

Harold Firm Sells At $10.9 Million

Zapata Acquires Second Company In Floyd County

The Zapata Corporation, of Houston, Texas, announced last Wednesday that its subsidiary, Zapata Elkhorn, Inc., had completed the purchase of the Bebe Coal Corporation, of Harold, for approximately $10.9 million.

The transaction was consummated here last Tuesday between Zapata representatives and Emmett Conn, sole owner of Bebe Coal, but was not announced till a day later.

Included in the purchase are a coal processing plant and a rail loading facility, located outside Harold, and approximately 2,500 acres of coal lands, most of which lies in the Mud Creek valley.

Zapata said that a unit-train loading facility at Harold, which now is in the planning stage, will "substantially enhance" the company's capability for coal shipment from the Bebe operation and other mines in the area which the Texas firm acquired last September.

(Zapata's September, 1977 purchase involved acquisition of four coal companies headed by Harry Hale Ranier, of Prestonsburg—Triple Elkhorn Mining Co. and Ridgeway Fuel Corp., of Prestonsburg, B & H Elkhorn Coal Co., Lexington, and R & C Processing Co., Paintsville. Conveyed were approximately 14,000 acres of coal rights, operations of the mining firms in the Allen-Martin, Sugar Loaf and Betsy Layne sections of the county, and a coal preparation plant near Patrick, Lawrence county. The purchase price was reported at $30 million.)

William H. Flynn, Zapata chairman and president, said his company intends to increase its activities in the coal business in Eastern Kentucky, Tennessee and Pennsylvania. He also announced that as a result of the company's expanded operations in the area headquarters of Zapata Fuels, Inc., are being moved from Houston to Lexington. The move is expected to be completed in July.

Conn's development of the Bebe operation is another chapter in the Eastern Kentucky success story which has evolved from the phenomenal coal boom. The firm, originally owned by Conn and two partners, began as a minor operation, with a comparatively small tippie leased at Harold. The Harold man later acquired sole ownership of the company and within the last three years has built a tippie and coal processing plant at Harold which cost a reported $1 million. Present rail facilities there will accommodate 50 coal cars.

In addition to the Bebe and other Floyd county properties, Zapata Fuels operations include mines and processing

This Town...That World

Memorial Day, 1978 . . . the day the U.S. Postal Service set for the new and, of course, costlier postage stamp to take over from the 13-cent brand—and that very day every postoffice in the land was locked tight, barring millions of the long-suffering from buying stamps or getting the mail that cost so many so much to get on the road. Sound thinking—according to USPS standards.

KENTUCKY NIGHTINGALE

Most of us have read of the English nightingale and how those fortunate enough to hear its night-song listen, held in thrall by its melody. It's quite likely that I'll be among those who will never get around to where these charmers hold forth, but I'll be perfectly satisfied if that Kentucky mockingbird which carolled for us the other afternoon, will do a few encores.

How old does a bass get? A friend of mine declares that one I caught has been growing for 15 years now.

Voters Stayed Home in Drove For the Primary

Last Tuesday's primary election surprised nobody—neither in the light balloting nor in the final results.

Both parties polled, altogether, fewer than 3,000 votes out of a voter registration exceeding 20,000. And, as expected, the Democratic incumbents, Senator Walter "Dee" Huddleston and Congressman Carl D. Perkins, polled lopsided margins over their opponents and easily won re-election.

In two precincts of this county, Congressman Perkins received all the votes cast. It was 32-0 at Little Mud and 110-0 at the Head of Mud. In Clear Creek and Weeksburg precincts Perkins opponent received only one vote.

The 113 votes cast in the Democratic race for Congress at John Ant precinct and the 100 cast at the Head of Mud were the heaviest in the county.

The results of the voting in this county:

Democrats

For U.S. Senator—George W. Tolhurst, Louisville, 218; Jack R. Watson, Lexington, 177; Walter "Dee" Huddleston, Elizabethtown, 1,861; William Jacob Taylor, High Bridge, 112.

For Congress - Carl D. Perkins, Hindman, 2,417; Frank V. Burns, Ashland, 244.

Republicans

For U.S. Senate -- Oline Carmichael, Jr., Williamsburg, 80; Louie Guenther, Jr., Northfield, 31; Thurman Hamlin, London, 61.

Week Designed To Honor Retiring Rescue Squad Duo

MR. BURCHETT

Two leaders of the Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad will be honored next week upon their retirement from service as officers which began with the formation of the squad April 27, 1958.

Retiring are Graham Burchett, captain, and James B. Goble, secretary-treasurer, two of the last five active charter members remaining with the squad.

County Judge-Executive Yvonne S. Jones and Prestonsburg Mayor Harold W. Cooley have jointly proclaimed next week (June 4-10) Floyd County Emergency & Rescue Squad Week in honor of the two men. The honor paid the two coincides with the annual radio auction, June 7-10, which will be sponsored by Radio Station WPRT as a fund-raising effort on behalf of the squad.

The squad was born of one of the worst tragedies recorded in the nation, the 1958 school bus disaster in which 26 Floyd students and the school bus driver lost their lives in the Big Sandy river, near here. Mr. Goble lost three children; children of Mr. Burchett's relatives and friends were lost. Both men worked with others in the long search of the river to recover the bodies of victims.

Sixteen men were charter members of the squad. Death, age, illness reduced the ranks of the original squad. Some moved elsewhere. Besides Burchett and Goble, only Ben Ferguson, Manis Gray and Don Willis remain of the charter members.

Darrell (Bud) Alexander, who has been a squad member almost the life of the squad, will succeed Burchett as captain, and John Wayne Shepherd will be the new secretary-treasurer.

During its 20 years the squad has answered an average of four calls for help a month—roughly, 1,000 missions carried out in all weathers, day and night.

These missions included dragging of streams and lakes for drowning victims, searches for missing persons, calls to vehicle wrecks and fires, rescue work in communities hit by flood, and taking food, medicine and clothing to families isolated or otherwise stricken by disaster. Calls from distant counties, some from neighboring states, have been answered.

The squad now has 46 members, and over the years has built its own two-store structure for the housing of equipment and offices. Its building and equipment are valued at $250,000.

This has been achieved, despite the fact that, except for help from the Floyd

Plan To Stall More Trouble Adopted Here

Fear of further possible violence as an aftermath of the recent slaying on Mud Creek of Hatler Hamilton by Lee Hamilton led County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. last Friday to file a motion with District Judge Harold Stumbo, asking that the bond of the accused man be amended to require him to remain away from his home, since he must pass the residence of the victim on his way to it.

Later in the day, agreement was reached between Turner and Charles E. Lowe, attorney for Lee Hamilton, which temporarily rendered unnecessary revision of the bond. It was agreed:

1. That Lee Hamilton will refrain from going on or about his premises for a

Wounded Man's Son under Bond In Stumbo Death

One man was killed and another critically wounded, early last Wednesday evening, in gunplay at the Fraternal Order of Eagles Club here.

Loran Stumbo, 49, West Prestonsburg painting and home decorating contractor, was dead at the scene. Shot three times, Malcolm (Mack) Johnson, 51, retired miner, of the Caney section of Middle Creek, remains in critical condition at the Highlands Medical Center here.

Charlie Johnson, 26, of Blue River, son of the wounded man, was later jailed as the slayer of Stumbo. He is under $25,000 bond.

The shooting broke out in the club around 8:15 p.m., following an argument between Stumbo and Johnson as they sat in a booth. The cause of the dispute is not clear. Witnesses said Stumbo rose and walked to the nearby bar, then turned and began firing a .25-calibre automatic at Johnson, three of the bullets taking effect in Johnson's side. Johnson was unarmed, officers said.

Meanwhile, according to one statement, a telephone call had been made to Johnson's son, informing him that his father was involved in potential trouble and that he should come to the club and get him. When, according to this statement, Stumbo shot Mack Johnson his son fired a shot at Stumbo, missing him, then ran toward the side entrance to the building. Stumbo, it was said, in turn fired two shots at the younger Johnson, also missing, and followed toward the side door.

The shooting of Stumbo followed. The younger Johnson, authorities said, made an "unofficial" statement admitting he shot Stumbo, saying he thought Stumbo would kill him.

Policeman Keith Lawson was the first officer on the scene. He later was joined by Chief of Police Dickie Campbell, Policemen Kilgore and Conley, later by County Detective Sam Hale and State Police Detectives Keith Scott and Kenneth DeBoard.

Two cousins of the slain man were arrested but their innocence later was established and they were released.

A .38-calibre revolver, said to have been the weapon used in the shooting of Stumbo, was found by Policeman Lawson in weeds, near the front entrance to the building. Ballistics tests of bullets taken from the victim's body are being made. Comparisons are being made with bullets fired from the .38 and also from a .44-calibre revolver.

The younger Johnson waived preliminary hearing. District Judge Harold J. Stumbo disqualified because of kinship to Loran Stumbo, and Circuit Judge Hollie Conley set the bond, which was agreed upon by both Commonwealth and defense counsel.

Early bond was allowed Johnson because it was believed at the time that his father was dying. The order granting bail provides that the defendant is to go and remain outside the court's jurisdiction when and if his father is, in the opinion of doctors, not in danger of death as a result of his wounds.

The club was closed for the investigation period by order of Coroner James J. Carter, and County Attorney Arnold Turner, Jr. and Commonwealth's Attorney James R. Allen announced last week-end that they would jointly file a petition to close it permanently.

Restoration of Garfield Place Is Aim of Group

Garfield Place, now deserted and in disrepair.

For some time now Garfield Place, perhaps Prestonsburg's most historical and best-known landmark, has stood empty and decaying. And although it is the rare person who does not pass the lovely, old home on Arnold avenue without muttering to himself, "What a shame!" practically nothing has been done to effect the restoration and preservation of the structure which served as temporary headquarters during the Civil War for Gen. James A. Garfield, who later became President.

The historic structure may yet be saved, however, depending on the degree of success of a meeting scheduled

Monday, June 5 at 7 p.m. at the Floyd County Library which is aimed at organizing and mounting a local effort to prevent the loss of the piece of local history which is the Garfield Place.

Sister Mary Pineau, spokesman for a core of local residents interested in saving the structure for future generations, said conversations with the Kentucky Heritage Commission at Frankfort had convinced the group that funds for restoration are available and that the element most vital to the effort is organization of a local group of concerned citizens to represent the cause. "The Kentucky Heritage Commission is very interested in Garfield Place and will fund up to half of the total cost of restoration work," said Sister Pineau. She said the time factor is of utmost importance, since the Kentucky Heritage Commission's deadline for submission of proposals is July 1.

Water damage, largely the result of fallen gutters and downspouts, is taking its toll on the landmark.

Sister Pineau said the June 5 meeting, which will bring together local officials as well as interested area residents, will, hopefully, result in the formulation of a plan of action to insure the preservation of the home.

Stressing the importance of saving Garfield Place, Sister Pineau said, "We can't be afraid to try anything."

Animal's Attack on Pony Stirs Buffalo Cr. Community

An attack on a pony by what was described as some type of wild animal last Wednesday evening at Endicott has created a good deal of speculation and more than a little uneasiness among residents of that section.

Although the owner of the pony, Curtis Blackburn, was working at the time of the incident, neighbors who saw the animal in the dim light late that afternoon generally agreed on its description—doglike, slightly larger than a fox, tan in color, with a long, dark-colored tail that hung toward the ground. One neighbor who saw the animal on the hillside above Blackburn's house said it ran in a series of bounding leaps with its head held erect.

The animal reportedly dug under the fence of Blackburn's dog lot and ate dog food from an automatic feeder, while the residents of the lot, five coon hounds, quickly retreated to their dog houses. It was then that the animal stalked within attack range of the pony which was grazing near the paved road in front of the house and proceeded to severely bite and slash the pony. The attack was cut short, however, when neighbors opened fire with rifles.

Mr. Blackburn said neighbors told him the animal bit at the pony's underside and legs and then jumped on its back before being thrown by the struggling pony which fell to its side.

Blackburn said the animal "cut the pony up pretty bad," crippling it where it was bitten around the legs. "We tied the pony back up where it had been when the thing attacked it, hoping it would come back, but it never did," Blackburn said. He said the pony would be confined to make sure there was no threat of rabies.

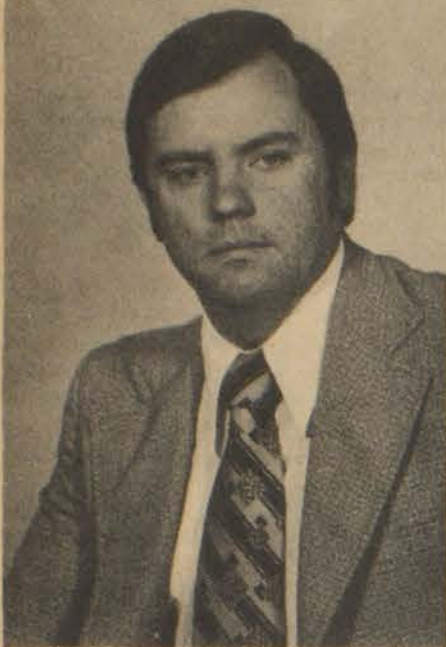

Speculation as to the identity of the creature has included everything from wild dog to hyena, and while many would hold to the more conservative notion that the animal was perhaps rabid or a starved domestic dog which had reverted to a semi-wild stage, one intriguing possibility is that the animal may have been a coyote.

Although the presence of coyotes in Eastern Kentucky may seem farfetched, an agriculture researcher told a group of Kentucky livestock owners at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture's annual Sheepprofit Day last week that "there's a distinct possibility" that coyotes may be attacking sheep in

Court Orders TV Franchise Up for Bidding

The Floyd fiscal court last Wednesday adopted a resolution which is designed to result in franchising of television transmission systems in 25 community TV areas of the county.

Bids will be accepted at the county clerk's office till 4 p.m., June 15.

On the basis of these bids, franchises will be awarded to the "highest and best bidder" in each area.

Bids will be based, the resolution provides, on a percentage of the gross income which will be determined by the number of customers served.

The designation, "best bidder," will depend, it was explained, upon the bidder's ability, both financially and educationally, to operate such a system, to give full and prompt service, and also on the bidder's "moral character and fitness."

Provisions of an earlier ordinance governing TV systems prevail, except at those points differing from the new resolution.

The rates per customer were set at $5 a month, plus an additional $1 monthly for systems with fewer than 15 customers, and an additional $1 may be charged for each additional TV unit in the same dwelling. The hookup fee for new customers was set at $25.

Each system will be required to distribute signals from the three major networks and include a Kentucky station, depending upon FCC permission.

Should a person other than the owner of an existing system qualify as the best bidder, the bidder will be required to purchase the existing system at a price determined by three appraisers, one of whom would be appointed by the owner of the system, one by the bidder and the third by the fiscal court.

If the present owner of a system should decline to sell his system to the successful bidder in his area, the bidder is not relieved of his responsibility to install and operate a satisfactory system within the prescribed 60-day limit.

In another resolution the court called on the Beaver Elkhorn Water District to make application for federal grant monies to finance the extension of its water main from the McDowell vicinity to Weeksbury. Copies of the resolution, which pointed to the water needs of Weeksbury, Melvin, Byprol, Burton, Bevinville, Hi Hat and Price, were sent to Congressman Perkins and Senators Ford and Huddleston.

In another action the court appointed Magistrate Hershell Hamilton, of District 4, to the Floyd County Economic Aid Board.

Clinical Associates Students at U. of K. With Local Doctors

David Dohnert and Sam Halberson, clinical associate students from the University of Kentucky, will be working under the supervision of Dr. Larry Leslie and Dr. Roger Jurich for the next six weeks.

Their rotations began May 22. The purpose of the students being sent to work under the supervision of local physicians is (1) to acquaint the students with the practice of medicine in a rural area, and (2) to acquaint the students with the culture and social system of a rural area.

The students are fulfilling their required clinic responsibilities. Their stay is being coordinated by the Big Sandy-FIVCO Area Health Education System, which is a program of the Council on Public Higher Education funded by the state.

Is Nobody Responsible?

The regulation of roadhouses, or "places of entertainment," apparently is a complicated process—with, as one official put it, "a legal loophole big enough to drive a truck through"—but it is not an insoluble problem if there is a real desire to solve it.

We are told that roadhouses (including clubs) are, if located outside the limits of an incorporated city or town, to be licensed by the county judge-executive and to be policed by county or state officers. Permits for such places, if they are within city corporate limits, are to be issued under authority of that city's ordinance. City officers are to police the places of entertainment under such permits.

But if no city permit has been issued—as was the case of the Fraternal Order of Eagles Club here—and if no city ordinance exists, whose is the responsibility?

Sheriff Doug Lewis undertook action earlier this year—he arrested 19 at the club. But legal complications followed. Nothing was done until last Wednesday evening when one man was killed there and another critically wounded.

Then, by order of the coroner, the club was closed during the investigation of the shooting. And ready to be filed by the county and commonwealth's attorneys is a petition for a more permanent closing.

With neither county nor city government responsible, perhaps closing is the only answer.

Ask Band Parents To Get Out and Help

We are just a small group of "concerned" band parents in desperate need of your help. As you could see last Saturday in the May Day Parade, our young people wore their new uniforms for the first time. These uniforms cost in the neighborhood of $17,000, and thanks goes to the many business places for their donations and the help we have received from some of you through contributing your time to help raise money. We now owe around $7,000 and we're still needing all the help we can get from you.

Our band won four (4) trophies last Saturday and it is due to their hard work, enthusiasm and interest. Also, they have a band director, Mr. Wally Ratliff, who is equally hardworking, enthusiastic and encourages them all the way. We would like to take this opportunity to personally thank Mr. Ratliff and commend him for the wonderful job he is doing.

We have the biggest little club in town, and we want to invite each and everyone of you to come to the meetings, to take part in, and share with us your ideas to raise money to finish paying for these uniforms. This invitation applies to the parents of eighth grade students of Auxier, Clark, Allen and Prestonsburg Elementary who plan to enroll in PHS next school term. Also to parents of the majorettes and flag-girls.

Before you start looking for excuses for not attending the meetings, remember this, some of us are "working mothers" too, and we have all the problems, aches and pains you have, but we're striving to make things better for our young people. Do you see any reason why we can't have a hundred or more members in our band? If we all work together, we can make it, so please be at our next meeting. We know it would make your child feel very proud to know that his parents took part in helping raise money to pay for his uniform.

On the McDowell School

I read Mrs. Bailey's critical letter about McDowell High School with great interest and complete agreement. I too am disturbed by the deplorable condition of the building after my first visit in over 20 years. I am more disturbed by Mr. Grigsby's non-answer to a very real problem. The building obviously passed all required inspections, but I would remind parents that investigations of most all disasters usually show that bureaucrats have filled in the proper blanks of the proper forms.

Not being a trained engineer, I cannot say that the building is ready to fall but I do know that it was wired together over 20 years ago. I also know that McDowell has since gained several new buildings, including a gymnasium named after Mr. Grigsby. Even if the high school building stands for another 50 years, the physical appearance inside must have adversely affected the mental attitude and learning habits of many students. There are holes in the walls and ceilings, windows are broken, window shades torn and furniture and equipment are more suitable for the junkpile than a classroom. If McDowell High School were a jail, the ACLU or civil rights lawyers would have forced its closing years ago but it seems to be good enough for McDowell parents, your school board and Mr. Grigsby.

Reports Bus Gas Stolen

I, a school bus driver, would like to state that in my estimation a person who will steal gas out of a school bus is too low to crawl! This morning, it is wet and chilly. There are four students walking out of the head of one hollow and 10 or 12 out of another, a distance of three to four miles. Here the school bus and I sit waiting for enough gas to get to a station to gas up before the run starts. The run starts here at home, but I have to go to Prestonsburg to gas up and start all over again. I am now half an hour late. By the time I am ready to start on the run I will be more than an hour late. I do not get paid overtime and the worst part is the students, wet and cold, waiting and wondering if or when the bus will run.

This gas in the buses is not free for the taking. We, the taxpayers, are paying for it. A point that is of no interest to the person or persons who make a point to rob this bus tank and all the others regularly. The sad part is most think the drivers are taking the gas. Stop and think. Would you like to work overtime with no pay?

Asks Pastors' Help

I would like to ask for my fellow pastors to help me resolve a serious problem now in my church.

Twelve years ago a missionary lady then working in our church was falsely slandered by a few people of our church. The pastor and his wife, then absent in New York City, after knowing of her innocence, tried to persuade her to stay in the work till they could get down to the church. She did not wish to cause any division and strife and moved away, but in the sake of peace she apologized to her enemies before leaving for her home in the West.

Recently she returned here to visit friends of the church, and her enemies rose up and objected to her having any meetings in the church, and said, "None of us will come to the meetings." And to keep down any trouble, we let them depart without any meetings.

The pastor's wife was at that time, and is now, at home from the hospital with only a short time to live—and dying slowly with cancer. When we informed her that the missionary had come and gone away, she said to us, "Call them back, I want them to have a meeting in the church." Then we recalled the missionary and she returned and meeting for one night only, in the church. Her bedroom is close to the church and under the same roof, and this way she could hear some of the songs.

Her enemies who spread and believed the scandalous tales did not come to this meeting, but those who believed in her innocence came out to the service.

Now, after 50 years in the gospel service, my church is broken up like this. What should I do? Should I recall the missionary back to minister in the church and ask the ones who spread the scandal to return and stand up in the church and state the charges they have against this woman of God?

Your comments by telephone or mail will be greatly appreciated.

The club was closed on at least one earlier occasion on motion of Harold Stumbo, then county attorney, and earlier this year was raided by Sheriff Doug Lewis, who arrested 19 persons there and confiscated a quantity of intoxicants. Wednesday's slaying was the second to take place at the club.

The victim of the shooting was a son of the late Ex-Sheriff M. T. (Taylor) Stumbo and Rhoda Fitzpatrick Stumbo. He was a veteran of World War II and was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Edith Slone Stumbo, two sons, Milton Taylor and Loran, Jr., and one daughter, Mrs. Teresa Prater, all of West Prestonsburg; one brother, Bill Stumbo, West Prestonsburg, and four sisters, Mrs. Ethel Stumbo, Mrs. Mary Ann Clarke, Mrs. Cleo Bartley and Miss Noma Ruth Stumbo, all of the West Prestonsburg vicinity. He also leaves three grandchildren.

Funeral rites were conducted at 1 p.m. Saturday from the Floyd Funeral Home chapel, the Rev. Bob Martin officiating. Burial was made in the Stumbo family cemetery, near West Prestonsburg.

period of seven days; and, 2. that the district court will make law officers available for the protection of members of defendant's family or others named by him.

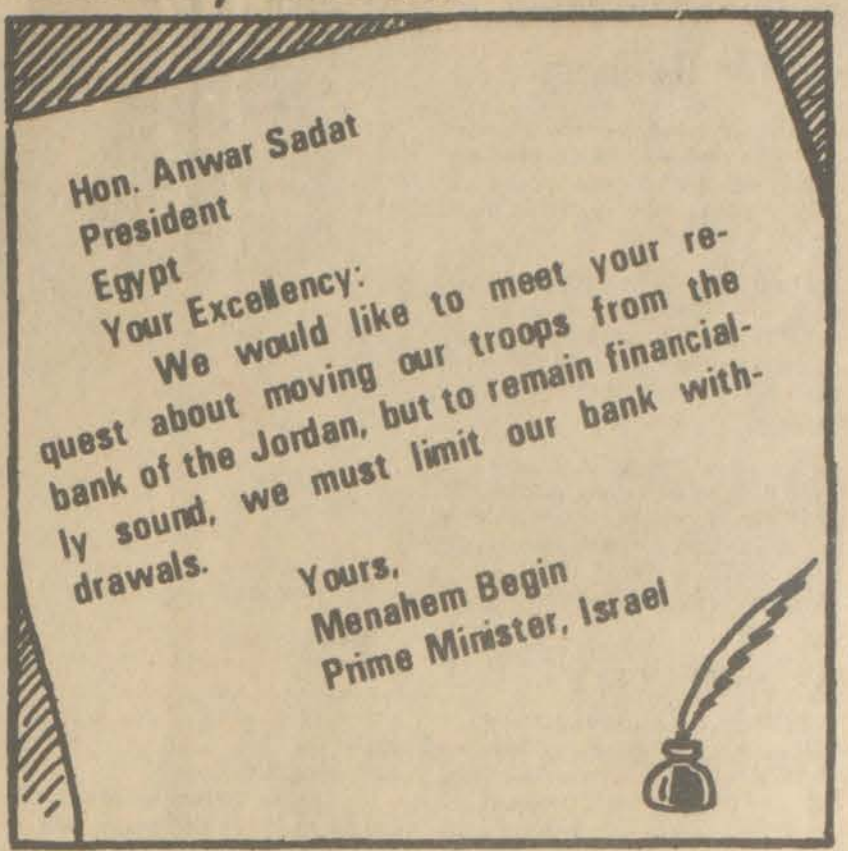

The Lee Hamilton home is approximately 1000 yards from the home of the victim of the shooting, and the road to it passes the Hatler Hamilton residence.

Prior to the agreed order, Charles E. Lowe, attorney for the defendant, filed a response to the Turner petition, pointing out that defendant and family have no other adequate place to stay and have a garden that needs attention. He argued that to try to restrain defendant from living in his own home would be a violation of rights guaranteed under the 14th Amendment.

The agreed order indicated that Lee Hamilton may sell his home. If it is not sold within the seven days he has agreed to stay away, it will be Judge Stumbo's duty to decide if the bond shall be changed to restrict his place of residence.

Hamilton is at liberty under $25,000 bond.

'Teachers' Colleges . . . Programmed Minds'

I read in the KEA News that members of the Kentucky Council on Teacher Education and Certification would like teachers' comments on their work. May I suggest that they leave bad enough alone.

Beginning teachers, in particular, are having a hard time making a go of things. Debts, bills, getting and keeping a job, establishing a family, etc., argue that we should give them all the latitude possible in continuing the advanced college training now necessary for them to keep their jobs. In the pursuit of some highly questionable and illusionary goal, we are likely to become insensitive to the ever-present human need.

A. B. people, who constitute a majority of the teachers in Kentucky, in addition to being discriminated against salary-wise, are being dominated by and dictated to by a highly vocal minority having advanced degrees. This vocal group has ensconced itself in the major policy-making bodies in our educational system and, in team with the teacher colleges, are trying to convince the public and their legislators that the way to better schools is to make perpetual schoolboys out of our teachers.

The idea that teachers can improve themselves through reading, travel, in-service training, social interaction, mass communication media, teaching experience, etc., is passe. Regardless of the teacher's ability, skill, industry, dedication, or knowledge, they must, if they are to make any money, become college sycophants, neglecting their students and their families to satisfy the selfish demand of the teachers colleges and their entourage.

The public, which pays the bills, should be informed that the programmed mind created by the teachers colleges, is the main enemy of the "Stress the Basics" movement.

I know that I am irascible and opinionated, but aren't we all?

REMINDER

Heard of a fellow who had become downright wealthy and one of his prized possessions was a recording of the howl of a wolf. Asked why he put such store by such a thing, he said, "Just to keep my feet on the ground. Once in a while, I play that and remember that that gentleman could come back to the door again."

WORKADAY COMPLAINT

Thanksgiving, Labor Day, Memorial Day, all are great occasions. But this business of moving them all back or ahead to fall on a Monday leaves us who work all day at this business of getting out a paper, beating or trying to meet a deadline and so on not exactly enthusiastic. Postoffice locked, courthouse closed, news sources out of pocket—all this helps not at all. You can help by being charitable and laying our shortcomings in this edition to the holiday. Doing that, you'll give us time to hatch up a new alibi for next week.

Kell Layne was passing around some shocking news here, the other day. Said there was a man up his way who wouldn't let them bury his wife.

One of the interested group around him wondered if The Floyd County Times hadn't missed a good story there till he finally inquired, "Why won't he let her be buried?"

"Because," said Kell, "she isn't dead yet."

fiscal court, the squad is wholly depended upon contributions received from the public during roadblocks and the radio auction. "We've always been hard up, and without public support we would be helpless," Mr. Burchett said.

He explained that, although he and Mr. Goble have retired as squad officials, they are still members.

"We'll be there," he said Monday. "We simply felt it was time for younger men to be in charge, but we'll be ready to help."

Burchett added that they expect to be active in rescue efforts, locally, but may not be able to go on longer trips, as in other years.

Joe Wheeler Lewis Answers Statements Made about Him

Deeply surprised was I to see that I had not made headlines of the front page of the Floyd County Times last week.

I will make a few statements which I think will enable you to better understand both sides of the situation.

1. I have served you as a deputy sheriff and as chief deputy sheriff in Floyd county for a period of approximately ten years. I never killed a single person.

2. I have served as city police for approximately one year in Floyd county. I never killed anyone.

3. I served you as High Sheriff in 1966, 1967, 1968 and 1969 and never killed anyone.

4. I served you again as sheriff in Floyd county for 1974, 1975, 1976, 1977. Not I or any of my deputies has ever killed anyone.

5. I served without fear or favor, both rich and poor, I have never used my badge for a coverup.

6. Since the days of grandmother and Little Red Riding Hood I have never believed in a wolf wearing sheep's clothing.

7. When I ran for Sheriff in 1973 I had eight opponents. I received more votes than all my opponents together. In the November election I received more votes than any one on the ticket, opposed or unopposed.

8. Why did the good, honest people do such a horrible thing?

9. On March 13, 1936 I was walking approximately 15 miles each day to Betsy Layne High School. On this day, while en route home, I found my father who had been shot, murdered and robbed. I sat in the courtroom and listened to this trial. I didn't kill anyone.

10. I had an unarmed sister shot and killed. I sat in the courtroom and heard this trial. I did not kill anyone.

11. I had a very close friend, Wesley Fannin, a deputy sheriff, who was shot and killed while serving a warrant. I chased the killer late in the evening near the top of the mountain, arrested him while he had his gun in his hand. Why did I not kill this man? Do you think I am a killer? If you had a father killed in cold blood, a sister killed in cold blood and an unarmed, Christian brother killed in cold blood, how bad would this disturb you? To you I will say you will never know.

12. I want to express deeply to you the fact that neither I nor any of my relatives have ever threatened the life of Mr. Hughes, the attorney for Ralph Anderson.

Take a view of the facts:

1. In the preliminary hearing for a change of venue, Mr. Hughes stated his facts as follows: The ex-sheriff, Joe Wheeler Lewis, having been a deputy sheriff for several years and sheriff for eight years and his son, Doug Lewis now being the present sheriff, their influence would be such that his client could not get a fair trial.

2. Now notice in a recent issue of the Floyd County Times, Mr. Hughes tries to convince you that I am extremely dangerous and his life is in danger, if he appears in Floyd county for trial.

3. Has Mr. Hughes attempted to trace the calls he says he received?

Both Mack Lewis and Ralph Anderson were residents of Floyd county, Mack being a disabled Union retired miner and Ralph Anderson being a non-union employee acting as a guard for the company, the friends and relatives or both sides are in Floyd county. Why would not each side have an equal chance?

I want to extend to you my deep appreciation and many thanks for what you have done for me and my son, Doug Lewis, in the past elections. You can rest assured that the best will be done with what is available to do with.

JOE W. LEWIS

Miss Everly To Attend Berea Folk Arts Fest

Ann Margaret Everly, daughter of John and Joyce Everly, of Prestonsburg, has been selected to attend the Folk Arts Festival in Berea, Kentucky, June 22-July 5, 1978. Miss Everly will be among 130 other girls from Kentucky and the U.S.A. who are coming to Berea to learn more about Appalachian traditions and arts.

The event, sponsored by Wilderness Road Girl Scout Council, will feature workshops in stitchery and design, guitar, and native crafts (such as corn-husk working and dyeing fabric with roots, berries, and bark). Also featured will be pottery, folksinging and dancing, weaving, and woodworking. Many expert consultants, including Judy Ritchie Hudson, Jane De Teresa, Mildred Strickler, and Richard Bellando, will serve as instructors during the two-week event. Another famous Kentuckian, Colonel Sanders, will be on hand to meet the girls.

Also planned for Ann Margaret's two-week stay will be seeing "Wilderness Road" - an outdoor play about Daniel Boone and the history of the area, dining at Boone Tavern a world famous inn noted for its fine regional cooking, hearing "Jack Tales," hearing some Bluegrass music, and much more. Miss Everly is a member of Girl Scout Cadette Troop 125, in Prestonsburg.

"RED SKY AT NIGHT, sailor's delight," runs the old weather proverb. But actually, the Juno Reader's Digest cautions, the saying refers to a rose-red or pink sky—indicating that sunlight is passing through dry dust particles. A deep red sky, on the other hand, means that the dust is moisture laden, and likely to spill over as rain.

THE BURIED CITY of Ebla, in northern Syria, reveals tantalizing links to Biblical history. According to the June Reader's Digest, Ebla's mightiest king was Ebrum, a name similar to Eber, the Biblical ancestor of the Hebrew people. Excavations at the site have been in progress since 1963.

Faulty Memory Blamed on Smoking

IT SEEMS that smokers can blame their habit for a faulty memory. In a recent study, the June Reader's Digest reports, one group of smokers was given nicotine-free cigarettes, while the other smoked cigarettes containing nicotine. Both were asked to study and then recall a list of words. In a pre-smoking trial, they all scored about the same. But in trials following smoking, the no-nicotine group scored significantly higher in word recall.

Tobacco Companies Aid Smoking Decline

A barrage of warnings about the hazards of cigarettes from major health organizations, coupled with the active cooperation of tobacco companies themselves, has led to a decline in the number of adult cigarette smokers in the U.S.

Writing in the April issue of Reader's Digest, Walter S. Ross points out: "The percentage of adult smokers in this country has been shrinking fast. In 1965, a majority of men—52 percent—smoked, as did 32 percent of women. By 1975, only 39 percent of men were smoking, 29 percent of women. Overall, smokers dropped from 42 to 34 percent of adults." The decline is even more dramatic among younger consumers, who would presumably be key customers for the tobacco industry in later years, he adds.

Cigarette sales began to drop after the American Cancer Society blew the whistle on the tobacco industry in 1954 by showing that smokers died at nearly double the rate of non-smokers.

At this point, cigarette manufacturers began introducing and promoting filter tips, but did not reveal how effective they were in trapping tar and nicotine until the government required in 1967 that all brands be analyzed.

"That same year," Ross reports, "the National Cancer Institute set up a special task force, the Tobacco Working Group, to try to make cigarettes less hazardous. The group, including Department of Agriculture specialists and scientists from cigarette companies, helped develop new types of tobacco very low in tar and nicotine. It has also created cigarettes with fewer of the poisonous invisible 'gases' implicated in smokers' heart attacks, chronic bronchitis and emphysema."

The new brands have captured a large share of the market, and because they are low in nicotine and tar they make it easier for the smoker to quit altogether. It is nicotine that is addictive, so it is possible to "wean" oneself gradually from high-nicotine cigarettes to low-nicotine ones and eventually stop.

It appears clear that the fight against smoking is being won. "And, in perfect poetic justice, it's the cigarette makers who may be stubbing themselves out by meeting the public demand for less addictive cigarettes," Ross concludes.

COAST REDWOODS SPECIES 30 MILLION YEARS OLD

LOS ANGELES—Widely known as the tallest living things on earth, the Coast Redwoods also are among the oldest.

The species dates back at least 30 million years, and once covered much of North America, according to Rand McNally's "Traveler's Almanac."

Today, these giants are found only on the moist, temperate coast of central California to southern Oregon, with some individual trees more than 2,000 years old.

May, Akers To Participate In Natural Bridge Exhibit

By HELEN PRICE STACY
If names like Devil's Gulch, Pivot Rock, Owl's Window, Gatlin Point, Jenny Ridge and Piney make you want to find out about them, then start traveling. Start in June. Spend June 3 and 4 in Eastern Kentucky and June 24-25 in Western Kentucky. The feature events on both weekends are arts and crafts shows. The first annual June Arts and Crafts exhibit and sale is scheduled June 3-4 at Natural Bridge State Resort Park, near Slade, and the 1978 Land Between the Lakes Arts and Crafts Festival is set June 24-25 at the 170,000 acre demonstration area near Golden Pond.

The first annual June Arts and Crafts exhibit and sale is scheduled. Invited artists and craftspeople will display, demonstrate and sell their works in the large activities building, a short distance by path from Hemlock Lodge at Natural Bridge. For those who will be driving directly to the building, a paved road winds past a scenic creek, lake and forested mountains to the handsome stone structure.

Visitors may sit on the broad deck and look out over the creek, a tributary of Red River, and sift through foliage to get a view of famous Balanced Rock; then walk inside the activities building and watch as landscape artist Russell May, of Prestonsburg, paint a beautiful scene in oils.

Al Cornett, who a few years ago chose to give up city living to make his home among the crags and peaks near Natural Bridge, will demonstrate his skill with oils. Others will be painting or showing how to weave, make puppets and pottery. Bybee Pottery will have a potter present to show how to throw clay, and will make clay items for gifts to those who want them. Last autumn, the line held out as long as the clay lasted.

Artists Nellie Meadows, Brett Johnson,

Iva Daniels, Robert Powell and Gary Akers will be present as well as others, as will various crafts artisans. Nearby parks will contribute to the event by providing several tables or gift items at bargain prices.

Hours Saturday will be from 1 p.m. till 9 a.m. and Sunday from 10 a.m. till 4 p.m. This allows time both days for hikes along wildflower trails, horseback riding, swimming or riding the sky lift to Natural Bridge high above the park grounds for a look at Owl's Window, Lover's Leap, Battleship Rock, Salt Mine, Devil's Gulch and Lookout Point.

Murder in Pike May Offer Clue In Johnson Case

The arrest of a 16-year-old Ashcamp, Pike county youth early Tuesday morning may have given officers the break they have been seeking in the recent execution-type slaying of James Leonard Wells, Paintsville motel night clerk.

The youth was arrested as a suspect in the same type of murder last week of Harold Fuller, Jr., 18, of Steele, Pike county, whose body was found late last Thursday in a roadside garbage dump on the Triple C road, near Sycamore.

Murder and robbery charges have been lodged against the juvenile by KSP Detective Richard Wright.

Fuller had been shot three times in the head and one time in his chest.

This second slaying and the Wells murder had these similarities:

Both were shot in the head; a .22-calibre weapon was used; bodies of both were covered by a quilt or blanket.

And officers say they have evidence that the man seen registering at the Heart o' Highlands Motel, shortly before Wells' disappearance became known, was later seen with a youth at a Paintsville dance hall.

Ballistics tests are being made to determine if there is any connection between the .22-calibre rifle confiscated Tuesday from the Pike youth's home and the weapon with which the Paintsville man was killed.

Detective Wright said the suspect in the Fuller case had hitched a ride in Fuller's truck and that approximately $200 of a paybeek cashed by Fuller earlier in the day is missing.

A composite picture of the second suspect in the Paintsville case is in the possession of officers.

All Ky. Districts Have Implemented Career Education

With the infusion of career education into the school curriculum, choosing a career may be easier for Kentucky's young people than it was for their parents.

Representatives of business, industry, the military, correctional institutes and youth-oriented programs, such as 4-H and Junior Achievement, appeared before the state advisory council for career education last week to explain how career education, mandated for Kentucky schools in 1976, has been implemented in their organizations for many years.

One million dollars has been allocated to Kentucky schools for career education over the next biennium, $600,000 during the first year and $400,000 during the second.

All 181 school districts in Kentucky have integrated career education into their regular school curriculum, according to Dorothy Alexander, state coordinator for career education. Career education offers children an awareness of self and of the world of work, orients them to occupations, prepares them for a career and gives them an understanding of the economic system of which jobs are a part.

Sound Happenings

By COEY HARRIS
CONCERTS, CONCERTS! Things are beginning to simmer on the local and statewide scene. First of all locally, Saturday, this Saturday, June 3, excitement in the country with George Jones at the Betsy Layne Fieldhouse. With Jones will be Jennifer O'Brien and Marlowe Tackett and the Southern Comfort Band. One showing only, folks, beginning at 8 p.m. Get your tickets in advance at local merchants!

Red, Hot and Blue Productions have one hot rockin' summer lined up for the area's starved live music fans. Beginning Saturday June 10 at 8 p.m. at Mt. Music Park in Shorts Gap, Va. they will rock you with the sounds of Diamond Reo, Ambrose and Sorcery. A heavy one night package! Advance tickets are available at selected merchants in Betsy Layne, Robinson Creek, and Elkhorn City (WECL). Get off your wooden horse and go! It will be a happening you don't want to miss! Now feast your sunburned peepers on other groups that will be in the summer line-up: Ram Jam in July, Ruby Starr, 38 Special, Blackfoot and Bob Seger and the Silver Bullet Band. No folks, I haven't written about Bob Seger so much that I now stutter his name! I said Bob Seger and the Silver Bullet Band in this area! Exact dates and locations are yet to be released. When they're out, you can bet on seeing them here.

Starting June 7 the Huntington-Charleston area will be rocking. Wednesday, June 7 at 8 p.m., Entam Productions will bring you Foreigner with Bob Welch at the Charleston Civic Center. Also on June 7 at the Huntington Civic Center, get loose with Marshall Tucker Band and the Climax Blues Band—what a combo! At the Charleston Civic Center, Entam also brings you wacky George Carlin on June 10 and on June 18, Reo Speedwagon and Sweet. One more, June 24 at Louisville's Freedom Hall get down with the funky Isley Bros. Check out these happenings for a great summer kick off! I'm just sorry I can't say here also, that tickets are available for these concerts at local merchants.

Now to speak of concerts that have already landed such as Monday, May 29, Jefferson Starship in Lexington. In two and a half hours, the crowd was given 12 years of masterpieces from Jefferson Airplane to Jefferson Starship. Each member seem to be at top form to move the crowd for one of the longest performances seen in Lexington in months. Craig Chaquico on the lead guitar was an undercover Nugent with a mild manner exterior. Grace Slick was up front with wild haunting vocals. Marty Balin, the unofficial group captain, showed that 12 years had only served to refine. The drummer, John Barbata, with two drum solos ranging from 3 - 12 min. each, worked out as only a drummer can. The man on the bass, Pete Sears, did a rarely seen bass solo with a flow from funky blue to metallic rock—a definite trip. This group's talent cannot be captured on the vinyl, so do yourself a favor and catch them in concert, if you didn't this time, for a definite rock experience!

An album that has been released for several weeks but is just now drawing justly attention is "Snail," by a group of the same name. This is the group's first album and oh, what a sound! They have taken two parts Little River Band style and added one part Atlanta Rhythm Section style to produce a sound that will have to reach chart acclaim. The vocals with tenor harmony and the lead guitar are the spotlights of the album. The sound is easy and should be checked out as the group is destined for success.

Mr. Honky-Tonk, Gary Stewart, has brought to us another album, "Little Junior." The album contains two hit singles "Whiskey Trip" and "Honky-Tonkin." The sound is solid country with Hargus "Pig" Robbins on keyboards, Josh Graves from Flatt & Scruggs on dobro, rapidly up and coming Bobby Thompson on banjo, Tommy Williams on fiddle, Hal Rugg on steel and the all time great Jordainaries. Stewart's almost bluegrass version of "Can't You See" is a for sure foot stomper. "Little Junior," "Single Again," and "Tequila After Midnight" are nothing but pure Gary Stewart honky-tonk blues. Another great from a local boy doing good!!

Gonna call it quits, next week.

Dale Hollow Park Latest in Network

Kentucky's network of state parks expanded last Wednesday with the opening of Dale Hollow Lake State Park at Bow in Cumberland county.

Dale Hollow now becomes Kentucky's largest state park, counting the 3,497 acres owned by the Commonwealth and the additional 900 acres leased. The park is located along 27,700-acre Dale Hollow Lake, along the Kentucky-Tennessee border.

A recreational park, Dale Hollow features a 144-space campground with water and electrical hookups, a 30 by 60-foot swimming pool and a boat ramp and marina with 36 open slips. A short-order restaurant with a dining room seating 70 persons has also been constructed. In addition, 25 picnic tables have been provided along a mile and a half roadway.

Dale Hollow superintendent Jesse Wright said his staff had no idea as to the number of visitors to expect this upcoming Memorial Day week-end, but emphasized that they were ready for the opening.

Dedication of the new park is expected next month.

KEA Lists Teacher Salaries For Present School Year

Starting salaries during the school year now ending for Kentucky's public-school classroom teachers with bachelor's degrees and no experience range from $8500 to $9995, according to a new Kentucky Education Association (KEA) research publication.

The bulletin, "Salary Schedules of Kentucky Public-School Teachers, 1977-'78," shows a $8500 beginning minimum salary in the Bowling Green independent school system. The top minimum of $9995 for beginners is scheduled in the Fairview independent system in Boyd county.

Most Kentucky teachers are in the Rank III category, which means they have a bachelor's degree. The state-mandated minimum this year for Rank III teachers with no experience is $8,386.74. This is 93 percent of the state's foundation program allotment of $9018 for such teachers.

For Rank III teachers at the maximum level of experience the highest scheduled salary ranges from $10,538 in Cumberland county after nine years to $15,579 in the Anchorage independent system in Jefferson County after 13 years.

Starting salaries for Rank II teachers—those with master's degrees—range from $9032 in Knox county to $10,613 in Anchorage.

At the maximum level of experience Rank II teachers receive a low of $11,015 in Estill county after 12 years and a high of $16,893 in Anchorage after 14 years.

For Rank I teachers—those with a master's degree, plus 30 approved college-credit hours beyond the master's—starting salaries this year range from $9400 in Campbell county to $11,489 in Anchorage.

The highest scheduled salary at Kentucky teacher at the Rank I level can earn in a local school system ranges from $11,588 in Cumberland county after five years of experience to $18,117 in Jefferson county after 15 years.

(Not included are longevity or "super-maximum" increments that a few Kentucky school systems pay after certain intervals of service.)

In the Floyd county school system the highest salary in the three ranks are: Rank I, $12,248; Rank II, $11,648; Rank III, $11,068. The lowest salaries projected for teachers in the system are: Rank I, $10,123; Rank II, $9,555; Rank III, $8,968.

The bulletin lists these median minimum and maximum salaries based on an analysis of salary schedules from all Kentucky school systems (half the systems are above the median and half are below the median):

Median minimum—Rank III, $9018; Rank II, $9618; Rank I, $10,218.

Median maximum—Rank III, $11,218; Rank II, $11,818; Rank I, $12,440.

Kentucky's average salary for classroom teachers this year is estimated at $11,700, ranking the state 40th in the nation. The national average is $14,244.

500 Teachers May Be Told Jobs Lost, But Hope Remains

At least 500 Kentucky teachers have been, or soon will be, removed from the employment list of boards of education, but all is not lost. School board officials say many of the cuts — which they have attributed to declining enrollment, state-mandated salary increases and the elimination of federal programs — may be reinstated when state and federal appropriations for local school board budgets are known.

The Kentucky School Boards Association last Wednesday released the results of a survey in which 160 of the 186 school districts in the state reported a total of 343 positions eliminated for the upcoming year.

The major district not responding to the survey was Jefferson County, which will have a net loss of 160 teaching positions next year, according to Ronald Barber of the Jefferson county school superintendent's office.

No positions are being eliminated in Fayette county, according to Superintendent of Schools Dr. Guy S. Potts.

Of the 343 position cuts reported in the survey, 188 will be taken care of by retirements, resignations or similar attrition, according to James Melton, executive director of the association.

This would mean 155 teachers have been notified that their contracts will not be renewed next year, Melton said. He added that many of these teachers may be rehired when budget determinations are made.

School boards, by law, must notify teachers by April 30 if their contracts are not being renewed. Since final budget figures are unavailable by that date, many school boards make such notifications to be on the safe side in figuring the number of teachers they will employ the next year.

The Kentucky Education Association has expressed alarm at the number of positions being cut by school boards in a year in which the General Assembly appropriated $270 million in new money for education.

In response to a request for an investigation into the matter, Gov. Julian Carroll recently said it was a local issue over which the state has no control.

After Carroll's response, KEA President Wayne Harvey said the organization would look into the declining enrollments to see where they are occurring.

Harvey said he was pleased Carroll had directed the state Office of Policy and Management to monitor the expenditure of all education funds appropriated by the General Assembly. But Harvey added, "I'm not sure at this point if there is anything we can do (to combat the position cuts)."

Have your blood pressure checked.

Court System Film Available

Martha Layne Collins (left), state Supreme Court clerk, and Barbara Williams, state librarian, show Gov. Julian Carroll a new film on the state judicial system.

A film about Kentucky's new court system soon will be available throughout the state.

The film, "Kentucky's Unified Court of Justice," which will be released tomorrow (Thursday), will provide a basic overview of the functions of the new court system. Prepared by the Department of Public Information at the request of Supreme Court Clerk Martha Layne Collins, the film will be circulated by the Department of Library and Archives.

The 16mm, color film is available for use by schools, civic clubs, senior citizens' organizations, and all persons interested in learning about Kentucky's judicial system.

Groups wishing to reserve the 16-minute film should contact their local public library or Linda Stith, Audio-Visual Librarian, Kentucky Department of Library and Archives, Berry Hill, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or call (502) 2480.

State Librarian Barbara Williams said that the services of the library department are always available to aid in the circulation of information offered to and needed by citizens.

Sourdough—Gourmet Food

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD
UK College of Agriculture

Now after a long, long last the gourmet food business has discovered something that sweetened the harsh life of the Alaskan gold rush prospector—sourdough.

Specialty shelves in many grocery stores display ingredients and instructions for sourdough "starters," said to have been the most prized item in a prospector's pack. Some bakeries sell sourdough bread as fast as they can bake it.

Sourdough, so called because of its vaguely sour smell, is probably the oldest known leavened bread, according to Sue Burrier, foods and nutrition specialist with UK's Cooperative Extension Service. Its discovery, Burrier said, undoubtedly came after wild yeast spores floating on the wind settled on some flour-and-water dough and began to ferment. Perhaps a day or two later when this dough was heated in ashes or hot rocks, the fermentation gas—carbon dioxide—began to expand and the dough firmed, producing a light, porous and exceedingly tasty bread.

Then in ancient Egypt, as history records, somebody found that a bit of the fermented dough would start the same action working when added to a batch of new dough. Thus, the sourdough starter was born.

How it spread to other lands is not known, but as this starter, a measure of flour and a cup of water, meant delicious hot bread of one kind or another, it was prized by many Americans other than Alaskan Prospectors of '98.

In early America, a pot of sourdough starter was part of a bride's dowry. In the Old West, a chuckwagon's reputation for sourdough flapjacks wandered over the plains seemingly on the wind and helped recruit drovers for the long, weary cattle drives. Sourdough bread helped the famed mountain men trapping in the High Sierras and other wild places survive the bitter cold winters.

The sourdough starter and a sack or two of flour freed them from the rocklike biscuit and hardtack that "lasted out the winter because even the mold couldn't eat it."

With regard to the value placed on sourdough starter, there is an old saying to the effect that: "Steal a man's wife and he will fight you; steal his sourdough starter and he'll kill you deader'n a dried, salted mackerel."

Sometimes, as the story goes, a good active sourdough starter could be responsible for something other than bread. The Hoochinoo Indians accidentally discovered that when a large batch of starter stands for a spell it gives off a clear, but highly potent beverage that will make a person drunk as a badger. This beverage is widely known as "hootch."

A GOOD TIME WAS HAD BY ALL
All in this case was more than 12,000 guests at the Governor's Derby Breakfast in Frankfort May 6. A line (above left) that snaked around the Capitol ended with country ham and eggs under the big tent. One face familiar under the Capitol dome was that of former Gov. A.B. Chandler (above right), who exchanged hugs with Elly Carroll, daughter of Gov. and Mrs. Julian Carroll, as Mrs. Carroll looked on. (Below right) Gov. and Mrs. Carroll welcomed Sandy Allen and her husband Ralph, winners of the annual Derby Drawing, while Dan Haggarty, star of the popular television show "The Life and Times of Grizzly Adams," signed autographs for a few happy fans. The Governor's Derby Breakfast is an annual affair which kicks off the climactic day of Derby Week Festivities.

"Women In Today's World" Series
Scheduled To Begin at P.C.C.

A coordinating committee met last Wednesday to discuss the Kentucky Commission on Womens' special program, "Women in Today's World." From left are Carolyn Turner, coordinating chairman for Johnson county; Karen Jones, staff attorney with Appalachian Research & Defense Fund, and Barbara Burchett, coordinating chairman for Floyd county.

"Don't worry your pretty little head about such things" was a constant refrain that women heard when the subject turned to jobs, credit, wills, insurance and legal matters. But an awareness that times have changed, and that women are no longer exempt from the financial and legal aspects of modern life, has prompted the Kentucky Commission on Women to sponsor a series of programs entitled "Women in Today's World." Prestonsburg Community College will host one such program June 1 and the members of a coordinating committee designed to fill in the local details met Wednesday morning at the college.

The commission itself is a 24-member advocacy board that educates women on their legal status and any relevant state legislation, according to Helen Hughes, executive director, who was on hand to provide a general introduction to the program ideas. The commission holds workshops, sponsors legislation, and has applied for a $50,000 state grant to study the victims of violent crimes—victims who are all too often women.

The schedule for the program is as follows: 9:30 a.m., Credit, Wills, and Insurance; 11 a.m., Legal Status of Homemakers in Kentucky; 1 p.m., Education—What? Why?; 7:30 p.m., Employment Discrimination—What is it? What Can You Do?

While all the guest speakers aren't confirmed, those who are set to appear represent both knowledge and experience in the various fields. The speakers include Barbara Smith from the Human Rights Commission, Phyllis Sowers, a Frankfort attorney, Karen Jones, staff attorney with Appalachian Research & Defense Fund, Prestonsburg, and Virginia Pratt from the Vocational Education Department in Frankfort. The program is very flexible and women can attend any number of the sessions they want to.

A free lunch will be provided along with babysitting services at the First Presbyterian Church.

Kentucky Afield

By JOHN WILSON

There's a gourmet's delight down by a nearby stream or pond, and all it will cost you is a new set of flashlight batteries, a night's sleep, and perhaps a good dunking.

We're talking, of course, about frogs. And about frog hunters, who after the May 15 opening date will be tired, sleepy, and wet, but well fed.

Experienced frog gathers have their favorite techniques for capturing their quarry. Perhaps the favorite is gigging, although others prefer to use a .22 rifle or a bow and arrow. But the most basic method is just to wade in and grab them by hand. This also is often the most exciting technique, particularly for those who can't tell the difference between a frog's eyes and a snake's in the beam of a flashlight.

It's also possible to capture frogs during the day by "fishing" for them with a rod, reel and artificial lure. The "fisherman" looks for frogs resting close to the water's edge or on a clump of moss. He then dangles a small wet or dry fly in front of the frog, bringing it closer and closer until the frog "strikes." When hooked, the frog will usually take to the water, and landing it is as much a challenge as playing a good-sized fish.

Farm ponds are excellent places to hunt frogs, particularly with the "fishing" method. With the tens of thousands of ponds in Kentucky, chances are that there is one nearby where you can obtain permission to do some frogging.

The 1978 frog season opened 12:01 a.m., May 15 and will continue through midnight, October 31. The daily limit is 15, with no more than 30 in possession after two or more days of frogging. Since most frog gathering is done at night, the legal "day" extends from 12 o'clock noon to the following noon. During this time, a person may have no more than 15 frogs in possession while in the field.

A license is required to capture frogs. If a gun or bow and arrow is used a hunting license is necessary, and a fishing license is required of the person using fishing tackle. Either a hunting or fishing license will suffice for gigging or hand grabbing frogs. The holder of a combination license may, of course, use any of the above methods.

One last tip: when you clean your frogs, remove the white cord in each hind leg. This cord, which can be readily seen where the legs are split apart, is actually a nerve, and this is what makes the legs jump while being cooked.

Sure, you want economy. But you've probably convinced yourself that you'd have to give up most of the things you've come to expect from a bigger car. That's why we'd like you to see Volare. Because the 1978 Plymouth Volare 4-door is designed so that you don't have to give up room for six. Its special suspension system means that you don't have to give up a bigger car ride. And, as you can see, with Volare, you don't give up economy*. The 1978 Plymouth Volare... proof positive that a smaller car can be designed to give you the things you'd expect from bigger cars. So why would anyone consider compromising in order to get economy? We give up.

To Stewart Wright, Whose Life Is a Light to Others

He's 6-3 and 180 pounds of courage and inspiration. He's been in a wheelchair since football season before last, and he is determined to beat the odds. Let's allow him to light up our lives a bit—this Stewart Wright of Floyd county.

It was a bitter cold night in eastern Kentucky, but high school football brought out a crowd of supporters for the Prestonsburg Blackcats and just as many followers for the Morgan County Cougars, of West Liberty.

"On the kickoff is when it happened," recalled Alan Hill, a Cougar. "The kickoff is the most dangerous play in football because the two teams meet going full steam ahead and collide in the middle. It was very cold and the fog was drifting in. The kick was made, and our return man fielded the ball. Lenny Franklin went up the middle of the Prestonsburg field when Stewart broke through the wedge and went sailing to make the tackle. His feet left the ground."

Where yelling and cheers had echoed against the hills, now was deep silence. The youth, too, was silent, unmoving.

For Stewart and his family and friends, the days, weeks and months ahead were agonizing, frustrating ups and downs emotionally, but not without certain victories, courage and high hope.

Back in Cougar county at Morgan County High School, the sophomore English class studied the book, WINNING. The book so paralleled the life of young Stewart Wright, the English teacher, Mrs. Henry L. Allen, wrote to Stewart:

"I've written you before, but this note was prompted by the book, WINNING, used in my sophomore English classes at Morgan County High this week (May 3). We noticed right away the similarity of events in the novel to your life. My students wanted to send you these brief notes, for they feel that they know you, in a way, through recent news from your father (Ronald Wright) to Larry Evans and Gwendolyn Black who do the same type of work in Morgan county that your father does in Floyd. I relayed this news to my class. I had also saved newspaper clips from two years back which interested the class. A few of the students remembered the game.

"I am sure each day produces evidence that people do care and through these notes and flowers we here at MCHS want you to know we care. My family was at the football game the night you were hurt, as our son Perry was quarterback. (An older son now at UK played the same position the year before and our youngest, Bill, is a Little League quarterback.)"

"It's interesting to hear of your artistic ability, and your school arrangement sounds great. To have Mr. Jamerson, a former UK football player, as a teacher couldn't be better, and I imagine your hours at school are two of the happiest days of the week."

"Perry and the other football Cougars think of you often. He plans to attend Morehead State University in the fall. My husband is principal at Elliott County High School and a former football coach, but we live in West Liberty."

Stewart goes to the Rehabilitation Center at Thelma (Johnson county) weekly for physical therapy. He is working mainly on the ability to use his hands to feed himself with a special type spoon. He has a hospital bed in his room at home and his family recently installed a shower that he can manipulate from his wheelchair. His family also is considering a specially designed car for him.

His homebound teacher, Wilbur (Shorty) Jamerson, who was a UK quarterback and former football coach at Wheelwright High School, comes to Stewart's home three days each week and Stewart goes to Prestonsburg High two days a week for about two hours a day. His lowest grade this year is a 'B'. Other students love to be near him and there's always a group around him at school. When his family takes him to downtown Prestonsburg, townspeople surround him. It is not at all uncommon to see Stewart and his wheelchair in town, visiting with passersby.

Stewart's love for art began at an early age and some of his murals of Kentucky scenes now adorn the walls at Prestonsburg High. The fact that he is paralyzed from his neck down does not stop him. He paints and paints beautifully by holding the brush with his mouth. Sometimes the brush is taped to his fingers which he can move slightly.

"Stewart's spirit is marvelous," said his father, a social worker, "and it's contagious. It reaches out to all of us."

"Just hang in there and keep on smiling," was the note from MCHS sophomore Debbie Patrick.

And there were others, many others: "Keep on smiling and don't look down, 'cause you're the great in all of town."—Ann Nipper.

"Hi! My name is Tim Cooper. Good luck in the future. God loves you."

"We are on your side."—Tim Tyree.

"Hello, and stay cool."—Kim Gevedon.

"Have faith in God and believe in yourself, and always remember we care."—Alan Hill, MCHS football player.

"I admire your courage, because it must take lots of it to go through what you have. Remember, you always have friends here at MCHS."—Dwayne Davis.

"I know you've had a rough time, but it will get better if you believe in yourself."

Make a wish and it will come true. I've had a tough time with my heart, but my wish came true and I'm better. We will hang in there."—Carolyn Cantrell.

Anyone can send Stewart a note, addressed to his father Ronald Wright, North Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Ky. 41653.

Stewart, we love you—for yourself and what you are doing with your life, but especially for lighting up our lives. We know without a doubt that you are making a path where there was none, and you know what a path is for.

One-Word Advice Led to Success

Controversial Sparky Lyle owes his pitching style to advice from the Boston Red Sox's legendary Ted Williams, the April Reader's Digest reveals.

On shaky ground as a relief pitcher on a Sox farm team, Lyle spotted Williams, went up to him and asked what was the most difficult ball to hit. Williams' one-word answer: "Slider."

So, according to author Bill Surface, Lyle spent the following off-season period experimenting with the pitch. "The resultant combination of hard slider and innate cockiness enabled him to dominate batters while playing for Toronto, then in baseball's Triple-A International League. At midseason, he advanced to the Red Sox—and saved enough games to help them into the 1967 World Series," Surface reports.

BETWEEN 1976 and 1985, the U.S. Department of Labor predicts an estimated 29 million jobs will become available to replace workers who die or retire.

THE VAST majority of the 46 million job openings expected to arise between 1976 and 1985 will require less than 4 years of college training, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's Occupational Outlook Handbook.

What's Better Than Money In The Bank?

Well, when you consider that no bank is permitted by law to pay you as much interest on savings as Floyd Federal can, the answer is simple. A Passbook Savings Account at Floyd Federal in Prestonsburg pays 5 1/4% interest. The highest rate any bank is allowed to pay you is only 5%. So, if you have a savings account at a bank, it's costing you money. While you may feel that it's convenient to save at the same place you do your checking, remember this: That so-called 'convenience' is expensive. What's better than having money in the bank? The answer is: having money in a Passbook Savings Account at Floyd Federal in Prestonsburg. The choice is up to you!

NEWS Of Women's Interest

NEW PREGNANCY TEST CAN BE DONE AT HOME

A do-it-yourself pregnancy test, called E.P.T. In-Home Early Pregnancy Test sold to millions of women in Europe is now available for the first time nationwide.

A major breakthrough in the field of home diagnostics, E.P.T. is sold in drug stores without prescription. It can detect a pregnancy as early as nine days after a woman has missed a menstrual period, thus helping to assure that she will obtain the earliest possible proper prenatal care for her own health and that of her unborn child. The sooner a woman finds out she's pregnant, the sooner she can begin proper health habits, such as the avoidance or minimizing of exposure to cigarettes, alcohol, improper nutrition and some commonly used household medications, all of which can be harmful to the developing baby.

A WOMAN CAN NOW GET A QUICK ANSWER to the question of whether she's pregnant.

The test is safe, simple and is highly accurate. The kit contains just four parts: a test tube containing reagents used to detect a hormone called HCG; a dropper; a vial containing purified water; and a test-tube holder with mirror. To conduct the test, a woman simply collects a sample of her first morning urine and places three drops of the urine and the purified water from the plastic vial into the test tube, which already contains the test reagents. Next, she presses the rubber stopper into the test tube and shakes it vigorously for 10 seconds. She then places the test tube back in its original position in the holder and leaves it completely undisturbed for two hours.

If after two hours a dark brown donut-shaped ring forms in the bottom of the test tube, as reflected in the mirror located beneath the test tube, the woman can be 97 percent sure she is pregnant and should consult her doctor for proper medical care.

If a negative result (no brown ring—just a yellow-red deposit) is obtained on the first test, a woman can be 80 percent sure she's not pregnant, but if menses do not begin, a second test should be performed one week later. If still negative, the woman can be 91 percent sure she's not pregnant, but if she still doesn't get her period she should see her doctor, since there may be other important reasons for this condition.

Many doctors feel it's important that a woman take this test because the first 60 days of pregnancy are so critical in fetal development. The E.P.T. test offered by the Warner/Chilcott Division of Warner-Lambert can get mothers-to-be to their doctors nearly a month earlier than if they waited until a second period was missed, as is usually the case.

TOWN WON'T GET U.S. HELP TO PAY GAS BILL
CRYSTAL CITY, Tex.—Federal funds apparently won't be used to help pay the overdue natural gas bill in Crystal City, where gas supplies were shut off to all residents Sept. 23 because the city wouldn't pay its bill.
Other South Texas towns complained that they had paid their bills and that the government shouldn't pay Crystal City's.

SOMALIA ABOUT THE SIZE OF SPAIN AND PORTUGAL
Somalia is about the size of Spain and Portugal combined. Its 270,000 square miles comprise the territory of the former British and Italian Somalilands. Somalia is located on a promontory jutting into the Indian Ocean, with the Gulf of Aden as its northern boundary. The Somalis, mostly a Hamitic tribal people with some Arab mixture, are almost entirely Moslem.

OLDEST FOSSIL FISH DISCOVERED IN AUSTRALIA
CANBERRA—Australian scientists have found the remains of what is believed to be the world's oldest fossil fish. It is thought to be 480 million years old.
The fish was a primitive jawless creature that lived in what is now central Australia and would have been about six inches long. It was tadpole-shaped, had armor plate over its head and scales on its body.

Floyd Man in Group Given Recognition

The state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection recognized 18 senior environmentalists last week for their outstanding efforts in preserving and enhancing Kentucky's environment.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency designated May 24 as Senior Environmental Employment Day, and environmental agencies from 10 states honored participants in the Senior Environmental Employment Program.

The program is sponsored by the EPA and the Administration on Aging to demonstrate ways older people can be effectively employed and at the same time help environmental programs that are experiencing funding or manpower shortages. Kentucky was one of 10 states awarded $100,000 grants from the federal government to implement the program and the state Department for Human Resources' Center on Aging assisted the environmental department in hiring qualified senior environmentalists.

Since last September when the program began, Kentucky's senior environmentalists have worked 20 hours a week doing everything from evaluating sanitary surveys to collecting water samples from rivers and streams within the divisions of water quality, hazardous materials and waste management, air pollution control and sanitary engineering.

In the Division of Water Quality the senior participants have performed sewage treatment plant inspections, and have collected numerous water samples for analysis. From January to March six participants in the non-hazardous materials section of the Division of Hazardous Material and Waste Management located 35 open dumps. During this time, the pesticides section completed 200 business surveys looking for unlicensed pesticide control operators and informed businessmen who practice their own pest control of the proper procedures. In the Division of Sanitary Engineering the participants aided in eliminating a three-month backlog of bacteriological reports and are now processing 2,000 reports a month.

Coal Trucks Told to Slow Down

After subpoenaing the captain of the Ashland Kentucky State Police Post, the Lawrence county grand jury last week instructed the commonwealth attorney to inform coal companies shipping coal in trucks over U.S. 23 to slow down and stop spilling their contents.

Expressing concern that speeding trucks pose a major safety problem for motorists on the main route leading out of the Big Sandy coal field, the grand jury heard Capt. James Cromer say that the problem is due to the narrowness of Route 23 for the volume of traffic.

"The grand jury is very concerned about the speeding trucks that sometimes hit up to 80 miles an hour and the spilling of coal," said Commonwealth's Attorney Paul Deaton.

Deaton said the solution to the problem of speeding lies in the hands of the coal companies that employ the majority of the independent coal truck drivers hauling over U.S. 23. He added that Ashland Oil Co. is the major coal company hauling coal over the road.

"It really is up to the industry itself to stop it," Deaton continued. "Unless they don't, the grand jury has instructed me to take drastic action to force them to do it. If they don't do it on their own, we'll do it for them," Deaton said.

The grand jury report said, "Unless the coal trucks voluntarily restrain their speed, severe and drastic measures will be taken."

The report said that "saturation patrols" by the state police and state highway enforcement of weight laws would be requested.

Cromer said he told the grand jury that automobiles were also speeding on the road.

He said that the coal trucks presented "obstacles" to cars that wanted to get around them and the speeding attitude was created by the volume of traffic.

Deaton said an illustration of the speeding problem on U.S. 23 happened last week when two tanker trucks crashed inside the Lawrence county line and a driver was killed.

Truckdriver Loses Life as He Swerves To Miss School Bus

A 57-year-old gasoline truckdriver was trying to avoid hitting a stopped school bus and several cars when he was killed in a fiery crash on U.S. near Georges Creek, Lawrence county, last week, Kentucky State Police official said.

Miles Duncil burned to death when his rig, carrying 9,200 gallons of gasoline, overturned and exploded.

"It's obvious to me the man made a decision not to involve others in a collision," Capt. James Cromer, Ashland post commander, said.

Brad Hagaman, who was driving another transport ahead of Duncil's, told state police an oncoming school bus stopped on a curve. Cars traveling between the transports also stopped and Duncil ran off the road to avoid a collision.

The curve and a heavy ground fog were factors in the accident, Cromer said.

"There is no question he saved some lives. If he had hit a car or the bus, there's no telling where that trailer would have gone," Cromer said.

Credit Card, April

And when he had called all the people unto him, he said unto them, hearken unto me every one of you, and understand:

There is nothing from without a man, that entering into him can defile him; but the things which come out of him, those are they that defile the man.

Joy, Sorrow, Rage— All Can Be Lethal

When Dr. George Engel suffered a heart attack on the last day of mourning his twin brother's unexpected death, he began to wonder if there had been a definite correlation between the two events and if it was a common or uncommon occurrence.

Common, he discovered. Writing in the April Reader's Digest, the physician says: "As far back as written records exist, people are described as dying suddenly while in the throes of fear, rage, grief, humiliation or joy."

A study of 275 cases "in which death generally occurred within minutes or hours of a major event in the person's life" revealed four common characteristics. The most common category (135 cases) was death following the death—or anniversary of death—of someone exceptionally close.

Next (103 cases) was a situation of life-threatening danger—this included deaths during the period of danger or shortly after the threat had passed. He cites the case of a man who survived a major earthquake but died at his desk during a minor tremor a few months later.

Disappointment, failure, defeat or loss of status appeared to provoke 21 deaths, including six deaths of prominent citizens who died while involved in criminal proceedings.

Even happiness can take its toll. Engel found 16 cases of sudden death at the time of triumph, success or joyous reunion. "A 75-year-old man who hit the twin double for $1683 on a $2 bet died as he was about to cash in his winning ticket," he reports.

Organized Crime Reported Infiltrating Virginia Coal

State and federal authorities are investigating reports that organized crime has begun buying into coal mines and mine-related industries in Southwest Virginia, it was reported Sunday.

The Roanoke (Va.) Times and World-News reported that federal and state investigators said they have indications that organized crime has bought into at least one coal mine, and that other coal mines may be owned in part by organized crime.

The newspaper also reported that investigators believe at least one murder is linked to organized crime activity in Virginia's coal fields.

Authorities said there are also many other cases of fraud involving insurance, the sale and disappearance of heavy equipment and worthless coal leases, the newspaper reported.

The Times and World-News reported that authorities investigating the situation have been hampered by what one federal investigator characterized as "tremendous public corruption" in coal-field counties.

Federal officials said organized crime has begun to move into the coalfields because the area is ripe for it, the newspaper reported.

"Because of the coal boom and the tremendous amount of capital equipment it takes to mine coal, you have an excellent opportunity for laundering money," one federal official told the newspaper.

Wise County Commonwealth's Attorney Joseph Kuczko this month asked Gov. John N. Dalton to ask the Justice Department to provide assistance in combatting the problem.

Kuczko told the newspaper he requested the federal aid because he does not believe local and state law enforcement agencies have the technical capability to effectively investigate and combat organized crime.

The use of phony corporations confuses state and local authorities, Kuczko told the Times and World-News.

Capt. Rex F. Hoskins, head of the state police criminal intelligence unit, told the newspaper that his agency is convinced that organized crime is being established in the coalfields.

The newspaper reported that Hoskins and other authorities believe the murder of businessman David Hill, whose bullet-ridden body was found in Wise county, is linked to organized crime.

Authorities suspect the killing may be connected with an apparent interstate heavy-equipment financing fraud scheme.

Both Hoskins and Attorney General J. Marshall Coleman agreed that Virginia needs federal help to deal with the organized crime problem.

Coleman told the newspaper that Dalton will respond this week to Kuczko's request, but he declined to reveal what the governor had decided.

Earlier this month, Kentucky State Police Commissioner Kenneth Brandenburg disclosed the formation of a dozen-member task force which had been investigating for several months the possibility of organized crime infiltration in the coal industry.

But Brandenburg had said the investigation was not confined to the coal industry. He said that industry was the focal point because of the tremendous boom in recent years.

QUESTION BOX

The Question Box answers from the Bible to questions from readers. By Pastor Forrest Howe, M Div., Box 462, Allen, Ky.

QUESTION: If the dead of this life are not living somewhere at the present time then how do you explain the following texts. John 8:51, John 11:26, and Luke 20:37?

Seventh-day Adventist Church of Prestonsburg.

ANSWER:

The emphasis of these texts is that those who believe in Jesus will not see death. Looking at the first text, John 8:51, its thought is doubtlessly connected with that of the preceding one. Jesus had introduced the subject of His Father's judgment. In that judgment those who persevere in the word of Christ will be granted eternal life. The death here is not physical death, which comes to the righteous and the wicked alike, but to the second death, which will ultimately annihilate the wicked (Revelation 20:6, 14, 15). The opposite of the second death is eternal life, (John 3:16), which is represented in the Scriptures as being granted to the believer at the moment he accepts His Lord (1 John 3:14; 5:11; 5:12). This gift the overcomer never loses. Physical dissolution at death and the state of unconsciousness between death and the resurrection do not deprive him of the gift. His life continues to be "hid with Christ in God" (Colossians 3:3), to be translated into glorious immortality on the resurrection morn.

In John 11:26, the reference here is clearly to the second death, and not to the cessation of life that comes to all at the end of their earthly journey. This latter experience is implied in John 11:25 in the expression, "though he were dead" which is better rendered by "even though he should die". The second death is synonymous with the expression "perish" in John 3:16. From this experience those who live and believe in Jesus will be delivered (Revelation 20:6).

The "now" in Luke 20:37 is not a reference to chronology but rather a logical one. It could just as easily have been translated "therefore." Because of the foregoing argument "now" or "therefore" the following is true. As for the rest of the passage Jesus is referring to the future state of His followers. Not to their present condition of rest. Then all the believers will live. If the dead are living now then there is no need or purpose for a resurrection. The second coming of Jesus is to regenerate life in deceased humanity, not a continuation of an existing state.

$1.44 Million Made Available For Training in 23 Counties

The Eastern Kentucky Concentrated Employment Program has received notice from the U.S. Department of Labor that funding up to $1,440,685 will be made available to operate skill training under Round II, of the Skill Training Improvement Program (STIP).

The STIP Program is designed and intended to expand the level and improve the quality of skill training and employment opportunities under CETA and to implement programs for training low income, unemployed, and in some cases, employed persons in advanced skill-level occupations for placement in permanent private sector employment.

Private sector or employer involvement in STIP could include the following: (1) identification of skill areas, (2) identification of sources of training, and where appropriate, arrange for training, (3) development of training curricula, (4) provide, where appropriate, training, instructors, equipment and plant sites, (5) assist in review and monitoring of program operations, (6) job development and commitments to hire program graduates, (7) provide additional monies to supplement STIP funding.

Appropriate occupations for which STIP training programs will be considered include those occupations which show existing or projected demand, which can be sold on the labor market on a broad basis, and which require substantial preparatory training (at least six months in most cases) in order to acquire sufficient proficiency to perform the requirements of the job. The STIP training may not exceed 18 months in duration.

Examples of STIP costs which may be incurred by the private-for-profit employer and be wholly or partially reimbursed could include classroom and instructional costs, participant wages, materials and equipment costs, supportive service costs and other costs in support of the project. Training may be a combination of classroom and on-the-job training but may not be exclusively on-the-job training.

Eligible agencies are those private-for-profit agencies located in the prime sponsor's 23-county area of jurisdiction and who otherwise meet the STIP eligible agency guidelines. The 23-county area of eligibility includes Floyd, Bell, Breathitt, Carter, Clay, Elliott, Harlan, Jackson, Johnson, Knott, Knox, Lawrence, Lee, Leslie, Letcher, Magoffin, Martin, Menifee, Morgan, Owsley, Perry, Pike, and Wolfe.

Persons or companies seeking further inquiry or information concerning the program should contact Virgil Osborne, executive director of EKCEP, 625 Memorial Drive, P.O. Box 1035, Hazard, or the office manager of any of the seven EKCEP sub-offices.

Both will serve during the 1978-79 school year. The Student Government Association at Transylvania is the primary body representing student needs and opinions on campus. The officers and 20 senators meet weekly to discuss issues and problems of concern to students.

SBA Plagued by Waste, Scandal?

The Small Business Administration (SBA) is not only failing in its basic purpose to help small businesses but also bilking U.S. taxpayers of hundreds of millions of dollars through fraud, misrepresentation and questionable lending practices. So charges Donald Robinson in the June Reader's Digest. For instance, abuses in the '8A' program, which allots more than $500 million in government contracts each year to minority-run companies are widespread. "Investigators found that much of (the money) was plainly plundered," Robinson writes. "In addition to the abuses brought about by sham companies that were supposedly minority owned and managed but were actually controlled by whites, investigators found that almost anyone, it seems, has been eligible for 8A assistance. In Alabama, a white businessman was classified as 'socially or economically disadvantaged'—and thus eligible for aid—because he had a difficult childhood in Greece during World War II."

The Senate subcommittee on federal spending practices and open government, chaired by Sen. Lawton Chiles (D., Fla.), spent a year investigating SBA practices and found evidence of connections with organized crime, undue political influence and cover ups.

Raymond Harshman, then Chief of the SBA's Requirements Division, documented the 8A abuses to the agency's national headquarters. But when Sen. Chiles's investigators asked to see the documentation, they were told Harshman's files had been thrown out.

The new SBA administrator, A. Vernon Weaver, announced last fall that he had expelled 52 companies for violations of 8A regulations. "In March," Robinson related, "Senate investigators found that, in fact, there had been no house-cleaning at SBA. Fifty-one of those 52 companies had dropped off through normal attrition."

Even though SBA's own investigators have recommended that 126 companies be audited for questionable practices, the subcommittee found, as of March, only 19 were actually on the audit list.

Sen. Chiles recommends legislation providing for an inspector general for the SBA, similar to the one approved for HEW. That person would be empowered to clean up the corruption and restore SBA funds to the worthy companies for which the agency was created.

OUTDOOR LORE

By NEVYLE SHACKELFORD

(UK College of Agriculture)

The water snake which fishermen "wetting their lines" in Kentucky's ponds, lakes, and rivers, may be encountering right now, is not a bad serpent. It lives mostly on small bblifrogs, water dogs (salamanders) and trash fish that are of little, if any value. It catches its victims by chasing and seizing them in its jaws. It has a very keen sense of smell and, according to zoologists, probably traces its prey very much like a hound trails a fox. It is an expert swimmer, usually lifting its head a few inches above the water when swimming.

The water snake is a bluffer of the first order. When cornered, it flattens itself and strikes out like a copperhead. Its teeth, however, contain no poison and it can inflict only slight and harmless wounds—wounds less painful than a briar scratch.

When acting as if it would rather fight than eat, it will flee to the safety of the water like a streak of greased lightning if given a slight chance to escape.

The water snake is of a dingy brown color with cross bands of brown or reddish brown which spread out into blotches at the sides. Its color is very protective as it lies on rocks, old logs, or piles of drift, sunning itself. It is very local in its habits and generally has a favorite place for backing, and returns to the same place year after year.

The water snake attains a length of about four feet. Its young do not hatch from eggs, but are born alive in August and September. They differ from their parents in that they are pale gray in color with jet-black bands.

Confusing the common water snake with the deadly cottonmouth that also haunts southern waters, many persons plying Kentucky waters slay it on sight. Even some of the most humane people we know never fail to kill this snake and all others they encounter as well, both harmless or otherwise.

Except in extreme western Kentucky, the cottonmouth does not exist. At least that is what zoologists say. There have been tales to the contrary, of course, but little proof as to their validity.

So the plea is—don't kill the harmless little watersnake or any other of the non-poisonous species. They are valuable in the maintenance of the all-important "balance of nature" and are more interesting as creatures for study than as targets for sticks, stones and .22 caliber rifles and pistols.

Some people have believed magic can be worked with the aid of someone's footprint.

Explosives Carriers Pose Public Threat

The state Department of Transportation is cracking down on carriers of explosives who ignore federal and state laws and thus pose serious threats of property damage and personal injury.

State Transportation Secretary Calvin G. Grayson said recently that the Division of Highway Enforcement has begun working with the Department of Mines and Minerals, the state agency ultimately responsible for the explosives laws in Kentucky.

Highway Enforcement officers recently completed training provided by Mines and Minerals instructors aimed at identification of explosives being transported in the state, chiefly dynamite, blasting caps and "oxidizers" such as ammonium nitrate.

To transport such explosives legally, a carrier is supposed to label his vehicle on all sides with placards which read: "EXPLOSIVES" in red letters, not less than four inches in height. But many, especially small, private users of dynamite, are failing to follow such laws, according to Highway Enforcement Director Col. Richard Horn.

Responsibility for abiding by the laws rests with the vehicle driver and the dealer of the explosives. The dealer is required to insure that the buyer is not a convicted criminal. The dealer must also check the buyer's vehicle for the necessary placards, a working fire extinguisher, and proper distribution of the load. All of these requirements are spelled out in Federal Department of Transportation and state laws.

Also, it is the dealer's duty to receive proof of the driver's good health before loading any explosives in his vehicle. "If this or any other law is ignored, the explosives dealer is left open to fines of as much as $25,000 and imprisonment of up to five years," Horn said. Fines for drivers are about the same, he said.

But more importantly, if a dealer or driver ignores these laws, an unidentified car or truck could leave with explosives and wreck somewhere with no placards to alert officials to the contents of the vehicle and no extinguisher to put out any fires, Horn said.

Such cases of burning vehicles carrying explosives have been numerous according to James Ludwiczak, acting director of Explosives and Blasting in the Department of Mines and Minerals.

"Fortunately, these instances of burning, unmarked vehicles have ended luckily," Ludwiczak said. "But they could have been huge disasters."

Ludwiczak explained that training Highway Enforcement officers to identify explosives is part of his agency's effort to avoid the threat of an explosion on the highways.

"Up to 100 cases of dynamite can be trucked by a single tractor-trailer and an explosion of such a load could send missiles a distance of three or four miles," Ludwiczak said. He noted that his agency does not have adequate personnel to monitor the highways for improper methods used by explosives carriers.

"The Division of Highway Enforcement has no legal authority over the explosives, but officers can stop a vehicle and notify us," Ludwiczak said.

He said Kentucky uses more explosive material than any other state. He also referred to Kentucky as a "keystone state" for through-traffic of explosives.

"A number of out-of-state carriers have been fined heavily in recent months for improper carrying practices," Ludwiczak said. He mentioned the practice of carrying dynamite and blasting caps mixed together in the same load as "an extremely dangerous violation of law cited frequently."

Ludwiczak said his agency, in cooperation with Highway Enforcement, is making it "very expensive and inconvenient for truckers to run explosives illegally." He gave the example of one recent $1,000 on-the-spot fine for carrying caps and dynamite together.

Mines and Minerals has been working on the transportation aspect of explosives for the past one and a half years, Ludwiczak said. He said he has agreements with State Police and Disaster and Emergency Services officials to call the Explosives Division whenever explosives are involved in highway law violations.

But recent cooperation and training with the Division of Highway Enforcement was called the biggest step toward prevention of explosives mishaps since Mines and Minerals took over authority of explosives in 1972.

Employment Gains Recorded in State

The total number of Kentuckians working in April increased by 74,200 from March, according to Robert MacDonald, chief labor market analyst for the Department for Human Resources.

This brought total employment to 1,493,000—80,700 more people than a year ago.

"The end of the coal strike and season factors are the primary reasons for the large increase in employment," MacDonald said.

Most of Kentucky's major industries increased their employment during April. The construction industry gained 11,200 workers, the service industry 4,100 and the trade industry 3,200.

Unemployment dropped from 81,600 people in March to 63,100 in April, or 22.7 percent. The rate of unemployment decreased from 5.4 to 4.1 percent, which was the lowest since October of last year. The national unemployment rate was 5.8 percent. Kentucky's unemployment rate was .2 percent lower than in April 1977.

Kentucky's labor force, which is computed by adding those presently working to those on record seeking employment, numbered 1,556,100 persons in mid-April. This was the largest number since November 1977.

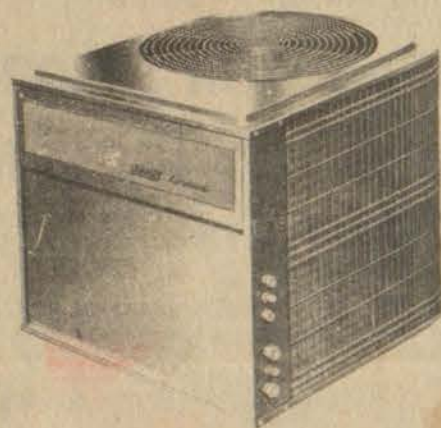

ACCORDING TO THE National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, in a survey of 15 and 19 year old high school students 50 percent of them said they had been in one or more situations during the past month where alcohol was present. And 40 percent of these young people were girls.

THE U.S. DEPARTMENT of Labor's Job Corps operates a national system of 60 residential centers in 31 states and Puerto Rico, providing basic education, vocational training, counseling, health care, and similar renewal services to help disadvantaged young men and women, 16 through 21, prepare for jobs and responsible adulthood.

Aim of M.C.C.C. Alcohol Program "To Help People Hurt Less"

The work of all people in the helping professions has one basic, overriding, attainable goal; to help people hurt less. We also need to dedicate ourselves to lessening the pain of alcoholic people. We should be realistic in our goals, rather than holding out empty promises to total cure and eradication of alcohol problems. We must continue to search for more answers, while recognizing that too many people are hurting too much to be simply put off while we search.

In our Big Sandy Area we are confronted with this immediate fact: alcoholism is a deadly cancer in our society. It is a malignancy that eats at the lives of nearly 12,000 persons withing Johnson, Martin, Magoffin, Floyd and Pike counties. It is an illness that directly or indirectly touches the lives of one out of every five people in this nation.

Yet, the general understanding of this devastating reality has not yet been achieved. If it had, alcohol misuse would not be the massive problem that it is. We would not still be seeking answers, still far from achieving our goals.

This condition did not come about overnight. It took years of wholesale ignorance and sheer neglect for the problem of alcoholism to develop into today's state of crisis.

It should be no surprise, then, that we have problems with alcohol. Realistically, we are always going to have alcohol problems, to some degree. Lacking clear guidelines, it is not really surprising that there are such an abundance of us who take overdoses of alcohol regularly; and there are many more who overdose themselves periodically. We are a nation of drug users; and far too many of us are mis-users.

We should become unceasing in our concern for alcoholic people. We should become committed to treating a population of sick people because they can't always help themselves. Let us remove the stigma, the disdain, the moralizing, the hypocrisy which have too often characterized our treatment of alcoholic people.

In our society no drug is more abused, to more devastating effect, than alcohol. By whatever standard we weigh the drug situation; numbers of users, abusers, availability, dollar value, death, destruction, shattered lives—alcohol is number one.

Capp Reveals Favorite Character

During 43 years of producing hundreds of characters for "L'il Abner," did the creator of Dogpatch and its denizens have a favorite?

Yes, reveals Al Capp for the first time in a June Reader's Digest article. Writing exclusively for the Digest, Capp declares: "My favorite Dogpatcher was Mammy Yokum. Abner's mother, like my own, was bossy and domineering, but a miracle of goodness."

"Like Mammy Yokum, my mother had a hard life," Capp continues. "When we four children achieved success, we sent her money every week. Instead of spending it to improve her comfort, Mother secretly used the money to support war orphans in a nearby foster home. So, like my mother, Mammy Yokum symbolized the incurable condition of motherhood."

Capp also reveals that his "biggest moment" in his years with Abner came in March 1952, when Abner married Daisy Mae. He says that the marriage came about in response to a challenge laid down by an editor who claimed that "Abner could never get married and still hold on to all those breathless readers."

"Well," Capp recalls, "the marriage did come off, and Abner, Daisy Mae and the rest of their crowd went on to even more lunatic encounters."

Have your blood pressure checked.

Old Wives Tales about Weather Often True, Meteorologists Admit

"The farther the sight, The nearer the rain." Old wives tale? Yes, but meteorology, with its radar maps and satellite observations, supports the saying. In fair weather, atmospheric pressure is high, the air is stable and dust-laden and the horizon will appear hazy. But as a storm approaches, the pressure drops, the atmosphere clears and you can see long distances.

The June Reader's Digest tells of other weatherlore forecasting, practiced by farmers and sailors for generations, which has actual scientific basis.

"A coming storm, Your shooting corns presage, And aches will throb, Your hollow tooth will rage." The increase in humidity and increase in pressure that precedes a storm does, indeed, stir up rheumatic and arthritic problems and other related ailments.

"Mares' tails and mackerel sky, Never long wet, never long dry." This sailors' adage refers to cirrus clouds followed closely by altocumulus formations, both indications of changeable weather conditions.

Farmers have long known that their animals are sure forecasters. Cattle and horses bunch together as a storm approaches; they will often also move into sheltered valleys. Most birds prefer to stay at home if the weather is uncertain. Robins will return to their nests if a thunderstorm threatens. New England fishermen would follow the birds to sea, but if the birds flew inland, the men thought twice about netting the day's catch.

Of course sometimes these prediction methods may lead you astray. But the U.S. Weather Service doesn't always win either.

More Coal Miners and Survivors Now Can Get Black Lung Benefits

By JIM KELLY
Social Security Area Manager
 More coal miners disabled with black lung and survivors of miners who died from this disease can now get black lung benefits, as a result of recent changes in the law. The changes include both people who have never applied for payments, as well as many whose claims were turned down.

The definition of "miner" has been expanded, making more workers eligible. It now also includes individuals who process or transport coal, who work in mine construction and are exposed to coal dust, and selfemployed miners.

Survivors of miners who had worked 25 years or more in coal mine employment before June 30, 1971, can get benefits if the miner was at least partially disabled by black lung. A survivor no longer has a deadline to apply; however, a miner must apply for benefits within three years after a medical determination of total disability (rather than after the date of last exposed employment), or by March 1, 1981, if later.

A miner can apply for black lung benefits while still working in the mines. If it is determined he is qualified, he must stop working within one year after the determination to receive checks. An exception to this would be a miner with complicated pneumoconiosis who can continue working and still receive benefits, although benefits may be reduced because of earnings.

The fact that a person was working in the mines when he died no longer proves he was not disabled by black lung. Similarly, an individual now working in or around the mines, performing lighter duties than he did most of his life, may be able to get benefits.

The new law eases requirements for medical evidence of pneumoconiosis. For example, an X-ray showing the disease must be accepted without rereading if it is of good quality, and there is no reason to suspect fraud.

The basic monthly benefit for a totally disabled miner or widow is $219 a month. This may be increased to a maximum of $439.70 a month for individuals with three or more qualified dependents.

Miners who already get black lung benefits now can get help in paying for medical services and supplies needed to treat their lung disease. Among those newly eligible are many miners who started getting monthly benefits in the early 1970's. Most miners have been notified that they have six months to sign up for the medical card.

The original black lung law enacted in 1969 was due to expire in 1982 but now is permanent. To help finance the program and pay administrative costs, a Black Lung Disability Trust Fund has established. It is funded by an excise tax on the sale of coal by the producer. All monthly and medical benefits for miners who last worked before 1970 or when a responsible mine operator can't be located to pay the benefits will be paid from the fund.

If you are a miner or survivor who has never applied for black lung benefits and feel you may now be eligible, contact any social security office. The people there can help you file a claim and then will forward it to the U. S. Department of Labor which now administers the program.

 If you had a black lung claim turned down by either the Social Security Administration or the Department of Labor (or your appealed claim is pending), you should have received a notice by now that you have a right to have your old claim reviewed. If you have not been notified about this, contact your social security office. The office is located on U. S. 23, near the Auxier entrance to Jenny Wiley State Park. The toll-free telephone number for this area is 886-8525.

Ky. Senators' Bill To Help Operators With Senate Okeh

The Senate has approved legislation sponsored by Kentucky Senators Wendell Ford and Walter (Dee) Huddleston to increase the levels of assistance to small operators and provide additional funds to states in enforcing the new surface mining requirements.

The bill, which was approved by unanimous consent, increases the small operator assistance funding levels to $25 million for the next two years and $15 million for the following 13 years. Congress originally authorized $10 million annually for a 15-year period to assist small operators in meeting the hydrologic and test boring requirements of the new law.

"The increased funding levels are necessary to assist the smaller mining operations in meeting the requirements of the new law without undue financial hardships," the Senators said in a joint statement. "The additional authorizations for the state enforcement programs are essential if the states are to properly and effectively enforce the new law."

Under the bill, the authorized funding level of grants to states to cover costs of the interim enforcement programs and Federal interim inspections is raised from $19 million to $25 million for the next two fiscal years. Office of Surface Mining officials indicated earlier that, to meet the fiscal year 1978 state grant needs, funds are being reprogrammed within the agency from other programs.

IN MEMORIAM

Gone now is that mother dear,
No more her face I'll see,
Nor hear that tender, loving voice
That was so dear to me.
No more I'll see her waiting there,
To cheer me on my way,
There at the old home fireside,
At the closing of the day.

I saw the life fast fading
As I watched her day by day,
And I knew she'd soon be going
To that land far, far away,
Where pain and sorrow come no more
Where there's never a broken tie
In that land that we call heaven
Where we'll never say goodbye.

And I sit here, broken-hearted,
And the teardrops gently flow,
Yearning for those happy moments
Of just a little while ago
When I heard that gentle voice
And saw that loving smile;
Or, if I could but recall them,
Though for just a little while.

Richard F. (Dick) Davis Dies in Lexington, May 25

Richard F. (Dick) Davis, 72, of the Abbott road, died last Thursday at Good Samaritan Hospital, Lexington, where he had been a patient for the past six weeks.

Mr. Davis, who retired as superintendent of the Prestonsburg Water and Gas System in 1974, was associated with the utility system for 47 years. He began work while still in school, working at the water and ice plant which was owned by his uncle, G. C. Davis, with whom he lived. After his uncle's death in 1927, he continued to manage the system which was subsequently sold to a Springfield, Ky. interest and later came under ownership of the city.

During his many years as superintendent of the system, it was always said, "Call Dick Davis," whether the trouble involved a gas leak, broken water main, or just a run-of-the-mill complaint. And Dick Davis always came, usually the same day, sometimes late at night. He saw the water and gas system here grow from a two-man operation to its present size. During the system's early years, Mr. Davis with one helper, Tommy Slone, often after a day's work, read meters at night, and at one time he was also fire chief for Prestonsburg. He was retained as a consultant to the system after his retirement as superintendent and acted in this capacity until his death.

Born October 7, 1905, he was a son of the late C. C. Davis and Zora Davis Huff. He attended the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church and was a member of the Kentucky Water and Gas Association.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lucille Osborne Davis; two daughters, Sylvia Helen Davis and Mrs. Betty Francis, both of Prestonsburg; one half brother, Grover Huff, of Kenton, O.; two half-sisters, Mrs. Rosa Bradley, of Wayland, and Mrs. Pauline Sircey, in Michigan. Three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 p.m. Monday at the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church with the Rev. W. D. Jagers and Rev. Dean L. Pack officiating. Burial was made in the family cemetery on Abbott Creek under direction of Floyd Funeral Home.

Pallbearers were Dale Boyd, Garry Vickers, James L. Porter, Dennis Walker, Billy Risner, Lowell Branham and Keith Shannon.

James Leon Williamson

James Leon Williamson, 51, of Ingleside, Ill., formerly of this county, died Tuesday, May 23, in McHenry Hospital in McHenry, Ill. following a short illness.

Born February 24, 1927 in Pike county, he was a son of Mrs. Tishie Boyd Williamson, of Estill, and the late Jeff Williamson. Employed by International Harvester, he was a steward of United Auto Workers, Local No. 1643 in Libertyville, Ill. He was also a veteran of World War II.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Helen Sanders Williamson; three sons, Jimmy Williamson, of Zion, Ill., Ronnie and Thomas Williamson, both at home; four daughters, Mrs. Debbie Adkins, of Alamosa, Colo., Misses Connie, Patricia, and Karen Williamson, all at home; three sisters, Mrs. Bertha Williamson, Mrs. Martha Rodriguez, and Mrs. Genevieve Rydner, all of Estill, and four grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Martin Branch Free Will Baptist Church at Estill by the Revs. Doug Burkett and Green Boyd. Burial was made in Davidson Memorial Gardens at Ivel under direction of Hall Brothers Funeral Home.

Stumbo Ends 45-Year Service

John Milton Stumbo, of McDowell, ended today (Wednesday) 45 years of public service with his retirement as coordinator for the Big Sandy Community Action Program.

Mr. Stumbo began with 15 years as school principal and teacher, during that time serving a term as state representative. After that he was sanitarian for the Floyd County Health Department 15 years, and as Big Sandy CAP coordinator 12 years.

The service record of 45 years includes three years spent in the U.S. Navy during World War II, mostly in the South Pacific.

Although Mr. Stumbo has undergone surgery on five occasions within the last five years, he has lost little time from his Big Sandy CAP desk here.

In the meantime, he has been engaged in civic and church work. The county-wide cleanup campaign held this month was under his direction.

In retirement he expects to devote his time to gardening and to the Old Beaver Regular Baptist Church of which he is a deacon.

Art Exhibit at Our Lady of Mountains

Students at Our Lady of the Mountains School, Paintsville, under direction of Mrs. Herminia Rivera, Prestonsburg, completed the art projects pictured above. These include hooked rugs, paintings in oil and water color, chalk, crayon, charcoal, and pencil drawings. Crayon resists, ink line and string designs, tapestries, and seashell drawings were also displayed.

A collection of miniature wooden tables and chairs in Dutch style was one of the most unusual items displayed. All grades participated in this project. Mrs. Rivera, who has worked with the school for four years as an art instructor, said she got the idea for the Dutch design furniture from her mother who lives in Spain. The art exhibit was displayed at the final meeting of the Parent-Teacher's Organization of Our Lady of the Mountains School, held Thursday, May 18, with Tom Hereford, co-chairman from Prestonsburg, presiding. Rev. David P. Shockey opened the meeting with prayer. After a short business meeting, Sister Alma Marie thanked the teacher aides and others who had helped in school functions. The program was then turned over to the school children who provided entertainment for the evening. The first and second grade classes under the direction of their teacher, Mrs. Margaret Hernandez, presented a play "Six Wise Travelers", followed by a choral reading, "The Emperor's New Clothes". Mrs. Brenda Cooper's third and fourth grades presented "The Frog Prince" and "Rumpelstiltskin", short radio plays.

A CONSUMER TIP . . .
Single-ingredient strained baby foods are the most nutritious and the cheapest of store-bought baby foods, according to food specialists with the Cooperative Extension Service of UK's College of Agriculture. The "combination dinners" often add more starch than protein, vitamins and minerals. The jar label lists ingredients in descending order as to quantities in each jar. If water, broth, starch or sugar are top ingredients listed, it means there is a high percentage in the baby food—something you want to avoid.

POLAR BEARS are said to possess an utter lack of fear, the June Reader's Digest reports. No wonder. A full-grown male weighs half a ton, and can kill a 500-pound seal with one swipe of its 50-pound paw.

HERE'S A SAFETY TIP from the June Reader's Digest: When you open a soda bottle, point the cap away from your body. Some 32,000 people were injured in various accidents related to pop bottles in 1974 alone.

A CONSUMER TIP . . .
Eggs are sold by the dozen, but it's a revelation to see how much they cost per pound. For instance, extra-large eggs selling at 88 cents a dozen cost 52 cents a pound, according to food specialists with the Cooperative Extension Service of UK's College of Agriculture. That's a low price to pay for such high-quality protein and good eating.

Little League Play Off to Good Start

Prestonsburg Little League got into full swing last week with a seven-game schedule played at Wilcox Field and two games at nearby Bloomer Field, both in Archer Park.

Results of girls' action last week: May 23, the Rolling Stones beat the Sluggers, 22-17, and the second game between the Wildcats and Bombers was called after 3½ innings because of darkness. The game was finished Friday but the score was unavailable.

In boys' Little League baseball action at Wilcox Field: May 22, Clifton-McDonald defeated Music-Carter-Hughes, 6 to 4; Tuesday night, Branham & Baker beat Auxier, 18 to 7, and Clark beat East Kentucky Mack, 24 to 2. In Wednesday's lone game Clifton-McDonald beat Music-Carter-Hughes, 12 to 7. Thursday night, Clark again bested East Kentucky Mack, this time 6 to 3. In the second game Goble Lumber rolled over Music-Carter-Hughes, 27 to 2. Friday night, Auxier led early in the game but lost to Branham & Baker, 11 to 9.

Weightlifters of the Week

With the school year coming to a close, the Blackcat gridders are still pumping iron in the "factory" as well as getting in some leg work on the track. Weight coach Bob Stetson said, "If these guys will keep up their work-outs during the summer, they will definitely be in shape when fall practice begins." Assistant Coach Ron Robinson said, "The amount of weight our players are handling is steadily increasing. Of course, this only applies to the ones who have stayed with it consistently and really put out the effort, but most of our athletes have been getting after it pretty good. We're getting stronger and faster, and we are probably in better physical condition at this time of year than at any other time. It's extremely important that our players continue to improve. We're going to be a young, inexperienced team this year and we are going to need every ounce of strength and speed that we can possibly get. A big key is going to be in what type of physical condition our athletes are in when they report in the fall. If we're in good shape, we won't have to waste a week conditioning, we can get right into the basics and get twice as much accomplished." He continued, "We definitely need our eighth graders working out and getting familiar with our system. It takes time and it is much easier to make a slow transition from grade school ball to our level than to jump right into it all at once. This summer is definitely the time to do this and we're looking forward to working with them as we feel they have a lot of potential."

Housing for Flood Victims To Cost about $35 Milion

Preliminary approval has been given to constructing 1500 units of housing for victims of last spring's floods in Eastern Kentucky, Sens. Walter (Dee) Huddleston and Wendell Ford and Rep. Carl D. Perkins announced recently.

The total cost of the project, which will be funded by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, will be approximately $35 million—a figure that is still subject to revision.

Perkins, Huddleston and Ford were advised today that formal announcement of the project's approval is expected in the near future. Hundreds of families have been temporarily lodged in trailers after being left homeless as a result of the floods which struck Eastern Kentucky last April. The new housing sites will enable many of these families to move from the temporary housing to permanent new locations.

The housing units will be allocated to the hardest-hit counties on the basis of a study done by the Kentucky Housing Corporation. Pike, Harlan, Bell, Floyd and Martin counties are expected to receive the largest number of sites. Units also are scheduled to be allocated to Johnson, Perry, McCreary, Leslie, Laurel and Letcher counties.

"We are extremely optimistic that HUD will see fit to fund additional new units of housing," Huddleston, Ford and Perkins said in a joint statement. "This certainly is a step in the right direction and we are extremely pleased with HUD's decision to move forward at last with this much-needed project."

"We also remain hopeful that HUD will look favorably on allowing these communities to use Community Development Block Grants for the development of water and sewer facilities which will be sorely needed in many areas."

NEWS OF TRAVEL

Checking Out Czech Charm

The good news for American travelers who will be checking out the many charms of Czechoslovakia this year is that whether they're interested in fun or culture, natural scenic beauty or colorful inns, they can find what they are looking for in this tiny, fairyland country.

Many start their trip in Prague, the 1,000-year-old capital of Czechoslovakia just 90 minutes away by air from any European capital. One of the grand sights many enjoy is the 13th century Prague castle, overlooking the Vltava River. Not surprisingly, Prague is one of the most beautiful capitals in all of Europe, with its many layers of architecture—Gothic, Baroque, Renaissance. It's also one of the most cultural, with dozens of concert and opera houses, art museums and theaters.

Yet it is also a city of fun, with hundreds of wine cellars and pubs, particularly to be found along the cobblestone narrow streets of Old Town and Lesser Town, lit at night with gas lamps.

Visitors usually stay in the capital and then explore the Bohemian and Moravian countryside that is dotted with castles, spas, and little Renaissance towns where folk festivals take place throughout the spring and summer months.

Travelers often head south to Bratislava, capital of Slovakia, and then turn east to the High Tatras, the Carpathian mountains with both turn-of-the-century and modern resorts that offer a wide variety of summer and winter recreational activity, including swimming, skiing, boating and hiking. The Hotel Patria, for example, is located dramatically

FUN AND CULTURE can be found in Prague, the 1,000-year-old capital of Czechoslovakia.

A SHORT DRIVE from Prague takes visitors to the Bohemian and Moravian countryside and a friendly folk festival.

IN THE High Tatras both modern and turn-of-the-century hotels welcome guests the year round.

on the scenic mountain lake of Strbske and is surrounded by mountains. This 11-story hotel, with an A-frame architectural theme, has 136 double rooms and 15 suites to accommodate its guests.

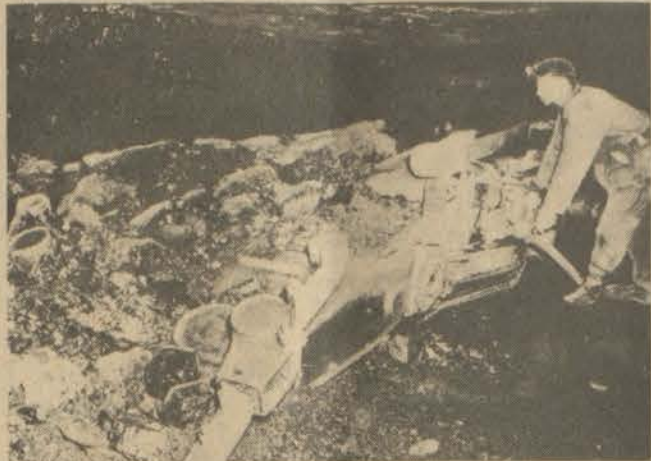

No trip to this Eastern European country is complete without an evening at one of the many Kolibas, where meats are grilled over an open pit and guests drink hot Tatra tea while gypsies with singing violins play on and on. For more information about this colorful country ask your travel agent or write to: CEDOK, Czechoslovak Travel Bureau, 10 East 40th Street, New York, N.Y. 10016.

RUSTIC CHARM and good food are found in this typical Koliba, or shepherd's hut, where guests drink hot tea and listen to singing gypsy violins.

NEW HISTORYMOBILE HIGHLIGHTS KENTUCKY'S COAL INDUSTRY

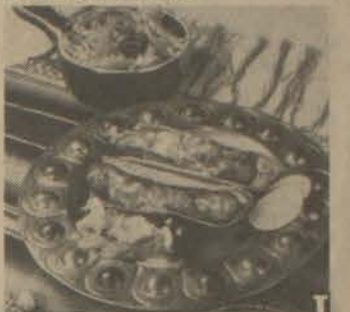

The Kentucky Historical Society's new Historymobile features an exhibit on the development of the coal industry in Kentucky. A 13-minute slide program, with historic photographs, folk music and interviews with coal miners, traces the industry's development through three major periods, beginning with the pick and shovel days of the 1840s. The second period begins around 1900 when the company towns emerged and the railroad system and undercutting machines appeared.

"Throughout the 1920s, coal was still loaded by hand," according to Tom Gatewood, curator of the Historymobile. "During the modern period, beginning around 1940, coal-loading machines and other sophisticated equipment were introduced. Because of government intervention, miners were required to have more skill and technical knowledge, and the industry developed improved safety and new regulations for environmental protection."

In addition to the slide show, the exhibit includes a three-dimensional model of a coal barge, tools from different periods, a model of an underground operation and one of a strip-mine operation. The traveling museum also has video equipment to be used by students and local historical societies to record history. The Historymobile is available to schools, parks, prisons, libraries, nursing homes, community festivals, county fairs or interested groups, and may be scheduled by contacting Tom Gatewood at (502) 564-3016.

It's a WINNER!

FRANKLY DELICIOUS Here's how one woman won a $3,000 Western-style vacation: She spread a tacos with cream cheese, stuffed it with a coarsely ground, all-beef frank, added smooth—not too hot—double chili avocado spread and topped it with Monterey Jack and Parmesan cheese.

FRANKLY TACOS—An easily assembled version of the all-time Mexican classic.

This Mexican-inspired entry, which Maggie Weiss of Elkhart, Ind., modestly dubbed "Frankly Tacos," won her first place in a recipe contest sponsored by Wilson Foods to help introduce its new all-beef coarsely ground Western Style Frank. Packaged eight to a pound, the two-ounce jumbos, with chunky texture reminiscent of homemade sausage, are especially suited to grilling, pan frying or broiling. They can be found under Wilson's Certified or Corn King labels.

The $1,000 second prize went to "Franks Popover"—a spaghetti sauce/cheese/frank casserole covered with one big popover. This inexpensive one-dish meal for six came from Shirley A. Domeier, New Ulm, Minn. A total of $5,000 was awarded to winners selected from more than 2,600 entries.

THEN and NOW

THEN: The first clock patent in this country was granted to Eli Terry of East Windsor, Connecticut, on November 17, 1797. Oddly enough, the clock had two minute hands. One of the hands showed the true time, while the other, with the striking part and hour hand showed what Terry called "the apparent time as divided by the sun." In other words, this early clock, still used the sun to check its accuracy.

NOW: Today, clocks not only benefit from advanced electronic timekeeping, but many have been combined with radios. Some even have an LED digital time display with adjustable brightness control. One such product, an FM/AM Electronic Digital Clock Radio, developed by General Electric, not only has a Snooze Alarm so you can tap a bar to turn the radio off for 9 minutes extra sleep, but receives the audio from your favorite VHF TV shows without a TV set. And that's only one of G.E.'s full line of digital clock radios.

In Your Attic—Valuable Relics?

BASKETS AND BASEBALL CARDS, barbed wire and lanterns, eagles and advertising giveaways are just some of the valuable collectibles that may turn up in your attic.

Checked your attic lately? What you once thought was merely a family memento or just an old piece of "junk" could turn out to be more valuable than you think.

That cast-iron eagle that was once bolted on your great-aunt's roof to stop snow slides or your father's old baseball card collection could be that special item which some collector might be willing to pay you hard cash for.

Happily, the first volume in a new series of books called "The Encyclopedia of Collectibles" published by Time-Life Books (541 North Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60611) contains a wealth of information on collectibles ranging from advertising giveaways to Indian arrowheads. For example, a calendar for Hood's sarsaparilla that was obtained in 1896 for six cents sold for $20 three quarters of a century later. Or, a basket woven by a sailor anytime before the 1920s may fetch hundreds of dollars. Nantucket Lightship baskets, by the way, are among the more valuable you can find and a nest of eight could go for $4,000.

Not surprisingly, it's not just your attic that may turn up some valuable relics. Indian arrowheads found almost anywhere in the United States and barbed wire made in the late 1800s are also prized by collectors.

RELAXATION ODDITIES-HELPFUL TIPS

By Joy Miller A new game that's raising a lot of interest these days is platform tennis. Interestingly enough, it came about quite accidentally about 50 years ago when two neighbors erected a wooden platform to play deck tennis and volleyball and hit upon the idea of paddle tennis.

Combining the principles of lawn tennis, squash and handball, it's played with a regulation paddle weighing about 14 ounces and a ball much lighter than a tennis ball. It's a quick, action-filled game and many players like to sit down afterwards with a screwdriver made with Wolf Schmidt Vodka, orange juice and plenty of ice.

An ace of a tip for the forehand drive is to strike the ball as it comes opposite the hip. Your follow through should then carry the paddle across your body. The paddle, by the way, should be held with the same "shake-hands" grip as in tennis.

FANCY THAT!

INFLATION-FIGHTING FOOD IDEAS

RICE REIGNS AT BRIDAL SHOWERS

If you want to give a truly memorable engagement or bridal shower, don't plan to toss all the rice at the wedding pair. Save some for delicious yet economical dishes that will make the bride-to-be, as well as guests, ask for the recipes.

While this newest home-maker is showing interest in home-cooked meals, you might point out to her that a good way to start is to select the variety of rice on the basis of dishes planned. (For example, long grain rice may be preferred for salads, curries, chicken or meat dishes because when cooked the grains tend to separate and are light and fluffy.)

Short or medium grain rice has short, plump grains which cook tender and moist, with particles tending to cling. It's favored by many for puddings and rice rings which require a tender rice that is easily molded. Here are examples of long grain rice dishes to brighten the bridal shower (and for easy cooking at home since you use cold cooked rice which can be prepared up to seven days in advance; cover and refrigerate).

RICE SALAD—Cold cooked rice mixed with chopped celery, minced onion, chopped pimiento, stuffed olives and mayonnaise. Serve with sliced chicken or turkey breast with rolls of thinly sliced baked ham.

RICE SALAD ENTREE—Cold cooked rice, mixed with seasoned mayonnaise, and diced cooked chicken or turkey breasts, spooned into tomato cups or tulip-cut tomatoes.

Two dishes using medium grain rice that will pretty up a shower are the showy RICE RING MOLD and a colorful RICE PUDDING.

RICE RING MOLD—Spoon a hot cooked rice mixture into a buttered mold, pressing firmly. Unmold on serving dish. Fill center with a hot rosemary-veal and mushroom stew.

HIGHLIGHT OF A SHOWER BUFFET—Curried Shrimp and Bananas on Rice has the good taste and elegance every bride-to-be deserves. Serve it with coconut, dishes of nuts and chutney.

RICE PUDDING—Combine equal amounts of cooked rice and milk. Add two tablespoons sugar for each cup of rice and a dash of salt and vanilla. Cook, stirring occasionally, until thick and creamy—about 30 minutes. Layer creamy rice in parfait glasses with sugared fresh berries or fruit to help carry out a color scheme—blueberries, raspberries, strawberries, peaches. Top with whipped cream for added elegance.

CURRIED SHRIMP AND BANANAS ON RICE—2 cloves garlic, halved; 2/3 cup butter or margarine; 2/3 cup flour; 2 tablespoons curry powder; 1 tablespoon salt; 1/4 teaspoon pepper; 1/4 teaspoon ginger; 3 cups chicken broth; 3 pounds raw shrimp, peeled and deveined; 1 tablespoon onion juice; 2 tablespoons lemon juice; 1/2 cup light cream; 12 bananas; 1/4 teaspoon paprika; 6 cups hot cooked rice.

Cook garlic slowly in butter until lightly browned; remove garlic. Stir in flour, curry, salt, pepper, and ginger. Add chicken broth and cook, stirring, until thickened and smooth. Add shrimp and onion juice. Cover and simmer about 8 to 10 minutes, or until shrimp are tender. Stir in lemon juice, cream, and 9 bananas, sliced. Cut remaining bananas in half crosswise. Arrange in spoke fashion over mixture. Cover and cook over medium heat until bananas are heated through. Sprinkle with paprika. Spoon over beds of fluffy rice. Serve with accompaniments. Makes 12 servings.

Other ideas for cooking rice that will enhance the flavor and make it into party fare:

• When serving chicken, use chicken broth in place of water to cook rice. Add a dash of soy sauce.

• Mix equal parts orange juice with water to cook rice. Add 1/2 cup raisins. Serve with cold baked sliced ham.

• Cook rice in half tomato juice/half water. Add additional 5 minutes cooking time. Sauté sliced green onion and toss with rice. Serve with veal scallopine.

For simple elegance and delicious taste nothing is more successful at showers than CURRIED SHRIMP AND BANANAS ON RICE.

COFFEE BREAK CAKES

The mid-morning coffee break has developed into an American institution. Office employees line up at the wagon for their morning beverage... construction workers dangle from steel girders with a thermos in one hand and a danish in the other... and students stop at the school snack bar between classes for a quick cup of coffee and a glance at their lecture notes.

Nut breads and plain, unfrosted cakes are delicious with coffee and easily transported to work or school. Suggested here are Apricot Peanut Bread and Marble Cake with Peanuts.

APRICOT PEANUT BREAD

- 2-1/2 cups unsifted flour
- 1 cup sugar
- 3-1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon baking soda
- 3/4 cup orange juice
- 1/2 cup milk
- 3 tablespoons corn oil
- 1 egg
- 1 cup finely chopped Planters Cocktail Peanuts
- 1 cup finely chopped dried apricots

In a large bowl, combine flour, sugar, baking powder, salt, baking soda, orange juice, milk, corn oil and egg. Beat at low speed of electric mixer 1 minute, scraping bowl constantly. Stir in cocktail peanuts and apricots. Pour into a greased 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf pan. Bake at 350° F. for 1 hour or until done. Makes 1 loaf.

MARBLE CAKE WITH PEANUTS

- 2-1/4 cups unsifted cake flour

1-1/4 cups sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup plus 1 tablespoon milk
1/2 cup Planters Peanut Oil
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1/4 cup chocolate-flavored syrup
1/3 cup finely chopped Planters Cocktail Peanuts

Sift cake flour, sugar, baking powder and salt together. In large mixing bowl combine sifted dry ingredients with 1 cup milk, peanut oil, eggs and vanilla extract. Blend on low speed, scraping bowl. Beat 2 minutes on medium speed, scraping bowl occasionally. Reserve 1/2 cup batter. Pour remaining batter into a greased and floured 13 x 9-inch pan. Combine reserved batter with chocolate syrup, cocktail peanuts, and remaining tablespoon of milk. Pour chocolate-nut batter over top and swirl. Bake at 350° F. for 30 to 35 minutes. Let cool in pan for 10 minutes. Remove from pan; cool completely. To serve, cut into squares. Makes one (13 x 9-inch) cake.

Some say distilled water from boiled tansy plants is good for removing freckles.

YOUR LIFE INSURANCE

Prepared by the American Society of Chartered Life Underwriters, the national society of life insurance professionals who have earned the C.L.U. designation by meeting high educational, ethical and experience requirements.

Q. Retirement income is what I want and I'm thinking about annuities. Can you tell me what type would give me the largest possible income for my money?

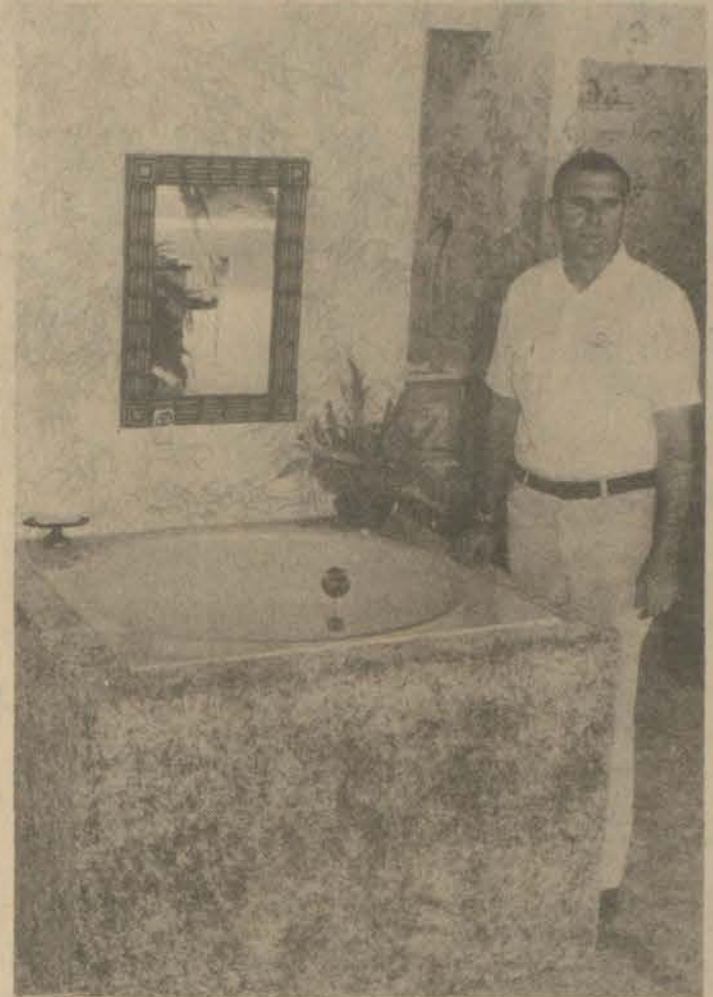

A. Certainly. A straight life annuity would give you the most income for your money. However, if you wish to provide some payment to a beneficiary should you die early, then what you should consider is a life annuity with installments certain or a refund annuity. For a given amount of purchase money, the income is smaller under these plans than under a straight life annuity because of the additional benefits.

A point worth keeping in mind is that income from a life insurance policy or an annuity will not reduce your income from Social Security.
