had selected "were changed back to the original list that had been selected before the Sept. 20 meeting of the three Democratic election commissioners."

The other commissioners claim that the list was duly selected by majority vote, that Collins could not as one member rule the commission, and that the certification was legally made.

The list follows:

Prestonsburg No. 1—Wesley Howard, judge, and Billy Callihan, sheriff, Democrats; W. B. Boyd, judge, and Lucille James, clerk, Republicans.

Prestonsburg No. 2—C. J. McNally, judge, and Nancy Sturgill, clerk, Democrats; Herbert Prater, judge, and Opal Dingus, sheriff, Republicans.

Horse Tradin' a Fine Art on Jockey Ground

Scene on the jockey ground held recently on Bull Creek. (See additional photos elsewhere in issue).

The "jockey ground," a traditional meeting place for owners of and dealers in horse flesh, appears to have had its origin, as far as anyone can tell, in the days when church members who gathered every few years for the church association meeting depended, necessarily, on the trusty steed for transportation. With such a large collection of horses thus gathered, a little swappin' and sellin' was the natural outcome. It perhaps began with quiet banter and orderly trading, but eventually was banished far from church grounds. But it still is carried on, as witness this photo made a few weeks ago of the jockey ground on Bull Creek, out of sight and sound of the United Baptist Association which was in progress at the same time. Horse traders as far away as Letcher county came for the sheer enjoyment of trying to "skin the other fellar."

Pan Am Pilot Discusses Air Career

Mr. Isbell illustrates flight routes with model of airliner.

Morris Isbell, pilot for Pan American International Airlines, recently discussed with the seventh grade children at Clark Elementary School jobs available in airline transportation.

During the discussion, he illustrated, with a model of the plane he pilots, several world-wide transportation routes and the different jobs needed to keep the routes available and operating.

Since Mr. Isbell and his family reside on Auxier road, and his base station for Pan Am is in New York, he stressed the importance of air travel when time and distance need to be shortened. His personal experience serves as an example: He flies from the Combs airport to New York, then boards another plane which he may pilot with passengers to enjoy both a sunrise and a sunset before reaching a destination in a far-away country.

A question and answer session followed the presentation.

CLAIMS ELECTION COMMISSION SELECTED OFFICERS ILLEGALLY

Politics as usual in Floyd County, says Gormon Collins, the Republican election commissioner for the November general election. The Election Commission met Tuesday, September 20, for the purpose of selecting election officers for the November election in Floyd county. Mr. Collins, the Republican, was submitted two lists of election officers, one for the Democrats and one for the Republican officer to serve, which had been selected apparently in private session before the Commission met. The Republican commissioner was asked to go over the list, and see if it was satisfactory to his party, at which time Gormon Collins, the Republican commissioner, stated that the Republican list was not satisfactory and had not been selected by all the commissioners present. At this meeting the Republican commissioner marked the officers that he felt would serve, and would stand up for an honest election, and marked them on the list that was submitted to him for the election. This list was given to the Election Commission to be printed so the officers could be notified. The Commission set (today) Thursday as the day to certify the list of election officers that had been appointed.

The Republican election commissioner was never notified of the time of the meeting and was not present when the certification was made by the other three election commissioners, all Democrats. A total of 55 election officers that the Republican commissioner had selected were changed back to the original list that had been selected before the September 20th meeting of the three Democrat election commissioners, and were certified to the clerk's office. Gormon Collins, Republican election commissioner, states that the commission is in violation, as all commissioners are to be notified in writing of the meeting, the time and the date, which was not done, and he has not, and will not, certify this list.

Gormon Collins, the Republican commissioner, also states that it is hard enough to hold an election with officers that have been checked out as to their honesty and integrity and see if they will serve. The Election Commission is not only in violation of the law, but is in violation of the sense of fair play and justice in conjunction with the election of our county officials.

Prestonsburg, Wheelwright End Their Losing Streaks

By C. "OLLIE" ROBINSON

The Prestonsburg Blackcats and the Wheelwright Trojans won over the past week-end to halt their losing streaks. The Blackcats snapped their three-game losing streak by defeating the visiting Breathitt County Bobcats, 24-6. All of the Cats losses have been on the road. The Trojans ended a two-game losing streak by downing the Betsy Layne Bobcats here Saturday night, 44 to 6.

Prestonsburg scored in the first quarter of play on a nine-yard run by Jimmy Campbell, and a few plays later Kerry Slone added a touchdown on a 19-yard run. Sophomore Dwayne Rodebaugh kicked the extra points after each touchdown and the outstanding sophomore also kicked a 33-yard field goal to close out the scoring for the Cats in the first half of play.

Mark Chaffin was the leading ground gainer. He ran for 160 yards on 16 carries and scored his first touchdown in the fourth quarter on a 12-yard jaunt after moments earlier running for 35 yards. The Blackcats' defense was much improved as they limited Breathitt County to only one touchdown which came on a 17-yard run by halfback Danny Daniels. The Prestonsburg defense recovered two fumbles and made three pass interceptions—one by Goodman and two by Randy Chaffins. Prestonsburg, now 2-3, will host another class 3A team, the Belfry Pirates, Friday night.

The Wheelwright Trojans picked up their fourth win of the season by defeating Betsy Layne. The Trojans led at halftime, 36 to 6. Joe Tackett scored two touchdowns on runs of 20 and 6 yards. Lanny Paul Hall added two touchdowns on runs of 15 and 2 yards, while a single touchdown was picked up by Tony Hall and Strom Berger. Betsy Layne's touchdown was scored by Greg Collins.

TV NETWORKS PLAN SPECIAL MEMORIALS TO ELVIS PRESLEY

Elvis Presley, whose first national exposure as a singing personality was on television, will be seen in forthcoming special performances on the same medium.

CBS is airing a 60-minute concert special the singer did last June in the Midwest. The special, scheduled for Oct. 3 from 8 to 9 p.m., was film coverage of two live concerts he did, the first on June 19 in Omaha, Neb., and the second, on June 21 in Rapid City, S. D.

Not to be left out of the media memorials, NBC is going to rerun one of its past Presley specials on Sept. 7 from 10 to 11 p.m.

This one, "Elvis on Tour," was first aired on that network on Jan. 15, 1976. NBC had scheduled a rerun of last May's "Richard Pryor Special" for Sept. 7 but is postponing it.

Consistency, the Rare Jewel

We do not agree with those who see in the Supreme Court decision voiding Kentucky's home rule law as a deliberate maneuver to force the people of the state to vote for a constitutional convention and, ultimately, a new constitution.

That would be a process too slow to get done what is needed now, not later. If home rule is unconstitutional and the flood insurance issued to thousands because counties adopted legislation under that law to comply with federal regulations law is threatened, Kentucky can't wait. Constitutional amendment can be done more quickly and as effectively.

What would simplify the whole situation would be a bit of consistency on the part of the Supreme Court.

J. Bruce Miller, Jefferson county attorney who proposes to file a petition for rehearing by the court of the home rule issue cites a classic example of the court's inconsistency. For example, in the opinion holding home rule legislation unconstitutional, Justice Pleas Jones wrote:

"... this court has only one duty—to lay the article of the constitution which is invoked beside the statute which is challenged and to decide whether the latter squares with the former."

That, in the vernacular, is known as "laying the straight-edge to it." In effect, Justice Jones was saying that if the home rule law doesn't match up to the constitution in every angle and corner, and at every point, without any variation whatsoever, out it goes.

But what did the Court of Appeals, which at the time held the same status as the Supreme Court, do in 1962 when judicial salaries were raised above the constitutional limit? Was the straight-edge laid to that legislation?

No, instead of assuming that inflexible, hidebound attitude, the court allowed the salary increases after asking itself this question: "Is the salary limitation provision of the constitution a mere lifeless, mathematical formula?" and answering the question in these words:

"The legislative interpretation of Section 246 (of the Constitution) as related largely to purchasing power is not only a rational construction to put on the section, but is the only construction to put on the section that accords with a 'living' rather than a 'dead' constitution."

It wasn't a dead constitution in 1962, according to the Court of Appeals. It should still live under the Supreme Court and answer the needs of people under the democratic process.

In other words, the Supreme Court can solve the whole situation by practicing a bit of consistency.

Letters to the Editor Pleading the Case of Garfield House

Shall Garfield House also go? Prestonsburg and Floyd county have historical sites and landmarks, of course, but in our exhausting scramble for life and livelihood we paid little attention through the years when fine old houses were razed, the trees felled, and the tools and toys of those who lived on this ground before us were covered over. We often ridiculed those who cried out for preservation. Old houses were expensive to keep up, difficult to heat—but they stand. We can look around us at the few which remain; they represent an individual strength, a pride of workmanship, a Quality which we see little enough today, unless we travel to the comparatively few places in the U.S. where a recognition of the value of the past to the living present has caused them to be preserved.

In these places—Williamsburg, Va., Washington, D. C., New Orleans—we pay to look at the past, and nearly always we come away with insights which illuminate our daily lives. Why could we not pay now as cheerfully, to give ourselves an object of beauty and historical significance of our very own?

General Garfield (later President Garfield) slept here, and this is perhaps reason enough to preserve the house, since not every town in the nation has housed even an insignificant President; but perhaps General Garfield's stay here is only a secondary reason for preserving it.

It stands there on the banks of the Big Sandy River, cool in the shade of those big, old trees, a symbol of much that we value of the past. It has stood for more than a century, having been built lovingly and well, as houses were then, to last, and to represent as high a standard of quality as the craftsman could achieve. He did things by hand, and undoubtedly he thought not only of his own future but of the future of his children. He apparently did not think, "Oh, well, it'll be well enough for ten years and then I'll tear it down and build another," or "Once I sell it, John Smith can worry if it falls down." No, whatever else he built it for, he built it to stand, sturdily and well, for over one hundred years.

to preserve it, for ourselves and our children, as a part of Floyd county's history. The Garfield Place is listed in the National Registry of Historic Homes; funds are available from this national organization for its restorations and maintenance. Its present owner undoubtedly wishes to be remembered as one who made every effort to preserve an important and beautiful part of Prestonsburg's patrimony. If it is torn down we can only shake our heads and call it a shame. But if we form an organization, apply for the grant, acquire the property for the town or the county, then it will belong to us all. We can save it so that it will illuminate our present with light from our past. As we visit and take our guests there to stand in that shade and gaze out over the Big Sandy, we can be comforted that in a world of too many destroyers we are preservers and builders.

To Correct an Error

I asked you to print the news concerning our 3rd annual golf tournament and you did so last week. We sincerely appreciate this very much. But through error I omitted one of our donors for the trophies. This was The First National Bank. I would like to take this means of giving thanks to them for their support in everything we do. They have never refused to help us in the different projects that we sponsor to keep our Fire Department operating. I hope that you can help me to correct the mistake.

Improve Garfield Place— 'And Be Proud of It'

I read in my hometown paper about Garfield Place. I left Prestonsburg 12 years ago, but I still remember the old Garfield Place. I thought it was a pretty, old home, and I think they shouldn't tear it down. It's a shame that the old, historic home has to be torn down. Why not improve it, and be proud of it? I've been in it, a lot of times, and it was a lovely home. You have my vote to keep it.

Ten Years Ago

(September 28, 1967)

Opening of bids on construction of the Sandy Valley Water District's system to afford water service to sections of Floyd and Pike counties was postponed this week because a new federal wage determination is going into effect... Employees of Kentucky Appalachian Industries here voted last Friday to affiliate themselves with District 50, United Mine Workers of America... "The best anti-poverty program I know is a good, steady job," Gov. Edward T. Breathitt told members of his touring party and members of the Prestonsburg Chamber of Commerce at a May Lodge dinner, Tuesday evening... The 16th annual Maytown Fall Flower show, held on the Maytown school campus Sunday, was perhaps the finest of the long series of exhibits... Married: Miss Dianna Jean Puckett, of Pikeville, and Avery Lee Harmon, of Stanville, Aug. 20 at the Boldman Free Will Baptist Church; Miss Jan Greenwade, of Mt. Sterling, and Roger Dean Patton, of Auxier, Sept. 6... Cafe here Sunday... Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield announced last Friday that Region 3—Floyd, Morgan, Magoffin, Johnson and Martin counties—has tentatively qualified to participate in the regional library development program as an extension of the Kentucky Bookmobile movement, and headquarters of the region would be in Prestonsburg... Thirty Years Ago

(September 25, 1947)

A two-year contract signed at Charleston, W. Va., Friday by the Warfield Natural Gas Company and four locals of the Oil Workers International Union (CIO) provides wage increases ranging from seven to 12 cents an hour to employees of Warfield and five of its affiliated companies... Most Floyd county school children were shivering Tuesday for lack of heat in the middle of one of the country's richest coal fields. The County Board of Education advertised for bids, several weeks ago, for coal, but producers asked prices the Board considered, to put it mildly, out of line. Some bids on mine run coal were as high as $8 a ton... Opportunities afforded in mining were outlined Saturday to 300 young men from the Eastern Kentucky coal fields in an announced bid by operating interests to attract them to the industry... The first baby to be born in the new Our Lady of the Way hospital was Brenda Rowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Estill Rowe, of Wheelwright... Deputy Constable Sol Warrick, 31, of Allen was killed Sunday night at Allen as he and Town Marshal John Laferty were investigating a car wreck. Bill Jones, 33, of Ligon, died of six pistol wounds inflicted a few hours later at Ligon... More than 160 teachers will receive checks... Orphree Frisby, 21, Elk Horn Coal Corporation employee was killed in a car wreck over the week-end at Maytown... Courthouse attaches got a laugh when reading in the grand jury's minutes that Harry Meels claimed three persons "dogged his cow and tore her tail off." Indictments were recommended against three persons after learned lawyers ascertained that such an offense might come under the statute covering "Cattle Maiming"... Fred Tussey won the milk drinking contest held at the pie social last week at the Conley schoolhouse... Married: Miss Flossie Music and Mr. Albert Harmon, both of Bonanza, recently at Bonnie Blue, Virginia... committee chairman, Rev. W. D. Jagers, and a whole lot of people all over the county have been working for the past few months to make sure that in the event of another similar disaster, communities in all sections of the county will be ready," Mrs. Willis pointed out.

"In last April's flood we felt like the people affected by the high water had no way of knowing where to go or what to do," Mrs. Willis said. She said with the establishment of the county disaster relief program, each community will have a shelter, mass feeding provisions and an organized communications system which will make use of a designated ham radio operator as well as CB radios. "The communications set-up will allow citizens in various sections of the county to monitor accurate weather forecasts and help to coordinate the efforts of Red Cross and other relief groups," she explained.

In addition, trained nurses will be dispatched to each community shelter to direct the distribution of medical supplies. Volunteer nurses are being organized by Marie Conn, of Mud Creek, nursing disaster chairman. Case workers from Mountain Comprehensive Care Center as well as the state Welfare Department will also set up family help services at each of the community shelters, and Mrs. Willis said transportation to the disaster shelters would be provided.

Mrs. Willis stressed that each community's shelters and relief programs would be supervised by members of that community. "We believe that the use of local people who are most familiar with the area will result in the greatest effectiveness for the program," she said.

Mrs. Willis said several schools and some churches have already been secured as shelter sites and that a number of school lunchroom cooks have volunteered to work in case of a disaster emergency.

Floyd county's emergency disaster relief program will be the second such program in Eastern Kentucky, according to Mrs. Willis. She pointed out that Barbourville (Knox county) already has established such a program.

Names of community disaster chairmen and committee members as well as sites of shelters and instructions concerning their use will be announced in approximately one month.

Nutrition Program Gets Initial Funds

Gov. Julian M. Carroll has announced that a $35,080 Appalachian Regional Commission grant has been awarded for initial funding of a coordinated consumer health education program in Knott, Perry and Letcher counties.

According to Development Secretary William L. Short, Carroll's alternate on the commission, the program will concentrate on nutritional problems that have surfaced in primary health care clinics in the area.

"This program will attempt to increase coordination between existing health and nutrition services in the area," Short said, "as well as to design a nutritional information program that can be offered in area clinics."

An estimated 52,000 people could benefit from the program, Short said.

According to Short, specific project goals include the following:

Definition of a single nutrition problem from a survey of the records of the participating organization; selection of the high risk population to which the consumer health program will be directed; identification of current nutritional attitudes toward the problem among the chosen population; development of media forms to change inappropriate attitudes; development of a method for consumer involvement in the education program, and development of funding sources for full-scale program.

The total cost of the project is $103,650. Local sources will supplement the commission grant with $6,810 in cash and $61,760 in in-kind services. The budget period for the project is Sept. 1, 1977 through Aug. 31, 1978.

Miss Rackley-Mr. Ellison Wed

Miss Teresa Gayle Rackley became the bride of Mr. James Frederick Ellison in a morning ceremony performed on the front porch at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Sylvia Hall Newman, at Hi Hat by the Rev. Ishmael Elliott, pastor of Lambert Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Phyllis Newman Rackley, of Ashland, and the late Charles Rackley. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ellison, of Buchanan, Tennessee.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Ramon Newman, of Lexington, the bride wore a gown of candlelight sheer organza. The bodice of the gown, adorned with re-embroidered Chantilly lace, was fashioned with a high molded neckline of lace and short flared sleeves banded in lace. The princess style skirt terminated in a chapel length train. Her wide-brimmed candlelight straw hat was appliqued with Chantilly lace motifs. Her jewelry included pearl earrings and her mother's wedding band. She carried a wicker garden basket of varicolored daisy mums.

The bride's only attendant was her cousin, Miss Jennifer Johnson, of Versailles, who wore a country style calico dress in brown and white print and carried a gasket of brown daisy mums. Serving the groom as best man was his brother, Robert Ellison, Jr. Following the ceremony, guests were invited into a wedding breakfast at Mrs. Newman's home with friends and relatives assisting in the serving. After a two-week wedding trip through the Southern states, Mr. and Mrs. Ellison are at home on Route 8, Murray.

EKHSa Grant Is Announced

Gov. Julian M. Carroll has announced that a $108,949 Appalachian Regional Commission grant has been awarded for initial funding for the East Kentucky Health Systems Agency, Inc.

According to Development Secretary William L. Short, Carroll's alternate on the commission, the overall objective for the project is to provide staff support in the area of health project grant development. The staff will be located in Winchester, but will work throughout the 49 Appalachian Kentucky counties, Short said.

Goals for the first year of operation include assistance to communities designated as critical health manpower shortage areas and assistance to communities in grants and contract management, institutional shared services, merger arrangements and budgeting related to grant application.

According to Short, the total cost of the project is $150,232. Local sources will be supplementing the commission grant with $37,558, while $3,725 in federal funds will be made available. The budget period for the project is October 1, 1977 through September 30, 1978, and the official grant recipient is East Kentucky Health System Agency, Inc.

THE FIRST state to create a permanent agency to mediate labor disputes was New York in 1886, according to "Labor First in America," a publication of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Hitching Ride via Helicopter Timesaver for Health Care Team

Last year, Big Sandy Health Care provided a three-member team to screen school-age recipients of the benefits of the Kentucky Medical Assistance Program in the eastern portion of the state.

Such screening involved administering comprehensive physical examinations for the purpose of detecting, at the earliest possible stage, physical problems of such a nature as to indicate a need for further medical attention.

Of the approximately 281 eligible recipients in the Phelps community of Pike county alone, 55 per cent were screened by the Big Sandy Health Care team. Of 154 children examined, 122 were referred to other local or regional medical practitioners for further attention.

The screening program for the Phelps area took place during a 10-day period of gruelling 10-hour-day shifts for the team. Five hours of each day was spent in transit from the team's central point of operation, Prestonsburg, to the remote area of Phelps located in the eastern portion of Pike county, near the West Virginia border.

In spite of obstacles, the Big Sandy Health Care team did such an outstanding job in Phelps and other similar communities in Eastern Kentucky, that they were lauded by the Kentucky Medical Assistance Program Administrators for their efforts.

This year, the three-member team consisting of a registered nurse, a licensed practical nurse, and a medical records clerk will undertake the job of screening school-age recipients for the Kentucky Medical Assistance Program again. But, their task this year in the Phelps area will be considerably easier. The reason? An improved method of transportation—the helicopter. The team will be required to spend only one to one and a half hours in travel each day as opposed to the five hours formerly required.

Helicopter transportation service for the team has been acquired as a result of the joint efforts of Rexford Music, coal mine inspection supervisor (surface) of the Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration (MESA), and Roger Marshall, Big Sandy Health Care's executive director. The helicopter, a MESA vehicle, was purchased for the purpose of eliminating the waste of important man-hours during the monitoring of mining operations in a 12-county Eastern Kentucky operation, according to Mr. Music.

Coordination in the area of scheduling between the MESA mining inspection program and Big Sandy Health Care's KMAP screening program in the Phelps area is the key to MESA's willingness to share their vehicle. The screening team will, in essence, be hitching a ride from Prestonsburg, to Phelps and back again in order to conduct their program within a much shorter period of time.

Earlier this month, the all-female Big Sandy Health Care team participated in a basic orientation program in helicopter transportation. The program was conducted by a MESA personnel team which included Mike Mattern, the helicopter pilot; R. C. Hatter, coal mine inspector (surface) and coordinator of the helicopter travel orientation session for the Big Sandy Health Care Team; and Rexford Music, coal mine inspection supervisor.

The medical team consisting of Jennifer Allen, R.N., Helen Ormerod, L.P.N., and Sandy Stephens, medical records clerk, learned through the orientation program that they will be expected to streamline their operation to a compact—only essential equipment and supplies—level which can fit into the helicopter's hold. In addition, they received some basic training in safety procedures which they will be expected to observe during their flights. Also included were instructions in the proper method of getting in and out of a helicopter and in the use of ear phones, safety belts, etc. The orientation program culminated in a trial flight which was a first for all three members of the health care team.

Lawrence D. Phillips, District VI manager of the Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration, who was instrumental in securing final approval of the proposal that the Big Sandy Health Care team share the MESA helicopter, remarked, "I feel like MESA's participation in this effort is very worthwhile. After all, the MESA team exists primarily for the purpose of improving the health and safety of people in the coal mining areas. I'm pleased that we have been able to offer our services in a way that can extend our purpose to include the health and benefit of the children of the area."

MED CENTER RATES OBSTETRICS DEPARTMENT OF THE MONTH

As part of its program to recognize the special efforts of its employees, Highlands Regional Medical Center announces Obstetrics as its Department of the Month.

Obstetrics (O.B.) is that branch of medicine concerned with childbirth and its attendant health concerns, and has been singled out for its exceptional performance and continuing development of innovative services. In keeping with public demands, Mrs. Estelle Horton, R.N., O.B. supervisor, emphasizes that the hospital cooperates with those parents who wish to practice the Lamaze method of childbirth, allowing the fathers into the delivery room and, later, into the mother's room at feeding time. In addition, the Department offers special instructions to nursing mothers by closed circuit TV films on infant care shown in the patient's room; continuing education on newborn care for departmental employees; an introductory brochure explaining what to expect while in the hospital; and, in some cases, additional instruction may be given in the home, in conjunction with the University of Kentucky.

For the rare newborn who may have serious illness or congenital defects, the hospital has what it terms "the finest transport incubator available." This is used to transport the infant to U.K. Medical Center for additional care.

The O. B. Department consists of a labor room, two delivery rooms, several post-partum rooms and the nursery, including an isolation nursery. The employees responsible for all these services and for the care of the 533 babies delivered last year are (in alphabetical order): Sherrie Bailey, R.N.A.; Lora Borders, N.A.; Ruth Butcher, L.P.N.; Sandy Daniels, N.A.; Clarissa Hall, R.N.; Donna Harvey, N.A.; Fredda Hibpsman, R.N.; Estelle Horton, R.N. Ground Broken Last Week For Pike Gasification Plant

Ground was broken near Pikeville last Wednesday on the nation's first coal gasification plant, with Gov. Julian Carroll and Pike County Judge Wayne T. Rutherford turning over the first shovels of dirt.

Gov. Carroll told the several hundred onlookers who turned out for the ceremony, that "you are about 8-10 years ahead of the rest of your fellow citizens (in putting coal gasification to work)." The gasifier, which is at the heart of the new 60-acre Douglas Industrial Park about 10 miles southwest of Pikeville, is designed to convert coal into clean-burning low-BTU gas.

The gas will provide energy for the entire complex which will include light industrial, commercial and high-density residential facilities. Cost of the project is $7 million, and will be funded by the federal Energy Research and Development Administration, the state of Kentucky, Pike county, and the Appalachian Regional Commission.

In his remarks, Rutherford recalled his five-year struggle to get federal approval for the project, saying: "People at first looked at me like I was crazy." Later, he said that he considered himself "a lucky man... I can see what I dreamed is a reality."

Rutherford estimated that the Douglas project would eventually generate $142 million in total capital investment, and said it would create over 2,000 new jobs in the county.

That, he said, would help "stop the outmigration of our people" who find it necessary to leave Pike County to find jobs.

He also said the project would mean a more diversified economy in the county, no longer completely dependent on the ups and downs of the coal industry.

Carroll said that "Wayne Rutherford should be complimented for his determination to get this project off the ground," and said he was pleased that "now coal will be used to create jobs here instead of being shipped out of the mountains to benefit industries elsewhere."

"If I had to pick out one major project (for the mountains) I'd have to put this right at the top priority," Carroll said. In addition to commercial, industrial, and residential units, the Douglas project is scheduled to include:

- A consolidated school for about 750 students;
- A 120-bed medical facility;
- A day-care center for approximately 80 pre-schoolers;
- A recreation center for indoor and outdoor sports.

Already constructed at the site is a two-bay fire station with a dormitory for firemen.

Not present at Wednesday's ceremony, but sending letters or telegrams of congratulations were Kentucky's Democratic Senators Wendell Ford and Walter Dee Huddleston, and Kentucky 7th District Congressman Carl Perkins.

Senior Citizens Enjoy Theatre

"Summer Stage for the Elderly" was a smash hit, says Bill Montgomery, special assistant on aging to Gov. Julian M. Carroll and Secretary for Human Resources Peter D. Conn. Montgomery reports that 4,591 people from 121 different groups attended performances at Kentucky's eight outdoor dramas.

The largest group was the 130-member contingent from the Ohio County Retired Seniors in Volunteer Programs, and seven representatives from Haywood Community Senior Citizens, Glasgow, formed the smallest group.

"Summer Stage for the Elderly" was the first activity under Human Resources' new "Accent on the Elderly" program. It was funded by a $50,000 grant from the Governor's contingency fund. Montgomery says that just under $16,000 of the grant was used for the summer theatre project.

Wrecks, Raid Occupy Police

Prestonsburg police had their hands full Friday as a result of three auto mishaps which occurred here—two taking place almost simultaneously within a quarter-mile of each other.

The twin wrecks, both involving the collision of two cars in almost identical circumstances occurred at about 5 p.m. in the vicinity of the Dairy Queen and Kentucky Fried Chicken.

A 1964 Ford Falcon was "totaled" after pulling into heavy traffic in the vicinity of the Dairy Queen and being struck by an auto driven by Hubert Clay, of Barbourville, Kentucky. Occupants of the Ford, Mary Wolfe and her three-year-old son, Gary, of Bull Creek, and Glen C. and Donald Lewis, both of Allen, were treated at Highlands Regional Medical Center for cuts and bruises and released. Clay and a passenger, Wilbert Early, of Manchester, were not hurt. The accident was investigated by Prestonsburg Policeman Darrel J. Conley.

At about the same time, Policeman Dick Campbell was called to the other mishap which reportedly occurred when a car driven by Marie Conley, of Commercial Point, O. pulled out from the Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurant, allegedly pulled too far into the oncoming lane of traffic, and was struck by an auto driven by Deesie Setser, of West Prestonsburg. No injuries were reported in that accident.

The last wreck of the day occurred at about 11:30 p.m. when a car driven by James C. Reynolds, of the Goble-Roberts Addition here, apparently ran off the road, plowed through the ditchline bordering old U.S. 23 and crashed into a city fire truck parked at the No. 2 fire station at Lancer. Reynolds was treated at Highlands Regional Medical Center and upon his release was booked at the county jail with drunk driving.

A raid last Wednesday evening by Prestonsburg Policemen Darrel Conley and Dick Campbell and State Trooper Danny Stumbo resulted in the arrest of a Prestonsburg man and netted the officers a quantity of pornographic materials.

Acting on the testimony of a man who said he purchased an 8-mm "stag" film from Jerry Pelphrey, the officers raided Pelphrey's Grocery here, seized a number of pornographic films, magazines and related paraphernalia and charged Pelphrey with distributing obscene matter. Pelphrey pleaded guilty in Prestonsburg Police Judge Tom Lafferty's court and paid a fine of $200 plus seven dollars court cost.

Line Complete, Water Service To David Near

The extension of the Beaver-Elkhorn Water District lines to connect with the David system is complete and awaits only the connection of electric power to test lines and begin pumping water into David, J. C. Wells, chairman of the Beaver-Elkhorn District, said Monday after a meeting of his commissioners with David representatives.

The meeting, set concurrently with the fiscal court special session Monday, was planned to iron out differences between the two systems, and these points apparently have been resolved.

The Beaver-Elkhorn system will sell water, wholesale, to David which in turn will handle distribution to its own customers. The line connecting the two systems was financed by a federal grant of more than $600,000.

Meanwhile, Beaver-Elkhorn officials said the water line from Hindman to a point near Lackey to carry water from the Beaver system to the Knott county seat has been completed and that water service will begin shortly. This line was laid to provide a standby source of water. Hindman has its own water system which is fed by four or five deep wells.

The fiscal court meeting, with only two magistrates, Kenneth Roberts and Dewey Roberts, present, was confined mainly to routine business.

Adams Construction Corporation and Adams Coal Enterprises were granted permission to change the road in Oklahoma Hollow, between Allen and Martin, so as to move the crossing of the waterway there 200 feet and to raise the existing road.

Two bids were accepted—one, that of Brandeis Machinery Company for $2,764 for a deluxe cab; the other, submitted by the Cecil Trucking Company to deliver 5,000 tons of No. 57 gravel to the county garage at Allen for $6.50 a ton. Brandeis submitted the only bid on the cab.

The court authorized the county attorney to write the Public Service Commission about the territory of the Francis Water Co., of Garrett, in regard to hookup for the residence of Columbus Jacobs, and also approved the purchase of right-of-way from Maxie Hayes for $700.

Scenes From Bull Creek Jockey Ground

Prospective buyers "road test" the horses in above photo on the jockey ground before closing a deal. At left an exchange of cash concludes a long session of sizing up the animals involved, arguing their attributes and shortcomings, putting on a show of indifference, and finally arranging a deal. These three appear satisfied with their trade.

Gladys Fights, 56, wife of Vitus Fights and operator of the dinette.

The week-end was one marked by tragedy in Eastern Kentucky.

In Magoffin county two women were killed early Sunday afternoon in a two-vehicle wreck on KY 30, one mile north of Salyersville. The victims were Linda Bailey, 16, and Veronica Bailey, 22. The two were passengers in an auto driven by Paul Phillip Bailey, 17, husband of Linda Bailey, and brother of the second victim. Extent of the injuries suffered by Bailey and Winfred Arnett, 38, driver of the truck which figured in the wreck, was not learned.

State Trooper James Stephens, of this county, investigated the wreck. He said Bailey apparently ran off his side of the road and lost control of his car which ran back onto the highway and into the path of the oncoming truck.

At Thelma, Johnson county, Syvilla Sue Atkins was found dead in her home Sunday. She had been shot several times with a .22-calibre pistol, and a juvenile kinsman was jailed. State Police said the woman apparently died between 3 and 4 a.m. Sunday.

THE DEADLY PIRANHA (pee-RAHN-yah) fish of the Amazon's waters can turn man or beast to bones with its deadly jaws and razor-sharp teeth. Yet, reports the September Reader's Digest, piranhas are wonderful parents to their young. The females lay their eggs on aquatic vegetation. The males fertilize the eggs and then stay in the neighborhood while the hundreds of eggs hatch. No passing fish would dare to snack on baby piranhas with papa piranhas hanging around.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Lee Hall wishes to express its gratitude to all those who by word or deed extended sympathy and comfort to us during our sorrow. We deeply appreciate the food and flowers sent, the words of consolation spoken, and we would especially thank the nurses, doctors, and staff of the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital for their dedicated care, and the Hall Brothers Funeral Home for its courteous and efficient service. THE FAMILY

Some Political Ads Are Misleading...

Ronald Frasure's opponent is not the President of the United States.
Ronald Frasure's opponent is not the Governor of Kentucky.
Ronald Frasure's opponent is not a Congressman from the 7th District.

HIS OPPONENT IS YOUR PRESENT COUNTY JUDGE.

Some of the issues are:

IMPROVED ROADS AND BRIDGES IN FLOYD COUNTY so that little children won't have to walk through the creek beds to get to school, and so you can drive to your home 12 months out of the year.

A CLEANER FLOYD COUNTY... Get rid of the roadside garbage dumps. Provide our citizens with a place to dump their garbage besides in our creeks.

A WORKING WATER SYSTEM IN ALL OF FLOYD COUNTY. Why aren't our Water Districts providing water to our people after millions of dollars of our money has been spent.

WHY ARE OUR NEIGHBORING COUNTIES RECEIVING GRANTS AND LOANS TO PROVIDE THOUSANDS OF JOBS FOR THEIR CITIZENS? What about leadership in your Floyd County Courthouse?

Let's Talk About the Candidates for County Judge...

And make up your mind to VOTE FOR

RONALD FRASURE FOR COUNTY JUDGE

Elder Defies Season With New Leaves

The large box elder which grows in the yard of Mr. and Mrs. George Brown here shed its summer foliage some three weeks ago. In recent days, however, the tree amazed its owners by sprouting fresh, new leaf growth like that pictured and now, oddly enough, resembles a tree in mid-April.

Beauty Pageant Set Day Earlier Than Last Year

For the first time, Floyd County's annual Red, White and Blue Day this year will be more than a one-day program, it was announced this week by Marcella Bailey, of Eastern, founder of the patriotic observance.

The beauty pageant, which heretofore has been a Saturday event along with all other parts of the varied program, will be held this year on Friday, Oct. 21, at 7 p.m. at the Prestonsburg Elementary School auditorium. The pageant will be sponsored by the Allen Woman's Club. The remainder of the Red, White and Blue program will be on the following day. Mrs. Bailey explained that the Friday evening date for the beauty pageant was decided upon, "because there aren't enough hours in one day to carry out all the activities." She added, however, that if holding the beauty pageant on Friday doesn't prove to be a satisfactory move, it will be moved back to Saturday next year.

The floats, which each year are an eye-catching feature of the Red, White and Blue parade on Saturday afternoon, will be judged this year in two categories. First, second and third prizes for winning school floats will be $50, $25 and $15, respectively. Winning floats entered by non-school groups will be awarded prizes of $25 and $15. Mrs. Gorman Collins is entries chairman (Phone 886-2136).

Interest in the Oct. 22 event apparently is engendering as much interest in the area as usual, if not more. The Hoedown Island square dancers from Natural Bridge State Park, remembering the great time they had here at last year's Red, White and Blue Day, have announced their intention of returning this year and will be performing without charge at the Municipal parking lot where the climactic square dance is held each year, beginning at 7 p.m. Ray Prater and Edward F. Robinson, of the Maytown Volunteer Fire Department, will co-chair this part of the program.

Capt. Paul Cullinam, director of the Morehead State University drill team, also will return with his team this year, he has indicated.

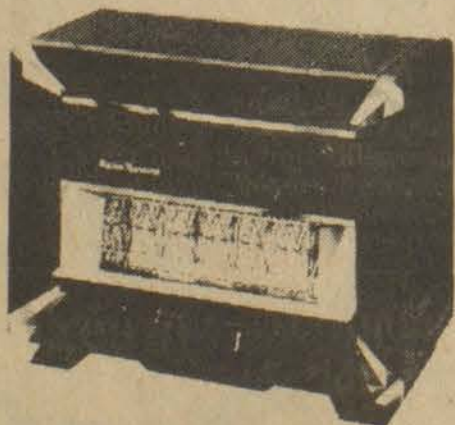

The program development is by no means complete, but it is indicated that it will be as varied as ever, and the cooperation of individuals, schools, organizations of many kinds is encouraging.

In addition to the entries chairman, Mrs. Joyce Rowe (Tel. 285-3782) has been named chairman of booths. Other chairmen will be announced later.

Goble-Roberts News

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Herald entertained Friday afternoon Mrs. Allie Hale and Mr. and Mrs. Jarrell, of Williamson, W. Va., and Mrs. Maude Franklin, of Hi Hat.

Mrs. Phyllis Herald visited Mr. and Mrs. Bill May, Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Wanda George and Cora May visited Mrs. Lee Roberts at her home Saturday evening, a short time after she had returned from Lexington where she spent two weeks in the Methodist hospital.

The neighbors welcome Mrs. Mary Lowe to the community. She is living in the small house owned by Mrs. John Dillon.

Mrs. Nola Nelson has returned home after spending several days in the hospital at McDowell. Her condition is much improved.

HOMEMAKERS MEET

The Goble-Roberts Homemakers Club met at Dixie Center, Sept. 21. The president, Linda Burchett, presided. Devotions were read by Frances Pitts.

A demonstration was given by Alice Rowe on the use of the crock pot. Attending the meeting were Nancy Roberts, Alice Rowe, Linda Burchett, Pat Mills, Cora May, Oma Reynolds, Becky Burchett and Francis Pitts. The club is open for membership and meets every third Wednesday. The next meeting will be Oct. 19.

Workman's Comp Action Slated Today

The Kentucky Insurance Regulatory Board is scheduled to take action on a proposed Workmen's Compensation rate increase at its October 7 meeting.

The meeting is at 9 a.m. on the ground floor of the Capital Plaza Tower in Frankfort.

Insurance Commissioner Harold B. McGuffey, chairman of the board, said the matter was not discussed at Friday's meeting because a draft of the formal proposal has not been completed.

The proposal will include a rate increase amounting to about 20 per cent, the commissioner said.

McGuffey told the board that two major issues now are being considered that ultimately will reach the 1978 General Assembly. They are a state-operated workmen's compensation system proposal, and the rising cost of product liability insurance.

The workmen's compensation issue is being considered by the Interim Joint Committee on Labor and Industry and the liability insurance problem is under study by the new Governor's Commission on Products Liability Insurance.

Apple Fest, Archer Bluegrass Fest Set For This Weekend

With Johnson county's Apple Festival and Prestonsburg's first fall Bluegrass festival set for this weekend, there will be no scarcity of things to do for area residents.

Arts and crafts, parades, apple butter making and concerts by country and western artists will highlight the Apple Festival which annually draws thousands into Paintsville and the surrounding area.

For those who want to enjoy some of the best Bluegrass music to be heard, the Goins Brothers and Larry Sparks will hold their first Floyd County Fall Bluegrass Festival at Archer Park here. The two-day event will get under way Friday evening at 6 p.m. and will feature a number of top groups in the Bluegrass music field.

This weekend offers something for almost everyone, and with Paintsville and Prestonsburg such close neighbors, it is possible to enjoy a little of all that's going on in the next few days.

REVIVAL ANNOUNCED

A revival will begin at Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church, Sunday, October 16, and continue through October, 23. The Rev. Ray Cummins will be the guest speaker. The public is invited to attend these services.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Mrs. Lucy Hale Stapleton, a longtime resident of Allen, who passed away September 21 at Highland Regional Medical Center of an apparent heart attack. She is survived here by a daughter, Mrs. Mont Hall, of Banner, and a brother, Joe Hale, of Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. David Salisbury and son, of Catlettsburg, were here Saturday to attend the funeral services of Mrs. Lucy Hale Stapleton.

Mrs. Josephine Hill Hall has received word that her foster son, Lenton Thacker, of Jacksonville, Fla., and a former resident of Allen, passed away there last week. The late Mr. Thacker was a graduate of Betsy Layne High School and attended Alice Lloyd College. He was a veteran of World War II and also a member of the Masonic order. He is survived by his wife and one son, James David.

Mrs. Charles Miller and daughter, Amy, of Rural Retreat, Va., have spent the past week with her mother, Mrs. Laura Ratliff. Revival Scheduled At Shelby Church

The Shelby United Methodist Church at Shelbyana announces a fall revival beginning Monday, October 3 and continuing through Sunday, October 9. The evangelist will be the Rev. Tag Kilgore, of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. Rev. Tag Kilgore is formerly from Pikeville, is the son of Faye Kilgore, of Pikeville, and the late Ralph Kilgore. Services will be held each evening at 7:30. Special music will be provided by various singing groups in the area. A cordial invitation is extended to all people in the area to attend these services.

Thurman Ratliff, who underwent surgery at Highlands Regional Medical Center, is at home after a 32-day stay at the hospital. Mr. Ratliff is feeling much better, but is still unable to be out. Among those visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ratliff were their son, Donald Ratliff, of Marshall, Mich., and their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Doug Ratliff, and grandsons, Robert, Donnie, and Russell, of Ypsilanti, Mich., for several weeks.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Ronnie Dean Dotson, who passed away five years ago September 24, 1972.

He little thought when leaving home, That he would return no more, That he in death would sleep alone, And leave us here to mourn.

We do not know what pain he bore, We did not see him die, We only know he passed away, And could not say goodbye.

Sadly missed by Mr. and Mrs. Greeley Dotson and Family

Burial Allowance Available to Vets

The Veterans Administration last week reminded former servicemen and women that their families should be made aware of the VA burial allowance available to eligible veterans.

VA provides up to $250 toward the burial expenses of eligible veterans and an additional $150 is available as a plot or interment allowance, if burial is not in a national cemetery or other government cemetery.

These VA payments will be reduced or eliminated in cases where the veteran's employer or a state agency has made such payments.

In cases where a veteran's death is service-connected, VA will pay an amount not to exceed $800 in lieu of the usual burial allowances.

With the exception of Arlington National Cemetery, burial is available to eligible veterans at all national cemeteries having space, and may also be authorized for an eligible veteran's wife or husband, minor children and, under certain circumstances, unmarried adult children.

Eligibility requirements for burial at Arlington National Cemetery may be obtained from the Superintendent, Arlington National Cemetery, Arlington, Virginia 22211.

VA will provide a headstone or grave marker for eligible veterans, and memorial markers are provided for certain members of the armed services who die on active duty and whose remains are not recovered, or who are buried at sea.

An American flag will also be provided upon request for use in covering the casket.

Veterans eligible for the VA plot and burial allowances and for burial in a national cemetery are those discharged under conditions other than dishonorable and who served in the Spanish-American War, Mexican Border period, World Wars I and II, the Korean Conflict, or the Vietnam Era. Also eligible are peacetime veterans entitled to service-connected compensation at time of death or discharge or who were retired for disability incurred in the line of duty, it was pointed out.

Disability Benefits Workshop Scheduled At PCC Tomorrow

A workshop on disability benefits under Social Security will be presented tomorrow (Thursday) from 1 to 4 p.m., at the Prestonsburg Community College.

The course will cover the eligibility requirements, case documentation, appeals and many other aspects of the Social Security Disability Program.

"The class is open to the public, free of charge, and will be especially valuable to persons in the legal, medical and social work fields", according to Jim Kelly, Social Security manager here.

Kelly also noted that he would present a briefing on the new Black Lung amendments, if current information was available at that time.

The workshop is presented in conjunction with the Community Services Program of Prestonsburg Community College. CEU credit will be given by the college. For more information, call Mr. Radcliff at the Prestonsburg Community College, or Mr. Kelly at the Prestonsburg Social Security office.

Local Group in Switzerland

Last spring, four Prestonsburg residents joined a group of people from all parts of the country who visited Switzerland, Israel, and the city of Jerusalem. Pictured above with the Alps in the background, are Mrs. Regina Mayo Roberts, Mrs. Ora Lee Wireman, Wade Moore, and Mrs. Elizabeth W. Garriott. During their bus tours in these countries, Mrs. Wireman entertained the group with songs from her Baptist hymnal, and as another member of the tour said, "Was the life of the party."

Floyd County Health Notes

By DONNA J. GRIFFITH
Health Educator

The Floyd County Health Department will be conducting a glaucoma clinic Friday, September 30, from 9 to 11:30 and 1 to 3. Glaucoma is a serious disease that can cause blindness and it usually strikes persons age 35 or over.

It is estimated that over 1.7 million Americans have unsuspected glaucoma since many times it strikes people slowly and painlessly. However, blindness from glaucoma can be prevented if detected early enough.

The community health nurses urge all persons age 35 or over to take advantage of this free glaucoma screening because early detection is your best defense against glaucoma.

Monday, October 3, an outpost clinic will be held by a nurse from the health department at the Beaver Valley Clinic in Martin. Clinic hours will be from 10 to 12 and 1 to 2 with the following services being available: Immunizations, TB skin tests, diabetes screening, hemoglobins (or blood counts), and pap smears.

These medical services are offered free of charge, and the public is welcome and urged to attend.

What Is a District Judge?

In Floyd County, the District Judge will do the work now being done by five City Police Judges, four Magistrates, County Judge, Judge Pro-Tem, Trial Commissioner and Juvenile Judge. Floyd County will still have a County Judge (now known as County Judge Executive) and Magistrates, but their duties will be limited to fiscal matters, making up the budget and supervising the spending of the county tax money.

The District Judge will preside over all civil cases where the amount involved is $1500, or less, all juvenile matters, and the violation of all state laws and city and county ordinances, except offenses punishable by penitentiary confinement or death.

In addition to the other duties, the District Judge will also preside over a new court, known as the Court of Small Claims (matters under $500).

It is estimated that 68 of every 100 persons having business before the courts will come first to the District Court.

The office of District Judge will require a person with not only a law degree, but also with considerable administrative ability. It will require a person with good health, good nerve and a willingness to work long hours. How the office is operated for the first time may set the pattern of justice in Floyd County for a long time to come.

Believing that I am qualified for the job, I respectfully urge you to vote for me in the November election. If I am elected, the fact that my residence is next door to the court house (and jail) will somewhat ease the problem of having your District Judge available after hours.

The office is non-partisan and I welcome the vote of my Republican friends as well as my fellow-Democrats.

Severance Tax Meet Planned

A Coalition on the Severance Tax is being formed by citizen groups to work on a more adequate return of that tax to the counties which produce the coal. (At present, most of this tax goes into the state general fund, with only a small percentage of it being made available directly to the counties.)

A meeting at Hazard Community College, October 6, from 2 to 4 p.m., is intended to attract legislators, county judges, civic club leaders and church leaders from across the region to begin work on this coalition. W. Terry McBrayer, state commerce commissioner, long an advocate of returning more of the severance tax to the counties of origin, will be the keynote speaker.

"Most citizens from coal-producing counties feel a sharp sense of injustice over the fact that their major industry cannot provide tax funds for the society that mines the coal," Jack E. Weller, of Hazard, a moving figure in coalition plans, said. "Great needs exist in education, in human services, and in recreation in these counties, and unless some benefit can come from coal while the industry prospers, these counties shall always be among the poorest in the state."

Apple Butter Kettles Herald Approach of Apple Festival

For five Saturdays they have peeled, quartered, cored and sliced in Johnson county in preparation for what is termed the second largest festival in the Commonwealth—the Kentucky Apple Festival in Paintsville. The festival will be Sept. 29-Oct. 1. (Only the Derby is bigger, it is claimed.)

Members of the East Point Area Development Club do more than sit in comfortable chairs and peel apples. They have been building a permanent shed to protect the big apple butter kettles and hauling in loads of firewood.

The result is quart after quart after quart of the most delicious apple butter, spiced just right and the perfect thickness to ooze slightly over and around hot buttered biscuits for a taste treat unequalled.

During the days of the festival visitors by the thousand will promenade downtown city streets, visiting the many concession booths to enjoy healthy, delectable apple products.

Take a blue-gold October day, sprinkle it with the winey scent of apples and apple pie spices, add friendly peole, band and bluegrass music, arts and crafts, antiques and country music entertainers, and a beautiful festival is under way.

It isn't an easy task putting together such a large event, but Jann Garland, executive secretary and a 16-member board of directors have worked faithfully for many months to coordinate the program.

Though the apple festival is thought of as an October event, this year the gala really gets started the latter days of September. Every year top music stars are brought into the Johnson County seat to, in a sense, put the caramel topping on the candy apples and the sugar on the fried apple pies. This year Conway Twitty and daughter, Joni Lee, together with Gene Watson will present a show on the stage at Johnson Central High School Friday evening, and Jerry Reed and Billie Jo Spears will perform at the school Saturday evening. Both concerts start at 8 p.m. with admission charges $6 for advance reserved seats, $4 for advance general admission and $5 admission at the door.

The festival, as visitors know it today, was begun about a baker's dozen years ago when board of directors chairman Elmon Davis brought together a few apple growers to display their products. He soon found he had a program that would grow from an apple blossom into fully matured fruit. Through the years additions to the program have been made.

Today there are beauty pageants to select a queen, princess, prince, baby royalty and the like. Apple growers themselves choose a king before the big week-end and this year he is Kentucky State Police Detective Ken Deboard, of Thelma.

There will be old-time spelling bees and arithmetic matches, cross country races, antique car show, pop, gospel and country music, a flea market, art show, crafts display and a Saturday afternoon parade that is one of the biggest in the country. Along with this, Quentin Castle, of Paintsville, thinks visitors will hear a few dog yaps through the music. He is in charge of an All-Breed Dog Show at 7 p.m. Sept. 30 in the auditorium at Mayo State Vocational Technical School.

There will be beautiful women in calico and bonnets, handsome men in overalls and apple-cheeked children in jeans and straw hats or ruffles and parasols.

There will be entertainment for everyone, but the aroma of apple butter cooking in those giant kettles will drift through the hills and meadows to draw the crowd.

By HELEN PRICE STACY

At one street booth there will be tall, luscious-looking and good tasting stack cakes; at another apple cookies and candies, and at still others apple dumpings, apple sundaes and apple cobbler. The Thelma Club will be making fried apple pies. Future Farmers of America will be offering apple cider and members of 4-H clubs in the county will provide candy apples.

Jann Garland commented that the great fringe benefit of the festival is the way it brings the city and county together and creates "good relations among us."

This cooperation offers Kentuckians as well as visitors from many states an opportunity to enjoy one of the great festivals while eating delicious foods and gathering with families and friends.

Kentucky Education Briefs

Top education officials in Kentucky have been in Washington this week keeping United States Office of Education (USOE) staff up to date about how federal programs are faring in Kentucky.

The meetings are part of a series of observances designed to get state and federal educators talking to each other about how their total efforts affect the child in the classroom.

Several of Kentucky's top officials in the Department of Education reported on programs that are currently of interest to Kentuckians.

Dr. Donald Van Fleet, director of the Office of Research and Planning for the Kentucky Department of Education, reported on a study recently completed on Kentucky's standard test scores. The study, requested by the legislature, was aimed at discovering why test scores are declining.

"We found that Kentucky test scores have not declined at the rate they have been declining nationally," Dr. Van Fleet said. "Kentucky is really holding its own."

While high school students are not at the national norm in basic skills, fourth graders are at and above the national norm, he told USOE. "We think we're making progress and we attribute much of the success to Title I (compensatory education) programs implemented in the elementary grades in reading and math."

"We need now to take a look at what is happening in the middle and high schools," he said.

The timetable for implementing the federal Education of All Handicapped Children Act is unrealistic, according to Dr. Stella Edwards, assistant superintendent of the Bureau of Education for Exceptional Children.

Despite that fact, Kentucky is working to implement the law. "In that we have a lawsuit and a consent agreement, which guarantees a due process for the rights of parents and local school districts, Kentucky is running ahead of most states," she said.

"Parents have to be involved at every step of the way," Dr. Edwards emphasized. "Handicapped children should not be put on the sidelines. They should be involved in regular instructional programs," she said.

Despite a surplus of teachers in many areas, rural Kentucky still has a hard time getting all the people it needs in the schools, according to Randy Kimbrough, assistant superintendent of the Bureau of Instruction.

While some teaching fields such as social studies or English offer a surplus of teachers, "In some specialized areas, particularly exceptional children's programs, mathematics, chemistry and foreign languages, there is not an over-abundance of teachers," she said.

"Salaries in metropolitan areas in Kentucky are more attractive than they are in some of the less heavily-populated areas," Kimbrough said.

Billy Howard, assistant superintendent of the Bureau for Vocational Education, spoke of the difficulty vocational teachers have in keeping pace with the rapid changes in technology.

Ideally, he explained, in order to keep teachers up-to-date, they should get back into industry on a scheduled basis to keep abreast of technological changes.

The bureau's Staff Exchange Project helps teachers do that. Bureau personnel make "contacts with industries and businesses in Kentucky to make arrangements for teachers to spend a period of time where they can concentrate on those things that will be helpful when they come back to the classroom," Howard said.

Your corporation can buy your life insurance with tax deductible dollars.

Advantages both ways. It's good for the corporation regardless of size, because the premiums for life insurance on corporate-owners, executives, key employees... all employees... are tax deductible as a business expense under a recent government regulation. So the employee gets the benefit of increased compensation, up to $50,000 in term life insurance purchased by the corporation, with no current income tax liability for either party! The employee can even have permanent life insurance, retain the cash values and benefits, and pay only the tax on the premium. It's a good concept.

Now, all you need is a little help to do something about it. Kansas City Life, The Lioness, would like to introduce you to one of our people who knows the ins-and-outs of this new concept.

Our people have a Concept 79 Planning Kit which provides you with an easy way to understand and plan this new benefit program for you and your employees.

KPA President Hits Proposed Municipal Bill

The Kentucky Press Association announced its opposition Friday to the preliminary draft of legislation issued by the Municipal Statutes Revision Commission which pertains to a complete overhaul of Kentucky statutes dealing with city government.

William E. Matthews, KPA president, said the board of directors of the Association took action reluctantly, but necessarily, out of "grave concern" that Kentucky, unlike other states, could be moving in the direction of less openness and accountability in government.

The KPA board, representing more than 130 newspapers with total circulation amounting to close to one million newspapers, expressed its fear that the proposed legislation could become law unless its more negative aspects could be fully exposed to the public.

The KPA action reflected the first organized opposition to the Commission's report. The Commission was established by the General Assembly in 1976 for the purpose of providing a code of uniform statutes that would be applicable to all cities.

"In our view," Matthews said, "Kentucky has minimum requirements binding upon public officials in accounting for their decisions and for the expenditure of taxpayer dollars. Most, if not all, adjoining states have statutory requirements calling for even more detailed accounting of how tax dollars are spent.

"This is no time," the KPA president continued, "for Kentucky to start turning back the clock in an era in which the public has become increasingly leery of the performance of public officials."

Matthews said the KPA took exception to suggestions that newspapers are interested in the publication of financial statements and other public notice advertising by government because of the revenue generated by such advertising.

"Actually, public notice advertising represents less than one percent of Kentucky newspapers' income," he said, "and any Kentucky newspaper worth its salt is far more interested in seeing that public officials discharge their responsibility properly than it is in its own economic well-being."

He said KPA supports, in principle, the concept of more power for cities. But, he said, if cities are to enjoy more power, they must be willing to pay the price by accounting to their constituents, not just by telling what they're doing, but how much it costs.

As far as the KPA is concerned, Matthews said, the right of the public to know what government is doing is a right passed down and through the nation's forefathers, a first amendment privilege given by those who were zealously conscious and protective of each American's right to know what was happening to those tax dollars which he forwarded to his local, state and federal governments.

Matthews said KPA rejects the commission's notion that the press should be provided with the information now contained in public notice advertising and then left with the discretion of running what the editor decided ought to run.

"There is no doubt that certain revisions need to be made in statutes dealing with city government," the press spokesman said, "but those revisions should not result in such a total shift of power from the state to local governments."

CANCER Answer line
American Cancer Society

(A regular feature, prepared by the American Cancer Society, to help save your life from cancer.)

A grandmother asks: "Is it true that a child died after swallowing Laetrile?"
ANSWER line: Early in June, 1977, a 10-month old girl in Buffalo, N. Y. died of cyanide poisoning after she accidentally swallowed an undetermined number of Laetrile pills belonging to her father. Laetrile is an extract of apricot pits that is touted as a cancer cure and preventative, but has been shown to be of no value against cancer when subjected to rigorous scientific tests. Taken by mouth, Laetrile can be broken down into a cyanide component by intestinal bacteria and can then be absorbed into the body. Very large doses can create cyanide poisoning.

A canal barge operator asks: "Is there any link between a person's religion and cancer?"

ANSWER line: Religious factors as they govern lifestyle may have an interesting but indirect influence. For example, Seventh-day Adventists do not smoke or drink alcohol. They follow a diet often high in whole grains and unrefined foods and low in meat. They also have a cancer rate half that of the general population. Mormons follow a similar pattern. Obviously there are research leads in the different patterns of cancer in our population. Study of life style and personal history are part of the American Cancer Society's million-person Cancer Prevention study.

An airline stewardess writes: "One of my friends told me that she has a condition called 'dysplasia' and must have frequent Pap tests. I thought that Pap tests were for cancer. What is this all about?"

ANSWER line: Dysplasia refers to an abnormality of cells of the cervix, the small structure that is the opening of the womb. The condition can be detected by the Pap test and careful microscopic examination of samples of these abnormal cells can show whether dysplasia is slight or advanced. While dysplasia is not cancer, it may, in some women, eventually lead to cancer over a period of years. It is a precancerous condition that must be monitored by a physician. Please remember that not all dysplasia becomes cancer. In one study, for example, only one-third of women with marked dysplasia actually developed cancer. Your friend is lucky to have her condition diagnosed and followed because should she develop cancer, treatment can be done at a very early stage of the disease when the probability of cure is excellent.

End of Doctor Shortage Seen

The shortage of doctors in primary care medicine which has plagued Kentucky for a number of years may soon be a thing of the past because of a year-old program being administered by the University of Louisville and the University of Kentucky.

The program, established by the Kentucky General Assembly during its 1976 session, is known as the Kentucky Residency Program and provides money enabling graduates of the two universities' medical schools to receive their residency training in Kentucky.

Last year—the first year the program was in effect—each university received $350,000 for this purpose. And eventually the state will divide $5.2 million per year between the schools, funding 228 residency positions throughout Kentucky.

Dr. William VonderHaar, who administers the program at U of L, said that a special task force discovered that Kentucky was losing a large number of physicians which had been trained at U of L and UK.

As VonderHaar explained it, studies in the past have shown that approximately 70 per cent of all doctors set up practice within 50 miles of where they perform their residency training.

But because Kentucky's two medical schools haven't had enough money to fund residency positions in the state for all their graduates, many of those graduates have had to leave Kentucky for that training, and less than half have returned here to practice.

This created the doctor shortage, he said, and the shortage is greatest in those fields where the need traditionally has been greatest—in family practice, obstetrics and gynecology, general pediatrics, emergency medicine and general internal medicine.

The residency program funds are used to set up residency positions in Kentucky in those specific fields.

"This is only one source of funds that we get to finance our residents," VonderHaar said, "but it's a very important one."

"It's crazy for the state to put the kind of money it does into training doctors in our two medical schools if we're going to have to turn around and send them out of state for their residency training—especially if only 30 per cent of them are going to return to Kentucky."

The bill also may go a long way toward providing doctors to those rural areas of the state where they are most needed.

That's because the legislature stipulated that one-third of all man-months of training funded by the program must be in hospitals and clinics outside the health sciences centers of the two medical schools.

To fulfill this requirement, VonderHaar said, many students will receive two-thirds of their residency training in the health sciences centers and the other third elsewhere. And some of them may receive all of it outside the health sciences centers.

Since most doctors do eventually practice near the place they took their residency training, this should help alleviate the shortage of doctors in the state's rural areas, he said.

However, this requirement has created some difficulties, VonderHaar added. The Liaison Committee on Graduate Education of the American Medical Association requires that a hospital have at least 200 beds in order to qualify for a residency program. And there aren't that many hospitals outside Louisville and Lexington with that many beds, he said.

He is in the process of devising a plan, however, which will determine on a year-by-year basis where U of L's residents are to be placed throughout the state.

During the first year of the program, Kentucky Residency Program funds enabled U of L to place four residents in Trover Clinic in Madisonville, four at U of L-affiliated hospitals, four at St. Joseph's Hospital in Louisville, two in Bowling Green and one each in Berea and Central City.

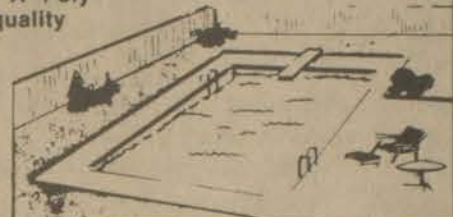

During the current year 38 positions will be funded, including Paducah, a new site.

Overall, VonderHaar is pleased with the program, and he believes it will prove to be an important factor in seeing that Kentuckians get the medical care they need and deserve.

Your shopping cart can tell you a lot about your electric bill.

Like food and everything else you buy these days, inflation has hit us, too.

So, it would be easy to blame inflation for rising electric rates and leave it at that.

And, for sure, inflation has doubled and tripled the cost of everything from towers and transformers to coal and cable.

Take coal, the single largest operating expense in our business. Its cost has gone up fourfold and more in the seventies.

But the reasons for rising rates go beyond those everyday expenses.

Pollution control devices like precipitators must be installed to help keep our air clean as this coal is burned.

And those devices cost millions. Installing them in existing plants can cost as much or more than the original plant.

Of course, power plants cost a lot more today, too. And, to keep up with your needs, more of them will be needed.

Which means money must be borrowed to build them. But even that's more expensive these days.

Interest rates and construction costs have doubled in the last ten years.

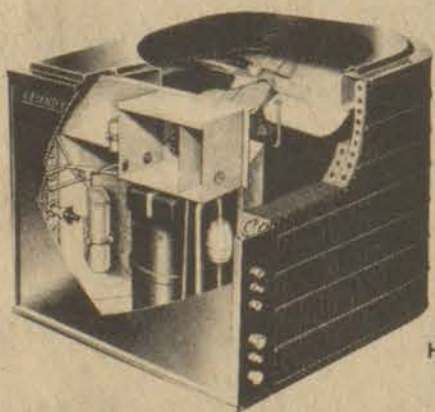

Obviously, keeping up with these rising costs and trying to stay ahead of the steadily growing need for electricity isn't easy.

But, by sharing the facts and problems as well as the good things electricity brings, we hope you'll better understand some of the forces that have made your electric bill go up.

Maxey Flats Disposal Site Closed for Two-Year Study
 An agreement will be negotiated which will close the Maxey Flats radioactive waste disposal site in Fleming county for two years.
 The ad hoc committee for the negotiated closing of the site and James Neel, president of Nuclear Engineering Co. (NECO) which has operated the site since 1963, agreed last Friday to negotiate an agreement which would suspend NECO's lease and operating licenses for two years.
 In a memo to the committee, Finance Secretary Russell McClure had recommended the two-year moratorium until research at the site either indicates that the site does not possess "characteristics considered necessary for the long term containment of low-level radioactive waste." If it is determined that the site is unsafe, the memo said, "then a further agreement would be entered between the commonwealth and NECO for the permanent closing of the site."
 Neel emphasized that the closing would be a moratorium, not a permanent suspension of the site, until its safety is determined.
 Dec. 1 was set as the date for closing the site. Neel said that for the next two or three weeks there would be very few shipments of nuclear waste to the site although these shipments would be higher level radioactivity material and lower weight, since state law requires payment of 10 cents a pound on wastes buried at the site. He did say, however, that no new trenches would be opened at the site.
 The committee will meet again within "a maximum of 10 days" to discuss further details of closing the site. Concern about the safety of the Maxey Flats site increased recently when seepage of water from three burial trenches was discovered Aug. 24.
 McClure said that members of the committee and Neel will go to Washington, D.C. to see if funds might be available from the Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) for research at the site. He said it would take as many as five people to maintain the site while research is being done. "We think there is a real good possibility of getting federal compensation on these costs," he added.
 McClure said the committee will try to interest ERDA in the possibilities of using the Maxey Flats site as a research facility on radioactive waste disposal. He said the U.S. Geological Survey is currently drilling research wells at the site.
 Neel said he didn't foresee any "substantial volume" of nuclear material entering the site from now on, adding that he was "anxious to close the site as soon as possible."
 A final agreement will probably be negotiated within the next three to four weeks, McClure said.

KEA President Says Kentucky Teachers Relying on Carroll

Kentucky Education Association (KEA) president Wayne Harvey says the state's teachers are relying on Governor Julian Carroll to keep his commitment to raise their salaries to levels in the seven surrounding states.

Harvey pointed to a "Dear Educator" letter from Carroll published as a full-page ad in the October 23, 1975, KEA News that carried this statement:

"Because you, the educators of our Commonwealth, are the strength of our educational system, I am committing myself to increasing Kentucky's teacher salaries to parity with our seven surrounding states."

Harvey said he has received no indication that Carroll is backing off from that commitment.

"Even though Rep. Joseph Clarke, chairman of the interim joint committee on appropriations and revenue, is contending that the commitment can't be met," Harvey said, "we believe it can, and so apparently does the governor."

Clarke made his statement Sept. 15 at a legislative seminar in Frankfort. Later that day the Governor through his press secretary said he "stands by his goal and still has every intention to trying to reach it."

In the letter published in the KEA News, Carroll also wrote that "because I believe education is neither a luxury nor a privilege but rather a right and a necessity, and because I believe responsible elected officials can do much toward improving the quality of education in Kentucky, I have listed this the top priority of my administration."

Harvey said Carroll sought and gained significant improvements in public-school funding during his first two years.

"We are counting on the governor to continue making improvements in the next two years and fulfill his pledge," Harvey said.

47 Surfacing Jobs Cost $4.6 Million

State Transportation Secretary Calvin G. Grayson has awarded 47 highway contracts valued at more than $4.6 million following the August 31 bidding at Frankfort.

Grayson said that the largest project—both in distance and in expense—involves surfacing 14.3 miles of the Hopkinsville-Dawson Springs-Providence road (KY 109) in Hopkins county from KY 1220 to the Webster county line. The contract, amounting to $586,612, was awarded to Dixie Pavers, Inc. of Hopkinsville.

Hinkle Contracting Corporation, of Paris, was the successful bidder on a $319,932 contract calling for the surfacing of the Jackson-Hazard road (KY 15). The Breathitt county project begins at the Perry county line and extends northerly to KY 476, a distance of about 7.7 miles.

Another major project was an 8.5 mile surfacing project along the Stricklett-Triplett road (KY 377) in Lewis county, from the Rowan county line to KY 344. East Kentucky Paving Corporation of Grayson was awarded the $205,006 contract.

IN 1920, the Women's Bureau was established in the U.S. Department of Labor by an act of Congress.

Hearings Set On Bell Rate

The Kentucky Public Service Commission (PSC) concluded last Thursday two days of public hearings on a $54.2 million rate increase request by South Central Bell Telephone of Kentucky. The request, if granted, would raise Bell's rates in one stroke by the equivalent of Bell's rate increases in the past five years.

In Wednesday's testimony, South Central Bell Vice President J. D. Matheson Jr. said the rate increase request was prompted by the effect of inflation on company profits. Profits had fallen to an 8.2 per cent return on the company's equity investment.

Matheson said such a low level of profit could begin to discourage investors from buying American Telephone and Telegraph (AT&T) stock, which would then cut into South Central Bell's ability to provide service to new customers, while maintaining quality service to present consumers.

The PSC had previously stated that South Central Bell should earn a profit of 11 per cent of company equity investment. South Central Bell's request asks that the profit level be raised to 13-15 per cent.

Bell spokesman Cruse Braswell, Jr. noted outside the meeting that even at the PSC's level of profit, present rates fall short by almost 3.0 per cent. Braswell also commented that the present rate increase request would be unnecessary, had the PSC granted more of the company's previous requests.

Braswell said some 12,000 Kentuckians are now on waiting lists for new service or to be placed on private lines from party lines. The present rate simply does not encourage investment, which would give the company the capital to provide the needed facilities, he said.

Bosworth M. Todd Jr., president of the Boston Corp., of Louisville, testified that while his investment company would not stop handling AT&T stock if the request is refused, such action might be taken if the four other states served by South Central Bell refused similar requests.

Intervenor in the hearing included the consumer protection division of the state Attorney General's office; Jefferson County and the City of Louisville; the F-M Corp.; Interconnect Telephone Association; Secretary of the Army, U.S. Department of Defense; and Consumers Diversified Services.

My dictionary defines the word, "Democratic," as: "relating to or based on the principles of democracy; as a democratic system of government."

What is democracy?

My dictionary defines Democracy, as; "Government by the people; government in which power is held by the people, as in a republic. Belief in, or practice of, the idea that all people are socially equal."

Do you believe we have "democracy" in Floyd County?

Eight-year-old Michael David Stricker, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Stricker, of Betsy Layne, was elected Scout of the Month from Den 1, Pack 38.

Young Michael is a third grader at Betsy Layne Elementary School. Among his hobbies are bike riding, swimming, hiking and baseball. He holds the rank of Bobcat. Den mothers Eunice Lawson, Judy Stevens and Hilda Hamilton, expressed their pride in the youngster.

AA Groups in Area Alive and Kicking

By A. K. WEBB

A group alive and kicking in the Big Sandy area is Alcoholics Anonymous. A. A., as it is commonly known, is an organization of alcoholics helping each other to stay sober.

The A. A. philosophy says the workable solution to alcoholism is reliance on a spiritual force, called Higher Power. Not all beliefs have to be alike but an individual relationship with the spiritual authority must be developed.

The A.A. group in Prestonsburg has been going strong since 1949 when it was founded by some members from Huntington.

The local A.A. society, whose membership is composed of persons in this five-county region, believes the way of attaining sobriety is through a group endeavor of alcoholics helping each other.

The Prestonsburg A.A. meetings are held each Saturday night at 8 p.m. in the Floyd Regional Library. They consist of a variety of programs, and are open to the public twice a month.

Also established is an active Al-Anon group which deals with the family of the alcoholic. It meets during A.A. sessions.

A newly formed chapter of A.A. meets in Paintsville on Sunday evening. The Pikeville A.A., hindered by the April flooding, have resumed meetings on Wednesday nights.

For more information concerning Alcoholics Anonymous, write Alcohol, Front Avenue, Prestonsburg, 41653 or call 1-800-422-1060.

Centers Give Adults Second Chance for Diploma

Kentuckians who dropped out of high school have a second chance to complete their schooling through the Kentucky Department of Education's adult education program. During the last 12 years, 75,000 Kentuckians have received their high school certificates through this program.

Headed by Ted Cook, the program is responsible for administering the General Education Development (GED) test. Passing the test is equivalent to receiving a high school diploma, Cook said.

"We have people of all ages studying in the centers, classrooms, or with a paraprofessional. Many of these are studying to take the GED, while some just want to learn about a particular subject," he said, adding, "The program has benefited the students through self concept, employment status, attitude towards education, and lifestyle."

Any person who is 17 or older and has been out of the formal classroom situation for a year or whose high school class has graduated is eligible to enroll in the GED program. The GED is a battery of five tests, math, literary interpretation, natural science, social studies, and correctness of expression.

Instruction is available through adult classes, home instruction, adult learning centers, and the Kentucky Educational Television-GED Series.

"Adult classes are held in cooperation with the local boards of education with classes conducted at night, at public school buildings in more than 100 social districts," Cook explained.

Home instruction is provided by 69 paraprofessionals who hold classes in their homes or go to a client's house to teach. Most paraprofessionals have taken the GED themselves. They are trained as paraprofessionals at Morehead State University and Murray State University and receive college credit for the training. "This encourages many of them to continue their education and get a graduate degree," Cook said.

Instruction also is available at 21 adult learning centers in the state which individualize instruction and utilize a variety of audio-visual equipment as well as programmed instructional materials. Most learning centers operate all year and are open 12 hours a day, five days per week. There is no set time or number of hours a student must attend.

The adult education program also administers the test for the Eighth Grade Equivalency Certificate. Those studying for this certificate can attend the adult classes, training centers, or have a paraprofessional teach them at their homes, Cook noted.

Information about the GED or the Eighth Grade Equivalency Certificate may be obtained from Prestonsburg Community College, the testing center in this county, or by contacting the Adult Education Program, Kentucky Department of Education, Room 2234, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Health Tip Overweight Children

(From the American Medical Association)

That plump, healthy, happy youngster may grow up into a fat, unhealthy, unhappy older child, and later into a fat adult who is prey to all of the physical ailments that are a part of obesity.

Faulty eating habits started in early childhood often are the cause of overweight adults in later life, says the American Medical Association.

All too many mothers, with the best of intentions, nag their children into eating more than they want to eat. The healthy, fat baby who remains chubby as he grows into preschool and first grade years becomes less attractive as an individual. And the habit of eating more calories than necessary is likely to remain the rest of his life.

The parent who thinks the child should lose weight should seek expert help on how he should lose it. If it fits your doctor's counsel, here are some tips to help your youngster lose weight—

—Weigh once a week and keep track of the weight. Use the same scales and wear approximately the same clothing.

—It isn't necessary to cut out all desserts and snacks, as long as their calorie count is included in the daily total. Fresh fruits are good for snacks.

—Keep a supply of raw carrots, radishes, celery sticks and pickles for more snacking. Tomato juice or clear bouillon can serve for drinks.

—Cut out rich salad dressings; instead use vinegar and lemon juice.

—Trim fat from meat, take it easy on the butter, substitute skim milk for whole milk. But be sure to serve plenty of fruits and vegetables.

The most important factor in helping the obese child to reduce poundage is to handle it naturally. Don't make a point of telling the child he is on a reducing diet. Just serve the meals naturally and as a matter of course. Avoid nagging the child about his weight and his diet. It will only make him more rebellious and more inclined to snack on the sly.

Kentucky Afield

By JOHN WILSON

There are youth groups around Kentucky who would like to develop worthwhile projects to help wildlife, but just don't have the expertise to know exactly what to do, or the lands on which to do it.

And there are landowners who wish they could provide wildlife habitat on some of their unused acres, but don't know exactly how or just don't have the time to manage lands for wildlife.

It would be great if these two—energetic young people and landowners with some idle land and perhaps some farming equipment—could get together under the guidance of a wildlife biologist. And if they had some money to work with, things would be even better.

Well, the Game Management Division of the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources has hired a biologist to bring these two groups together, to offer technical assistance in planning and planting wildlife habitat and to reimburse the youth group (from $5 up to $250) for such items as seed, fertilizer, lime, soil tests or fencing.

This program was initiated last January with the hiring of Jimmy May, a Kentucky native who has attended Murray State University and Oklahoma State University. May held a similar position in Texas since 1973.

This is the first full school year of the program, and May hopes to find at least 30 youth groups interested in doing some wildlife management and get them together with willing landowners. He expects that most of his youngsters will belong to groups such as 4-H or FFA, but scouting groups could get involved, as could civic clubs or sportsmen's organizations which want to sponsor a worthwhile project for youngsters.

The wildlife plantings will be designed primarily for farm game animals such as rabbits, quail and doves. However, as with all such wildlife habitat improvement projects, many non-game species, such as song birds and beneficial insect-eating birds, will also use the food plots.

Besides the immediate benefit to wildlife, there are educational advantages as well. The participating youngsters learn the importance of wildlife habitat and how changes in the environment can improve conditions for birds and animals.

And the landowner will probably learn something about habitat improvement also. In most of the projects already under way, the property owners have pitched right in with the kids and seemed to enjoy themselves just as much, May says.

Since most of the youth groups will be farm oriented, May expects the knowledge the members gain from their projects to stay with them, so as adults, they will know quite a bit about wildlife habitat improvement. All in all, he expects the long-term educational benefits to be more important than the actual habitat improvement work.

Any interested group or individual can get more information on this program by writing Jimmy May, Division of Game Management, Dept. of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

Character Education Included In 'Back-to-Basics' Curriculum

Character education is one of the "basics," according to Dr. Jay Mulkey, who says that education's current move "back to the basics" will only strengthen concepts of character.

Mulkey, a training consultant for the American Institute of Character Education in San Antonio, Texas, says that "values are the most important things in anyone's life."

Character education means the values a child accepts which will contribute to his personal conduct through life.

Counting to Ten, Still Good Advice

The old admonition to count to ten before launching into a fight is still good advice, according to Dr. Wayne Dyer, author of "Your Erroneous Zones." In fact—at least in family fights—the psychotherapist suggests waiting a full 60 seconds before charging in.

But are family fights necessary? Dyer says no. As he writes in the October Reader's Digest: "Heated arguments are destructive to all involved, resulting in a breakdown of communication, a distancing between the fighters and such unpleasant physical reactions as increased blood pressure, headaches and insomnia."

Chances are, he says, you take part in the same-old-family-fight because you feel sorry for yourself, or want to manipulate other members of the group—primarily to make them behave more like yourself. These are usually habits of long standing, but they can be changed, Dyer asserts.

Some of his suggestions: Don't take responsibility for other people's behavior. If the children refuse to clean their rooms, simply close their doors and let them live with the clutter. Similarly, try to remember that it's not your fault if they get poor grades; it's their responsibility and their choice. "Never allow their behavior to be the source of your anger," he counsels.

You have other options as well. If an argument looms, you can leave the room, postpone a discussion to a less stressful moment, or try to put yourself physically very close to the other person. Ever tried having a fight with someone while you're holding hands?

Dyer says family fights would go the way of the dinosaur if we heeded Robert Frost's words: "We love the things we love for what they are."

"When you apply this concept of love to your own relationships, those same-old-fights must, by definition, disappear from your life," he concludes.

"Being able to let someone else have their own values doesn't mean that you are permissive or wishy-washy," Mulkey says. In fact, he contends that quite the reverse is true. "You must be absolutely sure of your own values if you are to let someone else have different ones and accept them, anyway."

Children can often define their values or discover the reasons for rules on their own when engaged in a group discussion, Mulkey says. It is not always necessary for a teacher to direct a discussion of values, he told a group of educators assembled in Frankfort.

During a demonstration discussion with fifth-grade students from Frankfort's Second Street Elementary School, Mulkey led students through a discussion of what is fair, whether they would lie, and why there are rules at their school.

Mulkey was conducting an awareness training session for Kentucky Department of Education staff members and personnel from local school districts, including superintendents, instructional supervisors and teachers. An assistant superintendent, an elementary principal and elementary teachers from a school district in Champagne, Illinois also attended the workshop.

Elementary and secondary schools in Kentucky have been directed by the state Board of Education to include character education as an integral part of their curriculum.

Some workshop participants were concerned that teachers might force their own value system on students. Others wondered who would decide what values would be taught to children.

Mulkey said the teachers must remain open when dealing with their students and must be willing to find out why others think the way they do.

"It is difficult to be completely objective," he said, but teachers must remember that not everyone has experienced the same things, which accounts for differing values and beliefs.

While teachers should not force their values on a student, according to Mulkey they should impress upon a student that not all behavior is acceptable.

He feels the schools must prepare students for life outside the classroom. He compared a child's not receiving a grade for uncompleted homework to an adult not being able to board a plane if he does not have a ticket.

He encourages teachers to urge their students to question their values and rules. "We don't want to teach cynicism, but we must be realistic," he said.

A MESSAGE TO DEMOCRATS

There is a drive as never before by the Republican Party to put a Republican candidate in the Court House, whether it be County Judge, Sheriff, or Magistrate. All Democrats accept the premise that a man is but a man, but the current list of Republican candidates consists of men who have opposed the election of Jimmy Carter, Julian Carroll and even Carl Perkins, for U.S. Representative. In fact, their "slate" is headed by the Chairman of the Republican Party, who Official that has had any Republican opposition. These Republican candidates have, and will continue to fight for the defeat of every Democratic Candidate and Official you may nominate hereafter. As a Democrat, do you want to see them continue this fight from the strength of office in the Court House, and then for the next four years challenge the candidates and goals of your party? Vote for the party you chose and the Republican Candidates rejected, vote for your party.
