

2 New Officials Promise They'll Help Drug Fight

Board To Ask School Reports Of Violations

District Judge Harold J. Stumbo and County Attorney Arnold Turner told a gathering of school officials, principals, teachers and ministers last Tuesday that they are ready to act in all drug cases reported to them and challenged teachers and principals to report such cases to them.

The meeting was held at the regular monthly session of the Floyd County Board of Education, and the board is responding by directing that when students are found in possession of drugs or smoking marijuana to report such cases to County Attorney Turner.

Turner told the gathering that use of marijuana is a misdemeanor and can be prosecuted in the district court.

Judge Stumbo said that in his experience as county attorney and judge he had found that students who are active in athletics and other school programs are, as a rule, not involved in drugs. For that reason he suggested that young people should be directed into greater participation in school and community activities.

The board of education will shortly form a committee of ministers, school principals and teachers and citizens to work with the board and county officials toward curbing the spread of drugs in the schools, Supt. E. P. Grigsby, Jr. said.

Asked if drug use is widespread in the schools, Superintendent Grigsby said, "Yes," adding:

"It's hard to assess how bad it is in individual schools, but a high percentage of youngsters, in school and out, are experimenting with drugs."

He said drug use is mainly in the high schools but that it has been found in a few elementary schools.

Perkins Meeting Set for Friday

Date of a special meeting which has been set by Congressman Carl D. Perkins and will feature representatives of several state and federal agencies was listed incorrectly in last week's issue of The Times.

The meeting, which has been arranged to allow elected officials, planners, civic leaders and interested citizens of the area to meet with the representatives of various funding agencies, will be held Friday, January 13, from 8:30 a.m. till 4 p.m. at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park.

Also expected at the meet are U.S. Senators Wendell Ford and Walter "Dee" Huddleston.

Clark Retires from City Post, Is Remembered by Co-Workers

When Curtis Clark retired at the beginning of the new year as city manager of Prestonsburg something happened that made the transition from daily official activities and duties to comparative idleness and quiet less disturbing than it might have been.

Other city officials presented him a $795 color television. City employees gave him one of Russell May's entrancing landscapes—and an easy chair from which to enjoy both the TV and the painting.

Mr. Clark was touched, "You might have thought they all would have said, 'Glad the old So-and-So's gone,' but, instead, they gave me these really costly things," he later said.

"These mean more than just expensive items," he added. "They represent the friendship of people I have worked with over the years."

POST OFFICE HILL here was just right for sleigh-riders Monday morning after the area's first major winter storm dropped several inches of snow and closed schools throughout Floyd and surrounding counties.

Campbell Named Chief of Police

For the first time in nearly seven months the Prestonsburg police force has an official chief.

Prestonsburg Police Capt. William R. (Dicky) Campbell was named chief Thursday night at the City Council's first major business session of the year. Campbell, of Bull Creek, who has been with the force here since 1970, was sworn in at the meeting on a routine six months' probationary basis. Although City Manager Curtis Clark has served as acting chief, the force has been without an official chief since the resignation of former chief Ralph "Hack" Thornsby in July of last year.

After accepting the resignation of Joe Hobson, who has served as city attorney for the past four years, the Council

Three weeks ago, I did this column last. And I know less now to write than then.

One thing I do know. The weather is miserable, the roads are—and I say this, advisedly—plain awful. Proof: All the basketball games were called off, Tuesday night.

'PREDIKSHUN'

Had somewhere around Woodrow Burchett's "predikshuns" for the year ahead, as reported by George Wolford, but they're gone—unless they've worked their way down to Layer Six on the old desk. I have only one of my own to make with any degree of confidence, and it's this:

Within the next three months or so, some of those who yell longest and loudest about the need for more bass in Dewey Lake will be out with their Bass Snatchers, taking every brood-size bass they can pester into striking.

I DISAGREE

I suppose my sensibilities have become dulled, but I'm having a terrible time reaching agreement with those in the know that the CIA has done a terrible thing in enlisting the help of American journalists to learn secrets known only to those who may be our mortal enemies. It isn't cricket, I know, for those in the writing game to be used as a means of disseminating "planted" stories, but, on the whole, I doubt if there's any dishonor about a journalist serving an agency of his government.

Perhaps I would not be so gracious to the CIA and cooperating journalists, if I had not read, only a few days ago, that Russia has so many agents in this country that we can't hire enough of our own to keep track of them.

Tenn. Firm Awarded Dock Work Contract

A $78,439 contract has been awarded to Construction Products, Inc., of Jackson, Tenn. for additions to the Jenny Wiley State Park boat dock, it was announced recently.

Jenny Wiley Park Manager Lowell Baker said the marina additions will be fabricated in Tennessee and shipped here for assembly on the job. "This type of arrangement should make the work go pretty fast," said Baker, who also pointed out that a completion date of April 25 had been set.

The work will include construction of additional boat slips at the dock, one of the largest in the state, it was pointed out.

Order Restrains Pickets at Mine; Coal Firm Sued

A temporary restraining order to prevent interference with operations of the L. T. Ruth Coal Co., Inc. on Lick Branch, near here, by persons identified as picketing United Mine Workers was issued last Thursday by Circuit Judge W. B. Hazelrigg, of the Johnson circuit court.

The order limited the number of pickets at the operation to three until further orders of the court, enjoined them against congregating in or about the property of the plaintiff and interfering in any manner with the company's business.

In his petition for the restraining order Leonard Ruth, president of the company, said persons identified to him as members of the UMW had congregated on US 23 right-of-way, with approximately 35 of them threatening harm to any who attempted to haul coal or drive trucks from company property onto US 23. He also alleged that one or more of the men threw rocks at passing trucks. The dates given for the alleged acts were Dec. 30 and 31 and Jan. 3 and 4.

No individual worker was named in the petition, which listed UMW President Miller, District 30 officials and 100 "John Does" as defendants.

In another legal action involving a coal company the Rev. Dan Heintzelman and his wife, Sylvia, of the Branham Addition, Martin, filed suit Thursday, seeking to recover from Triple Elkhorn Mining Co. and Harry Hale Ranier $17,000 damages to their home which, they said, resulted from mining, blasting, excavating and construction operations.

The Heintzelman home is in the vicinity which figures in an earlier action against the coal company by Everett Akers and others. They also ask $5,000 for loss of the use of their property and $50,000 punitive damages.

(Reports of damage suits do not include defendants' representations in the cases.)

Ask Bids Again By Fiscal Court On Park Bridge

The Floyd fiscal court this week readvertised for contractors' bids on construction of the bridge designed to span Right Beaver Creek and link the present KY 80 with the county park at Allen.

Bids will be accepted and reviewed in time for the project to meet the Feb. 1 deadline set by EDA for the beginning of work.

Readvertising of the project became necessary when bids submitted last month were found by the court and EDA to be defective or incomplete, lacking the provision for a minority contractor in the project. After its decision was made, EDA gave the court an extension of time in which to get construction started, the alternative being the loss of an EDA grant of $454,000.

The successful bidder on the bridge will be given 210 days from Feb. 1 for its completion.

Work on Phase I at the park is at a standstill, but Big Wheel, Inc., contractor on the job, has notified the project engineers that it will continue work to completion when the weather permits. The contractor has been named in court actions demanding pay for materials and services rendered, and Big Wheel informed the engineering firm that it will pay these debts out of money earned on the project.

Activities in 'Deep-Freeze'

The weather made news this week—or so slowed normal activities that there was little news.

The balmy weather of last Sunday morning had by nightfall deteriorated into snow, and the thermometer continued to drop till it reached 2 above, locally, at 7 a.m. Tuesday.

As a consequence, schools of the county are closed and may remain closed for the week. They had lost only one day to the weather before Christmas, as compared with six days lost before the holiday a year earlier.

Auto traffic continued over the area but at low speed, with a light snow covering a shield of ice. No serious accidents had been reported.

The county offices that were open in Tuesday morning's near-zero weather were operating with skeleton staffs, many workers declining to take a chance on travel.

Basketball games, adult classes, meetings of church groups—all that were scheduled Tuesday were cancelled. Circuit court was adjourned till Thursday. The cold and icy roads prevented an Ohio caravan of mineworkers from coming to Eastern Kentucky Monday with the avowed intention of closing non-union mines.

And the outlook—as viewed by very fallible weather forecasters—is not encouraging. As of Tuesday, more snow was seen again by tomorrow (Thursday).

Hall Brothers Building Funeral Home

Photo of funeral home after which new mortuary has been designed.

Hall Brothers Funeral Home, of Martin, recently announced construction plans for a new 16,000-square-foot mortuary to be built in the "Y" section of Martin and designed to be one of the finest in Kentucky.

Contract has been awarded to P & M Engineering Co., Martin, for the brick-and-steel structure, and completion is expected by next May.

The new funeral home will be located in the developing area near the First Guaranty Bank, on a 3.13-acre lot which has been filled to a height above known flood levels.

John C. Hall said the funeral home at its present location in downtown Martin has been affected by flood 11 times in the 29 years it has been there and devastated three times by major floods.

But the sanctuary of higher ground, he said, was not the only reason for the new building. "The people of this county have been very good to us, and we feel that they are entitled to the very best service and facilities possible. This new building is planned to afford all this," he said.

The new funeral home will have a chapel seating 256, five slumber rooms, a lounge, flower room, dressing room, garage, central heat and air-conditioning, and a sprinkler system as a part of compliance with all state fire regulations. The parking lot will accommodate 125 vehicles.

Paul Hoffman, of Drift, is the architect.

Coal Strike Poses Health Care Problem

While the current United Mine Workers (UMW) strike continues with no immediate settlement in sight, efforts are underway at the federal and state level to ease the financial burden placed on the hospitals and clinics of Appalachia by the dispute, Development Cabinet Secretary William L. Short has noted.

The coal strike and a concurrent decrease in production will have a detrimental effect on UMW health care benefits, since the benefits are paid from royalties coal companies are assessed according to tonnage.

In a region like Eastern Kentucky where the entire economy is based almost entirely on coal production, a cutback on UMW health care benefits has been likened to an entire withdrawal of Blue Cross-Blue Shield coverage in a metropolitan area of the state, such as Louisville. It has been estimated that the health benefits of 142,500 Eastern Kentuckians are affected by the strike.

During a recent Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) meeting in Washington, D. C., Gov. Julian Carroll said that present ARC regulations should possibly be "amended" to allow health care facilities to qualify for federal monies for which they otherwise would be ineligible.

The governor also suggested that the resources of federal agencies be pooled to find both short-term and long-term solutions to the chronic lack of sufficient health-care for Appalachia. President Carter, apparently reacting to the proposal, recently announced the formation of such a task force to examine the situation.

Moreover, ARC and federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare officials have met in Washington to jointly decide on the categories of federal monetary assistance that might be directed toward the affected hospitals and clinics, Short, who serves as Carroll's alternate on the ARC, noted.

Meanwhile, at the state level, Development Cabinet personnel and the East Kentucky Health Systems Agency have surveyed 28 health care facilities concerning projected losses from the strike. Their findings conclude that a combined potential loss of $939,000 per month exists in hospitals and clinics in the area affected by UMW cutbacks. More alarmingly, that figure, when combined with a projected loss of $308,400 per month by two large pharmaceutical distribution services, brings the total projected monthly loss to Eastern Kentucky to $1,237,400.

Short readily admits that the survey findings are discouraging, but said that the health care problems of Eastern Kentucky are chronic and cannot be blamed entirely on the UMW strike.

"The coal strike has merely once again brought to the public's attention the serious lack of health care facilities and medical personnel throughout Appalachia. Decisive action is needed now to prevent further losses of physicians from an already underserved area," Short said.

Short said the Development Cabinet has made several suggestions on possible immediate and long-term solutions to inadequate health care in Eastern Kentucky. Among the proposals made is the suggestion that Medicare and Medicaid payments be increased to properly cover rising medical costs. Short noted that many Eastern Kentucky hospitals serve large numbers of indigent patients whose health coverage merely pays a fraction of total costs.

Other short-term solutions proposed involve additional funding for the state through several available federal funding sources, he added.

Johnson Woman, Twin Children, Burn to Death

A 36-year-old Johnson county woman and her two-year-old twins died last Thursday morning in a fire which destroyed their one-story frame home near Stambaugh.

County Coroner Bill Phelps said Mrs. Mary Jane Castle and her daughter and son, Edna Mae and Teddy Rae, were found dead in the house, located at the head of Dogwood Fork.

Phelps said her husband, Thomas Castle, 36, had taken their four other children to school at 7 a.m. and when he returned, about 10:30 the fire had destroyed the house.

Paintsville Fire Chief Bob Dixon said he did not know what caused the fire and that he probably would never know. He said Kentucky State Police ruled out arson as the cause of the fire.

There were two coal-burning stoves in the house. One of them, a pot-bellied stove, was located in the bedroom in which the bodies were found. The doors were open on it, Dixon said, but he would not speculate if the fire originated there.

Mrs. Castle's body was found on the floor next to the bed with one of the twins next to her. The other twin's body was at the opposite side of the room.

The house was about a half-mile from any other houses.

Dixon said he and fire department personnel traveled three or four miles up a dirt road, then back-packed with stretchers and other equipment for 30 minutes before arriving at the house. By then the house had fallen in and the fire was out.

Mrs. Castle was born in October, 1942, in Marietta, Ohio.

She is survived by her husband; four children, Tommy, David, Brenda and Ruth Ann; two brothers, Russell and Bernard Jackson, both of Columbus, Ohio; and four sisters, Ann, Donna, Wilda and Wilma, all of Marietta.

Joint funeral services were conducted at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at the Jones-Preston Funeral Home in Paintsville by the Rev. James Kelly Caudill. Burial was in the Clark Castle cemetery in Nippa.

Phone, Office, Desk Asked by Lawmakers

Rep. Mark Fitzgerald (D-Cynthiana) recently introduced a bill which would give the General Assembly control of office space in the Capitol Annex.

"A phone, an office and a desk are all we're asking for," said Fitzgerald, who received 75 co-sponsors for the bill in a vote on the House floor. "We'll be reasonable, even though we haven't been treated reasonably."

Lack of adequate office space has been a complaint voiced by legislators through the years. During the current session, office space has been provided in the Capitol Annex basement for committee chairmen.

Asked whether he believed the entire building is needed, Fitzgerald replied: "To be honest, no. That would be irresponsible, and would probably be branded as such. We'll go through the process, making some compromises along the way."

He noted it is a common practice for legislators to introduce bills with exaggerated demands. He said the committee process usually brings such demands into a realistic light.

In other House action today, two bills were given first reading. Both were reported from the Appropriations and Revenue Committee.

One would subject the award of personal service contracts to legislative scrutiny. The other would increase from 10 to 60 days the period an original purchaser may return a motor vehicle to a dealer and receive a refund of the usage tax.

Rep. Joe Clarke (D-Danville), chairman of the House Appropriations and Revenue Committee, announced that hearings on revenue predictions for the next biennium will begin at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday. Hearings on the Energy Research Fund and Transportation Fund will be held at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Hughes Proposes Rules Change To Give Senators Chance To Act

Frankfort, Ky.—Changes in the Senate's permanent rules to ensure that the entire body, rather than a few committee members, get to act on legislation was proposed yesterday by Sen. Lowell Hughes, D-Ashland.

"I sought very actively and hard to be here and to consider bills on behalf of the people of this Commonwealth," Hughes said. "My resolution is to ensure that all senators have the right—no matter how distasteful—to have a vote on the floor and not to hide behind the committee system."

The Senate will vote on adoption of its permanent rules next week. It is now governed under 1976 rules.

Under the proposed amendments, the Senate Rules Committee would be required to refer bills to standing committees within five days.

The Rules Committee serves as a traffic officer, routing legislation to appropriate committees for consideration. The committee now may keep bills for 10 days before referring them.

Holding a bill reduces its chance of passage—especially at the end of the session.

Hughes also proposed that the Rules Committee be prohibited from recommending a bill to a committee that did not originally consider it. The rules now allow the Rules Committee to recommend a bill one time.

Hughes also said he will recommend that the Senate abide by Section 46 of the Kentucky Constitution, regarding calling up legislation for consideration by the entire Senate.

The Constitution says: "Whenever a committee refuses or fails to report a bill submitted to it in a reasonable time, the same may be called up by any member, and be considered in the same manner it would have been considered if it had been reported (by a committee)."

Under Senate rules, a member may now only call up a bill for consideration by the full House by filing a discharge petition signed by five members. The discharge must be approved by a Senate majority.

Hughes said he thought Senate rules are unconstitutional in that respect.

The Senate president pro tem, Joe Prather, D-Vine Grove, said in an interview after yesterday's session that he has no great objection to reducing the number of days the Rules Committee is permitted to consider bills.

However, he said he is opposed to Hughes' second proposal.

"There are many times when you feel you need the discretion of referring (legislation) to another committee," he said.

For example, he said judicial aspects of a bill primarily about something else might have to be looked at by the Judiciary Statutes Committee.

Critics of the Rules Committee's power to recommend bills have charged that recommending a bill to another committee is a way to bury legislation. Prather said that isn't true.

"If that was the only reason, we would have sent it to the (second) committee in the first place," he said.

Prather said he has some questions about Hughes' third proposal—to bring Senate rules into compliance with the Constitution. He said he would have to study the change.

"Frankly, it's the first time I'd thought about it," he said.

Prather told the Senate he is opposed to the idea of having a binding caucus regarding adoption of Senate rules, after Hughes said he had heard there was to be a move to bind members, and didn't like it.

"The fellow who takes hold of a bull by the tail gets 60 to 70 times as much information as a fellow who hasn't."

Mark Twain

Experts all across America are predicting a major electric power shortage in the early 1980's.

That being the case, why are so many of the people who would be most affected by a power shortage so seemingly unconcerned?

We think Mark Twain summarized the answer to that in his little statement about the bull.

You see, at the power company, we're responsible for supplying you power now and in the future. We have that bull right by the tail.

And we know that demand for electricity is increasing faster than supply.

We also know that it takes 6 to 10 years to build a power plant, at least two years of which are spent in getting permits and licenses.

Some people believe that conservation will bail us out. But the truth is, even with conservation, we must build more power plants to see us through the years ahead.

We need your support and understanding. Because the time to face up to the energy shortage of the 1980's is right now.

So let's get this bull by the horns.

A New River Study

So they're going to "study" the Big Sandy some more to determine if it should be made navigable farther upstream to handle shipments of coal!

This is an old story in the region. Years ago, when coal was not as prosperous and was needing relief from rail freight rates, the late A. J. May, then Congressman, and Dr. O. W. Thompson led a spirited drive for river canalization to make possible barge shipment of coal as well as other materials from the river watershed.

The move was opposed then by railway interests, naturally, and unnaturally by both the coal interests and the United Mine Workers of America. It came near winning Congressional approval but ultimately lost.

Since that time, little has been heard of river navigation, although studies of the waterway by the Corps of Engineers have continued.

Now, the need for water transportation becomes more urgent with rail facilities inadequate and highways sorely taxed by a growing load of truck traffic.

This new interest in the river could mean something. Yet we are inclined to be cynical about it.

Anyway, a hearing has been scheduled at Louisa, Feb. 2. We watch the developments—and possibly will pass the watch on later to our children and grandchildren.

Congress. Clark's friendship with Cooper has been a lasting one, and it was helpful to the city when federal assistance was needed on local projects.

Looking back, Mr. Clark finds three achievements of his administration as mayor perhaps the most satisfying of his public career. Two of these were inspired by tragedy. They included:

—Qualification by the city of Prestonsburg for social security benefits for its employees, four to five years ahead of other governmental units in the area, he said. The action was taken after two policemen on duty here were shot to death and their widows left without resources. "I determined then that this situation would never rise again," Clark said.

—Modern lighting for the entire city. This followed the unsolved mystery-slaying of Muriel Baldrige, Prestonsburg high school girl, in an ill-lighted area.

—The first garbage collection truck operated by an Eastern Kentucky municipality. "It cost $7,500 then, and folks were listing me among the big spenders," the former mayor commented.

Although he no longer is city manager—his grandson, Jack Clark Hyden, has been named to that post—Mr. Clark has not let the old rocking chair get him. He will continue to serve in an advisory capacity in the city manager's office, and his interest in public affairs, particularly the affairs of Prestonsburg, will keep him "out of mischief."

Phillip Robinson, who has been associated with a Christian group which works with students, offered his services in the program.

Mrs. Marty Hicks reported to the group on child abuse and recommended that teachers should report such cases to her office here.

The drug discussion consumed most of the meeting time. Or teacher, Susan Dianne Brown, was employed. She will teach English in Prestonsburg High School, succeeding Ann Pafunda who resigned last semester.

The new fiscal court has had two meetings since Jan. 3, with most of the time devoted to a study of needs. Its most recent meeting was Monday.

At that meeting it authorized the county clerk to advertise for four new dump trucks to be used on county road work, and it also authorized County Judge-Executive Henry Stumbo to allow claims of road employees twice a month rather than on a one-pay-per-month basis. A petition from residents of River Plains Estates at Auxier, asking that the road to it of about .75 mile be added to the county road system, was approved.

Floyd county schools remained closed this week as snow held its own for a second full week. . . . The B. & C. Hardware at Hueysville was looted last week of an estimated $1,500 worth of tools, watches and clocks, it was reported. . . . Three Floyd countians were killed and one critically injured in three auto wrecks over the past week. Dead are Miss Cora E. Akers, 18, formerly of Justell, but recently employed at Norfolk, Va.; Abner Endicott, 62, of Ivel; and A-1c Kelly V. Final plans for a new system of garbage collection here was completed by the City Council at its Monday night meeting with citizens' payment for the service to be entirely voluntary. . . . All day Monday, the opening day of the January term of Floyd circuit court, the court was without either a grand jury or petit jury. Forty Years Ago

(January 13, 1938)

A three-fold program, stressing the importance of worthwhile community activities, was endorsed by Prestonsburg Kiwanians in their meeting last Friday. The three objectives are: 1) A local Boy Scout troop; 2) A Floyd County Fair; 3) New Industries. . . . $5 Collection Fee Said $1 Too High

County Attorney Arnold Turner said this week that the $5 garbage collection fee asked by some collectors of waste materials in the county is unauthorized by the fiscal court and is illegal.

He said the rate approved by the fiscal court is $4 per month. "No greater amount should be paid, and if overpayment has been made you . . . should adjust your February payment to regain your dollar."

(The garbage collector in Magisterial Districts 1 and 2 had already suggested to customers that they withhold from next month's payment the amount overpaid.)

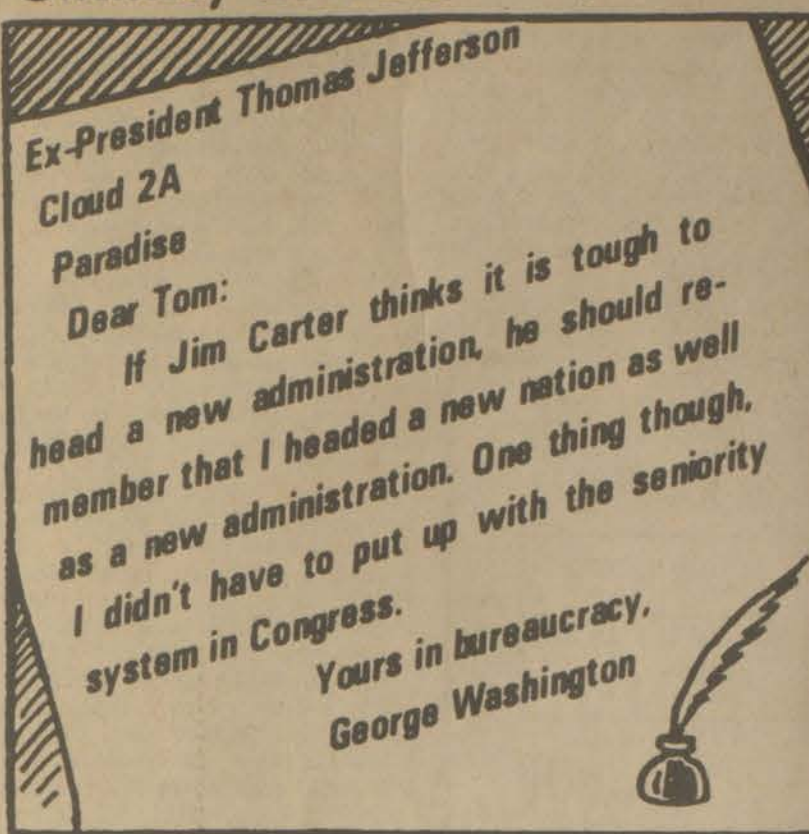

Turner suggested that if any resident or business does not receive proper adjustment his office will assist in getting a refund. Notice to that effect, he said, is going to each of those who are collecting waste materials in the county.

A SAD CASE

Kept indoors a few days last week, I developed a first-class case of Cabin Fever. Besides intermittent rounds of stalking nothing to wind up peering vacantly out windows, I read . . . and read. The newspapers, magazines, gothic paperbacks. I delved into Tolstoy, even reread Dickens' Christmas Carol. The one thing that brought me up short was this which I read from the Book of Isaiah (Chapter 19, verses 24 and 25):

Israel will be the third with Egypt and Assyria, a blessing in the midst of the earth, whom the Lord of hosts has blessed, saying, "Blessed be Egypt my people, and Assyria the work of my hands, and Israel my heritage."

Um-m-m . . . During that time I noted, too, that the cardinals have returned to our lowly environs. And jays and sparrows and chickadees and titmice. And a visitor which, for all my vast birdlore, I have not identified. An olive-colored beauty, with a lacework of olive-and-white from midway his back to the tip of his tail.

At liberty at last, I have decided that my folks keep me inside overlong, fearing I will have a "backset," and knowing they couldn't survive a repeat of what they had just gone through.

Miss Rencin-Mr. Keathley Wed

Miss Kathy Rencin, of Barnes, Kansas, and Mr. John Keathley, of Hays, Kansas, were united in marriage at a 3 p.m. Mass on December 27 at the Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Greenleaf, Kansas. The double-ring ceremony was solemnized by Father William Dunphy, of Abilene, assisted by Bishop Carver Long, of the Church of Jesus Christ Latter-Day Saints, Topeka, Kansas, uncle of the bride.

Brian Koppes and Kim Klozenbucher, cousins of the bride, were altar boys. Carrying offertory gifts to the altar were Eric Koppes and Cindy Klozenbucher, cousins of the bride.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Billy Rencin, of Barnes, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Keathley, of Lincoln, Nebraska, formerly of Hays, Kansas.

Traditional wedding music was provided by Mrs. Sharon Schwartz, who accompanied Miss Cheri Schwartz as she sang "My Cup Runneth Over," "Wedding Song," and "Evergreen." The congregation joined her in singing Prayer of Saint Francis.

Lighting the spiral candelabra entwined with garlands were Paula Rightemeier, of Concordia, and Cindy Long, of Topeka, cousin of the bride. They wore floor-length emerald green velvet dresses with corsages of holly and ribbon and carried a single white candle decorated with red ribbon.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown and veil designed and made by her mother. The satin gown featured a V-shaped neckline outlined in scalloped lace trim. Accenting the high rise bodice was a row of scalloped lace which also trimmed the softly gathered crescent waist line. The sheer bishop sleeves accented with lace extended to a wide cuff also accented by lace and tiny satin buttons. The softly gathered skirt extended into a chapel length train in back. Tiny satin covered buttons enhanced the back of the gown and scalloped lace trim enrired the hem line. Completing the bride's attire was a two-tiered fingertip veil edged in lace attached to a matching lace and beaded caplet. The bride wore a diamond necklace and tiny heart shaped gold earrings. She carried a nosegay bouquet of red roses and white carnations accented with baby's breath and holiday greenery.

Attending the bride were her sisters, matron of honor Jana Rollman, of Washington, and Debra Rencin, of Barnes, maid of honor. They wore floor-length A-line red velvet gowns and carried white satin muffs trimmed with holly.

Miss Stacie Klozenbucher, cousin of the bride, was flower girl and carried a basket of holly. Her dress was similar to those of the bridesmaids. Todd Koppes, cousin of the bride, carried the rings on a satin pillow trimmed with lace and satin streamers. The dresses worn by the attendants and flower girl along with all accessories were made by the bride's mother.

The groom was attended by Jeff Linenberger, of Hays, and Chris Gardner, of Salina, Kansas.

Registering the guests was Ginger Keathley, of Lincoln, Nebr., sister of the groom. In charge of gifts and flowers were Marilyn Hamilton and Janice Tracey, both of Concordia.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Rencin chose a red floor-length gown. Mrs. Keathley, mother of the groom, chose a gray floor-length gown. Both wore corsages of holly.

Uncle and aunt of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Greg Koppes, of Greenleaf, hosted a reception immediately following the ceremony at the Greenleaf Legion.

In honor of the bride and groom, the bride's parents hosted a supper for approximately 80 guests at the Greenleaf Legion, and the bridal couple were hosts at a 9 p.m. wedding dance held at the Greenleaf Legion.

After a short wedding trip, the couple are at home at 13A Hillside Drive in Hays, Kansas. Mrs. Keathley is employed as a registered nurse at Saint Anthony Hospital and Mr. Keathley by Legleiter Building and Remodeling Company.

Grandparents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Slone, and Mrs. Virginia Keathley.

Mrs. Stafford, 93, To Exhibit Paintings At Art Gallery Here

A native of Lawrence county, Mrs. Stafford entered a painting class last year at Prestonsburg Community College under the instruction of Thomas Whitaker. Undaunted by years, she has continued her painting at home through her own initiative and a continuing desire to learn.

A reception is planned at the gallery, Jan. 15 from 4-6 p.m. and Mrs. Stafford will be present to answer questions concerning the exhibit and to give demonstrations.

The Bush Gallery, located behind Milady Dress Shop, Route 23 North, here will be open limited hours during the month of January: Fri. and Sat., 10 a.m. till 5 p.m.; Tuesday through Thursday by request. For details, call Lynn Rogers at 886-3091.

Studio Music Lessons Being Offered at PCC

Individual lessons in banjo, guitar, voice and a variety of orchestral and band instruments are being offered through the Community Services Program at Prestonsburg Community College. Those interested in any of these lessons should attend a meeting in Room 155 of the Administration Building at the College at 7 p.m., Tuesday, January 16.

On EKEDC Board

Pete Grigsby, Jr., superintendent of school districts, has been named to the board of directors of the Eastern Kentucky Educational Development Corporation Consortium.

EKEDC is a consortium of local school superintendents throughout the state who have pooled their Title IV-C innovative monies to provide their school districts with computerized pupil accounting, census data, and career information. It has a membership of 32 local districts and the diocese of Covington. The superintendents comprise the board of directors with Charles Straup, superintendent of Mason county schools, serving as chairman for the 1977-'78 school year. Harry P. Brown is its director.

The EKEDC Staff is comprised of 20 persons who perform educational and data processing duties to provide services to the local districts. The EKEDC owns a large Univac computer and utilizes a sophisticated scanning device which processes more than 3,000 documents of input information per hour for storage in the computer. The superintendents provide their district with computerized pupil accounting in order to reduce the record-keeping time of the classroom teacher so that she may devote more time to the students. Computerized census data is captured from the input data provided by pupil accounting which satisfies state requirements and provides data to the local districts for present and future planning needs. The career information system provides the students with 300-word fact sheets on more than 2600 schools of higher education and provides information on 450 major career choices. The fact sheets are sent to the students by the computer when they request information on special forms provided by EKEDC. In addition to these services local districts may avail themselves of student scheduling, grade reporting, payroll, personnel data bank, vehicular maintenance programs, and bus routing analysis.

Dr. James Graham, superintendent of public instruction, conceived a plan where the Title IV-C innovative monies coming to Kentucky would be assigned to the 181 school districts based on a student per capita base. This year's allotment is $2,000 per district plus $1.56 per student in each district. The superintendents, with approval of their local boards of education, may elect to have their own innovative projects or join a consortium to provide services to their districts. Dr. Graham's concept allows more local districts determination and less state control of the educational process.

Observe 30th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Gibson observed their 30th wedding anniversary at their home Saturday evening, December 24. Sharing the occasion with them were their daughters, Mrs. Patty Carr, of Hillsdale, Mich., and Mrs. Peggy Kidd, of Allen, Mrs. Gibson's mother, Mrs. Rachel Gardner, her sisters, and other relatives and friends. Among the many gifts they received were a set of ceramic dishes, cups and canister set made by Mrs. Carr, and a floral arrangement from Mrs. Kidd.

Children's Find, A Crude 'Bomb'

The photograph (above) shows a dismantled "bomb" which Stephen Barnett, C. & O. employee, said his children found on the railway tracks, near the Turner-Elkhorn Coal Company's Guaranty mine, half a mile outside Martin, last Tuesday.

Barnett said his daughter and son, Liz and Stephen, Jr., came home Tuesday, talking of the odd-looking thing they and their cousin had found on the tracks. Next day, Barnett found the device over the bank where the children told him they had thrown it.

The "thing" consisted of three sticks of dynamite, with fuse attached but without dynamite caps. It was dismantled by State Trooper Danny Stumbo.

Although dynamite is normally detonated by use of caps, the dynamite found by the youngsters could have exploded under pressure of a train passing over it, persons familiar with such explosives say.

Barnett said it is surprising how many children walk railway tracks or play around them and are exposed to danger when explosives are placed on or near the tracks. He made several pictures of the device and had his children take the photos to school so that the teachers could show them to their pupils and alert them to the danger of such devices.

Woman Claimed In Ivyton Wreck

A Salyersville woman died Friday afternoon when the truck she was driving collided with an oncoming vehicle on KY 114, near Ivyton.

Almeda Perkins Poe, 28, was killed after she apparently lost control of her vehicle when she slowed as a car in front of her stopped. Her truck spun into the other lane and was struck on the door of the driver's side, state police said.

Injured in the 1:30 p.m. accident was Mrs. Poe's daughter, Tina Joe, 4. She was taken to Highlands Regional Medical Center, where she was treated for a face cut and admitted for observation.

Also injured, treated for minor injuries at Highlands and released were William G. Renfrow, 22, of Center City, driver of the other vehicle; and Tennis Maynard, 21, of Inez and Lois Renfrow, of Center City, passengers with Renfrow.

Mrs. Perkins was born June 7, 1949, daughter of the late Frank and Ova Litteral Perkins.

Survivors include her husband, Ronald Poe; another daughter, Tamra Jean; six sisters, Mrs. Rosa Connelley and Jewell Perkins, of Salyersville, Mrs. Cynthia M. Powers, Orrville, Ohio, Mrs. Ova Ellen Evens, Xenia, Ohio, and Mrs. Lovilla Coyle and Mrs. Edna Stanley, Dayton, Ohio; three brothers, Greenville of Dayton, Floyd, of Farmersville, Ohio, and Granville, of Tipp City, Ohio.

Judges, Agency Workers in Meeting

Local professionals in alcohol treatment, mental health and criminal justice met recently to discuss services available. Seated, from left—Thurston Taylor, Mountain Comprehensive Care Center's program director; David Bell, executive director at MCCC; Floyd District Judge Harold Stumbo, and Tim Atkinson, Floyd county MCCC team director. Standing—Don Goble, MCCC alcohol outreach worker in Floyd county; Jim Melvin, alcohol treatment co-ordinator at MCCC; Nancy Thomas, MCCC drug outreach supervisor; Teresa Crisp, MCCC data co-ordinator; Frank Layne, state Alcohol and Drug Advisory Council; Can Collins, Layne House manager; Bonnie Crisp, MCCC central services director; Floyd Circuit Clerk Frank DeRossett, Sr., and Frank DeRossett, Jr., probation and parole officer in this county.

For the first time professionals in alcohol treatment, mental health and criminal justice met here recently to discuss services for the five-county area of Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike.

The new district judges were present: Harold J. Stumbo (Floyd county), Nick Frazier (Johnson-Martin), Robert Morgan (Magoffin), and Harry Stamper and Randall Starnes (Pike).

Under revised law, the district judge will handle caseloads formerly belonging to county judges, magistrates and police courts.

The meeting-banquet at the Plantation Motel was attended by 38 representatives from the Big Sandy Area, Eastern State Hospital and the Kentucky Department for Human Resources.

Sponsored by Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, the meeting was designed to assist the new court system by offering the services of agencies such as MCCC. Assistance was offered to aid individuals who need alcohol, drug, and mental health services who are involved with the court.

"There has been a need for this type of meeting for quite some time. Communication and getting together with what everyone has to offer is instrumental since combined efforts produce stronger, efficient outcomes," said Stephen Knowles, Alcohol and Drug Program Director at MCCC.

Knowles stressed the importance of Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, district judges, parole and probation officers and others, assisting each to get the tasks accomplished and to see that individuals receive the rehabilitative services they need.

"Services are available to all Floyd county residents. With channels flowing smoothly, people involved in the court process can be helped more easily," Knowles said.

Volunteers Needed For Mother's March Scheduled Sunday

Volunteers are needed to help with the annual March of Dimes Mothers' March scheduled here Sunday.

Funds raised by the march are used to help thousands of babies who are born with respiratory, heart, or other defects.

"The March of Dimes supports numerous medical services which made early diagnosis of high-risk pregnancies available. They also provide for intensive care nurseries for critically ill newborns," Mrs. Leatha F. Kendrick, Mothers' March chairman, said.

Among the services and research, public health education, and community service programs which the funds raised by the March here will support are films shown in Floyd County high schools concerning birth defects, and the mobile isolette used to transport high risk newborn from this county to Lexington.

Bell Gets Rate Hike; Improvements Ordered

The Kentucky Public Service Commission (PSC) granted a rate increase to South Central Bell Telephone Company, but the adjustment was well below the $54.3 million sought by the company.

The PSC authorized an annual increase of $19.8 million in revenues effective immediately. The increase amounts to about 19 per cent in the cost of monthly telephone service.

The $19.8 million increase includes $5 million specifically earmarked by the PSC for the company's construction program.

The commission directed South Central Bell to give priority to elimination of eight-party service as soon as possible. The PSC also directed that other improvements in service also be made.

"Customer complaints to the commission clearly indicate a growing dissatisfaction with the company's inability to provide the type and grade of service desired by customers on a timely basis. It is obvious that these service deficiencies must be corrected at the earliest practicable time," the commission order reads.

"The evidence in the case shows that the company is aware of these service defects and that the source of the difficulty has been, and continues to be, the high construction costs. These construction costs have increased from year to year and in less than 10 years the cost of constructing telephone plants has increased by almost two-thirds," the order continues.

The commission directed that South Central Bell submit to the commission its proposed detailed annual construction expenditures beginning immediately.

This will give the commission an opportunity to more closely monitor the company's construction program.

The commission also eliminated concession rates—special discounted rates for selected telephone subscribers—for purposes of rate making.

South Central Bell serves about 700,000 customers in 79 Kentucky counties.

News of Wildlife Not All Bad

Although many species of wildlife have been threatened with extinction in the Twentieth Century, not all the news from the animal world is bad.

At least ten creatures "have drawn back from the brink" and their chances for survival "have been measurably enhanced," in recent years, according to the current (December-January) issue of National Wildlife magazine.

The magazine, published by the National Wildlife Federation, notes that the comebacks have coincided with the adoption of tougher laws and regulations in the fields of water pollution, forestry, strip mining, and coastal zoning—environmental protection measures that are easing the pressures on wildlife habitat.

Some animal populations have experienced "dramatic turnabouts" over a period of years and other have made less spectacular short-term recoveries, the NWF bimonthly says, but all of their stories "demonstrate that the ominous trends of recent decades are not irreversible."

In its report, titled "Ten Steps Forward," National Wildlife lists the gray whale, the cougar, the elephant seal, the whooping crane, the sea otter, Kirtland's warbler, the bighorn sheep, the trumpeter swan, the American alligator, and the bald eagle as species that have been given a "new lease on life."

Here are the stories of their comebacks:

—By the start of the 1900's, migrating gray whales, which once passed the California coast by the thousands each winter day, had been reduced by whalers to the vanishing point. Thanks to international protection bestowed in 1937 on "a remnant population in the Pacific—just a few hundred at best," the 30-to-40 foot whales are today counted at about 11,000 as they make their annual journey from the Bering Sea to Mexico.

—A change in public attitude "Out West" gave the cougar a chance for a comeback after it was condemned in the 1960's as a "bloodthirsty killer" of livestock and deer. Gradually researchers convinced the public that the big, shy, secretive cat plays an important role as a predator. Bounties on cougars have been lifted and the cat's population is "generally stable or even increasing."

—Because their fat yielded machine oil, elephant seals were slaughtered down to a population of barely 100 in the 1890's. Today the two-ton creatures number nearly 45,000 and have established their first mainland beachhead—near Santa Cruz, Calif.—since the arrival of the white man on the Pacific Coast. Their continued survival may depend on the effects of offshore oil development on their habitat.

—The whooping crane had a "banner year" in 1977 thanks to some sandhill crane adoptive parents and to "extraordinarily good luck" both in the wild and in captivity. The world population of the whooping crane is only 126, but at times in the past, fewer than 25 of the birds were alive. Since a shooper may lay two eggs but usually will raise only one chick, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service ten years ago began flying eggs from nests in Canada to be hatched by sandhill cranes in Idaho. So far, only five of these whooping cranes have lived to adulthood. Other successful experiments have used artificial light to extend the egg-laying period, special diets for chicks born in captivity, and new artificial insemination techniques.

—The charming, bewhiskered sea otter, back after commercial hunters nearly wiped it out in the early 1900s, now numbers about 2,000. But once again it is in danger from fishermen—because it has a tremendous appetite for abalone, a popular seafood among humans. A partial solution may be to transport some otters from their present range along California's Big Sur coastline to a second breeding colony farther north.

—The tiny, endangered Kirtland's warbler is dependent upon forest fires for its continued existence. Each fall as the rare birds leave their jack pine woodland home in Michigan, a U.S. recovery team starts a controlled fire to reduce plant competition and open pine cones, whose seeds will produce future nesting sites for the warblers. This population jumped ten per cent—to a total of 438 birds—in 1977.

—Although transplanting animals is not always effective, it seems to have worked in the case of the bighorn sheep. A California flock, transplanted from Canada in 1971, has grown from 10 to 23. Two Idaho flocks, also transplanted, now number about 300 sheep.

—Perhaps the "all-time classic comeback story" is that of the trumpeter swan, which has increased from "just a few dozen" in the 1930's to more than 6,000 today. Its successful recovery has been accomplished through strenuous propagation efforts in Alaska and the Pacific Northwest.

—Some Florida homeowners with backyard swimming pools may say the comeback of the American alligator has been too successful. Hide hunters once drastically thinned out the population, but now the gator is in the midst of a spectacular recovery, under federal protection, which has brought its population to about 730,000 in the Southeastern U.S.

—Our national bird, the bald eagle, once "ruled the skies from Florida to Alaska and from Maine to Mexico," but now, in the contiguous United States, it numbers fewer than 4,000. Increased public concern for the powerful bird, federal legislation outlawing some pesticides, and a drive (led by the National Wildlife Federation) to save its habitat have improved the eagle's chances for survival.

The methods used to save these animals, says National Wildlife, represent "eleventh-hour responses to emergencies" rather than "solutions" to the problems of imperiled wildlife. The real answer, the magazine concludes, lies in a "strong national commitment to habitat preservation and a deeper public understanding of the delicate relationships that bind all life together."

Public Hearing Set By House Committee

The House Committee on Cities will spend most of the month of January conducting public hearings on major legislation it must act upon during the 1978 General Assembly.

This action was proposed by Rep. Bob Benson (D-Louisville), chairman, at the committee's first session today.

Sen. David Karem (D-Louisville), chairman of the Senate Cities Committee concurred in attempts to hold joint hearings on the major issues.

The cities committees will be acting upon a bill containing a complete municipal code put together by the Municipal Statutes Revision committee. This committee has been working on the legislative proposal since the 1976 legislative session.

Another issue on which Benson plans to hold hearings is pension legislation.

Louis DePalaise (R-Ft. Mitchell) asked the committee to temporarily pass over his legislation extending the landlord-tenant law since he anticipates some changes after meetings with legislators from second class cities. Some cities have adopted ordinances similar to the proposed state legislation and action is expected to be based on experiences in those cities.

Two items of legislation also outlined for committee members deal with fire-ratings in cities. House Bill 42 establishes a seven-member board before which cities or individuals might appeal fire insurance rate changes and its companion bill establishes a system for establishing fire losses in each city.

A bill to create a department of buildings, housing and construction will be considered in light of Gov. Julian Carroll's recent executive order creating such a department.

Have your blood pressure checked.

Carroll Stresses State's Growth

Frankfort, Ky. (Jan. 3, 1978)—Gov. Julian Carroll delivered his 'State of the Commonwealth' address Tuesday night to a joint session of the 1978 Kentucky General Assembly, saying that in the three years of his term, "Kentucky has experienced unprecedented growth and development."

Gov. Carroll quoted several statistics comparing Kentucky's unemployment rate of 4.1 per cent to the 6.3 per cent national average; the 57.9 per cent increase in Kentucky farm income; a 38.7 per cent increase in manufacturing income; a 32.1 per cent increase in construction trade income; and a 124.8 per cent increase in personal income attributed to mining.

"Our efforts at increased tourism," the Governor said, "now bring in $1 billion a year."

Gov. Carroll said state government has "exercised prudent fiscal management . . . maintained a well-balanced tax system that provides adequately for our needs and yet is one of the lowest in the nation. We have no debt issues in trouble and our recent bond issues show Kentucky to have a strong financial rating. Our unemployment fund is solvent."

Gov. Carroll said that state crime programs also have been successful. He noted that the state Justice Department's crime prevention program has helped cut burglaries drastically in Campbellsville, while burglary in Owensboro, Covington and Louisville have dropped by about 30 per cent.

The Governor said the state corrections system is being reformed. "Our institutions have been outdated and our personnel have been poorly trained. But we are changing that. We have brought accountability and openness and understanding to the system."

Gov. Carroll had special praise for a truancy program operating in Jefferson county. He said mandatory training and guidance, rather than expulsion of the truant, "will hopefully get him (the truant) back on the right path and give him skills so that he may go forward."

Gov. Carroll emphasized that the program also demonstrated how local and state governments can cooperate. The state departments of justice, human resources and education worked with the Jefferson County School Board and the Jefferson county courts on the truancy program.

The Governor said Kentucky has made "great strides" in improving its education system, particularly vocational education. He said recommendations by the state Commission for post-secondary education resulted in his creation of a Department for Occupational Education and a State Board of Occupational Education.

He also indicated that the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection is working to protect the quality of Kentucky's air, water and land resources. He asked the legislature to bring Kentucky into compliance with new federal strip mine reclamation laws and pointed out the need for safe disposal of toxic substances and hazardous waste.

The Governor said recent reorganization of the Department for Human Resources has resulted in better "efficiency, coordination and direction," launching "new and innovative programs" and delivering welfare services to the needy and punishing welfare abuses.

Gov. Carroll also credited the state commerce department for its film commission, international division, and river ports program. He said these programs contributed millions of dollars to Kentucky's economy.

Perkins Says Action Needed On U.S. Coal-Haul Roads

Congressman Carl D. Perkins has hailed the decision of the U.S. Departments of Energy and Transportation to make a long range study of the nation's coal transportation system.

"But they'd better hurry up with the study if coal is going to figure in the President's 1985 energy goals," the Kentucky Congressman said.

Perkins earlier had called upon the two departments to work out plans for dealing with the inseparable problems of energy and transportation.

In a letter from Assistant Secretary Alvin L. Alm to Perkins, the Department of Energy agreed.

"Clearly, the energy transportation system that exists today is not capable of moving the projected mix of energy supplies needed to achieve the President's 1985 energy goals. The system will have to be enhanced considerably," Alm said.

Perkins had told the Secretary of Energy, James Schlesinger, that "in our region, coal production depends on an adequate transportation system. Frankly, we do not have it at this time."

Perkins told Schlesinger and Transportation Secretary Brock Adams that the rail systems that serve Eastern Kentucky are in a deplorable condition. He said equipment breakdowns are frequent and that some tracks are in such bad shape that coal trains have to creep along at low speeds.

In addition, he said the area's highway system was not designed to accommodate the heavy coal traffic it is now bearing.

"MY ENGINE RAN WHEN IT WAS OFF

I'd switch the ignition off but the engine wouldn't stop. Instead it spluttered, raked and coughed. Then I discovered WYNN'S[®] SPIT-FIRE. Now my troubles are over," writes a happy user. Yes, engine "after run" caused by heavy carbon build-up can be not only exasperating, but downright dangerous mechanically. So be kind to your car and yourself. Add a can of WYNN'S SPIT-FIRE to your gas tank today. Now available at all

HECK'S

Assistant Secretary Alm said the two cabinet departments are embarking upon the joint study in order to make recommendations to the President. It will include rail as well as alternate transportation modes.

"Since a large part of the President's energy plan is predicated on the greater use of coal, and due to the obvious reliance of coal movement on the rail system, this will be a crucial part of the transportation study," Alm said.

In line with his interest in coal transportation problems and the greater use of Eastern Kentucky coal, Perkins has sponsored legislation to provide greater federal assistance for highways in coal areas.

He also stimulated a current study by the Army Corps of Engineers of the feasibility of a navigation project on the Big Sandy River, to make river shipment of coal possible.

Present Christmas Play at OLM

Among the students participating in the Christmas plays presented at Our Lady of the Mountains Parent-Teacher meeting December 19, were, from left to right, Anvia Rubado, Tom Hereford, David Hereford, Beth Holbrook, Jeff Cook, Mary Burchett, David Greene, Tim Van Dine, and Rico Rivera.

The Parent-Teacher's Organization of Our Lady of the Mountains School, Paintsville, held its third meeting of the year Monday, December 19, at 7:30 p.m. with Chairman Thomas Hereford, Prestonsburg, presiding.

Following the prayer by Father William Poole, of Martin, the business session was held. It was announced that John Gannon, of Paintsville, will serve as co-chairman of the group.

Mrs. William Cook, Prestonsburg, general chairman of the annual citrus fruit sale, reported on deliveries.

"The fruit sale has been so successful that operating funds needed by the school at the beginning of the year have been met," Mrs. Cook said. The magazine sales also helped to achieve this fundraising goal.

Mrs. Cook thanked committee member officers, Mrs. Kathy Rubado, Mrs. Marilyn Thomas, and Mrs. Betty Marshall for their cooperation throughout the drive, and other members and parents. Mrs. Cook called Dr. Roberts Miranda a "super salesman."

The program was then turned over to the school children who provided the entertainment for the evening.

Sister Alma Marie's seventh and eighth grade classes presented the play "Bethlehem Is In Your Heart," narrated by Tom Rowland. The cast included Jeff Cook, Beth Holbrook, Mary Burchett, David Hereford, David Greene, Tom Hereford, Tim Van Dine, Anvia Rubado, Enrique Rivera, Carlos Harris, Paula Mitchell, B. J. Sturgill, Ray Dean Clark, Stanley Sharkey, Adele Barber, and Joe Pigg.

The fifth and sixth grades, under the direction of teacher Sister Mildred,

No Blackwater in '74?

Record Environmental Fines Imposed and Collected in '77

Record environmental fines and penalties of approximately $692,000 were imposed and collected by the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection during 1977.

The annual figure, boosted by record penalties collected for air and water pollution violations, exceeded the 1976 total by almost $300,000. Officials of the department say that the difference between the two figures reflects a substantial increase in enforcement activity by the department over the past half decade.

Total penalties collected for each of the last five calendar years were $48,369 in 1973; $126,460 in 1974; $322,040 in 1975; $400,760 in 1976; and $692,531 in 1977.

The largest penalty ever imposed by the department, $250,000, was collected this past year. The penalty for air pollution violations was paid by Allid Chemical Corp.'s Sernet Solvay Division at Ashland.

The annual increase also reflects a crackdown on Eastern Kentucky blackwater violations, caused by improper operation of coal preparation plants, according to water quality officials in the department. In 1977 blackwater penalties, which resulted from agreed orders negotiated by the department's legal section, totaled $106,800.

Penalties last year relating to blackwater discharges were collected from: Blue Diamond Coal Co., Leatherwood of Perry county, $25,000; Crescent Coal Co., Millers Creek of Estill county, $7,000; Harlan Fuel Co., Harlan county, $25,000; Kentucky Carbon Corp., Charleston, West Virginia and Phelps of Pike county, $6,000; Kodak Mining Co., Inc., Kodak of Perry county, $3,000; New Era Coal Resources, Pikeville of Pike county, $23,800; Pathfork-Harlan Coal Co., Harlan county, $9,000; and Sovereign Coal Corp., Phelps of Pike county, $8,000.

In the last four years, blackwater spills resulted in collection of $10,000 in 1974; $50,000 in 1975; $4,000 in 1976; and $113,000 in 1977. No penalties were collected in 1973.

Penalties in the amount of $1,000 each were collected from Southern Material Services and Green River Disposal as a result of agreed orders entered into in December for violations of waste disposal laws and regulations. These were the first cash penalties ever collected in connection with landfill operations resulting from agreed orders negotiated between the companies and the department's division of hazardous materials and waste management and legal section.

Penalties for strip mining and reclamation violations amounted to $316,000 during 1977. Comparable figures for the four previous calendar years were: 1973, $45,550; 1974, $114,700; 1975, $222,000, and 1976, $367,500.

Major penalties in 1977 (those of $5,000 or more) for reclamation violations, the companies involved and the month of collection were: February, T & T Darby Coal Co., Inc., $5,000; February, Boyd County Coal Co., $5,000; March, Falcon Coal Co., Inc., $5,000; April, J and G Coal Co., $5,000; May, A. T. Ruth Coal Co., $5,000; May, Hawkeye Elkhorn Coal Co., $5,000; June, Golden Glow Coal Co., $5,000; July, T & T Darby Coal Co., $5,000; October, Cairness Coal Co., $18,000; November, Cairness Coal Co., $10,000; and December, Renfro Const. Co., $5,000.

Altogether, there were 121 agreed orders reached between coal companies and the state strip mining and reclamation regulatory authority. These orders called for both penalties and remedial measures to correct conditions causing strip mining violations. A number of other agreed orders called for remedial measures and compliance schedules.

In October, the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection took an unprecedented action in utilizing emergency powers of the secretary to issue abate and alleviate orders against five coal companies operating in Harlan county. The firms involved were Dean Trucking Co., St. Charles, Va.; T & T Darby Coal, Inc., of Jonesville, Va.; J & F Coal, Inc., Jonesville, Va.; Kentucky Bell Coal Mining Co., Pineville, and J & D Coal Co., Inc., Lenarue.

This successful legal action, according to department officials, accounts for much of the dramatic increase in bond forfeiture collections.

The amount collected in 1977 exceeds the total collected in the previous 10 years combined. The program has been a cooperative effort between the Bureau of Surface Mining and the Department's Office of General Counsel.

QUESTION BOX

The Question Box answers from the Bible to questions from readers. By Pastor Forrest Howe, M Div., Box 462, Allen, Ky.

QUESTION: What are the "unknown tongues" of I Corinthians 14:2?

ANSWER:

There have been basically two possible answers to this question. The first school of thought is that Paul was talking about an experience called ecstatic utterances. That is a voice pattern that does not lend itself to a language. It may be syllables attached which have no meaning. The second school is that these were known languages as would be spoken by a nation or tribe of people.

Before answering this question I must mention a very important principle of Bible interpretation. The Bible can be used to interpret itself. One must not take outside ideas, neither his own or his cultures and force the Bible to fit this mold. Rather, the Bible must shape outside ideas. All texts concerning a topic must be weighed before a conclusion is reached. They must be considered in their context both grammatical and historical. It is because this basic rule of Bible interpretation is violated that there are so many different teachings of the Scripture including that of I Corinthians 14:2.

The first thing we notice about I Corinthians 14:2 in the King James Version is that the word "unknown" is in italics. This means that this is a supplied word and is not in the original Greek. The translators of the King James Version felt it was needed to make a clearer understanding of the text. Unfortunately in this case it does not.

Now if this word "unknown" is eliminated as in the original Greek text then we are left only with the word "tongue". It could also be translated into English as "language". Indeed this is the primary meaning of this word. This word is used in Acts 2 to describe the phenomenon experienced by the apostles at Pentecost. We know that these were human languages as the different peoples heard and understood what was being said. Also in Acts 10:46 this word is used to describe again the phenomenon of Cornelius and his household. Peter says in v. 47 that it was the same gift they received in Acts 2. So in both cases it is obvious that the reference is to languages and not to ecstatic utterances.

Now applying our principle of interpretation referred to earlier we can see only one conclusion. The "tongues" in I Corinthians 14:2 can only be human languages as in Acts 2 and 10. To interpret this as "ecstatic utterance" can only be accomplished by bringing an outside source to interpret the Bible and this violating this basic rule of Biblical interpretation.

One final thing before closing. There was in Paul's day ecstatic utterances practiced in the pagan temples. It was a well-known experience and was called EKSTASIA from which we get ecstatic. Surely if Paul were referring to ecstatic utterances in I Corinthians 14:2 he would have used this well accepted word. He did not. (Write Pastor Howe for free Bible study guides.)

Pike Firms Fined $12,000

Three Pike County coal companies have paid the state $12,000 in civil penalties for surface mining violations on five strip mine sites in that county.

The penalties and agreements by the companies to perform corrective measures on the sites followed an informal conference with the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

Hawkeye Elkhorn Coal Co., Inc., of Pikeville, paid the state two $2,000 penalties for failing to maintain adequate silt control on a site near McCombs and allowing spoil off the permitted area, failing to construct a hollow fill (area where spoil from operations is deposited), and allowing black water to leave the bench area of another operation in the same area.

Pike County Airport Construction Co., Inc., a subsidiary of Hawkeye Elkhorn, paid a $3,000 penalty for not constructing a haul road to a hollow fill area as proposed in the company's permit application.

Governor Elkhorn, of Pikeville, which has a contractual arrangement with Hawkeye Elkhorn, paid the largest penalty, $5,000, for failing to comply with the terms of a previous agreed order between the company and the department. The company had violated surface mining regulations by not properly maintaining access roads and silt control structures on two areas permitted to the company near Hatfield and not producing adequate vegetative cover. According to reports filed by state reclamation inspectors, massive slides were developing as a result.

Governor Elkhorn has submitted a plan of correction to the department for approval that included methods to contain silt on the sites and to bring all areas of reclamation up to a satisfactory level.

According to the terms of the agreed order, corrective work must begin within three working days after the plan has been approved by the department and the company notified of the approval.

Awards Boys' Clubs Delinquency Grant

The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) of the U.S. Department of Justice has continued its drive to reduce and prevent juvenile crime with a major grant to Boys' Clubs of America, the national youth organization announced today.

A total of more than $700,000 over two years will fund a national project for delinquency prevention, initially involving Boys' Club facilities and professional staff in nine test cities. The project will reach over 2,000 high-risk youth, half of whom are not now affiliated with any national or local youth-serving agency.

Selection of the sites was based on each community's need to provide services and facilities for large numbers of potentially-delinquent youth. Boys' Club project approaches will vary from "outreach" to unaffiliated youth through police, schools, and other youth agencies, to development of responsibility and teamwork through training in outdoor skills like mountaineering and rescue work, conducted in "wilderness" areas.

Each of the nine test programs developed will be studied and evaluated for later adaptation by other Boys' Clubs of America affiliates. Clubs in the following cities have been chosen as test sites: Binghamton and Schenectady, N. Y.; Hollywood and Richmond, Calif.; Bridgeport, Conn.; Omaha, Neb.; Las Cruces, N. Mex.; Asbury Park, N. J.; and Waco, Texas.

"Boys' Clubs have been forerunners for many years in the development of positive youth programs specifically designed to prevent delinquent behavior," said Alex A. Maleski, Director of National Manpower and Program Services at Boys' Clubs of America national headquarters.

"Low-income, one parent, inner-city—these are often contributions factors to delinquency development. Since many Boys' Clubs serve areas with youth affected by one or more of these factors, (Boys' Clubs) are a natural place for an intensified effort like this one."

Objectives of the project include direct youth involvement in planning and operating various programs and activities, as well as actual paid employment for some 50 young participants who will serve as "peer leaders" in their roles as part-time staff aides.

Participating clubs will also recruit some 150 volunteers from among the youth, parents, educators and leaders of the pilot site communities to provide support and services for the project.

The Boys' Clubs of America currently serve over one million youth in more than 700 communities throughout all 50 states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. Previous major national projects have included youth employment, preparation for family life, alcohol abuse prevention, and health education and services.

The Abortion Tree

I hang here on the Abortion Tree
Dead, yes, dead as can be
Which of you was my mother
Why did you do this to me?

I did no harm to anyone
Had no chance to laugh or cry
Yet you, my mother, condemned me
You hired a killer, said I must die.

You had me murdered before I was born
Before I could learn to pray
Yes, before I could utter the Name of God
You killed me, then threw me away.

You thréw me away like garbage
Your heart was calloused, cold
Did you forget, my mother
I have an immortal soul?

Yes, you had me murdered before I was born
Yet I might have been the one
The only one to care for you
To soothe and comfort you, my Mom.

No one can predict the future
Who knows what your sufferings may be
I won't be around to help you, Mom
You hung me on the Abortion Tree.

Rev. Paul Hudson it.

Jamison Healing Ministry Sets Two-Day Meetings Here

The 5,000-seat Prestonsburg High School auditorium will be the scene of a two-day series of charismatic healing services, starting Saturday, January 21, with Vicki Jamison, of Dallas, Tex., ministering, according to Ed Bowlds, coordinator for the event. Services will be held Saturday at 7:30 p.m., and Sunday at 2 p.m.

Bowlds explained that Vicki Jamison has a "single delivery of Bible teaching and impromptu singing, often spontaneously composing Scripture tunes which exhort her listeners. Accompanied by her staff pianist, Sharon Bell, she sings many of her own composed and recorded songs in addition to gospel favorites of the public."

He added that she is author of books and cassettes of her services, and produces "Miracle Service" specials for television airing from her actual meetings in the states.

In May, 1972, Mrs. Jamison had an encounter with death resulting in a life-changing experience with Jesus Christ, which thrust her into her current healing ministry, Bowlds said.

"It can be said," he noted, "that Vicki, ministering in this country and abroad with her husband, Wesley, is a unique person in a ministry designed by God to bring healing to people of all faiths and persuasions. One really sees 'God in action' in her services."

Schools, civic groups, senior citizens and others from this and surrounding communities desiring to attend by private or chartered bus either or both Vicki's initial services in this area are invited to contact Bowlds at 37 So. Lake Dr., Prestonsburg, 41653, for special seating arrangements in the auditorium.

TALKING ABOUT ALCOHOL
A Public Service Feature Presented By Mountain Comprehensive Care Center

By A. K. WEBB (Public Information Specialist)

He came for help, swearing off alcohol. The past three months have been a perpetual drunk, averaging two pints a day.

He's running scared, afraid of going into delirium tremens, a cancer to the alcoholic.

Medically speaking, DT's are defined: A variety of acute mental disturbance marked by delirium with trembling and great excitement and attended by anxiety, mental distress, sweating and precordial pain. It is one of the forms of alcoholic psychosis, but is also seen in opium addiction.

He's had them before, so he knows the feeling. Starting with hallucinations, he says DT's will soon follow. Asked by an alcoholism counselor if he had been seeing or hearing anything unusual, he replied, "I sure have. Peckings on the window and the outside."

Fervent to be admitted to a hospital where he says, "They will lock me up and a doctor can take care of me if I go into DT's."

Insisting hospital is the only alternative, he is anxious to get medical attention. "I want to go to the Pikeville hospital where I stayed for 16 days last winter," he explains.

Uncontrollable drinking started in 1967 for him. The last three years have been everyday heavy drinking—pint, fifth, case of beer—anything he could get.

When asked if he would consider attending regular counseling sessions for his alcohol problem, he seemed much encouraged and eager to want help. The alcohol counselor said meeting dates would be established when he was over this drinking spell.

After the counselor's urging to enter the non-medical detoxification unit (Layne House) in Prestonsburg and explanation of the facility, he finally agreed to go.

Another alternative after going to the Layne House would be traveling to Lexington for a 30-day stay in Alcoholism Recovery Community (ARC), which offers encouragement to end his drinking career.

He found answers here, received advice on steps to follow to cut down on drinking. Decision now lays on his shoulder to accept the guidance or to wallow in his alcoholism.

The same program and help is extended to other alcoholics. It's here for the asking.

For information and help write Alcohol, Front Avenue, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653 or call 1-800-422-1060.

Automotive Safety Hotline
Vehicle defects have been a factor in 6-12 per cent of all automobile accidents that occurred within the past year. Thus, automotive manufacturer "recalls" have been increasing as a result of more intense investigations into these vehicle safety defects. Many of these vehicles may have had defects which were under a manufacturer's "recall" of which the owner was unaware.

If a car is under a manufacturer's "recall," the manufacturer has the responsibility to notify the owner of the "recall." However, a major problem arises when three or four consumers have owned the car. It then becomes difficult for the manufacturer to trace the ownership of the car through the different owners. Consequently, there are a number of owners that never receive official notification of the "recall" of their automobiles.

Anyone knowing or suspecting that his vehicle is under "recall" should contact the manufacturer regarding the recall. If the car is less than eight years old, the present owner is also entitled to have the vehicle repaired free of charge at a local dealer. For this reason, the dealers are regularly notified by the manufacturer of recalled automobiles.

There is also a toll-free Automotive Safety Hotline that supplies consumers with general information on vehicle recalls. This number is 1-800-424-9393. For example, recently a 1976-'77 automobile was recalled because of a defect in the front wheel braking power. The manufacturer was responsible for notifying each purchaser of this recalled model to take his car to a dealer for inspection. However, if you suspect your car may be under a manufacturer's recall and you do not receive a manufacturer's notification, the Automotive Safety Hotline should be able to help you find out if your car is under recall.

This Hotline will give you a general description of the make and model of the vehicle under recall and the type of defect. At the present time though the Hotline cannot provide information on specific automobiles that were purchased from the line of cars in question. For specific information, you will need to contact the automobile manufacturer or the Office of Defect Investigations at the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, Department of Transportation, 400 7th Street S.W., Washington, D.C. 20590.

Consumer Program In 4th KET Season

"Consumer Survival Kit" begins its fourth season on KET with a new look. On Monday, January 16, at 8 p.m., the award-winning series switches to a multi-topic, magazine format.

"Consumer Survival Kit" continues the positive, money-saving approach of presenting solutions to consumer problems, but there is a new emphasis on consumer issues that have an immediate impact on the viewer.

Aided by on-location film reports, studio demonstrations and dramatic sketches, the 1978 season looks into the second home market, answers questions about solar energy, offers advice on how to deal with "kiddie consumerism" and, of course, offers a helping hand to those preparing their own 1977 income tax.

Two new features appear periodically throughout the year—"Survivor of the Week" shares letters from viewers who escaped or avoided a consumer problem and "Con of the Week" focuses on consumer rip-offs.

Larry Lewman, returning as "Consumer Survival Kit" host, is joined by reporters Rhea Seikin and Brenda Holmes. George Allen tackles investigative studies.

"Consumer Survival Kit" airs on KET Mondays at 8 p.m. Captioned repeats of individual programs are broadcast on subsequent Saturdays at 5 p.m.

The Automotive Safety Hotline (1-800-424-9393) also takes complaints concerning safety defects in vehicles. Following your telephone complaint, you will be sent a questionnaire to fill out regarding the safety problem. This complaint will then be forwarded to the manufacturer and the Office of Defect Investigation for review and possible investigation.

If you have a consumer complaint regarding another matter, contact the Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. The office has found that it can most effectively handle consumer complaints and encourages you to write if you have a consumer complaint. However, if you have an emergency situation or just need some information call the toll-free consumer hotline number which is 1-800-372-2960.

Coal Firms Fined $15,000

The Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection collected $15,000 in December from five companies for violations of strip mine regulations.

Companies fined were:

- Renfro Construction Co., $5,000 for constructing an access road outside the permit boundaries for surface mining near Cotton Creek of the Clear Fork River, failing to maintain adequate silt control on both permitted and unpermitted access roads, and mining prior to construction and certification of a silt control structure by a registered engineer. The company agreed to improve silt control on access roads and submit proper certification for un-certified silt control structures.
- Addington Brothers Mining Co., $3,000 for placing spoil (material removed in gaining access to the coal) outside the area under permit for surface mining near Middle Fork in Elliott county, pushing material in the hollow fill rather than hauling it, and failing to perform proper reclamation on the slope of the mine site. The company has agreed to reclaim the unpermitted area disturbed by the operation.
- D & M Coal Co., $3,000 for allowing a slide to occur on a strip mine site on Burgess Creek in Knott county causing off-site damage to a stream. The company has agreed to remove material from the stream, dress down the slide areas and seed and mulch the area affected by the slide.
- Peyton Mining, $2,000 for allowing water containing silt to run off the area under permit for surface mining near Rabbit Ridge in Hopkins county. The company has agreed to repair a diversion ditch to prevent further discharges of water from the area.
- C & B Excavating Co., $2,000 for removing approximately 600 tons of coal from a site near Frakes in Bell county without a surface mining permit. The company has agreed to either apply for a strip mining permit or submit a plan of reclamation to the department for approval for the disturbed land.

Former Rebel Headquarters On Nat'l Historic Register

Frankfort, Ky. (Jan. 4, 1978)—West-Metcalf House, a house once used as a Confederate staff headquarters, has been accepted for listing on the National Register of Historic Places in Washington, D. C.

The house is located almost two miles south of Mill Springs in Wayne county and is owned by Mrs. Howard Burton, of Brownwood, Texas. The building is being recognized for its significance in the areas of architecture and military history. It has been previously listed on the Survey of Historic Sites in Kentucky.

According to Gloria Mills, a historian with the Kentucky Heritage Commission, the brick residence, built around 1800, is one of the oldest standing brick structures in Wayne county. It follows the standard Georgian design of one and a half stories. At one time there were two other houses identical in style and construction to this one, but they no longer exist. Close to the middle of the east end of the house's brick section is a one-story, two-room frame portion that was probably added around 1840. It was once used as the kitchen and dining room.

Two rooms make up the first floor layout of the brick residence. Much of the original woodwork is intact, including the chair railing and picture molding. However, the structure is in need of repair. The upstairs contains one large room with sloping walls created by the roof angle.

Mills said that the house was built for Captain Isaac West, a Revolutionary War veteran and a member of the state legislature. West acquired a grant for the land in 1799. He was a farmer who had come to Kentucky from North Carolina, but was originally from Virginia. West's son, Allen Russell West, inherited the farm and enlarged the house in 1840 with the addition of the east frame section.

Allen Russell West, a Union sympathizer, still owned the house when it was used by Confederate Gen. Felix Zollicoffer as his headquarters during the Civil War. At this time, the residence achieved its greatest historical importance by serving in December, 1861, as Gen. Zollicoffer's headquarters prior to the battle at Logan's Crossroads near Mill Springs.

The Metcalfs, through marriage into the West family, were later owners of the house.

New District Courts Are Officially Open

Calling the district courts the most important courts in the Kentucky Court of Justice, state Supreme Court Chief Justice John S. Palmore participated Monday in ceremonies here marking the opening of the state's unified system of justice.

Palmore said the district courts are the most important, because those are the courts which will mainly be used by Kentucky citizens. He noted that the 113 district courts have replaced some 600 police, quarterly-county and magisterial courts in Kentucky counties.

"The quality of a society can probably be accurately measured by the justice of its courts," Palmore told a crowd of 100 gathered in the district courtroom of the Boyle County Courthouse. "We have lived in a system where law was dispensed and justice delivered by men who were not trained in the law. That changes today with these district courts."

Palmore said the old system of 600 lower courts developed in the late 1700s, when Kentucky was first being settled and money was scarce. He said that the scarcity of money prompted justice officials to operate from fees collected for their services.

Palmore said no one knows the cost of the system of 600 lower courts.

Palmore noted that the new district court system begins its labors without adequate facilities in many parts of Kentucky. Several counties have not yet located space for court records, while other counties have not yet provided a district courtroom.

After his speech, Palmore administered the oath of office to 50th Judicial District Judge Darren Peckler. Peckler, who will serve Boyle and Mercer counties, then took his first action in office by swearing in Harold Burke, of Harrodsburg, as his trial commissioner for Mercer county.

District courts are the fourth level of the state's unified court system, approved by voters in 1975. A state Supreme Court was created, and an appeals court and circuit courts make up the other levels.

A small claims division of district court also began operation Monday. Claims up to $500 may be filed in the division, with no more than 25 filed by the same person in a year. The filing fee is $10, and the claimant must pay the cost of certified letters used in serving summonses. Claimants do not have to have lawyers to file a claim.

KET Profiles Kentucky Actor-Farmer, Jenkins

Ken Jenkins' dual career, acting and farming, may seem incompatible, but the combination works well for him.

KET visits Jenkins at his farm near Auburn on a half-hour special, "Kentucky Profile," Monday, January 16 at 10 p.m.

Often said to be "the best actor in Kentucky," Jenkins has also done considerable work with embryo transplants in cattle. The results of selective breeding, plus the acceleration of time, have given him a sense of looking into the future.

Legislative Wrap-Up

Frankfort, Ky. (Jan. 3 thru Jan. 6)—The 1978 session of the General Assembly opened Tuesday with most observers agreeing the legislature got off to a faster start than ever before. By week's end, the first piece of legislation has passed the Senate with several other bills in a position to be voted on early in the week.

Sen. John Berry (D-New Castle) has the distinction of sponsoring the first bill to be voted out of either chamber. SB 51 provides for the elimination of special probate commissioners from district courts. Berry said the practice of using these offices for patronage had abounded in both parties and his goal was to eliminate such patronage.

Two other bills that could be ready for action in the Senate next week are SB 64 and SB 67. SB 64 would exempt the Court of Justice from furnishing statistics about criminals to the state justice department except by agreement between the Court of Justice and the secretary of Justice. SB 67 would delete the requirement that a bank must close on another day if it elects to remain open on a minor holiday.

Sen. Richard Weisenberger (D-Mayfield) is the sponsor of SB 64 while Sen. Pat McCuiston (D-Pembroke) is sponsoring SB 67.

In the House next week, bills on personal service contracts and on refund of motor vehicle usage taxes are in position to be passed. HB 22 allows purchasers of cars replaced or refunded by dealers as defective within 60 days of the purchase to obtain a refund of the usage tax paid when the vehicle was registered. Currently the limit is 10 days after purchase and only when a replacement is made.

HB 110 would subject personal service contracts, which have been a controversial matter in recent months, to the review of a special legislative subcommittee.

HB 22 is sponsored by Rep. Kenneth Imes (D-Murray) and HB 110 is sponsored by Rep. Joe Clarke (D-Danville).

OPENING ACTIVITIES

Among opening day activities of the 1978 legislature was the swearing in of 34 new legislators in the House and Senate and the assignment of the 138 lawmakers in both chambers to 15 standing committees that deal with matters from agriculture to utilities.

The House floor and gallery was packed Tuesday night for Gov. Julian Carroll's State of the Commonwealth address, a tradition of the session. The Governor's budget message is scheduled to be delivered Jan. 17. That's when the Governor will say how much money he thinks should be appropriated for the state's services and programs, based on the revenue the state is expected to have in 1978-'80.

HEARINGS PLANNED

Lawmakers and others interested will have an opportunity to attend public hearings on several subjects in the coming days of the General Assembly.

Top-level officials of the state transportation department, state police and federal highways bureau will discuss their agencies' operations in a special meeting set for 10 a.m. Jan. 11 in Committee Room A of the Capitol Annex.

The House Committee on Cities will join the Senate cities committee in holding joint hearings, the first of which is set for 9 a.m. Tuesday in Room 327 of the Capitol.

A public hearing on special utility rates will be held at 10:30 a.m. Jan. 26 by the Senate Public Utilities and Transportation Committee. Location for the hearing will be announced later. Lifeline rates for needy or old people will be the subject of discussion.

Class Organization

Meetings, January 24

The Mayo State Vocational-Technical School will hold organizational meetings for the following classes Tuesday, January 24, at 6 p.m.:

Auto body repair, basic auto mechanics (tune-up), woodworking (furniture repair), masonry (brick work), small appliance repair, basic electricity, data processing (key punch, programming), business and office (typing, bookkeeping), machine shop (machine operator), welding.

All interested persons will meet at one time in the auditorium of Mayo School to organize each craft. The classes are designed for persons who are presently employed or who are unemployed but may gain employment or benefit from the training.

Further information may be obtained by calling 606-789-5321. Applications may be taken by phone.

State Workers Get More Car Expense

Gov. Julian Carroll has signed an executive order increasing the expense allowance for those who must use their personal cars for state business from 14 cents a mile to 16 cents per mile.

The regulation applies to state officers, members of boards and commissions and to state employees. The executive order noted the increase was "due to the rising cost of gasoline and other petroleum products."

The emergency regulation takes effect upon filing with the Legislative Research Commission.

Committee agreed to start hearings on issues which may affect the budget. Meetings are set for 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, Room A, Annex and 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, Room C, Annex.

SPACE DISCUSSED

As in the past, space for legislators has been a topic of concern. Committee chairmen have been allocated office space since the last regular session, in 1974, but other lawmakers have only their desks in the Chambers.

A bill introduced by Rep. Mark Fitzgerald (D-Cynthiana) would give the General Assembly control of office space in the Capitol Annex, although Fitzgerald said later he didn't expect to get the entire space, but hoped for some.
