Martin to Bull Cr.
Sector up for Bids;
Fifth Since Oct. 10

The first Floyd county work on new KY 80 from Water Gap to Hazard is scheduled for letting to contract after the opening of bids at Frankfort, Dec. 1.

The Floyd sector of the highway being advertised for contractors' bids extends from about .4 mile northwest of Martin to Bull Creek, a distance of 2.594 miles.

The work to be done is grade and drain on the mainline, with grade, drain and surfacing on crossroads.

Next spring will see work on the route in all three counties. Two contracts—one in Perry and one in Knott—have already been awarded. One, costing $8,913,587, calls for construction from the Hazard interchange to Homing Mill Branch, a distance of 1.8 miles. The other, providing for construction of 2.1 miles in Knott county from a point one-fourth mile east of the Knott-Perry line to within a mile of Bearville, will cost $6,819,944.

Two other Knott county sections of the road are scheduled for letting tomorrow (Thursday). The two projects involve almost 4½ miles of construction and will place under contract almost one-fourth of the 43-mile route.

Transportation officials predict that the entire highway will be under construction by next summer and that it should be open to traffic by 1980.

All these developments on the four-lane KY 80 have followed the Oct. 10 ground-breaking at Hazard.

First work on the road was planned for areas of least density of population.

Fire Control Demonstration Ends Special PSC Seminar

The Kentucky Public Service Commission's three-day Emergency Planning and Response seminar, held Nov. 8, 9, 10 at Jenny Wiley State Park, ended Thursday with a fire control demonstration at the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company's Dwale compressor station. Fire-fighting techniques and equipment were demonstrated in relation to four different types of fire situations most frequently encountered by gas company field operations. (In above photo, gas company workers rush to combat a crude oil fire.) The seminar, which was attended by utilities officials and emergency response specialists from all parts of Kentucky as well as several other states, featured lectures on various emergency situations, equipment, maintenance, and other related topics. On hand for the seminar and fire control demonstration were PSC Chief Engineer Scott Smith and PSC Chief Inspector Ernie Murphy, pictured from left to right, respectively, in photo at right.

2 Murder Cases Set for Hearing Late this Month

Two murder trials are docketed in the Floyd circuit court for the closing days of this month, and if one of the two is not held the accused man will be freed and the charge against him dismissed.

The trial-or-else order was issued recently by Circuit Judge Hollie Conley in the case of Bobby Workman, who is in jail here and whose trial has been delayed for several months. Judge Conley's order directed "that the Commonwealth make any and all arrangements necessary to proceed for trial on Nov. 28, 1977, this case having been assigned for trial some 60 or 90 days, and the court is of the opinion that if the Commonwealth is unable to try this case at that time, the defendant should be released and the case dismissed."

The Commonwealth was preparing this week for the trial, as scheduled. Workman was indicted in the slaying of James Chaffin, whose body was found at an Arkansas Creek roadside.

The second murder case booked for hearing is that of Edd Hall, Jr., charged with the slaying of Little Paint of Larry Spencer. The trial is scheduled for Nov. 30.

The trial of Marvin Neeley and Phillip Moore on a first-degree assault count is scheduled for tomorrow (Thursday), but trial of Cisco Neeley on a second degree manslaughter charge in the auto death near Hueysville of Mrs. Jackie Lynn Howard may not be heard till the January term of court, it was said this week.

Span To Cost $4,999,145

State Transportation Secretary Calvin G. Grayson has awarded a contract for construction of a bridge and approaches over the Levisa and Tug Forks of the Big Sandy River at Louisa.

The project calls for structures, grade and drainage work and surfacing on .3 mile of the road, said Grayson. The R. R. Dawson Bridge Company of Bloomfield successfully bid $4,999,145 for the project.

The work will be done at the Kentucky-West Virginia state line and was also approved by the state of West Virginia, which will pay part of the cost.

Polygraph Tests Truth of Story Accusing Hall

Sharon Kay Hall, 14, voluntarily underwent a polygraph (lie detector) test Monday to allay suspicion of her recent revised version of the circumstances under which her sister, Charleen Varney, died last July 21.

County Attorney Harold J. Stumbo, whose questioning of the original version of Miss Varney's death, resulted Oct. 30 in the girl's statement that Randy Hall killed her sister, said Tuesday he was told the polygraph test indicated that she was telling the truth. Questioning by State Detective Kenneth DeBoard and a State Police polygraph operator centered on two points—did the girl see Hall kill

This Town...That World

The wind with its banshee wail was back, the other night, screaming at a projecting cornice of the house. It's a sound I like when I'm inside, the lights going strong and pleasant surroundings keeping the wildness of the night outside. Yet I wonder why the severest summer storm never stirs up a wind that gusts so suddenly into a shriek.

I'M DEBTOR

After Estill Hall, back home with his family from LaSalle, Mich., had planked down the price of his renewal last Saturday, I felt like giving his money back before he left. He took some time to say that he read and enjoyed these ramblings, every week. And not one of the children, after giving me inspection, said anything about "just another old square."

Wheelwright Hi Suit Claims District Title

The Kentucky High School Athletic Association's Board of Control ruled Monday that Paintsville be awarded the title of District football champion. The Tigers will play Pineville tonight (Wed.) at Pineville.

Wheelwright High School is determined to learn what it takes to win the Class A football championship in District II and a place in the state playoffs.

Last year, the school's Trojans went undefeated in the district, but the Paintsville Tigers, who played fewer district games but also were undefeated, won the playoff berth.

Trojan Coach Don Daniels objected then to what he considered unfair treatment of his team by the Kentucky High School Athletic Association (KHSAA), but, short of legal action, could do little more than lick his wounds.

This year Wheelwright again is undefeated in its class in the district with seven games won, and again Paintsville, also undefeated but winner of only four district games, has been declared district champions and is again in the state playoffs.

But Coach Daniels this year has reacted to the situation by going to court. He filed suit in the Fayette circuit court last Wednesday, claiming Wheelwright, not Paintsville, is the rightful district championship team.

Paintsville, on the basis of the Dickinson System, and a designated district team, has been declared District II champion and was scheduled to play Pineville in the state play-offs Friday night.

The suit also seeks a play-off game between Wheelwright and Paintsville, plus the court's interpretation of the use of the Dickinson System so that when district champions are named by KHSAA, only district teams, or teams in the same class, be counted.

Under KHSAA rules and regulations governing football championships, teams are divided into classes, regions and

Public Meeting Set To Discuss US 23

A public meeting at which US 23 between Prestonsburg and Paintsville will be discussed has been scheduled by the Department of Transportation at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 30.

"The meeting is planned to help the Division of Planning and Design come up with something which will answer the needs of the people," a department spokesman said.

He added that the meeting is a prelude to one or more public hearings on the route later. All interested citizens are invited to attend.

districts, depending on the size of the school.

Wheelwright and Paintsville are class A schools, and both are in District II. Each team ended their season undefeated in district games, Wheelwright 7-0, Paintsville 4-0.

Prior to the 1977 season, the suit contends, Paintsville scheduled only three district games, but designated Pikeville, a Class AA school, as a district game.

According to the suit Paintsville should have designated either Lynch or Raceland High School as a district game because both schools are Class A and were on Paintsville's schedule.

Had Paintsville not been allowed to select out-of-district teams as its four opponents under the point system, the suit claims, Wheelwright would have been declared district champion.

Groundbreaking Slated Here For Construction Projects

Groundbreaking ceremonies for two major construction projects here were announced this week.

First of the ceremonies marking the beginning of work will be the ground-breaking at 11 a.m. Friday at the North Lake Drive site of the $690,000 Municipal Building. Congressman Carl D. Perkins and Charles Mason, Kentucky representative of the Economic Development Administration (EDA) will be joined by city and county officials in the ceremonies.

The second groundbreaking will be held next Monday at 2:30 p.m. for the $2.8 million Highlands Terrace housing complex for the elderly and handicapped (HUD 202 Project) at the construction site adjacent to Indian Hills here.

Prior to Monday's groundbreaking, representatives of all funding agencies and interested citizens will attend a May Lodge luncheon. Speakers at the luncheon will be Secretary William L. Short, of the Kentucky Development Cabinet; Lynn Luallen, head of the Kentucky Housing Corp., and John Edmunds, acting director of the Louisville area HUD office. Staff members of these agencies also will attend the luncheon.

Highlands Terrace is the first Kentucky project on which both HUD and ARC development funds are being used. Julia M. Mayo, executive secretary of the Prestonsburg Housing Authority, said.

Members of the Floyd County-Prestonsburg Area Chamber of Commerce will attend the luncheon, which is open to all interested citizens. Further information may be had by calling Julia M. Mayo at 886-2717.

Election Overview . . . In Prospect:

Youngest Sheriff in State, Judge Longest in Office

Floyd county at last Tuesday's election elected the state's youngest sheriff and at the same time returned to office the oldest county judge in point of service.

Sheriff-elect Doug Lewis, son of the present sheriff, Joe W. Lewis, at age 26 is said to be the youngest man elected to the office in the state.

And in his election to the new office of county judge executive Henry Stumbo was named to his 10th consecutive term in office—an unexpired term and two full terms as magistrate in District 3, seven terms as county judge, and now for four more years as judge executive.

The new office of district judge to which Harold J. Stumbo was elected strips the county judge's office, the magistrates and police courts of all judicial powers, leaving the judge and magistrates only fiscal and administrative responsibilities.

Although Ronald Frasure, Judge Stumbo's Republican opponent, polled majorities in only 11 of the county's 44 precincts, he staged a spirited campaign and had a vote total of 5,661 to Judge Stumbo's 6,868.

Sheriff-elect Lewis had the heaviest majority among the Democratic winners with opposition, leading in all but eight precincts and by 7,022 votes to 4,825 for his Republican opponent, Hollie Barnett.

In the district judge race County Attorney Harold Stumbo led Scott Collins in all but 11 precincts with a total vote of 5,743 for Stumbo to Collins' 4,060. The vote in this race was lighter than in others, since the candidates' names appeared under neither party emblem.

The vote for the constitutional convention led in only nine precincts and fell short, countywide, by 2,592 "No" votes to 1,883 for the convention. The Floyd trend on this issue prevailed across the state.

District 1 Magistrate-elect Ray Wilcox led in all 14 precincts of the district, polling 3,062 votes to 747 for W. T. Foley, Republican, and 147 for Harold Baldridge, Independent.

In District 2 incumbent Kenneth Roberts had a closer call, although he led in six of the district's eight precincts. He led his Republican opponent, French Spencer, 1,102 votes to 779. Andy Conley, Independent, polled 84 votes.

Eddie Caudill, a former District 3 magistrate, was returned to the office by a big margin, winning in all 11 precincts with 2,580 votes to 602 for Republican merson Bob Brown.

The District 4 magisterial race was won by Elder Hershell Hamilton, who had a majority in nine of the 10 precincts. His vote total was 1,729 to 1,049 for Russell Clark, Republican.

The vote for candidates for constable: District 1—Corbin Joseph, Democratic incumbent, 2,445; Linden Elliott, Republican, 550; Bill Hinton, Independent, 174.

District 2—Bob Hackworth, Democrat, incumbent, 1,378; Dallas Shepherd, Republican, 404.

District 3—Buddy Bryant, Democrat, unopposed, 2,003.

District 4—Paul Stilton, Democrat, incumbent, 1,405; Shelby D. McKinney, Republican, 1,200.

The vote for unopposed Democratic candidates:

Representative, District 94 (four precincts), Herbert Deskins, Jr., incumbent, 602.

Representative, District 95—James "Jitter" Allen, incumbent, (40 precincts), 4,060.

County Attorney—Arnold Turner, 7,211.

County Clerk—C. "Ollie" Robinson, incumbent, 7,818.

Jailer—Lawrence Hale, incumbent, 7,413.

Property Valuation Administrator—Lovel Hall, incumbent, 6,999.

Coroner—James J. Carter, incumbent, 7,051.

Surveyor—Elmer Rice, 6,048.

A Thought to Remember

By LARRY BURKE.

Ever heard of the Genie of the magic lamp?
Let's suppose there were such creatures, and suddenly you had the opportunity to make three wishes. What would you wish for? ... a million dollars? ... to be a king? ... to travel all over the world? Whatever your wishes were, if you lived long enough—you'd probably want to change them.
Of all the wishes a person could make—the three of the most importance would be—"I wish to be healthy, wealthy and wise." These three would encompass more of your life than any you could ask for.
Health—without it you would be most unhappy and life would have little meaning. Wealth—with this just about anything material could be yours. Wise—with wisdom you would maintain the first two, and through wisdom you would find happiness unsurpassed.
On the other hand these three can be yours without a Genie. You alone are the captain of your fate. After all, aren't all of us the kind of person we've worked at becoming?

Salt It Away At 5 1/4 %!

Back in the covered wagon days, the only method available for the preserving of meat was salt. By curing the meat with salt, the homesteader was able to keep a certain supply in reserve, for later use. It's no surprise, then, that the saving of MONEY... in reserve, for later use... is often called "salting it away". With a Passbook Savings Account at Floyd Federal in Prestonsburg, your money will earn at the rate of 5 1/4 % per annum... that's more than the law will allow any bank to pay on savings. So, "salt some away" with Floyd Federal Savings and Loan Association, South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg.

Mr. Daniels' Statement

Don Daniels, Wheelwright High School football coach, this week issued the following statement relating to the suit filed to establish his team's claim to the district football championship:

This is a regrettable situation. Regardless of the outcome, innocent children are going to be injured, spirit-wise. As a principal and coach I feel that I am morally obligated to protect the interest of my students. I simply went to court because I have a moral commitment to my team, my school and the football fans in Floyd county. We have no quarrel with Paintsville. However, the people in our school community and Floyd county resented Coach Brugh's statement in the Nov. 12 Lexington Herald that we should abide by the KHSAA's rules or get out. We have no intention of withdrawing from KHSAA.

At Wheelwright High School we teach our students that in our society due process should prevail. I teach my football players the same, that we have rules in every aspect of society and should abide by them. However, it is also my conviction that if a group of approximately ten adults, such as the KHSAA Board of Control makes the rules that govern thousands of youngsters in high school football and their interpretation in administering rules is above challenging—something is wrong with the system. And, if a team of youngsters who have fought their hearts out on the turf can go undefeated for 17 consecutive wins, finish district play with a record of 7-0—and not be in the playoffs, then the system needs to be changed.

The whole purpose of the class system is to allow small schools to compete with schools of comparable enrollment. I feel that under the present system, the class system is invalid, when class championships can be determined by playing teams in other classes.

At the same time, Mr. Brugh was issuing his statement, I had released a statement to the press commending Mr. Brugh and Pineville's coach as being men of integrity and who provided quality coaching, and I feel that if either were put in my place, they would have taken the same action. I made no mention of the fact that Mr. Brugh's principal, Paul Trimble, is a member of the KHSAA's Board of Control. I contend that when you are dealing with kids your professional integrity has to be above reproach. We only want what we fairly deserve. The citizens, especially the children of Floyd county, deserve the same rights as the children and fans of Johnson county.

The citizenry of Floyd county is to be commended. The people of Floyd county, in a true spirit of right and wrong, generosity and friendship have really seen us through this. I am deeply grateful for all the support, morally, and otherwise, that we have received from the citizens and business establishments. This proves to me that Floyd countians rise to a just cause and there is a common bond binding us all. Time and again, we have all rooted for our home teams in basketball tournaments and after the last shot was fired, congratulated our opponents, packed our bags and followed them to the State Tournament. I had never before had occasion to be the recipient of this generosity. Our whole school community appreciates the supporting calls that we have had from distinguished citizens in this county ad surrounding counties as we challenge the system in behalf of deserving kids.

The Rev. and Mrs. Jagers, and children left last Thursday for Cynthiana. Supplying the pulpit, Sunday morning and evening, was Dr. C. R. Daley, editor of the state Baptist magazine, The Western Recorder.

TALKING ABOUT ALCOHOL

A Public Service Feature Presented by Mountain Comprehensive Care Center

She hides it well. Her neighbors don't suspect that she is alcoholic. Some would be surprised to hear that she drank at all.

She has done such a swell job of fooling others that the snow act has seeped through to herself, convinced that this lady can handle her liquor.

The family knows. Her truck driving husband wonders what went wrong. The twin boys, average third grade students, say they have failed to mind Mommy and now she drinks more and more. Yesterday she was passed out on the patio when they returned from Sunday School.

How long will she be a hidden alcoholic? When will the masquerade end as alcohol ruptures her world?

On this fall afternoon while talking in her tasteful French provincial living room, she begins to open up. "It all started the summer after my sophomore year in high school when drinking was the thing to do besides getting your driver's license. It was wild and exciting," she remembers.

"By the end of that summer, did I ever have a drinking reputation, and around here front page stuff like that travels quick. Even my grandparents mentioned it!"

Disgruntled with her new image, she decided to go undercover with her drinking. By the time graduation came two springs later, she was engaged to a guy who lived two counties away.

"No longer did I drink for show or even in public," she said, "only when my husband was away at work did I bring out the booze hidden in the utility room."

For thirteen years she has lived a disrupted alcoholic life. She queries why things can't stay the same. It bothers her that she is slipping and others know her secret life of hoarding alcohol.

She, along with other alcoholic women of this area, needs help. Women who have drinking problems seem to be less visible than men, although an estimated one in every three alcoholics is female.

The alcoholic woman in Floyd county needs to take the initiative to ask for help. Regional alcoholic treatment and counseling services, such as Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, served approximately 700 consumers last year. The biggest majority of these persons were men.

About half as many adult women as adult men have reported regular (weekly at least) use of alcohol, but only a small portion of women seek professional help. Research has shown that half of adult women now drink once a month, with percentages increasing steadily. Among younger women there appears to be an increasing tendency to drink as heavily as men.

The magnitude of women in Floyd county who have drinking problems are concealed alcoholics. They need counseling.

To determine district champions, the KHSAA uses a modified form of the Dickinson Football Rating System, which assigns points according to the record of a team's opponents among other teams in its district. In instances where a required number of district teams are not played, a team will get a designated district opponent provided it demonstrated an effort to schedule the required number of games.

Using this system, the suit claims, the KHSAA declared Wheelwright and Paintsville as tying for the championship of Region IV, District II. A tie is broken by means of a point system which allots each team one point for each game won by any four of its defeated opponents.

According to the complaint, the KHSAA interpreted the rule to mean any four opponents, including out-of-district opponents.

Contending that KHSAA's interpretation was erroneous, the suit wants the court to order Wheelwright be named district champion.

Named defendants in the case, besides KHSAA, are Tom Mills, commissioner, Ray Story, president, and nine members of the Board of Control, Norman Passmore, Denval Barriger, Zeb Blakenship, Jack Burkich, Joseph McPherson, Glendon Ravenscraft, George E. Sauer, Jr., Paul Trimble and Conley Manning.

Guard Unit Lists Recruit Benefits

With one of the most modern armories in the state set for completion within the next few months, the Prestonsburg unit of the Kentucky National Guard has stepped up recruiting somewhat to take advantage of this exceptional facility.

A recruitment drive in August netted the unit here 11 new recruits, according to SP 5 Rebecca Coldiron, of the Prestonsburg unit (Kentucky's only female Specialist and one of two in the nation). SP 5 Coldiron said many potential recruits just weren't aware of the many benefits and excellent salaries which the Guard offers. She listed some of the major benefits as follows:

—Kentucky College Vocational Tuition Assistance—Up to 50 percent at state supported college or vocational institute upon completion of basic training.

—Kentucky National Guard License Plate—One time cost of $25 and $1 annually thereafter.

—City Occupational Tax Exemption—No city tax on Guard pay.

—Kentucky Income Tax Deduction—$20 deduction on yearly State Income Tax.

—Kentucky Uniform Allowance—of $150 for 2d Lieutenants or Warrant Officers of Kentucky National Guard.

—Kentucky State Active Duty—Pays minimum $25 per day.

—Kentucky Tollgate Pass—While on duty not required to pay toll fee on Kentucky Highways.

—Kentucky State Active Duty Education—If killed or permanently disabled on state active duty your spouse and children receive four year college tuition at state school of choice when of age.

—FHA Home Loan For Veterans—Service of 90 days or more (Basic Training) qualifies.

—Post Exchange Privileges—For you and spouse.

—Servicemen's Group Life Insurance—$20,000 for $3.40 monthly.

—State Active Duty Insurance—free $10,000 insurance while on state duty.

—National Guard Association of Kentucky—Free $5,000 for first six months. $5,000 for spouse plus $1,000 for each child for only $5.67 a month.

—Free meals while training.

—Free medical services.

—Guaranteed monthly income for part-time work.

Salaries for guardsmen range from $49.92 for the grade E-1 guardsman to $174.52 for the grade O-3 member for one week-end's pay. Monthly basic training pay is $374.40 (if married, add $128.40).

The above figures reflect the pay schedules effective as of Oct. 1, 1976. Since then, the figures have been upped.

WHEELWRIGHT NEWS

The Wheelwright Homemakers Club sponsored a sidewalk bake sale, Nov. 5. Unseasonably warm weather drew many persons out to enjoy the sunshine and homemade cakes, pies, cookies, etc. Homemakers donating to this sale were Mattie Hall, Barbara Gullett, Virginia Hagens, Doris Osborne, Myra Salisbury, Dollie Hall, Ruby Osborne, Barbara Johnson, Katie Newsome, Linda Holbrook and Debbie Marshall.

The next scheduled meeting of the Homemakers is Nov. 17 at 7 p.m. The lesson this month will be "Candy-making" and will be presented by Demonstration Agent Frances Pitts and Katie Newsome. Business discussion will be on Christmas activities. All members are urged to attend.

her sister and was she in fear of her life when her original statement was made.

Sharon Kay Hall married the accused man after her sister's death. At first, she told authorities that her sister shot herself. In her October statement she named Hall as the slayer, explaining that she had earlier told State Police that her sister killed herself because "Randy Hall had threatened to kill me if I told the truth."

Hall claimed he was outside the Grethel home of his father, McKinley Hall, when Miss Varney, inside the house, shot herself. He said he heard the shot.

Hall has not been arraigned, since he was already in jail on another charge when the murder warrant was issued for his arrest after the girl had made her second statement. He was not among the prisoners who fled the jail recently.

The prisoner will probably remain in jail until the January grand jury hears evidence in the case.

"THE GOOD, OLD DAYS"

Elsewhere in this edition there is a story which begins with this description of Kentucky:

"Lawless gangs of thieves and murderers roved freely about, preying upon the defenseless. Disagreements grew into feuds, personal duels... lost ideals... bitter hatred."

We who have decided that everything has gone to pot (and I do not refer to marijuana) and express a longing to turn back the clock to "the good, old days" may be shocked to learn that those words describe Kentucky in the era from 1865 to 1900. For further details see the book by Dr. Hambleton Tapp and Dr. James C. Klotter.

Lenna Moore stopped his chariot long enough today to tell me about reading of two sure signs of growing old. Said one was a failing memory. He's still trying to recall the other.

THE NEWS IS OUT

Was at something of a loss to understand why Carl Horn had neglected to tell me of the fishing trip he and his wife took recently to Lake Barkley—until the word reached me that again she had bested him. A seven-pound bass, this time.

PERSONAL PREFERENCE

I love lakes.

The expanse of water, the distance to other, inviting shorelines, the lure of long coves, the sometime quiet, the rush of cloud-shadow across the water—all these have their fascination.

I suppose the ease with which distant spots may be reached by boat makes a lake my favorite place to be and to forget most, if not all, the plaguing things of everyday humdrum. Barring storm, the water itself becomes a part of one's element. It is not home is the sailor, home from the sea. This little sea, for a little while, is home.

Yet we of this part of America cannot escape the fact that these are manmade things; that, beautiful and blue and deep as they are, their days are numbered. You can't forget that every minute the life of this well-loved place is growing shorter, and that every hour brings the inevitable load of silt that one day will end all this.

So it is that, for all its beauty, no lake can take us as far back to nature as a stream. For in a stream there is something of timelessness—living water which cut its path only God knows when, waters which are never quiet but keep on brawling in an eternal, one-sided quarrel with the mute stones in its bed.

Miss Park Receives Bausch & Lomb Award

Suzanna Park, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Don Park, of Hager Hill, has been awarded the annual Bausch & Lomb Science award on Nov. 5 at Paintsville High School. The science award is presented each year to winners at more than 8,600 participating schools throughout the United States and Canada.

"The Bausch & Lomb Science Award is especially significant," according to Paul Wade Trimble, principal, "because it recognizes the senior student who has attained the highest scholastic standing in science subjects."

As winner of the award, Miss Park is eligible to compete for one of several four-year Bausch & Lomb Science Scholarships at the University of Rochester, Rochester, N. Y.

A contract for the construction of a bridge and approaches over Mud Creek on the Banner-Prater Creek-Harold road has been awarded by the Highway Department, it was announced. The Floyd County Community Development Committee elected Curtis Clark, of Prestonsburg, its chairman for the next year here last Thursday. The Floyd County Board of Education has approved the 1967-'68 salary schedule for teachers, and it reflects raises ranging from a minimum of $250 to $550 a year. Formation of an organization with the specific purpose of assisting toward the development of Big Sandy River communities in the southern end of the county will be effected Nov. 28 at a meeting scheduled at Betsy Layne. There died: Mrs. Sarah Ousley, 58, Friday at her home at West Prestonsburg; Miss Lena Johnson, 65, Tuesday at her home at Melvin; Mrs. Corda Harless, 85, formerly of Floyd county, Saturday; Alex DeLong, 91, of Lancer, Wednesday at Paintsville; Vernon Martin, 50, Nov. 3 at his home at Martin.

Two explosions rent pipelines of the Kentucky West Virginia Gas Company over the week-end, and the strike which has brought operations to a standstill appeared no nearer settlement this week than when it began, Oct. 19. The losing Beehive ticket in the Martin City Council election plans a contest suit, it was said here this week. Two a. w. o. l. Floyd county soldiers picked Armistice Day as the occasion to end here their private skirmish with military authorities and the law. Acceptance by the Floyd County Board of Education at its meeting last week of an option from Fred and Lora Conn of approximately half an acre of land was a step toward enlargement of the head of Prater Creek school and its grounds. Confronted with Sunday night with the problem of shooting a rabid fox without killing his dog with which the fox was fighting, 11-year-old Bill Frank Caldwell, of Cow Creek, successfully "pulled off" the task in the best Eastern Kentucky tradition of marksmanship. There died: Mrs. Dollie Kidd, 70, Friday at her home at Honaker; Earl G. Case, 15, Friday at the home of his parents at Drift; Ellis Tackett, 68, of Hi Hat, Friday at McDowell Memorial hospital; Gus Little, 78, of Bypro, former police chief at Wheelwright, last Wednesday at the Methodist hospital, Pikeville; Mrs. Ollie Hall Layne, 65, of Harold, Oct. 6 at the Paintsville hospital; Kendall Crager, 65, Monday at his home at Hueysville; Mrs. Nora Anice Clark, 65, of Amba, Sunday at the Paintsville hospital.

Reward of $100 was offered this week by Sheriff Troy B. Sturgill for the arrest, or for information leading to the arrest of the gunman who late last Thursday shot and wounded Deputy Sheriffs Ed Craft and Scott Compton on Buck's Branch, near Martin. Recount of the Wayland city election vote in Raymond and Wayland precincts and subsequent judgment this week of Circuit Judge E. P. Hill changed the election results from a sweep by the Pick and Shovel ticket to three Councilmen elected by that ticket to two by the Broom ticket. Five defeated City Council candidates in the town of Martin election filed suit in circuit court Wednesday for a recount of the vote in John Possum and New Martin precincts. Mrs. Sally Goble, of Lancer, administratrix of the estate of her six-year-old daughter, Edna Jane, who was fatally injured Oct. 6 when struck by a truck of Champion Stores, Inc., has filed suit in Circuit Court against the company and the driver of the truck, seeking damages of $40,000. To raise funds for a public library, the Prestonsburg Woman's Club will present at the grade school auditorium here, Monday and Tuesday, the comedy, "Cornzapoppin," with Mrs. Ethel Logan Moore directing. On the outcome of Friday night's encounter between the Prestonsburg Blackcats and the Paintsville Tigers hinged the grid championship of the Big Sandy Conference and the right to represent the conference in the Flood Bowl game at Pineville. Dr. Earl T. Arnett was slightly injured last Thursday night when his auto was forced from the Salsersville-Pointsville road and rolled over an embankment. Married: Mrs. Barbara Reynolds Stone, 81, and Garfield Wright, 85, both of Allen, Nov. 4, here; Miss Jean Pulley, of Richmond, Va., and Cpl. Nicholas Lalich, formerly of Wheelwright, Oct. 25 at Fort Lewis, Washington; Miss Hattie Mae Abney, of Winchester, and Mr. Arthur Patrick, formerly of Wheelwright, Nov. 3 at Clarinda, Iowa; Miss Leslie Fay Comstock, of Allen, and Mr. Joe Burke, of Prestonsburg, at the Methodist Church, Paintsville. There died: James Fitzpatrick, 52, Hunter miner, Sunday at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin; Mrs. Shered Robinson, 63, of Whitaker, Wednesday at the Paintsville hospital.

Forty Years Ago

(November 18, 1937)

Two persons were killed as the result of auto wrecks occurring on successive days of the past week-end at Hueysville. Charlie Howard, 14, of Salt Lick Creek, died Sunday morning at the Stumbo Memorial hospital, Lackey, of injuries sustained Saturday afternoon when he was struck by a hit-run driver as he stood at the roadside near the junction of the Salt Lick-Beaver Creek roads; almost exactly 24 hours later, seven-months-old Orlena Kilburn, was fatally injured when her mother, Mrs. Flora Kilburn, backed an auto over an embankment. Virgil Fields, 28, was shot and killed Sunday night at his home at Wheelwright. Twenty-four murder cases are slated for trial at the January term of the Floyd circuit court, the docket released by Circuit Clerk Troy B. Sturgill shows. State Senator Joe P. Tackett was seriously injured Friday night when his auto rammed into a telephone pole near Ironton, Ohio. This, in The Times this week, is noteworthy: When radiators were turned on in the capitol early this week, big-bugs, enlivened by the heat, crawled forth to dispatch Kentucky's highest jurists, who vacated their meeting place in search of other quarters. F. M. Akers, brother of Mrs. W. B. Boyd, of Prestonsburg, sustained back injuries Saturday when caught beneath a rock which fell from the roof of a country "coal bank" on Prater Creek. There died: Mrs. M. C. Sexton, of Estill, Nov. 6 at the Paintsville hospital; Miss Dollie Hammond, 20, of Northern, last Wednesday at the Stumbo Memorial hospital, Lackey.

SHORT ROWS

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD
(UK College of Agriculture)

Once hailed as an answer to the farmer's fencing problems and a valuable adjunct to wildlife management, the Japanese Rose, probably better known as Multiflora Rose, like Kudzu and Johnsongrass, has become an outlaw plant. As a matter of fact, the 111th Ohio General Assembly has done just that. It passed legislation that prohibits the planting of Multiflora Rose in Ohio except for use as understock by licensed growers or by special permit from the Ohio Director of Agriculture.

From its original home in Japan, Korea, and China, the Multiflora Rose was first introduced into the United States shortly after the Civil War. It was first used as an understock in the development of new roses, especially climbing roses. Then it was promoted as a "living hedge" and as a wildlife plant. Some organizations promoted the plant as both a fence and wildlife refuge and claimed it would not invade fields or grow in woods. Instead the briars would grow together and form an impassible hedge.

Farmers who planted fences of Multiflora Rose found that it did, indeed, form an impassible hedge and retained all forms of livestock. They also discovered that these impassible hedges got wider every year, encroached on pasturefields and moved into the woods.

From the wildlife point of view, however, the Multiflora Rose measured up to all the claims made for it. A clump of these roses not only provided a secure haven for many smaller forms of animals and nesting birds, but also an abundant supply of berries for food. Birds eating the berries spread the seed all over the countryside. Many forested areas, especially under roost trees, now have dense thickets of Multiflora choking out tree growth and making itself an all-around pest. Like Kudzu when taking root in woods, Multiflora Rose, which has a dense arching habit of growth, will climb trees, pull them down, and smother them out. Many forested areas in Eastern Kentucky are being smothered out by Kudzu and the same circumstance has been noted with Japanese honeysuckle and Multiflora Rose.

The point of this column is to point out that while the Multiflora Rose does have its advantages, it can become a pest and while it can provide a "bull string and hot tight" fence, it can also destroy a patch of woods or take over a pasturefield. With this being a fact, before setting out a Multiflora Rose fence, consider both advantage and disadvantage and check with your County Extension Agent.

School Leaders Say Charges in Letter False

The November 9, 1977 issue of the Floyd County Times contained a letter to the editor pertaining to law enforcement in Floyd county. The following names were listed as sponsors of that letter: Violet Brown, Carmen Brown, Margaret Bentley, Paul Bentley, Gerry Bentley, Don Morgan, Bob Brown, Jack Thompson, Daryl Hamilton, Willie C. Moore, Milford Hall, Will Hall, Walter Brown, Pearl Henderson, Brady Henderson, Cheryl Thompson, Betty Moore, Randall Frasure, Judy Frasure, Richard Moore, Carlene Hicks, William Lee Hicks, Lillian Sizemore, Girlie Moore, Wilse Sizemore, Bradford K. Martin, William Conn, James Akers, Jeanene Martin, Tom Bartrum, Frank Daniels, Anna Sue Daniels, Woodrow Hale, Betty J. Hale. It is to these people and the parents of the McDowell School community that this reply is directed.

We do not object to anyone seeking better local services, but for them to make the charge that your school is not a safe place to send your children (because there is no law around here) is totally false. The charge against the school is erroneous, unfounded, and does a disservice to both your school and your community.

We invite the people named above to visit the school and discuss any aspect where the safety of children is concerned. The same invitation is always extended to parents. Get involved in your child's education. Work with him; talk with his teacher; become an active member of the McDowell Parent-Teacher Organization and let's work together to promote educational progress at your school.

We are fortunate indeed, to have dedicated people such as Superintendent Pete Grigsby, Jr., Board Member Dr. Mary Hall, an energetic faculty, and interested and concerned parents who are working in a positive way to improve your child's educational opportunities.

Won't you join us in this worthy endeavor?

Court Cancels Auxier Firm's TV Franchise

The franchise of Auxier Cablevision was cancelled Monday by the Floyd fiscal court in a session which featured discussion of television service in the county.

Everett Akers, head of the Akers Television Service at Martin, attended the meeting, and questions which he asked were fielded with varying degrees of success by court members. Akers has a circuit court suit pending in protest of the $5 per month ceiling set on the fee charged per television system customer.

The order cancelling the Auxier franchise directed that the franchise be advertised for letting to the best bidder, Nov. 28. "This action," the court explained, "is taken... due to the fact that the said Auxier Cablevision is not providing efficient service for the residents of the area."

The motion to cancel the Auxier franchise was made by Magistrate Bill Wells in whose district the franchise area lies. Auxier Cablevision is owned by Jim Daniels.

After some discussion, the court voted $2,425 to the David School, Inc., an Alternative Learning Project which is operated on approximately 95 per cent federal funding. The school has received one grant of $6,815 for the period Aug. 1, this year, till next May 31, and a second of $25,000 for operation from last Aug. 1 to July 31 next year. In addition to the support required by the fiscal court, the Justice Department contributed $1,111.

The program of the school is designed to meet the problems of school dropouts and wayward juveniles.

After hearing of a sanitation problem on Little Paint, the court directed County Attorney Harold J. Stumbo and County Planner Claude A. Swiney to explore the possibility of procuring federal financial help on sanitation needs over the county.

The Prestonsburg Senior Citizens' Center was granted $1,200, and $800 was marked for the Martin center. An appropriation of $500 was voted to the Prestonsburg-Pointsville Airport Board.

The lease from Beecher Woods, of Emma, of a building used as the county highway garage was renewed from October 1 to Sept. 30, 1978 for $170.

Permission to lay gas lines along county roads were issued; to Thomas Lemaster for approximately 1200 feet on the Spurlock Fork of Middle Creek; to Billy Hicks, for line along Old 114 at Brainerd, and Clifton Moore for line on Frasure's Creek.

Power Company Offices To Close for Holiday

Kentucky Power Company offices will be closed Thanksgiving day and Friday, November 25. According to J. M. Wood, Pikeville Division manager, this is the first time the company has observed the day after Thanksgiving as a holiday. Although the offices will be closed, servicemen and repair crews will be available to take care of any emergency service problems that may arise, Wood said. Customers are asked to use the number listed in their local telephone directories to report any electrical troubles.

Problems Beset Work on Armory For Nat'l Guard

The 88-member Prestonsburg unit of the Kentucky National Guard's 1-149th Infantry may find itself without an armory facility unless problems which have delayed the completion of the new armory on the Auxier road, near here, are resolved by January 1.

The major delay on the $516,000 armory, according to SP5 Rebecca Coldiron, has resulted from the failure of a Lexington roofing contractor to initiate roof work on schedule. Now, although a new contractor, B. & B. Roofing, of Ironton, O., has taken over the work, a completion date on the armory, which was first set for last August, is now uncertain.

Adding to the unit's dilemma is the fact that the Fraternal Order of Eagles building here which the unit has occupied since its establishment, has already been leased to Flanery & Dingus Electronics, Inc. and is set for January 1 occupancy by that business.

Interior finishing work on the armory, which will be one of the most modern facilities in the state, is presently under way, and contractors say they are working toward a completion date of late December to allow adequate time for relocation of the Guard unit.

General contractor on the project is the J. A. Goleman Co., of Paintsville.

To protect from winter chill

Put an overcoat around your roses

A person can't tell a rose to "button up your overcoat." But a person can—and should—provide an "overcoat" for roses during winter.

Roses do need protection from winter cold, particularly in areas where temperatures go below 15 degrees, says Mary Hotze, horticulture extension specialist in UK's College of Agriculture.

"Providing that winter protection for roses is really quite simple," she said, noting there are three easy steps that are recommended to provide the winter protection.

The first step (Illustration 1) is to trim the bush. After a hard frost or two, but before the ground freezes, all canes of the plant should be pruned back to 18 inches. Such pruning makes it easier to work around the plant in providing the winter protection and prevents them from becoming battered by the wind and icy conditions of winter.

The second step (Illustration 2) is to spray the plant. All dead stems, leaves and debris should be removed from the plant and the area around it should be raked carefully to remove all debris. The entire plant and surrounding soil should be sprayed with a good fungicide and insecticide to prevent carrying over of diseases and insects on and about the plant.

The third step (Illustration 3) is to mound a pile of loose earth up, over and around each plant to about 12 inches and firm up the soil. Only four to six inches of the tips of the canes should remain exposed after mounding. Consequently canes sticking out more than that should again be pruned to reach that measurement. The purpose of the mounding is to protect the plant from rapid changes of temperature and to guard the canes against winter wind and ice damage.

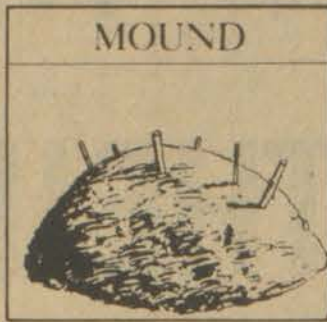

Illustration 3

Evergreen boughs, leaves, hay or straw, thrown over the mounds will prevent the soil from washing during the winter, but such added protection should not be applied until after the ground freezes, Hotze warned.

She said the mounds should be carefully removed in the spring when new growth starts.

The horticulture specialist recommended that All-America Rose Selections award winners be planted in rose gardens, since they have a great deal of inbred hardiness. "Even so, winters are unpredictable and winter protection is good insurance against loss," Hotze continued.

She noted there are other methods of winter protection, one including the use of polystyrene cones.

In the use of such cones, the bush should be pruned back to accommodate the cone being placed over the plant. After the cone is in place it should be tightly sealed with soil around the bottom. The base of the cone should be weighted down with more soil, gravel, stone or some other weighty material to assure the cone staying in place.

Some of the cones of this type come with detachable tops for ventilation. The use of cones with such tops was termed the best, allowing the tops to be removed on warm days in late winter to allow air to circulate around the bushes. "The cones become somewhat of a miniature greenhouse with the warmth of the early spring sun," Hotze said. "Without warm air on those late winter and early spring days, there is a possibility that mold could develop—and that condition, if unchecked could become a serious problem and can cause the death of some of the canes."

The cones can be removed when early spring temperatures get above freezing, however, Hotze advised the cones be kept handy to be replaced if necessary should the temperature drop suddenly. "The plants are very tender at this time of year and are not only sensitive to cold, but to harsh sun and drying winds as well," she said.

More from Gallup Poll

Some more interesting information from the recent ninth annual Gallup Education Poll:

—By a 2-1 margin, people believe that local school authorities should be permitted to decide how federal education money should be spent.

—By a 4-1 margin, parents of school children approve of the idea of offering courses to parents as a regular part of the education program. The five subjects suggested by parents of 13 to 20 year old children, in priority order were: (1) What to do about drugs, smoking, and alcohol (2) How to help the child choose a career (3) How to help the child set high achievement goals (4) How to develop good work habits and (5) How to encourage reading.

—24 percent of parents interviewed help their children with homework on a regular basis; 27 percent help when help is needed; 44 percent said they do not regularly help with their children's homework.

—Only 28 percent of persons interviewed knew what tenure was. When those persons who knew about tenure were asked their opinion of it, the response from parents of children in public schools was: 54 percent oppose and 37 percent favor. Parents with children in private or parochial schools opposed tenure by 84 percent, with 16 percent favoring it.

—Information gathered on the TV and study habits of students revealed that the average child under age 13 spends in a typical day: 2 hours watching TV, 30 minutes reading (not schoolwork), and 45 minutes doing homework. Children over 13 years of age also spend 2 hours watching TV and 30 minutes reading (not homework), but 1 hour doing homework.

The club announced that a dinner will be held Saturday, Nov. 19, in the clubroom at 6 p.m. Certificates of Service and appreciation will be presented to senior citizens who have been involved in the club's work. Everyone in the East Point Development Club area is invited to come and visit with your neighbors. The devotional was read by Mrs. Susie Gray and wood to the flag by Calvin Gray.

The Woodman of the World thanked the club for the donation of $63.75 from tickets sold on dried apples. Tom Leake gave a report on a cemetery in the community on which some work is needed.

The meeting time during the winter months was changed to 6 p.m.

Mr. Gray suggested that the club try to get the Highway Department to paint a white line along the edge of newly blacktopped Rt. 1428. New steps will be acquired for the front of the building.

Herbert Spradlin urged the continued support of a Girl Scout troop.

The purchase of glass jars, sugar and apples for the 1978 apple butter making project was discussed. The installation of new windows is progressing with only six left to be installed.

Four new lights were installed in the apple butter and bus stop shelter. The need for additional road signs will be reported on at the December meeting.

Residents of State Route 1100, the Little Paint road, have circulated a petition asking road improvement. Mary Stambaugh made a report on improvements on the Crider Branch Road.

Calvin Gray suggested the club might purchase bird feeders and feed for nursing homes for the enjoyment of the patients.

Donations to charities and non-profit organizations was discussed. Possibilities of a fire department for the East Point area was discussed. Permission was granted to transfer money from the club's savings account to checking. A social hour followed the meeting.

Heavy Absentee Balloting May Cause Change in Law

By MIKE WINERIP
(In The Courier-Journal)

Hazard, Ky.—Kentucky Secretary of State Drexell R. Davis says he will seek changes in the state's voting law because of the large number of absentee ballots cast in some Eastern Kentucky counties Tuesday.

"I am concerned that there are so many," said Davis, who as secretary of state is also chairman of the State Board of Elections. "Obviously, abuses could occur and there's absolutely nothing we could do about it the way the current law is worded."

Several Eastern Kentucky officials... said the loose supervision of absentee voting under the 1972 law made it easy for politicians to buy votes.

Under current law, absentee ballots do not have to be notarized. Voters must state only that they "expect" to be out of the county the day of the election.

A voter can have his ballot mailed to any designated address, including that of a politician.

An unusually large number of absentee votes were cast in Leslie, Knox and Magoffin counties. All are small Eastern Kentucky counties that had heated races for county judge.

In Leslie, of 6,298 votes cast for county judge, 1,665 were absentees, or 26 per cent. C. Allen Muncy, the Republican victor, had 2,873 machine votes and 1,073 absentee votes. His independent opponent, Lee Joseph, had 1,636 machine votes and 577 absentee votes. (A third candidate had 129 votes.)

As a contrast, in urban Jefferson county, where 187,515 people voted for county judge, there were only 2,199 absentee ballots.

Leslie County Commonwealth's Atty. Paul E. Hieronymous, who would be responsible for prosecuting any voter violation, said, "That is a very inordinate amount of absentee votes."

"Apparently, there was a drive to obtain them... But the present law is so damn vague and liberal it is possible for campaign workers to conduct an absentee campaign," he said.

Hieronymous said he had received no complaints about the election to date.

"I assume that one guy started doing it (collecting absentee ballots), then the other guy started and the whole thing snowballed," he said.

Until 1972, an absentee voter had to have the ballot certified by a notary public. The individual was supposed to be out of the county the day of the election. If the person was spotted in the county on election day, his vote could be nullified.

In 1972, following the momentum generated by the federal government's voting rights amendment, Kentucky liberalized the absentee procedure.

Proponents of reform argued it was too hard to find a notary, and the requirement was eliminated. They also claimed that a person's plans might change and he could conceivably wind up on the county the day of the election.

State officials believe the abuse of the absentee vote hasn't surfaced until now because it has taken time for some candidates to recognize the loopholes.

"The last county election we had was 1973 and the politicians didn't have time to understand the new law then," one state official said. "By the (spring 1977) primary they were catching on and now it's worse."

(Countywide elections are held every four years.)

In the Knox county judge's race, of the 10,111 votes, 1,212—or 12 per cent—were absentee.

Democrat Don I. Bingham, with 5,152 total votes, had 440 absentee, while

HONORED WITH SHOWER

A household shower was given in honor of Miss Connie McFarlan, bride-elect of Jeffery Conn, Nov. 11 at the home of Mrs. William L. Smith, at Allen. She received many nice and useful gifts.

The hostesses were: Mrs. William L. Smith, Mrs. Evelean Akers, Mrs. Carl Martin, Mrs. Wayne Davis, Mrs. Tex Keathley, Mrs. Dennie Slone, Mrs. Joe Reynolds, Jr., Mrs. William Lyons, Mrs. Dennis Garrett, Mrs. Ned Bush, Mrs. Earl Fields, Mrs. Jim Harmon, Mrs. Warren Blanton, and Mrs. Charles Phillips.

Republican Beckham Garland had 4,959 total votes, with 772 absentee.

In Magoffin county, Calloway Montgomery had 77 more absentee votes than his opponent and won by 160 votes. Montgomery, a Republican, had 3,196 votes, including 279 absentees, while Earl Borders, a Democrat, had 3,036 votes and 202 absentees. Eight per cent of the total vote was absentee.

State Democratic Reps. Bill Weinberg, of Hindman, and Jimmy White, of Barbourville, said they plan to file legislation to correct loopholes in the absentee voting law.

Weinberg said he decided to act after the May primary.

"I'm at the (Knott) county courthouse a lot and this spring I started noticing the clerks would be mailing 20 or 30 absentee ballots to the same address," he said.

Weinberg said his bill will have four key points:

—Absentee ballots must be notarized.

—A voter will have to swear he will be absent from the county on election day.

—Ballots will have to be mailed only to the voter's home.

—An individual will have to swear he meets the residency requirements.

The bill would not affect the absentee procedure for disabled voters, Weinberg said.

Weinberg said that a big problem with the current system is that there is no centralized computer operation in the state to keep track of absentee ballots. The people in Frankfort has no way of knowing what is going on, he said.

"The danger of buying votes under this system is apparent," he said. "It's a sure-fire method for the politician to make sue he is getting the vote he buys. People just mail him their blank ballot and he takes care of it."

Betty Jo Heick, president of the Kentucky County Clerks Association, said several members have told her about problems with the current absentee voting system.

She said it will be a main topic when the group meets next week.

Hieronymous, commonwealth's attorney from Leslie county, was asked if he plans to investigate.

"No one has complained so far, so apparently both sides have their share of absentees," he said.

Without a complaint it's almost impossible to make a case in a small county such as Leslie, he said, and gave an example:

"Several years ago, a man here took a gun and fired it into the back of a school bus. There were 42 children in that bus and by some miracle, no one was hurt."

"When it came time for the trial not one of those 42 children or the bus driver knew anything about any shooting."

HOLLIE BARNETT WISHES TO THANK HIS SUPPORTERS:

I want to personally thank all of the people of Floyd County who supported me in the November election. I congratulate my opponent on his victory and I know he will do his best to enforce the law justly and fairly as I would have done had I been elected. I will always be available to assist my friends who helped me. I have no malice against those who have spoken out against me, for they know not what they have done.

The Golden Rule says, "you should do unto others as you would have them do unto you". 4825 people believed in me and I will never let them down; and those who betrayed me from the beginning of my campaign until the last day for a few pieces of silver, forgive them, and may God light their Way.

I truly appreciate those who were truthful to me and supported me. A man is only as good as his word and nothing is held in more contempt than a liar.

Sincerely,
HOLLIE BARNETT

RONALD FRASURE THANKS VOTERS

I cannot think of words to express my humble feelings and deep appreciation for the nearly 6,000 people who voted for me in our past election. I take this means to congratulate my opponent, Judge Henry Stumbo, on his victory. I wish Judge Stumbo and his administration success during the next four years.

I want also to say to my many good supporters that, even though we were short of victory, we proved here in Floyd county that any deserving and qualified candidate—regardless of his party affiliations—who takes his message to the people and discusses the issues that concern the people, must be considered a serious and an electable candidate.

I will always love Floyd County and our people; I will be available in the future to do what I can to make Floyd County a better place in which to live. I have made many new friends during this past campaign and your friendship will always be remembered and cherished.

Your Friend,

THANKS!

I would like to take this means of thanking everyone for voting for me in the recent Nov. 8, 1977 General Election. Although I had no opposition, I received 7,877 votes. Again let me say, Thanks for your time and effort for casting your vote for me. May I serve you better in the next four years than we have in the past.

Historical Society Sets Up Traditional Country Store

Nothing is more symbolic of rural America during the 19th century than the little country store. Along with pungent aromas of tobacco, apples, molasses and pickle brine, lively political discussions and checker games, the country store provided rural communities with a contact to industrial and commercial America.

The country store was the focal center of the community, and the storekeeper was all things to the community—crop consultant, banker, postmaster, social advisor, character reference, and general community "obliger." The storekeeper sold anything from a coffin to a postage stamp.

During the coming year, visitors to the Kentucky Historical Society History Museum can reminisce as they visit an old-time country store. The country store is one of six new rooms planned by Bill Long and Elizabeth Perkins, curators of the museum, to better utilize the society's collections.

The curators recently received the first donated items for the country store, a tobacco cutter, candy jar and a pair of ice tongs, all made in the late 1800s. The donated items came from Nina Meredith of Grayson county who, until three years ago, ran a country store in the Grayson county community of Wax.

"The tobacco cutter was used to measure and cut a nickel chew," said Nina. "The Kiss-Me jar was used to store candy. The lids of these and other candy jars were designed to sit awkwardly so that they rattled should little hands steal inside the containers." The ice tongs came from Nina's cream station which she operated before opening the country store in 1944.

Typical of more country stores, Nina's store offered a variety of services. A customer could fit a mule with harness, get a haircut, buy gas for automobiles or farm equipment or sit down to a hot meal in the coffee shop in back of the store.

During her 30 years as a storekeeper, Nina grew tobacco, gave advice on interior decorating, studied and collected antiques, and became expert on how to refinish them. Today, she has an extensive collection in her 14-room home, two log barns and two other houses on her property at Wax. The collection includes dolls, glassware, china, pieces from foreign countries and furniture made during the 1800s from the Empire and Victorian periods.

Busy days at her country store includes many trips to and from other buildings showing antiques to dealers and customers. Now Nina works at the General Electric plant in Louisville and shows antiques by appointment.

The society still needs other items to go in the country store exhibit: A pot-bellied stove, spool cabinet, hanging kerosene lamp, nail kegs, simple shelving, advertising posters, counter-balance scales, tin canisters and barrels for flour, vinegar and cider.

If you would like to contribute something to the society's country store, contact Bill Long or Elizabethtown Perkins, (502) 564-3016.

Help Is Available During Thanksgiving For Stranded Drivers

Help will be readily available to disabled motorists during the Thanksgiving holiday week-end this year.

According to Dick Horn, director of the division of highway enforcement in the Kentucky Department of Transportation, all of the division's inspectors will be patrolling the major arteries in the state to give assistance to disabled motorists during the holiday week-end.

"All of our units are equipped with CB radios and our men will monitor channel 19 for distress calls," Horn said.

"Although our primary goal will be to help stranded motorists, we will be working with the state police, to insure that the 35 m.p.h. speed limit is complied with by both passenger and commercial vehicles," he added. Horn pointed out that division personnel have the power to enforce all Kentucky motor vehicle laws.

He said the 68 units will primarily patrol the state's major thoroughfares such as interstates and toll roads.

The division units are white cars with a single blue light and, according to Horn, the inspector's uniforms are "tan rather than the blue-gray worn by the state police officers and our hats are brown."

Horn said the division personnel will be on patrol during all high traffic periods in the future.

Bags Eight Pointer

Estill Collins, of Prestonsburg, is pictured with the eight-point buck which he bagged Saturday morning after hunting about three hours near Cave Run Reservoir in Bath county.

The '77 Blackcats—an Overview

At the beginning of the 1977 football season, there was an air of mystery surrounding the Prestonsburg Blackcats. The Blackcat gridders joshed and kidded that they were a mystery team—that no one knew what to expect of them.

Maybe they knew more than the public, for this elite cast of sportswriters, fans, spectators, and the general public seemed to know exactly what to expect from the Blackcats.

The facts were plain enough. Prestonsburg had graduated eight seniors from a team that had won more games than any other Blackcat team since 1968, including the first district championship in the school's history. The Cats had graduated such standouts as William O. Goebel who had rushed for 1,300 yards and 22 touchdowns in 1976; Greg Dixon, the excellent quarterback who had accounted for more than 30 TD's running and passing over the two previous seasons and who had directed the Blackcats wishbone offense to an almost awesome 4,100 yards in total offense. Also in 1976 were: Thomas Slone, the outstanding blocking back; Tim Patrick, wide receiver; and tough offensive linemen Scotty Walker, Michael Click, Greg DeRossett, and Bobby Osborne. Each of these athletes were excellent defensive players, too.

Along with the loss of this talent, Prestonsburg found even a tougher schedule than the year before. To top that, all of their opponents would be fielding seasoned, veteran teams, as almost all of the Cats' opposition had the majority of their players returning. Yes, the facts spoke for themselves. Prestonsburg was picked to win one, maybe two, and if they were lucky, three games at the most. But something went wrong with these concrete, fact-based predictions.

The 1977 Blackcats had 13 seniors on the squad, only two juniors, 16 sophomores, and about 10 members from the freshman team. There was very little experience. Alvin Hall, Jeff Burchett and Kerry Slone had been two-year starters. Mark Chaffin had a year's experience at noseguard, as did Kenneth Campbell at tackle, Gene Holland at center, and Paul Ackerman at safety. Seniors Marvin Marsillett, Brian Fulks, Chuck Hilton, John Henson, Wayne Tibbs, Jimmy Campbell, and juniors John Holland Monty Branham had seen spot playing time but very little seasoned experience was to be found. Neither was there an overabundance of talent, but this didn't seem to bother the Blackcats. They wanted to play football, and they did.

At the start of the season, the early season prognosticators seemed to be correct in their predictions. Prestonsburg won their opener easily over Johns Creek, but in the second game of the season, they lost to Pikeville, 20-13, which eliminated them from the district race. The surprising thing was that Prestonsburg stayed close to the Panthers and many felt they actually outplayed the eventual district winners. Johnson Central routed the Blackcats the following week, and it was said that Prestonsburg would be lucky to win one more game. The Blackcat squad had other ideas, however. Many of the sophomores had been seeing plenty of action, such as, Dewey Layne, Lee Carter, Bobby Wells, Dwayne Rodebaugh, Bill Greer, Tony Clevenger, Keith Colvin, Danny Daniels, Jack Goodman, Randy Chaffin, Desi Whitt, Thomas Hastings, Harry Adams, and Richard Burchett. These, along with the rest of the team, were steadily improving. The Blackcats, on their third straight road game traveled to AAA power Cawood and literally outplayed them but fell, 24-14, due to their own mistakes. But even in losing, Prestonsburg showed they had come to play and would play 48 minutes, no matter what the situation.

With their record now 1-3, many Blackcat supporters had resigned themselves to a long season. Yet, the Cats weren't quite ready to throw in the towel. Playing at home, Prestonsburg defeated a much improved Breathitt County team. It wasn't spectacular, but it was a sound performance and it was a victory. Powerful Belfry was next and the Cats' winning ways seemed to be short-lived. The Blackcats shocked Belfry and nearly everyone in the capacity crowd as, with near perfect execution, they rolled to a surprisingly easy 27-6 win. The Cats went on to defeat Louisa, and then played another excellent game against a strong, explosive Maysville team as they by far scored more points against them than any other team in winning, 33-6. Prestonsburg handled Morgan County and then lost their final two games against Somerset and Paintsville, both of whom were ranked second in the Class AA and Class A polls.

Prestonsburg finished the season with a 6-5 won-lost record that surprised nearly everyone. A number of freshman varsity members, including David Collins, Greg Haywood, Robbie Horton, Gerald DeRossett, Terry Click, Mark McKenzie, Jack Wells, Greg Slone, Lonnie May, Alan Frazure, and Ralph Gilliam also figured in this surprising record. With the cards stacked heavily against them, the Blackcats somehow managed to win six games. No one really knows how. There could be a number of reasons. It's a well-known fact that they worked hard, not only during the season but in the off-season, as they were seen running, weightlifting, or throwing a ball, constantly working to improve. It was evident that they played together as a team. This team never let up. They played just as hard in the early part of the game as they did at the end. It made no difference if they were ahead or behind on the scoreboard. And they played with class. It's also known that Prestonsburg's head football coach, Philip Haywood, has a reputation for developing average or sub-par material into surprisingly competitive football teams. These could be some of the factors involved in the Blackcats surprising showing this year. It's doubtful that anyone could really explain how Prestonsburg won six games when they were supposed to win only one or two. However, one thing is for sure, the 1977 Prestonsburg Blackcats closed their season much more of a mystery team than when they began.

ALC To Fete Floyd Alumni at M'Dowell

Alice Lloyd College will host a dinner for its Floyd county alumni at 7 p.m. Friday (Nov. 18) at the McDowell High School cafeteria.

The primary purpose of the dinner, according to Cora Fields, ALC coordinator of alumni affairs, is to provide an opportunity for former Caney students living in Floyd county to meet the new ALC president, Dr. Jerry C. Davis. A second purpose of the dinner, she said, is to launch a Floyd county chapter of the Alice Lloyd College Alumni Association.

Miss Fields said that similar chapters would be formed in other Eastern Kentucky counties, and that the first dinner was scheduled to be held in Floyd county because of the large number of strong supporters of the college in this county. She estimates that at least 800 former students live in Floyd county.

Persons interested in attending the dinner are asked to contact either Miss Fields at the college or Anna Sue Stumbo at the Floyd County Board of Education.

Bears To Open Season Friday Against Hanover

An optimistic Paul Falin will take his Pikeville College Bears basketball team to Williamsburg, Ky. Friday in what will be the 1977-78 season basketball opener for the defending Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Conference champions.

The Bears will play Hanover College of Indiana in the first game of the Optimist Tip-Off tournament, game time 7 p.m. Host Cumberland will meet Clinch Valley in the night-cap. The winners of the two games will meet for the tourney championship Saturday night.

KNOWLEDGE OF WORK IMPORTANT

How much a male graduate knows about the world of work is more important to his success than the kinds of courses he took in high school or college, according to a long range study by Ohio State University and the Census Bureau. The 11 year research project showed that, beginning with their first job after college, the males with the most occupational information prior to leaving school made more money, had more prestigious jobs and advanced faster.

And Now for the Big One

The University of Kentucky Wildcats, with eight straight victories and a 9-1 record, need to beat Tennessee this weekend to become the best Wildcat team since the 1950 squad won 10 of 11 regular season games and defeated Oklahoma in the Sugar Bowl.

A capacity crowd already is assured and tickets are practically nonexistent for the annual battle between the Cats and Vols. Kickoff time is 1:30 p.m. in Commonwealth Stadium.

While Kentucky has climbed to No. 7 nationally, the Vols of Coach Johnny Majors are 3-6 for the season after falling, 43-14, to Mississippi at Memphis.

The Wildcats of Coach Fran Curci kept their winning streak alive by defeating stubborn Florida, 14-7, at Gainesville, where the Gators had not lost in 20 straight games.

Leading the Wildcat attack once again was quarterback Derrick Ramsey, the game's leading rusher with 55 yards on 13 carries. Ramsey also had 57 yards passing to bring his season total to 1,425 yards total offense, which is five yards short of his 1976 total.

Only Rick Norton, with 1,706 yards in 1965, and Vito "Babe" Parilli, with 1,681 yards in 1950 and 1,482 yards in 1951, are ahead of Ramsey, whose career yardage now stands at 3,348. Parilli is the UK career offense leader with 4,446, Norton has 4,265, Sonny Collins 4,122.

In the rugged battle with Florida, Kentucky lost senior cornerback Mike Siganos (ankle) and junior linebacker Dave Padrowski (ankle). Senior tackle

Jerry Blanton also was injured (knee ligaments), but he returned to action later in the game.

At Memphis, Ole Miss turned four Tennessee fumbles into three touchdowns and a field goal. The Rebels jumped out to a 17-0 first quarter lead after Tennessee took the kickoff and was forced to punt without recording a first down.

Tennessee holds a 43-20-9 edge in a series that is among the oldest football rivalries in the nation, dating back to Oct. 21, 1893. The Wildcats defeated the Vols, 7-0, last year at Knoxville to end an 11-year domination by Tennessee.

MSU Eagles Slate Intrasquad Game At Knott Central

"We are thrilled to be able to put our team on display in an area with such a rich basketball tradition."

Morehead State University Men's Basketball Coach Jack Schalow was referring his team's Nov. 18 intrasquad scrimmage scheduled at Knott County Central High School in Hindman.

The MSU roster features two graduates of Knott County Central, All-OVC guard Herbie Stamper and his younger brother, Joe.

"I know many people in the Knott county area appreciate what Herbie and Joe did during their high school careers but have been unable to see them play in college," said Schalow. "This will give them that opportunity."

MSU was 15-10 overall last year, including a 9-5 record in the Ohio Valley Conference.

"Early season practices are always up and down," Schalow said. "But I feel we have started to make progress in several areas."

The scrimmage will be the first of two MSU appearances in the high school's new Morton Combs Athletic Complex this season. MSU will host Evansville on Dec. 22 in a regular season game.

Game time is 7:30 p.m. Tickets are available in Knott county through the Hindman Lions Club.

Trouble, Trouble

By WILMAY

Publicized reports say the medical profession is in deep trouble. If socialized medicine is approved, difficulties will be far worse, and this profession is not the only discipline, occupation, etc. under fire, within and without.

Teaching faces the worst scrutiny ever... low salaries and academic standards, insufficient funds to operate some schools, parents complaining about teachers, and vice versa. Nor is the legal profession above reproach. Its members are not all perfect, either. And politics is undergoing its most severe lashing in history, with the media exposing corruption of every description, pay-offs, kick-backs, short-changing, et cetera, in numerous states. Dentistry is under attack, too. Mounting fees are deplored. More than one patient gets stuck with costly dentures that look horrible. Even the ministry—one considered almost sacrosanct—is often denounced. Hundreds of clergy leave leading faiths yearly. Many men of the cloth largely blame congregations, who may return the favor.

In the medical situation charges and counter charges fly; some true, others false. Good members of the profession are striving to clean it up, to maintain and raise standards, to uphold the Hippocratic oath a few deem obsolete. Eminent leaders in medicine insist that a high percentage of cohorts put the dollar before patient welfare. Everyone seems aware that a few somewhere do this. But we know more who are not guilty of the accusation made wholesale against doctors who enjoy little family life, who may forego a vacation to save a life or deliver a baby, who do much charity work despite Medicare and Medicaid, who have limited time for leisure, who themselves get tired or ill occasionally, who may refuse to go off duty when some patient is near death.

Remember the time Sonny was choking to death from croup, and "ole Doc" got out of bed at midnight in bitter cold to rush over and take charge? How he put his arms around Mom and the girls when Dad passed away, called the undertaker himself, asked a nurse to find a minister he knew was in the hospital visiting? Or the arrival of the first child when Doc spent 48 hours for an old-fashioned home delivery, charging only $20? Or the day Grandma had her first heart attack as Doc was about to drive off for a long fishing trip which he postponed just to help her recover? How often do we thank the doctor and staff who go the second mile?

The writer recalls living near Licking River, along with George and Louise May next door in 1926. Our eleven-month-old son had just experienced diphtheria, for which "shots" were not given babies then before the age of a year. Pauline May, now Mrs. Herbert Ousley, of Maytown, developed all symptoms of the dread disease. Frantic calls went out to Drs. J. H. Allen, Ed and Walk Stumbo (all now deceased) but none had the needed toxin-antitoxin. Dr. Messer of Garrett did have some. Despite the thick coat of solid ice on the ground he arrived on horseback at dark, frozen so stiff that George and Edgar had to lift him from the horse, and he had to thaw by the fire before he could wait on the child whose life he saved.

We need to walk in the physician's shoes, to learn how it feels to confront death almost daily, to console loved ones when time permits, to delay lunch for hours because of pressing demands, to carry grave cases home to ponder at night, thinking of motherless children should Mrs. Green not pull through, or of the scepter of malpractice suits if something goes wrong, when the lab, some nurse, other personnel, or even faulty equipment may be responsible if an error occurs. The best in the profession say that some diagnosing is still guesswork, so mistakes are inevitable. Doesn't everyone in life make them, regardless of calling?

Doctors do earn more than most contemporaries but their education is

HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Frances Reynolds was honored on her 81st birthday, Oct. 5 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Conn. Her children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, great-great-grandchildren and several friends attended the party. She received many nice gifts.

Notice of Intention To Mine

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that: Conn & Hayes Mining Co., Harold, Ky., intends to file an application for the surface mining of approximately 10 acres located southwest of Harold in Floyd county. The proposed operation is approximately .5 mile southwest of State Route 1426's junction with State Rt. 979 and located west of Little Mud Creek, latitude 37 degrees 22' 00", longitude 82 degrees 39' 30". The surface of the area to be mined is owned by Emmitt Conn and Clarence Hayes.

A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is contour stripping and augering.

The application will be filed at the Division of Reclamation, Prestonsburg Area Office, 328 N. Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653.

Persons wishing to file written objections and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above described strip mine should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. Such objection or request must be in accordance with KRS 224.081(2) and must be forwarded to the Director, Division of Reclamation, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

one of the costliest, without the self-denial involved. We in Appalachia, where the majority of physicians and surgeons know almost everybody, are fortunate to be first-name friends of doctors, not just faces and numbers. More of the atmosphere of the oldtime family physician paying a call exists here than in most metropolitan reception rooms. Do we appreciate these advantages enough to say so? Countless magazines regularly give true-life stories of medical miracles performed by dedicated men and women, often for penniless patients brought from abroad. Others in research labs (seldom heard of unless they hit the "jack pot" with some new discovery) often provide the clue that spells the difference between life and death for one, or perhaps for thousands, in years to come.

Yes, the medical profession is in trouble, but it is not by itself, and much can be said in its favor for the majority of its members. Our area is lucky to have good hospitals in Martin, McDowell, Pikeville and Prestonsburg (alphabetically listed). More than one kind doctor in this section will still make a house call in emergency. We salute them. If socialized medicine is forced on the U.S. there will be a deterioration in services, as proved elsewhere.

Strip Mines Affect Floods, Berea College Panel Says

Land disturbance from strip mining and other causes affects flooding, scientists agreed at a recent Berea College forum. And they said new federal controls on surface mining may increase the damage.

Scientists and Engineers for Appalachia sponsored the panel in which experts constantly warned there are no easy answers to flood problems.

Careless engineering of haul roads as well as bad mining techniques cause problems with water runoff and erosion, according to statistics cited by Dr. Donald Batsch, an Eastern Kentucky University biologist.

His figures showed a 2,000-fold increase in erosion ratios at construction and active mining sites compared with results of studies of undisturbed forest land of the New River basin in Tennessee by Dr. Bruce Tschantz.

Tschantz, a consultant to President Carter on dam problems and University of Tennessee engineering professor was the luncheon speaker for the all-day session.

He cited three problem areas in the new federal control act:

—Requiring return to original land contours will produce more erosion and longer slopes.

—Diversion channels will concentrate flow and increase velocity.

—Sedimentation ponds may create more erosion than they control.

"And I'm not sure the government intends to maintain the safety of these dams after the strip miner leaves," Tschantz warned.

He said three things are essential for successful federal controls: Some regulation of how people occupy the flood plain; adequate pay to professionals to enforce regulations; and regulations flexible enough to allow operations to be creative in technical solution on each specific site.

One study by the U.S. Forest Service shows that well-reclaimed land can produce 50 per cent less peak runoff flow than nearby unmined land, said Willie Curtis, water hydrologist with the Northeastern Forest Experiment Station.

Dave Rosenbaum, acting director of the Kentucky Division of Water Resources was moderator of the panel. Other speakers were Jim Lee Crawford, editor of the Corbin Times-Tribune; Tom Duncan, president of the Kentucky Coal Association, and Jim Everman, district economist for the Army Corps of Engineers at Huntington, W. Va.

Animal Shelter Plans Awaited As Work Hoped

Advertisement for bids by the City of Prestonsburg for preliminary work on the long-planned animal shelter here awaits completion of architect's plans, Prestonsburg Mayor Harold Cooley said this week.

Several weeks ago the City Council voted to advertise for bids for concrete and plumbing work but found that additional specifications were needed before the project could be advertised. "We expect complete architect's plans in a matter of days," Mayor Cooley pointed out, "and then we can go ahead with the advertisement for bids."

Although the $20,000 bequest of Susan Hawkins Leibig, of Middlesboro, which offered hope for the animal shelter, has not yet been turned over to the city, Mayor Cooley said the council elected to approve the preliminary work, even if city funds have to be used at first. "The city can then be reimbursed for the expense of beginning construction from the bequest money," Cooley explained. Including interest which has accrued on the original $20,000 amount since Mrs. Leibig's death several years ago, the total is believed to exceed $40,000.

The animal shelter, which will be located on the former landfill site on the old Middle Creek road, will provide 18 stalls for large animals (dogs), one stall for puppies, and a stall to accommodate cats.

John Burke, Jr., president and spearhead of the Floyd County Humane Society, said a dog warden and another employee would staff the shelter. Burke also said the shelter would work with an area veterinarian in conducting regular spay clinics as well as vaccination clinics.

Architect on the project is Marvin Crider, Jr., of Prestonsburg.

Higginbotham Resigns

Pikeville College Post

Dr. William J. Higginbotham, vice-president for Development and Public Relations at Pikeville College since 1971, resigned that position, effective October 24. He has entered the coal industry as an owner and vice-president of Hi-Mar Coal Company, Red Jacket, West Virginia.

A native of Frankfort, Ohio, Higginbotham has for the past nine years been associated with Pikeville College as an associate professor of education, director of development and public relations, and most recently, vice president for development and public relations. During his tenure, the college raised more than $4 million dollars in unrestricted operating contributions through the efforts of Higginbotham and his staff. He is a member of the Shelbiana Methodist Church and the Executive Council of the Morehead State University Alumni Association.

Pikeville College President Dr. Jackson O. Hall said that applications are now being accepted for the position vacated by Higginbotham's resignation. "He has made a wonderful contribution to Pikeville College over the past nine years, one that is difficult to measure," he said.

DECLARATION SIGNERS' SET BRINGS $180,000

PHILADELPHIA—A complete set of presidential signatures can be purchased for about $6,000, nowhere near the $120,000 paid in November 1976 for a complete set of autographs of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

A syndicate of Philadelphia businessmen paid that sum. Later that month a better-quality set brought $180,000.

'Raggle-Taggle Gypsy Day,' a Prelude to Thanksgiving

By HELEN PRICE STACY

Almost like sudden nightfall in the mountains when sun drops behind a rugged crest is the way coin-gold autumn starts rusting away. One day it's denim blue skies and the next it is wet as the front of Grandma's apron on wash day. Late autumn in the Bluegrass State is not without its beauty.

Oh, here and there a field is like a person with uncombed hair, fence rows ragged and torn and frost-weeds tangling across a path. But, even so, a bit of blue chicory and a dandelion, bright as brass, shine through the thickets and when even the palest sun strikes a city flowerbed of coppery mums, the plants take on a glow much like a well-used copper kettle.

The area of Indian Old Fields, southeast of Winchester on Ky. 15, is beautiful in the change of seasons. It holds still to a mystic aura from Indian days and pioneer hunters, creating a feeling of homey warmth. It is not difficult to imagine how it was when Eskippakithiki was an important link on the Warrior's Path. Teepees and huts would have small flags of smoke curling skyward as families gathered against the chill, and outside fires would be warming hunters and traders as they conducted business in the last of Kentucky's Indian towns.

Hemp fields in Central Kentucky once supplied material for rope, twine, cotton bags and gunny sacks. According to historical markers, in 1889, ten Bluegrass counties produced more than 90 per cent of the entire US yield. Some of these fields now are gentle slopes, and remain a green oasis most of the year. Above the fields are touches of autumn. Gnarled trees continue to hold drooping, curled cones of brown, beggerlike in their holes and spots but uncommonly lovely in grace of limb and twig.

Nine miles south of Manchester in Clay county, a marker points out an old threshing rock used by settlers as early as 1800 and earlier by Indians. In autumn's harvesting, consider the sight of farmers helping one another by flailing grain on the large rock. The countryside might be browning, grass drooping to tangle underfoot, but the calls of farmer to neighbor would be joyous as they threshed their harvest, talked over health and politics and tried to keep birds and animals from their bounty.

At the old Saline Trace on the Ohio River in Crittenden county, autumn at one time brought drizzling rains that turned wagon roads into miry masses and made slippery footing for those crossing the river on Flynn's Ferry. There was relief for those from inland who soaked up this sight of autumn trees edging the great river and enjoyed the activity of river trade. Sudden leaves might swirl around paddle boats, but slow rains of autumn made the river pebbled and touched with bits of colored leaf-beauty. Autumn on the river to those who remember the early days is like a homesickness, and farmers too long with fields and crops were called to the muddy shores to revel in the sights and sounds before winter closed in.

Late autumn in Kentucky can be dreary and muddy like the old Buffalo road in Owensboro after the herds had passed, but today it is Frederica Street reflecting Thanksgiving decor from store windows.

Persimmons cling to Eastern Kentucky trees in dark, wrinkled, withery globs, but the fruit is sweeter than ever and perfect for a Thanksgiving pudding.

Leaves fall to earth in every part of the Commonwealth, but in so doing they reveal scenic beauty behind them and also grace and symmetry in gnarled limbs.

Country and city yards hold bits of twigs, plants and leaning grass, but morning frost tips them with silvery glints.

Fields and mountains, broad meadows, late gardens, rivers and creeks, lakes and peaks, woodlands—all are touched by late autumn. Still, there remains over all Kentucky a lovely nostalgia and a feeling of togetherness to be shared in the Thanksgiving days ahead, much like a lad fondles a pocketknife with a rusty blade or a child places small arms around a bedraggled Raggedy Ann.

Drive to the city to shop, to a park to rest or for relaxation. Take in the scenery and history along the way, and above all, enjoy this season: Kentucky's raggle-taggle gypsy days of autumn.

AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE FROM -MUSIC-CARTER-HUGHES-

To our many friends and customers throughout Eastern Kentucky:

Over the years, Music-Carter-Hughes has tried to be a good and responsible neighbor, because we feel it is important to help the area which has been so good to us. Whatever the occasion, whether civic, scholastic, religious, or patriotic, we have tried to shoulder our fair share of the load.

We have now encountered a problem whereby we must ask for your patience and understanding. As many of you know, over the years we have loaned used cars for our customers to drive while theirs were in our shop. However, two serious problems have arisen. Number One: We have no insurance on these cars because of the exorbitant cost of insuring a 300,000 used car inventory. In the past three weeks alone, six of our used vehicles have been wrecked at a total loss of over $10,000.00. The Number Two Problem is that obviously we cannot sell used cars while they are loaned out—and selling the used trade-ins are the life blood of the automobile business.

Therefore, we regretfully must take the following steps, effective Nov. 21:

NO USED CARS OR TRUCKS WILL BE LOANED AT MUSIC-CARTER-HUGHES.

We deeply regret having to take this action, but frankly feel we have no other choice.

Realizing the need for some customers to have transportation in the event of a wreck or serious mechanical breakdown, we will offer 10 rental cars and two rental trucks available for our Service Department customers only, at the very nominal rate of $6.00 per day. Customer pays no mileage charge and will furnish their own gasoline. We will do all in our power to schedule your auto in and out on time. Please call our service manager for an appointment.

We do hope you understand our reluctance to take this action, and will try to help us give you better service by calling for an appointment before bringing your car in.

May we also take this opportunity to wish you and your family a happy and joyous holiday season.

Sincerely,

MUSIC-CARTER-HUGHES

Paul P. Hughes, Sec.-Treas.

Carroll Points To Lack Of Government Coordination

Speaking at a Congressional Rural Caucus (CRC) conference in Lexington last Thursday, Gov. Julian Carroll criticized a lack of coordination between the federal government and state, local and regional governments.

The conference is the first of a series to be held throughout the U.S. It focused on identifying and meeting the credit needs of small towns, cities and rural areas and studied the problem of creating and saving jobs for rural areas with private funds.

"In Kentucky, we have built a strong state, local and regional partnership. The danger is that the federal government has not become involved in that partnership," Carroll said.

He added, "While Kentucky has been getting its house in order, to meet the needs of intergovernmental coordination, federal government has been losing itself within a maze of bureaucracy, duplication of regulations and a downright distrust" of state and local government.

The governor said that while there is a new administration in Washington, much of the "tired bureaucracy" remains. He added, "I intend to work to the fullest of my capabilities and resources to ensure President Carter's effort toward making Washington more responsive and accountable to the people becomes a reality."

Noting that the state has a $2 billion agriculture industry, the Governor said Kentucky hopes to "attract more producers into the state so our raw farm materials can be processed directly here... creating more jobs for Kentuckians."

Carroll said he hopes to "give our attention to the Appalachian region." He said the region is on the "threshold of growth unparalleled in our lifetime" and that development of non-urban areas would support the growth of the state's urban areas.

QUESTION BOX

Pastor Forrest Howe, M. Div., answers your questions about spiritual truth, ethical behavior, and Bible understanding. Write to him at Box 462, Allen, Ky. 41601

QUESTION: The Bible as I understand it was written years ago and over a long period of time. Is it still reliable?

ANSWER:

The first book of the Bible was written by Moses approximately 1500 B.C. The last written by John the Apostle around 90 A.D. This covers a span of close to 1600 years. It is indeed an ancient document and should be examined as such if one is going to be honest in his evaluation of its reliability. We will not deal with its inspiration at this time.

Let us first look at the New Testament. There are more manuscripts of the New Testament than all of the other ancient writings. For example, of Ceasar's GALLIC WARS there are only nine or ten manuscripts that are extant. Of Aristotle's works there are only five. The same is true for many other writings. Dr. Frederic G. Kenyon, who was the director and principle librarian of the British Museum and the world's foremost authority on manuscripts said, "Scholars are satisfied that they possess substantially the true text of the principal Greek and Roman writers whose works have come down to us... yet our knowledge of their writings depend on a mere handful of manuscripts, whereas the manuscripts of the New Testament are counted by the hundreds, and even thousands."

Not only is there a greater number of manuscripts, but the time lag between the original and the extant copies of the New Testament is almost negligible. The time interval is only 250-300 years. Whereas in the other ancient literature there is a difference of 750-1600 years, averaging close to 1,000 years.

John Warwick Montgomery says, "to be skeptical of the resultant text of the New Testament books is to allow all of classical antiquity to slip into obscurity, for no document of the ancient period are as well attested bibliographically as the New Testament."

As for the Old Testament, archaeology has proven its accuracy. Time and time again this science has confirmed the Biblical account and has silenced its foes. The late Dr. William F. Albright, archaeologist of world fame, has said, "We may rest assured that the consonantal text of the Hebrew Bible... has been preserved with an accuracy perhaps unparalleled in any other Near Eastern literature... No, the flood of light now being shed on Biblical Hebrew poetry of all periods by Ugaritic literature guarantees the relative antiquity of its composition as well as the astonishing accuracy of its transmission."

Another interesting note is that when the Dead Sea Scrolls of Isaiah 53, copied about 100 B.C., were compared to another one of approximately 900 A.D., there was found to be disagreement concerning only one word. This word did not significantly change the meaning of the passage.

This writer then concludes that from the evidence presented here and most of evidence not presented, due to the lack of space, that the Bible as we have it now is a reliable copy of the original. One is not committing intellectual suicide to believe in the Historical value of the Book. It is indeed reliable.

TOLEDO SCHOOLS TO CLOSE

All schools will close in Toledo, Ohio on October 28, or "when the money runs out," according to a school spokesman. Ohio law prevents any district from operating with a deficit from one fiscal year to the next. An emergency operating levy will go on the November ballot, and, if passed, the schools will reopen immediately. At least four dozen districts in Ohio, including Cincinnati and Cleveland, have asked for state audits to determine if they must close this month because of financial problems.

Retired Teachers Attend Fall Workshop Here

Former teachers from various sections of the state attended this year's Kentucky Retired Teachers Association (K.R.T.A.) Fall Workshop held last week at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park. K.R.T.A. officials present at the meet include, from left to right, Leon Smith, past president; Nell Fields, ad hoc committee member; Dillard Moor, president-elect; Gladys Shaver, secretary; Les Wetherell, membership committee; Clyde Lassiter, president; Dr. John M. Ridgeway, legislative executive chairman; Margaret Wetherell, state director; Dr. Marvin Dodson, editor, K.R.T.A. news, and Terry Schell, Aetna Insurance specialist.

The Eastern Kentucky district workshop for retired teachers was held, Thursday and Friday of last week, at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, with approximately 60 delegates attending.

During Thursday afternoon's meeting, with KRTA president, Clyde Lassiter, of Lexington, presiding, the address of welcome was given by Mrs. Nell Fields, of Pikeville, who also led in the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag. Dr. John M. Ridgeway, former superintendent of Lexington city schools, outlined the KRTA Legislative program for 1978. Mrs. Terry Schell, of Louisville, representing Aetna Life and Casualty Insurance, carrier for KRTA's health insurance, gave a discussion of "Coverage and Claim Procedure." Les Wetherall, of Louisville, spoke on "KRTA Membership," and was followed by Mrs. Margaret Wetherell, who described "Activities of the National Retired Teachers' Association," of which she is state chairwoman. Plans for employing an executive director for KRTA were discussed by Leon Smith, former KRTA president, of Paducah, Kentucky.

The Thursday evening session featured a musical program by a Prestonsburg High School choral group under the direction of their instructor, Mrs. Carlos Haywood, with Mrs. Kathryn Frazier as pianist.

Friday's meeting, conducted by Mrs. Gladys Shaver, KRTA secretary, gave members an opportunity to express their opinions on their reactions to the proposed legislative program, and plans for employment of a director.

Billy Hunt, of the State Retirement System, discussed the status of the Retired Teachers' System, assuring the group that the system is actuarially sound. Mr. Hunt was followed by Dr. J. Marvin Dodson, who read a list of resolutions.

The Association was invited to return here next year for the annual meeting.

NSBA PREDICTION

Thomas Shannon, executive director of the National School Boards Association, has predicted that in the near future, someone will sue the Federal government for "continued interference" in local and school district affairs. The courts will then have to decide whether "Congress can do indirectly what the Constitution forbids directly," he said. Opponents of federal programs will argue that federal money is not a "persuasion" to local governments, but "an invidious form of coercion."

Hindman Native Is Fire Marshal

Bob G. Estep, native of Hindman, was sworn in last Wednesday as state fire marshal. In ceremonies in the Governor's Office, Gov. Julian Carroll said Estep is "extremely well qualified" for the job. He added that the office is a "tough job," but one that Estep is "fully capable of performing."

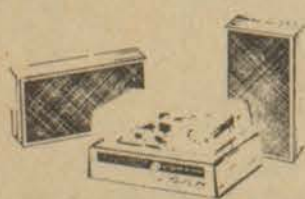

Estep has been acting state fire marshal since Sept. 19 when Warren Southworth was suspended as a result of investigations into the Beverly Hills Supper Club fire which killed 164 persons.

Southworth and two other officials of the fire marshal's office have been disciplined, with Southworth being demoted to technical advisor for the office.

Estep, 47, came to the fire marshal's office in May as assistant director for fire prevention. He is a 1955 graduate of the University of Kentucky with a degree in engineering and also attended Pikeville College. He lives in Cynthiana.

HOLD NOVEMBER MEETING

The Allen United Methodist women held their November 8 meeting at the home of Mrs. Edna Mae Callison. The president, Mrs. Maude Snodgrass, opened the business meeting with prayer. Mrs. Tincey Crisp gave the treasurer's report and distributed the pledge cards for 1978, and each member made her pledge for the coming year. Several interesting ideas were discussed for the coming year, such as a Scrapbook of the Allen United Methodist Women's meetings and projects and plans were made and approved to start and plan for a church bazaar for 1978.

Mrs. Kay Gray had the program for the evening, titled "Living and Acting in Love". Mrs. Gray was the narrator, acting in the role of a radio broadcaster and interviewed an "Early Christian," Mrs. Tincey Crisp and a "Modern Christian," Mrs. Maude Snodgrass. Later, she involved each member by asking them leading questions about God, churches today and ways to improve spiritual lives.

Refreshments were served by the hostess to Maude Snodgrass, Jerry Martin, Kay Gray, Kay Lemaster, Jewel Allen, Tincey Crisp, Elsie Lafferty and a guest, Mike Mays.

The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Tincey Crisp, with Kay Lemaster in charge of the program. This will be the Christmas program, and all women of the church are invited and asked to bring a Christmas gift to exchange.

Funding Method National Model

Kentucky is the first state to use successfully the guaranteed income approach for purchasing services to handicapped individuals. As a result, the state's Bureau of Rehabilitation Services' funding method has been chosen as national model.

Carolyn Wolff, director of the bureau's division of facilities, will present Kentucky's contract funding approach at the Regional Facility Specialists Conference in Savannah, Georgia, Nov. 16-18.

"The cost effective funding approach means that the bureau pays its facilities the actual amount that services will cost," she explained.

"The new method enables the bureau to compare costs, plan and budget more effectively."

Since going on the new system, the utilization of Kentucky's 22 community workshops has increased from 68 to 89 per cent. During the last fiscal year, a total of 2,080 individuals with disabilities were served by the workshops and 474 were placed in jobs. Of the number served, 64 per cent were severely disabled.

Kentucky's workshops are privately owned, non-profit making and provide vocational evaluation, adjustment services and special skills training. During the vocational evaluation process, which takes about six weeks, clients are tested for physical endurance, emotional stamina and mental capability. A combination of tests are used, which can include an assessment of a client in an on-the-job situation.

Work adjustment services are provided to expose the client to a work routine. Clients are placed in a real work setting and learn to adjust to a seven or eight-hour day, Wolff explained.

Special skills training includes woodworking, furniture repair, building and refinishing, assembly line processes, and domestic services.

"The bureau's chief concerns are the health, safety and welfare of the clients, and assuring them quality services, along with minimum wages for their work," the director said.

Consumer Comments

Mail Order Regulation

By ROBERT F. STEPHENS, Attorney General

Christmas is just around the corner and Christmas catalogues are now being sent for you to order your Christmas gifts through the mail. Many problems can occur when ordering through the mail with the major problem being the failure to deliver goods on time. To insure your mail ordered gifts arrive before December 25th, familiarize yourself with the Federal Trade Commission Mail Order Regulation which governs all mail order items except:

- 1) subscription, such as magazines ordered for serial delivery, after the initial shipment is properly made;
2) seeds and growing plants;
3) orders made on C.O.D. basis, or;
4) goods ordered or sent under negative option plans.

These regulations require mail order companies to notify the buyer if his/her order cannot be filled within the advertised time period, or within 30 days if no time is advertised. Therefore, the consumer must be so notified and given the option of cancelling the order or consenting to a delay of up to 30 days in shipping. If the consumer wishes to cancel the order, he/she is entitled to a prompt refund of money.

If the order was prepaid by cash, check, or money order and the buyer cancels the order, the company has seven days to make a refund. If the consumer paid for the merchandise by credit card, the company is allowed one billing period to credit the consumer account.

The company is also required under the Federal Trade Commission regulation to supply cost-free means for the consumer to notify the company of his/her intentions to cancel, such as a postage-paid card. This card must be returned to the company if the consumer wishes to cancel the order. If the card is not returned, the company can be assured the consumer consents to a 30 day delay in shipment. Any delay beyond that 30 day period must be consented to by the consumer in writing.

If you have ordered items, received notice of delay and then wish to cancel your order, make sure you return the postage-paid card to get your money returned. If you fail to return the card, you will then be authorizing a delay on your order.

The United States Postal Service can provide assistance in resolving complaints about mail order purchases or to answer any questions you might have concerning your rights under this Federal Trade Commission regulation. If they are unable to answer your questions or resolve your complaint, contact the Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. The office has found that it can most effectively deal with written complaints and encourages you to write if you have a consumer complaint. However, if you have an emergency situation, call the toll-free consumer hotline which is 1-800-372-2960.

Forestry Incentive Program Announced

Cynthia Duncan, chairwoman Kentucky Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, and Elmore Grim, director of the Kentucky Division of Forestry, jointly announce the 1978 Forestry Incentive Program (FIP) and recent changes. FIP, which is a separately-funded program authorized by Congress for the purpose of increasing the nation's supply of timber products, is administered through local county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) offices. The Kentucky Division of Forestry works closely with ASCS in providing technical services.

ASCS provides cost-shares up to 75 percent of the actual cost to the "non-industrial" private forest landowner for tree planting and timber stand improvement. Landowners may earn up to $10,000 in one fiscal year.

Two of the major changes noted by Miss Duncan and Mr. Grim from prior year operations were: (1) Hardwoods are no longer an eligible species—only softwoods, and (2) There is a national minimum size acreage of 10 acres to be eligible for cost-sharing.

Interested persons should contact their local county ASCS office for details.

In Memory of Our Parents

Virgil and Myrtle Crisp (Daddy died Nov. 9, 1945. Mother died Nov. 16, 1976)

High on top of a lonely hill, Two silent graves in death so still. Death struck a harsh and fatal blow, When it first came thirty-two years ago, To take our Daddy's life away, While we were yet children at play. Death came again a short year ago, To pick our favorite lovely rose, "I fear not death," we heard Mother say, As slowly her sweet life ebbed away. Our solid rock and favorite rose Sleep side by side in soft repose. As footsteps venture there today To visit these two silent graves, They linger long, though not to stay, Yet, oh, so hard to walk away. Twice death closed the door of life, And caused our saddened hearts much strife.

Sweet peace and calm, our hearts do feel, When we reach the top of this lonely hill. We'll love you both forever. Wanda, Sis, Bud, Lenore, Vernon, Patty, In-Laws, and Grandchildren

Report Says Mining Increase In Area To Add to Problems

A study by the University of Kentucky's College of Business and Economics indicates that benefits of increased Kentucky coal production probably would outweigh the costs.

President Carter has recommended that the nation's coal production be doubled by 1985 to provide for American's energy needs. The high b.t.u. content of Eastern Kentucky coal makes it particularly attractive.

Although the study's authors conclude that the state will gain more in terms of employment and tax revenue than it will pay out for expanded services, they warn that a rapid expansion of coal production is not necessarily desirable.

The final decision must also reflect environment, social and cultural costs. Because Eastern Kentucky coal is more desirable than that in Western Kentucky, the major part of the boom will occur in the east, the study says.

By far the greatest impact would be on the coal industry itself, although other industries would be affected, particularly the iron and steel industry, electric, gas and water utilities, government services, industrial chemicals, all stone, glass and clay products.

Since the number of non-Kentuckians working in the state is a small percentage of the workforce, doubling coal production will mean new job opportunities for state residents, an increase in state income from taxes, and as a result, a general improvement in the public welfare.

In fact, since doubling production would result in an increase of about 52,330 workers, it could lead to a situation where there are too few people for existing jobs, the report says.

The Eastern Kentucky coal-producing region can expect to become an increasingly important part of the state economy, because of population increases. In Western Kentucky, where a substantial population growth is already projected, mining employment may accelerate the region's growth.

Yet, even though state and local governments can look forward to additional tax revenues, they also will be public schools in the coal-producing counties. In addition, expanded police and fire protection will be necessary.

Some public expenditures will have to be made in advance of the anticipated population increase, the report notes, to provide paved roads and sanitation systems so that housing construction can begin.

The study tentatively estimates it would cost city and county governments in Kentucky about $3.67 million a year to support the extra population resulting from a doubling of the coal output.

State government will also incur additional costs, with the main costs relating to highway use—both for improving and maintaining existing roads used to haul coal and to construct new highways suitable for heavy loads.

The state faces four alternatives with regard to highway costs, the study says: To leave the coal haul roads as they are, and incur substantial maintenance costs; improve coal haul roads to their original condition at a fixed cost of more than $33 million; upgrade existing coal haul roads at a fixed cost of $474 million, or reconstruct and relocate coal haul roads at a fixed cost of $2 billion.

Property taxes and other local taxes are also expected to increase. One of the major new costs will be for

Orientation Meet Scheduled Here

County governments will be facing major changes in January when the law creating county judge-executives and establishing an administrative code of operations becomes effective.

To help counties make the transition, the Kentucky Department for Local Government (DLG) is planning a series of orientation sessions for judge-executives, fiscal court members and county court clerks. These one-day sessions will be held in eight different locations throughout the state during December.

The session for Eastern Kentucky will be held here, December 12.

DLG staff will cover each segment of the administrative code. Other state agencies will provide information on their programs.

RECOMMENDS HOLIDAY AUTOMOBILE INSPECTION

Take time to have your vehicle inspected before leaving on a trip during the Thanksgiving holidays.

Paul Stivers, assistant director of the Division of Inspections in the Kentucky Department of Transportation (KYDOT), also advises that those vehicles not due for their annual inspections should have a "check up" before beginning a holiday trip.

Stivers pointed out that the results of an inspection can mean the difference between a safe and dangerous journey.

Risner Slaying Follows Domestic Argument

Elwood Risner, 39, was shot to death last week near his home at Wonnie, on Helton Branch, Magoffin county. According to state police, his wife, Lucille Risner, 38, was charged with murder and lodged in the Magoffin county jail.

Risner, according to a state police report, was shot once in the chest, apparently following a domestic quarrel, and died on the scene. His wife was arrested about three hours following the shooting, it was said.

Kentucky Afield

By JOHN WILSON

Kentucky's duck hunters should be getting used to the intricacies of the point system by now, after three years of using it to determine duck limits.

But if you're still a little hazy on the point system, here is how it works: each species of duck is assigned a point value between 10 and 100. The hunter then adds the point value of each duck he takes to the previous total for that day's hunting. When his count reaches or goes over 100, he must stop shooting for the day. The possession limit (after two or more days of hunting) is the maximum number of ducks which could have been taken legally in two days.

A hunter could, for example, take 10 pintails (a 10-point bird) for his 100 points. But if his first duck is a canvasback (worth 100 points), he's through for the day. But because of the built in "safety" factor of the point system, the hunter who has taken nine pintails (for 90 points) can still shoot one more duck of any point value. If, for example, he takes a canvasback, he will still be legal, although he has a total of 190 points.

The purpose of the point system is, of course, to encourage selective shooting. The hunter who gets up at 3:30 in the morning, drives 50 miles or so to the marsh, spends a half hour getting his decoys set out and another 30 minutes waiting in the cold for legal shooting time isn't going to be too anxious to take a 100 point bird, then have to pack everything in and go home.

The point system favors those hunters who are adept at identifying waterfowl on the wing. The hunter who can tell how many points that bird flying overhead is worth will usually get in more shooting than the hunter who identifies his ducks after he has retrieved them.

If you still have the point values from last year memorized, you're in luck—they will be the same this season. But just in case you've forgotten, canvasbacks are worth 100 points each, while hen mallards, black ducks, wood ducks hooded mergansers and redheads are all 70 point birds.

The 10 point ducks are pintails, blue-winged teal, cinnamon teal, green-winged teal, gadwall, shovellers, scaup and all mergansers except the hooded merganser.

Drake mallards and all other species of ducks not mentioned above are worth 25 points each. Coots have a point value of zero, but there is a daily limit of 15 and a possession limit of 30 on coots.

Kentucky's duck season will open Nov. 19 and run through Nov. 27, with the second phase of the season opening Dec. 10 and continuing through Jan. 14, 1978. Goose hunters may hunt from Nov. 12 through Jan. 20.

The limits on geese are five daily, with only two Canada geese or two white fronted geese or one of each. The possession limit is also five, with any combination that does not include more than four Canada and white-fronted geese in the aggregate, of which not more than two may be white-fronted.

Remember that shooting hours for waterfowl are from one-half hour before sunrise until sunset (prevailing time). Waterfowl hunters may not use any shot larger than No. 2, and all hunters 16 years old and over must have a federal duck stamp in addition to the appropriate Kentucky license.

Finally, although it's too late to make reservations for hunting at the Ballard County Wildlife Management Area, those hunters wanting information about commercial hunting places in the Ballard County area can get in touch with Martin Flournoy, R. R. 1, La Center, Ky. 42056. And for a copy of this year's waterfowl hunting guide, write the Dept. of Fish and Wildlife, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Basic Classroom Skills More Successful

Highly structured instructional programs that emphasize basic skills have been much more successful than open classrooms in raising the achievement level of low-income children. This is the finding of a study conducted by a Massachusetts consulting firm, and covering schools in approximately 100 cities and states. The study says that even though youngsters in open classroom may have extra teacher aids and expensive innovative equipment, their achievement in math and reading is generally less than those children in regular classrooms.

The structured programs succeeded in raising the pride, self-confidence and sense of responsibility of the low income children who took part in them, the study says. On the other hand, the open classroom programs generally failed to raise self-esteem even though that was often a primary aim of the program; based on the theory that children who feel better about themselves will learn more. According to the report, however, the children who had academic success actually felt better about themselves.

The directors of the study caution that while, on the average, the structured programs were more successful than non-structured ones, some structured programs worked much better than others. The Distar program sponsored by the University of Oregon was the most successful in raising achievement levels. The report notes that all programs had a wide range of successes, and that particular teachers and schools do have a powerful effect on children's learning, regardless of what books and techniques are used.

Letter from Senator Ford

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Hall:

Congressman Carl Perkins forwarded to me a copy of your petition concerning the need for a new bridge in Tram. Following receipt, I contacted Secretary Calvin G. Grayson, Secretary of the Kentucky Department of Transportation in Frankfort. Unfortunately, their office has investigated the possibility of providing a new bridge but found that the bridge was neither included in the State Maintenance System nor any of the revenue sharing programs of the Commonwealth. It is their belief that this bridge is the responsibility of Floyd County. I would suggest you now contact the members of your Fiscal Court in order to find out exactly who is responsible.

Thank you for sending me a copy of your petition and I regret my response is not more favorable.

Sincerely,
Wendell Ford

TO THE PEOPLE OF FLOYD COUNTY:

I am deeply grateful to every voter who supported me in my race for Sheriff, and would like for this to serve as my personal "thanks" to those who made my election possible, and especially to those who stuck with me through both the Primary and General elections.

We all have an opportunity to express our preferences at elections such as this, and for those who opposed me I hold no grudges.

I will try my best to serve you all as a Sheriff should, and to conduct myself and the office in such a way that you will be glad that you voted for me.

Sincerely,

Report on Crop Research

Agronomy scientists and graduate students in the UK College of Agriculture presented 18 scientific papers, reporting research conducted by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, at the 69th annual meeting of the American Society of Agronomy in Los Angeles November 13-18.

"This meeting of the nation's agronomists serves as a clearing house for exchanging information and discussing current trends and problems in food production," says A. J. Hiatt, chairman of the UK Department of Agronomy. "Our people return better-equipped to conduct research and Extension programs needed by Kentucky farmers and the consumers of farm products."

Here are some of the highlights reported by UK agronomists:

Growing no-tillage corn requires more frequent liming of fields and later application of nitrogen fertilizer to keep yields up, compared with conventional methods of growing the crop. Applying nitrogen about a month after planting is recommended. Higher rates of the fertilizer would work but also would increase costs.

This relatively new method of growing corn is becoming popular among Kentucky farmers because it saves fuel and other machine operating costs. With no-tillage corn, seed is planted without plowing under residues from the previous crop and fewer tillage operations are involved in seedbed preparation.

New and better varieties of small grains and grasses can be developed four to six years faster by using cell and tissue culture methods in plant breeding. Protoplast cell fusion, another significant advancement, will give plant breeders new and varied genetic material to incorporate into new varieties. Possibilities include more resistance to diseases and insects and greater yielding ability of the crop.

An energy-saving way to renovate grass pastures, including hilly grasslands in Kentucky, can increase forage yields and cut the cost of producing milk and beef. UK researchers use minimum tillage methods to seed alfalfa or red clover in small grooves cut into bluegrass or tall fescue sods without destroying the grass.

Forage yields per acre, for example, have been more than doubled by establishing red clover in tall fescue sod. The legume, which produces nitrogen in nodules on its roots, increased forage yield about as much as application of 600 pounds of 33.5 per cent ammonium nitrate fertilizer per acre on fescue growing alone.

This can save significant amounts of fossil fuel used to manufacture nitrogen fertilizer. Additional savings can be made by using minimum tillage methods which require only about one-fifth as much tractor fuel as normal seedbed preparation for establishing alfalfa or red clover in grass pastures.

Kentucky farmers can get an extra harvest from alfalfa fields late in the fall without reducing yields the following year by applying research on management of the crop. Plants need to accumulate growth and store winter food reserves in their roots for six to eight weeks between the last cutting of the summer and the first hard freeze in the fall. But, after growth ceases the alfalfa can be grazed or cut for hay without damaging the stand or reducing next spring's yield.

Forage quality remains quite high for two to three weeks after a killing frost or until alfalfa plants begin to lose their leaves. Harvesting alfalfa during September and October in Kentucky is detrimental to spring growth.

Research reported on the loss of nitrogen from soils has important implications to the farmer's cost of using fertilizer in crops production and in preventing ground water contamination.

Soybean yields may be increased by lengthening the time that plants accumulate dry matter in the seed. This possibility for plant breeders to develop higher-yielding soybean varieties is indicated by experiments that suggest a genetic control over the length of the pod-filling period.

Higher-yielding corn varieties may result from studies showing that dry matter accumulation in corn kernels is genetically controlled. This adds a new criterion for corn breeders to use in selection programs.

Better forage varieties are the objective of continuing genetic studies, including chromosome substitution, of the type that developed KENHY, a cross between tall fescue and ryegrass. This is the first intergeneric hybrid derivative ever to be released for cultivation anywhere in the world. Seed of KENHY, the new higher-yielding forage variety that produces better quality feed for cattle, is now available for planting by Kentucky farmers.

Other Kentucky presentations at the national meeting included:

Genetic studies of tobacco contributing to the goal of developing an improved variety with low tar, higher alkaloids and higher levels of flavor and aroma compounds.

And in "Good, Old Days," Too

Lawless gangs of thieves and murderers roved freely about preying upon the defenseless. Disagreements grew into feuds, personal duels and, finally, the assassination of an elected official. It was a time filled with political unrest and disenchantment, lost ideals and bitter hatred between families—it was Kentucky in the years following the Civil War.

"Kentucky: Decades of Discord, 1865-1900," recently published by the Kentucky Historical Society, examines one of the state's most colorful eras. "This contribution was greatly needed because so little is known about this important period," according to the authors, Dr. Hambleton Tapp and Dr. James C. Klotter.

Using new sources, along with newspapers and manuscript material, the authors present a study of the period's changing political history. The non-political aspects of life during the period, agriculture, commerce, architecture, literature and general culture, are also examined.

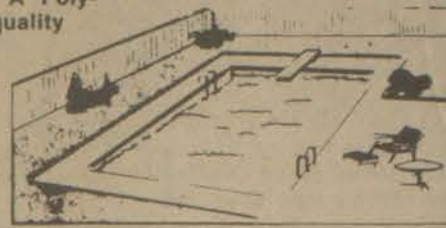

Included in the book is the story of the slow progress in education and reform, along with the emerging fights for blacks' and women's rights. Some of the colorful and impressive figures of the period which appear are John Marshall Harlan, Simon Bolivar Buckner, Henry Watterson and William Goebel.

The book is the second in a four-volume series which began with Col. George Chinn's "Kentucky: Settlement and Statehood, 1750-1800." Tapp, state historian and director of the society's publications department, is currently working on a book about the period from 1800 to 1865. Klotter, assistant director of publications, is researching the period from 1900 to the present.

Your corporation can buy your life insurance with tax deductible dollars.

Advantages both ways. It's good for the corporation regardless of size, because the premiums for life insurance on corporate-owners, executives, key employees... all employees... are tax deductible as a business expense under a recent government regulation. So the employee gets the benefit of increased compensation, up to $50,000 in term life insurance purchased by the corporation, with no current income tax liability for either party! The employee can even have permanent life insurance, retain the cash values and benefits, and pay only the tax on the premium. It's a good concept.

Now, all you need is a little help to do something about it. Kansas City Life, The Lioness, would like to introduce you to one of our people who knows the ins-and-outs of this new concept.

Our people have a Concept 79 Planning Kit which provides you with an easy way to understand and plan this new benefit program for you and your employees.

By JOHN WILSON

If you haven't looked at a copy of this year's deer hunting regulations, you might be in for a surprise. There are some major changes this season.

For one thing, gun hunters will have two "long week-end" hunts, instead of the usual five-day season. The gun season opens Nov. 12, runs through Nov. 14, then closes until Dec. 3, when it opens for another three-day hunt (through Dec. 5). That's one extra day of hunting, and with any luck at all, we'll have good weather on at least one of these week-ends.

Gun hunters may also use certain handguns this year, providing the guns and ammunition meet certain qualifications. All barrels must be 3.90 inches or longer and only the following cartridges may be used: .30 Herret; .357 Herret; .357 magnum; .41 magnum; .41 auto mag; .44 magnum; .44 auto mag; .44-40; .45 Colt long; .45 auto mag or .45 ACP, the last of which must use either semi-jacketed soft point or semi-jacketed hollow point bullets. No full jacketed bullets of any caliber may be used.

Note that this regulation calls for specific cartridges. This means, for example, that it isn't legal to hunt deer with .38 caliber cartridges in a .357 pistol, even though the .38 cartridge will work in the particular gun.

These handguns may be used during both the Nov. 12-14 and the Dec. 3-5 gun seasons, and handgun hunters are subject to the same regulations as other gun hunters.

Nine counties will permit either bucks or does to be taken on Dec. 3 only. These counties are Ballard, Crittenden, McCracken, Livingston, Barren, Hart, Edmonson, Gallatin and Owen. During the other five days of gun hunting, only bucks with at least one forked antler may be taken in these counties.

Bucks only is the rule for the entire gun season in the remainder of the open counties in Kentucky. All counties are open except the following, which are closed to both gun and bow deer hunting: Clark, Clay, Floyd, Harlan, Jackson, Johnson, Knott, Leslie, Magoffin, Martin, Owsley, Perry, Powell and Wolfe.

Several wildlife management areas are closed to all hunting as part of a deer restoration project. These areas are Beaver Creek, Dewey Lake, Grayson Lake, Pine Mountain, Redbird and Robinson Forest. These areas are well marked with posted signs, so hunters shouldn't have any problems here. The Yellowbank area in Breckinridge County is closed to deer hunting but open for hunting other species.

Gun hunters who took deer last year should be familiar with check stations. This "instant survey" method of keeping track of our deer harvest will be in effect again this year. You should have received a list of check stations when you bought your deer permit. If you didn't, the lists are available from any county court clerk. All deer taken by gun hunters must be checked, either at the nearest open check station or by a conservation officer.

And speaking of the deer permits, the search for a better tag goes on. Last year's plastic tag proved to be brittle in cold weather, so this year hunters are trying a tape tag. Don't experiment with it; when you stick the two ends together, it's stuck for good, so don't try it on anything except your deer.

Remember that all gun hunters must wear either a vest, coat, coveralls, cap or hat of fluorescent "hunter" orange. The entire garment must be hunter orange, and wearing any one of the above will satisfy the requirements of this safety regulation.

Finally, remember to ask permission to hunt on private lands. If you are hunting with a .240 caliber or larger rifle, the law now requires that you obtain written permission. Either written or oral permission is necessary for all other hunters.

We've covered just some of the highlights of this year's deer hunting. For a complete rundown, write the Division of Public Relations, Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Frankfort, Ky. 40601 for a copy of the 1977 Deer Hunting Guide.

Attorney General Says
Some Private Groups
May Share Severance

Private, nonstock, nonprofit corporations may receive grants from the Coal Severance Economic Aid Fund, provided certain conditions are met, according to an opinion issued by the Attorney General's office.

The opinion, issued by Charles W. Runyan, assistant attorney general, was in response to an inquiry by Charles D. Wickliffe, attorney for the Department of Finance and Administration.

Current law allows capital projects recommended by Economic Aid Boards in coal-producing counties to be funded out of the Coal Severance Aid Fund. There has been some question, however, whether private, nonprofit corporations expressly formed to provide a public service, were eligible for this aid.

Runyan's opinion held however that nonstock, nonprofit corporations would qualify if:

1. It is evident that a public purpose will be served.

2. It is evident that the public purpose is to be effected "in terms of some statutory description or designation of some governmental function or service. In other words, the public purpose must be directly linked to some specific statutory declaration of the purpose to be carried out," Runyan said in his opinion.

Reclamation and industrial development, for example, are spelled out as public purposes in state statutes.

Lt. Col. Donahoe Receives Medal

Lt. Col. James B. Donahoe (right) is presented the Meritorious Service Medal at Randolph AFB, Tex., by Colonel Lewis Aufdemorte, chief of the Officer Career Management Division at the Air Force Military Personnel Center. (U.S. Air Force Photo)

San Antonio—Lt. Col. James B. Donahoe, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Donahoe, of Prestonsburg, Ky., has received the Meritorious Service Medal at Randolph AFB, Tex.

Colonel Donahoe was cited for outstanding duty performance at Scott AFB, Ill. He was cited for his contribution to the design, development and implementation of a comprehensive computer system to manage aircrew members of the Military Airlift Command.

The colonel is now assigned at Randolph as a personnel officer at the Air Force Military Personnel Center.

A 1958 graduate of Our Lady of the Mountains High School, Paintsville, Ky., he received his commission in 1961 through the aviation cadet program. He earned his bachelor's degree in 1973 at Troy State University at Montgomery, Ala., and his master's degree in 1975 at Webster College, St. Louis.

Florida Begins First State Literacy Tests

Florida is the first state to require students to pass a functional literacy test to graduate from high school. About 120,000 11th graders are now taking tests to determine their competence in such practical areas as completing job applications, reading maps, and balancing checkbooks. Those who fail will get two more chances at the test in the 12th grade. If they still don't pass, they will receive a "certificate of attendance" rather than a diploma. All students in the third, fifth and eighth grades will take a basic skills test, which they must pass in order to be promoted. State Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington says, "We want the diploma to mean something. Students who get a diploma without having basic skills are being cheated."
