

$2.8 Million Job Let to Contract

80-Unit Complex Beginning Slated Here, November 9

This Town...That World

NO CONSOLIDATION, PLEASE
Cleo Akers tells me that a little boy wanted to know, the other day, why the Indians don't have their summer at the same time we have ours. Good question, but I hope they're never consolidated. While I am about it, might as well express the hope that Old Chief Smoke-on-the-Hilltops doesn't forget us this fall as he did last year.

SIX WEEKS IN ONE MONTH
Last week the state Department of Public Information announced on one sheet of paper that Governor Carroll had proclaimed the month of November Gospel Music Month, the week of Nov. 6-12 as Teen Challenge Week, the week of Nov. 13-19 as Distributive Education Clubs Week, the week of Nov. 20-27 as Family Week and the week of Nov. 13-19 as Education Week.

Today came two more: Nov. 6-12 as Career Guidance Week and Nov. 14-20 as Youth Appreciation Week.

If the governor isn't careful, he'll be in my fix—plumb run out of weeks.

Accused Woman Sues Phone Co. And Individual

A Floyd county woman who had been accused of harassing and annoying another by telephone calls filed suit in circuit court here last Thursday against South Central Bell and Sophia Vanderpool, asking a total of $125,000 damages.

The plaintiff, Mollie Owens, alleged that defendants had "falsely and maliciously" made a statement before the county judge, charging her with harassment by making a telephone call to Sophia Vanderpool's residence with the intent of harassing and annoying her, with the result that a warrant for her arrest was issued. The suit adds that plaintiff was required to appear in court on four separate occasions and that, finally, no evidence having been produced against her, the charges were dismissed on motion of the Commonwealth.

'Dome' at Allen Salt Warehouse For Area Roads

Remembering the road-choking snows of last winter and the sub-zero temperatures of last January and February, the Kentucky Department of Highways is preparing for what may come in the next few months.

It is building at Allen and five other points in the state "salt domes" or dome-shaped buildings which will hold about 4,500 tons of salt for use on highways. At 120 other maintenance lots across the state it also is stockpiling 30,000 additional tons. The Allen "dome" will be the central salt supply for Eastern Kentucky.

A. R. Romine, assistant state highway engineer for operations, said last winter's road clearing operations cost the state about $4 million more than had been anticipated.

"A large chunk of this was overtime for road crews," he said. "Many of our

Program Offers Help on Homes Flood Damaged

Help for elderly, handicapped and low-income families whose homes were damaged by last April's flood is being offered by a new agency established here.

The Prestonsburg-Floyd County Community Development Rehabilitation Program, which has opened offices in the Allen-Burke building at the corner of Court and Lake Drive, announced that its No. 1 priority is to bring flood-damaged homes of such families up to standard and that it will seek to reach as many families as possible.

Applications for such assistance are now being taken at the office here. Part-time offices later will be established at Martin and Betsy Layne to make the program more accessible to a greater number of people. Mrs. Anna Jean Tackett, community development coordinator with the program, said,

Receives Appreciation Award

Curtis Clark, Prestonsburg city manager, is shown receiving a plaque presented to him at a recent Chamber of Commerce meeting by Dorothy Clark, president of the Floyd County Community Development Program and director of the David Community Development Corporation, in appreciation of his personal contribution to and support of Community Development Clubs throughout the county. Mr. Clark was instrumental in formation of the Floyd County Awards banquet, and has been active in the Northeastern Kentucky Rural Community Development Association for 10 of its 14-year existence.

Constitutional Convention Also Set for Decision

Voters of the county next Tuesday will elect a full slate of county officials and decide if they do or do not want a convention called to revise or amend the present state Constitution.

Attention focuses on three countywide campaigns—County Judge Executive, in which Henry Stumbo, Democrat, is opposed by Ronald Frasure, Republican; Sheriff, with Doug Lewis, Democrat, and Hollie Barnett, Republican, the opposing figures; and the new Judge of the District Court, a race between Scott Collins and Harold Stumbo, who cannot claim either party in the election because their names appear in the Non-Partisan Judicial column.

In the incorporated portion of Allen voters will also decide if the city is to sell the Allen water system to the City of Prestonsburg in consideration of Prestonsburg assuming all indebtedness of the water system, which amounts to approximately $255,000.

In all four districts there are races for the office of Magistrate. The candidates in each: District 1—Ray Wilcox, Democrat, W. T. Bill Foley, Republican, and Harold A. Baldrige, Independent; District 2—Kenneth Roberts, Democratic incumbent, French Hensley, Republican, and Andy Conley, Independent; District 3—Edward Caudill, Democrat, and Emerson Bob Brown,

Architect's Concept of Shopping Center

Rendering by Marvin Crider & Associates, architects of the 141,000-square foot Parkway Plaza on which construction is scheduled this year for early 1978 opening. The $3 million-plus construction is proposed by James A. Hughes, of Prestonsburg, and N. D. Lowe, Campbellsville, and will be located on an eight-acre tract, near the Katy Friend junction of new US 23 and the Mountain Parkway. Mr. Hughes said four major firms—S-Mart Discount Department Store, Hobbs Department Store, Food Fair Supermarket and Begley Drug Company—signed leases before plans for construction were announced. Fifteen thousand square feet of second-floor space will be devoted to offices. Parkway Plaza, as planned, would be the largest shopping center structure in the county.

Ceremonies held Saturday morning at the Floyd County Juvenile Detention Center-Courthouse Annex here marked the official dedication of the new structure, the second such facility of its type in Southeastern Kentucky.

Although the $928,033.35 structure will not be opened until Jan. 1, to coincide with the initiation of the state's new judicial system, the building is, in all respects, ready for operation. With 13,743 square feet of floor space, the three-story structure will house juvenile offenders in accordance with a Kentucky Court of Appeals decision which directs that juveniles be detained out of sight and sound of adult prisoners. The top floor, lighted by skylights, contains living and recreational facilities, classrooms and a cafeteria for juvenile prisoners while the main floor will house offices of county officials, relieving the overcrowded conditions. The building's air-conditioning, heating, lighting and other mechanical components are housed in a third floor section.

The building, which was designed by McCloskey and Associates, of Lexington, was financed by revenue sharing and coal severance tax funds. General contractor on the project was Barco, Inc., of Lexington.

Master of ceremonies at the dedication was Arnold Turner, Jr., Floyd County Attorney-elect, who introduced other speakers who included Judge Stumbo, Mayor Cooley and the featured speaker, Commissioner Graves.

Others present for the ceremony included County Attorney Harold Stumbo, Tax Commissioner Lovel Hall, Jailer Lawrence Hale, Ed Caudill, Hershel Hamilton, County Court Clerk C. "Ollie" Robinson, County Park Supervisor Elmer Rice, County Detective Sam Hale, County Planner Claude Swiney, McCloskey and Associates architect Marvin Crider, Doug Lewis, Assistant to Commissioner of the Department for Local Government Mary Ellen Adams, and Bill Zachman, of the Department for Local Government.

The area's only other facility of this type is the juvenile detention center at Pikeville.

Alternate Plans For New KY 40 Talked at Meet

Martin county filed its case for a KY 40 corridor at a meeting in Frankfort last week with Kentucky and West Virginia highway officials.

And neighboring counties at the same time filed their preferences, each urging the route to connect with US 23 to their advantage.

The first alternative considered would run KY 40 from Paintsville to Inez and Kermit, W. Va. The second would route the highway from Inez to intersect US 23 at the Johnson-Lawrence line, or in southern Lawrence county. The third would mainly follow KY 3 to the mouth of Daniels Creek and from there go down

Akers Suit Attacks Fiscal Court Order

The September 26 action of the Floyd fiscal court which set a $5 ceiling on monthly charges to be made by county cable television systems was attacked in circuit court week.

The suit, filed by Everett Akers, of Martin, and others, followed by two days the court's subsequent action last Tuesday when it directed the county attorney to file suits against any TV system operator who is charging customers more than the prescribed $5 a month.

Plaintiffs in the suit, in addition to Akers, are his wife, Adis Akers, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Akers, Jr., Becky Walters, the Akers Cable System and the Big Sandy Telecasting Company, who are listed as appellant-defendants. Named as defendant with the fiscal court and its members was the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

The appellant-plaintiffs allege that the court's Sept. 26 order violates their constitutional rights under the First,

Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments in that it is "capricious, arbitrary and shows an utter disregard for the property rights of people engaged in the TV cable system (business) in Floyd county."

They also allege: —That the order destroys appellants' right to contract or be contracted with in matters relating to the TV cable system and its incidentals.

—That the order was entered without notice to the appellant-plaintiffs or people concerned as citizens of the county.

—That it is an attempt to use police power in contravention of plaintiffs' constitutional rights, in an attempt to regulate the prices to be paid by each customer.

—That the order is void and unconstitutional in that it prohibits the free enterprise system without promoting the general health and welfare of the county.

(Reports of damage actions do not reflect defendants' side of the issue.)

ARH Chain Gets $500,000 Grant

AID FOR HOSPITAL SYSTEM—Gov. Julian Carroll, center, presents a check for $500,000 to representatives of the Appalachian Regional Hospital (ARH) system. Accepting the grant for ARH are (from left) Glenn Denham, of Middlesboro, David Zegeer, of Lexington, ARH President Dr. David K. Heydinger and state Sen. Woodrow Stamper (D-West Liberty), chairman of the board of governors of the Morgan County Appalachian Regional Hospital. The grant is half of a total $1 million federal Economic Development Administration award. ARH operates 10 hospitals in eastern Kentucky, West Virginia and Virginia, and has experienced financial problems for the past year.

Gov. Julian M. Carroll presented a $500,000 check Monday to the financially troubled Appalachian Regional Hospital (ARH) system.

The grant, which Carroll presented to ARH system president, Dr. David K. Heydinger, is half of the total $1 million federal Economic Development Administration award approved earlier this month. Another $500,000 presentation will follow later.

The grant application was made by Kentucky's Development Cabinet, headed by Secretary William L. Short, and backed by the governor and Kentucky's congressional delegation.

Carroll was in Washington, D. C. in August trying to obtain monetary assistance for the ARH chain from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare for the three-state health care system. As a result of that visit, he and officials from West Virginia announced a plan to provide $1 million (an amount separate from Monday's presentation) in accelerated Medicare and Medicaid payments to the hospital chain.

ARH operates 10 hospitals in Kentucky, West Virginia and Virginia, along with clinics, pharmacies and related out-patient facilities. The chain's financial woes have increased steadily since last winter's severe weather cut back on patient admissions. The problem has been compounded by spiraling inflationary costs and the April flooding in southeastern Kentucky.

A cutback in health benefits for United Mine Workers put the non-profit facilities in an especially severe financial plight. Nine of the original 10 ARH hospitals, including McDowell's, were built by the United Mine Workers' Health and Retirement Funds in the 1950s. The ARH was formed in 1963 to operate the chain when the union pension fund terminated its sponsorship after operating losses.

The Development Cabinet grant application for the $1 million noted that many of the hospitals are the only sources of health care in their area and are thus essential as treatment facilities as well as for employment. Some 2,650 persons were employed by ARH as of Aug. 10. The 1976 ARH payroll was more than $25.6 million.

TALKING ABOUT ALCOHOL

A Public Service Feature Presented By Mountain Comprehensive Care Center

It costs nothing to join. Practically everyone meets the specifications to become a member.

The only requirement for affiliation is that there be a problem of alcoholism in a relative or friend.

They are known as Al-Anon family group and meet religiously each Saturday evening at 8 p.m. in the Floyd Regional Library in Prestonsburg.

Like A. A. (Alcoholics Anonymous), they don't advertise their worth. Attraction, rather than promotion, is the policy. As with a certain million dollar candy bar business, selling hasn't been a problem.

The key aspect within their group is unity. Together they help conquer personal dilemma. Not authoritative in nature, Al-Anon is composed of persons experiencing the effects of alcoholism, helping others to readjust.

They are anonymous. First names are used in the meetings and special care is taken to assure anonymity with all A.A. and Al-Anon members.

Al-Anon's mascot is the serenity prayer which reads "God grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change, courage to change the things I can, and wisdom to know the difference".

The Al-Anon grip of companionship is extended to any Floyd Countian associated with alcoholics.

For further information write Alcohol, Front Avenue, Prestonsburg, Kentucky, or call 1-800-422-1060.

Princess Manufacturing Assets Sell at Auction for $183,150

The Princess Manufacturing Company, of Auxier, ceased to exist as such last Saturday when its physical assets—two buildings and manufacturing machinery—were sold at auction by Robert K. Wood, federal trustee in bankruptcy.

The main plant building of 23,000 square feet floor area was sold to the Small Business Administration (SBA), which with the Bank Josephine, had financed the company, on its bid of $126,450. A second building (the old company store), which was used as a warehouse, was sold to Scott Collins, Prestonsburg attorney, for $2,700, and the equipment was sold for $54,000.

The plant building is to be vacated within 20 days of court approval of the sale.

Princess Manufacturing, a manufacturer of men's clothing, closed in 1974 after 107 employees filed suit for wages, vacation pay and accrued wages totalling $51,511.03. Later, tax claims were lodged against the firm in the amount of $67,958.43.

John G. Heinze and Stefan Magura were named co-receivers of the firm by the Floyd circuit court, and over a period of months unsuccessful attempts were made to return the plant to operation under new ownership.

Floyd Senior at Berea Appears with Dancers At Craftman's Fair

"T" Auxier, a senior at Berea College, danced with the Berea College Country Dancers at the Southern Highlands Craftsman's Fair in Knoxville's Civic Coliseum last week.

Founded almost forty years ago, the Berea College Country Dancers are a group of students who perform and help preserve the folk dances of Appalachia and other countries, encouraging others to learn folk dancing by holding workshops and programs in churches, high schools and colleges.

Along with Country Dancers' activities, Auxier is working with Students For Appalachia, teaching folk dance to three classes a day, two days a week at Somerset High School. For an independent study, he is also developing a syllabus on Appalachian Culture as related to English Dance. He will be performing with the Country Dancers in a community college concert at Hazard, in November and also in Florence, Alabama, offering a workshop for the National Outdoor Recreation Association.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Auxier, of Emma, and is a 1974 graduate of Betsy Layne High School.

A MESSAGE FROM DOUG LEWIS

Throughout this campaign, I have attempted to maintain a low profile. Being a simple man, I do not believe a campaign should be weighed by wild-eyed promises, but by performance and character.

But nevertheless, I now openly solicit your vote and support. I am a young man, who now ambitiously challenges a monumental task. This task is bringing and maintaining law and order in our county, yet protecting individual rights of every man, woman and child.

I approach this task from a point of view that no other candidate can have. I am educated in the ways of law enforcement, by receiving a degree in law enforcement from Eastern Kentucky University. I have tempered this education by practical experience serving four years as your deputy under my father.

I have plans to take the best of the old and combine it with the approach of a young man, and hopefully achieve basic law with simple compassion.

I suppose the biggest problem and political obstacle I must overcome is the opposition of those people who have been arrested, or desire to deal in alcoholic beverages or other illegal acts. But I simply stand on this premise, All that can be said bad about Doug Lewis is that he has done his duty. This duty as I see it is to seek out wrong-doers in all corners of our county. The record will show this I have done, and will continue to do as long as I have the authority from you and the courage from me to place a badge upon my chest.

On Nov. 8, 1977, I ask you to strike a blow for law and order . . .

UK Researcher Finds Way To Control Plant Diseases

A University of Kentucky chemical researcher in the Department of Plant Pathology of the College of Agriculture has developed a simple, logical idea into a process that may revolutionize agriculture.

By spraying young plants before transplanting them, Dr. Joseph Kuc (pronounced Kooch) has been making them immune to the diseases of the field.

A "booster" spraying six weeks later keeps them immune.

And some day, says the scientist, "we may be able to immunize by treating the seed."

Kuc and a UK graduate student, Frank L. Caruso, of Wyckoff, N.J., raised considerable interest in September, last year, at an American Chemical Society meeting in Chicago where they presented Kuc's findings. Kuc has worked on his idea four years at UK.

His is a new method for disease control, "exciting because it is natural," allowing plants to retain their own defenses.

Immunization, Kuc points out, has long been the basis of preventive medicine in man and animals. His immunization of plants follows the same model: that is, he sprays plants with some form of the pathogen that causes a given disease, thus triggering the plant's own natural defenses against that disease.

"A plant," says the New York-born chemical researcher, "often has all the mechanisms it needs for resistance, but they're not always activated. We're stimulating the plant to make its own protectant."

Kuc and UK researchers have successfully immunized fruit trees, potatoes, watermelons, muskmelons, green beans and cucumbers against diseases. They have demonstrated the immunizations under field conditions with cucumbers, watermelons and muskmelons.

A booster immunization six weeks after transplanting protects the cucurbits (plants of the gourd family) through their fruiting periods.

Tobacco plants, because they are transplanted, should lend themselves to his immunization technique, Kuc believes.

He hasn't studied the economics of his method versus the fungicide method of disease control. But he believes it is more efficient, and safer, to use the organism's own defenses than it is to introduce other substances. Last May, Kuc's research efforts were cited by the UK Research Foundation which gave the UK professor an outstanding research award.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the family of Cager Spradlin wish to express our very deepest appreciation to our many friends who came to our aid in our deepest sorrow.

We would especially like to thank those who brought food and sent flowers or who expressed sympathy in any way.

Our deepest gratitude goes to Dr. Roger Jurich who was so kind to Cager, and to the Carter Funeral Home, and the Regular Baptist ministers who comforted us so. Also, thanks to Mr. Lowell Branham for his effort in making the road to the cemetery. We would not have made it without our many friends.

HOLLIE BARNETT
 For SHERIFF

YOUR CHOICE IS SIMPLE

Do you want a Sheriff that beats 'em up or one that picks 'em up?

Do you want a Sheriff that will try to practice the golden rule or one who will be a law, unto himself, with a gun in his pocket and a stick in his hand?

When I am elected I'll certainly make some mistakes, but I will not give you a reign of terror for four years.

I will have only conscientious, middle-aged deputies that have not themselves run afoul of the law. Together, with all local and state law enforcement agencies, we will have fair and impartial law enforcement again.

Your Friend,
HOLLIE BARNETT
 (Pol. adv. paid by candidate, 1t.)

CAN WE CLAIM KIN?

There are jokes about candidates claiming kin when running for office, but jokes aside, kinship does often decide how a person votes. Election or not, we are proud to claim our relatives, so here goes:

I am the son of Dr. M. M. Collins and Beatrice Adams Collins, the grandson of William Collins and Martha Nolan Collins, and of Garland Whitaker Adams and Nancy Jane Prater Adams, and the great-grandson of Ell Bee Collins and Betsy Holbrook Collins, Steve Nolan and Margaret Slone Nolan, and of William Adams and Peggy Bayes Adams and John Wesley Prater and Sarah Stone Prater.

My wife, Rose Marie, is the daughter of George E. Martin and Maggie Case Martin, the granddaughter of Dial Hayes Martin and Lelia "Girlie" Allen Martin and of Emory Case and Darcus Patton Case. "Girlie" Allen was a sister to Preacher Alec Allen and the daughter of G. B. "Briarpatch" Allen. Dial Hayes Martin was the son of Big Joe Martin and Samantha Hayes, sister to Sylvester Hayes.

We have four children, Steve, Tim, Crystal and Melody. Steve's wife is Donna Combs, daughter of Harris Combs (cousin of Gov. Bert T. Combs) and Billie Gearhart Combs. Tim's wife is the daughter of Hershel Conn and Coney Crisp Conn, and a great-granddaughter of Hi Conn.

We could name many more of our ancestors and relatives, but if we went much further back we would probably exceed the memory of the living.

Kinfolk and friends alike, your vote is needed and will be appreciated.

To the Concerned Voters Of Floyd County:

I have been a Democrat since I have been old enough to vote. I have lived in Floyd County for 52 years. During my life time, I have attended many, many old Baptist Churches and other churches throughout Floyd County. I have on numerous occasions seen our County Judge, Henry Stumbo, in attendance at these churches, and I have never until this election came about seen his opponent at any church that I have attended.

I am a Disabled American Veteran (Post 128, Garrett, Kentucky) and a retired Coal Miner (Local Union 1373).

I feel that Floyd County has made great progress during the years that Henry Stumbo has been our County Judge, and I do not feel that we need a change. Henry Stumbo has always been a friend to all the voters in this county. All my lifetime, I have heard that it is unwise to change horses in the middle of the stream and I feel that to continue the progress that Floyd County has made through the next four years, we need Henry Stumbo as County Judge.

I urge you to go to the polls on November 8 and vote for the entire Democrat ticket!

$17.7 Million Due On Severance Tax, State Dept. Says

State audits of 130 coal operators during the past fiscal year showed the firms underpaid coal severance taxes by $17.7 million, Department of Revenue officials say.

The $17.7 million represents more than 15 per cent of the $112.6 million collected in fiscal 1977. If collected, it would increase revenue to some $130.3 million. The revenue department has filed 45 lawsuits to collect back taxes. Eighty cases are being prepared for court action against delinquent coal operators. About $2 million is involved in these actions, many of which simply are collection suits to recover delinquent taxes.

Claude Slone, director of the sales and severance tax section of the department, said the greatest number of the cases are attempts to collect from what are described as "fly-by-nighters," who do a little mining and either skip out or go broke and cannot pay the tax.

Most of the collection cases involve amounts under $50,000, and some amount to only $300 or $400, Slone said.

Most of the money due the state, Slone said, does not represent attempts by coal operators to defraud the state. The problems arise from legal questions on aspects of the tax that are awaiting court decisions, he said.

"It's not a crackdown," said Raymond Kring, deputy commissioner of the revenue department. "It's the same thing that we went through during the first years of the sales tax. We're trying to determine the proper amount of tax due and educate the taxpayers on how much they have to pay."

The severance tax went into effect in April 1972. Activity involving the tax has increased because issues which have surfaced are being worked out through the Board of Tax Appeals and the circuit courts, Kring said.

"We need these cases expedited. If we should lose all of the issues, it would mean a substantial loss in revenue. I can't put a figure on it, but it would certainly affect the state budget," Kring said.

"Not all the problems we have had are the coal operators' fault," he said. "It has been a misunderstanding and a lack of understanding, but guidelines are being established and differences of opinions worked out."

ESTILL CHURCH SLATES DINNER SATURDAY, NOV. 5

A chicken and dumpling or ham dinner will be served at the Estill Free Will Baptist Church from 11 a.m. till 6 p.m. Saturday, November 5. The dinner is being sponsored by the women of the church, and all proceeds will go to aid work of the church. Tickets may be purchased at the door, Saturday.

A Final Message From RONALD FRASURE

Friends, this coming Tuesday you will be going to the polls to choose your County Judge that will serve you for the next four years. You have within your grasp the opportunity to move Floyd County up the ladder of progress. I think you will agree, I have addressed the true issues that concern you in this campaign. If you will elect me as your new Judge, we will together solve your disgraceful community problems. I do not believe that you are being fooled by this last hour effort by my opponent—Just before you go to the polls—to do the things for your community that have long been neglected. Remember, voting time always brings our elected officials out in your community. However, you know by judging from the past, your roads, bridges, garbage collections, law enforcement, unemployment and all other community problems will get much worse during the next four years, unless you make a change by voting for Ronald Frasure for County Judge.

Also, friends, be aware of false and misleading information and desperation charges that will be leveled against me and my candidacy in this paper today. We are now in the "Silly Season" of this General Election Campaign. This is the period just before the election when some candidates think they can make any charge, true or false, as long as some people believe their story. It is most unfortunate that my opponent, as was previously reported by this newspaper, has been directly involved in the coal business for his own personal gain during the past few years. It is little wonder that my opponent has not had the time to work toward solving your community problems. I am glad to report to you that I have never been involved in the coal mining business. This information can be verified by checking the records in Frankfort, Kentucky. I can further assure you that I certainly will not get involved in the mining industry while serving as your County Judge. There is too much that needs to be done for the people for a County Judge to work only part time for the people.

I want also to take this means to thank each and everyone of you for your warm words of encouragement during this campaign. Your courtesies and friendship will always be remembered by my family and me.

Your Friend, RONALD FRASURE Candidate for County Judge Executive

TIME FOR A CHANGE

In just a few days the good Democrats in our county will be expected by our County Judge to march to the polls and vote the Straight Democrat Ticket. Granted, this is the easiest and least arduous way of voting. Our County Judge wants your voting to always be a ritual like shooting firecrackers on the Fourth of July or putting out the light in the Halloween Pumpkin. This task is easy on the body and soul, because it is a habit done without thinking.

Well, this time, we think you are going to vote with the interest of your County at heart. Floyd County has had a County Judge office as a unit of Government for nearly two centuries and still we have very poor roads, bridges, garbage collections, police protection and water systems. Our waste disposal sites, needless to say, are the nearest streams and wide places in the road. As you well know, we only see our County Judge in our communities once every four years; then we only hear the same old promises, with little work on your roads to hold until after the election. However, after the election he seems to suffer from amnesia, a type of campaign sickness. As you well know, our County Judge is tired, being well past retirement age; the drive and the push that we so desperately need is nowhere to be found.

It was leadership in Pike County that took the Coal Gasification Plant from us. With it went millions in Federal Funds, and hundreds of jobs that the people in our County need. It was leadership from the County Judge's office, that persuaded the American Standard Plant to locate in Johnson County. Here, Floyd County not only lost jobs but hundreds of dollars in property taxes.

If you want Floyd County to belong to the people and provide services for the people, then Ronald Frasure is your candidate for County Judge. Ronald Frasure wants this county to provide for the working men and women who pay their taxes. He will stand up and put the people's desires before the Fiscal Court. Ronald Frasure is not a "hardened politician" and he will be the best "Watch Dog", the best salesman and best spokesman this County has ever had.

They told us recently in this paper to "Look at the Record". Yes, we admit our County Judge's true record is the issue in this campaign. It is a record that spans nearly one half a century; it is a record of mismanagement; it is a record of being satisfied with our people's poor roads and while they are destroying their cars going to and from work, traveling their old worn-out roads; it is a record of being satisfied while our people go without water for weeks at a time; it is a record of being satisfied with a poor and unworkable garbage collection system; it is a record of failing to provide law protection and employment opportunities for our people. We think you are getting sick and tired of this record. Our County Judge should hang his head in shame for asking us to vote for him on his record in public office.

Not one single time has our County Judge told us or given us a program that he plans to follow during the next four years if he is re-elected. The only answer that he gives us for our problems is asking us to vote Straight Democrat. We believe the time has come in Floyd County, that candidates must offer the people some program for relief from their problems—it is no longer enough to holler, Just Vote "Straight Democrat". The people want to know what our next Judge plans to do for their community. Ronald Frasure will correct the "record" that our County Judge is so proud of and wants to run on.

(Pol. Adv. by Frasure for Judge Committee; Clyde George, treasurer)

YOUR VOTE AND SUPPORT WILL BE APPRECIATED AND YOU WILL BE GLAD YOU VOTED FOR RONALD FRASURE FOR COUNTY JUDGE EXECUTIVE.

"GOP EYES BIG VICTORY"

So headlined a story in last Sunday's Lexington Herald-Leader newspaper. Republican executive director for the State of Kentucky, Larry VanHoose, outlined their strategy for adding "some important Republican officeholders in the courthouses and city halls across the state". The story went on to explain that with such victories "they will have a substantial base for a comeback in the statewide races of 1979".

So, vote for Ronald Frasure (chairman of the Floyd County Republican Party), Hollie Barnett, and the Republican candidates for Magistrate and set the stage for A REPUBLICAN GOVERNOR, A REPUBLICAN U.S. REPRESENTATIVE, A REPUBLICAN U.S. SENATOR, AND A REPUBLICAN PRESIDENT.

IT'S TRUE

The Republicans, Ronald Frasure and Hollie Barnett, and the others who are fighting on their ticket, have in the past fought for the defeat for all Democrats, including even Carl Perkins and Bert Combs. Can you now believe that, once they obtain office themselves, they will not continue to fight every Democrat?

Ask yourself these simple questions, if one of these Republicans wants to be your official, and cares not of your registration, why did he even register Republican? Obviously, when the choice came for them to register Democrat or Republican, they chose to reject your party and seek a different political philosophy, from top to bottom.

So if you are a Democrat, admit what the Republican candidates do not even want to put in their ads, that they are not of your party or your beliefs. They are Republican.

Vote Straight Democratic, Nov. 8, 1977.

VOTE FOR

HAROLD STUMBO FOR DISTRICT JUDGE

They say that a man's past is a good indication as to what he will do in the future. In the past I have made an attempt to do what I thought was best for Floyd County.

I believe that God's work on this earth must be done by man. During the life of every man a certain moral responsibility is placed upon that man. I see things that are done every day which I do not like but in the past I have found that we must accept the things that we can not change and have the courage to change the things that we can change.

In the ultimate end, we must face the Supreme Power and I would hate to face that Supreme Power above and not be acceptable to Him.

I can tell you this, that I will not shrink from my responsibility and I will do my best to accept that responsibility. My most important goal is to satisfy my conscience and if I believe in God and the wisdom of our forefathers who have fought and died in this country as well as abroad to preserve the unity of this country and to promote the general welfare of its citizens, I think that my faith is well-founded.

If elected to the office of District Judge, I will be loyal to those basic principles.

Everyone should know my politics by now. However, since this is a non-partisan race, my name is not under the Democratic Ticket or the Republican Ticket, either, therefore, in order to vote for me, you must go on across the ballot (remember to look at a sample ballot before you vote) and vote for me.

My family and I will appreciate your vote and help in this election very much.

HAROLD STUMBO

CANDIDATE FOR DISTRICT JUDGE

(Pd. for by Pluma Stumbo, Treasurer for candidate)

To the Voters of Floyd County:

As a man who has sought office many times, I must say this has been one of the most difficult campaigns my family and I have had to endure. My opponent has inferred that I am a "Nazi" or fascist, similar to Hitler. He has said that to talk of supporting the straight Democratic ticket is un-American and Communistic. He has consistently suggested that I am somehow a dictator, for I have held office so long, by the grace of the people.

But the simple truth is, that I am a person who has spent his life working for the good of the common man and woman. I am by choice a Democrat, for many years ago I learned the difference in the philosophies and attitudes of my party and the Republican. This difference later generations learned by comparing Bert Combs to Louie Nunn, and John Kennedy to Richard Nixon.

But, consistently, my opponent says: "Don't vote the party, the party is not important." If this be true, let me offer these simple questions—Why did my opponent even register Republican? Why did he fight to become chairman of the Republican Party? Why has he fought to support, time and again, the Republican ticket, no matter who it is, even Nixon and Agnew, if his party is not important to him?

Finally, I have been shot-gunned with charges, rumors, and innuendo, all false. Consider the following:

1) That an ad of my opponent stated that I failed in bringing Federal money to Floyd County, and that no Federal money has been received by our county in the past year, when in fact Floyd county received $7,694,000 dollars, No. 1 in this area.

2) That representations were made to the local United Mine Worker office at Martin, Ky., that I was somehow a non-union operator of coal, when, in truth and fact, I have been involved only once in my life in a coal lease. That was located on Mud Creek here in our county. True, I leased that coal, but it was to a union operation, THC Mining Co., as can be verified with the United Mine Workers' office in Allen, Ky.

Even more disturbing is the concealment by my opponent of his NON-UNION CONNECTION. About two years ago, my opponent leased coal which he had an interest in, located near West Prestonsburg, to a non-union operation that ran non-union coal. I ask my opponent, why did he not tell the United Mine Workers of the Martin local this fact?

3) My opponent has run ads talking of his ability to work with Carl Perkins, the Governor and President for more funds, when, in truth and fact, my opponent fought for the defeat of Carl Perkins, Julian Carroll and Jimmy Carter. In fact, my opponent and his Republican Party supported a rich coal operator from Pike County, by the name of Bob Holcomb, when he ran against Carl Perkins. They did this, knowing that Bob Holcomb was committed to DESTROYING THE FEDERAL BLACK LUNG PROGRAM.

Our county is on the verge of a major breakthrough. When I came to politics, much of our county was isolated and it was a time when it was a major task for a man to simply feed his wife and children. Today, things are better, but still not what you deserve. Many continue to need and want. But now the nation and world demand coal and working men and women. These things Floyd County has had plenty of. I believe our time has come. Having come with our county through those hard times, I ask you for the opportunity to do what now can be done. This is especially true where I need not handle any Court, but can go to the real needs of our people.

Let me continue to work with our state and federal Democratic leaders, to get the boost we need. This I can do and my opponent can not. For I am one of you, I am a Democrat.

Health Tip

WALK TO LOSE WEIGHT
 (From the American Medical Association)
 Want to lose ten pounds in the next year?
 One way you can do it is to walk an extra mile every day.
 The American Medical Association points out that a walk of just an extra mile per day for 36 days is a simple, pleasant device for shedding an extra pound of fat. In a year this would mount up to about ten pounds. The extra mile means just that—a mile of walking in addition to the customary walking you now do each day. And walking at a brisk clip, not just sauntering along. And without increasing your present food intake.
 Once regarded as a major factor in losing weight, physical activity was later accorded less importance. It was recalled that considerable effort was required to shed even one pound of extra tissue. Would-be reducers found comfort in some expert opinion that calories expended through exercise would be immediately replaced, due to automatic increase in appetite.
 Fortunately for fitness as well as for fatness, exercise has been restored to grace and enjoys respectability. It still takes calory control to keep weight under control permanently, but exercise helps expend calories; within the usual range of activity, it need not stimulate appetite excessively. The energy output required to offset a pound of fat is approximately 3,500 calories, but the weight need not be lost all at once.
 Instead of the exhausting, often impossible, 36-mile hike within a span of hours, a walk of just one extra mile a day for 36 days will get rid of that extra pound. Weight gain usually is relatively slow, and the extra mile will—for most of us—help keep weight down to a reasonable figure.
 To be effective for both weight reduction and for general physical conditioning, exercise must be a regular part of your way of life, and not something that is overdone spasmodically.

Have your blood pressure checked.

QUESTION BOX

The Question Box answers from the Bible to questions from readers. By Pastor Forrest Howe, M Div., Box 462, Allen, Ky.

QUESTION: Can a Christian be scientific and believe in the Creation story of Genesis?

ANSWER:

Until 1959 there was little debate among scientists about Darwin's theory of evolution. Anyone who suspected this theory was suspect himself. It appeared that Darwinism reigned supreme.

However there was a current of dissatisfaction and this gained momentum within the next several years. One writer declared it to be one of the most important academic debates of the 1960's. When the debate concluded, Darwinism was on the verge of tottering from its exalted position.

The "Achilles' heel" of Darwinism was its theory of the "survival of the fittest". Instead of being a demonstrated truth it was an unproved speculation. It was declared by many to be a tautology—a circular argument. As the results of this weakness were made known the supporters of Darwinism fell by the wayside and today only a few hold his views.

Another blow to evolution has been the discoveries within geological formations. According to the theory of uniformitarianism geological ages are deposited upon preceding ones. The simpler organisms are primarily found near the bottom of the column and the more complex near the top. This is supposed to "prove" evolution by demonstrating that simple organisms evolved into the complex. At first there was no concern when "transitional" forms were absent. Geologists felt that they would be found in time. Without their presence uniformitarianism would be without a base. These forms have never been found. Like Darwinism, this theory too was sinking in prominence.

A third argument of evolution was that given enough time organic matter could result from inorganic. Huge computers were used to calculate such a possibility within the time span allotted for evolution. These computers came up with the chances of this happening as zero! A third leg of evolution was broken.

From the foregoing information one can see that evolution is not scientifically sound. Creation is indeed a viable scientific alternative for the beginning of the world.

(If you have any questions concerning the Bible or religious matters Pastor Howe will be glad to answer your questions. Please write to him at the above address. All names are confidential. Only questions of general interest will be printed.)

GRANITE PREVAILS CRUST

Rocks that have the composition and properties of granite are predominant in the upper part of the earth's crust, while rocks with the properties of basalt prevail in the lower part. The crust under the ocean seems to be almost entirely basalt, says the U.S. Geological Survey.

Salt It Away At 5 1/4%!

Back in the covered wagon days, the only method available for the preserving of meat was salt. By curing the meat with salt, the homesteader was able to keep a certain supply in reserve, for later use. It's no surprise, then, that the saving of MONEY... in reserve, for later use... is often called "salting it away". With a Passbook Savings Account at Floyd Federal in Prestonsburg, your money will earn at the rate of 5 1/4% per annum... that's more than the law will allow any bank to pay on savings. So, "salt some away" with Floyd Federal Savings and Loan Association, South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg.

Private Christian Schools Denied State Accreditation

The State Board for Elementary and Secondary Education recently denied requests from two representatives of private Christian schools that their schools be given temporary accreditation until they could take steps to meet state accreditation standards.

The Rev. Tom Malone, of Louisville, and Irad Levering, of Hopkinsville, submitted the requests so that truancy actions against the schools would be delayed to give them an opportunity to correct deficiencies in their schools.

A temporary restraining order stemming from a lawsuit brought against the board has blocked local school districts from enforcing Kentucky truancy laws. The lawsuit was filed by 36 parents and ministers, five churches and schools and the Kentucky Association of Christian Schools on behalf of 20 Christian schools across Kentucky which were denied accreditation last spring.

The Rev. Mr. Malone, pastor of the Metropolitan Baptist Church in Louisville and chairman of the board of education of the Metropolitan Christian School, told board members that his school is trying to meet state standards of accreditation as they become financially able.

"We're showing good faith in trying to come under the laws. We would like a temporary approval or accreditation before May to alleviate the truancy actions against us," he said. Schools are accredited each May by the board.

He explained to the board that 120 students attend the school and that there are four certified teachers. The school uses the Accelerated Christian Education curriculum, an individualized curriculum which lets children work at their own pace. The children work in cubicles, or offices, and raise an American flag when they need help from a teacher or aide.

Board member Dorothy Slocum, of Owensboro, said that she could not see use of the pre-packaged curriculum as an effective teaching method.

Levering, who represented Seventh Day Adventists schools in Hopkinsville and Columbia told the board that the schools were having problems meeting fire code safety standards.

After meeting in executive session, the board voted to deny both requests.

The board also received reports from 73 directors of pupil personnel. They had requested the reports after the board ordered local districts to enforce truancy laws.

Of the 73 reports, 62 districts reported that there were no truant students in their districts. The remaining 11 districts reported that no action was currently being taken against the truants due to the restraining order.

The 11 districts which said they did have truant students living in the district were: Adair County, Boone County, Bullitt County, Carlisle County, Carroll County, Campbellsville Independent, Erlanger Independent, Letcher County, Logan County, Taylor County and Whitley County.

The board noted that the reports are uncovering private schools operating in the state which have not received approval from the Department of Education to operate.

The board requested that the 108 school districts which did not have reports prepared for this meeting submit them at the next meeting.

In other business, the board approved school bus specifications for 1978; granted permission to the Kentucky Authority for Educational Television to rebroadcast signals originally broadcast by transmitting stations where licenses are held by the board; and, received for approval the department's biennial budget.

The board decided to delay action on the biennial budget until they could meet jointly with the Occupational Board of Education.

A fee of $60 will be charged and each participant will be awarded 1.5 continuing education units.

'Water Watch' on Chlorine Expected Soon in State

Making sure drinking water is free from harmful chemicals and bacteria is like trying to find a few grains of salt in 10 tons of sugar, according to laboratory analysts in the state Department for Human Resources (DHR).

Cecil Webb in the DHR laboratory services division said in a recent interview that some chemicals in drinking water cannot exceed two-tenths of one part per billion. "This is equivalent to looking for an extremely small needle in two tons of hay," said Webb.

But the laboratory scientists in DHR regularly test drinking water from across the state for a long list of possible contaminants including more than 40 elements and compounds measured in parts per million and parts per billion.

Dr. B. F. Brown, laboratory services division director, said the number of chemicals to be tested will soon increase when new federal requirements are issued under the Safe Drinking Water Act of 1974.

"Any day now, we expect regulations which will require testing for volatile chlorinated hydrocarbons which result from chlorine combining with organic materials in water," said Brown. He said these compounds have recently been linked to cancer in humans. "Scientists have recently expressed concern that these cancer causing compounds are increasing in numbers and varieties," Brown said.

New safe water regulations are expected to require limits on the number of parts per billion of various volatile chlorinated compounds in community water supplies and also provide a schedule for the number of tests performed each year to locate the compounds.

According to Webb, chlorine treatment is required in the community water supplies to control bacteria. It is this chlorine treatment which experts say combines with organic matter forming chlorinated hydrocarbons.

Laboratories on the ground floor of the Health Services Building in Frankfort currently analyze about 200 water samples each day for bacteria alone. More than 25,000 bacteria tests are performed each year, according to Dr. George Kilgore who is in charge of bacteriology in the DHR labs.

Kilgore said that a town with as few as 15 water hookups or 25 persons using a community water supply must test for bacteria and chemicals.

A community water supply serving as many as 26,000 people is analyzed about 30 times each month and a city like Lexington must sample its water 140 times each month. Louisville which has its own laboratory, tests its drinking water 250 times every 30 days, according to state requirements.

"This water testing was originally set up to prevent infectious diseases related to bacteria," said Kilgore. "But there is a growing idea that chemicals may also be causing cancer and other health problems," he said.

Responsibility for enforcing the federal Safe Drinking Water Act is in the Department for Natural Resources. That department's Division of Sanitary Engineering contracts with DHR's laboratories for water testing.

According to Nick Johnson, sanitary engineering director in Natural Resources, the intent of the Safe Drinking Water Act was for the water companies to pay for water testing. However, he said the state "has picked up the tab" for all laboratory services required by the water utility plants in Kentucky.

The cost of the lab services is about $190,000 per year, according to Johnson. But he said that figure would be much higher if water plants had to do their own lab tests.

Johnson said his office is developing a plan to charge water companies for the service, primarily because of increasing numbers of impurities to be tested. "The fee would be nominal," said Johnson. "It might be about a dollar per day per plant," he said.

Some 22 Kentucky water systems have their own certified labs to test their water for bacteria and tests for radioactive materials are under contract with a private laboratory in Paducah, Johnson said.

B. LARRY BURKE

"...and there is nothing new under the sun." The above quote is a tragic statement, yet many people seem to be constantly making it.

If a person is living in such monotony that everything that happens is old and "routine," then their life must be most miserable.

If we were living in the period of history of a thousand years ago, this statement would have had some meaning.

Man's greatest achievement of a thousand years ago was the wheel, and his greatest achievement 500 years later was still the wheel. But, within the last twenty years there have been thousands of new and useful inventions. And every single one of them has been greater than the wheel.

A person today has at his beckoning more new and exciting things to see and experience than he can possibly perform.

Someone said: "Digest every day break it apart in tiny bits enjoy every moment."

Salt It Away At 5 1/4%!

Back in the covered wagon days, the only method available for the preserving of meat was salt. By curing the meat with salt, the homesteader was able to keep a certain supply in reserve, for later use. It's no surprise, then, that the saving of MONEY... in reserve, for later use... is often called "salting it away". With a Passbook Savings Account at Floyd Federal in Prestonsburg, your money will earn at the rate of 5 1/4% per annum... that's more than the law will allow any bank to pay on savings. So, "salt some away" with Floyd Federal Savings and Loan Association, South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg.

Meat, Not Bread, Sustained The Early American Farmer

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD (UK College of Agriculture)
Since we are rapidly approaching that traditional season once known as "hog-killing time," it seems appropriate enough to look into the history of this one time autumnal chore which usually began around Thanksgiving and lasted until just before Christmas.

In ye olden times, especially for early American farmers and frontiersmen, meat, not bread, was the staff of life. The early farmers didn't have much livestock or grain, so they lived largely on deer, bear, turkey, grouse, squirrel, rabbit, pigeon, and maybe some other wild meats. Bear and possum fat was rendered into lard, which was stored in deerskin bags with some slippery elm bark to keep it from getting rancid.

Of domesticated meat, however, pork was the most frequent meat on the pioneer table. Since they were allowed to forage on beechnuts, acorns and other wild foods, hogs were produced relatively easily and cheaply.

As a consequence, salt pork was standard fare the year around. Beef was a secondary meat. Every farmer slaughtered his own animals, usually with the help of neighbors. After the crop had been harvested, the fall seeding done, the winter supply of firewood cut, hauled and piled in the woodshed, hog-killing was in order.

Then on some chilly November day the farmers would gather, making it a sort of festive occasion, not just because fresh meat was a welcome change in the diet, but because it offered a chance for socializing with neighbors.

A 40 or 50 gallon wash kettle was hung on a tripod over an outdoor fire to heat water for scalding the carcasses and loosening the hair so it could be scraped off. Another kettle, usually a much smaller container, was used to render out the lard.

Slaughtering was done very early in the morning in order to have sweet juicy tenderloin and brown gravy to eat with fried smoked apples, thick cornbread and sliced onions at dinner time.

Butchering was a very busy time for the farm wives. The menfolk slaughtered, scraped and cut up the hogs into hams, shoulders and bacon, but it was largely left up to the women to salt down the meat, make the sausage, render out the lard and can up the cracklings for crackling bread.

Down on the farm, hog meat was made into a great variety of food products—salt pork, bacon, ham, souse, head cheese, cracklings, spare ribs, back-bones, smoked jowls, pickled pig's feet and many others. Sometimes a beef was slaughtered, too, and the meat dried, corned, or smoked, but the main meat of the farm was pork.

At one time in this nation's history, just about everyone down on the farm had country ham and rich, salt sidemeat with which to flavor beans. But alas, that time is no more. Now only the very rich can afford such fare. Even those of the farm who could fatten and slaughter their own hogs usually don't. They prefer to buy all their pork goodies at the supermarket. The taste quality of the store bought product, however, doesn't match that processed on the farm.

But at this date, that is neither here nor there. The point is, this nation owes a great deal to the hog. The products manufactured from this animal was once the most popular food found on the table.

Karl Wallenda Hurt In High-Wire Plunge

SARASOTA, Fla.—Karl Wallenda, 72, famed high-wire aerialist, has been hospitalized after plunging 20 feet to the ground while rehearsing a stunt for a television movie about his daredevil life.

"It was my fault," Wallenda said after the accident Thursday night at his home. "I'll be more careful next time."

Sarasota Memorial Hospital refused to release any information about his condition or injuries at the request of his family.

Earlier, hospital officials said that X rays showed no broken bone and that the great-grandfather was in good condition with a possible whiplash, but resting comfortably.

Wallenda is head of the Flying Wallendas circus family.

The senior Wallenda was practicing what he once described as his most dangerous trick when he fell. Two members were on bicycles supporting the ends of a bar while Wallenda sat perched on a chair on the bar between the cyclists.

"My pole slipped forward," Wallenda said. "I was taking it a little easy."

Power Equalization Grants To Help Varied School Needs

Local school districts are finding myriad uses for their first power equalization grants. The money will help to buy property for a new high school in McCreary county, an expanded special education program and better instructional materials for Bullitt county. It means higher salaries for cafeteria cooks, school janitors and bus drivers in Wolfe county, and will permit schools to catch up on bills in Pike county, according to superintendents in those districts.

In areas where property assessments and/or low school taxes add up to a little local money spread thinly for education, power equalization is a "blessing from heaven," according to Gayle Bowen, director of local school district finance for the Department of Education. Most local superintendents would find it hard to disagree.

Here's how power equalization funds help poorer districts catch up with the districts which have more tax money for education: local school districts in areas where property assessments are low would have to have higher taxes than wealthy areas to generate enough money to support quality education. Some do, others don't.

The 1976 General Assembly passed a power equalization bill which recognizes that all children are entitled to an equal educational opportunity. Taking the wealthiest county school district—this year it's Fayette County—as a goal, power equalization supplements the taxes of poorer counties until, theoretically, they are on a par with Fayette County.

The catch is that the 1977-1978 power equalization grant of $10.5 million is far from enough to bring all school districts up to this equal level. "It is enough, however, for the state to make up to each local district the difference between what the first nickel of its tax rate yields and what that nickel would yield in Fayette County," explained Bowen.

The proposed budget of the Department of Education, which will be up for approval by the 1978 General Assembly, would raise the nickel to a dime for the 1978-1979 school year and to fifteen cents for the 1979-1980 school year. Most local school districts would be on an even par if that rate were raised to 20 cents, said Bowen.

Wolfe county's school superintendent, Richard Jett, says of power equalization, "We had been operating at a deficit. Now we are able to raise salaries for some noncertified personnel. We've hired a music teacher and plan to hire a Spanish teacher."

Wolfe county received a $51,000 equalization grant, an amount that is close to what most other school districts received. But among the highest grants were $407,000 to Pike county and over $200,000 each to the Floyd, Bullitt, Christian and Harlan districts.

Bowen cautioned against reading poverty or wealth into the exact amounts received by each local school districts. "Because a district received a particularly high or low grant does not mean that area is necessarily extremely poor or on the borderline of being wealthy. The size of the grant is figured on the basis of average daily attendance records as well as on property assessments and school taxes."

In Bullitt county, superintendent Frank Hatfield has a different type of problem. "People have the mistaken impression that because we are so close to Jefferson County, we have as much tax money to work with per child in school," he said. "Actually, we have about one-third as much local tax support per child, yet we are in such a position that we must compete with the standards of education set by Jefferson County Schools," he said. Jefferson County is one of the wealthiest school districts, according to statistics supplied by the state education department.

Hatfield pointed to increasing mobility of populations as the factor which makes it crucial to offer the same quality education across the state.

Perhaps the only superintendents to complain about power equalization would be those whose school districts are already too wealthy to receive any money at all—Fayette County and the four independent school districts of Southgate, Frankfort, Anchorage and Beechwood. Pulaski did not receive a grant because that district does not levy a local tax for education.

Power equalization grants to school districts in the Eastern Kentucky area included these:

Bell County, $140,782.59; Middlesboro, $58,332.10; Pineville, $12,408.59; Boyd County, $95,269.31; Ashland, $41,597.28; Fairview, $21,508.21; Breathitt County, $113,768.38; Jackson, $10,698.76; Floyd County, $279,891.46; Johnson County, $111,997.45; Paintsville, $4,008.79; Knott County, $126,638.01; Lawrence County, $62,051.09; Letcher County, $168,757.04; Jenkins, $28,140.71; Magoffin County, $93,016.26; Martin County, $75,591.25; Morgan County, $68,919.00; Perry County, $201,448.93; Hazard, $20,295.01; Pike County, $407,009.63; Pikeville, $5,137.51.

Island Creek Ordered To Add Women Miners

The Island Creek Coal Co. agreed last Wednesday to settle a sex discrimination suit by speeding up the hiring of women until 20 per cent of its coal mining jobs are held by women.

The Kentucky Commission on Human Rights adopted an order settling the dispute between the Lexington-based firm and seven women who charged they were denied mining jobs because of their sex.

Island Creek, which denied any wrongdoing in the case, agreed to pay more than $41,000 in damages to the women for their embarrassment or loss of wages.

Galen Martin, executive director of the commission, said the agreement was another major step in requiring Kentucky coal firms to obey anti-discrimination laws. Four other coal industry firms signed similar agreements in 1976.

The latest agreement settling the discrimination charges only governs Island Creek's Western Kentucky mines. The firm also operates mines in Eastern Kentucky.

Under the terms of the agreement Island Creek, which employs 2,000 miners in six mines in the Madisonville region, said it would hire at least one woman for each three men hired until its mining work force is 20 percent female.

At least half of the women hired by Island Creek will be drawn initially from a pool of 276 who have previously applied for jobs with the firm.

The commitment to create a 20 percent female work force "could open up several hundred mining jobs to Kentucky women," Martin said.

Four of the seven women who lodged the complaints against Island Creek have since accepted jobs with the firm. Another woman now works with another coal firm and the other two work in other type jobs.

To All The Good People of Magisterial
 Dist. No. 1

I do appreciate talking to you about your problems, I only want you to know what I stand for and will try to do. There is one thing I don't understand—how the State can take our coal severance tax money and use it in the lower part of the state when we need it so badly to build roads and bridges and also clean up our roadside garbage dumps, our river and small streams. It is impossible for me to see everyone before the election. I am taking this opportunity of asking your support if time doesn't permit me to see you. Thank you.

(Pol. Adv. Pd. by the Candidate)

— MESSAGE TO ALL YOUNG VOTERS —

Tuesday, Nov. 8th, is a very important day for the young people in Floyd County. We are asking the young Democrats and Republicans to join with us to help build a democratic form of government and a two-party system in Floyd County by electing Ronald Frasure for County Judge.

We believe there are problems that are not being solved by voting the so-called "Straight Ticket".

Our young people are interested in improving our roads—cleaning up our streams—getting the garbage off the sides of our roads. Our county needs a county youth program. We want fair law enforcement. We want a county ambulance service. We want fire protection in our communities. We want jobs HERE, at home.

So, go into the voting booth Nov. 8th, and vote for a better Floyd County. Vote for a young man, Ronald Frasure, for County Judge.

Young Democrats and Republicans

Brandenburg Assumes Post As New Surface Mining Boss

Lowell E. "Gene" Brandenburg last Thursday took the oath of office as the first commissioner of the recently created Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement.

Gov. Carroll said Brandenburg's experience as director of the division of water resources and more recently as deputy commissioner of the new bureau of surface mining reclamation and enforcement, makes him "eminently qualified" for the new position. Brandenburg enjoys "the full confidence of (Natural Resources and Environmental Protection) Secretary (Robert) Bell and myself," the governor said.

Brandenburg, 43, earned his geology degree at the University of Kentucky, and began work for the state Department of Highways in 1957. That same year he left state government for nine years' active duty in the U.S. Air Force. In 1966 he returned to the Department of Highways as an engineering geologist. He became assistant to Bell in the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Department in March, last year, later becoming director of water resources and deputy commissioner of the new bureau.

The Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement replaces the Division of Reclamation in the Natural Resources Department "to more rapidly and effectively achieve compliance" with stricter standards in new federal strip mining legislation which takes effect for new mining operations on Feb. 3, 1978, and for existing operations on May 3.

The federal act requires that all strip mined lands be restored to an equal or better pre-mining land use, with topsoil segregated to provide satisfactory revegetation. With operations on slopes of more than 20 degrees, no spoil material is allowed over the outcrops, with no disturbance of land above an operation's highwall. Steep slope operations must be returned to their approximate original contour, as are all strip mining operations.

The bill calls for states to develop reclamation plans for U.S. interior department approval. The state reclamation organizations must have sufficient personnel to administer their programs.

Kentucky must submit its plan for approval by next Feb. 3. With an approved plan the state could receive approximately $20 million annually for reclamation of orphan lands, or lands stripped prior to state and federal reclamation law.

The bureau will be divided into the following divisions:

Standards and specifications, to promulgate all state regulations, rules and standards for reclamation; permits, to receive and evaluate all permit applications and proposed reclamation plans; operations and enforcement, to cover field operations, inspections, and issuance and resolution of all non-compliances with federal standards, and orphan land reclamation, to plan, implement and administer programs for those lands.

Ky. ADD Groups To Meet, Nov. 10

City and county officials, citizen members and staffs that make up the 15 Area Development Districts (ADD) in Kentucky will be joined by state and federal officials at Owensboro, Nov. 10 and 11, for the meeting of the Kentucky Council of Area Development Districts.

Richard Hartman, executive director of the National Association of Regional Councils, will be the luncheon speaker on Thursday. On the same day William Short, secretary of the Kentucky Development Cabinet, and Wilburn Pratt, executive assistant for developmental planning, will present the Economic Development Administration review process.

Morning sessions will deal with ADD committee programs such as aging, natural resources, transportation, manpower, criminal justice and health.

Project Independence, a pilot aging program in the Green River Area Development District, will be reviewed by Max Jackson, field services director in the Department for Human Resources, bureau for social services.

Afternoon informational sessions will cover the Bureau for Outdoor Recreation, the Economic Aid Fund, local government and EEO, the Area Development Fund, local government workmen's compensation, asphalt recycling, matching tourism funds, funding for bicycle trails, computerized county financial reporting, CETA Title VI, and a fire incident reporting system.

There will also be sessions on Disaster and Emergency Services and county and municipal statute revision.

A REPORT TO THE CITIZENS OF WHEELWRIGHT

I wish to take this means to reach the Citizens of Wheelwright who do not attend the City Board meetings held the third Thursday of each month at the City Hall. There have been numerous false statements made about the present members of this Board as well as two previous members (F. Childers & J. Bartuka) who did outstanding jobs for the City and resigned for personal reasons. I feel the following facts should be known regarding the work of this Board:

When this Board took office in January 1975, we had a balance in the City General Fund of less than $500.00 and outstanding debts of over $4000.00. These debts have been paid and some of the accomplishments of this Board in the last two years are—

- (1) We have finished paying for the Fire Truck and have purchased a 1976 - 3/4 ton Chevrolet truck to pull the pumper if needed, giving us 2 pieces of fire fighting equipment. The pick-up truck is also available for hauling trash.
- (2) We finished paying for the old Police Cruiser and bought and paid for a new 1975 Plymouth sedan for that purpose.
- (3) We acquired $35,000.00 for the purchase of the Swimming Pool Complex.
- (4) We are now in process of receiving bids on complete renovation of swimming pool complex. Completion date in May, 1978.
- (5) We installed 10 new street lights.
- (6) We have spent over $10,000.00 on sidewalk repairs—the first repairs in 15 years. As money becomes available, we will continue this work.
- (7) We have started a tree and brush cutting project with the use of County workers, acquired by this Board through Judge Henry Stumbo. This is the first of this type cleaning done in 12 years here.
- (8) We have been instrumental in acquiring good garbage collection for the Citizens and urge all to take advantage of this service.
- (9) We are trying to keep a fair, honest and impartial law enforcement department in the City.
- (10) The City also had road repaired and drains replaced in road leading to the Cemetery behind the walled section of Town.
- (11) At the present time we have no outstanding debts against the City and have between $6,000.00 and $7,000.00 in the General Fund.
- (12) We have plans to install guard rails between the road and the sidewalk at the swimming pool area, at no cost to the City.

These are just a few of the things that have been accomplished by this Board and we would like to have your support in the November election for another term as your City Board of Trustees—for continued progress for the City of Wheelwright, please vote for the following persons for Board members:
